Bentley said a recent ruling y Seminole County Attorney Nikki Clayton, stating that the hospital in Sanford as now operated is similar to a special district for taxing purposes, means the board has two choices in budgeting-strategy. The first option, he explained, would be to continue with the present plans to change the hospital status to private, nonprofit. Under that option, he said, the new hospital corporation formed would negotiate a contract with the county for payment of care to indigents. However, he said, if the conversion from a county-owned facility to a non-profit, private facility is acomplished, the tax funds given to the hospital to pay for indigent care would become a line item of the county's general government budget. As such, the amount would be limited, since the Florida Legislature this year passed a bill prohibiting counties and municipalities from hiking taxes more than five percent over last year.

According to Bentley, county officials have indicated that if hospital funds were included in the general budget covered by the five percent lid, SMH could expect to receive no more than $408,000 in tax receipts from the county. Is this any way to stop speeders in Longwood?

Longwood Has Unusual Ideas To Stop Speeders

By JANE CASSELBERRY

Herald Staff Writer Desperate times call for extreme measures, it's been said, and Devonshire residents apparently are getting desperate about speeders through their subdivision. Edward Schuckman, of 545 Devonshire Boulevard. appeared before the Longwood City Commission last week in his Seminole County Sheriff's deputy uniform explaining he was there as a private citizen.

Schuckman complained that speeders were ignoring the numerous stop signs that had been put up to slow down drivers, many of whom were from neighboring Woodlands subdivision taking a shortcut through Devonshire.

He asked the city to install "speed bumps" on the street to force drivers to slow down. On the advice of City Attorney Ned Julian Jr., who said the city might be liable if someone had an accident because of the speed bumps, the commission Monday night rejected the idea. If not speed bumps, what's the answer? City officials came up with some rather bizarre suggestions. These included: ripples on the pavement, lawn mower equipped with radar gun operated by officer in order to catch speeders by surprise, closing the street between the two subdivisions, and installing a tollgate similar to a railroad Commissioner Ray Leibensperger came up with the most radical solution: put up a sign saying "Speeders Will Be Shot!"

None were acted upon. In spite of the levity, city officials said they recognized the situation was bound to worsen, especially when the new Rock Lake School opens.

Carter Decision Due Soon On Cabinet Resignations

thunderbolt at his entire Cabinet and top White House staff by asking for their resignations in preparation for a wholesale shakeup, is expected to move swiftly in deciding who goes.

Not all — perhaps not a majority — of the administration's top people will lose their jobs, but the president was reported ready to pick up the resignations of several advisers "within a few days." In the course of the dramatic events of Tuesday, the president referred to his top aide Hamilton Jordan as his "chief of staff"

a position Jordan has filled in fact but not in title until now. And authoritative sources said Carter's "national security team" - Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, Defense Secretary Harold Brown and National Security Affairs adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski – will "remain intact."

David "domestic summit," when the president re-evaluated his not re-evaluated presidency after a stark drop in his popularity polls.

According to administration aides, the dramatic sequence of events began Tuesday morning after Carter's triumphant appearances in Kansas City, Mo., and Detroit, where he outlined his energy proposals to enthusiastic audiences. He met with his senior staffers, most of whom already had gotten the word that the shakeup was imminent. Then he held a two-hour meeting with his Cabinet, telling members in a "frank and candid manner" that he had reevaluated his own position and was "taking a hard look at the Sheriff's deputies would have to cut down on the number of calls they respond to in Seminole County if additional law enforcement officers are not added to the staff, Sheriff John Polk said today. Polk's comments came as hearings began on his department's budget request for the coming year. Polk has included in his request to the county commission the hiring of 12 additional deputies, two baliffs and a computer programmer. But county administrator Roger Neiswender said he will recommend the commission deny Polk's request for additional With the additional staff, Polk's request amounts to $4,351,247, an 18 percent increase over the current operating budget of $3,684,457. Neiswender has recommended the county trim the sheriff's request to a figure of $4,090,247.

The $260,443 difference would be the expense of the additional personnel and support equipment for them. Polk said. "Our deputies are responding by car to about 50,000 calls per year. But the population in the county is increasing and so is the crime rate. Without more manpower, we'll probably have to cut down on the number of calls we can dispatch cars to," he said. He said calls such as reports of stolen cars or troublesome dogs may have to be handled over the phone without dispatching a deputy to the scene immediately. He also said that the use of deputies to help monitor the crossing of school children at busy intersections might have to be curtailed if additions to his 36deputy staff are not approved.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI)— Anastasio Somoza's successor today faced renewed Sandinista attacks and the wrath of United States and much of Latin America for refusing to abide by a U.S.-mediated peace plan and turn power over to the rebels.

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) - Millions of Iranians marched in support of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's condemnation of opponents of the Islamic revolution, but foes of the Iranian leader set off a bomb in a western Kurdish town killing eight people.

Refugee Talks Near

HONG KONG (UPI) - Vietnam today maneuvered to avoid harsh criticism at the Geneva refugee conference opening Friday, but more human debris of its forced emigration policies washed up on Asia's shores.

The Hanoi government linked a reduction of the refugee exodus with more foreign aid, and intelligence sources gee departures from southern Vietnam had bee curbed, possibly in anticipation of the refugee conference.

Top leaders of Hong Kong, Japan, Singapore, Philippines, Indonesia, Malaysia and Thailand all were on their way to the two-day Geneva parley, determined to ease the crisis that has saddled them with hundreds of thousands of boat people since the end of the Vietnam war.

Findings scheduled to be released by the U.S. Treasury Department Thursday could have a dramatic effect on either Mexican or Florida farmers - or both. Some farmers in Florida claim the illegal "dumping" of Mexican-grown tomatoes is driving the small state farmer out of business. Some farmers further claim the practice of dumping - selling the tomatoes at below the siderable amount of money. Mexican officials argue any new restrictions on the importation of tomatoes could cost that country's economy 200,000 jobs and $300 million in exports for that country - economic burdens the country can ill afford. There have been hints from some Mexican sources that an unfavorable ruling on the tomato controversy could affect negotiations for Mexican oil.

Locally, County Agricultural Agent Frank Jasa said only about three Seminole County greenhouse growers of commercial tomatoes will be affected by the Treasury Department ruling.

Jasa said large tomato fields are located near Plant City, Fort Pierce and Ocala. He said there are no commercial field tomato growers in this county. U.S. Congressman Richard Kelly, R-Fla., whose district includes Seminole County, has joined the Florida Congressional Delegation in support of the Florida far-

In a letter to President Jimmy Carter's administration officials, the delegation said state farmers were being forced to sell tomatoes at below fair market value. Kelly warned of the "demise" of the winter vegetable market in the U.S. leading to a foreign monopoly. He compared the vegetable monopoly to current oil monopoly controlled by the OPEC nations.

"Congressman Kelly has generally taken the position tomatoes from Mexico should be subjected to the same standards as U.S. tomatoes in terms of packaging, inspections, etc.," a spokesman in his Washington office said. "The regulations should not be used to create a disadvantage for Florida farmers," the spokesman, Bill Purvis said.

As for the tomato issue affecting oil negotiations, Purvis said one issue has nothing to do with the other.

Central America's Marxist Threat

Although Nicaragua's President, General Anastasio Somoza Debayle, and his dictatorial regime constituted the chief reason for the civil war now devastating that Central American country, the Somoza government has ceased to be

Ever since President Somoza became convinced a few days ago that the tide was running out and announced his intention to relinquish power, the real question has been what kind of government will come into being to replace him.

The outcome is tremendously important to Latin America, the United States, and the Free World.

Opposition to the 46-year-long Somoza family dictatorship has been the chief adhesive holding together the loose confederation of guerrillas known as the Sandinista National Liberation Front (FSLN). With the departure of President Somoza a growing danger is that the Marxists and non-Marxist elements of the Sandinistas will fight it out for control of the country.

There are three competing factions within the Sandinista Front: The Tercerista, or moderate non-Marxists who have been pinned down in fighting on the southern front, the Prolonged Popular War (GPP), composed of Marxists, and the Proletariat (P), also Marxist but of the Maoist stripe. The Marxist Sandinistas control Nicaragua's cities and towns.

The Sandinista Marxists have been given substantial but surreptitious support by the Soviet Union and its satellites in Eastern Europe. Moreover, a small but effective international brigade of Communists is fighting alongside the GPP with volunteers from such disparate nations as East Germany and Panama.

In a bid for international recognition, the Sannista guerrillas have formed a provisional junta govern the country during a three-year reconruction period. Despite the predominant Marxist introduce the National Liberation Front, only he Marxist was named to the junta. Nevertheless at is reason to fear that, without outside help the junta will be hostage to the Marxists, and will lack the strength to govern. That is that it is mere window-dressing, a bid for international cognition and assistance.

Nevertheless, for the moment, the Sandinistas' nta seems to qualify for the "transitional vernment of national reconciliation" that the arter administration has belatedly called for. buring a recent emergency meeting of the Organization of American States, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance warned of "mounting evidence involvement by Cuba and others" in Nicaragua hd called for a peace-keeping force to restore der and insure free elections.

When the NGA convened here recently, the list of non-attendees was almost as impressive as the roll of those precent. Among the absentees were 13 of the nation's 50 governors.

Those missing included the governors of the country's three most populous states — Edmund G. "Jerry" Brown Jr. of California, Hugh L. Carey of New York and James R. Thompson Jr.

The list of absentees also offered new evidence of the national trend toward fathering children at a later age. Among the governors who sent regrets were two men in their 40s who explained that their wives were within days of three children, and Gov. Joseph P. Teasdal of Missouri, 43 years old and the father of two boys Other absentees included the governors of Alabama, Alaska, Hawaii, Louisiana, Ohio, Oregon, South Dakota and Utah.

That somewhat sparse attendance didn't prevent the conference from maintaining its tradition as a major "media event," however. More than 300 journalists from throughout the country flocked to the Bluegrass State.

But he conceded the bills were being blocked by jurisdictional disputes, the need for budget waivers, the desire for initial action by the louse, and efforts to work out mutually amicable solutions to some problems. "I have no problems on my side," Byrd said. 'I very seldom do have a problem on my side.

My senators are ready to go." Then he outlined why the Senate could not take up any of the 10 bills offered by Baker. After an hour of discussions, always unfailingly polite and courteous, the Senate was no closer to working on legislation.

Hartman points out a special irony in the footwear case. Two Orderly Marketing Agreements enacted early last year were "almed specifically at reducing imports in the low-price range." Thus, lower-income Americans are paying more for shoes than ever before. Hartman says, "As a result (of the marketing agreements), the unit value of imported footwear rose 17 percent in the year ending June, 1978. At the same time, U.S. footwear manufacturers - taking advantage of reduced overseas competition - raised the unit value of their non-rubber footwear products 14 percent in the third quarter of 1978, compared-with a year

"The challenge to America." Hartman concludes, "is not to protect our weaknesses, by perpetuating our yesterday's industries, but to build up our strengths, by shifting capital and labor into tomorrow's industries. ## Sobik Gets Water Line, Site Plan OK

By JANE CASSELBERRY

"It was an embarrassing mission," John Sobik told the Longwood Commission as he presented signed agreements from property owners on a portion of State Route 434 in Longwood. The property owners had agreed to pay a portion of the cost of putting in a water line to the latest Sobik Sandwich Shop.

"The gentlemen were very gracious as they all have wells, but they feel the lines need to be put in and are willing to cooperate in any way they can afford," Sobik

The city will pay 50 percent of the labor cost, as the line will be used to loop the city water system and will tie in with other developments. Commissioner J. R. Grant cast the no vote, saying the city should pay a larger percentage. The site plan for Sobik's shop was approved unanimously In another action, David Farr presented a request for rezoning of Schrimsher Property (on the north side of of abutting subdivisions. Farr said the low marshy portions, which comprise 18-20 acres of the property, would serve as natural buffers between the commercial and residential development. Because of environmental concerns, the commission voted to table the request until it could be studied by Svertrup & Parcel, the Gainesville engineering firm that

Oviedo Mayor Says He Won't Seek 2nd Term

Mayor Ben Beasley told the Oviedo City Council Monday night that he will not seek a second term in the city's upcoming election. Beasley said Tuesday the decision not to run in the Sept. 4 election was "strictly business." He said he soon will begin assuming additional responsibilities in his job which will make it impossible for him to "devote the neccessary time to the job of

Two council seats also are to be decided in election, which will be tabulated for the first time with the help of computer punch cards instead of voting machines. Beasley said he did not know exactly how the new system will work, but that it was being adopted in cities around the state.

Councilman Charles E. Lacey told the council he plans to run for mayor in the election. Lacey said Tuesday if Beasley had chosen to seek reelection, he would have "supported him 100

"But since he has chosen not to run," Lacey said, "I felt I could better accomplish my goals as mayor than councilman." Lacey said he wants to push for "conservatism in government. There are areas where spending can be reduced within any

Lacey said, if elected, he would ask for a decrease of "at least one mill" in Oviedo's 4.62-mill property tax. One mill equals $1 for every $1,000 of a property's assessed value. Lacey said the decrease was needed to "offset" the city's recent utilities tax

The city council, he said, recently lifted the utility tax ceiling in Oviedo from $1.25 to $6. Although that was the first utility tax change in 31 years, Lacey said, it had unnecessarily increased the burden on Oviedo taxpayers.

Oviedo charges a 10 percent tax on all utilities used within the city except water, according to A.M. Jones, Oviedo water department superintendent. However, that 10 percent may not exceed the $6 ceiling imposed by the city council, Jones explained.

Among the actions taken in an unusually short Casselberry City Council meeting Monday night was authorization of the sale of some outdated fire department equipment to a collector. John Fisher, a lieutenant in the Casselberry Fire Department, purchased the old equipment from the city for $125. Included in he purchase were several nozzles, two extinguishers from the 1940s, a 1930 fire extinguisher-holder and a 6-volt red light and siren. Fisher said he plans to use the equipment to help refurbish a 124 fire truck he owns.

Grier said the city finished installation of a 4,000-gallon underground tank for unleaded fuel Monday. The fuel will be used in

When it came to his specialty, cutting base runners down from right field, the former Dodger right fielder represented the standard of excellence by which all others were measured. Later, a right fielder with Pittsburgh came along whom they said might even compare with Furillo. His name was Roberto Clemente. Now, the Pirates have another right fielder who may not only have as good an arm as Furillo did, but maybe an even better one, and primarily because of this extraordinary asset of his, the National League All-Stars have extended their domination over

He was the one who saved it for the National Leaguers with two titanic throws, the one who wound up the game's MVP although managing only one inconsequential single and a sacrifice fly in

> "I always thought Carl had the best arm I ever saw," remarked Pee Wee Reese, the former Dodger shortstop who was a teammate of Furillo's and one of the on-the-scene eyewitnesses to Parker's spectacular performance Tuesday night. "This fellow's arm is at least as strong."

With the American League leading 6-5 in the seventh inning, Jim Rice of the Red Sox led off with a a high looper to right that second baseman Joe Morgan went back for and Parker came in on. with first baseman Pete Rose standing to the right of the pitcher's mound and providing him a perfect line, Parker uncorked the kind of throw you really had to see to believe. The ball sailed toward Expos' catcher Gary Carter as if it had been expelled from some giant slingshot.

Carter grabbed the ball above his head on the fly and then put it on out. No, Parker didn't really surprise me. I've seen him throw the incoming Downing. George Maloney, the plate umpire, waited before.'

Instead of giving up on the ball, Parker quickly caught up with to make the call until he was absolutely sure. Pete Rose gave me a perfect target and Gary Carter made a helluva play on Downing. I give him all the credit in the world. I was trying to skip it in on one Carter thought Parker's throw was going over his head at first. "That's what it looked like when it left his hand," said Montreal's heads-up receiver. "The ball sort of died down just before it reached me. Downing committed himself by going on the inside instead of coming around me. Cool and crisp, the salad greens of summer make light and luscious eating, as demonstrated by Lettuce Hearts With Avocado Dressing.

Greens Key To Perfect

Cool, light, green, and just the thing for summer meals. What else besides salad fits that description? As a first course or main dish, however, the best summer salads begin with one or more leafy green vegetables. According to the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, salad ingredients might include a number of choices in the lettuce family as well as a wide variety of other greens now in season: chicory, mustard and beet greens, endive, watercress, escarole, Swiss chard and, of course, spinach.

The key to the perfect salad lies in the selection and at-home care of the greens. For our side dish salad, Lettuce Hearts With Avocado Dressing, choose Iceberg lettuce by touch. The head should be firm but not hard. Like all the leafy greens, it should have a fresh appearance with a little wilting or discoloration on the edges of the leaves.

Once you get the salad greens home, take time to wash and store properly. Core lettuce before washing. Leaves of all greens should be separated and bathed under tepid running water. Rinse briefly under cold tap water, then dry, either in a salad basket or between paper towels.

Store the greens in a plastic bag, leaving some air to circulate, in the refrigerator until ready to use. Be sure to keep the greens away from fruits such as apples, pears and tomatoes; they emit a natural ripening gas that may cause the leaves to turn brown.

All salad ingredients should be well chilled at serving time. One way to insure icy crispness is to place the plastic bag of greens, along with salad forks and bowl or plates, in the freezer for a few minutes before serving.

As main dish salads gain steadily in popularity, the search is on for new treats for luncheon or light suppers. Our Cobb Salad is a classic based on three greens: Iceberg lettuce, Romaine and watercress, topped with diced chicken, hard-cooked eggs and a watercress, topped with diced chicken, hard-cooked eggs and a variety of other hearty ingredients, including a sprightly Fresh Lemon Dressing. Feel free to experiment with the combination of greens you use for this salad, though; spinach, butterhead lettuce and escarole are also good choices.

When preparing greens for tossed salads, tear rather than cut the leaves; cutting will cause the edges to discolor. Pour the salad dressing over completely dry greens at the last minute. And be sure not to drown the salad ingredients. Toss them in just enough dressing to coat the leaves lightly.

By VERNON SCOTT HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - It is a sacred television maxim that you don't tamper with a hit series, but "Mork and Mindy" has undergone a major overhaul during its recent hiatus in which half the cast was lopped off. Gone are Conrad Janis and Elizabeth Kerr who played Mindy's father and grandmother, respectively, in what apparently is a bid to attract a larger segment of youthful viewers.

Mindy" was the most highly rated new show of the 1978-79 season, seldom out of the top 10 and not infrequently in the No. 1 spot. The series is produced by Gary Marshall whose "Laverne and Shirley" and "Happy Days" sitcoms have been raging successes. In place of the elderly Janis and Kerr, the ABC show is bringing in Jay Thomas and Gina Hecht to play the brother-sister such drastic changes," said Pam. "You don't tamper with success. I think they're looking for more story potential with younger people.

"We really miss Elizabeth and Conrad. They were great fun to work with. But I think the network wanted to involve Mindy with

"They also wanted to get rid of the music store set. It was static and hard to shoot." The essentials of the series will remain the same. Mork from Ork will continue to attempt Williams as long as Mindy remains a believable character.

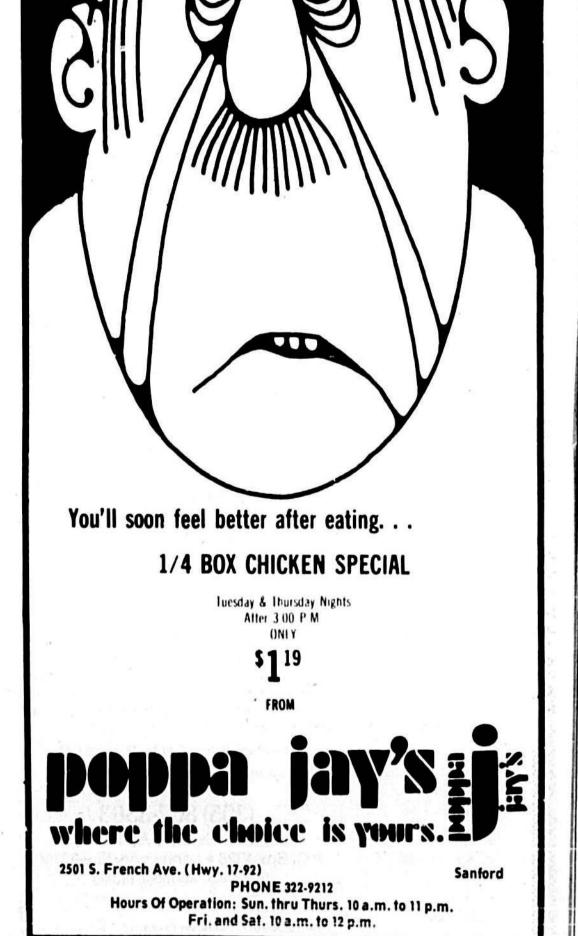

"I have to be very observant during rehearsals," she said, "Robin keeps changing things. It's necessary for me to be aware of the rhythm of what he's doing. During story onferences I usually just sit and listen. The show is written by men with a male point of view. They do allow me some input. I speak up when they have Mindy saying or doing something that doesn't suit her character. "When we began the show, they didn't have a concept for either character. They hired me and Robin before they had a script, so Mindy is still developing. The producers wrote Mindy's character around me. "They let me choose all of Mindy's clothes which are a little more sweet than my own

"I want Mindy to be with it, a modern girl. I'm making a mistake if she's for Gidget.

"It was odd when I first saw the set of Mindy's apartment. It just happened to be in the style of my cabin in upstate New York. And they have Mindy driving a Jeep, which is what I drive at my cabin.'

Pam recognizes the fact that Williams is the star of the show and is almost grateful that she doesn't share his superstar public

I didn't think it mattered who I ate lunch with ... She told me I was eating lunch with the wrong people and that was why my loyalty was being questioned." Mrs. Judah said her duties were taken away and "it got to the point everytime I turned around I felt I was being watched." Consequently, she said, she turned in her resignation. ## Rep. Kelly's Overspending 'Under Study'

By HUGH THOMSON Herald Staff Writer

A spokesman for U.S. Rep. Richard Kelly's office in Washington said today that the decision by the House Administration Committee to hold Kelly personally hable under study by Kelly's office and several avenues were under consideration to resolve the matter. The overspending was discovered in December when a box of correspondence containing over 100 unanswered constitutent letters and several large unpaid bills was found a Kelly's Washington office.

The spokesman, who did not wish to be named, said Congressman Kelly is not laying the blame on anyone for the situation." However, a former aide was named by the spokesman as largely responsible for the problem. "A former administrative assistant to Congressinal Kelly, Stanley Armstrong, told Kelly the box with the correspondence and the unpaid bills had just been found, the spokesman said.

The spokesman said it was Stanley Armstrong's duties. 'as an administrative assistant" to administer the office and to see that accounts were paid on time. What Armstrong told Kelly when the box was found was, according to the spokesman: "Look, these are unpaid bills I've just found out about.

The spokesman said the committee had ruled in the overspending matter only: "Your request to make up deficiencies by decreased spending in your budget is not approved." The spokesman said the committee action "may well be final" but that was the only point ruled

The spokesman said that Congressman Kelly and his office were exploring several approaches, both through the House Administration Committee and through the minority leader of the Congress.

Since past surpluses of Kelly's office were not ruled upon, as an offset to pay the debts, this is being considered as one method of payment, the spokesman said. But the spokesman emphasized, "We are not going to be looking for any special favors. We may have to pay it by eash, or make a loan for it, but whatever we do, it's going to be on the up and up." Kelly has a reputation to uphold and he's going to do just that," the spokesman concluded.
