Police Building Dedication Slated

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

A dedication ceremony for the new Longwood police station is scheduled for 10 a.m. Tuesday even though the facility is only 65 percent complete and is not expected to be finished until Feb. 3.

Scheduled to participate in the short ceremony, to be held on the south side of the building, are the mayor and city commissioners, the architect, the contractor and police chief, according to Police Lt. Jack Bisland. The public is invited to attend.

In announcing the event at Monday night's meeting City Administrator Ron Waller said he did not want to wait until its completion because the placque which is already in place by the entrance lists the names of the present city officials and he did not want to buy another one now that two newly elected city commissioners will be taking office January 5.

The contract with the builder called for completion by Dec. 1, but Waller said the contractor was given a 30-day extension because some of the delay was the city's fault. Some payments to the contractor were delayed because of a law suit and land dispute involving the police building, he said.

Waller said there is much of the interior work to do, including walls, ceilings, electrical and plumbing fixtures, as well as windows and skylights. The exterior walls have a brick veneer.

Waller said the project will come in under the $1.1 million allotted, including the architect's fee, construction, landscaping, furnishings, cost of moving radio equipment from the old police station, generator and telephone system.

H&R Builders bid for construction with extras was $770,000.

The center of controversy since its inception, the 9,482 square foot building is located between Church Ave. and Florida Ave. adjacent to the Longwood Historical District.

A referendum on a tax to fund a new police station was twice voted down, but the city commission said a new station was badly needed and surmised that the real-

Record Flight Near End

United Press International

The crew of the Voyager, suffering from fatigue and facing with headwinds that could deplete their fuel supply, flew their battered plane across the Caribbean today on the last leg of their non-stop, round-the-world flight without refueling.

At 3 a.m. EST, pilots Dick Rutan and Jeana Yeager were "working their way through some clouds and storms" and about to cross Panama and head up the Pacific along the west coast of Mexico en route to a landing back at Edwards Air Force Base in California Tuesday morning — a day ahead of schedule.

When Voyager turns north it will, for the first time since the trip began Dec. 14, face fuel-eating headwinds.

"They've gone all the way around the world with tail winds," spokeswoman Joan Richie said late Sunday. "If the head winds are twice as strong as projected we could have a problem (with the fuel supply)."

"But that's a worst-case scenario, and we are not living with the worst case," she said. "We don't expect that to happen. Not to say that it can't happen."

Spokesman Peter Riva said "I think we're all right. The prognosis is good "but it's never over 'til it's over."

Flight engineers at the Voyager headquarters at Mojave Airport in California estimated the plane had logged 22,831 miles as of 5:30 a.m. EST Monday — nearly 90 percent through its global journey.

But beginning today, the spindly craft's position will not be divulged for the remainder of the mission, spokesman Bob Brubaker said.

"The reason for this requirement is that we wish to discourage intercepts by curious aircraft," said the statement by Larry Caskey, mission operations director.

The flight still had 2,282 miles to go with an estimated landing time of 10:30 a.m. EST Tuesday. The plane had passed over Costa Rica on the western side of Central America, using oxygen at 9,500 feet, Brubaker said.

Riva said Rutan and Yeager, who survived some frightening moments Saturday night when they stumbled into a vicious thunderstorm, hit some turbulence Sunday but were "chugging along" over the Caribbean and headed for a landing "as early as dawn Tuesday."

Riva said the flight plan was revised to avoid a storm brewing in the Caribbean.

"We wanted to take them through Texas. That was our intention but bad weather and a cold front there has prevented us from even thinking about it," Rutan said.

Rutan, 49, and Yeager, 34, were expected to land on the 15,000-foot Edwards runway that brought home several of the space shuttle missions.

"They are extremely fatigued," said Rutan's brother, Burt, who designed the spindly craft.

North, Poindexter Immunity Considered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Leaders of two special congressional committees say they will consider granting Oliver North and John Poindexter immunity, if they cannot uncover the truth in the Iran-Contra scandal, to speed the probe and reduce the "national anguish."

Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, chairman of the special Senate committee; Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., the ranking Republican on the Senate committee; Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla.; and Rep. Richard Cheney, R-Wyo., ranking Republican on the House committee, agreed in interviews Sunday on ABC's "This Week with David Brinkley" that the nation will not tolerate a prolonged congressional inquiry into the worst foreign policy crisis of the Reagan administration.

Inouye said his panel, which begins work Jan. 6, will take its time interviewing witnesses, sifting through evidence and building a foundation before holding public hearings on the Iran arms affair.

Inouye said he will speak to Lawrence Walsh, the newly named special prosecutor who is leading a criminal investigation, because "we cannot completely disregard the criminal aspects" and any granting of immunity could hinder a criminal probe. "If it takes a grant of immunity to get to these questions, that will be considered," he said.

Rudman was more emphatic, saying that if the investigation stalls without testimony from key witnesses, "The Senate committee and the House committee will have to make a very basic decision as to whether or not the possible imprisonment for a short period of time of a few people for things that they thought they were doing right but violated law, is it worth it against the national anguish that we could go through for many, many months."

"I don't think there's much disagreement in Congress about that," Inouye said no person or country will be left out for potential evidence — possibly including Iran.

"I'm not closing any of the doors," he said. "I would think at the appropriate time, channels would be open to discuss these matters with Israel, with Switzerland. I don't see Iran being out of the picture at all."

Fascell, a member of the select House committee, said calling President Reagan to testify is also an option.

City Saves Taxpayers $20,000

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford staff members apparently saved city taxpayers nearly $20,000 last week by recommending against an $84,000 wastewater management program study.

The $84,000 contract proposal was from Kucera South of Lakeland. City engineers said they were not satisfied with its terms and price.

City Manager Frank Falson and Planning and Engineering Director Bill Simmons have now negotiated a $64,185 contract for the same services and will ask commissioners to approve it in regular session tonight.

The contract, for aerial surveys of Sanford's airport and Mayfair golf course, is the last of four negotiated for study of effluent disposal parcels and transmission line routes.

The four contracts total $207,175.

They are part of the estimated $36.5 million Sanford will spend to develop a state ordered wastewater management program. According to the state Department of Environmental Regulation, the city must cease effluent disposal in Lake Monroe, upgrade its treatment plant, and rehabilitate its sewage piping system.

Payment for the four contracts will be through the city's $16.98 million wastewater program bond, although most of the expenditure will subsequently be reimbursed to Sanford from grant money the state has committed to the project, Simmons said.

The first three survey contracts, which add up to $139,990, were approved by commissioners in regular session Dec. 8.

Simmons presented the fourth, for $84,000, to commissioners at a special session last week, and, with Falson's concurrence, recommended against it.

The second man brandished a revolver and aimed it into the car. He reportedly said, "We have a gun. We're going to kill you." That man fired a shot at the rear of Ms. Bell's vehicle.

Speeding Ticket Hassle Leads To Arrest

A Longwood woman, after receiving a speeding ticket, was arrested for interfering with an officer after she reportedly interrupted him several times while he was investigating traffic infractions.

According to an arrest report, Deputy H. Thomas stopped the woman at East Lake Brantley and Lake Gene in Longwood and cited her for speeding, at 4:03 p.m. Friday.

After she was issued the citation, she left the scene, and the deputy returned to monitoring traffic. At 4:24 p.m., the deputy stopped a vehicle and was in the process of writing a ticket when the 210-pound, 5-foot-2 woman returned and said "I want to talk with you."

The deputy said he stopped what he was doing and answered the woman's questions about the fine. After that, she left, and he went back to work. She returned, however, the report said, and again he stopped what he was doing to hear her reportedly say that she hoped all "cops rot in hell." The deputy said he ignored the remark and continued to write a traffic citation. She then drove off, the report said.

About five minutes later, she returned and interrupted the deputy again, this time reportedly with a sarcastic remark. Again, the deputy wrote in the report, he stopped his investigation. He said she returned a fourth time, interrupted him and made a sarcastic remark about seal belts. At that point, the officer arrested her.

Charged with interfering with an officer was Edith Adams Herquist, 50, of 206 Cherry Hill Circle, Longwood. Bail was set at $500.

Rep. Bainter

Rep. Bainter To Tackle Growth

State Representative Stan Bainter (R), who represents portions of Seminole County, announced his Standing Committee assignments for the 1987 Legislative Session last week.

He has been appointed to the Insurance Committee, Natural Resources Committee and the Committee on Regulated Industries and Licensing.

Bainter, who owns an insurance agency in Eustis, will bring his expertise to the committee which will again tackle liability insurance and tort reform issues.

The Natural Resources Committee's primary concern in the '87 session will be growth management and state comprehensive planning.

The Regulated Industries Committee has jurisdiction over all public utilities, alcoholic beverages and pari-mutuel wagering. Rep. Bainter said he feels honored to serve on these major committees, which are not generally available to freshmen.

Rep. Bainter has opened his District 27 legislative office at 32515 Highway 441 in Eustis.

His district includes portions of Lake, Seminole, Volusia, Marion and Putnam counties.

Mrs. Fae Owles is Rep. Bainter's legislative aide and has served in that capacity for the past six years; she previously served as aide to Rep. Bobby Brantley of Seminole County who is now lieutenant governor.

As his legislative secretary, Rep. Bainter has selected Mrs. Deborah Yerkes, a longtime resident of Lake County.

Bainter, a veteran of the Korean Conflict, is a past commander of the American Legion.

He is past president of the Kiwanis Club, the Lake County Fair, the Lake County Cattlemen's Association, and is currently a director of the Agricultural Advisory Committee. He is a member of the Lake County Farm Bureau, Eustis Elks Club, Tavares Chamber of Commerce, Lake County Economic Development Council and the Lake Water Improvement Association.

He and his wife Marilyn live near Altoona. They have been married 35 years and have three children: Jon, 31, Pat, 26, and daughter Dara, 29.

Winter Makes Mild Debut

By United Press International

Winter blew in on a gusty Pacific storm threatening snow across the Washington Cascades to Lake Tahoe but the season made a mild debut from the Great Lakes eastward, jeopardizing holiday business at ski resorts today.

The storm off the northern Pacific coast spread rain across western Washington state and northwest Oregon, with freezing rain and snow expected in the Washington Cascades and parts of the northern Plateau.

Strong winds howled along the Pacific coast from Washington to northern California, gusting to more than 40 mph at Quillayute, Wash., and Troutdale, Ore. Up to 5 inches of snow was expected in the Idaho mountains, and up to 6 inches was forecast as far south as the Lake Tahoe area.

Rain doused southern Mississippi, southern Louisiana and much of Texas, and snow fell in western Texas and the mountains of Arizona and New Mexico. But relatively calm weather ushered in winter across much of the rest of the nation.

"It's mild all over. I haven't seen any real major problems," said Harry Gordon of the National Weather Service. Winter officially began in the Northern Hemisphere at 11:02 p.m. EST Sunday.

The fair skies that prevailed from the Great Lakes to the Northeast had ski resort personnel in Michigan worried.

"We need snow-making weather badly," said Jim Brown, manager of the Pine Knob resort near Clarkston in southeastern Michigan.

"You normally do about a third of your business over Christmas vacation," Brown said. "Without good conditions, it's definitely going to have an effect on the industry."

Even in northern Michigan, conditions were less than ideal. Cross-country trails at Boyne Mountain Ski Lodge are closed because of lack of snow, and Marquette has only 24 inches of snow so far this year compared with 64 inches by this time last year.

With fair skies and light winds, temperatures dropped to the teens and single digits in northern New England early today.

High temperatures Sunday were in the 30s and 40s from the Great Lakes to the Northeast. Highs rose to the 60s and 70s in southern Georgia, Florida, the desert Southwest and southern California.

Fog was widespread, stretching from Louisiana to Minnesota and from Texas to South Dakota. On Sunday, fog and low clouds shrouded parts of the Plains and the northern Intermountain region.

At Sioux Falls, S.D., fog delayed one airline flight and forced another to land elsewhere, officials said.

Residents driven from their homes by a lava flow from Kilauea that overran 17 houses in recent days were given permission to return to the area today after civil defense officials declared the molten river dead.

"Should you decide to move back, remember the potential threat remains," Hawaii Island Civil Defense Administrator Harry Kim said Sunday in a radio message to the 150 to 175 residents forced to evacuate last week.

"It is recommended that you delay movement of large and bulky items for a few days until the situation stabilizes," Kim said.

A man who spent about 30 minutes with another man in the Subway, 1477 E. Semoran Blvd., Casselberry, without buying anything, left and returned at 7:35 p.m. Tuesday about 30 minutes later, to rob the shop.

The store manager said the suspect brandished a handgun at about 7:30 p.m. and demanded cash. When he was given the money from the cash register, he fled on foot, a sheriff's report said.

Deputy Wounded Four Times In Shootout Subdues Assailant

PAHOKEE (UPI) — A sheriff's deputy caught in a shootout with a murder suspect pronounced himself "just fine" after returning fire and stopping his assailant despite being hit by four bullets.

"I'm doing just fine, just doing OK," said Palm Beach County deputy sheriff Bill Timmsen.

Timmsen, a father of two, was hit in his stomach and other parts of his body when he was hit during the Saturday morning shootout in the Lake Okechobee village of 6,000 residents.

Timmsen, 26, was in fair but stable condition at Everglades Memorial Hospital. His assailant, Michael Beckles, 32, was in critical condition after emergency surgery at the same hospital, officials said Sunday night.

Shark Sightings Chill Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A mile-long school of sharks cleared Hollywood Beach of swimmers this weekend and only a few bathers were brave enough to head back into the water — even after it was declared safe.

The sharks were spotted in calm waters by a sheriff's deputy patrolling in a helicopter Saturday afternoon, prompting lifeguards to ban swimming for 1 1/2 hours.

Few people on the beach actually saw the sharks, but the pilot's warning said "they were right here — 100 to 150 yards offshore," said Pat Hendrick, a Hollywood beach safety officer.

Although shark sightings are not uncommon along the Atlantic beach, it was unusual for them to be so close to shore, several officials said. Saturday's evacuation was the first on Hollywood beach in at least three years, said beach safety officer Don May.

Orange Trees For Christmas

FORT PIERCE (UPI) — Citrus tree sales have been brisk since agricultural officials lifted a ban on residential sales two months ago, store owners said Sunday.

People had not been able to buy the trees because of a 1 1/2-year prohibition on residential sales. The ban was established to contain the spread of citrus canker bacteria, which threatened Florida's $2 billion citrus industry.

It was lifted in October and nurseries have had difficulty keeping the trees in stock.

About 4,000 trees have been sold in St. Lucie, Indian River and Martin counties in less than two months, said Mike Stefan, a local director of the Citrus Canker Project.

Lake Mary Officials Rethink Press Gag Order

By Kathy Tyrity
Herald Staff Writer

With one of the commissioners saying the Lake Mary City Commission might be abridging staff members' Constitutional rights to free speech, the mayor has eased off what the staff originally believed was a gag order not to talk to newspaper after meetings.

Commissioner Buzz Petsos said, upon 24-hour reflection of a mayor-inspired order for the staff not to tell reporters what happened at meetings, he didn't feel it should apply to what staff members wanted to say on their own time, but only city time.

"That's almost taking away his Constitutional right," Petsos said, "and I don't think that was the intent."

The staff did think that was the intent after Thursday's meeting during which the commission unanimously agreed the staff should not explain to absent reporters what had happened at meetings.

Acting City Manager Jim Orloles told a Sanford Herald reporter after the meeting he was under the impression he could not talk about agenda items at that time, even though it was his own time.

Sensing a need to explain the order for clarification for reporters and staff, Mayor Dick Fess took a second look at his order Friday night.

"This is not a 'gag' order," Fess said. "It simply says that staff is not going to take time during the workday at taxpayers' expense to tell reporters what happened at meetings. Some of the work was not getting done in the office, and the commissioners had concerns when the staff couldn't talk to them because they were discussing the previous night's agenda with reporters."

The problem, he said, was with reporters getting things "third hand" the day after a meeting by talking to staff members on the phone at the office.

What he would like is for the reporters to attend the meetings or listen to the tape later, which could run several hours.

He said reporters could call the next day and have the tape played over the phone if they liked. "I don't see why you couldn't do it over the phone," he said.

It was apparent that there were still some details of the order that needed to be worked out — such as whether reporters could take staff's time to listen to tapes over the phone. Staff may not have the equipment to do this — Fess wasn't sure — and the staff may be using the tapes themselves to write minutes when a reporter wants to hear them.

Nonetheless, the intent, Fess said, was: he does not want staff members making "interpretations" of what happened at meetings. When this happens, he said, mistakes can be made.

He said it would be all right to inquire about agenda items before a meeting, even at the office, for clarification. And if a reporter attends a meeting and has questions, he doesn't see why staff can't offer answers at night or during the day. But "clarification," not interpretation, he said, is the key point. He doesn't want someone from staff "speaking for the city" and elected officials.

Time will tell how the order will be effected, and the Herald will get copies of the exact order as it was issued in the minutes.

Commissioner Ken King said he felt the mayor wanted the reporters to be in attendance at meetings and ask their questions of commissioners afterwards if necessary. He said he felt the idea was "to stop unduly abusing the staff."

As to what the penalties will be for violating the new policy, no one was exactly clear. The new city manager, Robert L. Norris, will assume his new responsibilities the first week in January and may have additional comments about it. He was en route to Florida and the Herald could not make contact.

Commissioner Petsos said he felt sure the order was directed at reporters who do not show up at meetings and then want a story. "If you're there and you have questions after, that is an entirely different matter," he said.

"But we have found some-times during the day a staff member will say he can't talk to us because he is busy talking to a reporter," he continued. "This order now says staff will not talk to a reporter who has not been at the meeting."

He said it was not an intent to gag any certain staff member from giving his view to the press.

"I think everybody is entitled to their own opinion and their own view on things, provided it's not taking up city time during the day."

Mideast Victims People Like Us

Shiite Moslem tanks fire into Palestinian refugee camps in Lebanon. Families cower in tunnels. Children die because they can't get medical care. More than 500 people are killed and 2,000 wounded, two-thirds of them civilians.

Israeli troops fire into a crowd of Palestinian students in the West Bank. Two students are killed, 11 are wounded...

The Palestinians are victims in Lebanon. They are victims in Israel.

They are also victimizers in both lands. A homeless people breed terrorists. A desperate people nurture revenge.

Who is the Palestinian's friend? Is it Syria, which is supporting the Shiites? Is it Lebanon, which doesn't want refugees? Is it Jordan?

The Palestinians are the "wandering Jews" of the Arab world. And yet they nurture their hatred of the Jews, as if Israel alone were responsible for their problems.

Israel isn't massacring Palestinians in the camp of Shatila; Moslems are killing Moslems. Killing them with impunity, as the world remains silent. There is a double standard in public opinion that raised an outcry when Israeli generals permitted Lebanese Maronites to massacre Moslems in those camps four years ago, but hardly notes massacres in today's press.

It doesn't matter if a Moslem or a Jew or a Christian kills a mother and her children. The killing of civilian refugees is wrong.

Powers come and go in Lebanon. The land is littered with signs of invading and retreating armies, peacekeeping troops, diplomatic delegations.

But the killing of Palestinian refugees continues. So does the killing by Palestinian guerrillas, who have returned to Lebanon after fleeing the Israeli invasion. The killing of people caught in the crossfire goes on and on.

As long as there is a Palestinian people without a homeland, without passport, without a territory in land or in law, then there will be no peace in Israel or Lebanon. But how can such a homeland, or entity, or state in union with Jordan, be created when Palestinian terrorists assassinate moderates who would accept compromise?

Terrorists portray themselves as the solution to the Palestinian question. But Palestinians need protection from their enemies and from their friends who are secret enemies, from their own terrorists. Refugees cannot live forever in camps, without seeing the world as their enemy and strike back viciously at civilization, at law — at human beings as symbols of the oppressor.

Why can't Israelis, whose forefathers suffered centuries of cruelty because Jews had no homeland, recognize the need of Palestinians to have a home, an entity, a passport, something to call their own?

Why can't the Palestinians recognize that Israelis share their fears and agony, that the Jews suffered the ultimate massacre — the Holocaust?

Far away from the camps, we point our finger and brand the Middle East as a bloody place. The people are somehow different; they live by revenge. We tried to bring peace in Lebanon, and U.S. Marines died; now we wash our hands of the whole lot.

But we are wrong. The families are people like us. Their blood is the same as ours. So is their need for security and dignity — for a home.

If we can't give those things, we must at least recognize the humanity of the Palestinians. And their crying need for peace.

Nunn Or Robb Democrats' Best Hope For Presidency

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. — It is apparent, to me at least, that there is not much wrong with the Democratic Party that one of two men could not cure: They are Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia and former Virginia Gov. Charles Robb.

Because this is a tale of the Democratic Party, and because it involves political labels, it gets complicated.

The Democratic Party is the more liberal of our two parties. But "liberal" has become a poison word in most elections. (Recent exit polls showed only 16 percent of American voters describing themselves as liberals.) So now many Democrats say the party is the "progressive" party (on the theory that not many people are against progress).

And so, at the meeting of the Democratic Leadership Council held in this restored colonial town, the historical grace note was provided in a lucid speech by Prof. William Leuchtenberg entitled "The Progressive Tradition of the Democratic Party." The heroes in the speech were Franklin Roosevelt, Harry Truman and Lyndon Johnson, described by Leuchtenberg as liberals all.

But, of course, Democrats are like most people (and all amoeba) in at least one regard: They subdivide. And so within the progressive Democratic Party, we can now find the following: "very liberal progressives," "progressive liberals," "progressive moderates," and "progressive conservatives."

Now, the DLC was formed because the public perceived the national Democratic Party as too liberal. The DLC was designed to show that progressive-moderates and progressive-conservatives are in the Democratic game, too.

The DLC so far has already succeeded in three of four major objectives. Thus, the recent Williamsburg conference publicly demonstrated that not all Democrats are liberals. Moreover, the DLC leaders have helped create an early, multi-state "Southern primary" to lend more weight to non-liberal views in the nominating process.

What has not happened — yet — is the surfacing of a progressive-conservative candidate for president. This is ironic because such a candidacy would probably run best in that Southern primary, which will be contested on turf that is both Democratic and conservative.

It is doubly ironic in that the mere announcement of a candidacy of a progressive-conservative stripe would pull the whole party toward the center, which is where the DLC wants it to go.

It is finally ironic in that the progressive-conservative position is most closely attuned to mainstream America, and could maximize the Democratic vote in the November '88 election. Remember, the right wing of the Democratic Party is about at the center of the U.S. political spectrum.

The only two talked-about progressive conservatives in the Democratic field are two founders of the DLC, Robb and Nunn. Until now, they have been endorsing each other; Chuck says Sam would make a great candidate. Sam says Chuck would make a great candidate.

I think either of them would be great, but time is running out for a decision. For, after all the ideological analysis is finished, America still has a political system that is energized and captured by a man, not a label.

Chicago Pact Unlikely

CHICAGO (NEA) — Shortly before his death, Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley called together his closest political allies and reportedly offered them this advice: "When I'm gone, you guys gotta stick together."

Now, as Chicago marks the 10th anniversary of the late 1976 demise of the best known and most powerful mayor in its history, there is no evidence that Daley's proteges are willing to cooperate to consolidate what remains of their dwindling political power.

Most of the Democrats say they may not even seek the party's nomination in the Feb. 24 primary but may run in the April 7 general election as independents or third party candidates.

Much of that bizarre political behavior is attributable to the racial divisions in Chicago. Of the approximately 3 million people living in the city, 40 to 45 percent are white and an equal proportion are black.

Mayor Harold Washington, a black anti-organization Democrat approaching the end of his first term, almost surely will receive the unified support of the city's black voters in his bid for re-election.

All of the candidates seeking to unseat Washington are white, but they know the mayor is virtually certain to win any election — primary or general — in which the white vote is divided among two or more contenders.

Three Democrats already have proclaimed their intentions to topple Washington. They are:

• Former Mayor Jane Byrne, who vacillated between being an organization loyalist and a reformer during her first term.

• Alderman Edward R. Vrdolyak, chairman of the Cook County Democratic Committee and strident leader of the old-line faction in the city council that has fought with Washington throughout his 3½ years in office.

• Cook County Assessor Thomas C. Hynes, who was the most popular Democrat on the ticket as he carried all 50 of the city's wards in last month's elections. He is unscarred by the brutal, divisive political battles of recent years.

The Irish Catholic politician is popular in the blue-collar wards that long provided the voter base for the Daley organization. He also has a following in the wards bordering Lake Michigan, home to many politically active, reform-minded, "upscale" liberal Democrats.

That grass-roots popularity is augmented by backing from some of the city's most influential Democratic power brokers. Hynes' candidacy constitutes a serious threat to Washington — but only if he can somehow avoid the multi-candidate race that now seems inevitable.

Fake Bolts Fall Apart Under Pressure

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Many of the millions of steel bolts that hold America's bridges and skyscrapers together may be dangerously brittle or stretching loose because they are counterfeit bolts made by Asian manufacturers.

The counterfeiters are substandard steel and alloy bolts made to look like the genuine article, right down to the head markings used by the industry to identify the various grades. Engineers and federal investigators have discovered several cases of below-par bolts in construction projects across the country since the scam was discovered last summer.

The workhorse of industrial fasteners is the A325, a high-quality bolt that has been counterfeited by factories in Japan, Taiwan and

JEFFREY HART

Conservative Dawn

There now appears the Seventh Revised Edition of Russell Kirk's "The Conservative Mind: From Burke to Eliot," and it is time for recollection, appreciation and applause.

The first edition of "The Conservative Mind" appeared in 1953, when this columnist, in his first year in graduate school, was preparing to enter the Navy during the Korean war. The appearance of Kirk's book, seemingly out of nowhere — no one had heard of Russell Kirk — was a tremendous event. And it was one because things were stirring. Lionel Trilling had been correct when he had written in 1950 that "In the United States at this time liberalism is not only the dominant but even the sole intellectual tradition. For it is the plain fact that nowadays there are no conservative or reactionary ideas in general circulation." By liberalism, Trilling at that time meant the Progressive/New Deal/Fair Deal/Habit of mind, and he was largely right.

But, as I say, things were stirring. In 1944, Frederick Von Hayek, a leader of the Austrian school, published an improbable best-seller called "The Road to Serfdom." Clearly written but not exactly a thriller, it sold thousands of copies and was even condensed in The Reader's Digest. Hayek challenged the liberal tendency toward centralization and government intervention and made a powerful case for the free market. Hayek, who considered himself an old-fashioned "liberal," that is, a believer in freedom, came as a breath of pure oxygen at a time when the entire intellectual establishment, the media and the federal government seemed headed down the road to ever-increasing government control. Hayek was walking around the liberal gas works with a lighted match.

In 1952 there appeared another key book, "Witness," by Whittaker Chambers — a searing but also lyrical account of his transition from high-level Soviet spy to principled anti-communist. Like the Ancient Mariner in Coleridge's poem, Chambers had visited the abyss and returned to tell us about it. As Arthur Koestler remarked, Chambers had not returned from Hell empty-handed. Earlier, Chambers had identified Alger Hiss as a spy, and Hiss had been declared guilty after two famous trials. But the whole business went far beyond Hiss' individual guilt. Chambers' implicit point throughout was that there was a rotten connection between the liberalism of the Thirties and the Stalinist treason represented by Hiss. Liberalism was the soil in which the treason of Hiss had grown, and, even after Hiss was known to have been guilty, liberals defended him. They still do, when not protecting the Contras or whatever.

And then came "The Conservative Mind," a fitting climax. So there was no tradition of conservative thought, eh? Kirk provided careful discussions of Edmund Burke, John Adams, Coleridge, Walter Scott, John Randolph and John C. Calhoun, Macaulay, Tocqueville, Disraeli, Newman, Maine, Lecky, Mallock, Irving Babbitt, and Santayana. In subsequent editions he extended the tradition to include T.S. Eliot.

Whittaker Chambers, then an editor at Time magazine, told his editor Roy Alexander that "The Conservative Mind" is one of the most important books that is likely to appear in some time." Time agreed and devoted its entire book section to Kirk's book.

In this book, along with Hayek and Chambers, we have the three principal constituents of modern conservatism: Hayek's free market, Chambers' anti-communism and Kirk's sense of tradition. It took about 30 years for these ideas to become dominant, but dominant they are, and bliss it was in that dawn to be alive.

Divorce Has Job Impact

By Rob Stein
UPI Science Writer

BOSTON (UPI) — Most people who get divorced let their personal turmoil affect their job performance, but they usually bounce back within three months and tend to repay understanding employers by working harder, a psychologist says.

"Almost invariably, people feel a sense of gratitude to the organization that puts up with them," said Faye Crosby, a professor of psychology at Smith College in Northampton, Mass.

Crosby headed a research team that interviewed 60 managers at the Southern New England Telephone Co. in Connecticut before, during and after they had gone through a divorce.

"The most striking finding is that divorce penetrates a person's life to a greater extent than many other life events, including a death of a spouse or a parent," she said. "It has a very detrimental effect on a person's performance."

For example, managers in the study forgot to go to important appointments and failed to review important documents before critical meetings.

While the researchers found that divorce did have a significant negative impact on work performance, that effect was usually very short-lived — lasting about three months on average.

"What's happening is it's just like any important decision. When you have to make a decision you go over and over and over the information in your mind. It's not the sadness. It was the information processing that was so distracting," she said.

The finding tells employers that if they value the employee and have an investment in an individual, the period of reduced productivity will soon end, she said.

"It's going to pass," she said. "If you are an employer you ought to be very tolerant ... and try not to have them make crucial decisions during this time."

Crosby also found that work played an important role in how someone going through divorce recovers and maintains a self-image.

"Work really is what saves people. The structure is very important. Having something to get up to each morning and having something to take their mind off the battle at home," she said.

Once the three-month period ends, employees whose employers have been understanding usually become especially devoted to make up for the less productive time.

"They often become better managers and supervisors because they are more sensitive to their employees," she said.

South Korea. Our associate Stewart Harris has documented four instances of substandard A325s:

— Imported bolts on a highway guard rail broke when a car slammed into it, according to Bill Windt, president of Texas Bolt, a Houston company that is one of the largest domestic manufacturers of A325s. "That guard rail should have pushed the car off," Windt said. "With counterfeit bolts, it just went right through."

— A drawbridge on PGA Boulevard over the Intercoastal Waterway in West Palm Beach, Fla., began emitting strange noises when it was raised and lowered. In tests of two bolts on the 7-year-old bridge, one was found to contain only about half as much carbon as required by the industry standard. State officials are testing additional bolts on the bridge and a 6-month-old bridge nearby will also be examined.

— A Texas company building an offshore oil rig in Japan had to replace Japanese-made A325s that failed during a test erection of the platform.

— About 4,000 bolts on a steel-framed garage being built for the town of Beachwood, Ohio, had to be replaced because they were stretching when workers tightened them to specifications. Laboratory tests showed that four out of five bolts failed to meet the tensile-strength standard for A325s.

The reason for making inferior steel bolts is to cut costs. Not only is the harder bolt expensive, but the wear and tear on the manufacturer's machine tools is obviously less severe when they're cutting softer steel. In addition, the tempering process for lower-quality bolts costs less.

By cheating on materials, Asian counterfeiters can sell their phony A325 bolts for about 35 cents a pound; American firms must charge from 55 cents to 58 cents a pound. The labor cost differential is not significant, Windt said, because the industry is mostly automated.

Competition from Asian counterfeiters has forced many U.S. bolt makers and distributors out of business. Those that have managed to survive are hoping for a federal regulatory crackdown on the substandard imports.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., has been investigating the dangerous fraud, and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission is checking power plants for counterfeit bolts that could fail under high heat or stress.

Dorsey Gets 400th As Raines Rolls On

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

OVIEDO — Christmas came early for Jacksonville Raines head coach Willie Dorsey Saturday night.

Dorsey's Vikings topped Winter Garden West Orange, 77-70, in the finals of the Central Florida Classic at Oviedo High School to present the veteran coach with his 400th career victory and 304th as Raines mentor.

"Our height was one of the major things that helped us tonight," Dorsey said. "We need to learn to accept the challenge put forth by teams and we responded well tonight."

Raines, ranked fifth in the state 4A poll, now stands at 9-0. In the third place game Saturday, Clearwater Countryside upended host Oviedo, 73-49.

Raines controlled most of the game, then survived a tough West Orange press to hang on for the victory. Thomas Dow led the way for the Vikings with 26 points, 20 in the second half. Herbert Mitchell added 15 more and Gary Alexander tallied 11.

West Orange was led by tournament most valuable player Eddie Pollard who scored a career- and tournament-high 37 points, which also broke the West Orange school record. Derek Kegler was the only other player in double digits for the Warriors, adding 14 points.

Raines' style of press, break and convert was too much for West Orange in the first half as the Vikings raced out to a 38-25 halftime lead.

West Orange kept the game tight, though, with a controlled offense and played right with the Vikings in the third quarter but still trailed, 56-43, entering the final eight minutes.

The Warriors then made a charge putting on full-court pressure which rattled the Raines guards. "We stopped them (Raines) on the press three times in a row and had possession," West Orange coach

Basketball

Gregg Robinson said. "We just could not control the lead to under five points."

Robinson said he knew he could not control the athletes of Raines and therefore slowed the tempo down in the second half. "They took us out of our game plan in the first half," Robinson said. "We new we had to be in control and work for good shots while playing good defense."

With all the efforts put forth by the Warriors, Raines still managed to dictate the game. Every time West Orange made a run, Dow or Alexander came up with a key rebound or shot to stifle any comeback.

The Vikings also hit 11 of 11 from the foul line in the fourth period to keep a steady lead.

"What really killed our momentum was the intentional foul that was called," Robinson said. "We had them a little confused on the press and we were getting the good shots."

The foul was called with 1:44 remaining with the score 69-62.

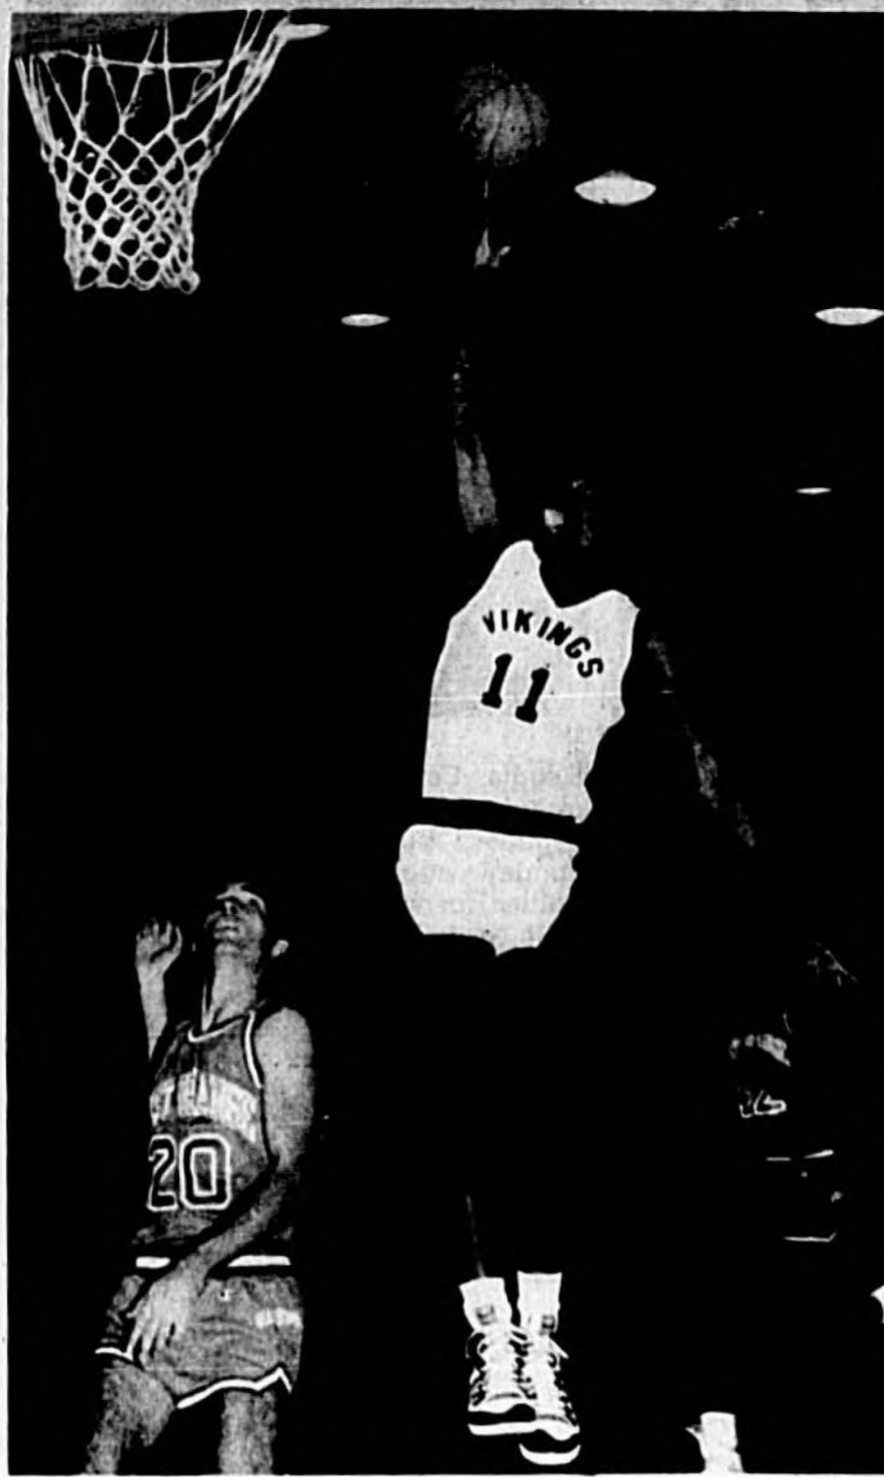

Clearwater Countryside, meanwhile, came back after a what coach Bob Heintz called a sluggish performance to hand Oviedo its second loss of the year.

The ninth-ranked Cougars were led by 6-10 center Matt Gelger who had a game-high 22 points and guard David Fletcher who poured in 21 points.

"We came ready to play tonight," Heintz said. "The team came back well after our first loss last night."

Countryside, now 8-1, will venture to the Kingdom of Sun Holiday Classic Tournament to be held at Ocala Vanguard. Oviedo stands at 7-2 and will return to action in January.

Sikahema: Bucs Pay For Taunts

Football

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The Tampa Bay Buccaneers, who for the second straight year finished with the NFL's worst record, Sunday had the audacity to try and belittle someone.

The Bucs taunted St. Louis' rookie punt returner, Val Sikahema, after he fumbled a kickoff in the first quarter. Sikahema, a Pro Bowl selection, vowed to get even, and he did.

The 10th-round draft pick from Brigham Young returned punts 61 and 70 yards for touchdowns to spark the St. Louis Cardinals to a 21-17 victory over the Bucs.

"After the fumble, (Bucs' linebacker Kevin Murphy) and some others were pointing their fingers at me and saying 'Pro Bowl,'" Sikahema said. "When I came off the field, I told Coach (Gene) Stallings I wanted to make up for it and if I had a chance to pop one I would try."

The loss assured the Bucs, 2-14, the No. 1 pick in April's NFL draft and the rights to Heisman Trophy quarterback Vinny Testaverde. The Cardinals finished with a 4-11-1 record — the worst in the club's 26 years in St. Louis.

Sikahema broke two tackles on his first touchdown run. He caught the punt along the right sideline, headed to the middle of the field and then streaked down the right sideline for the score with 13:41 left in the first half to tie the score 7-7.

"We had it set up to go to the left side of the field but Anthony Bell had said that there was a hole in the right side on the previous punt and that it might open up again," Sikahema said. "The blocking was terrific and it did open up for me."

After the touchdown, Sikahema gave the second-smallest Busch Stadium crowd ever of 23,957 a bow after thinking about spiking the ball. "I did it (the bow) after I returned a punt in preseason in the Hall of Fame game," Sikahema said. "I figured if I got another chance to do it, I would."

"If I would have spiked it, I would have had a tough time finding it and I promised that I would bring the ball back to my wife and little boy."

With 3:27 left in the half, Sikahema bolted 60 yards up the middle for his second touchdown. Tampa Bay's Chris Washington grabbed him at 7, but Sikahema dragged him to the 3 before diving for the end zone.

"The second one opened up a little more, I barely made it in the end zone," Sikahema said. "I ran out of gas. If I had to go another five yards, I probably wouldn't have made it."

Sikahema became only the fifth player in NFL history to return two punts for touchdowns in the same game.

The Cardinals went ahead 21-7 with 39 seconds left in the half when Neil Lomax swept the right side for a 2-yard touchdown run.

The Bucs scored 10 points in the third quarter to creep within 21-17. Donald Igwebuike kicked a 36-yard field goal and Steve Young threw a TD pass to Phil Freeman.

The loss was the seventh straight for the Bucs. Tampa Bay has won only four games in Coach Leeman Bennett's two years as coach. While he is under pressure, Bennett said he does not expect to be fired.

"I expect to be back," said Bennett, who has three years remaining on his contract. "We play St. Louis next year and I plan to be standing right here again."

Classic Clash: Lady Rams Vs. Brantley

By Chris Flister

Booming kicks, hard tackles and determined competitors.

Could be the pre-Christmas rush at Altamonte Mall, but, actually it's what to expect tonight when Lake Mary's Lady Rams and Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots lock up in a semifinal battle in the Burger King Classic Girls Soccer Tournament.

The classic clash will take place tonight at 8 at Lake Mary High with the winner advancing to Tuesday night's final. In tonight's first semifinal match, starting at 6, Lyman's Lady Greyhounds take on surprising Winter Park.

In an earlier meeting this season, Lake Brantley came away with a 1-0 victory over the Lady Rams in a superbly played match.

"The girls are looking forward to the rematch," Lake Mary coach Bill Elisse said. "We played really well the last time so we'll play the match the same way and hope to take advantage of our opportunities to score."

Lake Mary, which goes into tonight's match with a 7-1-1 overall record, advanced to the semifinals with a 5-1 victory over Lake Howell Saturday evening. Kelley Broen blasted in three goals to lead Lake Mary and ran her season total to 12 goals in nine games. Broen also has 14 assists on the season.

Broen is one of four high-scoring players for the Lady Rams as Michelle Mattingly and Donna Rohr have nine goals each and Criselle Snow has eight. Both Mattingly and Snow also scored in Saturday's match.

Lake Brantley also has some high-powered offensive players led by Julie DeRusso who has 10 goals for the season. Coleen Lievertz who has seven, Jennifer Josephs with six and Cara Marien with five.

Tonight's match will also showcase some of the top defensive players around including Lake Brantley's Reente Deaver and Lake Mary's Vicky Warner.

In Saturday's match, Lake Howell, which now stands at 5-3-1, played evenly with the Lady Rams for the first 29 minutes, but Lake Mary struck for three goals in the last 11 minutes to seal the victory.

Mattingly scored the first goal on an assist from Rohr but Lake Howell tied it when Dawn Towle hammered in a free kick. Broen gave the Lady Rams the lead with 11:16 left in the half on a penalty kick. Lake Howell had a chance to tie it on another free kick by Towle but Lake Mary goalkeeper Tammy Scott reached up and knocked it over the bar for the save.

Lake Mary upped its lead to 3-1 with 3:35 remaining in the half when a shot by Mattingly caromed off the left post and Snow punched in the followup. Broen put another nail in Lake Howell's coffin as she slammed in a free kick with one second left in the half. Despite being hounded by two defenders all night, Broen was still a big part of the Lady Rams' offense.

Lake Howell received an outstanding effort from goalkeeper Sherri Raynor who had 14 saves in the match including nine in the first half to keep Lake Howell close until the Lake Mary explosion.

Lake Brantley advanced to the semifinals for the fourth year in a row with a 2-0 victory over Melbourne's Lady Bulldogs. The Lady Patriots ran their record to 8-0-1 with the win.

Brantley took a 1-0 lead in the first half when Debbie Bray scored on an assist from Lievertz and Lievertz was on the receiving end of a Marien pass for a second-half goal that gave the Seminole High, minus team leaders Troy Turner and Tracy Turner, found the going pretty tough this past weekend in the Hurricane Classic Tournament at Bradenton Manatee High.

The Seminoles came away with the fifth place finish in the eight-team tournament and also dropped their first dual meet, 54-20, to Manatee on Friday. Seminole now stands at 5-1 in dual meets.

Seminole coach Glenn Malolini said Tracy Turner had an infection in his hand and wasn't cleared by the doctor to compete in the tourney or dual match. Troy Turner missed the tournament after suffering a concussion Friday night in the dual.

"He (Troy Turner) was dizzy after the match and said he felt like he was going to pass out," Malolini said. "So we sent him home Friday night."

Seminole sent one wrestler, Derrick Butler to unlimited, to the tournament finals but Butler injured his knee in the semifinals and did not compete in the final round.

Behind Butler's second-place finish for the Tribe, Randy "Pork" Bryant took third at 223 pounds, Myriel Reid was third at 100, Larry Nathan fourth at 122, Sheraton Mays fifth at 129, Richard Mobley fifth at 188, Brad Dyess fifth at 108 and Titus Manning seventh at 101.

"There was some real tough competition," Malolini said. "We knew we were out of our league but we were hoping to get some good matches to toughen us up down the road."

In Friday's dual meet, Manatee won the first nine weight classes and built up a 48-0 lead before Seminole scored 20 points in the last five divisions. Troy Turner was victorious in his match with a 12-3 decision over Greg Roen while Bryant pinned Gary Klausner in 42 seconds.

Lake Mary Takes Show On Road To Southridge

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

With no local tournaments on tap over the Christmas break, Lake Mary's Lady Rams will take their show on the road Monday, Dec. 29 to compete in the Miami Southridge Tournament.

Lake Mary, 9-1 for the season and ranked sixth in the state (Class 4A), will take on the host team, Miami Southridge, Monday night at 8. Southridge is ranked eighth in the state.

"Since there weren't any tournaments around here I asked around to find somewhere to play," Lake Mary coach Bill Moore said. "We didn't play in a Christmas tournament last year and I felt we needed to this season."

In 10 games this season, Lake Mary is averaging 63.7 points per game and allowing only 40.7 per outing. Four of Lake Mary's starting five are averaging 10 or more points per game and three are getting six or more rebounds per game.

Senior forward Cynthia Patterson leads the team with a 14.8 scoring average and she also averages 7.9 rebounds and 2.6 steals. Senior guard Tonya Lawson is averaging 13 points and 4.3 steals and senior point guard Gabby Olden is averaging 11.4 points and leads the county in assists (8.2) and steals (7.4).

Junior center Teri Whyte is hitting 10 points per game along with a team-leading 8.5 rebounds and county-leading 2.7 blocked shots. Junior forward Sharon Bonaventure adds 6.9 points and 6.6 rebounds while junior Gina Dawson, the top player off the bench, contributes 4.4 points and 5.3 rebounds.

The Lady Rams figure to get plenty of competition in the tournament as, along with Southridge, number four Miami Central and the state's third-ranked Class 3A team, Quincy Shanks, will be on hand.

"We've never played anyone down there before so we're looking forward to it," Moore said. "We'll get some really good competition."

In the Seminole County girls basketball leaders, Seminole High sophomore Adrian Hillsman continues to lead in the scoring department with an impressive 24.3 points per game average. In three games last week, Hillsman scored 18, 29 and 16 points as Seminole picked up its first two wins of the season. Lake Howell senior Erin Hankins is closing in on the 20.0 mark with a 19.1 average, including three 20-point plus games in her last four outings.

Lake Howell has the leader in the rebounding category as Denise Arriola had a good week underneath and upped her average to 9.9 boards per game. Lady Hawk junior guard Tammy Lewis is second in both assists (5.8) and steals (5.7).

Oviedo sophomore Suzanne Hughes leads her team in all six categories and ranks second in the county in blocked shots (2.0).

Lake Brantley sophomore Jenny Tufford connected on 5 of 6 free throws last week and now leads the county in foul shooting with a 78.5 percentage (11 for 24). Hankins is second at 77.4 percent (24-31).

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Howell's Harris, Schaefer Earn Second Team All-State Selection

Linebacker Jeff Harris and offensive tackle Mike Schaefer, two big reasons Lake Howell High posted its best football season ever, were named to the Florida Sports Writers Association All-State Second Team released Saturday.

Harris, a senior, provided the spark for Howell stingy defense with 113 tackles. Harris earlier was named Burger King Seminole County Defensive Player of the Year.

Schaefer, a 6-4, 275-pound junior, was one of the mainstays of the offensive line which paved the way for running backs Nathan Hoskins and Cornel Rigby to rush for 1,745 yards.

Both Harris and Schaefer were first-team, All-Seminole Athletic Conference choices by the county coaches.

Coach Mike Biscaglia's Silver Hawks finished with a 9-1 record which included back-to-back victories over Winter Park and Orlando Evans. The Hawks were eliminated from the state playoffs when they lost a tiebreaker to Apopka.

Lucky Bounces Help Blackhawks

United Press International
Some lucky bounces for Wayne Prealey helped the Chicago Blackhawks roll to their third straight victory.

Prealey improved his scoring streak to seven straight games with two first-period goals Sunday to send Chicago to a 7-4 victory over the visiting Red Wings.

"The puck is bouncing for me," said Prealey, a 21-year-old right wing who has seven goals and four assists during his streak. "The big guy upstairs maybe said to give me a couple."

In other games, Philadelphia edged St. Louis 7-6, Hartford nipped the New York Rangers 4-3 in overtime and Winnipeg and Quebec forged a 4-4 tie.

Mack's 30 Shoot Down Stetson

Toney Mack funneled in 30 points as Georgia rolled past Stetson, 94-83, Saturday to capture the Hawaiian Tropic Classic at the Ocean Center in Daytona Beach.

Mack, a 6-5 sophomore from Brandon, led a torrid Bulldogs' first half in which they shot 66.7 percent while taking a 55-45 lead. Georgia improved to 6-2 while the Hatters dropped to 3-4.

DeLand's Randy Anderson was named tournament MVP. The Stetson sophomore followed up his Friday night spree of 32 points with 25 more Saturday. Anderson had 57 points and 21 rebounds in two games.

Michael, Hillery Pace Lady Hats

Tournament MVP Michele Michael tossed in 23 points and Sanford's Dee Hillery added 13 as Stetson's Lady Hatters knocked off Walker Forest, 87-72, to win the Lady Hatter Classic Saturday at Edmunds Center in DeLand.

Coach Nancy Nichols' Lady Hatters improved to 7-1, their best start ever. Stetson erased a 43-38 halftime deficit with a flurry in the early going of the second half to take a 59-51 lead.

Michael and Hillery were both named to the All-Tournament team.

Murphy Named Sun Belt's Best

Jacksonville may be off to a wretched 2-6 start but swingman Ronnie Murphy is clicking on all cylinders. Murphy, an Oviedo High product, was named the Sun Belt Player of the Week for his 47-point, 20-rebound performance in the Gator Bowl Tournament this past weekend.

Murphy, a 6-5 senior who is expected to be a first-round pick in the NBA draft, also made the All-Tournament team. Murphy had 24 points and 11 boards in Jacksonville's 79-77 setback to Virginia Tech Saturday.

Skill Not Enough, Hawks Fall To Orange Park, 2-0

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Coach Glen Griffin said there was no doubt the Lake Howell Silver Hawks were the most skilled team in the Jacksonville Forrest Tournament. But the Hawks found out Saturday that you can't always win on skill alone.

The sluggish Silver Hawks slipped into the tournament finals with a 1-0 victory over host Forrest but then dropped a 2-0 decision in the title game to Orange Park.

"There was no question we were the better skilled team, but Orange Park had the determination to win," Griffin said. "It was a great disappointment. We were the best team in the tournament but the kids have to decide in their own hearts they want the victory. That was the intangible that was severely lacking."

Orange Park scored one goal in each half and outshot the Hawks, 9-5. Lake Howell, 7-1 overall, returns to action Friday at 4 p.m. against Evans in the first round of the Pizza Hut Tournament.

In the semifinal win over Forest, Dougie Lee scored with eight minutes left to play to keep the Hawks alive. Lake Howell had 19 shots in the game compared to just one for Forest.

"I told the kids Saturday afternoon they were going to have to decide their destiny," Griffin said. "The just didn't have the killer instinct. Hopefully, they'll learn a good lesson from the loss because we're going to be playing far superior teams in the Pizza Hut."

Stocks Open Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened lower today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which gained 18.59 last week, was down 6.89 to 1921.96 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 793-215 among the 1,386 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 10,575,000 shares.

Stock prices advanced Friday on record volume tied to the quarterly market upheaval known as the triple-witching hour.

About 244.68 million shares changed hands, more than 85 million of them in the last two minutes of trading, according to Richard Torrenzano, communications director of the New York Stock Exchange.

With an hour of trading left Friday, the market had erased some modest gains and moved lower as investors waited to see how the triple-witching hour would affect the end of trading.

The quarterly event, when stock index futures contracts come due while options on those contracts and options on individual stocks simultaneously expire, is frequently linked to unpredictable swings in stock prices.

They said although the city was pressed for time to get the studies under way, dissatisfaction with the contract's provisions prompted a recommendation against its approval. With commissioners' nods, negotiations were held last week with a different firm.
The resultant $64,185 proposal is from Southern Resources Mapping, which is already under contract to conduct aerial surveys of effluent transmission line routes through commissioners' Dec. 8 approvals. The firm will be paid $79,140 for these services, which will involve surveying 89,000 lineal feet of city land, Simmons said.

The other two firms contracted Dec. 8 will conduct on-ground surveys of city-owned effluent disposal sites. Donald McIntosh and Associates will be paid $39,800 to study 16 parcels, covering 90 acres. These parcels are Sanford Memorial Stadium, the Poplar Avenue sewage treatment plant grounds and 14 city parks.

Doudney Surveyors, Inc., will receive $24,050 to survey city hall's grounds, the municipal cemetery off 25th Street and Ft. Mellon, Jaycee, and Hovnanian parks.

Contract terms require all studies to be complete by March 1, 1987 to provide Sanford with time to evaluate the results and complete the system's construction by the state's May, 1989 deadline, Simmons said.
The DER's order requires

Sanford to cease effluent disposal in Lake Monroe through development of a land application system. The city must also upgrade its sewage treatment plant and repair underground piping that routes wastewater to the plant.

Cost of the entire program is put at $36.5 million by city engineers. State and federal grants will offset $8.25 million of this cost and another bond issue will probably be added to the $16.98 million issue to cover the balance, city representatives say.

The waste management program will employ sprinkler systems to disburse highly treated effluent on the city-owned parcels. Underground transmission lines will route the effluent to these sites.

released to her mother. Sheriff's investigator Billy Lee traced the license tag number from the suspect's car to LeMasters. Dec. 2, LeMasters was arrested by another deputy on charges of driving with a suspended license and possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. He was released on $500 bond and scheduled to appear in court Dec. 17.
On Dec. 17 Ms. Bell reportedly identified LeMasters in a sheriff's photo lineup. He was arrested at his home Saturday and two revolvers, a .38 caliber and a .357-magnum, were reportedly confiscated at his home.

Lee reported that three tires on the car driven by Ms. Bell appeared to have been shot in the incident. One bullet was reportedly recovered in the car.
The investigation continues, with the gunman in the Nov. 27 incident still being sought.

adviser, to come forward and reveal all they know publicly.

The White House has also called on Congress to grant them limited immunity.

Pointdexter and North, identified as the key operatives in the controversy, have invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to testify in preliminary inquiries by the House and Senate intelligence committees.

"I think the potential we have before us is very explosive," Inouye said. "My concern is that by this process we have inadvertently or deliberately injured our presidency."

Fascell said "the country does not need a debilitating president" but he called any immunity at this point "absolutely premature."

Cheney, however, said, "Eventually we're going to have to weigh whether or not we want prosecution of individuals (or) whether or not we want to clear the air."

Fascell countered, "The loss of credibility that we have around the world is not going to be helped overnight by the testimony of (Pointdexter's predecessor Robert) McFarlane or Pointdexter or North."

Neither Fascell nor Cheney said a presidential pardon was a good idea.

"It raises the presumption of guilt," Fascell said.

Reagan Rules Out Pardons

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan has ruled out pardons for two former national security advisers as a way to encourage them to disclose details of the Iran arms-Contras aid scandal that has politically wounded his administration, his spokesman said today.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan said no pardon would be given when briefed last week on ways to get Vice Adm. John Poindexter and Lt. Col. Oliver North to talk to congressional investigating committees.

Speakes said the president told chief of staff Donald Regan and Vice President George Bush he wanted to ask the committees to seek limited immunity for the two men, and at the time Regan told Reagan "the details of staff discussions of various means to encourage them to talk."

Speakes said the staff did not recommend a pardon for either man and Reagan said none would be given.

House Speaker-designate Jim Wright of Texas said Sunday Reagan should pardon the two men, describing the move as the "ultimate act of leadership."

By pardoning Pointdexter and North, Wright said, Reagan would take full responsibility for the scandal regardless of whether he knew the specific details and would pave the way for the two former aides to testify without incriminating themselves.

Reagan asked the Senate Intelligence Committee last week to seek limited immunity for North and Pointdexter, but the issue was left hanging and the committee finished its work for the year. Separate special House and Senate committees will conduct full-scale investigations of the controversy when the new Congress meets in January.

The president, who friends in Congress said is well aware of his credibility problem, returned to Washington from Camp David, Md., Sunday afternoon.

He was scheduled today to sign a proclamation designating next year's "National Day of Prayer," meet with staff members and accept a Hanukkah menorah from the American Friends of Lubavitch, a political-conservative group of Hasidic Jews.

Reagan has not commented on the Iran crisis in two weeks, and senior advisers have kept reporters from covering routine events for seven days.

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas said in an interview in The New York Times' Sunday editions that the president is cognizant of his image.

Pointdexter resigned and North was fired Nov. 25, the day the scandal was revealed.

"I think, certainly looking back, that would have been an appropriate thing to do ... but events just moved too rapidly," Laxalt said.

Laxalt, who met with Reagan last week, also said the president feels wounded by the drop in public opinion approval ratings. While there is some "preoccupation" in the White House with the crisis, there is no "paralysis," he added.

White House aides said Reagan's popularity ratings, as measured by pollster Richard Wirthlin have indicated an upturn in recent days.

But a poll of Iowans published by the Des Moines Register Sunday showed him in serious trouble in the nation's heartland.

His job approval rating dropped from 46 percent in September to 34 percent in early December, the poll showed, and his disapproval rating rose from 39 percent to 55 percent, the first time a majority of Iowans have disapproved of his job performance. A poll of Republicans released Friday showed the crisis had dropped Vice President George Bush from a 34 percent to 16 percent lead over Dole to a 28 percent to 25 percent deficit.

The Iowa poll also showed 59 percent believe Reagan was aware money from the Iran arms sales was passed to the Nicaraguan Contras and 69 percent think the controversy will seriously hurt his effectiveness in the next two years.

Twenty-four percent, including one in 12 Republicans, said Reagan should resign and 18 percent of the people polled called for impeachment.

Brothers Charged In Robbery

A man who first told Altamonte Springs police that two men had forced him at gunpoint to rob an Altamonte Springs restaurant as police on a stakeout watched at about 8:30 p.m., has been arrested in the case along with his brother.

The brother, Timothy Ivan Morris, 22, of Orlando was found by other police in a car parked at Florida Hospital-Altamonte on State Road 436. Police allege he was waiting for Christopher Ray Morris, the alleged gunman, who less than two hours earlier had robbed the Ponderosa Restaurant, 691 State Road 436, taking $175 from a cashier.

In the robbery, police reported that a policeman was watching as Christopher Morris approached the clerk and handed her a note demanding cash. When he got the money and approached the door the policeman identified himself and ordered the robber to "freeze." The suspect fled and again the pursuing officer ordered him to stop.

The man turned toward the officer and appeared to be taking a gun from his waistband. The officer fired a single shot from his service revolver and the suspect fell.

The policeman called other officers to the scene, and the suspect was handcuffed. He had not been shot. A handgun was taken from him, police reported.

Christopher Morris, 25, of Orlando, has been charged with armed robbery and possession of a firearm in a felony. He was being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

His brother has been charged with being a principal of the first degree in an armed robbery and loitering and prowling. He was being held in lieu of $8,000 bond. —Susan Loden dents were not opposing the building project, just the method of funding. They voted to have plans drawn up and go out for bids opting for a $1 million bond issue to pay for it. Architects Design Group of Winter Park was selected to design the building.

The site chosen was the city's Peppermint Park, part of which was given the city by the Episcopal Church in 1938 with the stipulation that if it was no longer used as a park it would revert to the previous owner. This clause was apparently overlooked and groundbreaking was held June 19.

A group headed by Dave Gunter, (who has since been elected to City Commission District 5, defeating a proponent of the new police station, Mayor Larry Goldberg), sued the city seeking an injunction to halt construction. Although City Attorney Ann Colby said the reverter clause was no longer valid because of a state 30-year statute of limitations, negotiations with the Episcopal Diocese ended up with the city agreeing to pay the church $125,000 to quiet the title in November. Gunter attempted to have the agreement nullified.

Ms. Colby said this was much cheaper than the alternative, which would have meant litigation, holding up financing, and being penalized for holding up the construction. The suit against the city filed by Gunter was dropped after the city commissioners agreed to publicly state they had erred, apologize and each pay a dollar to the city. They did this at the Sept. 22 meeting. In October the commission was also forced to go back and adopt the agreement with the diocese by ordinance to satisfy its critics and comply with the charter. It was originally done by resolution.

Longwood Office Products, low bidder, was awarded the contract for supplying office furniture for the new police facility by the city commission Monday night. They by-passed the first and second choices recommended by Police Chief Greg Manning. Longwood Office Products submitted a bid of $13,947 specifying that for 10 percent more they would upgrade the furniture to a higher quality, which was still the low bid. Commissioner Perry Faulkner pointed out.

In his memo, Manning recommended the $28,648 bid of Thomas W. Ruff Co. stating, "Although the bid exceeds the predetermined amount stated, we feel confident that the quality of their products will insure many years of functional and durable use."

Manning's second choice was Interiors Defined with a bid of $19,985, which included accessories as well as basic furnishings. The high bidder was Center Core, Inc. with a bid of $80,331.98. All eight firms submitting bids required a 25-50 percent deposit.

Talking Turkey With Animal Lover Puts You In Doghouse

DEAR ABBY: I am taking the bull by the horns to register this complaint. I think "Cat Lover" is wrong for suggesting that we remove from our language phrases such as "to kill two birds with one stone" and "There is more than one way to skin a cat" because of the cruelty and violence involved.

Dear Abby

I'd never kill the goose that lays the golden eggs, but using those analogies is as easy as shooting fish in a barrel. Do I have a tiger by the tail — or am I just a ...

DUMBS BUNNY? DEAR ABBY: Your readers who take offense at such expressions as "stoning birds" and "skinning cats" make me as sick as a dog. What would our rich and wonderful language be if people didn't talk turkey, bait a bear, forgo a pig in the poke, strain at gnats, gore oxes, pass a camel through the eye of a needle and make silk purses out of sows' ears?

Such literal mindedness is enough to choke a goat. TEXAS TURKEY

DEAR ABBY: I cannot believe how picky people are becoming. They would drop from the language such expressions as "killing two birds with one stone" or "more than one way to skin a cat" because such acts are inhumane.

Don't people realize that those expressions are part of our history? At one time, people killed birds to feed their families, and if they could kill two birds with one stone, they ate well that night.

DEAR BUNNY, TURKEY AND VIRGO: Enough! Let's stop beating a dead horse.

DEAR ABBY: Please say a few words about a subject that makes me want to blow my top. Why do people hire teen-age baby sitters and then pay them with a check?

I realize that by paying with a check, families can keep an accurate record of how much they spend for child care and/or entertainment. However, the sitters they hire are usually under 16, don't drive and depend on their parents to cash their checks.

I have two daughters who babysit, and if they should need their money for something before I have been able to get to the bank, I give them the cash out of my own pocket. Then when I go to the bank, which is about once in two weeks, I cash their checks.

MY DAUGHTERS' BANKER DEAR BANKER: If you could see some of the complaints I've had from baby sitters who are either paid very late or not at all, you wouldn't "blow your top" because your daughters are paid by check. At least they're paid in full, and promptly.

Successful Respite Weekend Calls For Repeat In January

The first Community Respite Care weekend, a new concept, was offered at Sand Lake Hospital Dec. 6 and 7. "It was a highly successful and absolutely fantastic weekend," says Charlotte Montgomery, Respite Project Director.

The clients adjusted so well to the Sand Lake setting and thanks to our volunteers who offered time and loving care, the entire weekend was a huge success.

The Community Respite Care Project offers rest or relief to those families who are continually caring for an Alzheimer's loved one. This weekend gave those family members the opportunity to have a weekend off to do just as they pleased while their loved one was safe and in the caring hands of trained volunteers and nursing professionals.

Alzheimer's, the fourth leading cause of death among adults in the United States, has a profound impact on the entire family, thus leaving the primary caregiver in a "high risk" category for stress related illnesses, Ms.

Montgomery says. Any time off, regardless of how little, is essential in helping reduce that stress.

In addition to the weekend respite, available the first weekend of each month at the Sand Lake Hospital facility, the new Orange County Community Respite Care Project offers in-home volunteer help and subsidized adult day care.

Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 3 and 4 is the next weekend respite. "Anyone who has an interest in volunteering their time is greatly needed," says Ms. Montgomery, "and is also invited to attend the next volunteer training session, Monday, Jan. 19. Our program relies solely on volunteer power to staff both the in-home and hospital respite. We realize many people may find this type of volunteerism difficult, however, the devoted people we do have find much personal satisfaction and reward once they see how much help and the difference they make to these families."

For more information, call Charlotte Montgomery, Respite Project Director, at 425-2523.

Children's Drama Benefits Missing Children's Center

On Monday, Jan. 12 at 7 p.m. the Bob Carr Auditorium will be the scene of a special "love offering" to benefit missing and exploited children. The Clubhouse Kids of Central Florida will perform "A Single Candle," a musical drama written and directed by Yvonne Cummings.

Cummings, whose original one-hour musical Christmas Special, "The Little Shepherd Boy," will air at 4 p.m. on Christmas Eve and again at 7 p.m. on Christmas Day on WCPX-Channel 6, is the director of Clubhouse Productions of Central Florida, Inc. and gives God total credit for her beautiful words and music. "I want the children to feel good about the gifts God has given each of them and to be able to share those gifts with others," says Ms. Cummings, whose students receive extensive training in music, drama and dance. Cummings uses only her own material (and God's, of course) in Clubhouse productions because, as she states, "If I get a child with two left feet, I have the freedom to write the perfect supplement for a character with two left feet."

The cast of "A Single Candle," ages 4 to 15, accompanied by their "in house" orchestra, recently gave two "standing room only" performances at the Enzian Theater. They will provide a free and joyful evening of entertainment at the Bob Carr Auditorium for families, church and youth groups and all who love children. Cummings and her Clubhouse Kids hope that all who see "A Single Candle" will be inspired to donate to the

Regular Exercise Aids Osteoporosis Victims

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm a 69-year-old female with osteoporosis. I've raised four kids, held a job, hiked and backpacked for a hobby, and always worked harder and longer than I wanted to. My young male doctor tells me to exercise. At this point in life, isn't it my turn to rock, rest, read and watch the birds if I want to?

DEAR READER — Surely, you are entitled to rock, rest and relax. However, most people who are active in their younger years aren't content to slow down completely when they get older. I think that you'll find pleasure in continued physical activity, and the exertion will benefit your bones and cardiovascular system.

Activity is particularly important in your case. People with osteoporosis should take part in some regular physical activity. This is because muscle activity promotes bone retention. Lack of activity causes a loss of bone mass, even for young people and others who don't have osteoporosis. For example, some bone-mass loss occurs in bedridden people and in astronauts who have had long stretches of "weightlessness."

The bone loss caused by osteoporosis can't be reversed. However, exercise and calcium-rich foods can help you to maintain the bone density you now have. (Also, ask your doctor about a calcium supplement, if he hasn't suggested it already.)

If it progresses, osteoporosis can be painful and incapacitating — so the young doctor really did have your best interests in mind. In addition, your exercise doesn't have to be a chore — it can consist of a regular walk, or any activity that won't overtax you or risk possible injury.

Your doctor's suggestion makes sense — and you're fortunate to be fit enough now to enjoy exercise, since this can make your later years healthier.

To give you information on weight-loss methods that do work, I'm sending you a free copy of my new Health Report on weight loss. Others who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

One of the most successful American players is Cliff Russell, who has won half a dozen National Knockout Team-of-Four Championships. An aggressive player, he will frequently justify an occasional overbid by finding a way to make the contract. Examine today's deal, in which Cliff Russell was South. Purists might question his jump to three diamonds on only 15 high-card points, but A-K in two suits is always a better holding than scattered honors. North cue-bid his ace of clubs and then felt obligated to bid six diamonds after South had bid four spades. Winning players do not lose heart just because the contract has little play. Instead, they figure out a combination of opposing cards that will allow the contract to make, and play for that combination to exist. Here declarer had to find a way to dispose of one of his club losers. The only chance lies in the heart suit. He not only had to set up that fifth heart as a winner but also had to be able to cash it. That meant that even if hearts were 4-3, South needed an extra entry to dummy to do the work. The answer? A diamond finesse against the 10.

Declarer won dummy's club ace, played the heart ace and ruffed a heart. Next he played a diamond to dummy's nine and ruffed another heart. Now he led a diamond to dummy's queen and he flashed a big smile as both defenders followed. One more ruff set up dummy's last heart, and the spade ace and a spade ruff allowed declarer to shed a losing club on the fifth heart. Six diamonds bid and made!

Lottery Caught In Tug-Of-War

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Months before the first ticket can be sold or the first lucky winner is picked, Florida's new state lottery has stirred a debate over how to spend an expected $300 million in proceeds.

On one side are educational leaders, who say using lottery money for anything other than schools would be a "breach of faith" with voters who supported the idea last month.

The other side is led by Governor-elect Bob Martinez, who is struggling with his first budget and beset by growing cash demands from a horde of worthy programs.

In the line of fire is the Legislature, which will eventually have to decide how to spend the lottery loot.

Florida's lottery was sold to a very receptive public this year as a painless way to pump quick cash into a cash-starved education system. Voter approval has prompted education leaders to dream of teacher pay raises and other costly reforms.

But Martinez poked a tentative pin in the dreams last week when he suggested he might ask the Legislature to use some lottery proceeds for indigent health care.

"We have no commitment, other than that those who believe the lottery is going to solve all education's problems are mistaken," Martinez said.

His comment drew a quick response from Pat Tornillo, president of the 50,000 member Florida Education Association-United, who said Martinez and the Legislature had a moral obligation to put the money in education. To do otherwise would be a "great breach of faith."

"We have to get away from this business of using education to raise taxes, to raise more money, then turning around and putting that money someplace else," Tornillo said.

Martinez said he never promised to use lottery money solely for education. And, he said, the lottery's apparent popularity probably should not be viewed as sweeping support for more educational funding.

"I tend to think the people who voted for it voted for it because they wanted a lottery," Martinez said.

The lottery is in many ways the brainchild of Commissioner of Education Ralph Turlington, who leaves office in January.

Turlington began pushing for a lottery last spring, founding EXCEL, or the Excellence Campaign: An Educational Lottery Inc., to win public approval.

EXCEL gathered more than 400,000 signatures, more than enough to put the question on the ballot as a constitutional amendment.

Turlington and EXCEL stressed lottery money would support education.

State law, however, prohibits any branch of government except the legislature from allocating funds, so a constitutional amendment could not legally be used to make the Legislature spend money anywhere — even lottery money.

Lottery backers did the next best thing — they named the lottery the Florida Education Lotteries, and the ballot said all lottery proceeds would go into a fund called The State Education Lotteries Trust Fund.

The Florida Education Lotteries passed by a 2-to-1 margin.

"Clearly it's intended and has always been intended that education be highly prioritized as far as this fund is concerned," Turlington said Friday.

"People in their vote expressed support for this proposal."

a way to provide a big lift for hospitals and other health care providers that last year were left with $67 million in unpaid bills.

The governor-elect can propose a budget and suggest funding sources, but the final decision on spending belongs to the Legislature, where discussion has started four months before the season opens.

Sen. Jack Gordon, D-Miami Beach, has filed a bill to crank the lottery into gear and dedicating all proceeds to education. Last week, Senate President John Vogt created a special committee to plan the lottery.

Legislators also are concerned about indigent health care, as well as other money-hungry programs such as prison overcrowding, public facility construction and child care. But the Legislature has been criticized for failing to do enough for education in the past, and some legislators say lottery money may be destined for education.

"I know the problem (Martinez) is having," House Appropriations Chairman Sam Bell, D-Ormond Beach, said. "He's been looking at our needs and for the first time realizing that it's going to be very difficult to get through this next fiscal year."

"But I think the Legislature has a moral obligation, if not a legal obligation, to direct the bulk of it into education."

Turlington acknowledged Martinez has responsibility for all Florida problems, including indigent health care, which promises to remain a major problem for hospitals as the state's population swells.

Martinez, who made indigent care an issue in his campaign, has turned to the lottery as

IN BRIEF

New York Orders Extra Police To Quell Racial Woes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Detectives arrested a number of men early today and charged them with participating in the slaying of a black man who was beaten and chased by a gang of white men into the path of a car over the weekend in Queens, police said.

Sgt. Raymond O'Donnell, a Police Department spokesman, said detectives made the arrests overnight. The exact number of people arrested and the charges filed were not immediately known.

Word of the arrests came a day after police announced that 50 additional detectives were added to the investigation.

Calling the situation "potentially explosive," black leaders said they would hold a sit-in today at the New Park Pizzeria in Howard Beach, where the events leading to the death of Michael Griffith, 23, took place on Saturday.

Verdict Relieves Model

NEW YORK (UPI) — Model Maria Hanson says she is relieved her ex-landlord was convicted of hiring two men to slash her face with a razor but finds it hard to forgive him because of his lack of "remorse or sorrow for what he's done."

Wearing little makeup to hide the permanent scar on her right cheek that runs a jagged course to the corner of her mouth, Hanson met with reporters Sunday, one day after Steven Roth, 28, was convicted of arranging the June 5 razor attack that left her face and psyche scarred.

Hanson, 25, cheerfully vowed to continue her career in modeling and acting and revealed that she had signed a deal to make a television movie about her life, in which she will play a small part.

She added that doctors have told her the scar will fade considerably in a few years and that it may be possible to cut out some of the scar tissue.

Bush: 'No Longer Front-Runner'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President George Bush says he is "no longer the front-runner" in the 1988 contest for the Republican presidential nomination, and it suits him fine.

Badly stung by the Iran arms scandal in polls, Bush said in interviews published Sunday that "certain things haven't worked perfectly" in the administration's handling of the affair, particularly diversion of weapons profits to the Nicaraguan Contras.

"Therefore, I would be perfectly glad to accept whatever my share of responsibility is," he said.

Interviewed Friday on his return flight from Iowa — where he called on former national security adviser John Poindexter and fired deputy Oliver North to waive their rights and "tell us the whole truth" now — Bush said, "I am no longer the front-runner."

He said dropping out of first place in GOP opinion polls "puts me in a feisty political mood.... I don't think it's bad to get your people all fired up and realize they have a lot of work to do."

A poll released in Iowa Friday showed Bush's earlier 34 percent to 16 percent lead over Senate GOP leader Robert Dole of Kansas changed because of the scandal into a 28 percent to 25 percent deficit.

A U.S. News & World Report-Cable News Network poll showed that on a national basis, Bush's one-time 37-point margin over Dole has fallen to 5 points.

In an interview with The New York Times, Dole — whose political aides have declined to goat publicly over the turn of events — said he did not think Bush would be "hurt too much. It's more that my improvement has been accelerated." But Dole noted pointedly, "There's not much difference between our stands on this thing. It's just that what he's saying now I was saying three weeks ago."

Bush, apparently referring to Dole and his well-publicized early calls for full administration disclosure, said, "Loyalty is not a character flaw."

Calling himself a "kind of collateral, peripheral victim" of the scandal, Bush said, "I wish it hadn't happened. I think everybody, to the degree there were mistakes, I think everybody should share in the blame."

Although Bush called for full disclosure from Poindexter and North, he declined to answer questions on the extent of his own role and advice to President.

The vice president also denied any role in secretly helping the Contras.

"You know this stuff about my running a secret war? ... It's crazy. Absolutely nuts!"

Wreathed in Smiles

James D. Tesar, Central Florida Regional Hospital administrator, presents the winning wreath in the hospital's Christmas wreath contest to Thelma Mike, director of the Good Samaritan Home. Ten wreaths were made and donated by the various departments to the home for decorations. The first prize went to the emergency room entry, which was made of broken Christmas tree balls, symbolic of the broken bodies put back together in the emergency room.

Chinese Ban Further Unauthorized Protests

SHANGHAI, China (UPI) — Shanghai authorities, rocked by three days of pro-democracy protests by tens of thousands of angry students, today banned further unauthorized demonstrations in the city.

But a large group of banner-waving students was reported to be marching toward the downtown People's Square in apparent defiance of the ban, and protest leaders vowed to press ahead with the demonstrations until their demands are met.

An estimated 10,000 people, most of them non-students, had gathered shortly before dusk in the square, where protest leaders were scheduled today to meet with city officials to discuss student demands.

The vast square was surrounded by police manning steel and wooden barricades.

Since Friday, the square has been the scene of daily protests by tens of thousands of students demanding democracy and condemning alleged police brutality.

Chad Says 400 Libyans Killed

N'DJAMENA, Chad (UPI) — Government troops and members of a breakaway rebel faction killed 400 Libyan soldiers and recaptured a border town in fierce fighting in Libyan-controlled northern Chad, state-run radio said.

The state-run Libyan news agency JANA denied the report by Chad's state-controlled radio, saying the fighting Sunday was between Chadlian troops and pro-Libyan rebels.

There was no confirmation of the radio reports that 400 Libyans were killed in the fighting. Chadlian radio also said an undisclosed number of Libyans were captured and 17 tanks were destroyed.

About 1,000 rebels loyal to former Chadlian President Goukouni Wedyde are reported to have broken with Libya and to be encircled by about 8,000 Libyan troops in the towns.

Newspaper Fights Censorship

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — The city's leading black newspaper, squeezed by two sets of special government restrictions in less than a week, vowed to pursue a court challenge today against state censorship.

A spokesman for the newspaper, The Sowetan, said it would go to court as planned today to challenge bans on the publication of news or advertisements concerning an anti-government campaign dubbed "Christmas against the Emergency."

Called by the 2 million-member United Democratic Front, the program of peaceful demonstrations is to protest six months of emergency rule, during which more than 22,000 people have been detained without charge.

President Pieter Botha imposed the emergency, South Africa's second in a year, in a bid to curb intensifying racial unrest. More than 2,300 people have been killed since a wave of violence over the white-minority government and its policies of racial separation, known as apartheid, erupted in September 1984.

Shiite Hitmen Eye Gadhafi

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A Shiite underground group pledged today to "get rid of" Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi, the only Arab leader openly encouraging Palestinian guerrillas in eight weeks of battles with Shiite Amal militiamen.

Clashes between Amal and Palestinians continued today in and around two refugee camps in Beirut, following a day of fighting Sunday that left at least five people dead and 27 wounded.

The "Sadr Brigades," a group named after Imam Musa Sadr, the Shiite spiritual leader who disappeared during a visit to Libya in August 1978, described Gadhafi as a "microbe."

Aussies Dream White Christmas

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — Today may be the first day of summer with temperatures in some parts of the land Down Under headed toward 100 degrees, but Australians still want a white Christmas.

So Santa Claus holds court amid snow, reindeer and white Christmas trees at Sydney's huge, glass-domed railway station, where country trains wait to take families to holiday reunions in colorfully-sounding outback towns.

They try to forget the snowdrifts heaped around Santa's sleigh are fake, his reindeer wooden cut-outs and the Christmas trees not true pines at all.

Lawmakers: Reagan Must Do More

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan must do more to regain his staggering prestige at home and abroad, key lawmakers say, accept responsibility for the policy gone haywire and find out how the Iran-Contra scandal festered in the White House.

While members of Congress looking into the scandal generally agreed that they have seen nothing that points to Reagan as the authority behind the diversion of Iran arms sales profits to the Nicaraguan rebels, several said in TV interviews Sunday that the president's inability to get all the facts out has compounded his problems.

"It seems to me ... the president has not gotten on top of the facts," Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said. Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, referring to Reagan's call for immunity for key aides involved in the controversy who have refused to testify, said it is a "supreme irony for the president to call upon the Senate Intelligence Committee to tell (him) what it (the administration) had done."

"The president has got to do more," Cohen said, including "accept responsibility" for the policy that went awry and say, "I should have known about it."

"Some people have already concluded the president is the villain," noted Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, chairman of the Senate select committee that will begin probing the affair next month. Cohen and Nunn also are on that panel.

The president himself apparently recognizes the credibility issue. Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas said in an interview with The New York Times, "The president knows what the problem is. He told me at a meeting the other day, 'People like me but they don't believe me.'"

Rep. Richard Cheney, R-Wyo., the ranking GOP member on a special House panel formed to review the scandal, said it appears Reagan "doesn't know a great deal about" how his secret 18-month initiative to improve relations with Iran turned into a cash conduit for the Contras and deals to trade weapons for Americans held hostage in Lebanon.

While Cheney said he thinks it will be necessary to grant immunity to Vice Adm. John Poindexter and Lt. Col. Oliver North, the ex-White House aides named as the keys to the scandal, others said that is premature.

But Incoming House Speaker Jim Wright of Texas, on the NBC program "John McLaughlin: One on One," said Reagan should pardon the two as "the ultimate act of leadership."

"If he truly wants them to come forward and tell the whole truth, and if he wants them to have immunity from prosecution, there's a simple way, a straightforward way. He can grant it with a stroke of a pen. Presidential pardon is the ultimate immunity," said Wright.

Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., also a member of the House committee, noted a special prosecutor is just beginning a criminal investigation and said, "If North and Poindexter testified tonight, we'd still have a problem" of foreign policy credibility because the Iran arms sales contradicted Reagan's anti-terrorism policy.

The Iran arms revelation, Nunn noted, has had "a disillusioning effect" at home and abroad.

As for protestations by Reagan and Vice President George Bush that the arms deals were not a trade for hostages, Nunn said, "That's contrary to the overwhelming evidence." If they sincerely believe that, he said, "Either they have not got the facts or they simply cannot come to grips with the facts."

Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., ranking GOP member of the special Senate panel, suggested immunity might be necessary. The committees will have to weigh whether sending people "who thought they were doing the right thing" to jail is worth "the national anguish" that could result from a protracted investigation, he said.

In the president's defense, Rudman said that while "people find it difficult to understand" how such key foreign policy moves could be made without Reagan's knowledge, "it's quite conceivable" to those familiar with his management.

In related matters: —Nunn, a member of the Senate Intelligence Committee that has been holding hearings, said lawmakers "don't have a good fix" on how much money the Contras may have gotten or who else got a cut.

—Cohen, also on the intelligence panel, said "it's possible" Reagan was under medication during his recovery from colon cancer surgery in August 1985 when he is said to have approved the initial sale of arms through Israel.

—Reagan returned to the White House from Camp David, Md., Sunday afternoon but would not answer shouted questions.

Cohen and Nunn appeared on NBC's "Meet the Press." Inouye, Rudman, Fascell and Cheney were on ABC's "This Week with David Brinkley."

—The London Observer reported Sunday the eldest son of Iranian parliament speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani apparently has fled to Toronto from his home in Brussels after getting at least $6 million in arms sale commissions.

Iran Arms-Contra Aid Scandal At A Glance

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's staggering prestige at home and abroad has suffered more damage from his failure to find out how the Iran arms-Contra cash scandal festered in the White House, key lawmakers said.

WASHINGTON — Even as the scandal was snowballing, the administration sent new messages to Iran encouraging improved relations, although arms sales would not be part of any renewed dealings. The Washington Post reported:

WASHINGTON — Vice President George Bush conceded in interviews published Sunday he is "no longer the front-runner" for the 1988 Republican presidential nomination as a result of the Iran arms-Contra aid scandal.

DES MOINES, Iowa — President Reagan's job approval rating has fallen to its lowest point ever in Iowa and nearly one in four residents think he should resign over the foreign policy scandal, a Des Moines Register poll said.

WASHINGTON — Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, a member of the Senate Intelligence Committee, said Reagan "has got to do more" to put the scandal behind him, including accepting responsibility of the renegade policy.

LOS ANGELES — Oliver North's NSC office had three computer terminals, a phone link to the super-secret National Security Agency and a security system all but impenetrable to electronic penetration, the Los Angeles Times report.

WASHINGTON — Leaders of two select committees of Congress said if they cannot uncover the truth in the scandal without Oliver North and John Poindexter they will consider granting them immunity to reduce the "national anguish."

WASHINGTON — Reagan returned to the White House after a weekend at the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., Sunday afternoon but would not answer shouted questions.

NEW YORK — Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., said in an interview with The New York Times, "The president knows what the problem is. He told me at a meeting the other day, 'People like me but they don't believe me.'"

WASHINGTON — CIA Director William Casey was in stable condition three days after surgery at Georgetown University Hospital to remove a cancerous tumor in his brain. No further information is expected until Monday.

New Trial Sought Since Juror Was Reporter

NAPLES (UPI) — A man convicted of cocaine charges says he failed to get a fair trial because the jury foreman was a newspaper reporter who covered the police action that led to his arrest.

Edward Eugene Jackson, 25, convicted of possession and selling cocaine Wednesday, said Friday he wants his lawyer, assistant public defender Paula Rhoads, to ask for a new trial.

He said he was uncomfortable with the idea of a reporter on the jury, but did not bring it up with Rhoads.

Naples Daily News reporter Chuck Curry covered Operation Streetsweep in Immokalee last summer when Collier County Sheriff's deputies arrested 10 people following an undercover investigation into crack cocaine dealers.

Deputies planned to arrest

Jackson, said Collier County Sheriff's investigator Jim Saunders, but he evaded them. He later turned himself into the sheriff's office.

When he was being questioned as a prospective juror, Curry said he did not know Jackson and did not know the details of Jackson's case.

"The defendant received a fair trial," he said after the verdict. "I did my civic duty."

After seeing three of the Operation Streetsweep stories, Rhoads said Friday she would have to look into the case further.

"I wasn't aware that he was so involved," she said Friday. "I didn't realize the extent of his coverage."

Jackson is in Collier County Jail awaiting sentencing. He could be sentenced to up to 30 years in prison.
