

FINAL TALLY SHOWS HERALD COUNT OKEY

Arrival Of Last Minute Mail Votes Unable To Alter Results Of Election

Official canvassing of the results of Tuesday's election made today in the offices of County Judge James G. Sharon, revealed that the returns tabulated hurriedly Tuesday night by The Sanford Herald through the assistance and co-operation of election clerks and Herald representatives at the various polls throughout the county were correct in every instance.

The final totals which will be sent to Tallahassee by W. J. Thigpen, supervisor of registration for this county, are slightly different from those published by The Herald Wednesday, only because of the later arrival of mail votes, which could not be counted until the day following the election.

This fact that in each of the 17 precincts of the county the results had to pass through the hands of several different persons before appearing on the score board in The Herald Office, together with the fact that they required less than one and one-half hours to post the county's complete vote, establishes what may be considered an unusual record since not a single mistake was made.

In order to gather the results from the 15 outlying precincts as quickly as possible it was necessary to make advance contacts with election clerks and special representatives of The Herald in the building of the county. This was done by telephone. The Herald immediately following the close of the precinct books.

The arrival of eight mail votes altered the results of the race for the Legislature between O. P. Herndon and G. W. Spencer, in that Mr. Spencer received six and Mr. Herndon two, making a total of 891 for Herndon and 873 for Spencer.

Park Trammell, who was re-elected to the United States Senate, received an extra seven votes through the mail and his opponent, (Continued On Page Three)

Pepper Felicitates Senator Trammell On Primary Victory

TALLAHASSEE, June 29. (AP)—Claude Pepper last night congratulated Senator Trammell in their close race for the United States senatorial nomination in Tuesday's Democratic primary.

"You again have the honor and opportunity of being Florida's United States senator, and I extend to you my best wishes," Pepper said in a telegram to Trammell at Lakeland.

"If I can in any wise aid you to serve the people of Florida be ever free to command me."

As he sent the telegram to Senator Trammell, Pepper made public the following statement:

"It is now apparent that the high honor and the great opportunity of being United States senator have been conferred upon my opponent. I have wished him well and offered my humble services wherever they may be helpful to the people of Florida.

Youthful Fliers Take Off On Trans-Atlantic Hop To Their Home Town, Warsaw

HARBOR GRACE, N. Fid., June 29.—(AP)—Benjamin and Joseph Adamowicz, aviation's adventure-loving brothers, swung into the eastern sky shortly after dawn on their projected trans-Atlantic flight to their Warsaw, Poland, ancestral home.

Ahead along the North Atlantic seaway lay favorable weather. A report from New York, which arrived as they warmed the motor of their monoplane, Warsaw, predicted favorable conditions all the way across.

Holger Hoiris, their flying instructor, who flew to Copenhagen in the same plane in 1931, accompanied them as far as Harbor Grace. They stopped here last night and refueled the big monoplane.

Probably the most inexperienced trans-Atlantic fliers, who ever attempted such a feat, the two brothers were happy last night that they had accomplished at least the first part of what they called their "come-back." Last August they started out from Floyd Bennett airport on the same route but cracked while landing at Harbor Grace.

A dozen hard-boiled eggs, half as many sandwiches and a container of coffee constitutes the larder. They were relying solely on compass bearings—their plane is not radio equipped—and recent training in blind flying.

GREEN BLAMES DOUGLAS SEES INDUSTRY FOR SLOW RECOVERY

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Attributing "lardy" recovery to the fact that more than 10,000,000 are still unemployed, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, charged that "business men in general are taking no responsibility for these millions."

He presented figures showing employment is still gaining, but that the pace is not so rapid as it was early in the spring, and held that "this problem deserves first attention from industrialists. The government's emergency relief efforts, he said, are providing only a meager living for one-sixth of the unemployed.

"Men and women are still going back to work, although employment gains are not so rapid now as they were in the early spring. Our unemployment estimate for the country as a whole shows that nearly 300,000 went back to work in May, and trade union reports for the first part of June show employment still gaining. Trade union weighted figures show 20.7 percent of the membership unemployed in April, 20.0 percent in May (revised), and 19.7 percent in the first part of June (preliminary).

Gradually workers are regaining the winter employment losses. Unemployment in industry is not yet back to the September, 1933 level, for 10,267,000 were out of work in May, compared to 10,108,000 last September. Employment in building is beginning to increase, although gains are small; nearly 180,000 went back to work in April and May, but more than 1,400,000 are still without work. Small gains in May were quite general throughout industry; in factories, nearly 10,000 went back (Continued On Page Four)

Tampa-Clearwater Causeway Opened In Blinding Rain

TAMPA, June 29.—A most blinding rain failed to halt the dedication of the Tampa-Clearwater causeway Thursday afternoon. Doyle Carlton, former governor dedicated the causeway as another great link in a state highway system second to none in the nation.

A deep-debt of gratitude is due, he said, to the vision of those men who have trade-intercourse between cities easy and without which it would be impossible to develop state spirit, state purpose and state destiny.

"It is impossible to estimate the value of a work of this kind but wherever bridges a stream which divides people or spans a chasm renders a service which is state-wide," he said. "We could not enjoy the great advantages which we have without our highway system."

He spoke of the spectacles who, he said, are always present in the face of such an enterprise as representing the "spirit of decay."

"It is true," he said, "we have our disasters and our adversities but always the American spirit carries forward. Let us this day dedicate ourselves to carry on to combine the efforts of our cities, build new sympathy, new harmony."

JOHNSON SAYS HE WILL STAND BY 1ST RULING

NRA Chief Declines To Return Blue Eagle Despite Cummings' Ruling

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(AP)—Hugh Johnson said today he would "stand by" his ruling taking the Blue Eagle from the Harriman Hosiery Mills despite Attorney General Cummings' decision that there was not sufficient evidence for prosecution.

"That won't have any effect on our ruling," Johnson said in reply to press conference questions. "It is a question of judgment of legal strategy. My own counsel advised me there is a violation and I am going to stand by my ruling."

HARRIMAN, Tenn., June 29.—(AP)—A feeling of uneasiness was reported creeping among the workers of this business paralyzed mill town yesterday as three investigations were started into the kidnapping Wednesday of Fred Held, labor union official.

Held, vice president of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers, was released and arrived safely in Chattanooga after threats against his life, but tense quiet prevailed here among the workers who were thrown out of jobs when the Harriman Hosiery Mills closed because they lost their blue eagle.

Mayor D'Armand said the town was "quiet as Sunday School" but added workers and strikers were sitting and standing around with an uneasy feeling creeping in. Agents of the department of justice, the Southern Railway and the American Federation of Labor were investigating the abduction of Held in which six automobile loads of armed men drew up to a train he had boarded, forced him to enter an automobile and drove him several miles into the country here today. Valuable Mail Stolen On Train Near Chicago

INDIANAPOLIS, June 29.—(AP)—Ten sacks of valuable mail and some express were rifled on the "Big Four" train Number 34, somewhere between the Illinois Central Station in Chicago, and Kankakee, Illinois, late last night, it was revealed by postal officials here today.

J. A. Moran, chief clerk of this division of the postoffice department, said the thieves got into the mail and express car and looted it of all valuable mail and express.

Clerks in an adjoining car were unaware of the robbery until after the train left Kankakee. The robbers, officials said, could have left the train at the Chicago 53rd Street or 63rd Street stations or at Kankakee. Postal inspectors were examining the car records today to determine the amount of mail stolen.

Armed Bandits Get Big Sum In Holdup

OSAWATOMIE, Kan., June 29.—(AP)—Two armed men obtained between $25,000 and $30,000 here today in a holdup as the payroll of the Mississippi Pacific Railroad was being transferred to the post-office from the railway station.

Dr. W. A. Cooper Addresses Kiwanis Club Members On Religion And The Law

Referring to the subject "Religion and Law," Dr. W. A. Cooper, pastor of the First Methodist Church, who was the principal speaker at the Kiwanis luncheon Wednesday said that law represents the temporal side of life and religion the spiritual and that there is no conflict between the two.

WEST SIZZLES UNDER HOT SUN AS SCORE DIE

Iowa, Hardest Hit, Has Six Deaths As Mercury Climbs Above 100 In Many Places

(By The Associated Press) More than a score of deaths were attributed today to sizzling temperatures that scorched much of the continent from the Rockies to the Atlantic seaboard. Generally speaking there was no immediate relief in sight.

Of the Mid-Western states, Iowa apparently was the hardest hit with six deaths. A maximum of 107 degrees was reached at Waterloo. Many of the victims died when they took to the water to escape the baking heat. Nebraska counted three dead, Illinois one, Ohio four, Western Pennsylvania three, and Indiana two.

Federal forecasters said the area racked by excessive temperatures included most of the country east of the Rocky Mountains with the exception of the northern tier of great plains states and the north Atlantic coast.

No general relief was sighted as thermometers in the midland prairie states boiled over the century mark again. Mattson, Ill., saw its all-time heat record equalled at 112; Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Ottawa, Ill., each reported 105; Sterling, Ill., 103; Springfield, Ill., 102; Kansas City, Mo., and Omaha, Neb., and Danville, Ill., 100.

Tomorrow Last Day For Dog Vaccination

All persons owning dogs which have not been vaccinated during the past two weeks were advised this morning that tomorrow is the last day that Dr. C. W. Baker will be retained for this work. He will be on hand in back of the City Hall from 10:00 to 12:00 o'clock.

Although Dr. Baker was originally scheduled to vaccinate dogs for a period of only one week, ending last Saturday, the number of persons requiring vaccination was so large that an additional week was ordered.

Authority Of Court Questioned In Appeal

TALLAHASSEE, June 29.—(AP)—Whether the courts have the authority to join voting upon a proposed constitutional amendment regardless of its nature, if it is regularly submitted to the people, was questioned in the Supreme Court today.

It came on arguments by counsel in the state's appeal from a circuit court injunction prohibiting the publication of the proposed amendment exempting homesteads up to a valuation of $5,000 from taxation.

At the same time we have recognized the necessity of reform and reconstruction—reform because much of our trouble today and in the past few years has been due to a lack of understanding of the elementary principles of justice and fairness by those in whom leadership in business and finance was placed—reconstruction because new conditions in our economic life as well as old but neglected conditions had to be corrected.

Text Of President's Speech

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(AP)—Following is the text of President Roosevelt's address of last night.

It has been several months since I have rested responsibility have been engaged in the fulfillment of what Congress, which had been widely discussed in previous months, it seemed to us our duty not only to make the right path clear but also to tread that path. As we review the achievements of this session of the seventy-third Congress, it is made increasingly clear that its task was essentially that of completing and fortifying the work it had begun in March, 1933. That was no easy task, but the Congress was equal to the task. There were a few exceptions (this Congress displayed a greater freedom from mere partisanship than any other peace-time Congress since the administration of President Washington himself). The session was distinguished by the extent and variety of legislation enacted and by the intelligence and goodwill of debate upon these measures.

I mention only a few of the major enactments. It provided for the readjustment of the debt burden through the corporate and municipal bankruptcy acts and the Farm Relief Act. It lent a hand to solvent industries unable to secure adequate help from banking institutions. It strengthened the integrity of finance through the regulation of securities exchanges. It provided a rational method of increasing volume of foreign trade through reciprocal trading agreements. It strengthened our naval forces to conform with the intentions and permission of existing treaty rights. It made further advances toward peace in industry through the Labor Adjustment Act. It supplemented our agricultural policy through measures widely demanded by farmers themselves and intended to avert price destroying surpluses. It strengthened the hand of the federal government in its attempt to suppress gangster crime. It took definite steps toward a national housing program through an act which I signed today designed to encourage private capital in the rebuilding of the homes of the nation. It created a permanent federal body for the regulation of all forms of communication, including the telephone, the telegraph and the radio.

Finally, and I believe most important, it recognized, simplified and made more fair and just our monetary system, setting up standards and policies adequate to meet the necessities of modern economic life, doing justice to both gold and silver as the metal basis behind the currency of the United States.

On the consistent development of our previous efforts toward the saving and safeguarding of our national life, I have continued to recognize three related principles. The first was reform, because the primary concern of any government dominated by the humane ideals of democracy is the simple principle that in a land of vast resources no one should be prevented from the full use of his own abilities. It calls for large expenditures and will continue in modified form to do so for a long time to come. We may as well recognize that fact. It comes from the paralysis of the after-affect of that unfortunate decade characterized by a mad chase for unearned riches and an unwillingness of leaders in almost every walk of life to look beyond their own schemes and speculations. In our administration on relief we follow two principles: First that direct giving shall, wherever possible, be supplemented by provision for useful and remunerative work and, second, that where families in their existing surroundings will find in all human probability never find an opportunity for full self-maintenance, happiness and enjoyment, we will try to give them a new change in new surroundings.

The second step was recovery, and it is sufficient for me to ask each and every one of you to compare the situation in agriculture and in industry today with what it was 15 months ago.

At the same time we have recognized the necessity of reform and reconstruction—reform because much of our trouble today and in the past few years has been due to a lack of understanding of the elementary principles of justice and fairness by those in whom leadership in business and finance was placed—reconstruction because new conditions in our economic life as well as old but neglected conditions had to be corrected.

Substantial gains will be known to all of you have justified our course. I can cite statistics to show the gains in the average weekly pay envelope of workers in the great majority of industries—statistics to show hundreds of thousands re-employed in private Industries and other hundreds of thousands given new employment through the expansion of direct and indirect government assistance of many kinds, although, of course, there are those exceptions in professional pursuits whose economic improvement, of necessity, will be delayed.

FINE PROGRESS IN NATION SEEN BY ROOSEVELT

President Advises People To Compare Their Condition Today With Year Ago

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt told the nation last night that "substantial gains" had been made during the last fifteen months. He pointed to the future in which the new governmental structure would be "a part of and fulfillment of the old; lauded the Congressional action of the last session and the "non-partisanship of members; and dealt heavily with critics of the Administration program.

"Substantial gains well known to all of you have justified our course," he said. "The simplest way for each of you to judge recovery lies in the plain facts of your own individual situation. Are you better off than you were last year? Are your debts less burdensome? Is your bank account more secure? Are your working conditions better? Is your faith in your own individual future more firmly grounded?"

Also, let me put to you another simple question: Have you as an individual paid too high a price for these gains? Plausible self-seekers and theoretical die-hards will tell you of the loss of individual liberty. Answer this question also out of the facts of your own life. Have you lost any of your rights or liberties or constitutional freedoms of action and choice? Turn to the bill of rights of the constitution, which I have solemnly sworn to maintain and under which your freedom rests secure. Read each provision of that bill of rights and ask yourself whether you personally have suffered the impairment of a single jot of these great assurances. I have no question in my mind as to what your answer will be. The record is written in the experiences of your own personal lives.

In other words, it is not the overwhelming majority of the farmers or manufacturers or workers who deny the substantial gains of the past year. The most vociferous of the doubting Thomases may be divided roughly into two groups. First, those who seek special privileges and second, those who seek special financial privileges.

About a year ago I used as an illustration the 90 percent of the cotton manufacturers of the United States who wanted to do the right thing by their employees by the public but were prevented from doing so by the 10 percent who undercut them by unfair practices and an un-American standard.

It is well for us to remember that humanity is a long way from being perfect and that a self-minority in every walk of life—farming, business, finance and even government service itself will always continue to think of themselves first and their fellow-citizens second.

In the working out of a great national program which seeks the primary goal of the number, it is true that the toes of some people are being stepped on and are going to be stepped on. But their toes belong to the comparative few who seek to retain or to gain position or riches or both by some short cut which is harmful to the greater good.

In the execution of the powers conferred on it by Congress, the administration needs and will tirelessly seek the best ability that the country affords. Public service offers better rewards in the opportunity for service than ever before in our history, not great salaries, just enough to live on.

In the building of this service there are coming to us men and women with ability and courage from every part of the union. The idea of the making of more party advantage through the misuse of public power are drawing to a close. We are increasingly demanding and getting devotion to the public service on the part of every member of the administration, high and low.

The program of the past year is definitely in operation and that operation month by month is being made to fit into the web of old and new conditions. This process of evolution is well illustrated by the constant changes in the detailed organization and method going on in the National Recovery Administration. With every passing month we are making strides in the orderly handling of the relationship between employer and employee.

Conditions differ, of course, in almost every part of the country and in almost every industry. Temporary methods of adjustment are being replaced by more permanent machinery and I am glad to say by a growing recognition on the part of employers and employees of the desirability of maintaining fair relationships all around.

So also, while almost everybody has recognized the tremendous strides in the elimination of child labor, in the payment of not less than fair minimum wages (Continued On Page Two)

FOR "POT BOILING"

Behind this script shame, This sin against the Name— That with deliberate line And do this monstrous wrong To the light-plumed Song! Know well the outrage wrought By the death Mind, whose art Betrayed the honest Heart, With the enticing phrase, The syllable's smooth way, The deathly web, the sweet Trap for the guileless feet, See how the bright-plumed guest Feels his immaculate breast— (And that were shame enough For one who spread the stuff! Not from my Ait disguised, And bitterly deplorable!) —Sara Henderson Hay.

With a political campaign every two years, it seems silly to try to clean up the movies.

And now they say Roosevelt's ancestors came over on the Mayflower. Shucks! We always thought he was unusual.

See where the cabinet members are going to take to the hustings to call the New Deal. What do they want, anyway? A bargain stampede!

What's the big business profits in the event of another war, why not another law to put our leading statesmen, who do the "declaring," in the front line trenches?

Another racketeer has been shot down in the streets of New York, leading one to the conclusion that while this may be the machine age, it is also the machine gun age.

The Miami News points out that the average American has $32.70 in his pockets—which shouldn't make you feel badly, since the average American also has a hole in his pockets.

They say John Dillinger is dead. That must have been his shot, the police say was seen at the ballgame the other day. Well, they've had as much trouble catching him as if he had been a ghost.

Rumor has it that Wendell is through, that Cuba is about to have another revolution. We don't know much about how business conditions down there are, but there is certainly nothing wrong with the turnover.

See where Mr. Hopkins is planning the decentralization of industry. "More factories in more small towns" is the motto. That will be great for Sanford. May be we can get General Motors to locate one of their automobile plants here.

President Roosevelt appears likely to veto the farm mortgage bill which would enable farmers to get by for the next six years without paying anything on their mortgages except one percent interest on the unpaid value. You see, Uncle Sam owns a number of these mortgages now himself.

They stick together unmercifully down in Ybor City. The Tampa Tribune reveals that these precincts gave Trammell 6,311 votes as only 300 for Pepper. In one Ybor City precinct Trammell got 444, Pepper 1. The Senator came out of this district with a majority of 2,961, or more than the number of votes by which he beat Pepper in the entire state.

The world is no more. The other day in Pennsylvania a man got into an argument with a friend, was pushed through the heart, reached the patient into the operating room, removed his heart, attached it to a pump, it beat, it stopped, and he was pronounced dead. A heart would never have been regarded as serious.

Post Mortems

Post Mortems seldom bring the patient back to life but they are useful occasionally in determining whether he was murdered or died a natural death. Election post mortems, ordinarily, are even more futile, there being nothing anyone can do about it even though poison may be found in the stomach of the victim. However, in this country, calling how it happened, is something of a national pastime, so we join in the spirit of the occasion by quoting from a number of newspaper editors, most of whom, unfortunately, perhaps, supported Pepper.

The Tampa Tribune takes the view that Ybor City elected Trammell. Marvelling at the single-minded solidarity of the Ybor City vote, the Tribune points out that "in these precincts Trammell received 6,311 votes, Pepper 360, a majority for the Senator of 5,951. The naive unanimity of sentiment in these precincts was amazing, ranging from 446 for Trammell to one for Pepper, to 718 to 75, the 75 being Pepper's highest vote Deducting totals of these precincts from the total state vote for each candidate, as we have it at this writing, Claude Pepper would have a lead of 1163 in the State at Large.

The other Tampa paper, however, which looked more kindly upon the candidacy of Senator Trammell, takes another view of it and attributes his victory to his efforts in behalf of Tampa and Hillsborough county. Listing the Senator's achievements, the Times says, "In the light of this record it will be seen that Senator Trammell has not done so ill for his state, and that attacks based on his alleged 'do nothing' attitude have been beside the mark Perhaps recollection of what Senator Trammell has done for the Tampa region is not unrelated to the handsome majority cast for him in Hillsborough on Tuesday.

One of Pepper's most enthusiastic supporters in this part of the state was the Orlando Sentinel which now attributes his defeat to the fact that he "lived in the wrong part of the state." Declaring that most of those who voted for Pepper lived west of the Suwannee, the Sentinel concludes, "South Florida, more populous and aggressive, determined to end the political reign of a lesser area which for so long has dominated this state, sent back to the Senate the man who for 17 years has represented it."

Over in Palatka, another Pepper paper, the News, sees eye to eye with the Tribune that Trammell's election was essentially an Ybor City victory. "Those on the political inside," the News reveals, "already know of the efficiency of the Hillsborough machine. They are aware that nomination by the ring is equivalent to election, no matter how unworthy, unpopular or unfitted the candidate may be. But the great mass of the people are not informed as to just how the trick is turned. They are hardly prepared to believe that one 'boss' can pass the word down the line and send as many voters to the polls as are needed to put over his man or slate Down there the Latin elements are coerced and intimidated by fear of the law."

While down in the southern part of the state, we find the Miami Herald which supported Trammell taking somewhat the same view as the Orlando Sentinel which supported Pepper. "He (Trammell) may be said to have won his race, one of the closest in nearly 30 years of public life," the Herald declares, "in a handful of citrus counties These gave him the majority needed to win just as they contributed a great part of the strength which placed Gov. Dave Sholtz in the executive mansion. This election should show more clearly, perhaps, than any preceding one just what section of Florida holds the balance of power. If to the West Coast we add the lower East Coast, there are the votes within a dozen counties to make or break any candidate."

Don't Get Too Tired

Do you ever have that tired feeling? Do you know how to get rid of it? In any period of emergency, when it is impossible to obtain a normal amount of rest, there are certain tricks, known only to the initiated, on how to recover quickly from excessive fatigue.

The Minnesota State Medical Association suggests the following: A lukewarm bath or possibly a hot or cold shower; some simple, easily digested food such as a cup of appetizing hot soup; a change in posture, preferably a short period of lying down in a cool, dark room or any change which is different and relaxing.

Fatigue, says the association, is one of the most serious and least recognized of the menaces to good health. Care in selection of food, in choosing the proper amount of vegetables, fruits and milk for the diet, and observation of the rules of hygienic living will be of little avail, points out the association, if one allows himself "to habitually become over tired."

SANFORD, TWENTY YEARS AGO

W. E. Watson has returned from a trip to Atlanta and to his old home at Milledgeville, Ga. he reports central Georgia as much hotter than Florida with no cooling breeze to cool the atmosphere. Word from Jack Davidson at Perry, N. H. states that he is improving and that he will stay until the first of October and hopes to see the bulkheading and the new world building before he returns. A. A. Bramley left Monday for a stay of a month in North Carolina. Mr. Bramley and the boys drove through the country, while

Text Of President's Speech

(Continued from page one) I am away for a few weeks the architects might build some strange new gothic tower or a factory building or perhaps a replica of the Kremlin or of the stadium palace. But I have no such fears. The architects and builders are men of common sense of artistic American tastes. They know that the principles of harmony and necessity itself require that the building of the new structure shall blend with the essential lines of the old. It is this combination of the old and new that marks orderly peaceful progress—not only in building buildings but in building government itself.

Our new structure is a part of and a fulfillment of the old. All that we do seeks to fulfill the historic traditions of the American people. Other nations may sacrifice democracy for the transitory stimulation of old and discredited autocracies. We are restoring confidence and well-being under the rule of the people themselves. We remain, as John Marshall said a century ago, "emotionally and truly, a government of the people." Our government "in form and in substance, emanates from them. Its powers are granted by them, and are to be exercised directly on them, and for their benefit."

Before I close, I want to tell you of the interest and pleasure with which I look forward to the trip on which I hope to start in a few days. It is a good thing for everyone who can possibly do to get away at least once a year for a change of scene. I do not want to get into the position of not being able to see the forest because of the thickness of the trees.

I hope to visit our fellow-Americans in Puerto Rico, in the Virgin Islands, in the Canal Zone and in Hawaii. And, incidentally, it will give me an opportunity to exchange a friendly word of greeting to the presidents of our sister republics, Haiti and Colombia and Panama.

After four weeks on board ship, plan to land at a port in our Pacific northwest, and then will come the best of the whole trip, I am hoping to inspect a number of our great national projects in the Columbia, Missouri and Mississippi rivers, to see some of our national parks and, incidentally, to learn much of actual conditions during the trip across the continent back to Washington.

While I was in France during the war our boys used to call the United States "God's country," let us make it and keep it "God's country."

Let me give you a simple illustration: While I am away, from Washington this summer, a long needed renovation of an addition to our White House office building is to be started. The architects have planned a few new rooms built in the present all to small temporary structure. We are going to include in this addition and in this renovation modern electric wiring, a modern plumbing and modern means of keeping the office cool in the hot Washington summers. But the foundation of the old executive office building will remain. The artistic lines of the White House buildings and the creation of master builders when our republic was young, the simplicity and the strength of the structure remain in the face of every modern test. But within this magnificent pattern, the necessities of modern government cannot be quite content reorganization and rebuilding.

If I were to listen to the arguments of some prophets of calamity who are talking these days, I should hesitate to make these alterations. I should fear that white

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Henry gave a farewell party at their home on Park Avenue and Fifth Street last Friday night, the party being a farewell to Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Brown as well as for the Henrys who expect to leave soon for their summer home in Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Fernald left yesterday on the Occochee for Jacksonville enroute to their old home in Massachusetts. A pretty compliment to Mr. Fernald was paid by the drum and fifes corps who with their leaders, the Her George Hyman and Mr. Brock, marched in a body to the steamer to bid him good-bye.

The soldiers in Gen. Philip H. Sheridan's army knew him by the name of "Little Phil."

Success May Depend on Your Food!

How fast you go ahead in the world, how much money you make, depends very largely on how wise you are about your choice of food. If you are tired out by 11:30, if you're dull after lunch, if hot weather gets you, it's probably because you just haven't learned to eat the right things. It's very simple, too. Try eating one meal a day of Shredded Wheat, milk, and fruit. This happy combination will make almost any one more alert, full of pep, and efficient. It gives your body, in concentrated, easily digested and delicious form, what it needs for nourishment, tissue building, resistance to disease, and it contains bran to keep you regular. Shredded Wheat is whole wheat—none of Nature's best foods—baked and baked. Just try one meal a day of Shredded Wheat. It proves what it will do for you in a very short time!

The Merry Frinks, Hilarious Comedy, Coming To Milane

What promises to be one of the most hilarious comedies of the season is scheduled as the feature attraction at the Milane Theater beginning Saturday, when it will appear under the title of "The Merry Frinks."

Certainly the story by Gene Hatkey and Kathryn Seola is a most humorous tale which deals with a selfish and quarrelsome Bronx family that learn its lesson when the harassed and self-sacrificing mother gets fed up and quits them cold. First National is said to have succeeded in putting every source of fun in the original story on the screen.

There is an unusually strong cast of comedy characters in the picture, although several of the members play their parts straight. In fact the Frinks are said to be anything but merry themselves. It is the comical situations into which they are plunged by their overbearing mother that makes merriness for the spectator.

Aline MacMahon one of the most versatile actresses of both stage and screen, has the leading role of "Mum" Frink, who tries to keep her family happy, and finally gives up in disgust only to find that she can not herself be happy without her worthless husband and children.

Guy Kilbee has the role of Uncle Ned, who drowns in a family not overburdened with money and implants himself as a free boarder with an extraordinary appetite. With Hugh Herbert as the shiftee but good natured husband and Allen Jenkins as the Bolshevik son, the trio forms one of the best comedy teams in the picture.

KIDDIES' COLUMN BY MRS. JAMES MOUGHTON

TOOT, TOOT, TOOT

It is not the flute, it is the horn. We play our toot, toot, toot now through a tin horn. Long, long years ago the first toot was played through a conch. Now a conch is a sea shell. The shape of this is like that of your ice-cream cone. It is very little at one end, but it becomes bigger and bigger the longer it is. Many, many, many years ago the man living in the mountains near the broad rolling sea, used to blow on his conch to call to him his far away war-men.

In other world parts where it was very, very, very hot there lived as now, the elephant. In this country the men fished the tusks of elephants for ivory. Your piano keys are made of ivory.

The knights and kings of old always used ivory horns. Of course, their horns had painted on them beautiful pictures. There was the deep blue water and the red hosts. Some horns were trimmed with bits of gold.

Today horns are made from different materials. They are as you know too of different shapes. There are many kinds of horns. Of the kinds we use the most, there are three.

We have the French horn, sax horn, and Eshunter's horn. The French horn makes the prettiest music. The saxhorn is used in brass bands. The Eshunter's horn plays no real music, but you can play thirty-one times to it to cheer on the dogs.

The horn was first played with other musical instruments in Vienna, Europe. This was played in 1711 before the queen. Men in those days could not play the horn softly. When the poor queen heard the dreadful shriek she had to stop up her ears.

One night a man put his hand in his horn. The music was so loud in his head and there was prettier music next there were pieces of wood that like a snake soon have been some music with cracks in them. You can hear the Eshunter's horn and growling music and more music. It is growing music and it is very good music. It is at least two horns.

When you boys and girls grow older and wish to have a good horn, choose a long one. It makes pretty music. Then buy a tin to the horn. Buy a tin to the horn. Buy a tin to the horn.

Always, thought, remember the conch and the way up to the horn.

and he might get so mad some day he would die. Animals are like people, they can die of anger, or at least grow sick from it.

Our Jerry was once a funny baboon, but like many animals, had wild spells and had to be caged. Mrs. Stephenson of Matland, Fla., gave Jerry to our Sanford Zoo. She said she knew we would be kind to him.

JOURNIES OF THE GIANT

Last week we left O'Lave the giant with three gods and a godless, old Three Legs, the Earth god, appeared to O'Lave as the best friend of the gods.

You see this was three thousand years ago, so O'Lave believed in gods of his own. However, he had not before seen them.

He had heard there was a school far place where the gods trained rulers of men. Now as he looked at his two and a-half foot shrewl feet. He looked at the beautiful god of the Light and the dark green, dark blue sea-godless and then to the angry god of the trunk. He looked up and down and all around. A form away up high in front of Old Three-Legs was landing the way. This was a jangle-dazzle flame like god. As O'Lave peered again this flame was tied to the sun, the rising sun which appeared to guide it along the earth, low like. It was low enough to kiss the earth. "I am safe," muttered O'Lave through his great big giant lips.

Hitler Regime Plans Tax Reform Aimed At Small Families And Corporations

BERLIN, June 29.—National socialist tax reform was promoted by Fritz Reinhardt, Nazi secretary of state in the finance ministry, in a speech in the auditorium of the University of Munich which was relayed by every German radio station.

The future fiscal policy to be applied in the third reich beginning on Jan. 1, 1935, is easily next to the reform of the reich, which indeed, it is a part, the most attractive step taken in the Hitler regime as yet. The financial reform urged by S. Parker Gilbert when he was agent general for reparations payments in Berlin, which seemed at the time so utopian, now has been put into effect with a stroke of the pen by the Nazi government.

In future the central government at Berlin will levy and collect all taxes in Germany and dole them out to the states and communes according to their needs.

Reinhardt also made it clear that the Hitler government intends to use its fiscal scheme as an instrument of political, social and economic policy, as much as if not more than a means of raising revenue for the state.

The Nazi tax plans are designed to raise the birthrate in the reich by encouraging marriages and large families through giving important tax alleviations to the parents of many children.

Another example of this method is the encouragement to be given to a business owned by an individual or by partners, as against corporations and firms of a limited liability character, by the imposition of tax discriminations against the latter. This measure is a reflection of Nazi antipathy to large concerns, which often are controlled by Jews, and preference for small, middle-class shops.

Reinhardt told the German public that the Nazi government intended to impose no new taxes and to make no increases under existing imposts. At the same time, he announced that the government expected its revenues to be larger than ever. This twofold object would be attained, he said, by simplification of the tax system and by economies to be effected thereby.

KIDDIES' KOLUMN BY MRS. JAMES MOUGHTON

At Old Three-Legs. He turned his wheel-like body so very, very funny as he sommersaulted from each one of those three legs to the other. He thumped along in the queerest kind of way. His hairy body playing all sorts of talking-like tunes he gave from time to time. He would stop a little now and then to eat from his kettle of porridge. O'Vee watched him. "He eats, eats, eats and eats more than three of us would eat." And O'Vee knew he himself came from a large tribe of giants and he could eat heaps of porridge.

But as O'Vee looked on, he began to feel queer. He was being slowly lowered in a sea-like spray. He could see only by fixing his eyes in a slit-way. He thought first the Sea-Goddess had followed him. No, what he saw was a Fanner, a great big god of the sea waves. O'Vee thought as quickly as he could, or tried to do so. "O, Balor, of the eye!"

Now O'Vee had heard from his war men the story of "The eye," and at this thought O'Vee began to shake from his big head to his long shaggy feet. Yes, there was that Great Eye. It was lucky for O'Vee that eye was closed. Balor appeared to know old Three-Legs was near, and there was nothing to fear now.

O'Vee had been told that the great eye was poison, and that when it was open it was like a hot ray. There were four lesser gods of the Fanners, who opened and shut the eye as Balor asked. There was fixed to the eyelid a hook and pulley. The gods had pulled this and many, many times in great wars.

O'Vee stood there looking up at old Balor. Soon the younger Fanners began to move close to Balor "of the eye." There was a stir but O'Vee could not move. The Earth god god appeared to be gone. O'Vee began to shake again. "O'War, O'War, O'War," he roared.

What happens to our giant? What will Balor do?

Henry Cotton Wins British Golf Tourney

SANDWICH, Eng., June 29.—Henry Cotton with a 67 and a score of other straight and sharpshooting Britons teamed up recently with a cold spring rain in the opening round of the 72-hole British open golf championship to put the damper on what has been heralded as a "red hot American golf invasion."

After the rain had done its part and all of the players were accounted for no less than 14 shotmakers, including Denny Shute of Philadelphia, the de-

TAYLOR BILL SIGNED

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt yesterday signed the Taylor bill to give the Secretary of Interior control over the public domain in an effort to conserve grazing lands. The measure, which creates grazing districts within an aggregate area of 80,000,000 acres, was approved by the President after a careful study of its constitutionality.

Feuding champion, hand equaled or shattered St. Georges' first round in the history of the championship.

Held said he was threatened with pistols, told his life was in danger, warned not to return to the state and heard a wish expressed that General Hugh Johnson had been there to share the same fate.

Little was learned of the activities of the justice department agents but labor leaders said detectives of the Southern Railway were investigating and the railway could take action against the kidnapers on charges of trespassing.

George L. Googe of Atlanta, personal representative of William Green in the South, said special investigators of the American Federation of Labor had been sent to Harriman and a detailed report would be submitted to Governor McAlister of "this heinous crime in violation of the federal kidnaping law."

In Chattanooga Held said he planned to go to Georgia and would not return to Harriman for the present while Googe announced Held had been requested to remain away until "we can take the necessary steps to protect his life."

He said when Held returned Googe and officials of the Tennessee federation of labor would accompany him.

Police Chief Mabry said the abductors were mill employes ousted by the shutdown. Union officials claimed two of the men who rode in the car with Held were foremen in the mills.

Harriman and Roanoke county officers said they would take no action in the kidnaping until warrants were placed in their hands.

W. M. Hannah, attorney for a group of strikers, left here for Chattanooga to confer with Held to determine if any action will be taken to prosecute the abductors if arrested.

ANGLO-U. S. WAR PLOT OF CZARISTS ARCHIVES SHOW

State Papers Of 1898 Show Russia Tried To Use U.S. As Pawn

MOSCOW, June 29.—Secret state documents revealing for the first time the bold efforts of Czarist Russia to use the United States as a cat paw in European intrigue in the Pacific have been revealed here recently.

They outline Czarist hopes that America would support Russian ambitions in the Far East against those of Japan and Great Britain. The papers disclose Czarist diplomacy's efforts to embroil the United States with Britain and Japan in a desperate and futile effort to weaken the opposition of those to Russia's expansion in Asia.

The documents include three state papers from the old archives:

1. Secret instructions from M. N. Muraviev, Czarist Foreign Minister from January, 1897, to June, 1900, to Count A. P. Cassini, then the new Russian ambassador in Washington.

2. A dispatch from Count Cassini in Washington, to Count V. N. Lamsdorf, Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs in St. Petersburg (now Leningrad).

3. A dispatch from Count Cassini to Foreign Minister Muraviev in his secret instructions to the new Russian envoy in Washington, Muraviev started by suggesting that Cassini "would do well to bear in mind how important to us is the development of American industry in the Far East." He then proceeded in this document, dated Moscow, Feb. 10, 1898, to urge his ambassador to play upon the friendship "between Russia and the United States, for which there is historical foundation," to further Russia's aims.

"You will particularly give heed," he wrote, "to any circumstances threatening to develop into a clash between the United States and England or Japan. . . . Particular attention should be devoted to the tense relations that have at present arisen between the United States and Canada."

He recalled the favors Russia had done when America was in need of a friend, such as "the support she received during those severe years of Civil War in the U. S. A. at the time of the uprising of the Southern states," and urged the ambassador to make full use of this entering wedge of sentiment to sway America against Japan and England.

England he boldly described as one of "our national enemies," suggesting that Cassini "support the Monroe doctrine in situations where this most popular American theory opposes the ambitions of our natural enemies, England, for example, with such a large and important possession as Canada."

Turning to the Pacific area, Muraviev emphasized the importance strategically of the Hawaiian Islands, just being taken over then by the United States. He told Cassini that America had supported the Hawaiian revolution and the formation of a republic in the so-called Sandwich Islands, adding: "Sooner or later the islands (if independent) will fall possession of Great Britain, Japan or the United States. To witness the formation of a new Malia in the Pacific or to allow the Japanese to seize such an essential link in the reinforcement of their naval power would be equally undesirable for us. . . . It would be more propitious for them to form part of the territory of the United States and thus remain for us a reliable refuge and a coaling station rather than that they should become a nest of hostility and a dangerous trap.

"We fully realize that in its anxiety for the future, the federal government (U. S. A.) has taken careful stock of Britain's repeated conquests in the Pacific, not to speak of the rising power of Japan, and has decided to outwit both in the given case. And indeed, if we considered England's conquests in recent years we will find that with the exception of Ha-to work, farms 42,000, mines nearly 40,000, wholesale and retail 28,000, roads nearly 30,000, railroads 45,000.

Green Blames Industry For Slow Recovery

For the 10,267,000 still without work in industry, the government is increasing its emergency work program. More than 115,000 were added to P. W. A. pay rolls in May and the number on the work program of the Relief Administration has risen from 550,000 at the beginning of April to more than 900,000 at the end of May and 975,000 in mid-June. Conservation Camps have enrolled 10,000 more. In these services more than 1,600,000 were employed in May, reducing those entirely without work to 8,600,000. The government emergency pay roll in these services is over $80,000,000 a month.

Need is greater among the millions unemployed than it was at this time last year. In April, 1933, 4,476,000 families were on relief rolls. In April this year the figure was approximately 4,850,000, with about 7,000,000 on the Emergency Relief Administration work program, or a total of 4,900,000. Federal payments for relief were $73,000,000 last April, compared to $130,000,000 for relief and Emergency Relief Administration work program this year. The increased cost is due to greater need and to the improvement in relief payments.

The fact that more than 10,000,000 are still without work in industry is a basic reason for our tardy recovery. This problem deserves first attention from industrialists; it is not receiving the attention needed. Business men in general are taking no responsibility for these millions, making no general effort to get them back to work. The government alone is caring for them through emergency relief—this provides only a meager living for one-sixth of them.

The course of the rise and fall of unemployment during the depression was charted as follows:

RESERVE BANKS READY TO MAKE DIRECT LOANS

$129,000,000 Authorized For Industry Increased By RFC

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 29.—In entering the field of making direct loans to industry, the government agencies designated will operate so as "to pass this credit function back to regular banking channels at the earliest possible moment." It was indicated recently by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Mr. Jones, whose address followed an announcement by Eugene R. Black, governor of the federal reserve board, that this system, also authorized to make such loans, was ready to begin operations in this field, also discussed the R. F. C. program with respect to closed banks. He said that the recent legislation dealing with that problem had not greatly changed the situation.

Explaining the need for direct government loans to industry, Mr. Jones, who spoke under the auspices of "The Washington Star" over a national broadcasting company network, said:

"A great many such industries have lived up to their working capital, and have neither available funds nor credit with which to buy materials and pay labor and processing taxes, even when they have orders from responsible purchasers."

"Undoubtedly there is a need for industrial loans which banks are unable or unwilling to make, and if the federal reserve, the R. F. C. and local banks will wholeheartedly cooperate, the need can and will be met."

The federal reserve system, he pointed out, is authorized to devote its entire surplus of approximately $129,000,000 to such loans, and, in the discretion of the secretary of treasury, an additional $240,000,000, to be furnished by the treasury, while the R. F. C. is authorized to lend up to $300,000,000 to this class of borrowers.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—This novel contrivance made its appearance recently at the municipal golf course here. You drop your ball in, and in a minute and a half it comes out with a fresh coat of lacquer, completely dried and "rejuvenated."

"All of these amounts are, in fact, revolving funds," he continued, "and when taken with participations by local banks we will have available for industry loanable funds aggregating, I should say, anywhere from $600,000,000 to $1,000,000,000."

"A great majority of these loans will be small, but some industries will need more than the R. F. C. can lend to any one borrower—namely, $500,000—limited by law; but if the federal reserve banks, the R. F. C. and local banks will cooperate, each participating in such loans, these applicants can be accommodated."

"I want especially to call attention to the fact that Congress also authorized the federal reserve banks to discount this character of loans, with maturities running as long as five years, and this amendment to the federal reserve law should enable and encourage local banks to make many of these loans, or at least to participate substantially, in cooperation with the federal reserve and the R. F. C."

OVIEDO

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Carter attended the funeral services of their nephew, Carl Peters, of Winter Park Sunday afternoon, which was held in Greenwood cemetery.

Rev. J. N. Thompson occupied the pulpit of the First Baptist Church in Sanford last Sunday.

F. E. Brady, recently elected member of the state legislature, was in Oviedo Monday talking with friends.

O. P. Herndon of Sanford was in Oviedo Monday making a last minute appeal to his friends to nominate him to the legislature.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Clonts and Mrs. Roy and Rex, left Sunday for a week's fishing trip to points on the east coast. They will motor to the west coast the first of next week to fish in the Gulf at Tampa and other cities along the coast.

Mrs. L. P. Mill has installed a new two-pump filling station near her home in Oviedo.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Q. Mills have moved from the Mills cottage on West cottage adjoining the school Lake Jessup Avenue to the C. L. Lake.

R. F. Ward returned from Georgia Tuesday with a load of produce.

Mr. A. D. Covington has returned from Avon Park where she has been visiting for several days. They are permanently located with her daughter, Mrs. MacCosh.

Coyington, Terrell Covington of Unscory, Okla., accompanied his mother.

After spending two weeks at Daytona Beach, Prof. and Mrs. H. J. Laney spent two days in Oviedo, leaving Saturday for Kentucky to be away until the first of September.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Wainright and Mrs. Hart of Chuluota were Sunday afternoon guests of Mrs. Wainright in Oviedo.

The Sunday evening worship hour at the Methodist Church was in charge of Mrs. T. W. Lawton, superintendent of the Vocational Bible School which has just been closed, assisted by Dr. W. J. Carpenter, pastor, and teachers of the school. Each class gave a review of what had been learned.

Mrs. Sarah Letzette and two daughters, Miss Olive Letzette of Sanford, and Mrs. R. H. Basford, and children of Valdosta, Ga., spent Sunday in Oviedo as guests of T. W. Lawton and family.

The protracted meeting at the Baptist Church, with a different minister each service is coming along nicely. So far they have had Rev. Wright, Rev. Lomas, and Rev. Broyles to preach.

Rev. Bouters, the radio preacher of Orlando, with his wife and daughter, Louise, attended the revival at the Baptist Church Wednesday evening.

A Carrot A Day

The only basis for faith in carrots as a means of beautifying the complexion is the fact that they are a sort of vegetable cod liver oil, being a rich source of vitamin A and a fair source of sulphur. Sulphur is needed for proper skin formation, and vitamins help to resist infection. In so far, then, as carrots contribute to good digestion, they may help in the maintenance of a good complexion, but do not contain any mysterious ingredients to accomplish this end.

LAUNDRING ACCESSORIES

It is simple to keep your garments clean, dainty, bright, and long wearing. Wash in clean water and fresh soap. Wash in warm water, rinse well, and squeeze in a towel to absorb excess moisture. Then, shake each piece carefully and iron with still damp. Starch lightly to restore the original finish on fabrics that are permanently fast with hot starching.

MACHADO SAFE AS REFUGEE IN SAN DOMINGO

Fugitive Cuban Said Hiding On Farm Owned By President

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Hayti, June 29.—International search for General Machado, former President of Cuba wanted in Havana on murder charges, have led to a farm owned by President Rafael L. Trujillo of the Dominican Republic, on the eastern end of this island.

Semi-official but unconfirmed reports said that Machado had gone to Santo Domingo from New York to escape Cuban efforts to have him arrested there and taken back to Havana for trial.

The private farm at San Jose de las Matas, owned by Trujillo, is fifteen miles from Santo Domingo.

Machado was rumored to have entered Santo Domingo on a steamship from a port in the southern United States.

It has not been made public that the former Cuban dictator is a guest of Trujillo.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, June 29.—Reports that General Machado had arrived in this country have not been confirmed here. Efforts to trace him as the guest of President Trujillo proved futile.

HAVANA, June 29.—The Cuban government will take steps toward the capture and extradition of former President Machado from the Dominican Republic the minute it is certain that he is there, State Department officials declared today.

While admitting that there were persistent rumors of the former dictator's presence near Santo Domingo as guest of President Trujillo, officials said that no confirmation had been received and that the reports generally had been discredited.

HICCOUGH CURES

LAKE WORTH, Fla., June 29.—From as far away as Daytona Beach suggestion are coming in as to how to cure Robert V. Whiteman, police sergeant, of a spell suffered continuously for a week of hiccoughs, from which he has not recovered since he was struck by a car in the Miami Herald building here from Daytona Beach recently to suggest a cure.

Whiteman had a similar attack of hiccoughs last January and had recovered, only to suffer further illness in March and he has been in ill health since then.

LANGER WINS

FARGO, N. D., June 29.—(AP)—North Dakota's primary voters wrote in big letters—"We want Langer"—and in the same manner turned thumbs down on state officials antagonistic to the chief executive since his conviction of deriding the United States government. The same Republican votes that approved Langer's nomination for governor also apparently had assured virtually the entire Langer faction ticket of victory.

SANFORD BEATS KOWBOYS IN 9-0 WIN YESTERDAY

Sparkman, In Perfect Form, Strikes Out 15; Allows One Hit

Striking out 15 men, Lefty Sparkman, Sanford ace hurler, starred yesterday as Manager Sid Rive's Celery Feds came back in splendid form from their defeat here Sunday at the hands of Kissimmee to crush the Kowboys in a decisive 9-0 victory.

The local boys allowed Kissimmee its lone win of the season here Sunday but according to Manager Rive this morning the victory yesterday more than made up for that loss.

Sanford outplayed the Kowboys in every department allowing not a single man to reach third. Only one opposing player gained second, and that came as the result of an error. Otherwise the Kissimmee boys didn't stand a chance, the report said.

In perfect form, Sparkman was easily considered the star of the game for out of the 28 men to face him he struck out 15 and allowed only one hit, which came in the ninth. Throughout the game Sparkman had the opposing batsmen at his mercy and when they did not strike out they were forced to hit low infield rollers or short flies and consequently were thrown out easily at first.

In giving an account of the game this morning Manager Rive lauded his players and said that he is well pleased with the performance of each man. Referring to his first baseman, Rive said that Rines, a local player, is the most improved man on his team and that by the end of the season he should be among the leading infielders of the league.

Although only a small crowd witnessed the game yesterday a large number of fans is expected to turn out here Sunday when the locals meet Vero Beach. While the coast team has to travel a long way to play ball a representative group of fans nearly always follows the players and Sid Rive has urged all local followers to be on hand a Municipal Field Sunday afternoon.

The lineup yesterday included the following: Sparkman, pitcher; Abbott, catcher; Rines, first base; Echirart, second base; Smith, short stop; Kelly, third base; Britt, left field; Owens, center field; and Hansfield, right field.

Palatka Loses Chance To Tie For First Half

PALATKA, June 29.—Palatka lost its chance to finish the first half of the Northeast Florida League season in a two way tie for second place when it fell before the ninth inning onslaught of the DeLand Reds here yesterday by a 5 to 4 score.

The Azaleas had a 4-2 lead as the Reds came to bat in the final canto but Moseley's circuit smash with one aboard following a run failed to equal in their half of the game. Owens, center field, failed to equal in their half of the game.

Cocoa Strengthens Lead Over League

Cocoa, the strong leaders of the Central Florida League, shut out Vero Beach yesterday to further clinch their ranking position which is far ahead of Sanford, Vero Beach and Kissimmee. Today Cocoa stands with 11 wins and but a single loss, received at the hands of Sanford.

Commenting upon the strong lead of the Cocoa team this morning Manager Sid Rive of the Celery Feds said that while he admits the coast city has a fine group of players and that it has the first half practically clinched the local boys are improving so rapidly that he is confident of a turn of tables after July 15 when the second half begins.

Ruffing Pitches Third Shut-Out For Yankees

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(AP)—Charley Ruffing, pitching his third successive shutout, yesterday held the Washington Senators to three scattered hits as the New York Yankees turned back the American League Champions 4 to 0 in the opening game of the series.

The victory was Ruffing's fourth straight. His ninth of the season and ran his total of successive scoreless innings to 29 as he held the Tigers without a run the last two innings of their June 16 game.

Daytona Beach Wins Easily From Saints

ST. AUGUSTINE, June 29.—In a listless contest the St. Augustine Saints brought their first half Northeast schedule to a close here yesterday by taking a 3 to 1 beating administered by the lowly Daytona Beach Islanders.

Mike Frawley made his initial Northeast appearance on the hillcock for the visitors and held the Saints to four scattered hits. However, his wildness kept him in constant trouble dishing out 10 bases on balls. Carl Weigel was nicked for eight safeties and received little help, the Saints committing five errors.

About Refrigerators

It is good practice to keep most foods in covered containers when they are stored in an automatic refrigerator. If this is done, there will be no noticeable odor, one food will not impart a foreign taste to another, and the food will not dry out.

Meat is an exception to the general rule, and should be lightly covered if at all, since covering meat favors bacterial growth.

Berries are another exception to the rule. They should be taken out of the basket, spread apart, and left uncovered.

Dishes such as desserts and salads that are placed in the refrigerator for a short time to chill need not be covered.

Keep your children for tomorrow as they are today... in changeless Photographs.

Soda Pop Aviators Land Warsaw Plane In Northern France

Lock Of Gas Inter- rupts Flight After Safe Crossing Of Atlantic Ocean

PARIS, June 30.—(A.P.)—The monoplane "City of Warsaw," bearing two Brooklyn fliers, landed safely today southwest of Caen, France. Although their goal was Warsaw, Poland they were forced to land because of a shortage of gasoline.

The two brothers, Benjamin and Joseph Adamowicz, Brooklyn soda pop manufacturers, hopped off from Harbor Beach yesterday morning in an effort to fly the huge airplane, a veteran of one ocean flight, on a nonstop trip to Warsaw.

They had 610 gallons of gasoline, enough, they thought, for 20 hours of flying. They had hoped to cover the more than 3000 miles to Warsaw in 30 hours, however.

Weather conditions, it was indicated, had been favorable for the entire overseas hop. The brothers had planned to follow the great circle route in Dublin and thence fly to Berlin and thence to Poland.

It was their second attempt to reach their ancestral home. Last August they cracked up here in landing after a hop from New York.

They gave up the ocean voyage for that season and began strenuous aviation training under the supervision of Holtra, an experienced pilot.

They studied particularly difficult feats of blind flying, taking trips at night and in cloudy weather. Frequently they flew out to sea.

Benjamin, who is 36, passed the department of commerce examination in blind flying three months ago, and he and his brother, Joseph, is 32—received permission to make the ocean trip.

Mrs. Benjamin Adamowicz, at home in New York, rejoiced at the news of her husband's successful landing. She went down town on a shopping tour that had been delayed by preparations for the trip of her husband and brother-in-law.

County School Fund Is Boosted By $1,959

Brevard County's proportion from an additional $33,000 turned over to the state department of education yesterday by the motor vehicle department amounted to $1,959.31, according to an Associated Press report today from Tallahassee.

The final remittance came into the office of the educational department yesterday shortly after Controller J. M. Lee had announced that $1,957.04 was on hand for allotment to the various county's for school funds.

Dr. W. S. Cavibon, superintendent of education, followed the announcement of the allotments with a statement to the county school superintendents throughout the state advising them to use their allotment in paying teachers salaries or the expenses of transportation of pupils for the current fiscal year if needed.

MARIE DRESSLER CLINGS TO LIFE AFTER BIG CRISIS

Noted Actress Still At Death's Door As Friends Fear Worst

SANTA BARBARA, June 30.—(AP)—Marie Dressler clung to life today relating the ravages of uremic poisoning, with a vitality that amazed her physicians. The 62-year-old actress appeared to have gained strength since Thursday night when she rallied from a major crisis after all hope had been abandoned.

Telegrams of condolence continued to pour into the cottage on the Hillings estate in Montecito, to which she went more than two months ago when her recurring illness, cancer, forced her much against her will to withdraw from pictures at a Hollywood studio.

At her bedside were friends who have been her closest companions since she began her success in films after the close of the World War. Among them was Frances Marion one-time San Francisco newspaper reporter, who since has become the most successful scenarist in Hollywood.

Miss Marion has been in constant attendance at the bedside. It was she who wrote the screen play of "Anna Christie," starring Greta Garbo, and persuaded the studio officials who were skeptical of Miss Dressler to give the veteran the part of "Old Martha."

Overnight, Miss Dressler became the sensation of the screen and the studios that had refused to give an audience were clamoring for her services. Miss Marion's intercession enabled Miss Dressler to go on to the heights in such pictures as "Min and Bill," "Caught Short," "Reducing," "Political," "Prosperity," "Emma," "Tugboat Annie," "Dinner at Eight," and "The Late Christopher Bean."

Miss Dressler has been calmly philosophical since she came here to undergo treatment. She has been smiling and cheerful even in the face of great pain.

Last night the medical staff attending her abandoned hope of her recovery, but even after that the vitality that kept her in pictures long after doctors prescribed complete rest, again asserted itself and she made another rally.

Newspaper Scribes Visiting At Fair Begin Trip Back To Florida Homes

Peter Schaal, representing the editorial staff of The Sanford Herald, together with 31 other newspaper publishers and editors from Florida, who were the guests of the Florida exhibit at the World's Fair all the week, left Chicago last night for their respective homes throughout the state.

The party arrived at the Century of Progress last Monday afternoon and that night were the guests of honor at a banquet in the French pavilion with Fair and exhibit officials, including Rufus C. Dawson, Fair president.

Today the members of the party were guests at a luncheon in the administration building and afterwards they toured the fair grounds. From Wednesday until yesterday each of the guests was free to do as he pleased. While in Chicago the newspapermen stayed at the Harrison Hotel.

The names of the members of the Florida group follow:

GOVERNMENT IS CLOSING BOOKS FOR THIS YEAR

Progress Of Recovery In U. S. Compared With Conditions In Other Chief Nations

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(AP)—The government, winding up its fiscal year today, found it had spent about $4,000,000,000 more than it collected.

That's counting emergency expenses. Balancing receipts against ordinary expenditures, the government was declared to be $28,000,000 "in the black" for the year.

Treasury officials scanned the industrial picture for an indication of what the New Year might mean to its coffers. President Roosevelt has estimated nearly $5,000,000,000 would be added to the national debt by emergency expenses during the next 12 months.

This was predicted on a recovery that would make industrial production average 98 percent of the 1923-'25 level.

Has recovery in the United States lagged behind that of other leading countries? This has become one of those controversial questions which delight economists.

Taking industrial production alone, index figures as presented in the latest League of Nations bulletin of statistics, might indicate that such important countries as England, France, Germany and Japan have been more successful in attaining predepression conditions.

The following table shows index figures of industrial production for the United States and those countries (all reduced to a base of 100 as of 1928):

Country	1928	1932	1933	1934
U. S.	100	72	78	82
England	100	85	90	95
France	100	80	85	90
Germany	100	70	75	80
Japan	100	60	65	70

While each of these countries seems to have gone farther toward restoring predepression industrial conditions, and Japan far beyond, it appears that the actual percentage gain over 1932 has been substantially larger here than in any country save Germany.

But since these figures were compiled, Germany has been plunged into an exchange crisis which has paralyzed her foreign trade, at least for the moment, and foreign trade is much more important to Germany than to the United States, so the German situation is not so bright.

Hitler Crushes German Revolution With Iron Fist As Crisis Impends; General Von Schleicher Is Killed

PRICE FIXING IS MODIFIED BY ROOSEVELT

Code Companies Authorized To Cut Bids On Government Jobs

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(AP)—President Roosevelt by Executive order late yesterday cut one of the remaining threads binding his Recovery Administration to non-competitive and allegedly monopolistic price-fixing.

His order authorized companies seeking government, state or municipal contracts to bid prices a maximum of 15 percent below those listed with respective code authorities.

The lower prices then must be filed with code authorities and must be made available to the main-the-trest consumer.

Severe criticism of uniform price fixing under NRA codes has come from many quarters. The Federal Trade Commission charged a monopoly existed in the steel industry with resultant high prices of all steel products.

The Darrow review board went even further in charging monopolistic price fixing existed in all industries through NRA provisions forcing companies to list their prices in advance with code authorities.

The Executive order does not scrap code authorities. They continue to function as usual but the bidder will have a greater latitude of operation in regard to prices than he had before the President acted.

The President made public his executive order at the last press conference he will have before he returns from an extended Pacific cruise.

Its object, he said is twofold: 1. To smother the present custom of bidders to submit informal bids on government contracts. 2. To encourage fair competition and at the same time maintain a steel grip over ruth.

PATROLMAN SHOT WHEN DILLINGER AGAIN ROBS BANK

Detectives Say Dillinger Also Shot In Making Getaway

SOUTH BEND, Ind., June 30.—(AP)—A patrolman was shot and killed today when the man, one of whom was identified by detectives as John Dillinger, robbed the Merchants National Bank here.

Detective Harry Henderson, who arrived at the bank as the robbers were leaving, said he was positive the driver of the car was Dillinger.

Henderson fired at the car. He said the man at the wheel slumped as if shot and a companion took his place. The officer killed was patrolman Howard Wenger. The amount of the loot obtained was not immediately determined.

BUDGET ADOPTED IN TAMPA AVOIDS DEFAULT ON DEBT

Bankers Agree To Advance Funds To Pay Early Maturities

TAMPA, June 30.—A resolution formally adopting the budget without an increase in the millage was passed by the board of aldermen Friday night, but with fund retentions that for the present, at least, will protect the city from default and repudiation.

On the basis of these changes banks agreed to lend the city enough money to take care of its bond debts until Aug. 30.

Formal offers from the banks will be received at an adjourned meeting this morning at 11:00 o'clock, and by noon comptroller Booker said he expected to send a telegram to New York banks advising that $175,000 due Monday would be there Monday.

To obtain help from the banks in this emergency the board of aldermen agreed to the following: To take from all other funds in equal proportions one and a half mills, equivalent to about $175,000 and apply this money to the fund for payment of bond debts, which bankers said was $274,000 short.

Appropriate to debt service $60,000 balance in cash.

Appropriate to debt service $60,000 balance in cash.

Sell to the sinking fund $40,000 in bonds taken in on debt in the last fiscal year by the city and apply $50,000 to the debt fund.

Invest $22,000 from the water works fund, which under present arrangements goes to the Florida Islands airport purchase agreement, to the debt service fund.

Pay to the debt fund collection made on paving and sewer certificates, estimated at $2,000, now held in the delinquent tax account.

In strong another mill and a half from operating revenue, the board went a step further and balanced the budget on paper. This was done as it was felt for the last fiscal year by the city on taxpayers paying more taxes than actually are anticipated.

In his tentative budget Mayor Chaney estimated 75 percent of taxes would be collected. Last night the board raised that estimate to 81 percent. The increase in estimate "balanced" the budget.

Capt. Roehm, Hitler's Ace, Commits Suicide To Escape Arrest As Traitor

BERLIN, June 30.—(A.P.)—Chancellor Adolf Hitler today crushed a still-born revolution.

Capt. Ernst Roehm, long his closest friend and a trusted leader of the Nazi Storm Troopers, committed suicide when Hitler had him arrested as a conspirator.

Kurt Von Schleicher, a predecessor to Hitler as Chancellor of Germany, and the organizer of Germany's famous reichswehr (national army), was killed by police as he resisted arrest as a conspirator.

Roehm was regarded as the most extreme leader of the radical Nazis. Von Schleicher was an extreme reactionary who favored the restoration of the monarchy.

Vice Chancellor Franz Von Papen, the man who two weeks ago warned Hitler that a second revolution led by extremists, was impending, was taken into protective custody but soon released.

Besides Roehm, a number of other storm troop leaders were dead within a few hours of the time when Hitler struck. Some committed suicide, some were killed resisting arrest.

The Nazi party announced that Roehm was arrested because he was a conspirator in league not only with Von Schleicher but also with a "foreign power" and was furthermore of such immoral character that he brought discredit upon the Nazi movement.

The announcement said Roehm and other leaders were arrested under Hitler's personal direction and were found engaged in a "spectacle which was so bad morally that every trace of pity must needs vanish."

Karl Ernst, leader of the Storm Troops at Berlin, was summarily beheaded. The Austrian German leader was closed during the afternoon. Telephone communication between Berlin and Paris was also cut off.

COURT REVERSED
TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 30.—(AP)—The Supreme Court has reversed the Manatee county circuit court in its ruling in a case of Tax Securities Corporation against Manatee county, the Myakka Corporation and others. The lower court denied a motion to strike out part of the Myakka Corporation's answer to the Tax Securities Corporation's bill of complaint in a delinquent tax certificate foreclosure case. Holding this was an error, the Supreme Court sent the case back for further proceedings.
