Altamonte Springs to elect 2 on. Nov. 2

Samuel Kendall and Steve Wolfram are vying to fill Bette Griffith's seat on the Altamonte Springs City Commission. Griffith, 75, died Sept. 8 after a battle with cancer. The post pays $450 a month. The winner between Kendall and Wolfman will serve one year.

In the other Nov. 2 ballot for the city, Randy Higa opposes Russ Hauck - the winner to succeed Mayor Dudley Bates, who is running for the Seminole County Commission. The mayor's job pays $575 a month.

Mortician faces death penalty for idiling wife

Mark Villella, an Orange City mortician, was charged with first-degree murder Friday by a Volunia County grand jury. Vittella will face the death penalty if convicted of stabbing his wife to death and then burying her in a casket with another body.

Investigators believe Villella stabbed his wife four times with a steel knife, stored her in a cooler at Deltona Memorial Funeral Home and buried her with the body of 89year-old woman.

Sheriff tipped off to jail break

By Joe DeBenti

SANFORD - First he tried to break in. Now he's trying to break out.

Christopher John Smith, who has done quite a tap dance with Central Florida law enforcement officials during the past month, will now spend the next 30 days in confinement and have all privileges revoked following charges of "attempted or planned escape" from the Seminole County Jail where he is cur-rently being held on numerous charges.

Acting on a tip from another inmate, detention deputies searched his cell on Sept. 12 and discovered a number of instruments commonly used for digging by prisoners trying to pry loose windows and other fixtures.

A review board found Smith guilty of the attempted escape. Because of the infraction he will receive no credit for time served as he awaits trial on several residential burglary charges as well as a carjacking charge that led to his capture at gunpoint Sept. 6.

During a search of his cell, detention deputies found a one-and-a-half inch sharpened nail with a chisel-like point. two paper clips, a drinking fountain nozzle sharpened to a chisel point eight inches long. They also found evidence of scratch marks on his cell window, as well as two metal rods about a foot long each that were being used to pry cell

Smith was first arrested by Orange County deputies on Aug. 27 in connection to a number of "purse burglaries" in Maitland and Seminole County. Robert Kaminski, 31, was also charged See Jail, Page 6A

Dear Mr. Buffett: help Sanford find its 'lost shaker of salt'

So here's the deal: Jimmy Buffett is buying the Barn and renaming it the Margaritaville Cafe or the Buffett Barn.

Barn's tradition alive.

The country music landmark, most recently operated by the Hellekson family and known as Miss Libby's Barn, is for sale for $1.2 million. When Libby Heliekson passed away, the Barn soon closed. Real estate agent Powell Austin said he's hopeful the Barn will be sold and re-opened very soon.

"There's quite a buzz in the community," Austin said Friday. "I've had all kinds of calls, I don't know where the Jimmy Buffett rumor started. The man who wants to buy and operate the place played for Buffett once. And I believe he met his

The Meter

Who measured up and who came up short? The Meter takes the weekly vital signs of the county to discover who's got their mojo working.

Steve "Crash" Olson: Sheriff's office PIO heads for threeday driving school. Sheriff Don must have remembered the remote television van Steve plunked in a drainage swell not too long ago while chasing a fire story.

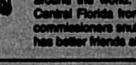

Crash Test Dummies: Grant Maloy, Daryl McLain and Dick Van Der Weide need to fasten their safety belts. Each wents to be re-elected to the county commission: Yet they ignored a request Wednesday from the county manager to hire a public information officer. Thumbs up to Commission Chairman Cariton Henley and ex-Chair Randy Morris for voting to communicate better with the residents.

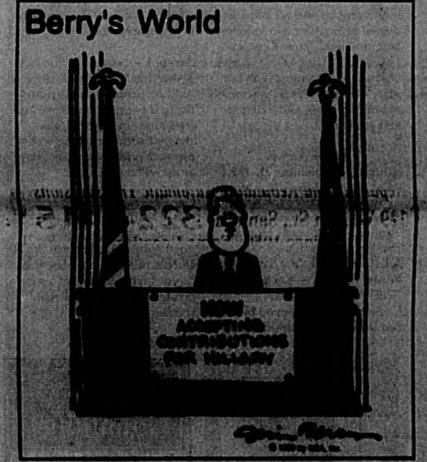

Governor Job Bush: Signs death warrant for cop killer Terry Sime. It look 22 years but Sime will pay with his life for taking that of Seminole County Deputy George Pfell during a 1977 Longwood pharmacy shoot-out. Jurisprudence?: Delays, legal antics, and a convoluted appeals process that takes 22 years for Sims to get the punishment he deserves.

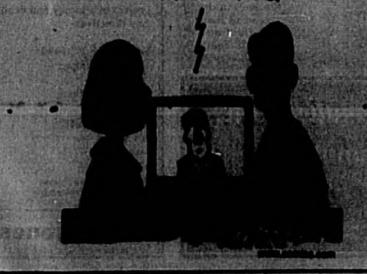

Yes go girt: Patricia Gehri has worked hard to foster educational, cultural and economic friendships with visitors from around the world. Gehri runs the international Council of Central Florids from her Longwood home. Three of county commissioners stubbed her Wednesday. She'll be fine. She has better friends abroad.

In a brilliant fusion of facts, creative writing and acting, "Angel" executive producer Martha Williamson has written a script that revolves around a U.S. senator, credibly played by Lindsay Crouse, and her family. (For fars of the Breadway theater, Crouse is the daughter of the great librettist Russell Crouse.) The senator is torn when she discovers that her young son has taken up the cause of the slaves as a school peoper, but her biggest campaign contributor dosen't want her involved, because he is petting guest material from the Sudan which he uses in his candy company. Washington dilemens.
It didn't hurt the turnout and press interest that one of the "angels," actress Roma Downey, who plays "Monics," attended the screening. But there is something special about this show, now entering its sixth season and consistently in the ratings top 10. "Touched by an Angel" has touched seasoning deep in the American psyche. It is a hunger for seasoning long period of bad. While the seat of television is immersed in sex and sleaze, "Touched by an Angel" slease, "Touched by an Angel" continues to prove that a show committed to virtue that encourages people to seek higher and better things cannot only survive in the vast video wasteland but prevail. Even Passet Chairman Bud Passon has sold his "family values" network to NBC, which will officially take it over in 2004 and show renues of some of its family-unfriendly shows. But "Touched by an Angel" remains uncompromised.

At a time when pessiontial candidate Pat Buchanan is urging subsenchment and disengegement from the widd unless "vital" U.S. Interests are at stake, the "For Such a Time as This" premiere spisode of "Touched by an Angel" suggests that helping fellow human beings where and when we can it a vital interest, because to whom much is given, much is also required.

Both Smith and Kaminski bonded out of Orlando's 33rd Street jail before Seminole County authorities filed more burglary charges against them. But it didn't take Smith long to surface again.

Seminole County deputies captured him at gunpoint on Sept. 6 after a weekend that included a car jacking and a wrestling match with a Casselberry homeowner after spending the night in the garage of another Casselberry resiresident Lawrence Henyezc was fueling his mini-van at a 7-11 on U.S. Highway 17-92 and O'Brien Road. Henyezc's wife and two children were inside the van when Smith showed up on foot with Seminole County deputies in pursuit.

After a struggle with Henvezc, Smith was able to commandeer the vehicle and drive it across the convenience store parking lot before crashing into a utility pole. Henyezc's wife suffered a broken ankle in the incident and one of the children in the van received facial bruises. Smith then jumped out of the van and hopped a nearby fence to elude police.

The next morning Casselberry homeowner David Lovett, Jaffa Drive, spotted Smith wandsring the neighbor-hood at about 7 a.m., clad only in shorts and socks. Smith had spent the night in the garage of a nearby home, making a makeshift bed and helping him- 2 self to food from a freezer.

A second Casselberry neighbor, Jon Bolander, Temple Avenue, spotted Smith scaling a 10 fence moments later while he was feeding his baby. Bolander // ran Smith down and tackled him in the street, but Smith broke away. He was arrested at 4 gunpoint moments later when a deputy arrived on the scene.

Smith is linked to a number of the so called "purse burglaries" where he allegedly wore a bandanna over his face and talked to victims, telling them he wants money but will not hurt them if they cooperate and don't call the police. He normally gained entry to the dwellings by cutting screen doors to gain access. He was also known to cut the exterior telephone lines after targeting his burglary sites.

Sanford wants to drop county program

SANFORD - The Senford City Commission on Monday will consider whether the city should continue operating a countywide low income home energy assistance program.

Sanford's Community Development Department coordinates the Department of Energy's Weatherization Assistance Program county-wide. During the past year, 22 homes in Seminole County participated in the weatherization program to become more energy-efficient.

Mayor Larry Dale and Commissioner Brady Lessard said the program should be coordinated by Seminole County, not Sanford. The program will be dis-cussed during Monday's 4 p.m. commission work session at City

Sanford hires contractors to perform the weatherization on homes, then bills the state for 100 percent of the costs with the exception of time spent adminis-tering the project. The city is reim-bursed monthly from the state, said Contract Coordinator Stacy

The state issues funding to Sanford for administration, at 25 percent of the value of the weatherization agreements.

"I think the county should run it," Lessard said. "It taxes the city's lithited resources. If it can be proven that it makes flocal sense, I'm for it, but you'd be hard sed to show that this is profpressed to accity."

Charles Nowe, director of the Development Community Department, said the total value of the weatherisation agreements in the coming flecal year beginng Oct. 1 will be an estimated $105,807. The city will receive $27,000 of the funds for adminis-

An estimated 20 homes in nole County, including 15 in Sanford, will receive weatherization treatments through the program in the next year, Rowe said.

Commissioner A.A. "Mac" McClanahan worked with families receiving energy assistance through the program when he was executive director for Seminole Self Reliant Housing, a position he retired from in 1994. The non-profit agency has since been renamed the Center for Affordable Housing.

"I've been working with that program or similar programs since 1983," McClanahan said. I've seen it help a lot of people, and repair a lot of houses. This is definitely a program that benefits residents of Sanford."

The program was created dur-ing the 1973 Arab oil embargo to ist low-income families who lacked the resources to respond to price increases.

In the beginning, the tempo-rary measures such as storm windows, weatherstripping, and caulking were installed by volunteer labor. Today, professionals determine which measures should be used to achieve energy efficiency.

Services in the program include replacing air conditioning and windows, reducing air infiltration, and repairing holes in walls, floors, and ceilings.

The Blues live on in Lake Mary

By Bill Kerns

Staff Writer

SANFORD — This snake has the blues.

At a time when recording studios seem to chum out teen idols on assembly lines, a studio in Sanford keeps the spirit of blues and soul music alive.

Artists ranging from James Taylor to Gregg Allmon, country artist Richie Havens, and blues musician Floyd Miles have recorded at Kingsnake Records, one of Sanford's secrets that is hidden on quiet Lake Boulevard.

Since opening the studio in 1986, owner Bob Greenlee has made his stand with blues and soul music, recording more than 100 records on various labels.

Sparing the synthesizers and digital technology prevalent in popular music, artists recording at Kingsnake prefer classics such as the piano, guitar, and even analogue tapes.

"When you bring a blues artist in, it's important not to make the technology intimidating," Greenlee said. "What really matters is what goes on behind the

Taylor recorded at Kingsnake in 1991 with brothers Alex and Hugh Taylor. Allmon and other members of the Allmon brothers have cut records at the studio. Meanwhile, as artists come and go, blues saxophonist Noble Thin Man Watts serves as the studio's unofficial god-father.

Some of the stories (Watts has) told are just wonderful," Greenlee said. "There's a lot of mythology involved in this type of music, and history is very important."

The challenge Greenlee and other promoters of blues music face is communicating to people that the form is still as vibrant as ever.

"People hear blues rifts as a backdrop on so many commercials and shows that it sounds almost trite and everyday," Greenlee said. "Oddly enough, blues is a little overexposed."

In addition, young blues artists need to overcome the rich heritage of the past

"One problem with blues, as well as jazz, is that people tend to go to the source," Greenlee said. "When people go to the record store for blues, they look for Muddy Waters or John Lee Hooker. You can't fake primitivism, and there's a certain primitive power to early blues."

The challenge is to attract people to the rising level of musicianship that is evolving among blues artists, Geenlee said.

'We've got to convince people that there are a lot of great, very powerful, dark emotions that are being conjured up and played at a higher level of musicianship," Greenlee said.

Blues music is a sharp contrast to Greenlee's punk rock phase of the 1970's, when he produced Rude Boy Slim and the Sex Change Band in 1978 in Miami.

"In this area, in Florida, blues grows

here like collard

greens."

Bob Greenlee

Owner of Kingsnake

Records

Making his home in Sanford, Greenlee said blues came more naturally to him than punk.

"It's really hard to maintain a sense of what's modern unless you live in New York, Los Angeles or London," Greenlee said. "In this area, in Florida, blues grows here like collard greens."

Greenlee, who is also a song writer and bass player, often works with young artists. Whether teaching recording at Seminole Community College or working from his studio, Greenlee tells young artists to be true to the form.

"Try to put as much emotion and soul into the music as you possibly can," Greenlee said. "And also write good songs that are going to move people. If the song is no good, you can put a tremendous amount of emotion in it, and you don't have anything at all."

Gehri says ICCF's work exceeds costs

By Russ White Staff Writer

LONGWOOD - For the past three years, Patricia Gehri has conducted a totally volunteer international visitors agency from her home in Longwood.

As the Executive Vice President of the International Council of Central Florida Inc., Gehri co-ordinates cultural and educational activities with foreign visitors and with the United States Information Agency.

Gehri helped re-build the ICCF from the ground up - supported by the Seminole County Manager and Economic Development Manager, and the Board of Commissioners.

On Wednesday, all this changed.

By a 3-2 vote, the Board of Commissioners removed a $10,000 grant to the ICCF. The commissioners have themselves a $440 million budget and were looking for things to cut. The ICCF was one of their hits. Small change in a $440 million budget but the world to Patricia Gehri-

Just last week, Gehri had arranged for seven Egyptian visitors to visit Central Florida and to observe government here. The ICCF was one of four agencies to play host to the group - the others in Boston, Washington and San Francisco. Such visits not only develop international friendships but pump money into the local economy.

Gehri told the Board of Commissioners that the ICCF program had generated $40,000 net cash flow into the Seminole County economy in 1998-99. A good return for the county's investment

If the county had helped the ICCE in 1999-2000, Gehri said the agency most likely could be self-sustaining by the end of fiscal-2000. The 1999-2000 grant (plus a $12,000 from the federal government) would help establish an ICCF office in Longwood rather than having to operate out of Gehri's

Gehri and some of the many ICCF volunteers have sent letters to the three board members (Grant Maloy, Carlton Henley and Dick Van Der Weide) who turned down the ICCF request. Board finalizes its 1999/2000 budget at a 7 p.m. hearing Wednesday.

"We've come a long way," Gehri said. "We've done a lot and asked for very little. We're stunned by this rejection."

25th Golden Games begin Oct. 31

By Russ White

Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Golden Age Games in Sanford are made for men and women who are old enough to know better but still insist on playing games as if they were kids. This is the 25th year for the Games, recognized as the Nation's Oldest Senior Games. They begin on Oct. 31 and run through Nov. 6.

There are 40 events, open to anyone age fifty and over.

Peg Richards, who paddled a canoe when she was 100 years old, recently passed away and will be remembered by everyone in the 1999 Golden Age Games.

Games Chairman Lisa Jones said that 1,000 seniors will compete in a week-long festival that includes cycling, bowling, ten-nis, golf, billiards, canoeing. shuffleboard, track & field events, a name-that-tune contest and a talent show.

Harriet Boyd of Lake Mary has won just about every gold medal that exists in the Golden Age Games, including first prize In the talent contest one year when she vacuumed her cat. Boyd's friend, Kay Thompson, is another perennial winner.

"The basic idea is for everyone to have a good time trying to win medals and to meet again with all friends," Jones said. "There really is something here for everyone. We have 80 year-old men and women playing tennis and golf and cycling. We have others who prefer the pancake race, pinochle or crib-

Jones said there is also a big band dance on Wednesday, Nov. 3 at the Senford Civic Center, a mid-week banquet that same day at the Center and a St. Johne River Cruise from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 5.

The archery tournament that usually begins the Golden Age

Games has been moved from Sunday, Oct. 31 to Saturday, Nov. 6 because of conflicting dates with other archery competitions. The archery tourney will be held at the Police Benevolent Association building in Sanford.

The canoeing will be held on Lake Carolla at Ft. Mellon Park. The golf is at Mayfair County Club in Sanford and the bowling at AMF Deltona Lanes. Swim events are at Riverside Park in Oviedo.

The top five finishers in each Golden Age event are eligible to compete in the Florida Senior Games State Championship in Kissimmee, Nov. 30 to Dec. 5.

Applications for the Golden Age Games are available by contacting the Sanford Recreation Department (407) 330-5697. Entry fee is $6 for one event and $2 for each additional event. There are additional fees for some competitions such as golf course fees and bowling lane fees.

Seniors will compete in compete in a variety of events, from canoeing to "the pancake flip."

For the Lake Mary Rams, who enticipate a season full of close games as they pursue a playoff berth in the highly competitive Class &A-District 2 race, kicker Russ Abrams is that edge.

In a game where the statistical comparison was as tight as the final margin, Abrams was the difference as the Rams held off the best Oviedo Liona, 15-13, Friday night at John Courier Field.

Shaken

Just weeks after arriving in Taiwan for a teaching assignment, Louis Lovestrand. son of Longwood Mayor Paul Lovestrand, was awakened at 2 a.m. by the worst earthquake ever to hit the island. about 10 miles from the quake's epicenter. He teaches algebra, business and economics at Morrison Christian Academy, a school that serves the children of missionaries and diplomats. Louis graduated from Altemente Christian Academy and Houghton College in Houghton, NY. He teaght previously at Winter Park and University high schools prior to investige above.

late Wednesday morning."

After recovering from the shock of the earthquake, Louis used the Internet to alert family and friends that he had survived, and was unburt and lucky. The earthquake killed 600 people in his adopted city of Taichung, just a few miles north of the quake's epicenter. The following is a letter he e-mailed the day after the quake hit.

Dear Byeryone,
I survived the worst earthquake in Talwan's recorded history. (7.8)

I was availabled (approximately 2 a.m.) by loud sounds and my building shaking violently. I least to the floor screaming and discrimined from being salesp. I knew I was in a big earthquake.

I first thought I could ride it out in my bethroom, but I had violent of the 12 floors above me coming down and trapping me in the building. My stath floor specificant is adjacent to the stairs. I thought that if could stay on my feet, I was just as sale in the stairs. I can out without my cleaner, water, or is believe I was the first person out of my high rise. I was met at the gate by a family fleeing to cane of the two other buildings in our complex. The mother mentioned to me to follow them across the street. The ground began to shale violently again. We could hear glass breaking and thes popping all around. Now I saw others fleeing to our perking lot across the street. We climbed into the family's car to avoid any debrie.

I was completely terrified. The ground would calm and then begin shaking again violently. The parting lot felt the jetto. The ground felt about an inch thick. What made things worse was being alone. I don't speak the local Mandarin and most all of them don't speak English. Much to my delight, another person from my school found me (two guys that the in an adjacent building). One of the guys put me on the back of his motoroycle and drove me to the school compound. I left much safer, although the ground was settl shaking though the ground was still shaking although the ground was still shaking every low minutes.

The next morning I went back to my apartment to get a few belongings. I had planned to sleep in the school compound at another teacher's apartment (only two steries and I'm still there). My building faired relatively well. I have a lot of planter damage trade, but the building may actually be CIK.

Today I had an unusual apportunity. I went with a friend of mine who is a journalist for the Tahwan News just outside our city to the optomior of the quality to look at the demans.

The entire town is flet. Bridges around teem are out. Power is irregular. This town leaked as though every first floor deeppeared and you could walk into the second floor.

I am fine. Very shaken. I still feel the ground move, even though it isn't really moving. Editor's Note: On average, Taiwan is hit by dozens of earth quakes each year. However, most are centered well out in the Pacific Ocean east of the island and cause little if any damage. Tuesday's earthquake goes down as the island's second deadliest in history. In 1935 a quake measuring 7.4 on the Richter Scale killed 3,276 people. Taiwan's Central Weather Bureau listed Tuesday's event at 7.3 magnitude, slightly less than the U.S. Geological Survey's estimate. The largest earthquake ever to strike North America rocked the state of Alaska on Good Friday, 1964. It measured 9.6 on the Richter Scale.

Victim of date-rape finally finds a compassionate man

DEAR ABBY: After I read the letter from the young woman who had been date-raped at 21, I felt compelled to write. She was wondering if she should tell her

When I was 16 and a virgin, I was date-raped. For many years, I didn't know why it had happened. It took a long time to slowly heal from the incident.

Finally, I met a wonderful man with whom I started to cultivate a relationship - first on the telephone, even though we both lived in the same small town. On our first date, I told him about what had happened to me 10 years earlier. I cried and he held me, letting me know that he was sorry that it had happened.

That wonderful man and I have been happily married for more than a year. He's my best friend, and I don't regret telling him. In fact, he helped me to let go of so many bed memories and to focus on our fattum. A truly understanding man future. A truly understanding man will be your comfort if you are

NO PRISONER TO THE PAST

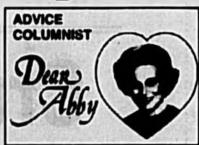

DEAR N.P.: Your supportive letter is well worth space in this column. I'm pleased your story has such a happy ending. One of the main reasons why the vast majority of rapes are never reported is the feeling of shame on the part of the victim. Rame is never the victim's fault.

Crisis counseling is enormously helpful for victims of accusal necessit, and it's as easy to find as picking up the tele-phone and asking information for the number of the local rape hotime. It can help to heal pay-chelogical wounds even years after the sessuit, and that's why I recommend it so strongly.

DEAR ABBY: Your readers have been wonderful in years past to rescue dogs from animal shelters during October, National Adopt-a-Dog Month, and we at North Shore Animal League would like to encourage them once again to visit their shelters and take home one or more of the thousands of homele dogs and puppies. Abby, people can adopt from helters any time, but October is dedicated to making it a better world for man's (and woman's) best friend — a canine pet. This visit to a shelter during Adopt-a-Dog Month will not only save a life, but

ANIMAL LEAGUE

DEAR MARGE: Thank you for the timely reminder. For individuals and families interested in acquiring some canine companionship, I can't think of a more opportune time than National Adopt-a-Dog Month.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 87 years. My wife likes to go out every day, seven days a week. I like to go out two to three days a week, and would to compromise and try the "middle" - about four times

My wife is very energetic and will not meet me in the middle. What do you recommend?
BOB IN PLANTSVILLE, CONN.

DEAR BOB: How about this for a compromise: Tell your wife that she's welcome to go out by heresif or with friends a few days a week, and that you will join her for the other three or four days. That way, she gets seven days out and you get three or four. three or four.

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to add another thought to Teacher Who Cares About the Future," who discussed undisciplined children in the classroom. If a child seems bored or consistently misbehaves in class, the parents should have his or her eyes checked.

When my grown son was small, he used to hate his first-grade class. He'd hide under his bed and plead with me not to make him go to school. His first-grade teacher had put his desk out in the hall with the wet boots and coats, and another time had forced him to sit in a corner on a stool wearing a dunce cap. My son's eyes had been tested by a specialist who examined each eve separately and said there were no vision problems. Not true! Just to be sure, I took him to another doctor, who tested his eyes together. Sure enough, the eyes did not work properly together. Was it any wonder he couldn't do his school work? When he tried to read, the little fellow saw double, backward and blurred!

Fortunately, the doctor was able to help. Today our son is a radio engineer with a large station and is a happily married father of two. We didn't give up until we found help - and it was certainly well worth

PROUD MOTHER IN NEVADA

DEAR PROUD MOTHER: I'm pleased that your story had a happy ending. It reinforces how important it can be to get a second opinion if a diagnosis is in question.

DEAR ABBY: "Debbie in Memphis" wrote that she is still living with her unfaithful husband while they save money for a divorce. She complained that the other woman in the triangle made frequent calls to the house, and it angered her.

Abby, what the other woman is doing is called harasement. The telephone companies have regulations in place to deal with it. Debbie should alert her telephone company, and the representative will tell her whether or not to involve the police.

If necessary, the telephone company can tap the phone and document the harassing calls. With this documentation, the phone company can revoke the harasser's phone

No one should have to suffer this sort of psychological assault, and Debbie's hands are cleaner if the woman brings the consequences on

Seniors brush up on wound care, Granny's Attic 2 days of surprises

Tanna McPherson and her mom, Celeste Talley of Longwood, try out new wheels at Sanford Garden Club's Granny's Attic.

Mary Cardy Weaver, director of the Central Florida Regional Hospital Wound Care Center, was the guest speaker at the September meeting of Senior Friends held Sept. 9 at the Sanford Civic Center. Over 50 Senior Friends were on hand for the informative pro-

Weaver said the goal of the center is to provide comprehensive, compassionate and innovative care to people with acute or chronic wounds.

Medical care at the unit is provided by several physicians including: Dr. Russell Shaw, chairman. Dr. Marguerite Borerro, Dr. Cindy Watson and Michael Binford (hyperbaric medicine).

Weaver is a master's prepared nurse with Board Certification in wound ostomy and continence nursing and 20 years experience in wound care. Joining her at the unit are five other nurses with ex-tensive background in wound care: Jo Ellen Lyle (coordinator), Robert Olsen, Charles Stroup, Michelle Cobb and Linda Young.

Weaver said, The increase life span and management of chronic conditions such as diabetes, cancer, renal failure. to name a few, create a risk for the development of wounds. Some types of wounds treated include leg ulcers, burns, trauma, problematic, surgical and pressure ulcers."

The unit offers a full range of therapies, including the removal of damaged tissue, control of infections, moist wound care, especially dressings. growth factors, skin drafts and flaps, compression therapy, orthotics and Hyperbaric Oxy-

Weaver explained that in addition to offering wound care expertise, the physicians and nurses are certified in Hyperbaric Oxygen Therapy. This therapy is administered, Weaver said, by having the patient rest in a single patient "monoplace" clear acrylic chamber for approximately one and one half hours. One handred percent oxygen in an environment of increased atmospheric pressure increases oxygen in the blood and entire body.

This presents some bacteria from replicating and minimizes the risk of infections and complications. Two other benefits of the increased oxygen perfusion tissue repair and im-proved peripheral circulation of blood flow, "Weaver said.

At the conclusion of the program, members engaged in a question and answer session about the marvels of modern medicine. Weaver said the response from the Senior Friends was "absolutely delightful."

Senior Friends meets the second Thursday of every month at 10:30 a.m. at the Sanford Civic Center. The format is designed for the benefit of the members. Travel, fitness, wellness, seminars and a Prayer Breakfast speaker: 'You have to have God in your life'

"Pray Without Ceasing. Pray Until Something Happens," was the theme of the 1999 Annual Prayer Breakfast of St. Paul Missionary Baptist Church.

The keynote speaker for this morning of prayer and praise was Brother David W. Mitchell, Southern Regional Director of the Legatus Organization.

Saturday, Sept. 18, will be a morning that will remain in the hearts and minds of the more than 150 prayer warriors who attended the event.

Sister Thelma Mike, Director and Administrator of the Good Samaritan Home and an ardent member of New Mt. Calvary Baptist Church, presided over the meeting. Her opening scriptural reference was Psalm 92: "It's a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord, and to sing praises unto the Lord."

Musical selections were led by Minister Vernon "Papa"

Brother James Gray, the great-grandson of Dr. Castle MARYA HAWKINS Neighbors

Brewer (for which the Scholarship Fund is named after), gave the words of welcome.

Introducing the morning speaker. Brother David Mitchell, was Sister Sheralyn J. Polk. Brother Mitchell spoke words of testimony about his life experiences which have taught him to pray without ceasing. Mitchell said as a young professional businessman. the material side of life was his mission. Following a very tragic incident — the untimely death of his daughter — he cried out to the Lord for help in his time

This experience in his life helped him to depend fully on God, and Mitchell said he received strength to help him and his family through this crisis.

Mitchell has recently returned from Ireland, with the "Legatus." He spoke of his opportunity and privilege to observe youth in impoverished neighborhoods being ministered to by former heavyweight boxing champion George Foreman. Mitchell reiterated a few of the points made by Foreman:

 Always be honest, sincere and have a loving relationship with your mother and grandmother.

 Say no to alcohol and drugs. You must have God in your life.

To close out his message of spiritual wealth, Brother Mitchell reminded the audience to remember their cultural heritage, background and to always use their abilities to build on these aspects of life,

Pray constantly, and God will help. It's not about material things of life, but what have you done today to help someone?

Praise and glory go to Sister Geralyn J. Guy and Brother Robert Hayes for their praise-filled renditions of "Worship Christ" and "It is For Me," an interpretive dance of praise. The Rev. Castle Brewer Scholarship Fund committee has contributed thousands of dollars to worthy students in Seminole County schools. These funds help them attend the college of their choice. This fund is in memory of a great pastor, church and community worker who gave of his leadership and love to the Sanford community during his 42 years of ministry at St. Paul's Baptist Church.

Lake Mary AARP starts fall season with a laugh

Laughter really is the best medicine. That was the message from one of the guest speakers at the Lake Mary AARP on Tuesday, Sept. 21. The speaker was Ron Tumminia, Ron is a personal trainer who works with people over 50. In the 1960's, Ron told the audience, a gentleman named Norman Cousins discovered he had a deadly disease. Doctors offered no hope for him. Norman left the hospital and set about to find his own treatment. His treatment? Vitamin C, Candid Camera and the Marx Brothers. Norman dosed himself daily with laughter. His book "Anatomy of an illness", details his recovery.

You can build your system up by laughter, Ron said. It's all natural, no artificial colors or flavors and it's not fattening. Laughter helps with your circulation and it increases the blood flow to your brain. A positive out-look also makes a difference. When you have a posi-tive outlook, you feel better.

Ron DeVasto also talked to the AARP. Ron is a doctor of clinical and hypnotherapy. He teaches people self-hypnosis. Self-hypnosis can help with pain reduction. Ron also teaches people how to use self-hypnosis to help with memory retention and recall.

Ron Tumminia and Ron DeVasto work together to teach classes at SCC through the SALI program. They also teach at the Knowledge Shop in Casselberry. Currently, they are working on a series of tapes and a book together.

REACHING FOR THE STARS

What does astronaut food taste like? What kind of education do you have to have to be an astronaut? These were just a few of the things Brownies and Juniors learned at an all day workshop on Monday, Sept. 20 at Holy Cross Lutheran

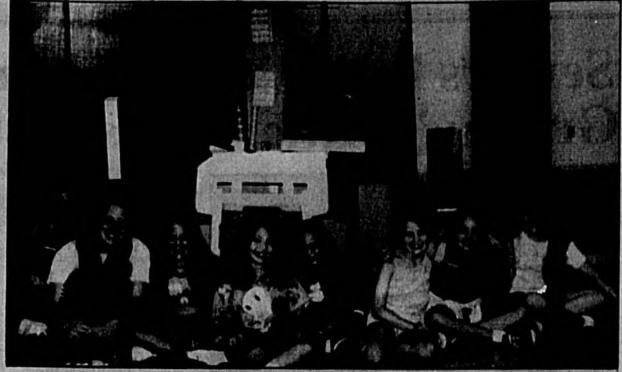

The workshop, 'The Next Frontier" is an earned patch that Stardust Service Unit has proposed for Citrus Council of Girl Scouts. The patch encourages girls to explore science and technology. During the workshop, the girls learned about constellations and the stories surrounding about how the constellations came into being. Then the girls drew their own constellations and wrote a story explaining their existence. Snacks for the day included freeze dried strawberries. The strawberries received mixed reviews with about half the girls liking them. Many of the girls were put off more by the texture than by the taste. A break in the weather allowed the girls to witness as one of the seniors shot off a model rocket.

The girls got a short biography on each of the current and former women astronauts. Of the 26 women who are or were astronauts, 14 were Girl Scouts.

The girls really got a kick out of that. They also found

Artist combines unusual finds in her unique jewelry designs

Chris Carlson has always been a rock hound. There's something about finding an interesting rock, whether on the banks of the Mississippi or at the annual Tueson gon show, that excites her. She began turning her finds into jeweity and discovered that people loved her creations. Thus, "Rocks in Your Head" was born in 1993. This is her fifth Lake. Mary-Heathrow Art Festival, an event she looks forward to each year.

This is the first show on Carlson's 1999 fail schedule, also includes the Downtown Melbourne Fall Art & Craft Festival, the Ocala Arts Festival, the Halifax Art Festival, the DeLand Fall Festival of the Arts, the Space Coast Art Festival and the Palm Harbor Arts, Crafts & Music Festival.

"Rocks in Your Head" provides arison with an interesting studies and then the fall frenzy of shows, where she gets to talk to people who are drawn to her works, "What better job could there be?" she asks.

Curison describes her jewelry as "primitive, with a level of refinement." And always, always, the mones themselves are always, the stones the melves are the focus. You'll find no gandy, thiny bustless among Carton's creation. She holds up a necklace made from wafers of picture juster with no embellishments, "How could I possibly improve on that?" she asks, smiling. The stones are perfect water shapes with a matte finish, strung together with a slight overlap. Each stone looks rather like a small landscape in shades of cream, taupe and brown. Carlson acknowledges that Moth Nature is the artist here and that she simply showcases the stones.

."I love finding interesting things and combining them in interesting ways," Carlson said. Mostly necklaces and earrings, Mostly accuraces and earnings, her pieces are born of carefully selected stones including lapis, malachite, picture jusper, sponge coral, turquoise, dumortierite (a desim-colored, matte-finish miseral also known as alemi borosilicate) or any other kind of stone that catches her eye and imagination. She's experimented with hammered copper and silver settings, using them to enhance but not overwhelm the natural easity of the stones. She stresses the natural in her pieces, using leather, cord and wire in lies of the usual chains.

One of her latest finds, tektites from indochine, is the focal point of some recent pieces. And the artist delights in explaining its origins, like the science teacher

"A tektite is formed when a porite hits the earth. The arce and heat of impact liquelies the rocks at, the surface, mostly silicon dioxide, and causes it to splate high late the atmosphere. As the material cools and falls back to carth, it forms interesting free-form shapes reminiscent of large teardrops or crescents."
These tektites, estimated to be 7-8 million years old, look a bit like porous dark glass. And the shapes lend themselves perfectly to incorporation in her jewelry.

Then there are the doughnutshaped stones she bought from an African dealer who called them "heads," probably 500 to 2,000 years old. The beads are large, some perhaps three inches in diameter. One dealer of tribal antiquities called them "digging stones" from northern Mali and provided a feasible explanation, explaining that the holes were worn into the center from pounding them on sticks to aid in digging. Whatever they are and however they were formed, they're old and intriguing-looking. Although Carlson "never met a stone that was too heavy to wear" and has made necklaces from these "heads," some of the larger ones may become paper-weights or conversation pieces.

"I enjoy creating jewelry that normal everyday people can afford and enjoy," Carlson said.

The air of mystery comes at no extra charge.

1999 Art Fest jurors boast impressive artistic credentials

Max Muller of Sarasota and Kyle of Maitland are the judges for this year's Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts.

An internationally aclaimed and respected artist, instructor, juror and administrator, Muller holds a bachelor of arts degree from West Virginia Wesleyan College.

The one-time executive director for the Sarasota Visual Arts Center, Muller also has served as president of Art Uptown Gallery, instructor at the Ringling School of Art and Design as well as vice president of Florida Watercolor Society.

Muller has judged art shows for the Charlotte County Art Guild, the Osceola Art Festival, the Homosassa Arts, Crafts and Seafood Festival, the Fort Myers Beach Art Association, the Suntan Art Center in St. Petersburg, the Apollo Beach Arts and Crafts Festival, the Sarasota Bay Arts and Crafts Festival, the Masarytown Art and Craft Show - Spring Hill, the Winter Haven Arts and Crafts Festival and Bartow's Bloomin' Arts Festival.

Kyle holds a master of fine arts degree from the University of Cincinnati, a bachelor of fine arts from the University of Central Florida and an associate of arts from Seminole Community College where he currently is an adjunct professor of painting.

Artist and Caretaker in Residence of the Maitland Arts Center since 1990, Kyle is one of three artists involved in the Artist-in-Action Program. Kyle also teaches performance art as well as mixed media, which he describes as an introduction to the exploration of found objects as art.

Over the course of his career, Kyle has tapped his talents as a a freelance commercial artist, a designer and craftsman specializing in themed rooms, fantasy architecture and the renovation and restoration of buildings, both historic and contem-

Mission accomplished: 1999 festival achieves goal

You could call the 1999 Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts the festival with a mission. Or more accurately, four missions.

According to Joanne Bourg, chairman of the event for the past six years, the festival aims to raise money for graduating high school students; to fos-ter pride and involvement in the community; to stimulate and energize the local economy; and to entertain, have fun and celebrate the arts.

History has proven that Joanne and the festival are right on the money in terms of achieving those

This year, 28 local high school seniors received scholarships. There's no doubt the event is the pride of the Lake Mary Heathrow community, nor is there any doubt that it stimulates the local economy. And what could be more entertaining than a communitywide celebration of the arts?

To be held October 2 and 3 at the Park within Heathrow International Business Center, just north of AAA (American Automobile Association) on International Parkway, the annual event promises to be the best yet. Now in its thirteenth year, the festival this year boasts more than 200 renowned artists. and will attract thousands of visitors to Lake Mary.

One of Lake Mary's most prestigious and popular events, proceeds from the festival provide scholarship funding from corporate participants to worthy Seminole County high school students. Since its inception in 1986, the festival has provided 380 scholarships, contributed $375,000 to education and invested over $1.5 million in the community to educate, entertain and promote support for the arts.

Those are pretty impressive accomplishments.

Pottery-making a form of meditation for Leigh Lunt

Leigh Lunt grew up around ceramics, so it's only natural that she evolved into making pottery herself. In fact, she evolved so well that she brought home a secondplace award from the Coca Cola River Festival in Greenville, S.C. this spring and a merit award from the Citrus County Art Festival last year.

Lunt makes high fired stoneware and Raku pottery, an old Japanese method that gives the pottery a crackled effect from the use of copper glazes. Beautiful to behold, Raku is for decorative purposes only. But Lunt also s perfectly serviceable s and leans towards a mace for blues and pur-

Thank you!

The Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts gratefully acknowledges all of the individuals who helped make our Annual 1998 Festival such an overwhelming success. Hundreds of Seminole County businesses and communityminded citizens have come forward to support Seminole County schools.

The children in Seminole schools today are the workforce and political leaders of the future and we especially want to publicly thank the following for serving as corporate sponsores and/or providing major donations for the 13th Annual Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts.

Br. Wind's Masic Causer is the newest music store in the Longwood area. They moved their location here in March and hope to get to know the community on a personal basis. Dr. Wind's is owned and operated by Red (Dr. Wind) and Wands Mustlewerth. Dr. Wind (Rod) moved to the Orlando area in 1978 and started doing band instrument repairs for the schools in Seminole, Orange and several other counties. Wands moved to the area in 1988 and was employed at a local music store where she met Rod, after marrying an opportunity arose for them to open their own music store and thus Dr. Wind's was established in February 1992, The name Dr. Wind is a nickname given to Rod many years ago because of his endless hours of 'doctoring' the students wind instruments.

Dr. Wind's is a unique store in that it is family owned and operated. It has it's own in-house repair shop and a full "MUSIC SCHOOL". The Music School offers private one-on-one lessons for piano, vocal, guitar, percussion, flute, clarinet, saxophone, trumpet, trombone, french norn, oboe, low brass and even accordion! All lessons are taught by highly recommended and highly qualified insructors for all levels and all sees.

Drop by for a visit, they have unique gift items, school music for all instruments. They also carry PBA Solo and Ensemble Music and are members of the Florida Bandmasters Association.

They carry Karnole CD's, Tapes and even a Karnole Party Pak with a machine you can rent for your party. Karnole is the newest rage for any type party and for any age. Get everyone in on the faul!
