Learn To Drive

It is encouraging to note that the Kiwanis International is about to launch an "all-out" effort on a nation-wide scale toward the reduction of automobile accidents. The National Safety Council has been doing a fine job to this end, but despite its efforts, the number of accidents continues to rise. What is needed is the combined efforts of other civic groups and all public-spirited citizens.

One of the first matters considered by the delegates to the Kiwanis convention in Atlanta was the hazard of the highways. It was said that more people lost their lives in automobile accidents last year than ever before in our history despite repeated warnings which have been given the public. The Kiwanians plan to hold communitywide safety programs in each of the 2025 Kiwanis towns in the United States and Canada to help impress upon all motorists the importance of safe driving.

For the most part we believe that accidents are the results of careless driving. Too many people who know how to drive are careless about driving as well as they know how to. And too many people, unfortunately, simply do not know how to drive. They may know how to shift the gears, and vaguely that turning the steering wheel in the direction they want to go turns the car more or less in that general direction, but that is about all.

It seems to us it would be a good idea to conduct automobile drivers' clinics in our various communities where people who manifestly do not know how to drive, but who want to drive, could be taught some of the finer points of driving, how to start without jerking their passengers' heads off, how to engage the clutch without racing the motor, how to stop without being bumped by the car im-GOOD CHEER: For mediately behind, how to back out of a parking space or good cheer, for all asw him, and were without nicking the fenders, how to pass a car on the highway mithout running on to the shoulders of the road.

Such driving inadequacies are invariably the prelude to serious accidents. Find a person whose fenders are all scratched up, whose headlights are battered and bumper bent and you have found a person who is on his way toward a headon collision on the highway. He is a menace not only to himself but to every other person who rides with him or near him. If he can't keep from hitting the lamp post a little bit, he can't keep from hitting the some day his luck will run out. Some day his luck will run out.

Takes Coach's Advice. Look At Him Now

NEW YORK, June 28—(Special)—Do what your coach tells you, young fellow! Ten years ago the football coach at Mississippi College told his star backfield ball-carrier te better play base-half in Spring as a conditioning means. The gridder had never played a game of taseball in his life, but obediently followed instructions.

Today thousands of fans who never heard of him in football know him as the centerfielder of the world championship baseball club, one of the best ball-hawks the National League has ever enrolled. The name—Harry Craft.
