NEW EVIDENCE IS UNCOVERED ON LILLIENDAHL

Friend Of Aged Physician Declares Trouble Was Brewing In Lilliendaahl Family Early In July; Wife Faithless

HAJAMONTON, N. J., Oct. 3.—(INS)—Information purporting to show that Dr. William Lilliendaahl, 72 year old physician who was mysteriously slain last Sept. 15, three months ago intended to leave his wife because he suspected her of relations with Willis Beach, poultry farmer now sought in connection with the crime, was in the hands of authorities today.

The information was volunteered by Frederick R. Anthony, Vineland, N. J., business man and next-door neighbor of the Lilliendaahls.

"Willis Beach is running with my wife," Anthony said. "I didn't want to make any trouble because I am afraid of him."

On a later occasion, Anthony said, the physician told him he had changed his bank account from a joint one with his wife to an account in his own name, so that he could "account for every penny she spends."

"I am making plans to leave my wife," Anthony said. "I am going to tell everything. She can go her way and I'll go mine."

Mrs. Lilliendaahl, who is free on $25,000 bail as a material witness in the murder, has told police that her relations with her husband were happy until the last. She contends her husband was slain by two negroes.

No trace has been found of Beach, the 52-year old poultry fancier who admitted writing clandestine letters to Mrs. Lilliendaahl. He fled early last week, and is being sought on a warrant charging him with "aiding and abetting" the murder.

Coincidentally with a statement by Prosecutor Hinkle that the murder mystery "had been solved" came the police announcement that they now possess affidavits purporting to prove that Beach had designs on the slain physician's property.

One of the affidavits, police said, was made by Frank Shoppard, who recently brought civil action against Beach, seeking to collect $450 for work in constructing a chicken house. He also obtained a warrant in Bridgeton last Friday charging Beach with "threatening to kill him" as the outcome of an argument over the bill.

Shoppard quotes Beach as stating: "When I get rid of the old Doctor I will have plenty of money and will be sitting pretty. If you ever open your mouth about this, I will kill you."

Death Of Gov. Peay Caused By Stroke; Body Lies In State

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 3.—(INS)—Funeral services for Governor Austin Peay, 51, who died last night from cerebral hemorrhages during his thirteenth term of office, will be held from the first Baptist Church Wednesday afternoon. The body will lie in state at the state capitol from 9 o'clock tomorrow morning until four in the afternoon. A guard of honor from the Tennessee National Guard standing watch over him, Mrs. Peay is prostrate over her husband's death.

Governor Peay died while taking a nap after eating a heavy meal yesterday evening. His heavy breathing and slight groans attracted Mrs. Peay and after she failed to arouse him, she called the family physician Dr. Frank Peasey. He died shortly after 8 o'clock last night.

The Tennessee chief executive came into the national limelight in 1925 by signing the bill prohibiting the teaching of evolution in the public schools of Tennessee. He was also one of the law's staunchest defenders in subsequent court battles over its legality, he being a supporter of the fundamentalist theory.

Governor Peay was the first chief executive to serve in the white in office. He was also the first to serve a third term.

Born in Christian county, Kentucky, June 1, 1876, Governor Peay attended the public schools of that county and later Washington and Lee university. He was graduated from Centre College at Danville in 1895 and began practicing law a year later. He moved to the home of his wife, Mrs. Sallie Hurst, at Clarksville, Tenn., where he has resided since.

Peay defeated his opponent, Alf W. Taylor, in the 1922 gubernatorial race and was elected to a third term in 1926.

Governor Peay is survived by his widow, a son, Austin Peay Jr., now enrolled in the University of Tennessee; a daughter, Mrs. A. P. L. Armstrong, of Memphis; and two sisters, Mrs. George W. Leavelle, now in China; and Mrs. E. M. Cary, of Clarksville.

Henry H. Horton of Lewisburg, speaker of the state senate, automatically becomes governor of the state. He arrived in Nashville near midnight by automobile, and took the oath of office this morning.

How to estimate the real value of a newspaper. A newspaper is worth a paper worth twenty-five to fifty cents, each leaving it for the paper.

We Have Weeks And Plenty Of Them

Thanks to the enterprising advertising men and the ever alert publicity workers of this country, the American calendar has been expanded until it now has one hundred and thirty-five special "weeks" despite the fact that most of us find some difficulty in squeezing in the customary fifty-two.

Mr. Marion has discovered that due to the manipulations of the calendar makers nine weeks have been included in the already busy month of April while May has five, November nine and this month seven.

As we begin the month of October it is interesting to note that we have facing us the celebration of Girl Scout Week followed by Management Week and then American Education Week.

And if at the end of October we think we have had our share of weeks, what will we do facing November with its no less than nine special weeks? The coming month is really a most serious-minded one, even more so than that of October.

Among the so-called extra weeks we have those whose names and purposes range from the sublime to the ridiculous. Imagine, Art Week with all the inspiration that it might arouse, followed by Milk Week and Walk and Be Healthy Week.

Could you imagine a boarding house habitue becoming joyful over the impending celebration of National Prune Week? We could see how some of our celery farmer friends could be interested in a Better Farm Equipment Week if provided they could get it without cost.

Carelessness!

There were over three and a half million casualties from automobile accidents during the past five years, far more than the American killed and wounded during the World War.

A review of the causes of these accidents shows that they are not largely due to faulty mechanism, improperly constructed streets, bridges or runways, but carelessness of drivers and pedestrians.

If this is the case, the elimination of accidents, or the near-elimination of accidents, resolves itself into the elimination of carelessness. This should be a simple task. It should be easy enough, when the possible results are considered, for the normal individual to exercise the greatest caution when going about our busy streets.

Carelessness seems to be an ingrained human characteristic, and was present among the races of the earth when Tigrath-Piliser used to play around the Pyramids. It is present among the peoples of the world today, especially between five and six o'clock when they are hurrying home from work, and have more interest in a cold bath or a two inch steak than in stop streets and the rights of other motorists and pedestrians.

THE RIGHT TO BE HEARD

In days of old, occasional town meetings and the daily gathering about the porch of the general store sufficed to furnish all the general discussion that was healthful for a community. When a new idea was advanced, it either gained the public approval or it failed to do so without the necessity of going farther.

Today we live in cities. Our very numbers have forced the daily newspapers to the front as an indispensable means of exchanging ideas. Fifty years ago a bit of news traveled from lip to lip on the main street. A suggestion for a new town pump or kindred change in the condition of things was discussed in town meetings after having been thoroughly talked over in the bright sunlight or dusty street.

THEY'RE COMING

"What news?" we ask the traveler as he comes back from vacation or business trip. Of course, there are mutual friends met and points of interest seen that are worthy of mention, and then in nearly every case there is talk of meeting people who are coming to Florida this winter.

How To Advertise. 1000 Years of Oil. Steers, Sheep, No Horses. Floating on Air. Woman's Brain—Man's. Copyright 1927 by Star Co.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3.—As you approach the Pacific from the east you learn that business men out here understand advertising, which is to business what the preacher's voice is to the church.

THE LOS ANGELES Sunday Examiner, in which this is printed, includes one 12-page section in two colors advertising exclusively Walker's Los Angeles department store.

HELEN GRADENER, a very intelligent artist, lecturer and woman suffragist, said for years "woman's brains are as good as man's" and to prove it left her own brain to be dissected by Cornell University, Dr. K. W. Papes who did the dissecting, says Mrs. Cardener's brain "is the equal of the best masculine brain in the Cornell collection."

THERE IS NO such thing as "equality in human brains." How would you compare the brain of Napoleon with that of Burns the poet, or the brain of Marconi with that of Villon? Women creates the entire human race including all the men with all their brains, good or bad.

PROFESSOR HUNTINGTON of Yale and Mr. Whitney, secretary of the eugenics society publish a book, "The Builders of America" and are all worried about the future of our race. The birth rate is diminishing dreadfully among "the brainworkers or builder class."

THE COLLEGE GIRL has few children, and the same is true it seems of the "Follies girl." Of 800 Follies girls only 500 married, and only 25 were known to have children.

IF THAT IS all true how did we progress originally from Adam and Eve in the garden who couldn't read, or from the inhabitants of caves and platforms over the lakes, to the Boston professor and the Follies girl? If we did it once, why can't we do it again?

Film 'Rough Riders' At Milane Is One Of Educational Import

No visitors were allowed that day. A sequence of tremendous importance was being made for "The Rough Riders" at the Fair Grounds on the outskirts of San Antonio, Texas. Victor Fleming, Paramount director, gave orders that there were to be no interruptions.

It was the scene where Theodore Roosevelt and Leonard Wood receive a telegram from the War Department to entrain their troops on the first leg of the journey to the battlefields of Cuba.

Someone handed Fleming a note. It was from a young mother in behalf of her children, begging permission to see "the filming, because," it read, "I want my boys and girls to have an education in the fine true side of American history and its great men."

"Open the gate," said Fleming, "and let every child in. We'll make a special place for them near the cameras."

Youngsters by the score flocked into the grounds, thrilled to the depths of their little hearts in the making but they saw such favorites of the screen in big roles as Mary Astor, Charles Farrell, Charles Emmett Mack, Noah Berry, George Bancroft and Fred Kohler. And they saw Frank Hopper, the image of Roosevelt and Col. Fred Lindsay as Leonard Wood. All of them appear in the production which will be shown, today, and tomorrow at the Milane Theatre.

They saw a thousand Rough Riders, brawny and blue-shirted, lustily cheering as they struck their tents in preparation for Cuban departure.

"I want my boys and girls to have an education," this was the simple, sincere line that opened wide the gates.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed in the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money is refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Tagging All Bases

By International News

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The Yankees are 7 to 10 favorites here today to defeat the Pirates in the twenty-fourth world series, starting on Pittsburgh on Wednesday. It will be the first meeting between the two teams in a post-season classic.

Even money probably will prevail in the betting of the first game, however, as the Smoky City rooters are confident of victory and are saying it with greenbacks. The great stand of the Pirates in 1925, when they came from behind to beat Washington, is still fresh in the memory of Pittsburgh fans.

The rival managers were undecided today as to their choice of pitchers for the opening game. Kay Kremer was to have been Bush's selection, but the crack right hander was knocked out of the box by the Reds on Saturday and lost some prestige as a result. He had been unbeatable for several weeks previous, however.

Carmen Hill and Les Meadows, Pittsburgh's bespectacled twins, are leading candidates for the honor of twirling the opener. Meadows worked against the Reds for three innings yesterday.

Either Hoyt, Moore or Pennock may pitch the first game for the Yankees. The Pirates are supposed to be sure death to southpaws, but Pennock, New York's veteran left-hander, was never lost a world Series game and Manager Huggins is confident he will have no difficulty in stopping the Bucs.

On their season's records, the New York pitchers outclass their rivals by a slight margin, but pitching in a short series may be something else again. Except for frequent lapses, the Pittsburgh pitchers burned up the National League during the last month of the season.

Both are hard-hitting clubs, and both can murder fast ball pitching. Hoyt of the Yanks and Kremer and Hill of the Pirates depend mainly on speed, so these gentlemen may not fare as well as their records would indicate. Afdridge, Meadows and Millis, curve ball pitchers, should worry the Yanks.

The Pirates do not exactly dote on splitball pitching, which would seem to be a favorable omen for urban shocker, the most ball expert of the Yanks. Dutch Ruether, who did his pitching in the bullpen when Washington opposed Pittsburgh in 1925 because of the Buccaneers' fondness for southpaws, may not get into the series this year for the same reason.

In reserve mound strength the Yanks, with Pipgras and Thomas as their "second best bats," have an edge on Pittsburgh's second string hurlers. Cveugros, Yde, and Dawson have done nothing for Barney Dreyfus this year except increase his hotel bills, although Cveugros did hold the Reds to two hits in five innings yesterday.

In batting percentage the two clubs are about even, but the home run hitting of Ruth and Gehrig gives the Yanks the edge. Just as Bobby Jones discourages competition by whacking a golf ball 300 yards while his opponent is forced to be content with a 230 yard drive, Ruth and Gehrig will take the heart out of the Pirates if they get started on a home run rampage.

The Yanks have three men, Gehrig, Ruth and Combs, hitting over .350, something of which no previous pennant winner has been able to boast. The Pirates are slightly superior in catching and in the infield. But New York has the better outfield as long as Kiki Cuyler lungashes in the Pittsburgh dugout.

In the team play the Pirates are better. The Yanks have great individual stars, but the team is not the first concern of all of them. Pittsburgh has more speed than New York, although the Yanks have stolen 25 more bases.

To offset New York's stars the Pirates have their famous brother act, Paul and Lloyd Waner. Paul is the new National League batting champion, while "sprout" is the third leading hitter, with a mark of .355 in his first year in the majors.

APPROVES SUGGESTION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1, (INS)—President Coolidge today approved a suggestion by William Randolph Hearst to send a naval vessel to Johnson Island, 750 miles southwest of Hawaii, to search for the airplane Golden Eagle, one of the missing Dole contestants.

LEGION WELCOMED

STRASBOURG, Oct. 3, (INS)—Huge crowds, which included a group of Alsatian girls attired in their colorful national costumes, welcomed members of the American Legion when they arrived here at 6:30 o'clock this morning on their good-will tour of Europe.

INSANE THREE ESCAPE

ST. PETER, Minn., Oct. 3, (INS)—Three men escaped from the state hospital for the criminal insane here today by swimming through an underground tunnel for burrows and are believed to have taken to the woods. One of the men was committed to the asylum for killing his sweetheart.

The United States should take immediate steps to deal with the problem.

Here is what Enright Avenue, St. Louis looked like after the passage of the cyclone. Note how buildings were ripped apart and the street clogged with wreckage. At the time this picture was taken, immediately after the cyclone had passed on, there were 29 known dead and 100 injured, with more casualties being reported momentarily.

GERMAN TRACK MEN TRAIN FOR OLYMPIC GAMES

Athletes Germany Train Hard For Olympic Games To Be Held At Amsterdam In 1928 And Are Confident Victory

BERLIN, OCT. 3, (INS)—After repeatedly beating first class American athletes who toured Germany recently, including Jackson Scholz, the winner of the 100 and 200 meter races at the last Olympics, the German sprinting elite is hopefully training to capture a good number of prizes, if not the first prize, at the coming Olympic Games at Amsterdam in 1928.

Germany is especially strong in sprinters. About two dozen of them easily run a hundred meters in less than eleven seconds. The elite of these sprinters is a group of some ten young runners from all parts of Germany, who have proved their superiority over the rest of the European elite time and again and runs the hundred meters in about 10.6 seconds, and less.

Germany also commands quite a number of respectable long distance runners, including the world champion for 800 and 1500 meters, Dr. Peltzer, who, however, at the present time is not in very fit condition.

With this strong team of excellent runners at her disposal, Germany expects to become one of the foremost candidates for victory in the four times 100 meter relay races, a contest, which is generally expected to see one of the hardest fought battles at the Amsterdam stadium.

POLAND ATTACHE APPOINTED FOR MOSCOW EMBASSY

Commercial Expert Chosen To Be Trade Representative or "Cinderella Of Nations," Tend Eliminate Friction

By International News Service MOSCOW, Oct. 1, (INS)—Poland has appointed her first trade attache to the embassy in Moscow in nearly a year, picking for the job one of the keenest commercial experts in the country—M. Zmigradzki, chief of the Russian section in the Ministry of Commerce and Industry.

The appointment is regarded as foreshadowing a more speedy conclusion of trade and non-aggression treaties between the two countries than had been expected.

Indirectly the $15,000,000 American stabilization loan to Poland helped wipe out a danger spot to peace. Had the loan come from British bankers, as it almost did at one time, Poland probably would have been induced to break with the Soviets altogether, a development which would have hurt Poland as much as Russia. Both sides appear eager to rush along the negotiations for treaties which were actually started in February, 1925 and dragged out for more than two years, suffering one setback after another until the assassination of Soviet Ambassador Pierre Volokoff at Warsaw, June 9 brought the nations almost to war.

Poland's chief concern is to boost her exports of Upper Silesian coal, textiles from the once famous mills at Lodz, hosiery, machinery and chemicals. Russia can furnish raw materials for Poland.

Average Salary Of Prospective Groom Should Be $35 Weekly, Says Official

ATLANTA GA., Oct. 3, (INS)—"What price marriage in a city?" The old adage that "two can live as cheaply as one," does not go with the average healthy American boy and girl of the present. Perhaps, lack in the days of long ago such a thing might have been possible, although it is improbable; but in 1927, it's obsolete.

The offices in every city where one of the main business is marrying persons, are the best possible sources of information on the subject of "What price matrimony," and they will all tell you at least one thing in common, a permanent job.

Before a man can reach the point of hopping off on a non-stop flight across the sea of matrimony, he must have arrived at some definite stage in his business career and be assured of comparative permanence, according to authorities in the office of the Fulton County Ordinary.

The average salary of the composite bridegroom should reach around $35 a week, they said. The old-fashioned husband who insists on his wife devoting herself to the task of making a home is fast disappearing, they say. In his stead is the man who insists on his wife keeping her job—and his reasons are not selfish.

The prospective husband figures that a working wife will not only help out the family budget but that the business associations will be a distinct advantage to aid her in the trying, lonesome days following the first glimmer of the honeymoon.

The majority of those who face the Ordinary and ask for a marriage license, plan a partnership instead of a corporation. There will be no President and Treasurer, but a joint working agreement with mutual obligations.

In Atlanta, the average youth who wins a wife is making an average salary of $18 per week, but cases are not rare where the wife earns more than the hubby.

One instance of this in this city: Recently a student at a local college applied for a license to marry and casually revealed was a secretary to a firm of attorneys with a salary of $2,400 a year, and that her savings would keep the wolf from their door until his education was complete.

The idea that marriages are becoming too casual is hoisted in the office of the Ordinary here. Instead, the force there say, the younger generation is bringing more thought to bear on a contemplated marriage than ever before. According to Judge Thomas H. Jeffries, the young people of today are taking marriage as a serious business.

Employers And Lab or Union Officials Criticized For Attitude Toward Miners

CHICAGO, Oct. 3, (INS)—Severely criticizing the attitude maintained by employers and labor union officials for their mental attitude and negligible progress made toward betterment of mining conditions which have caused the deaths of 23,147 persons in the last 10 years, Eugene McAuliffe, president of the United Mine Workers of America, addressing the sixteenth annual safety congress here today, stated the United States was far behind European nations in safety measures.

"The men who control the mining industries in America decline to ally themselves with the progressive methods now generally employed by other and similar industries to the mining section of the national safety council.

"It is the mental attitude maintained by employers, employees and labor union officials generally that is responsible for only the un-fortunate accident record shown in the coal mining industry as compared with the union conditions but also for the further fact that we are not making even negligible progress toward betterment.

"Great Britain in 1925 employed in her coal mine 1,117,328 men, killing a total of 1,126 or 1.21 deaths per thousand. In the same year American mines employed 800,803 men and of this number we killed 2,215 or 479 per thousands. Great Britain has a comprehensive mine safety law we have not."

Road Commissioner Former Sweetie Is Says Speed Isn't Cause Of Accidents A Toast Of Death

CHICAGO, Oct. 3, (INS)—Automobile traffic engineers here today discussed the drastic steps contended by John N. Mackall, chairman and chief engineer of the Maryland State Road Commission, who urged that all automobile speed laws be abolished because they were the "height of foolishness."

Carrying his argument further, Mackall said police control of traffic was senseless and based upon ignorance. His arguments were addressed to the automobile division of the final convolve of the national safety council which met here this week to discuss ways and means of maintaining national safety in every line of industry and public utilities.

"Deaths will occur in every line such as automobiles, airplanes and railroad," Mackall said. "It is practically impossible to stop deaths. We can merely reduce the number. Every motorist, to operate a machine, has a fair degree of intelligence and realizes the care involved. No motorist wantonly wishes to take human life, speed being only a means to the end, and the end is to get to the destination as quickly as possible."

LONG BEACH, Cal., Oct. 3, (INS)—Russel Bishop, oil worker, who last night is said by police to have taken his former sweetheart, Frances Currow, and his rival, Edward Teel, "for a ride in the country," forced them to drink a toast to death and then fired two bullets into Teel's body, is in jail here today.

Long Beach detectives found the sobbing Currow girl on a lonely road, beside the bleeding form of Teel. She told them that Bishop had come to her home, drawn a revolver and forced her, and Teel to accompany him on a ride. Out in the country, Bishop stopped the car, the girl said, gave his companions a bottle of beer, ordered them to embrace in farewell and drink a death toast.

"I protested," Miss Currow said, "and he started shooting. Mr. Teel fell in my arms, then Bishop pushed us from the car and drove away."

Teel is in a serious condition in a Long Beach hospital.

MUSEUM REPORT OUT OUR WAY RECALLS "GOLD" RUSH TO ARCTIC

Almost Forgotten Hegira 350 Years Ago Involved Queen Elizabeth And Wealthiest Noblemen Of England Then

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—(INS)—An almost forgotten gold rush of 350 years ago involving Queen Elizabeth and some of England's wealthiest noblemen was recalled here in a report issued by the Field Museum.

The report gives an account of the Dawson-McMillan arctic expedition to the far north, made in behalf of the museum. Members of the expedition, while exploring Baffin Land and Labrador, came upon mute evidences of the mining pits and improvised shipyards of Sir Martin Frobisher, during exploration, who led these expeditions, two for gold, into the forbidding recesses of this region between the years of 1576 and 1578.

Digging in the ruins, Dr. William Duncan Strong, anthropologist of the Dawson-McMillan expedition, unearthed fragments of brick, plaster, coal and porcelain, products which he stated were undoubtedly brought over from England.

The tale of Frobisher is one of the bright marks in English history. With financial aid from a few friends, he sailed from England in July, 1576, seeking a northwest passage to Cathay and India. His crew of 55 jammed in two small vessels, the "Gabriel" and the "Michael," and after arriving at Labrador, proceeded up the coast to what is now Frobisher Bay in Baffin Land.

The expedition returned the following autumn with 200 tons of the "gold ore" while the "ore" was being assayed, enthusiasm ran high. The north land of the arctic had been claimed in the name of the Queen, and it was the plan to establish a permanent colony. A third expedition of 15 ships sailed in quest of gold this time. Shortly after arriving in Frobisher Bay disension arose among the crew, and the idea of a permanent colony was abandoned. The fifteen ships, laden with more black earth, returned to England, and the crews discovered that the 200 tons previously assayed had turned out to be nothing more than iron pyrites.

Boy Is Sorry For Shooting Father Who Hurt Mother But He Would Do It Again

BERKLEY, Cal., Sept. 27.—(INS)—"I am not glad I killed him, but if I caught him abusing my mother again I'd shoot him." This was the statement made today by 12-year-old Jerome Fredrick, who shot his father, Charles D. Van Alderwert, 35, who, according to the boy, was choking his mother when he fired the fatal shot.

The shooting, police said, came as the aftermath of a violent quarrel between Van Alderwert, San Francisco manager of the foreign department of the American Express Company, and his second wife, young Cornell's mother. The youth said he heard sounds of a violent quarrel yesterday morning, that he came down stairs in time to see his step-father hurl a cigarette box at his mother and that he ran up stairs and loaded his small calibre rifle.

"When I came down again," he said, "My step-father was choking my mother. He called me a dog and told me to get out."

Then, according to the boy's story to police, he raised the rifle without taking definite aim, and fired. The boy said he wanted to hit his step-father in the hip. The bullet, however, pierced the tip of Van Alderwert's heart. He was taken to a hospital but died a short time later.

NON-STOP HOPS ARE OPPOSED BY FRENCHMAN

Leon Jacob Contends That Future Commercial Hops Not To Be Non-Stop Affairs

PARIS, Oct. 1.—(INS)—A non-stop flights across the Atlantic, aiding commercial aviation? No, says Monsieur Leon Jacob, Director of Information Service of the Aeronautic Ministry.

Monsieur Jacob contends that future commercial crossings of the Atlantic will not be made as a non-stop flight. He claims that at the present time planes are too heavily loaded with fuel to make them practical for navigation.

"The Atlantic crossings of the future," explains M. Jacob, "will be made as long runs on railroads are made today. Every so often on the railroads there is a change of locomotive and engineer and fireman. So will it be in aviation. There will be floating islands—as well as natural ones such as the Azores—where planes will land and reshup their mail and cargo in to a fresh plane with a new pilot, who will take off for the next point.

M. Jacob points out that at the present time all the planes that have either crossed or tried to cross the Atlantic in either direction have carried all the gasoline they could crowd aboard to the exclusion of all else.

"The commercial planes of the future," says M. Jacob, "have essentially to carry mail and certain merchandise. Therefore they will be obliged to cut down in their fuel—there rests no other solution than that to have stops on the way across."

"In the second place think what it means to a pilot to be forced to hold the stick for thirty or forty hours at a stretch. No engineer or driver his engine until he can't stand and so it should be in aviation."

M. Jacob does not claim to know what solution will be found for the floating islands but he feels certain that they are the only logical solution to the problem.

"The larger you make a plane," concluded M. Jacob, "the more gasoline you have to carry to keep it in the air—so I do not see a solution to the passenger or mail carrying problem."

It must be recognized sooner or later that there must be allowance made in the plane's flying capacity for mail and mail—and then it's a very hard question to solve.
