WOMAN WINS IN ILLINOIS AS DENEEN SINKS

Ruth McCormick Will Oppose Democratic Nominee For Senate Post In November

CHICAGO, Apr. 8.—(AP)—Once more a McCormick stands for election to the United States Senate as representative of Illinois Republicans.

Twelve years ago it was Nedliff McCormick. Today it is his widow, Congresswoman Ruth Hanna McCormick. She was nominated yesterday's primary election with more than 150,000 votes to share over Senator Charles S. Deneen, seeking re-election.

McCormick won the Republican nomination of 1924 from one of the political powers of Chicago—William Hale Thompson. Yesterday his widow overruled the dominant Republican organization in Chicago, and she did it with the full support of the reconstructed city hall Republican faction that Deneen forces crushed in 1923.

Next November, as a result of Tuesday's primary, history will get a chance to repeat—or reverse—itsself; for then, as 12 years ago, it will be McCormick vs. James Hamilton Lewis. Lewis, whom Nedliff McCormick defeated in the 1924 election, ran away with the Democratic nomination yesterday. With 53.3% of the vote's 7,117.

CHANCES FOR NAVAL ACCORD BEING SCOUTED

Professions Of Optimism Made By Some Accepted By Others With Grain Of Salt

LONDON, Apr. 8.—(AP)—Professions of optimism heard in some quarters that a five power limitation treaty still may be a subject here taken by most naval conference observers today with a grain of salt.

Few saw how anything more than a three-power treaty of limitation was possible, since there was abundant evidence that the other obstacles existed that had not yet given up her contention for peace with France, and France had already refused even to consider such an agreement.

At the Hotel, French foreign minister, after a conference with Prime Minister MacDonald yesterday, said that an agreement had been reached with the British had been reached on an interpretation of Article XVI of the League of Nations covenant which France might accept, thus providing for the desired parity.

MURDERER FOILS POLICE 8 YEARS; TELLS OF CRIME

Los Angeles Man Confesses Killing Of Rich Manufacturer

LOS ANGELES, Apr. 9.—(AP)—An eight-year-old murder mystery was solved last night, with announcement that O. L. Sanhuber, alias M. Klein, had confessed shooting Fred Osterreich, wealthy garment manufacturer, in the latter's Los Angeles home.

After the shooting, it was declared, Sanhuber retired to a secret compartment of the house which he had built, and lived there for 11 months while police investigated the slaying. Sanhuber, 35 years old, said he "had become peculiarly attached" to Mrs. Walburga Osterreich, widow of his victim, when he was 17 years old and the principals in the case lived in Milwaukee.

When the Osterreichs moved to Los Angeles, he is declared to have confessed he came here also, and lived in secret compartment, in the couple's home, built by him, and during the husband's absence Sanhuber, arrested last night on suspicion of murder, last night was said by James Costello, deputy district attorney to have confessed that he shot Osterreich on the night of August 22, 1927, when he believed that Mrs. Osterreich was being hurt during a quarrel with her husband, Sanhuber said he was resting in the secret compartment in the attic when he heard the couple come in and start quarrelling.

"I thought Mrs. Osterreich was being killed," he said, "I grabbed my little pistol and ran from the room. When he fused me, I fired. I ran back upstairs and went to this little room. I was stiff with fright."

The deputy district attorney announced that the arrest of other persons implicated in the slaying was momentarily expected.

Sanhuber's confession climaxed a revived investigation of the murder inspired by an affidavit filed by Herman S. Shapiro, attorney, in which he asserted that Mrs. Osterreich, who was arrested and held for nearly two years on suspicion of murder, had told him that her "vacant half brother" was living in the secret compartment.

McCormack counted only 144, while McCann's had polled 184, 200 votes against 144. Her opponent, Newton Franklin, was killed on the ballot with 836 votes. The victory of Mrs. McCormack, the first woman ever to win a gubernatorial nomination from a major political party, was accomplished by pluralities from every part of the state. However, her great strength, which showed itself as a surprise to many political observers, was in Chicago, Dennis' home town where, only two years ago, he led the high that dumped Major Thompson from his place of party prize.

Modern Potato Canning Plant Is Raising Output

Los Angeles, and now a resident of Palatka, made a survey of the potato canners of the South in the spring of 1927, and became convinced that the tremendous loss sustained each year by the potato farmers of these districts through lack of market for the smaller sized potato known as the No. 3, was an abnormal condition, and that the working end of a successful solution of the problem would mean not only a part of a potato canner, but the general distribution of a good potato product.

The first efforts of Mr. Tinsgate were devoted to the searching out of questioning of men of authority, such as canners, marketers, etc., as well as members of the Potato Growers Association, and while a few expressed a belief that the idea had merit, it was for the most part, regarded as a doubtful and unprofitable venture.

Undaunted by adverse opinion, Mr. Tinsgate continued his investigations, and in December, 1929, met a canner who gave him much encouragement, and predicted the success of his canning plant for the next year. Here, in a small back room, and from which Mr. Tinsgate formed the first profit, namely, that the canning of small potatoes was a real profit, and that it should be in the hands of the grower, require those and money. Added to this was the additional fact that many growers had failed to accomplish the very thing now being attempted.

With the above named question how a solid corporation, Mr. Tinsgate visited the offices of A. B. Zachary, a major general, agricultural agent for the United States and Canada, and also for the Florida State Department of Agriculture, and after the consideration of Mr. Tinsgate's proposal, he was very favorably impressed with the business proposition at such an early stage, and confident of its ultimate success.

He immediately agreed to back the enterprise financially, and the work was begun at once. Mr. Tinsgate, then being in Green Cove Springs, Fla., started a laboratory in his home, and by means of a scientific method, in daily conferences with Mr.

Correspondents were taken part and comprises throughout up with many departments of food, economy and research throughout the country, but it was in the canning plant, that the canning of small potatoes was to be worked out.

In January, 1929, the work was completed and the product put out to many local markets, and the result was a great increase in the sale of potatoes in the district, whose possibilities were beyond comparison.

One of the first steps in the production of this new enterprise was the securing of a canner in the State of Florida, who would accept the communication of Mr. Tinsgate, and who would accept the distribution of a good potato product, and who would accept the distribution of a good potato product.

At this point, the canning of small potatoes was in the hands of the State of Florida, and the canner was ready to start the canning of small potatoes, and the canning of small potatoes was in the hands of the State of Florida, and the canner was ready to start the canning of small potatoes.

Behold the Stranger!

A STRANGER moves to your neighborhood. You observe him tolerantly, but with no immediate display of interest. You are an established resident, getting along very nicely before he came.

But you do not avoid him. For reasons not entirely unselfish you wait for him to reveal himself. Possibly he may add something to your social and business life. Possibly he will take a highly respected place in the community. He may even become one of your intimates. It is up to him. Do you note his manner, talk with him, and form an opinion. If he comes up to your requirements, you accept him, and often he proves a welcome addition to your group of friends.

It is with exactly the same attitude that the intelligent newspaper reader regards the advertisements of products new to him. These strangers may add something to his civilized enjoyment. They may contribute to his comfort, safety—even his success. In many ways they may prove valuable. Certainly it is wise to give them careful consideration. Read the advertisements in the daily newspapers. They may be the means of introducing you to products that will take important places in your life. And every day they will give you information that enables you to buy intelligently and make your money go farther.

Seized Oilman Is Still Missing Despite Ransom

The oil man was thought to be too weak to travel, after his release. The son expected his father to begin the strenuous trip across rugged volcanic formations, where the bandit camp is located, sometime today.

At San Angelo Mrs. Bristol was confident her husband would be released.

Contact with the bandits' messenger believed made near Hue, a mountain village, was first reported yesterday. A private scout who returned from the vicinity of the bandits, who are led by Cruz Delgado, confirmed the report that the payment was under way. Another dispatch to the Oklahoma City Times and Oklahoman recounted that the ranks of the kidnapers had been depleted by activities of two detachments of federal troops. Three of the bandits were reported slain and four more were said to be prisoners.

Pursuit of the kidnapers was believed to have been halted Monday at the request of young Bristol. A halt in operations of the military was requested after the father had been said to have threatened to kill the 60-year-old man in revenge.

The students voiced their willingness to abide by his suggestion and agreed to call off the threatened strike.

Recommendation for the reappointment of Wetzel, who has been connected with schools here for 11 years, was made several weeks ago by trustees of Andrew Jackson

High School. When the school board failed to make the reappointment at its meeting Monday, parent-teacher leaders, armed with petitions containing names of several hundred parents of the students, appeared and requested that the action be taken.

The request was turned down, however, and F. C. Browning, chairman and spokesman of the board, refused to give any reason for rejecting Wetzel as principal of the institution. He also refused to grant a request of the parent-teacher delegation to set a date for further discussion of the situation.

Action of the students in deciding to strike in protest against the failure of the board to reappoint Wetzel was hastened when it was reported that the board had declined to reappoint Coach Ray Dikson for next year.

Now that the exodus from Florida has begun, northern visitors who are returning to their homes and native Floridians who constitute the advance guard of those who leave for the summer...

High winds, low temperatures; snow, drifting to impassable depths with highways choked and urban traffic paralyzed is the northwest's spring weather menu while Florida, her citrus trees in bloom and tomatoes ripening on the vine, feels only a lunge of the cold that has numbed that section of the country lying between the Great Lakes region and the Missouri Ozarks.

Without seeking to capitalize on the misfortunes of another section of the country there can be no harm in drawing a comparison between our own state and the other sections of the country that have been less favored by nature. Here is evidence of Florida's natural advantages over the lake region, the northwest, the middle west and the upper border country, and offers a reason for the far seeing ones in quitting that territory to cast their lot here with us.

Nationalizing Women

The recent ruling of the House of Representatives that Ruth Bryan Owen is an American in spite of the fact that she married an Englishman is an encouraging indication that the lawmakers of this country are intelligent when allowed to interpret their own laws.

The anomalous status of women under the operation of the world's present nationality laws is one of the major absurdities of the nationality problem. An American woman who marries an Englishman enjoys a dual nationality; she can vote in both countries.

The situation is grotesque, yet the American women who have appeared before the Conference on the Codification of International Law at The Hague, in order to obtain an outright declaration for the abolition of all sex discrimination in nationality laws, are watching their hopes fade.

But in a world in which it is increasingly impossible to deny that women are people they will ultimately have to enjoy any other person's right of having a nation and sticking to it.

TELLING THE WORLD

Will Hays has sent the movies out to the dry cleaners and they are coming back sweet and pure. When you read that hereafter the films will have no emphasis on sex, no sympathy with crime, no scenes of passion will be eliminated, profanity forbidden and the use of liquor restricted, it sounds like the scenario of "The Ten Commandments."

Every movie producer of importance has taken the pledge to love, honor and obey the new rules. But wait till they start making pictures under them. If there is going to be any sex talk, there's a great chance for an oyster to star in place of Clara Gable.

And poor Clara Gable. When Clara comes on the lot and starts churning up her "it," they will reach for the fire extinguishers. If Clara expects to stay in the films, she will have to play little Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and die inside of three reels.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

The ink of the town today is the prospect that "Jim Ham" Lewis, pink whiskers, trick vests and colorful oratory, are likely to return to the Senate.

It is interesting chiefly because it issues from Republican sources. White House scouts who have ventured out to the Illinois prairies return with the story. Well-informed political writers on prominent Republican newspapers are beginning to get it into print.

The fight for the Republican Senatorial nomination has developed a measure of personal bitterness far beyond the worst fears of the Hoover Administration and the fondest hopes of the Democratic National Committee.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Representative in Congress of the State at large, and Senator Charles S. Deneen are contesting for a Republican Senatorial nomination to be decided on April 8.

Mrs. McCormick is the daughter of Mark Hanna, "President maker," in the McKinley days. She is the widow of Senator Mark McCormick, Senator McArthur was found dead in a downtown hotel here following his defeat for re-nomination by Charles S. Deneen, just about six years ago.

Washington is convinced by now he is out to avenge the broken heart of his husband. And what he has been doing! He has had all the best of the publicity trade. He has asked no quarter in account of sex. She has been accorded a lot of favorable publicity by reason thereof.

Mrs. McCormick, linked with one of the most famous and enterprising of newspaper families, has picked up a lot of ideas of a daughter of Mark Hanna required any. She has fired one blast after another at Senator Deneen.

It does appear to be one State where people are apt about the Weekly Court. Through constant hammering by the two morning newspapers in Chicago, the people are regarded now as being convinced there is something sinister about the whole project.

Mrs. McCormick is campaigning on that issue. She is screaming "America First" three times a day and several times a night. Deneen voted for ratification of the World Court plan with the Senate reservation. Europe is used to accept it. He has a lot of difficulty explaining that his vote was one of the Senate brand of building reservations, such as Mrs. McCormick and her friend Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth objected to much when Henry Clay last night sponsored reservations to nullify the Woodrow Wilson League of Nations covenant.

The best Republican promises today are that the Illinois Republican now is a stand-off. The intensity of a woman's fight impresses many veteran political scouts. They say Mrs. McCormick will defeat Deneen. There is no doubt that organization inevitably is a result of oratory and emotionalism.

The first crop of tomatoes were shipped from McLeansville on Monday. This crop contained 750 bushels of No. 1's and 135 bushels of No. 2's. Both of excellent quality and selling for a net of $2.75 and $1.69 per bushel, or a total of $1,260 for the crop.

These tomatoes were grown on land west of town in the Crane Creek Drainage District, owned by C. E. Johnson and C. L. Powers. McLeansville Times.

Crops were benefited by the rain this week, and there was no appearance of the frost that was predicted for Wednesday night. Ground water is high in land outside of the drainage district north of Canal Point, but in general the water levels throughout the region are satisfactory.

Until the rains came there were reports that beans were not doing well, since then the appearance of vines has improved. Tomatoes are making good growth. Canal Point News.

STAND STILL, EVERYBODY

UNCOMMON SENSE

Aladdin and his wonderful lamp were regarded in your youth as what Mark Twain might have called exaggerations.

But I remember as a child that I used to think of them as characters in a lie. And my parents had hard work convincing me that the author was not very wicked to write such lies, even though they were interesting.

Yet, I remember "The Arabian Nights" all that Aladdin did which was wonderful was to ride about through the air, borne by a genie, or summon the same genie or another genie to do his bidding and his work.

It is true that a part of the genie's duties was to bring him the young woman he wanted for a wife.

But we all can find ourselves, which is worth the same thing as rubbing a lamp, and set ourselves at work, beating and fighting our bones, seeking out needs, or running our selves.

And there are a work today all sorts of things that Aladdin's genie never did for him.

Aladdin probably never thought of "talkies" and if he had he might have insisted to ask even a genie to perform such a miracle.

What tomorrow may bring forth we cannot even conjecture. But we may be sure that it will be as far beyond our dreaming as the radio and the airplane were beyond that of our grandfather, who looked upon "The Arabian Nights" as a volume of dangerous lies.

We cannot clearly glimpse the future, but we have every reason to think, judging from the past, that it will be well worth waiting for.

And the best thing about it all that we ourselves, and the people we know, will have a part in building this future, which will not only work wonders for our enjoyment and convenience but will lessen disease and poverty, promote human understanding, and make life safer and better and nobler for those who are to follow us.
