THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Mark	9	30-50
Monday	Psalms	1	1-5
Tuesday	Psalms	119	9-16
Wednesday	Isaiah	7	14-16
Thursday	Acts	3	23-40
Friday	Deuteronomy	30	15-20
Saturday	III John	1	1-4

Of course I don't scare you, I'm only a little boy making believe I'm a big bad man.
Some day, though, I will be big. Some day this game might be real, 'cause even the biggest bad man was once a little boy. And who knows what made him wrong? That's why early training is so important.
In church and Bible school we learn about God's kindness and love, and how we can trust Him for the things we need. We learn to want to help others, instead of hurting them.
Encourage the children you know to learn all the good they can. Make church and Bible school your family custom—please.

Art Or Cheesecake? Congress To Say

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress is planning to take up the burning question: When is an artistic masterpiece just plain cheesecake?

The particular masterpiece (or possibly cheesecake) in mind is Francisco Goya's painting "The Naked Maja"—a Spanish lady who lounges about in only an ambiguous lock.

The New York post office has banned an attempt by United Artists to send copies of the lady's portrait through the mail as an aid for a new movie. United Artists is fighting the ban in court.

Chairman Kathryn E. Granahan (D-Ia.) of the House postal operations subcommittee announced her subcommittee will "thoroughly explore" the entire situation immediately.

Mrs. Granahan said the subcommittee hoped that the postmaster general's arm "is strong enough" to prevent the sending of obscene literature through the mails.

But she said if it isn't, the subcommittee intends "to develop and recommend legislation which will give him the necessary tools."

"It is indeed a sad commentary on our sense of values when we cannot distinguish between objects of art which are a matter of national pride and the use of such objects as lures to the theater box office," she said in a statement submitted to the House.

Mrs. Granahan said the attempt to send the picture of Goya's lady through the mails "was not intended to raise the dignity of the painting."

Seven Persons Die As Fire Hits Home

FALTON, Maine, (UPI)—Seven persons—two men and five children—were killed early today when fire swept a one and a half story frame house just outside this small city.

The victims were identified as John Hersey and five of his children and Carl Lundy who was visiting the Herseys.

A fire official said the bodies have not yet been recovered from the ruins. Cause of the blaze is not yet known.

Mrs. Christine Hersey and one other child, a little girl, escaped before the flames destroyed their home. Both received cuts and burns and were taken to a Presque Isle Hospital.

Hersey was reported to be a civilian fireman employed at one of the northern Maine Air bases, either Presque Isle or Loring.

It's Unlucky Day, But Lucky For Tot

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UPI)—The first baby born in the Charlotte area today will be lucky, even if it is Friday the 13th.

Grady Cole, veteran announcer of a local radio station will be the baby's baptist.

Since he himself was born on Friday the 13th, Cole decided Thursday to do something for a child drawing this supposedly unlucky birthday. He called Kaye Gary, columnist for the Charlotte Observer, for an idea.

"Why not buy some stock and make a centlist out of the kid Gary suggested. The two finally decided on stock in an airline, which was selling for about $17 a share. Cole bought five shares. Later in the day, he announced the centlist again. "This is a great country," he said. "The kid ain't been born yet, and already he's made $380." The stock had gone up 74 cents a share.

Doctors at Childrens Memorial Hospital said David, a 30-month-old "blue baby", was in satisfactory condition after a delicate, four-hour heart operation Thursday afternoon.

Although they termed the surgery a "relative success," doctors cautioned that the next day or so would be "critical" in David's determined struggle toward recovery.

David of Vallejo, Calif., a suburb of San Francisco, was born with a complete transposition of the blood vessels of his heart, a condition which prevented his blood from getting enough oxygen.

As a result, his skin had a bluish tinge and his development was stunted. He lacked the strength to walk or sit up because of the defect and faced an early death.

But that was before David's name became known to thousands of friends and well-wishers around the country. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stewart, couldn't afford to bring David to Chicago where the operation for his condition was developed.

A fund began a modest collection to help the family, a San Francisco newspaper took up the cause and soon a "dollars for David" campaign snowballed into a $100,000 fund to finance the trip and the operation.

The Stewarts flew to Chicago from San Francisco Sunday and David spent the next few days under observation and getting acquainted with the hospital.

David was wheeled into the operating room shortly before noon, 6:31, Thursday for the life-or-death operation performed by a team of some of the best heart surgeons in the world.

A hospital spokesman said David came out of the long operation in "satisfactory" condition.

U. S. Is Unhappy At 'Small' Cigars

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Internal Revenue Service wants some small tobacco companies to stop avoiding taxes by making so-called "small cigars" that are more like cigarettes.

The federal excise tax on small cigars is 75 cents per 1,000, on cigarettes $4 per 1,000.

Production of small cigars, as reported to the revenue service, has skyrocketed from a normal 1,800,000 last August to 8,000,000 in January.

Officials say it's not a sudden smoking fad. Rather, they said, "a handful" of companies appear to have "switched" from cigarette to cigar production presumably to take advantage of the lower tax rate.

The IRS sent letters this week to the tobacco companies telling them either to stop the practice or to expect a new ruling that would make the so-called small cigars subject to the cigarette duty.

The revenue service declined to identify the companies but it was understood that none of the major tobacco firms was involved. The law says a cigar is a roll of tobacco wrapped in tobacco and a cigarette is a roll of tobacco wrapped in paper.

Rayburn To Stay Until 'Majority'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas says he won't retire from Congress until he can claim a majority of the Senate's 98 and soon to be 100 members.

"Mister Sam" was honored Thursday night at a party in the Capitol's old Supreme Court chamber by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, 44 other senators and Vice President Nixon. All are former House members.

The southern bald eagle differs from other migrant birds in that it nests during the winter.

Seminole Could Have New Industry In Clay

For years, Seminole County clay deposits have been viewed more as a nuisance than as an asset. But it has been found to be excellent for the manufacture of lightweight aggregate for concrete. Officials predict that this discovery could change the future of Florida's construction business.

Use of the aggregate in the state has been limited since the material has been imported from North Georgia and Tennessee.

Seminole County's first plant to produce the aggregate soon will be under construction near the Osteen Bridge. Production tentatively is scheduled to start next year. Some 60 persons will be employed by the plant at its inception. This represents another fine young industry for the county. It will bring no air pollution problems, according to Victor H. Hutchins Jr., Orlando, general manager.

The only roadblock in the path of the plant is the rickety bridge at Osteen. Officials are not willing to risk loaded trucks on the structure.

However, Seminole County Commissioners yesterday sought to take care of this item. A new bridge headed the list of projects the Commission asked the State Road Board to approve. Commissioners had planned to request a new bridge before the plan, announced plans to locate here. The industry's announcement just added emphasis to the request.

Hutchins said more than 60 per cent of the nation's concrete block and structural concrete is made of the aggregate, and the industry is only 10 years old.

Mother Earth may have provided Seminole County with an unexpected bonanza.

Brookfield To Grow

Brookfield Mills has joined Sanford's two other textile plants in announcing expansion plans.

When York Manufacturing moves into its new plant, ground for which will be broken tomorrow, Brookfield will begin plans to at least double its present personnel and machinery.

Alix Schneidman, president of Alix of Miami, said that operations at the Sanford plant "may even be tripled."

As in the case of Sanford Manufacturing and Pierré Manufacturing, our other two textile plants, the Brookfield announcement comes as very good news. Tomorrow, Pierré will hold open house in its new building at Fourth and Pecan.

What better proof does industry need that Seminole County offers fine industrial climate?

Nasser Runs Risk Of Soviet Breach

CAIRO (UPI)—United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser is risking Soviet displeasure and a possible halt to Russian military and economic aid in his campaign against the Communists in Iraq, Western diplomats say.

Nasser launched his attack Wednesday with strong criticism of Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem. He charged Iraqi Communists were taking orders from "the foreigners" and trying to turn the U. A. R. Communist.

As yet, there has been no Moscow reaction to Nasser's charges. Moscow Radio has blamed the short-lived Iraqi revolt on "colonial imperialists" and has made no attempt to link Nasser with the Iraqi rebels.

Western diplomats here said Nasser took the risk of losing aid from the Soviet Union, which has captured his troops with jets and tanks and is helping to build the Aswan Dam, because he could not ignore the expulsion of U. A. R. diplomats from Iraq and the implied charge that the U. A. R. is behind the unsuccessful revolt.

Kidnapers Release Women, Children

ALBANS (UPI)—Two Italian women kidnaped from their jets 11 days ago by Algerian Rebels were safe in French hands Thursday.

The French Command announced that the seven rescued members of the Cesaro family, forced to march 70 miles were in good health but exhausted when found Wednesday night. The army said there was no trace of the three Cesaro brothers who also had been captured by the rebels.

Assignment Washington

By Ed Koterba

WASHINGTON — Lately, the men of Congress have been saying some amazing things about themselves. What they've said has brought up these ponderous questions:

Are any of their number nitwits? Are some of them clowns? Are they, simply, all mixed up, or just plain misunderstood?

Representative Gardner Withrow (R., Wis.) was the gentleman who was wondering about nitwits. Several weeks ago he addressed the Congress of the Dominican Republic and the papers down there quoted him saying: "Like any other country, we in the United States have a nitwit or two. But, unlike in many other nations, we sometimes elect one or two to the Congress."

Representative Henry Heuss, a Democrat from Wisconsin was so impressed by his colleague's observation that he made it official. He placed the statement in the Congressional Record.

THE POISON IVY LEAGUE LOOK

Assignment Washington

Then there's Representative Frank Coffin (D., Maine) who told his homefolks in a newsletter that the House of Representatives "operates something like a circus." He said the performers do their stuff in several rings. Since each circus has its clowns, I wondered who he had in mind, but he neglected to identify them.

As far as mixed up Congressmen, that would be the celebrated case of the freshman gentleman of Iowa. He said he was just mixed up when he made the mistake of paying his part-time work college son the salary of nearly $1,000 a month.

Probably the most unimpaired stood lawmaker, on the other hand, is Representative Silvio Conte (R., Mass.). His constituents, he said in a letter to Capital Hill's weekly newspaper, "Hill Call," keep getting the wrong impression of his intentions.

After his election, said he returned to his district to set up office hours. And what do you know? The folks complained that he should be working back in Washington. After all, they said, that's what he was elected for.

So when he didn't make it back to Massachusetts for several weeks, they complained: "Who's that guy think he is? We only see him during elections."

When the lawmaker drove up in his old car, his constituents were upset because the jalopy looked like something the farmers haul trash in.

So he went out and bought a new car, and now they're saying they're sure the lobbyists have gotten to him already.

The first time he came home, he wore an old hat. People said, he said, "Look at him, just an old hat!" So he bought a new suit. The first thing he heard, he said, was "Far crying out loud, he's gone high hat with that Ivy League suit of his."

One Sunday he missed church because he was tied up talking with constituents, so several people said that being down in Washington had made an atheist of him.

Several weeks later, when he got back to the home district and showed up at church, the constituents were saying: "That pious fraud! He's just trying to dig up votes!"

The payoff came, he said, when he returned to his office in Washington Sunday night. There was a letter from a ranked constituent.

The letter said he was spending too much time in his district making personal appearances when he should stay in Washington where the voters sent him in the first place.

Sometimes, I think a Congressman earns his $22,500 plus fringe benefits like relatives on a payroll.

Drink Less, Nikita Says In Brandy Bottle Battle

BERLIN (UPI)—Nikita Khrushchev, who has advised Soviet workers to cut down their drinking, was slugging brandies at a rate of a short one every 15 minutes.

Between gulps, the Soviet premier would devour one or two small, spicy sausages, then push on through the crowd to shake some more hands, and hug a few more women. The younger the women, the tighter Nikita squeezed.

The scene was a reception for 900 prominent Communists, German and foreign, at the sprawling Soviet embassy building on Unter den Linden.

Khrushchev wore a simple black single-breasted suit, bedecked with "Workers Hero" medals.

Six huge buffet tables had been set up in as many rooms, and all had as much business as they could handle.

The pudgy premier was greeted by the assembled East German dignitaries, then proceeded to make a speech.

Khrushchev has an odd way of addressing a meeting in a foreign country. He simply starts talking in Russian, and his interpreter starts translating, raising his voice above Khrushchev's.

When Khrushchev gets some momentum, and starts shouting, the interpreter has to hellow to be heard at all. Khrushchev and the interpreter usually finish in a dead heat.

As for brandy—he is not a sipper, but rather opens his mouth, raises the glass, and stams its contents down his gullet.

As he made his hand-shaking tour, from time to time, he would snatch another brandy from a passing tray and bolt it down.

Some of the guests would make lengthy remarks. During these periods, while his interpreter gave him a whispered account, Khrushchev would stand with head hanging, eyes half-closed, his square hands folded together over his stomach.

But he would come awake the second the other person had finished and down another drink.

Washington Calling

By WILLIAM H. WHITE

WASHINGTON — The West is slowly but surely replacing the South as the holder of the balance of power in the Senate, and thus to a considerable degree in the country itself.

Increasingly, the future will belong to these predominately young Democratic Senators who have come here from the far and open spaces. Ironically, too, these spaces were largely settled by the tired, dusty migration from the South that followed the Civil War and the collapse of the Confederacy cause.

The East is the home of the Ivy League colleges, which many believe to be the only beacons in what is otherwise a national sea of educational darkness. But these new Western men of new power actually are the real eggheads of the Democratic party. And in nearly every case these minds were hatched in home-grown colleges.

Thus it is that as the political dominance of the South is sinking, the old intellectual dominance of New England is sinking, too. Great changes are occurring across our political landscape.

These points are no longer merely theoretical and academic. It was evident even in the last Congress that the Western Senators were approaching a point where, in coalition with the moderate Southerners, they could run the Senate. It is now becoming plain that the moderate Southerners within a short time may need the Westerners even more than the Westerners will need them.

All this is illustrated by the extraordinary generosity with which the old Senate Democrats have dealt in giving important committee assignments to the new Westerners. (It is in legislative committees that a Senator makes his real mark, far more often than in debate on the Senate floor.)

Senator Gale McGee of Wyoming, a 45-year-old history professor until the November elections, has gone onto the Appropriations Committee, the second most powerful in the Senate. This group holds the keys to the Federal cash box. Freshman Senators simply do not reach that committee—but one has this time.

Senator Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, a 42-year-old former professor of economics and ex-member of the House of Representatives has gone to the Senate Finance Committee—a group so influential that even Presidents approach it with wary courtesies. The Finance Committee, which handles taxes and tariffs on the Senate side of the Capitol, handles in fact much more even than these.

It is second only to the Treasury—and sometimes more influential even than the Treasury—in making the whole complex fiscal and economic policy of the United States.

Senator Frank Church of Idaho was elected two years ago rather than last November, he is still, however, a freshman even if he is edging toward the sophomore class. Church has been given a seat on the Foreign Relations Committee. A deeply internationalist Idahoan thus now sits at a table where an old isolationist Idahoan, Senator William F. Borah, once made administrations—and foreign countries—tremble. This committee has the power to veto—and sometimes actually to make—the high foreign policies of the United States.

Church is the youngest of the young. He will not reach the tottering age of 35 until next July. He has never been a professor (he is a lawyer, instead) but intellectual interests are his chief in life.

Other new Westerners have done very well, indeed, in reaching committees of high influence. It is, however, these three—McGee, McCarthy, Church—who could be described as the brightest particular sons of fortune. Each in position immensely to forward his career and his region. No three men in all history, so far as anybody can recall, have reached so much Senate power together so soon.

All three are liberals, but eagerly so. All three know how to work usefully with men with whom they may often disagree. Given normal life expectations and political luck at the polls in the future there will be three names to reckon with in the Senate and in the country, for decades to come.

"Mt. Olympus" Theme Of Latin Club Event

In a complete Roman setting the Latin Club of Seminole High School entertained with their annual banquet Tuesday evening in the auditorium of the school.

The theme of this year's banquet was "Mt. Olympus" with the "Athenian Board" presided over by Latin Club president, Jim Sklarford.

Featured guests were the Roman Gods and Queens who were represented by Alex McKittrick and Gerry Luke. In a decorative setting and appropriate costumes the first year "slave" students served their "masters" the second year club member. The banquet was eaten minus silverware and the diners reclined on the floor as was the Roman custom.

Guest Of Honor Party Absentee

A unique birthday party honoring Joseph Sierackowski was given last evening at the Mar-Lou restaurant with his wife as guest.

And what made this party such an unusual one is the fact that Mr. Sierackowski is now "far out to sea" aboard the USS Roosevelt with VAH-11.

But pictures and tape recordings were made of the party and will be sent to the absent guest of honor so that he will have a full account of the celebration.

Party guests enjoyed a pizza supper topped off with the traditional birthday cake. Those present were Mrs. Hoyle Shields, Mrs. Andrew Holton, Mrs. C. H. Atkinson, Mrs. Stan Wilbur, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Keaford, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Scully, Mrs. Wilkins Bedeman, Mrs. Paul Markos and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Conn.

Lake Golden Plans Made This Week

Shades of Mike Todd. The late, great showman Mike Todd never thought of a small-scale party.

"And what I think is to be an occasion of some importance," even in modern times. Lake Golden plans were put into effect that will make the decorations alone well worth the $1000 per person admission price.

Actual decor such as thousands of gasolene floating in Lake Golden and scattered throughout the party area, beautiful woven baskets filled with fruit and flowers hanging from palm trees and believe it or not, pine trees, strung into palm trees, attached to foot stools, colorful and unusual lighting effects. Hawaiian torches.

These usual decorations would be expected at a Hawaiian party.

But the Navy party had a different feature. All this baskethood to the lighting. Maps, maps, maps. Maps will be constantly given the supervision of a large crew and his crew. The stage area where a professional photographer and fashion show will be held will be decorated with tropical and Tapa cloths which are beautiful Hawaiian hangings of printed bark in which intricate designs have been worked.

And one of the most spectacular aspects at the party will be the lighting. Maps, maps, maps. Maps will be constantly given the supervision of a large crew and his crew. Garden Gate

By MRS. S. C. DICKERSON

March, March, windy March. But we love March for it is the first month of spring. We all feel a happy exhilaration.

Now, let us open our garden gate and take a look at our garden family. We see new life is bursting forth in them too.

We must remember that they have been dormant through the months of Florida winter and now on their awaking they are very hungry and to stop their clamoring begging for food we must start feeding immediately and in a few days creep around the corner and watch their growing and expressing their thanks the only way they can by giving us their lovely blooms.

Let us not think that one feeding is enough. That was only breakfast. The next meal will be in thirty days and every thirty days through September, when they will be going to sleep again for the winter of 1959 and 1960. Friends, just remember that gardens are very much like we humans. One of their very human traits is some are very light eaters and acquire special diet, while others are heavy feeders and will thrive on most any food. For example Camellias and Azaleas require very little food. One very good formula is 3 lb. Sulfuric acid and 1 lb. Ammonium sulfate to 1 gal. of water. Pour one cup of the mixture around a small plant and more according to larger sizes. In case this liquid is spilled on the plants when thorough feeding, wash off carefully with a soft spray.

The fertilizing of Camellias should be discontinued with the June feeding as they are setting their bloom buds then. Just a hint: the cuttings taken from Camellias (or Quince) will root much quicker than those taken at other times. Histories are just the opposite of these and are very heavy feeders. In fact, every time I pass them I can hear "I am hungry." You could feed these every three weeks. All other shrubs and trees will do very well on monthly meals.

If one of your garden family seems a little tired and sick, a light dose of Magnesium Sulfate (Epsom Salts) dissolved in water will help. All palms would feel much better given 2 to 6 lbs. of Magnesia every six months.

So much for food but our garden family will have to be cleaned up for their summer paradises. As next week we all deal with sprays which make their leaf dresses immaculate.

Stag Party Held

Two of Heavy Attack Squadron's bachelors, who will be married this weekend, were honored at a party Tuesday night and the party was named a "Wag" commemorating the coming of events.

Lt. J. Charles Gill and John Todd Douglas, Aircraft company field service engineer, were told of the joys of married life by their friends who presented each with a memento of the occasion—a length of rope tied in a harem man's knot.

When it became obvious that the two men were determined to go ahead with wedding plans the well-meaning friends made certain that both would be decorated in appropriated fashion for the weddings.

After the party Lt. Gill caught a plane to New Jersey and his future bride, Miss Elizabeth Nash.

Jazzy Ties

Another effort to jazz up men's conservative clothing. Designer Julie Taylor shows ties in red, gold, orange and blue in busy patterns. Most ties are washable and hand sewn. Shapes range from slim bow ties to narrow four-in-hand. Ends are square and have inside pockets for bus tokens or tranquilizers.

For Patio Light

Need a light on the patio in late one. Two models of inflatable lamps which resemble lanterns, come with six-foot extension cords and chimneys that open at the top to prevent damage from light bulbs. The vinyl does not become discolored when inflated. The lamps form modernistic knots, about 18 inches in diameter.

Peek up intimate aperitif cocktails with a bit of crumbled or ground basil and garlic powder. Add to taste.

Want To Dance?

A second group of adults from the Sanford Recreation Department's Square Dance class graduated into the Senior Group last night.

A new class of ten lessons will begin next Wednesday night and all interested adults should plan to register at that time. The beginners class starts at 7 P. M. Square dances who are acquainted with the steps may join the Senior Group at 8.30.

Over 32 couples have been attending the weekly Wednesday night Square Dance Activities. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Curtis are the instructors under the City Recreation Department's Winter Program.

Table Talk

"But Ambrose, why do we have to walk in this subway tunnel?" The question which faces Linda Laurie as she strolls with her close-kissed boy friend is a common question that all humanists asks God. Why do we have to keep walking in the vale of tears, this devil-dominated, hate-filled universe? To some the pain is too much and they cry out for God to give us a better, happier, more broken homes, and helplessness and hopelessness seems to be a part of our lot as human beings. The answer that the Pastor must give, it was God's will that it be this way. This seems very weak in the face of the enormity of unsolvable problems that face all mankind. But a better answer is the answer that we can give, or it is the greatest answer. We cry out to God and ask Him, "Where are we going?" He answers, "Just keep walking."

God can give us this answer because He is an all-knowing God. He is not caught in a subway tunnel in which all He can see is the entrance. God is in eternity. He sees from the outside. He knows the destination. He can see to the ends of the tunnel while we can only walk the darkness, treading along the tracks, stumbling over the rails, and avoiding the deadly middle. "The cry comes again, 'Watch and pray.'"

This is a middle tunnel is life. A stream of a man's life is in the present. We are looking to Him. When we see to find another way we are not walking there is no way out of this existence, the one prepared by God.

Many persons fail to realize that they are not looking for a way out or even dread the pain which God has for their evil. God has redeemed all of us through His Son. That means that when we reach the proper exit it will no longer be an exit but an entrance. Some persons fear that this no longer fear when they hear the voice of God say, "Keep walking."

Heaven is on earth. How? Through the present truth that God is with His loved ones through His Holy Spirit. The Christian doesn't have to wait for the light to start up ahead. He may well be walking through it in his own soul. Christ is both here and coming. And don't have to wait for your faith to leave you to be able to live in heaven. What is the good up? Don't just stand there do something. Wake up... eat, live. Put a smile on your face, a smile to your work, and keep walking.

Coffees Held Thursday Morn'

Mrs. J. B. Sangster and Mrs. Charles Guthrie entertained with a Coffee Thursday morning at the Sangster home. The informal coffee was for members of VAHL and the party hour was spent in conversation and the making of Hawaiian leis for the Navy Relief Fund.

The hosts served a spring bouquet of yellow and white flowers arranged in a black bowl, for the yellow covered coffee table. Another morning coffee was held at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Howell with Mrs. Harold Lang as co-host.

Memories attending were woven from Heavy Attack Squadron Sixteen.

An inexpensive luncheon is made with locally and breads. Factors are the boards and stacks separating them by the bricks.

Add a teaspoon of olive or salad oil to water when cooking spaghetti to prevent sticking.

Richards Thinks Tigers Only Club With Chance

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI)—Paul Richards jumped on the Detroit bandwagon today, calling the Tigers "the only club in the league which has improved" and the only one with any real chance to beat the Yankees.

The manager of the Baltimore Orioles isn't optimistic about his own club's chances. "Our kids are still a year or two away," he pointed out. "I don't see any club in the league which has improved except Detroit. I don't know whether they will catch the Yankees, but I figure they have the best chance."

He thinks Ray Narleski and Don Mossi "will be a big help" to the Tigers. "Last year they hurt for relief pitching," Richards said. "That bullpen weakness meant the Tigers had to go too far with their starters. Narleski and Mossi could change that."

Trade Winds Blow In Major Leagues

United Press International Trade talk broke out in the big league training camps today when the Los Angeles Dodgers disclosed recent negotiations with the Milwaukee Braves and the Baltimore Orioles revealed they want to dispose of pitcher Billy Loew.

"I will make a deal, however, provided it's one we can't turn down. If we can get two players who will play for us every day or one daily player and a pitcher who can go every fourth day, we are willing to deal."

The Braves, who know Schoendienst won't be available and suspect that Mel Roach, original No. 1 candidate for the job, won't be either, now rate Chuck Cotter, a 21-year-old rookie on the Louisville roster, as their best prospect. Cotter has starred defensively in the Braves' early exhibition games and has collected five hits in 13 times at bat.

Wiffie Gets Lead In Titleholders; Mickey Is Threat

AMSTERDAM, N. Y. (UPI)—Chubbie, redefined Wiffie Smith, who mopped up the field of women's amateur golf before he turned 20, carried a one-stroke lead into the second round of the Titleholders Tournament here today in her drive to become one of the nation's top women professionals.

Rockin Jo Favored In Track Feature

Big Rockin Jo, from the five box, is figured to pull early odds for tonight's featured ninth race at Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club.

Evansville Picked In Cage Tournery

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UPI)—Evansville's record husters were installed as favorites in tonight's title clash with Southwest Missouri in the NCAA small college basketball tournery.

By JERRY COVINGTON The Sanford Seminoles open the 1959 baseball season here Monday night against the Lyman Greyhounds of Longwood. The lid lifter is set for 8 p. m.

Coach Dave Laude has been teaching his young squad the fundamentals of the game for several weeks. He is assisted by Jim McCoy in working an inexperienced squad into shape.

This squad has only two regulars from last season. Cecil Dandridge, the outstanding player last season, will be starting at short stop, a fairly new position to him. Last year he played practically every position but was used chiefly as a catcher.

Here's the way the odds-makers see Friday games: Navy (17-5) 7 points over Boston Univ. (19-6).

West Virginia (26-4) 3 points over St. Joseph's (Pa) (23-3).

Michigan State (18-3) 3 over Marquette (23-4).

Kentucky (23-2) 2 over Louisville (17-10).

Kansas State (24-1) 16 over De Paul (11-9).

Cincinnati (24-3) 6 over Texas Christian (19-5).

California (21-4) 4 over Utah (21-5).

St. Mary's (Calif.) (17-5) 14 over Idaho St. (20-6).

Friday night winner will clash Saturday night for regional titles.

Kentucky, ranked No. 2 nationally by the UPI Board of Coaches, is the defending NCAA champ. But Coach Adolph Rupp has back only one starter, Johnny Cox, from last year's titleists and, what's more, his team is in the tournery only "on a pass."

Kentucky inherited the Southeastern Conference berth when champ Mississippi State passed it up rather than meet teams with Negro players and Auburn, which tied Kentucky for second, was under NCAA suspension.

That's why many experts expect the 1959 champion to come from Kansas State or Cincinnati.

At the end of the third quarter, the local team kept opponents down to a minimum six points, while they scored 10, putting them into the lead, 36-33.

In the last period, Hilliard went all-out and scored 22 points, while Oviedo fought hard but scored only nine.

Freddie Alford and Paul Smith were high point men with eight each, followed by Mike Duda with seven, Joe Duda six, Brookshire five, Tesinsky, Kelsey, and Wainwright three each, and Arndt and Willis one point each.

The catching spot is undecided. It is between Don Carter and Bob Stubbings. Carter is a fair hitter but Stubbings is a fine receiver and has a good throwing arm. If he can come across at the plate, he could hold the starting position all season.

The Seminole Hoosters Club is sponsoring the tilt and urges full support of the baseball program. In order for the Seminoles to play under the lights this season, a good crowd is needed for every game.

The Pep Band will supply entertainment. A parade and pep rally are set for 4:30 p. m. Monday.

Hooster members with $10 tickets will be admitted free.

Kansas State Favorite; Close Cage Games Seen

United Press International Streaking Kansas State, the nation's top ranked team, is expected to clinch the "losingest" team in the field for its 21st straight win but the odds-makers forecast might close competition in almost all other games tonight when regional play opens in the NCAA major college basketball tournery.

Competition is slated at four sites as Navy's surprising team leads seven first-round winners into conflict along with nine league champions who had first-round byes.

Here's the way the odds-makers see Friday games: Navy (17-5) 7 points over Boston Univ. (19-6).

West Virginia (26-4) 3 points over St. Joseph's (Pa) (23-3).

Michigan State (18-3) 3 over Marquette (23-4).

Knicks Face Test In NBA Tonight

United Press International New York's "Wimpy" over the Syracuse Nationals gets the supreme test tonight when the Knickerbockers return to the National Basketball Association playoff wars after a three-year absence.

The Knicks, runners up to Boston in the Eastern Division race, had a 9-3 edge over the Nats in regular season play, including a string of nine straight.

Tonight's NBA playoff opener of a best-of-three affair finds New York in an other enviable position.

Fuzzy Lavane's Knicks has been playing in the 60th Regiment Army, where they have won all three games this season and eight of nine during the past two campaigns.

The second game of the series will be nationally televised at 2:30 p. m. from Syracuse Sunday, at 2 p. m. e.s.t. If a third game is necessary, it will be played at New York's Madison Square garden, the Knick's regular season court, Monday night.

The winner will meet Boston in a best-of-seven semi-final round.

Fay Crocker, the veteran from Uruguay who now plays out of Wichita, Kans., was close behind Miss Smith with a 74. But the golfer to watch appeared to be 24-year-old Mickey Wright of San Diego, Calif., who was another stroke back at 77.

Miss Wright came into the titleholders as a favorite after winning the Jacksonville invitational on Sunday.

A three-way tie for fourth at 78 included another favorite, three-time champion Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga. Betsey Rawls of Spartanburg, S. C., twice a runner up but never a champion, and Joyce Ziske of Milwaukee, shared fourth place.

Tonight's action launches a full weekend of racing at the oval, with matinee competition slated at 2 p. m. tomorrow, followed by 11 events at 8:10.

Only 11 more days of racing remain on the club's 92-day schedule which closes March 30. But before the finale, some of the South's best stepping is planned including a Derby race, match race and stunt event.

House pets will run at 2 p. m. Sunday, in exhibition competition.

Art Wall Jr., Focomo Manor, Pa., set the pace Thursday with a four-under par 68, seemingly untroubled by a biting cold wind that hit 35 miles an hour in gusts.

Tied with Wall with 68 were Jay Hebert, Sanford, Fla.; Freddie Haas, New Orleans; Arnold Palmer, LaRabe, Pa.; and Bill Blanton, La Mesa, Calif.

Five players also were tied for runner up honors at 69. They were: Chandler Harper, Port Jervis, N.Y.; Jim Turnesa, Elmford, N. Y.; Dave Hagan, Orlando, Fla.; Paul Harney, Worcester, Mass.; and Lionel Hebert, Lafayette, La.

The temperature was 41 degrees when the field of 190 teed off in the early morning Thursday and even colder weather was predicted today. After today's 18 hole round, the field will be cut to the low 60 players and ties, with the finals on Sunday.

U.S. Probably Completed By Hawaii

United Press International
The admission of Hawaii probably will complete the U. S. Hawaii was the last U. S. possession with territorial status, the final step on the political ladder to statehood. Puerto Rico is a free commonwealth in association with the U. S., a status copied from the British model and not designed to lead to statehood.

Legal Notice
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE 11TH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT IN AND FOR SEMINOLE COUNTY, FLORIDA IN CHANCERY No. 10001 B. N. L. S. vs. J. M. L. S. et al. NOTICE TO CREDITORS

The only U. S. possessions left are the Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, the Canal Zone, and a shoal of isolated and often uninhabited Pacific Islands. None of these is expected to achieve territory status, let alone statehood, in the foreseeable future. The Virgins, purchased as recently as 1917 from Denmark for 25 million dollars, have the best chance of becoming a territory. These 200,000 palm and atid Caribbean islands are at present unorganized and administered by the U. S. Department of Interior. The 132 square miles of islands, increasingly popular playgrounds for American tourists, are administered by a governor appointed by the President—currently Walter A. Gordon, a Californian.

They also have a one-house Legislature composed of 11 elected senators. Since 1927, the residents of the Virgins have been citizens of the U. S. but they cannot vote for president. The 30,000 islanders are 80 per cent Negro, a fact that would raise formidable opposition to the question of statehood from southern congressmen. Guam has the status of unincorporated territory and is the chief Pacific base of the Strategic Air Command. This island, one of the spoils of the 1898 war with Spain, also is administered by the Interior Department. The narrow, 30-mile-long island is governed by Gov. William S. Lowery, formerly of South Dakota, a presidential appointee, and a one-house Legislature of 21 elected members. The 30,000 residents, mainly of Malay stock are American citizens but do not vote for president.

Gray Vet Battling For Life; Is 112
KINGSPORT, Tenn. (UPI)—"General" John Salling, 112, one of the last two surviving veterans of the Civil War, battled for his life against pneumonia today. Dr. John Munal, director of the Munal clinic where the old mountaineer was taken Thursday, said Salling was "in pretty serious condition" today. "It will be touch and go," Dr. Munal said. "Both his lungs are full and he doesn't have the strength to get the stuff out. If we can get some means of drainage to get his lungs clear, we might pull him through." The aged rebel, due to celebrate his 113th birthday May 12, was taking medications and liquid nourishment. He was running only a slight fever and spent a fairly comfortable night. He was not placed in an oxygen tent. Salling was brought to the clinic from his home near Slant, Va., 23 miles away.

50th Star Okayed, But Where, When?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U. S. flag is going to have a 50th star—but no one here knows when it will be added or precisely where it will be placed. Flagmakers, who tensely awaited the decision on the design for a 49-star flag to accommodate the admission of Alaska, were up a pole once again. To make it worse, Hawaii's certain addition as the 50th member of the Union came before it was actually proper to display the 49-star flag.

Also, if the procedure carried out by the government in the case of Alaska is repeated, high-level officials will have to ponder the problem of how to place 50 stars in the flag's blue field. The Veterans Administration, which buys some 120,000 flags a year, is ordering flags to be made with the regulation 13 stripes, but without any stars. It said flag manufacturers have agreed to wait until things settle down a bit before adding the stars.

The flag design adding a star for Alaska was approved Jan. 2, when the state joined the Union. But President Eisenhower's proclamation also pointed out that individuals and private firms were not supposed to fly the new banner with seven staggered rows of seven stars each until July 4, 1959.

Famed Flier Dies In Precision Drill
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—A member of the Air Force's famed Thunderbird jet precision flying team was killed Thursday when he was forced to bail out of his craft crippled in an in-flight collision.

It appeared unlikely that Hawaii's star would be officially added to Old Glory before the 49-star flag became official this year. Although Eisenhower was sure to sign the bill given final congressional approval Thursday, the Hawaiians had to hold plebiscite, elect congressmen and formally be admitted to the Union. When it is admitted, a new flag reflecting its addition to the Union would not become official until the following Independence Day.

Capt. Charles H. Fish, Salmon, 36, of Fort Jervis, N. Y., member of the Distinguished Flying Cross in Korea, fell to his death in a rugged area. The Air Force said Salmon was killed either because his parachute did not open or because of injuries received when it brought him down in mountainous terrain. The four-plane Thunderbird team performs close-outer aerobatics with F-100 jets at supersonic speeds. It gives demonstrations of precision flying throughout the world. An Air Force spokesman said the team was practicing a routine maneuver when Salmon's craft brushed another and the tail assembly of his jet was crippled. Survivors include his wife, Harriet, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Salmon, Riviera Beach, Fla.

Faubus Is Fuming At Filibuster Foe

Just No Step Left For Newest State
BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Now that another state is coming into the Union, Louisiana officials are having another headache. The Pelican State Capitol has a set of marble steps leading up to the entrance. Each step bears the engraved name of a state. When Alaska was statehood, something could be done. Its name replaced the inscription "E Pluribus Unum" at the top of the stairs. Emilie J. Bourz, supervisor of state buildings, attended with the problem Thursday and came up with the answer. Hawaii will have to take a piece of the floor of the landing at the top.
