Court reprimands McGregor

SANFORD — Not only did Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor's assistance fail to help his wife win an election for court clerk in Seminole County, it earned him a reprimand from the Florida Supreme Court.

The Judicial Qualifications Commission recommended the reprimand after finding McGregor delivered and erected campaign signs and put political disclaimers on them for his wife, Mona, last year.

She lost in the Republican primary to incumbent Court Clerk Maryanne Morse, who was re-elected.

McGregor did not contest the findings and apologized for his conduct through a stipulation with the commission.

He was unavailable for comment this morning.

Police checking robbery suspect

LONGWOOD — Longwood Police are trying to determine if a young man arrested by the Seminole County sheriff's office following a bank robbery at the Barnett Bank on State Road 434 on Wednesday is the same one who robbed a bank in their city last week.

James Capozzi, Jr. of 104 Citrus Tree Lane, was arrested Wednesday after sheriff's deputies stopped him for making an illegal U-turn on State Road 434. More than $3,000 was found in his car at the time of his arrest, authorities said.

"His description closely resembles the suspect in our bank robbery," said Capt. Terry Baker, Longwood's assistant police chief. "We're putting together a photo line up to show to the people at the other bank."

The Longwood bank robbery, which occurred at the First Union Bank on U.S. Highway 17-92, has yet to be resolved. Fingerprints left on the counter, on the stick up note and on a pair of sunglasses dropped by the suspect, are still being analyzed by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement.

The check the Longwood robber used as a stick up note turned out to be stolen and of no use as a link to the robber, Baker said.

Capozzi has been interviewed by the Longwood Police, Baker said, but he did not admit to the Longwood robbery.

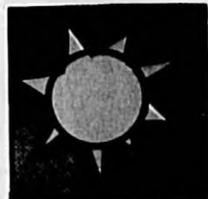

"We'll just have to wait and see if there's any connection," he said this morning.

Complaint against city commissioners goes to governor

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — The attorney for Sanford letter-writer Ricky Sheaffer said a formal complaint was filed with the governor's office Thursday against city commissioners Herbert "Whitley" Eckstein and A.A. "Mac" McClanahan.

The complaint asks governor's counsel Karen Karney to investigate the alleged incidents surrounding Eckstein's alleged "stalking" of Sheaffer and McClanahan's subsequent involvement.

"The worst kind of tyrants are the little tyrants and that's what we have in this town," Sheaffer said this morning. "If this is an example of our government in action, then something is wrong. If I didn't try, they would go on to do worse things later on. I'm going to call them on this."

Lake Mary fire chief resigns

'I was misinformed when hired'

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary's Fire Chief Bob Stoddard has resigned, saying he was misinformed about the position when he was hired last year.

Stoddard, 63, said today he has not yet determined what he may do following his departure from the department.

"What actually happened," he explained, "was that I was misinformed when I was hired last April, by an official who is no longer with the city. He indicated that I would have no problem becoming fully qualified."

"But when I went to Ocala to obtain my qualifications," he said, "they told me I would have to go through the entire training course from the very beginning, and as I'll be 64 next month, I doubt if I would be able to finish all the requirements in time."

Airport woos major manufacturer

By NICK PFEIFAU

SANFORD — The Central Florida Regional Airport is asking both the city and county to support an attempt to obtain a major industrial operation at the airport that could add millions of dollars to the local economy.

The Sanford City Commission is scheduled to discuss the matter at its Monday night meeting. The County will consider a similar proposal on Tuesday.

He continued, "But if we can get the city and the county to support us, whether through letters of support or by any other means, this could certainly be a boom for the local economy."

The company looking over the airport area is Northrop Aviation. The manufacturing facility is proposed to have at least 200,000 square feet.

SANFORD — Two more fugitives sought Wednesday morning have turned themselves in at the Seminole County jail.

Seven teams of police and deputies spread out through the county seeking 124 fugitives, including Keith Nowland, sought since 1984 on burglary and grand theft charges. Nowland was captured in Sanford and 49 other fugitives wanted on charges ranging from failure to pay traffic fines to battery were captured throughout the county.

After word got out about the sweep, a dozen people called the Sheriff's Office, saying they would turn themselves in, said spokesman George Proechel. By Wednesday night, two had appeared at the county jail. Natasha Prince, 20, of Sanford, turned herself in on a battery charge. Brian Shore, 23, of Casselberry, turned himself in on a probation violation charge.

One Sanford man arrested Wednesday morning, Timothy Hampton, 20, had charges added against him after he was booked into the jail. Arrested on a failure to appear to answer to a suspended license charge, jailers found he was also wanted on two other failures to appear charges stemming from another suspended license charge and a marijuana possession charge.

While Proechel said the arrests went off without a problem, two senior sheriff's officials supervising

Veterans: Targets for future cuts?

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Local veterans, especially those with service connected disabilities, are keeping their eyes focused on Washington. Concern is growing over cuts in veterans benefits.

Ken Dolan, commander of the Disabled American Veterans #30 in Sanford, observed, "We are watching to see what Jesse Brown (VA Secretary) is going to do with veterans benefits."

"During past years," he said, "some of our benefits have been reduced by a small percentage, but we don't believe we can take many more reductions."

Carey Reeves of Sanford, serves as Service Officer for DAV #30. He has a 100 percent service connected disability, as a result of a mortar explosion in the Korean War. He has recently returned from a five day convention of disabled veterans in Sarasota where the possible benefit cuts were the main topic of conversation.

"I'll put it this way," he said. "We're sweating it out. We don't want our benefits reduced any lower, and as far as Central Florida is concerned, we certainly need improved hospitalization."

Regarding the conflict over the Brevard County location chosen Thursday for a new veterans hospital in Central Florida, he commented, "This has been a political battle rather than a concern over the needs of the veterans, and it

Crash blamed on controller, pilots

MIRAMAR — A midair plane crash that killed three people and sent wreckage scattering over Miramar in 1990 was the fault of the air controller and both pilots, federal investigators have determined.

An overworked controller at the North Perry Airport gave one pilot authorization to descend directly into the path of the other plane, said the National Transportation Safety Board report released Wednesday.

And the pilots of the Cessna 152 trainer and a banner-towing Piper Super Cub were blamed for not seeing or avoiding each other, the report said.

Both pilots and a student pilot in one of the planes were killed in the March 1990 collision.

The controller, Mary Birtwistle, still works at the airport but has been given new training and an altered work schedule, said tower chief Penny White.

Brevard gets VA Hospital

MELBOURNE — The site of a new Veterans Administration medical center has been moved from Orange County to Brevard County as part of a joint venture with the Air Force, the veterans affairs secretary said.

Secretary Jesse Brown, who made the announcement Thursday in Washington, said moving the site north of Melbourne would lower construction and operating costs.

In March 1992, the VA had said it would construct a 470-bed hospital and 120-bed nursing home in Orange County, about 10 miles southeast of Orlando, and another 120-bed nursing home and full-service outpatient clinic in Brevard County.

However, rather than build a separate VA hospital in Orange County and renovate the Patrick Air Force Base hospital, Brown said the Air Force and Department of Veterans Affairs have decided to work together.

The new hospital and nursing home are scheduled to be completed in 1999, Brown said.

Officers seek leads in manatee case

CRYSTAL RIVER — Boaters roped a manatee, used the animal to tow them around, then hit it with the pontoon boat when it managed to slip the harness, a witness at a state park told authorities.

State and federal wildlife officers Thursday hunted for leads. The incident is illegal harassment under the Endangered Species Act.

The witness said boaters had the manatee pull them around the Blue Waters area adjacent to the state park last week. Wildlife officials have not located the manatee.

Save the Manatee Club announced Wednesday a $1,500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the boaters.

Wildlife officers also were investigating another incident in the same area Wednesday where a tourist reported seeing a boater in a 17-foot skiff strike a manatee, then flee.

Oodles of noodles donated to needy

FORT LAUDERDALE — A non-profit agency that collects and stores food for homeless shelters, soup kitchens and other social service agencies now has oodles of noodles — 40,000 pounds of them — to dish out to the needy.

The donation was delivered by truck Wednesday to the Broward County office of the Daily Bread Food Bank.

The shipment, enough to feed 250,000 people, was a gift from Richard Thompson, founder of American Italian Pasta Co. in Excelsior Springs, Mo., and Joseph Sciortino, chief executive officer of Miami-based Sysco Food Systems.

"Richard came to town and asked what he could do to help. This is what we came up with," said Sciortino, whose company supplies food to hotels and restaurants nationwide.

Earlier donations by the pair have gone to Poland, Russia, and Croatia, and to other food banks around the country, according to Thompson and Sciortino.

3 arrested for murder of passer-by

MIAMI — Three men were arrested and charged with murder for the death of a passer-by trying to stop a robbery, police said.

The men were arrested Wednesday for the Thanksgiving eve accidental shooting by a Wells Fargo guard of David Easton, 34, who tried to intervene in the robbery.

The victim saw the robbers beating a guard, he intervened and, in the scuffle, was shot by another guard near the Wells Fargo truck at a Home Depot store north of Miami.

Jimmie Alexander, 23, Robert Moore, 42, both of Miami, and Steve Mechionda, 35, address unknown, were charged with second-degree murder and armed robbery.

Police declined to release details on the arrests.

School, business partner

State recognizes Arvida Corp. as 'exemplary'

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

HEATHROW — The Arvida Corporation, the developer of the Heathrow community, just east of Lake Mary, has been recognized by Betty Castor, the state commissioner of education, as an exemplary business partner for the schools.

For three years, Arvida has been a business partner to Seminole High School. When Heathrow Elementary School was still in the construction phase two years ago, they formed a business partnership with that school as well, even providing financial assistance to the school district to help upgrade the school's brick exterior.

At Seminole High School in Sanford, Arvida has helped with the purchase of classroom equipment, with the purchase of landscaping materials and with providing scholarship money for deserving students.

"They have been an invaluable asset to the school," said Gretchen Schapker, principal of Seminole High School. "They are always here for us."

They have pledged financial support to the Seminole High School Health Academy. They have promised to provide over $100,000 to help get the academy off the ground.

The $2,500 scholarship is presented annually to the student who has worked the hardest in class while still remaining active in a number of extra-curricular activities.

Arvida has also provided a number of continuing education grants to teachers at both Seminole and Heathrow who wish to take additional classes to improve their abilities in the classroom.

They have provided mentors for the COMPACT program at Seminole High School. The program helps students who are at risk of dropping out find an adult mentor who can help them to understand the importance of education in their lives.

They have raised money for the Seminole County school district through activities such as the Blue Moon Ball which earned $4,500 for Seminole County schools last year. Arvida has also been active in recruiting other businesses to serve as partners to schools.

"They are one of the biggest advocates of school-business partnerships," said Dede Schafner, coordinator of Dividends, the volunteer organization which oversees the partnerships. "They are a shining example to other partnerships."

Arvida will be recognized by Castor during a celebration of the top business partners in the state at Universal Studios next week.

FBI cracks 123 illegal telemarketing businesses

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON — FBI agents say they penetrated 123 illegal telemarketing businesses by posing as salesmen of automatic dialing machines used to make phone pitches of free vacations and other deals.

Climaxing a three-year investigation billed as "Operation Disconnect," some 800 agents fanned out over 12 states Thursday, raiding more than 50 locations and arresting more than 110 people on fraud charges.

FBI Director William Sessions said the undercover operation had identified 548 people involved in the illegal schemes and that at least 240 of them are expected to be arrested.

"By the time this investigation is concluded, we expect to find victims in virtually every state in the union," Sessions said. "The tragic dimension is... that the largest category of victims are the elderly, those who may be least able to recover from financial losses."

The raids were conducted in the Washington, Baltimore, Atlanta, Chicago, Detroit, Las Vegas, Salt Lake City, Phoenix, Los Angeles, San Diego, Dallas, Houston, New Orleans, Buffalo and Albany, N.Y., South Florida, Tampa and Jacksonville, Fla., areas.

An Oakland Park, Fla., firm, B&P Marketing, sold pens and other advertising gizmos for $398 but failed to deliver certificates for Bahamas vacations as promised in the deal, prosecutors said.

B&P's operators, Bruce Wolfson, 45, of Hollywood and Peter Lawrence Wolfson, 25, of Miami were charged with mail and wire fraud on Thursday. Both were released on $100,000 bond.

Andrew Duffin, special agent in charge of the Miami FBI office, said agents also searched a Boca Raton office Thursday after receiving reports of a telephone scam there, but made no arrests.

"Boca Raton has become a location favored by individuals who are involved in securities operations," Managing Assistant U.S. Attorney Steven Chaykin said during a news conference in Fort Lauderdale. "Street address, prestige... If they are located in Boca, how bad can it be?"

Most of the schemes, officials said, involved con artists calling people by phone and saying they were eligible to enter some sweepstakes or had already won a prize. The victims, however, were told they first had to pay a service fee or purchase something through a credit card, check or money order.

Taxol to be tested on cancer

By Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — Clinical trials will begin soon on 15 patients at the University of Florida Health Science Center to determine whether Taxol is effective against a deadly form of cancer.

Patients with advanced stages of soft tissue sarcoma will be asked to participate in the trials of the medicine which comes from yew trees, said Dr. Thomas Johnson, oncology fellow with UF's College of Medicine.

"Right now, there are no satisfactory chemotherapy drugs to treat advanced stages of soft tissue sarcomas," Johnson said. "Established chemotherapy drugs cause shrinkage of the tumor in only 20 to 30 percent of the patients."

"Taxol just might prove to be effective, in which case we would be able to help a lot of people suffering from this very serious disease."

Taxol has been shown to be effective against breast cancer and certain types of ovarian cancer.

Researchers hope it will also work against advanced stages of soft tissue sarcomas. These develop in the structural tissues of the body such as the tendons and ligaments, and rapidly progress to the lungs where they create severe breathing problems that can suffocate the patient.

The cancer is fatal in almost 60 percent of patients. Almost 6,000 cases are diagnosed each year nationwide and more than 3,000 are fatal, the American Cancer Society says.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration recently approved Taxol for the treatment of ovarian cancer. With that approval came the commercial availability of the drug to be used in clinical trials for other cancers.

"To my knowledge, there have been no published results using Taxol on this type of cancer," Johnson said.

Carjack defendants indicted for murder

By The Associated Press

KISSIMMEE — With the federal court trial completed, three young men will be tried again this summer for the carjack-execution slayings of two youths, but a conviction this time could mean more than prison terms.

An Osceola County grand jury Thursday indicted them on murder and kidnapping charges for the incidents last November.

Three of the defendants were convicted in U.S. District Court in Orlando last week under a new federal law on armed carjacking involving violence. The court indicted against the others.

They all face prison sentences in federal court, but a circuit court trial on first-degree murder charges subjects three of them to death in Florida's electric chair if convicted.

Under a previous plea agreement, 17-year-old Leondre Henderson will again testify against his codefendants, and prosecutors have agreed not to seek the death penalty when he is sentenced in circuit court.

To be tried on murder, attempted murder and kidnapping charges are Jermaine Foster, 19, who admitted being the triggerman; Gerard Booker, 22, and Alf Catholic, 21.

Killed with shots to the head in a rural area near Kissimmee Nov. 29 were Anthony Fatiella, 17, and Anthony Clifton, 20. Wounded was Michael Rentas, 20. Tammy George, 26, Clifton's girlfriend, was unharmed.

Suspect's trail began with scorched axle

By ROBERT DVORCHAK
AP National Writer

NEW YORK — A scorched, 18-inch piece of axle that bore a portion of a vehicle identification number gave investigators the break that eventually yielded the arrest of a suspect in the bombing of the World Trade Center.

"Sometimes the smallest, most insignificant piece of evidence can be that big break you need in the case," said Jerry Singer, spokesman for the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. "That vehicle identification number was like a signature on an envelope."

ATF agents searching the rubble underneath the twin towers on their hands and knees found the section of a van axle on Sunday. The way the van had been blown to pieces indicated to investigators it had carried the bomb.

The identification number, stamped on major parts of vehicles to help police catch thieves, belonged to a yellow Ford Econoline E-350 van bearing Alabama license plate XA70668.

The van was traced to a Ryder Truck Rental Inc. shop in Jersey City, N.J., which rented it Feb. 23 to Mohammed Salameh, 25, of Jersey City. He was described by authorities as a follower of a radical Muslim cleric.

Salameh, a slightly built man with a closely trimmed brown beard and an accent, used his own name and paid cash for a one-week rental — $200 up front and a $200 deposit. For identification, he used a New York driver's license that listed a New Jersey address. He also left his phone number.

"He made it real easy for investigators," said Mike Ackerman, a former CIA agent and security consultant from Miami. "In conception, this was a very clever attack. The execution clearly left something to be desired. They apparently went with a bunch of amateurs."

The vehicle could carry a 2,000-pound load, or the equivalent of the contents of a two-bedroom apartment.

Salameh returned to the rental agency two to three hours after last Friday's blast to report the van had been stolen. He said it was taken the night before from a supermarket parking lot.

Girl sues to live with grandma

By The Associated Press

TITUSVILLE — A 12-year-old girl who said her father smokes marijuana, her mother betrayed her and her stepfather sexually abused her has filed suit to live with her grandmother.

The Cocoa girl has hired George Russ, a children's rights lawyer and adoptive father of Gregory Kingsley. The boy gained national attention when he sued to "divorce" his parents.

Unlike the Gregory K. case, the state has never intervened in the life of this 12-year-old, who ran away from home last year, The Miami Herald reported today.

The newspaper didn't identify the girl because of the sexual abuse allegations.

After their parents were divorced about six years ago, the girl and her younger brother lived with their mother until 1991. The girl then told her father her stepfather was molesting her.

The father initiated a battle for custody of his children. The parents agreed the girl would live in Florida with him and the boy in Virginia with the mother, who denied her new husband sexually abused the girl.

Cocoa police and social workers investigated the girl's allegations, but did not prosecute for lack of evidence.

The girl claimed in court documents, filed Monday in Brevard Circuit Court, that her father abused alcohol, smoked pot and ignored her emotional needs. She ran away during the summer and was missing until December, when she returned, represented by Russ.

He became Gregory K.'s adoptive father after successfully suing on the boy's behalf last September. Gregory has since changed his name to Shawn Russ.

The girl does not want complete detachment from her parents, unlike Gregory K. She wants to live with her maternal grandmother, who was arrested for interfering with custody after the girl ran away. The state declined to prosecute.

The father blamed the grandmother for the family's problems and accused her in civil court in December of hiding the girl, said Greg Eisenmenger, the grandmother's attorney.

"This is not the grandmother versus the parents," he said. "This is the child seeking the placement that is best for the child, and the grandmother supports that."

The girl returned to her father's home before the judge ruled on whether the grandmother was hiding her.

On Jan. 6, the day before she was to give a deposition to Eisenmenger, the girl was admitted to a psychiatric center by her father for being "rebellious" and "uncontrollable," according to her suit.

Russ told the Herald the girl now could leave the center, but does not wish to return to her father's house.

The newspaper could not reach her mother for comment.

"It's been a big mess is what it's been," said Nicholas Lessey, the father's attorney.

Crackdown launched on computerized child porn

By RICHARD COLE
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — Sophisticated "computer pervers" are replacing child pornography magazines with electronically transmitted photos, say U.S. Customs officials who have launched a nationwide crackdown on the industry.

Forty locations across the country were raided Thursday by federal agents and local police looking for photos and computer files, said William Rosenblatt, head of the U.S. Customs Service in Miami.

"We began getting information that the up-and-coming method of distributing child pornography was by electronic means, through the use of computer 'bulletin board' systems," he said.

Search warrants were served in 30 cities in 15 states ranging from Florida to Massachusetts, and New York to California, he said.

In Florida, warrants were served in Boca Raton, Maitland and Williston, Customs said.

No arrests were made immediately, but if possession is verified, suspects can be charged with federal counts that could put them in prison for 15 to 20 years, he said.

The yearlong investigation, named "Operation Longarm," began with a child porn sting on a Miami man in March 1992, which uncovered the existence of members-only, Denmark-based computer bulletin boards named Bamae, Screwdriver and Vestberg. They charge about $80 a year to transmit photos by phone, said Rosenblatt.

"Basically what we have here is a bunch of computer pervers," said Rosenblatt.

The quality of the international computer transmissions was so good, recipients could make copies of the pornographic pictures on color printers in the United States with no loss in quality, he said.

Subscribers received a computer directory of photos — often in broken English — with titles like "India family love incest," or "Young girl play with dildo," and "Young Nippon girl standing nude." They then ordered the photos, which were sent by computer modem.

"They range anywhere from what we call child erotica to explicit sexual activity involving the exploitation of minor children," Rosenblatt said. "Generally pedophiles want children that range from the age of 5 to 12."

Sanford needs to choose a police chief

The Sanford City Commission and Civil Service Board are playing a game of catch. Rather than a ball, they are tossing about qualifications for a police chief.

If it can indeed be considered a game, it has been in overtime entirely too long.

Former Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett resigned effective Dec. 31. The city acted promptly in starting the search for a new chief from among members of the existing department.

By the close of in-house advertising on Jan. 19, only Capt. Ralph Russell, Lt. Doug Bishop and Cpl. James McAuliffe had applied.

Although not directly named, the goal in this game, by at least three commissioners, seems to be the hiring of Russell for the top job.

This was not immediately possible however. Russell and one other of the three applicants, have 2-year college degrees, rather than four as required.

This is where the matter took on the appearance of ball-throwing.

By a three to two vote, the commission asked the board to consider lowering qualifications for the chief's job to allow for the two year degree, with at least 10 years of law enforcement experience.

The matter was passed to civil service. Last week, the board refused to make the change, and suggested the commission could temporarily hire a new chief if it so desired. It would have to be done with the requirement that the four year degree be obtained over a certain time period.

If the commission approves the temporary hire, the matter would have to again go back to the civil service board for approval.

The chairman of that board, who has served for over 26 years, has commented that the matter is a political problem.

When in-house applications were received, the next step should have been to immediately determine if required qualifications were met. If not, the city should have immediately launched public advertising for the position.

Consideration of reducing the present college requirements could have continued during the outside advertising.

Six weeks have passed since the in-house qualification period ended. Yet nothing has been done to expand the search beyond members of the Sanford Police force.

The city has been without a permanent police chief for over two months. Russell, serving as acting chief, is working diligently in his temporary position, but successful law enforcement must have unshackled and complete authority.

The City of Sanford needs leadership in law enforcement. It does not need these continuing delays.

The next city commission meeting is Monday night, March 8. We urge it to take some action and end this game.

Drug addicts can put pusher out of business

I'm the young lady that wrote from Seminole County jail hooked on crack cocaine. Now I'm a recovering drug addict. I've been clean since Oct. 15, 1992. I went back to Seminole County jail on that date also. I was released Nov. 17, 1992. Now I'm being the mother to my two daughters that I hadn't been in 6-7 years. I rejoined the church. I have a job. I'm trying to get myself enrolled in college. In two words I'm trying to "make it." Do you wonder how I could do all this? I do not do it alone. I lean on the Lord. I pray a lot. Like constantly!

There have been times since my release that I've wanted to say bump it and get high. I weighed the scales on that and not getting high came out on top. Praise the Lord. You need to do that too. I did! There are no guarantees though because I'm not the born again Christian I know I should be.

It feels good to just try. I, today, feel good about myself. I'm doing things to improve myself. I'm writing this letter because I know what it is to be an active addict on the street, trying to catch a trick just because you want a hit. It ain't 'bout jack. I'm asking all active drug addicts to let's put the dope man out of business. They need you, you don't need them. You can come out of this thing. It's all in your mind. Me, I just try extremely hard to continually pray and take life one day at a time. Don't worry 'bout tomorrow cause that's not promised to you. Concentrate on today! If you take one step, the Lord will take two. Just for you. Trust that!

CHUCK STONE

After 25 years, how close are we?

Twenty-five years ago, my column in your newspaper was an unthinkable thought. Even a black reporter on a major newspaper was a rarity.

But 1968 was a year of far more significant events: the last year of Lyndon Johnson's presidency ... the Detroit Tigers as World Series champs ... "In the Heat of the Night" beating out "Bonnie and Clyde" for an Oscar ... the assassinations of Martin Luther King Jr. and Bobby Kennedy ... and a culture-defining popular song, "Mrs. Robinson."

That year was also a benchmark of racial progress. The federal government published a 608-page report, popularly known as the Kerner Commission Report (although its contents were about as popular as the national wave of 164 racial disorders that had convulsed 128 cities in 1967).

Following that year of widespread racial disorders called them riots, blacks called them rebellions, President Johnson appointed a National Advisory Committee to explore why these urban convulsions had happened and what could be done to prevent future disorders.

Today, most Americans know the name Rodney King. But virtually nobody can recall the name of the Newark, N.J., chess-playing cabdriver (John Smith) whose arrest on July 12, 1967, triggered a five-day outbreak of violence that destroyed $10 million worth of property and took 23 lives.

Eleven days after the Newark disorders erupted with a volcano of violence that killed 43 persons and destroyed $22 million worth of property.

Compare those figures to last April-May's five-day disorders in South Central Los Angeles after four white policemen were found not guilty in the slaying of Rodney King — 45 lives and an estimated $1 billion worth of property destroyed.

Twenty-five years ago, the Kerner Commission dutifully listened to thousands of witnesses and examined reams of statistics. It blamed the disorders on "white racism," then concluded with a warning: "Our nation is moving toward two societies, one black, one white — separate and unequal."

In 1993, on the Kerner Commission Report's 25th anniversary (March 1), are whites and blacks still moving farther apart, are they drawing closer together or are they simply treading status quo water?

Whatever your opinions, five facts are irrefutable: (1) black families still earn only 56 percent of the median family income of white families, (2) blacks still have an unemployment rate 2.5 times that of whites, (3) black kids still score 195 points below whites on the SATs, (4) black babies still have a mortality rate twice that of white babies and (5) the criminal justice system disproportionately targets black males with the same deadly effect as the guns and drugs black culture has sold.

But if those figures paint a picture of a nation moving inexorably toward a "separate and unequal" society, it is inaccurate. Black progress in the last 25 years resonates in the 25 percent of all black families that now live in the suburbs and black home ownership, which has doubled in the last 25 years.

Twenty-five years ago, my column in your newspaper was an unthinkable thought.

ROBERT WAGMAN

Portable office big as briefcase

WASHINGTON — As companies seek to rescue their bottom lines, they are focusing on skyrocketing traditional overhead costs. With advances in technology, some firms are considering a way to cut office expense: Simply do away with the office.

David Grimes of AT&T's billion-dollar Business Communications Services division faced just such a dilemma. His growing Dallas-based regional sales force occupied 12 floors of a suburban office building, where he was fast running out of room. He had to figure out a way to pay for a contemplated move to a new 18-story building while complying with top management's cost-cutting orders.

To solve his predicament, Grimes gave each of 300 staffers a notebook computer, a modem and a cellular phone and told them to "hit the road." From then on, he ordered, these employees were to do business from their cars and homes, airports, hotel rooms and customers' offices.

Even in a high-tech company like AT&T, the experiment was considered radical. But in just two years, it has worked a bottom-line miracle. Grimes has cut his overhead expense by more than 50 percent. He has consolidated his offices from 12 floors to two and a half. And, most importantly, his division's productivity has increased significantly.

"What we have found," says Grimes, "is that freeing people from coming into the office has increased their time with customers by more than 20 percent. This is like adding an extra day to the week."

This new marriage of computer and telecommunications technology is called "mobile networked computing." It combines the latest in powerful, small notebook computers with modern cellular communications and allows sales reps, service technicians, health-care professionals, managers or executives to be constantly in touch with critical data bases or the office without physically being there.

NCR Corp., a part of AT&T, is a leader in this emerging technology. It has packaged its state-of-the-art notebook or pen-based computer with an AT&T cellular phone, an interface modem that links the computer with the cellular phone for wireless two-way data communication, and even paging and printer options into a single briefcase. This package, which the company calls a "virtual office," allows the user to carry his office and never be out of touch.

"Mobile data communications promises to surpass voice as the fastest-growing segment in the wireless communications industry," says William Curtis, publisher of the two leading magazines in the field. Mobile Office and Portable Computing. "The growth in mobile technology has been both vertical and horizontal. Companies that previously reserved portable products only for senior executives are realizing the cost-effectiveness of providing such tools to their sales forces and service teams. At the same time, entire new industries are discovering productivity advantages through mobile technology."

Edward Palmer, an NCR marketing executive, gives some examples of how the technology is helping make individuals in diverse fields more productive. He cites lawyers who, while in a courtroom waiting for a case to be called, go online with the new ABA legal research data base through the AT&T Easy Link system, and do research on another client's case. Or salesmen who can link up with their company's mainframe from a client's desk and get critical information to nail down a sale instantly, rather than having to come back after getting the information.

But just how quickly will this mobile office revolution spread? According to Tom Villani of NCR's Notebook Computer Division, the problem is not with the technology, but with management attitudes.

"For many managers this technology and concept represents a cultural revolution. They will have to learn to manage from a distance, and to control their staffs by letting them go. They will have to learn not to worry because they can't look out of their offices and see their staffs gathered around the water cooler."

"But, of course, that's the whole point," he adds. "The staff won't be standing around the water cooler because this technology gives workers the ability to be productive without being tied to the traditional office."

Some firms are considering a way to cut office expense: Simply do away with the office.

GOP foes square off over Clintonomics

WASHINGTON — It's not easy these days discerning whether the Republican trumpets are sounding charge or retreat.

As they grope for an effective response to President Clinton's economic plan, the GOP is divided into two camps: those anxious to counter "tax and spend" Clintonomics with a Republican alternative vs. those who believe Republicans should keep their powder dry for now.

The field generals of these opposing camps are Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, and Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan. Coincidentally, both men are potential rivals for the White House in 1996.

His critics say he scores more points for valor than for tactics, because his plan runs the risk of diverting attention from the deficiencies in Clintonomics.

Gramm and Sen. Trent Lott, R-Miss., broke rank with the Republican leadership last week by offering an amendment that would eliminate the need for more taxes by offering deeper spending cuts. Gramm and Lott's plan calls for eliminating $17 billion in new stimulus and $161 billion in new "investment" spending and tax credits. "If they (Dole and others) don't like it (the plan) now, they will decide that if they want to be leaders they have to be out leading the charge," one Gramm ally told us.

Dole loyalists are quick to return the fire: "Frankly, one of our problems is you have real aggressive agenda pushers like Gramm and Lott who want to get out in front early, rather than going with the pack. We don't think it's smart politics to cave into a liberal demand that we have a package two days after his (Clinton's)."

At a party caucus in Dole's office Feb. 24, Republican leaders agreed not to pursue an alternate package since Clinton is "on the ropes," according to one participant.

"The problem you have coming up with a package is no Republican is going to support the Draconian defense cuts that Clinton has proposed. So whatever package we come up with we would have to find the additional monies to make up for the cuts in defense spending," a second participant said.

Dole believes that by holding their fire, Republicans can aim more effectively when the targets become clearer, and the still-elusive details of the Clinton plan are flushed out. Dole supporters do little to disguise their agitation with Gramm and Lott.

The Gramm-Dole divide is emblematic of the identity crisis some Republicans feel following George Bush's defeat, after 12 years of catering to Republican presidents.

"We're used to flaking for an administration plan, and we're now in a position of doing just the opposite," said one Republican source. "Everyone was good at swallowing hard and doing what the president asks. Now it's a little uncertain what to do when you don't have a president asking."

FEUD OF THE WEEK — Although she ran as a "mom in tennis shoes," first-term Sen. Patty Murray, D-Wash., managed to step on the toes of Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, during her first month on the job. Stevens took umbrage.

It began when Murray last week named Anchorage attorney Laurie Otto, who now works with the Alaska legislature, for a U.S. attorney post in that state. Selection of U.S. attorneys is one of the many prerogatives enjoyed by the party in control of the White House. Since Alaska doesn't have a Democrat in its congressional delegation, Murray assumed the role "because she's a Democrat from the neighborhood," according to a Murray staffer.

Stevens responded to the slight with an unusually caustic press release.

Gramm is the only GOP senator gutsy enough to propose his own plan.

could harm all of us." Because he requires specialized care, Reeves must presently travel to Richmond, Va., every three months to a veterans hospital. "It could just as easily be done in Florida," he said, "but there isn't a hospital locally which is authorized to handle my situation." The nation's commitment to care for those who put their lives on the line in its service is longstanding — a result of a nation's gratitude and of tough lobbying by veterans' groups. And while veterans' programs so far have escaped President Clinton's proposed budget cuts, critics continually question the costs of the unique benefit system in an age of soaring budget deficits. Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo.,

said an annual vote on cost-of-living adjustments for veterans' benefits has become a "Christmas tree" for other programs. "We cannot continue to irresponsibly pass legislation that we cannot pay for," he said in opposing a late 1991 bill to expand treatment for Vietnam-era veterans with stress problems. VA Secretary Brown, whose agency spends $34 billion a year and runs the nation's largest medical system to care for 2.5 million vets with service-connected disabilities, suggests that veterans would accept some cost-saving measures. "They understand that it is to their best interest to get this deficit spending under control," he said in a recent interview with The Associated Press. Still, he added, "You can't balance the budget on the backs of veterans." Brown was wounded as a Marine in Vietnam and spent 26 years as an official of the Disabled American Veterans.

The VA has reduced the scope of surgery done at a half-dozen facilities, out of 33 recommended by the department's inspector general, but even that modest move drew protests from Congress. The Senate, with strong pressure from veterans groups, last year overwhelmingly defeated a plan that would have opened up two VA hospitals to non-veterans on a trial basis.

John F. Heilman, national legislative director for the Disabled American Veterans, said veterans could accept a delay or reduction in the cost-of-living increase in the benefits disabled veterans and survivors receive each year. "But we will not stand for being treated unfairly," he said. A COLA freeze could save hundreds of millions a year. The Congressional Budget Office has also estimated that $10 billion could be saved over five years if

It said one-quarter of patient stays in VA hospitals may be inappropriate or unnecessary, and $2.4 billion could be saved through more efficient management of health care delivery. Jim Mayer, who lost both legs below the knee when he stepped on a booby trap near the Cambodian border in 1969, said veterans realize the budget deficit can't be ignored. "When you read the numbers, you know something has got to give," he said.

But Mayer, who also works at VA headquarters in Washington, said entitlement reform must consider the special services veterans have rendered. "I have real strong feelings that if you're sent off to combat, the government ought to stand by you," he said.

proposition, said the facility could provide as many as 300 jobs, with an additional 217 jobs generated by the operation. Flahkind also projected the total payroll impacts will be over $15 million per year. For the actual Northrop operation, the average salary of the 300 employees has been estimated at $21,000. In a report to be presented to the city and county, Flahkind says, "The total value of new construction for facilities to house these workers is in excess of $47 million. We also project over 570 new homes will be constructed in Seminole County as a result of employee-based households generated by the regional airport."

Cooke has been working on the project through the Economic Development Commission, and has told them that local responses would be forthcoming by March 15.

"We have been reviewing this for several weeks," he said. "This is in a very preliminary stage and we wouldn't want to give the impression that this is any sure-thing. Other airports and former military bases are being considered in Georgia, Mississippi and Texas."

Cooke said there is a possibility the list of possible locations may be narrowed down, or a site announced as early as next month. "We just hope it's here in Sanford," he added.

They have urged more sharing of equipment with military and private hospitals, giving greater priority to home care and with the stipulation that he obtain full certification within a year. He was just unable to meet the requirements. Prior to the resignation, Litton and Stoddard, through mutual agreement, had hired retired Winter Park Fire Chief Duane Mehl to investigate the status of the fire department including its operation, educational training, record keeping, and the condition of the equipment and vehicles. Litton had earlier reported that Mehl had come up with a lengthy list of suggested improvements that could be made to the department. Stoddard had been a close personal friend of Mehl, with both having served as firefighters in Michigan many years ago. Litton publicly announced the resignation during last night's Lake Mary City Commission meeting, and requested authorization to launch into a search for a new chief.

Information from the Associated Press is contained in this report.

the sweep found themselves in a chase that landed a Sanford man in jail. Undersheriff Steven Harriott and Lt. Jerry Capshaw were driving in the area of Forest Drive near Sanford at about 12:15 a.m. when they reported a 1977 Dodge sped past them, then abruptly stopped. As they approached, with their squad car's blue lights flashing, the Dodge sped off again, they reported. The car sped through the Chase Grove subdivision at 50 m.p.h. to Old Lake Mary Road, where it drove about 100 yards, made a "U-turn" and returned to the subdivision. There, it crashed into a brick entrance wall, knocking down about 15 feet of it. The officials reported the man then drove his car straight at them, but they avoided a crash and he sped past them north to Airport Boulevard to the Hidden Lake subdivision. Once there, other deputies reported the driver fled into a nearby wooded area. The man was arrested at the Groveview Villas Apartments at about 2:30 a.m.

Charged with aggravated assault on two law enforcement officers, driving with a suspended license and fleeing and eluding police, was David Paul Soldani, 25, 2000 Lake Mary Blvd., Apt. 104B, Sanford.

Stoddard submitted his written resignation to City Manager John Litton, specifying the effective date of April 13. He did not, however, make reference to any other individual, and stressed that the decision was his. "As you know," he wrote, "this was a difficult decision to make after serving the City of Lake Mary for 14 years as a volunteer and later as a paid employee."

Stoddard continued, "However, as technical difficulties have made it impossible for me to obtain the required state certifications, I see no alternative." His letter concluded, "It has been a pleasure and honor to serve, and it is with a deep sense of personal regret and loss that I submit this letter."

"I would hope this won't take a long time," Litton said. "We have several inactive chiefs in the area who are qualified for the position, and I hope they would apply."

In response to a question regarding a temporary replacement from Commissioner George Duryea, Litton said he did not believe there was anyone on staff that was fully qualified. "I believe I can get someone who has the firefighting qualification to handle the position until we can hire someone," he said.

Commissioner A.R. "Doc" Jore, who also serves on the Seminole County Council of Local Governments, said the City of Oviedo is also seeking a new fire chief, and had volunteered to turn some of their applications over to Lake Mary if the city desired. Litton said he would begin advertising and making contacts for the position as soon as possible.

Complaint

McClanahan had no comment this morning, Eckstein could not be reached. Karns said she first determines whether a complaint involves a matter within the governor's suspension authority, is credible and is not an ethics or criminal matter. If it passes those tests, she will present the matter to Gov. Lawton Chiles for action. If the governor chooses to pursue the matter, either a state attorney or the Florida Department of Law Enforcement will be appointed to investigate, said Karns.

Sheafer stated the incident began following the publication of his "Letter to the Editor" in the Feb. 15 Sanford Herald. In the letter, Sheafer was critical of Eckstein, saying the commissioner demonstrated "ignorance" of police department issues. The next day, Sheafer stated Eckstein called him at his unlisted home number and "jumped down (his) throat" over his comments. The conversation developed into a "shouting match" and Eckstein accused Sheafer's wife of instigating the letter, Sheafer stated. Sharon Sheafer is a Sanford police officer.

During the conversation, Sheafer stated he told Eckstein "Listen you son of a bitch, don't be trying to drag my wife into this." Sharon Sheafer stated Capt. Russell told her Eckstein had spoken with him Feb. 16, seeking his intervention in gaining an apology from Sheafer for calling him an SOB. Sharon Sheafer further stated Russell informed her it was not a police department matter and that she need not worry about her job. Russell said this morning he did tell Eckstein the situation was not a police department matter, but declined to comment further.

According to an affidavit signed by Patrick Leonard, who is co-owner of Leonard's Shell Station and Sheafer's employer, McClanahan stopped by his station on Feb. 16. Leonard stated McClanahan said an employee of his had "diarrhea of the mouth" and that he "should say something about it." Leonard said he didn't know what McClanahan was talking about and the commissioner responded Sheafer had called Eckstein an SOB during a telephone conversation.

Leonard stated McClanahan said if he didn't "do something" about Sheafer's comment, "I was going to lose three families and nine or 10 car's worth of business."

In confirming the statement this morning, Leonard said he definitely felt his business was being threatened by the comment.

In an affidavit signed "Michael Leonard," co-owner of the station, Eckstein allegedly came by the station on Feb. 16 and said if Michael Leonard did not seek an apology from Sheafer, "I would lose about $300 to $400 in business per month."

Michael Leonard refused to confirm this morning whether he signed an affidavit.

Stoddard

Stoddard submitted his written resignation to City Manager John Litton, specifying the effective date of April 13. He did not, however, make reference to any other individual, and stressed that the decision was his. "As you know," he wrote, "this was a difficult decision to make after serving the City of Lake Mary for 14 years as a volunteer and later as a paid employee."

Stoddard continued, "However, as technical difficulties have made it impossible for me to obtain the required state certifications, I see no alternative." His letter concluded, "It has been a pleasure and honor to serve, and it is with a deep sense of personal regret and loss that I submit this letter."

"This isn't any personal conflict," Litton said. "When we hired Chief Stoddard to the full time position last April, it was with the stipulation that he obtain full certification within a year. He was just unable to meet the requirements. Prior to the resignation, Litton and Stoddard, through mutual agreement, had hired retired Winter Park Fire Chief Duane Mehl to investigate the status of the fire department including its operation, educational training, record keeping, and the condition of the equipment and vehicles. Litton had earlier reported that Mehl had come up with a lengthy list of suggested improvements that could be made to the department. Stoddard had been a close personal friend of Mehl, with both having served as firefighters in Michigan many years ago. Litton publicly announced the resignation during last night's Lake Mary City Commission meeting, and requested authorization to launch into a search for a new chief.

Congress gives unemployed breathing room to find jobs

By ROBERT BURNS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Congress is giving the unemployed more breathing room to find work, and by the looks of the job market in this economic recovery, many will need it.

Small businesses are adding jobs, but the pace is slow. And so many big-name companies are shedding workers by the thousands that the Clinton administration has labeled this a "jobless recovery" — one that may not be sustained.

In response to the labor market's doldrums, Congress on Thursday gave final approval to legislation giving the jobless another six months of unemployment insurance once they've exhausted their standard 26 weeks of benefits. The emergency benefits program had been set to expire at midnight Saturday. President Clinton quickly signed the legislation.

"With this bill becoming law, 1.5 million unemployed Americans who need help making the rent and buying groceries and paying for school clothes will receive it," Clinton said.

"In the end, what we have to do is extend jobs, not unemployment," he said. "That is our greatest test."

The sluggish rate of job creation is at the core of the administration's argument that Congress should quickly pass its $31 billion package of business tax credits and public works spending to stimulate job growth and reinforce the recovery.

That argument will either be strengthened or weakened with the release today of the Labor Department's employment report for February. Private economists said Thursday that they expected the jobless rate to hold at January's 7.1 percent, or edge up a notch as the overall work force grows faster than new jobs are added.

In advance of the report, many economists were predicting payroll jobs grew by roughly 100,000 in February. That's twice the average increase posted in 1992, but it is less than half what normally is achieved in the early stages of an economic recovery. The January increase in payroll employment was 106,000.

Cynthia Latta, an economist at the forecasting company of DRI-McGraw Hill in Lexington, Mass., said she sees a gradually improving labor market that will continue to yield new jobs at a slower rate than is usual in an economic recovery.

The good news in that outlook, Ms. Latta said, is that an economy that's expanding without adding a lot of new workers is improving its productivity. That, she said, means those people who do find jobs are more likely to get good-paying positions.

Sung Won Sohn, chief economist at Norwest Corp. in Minneapolis, said that in conversations with loan customers of his company's banking units around the country he hears anecdotal evidence that the overall economy is improving.

"I hear optimistic stories throughout the country," Sohn said. "No one is saying the economy is booming, but almost all of our customers are saying things have picked up."

He and other private economists said they were not alarmed by Thursday's Labor Department report that the number of Americans filing first-time claims for unemployment insurance in mid-February rose by the largest amount in seven weeks.

Adding to the generally downbeat tone to recent labor market reports, a National Association of Manufacturers survey of manufacturing executives released Thursday said they plan to increase production in 1993 without increasing employment.

Coleman dunks Magic

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Derrick Coleman scored a season-high 34 points and threw a few dunks down in Shaquille O'Neal's face for effect Thursday night to lead the New Jersey Nets to a 116-97 win over the Orlando Magic.

The Nets outrebounded Orlando 50-37, with Coleman grabbing 15. Orlando was in the game until O'Neal picked up his third and fourth fouls on offensive calls early in the third quarter.

Coleman, hitting outside and dominating inside, scored 10 points in the Nets' 27-14 run after O'Neal departed, while Rumeal Robinson had eight of his season-high 22 and Drazen Petrovic, who finished with 29, added five.

Dennis Scott led Orlando with 24 points.

ATLANTA — Eleventh-ranked Florida State blew a 15-point lead, then rallied in the final 10 minutes and edged Georgia Tech 83-82 behind Bob Sura's 22-point performance.

Lake Mary nips top-ranked Norland; reaches final

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — In what some are calling the biggest upset in Florida High School girls' basketball history, the Lake Mary Rams moved to within a victory of a state championship by edging Miami-Norland, 42-41, in a Class 4A semifinal game of the State Championship at the Tallahassee-Leon County Civic Center Thursday afternoon.

Diane Duber's free throw with 25 seconds left was the difference as the Rams knocked the top-ranked Vikings out of title contention. The loss was only the third in the past two years for Norland (27-2), which also was ranked in the top 10 nationally. Its other losses came in the third game of the season at the hands of St. Cloud, the state's No. 2 ranked 3A team.

Lake Mary (28-5) will play Pensacola-Washington (26-1) in Saturday night's 8:30 p.m. final. Washington (26-1) advanced with a 56-44 triumph over Clearwater-Countryside (24-3) in a game late Thursday afternoon. Washington withstood a tournament high 31-point effort from Sabrina Crump, the Class AAAA player of the year. Crump also had 11 rebounds, and was the only Countryside player with more than 7 points.

Despite the low score, neither team held the ball. "No, we didn't hold the ball," said Lake Mary head coach Anna Van Landingham. "We just came out shell shocked at first. We were playing good defense, but we were just too tight on offense, nothing would go in. I wasn't worried though, I figured once we scored we'd be all right. Diane's (Duber) free throw got us started."

The Rams did not score for the first 6:36 of the game, falling behind 8-0.

But the local quintet rallied to only trail 12-6 after one period, then used a big 19-9 second quarter advantage to lead 25-21 at intermission.

The Vikings outscored Lake Mary 9-6 in the third stanza, but the Rams still led by one, 31-30, entering the last eight minutes.

Norland built a four point lead with just under six minutes to play, but a driving layup by LaShawn Merrick and a basket by Jennifer Griessing tied up the score with four minutes left.

Beamon, Hathcock lead Raiders' rout of Vikings

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Who says ninth place hitters can't hit?

With Sanford's Demetry Beamon leading the way the Seminole Community College baseball team put together its best overall game of the season Thursday afternoon, punishing St. John's River Community College, 13-3, in a Mid-Florida Conference contest at Raider Field.

The Raiders collected 12 hits and freshman pitcher Robert Hathcock scattered seven hits in the game stopped in the bottom of the eighth inning by the 10-run rule.

SCC improved to 9-6 overall and evened its conference mark at 3-3. The Raiders will play a pair of road games this weekend, traveling to Melbourne today for a non-conference contest with Brevard Community College starting at 3 p.m. before heading to Gainesville for an MFC game at Santa Fe Community College tomorrow, starting at 2 p.m.

Beamon, a freshman outfielder who came to SCC after helping Seminole High School win the Class 3A State Championship last season, had his biggest day as a collegian, going four-for-five, including his first extra base hit (a double), scored two runs and drove in three more. He also reached base in his other at bat when his fly to center was dropped for an error.

The Vikings fell to 4-12 overall and 0-6 in the MFC.

After a scoreless first inning both teams came up with a run in the second. A pair of errors and a wild pitch produced the St. John's run, while the Raider score came when Oviedo's Eric Jordan was hit by a pitch, advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt by Sanford's Rick Eckstein, a stolen base and Beamon's double.

SCC took the lead for good in the third as Jordan doubled home both Spruce Creek's Isaac Cruz and Oviedo's B.J. Calapa, both of whom reached on walks.

The Raiders added two more runs in the fourth, three in the fifth, two in the seventh and three in the eighth to end the game.

Also doing damage for the Raiders were Randy Hagar (3-for-5, four runs, two RBI), Jordan (2-for-3, double, three runs, two RBI), Calapa (1-for-3, run), Eckstein (1-for-3), Ray Hagar (1-for-4), Cruz (run, RBI) and Chris Callahan and Deltona's Pete Bezeredi (one run each).

Hathcock, a hard throwing freshman right-hander from Tecumseh, Michigan, struck out five and allowed only two runs in running his record to 2-1 on the season.

Kevin Scott lead the way for the Vikings with a double and a single.

Mary a three point lead, but the Vikings came back again, eventually tying the game at 41-41 on Angela Stinson's field goal with 1:10 left. A missed shot by the Rams gave the ball back to Norland, but Merrick took an offensive foul at mid-court to give Lake Mary the ball back with 0:45 remaining.

After moving the ball around Duber was fouled and the junior center made the first of two free throws to give the Rams the lead.

The Vikings tried to set up a last second play, but Lake Mary shut down the inside, forcing a desperation heave by Jennifer Jordan from the corner that came up well short.

Karen Morris scored 17 points for the winners, while Greisinger added seven and Duber six.

Jordan scored 14 points for the losers (four below her average), while leading scorer Mechelle Murray was held to only eight points (12 below her 20 point regular season average).

and Rondesha Wilkinson six (eight below her average).

"The key was that we played really good defense tonight," said Van Landingham. "Jennifer Ducker played great defense on Murray and Duber did a good job on Jordan. Merrick was a ballhawk all day and Greisinger did an excellent job off the bench."

When asked if she thought her team could bring the state title back to Seminole County Van Landingham said.

"I think we've got a shot at it. If we go out and play ball Saturday night we can do it."

Wanna nip Silver Hawks

WINTER PARK - Karen Pinckney doubled in Elizabeth Davidson with the winning run in the top of the eighth inning as Lake Mary outslugged homesteading Lake Howell, 9-8, in the Seminole Athletic Conference opener for both teams.

The Rams had taken a 6-0 lead in the top of the first inning, but the Silver Hawks battled back with three runs in the bottom of the sixth to tie the game at 8-8.

Davidson started the rally with a one-out single and Angle Snow followed with a single, setting the stage for Pinckney's heroics.

Lake Mary improves to 5-2 overall and 1-0 in the SAC, while Lake Howell falls to 5-3 overall and 0-1 in the conference. The Rams will host Lyman in an SAC game at the new Lake Mary Sports Complex, next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Davidson, batting second in the lineup, got things started in a positive manner for Lake Mary, blasting a two-run homer in the first inning.

Davidson finished the day going two-for-four with the home run and three RBI. Also having good days were Snow (2-for-5), Robin Dazey (2-for-4, RBI), Marissa Messier and Jennifer Spira (both 2-for-3 with one RBI) and winning pitcher Tiffany Deeb (2-for-3).

Doing the damage for the Silver Hawks were Britanny Scott (3-for-4, triple), Tina Leman (3-for-4, 2 RBI) and Laura Bowman (3-for-4, RBI).

Oviedo tops Patriots

OVIDEO - For the first time in several years, Lake Brantley is not leading the Seminole Athletic Conference softball standings.

Thursday night at the new Oviedo Sports Complex, first year head coach Greg Register led his Lions to an 8-4 upset of the Patriots.

"This is the first time that Oviedo has beaten Lake Brantley in at least six years," said Register, who came over from Seminole this season. "The bats got going tonight. I knew it was coming soon and this was a good

Courier advances in Champions Cup

Associated Press

INDIAN WELLS, Calif. - Top-seeded Jim Courier was a slow starter in his third-round match against unheralded Todd Martin at the Champions Cup. However, he was a fast finisher.

The Sanford born Courier, ranked No. 1 in the world, defeated Martin 7-5, 6-2 to advance to today's quarterfinals, where he'll face Marc Rosset of Switzerland.

Rosset, who upset seventh-seeded Andre Agassi on Wednesday, beat Brad Gilbert in the third round 6-4, 6-2.

Second-seeded Pete Sampras was the only upset victim Thursday, falling to 15th-seeded Alexander Volkov of Russia 7-5, 6-4. Volkov will meet Fabrice Santoro of France in the quarterfinals. Santoro defeated Jaime Yzaga of Peru 6-2, 6-3.

In other third-round action, fourth-seeded Michael Chang rallied for a 6-7 (7-4), 6-3, 6-1 victory over No. 13 Mali'Val Washington; No. 5 Petr Korda of Czechoslovakia eliminated No. 12 Thomas Muster of Austria 7-8 (7-3), 6-4; not serving too well on the big points. Perhaps I did stay back too much. In the past, I've been able to out-rally him. He didn't make those errors today."

Volkov defeated Sampras for only the second time in seven matches.

"Today I played a player, not against the name," Volkov said. "He didn't serve very good, and I returned his second serve very good. I tried to attack the first chance I got. I think he was surprised by that."

Chang needed 2 hours, 39 minutes to eliminate Washington.

"It's nice to hit hard on a first serve and serve consistently," Chang said. "It helped me out today. I tried to crack a winner on his second serve, to play power tennis. You have to decide which shots to hit hard and which not. My nerves helped me pretty much today."

Fourteen of the top 18 players in the world were entered in the tournament, which runs through Sunday. The singles champion will earn $235,000 and the runner-up will get $123,000.

Motor oil recycling

Improper disposal of used oil pollutes ground, water

Many people might not think of it, but improper disposal of used oil does pollute ground and surface water. One gallon of oil can ruin millions of gallons of fresh water. Landfilling, incineration, and uncontrolled dumping rob us of this valuable resource.

Over 1,300 million gallons of used oil was generated in the U.S. last year. About 30 percent of all used oil ends up in the ground — in a landfill or dump. Almost half of this 30 percent comes from "do-it-yourself" oil changers who sometimes dump it on the ground or in a sewer, or place it in the household trash destined for an unlined landfill. The National Petroleum Marketers Association estimates that less than half of "do-it-yourself" oil changers recycle their oil. Commercial generators usually only dispose of oil that is low quality or contaminated. It is encouraging that about

CONSUMER FOCUS

BARBARA HUGHES/GREGG

80 percent of oil that is turned in for recycling is recycled into fuel oil. About 1 percent is mixed with diesel fuel (1:9 ratio) by truck fleet operators. U.S. asphalt plants have the capacity to burn 30 percent of all the used oil generated. Currently, they burn less than half that amount.

A significant use of used oil in Florida is as a flotation agent in phosphate mining. It is estimated that a few million gallons of oil per year are used this way. Mining representatives report that all discharges are in compliance with waste water standards due to the enormous quantities of water used. Investigations are underway. Smaller uses are in concrete form construction, weed killing, cattle oiling and as a pesticide carrier. Note that generators who opt to recycle may not know exactly how their oil is recycled.

Used oil is processed into fuel by removing solids, solvents, water, and anti-freeze. It can be re-refined for use as a lubricant that meets or exceeds new oil. Next time you are changing oil in your car take the extra time to take it to a gas station or auto parts store. That way, everyone wins!

Woman's note stops solicitors

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the writer who complained of solicitors knocking on her door — especially at dinner time. Many announced that they were not selling anything — they were there to "share" their religious faith, and were required to make door-to-door visitations.

I used to just close the door in their faces, hoping to dissuade them with a curt, "No, thank you; I already have a religion."

After I had my first baby, even taking time to answer the door became irksome, so I had a "NO SOLICITING" sign posted on my door, but these people insisted that they were not "soliciting" — they were witnessing the word of the Lord, and could I please give them some money for their magazine?

The solution: I simply took an oversized index card and wrote in large black letters: "NO SOLICITING, no witnessing, no kidding!" Since posting that sign, I have not had one person come to my door to sell me his "old-time" religion.

JANE N. POOLE, ROBERT PARK, CALIF.
DEAR JANE: If for some reason your sign is overlooked, try the following sign suggested by one of my clever readers: "Warning, I am mean and my dog is hungry." Or, an even stronger warning might read: "Beware of our two Rotiwellers!"

DEAR ABBY: I went to an optometrist recently and had my eyes checked. I also bought some contact lenses from him. Upon leaving the office, I asked the receptionist for my prescription. She said that she'd give it to me in two weeks when I returned for the follow-up checkup. I was out of town on business and did not make the appointment. Worse, I lost the bag containing the new contact lenses. When I returned, I called the optometrist. The receptionist told me that she could not give me the prescription over the phone. We later had a conference call, but I never did get my prescription!

A few days later, I went to the same optometrist and the receptionist handed me my prescription, which I took to a new optometrist, who informed me that the prescription was for eyeglasses and not contact lenses!

I called the first optometrist to tell him about it and the receptionist put me on hold forever, saying that she'd "ask the doctor." Then she came back and asked if there was any way I could buy another pair of contact lenses from them. I told her, "No, I didn't like your service."

This time she put me on hold for so long that I finally hung up. Abby, how can I obtain my prescription? My theory is that this greedy optometrist won't give it to me because he wants me to buy the lenses from him. Please help me fight back.

PRESCRIPTION NEEDED DEAR DENIED: Demand your prescription! According to my optometrist, the records belong to you. Tell this to the receptionist if you cannot get into see the optometrist immediately or appear to be getting the runaround. And it wouldn't hurt to mention that you will have your lawyer handle this if they give you any trouble.

DEAR ABBY: On a recent trip to Scotland, I stayed with my 73-year-old maiden cousin, who made our trip most enjoyable with her humor and gracious hospitality.

One morning she said, "Where's the newspaper? I want to see who quit smoking."

Amazed at this, I asked, "Do they publish the names of people who quit smoking in the Scottish newspaper?"

"Aye," she said. "In the obituary column."

Wife's drinking problem began with a little wine

DEAR MARY: I can't kid myself any longer. My wife has a drinking problem. It started so slowly I didn't even notice. She's always had a glass of wine before bed every evening to help her sleep. I first began to think it was odd that if we didn't have any wine in the house she'd go to a convenience store at 11:00 p.m., but if we ran out of milk for breakfast it was no big deal.

We used to each drink a glass of wine when we'd go out to dinner. I still drink a glass but she's up to several with a meal, and then again before bedtime.

These are just a couple examples. It's really her actions and behavior when she's drinking that's the problem. Whenever I say anything to her about it she gets defensive, tells me I'm lying and trying to cause trouble for her with the rest of the family. I'm scared and mad and tired of putting up with this.

Everything I've tried (getting rid of the stuff, trying to show her what she's doing to us, threatening to leave, etc.) has gotten us nowhere. I don't know where else to turn, except to the divorce courts, and I really don't want to do that. Please help me see some other options.

SOBER AND TRAPPED HUSBAND

DEAR SOBER: You do have options but there are no guarantees when dealing with alcohol and other drug problems. Let's first look at some things you can do that may be helpful:

● Discuss the situation with someone you trust who has experience in this area. It may be a clergy person, counselor or friend who has gone through a similar experience.

● Try to stay calm and unemotional when speaking to her about her behavior. Don't whine, preach or attempt to punish her.

● Insist on driving when the two of you are away from home and she's been drinking.

● Don't lie, make excuses, or in any way shield her from the consequences of her behavior.

● Don't hide or dump bottles of wine or other alcoholic beverages.

● Don't argue with her when she's under the influence and don't take over the responsibilities that she normally or formerly performed.

● Start attending Al-Anon and let your wife know you're learning about the problem.

Finally, be patient and live one day at a time. Alcoholism is a treatable disease but you must expect both setbacks and relapses. As you grow and change in this area, you can be sure things will be different for you and your wife, but no one can predict how it will turn out.

Regular Church Attendance

'IN GOD WE TRUST'

MONEY!! ... When we have it, how shall we spend it? When we lack it, how shall we accumulate it? We spend most of our waking hours earning it ... then lie awake fretting about it. At times, our very lives appear to be centered around money.

Center your life around God. Pray to Him concerning your needs. When those prayers are joined with our God-given intelligence, strength, patience, and faith, He shall provide in His own manner and in His own time ... "for your Father knows what you need before you ask Him" (Matt. 6:8).

In fact, the answer to your needs is printed on all legal tender ... bills and coins alike. It reads ... "In God We Trust."

FROM THE PULPIT

Celebration of spiritual seasons

By FR. PAUL D. WOLFE

The belief that Florida has two seasons, summer and February, points out that those of us who live in the Sunshine State don't always appreciate the change in seasons the way our northern neighbors do. The short time I lived in Wisconsin was enough to show me that the penitential season of Lent was enhanced by the unrelenting grayness of winter, and that the hope for spring and Easter was more than just a passing of time, but a real sense of anticipation for the freedom from the darkness and cold of winter.

It is in awareness of these changing seasons that the church measures its time in the same way. Year after year we move through the cycle of Advent, Christmas, Epiphany, Lent, and Easter. These seasons identify not only the rhythm of the church, but also of our lives, and particularly during Lent give us an opportunity to pay attention to them.

As humans we all have our seasons of birth, our Christmas season. We have our Epiphany, times of discovery, growth, enlightenment, and sharing. We all are aware of our Lent, when we fall short, fail in what we do or don't do, and recognize and acknowledge our weakness and need for forgiveness. All of us rejoice in Easter, times of reconciliation, of joy, of new beginnings and hopes and promises. And, of course, we all have what the Catholic Church calls "Ordinary Time," that season where we keep on with the day-in-day-out routines and commitments of living.

Father Paul D. Wolfe

We keep these seasons with family and friends, in the fellowship of the Body of Christ, and in the privacy of our own hearts. Sometimes they are joyous, other times painful, and often are just commonplace. But they are all part of who we are as God's creation, and it is in them that we come to know his love, to experience both his discipline and his boundless forgiveness. We also live these seasons in the awareness that God shares them with us, that his son Jesus, in his incarnation, lived them as we live them.

Although we do not experience it in the weather, our hearts are journeying now through Lent to Easter. I pray that these times and seasons will bless you, and that together they will bless our life together in the family.

Father Paul D. Wolfe has been named the Supply Priest during the interim for Holy Cross Episcopal Church, 401 S. Park Ave., Sanford. Fr. Wolfe is the executive director of Habitat for Humanity in Orlando and is the former Rector of Holy Cross in Winter Haven. He began his interim ministry at the parish in January and will be with the church every Sunday until a new Rector arrives. He will celebrate all Sunday liturgies, teach part of the adult forum, celebrate holy days and be available for weddings and funerals. The Vestry has also contracted with Fr. Chris Young to celebrate weekday Holy Eucharists and be available for weekday pastoral crises. He is currently on the Rector's extended staff as assisting priest and is a retired U.S. Navy Chaplain. He will retain the position through the interim.

Rise Up! Sanford

The executive committee of "Rise Up! Sanford", civic leaders and Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith gathered together during a prayer breakfast at the Holiday Inn Lake Monroe to view the first commercial promoting their goals. The group, comprised of Christians who believe Jesus Christ is raising up a greater witness for the sake of the lost throughout this city, is calling the community to the Body of Christ to stand together and lift up His name higher than their individual churches. They will use television, radio, newspaper, billboards and citywide rallies to break down religious and racial walls and develop a network of permanent relationships throughout the Christian community of Sanford.

Many treasures

The congregation of First Christian Church, Disciples of Christ, 1607 S. Sanford Ave., opened the doors to its annual Rummage Sale yesterday. Judy Harrison, left, and Ellen Latham, members of the church, help Dorothy Reiser, right, sort through the many treasures available. The event will continue today and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the Church.

Arrhythmia may be linked to stress

MEDICINE

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have an arrhythmia. I'm especially bothered when at rest or when lying down. My doctor says taking potassium won't hurt. Is there anything else I can do?

DEAR READER: The term "arrhythmia" refers to any irregularity of the heartbeat. Because such irregularities can arise from many causes, they can be trivial or serious.

For example, most of us now and then experience the odd sensation of an irregular pulse. In most cases, this is harmless and short-lived. Tobacco, caffeine, fatigue, and stress are frequent causes. The condition needs no specific treatment, other than reduction of smoking and coffee (or tea), additional rest and attention to relieving stress.

On the other hand, some arrhythmias are indicators of serious heart disease and may even herald ominous irregularities that can lead to cardiac arrest. These conditions are diagnosed by electrocardiograms, stress tests and other similar examinations. There are many prescription drugs to treat these dangerous arrhythmias, including digoxin, procainamide, calcium-channel blockers, beta-blockers and other compounds.

Before prescribing one or more of these medicines, your doctor will have to identify the type of arrhythmia and its potential hazards. Potassium, a mineral vital to normal heart and muscle function, won't hurt you, as your doctor stated. But it may not do much good, either — unless you have a potassium deficiency, a common consequence of diuretic therapy, which will itself cause arrhythmias.

Find out what kind of arrhythmia you have and ask your physician to suggest appropriate treatment. Because arrhythmias may indicate heart disease, I am sending you a free copy of my new Health Report "Heart Disease."

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Philip James Bailey said that we should "count time by heartbeats." In bridge, though, this method of counting is impractical. How should we count? Our fingers and the toes on one foot are usually enough. But when we have a hand full of cards, it is hard to use all of our fingers. We could use both feet, but I suppose it is best to stick to the good ole brain.

For a declarer who counts, today's contract is easy to make. Against six no-trump, West leads the club king. How should South make all of his cards count?

South had 11 top tricks: three spades, three hearts, four diamonds and one club. The 12th trick would have to come from the spades, but as there were different ways to play the suit, South knew to leave it until last.

Exhibiting good technique, South ducked his club ace at trick one. He won West's club-queen continuation with the ace, noting from East's heart discard that West had begun with five clubs.

Next, South cashed his seven red-suit winners. He learned that West had started with three diamonds and at least three hearts. This meant that he had at most two spades. It was easy to cash the spade king, lead a spade to dummy's ace and, when the jack hadn't appeared, to finesse the spade 10 on the way back. The spade queen was South's 12th trick.

If West held jack-fourth of spades, would the contract fail? No. After the red-suit winners, West would be squeezed down to four cards. He would have to retain the club jack to stop dummy's eight from being promoted. So he could keep only three spades and the suit would run.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 6, 1993

In the year ahead, a relationship could be strengthened with a person whom you never fully appreciated. This could turn out to be one of your most valuable associations.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It might be necessary for you to deal with someone today who has not always done things according to Hoyle in the past. Be careful that you're not set up again. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail #2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Friends might not be as optimistic about a situation as you are today. Some of their doubts are valid, so take them into consideration.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In order to achieve your objectives today, you must be imaginative and open-minded. There's a chance your route could be obstructed, and you might have to cut a new path for yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you view today's developments from a negative perspective only, you could inhibit your own assertiveness. Don't let the fear of failure hold you back.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Unless you're prepared to treat others as generously as you expect them to treat you, nothing profitable is likely to occur for you today. Don't be one-sided.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) As long as you're not operating under pressure today, your judgment is apt to be quite keen. However, once you begin to sense resistance, you could become uncertain and ineffective.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Guard against inclinations today to operate in a manner that is based upon emotions and does not serve your best interests. View life from a practical perspective.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) An acquaintance who seldom has anything nice to say about anyone might tell you something disconcerting today about a close friend. Check the facts for yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Closely supervise assignments that others are performing for you today, because there is the distinct possibility that they might veer off in a direction opposite from where you want to be.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you are stern rather than sensitive when dealing with your friends today, problems could result. Try to look at the world from the other person's perspective instead of just your own.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be a bit more cautious than usual in your commercial dealings today. There's a chance something serious might go awry, even though the intent of all parties involved is sincere.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) The Bible admonishes us to judge not, lest we be judged ourselves. This is something you should keep foremost in your mind today, because you may tend to label others as something they are not.
