

Amusements

Are there any Brooklyn Dodger fans in Sanford? That's what a 15-year-old girl up in New York wants to know in a letter to the Sometime. We're personally a Red Sox timer while we're humbled to write "I am an avid Brooklyn Dodger fan and would like to know whether there are any teenage Dodger fans, or baseball fans in general among the readers of your newspaper. If so, I would like very much to hear from them. I would appreciate it if you would mention or print my letter in your column where it will be seen by your readers." Miss Kelly's address is 114-22 131st St., South Ozone Park, 20, New York.

Sanford continues to receive outstanding publicity in state publications. The latest issue of Florida Wildlife has a story written by Jack Grant, publishing editor, entitled "King of the River Bars" and naturally it's all about this immediate area. Space permitting, some time this week we hope to publish his article which, like all of Jack's writings, is very interesting. In the current issue of Jacksonville Seafarer, there's a story entitled "The Upper St. Johns From the Air" that tells of a flight by the top members of the Army Corps of Engineers over this area, and we're also planning to publish that article for those who may have missed it.

On Thursday we were forced to omit the Sometime column because of a lack of front page space. On Friday, we had to cut it down to half column in order to run the sketch of the proposed County hospital. To the many, many people who have spoken to us of the omission, the Sometime column is an explanation. In order to guard against a heavy influx of local news in the future, the column moves back today to the final page of the paper. Note the crossword puzzle to be found on this page for the first time today. And tomorrow our new serial starts. Also to be found on this page will be our "Amusement Page" which will feature Hambone's Meditations, Try and Stop Me, Smokey, and many other interesting features. There will also be WTRH and WRRH-TV daily programs. Let us know how you like the new page.

Primary ballots for the selection of 10 members for the Board of Directors of Seminole County Chamber of Commerce are now in the hands of County residents. Fretful bricklayers, Chamber managers, has asked us to remind voters that the completed forms must be returned to his office prior to midnight Aug. 26. With out counting each name, it appears as though there are close to 300 under consideration as residents will have a wide choice. Final balloting is to be underway for new officers of the Kiwanis Club. President Earl Higginbotham has announced that votes will be counted immediately after the Sept. 2 meeting.

And while on the subject of what we like to call "civic duties," City Manager Tom Leman told us Friday to be sure to publicize in every manner possible the meeting of the Tax Equalization Board tonight at City Hall. You've heard some of the prices (as I have) concerning the plan to increase the assessed valuation of all real property and personal property 20 percent for the year 1952. But griping amongst ourselves is a worthless pastime—whether you're for or against the plan to raise the assessed value, be sure to drop down to City Hall and speak your piece for the records. Looks like an interesting session coming up.

In a great number of ways, officers and men at the Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station add much to the City of Sanford. A story in the Herald Friday told of parties being held at the base to benefit youngsters of this area. Earlier last week, we wrote about the civilian and military payrolls at the station. In every possible way, the station benefits Sanford. And yet when he call goes out in local papers to donate to the United Service Organization fund, we turn a cold shoulder in the appeal. Here is one way in which we civilians can show our gratitude to the Navy. So send your contribution — TODAY — to Sammy Bruce at the Chamber of Commerce. Sammy, treasurer for the drive, is now confined to her home because of illness, and we're sure nothing would speed her recovery like a few dozen good-sized checks.

City Will Adopt New Assessment Plan

$60,000 For French Ave. Rights-Williams

City's Agent Sees Favorable SRD Action

Total cost of acquisition of all right-of-way property for the widening of French Ave. will not exceed $60,000, V. Williams Jr., who has been the City's agent in the procurement of the right-of-way, told the City Commission last night.

Mr. Williams also expressed the opinion that French Ave. would be given top priority by J. Stanton Lloyd, Duval County district board member of the State Road Department, for new primary road construction in the County.

He said he had nothing definite upon which to base his surmise. But Mr. Williams said, he thought French Ave. fit Mr. Lloyd's statement that the highways most traveled and most in need of improvement will be first to be considered. The agent pointed out that French Ave. which was the favorite of the committee's selection for initial improvement, has five times as much traffic as Highway 16, Geneva Ave., which was the county Board of Commissioners' first choice.

Agreement was reached with all property owners along French Ave. Mr. Williams said on all but about 14 properties. Condemnation suits were filed on all the remaining parcels of property except one. The agent said he doubted if 10 cases would be tried in Circuit Court. He predicted the suits would come up in the November term of court.

Driver Killed On Osteen Bridge Curve

A 40-year-old Negro tavern owner was crashing to his death on the dangerous Osteen Bridge curve early today. Jack Morgan Jr., owner of the De-Lux bar in Goldtope, was killed at about 12:30 o'clock this morning when the car in which he was driving tumbled off the sharp curve at the Osteen Bridge, rolled over twice and plunged into the St. Johns River in three feet of water.

Joe Anderson, Negro companion riding with Morgan, was found injured, but hospital authorities stated his condition was not serious. State Trooper E. D. Harrison and Sheriff J. L. Hobby investigated the accident rushing Anderson to the Fernald-Laughton Hospital.

A six-man coroner's jury was impaneled by Justice of the Peace Hugh Duncan this morning and they viewed the scene and body. According to Mr. Duncan, coroner's inquest into the death of Morgan will be held when Anderson is sufficiently recovered to testify.

Members of the coroner's jury are Marion Harman, foreman; Frank W. Jones, Ed Williamson, Thomas Hall Jr., J. T. McConaugh and H. D. Muse. Duncan stated Morgan was traveling west on State Route 415 and went off the road after crossing the Osteen Bridge when the accident occurred. He could not say whether Morgan died because of injuries suffered crashing the car or whether Morgan was drowned in his car.

"We will have to wait for the coroner's report first," he stated. The death of Morgan was the second in the past two months on Route 415 near the Osteen bridge. A Puerto Rican laborer was killed there last June in an automobile accident. The County Commissioners requested funds from the State Road Department for a new bridge, wider road and less dangerous curve on Route 415 at the Osteen Bridge only last week.

A schedule of charges for use of Memorial Stadium by the County Board of Public Instruction was approved last night by the City Commission. The City submitted a proposal to buy some bleachers.

Taxpayers Air Views During Session Of City Commission

The City Commission last night elected to go through with the proposed plan of financing the sewerage program through the introduction of sewer service charges and raising bond issues through adjustment of local real estate assessment valuations. The method of procedure had been used for an hour and a half before a crowd which filled the City Commission room and overflowed into the hall.

The commission had not upon the program of financing at their meeting Aug. 3, but had decided to take the feelings of taxpayers in the matter last night.

Members of the Sanford Men's Club Assn. went to the meeting expecting to protest against the increased valuation as they were of the belief that the millage rate would be increased accordingly. However, after Mayor Randall Chase explained the millage would be lowered in direct reverse of the increase in valuation, Al Wilson, president of the association, stated: "Personally I have nothing to say for or against it. I think it's all right."

Mayor Chase spiked the gun of most objectors through his explanation of the proposition at the first of the meeting, during which he referred to a chart at the head of the room. The chart appears at the bottom of this page. The chart showed 1,000 acres which are assessed from present assessment valuations of property, and what the taxes would be should the Commission raise the valuation by 20 per cent. The chart also showed the millage for paying off bonded indebtedness and for operation of the City under both systems.

The Commission did not stipulate the rate of increase in valuation would be 30 per cent of that the millage shown would be the exact ones selected, but pledged they would come as close to the stated figures as possible. New assessment valuations will be figured from the valuation as of Jan. 1, 1953.

The Commission decided upon the increase in valuation Aug. 25, after a long session of discussion by them by the City's fiscal agent in the matter of the sewer and water program. Sullivan Nelson, fiscal agent, said he had a bill of $1,521,000 while with the new valuation $1,100,000. The bill would be $421,000. The net increase in tax levied he pointed out, were $13.

The Commission decided upon the increase in valuation Aug. 25, after a long session of discussion by them by the City's fiscal agent in the matter of the sewer and water program. Sullivan Nelson, fiscal agent, said he had a bill of $1,521,000 while with the new valuation $1,100,000. The bill would be $421,000. The net increase in tax levied he pointed out, were $13.

Commission Turns Down ACL Pact

The City Commission did not accept an agreement from the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad last night which dealt with property owned by the railroad on French Ave. between First and Commercial Sts., and at an alley between Commercial and Fulton Sts. The City decided to continue the matter further when the railroad elected to put full responsibility for the property on the City's shoulders and still keep the right of revocation at anytime. The City plans to widen the two thoroughfares.

Heavy Rainfall

The Velvet HAND

By HELEN REILLY

CHAPTER ONE

PHILIP HAVEN arrived home from Mexico on the afternoon of June the third in a thoroughly bad humor. His niece Libby didn't meet him at the station although he had telegraphed that he was coming, and he had to take a cab. Carrying his typewriter, Philip Haven mounted steps and crossed the broad stone terrace that was a recent addition, deciding that it looked very well. The price had been high. He couldn't quite remember what it was, but on the whole, it was worth it.

Tall and lean, with an energetic forward stoop, at 55, Haven was as vigorous as he had been at 30. He hated his advancing age. The girls were the trouble. He had regarded his two nieces as children until a year or so ago. They weren't children—they were women, and they were behaving like women, in an inconsiderate and irrational manner, Libby particularly.

The hall inside, broad and long, was dimly cool.

"Libby," he shouted, and put down the typewriter.

But the house appeared to be deserted. Then a door upstairs opened and a voice called, "Is that you, Philip? I'll be right down."

It wasn't Libby. It was his sister-in-law, Miriam VanKreel.

Miriam descended the stairs with a stately tread. She was a big, statuesque woman whose age was a mystery; she could have been 40, or in her late 60's. There was no gray in her fair hair, and her face, on which she spent much time daily, was smooth and mask-like. She had married again after Philip's brother John died and had buried a second husband. She had been with the Havens since the death of Philip's wife, Amelia.

"I wouldn't think of leaving you alone to cope with those two motherless girls," she had said. "I'll stay for a month or so and straighten things out." She had been there ever since.

"My dear boy!" Miriam advanced on Haven smilingly.

Her smile was like a butter brushed over pastry—it left the essential structure unchanged. They touched cheeks, or rather Miriam did. She looked past Haven. Where's Libby? I want her to do some errands in the village. I've been laid low again—ones of my attacks."

Haven said: "I don't know where Libby is. Why didn't she meet me? Didn't she get my telegram?"

"Yes, I took over the phone myself. I've been in bed all day and I haven't seen Libby, but she must be somewhere around."

"Tom might know," Haven suggested.

Tom was the colored houseman, one of their recent acquisitions, whom Miriam was in the process of making over into an old family retainer. She shook her head. Tom, it appeared, was in New York having his teeth attended to. "Perhaps Libby's out in the garage," Philip, perhaps in the car had a flat."

Libby wasn't in the garage. She wasn't anywhere in the big, rambling house. "Catherine," Miriam suggested. "That must be it. Libby went into New York to meet you, missed you at Grand Central and went on to Catherine's."

Catherine was Philip Haven's other niece and a cousin of Libby's. Like Libby, she had been with the Havens since she was a child, but, college done with, she had insisted on taking a job and an apartment in New York.

Haven made for the phone.

Answering his ring in the little inner hall of her three rooms on 90th St., Kit Haven was surprised to hear her uncle's voice. "Philip! He had taught them to call him that."

"I thought you were still in Mexico. Nice trip?"

"Yes," he said impatiently, "although I hate the sun. Is Libby there?"

Kit said no.

"I don't understand it," Philip said violently. "I got in 10 minutes ago expecting her to meet me at the station, and she wasn't there."

Kit smiled. Libby was her uncle's right hand. She did his typing for him, and listened to his plots, and was a combination secretary and companion, had been since she was 17.

A sudden thought struck Kit. It could very well be... If she was right it would be a blow to Philip, a staggering blow. She glanced at her watch.

"I think I might know where Libby might be," she said. "I'll tell you when I see you. If I leave now I can just catch the 7:10." She hung up on the first of a furious barrage of questions and went to the living-room.

George Corey and Anita Stewart were there. They were her friends and she was fond of them both.

"Kit," Anita cried. "What's the matter? You're as white as a sheet."

George didn't say anything. He was eyeing her keenly with that aim steady gaze of his. Kit said: "It was Philip on the telephone. He just got back from Mexico and Libby isn't in the Denfield house and he's worried about her. I'm going up."

Half an hour later she was on the train. She and George were due to a party at the Laraby's and she had persuaded Anita to sub for her. She looked through the window into the darkness of the tunnel and her reflection gazed back at her—gray eyes under delicate dark brows, hollows below the cheek bones, hair lifting from her forehead in a widow's peak. A widow? No, it wasn't quite that bad.

Libby and Hugo, her cousin and the man she had thought, erroneously, loved her. But that was before he met Libby.

What was she to say to her uncle? Make it brief. Libby and Hugo went away to be married quietly like this because they thought it would be kinder. That wasn't quite right. Libby hadn't known about Hugo and her, Kit thought. Libby was a square shooter, an square as they came. She couldn't help it if everybody was drawn to her, women as well as men. Libby was the dandiest in the speeding train. Her hair was curly, too, only it was the purest, palest gold. Her eyes were blue. They crinkled at the corners when she laughed, and she had the loveliest mouth. Her clothes were always the best Philip's money could buy and she knew how to wear them. It wasn't only her looks. Her poise was effortless and all her responses instinctively right.

When the train reached Denfield, it was almost dark. Philip had sent a taxi. He had the door open before she reached it. Everything about him came at you belligerently, the jut of dark hair sprinkled with white above the domed forehead, the deep-set eyes, the Roman nose, the kind mouth and fiercely opinionated jaw.

He kissed her cheek absently. "Well, Kit, what did you mean by saying you had an idea where Libby might be and then hanging up on me?"

Kit put her bag down on the drum table, and said, smiling, "Don't get excited, darling—it's not good for you."

Philip said irritably. "Do you or don't you know what's happened to Libby—where she is?"

He was genuinely worried. He would be worse than worried when he found out. Libby was 24, but if it had ever occurred to him that she would marry and leave him, that he would cease to be the star-dogged moon, he had never given the slightest indication of it. Poor Philip, she thought, compassionately. He was like a nut, sweet if you could get through the shell to the meat. She let her hands fall and faced him.

"You remember Hugo Cavannaught?" she said.

Borer Confusion

AMES, Ia. (AP)—The corn borers have even experts confused in Iowa this year. Harold Cunderson, state college extension entomologist, says the borers normally reach their egg-laying peak around June 17 and have finished laying by June 25. But this year the laying continued throughout July.

Farmers normally spray when they find 100 egg masses per 100 plants. But that rule doesn't apply this year because eggs laid early already have hatched. And Cunderson says the experts have no other rule to offer that will help the farmers protect their crop.

DENVER, 8 — Seven-year-old Kenny R. Koppel had his box camera at the ready as President Eisenhower looked out of church yesterday.

A news service photographer said he thought the youngster clicked the shutter.

But Kenny confessed later to an attack of buck fever. He said he got too interested in his subject and forgot all about shooting a picture until the President entered a car and moved out of range.

DEADLY WEEK-ENDS

Pleasure time is no time for accidents and sudden death, but unfortunately that is when the grim specter works overtime.

With a week-end or holiday coming up, families and vacation parties swarm the roads to places of recreation, traffic is congested, driving strain increased—and then the fatal count begins.

Millions of good, bad and indifferent drivers speeding, cutting in, weaving, ignoring the rules of courtesy, challenging traffic controls, provide the lethal ingredients for crashing and killing. Add to this the potion of the drinking driver and the mixture is deadly.

When you plan week-end driving be doubly cautious. Try to avoid peak hours of travel and congested routes. Start early, return before or after the rush. Watch your driving, keep your temper, don't contest the right-of-way—and watch the other driver!

Slow down—take a little longer and bring your family home alive.

H-Bomb Is No Maginot Line

Since the end of World War II, when it became apparent that the Reds were determined to interfere with our efforts to bring about a peaceful world, many Americans have lived in an ill-considered state of optimism. Didn't we have the atomic bomb? Our enemies did not have the bomb and the dreadful nature of this awful weapon made it unlikely that they would attack us.

When the Russians made it plain that they had developed an atomic bomb the United States was well on its way to the creation of a hydrogen bomb so awful in its destructive power that it actually made the atomic bomb seem primitive. This led in the race for weapons once again imparted a feeling of security that was not based on sound judgment.

The fact of the matter is that the free world cannot depend for its survival on the protection of a Maginot line of nuclear secrets. What one man can discover in a laboratory is likely to be discovered by another man if the second proceeds intelligently and with diligence.

Perhaps the discoverer that the Russians really do have the hydrogen bomb may have a beneficial effect on the morale of the free world. It may tell us from our complacency and awaken us to the fact that we must remain strong. The Russians, it is true, have pulled even with us in the race for development of the hydrogen bomb. But we dare not let them pass us. We can hope for peace only so long as our strength is great enough to convince the Reds that they would be likely to lose any war that they begin.

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

The Jews were called a peculiar people. They were indeed. They were conscious of their fatherhood of God. We all have a noble heredity if we claim it. Forget about being children of the dust. Praise the tabernacle of God is with men and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people. Rev. 21:3.

Do-it-yourself isn't a fad any more. It's a market, estimated to be grossing three billion dollars a year.

HAL BOYLE

New Report On Women Presented

By HELMAN MORIN (For HAL BOYLE) NEW YORK — Brace yourselves, men. Here comes another report on American women.

The 1953 reports on the Kinsey's new book hit the public prints. Since it is about women, and has statistics and things, you would imagine they would be talking of nothing else these fine summer days. That just goes to show how much we know about them.

A brief little announcement from Paris, a while back, about Dior's dictum on the length of skirts still seems to be topic A among the ladies.

It appears that silhouettes, not sex, and dresses, not dikes are still uppermost in their minds. Well, this column today was going to be about reactions to Kinsey, but if they want dresses and Dior, here goes —

Brother Dior, as I understand it, is an interesting result of some factors, which, at first sight have very little to do with bodies and necklines. A combination of war, politics and the hard facts of economics put him in a position where, today, he can hand down the word that skirts are going up — and they go up.

The Second World War practically blanketed Paris as a style capital. If you've ever seen the price tags on the models in a "collection," you have a rough idea what that meant in terms of dollars and French economy.

So they set out to regain the pre-war position. Dior, a very able guy with the drawing board and a mouthful of pins, was picked to spearhead the operation. French backers gave him enough money so that he didn't have to worry whether his creations were immediately successful or not.

The important thing was effect, something new and spectacular, and he gave them that.

He took over where Vionnet and Paul Poiret left off and the result was that when he came out with the "tulip silhouette," madame

JAMES MARLOW

Reds Subtle As Truck

WASHINGTON — The Russians were expected to make some move to influence the West German elections, and perhaps try to mollify the East Germans. They made it as subtle as a truck.

In East Germany, run by Communist puppets of Moscow, are 10 million Germans. In West Germany, whose freely elected government cooperates with the West, are 18 million Germans.

Germans in both sections want their country unified. The Russians have balked at Western Allied attempts to bring it about. But the possibility makes nice bait for the Russians to dangle over Germany's heads.

In West Germany on Sept. 6 there will be elections for the new Bundstag, the lower house of Parliament. The main contest is between the Christian Democrats, headed by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, and the Social Democrats.

The result will decide whether Adenauer continues in office. If working with the West, he has gone so far as to favor putting West Germans in the European Defense Community, a single West European army, which hasn't been created yet.

The Russians have directly opposed this military tie-up with the Western Allies. They have a stake in watching Adenauer defeated.

The Social Democrats have campaigned against Adenauer with the argument that he plan for joining EDC would make unification impossible, since Russia could block it by holding on to East Germany.

So EDC and unification became main issues in the German elections.

But before Russia could make some move intended to influence the West Germans against Adenauer, events took the play from them. In mid-June the East Germans rioted against the treatment given them by the Russians and their puppets in East Germany.

It was clear notice to the West Germans and to the world how they felt about their Communist-run East German government. This gave the West an opportunity to help the East Germans and add to the Russians' embarrassment.

Shortly after the riots the United States started sending 15 million dollars in food to Adenauer's government to distribute to any East Germans who would dare to be free by going into West Berlin for it. Mar closed.

foreign ministers all down with Russia's foreign minister to talk about unification and free elections for all Germans, East and West, to choose a single German government.

After the demonstration of East German feeling showed in the riots, there didn't seem much doubt that if the East Germans could join with those in the West in choosing a government, it wouldn't be a Russian puppet.

After about three weeks the Russians sent a note agreeing to such a conference but it was a fuzzy kind of note and threw in various outside issues. While the Western Powers were puzzling over it, Soviet Premier Malenkov made a speech.

He said any unified Germany should have to be dismantled. The Russians sent a second note, which seemed a plain acknowledgment that their first note wasn't either haste or confusion.

They suggested a conference in Germany in six months. This date was a vague hope of something in front of the Germans just before election time while leaving the Russians free to wreck such a conference six months later, if it was ever held.

In the meantime, they said, there should be a provisional government set up for all Germany. Made up how? A combination, the Russians said, it should be composed of the East and West German parliaments.

But to the West Germans this East German Parliament, a creature of the Communists, could hardly claim to be representative of the East Germans who had in effect repudiated it with their riots.

This didn't sit well with Adenauer's Christian Democrats or his election opponents, the Social Democrats. But EDC and unification remained issues, for Russia warned unification was impossible if West Germany joined EDC.

Then Russia tried another move, no doubt intended to serve a triple purpose: soften some West Germans, mollify the East Germans, and bolster the sagging prestige of the East German government.

Calling the Communist leaders of East Germany to Moscow, Russia promised East Germany financial help and to free a number of German prisoners still in Russian hands since World War II.

To the editor: It is never easy to say a timely word of thanks to those people who help one to do a difficult task of contradictory purposes and at the same time to produce a satisfactory solution to the problem. Now what about the higher skirts this year?

Clare Potter, one of the hottest American designers, says it will have an effect on fashions over here. "But not as much in America as elsewhere," she said.

"Skirt lengths have almost always been higher in this country. The reason is perfectly simple—American girls have the best looking legs in the world."

Mme. Potter is a devotee of what "The American Look" is known as. She says women all over the world are more or less envious of our ladies and the way they can wear clothes. Hence, in raising skirt lengths, Dior is not only reversing a trend, but falling in with a prevailing trend that when he came out with the "tulip silhouette," madame

The good will of these taxpayers who unite in recognizing the early need for the rehabilitation of some of Sanford's sewers, particularly north of Eighth St. and east of Alhambra Ave. is an excellent example of community spirit and of individual and family unselfishness. It is indeed appreciated.

Palmieri Wins 18th As Sanford Beats Daytona, 6-4

Cards Finally Win In Daytona Beach; Deland Plays Twin Bill Here Tonight

It took all season and the final game, almost postponed by mucky conditions, before the Sanford Cardinals won their first game in City Island Park at Daytona Beach last night from the Islets, 6-4. It was a big night for the deliberate working Ernie Palmieri as not only did he have the distinction of being Sanford's only flinger to win in Daytona, but "Earnest Ernie" notched his 18th triumph over the season.

The contest, originally scheduled as a twin bill, wasn't started until 9:45 o'clock, the first game being washed out. That first game will be lost for good this season since Sanford plays Daytona a doubleheader here Saturday night in the last match between these two clubs.

The fifth place Cardinals, a fraction of a percentage point out of fourth spot, will battle Deland here in a twin bill this evening starting at 6:30 p.m.

Manager J. C. Dunn has nominated John "Boo" Sullivan, winner of three as against no defeats, and Harry Moltz (4-4) or Paul Corbett (0-3) for this evening's pitching assignment. The Red Hats left a sour taste in the mouths of Sanford's players and fans alike by handing the locals a twin setback here only last Saturday night.

Tomorrow night will be the gala Yowell-Touchton Free Night game at the Memorial Stadium when Lakeland plays the home standing Cardinals at 8:00 p.m. It will be gala only if Jupiter Pluvius grants reasonable weather.

Last night the Cardinals used 11 batters and the nine-hit hurling of Palmieri to score a 6-4 victory. Price Westbrock opened the game with a double, which has not been a trip had he not fallen down. Westbrock re-injured his, not yet healed, broken ankle for the third time since his return to the lineup and was lifted for a pinch runner—Tony Barone. The hustling little sacker complied by lacing out two hits boosting his average from .230 to .231.

Both Bill Silverthorne and Tommy "Wahoo" Leonard joined Barone in driving out a pair of bingles. Leonard elevated his average by a point to .374 while Silverthorne climbed from .301 to .304. Bill Batty clouted the other extra base hit by Sanford in the sixth, his 13th double of the year. Leonard drove in his 109th run on a long fly in the sixth.

Palmieri contributed to his own cause driving in two runs and singling in two official trips. While yielding only five passes and nine hits, he fanned three to boost his team leading figure to 142. Ernie, however, paces Sanford in innings pitched with 221 while boasting an overall record of 18-10.

Only two more victories separate him from the coveted 20-game charm circle. With 11 more games in the next seven days, including the pair with Deland here tonight, Palmieri should have ample opportunity to turn the trick, though it won't leave him much rest between stints.

CARD CAPERS: W. V. Bitting of Touchton's and Jack Hall of Yowell's still have an adequate supply of tickets for tomorrow night's big Free Night game between Lakeland and Sanford at the Memorial Stadium. All fans must obtain their tickets at either one of these two stores to gain free admission to the game.

With last night's doubles by Westbrock and Batty, Sanford now has nine more two-baggers than last year's Seminole Blues and 19 more triples. However, the Blues hit 47 more home runs, or 19 more extra base hits.

Robertson Hurls VC-9 Electronics To 8-6 Victory

VC-9 Electronics finally sandwiched in a game between rains yesterday in the Sanford League at the Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station. Their long wait was well rewarded for the Electronics pointed out a 8-6 win over NAAS Security.

Evan Robertson was the big man in yesterday's triumph, hurling neat three-hit ball, fanning 10 while blasting out a triple and single. Louis Dalrymple belted out two, drilling a homer and double while Gene Snavely was pounding out two triples.

J. C. Edwards absorbed the loss yielding seven hits and whitening just two. C. R. Hunt slugged two doubles for the losers. NAAS Administration was slated to play VC-9 Electronics this afternoon, that is of course if the rain holds up long enough.

The long leading FARRON Operations and NAAS Security are scheduled to battle each other tomorrow afternoon.

ATTENTION PETER SCHAAL: Those alert Sanford baseball fans have detected a slight error in your most comprehensive Florida State League record book. . . . Rosemary Cullum, one of this City's more astute baseball students, questioned us concerning the date Ed Levy hit three consecutive homers in a game back in 1950.

We had written it was May 22, 1950, when Sanford played in Leesburg. . . . Rosemary differed saying Levy hit his three in Daytona on the following day, having hit only one in Leesburg on May 22, 1950. . . . Then Webb Jones and C. R. Dawson told us that Tom Bolt also agreed with Rosemary because he saw the game in Daytona when Levy powered three into the Halifax River.

Our first instinct was to show Rosemary wrong in the Schaal record book. . . . It distinctly showed that Levy clouted three homers in one game at Leesburg on May 22, 1950. . . . However, Rosemary insisted that Levy hit them in Daytona and asked if we wouldn't dig out the Sanford Herald's covering those two games. . . . By checking the Herald for May 23, 1950, we found her to be correct. . . . Levy hit one in Leesburg on May 21. . . . a Sanford player named Murphy hit another and Floyd Chitt slammed another for Leesburg. . . . The May 24th issue of the Herald, covering the May 23rd game at Daytona, revealed that Levy smashed three in Daytona.

So we would like to submit this correction for the Schaal record book of the future.

The rivalry between Deland and Sanford last Saturday night reached a high pitch. Jack Cade, who battling with Tommy Leonard for the batting title this year, shouted to his pitcher—Bill Hlodgett—to hit Leonard in the head as Tommy came up to bat. . . . The peaky Sanford flycatcher, slightly enraged at Cade's remark, promptly waved Cade in for a bunt shouting back, "Come on, I'll blast your head off." . . . Needless to say, Cade dropped back several steps.

Big Robert Newsom, the largest man on Seminole High School's gridiron squad last year, reported yesterday weighing to a trim 230 pounds. . . . This represented a loss of 20 pounds for the giant 6-foot-3 tackle. . . . Manager J. C. Dunn needs only five more hours to equal Chuck Aleno's 25 total of last year. . . . Cocca's "One-Man-Gang" and skipper Bama Howell is through for the season. . . . Bama broke his finger last Saturday night. . . . He had 127 RBI's and needed only 13 more to tie Buddy Lake's FSL record of 140. . . . With Buck Parine and Dunn nearly 20 away from Lake's mark, it appears likely that the 1946 record will stand another season.

The bowling season is getting underway in full swing at the Sanford Bowling Alleys. . . . In the process of complete renovation under the able guidance of Proprietor Bill Hartwick, the Sanford Bowling Alleys will be as modern as any bowling palace in Central Florida within the next year. . . . The Navy League has already begun and the City League is just about set to commence another season. . . . Paul Perold assures us that the competition will be keener this year with several new teams and a larger group of new players. . . . Paul is another year older, too, and he may lose his title of "Kingfish" this year.

Rooter Moves Mountain To See Baseball Game

VALLE CRUCIS (A)—Ben Ward, 57, a wealthy mountaineer, loves baseball. He loves it so much he paid $15,000 to have a mountain peak removed to make a baseball diamond on this Tennessee border town in the Smokies.

Ward bought a bulldozer which leveled the 3,100 foot peak. The time consumed was 3,000 bulldozer hours.

The altitude here plays optical tricks. Outfielders with nothing to judge the height and speed of the ball except the small grandstand, sometimes charge in for a drive and then ruefully watch it sail 10 feet overhead. Outfielders are wary also of chasing line snatches that fall near the fence—4 1/2 feet high and of the picket type.

Behind the short fence is a quarter of a mile drop to a river below.

Yowell-Touchton "Free Night" Game To Be Played Here Tomorrow Night

The re-scheduled Yowell-Touchton Free Night will finally be played tomorrow night when Lakeland plays Sanford in the Memorial Stadium, weather permitting. That is, Over 8,000 free tickets for this bargain night affair have been passed over the counters of Touchton's Drug Store and Yowell's Department Store in the past week and a half with more still being requested.

Both W. V. Bitting, owner of Touchton's, and Jack Hall, manager of Yowell's are hoping to establish a new Florida State League attendance record for a single regular season game. They purchased all the seats in the house in a package deal with the Sanford Cardinals in order to help the club financially while issuing over 4,000 tickets free at their respective stores so that an attendance record might be broken.

The current gate mark is held by Gainesville's 3,227 paid admissions to a June 7th game in 1949. Both Hall and Bitting are optimistic over the chances of setting a new gate standard in the FSL "if the weather holds up."

The game was originally slated for last Tuesday between Sanford and Leesburg, but it was rained out and rescheduled for tomorrow night with Lakeland.

Fans will not be charged for tickets obtained at either Yowell's and Touchton's, however, tickets at the gate will be the regular price.

Reds Eye Tattoos As Lamp Shades

PANMUNID, Korea, JP - A soldier who started a collection of 22 tattoos back in 1916 was released by the Reds today and said he often wondered in prison if the collection had been such a good idea.

The Red looking long and hard at his tattoos and criticized them as "No good," said Capt. Carl Tucker of Napa, Calif.

Recalling stories of German atrocities in World War II, Tucker said "I thought a couple of times I was going to be on lamp shades."

Somertime
 Rotary District Governor Malcolm Duggan received a report from J. E. West, acting chairman of the fellowship committee, when he visited Sanford yesterday. We thought it was such an interesting item that it should be passed along to members of all clubs throughout the city. Mr. West says 10 certain ways to kill a society or club and listed them as follows: (1) Don't come to the meetings; (2) If you do come, come late; (3) If the weather doesn't suit you, think of coming; (4) If you attend a meeting, find fault with the work of the officers and other members; (5) Never accept an office, as it is easier to criticize than to do things; (6) Nevertheless, feel hurt if you are not appointed on the committee, but if you are, do not attend committee meetings; (7) If asked by the chairman to give your opinion on some matter, tell him you have nothing to say. After the meeting tell everyone how things ought to have been done; (8) Do nothing more than is absolutely necessary, but when members roll up their sleeves and willingly and unselfishly use their ability to help matters along, as that the club is run by a clique; (9) Hold back your dues as long as possible or don't pay at all; and (10) Don't bother about getting new members—let someone else do it. And, friends, if members follow the above rules they'll kill the best organization which ever existed.

A reader dropped into the office yesterday afternoon to suggest how to halt the current wave of youngsters being suffocated in abandoned ice boxes when the doors close upon them. He stated that in Illinois all abandoned refrigerators and ice boxes must have their doors removed. For failing to comply with the state law, 10-15 found guilty, are fined $50 or given 30 days in jail. That law was passed by the Legislature just recently. The horror of losing children in such a manner was brought home to the writer very vividly earlier in the month when three youngsters up in our town of Haverhill, Mass. came to their untimely end in that manner.

What two teams matched together for a baseball or softball game would draw the greatest number of spectators in Sanford. The Somertimer is convinced (on the basis of similar contests played in other cities) that a clash between the Rotary and the Cubs would be a tremendous crowd gatherer. We mention those two service clubs in particular since in cities where we lived before moving to Florida the rivalry had been extremely sharp between those two groups. Right now we're going on record as favoring and as being willing to do everything possible in way of promoting such a contest with all proceeds to go to the Cardinals in hopes of pushing the professional club up into the black and out of the red. Personally, we can't think of anything much more humorous than seeing a bunch of decrepit old timers (the writer included) making fools of themselves out on the diamond. How the wives and children would laugh!

Thoughts: White Shaving — Doesn't it ever stop raining down here in Florida? Probably the owners of teams in the Florida State League who watch the $5555 roll down the drain as one game after another is waded out are wondering the same thing. Webb Jones is in his element these days as he sits around at soda fountains talking baseball with his friends for hours upon end. Doctors and dentists are reporting a landslide business these days as the youngsters flow in for their preschool checkups. It appears as though everyone was as favorably impressed as we were by the sketch of the proposed Seminole County hospital published in the Herald last Friday. As if the Yankees weren't enough of a cinch to rob their fifth straight championship, now Jerry Coleman is on his way back to join the Bombers.

Chuck Somertime is still talking about his first airplane ride which he took today out at Slade's Beach Airport on the Sandaloo Springs Rd. Genial Fred Slade, owner-operator, invited the youngster to go for a ride in the new Aerona Champion the field just purchased. An earlier invitation had to be postponed because of the measles. The Champion is a two seater training plane too small for three people in ride in, so Chuck took his little boy all alone in the back seat. He liked it and wanted to go right up again. Incidentally, Fred says the heavy rains of late haven't slowed operations down a bit. "We're busy all the time," he reported.

The County pre-school planning conference gets underway tomorrow morning with Thomas D. Bailey, State superintendent of public instruction, as one of the main speakers on the first day. He also will be at the Kiwanis Club luncheon at 12:30 noon. The local persons who want to listen to his talk, Marion Harman tells us the address will be broadcast over WTRB. We think it will be an address of interest to all parents.

Prize Stolen
 ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — A $400 prize which was to have been given to a young boy for a drawing of an airplane was stolen in a stamp contest. The winner was a sure thing. The prize was stolen.

Greenwich Village Due For Changes

NEW YORK — A part of New York City's Greenwich Village is scheduled for a face lifting, but authorities say the Bohemian neighborhood's historical and architectural contours will not be marred.
 Plans for three big housing projects for 4,050 families were announced yesterday by city officials. The three projects, all in the Greenwich Village area, will cost more than $2 million dollars.
 Postment is the leading work producing nation, followed by Spain and French North Africa.

TOO YOUNG TO DIE!

When epidemic strikes and takes its sudden and deadly count of the young, it tears at our heart-strings for there is so little we can do about it. Such tragedies may occur once in a year or two. But the highway toll of young innocents produces a casualty list every day, year after year. There is much we can do about it, for we are responsible.

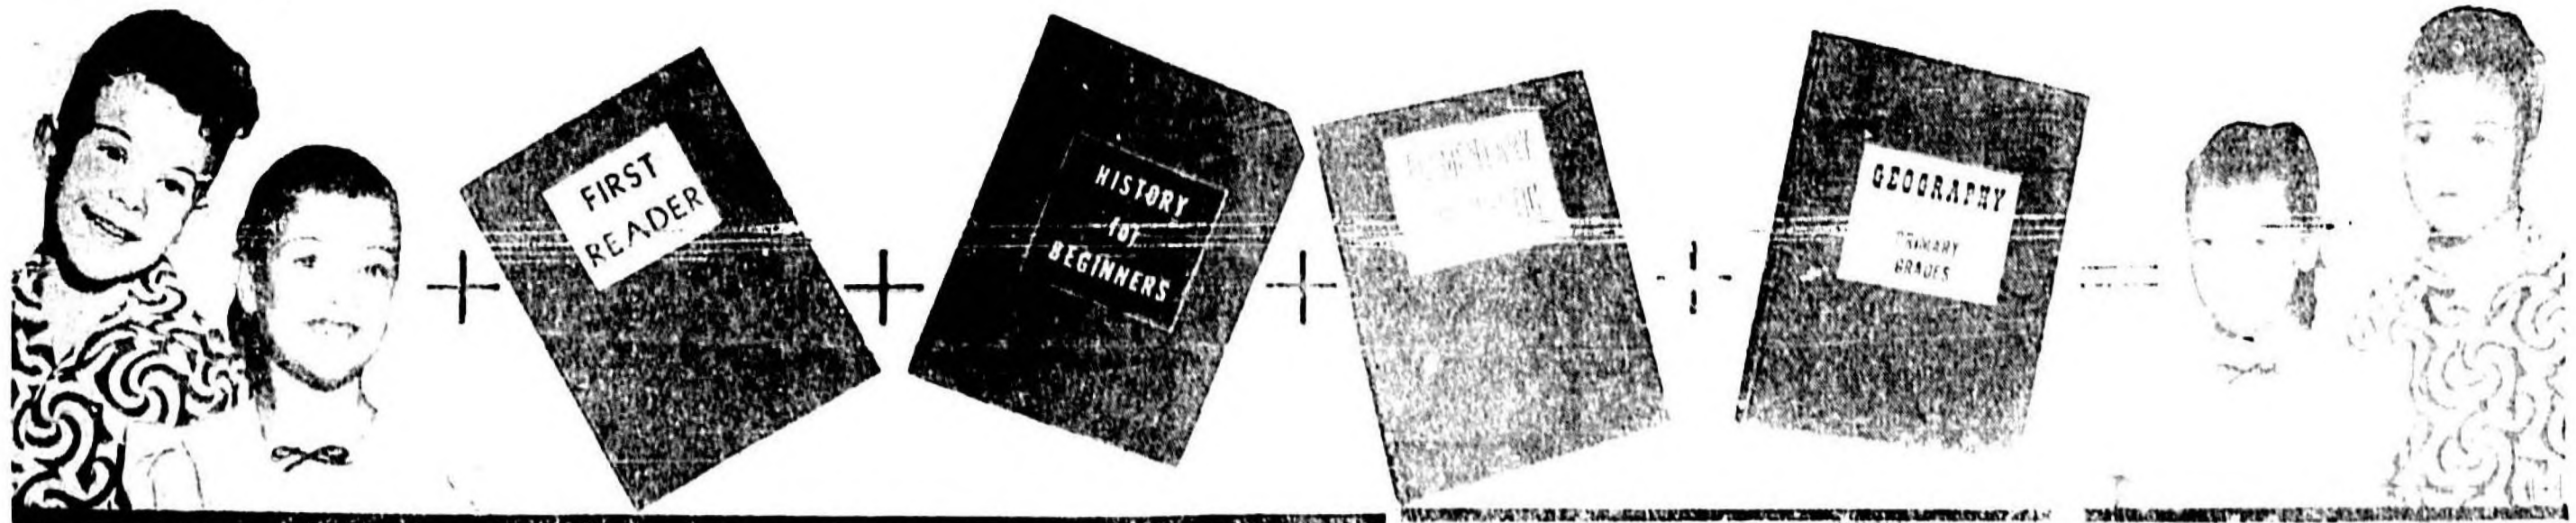

In one year 4,300 young lives are snuffed out, over 200,000 injured and maimed for life. Three out of every four of these lives sacrificed to carelessness are from 5 to 14 years of age. Too young to die!

School safety patrols are holding down the casualties of children going to or coming from school. Two out of three are killed while outside of school supervision. That's the big reason why it's up to you, Mr. and Mrs. Driver, to protect little children. Be alert for the unpredictable actions of youngsters at play, crossing streets, chasing balls and riding bikes.

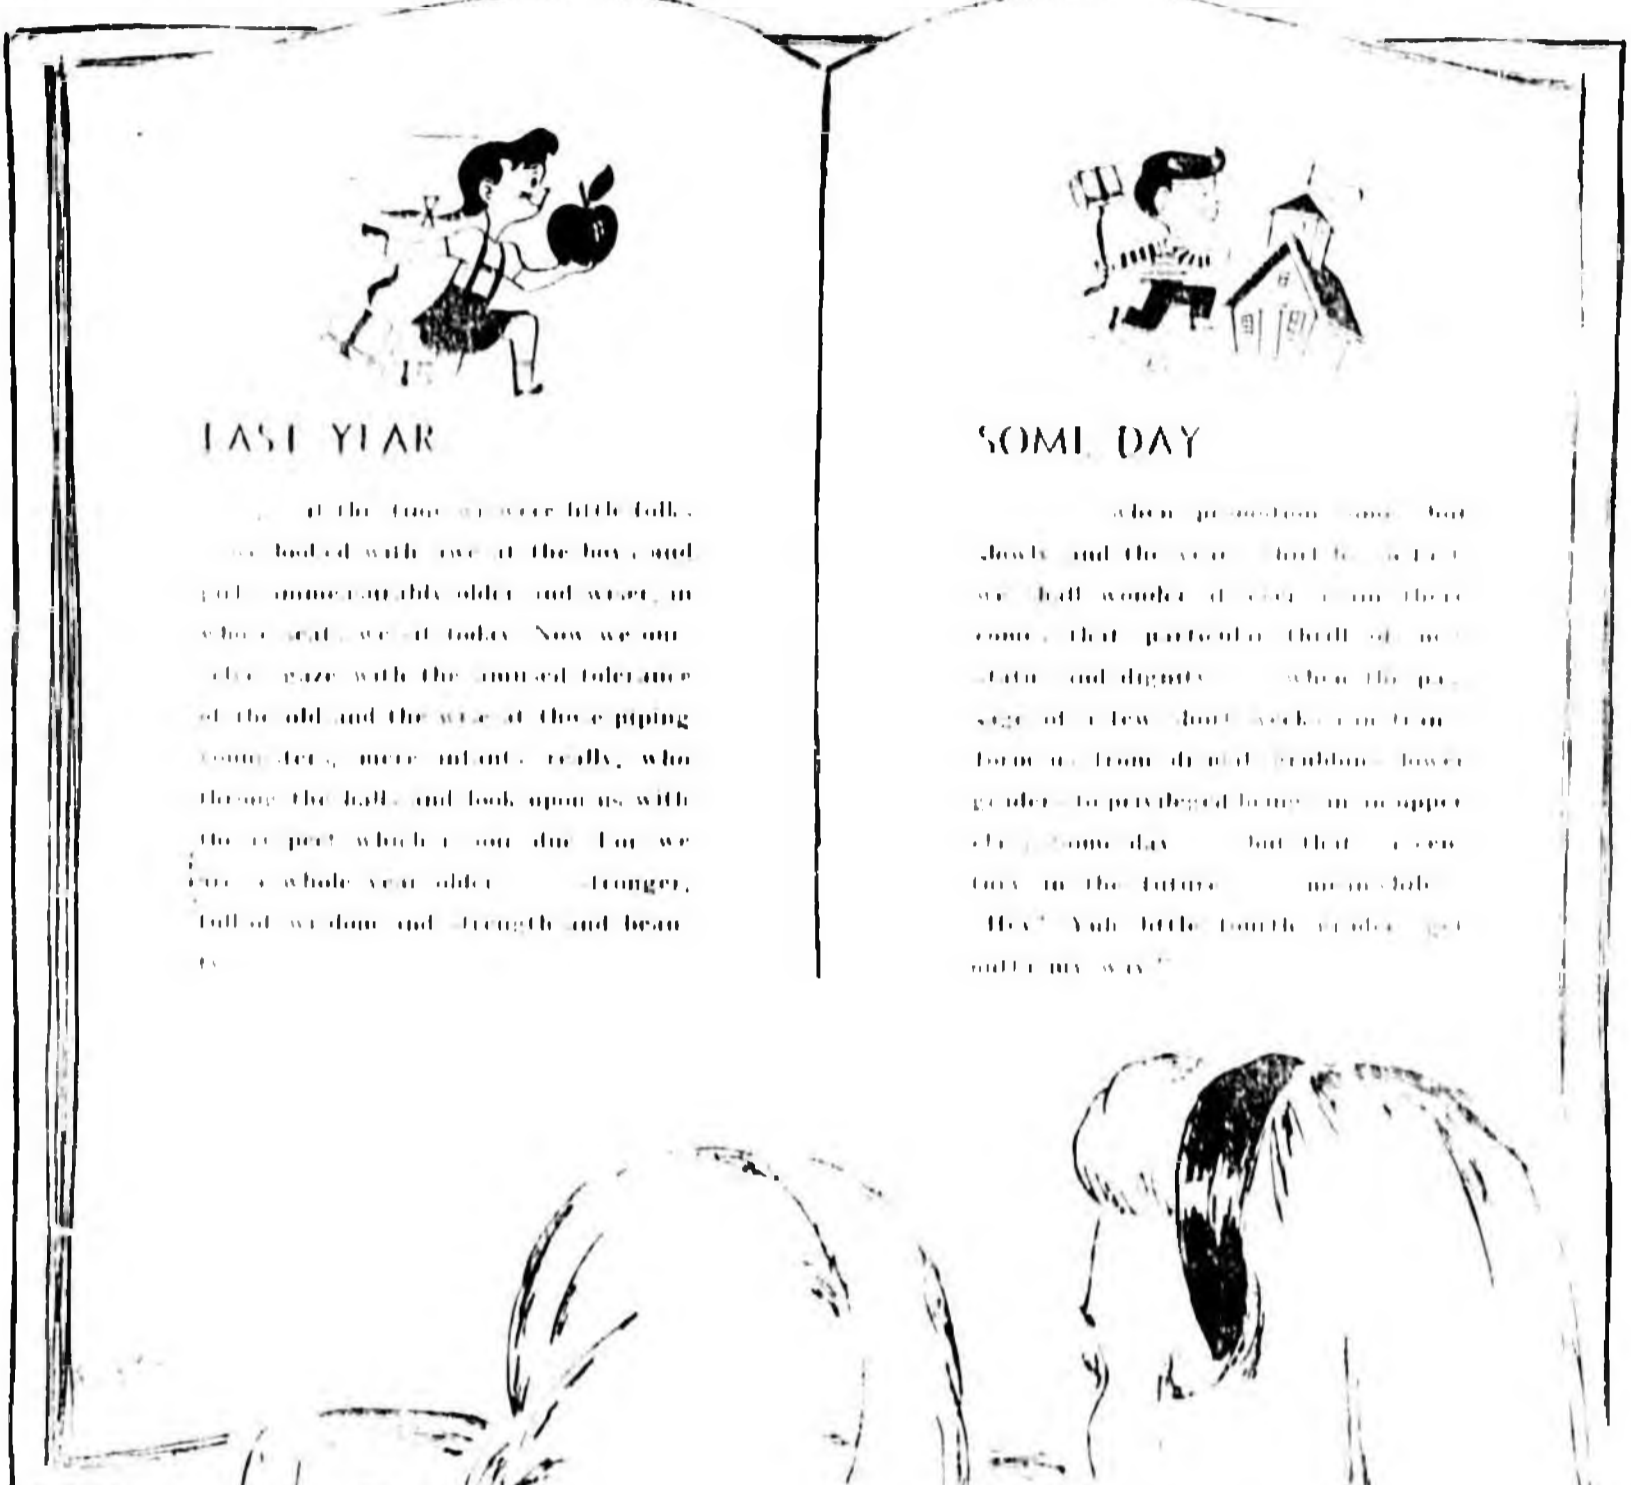

Little ones are thoughtless of danger; perhaps, too, they trust grown folks to guard them. Don't be the one to carry on your conscience the life of a child. Slow down, be alert where children may be at your mercy.

SLOW DOWN—LIVES ARE IN YOUR HANDS!

About 1,200 New Classrooms Set For Children

TALLAHASSEE — Florida children are going to find about 1,200 new classrooms when they start back to school in the next couple of weeks.

On the basis of cold arithmetic, that's perhaps a little more than enough to take care of the expected increase of 30,000 pupils. It is 200 more new rooms than the counties built in the previous year.

But the schools still will be crowded in many places.

Even with about 20 million dollars worth of new building completed in the last year, the counties haven't caught up with the backlog of needs from previous years.

Many of the new buildings are replacements for dilapidated structures, and made no gain in actual space available for pupils to sit and study. And, of course, all the new classrooms are where they are most needed. Some counties have greater needs and less money than others.

The State Department of Education estimates there are about 1,000 classrooms in Florida and there will be some 425,000 pupils to occupy them this year.

So the school construction program is going on.

Since Jan. 1, the state has turned $6,425,000 over to the counties for use on new buildings. It is the automobile license tag money that was guaranteed to schools by adoption of a constitutional amendment in November, 1952.

All of it was available for immediate expenditure on new construction or to meet installments of school building bonds issued by the counties since 1947. None of it was used to build the 1,200 new classrooms just being opened.

In the next couple of months, the state is going to launch a big program to finance many more millions worth of school construction by borrowing against future auto tag receipts.

School leaders hope that will

Supply Falls Behind Demand For Eye Doctors

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — Demand for vision care is increasing faster than men and women are being trained to provide it, according to Dr. Elmer M. Soles, Director of Public Information, American Ophthalmologic Association.

"Opportunities for careers in optometry, the science of vision care, are better than ever today and that condition is likely to continue far into the future," Dr. Soles said. "Today, two out of three adults are using the services of vision specialists, while in the field of prevention and correction for children the surface has barely been scratched."

Graduation from a five-year specialized course in one of the accredited colleges and universities is the requirement for eligibility for state licensing examination," Dr. Soles said.

Temper May Be Child's Reaction To Poor Eyesight

CLEVELAND — Temper tantrums or frequent crying may be a child's reaction to inadequate eyesight, according to Dr. Lois B. Bing, chairman of the School Vision Committee of the American Ophthalmologic Association.

"Parents should be alert to restlessness, nervousness, irritability or other unaccounted for behavior in a child as possible result of strain in trying to see properly," she said.

Other instances where a child's functioning may be disrupted by his inability to see well were enumerated by Dr. Bing as follows:

1. Car sickness, headaches, dizziness or nausea.
2. Frequent tripping or stumbling.
3. Fatigue or listlessness after close work.
4. Body rigidity while looking at distant objects.
5. Poor posture or facial distortions while reading.

Shame, embarrassment or a growing feeling of inferiority is often the lot of a child whose vision is inadequate, because both in the classroom and in recreation periods he will have difficulty performing as well as other children.

Dr. Bing said:

"She declared that a boy who has trouble catching or hitting a ball or who dislikes sports requiring hand and eye coordination probably needs help with his vision."

Smiling happily over their back-to-school wardrobes selected at Yowell's are left to right: Miss Ada Adams, wearing a striped corduroy jumper by Shirley Lee, set off by an all wool slipover sweater; Miss Gail Hitting in a new winter cotton with a tweedy look, with black gloves, a clutch bag and felt hat to complete the ensemble; Miss Beverly Gray is smartly attired in a tailored suit of

Good Choices More Effective Than Quantity

As every college girl knows, two well packed suitcases will bring more dates than a dozen trunks tied to no purpose.

This is good news for parents who tighten their purse strings reluctantly, and it's also a challenge to the young shopper.

Some fashion economics designed to help freshman or senior stretch her budget are suggested by a company concerned with promoting from the skin out. They advise the basics in her wardrobe, (foundation garments) can be purchased for as little as $20.

But the twenty dollars must be wisely spent. Each item should be chosen with the silhouette of the skirt, dress, or formal well in mind.

It's just as important to have the right foundations underlying a dress, as it is to have the appropriate dress for a dance. Skimping on a halter top and expecting scotch tape to do the trick under a halter formal is not wise planning.

First, pick out favorite colors. For example, keeping the wardrobe in greys, blacks and teals simplifies the accessory problem and eases mixing and matching.

Then, decide which style dress looks best. Get a general picture, and then visit the dressiers.

With this season's emphasis on the slim, well moulded line, every young girl needs a giraffe to look well groomed. Chances are, all she'll require is a whisper-weight mantle which can be had for as little as $3.00. On most girdles, the hose supporters are detachable, so these girdles may be worn as gentle controllers under blue jeans if the cotton bra (about $1.50) should be cut for wide separation and secure uplift underneath sweaters and clinging fabrics such as jersey.

For dark winter clothes, it's a good idea to have a black giraffe and a black cotton bra. And for formal occasions, a strapless basque or halter bra, depending on the gown, gives comfortable and shapely underlining. To help lengthen the life of these garments as well as to stay dainty, they should be rinsed out after every wearing.

Attired in the right new giraffe and bra, the college girl can then make a final selection of ready-to-wear. Because she's well controlled she can get a more accurate picture of how her new clothes fit.

And when she gets to campus she'll learn it's not the girl with lots of money to spend that earns the most respect with the Big Men On Campus—but the one who spends what she has wisely.

"Use Our Convenient Lay-Away Plan"

Students Of Today Use More Books In Classrooms Than In Yesteryear

PITTSBURGH — Far more books reach American classrooms today than 200, 100 or even 50 years ago. This new book power is shown in a recent study by Dr. John Nietz, professor of education at the University of Pittsburgh.

A typical 6th grade pupil today uses eight textbooks, he says, and four supplementary pamphlets weighing 11 1/2 pounds with 3,115 pages of reading matter.

Compare that with the three small texts and perhaps a Hornbook, together weighing six ounces and totaling 272 pages, commonly used by the early American pupil in 1750.

The 1750 youngster, Nietz says, used the New England primer, perhaps a Psalter and occasionally an arithmetic. He likely be equipped with a Hornbook, a small, paddle-like object made of anything from wood to gingerbread, upon which the alphabet was printed or engraved.

Today's 6th grade pupil studies spelling, health, science (with four supplementary pamphlets), arithmetic, English, reading and geography.

Nietz says our education began in all-day Sunday school sessions, because children worked during the week, and almost all teaching was of a religious nature. Then along came the prolific textbook authors of which Noah Webster was the first. Pundits in the 1800 sixth-grade were using Webster's Blue-Back Speller, in addition to a reader, a geography and an arithmetic, totalling 972 pages and weighing 1 lb., 11 oz.

By 1850, when another prolific author was well established in the field — William McGuffey — the pupils were studying reading, spelling, geography, arithmetic and grammar, totalling 1280 pages and weighing 2 lbs., 13 oz. Over the 100-year period the 6th grader's subjects had increased by only two, but the number of pages he had to read had increased by 1,000.

The next half-century saw a great change in the 6th grade curriculum. By 1900, Nietz says, the pupil was generally studying spelling, reading, arithmetic, physiology, grammar, drawing, penmanship and history, an increase of three subjects, 4 lbs., 3 oz. and 712 pages in 34 years.

While the curriculum itself has not increased since 1900, there have been some changes in subject matter, namely music and science. Today's 6th grade pupil digests 2,843 more pages of reading matter than did his 1750 counterpart, and he's using five more textbooks plus his supplementary pamphlets.

Nietz makes no prediction for the future. When we try to incorporate atomic developments, jet propulsion, space travel and the complicated geographical and historical doings of today into tomorrow's textbooks, he says, who knows what the 6th-grade curriculum will consist of in the year 2000?

Editor Wanted To Be Teacher

WASHINGTON Dr. Mildred Fenner wanted to be a schoolmarm herself. Instead she became managing editor of the largest professional magazine in the world, the NEA Journal, published to help teachers do their jobs better.

A graduate of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers' College, she came to the National Education Association (NEA) headquarters here as a typist, "hoping to work up professionally." That was during the depression years, and she taught classes at night in a secretarial school to bolster her income. One of her students was Walcott Fenner, a government clerk.

"He was just as poor as I," the shy little brunette told me. "He thought he could better himself but all he got out of night school was me." The Fenners have been married 13 years. He is now an accountant with a music company and one of the town's top singers. Meanwhile, his wife has risen to her current job on the magazine, which has a circulation of 500,000.

"It's significant and encouraging that the thing our NEA subscribers are most interested in is improving themselves, how to be better teachers," Mrs. Fenner said. "They are especially interested in knowing better how to teach about the federal government and citizenship. They are interested in child growth and development—magic words to teachers. They want to know what makes the child tick so they can help him understand the subjects they are trying to teach him."

Currently NEA members, who make up the majority of Journal subscribers, and parents want to know more about educational TV, the NEA's legislative program for this year, audio-visual materials, the elementary teaching of foreign languages and world affairs.

"One of our functions," Mrs. Fenner explained, "is to take all the dry research on those subjects, interpret and popularize the findings. Parents often subscribe to the magazine, she said, and some of its best articles are from parents "who want to stand up and be counted," usually in defense of the schools which have been attacked by critics.

"Some articles are not so elementary as one would think," she added. "Some have significance beyond the classroom, helping members to be citizens as well as teachers, dealing with such matters as, perhaps, the question of intellectual freedom."

KENYON PRESIDENT CITES VALUE OF ARTS COLLEGE

By DR. GORDON KEITH CHALMERS
President of Kenyon College

THE modern world needs trained men, but more, it needs men who are educated as well as trained. Training gives you skill in a job; education tells you what to do with the skill. In fact, it guides your off hours as well as your working hours. Its purpose is to fill your life with enduring satisfaction, with the ideas and memories and measurements of the world which are worth thinking about and using anywhere, in a crowded city or on a desert island.

Training comes second; your opportunity in a college of liberal arts and sciences is education. To be able to find in earth, air, fire, and water the laws describing their order; to be able to see accurately in a painting or a piece of music, in a play, a novel, or a biography what man has made of man; to be at home in some periods of history and perceive in them the motives of some telling decisions made by men or nations: this is to seize the fruits of the four rich college years.

Education deals with a single skill skill—colors, chemical symbols, or words; in college there is a chance to work out and enlarge your thoughts by all of these means. Collaborating with you in the laboratory, the classroom, the seminar, library, or studio are masters of these ways of thinking, instructors who themselves are busy with thought and values and know how to help the beginner exploit his abilities. And not only is college instruction intellectual, it is social, moral, and religious as well. College life in the dormitories and in the Commons, the services of the chapel, the numerous discussions formal and informal, the games, lectures, and concerts bring these important matters out of the printed book and into talk, activity, and experience.

Shoe Terms Can Be Very Confusing

Shoe terms can be confusing. This list should set you on par with the back-to-school shoe salesmen.

Vamp—the front part of a shoe.
Quarter—the back part of a shoe.
Throat—the top front part of the vamp.
Upper—the vamp and quarter put together with the lining complete and ready to put on the sole.
Lining—there are two sets of linings—one all leather and the second one, in between, of cotton—both sewed on to the vamp and quarter.
Tip—any of the extra pieces in different shapes stitched on the front part of the vamp.
Fox—any extra piece stitched on the back part of the quarter, for decoration.
Lacestay—the front part of an oxford in which the eyelets (for laces to pull through) are placed. Last—a wooden form shaped in accordance with certain styles (that is, round toe, medium toe) and made to measurement for size and width. Constructed also to carry proper heel heights.

Heel—are measured according to eights of an inch—for example, 2 1/8-inch heel is known as 2 1/8. 2 1/2-inch heel is known as 2 1/2. Different styles are: flat, Cuban boulevard, Spanish and Chinese. Seamless shoe—all one piece with only a single seam at the back.

Fathers Must File Proof

WASHINGTON (AP)—Draft eligibles were reminded yesterday that if they expect to be deferred from military service for fatherhood, they must file evidence of it with their local draft boards by Aug. 25.

Under a change in draft rules ordered by President Eisenhower in July, fatherhood in itself will not be grounds for exemption after Aug. 25 unless there is "proven hardship and privation."

Dress Up Wardrobe

Here's an easy way to brighten and stretch your wardrobe. Make a colorful print dirdid to be worn over your favorite solid color sheath. Make this unusual "over skirt" yourself from a cool, lightweight printed fabric. Choose a print of silk or rayon whose predominant color accents the shade of your straight-cut sheath.

Get two yards (or less, depending on the fullness preferred.) Put a half-inch hem on each selvage. Figure at least an inch-wide waistband, with the same width band extending into a 24-inch long tie-sash. Double the waistband fabric, then tack and crease the print into a softly full skirt. Hem the bottom according to your regular dress length. Tie the colorful print dirdid around you, as you would an apron. The hemmed selvage edges should barely meet down the back.

Stamp Portrait

SYDNEY (AP)—One Pound Johnny, the Australian aboriginal whose bearded face appears on the 2 shilling 6 pence Australian postage stamp, has shaved off his beard.

One Pound Johnny lives on a central Australian cattle station 100 miles west of Alice Springs. People say he is shaving as a disguise to avoid autograph hunters next time he visits town. Since his face first appeared on the stamp two years ago Johnny has received hundreds of letters, some from the United States.

His boss Bill Waddy at the Mount Wedge cattle station bought Johnny an ink stamp pad to meet requests for his signature—his stamp print.

Want a delicious, full-flavored sandwich? Then buy one whose crust is made out of bold, rich, buttery rolls—smooth, well-seasoned meat at the stem and moist, tender, delicious sauce.

From California To New York, Sportswear Fashions Are New

California's pace-setting, new sportswear and casual collections, and all the leisure-wear showings from coast to coast, express a new, more versatile mood that best reflects the "urban-suburban trend" of modern living!

The Fall '53 Sportswear story sparkles with a gay, new dash of color—glowing in surface-interest fabrics that almost project into third dimension.

Fabric interest is the theme, carried ably by such favorite performers as separates and coordinates, "jazzed up" by crazy pants and harmonized with by a new stellar attraction—weskits.

Weskits steal the show in furry knit mixtures—in velvet, corduroy, tweed, plaids, and brilliant felt alone—or in happy combination with each other!

They are at times splashed brightly with pastel kid, or mirror buttons. They do imitations of pony and leopard in fake fur.

Trouser fashions also take to the seas in flannel-lined denim or gabardine. They can wear a belt or cummerbund—or do without one. They fall in step easily—with a jacket, a sweater, or a blouse.

Blouses—as usual, bring cheers! Cotton tweeds and wool jerseys vie for the spotlight against elastic nylon, silk and rayon tissue faille—for dramatic emphasis to new blouse shaping. Watch for barrel sleeves on a dropped shoulders—elbow length sleeves—cuffed with knit.

Draping at the neckline, tucked collars, bib-interest and fur trims —are marks of the new season's blouse performance.

JACKETS co-star in the sports wear story, and team smartly with dress, skirt, or fancy pants. Every taste and preference is pleased by the diversity of jacket shapes for Fall:—boxy, fancy, fitted, or drawingstring.

They carry fabric themes in felt, printed velveteens, damask, velvet, corduroy, tweed, flannel, jersey, suede, cashmere, and camel hair; fabrics that project themselves with hairy surfaces, and nubby effects or sparkle with metallics and embroideries.

New and worth watching are pullover ending just below the waist, and the Portuguese jacket, which tucks a front panel into a cummerbund.

Drawingstring jackets accompany everything from pants to dresses, and with every fabric note from velvet to tweedy plaids and felt.

Hip-hugging jackets become a shirt at the drop of a belt. Again this season, jackets and skirts in mix-or-match combinations draw applause as wardrobe stretchers.

SKIRTS, too, get top billing with new shapes, and treatments of the fabric theme. Colors dominate those of the accompanying shirt or blouse. Slim skirts are eased with side pleats and a new double front treatment or soft shirring at the front, and back flares.

Full skirts are not quite so full as last season, but hiplines are rounded, sometimes with padding. Accent on the hips is spotlighted with the use of seamed diagonal deep rich purples hold their place.

Handsome-bright cotton flannels and cone-shaped felt skirts vie with fancy pants in sparkle and glitter.

STYLES go with new skirts like shadows in matching fabrics—frequently lined with a contrasting color.

Color strikes an imaginative key in solid shades, prints and plaids, bright hues and muted tones.

GREENS range from lime to a gray-blue-green reminiscent of teal. REDS are pink to wine, from magenta to primary red. BROWNS extend from the palest beige to all most-black, highlighted by orange, beige-orange and lots of gold.

BLACK, perennially popular, keeps its favored spot. Mauve and pockets, pleats and embroideries, and grays are pale to charcoal.

The Fall '53 Sportswear story is "la ronde" of verve, color, wash and inspiration! It's a modern rhapsody that invites a harmonious theme of wonderful enthusiasm for lively color and fabric combinations, with a counterpoint of imagination.

If you arrange your kitchen equipment efficiently, you shouldn't have to do much standing, much reaching or much walking! Try to place your range, refrigerator and sink so there is not more than six or seven feet between any two of them. Keep dishes, pots, pans and staple foods on shelves to which you have easy access.

5 To 15 Are Dangerous Eye Years

Five to fifteen are dangerous years for your child's eyes, according to Dr. Lois B. Ring, chair man of the School Vision Committee of the American Optometric Association.

"You must teach a child safety consciousness," Dr. Ring said. "Each year there are 30,000 eye injuries to American school children. A child's most precious sense—good vision—may be permanently impaired or destroyed through an injury which could be prevented by safety education and adult supervision."

Three out of four eye injuries among children in the three age group befall boys, usually during unsupervised games or sports, Dr. Ring said.

She recommended that children be taught to obey safety rules while playing and to be aware of the dangers in instruments such as BB guns, sling shots, bows and arrows, and sharp sticks and stones.

In addition, she advised parents to choose safe toys for children and to avoid playthings with sharp points, or toys which are loosely constructed. "A child should play with things that are suited to his age," she said. "A four-year old, for example, does not know how to play safely with a pair of scissors."

Dr. Ring declared.
