Bertugli Heads Deltona Legion

By MILDRED HANEY

Rudy Bertugli was unanimously elected commander of Deltona American Legion Post 255 at the regular monthly meeting. Also elected to office were John Loutsenhizer, first vice commander; John Waldrich, second vice commander; Keith McKinley, finance officer; Rev. George Owen, chaplain; Edwin Schmidt, historian; Floyd Freer, sergeant-at-arms, and Paula Watson, Dale Miller and Paul Vrudney, executive committee.

Commander Paula Watson, Commander-elect Bertugli and Herbert Watson were elected delegates to the Department of Florida convention in Jacksonville. Dale Miller, Helen Bacon and Dwight Hawkins are alternates. Commander Watson gave a short report on the district constitutional conference held in Jacksonville Beach when Ralph Becker, Commander of Legion Post 76, Daytona Beach, was elected district commander. She announced that Becker, who will take on the duties of district commander at department convention, has accepted an invitation of the post to conduct installation at Deltona Community Center on June 25.

Announcement was made by the commander of several awards received from department and national headquarters for members of Post 255. Continuous membership cards were reported for Lloyd Weller, five years; Bono Chiodini, Lloyd R. Kuhn and Past Commander Dwight Hawkins for 25 years continuous membership in the American Legion.

Membership awards were presented for Hawkins and John Loutsenhizer who were recipients of the Department Cap Ornament for 10 memberships for the year, with Loutsenhizer also receiving the Department Commander's Personal Appreciation Award for 15 members before March 15.

Adjutant Dale Miller, earlier in the year, awarded the National Commander's Cap Ornament for 25 or more members, and the Department Star for 10 members, was notified that he had also been awarded the Early Bird Cap Patch (10 members before Nov. 11) and the Cap Flag Pin. Department award for enrolling 25. He was also presented with his Quartet Century Citation toward Century Club membership, which is awarded to members enrolling 100 members within a four year period.

The National Commander's Cap ornament, Department Cap as well as the National Commander's Personal Appreciation award presented previously to Helen K. Bacon, were added to when Commander Watson presented her with her pin and card for the Century Club, the Early Bird Cap Patch; the National Vet-V (10 new Legionnaires); the Department Flag Pin as well as the Department of Florida Commander's Citation of Appreciation. Legionnaire Bacon was selected by the Commander and unanimously endorsed by the Executive Committee for the "Wheel Horse" award, which was presented to her at the meeting in Ormond Beach last month.

A report was read from Americanism Chairman, Marguerite Miller that four classroom flags had been presented to the Deltona Junior High School on behalf of the Post. She also had a flag for the outside flag pole which will replace the one presented to the school by the local Post when the school first opened two years ago. She also pointed out that the post still has flags for sale that may be purchased by contacting Legion members.

'Flag Day'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today designated next Sunday as Flag Day and the start of National Flag Week.

In a special proclamation, he urged Americans to fly the flag throughout the week at their homes and other suitable places.

"We honor the flag for what it is and for what it demands of us," Nixon said, adding that it "symbolized the dignity of man as it did when those early Americans created it."

'Glades Gators Alive, Well

MIAMI (AP) — The Florida alligator, once nearing extinction because of the poacher's knife, is alive and well and thriving in the Everglades. It's the poacher who has virtually disappeared from the sawgrass domain.

"Very few of the old time pros who made a living at it are hunting now," said Lt. Jim Brantley, information and education officer of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

"We still have some," he admitted, "but they're mostly amateurs."

For years, poachers profited by selling alligator hides to New York factories for fashionable shoes, handbags and other articles. Although killing the fierce looking but unaggressive reptile has been illegal in Florida since 1961, the penalties were light: The average fine of $30 to $100 could be easily covered by one night's kill.

The clamor of conservationists was heard—even in New York where a ban was placed on the sale of alligator products. Bans were also placed on the shipment of hides across state lines; penalties against poaching were stiffened.

Congressmen Recoiling, At Wage, Price Control

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — "The administration of price control is an extraordinarily difficult and complex business, and it can work only if the people generally give it their support."

So said President Harry S. Truman as he regretfully cancelled price controls Nov. 9, 1946. World War II was over, and the initials OPA—for Office of Price Administration — were dirty words to businessmen.

Congress, under pressure from farm and industry groups, had weakened the law seriously. Many sellers sabotaged ceilings by witholding goods—partly to get better prices, partly to force decontrol.

"This witholding is becoming so serious as to threaten key segments of the economy with paralysis," said Truman's message.

"The plain fact is that, under this inadequate law, price control has lost the popular support needed to make it work."

So the nation's first great plunge into direct interference with the free market ended in confusion, controversy — and more inflation. President Nixon is said to have decided while a young lawyer in OPA that direct controls were unworkable and harmful. He rejects them today.

For a while, during the war years, the ceilings had worked well. Wholesale prices rose less than 1 per cent a year, consumer prices by about 2 per cent. But by the time victory was at hand, both prices and wages were puncturing their ceilings.

There were many reasons, why all administrations since Truman, along with most congressional leaders, have recoiled at the idea of wage-price ceilings and which make the odds against ceilings exceedingly high at this moment.

1. If you cannot clamp ceilings on fast, if you have to wait while Congress debates the question instead of imposing an emergency freeze, the gain may be lost before it starts.

Much of the price damage during the Korean War came about before the control agency could get organized. Companies that smelled a price freeze coming began marking up prices.

Unions are just as alert to try to nail hourly wage increases at levels high enough to ride out an inflationary storm.

2. Voluntary ceilings, or holding-the-line orders lacking enforcement powers, don't work. The Korean War price controller, Michael V. Di Salle, later reported that just 6 per cent of businesses had complied with a voluntary freeze that preceded the actual operation of his Office of Price Stabilization.

You cannot set a speed limit without posting a policeman to enforce it, to use the phrase of Chairman Paul W. McCracken of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

Bill Reck Heads Red Schoolhouse

By CHARNER LEONE

The officers and directors of the Little Red Schoolhouse were installed at a noon luncheon today at House of Steak. The Seminole Countians were selected to guide the facility for physically and mentally handicapped children for the 1970-71 year.

William Reck was installed as president. His officers are Alex Serraes, first vice president; John Thompson, secretary, and Henry Bierly, treasurer.

Wendell Agee, immediate past president, will serve as chairman of the board of directors. Other directors are Judge Wallace Hall, Judge Roger Berry, John Morris, Mrs. Agee, Arlis D. McAlister, Mrs. Fred Leone, Charles Kampf, Thomas Freeman, Leonard Williams, Mrs. Mary Whittenger, John Smith, Robert Haltaway, Charles Walls, Thomas Napier and Sidney Vihlen Jr.

The Little Red Schoolhouse was organized in 1959. It is an agency of the United Cerebral Palsy Organization in Central Florida, and is financed by voluntary funds.

The school is staffed by one experienced full-time teacher, Mrs. Martha Beard, and one full-time aid.

Last year the Little Red Schoolhouse worked with 16 children, none of whom could be cared for by the public school system at the time. This fall, said Freeman, past president of the school, the public schools will be able to take the "educable" mentally retarded — those with IQ's of over 80. The Little Red Schoolhouse will continue taking children who fall below that mark.

At its founding 11 years ago the school took only the mentally retarded but three years ago, under Freeman's leadership, the school expanded its scope to include the physically handicapped.

Early Priority Sought

Chambers Push For Osteen Bridge

By TOM ALEXANDER

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — A definite plan of action was originated yesterday to move up the priority on construction of Seminole - Volusia's "sore thumb," the Osteen Bridge.

The plan originated from a joint meeting of the Greater Sanford and New Smyrna Beach Chambers of Commerce at a luncheon meeting here.

A suggestion was made that the bridge be retagged as the Sanford-New Smyrna Beach bridge. All chamber and county officials on hand readily accepted the suggestion, pointing out that this would give the general public a better knowledge on the location of the decrepit facility.

Sanford attorney Douglas Stenstrom, who heads the Greater Sanford Chamber's road and bridge subcommittee, led discussion over possible hopes of stepping up the construction priority on what he termed "Florida's worst bridge."

The bridge is presently set for construction during the 1974-75 fiscal year. According to informed sources, this is the third time the bridge has been set up from initially set dates. The bridge had been in this fiscal year's construction budget.

Volusia County Commissioner Harris Saxon said that he will request the State Department of Transportation to cooperate with both counties in getting the bridge replaced. Saxon termed the bridge, "A disgrace to the state of Florida road system, Saxon concluded, "Its just plain dangerous."

Stenstrom said that he believed one of the best possible ways to receive aid from the state on the situation, was to contact Gov. Claude Kirk, and bring the bridge's condition to the Governor's attention.

The Sanford attorney then outlined a three-point plan of action: (1) Work with local district road department on getting priority dates moved up. (2) Having both chambers approach governor and SDT. (3) Having newspapers serving the twin-county area show the decrepit condition of the bridge and request the construction deadline be moved up through editorial efforts.

Attending the informative meeting from Sanford were Chamber manager John Krider, William Reck, Harold Kastner, Sanford Mayor Lee Moore, along with Stenstrom.

Before adjourning both chambers agreed to meet again as soon as possible to survey other bridge plans of action. The chambers are seeking to have Lt. Gov. Ray Osborne as their guest at their next joint meeting to discuss the road situations in both counties.

County Asks State Assistance In 'Fly Case'

By MARION BETHEA

"There is no public health hazard involved" . . . "I feel at this time there is no reason for a legal move."

These were the replies this morning from Dr. Frank Leone, director of the Seminole County health department, to queries directed concerning conditions of alleged fly breeding at the Seminole Turf Club. A special meeting was called in the County Commission room to answer or refute charges that the department was derelict in its duties. Absent from the meeting was Commissioner Robert Parker, in whose district the problem has arisen, but who is understood to be vacationing.

Dr. Leone told the commissioners that there was "definitely overall progress at the track." He continued that the matter is under daily surveillance, but that he "would like to see no fly breeding at all." There were no areas discovered as having larvae in a recent survey, Dr. Leone said, although larvae was discovered prior to May 11. County Sanitarian Val Robbins elucidated, however, that at any time larvae is found you "are going to have flies hatch out." Robbins said that discing has not been recommended because it "could cause more harm than good."

It had been noted on a report from Dr. Leone that the evaluation of the sanitary landfill at the Turf Club was not favorable, with a 55 per cent marginal result tabulated and a 45 per cent result not acceptable. Dr. Leone said that the the area is a nuisance because landfill is comprised of 95 per cent rubbish, that beer cans and chicken boxes are thrown on the piles, and that with the extensive track personnel such dumping cannot be effectively controlled.

Dr. Leone said that "total eradication of the flies is not possible." He continued that "one or two individuals think there are flies around; others think there is considerable progress and improvements."

State and Federal roads annexed include U.S. 17-92 south from the former city limits to Prairie Lake and SR-434 east to Howell Branch Road and west to the Altamonte Springs city limits.

Red Bug Road was not annexed because of old deeds which would transfer the upkeep of the road from the county to the city.

The annexation included only the listed roads and not property. It was explained that this move will involve no utility problems and no fire responsibility other than cars on the roads. To this Blow replied, "You all don't want just a road; I know you're not that stupid."

He said that Casselberry extended its three mile radius for fire protection and that a paid fire department is required to have a sub-station beyond this.

On hopscotch annexation he said, "This is terrible because the police and fire departments don't know who is in and out."

Aside from the fact that the new siren cannot be heard adequately throughout the city from it's present position, it must be removed because of water leakage. The council is hoping to receive approximately $2,200 back from the architect. Needed money will be taken from the unused salary of the fire department, Blow explained, and went further in saying that the budget will have to be adjusted anyway.

Ordinance 191 became law by unanimous vote at the Monday night Casselberry City Council meeting despite Mayor Curtis Blow's recommendation to reconsider the bill, which covers annexation.

Councilwoman Edith Duerr recommended that the council accept three parts of the bill originally adopted which were sub sections B, C, D, and omit section A (U.S. 17-92 North of the city limits to SR-434). Section A was annexed two weeks ago by Longwood.

Replenish Dwindling Food, Ammo Supplies

Cambodians Push Back Reds; Reopen Major Airport

By JOHN T. WHELLER
Associated Press Writer

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian troops pushed back enemy forces around Siem Reap and reopened the airport to replenish their dwindling supply of food and ammunition, the Cambodian Command reported today.

A military spokesman said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces were still around Siem Reap and hit the provincial capital 185 miles northwest of Phnom Penh with harassing fire Tuesday night. But the opening of the airport between the city and the ruins of Angkor Wat was viewed here as a major achievement for the government.

The spokesman said the enemy force that attacked Siem Reap included Laotians who probably were impressed into service as porters. He added they may have been troops of the Communist Pathet Lao movement.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces also continued their harassment of Kompong Thom, another provincial capital 80 miles north of Phnom Penh on the highway to Siem Reap and Angkor. But the heavy pressure on Kompong Thom last week appeared to have eased for the moment.

The spokesman also reported a heavy Viet Cong attack before dawn today in southern Cambodia, on a military post near Kompong Som, the country's chief port formerly known as Sihanoukville. But the garrison apparently held on.

Thailand's military chief of staff, Air Marshal Dawee Chullasappya, returned to Bangkok after a one-day visit to South Vietnamese leaders in Saigon. He reportedly made the trip to discuss transfer of part of the 12,000 Thai troops in South Vietnam to the Siem Reap area, which is 80 miles east of the Thai border.

14 Americans, 18 Others Held Hostages By Rebels

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Amman Radio announced that King Hussein of Jordan and guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat concluded an agreement today to end the fighting between their forces in Jordan's capital. Meanwhile, a band of extremist guerrillas held 14 Americans and 18 other foreigners hostage in an Amman hotel.

One of the hostages in the Jordan Intercontinental Hotel was a son of former President Camille Chamoun of Lebanon. Another was Associated Press correspondent Dennis Neeld, who reported the hotel was held by the Marxist Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, a small terrorist organization which has frequently rejected Arafat's leadership.

Neeld said a spokesman for the Popular Front charged Tuesday night that the Jordanian army was bombarding Palestine refugee camps around Amman, causing many deaths. The guerrilla spokesman said the safety of the hostages could not be guaranteed if these attacks continued.

Neeld's report made no mention of the broadcast announcement of the Hussein-Arafat agreement and apparently was sent before it was announced. Communications with Amman were sharply curtailed.

The hostages in the Intercontinental included 14 Britons and three West Germans as well as the Americans and the Lebanese. All were staying in the hotel.

Guests of other nationalities were told they were free to leave Tuesday night, but in the blacked-out, embattled Jordanian capital there was nowhere for them to go.

Carrying submachine guns and wearing hand grenades at their belts, the guerrillas invaded the unguarded hotel Tuesday afternoon. They took up firing positions on Lobby balconies and placed guards at every exit.

Most of the guests spent the night huddled in the hotel basement. Neeld said Amman had been without power for nearly 24 hours, and the guests groped their way along the hotel corridors by candlelight. But the hostages were free to do as they pleased inside the hotel and none was ill treated.

Amman Radio's announcement of the Hussein-Arafat agreement left one cardinal point unclear: whether Hussein was giving the guerrillas a green light for operations against Israel or whether the commandos had agreed to curtail their raids.

Fact Squad Returns From War

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most members of a fact-seeking squad of senators, congressmen, governors and White House aides say their Southeast Asian trip reinforces President Nixon's estimate of the military success of his Cambodian maneuver.

Arriving here Tuesday night after a swift visit to battle zones of Vietnam and Cambodia, many in the 13-man VIP delegation—picked by the White House in collaboration with the Senate and House Armed Services committees—described it as an informative journey.

Although most declined to disclose their conclusions before today's scheduled meeting with Nixon, Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer, a Republican, said their report on the Cambodian step indicates "the vast majority of those of us who were there feel it was a success."

"We hope that it will be a long-term success," he added. "Nobody can predict forever into the future—but what has been done has been good for the American people."

However, Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., refused to discuss his findings with newsmen before talking the mover with Nixon.

McIntyre, who had said he decided to go on the trip to "prevent a snow job" by pro-administration officials, reported he felt it "is only proper that I meet with the President before discussing my findings with members of the press."

"I certainly had a fast trip, I'll tell you that," he said.

Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., described Nixon's Cambodian decision as "a great success—probably the most important single military achievement of this entire unfortunate war."

Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., said he was pleased to "see the progress that has been made in pacification."

Shafer said the delegation members attempted to "answer questions that are on the minds of all Americans—maybe we won't answer them to the satisfaction of everybody, but at least we are going to tell the truth about what we saw, heard and learned."

Herbert Klein, Nixon's communications director, said it was a coincidence the group returned on the eve of the Senate's vote on an administration-backed move to grant Nixon authority to take any action needed to protect U.S. troops in Vietnam. The amendment, proposed by Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., is due for a vote Thursday.

New Development Hits Snag At County Meet

By MARION BETHEA

The spectacular new development to be known as "Paradise Bay" faces a delay and possible cancelation of residents reposing in a "polynesian theme," due to continuation of the public hearing upon the rezoning of the site until June 16.

Attorney for the developers, Geo A. Speer, made an impressive presentation of the facilities to be afforded, as did John Fitzhugh, representing land owners. Fitzhugh cited a $30,000 feasibility study by the developers, who have assets "in excess of $15 million," and "will create a large new tax base for the county." He elucidated the pleasures of the "waterfront community."

The contention arose from the fact that half the area is located in a known flood plain district and much discussion took place upon the elevation of the site in which rezoning from A-1 to C-1 and A-1 to R-1AA has been requested. It was stated that 900,000 yards of fill will be needed to bring the site to the elevation of 16 feet. This will necessitate dredging 12 feet of the lake area. The high water level was cited as being nine feet, and plans include bringing the elevation to one foot above the high water line. It was stated that the Central Florida Corps of Engineers reported that the 10 year frequency high water level is seven feet.

County Engineer William Bush said that the seven feet mean sea level occurs 16-18 times each 100 years. Speer went on to say that the sea wall in Sanford was 7.3 feet, the dry wall at Holiday Isle 11 feet. Commissioner Greg Drummond said "Yes, but city funds would be used to bail out those areas . . . county funds would be used in this area." The development, is comprised of 283 acres, 457 lots with 7.1 lots to a gross acre. Speer referred to comprehensive land use maps and Fitzhugh said that the development was warranted because Florida will have the third largest concentration of urban population in the country by the year 2000.

Commissioner Chairman John Alexander took exception to the development being a "planned community." "I don't see any planned community . . . where is the industry . . . where will the people work," he said. Alexander also said that he would be able to ascertain the recommendation of Planning and Zoning for the sale, with the contention that it is "spot zoning." Drummond said that he saw the need for a restaurant, but did not agree with an all C-1 zoning.

Speer continued with the contention the project would upgrade an area that "has the lowest calculation imaginible" . . . "people want commercial services . . . to reject the zoning change would be arbitrary and illegal."

Drummond candidly said that the project "would put the county facilities and taxpayer's money on the line . . . we have already experienced flood waters in the area . . . we are going to see continued flooding . . . the little men with an income of $6-7,000 will have to bail them out if the government declares an emergency . . . county equipment will be used . . . whose funds will pay it, the little man who lives on a sand hill; who never gets to live on the water."

Speer countered that the county would not be asked to bail anybody out, that people live on the river now.

County Asks State Aid In 'Fly Case'

don't know where he is." This elicited comment from Drummond that "the state is letting us down . . . we should put pressure on the state." Robbins agreed that the situation, being the under daily surveillance should be supplied with a full time sanitarian from the state instead of being a county responsibility.

Commission Chairman John Alexander related the implications that "the health department is ignoring the situation in ascertaining if there are violations of public health laws." "I personally have been out there quite often," said Dr. Leone. "Have you had a conference with the personnel daily," queried Alexander. "Is there satisfactory surveillence?" "Absolutely," emphatically stated Dr. Leone.

He said that the department is working with the tack personnel advising, recommending and pointing out "unacceptable situations." Dr. Leone continued that "as time goes on we have noticed improvement." He recommended for further control that all manure be disposed by removal from premises; that it is aimed to ultimately close the landfill; that with the help of the new entomologist further progress will be made. Dr. Leone said that the track has been cooperative, and that legal action would be unwarranted.

Drummond asked if the landfill was coveted immediately . . . "It has not been effectively covered every day," replied Robbins. Drummond went on to point out although larvae could not be detected, it could be possible for young flies to be present . . . "Yes," said Dr. Leone, "I have seen three sizes of young flies." He continued that "it was very difficult to tell where they emanated, since there were other little garbage dumps in the area."

The commissioners requested that Dr. Leone submit in writing a report as to the surveillance of the track, and the level of acceptability. In addition, Dr. Leone will review immediately the recommended closing of the landfill at the track area, Alexander will contact James Bax, secretary of the State Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, to discuss sending an entomologist immediately for an expertise review and consultation, and the health department will continue to survey for larvae, and advise the commission immediately if any is found. Although Dr. Leone told the commissioners that "we are getting constant irritation from one source," it would seem that the solitary source has proved that "you can fight City Hall."

Stocks Still Sluggish

Price movements generally were narrow although some losers of $1 a share or more cropped up, including IBM, Polaroid and Xerox, which lost from $1.50 to $3.25.

Turnover totaled 1,830,000 shares. Declining issues outnumbered advances, 439 to 368.

The session Tuesday was one of the slowest of the year.

Business School Rites

An end-of-school-year program was held at Seminole County Business School.

E. S. Douglass presented adult high school diplomas to Linda Foote, Yvonne Ford, Joyce Morgan and Doris Miller. These adults have been attending vocational school this year to earn credit for high school graduation.

Approximately 92 certificates were issued to students who have completed courses to prepare for employment in the business area.

Douglass was presented a gift of silver from the faculty and students. Mrs. Barbara Sheaffer, a keypunch student, presented the gift in appreciation to him for the work he has done in the vocational program in past years.

Starting in September, the vocational school will be under the supervision of Seminole Junior College. A new vocational building is presently under construction there.

Russian Intervention In Mideast Is Studied

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is putting together a program combining military supplies and political action to meet what it considers the growing danger of Soviet armed intervention on behalf of Egypt in the Arab-Israeli conflict.

The program—still to be decided on finally—is expected to include the sale of warplanes to Israel, but also intensified efforts to work out a formula with the Soviet Union for peace talks between Israel and the Arabs.

Consideration has been given to a new cease-fire call, limiting arms sales in the Mideast—and perhaps some forceful gesture of U.S. support for Israel.

One possibility would be a publicized visit to an Israeli airfield by U.S. jets.

Officials concede virtually all ideas for an American initiative have been turned down by Moscow or failed in some other way in the past. Nevertheless, they said if the crisis is to be controlled familiar devices will have to be tried again and again.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers told the House Foreign Affairs Committee Tuesday of one of the latest failures of U.S. policy.

He said it was decided in March to hold off on the Israeli request for planes "in the hope that it would set a pattern of restraint in the Middle East."

299 Graduate At Seminole High

The strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" were heard once again Monday night in the Seminole High School Gymnasium as 299 young men and women received that prized piece of paper signifying the successful completion of 12 years of formal education.

Many smiles and not a few tears marked the faces of the happy graduates. The gym was overflowing with proud parents and friends of the graduates. The Seminole High School Band played their finest for the traditional precessional and Wagner's "Precessional March" for their last mark out of the familiar gym.

Honor students William Parker and Bruce Moyer told those congregated of their appreciation to the parents, teachers and friends who have given them guidance and support over the long 12 years path towards graduation. Both young men saw the night's exercises as a commencement—a beginning—of their lives and education, rather than an ending.

The honor graduates are the ten ten students in the school selected according to several tests, in the high school. Other honor students were Brenda Benge, Deborah Beverly, Elaine Chapman, Debrah Goerss, Diane Miller, Sylvia Parker, Pat Rethwill and Judy Smith.

To paraphraze Rick Gilmore, who gave the final benediction for the exercises: "Lord, that we may have learned just a fraction of what we think we have learned." The understanding and compassion and wisdom shown by the young people who spoke for the Class of '70 gave hope and promise to those witnessing the ceremonies — for peace and for an end to the "generation gap."

Elisabeth Priest gave the invocation at the start of the exercises. Grand marshals, younger brothers of the graduates who have excelled in their academic pursuits, were Douglas Smith and Calvin Moyer.

A member of the Seminole County Board of Public Instruction, A. L. Keeth had the honor and pleasure of presenting the first diploma—to his son, Robert.

Principal Richard Barnett, Vice Principal Bill Dougherty and Bart Pilcher, director of guidance at SHS, presented the 299 students.

Benjamin Franklin has been credited as the inventor of the first swim fins. Made of wood, they were worn on both hands and feet.

Florida Taxpayers Need To Keep Eyes Open

And they are caught right now. And they are caught in Tallahassee. But the bill will be sent to every taxpayer in every town, city and county.

Of course what we are referring to is the confrontation — a polite word for a fight — between the "Rock" of an extrovert Republican Governor anxious for a second term and a "Hard Place" a Democratic legislature which would stop another four years of almost constant political warfare.

Today this situation boils up into the call for a special session by Gov. Claude R. Kirk, Jr., to deal with the appropriations bill which was passed last week when the regular session of the legislature ended.

If this were an unusual and extraordinary event, it would be of importance enough to demand the attention of every voter and every taxpayer.

But it is not. Unhappily it is almost the usual confrontation between the Democratic controlled legislature and the first Republican governor since reconstruction which has made the arrival of good state government under a new state constitution something yet to be savored.

We believe that neither the administrative nor the legislative arms of our state government should mildly submit to a dominant rival nor yield their constitutional responsibilities to the other.

Since 1966, however, there has been no unified state leadership which could have accomplished wonders with a two-party system in being and a state with extraordinary growth problems ready for responsible guidance.

Instead there has been this rivalry with the eye of the governor first focussed on the national political scene with a gleam for the vice presidential nomination in 1968, should his first choice for GOP presidential nominee Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller win that honor.

Only a year ago the Democrats presented a picture of inept political management when they made a boost in their salaries from $100 a month to $1,000 a month the first business of the 1969 regular session and invited the sharp reaction by Governor Kirk, an alert politician, who vetoed it and watched with unconcealed delight as the Democrats and Republicans in the legislature overrode his veto in record-making time.

This year the Kirk silence during the regular session, which he opened with a show of harmony and support, was broken when he lashed out at the $1.27 billion appropriations bill and cried "shameshame" on the legislators.

All of this is taking place with the 19770 elections a few months away. All of the state representatives will have to campaign if they want re-election.

Governor Kirk is after the GOP nomination (and he has valid opposition) while President of the Senate John Mathews (D) seeks the Democratic gubernatorial nomination and Speaker of the House Fred Schultz wants the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

Thus the hot debate which has already started and will continue on the appropriations bill will have to be sifted through a screen of political common sense if the true issues and the true meanings are to be had by John Citizen.

In all of this, however, there is a very personal action now devolving on the Florida taxpayer. This is the responsibility of voting.

Want to get out of this "rock-and-hard-place" spot? Then take time to see what those in office are doing and let your ballot either send them back or bring about a clean sweep! The choice is up to the taxpayer — voter!

Needles - Camels

In the Gospel according to St. Matthew, Jesus tells his disciples "It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God."

But if contributions to one's church are part of the admission fee, individuals with the largest incomes have the best chance of getting there. A man with an income of $25,000 a year who gives $5,000 to a church of charitable organization actually pays only $1,760 in actual cash — or only one-third of the amount given. The rest comes from the government as an income tax deduction.

But if your income is a poverty-level $3,000 a year and you give $600 to your church and take it off your income, it costs you $442 in actual cash — or more than two-thirds of the amount given.

There are other ways by which persons of wealth make large contributions to religious and charitable organizations at small cost to themselves. Instead of giving cash, they may give stocks or art objects which have appreciated in value and, which they would have to pay heavy capital gains taxes if disposed of in any other way.

In the last two thousand years, camels have learned nothing about squeezing through a needle's eye; but they don't have access to tax consultants who are capable of enlarging small apertures into large loopholes. — Huntington (W. Va.) Herald Dispatch and Advertiser

It Makes Sense

It has been silly to claim, as many have, that a mob has a "right" to take over the streets. There is a right of peaceable assembly, but not necessarily in the streets to the inconvenience and danger of others. The Supreme Court has rightly upheld the authority of local officials to prevent street assemblies in emergency conditions.

The right of assembly does not include the right to threaten or to disrupt or to take over use of public property from others. — Chattanooga (Tenn) News-Free Press

Political Notebook:

Nixon's 2-Edged Viet Blade

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Nixon clearly has a much stronger conviction today than he had a year ago that he can preserve his political skin on the Vietnam war and still not let the South Vietnamese go down the drain.

When he announced the first combat troop withdrawals in June, 1969, the political factor had to be the commanding one. His own voting constituency, the middle - range Americans who elected him, wanted this country out of the war and the President understood that thoroughly.

It was also his judgment, however, that most of these people did not want withdrawals to look like an American surrender to Hanoi, nor did they want them managed in a way that would seem to expose the South Vietnamese to Hanoi's assaults without a fair chance to save themselves.

Consequently, all the President's utterances on withdrawals and related matters have invariably carried with them firm warnings to Hanoi not to "take advantage" of our pullouts in any way that would imperil our troops remaining in the country.

Furthermore, they have laid heavy stress on "Vietnamization" of the war, with the unmistakable intent—among other things—of suggesting to the American people that we would be doing our best to assure the South Vietnamese their full chance of survival in independence.

Many analysts who scanned Nixon's words from the moment of the first pullout announcement in 1969 felt that the "tough talk," plus the emphasis on Vietnamization, added up to a "cover story" which allowed him to get our combat soldiers out of there without looking like whipped dogs or secret collaborators with the Communists.

Nixon himself, in his interim report on Cambodia, offered that adventure as a perfect example of how he would respond to new Hanoi actions in this instance, moves to enlarge and link up sanctuaries menacing U.S. and South Vietnamese soldiers.

The big flaw I find in many doubters' views of the Cambodia move, and I am not alone in suggesting this, is the idea that it happened because the President "gave in to the generals" who have been pressing for action against the sanctuaries for years.

In my judgment, set forth in print before, this enterprise was "pure Nixon." People at close range with him for the past three or four years have heard him say over and over that one of Lyndon Johnson's great mistakes was listening too much to the military."

What really has happened, I think, is that probably from late August, 1969, the President has seen what he deems a steadily improving opportunity to have his cake and eat it, too. He detected what he thinks is a chance to get us out and yet salvage something in South Vietnam that at least has the aura of victory.

Hanoi's generally low-level fighting from mid-1969 encouraged such a judgment. But the sudden fluidity in the Cambodian backup zones, induced by Prince Sihanouk's fall, was the irresistible cruncher.

It was the chance not to talk tough but to "act tough." I think there was more in it than just talking about how to use reduction to his frequent warnings to Hanoi not to misbehave. It was the moment to take a fresh initiative that might turn the Vietnamese war strongly enough to assure, really assure, South Vietnam's survival.

Nixon always says more in public than gets properly reported. His June 3 speech had the usual "tough talk," but it was plainly not "cover" language. We heard two sides of the real Nixon — the political man who knows he must keep on withdrawing, and the veteran anti-Communist who now thinks he can do that and still deny victory to Hanoi. When he pledges arms to "end the war," he means on his terms, and they are terms he first began uttering at least as far back at 1967.

Yippies Make It!

By DON OAKLEY
NEA Editorialist

This may be a repressive country, but the pay is darned good.

Abbie Hoffman and Jerry Rubin, the two outstanding hippie-yippie clowns in that circus called the "Chicago 7" trial, have been discovered by their arch-enemies, the capitalists.

Hoffman's two books — "Revolution for the Hell of It" and "Woodstock Nation" — have sold 351,000 copies, earning the author more than $80,000 in advances, royalties and resale rights.

Sale of the movie rights of the first book reportedly brought him another $25,000. He will also get a percentage of the net profits of the film.

Rubin's book, "Do It," an assemblage of satires obscenities and obscene asininities, has sold 175,000 copies and brought him some $45,000.

Both men deny they have sold out to capitalism in any way. Every penny that doesn't go for bail or lawyers is played into revolutionary movement.

But, admits Hoffman, "It's embarrassing. You try to overthrow the government and end up getting rich."

Another best-selling author, Harry Golden, summed it up a long time ago: "Only in America."

Helen Fuller Says:

How Indo-China War Continues

WASHINGTON— It is no fun to be continually announcing that our war in Asia is going against us.

Politicians can tell it different. But uncommitted observers, calling it as they see it, say that we are losing.

Losing in military position, local support, and world opinion.

The "credibility gap" is a phase that grew up to describe Lyndon Johnson's failure to come clean with Americans about how deep we were becoming mired down in Asian bogs. "Credibility gap" is again the best way to describe Washington failure to give the public all the facts about our present involvement—and future plans — five thousand miles overseas.

No one knows whether most Americans believe it is our God-given mission to save Asians from themselves. No one has asked us point blank. No vote has been allowed to test.

For all the years we have been shedding American blood on Asian soil, Democratic and Republican Presidents have been passing out soothing syrup. "Trust us and all will be well" they have said.

The latest version is President Nixon's speech last week assuring the country that our sweep into Cambodia, uninvited is "the most successful operation of the war."

If, by this, Nixon means that the U.S. may have bought six to nine months advantage in our Vietnam war, few would disagree.

Whether the entrance into Cambodia by our forces was a good idea is yet to be fully discussed.

The fact that the Administration now refers to our presence on Asian soil no longer as the "Vietnam War" but as the Indo-China War," is worth more than passing notice. It suggests that if it is Vietnam and Cambodia our boys are asked to fight for today. it might be Laos or Thailand, or even China, the next round.

The conduct of the Cambodian foray indicates that this is more than wild imagining.

On the same day that President Nixon was speaking reassuringly to the nation that we would soon get out of Cambodia as Army captain was explaining to a Congressional committee exactly how we got there.

Captain Robert Marasco, Special Forces — usually known as the Green Berets, was charged along with some of his fellow Intelligence officers last year with the murder of a Vietnamese compatriot. The evidence produced indicated that the supposed murdered man was a "double agent," as they say in spy terms, and that he might have endangered U. S. plans then on foot for invasion of Cambodia.

Captain Marasco tells us, now that he is retired and so free to speak outside of Army constraints, that he and other U. S. spies attached to the Central Intelligence Agency fomented the Cambodia civil war that deposed Prince Sihanouk in favor of a military Junta.

Of course it is not always possible in times of war to abide by usual rules of good conduct. Of course it is necessary to have spy networks wherever you are fighting—or think you might need to fight.

That is another thing from using spy forces to involve our country further in a war on distant, alien land. The President assures us that he will keep his promise to withdraw American soldiers from Cambodian ground at the end of June.

He reserves to himself the right to continue bombings and strafings and other action other than on land. That means the U. S. will not be out of Cambodia.

It means also that, short of a Congressional "NO GO" resolution, we can expect a continuance of war on the other side of the world, with all that means in American blood, sweat and tears.

Global Comment:

Germany Has "Backlash". Too!

By MARIO DEDERICHS

DUESSELDORF, Germany (UPI)—A backlash vote by refugees who fled from communism may weaken Chancellor Willy Brandt's grip on the nation in regional elections June 14.

About one in five West Germans—roughly 10.5 million —is a refugee or an expellee from regions of East Europe overrun by the Communists at the end of World War II.

The refugees used to be a political force in the land and held 27 of the 487 seats in parliament in 1953. Over the years, however, they became absorbed in various political parties and even their leader failed to gain a seat in the last federal elections of September, 1969, when he ran as a Christian Democrat.

Now, the refugees and expellees are back on the warpath. They fear that Chancellor Brandt's attempt to improve relations with the Communist states of Eastern Europe means the final end of their dreams of some day returning to their native soil.

Leaders of the opposition, prominent among them anti-Communist fireground Franz Josef Strauss, are striving at refugee rallies to capitalize on the refugee discontent by bringing them into the Christian Democrat party fold.

The most critical test for Brandt's Social Democrat party is in the state of North Rhine Westphalia, the German industrial heartland along the Rhine and Ruhr rivers. Here a quarter of the 12 million voters are refugees or expellees from those territories whose present Communist leaders Brandt deals with in talks with East Berlin and Warsaw.

Refugee group leaders claim their support of the opposition Christian Democrats will inflict heavy losses upon the chancellor's Social Democrats (SPD) who now share a coalition government with the liberals in the Duesseldorf State House, as they do in the federal capital of Bonn.

Other state elections will be held the same day—June 14—in Lower Saxony and Saarland. In all, 44 per cent of the West German voters are involved.

But the focus is on Duesseldorf. Any swing against the coalition parties, political observers say, could tie Brandt's hands in his negotiations with Warsaw, East Berlin and Moscow.

Special Session On Spending Bill

Lawmakers Study Budget Again

By RICH O'[illegible]
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Republican leaders hunted desperately for the vote to sustain GOP Gov. Claude Kirk's veto of the $1.279 billion budget bill today as legislators arrived for the start of a special four-day session.

Kirk called the Legislature into session beginning at 1 p.m., and lasting until 5 p.m. Saturday, to write a new 1970-71 appropriations act which he declared should be balanced and constitutional.

But first, he would have to see his veto sustained in either the House or Senate. Only one chamber must sustain it to bury it for good. The bill goes to the House first.

However, neither House GOP leader Donald Reed of Boca Raton nor his Senate counterpart, Warren Henderson of Venice, claimed they had the votes necessary to sustain Tuesday night.

Reed counted 36 or 37 "hard core votes" to sustain, three or four less than he will need if all 119 members of the House show up.

He was hopeful there would be a few last minute converts who, forgetting how the bill benefits their counties, would be persuaded by Kirk's complaint it will demand new taxes next year and that it is unconstitutional.

"The problem is that some of these Republican fellows are in the same position as the Democrats—money is going to their counties," he said.

He said chances of sustaining the velo were better in the Senate, but Henderson had logistical headaches there.

Needing to hold onto each of the 14 Republican and three Democrat votes cast against the spending bill last Thursday, he faced the prospect of two votes not being able to attend.

Republican Cliff Reuter of Sharpes was in Colombia, South America, on business and an aide said she had been unable to reach him despite sending four telegrams to contacts there.

Republican C. W. "Bill" Young of St. Petersburg was in Washington and expected to join a contingent dining with President Nixon tonight. A candidate for Congress, Young faced a decision whether to return to Tallahassee or reap the obvious campaigning benefits of meeting with the President.

Use Of Guns On Protesters Urged

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Louisiana congressman says most Americans share his view that police should have used their guns during two outbreaks of violence at last November's massive antiwar protest.

"I think it's popular in America," Rep. Edwin Edwards, D-La., said Tuesday of his controversial stand. "I just have to believe that Americans feel criminal acts have to be stopped."

His position was opposed by Washington Police Chief Jerry V. Wilson and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. Kennedy today said, "We must learn well the lessons of how we can allow and encourage dissent without citizen violence, and how we can maintain order and safety without official violence."

Edwards, considered a politician moderate in his home state, said originally during a hearing Tuesday of his House internal security subcommittee that he saw "several instances where gunfire was not only justified by required."

He later told a news conference he was not advocating the police should have fired into a crowd, but he stuck to his "not only justified, but required" stand regarding "specific, isolated individuals."

Police would have been justified in shooting in two instances during the moratorium, Edwards said:

"They stormed the Justice Department and there was a confrontation with police over the flag" and "when police and demonstrators clashed at Dupont Circle the night before the Nov. 15 rally."

Edwards, who said he is running for governor of his state, said gunfire in such situations was justified "only because they repeatedly refused to cease and desist what they were doing."

Discipline is the key to quelling such violence, he said.

At the hearing, Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, took issue with Edwards, saying police should not assume the role of "judge, jury and executioner" during demonstrations.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — There will be millions made on the stock market in the 70's Harris, Upham & Co. assures its customers. The wise investor, the company says, should be "devoting much time and study to the stocks he wants to own when it is apparent that a new bull market has started." For emphasis it notes that at the recent May low "money would buy 56 per cent more shares than it did at the high 18 months ago." The company advises keeping "an open mind and a trading attitude until the market forces are clearly apparent."

The market reacted in the same manner to President Nixon's businessmen's dinner as it did to President Johnson's bombing halt on March 31, 1968 according to Bruns, Nordeman & Co. However, the company adds, economic and international fundamentals have deteriorated substantially since that time and mere "substantial underpinnings" will be required. Therefore, the company looks for "some downside correction from the recent rise — perhaps to the 670 area in the Dow industrial average."

"The game plan," says Spear and Staff, "is to buy quality and forsake speculation. This is the way it is, has been, and may always be after stocks take it on the chin." But, the company adds, "what was once a speculation may become a comparatively low-risk buy at the inception of a primary uptrend." Thus it counsels investors to be "assertive at this juncture" and to "view dips as opportunities to buy recommended issues, not as excuses to reduce holdings."

FOREST CITY Boy Scout Troop 7 and members of the volunteer fire department picked up three truckloads of junk, strewn along SR 436 within a couple of hours covering only a small portion of the highway. Scouts in the cleanup crew were Kelly Spandau, Robert Nelson, Daniel Smith, Wade Weaver, John Hamblen, Hank Marenoff, Bodie Ward, Doug Hancock, Brad Mueller, and little helpers, Steven Lassabe and Charlie Hambley. Firemen included Lt. Al Lassabe, Sgt. John L. Brantley, Capt. Bill Kinley, Roger Buttenberger, Charles Hambley, "Smokey" Nevaro, and Scoutmaster Frank Ward. (Maryann Miles Photo)

Women Workers Wail

By JANET STAIHAR
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department has issued guidelines designed to prohibit discrimination against women on jobs under federal contract, a move described by a female spokesman as "a most appropriate milestone of women's progress."

Elizabeth Duncan Koontz, director of the Labor Department's women's bureau, made the remark Tuesday while announcing the guidelines at the White House.

The rules ban sexual bias in jobs, wages, hours, seniority and retirement. They result from a presidential task force review of women's rights and responsibilities submitted to the Nixon administration six months ago.

At the some time, the American Association of University Women Tuesday released a study in which 84 percent of the women and 77 per cent of the men who responded to a questionnaire said that women were discriminated against in the business world.

The questionnaire was published in the AAUW's journal last January. Of the organization's 170,000 members, about 7,969—including nearly 3,000 men—responded to the opinionnaire.

Without specific guidelines to go by, Mrs. Koontz said, there was a gray area and confusion about sex discrimination in such jobs.

She said the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, which investigates women's rights on jobs, has a backlog of some 600 complaints of sex discrimination.

A presidential directive against sex discrimination on government work contracts has been on the books since 1965. But not until now have exact guidelines been set publicly.

The guidelines prohibit advertising in newspaper columns headed male or female unless sex is a legitimate occupational qualification.

Earth Rock May Be From Moon

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tektites, mysterious black and green pebbles found in only four isolated areas of the earth, may be of lunar origin, a study of Apollo 12 moon rock indicates.

Dr. John A. O'Keefe of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said glass found in a lemon-size moon rock appeared to be tektite glass.

"Its (the moon sample's) constitution answers the arguments given by proponents of the terrestrial origin of tektites," O'Keefe said in the current issue of Science magazine. "There appears to be no sound reason not to say that tektites come from the moon."

The rock in question was part of a lunar rock sample brought back in November by the Apollo 12 crew and believed to be some 4.6 billion years old. Scientists at the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston have described it as "clearly the oldest rock yet found on the moon, and older than any rock found on earth."

Tektites are black or green glass pebbles found in small quantities in Bohemia and Moravia, sections of Czechoslovakia, the East Indies and Australia.

Usually the pebble's surface is pitted or sometimes grooved with winding marks. A few have ring marks like those seen on spacecraft re-entry heat shields.

O'Keefe said he compared the Apollo 12 rock with two earth tektites and some 5,000 ordinary rocks produced by fusion in heating.

"The Apollo 12 rock has the distinctive chemical hallmarks of a tektite, including enrichment in potassium and a puzzling mixture of the characteristics of the basic rocks and the acidic rocks like granite," he said.

Earlier theories held tektites were sort of earth rocks, such as sandstone or shale, fashioned from hardened mud or sand, and distributed over the earth by the impact of large comets and the resultant splashing of melted sandstone.

"It is now clear that the moon can produce the same peculiarities, although it has no mud, sand or atmosphere," O'Keefe said.

He added that most moon rocks found thus far are older than 3 billion years. By contrast, the oldest tektite apparently has an age of 3 billion, and most are much younger.

This discrepancy could be explained if tektites were launched from the moon not by meteorite impact, as O'Keefe himself formerly believed, but by volcanic eruption as suggested by a Dutch engineer, D. R. D. M. Verbeek, in 1897, he said.

O'Keefe explained that other material may be torn from the sides of a volcano's vent, but even this material likely would be the result of a relatively recent previous eruption since volcanism rarely continues for a long time at the same site.

Candidate Campaigns On Peace Platform

By JOHN VAN GIESON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Former State Rep. Joel Daves of West Palm Beach Tuesday opened an establishment-oriented U.S. Senate peace campaign aimed at an immediate end of the Indochina war.

"I take the strongest possible stand on this war: Get out now," Daves said at a Capitol news conference. "There is no military reason, either tactical or strategic, why we cannot do so."

Daves, 41, charged that the war is sapping the strength of the nation and eroding its will to resolve its many other problems.

He said that seven previously announced Senate candidates had ignored the war as an issue, so he was entering the race to focus it clearly on the conscience of the voters.

"Somebody has to put this thing out where the people can look at it and listen to it," he said.

"No one else appears to be willing to take a strong stand," Daves said. "For this reason I have decided to become a candidate in this race so that the people of Florida can have a chance to listen and think and decide for themselves what should be done."

Candidates for the Democratic nomination include Daves, former Gov. Farris Bryant, House Speaker Fred Schultz, State Sens. Lawton Chiles and Robert Haverfield and Alcee Hastings, a Fort Lauderdale attorney.

Aid Declined To Justice Dept.

By JAMES SAGGUS
Associated Press Writer

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. John Bell Williams says Mississippi has declined to aid a Justice Department probe of the Jackson State College shootings, an investigation he regards as one-sided.

Confirming Tuesday a rift between state and federal investigators, Williams said it was caused by an FBI failure to cooperate in the state's investigation of the campus confrontation with police in which two young Negroes were shot to death.

In Washington earlier, Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard asserted Mississippi had refused to turn over weapons used in the 28 shootings or to make officers involved available for questioning.

Williams, in a statement read to newsmen in his office, said Leonard "is absolutely correct when he says that the Mississippi Highway Patrol has not turned over its weapons to the FBI. He is correct when he says that the highway patrolmen have not been interviewed by the FBI."

The governor added:

"There is no obligation on the part of the state of Mississippi, legally, morally or otherwise, to furnish books, lines, poles, bait, water and fish for Mr. Leonard's fishing expeditions."

Space Agency Officials Consider Cancellations

By AL ROSSITER Jr.
UPI Space Writer

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Space agency officials are considering cancelling next year's Apollo 18 moon mission and possibly one other flight to free more Saturn 5 rockets for the Skylab space station program.

An agency spokesman said Tuesday the mission cancellation were being considered as options that could be taken in the event it was decided one or two Saturns would be more useful for earth orbital missions.

But he emphasized no decisions have been made, and "right now we're still planning" to launch Apollo 18 on March 26. You could keep preparing for Apollo 18 for some months before making a decision."

Apollo 18 is in particular jeopardy because its spacecraft cannot carry the two-man moon rover scheduled to be borne by the last four moonships, Apollo 16 through 19. Those flights also will be able to support more than one lunar surface a day longer.

"We want to keep the missions that offer the best return," the spokesman said in Washington.

Astronauts David R. Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James E. Irwin now are training to fly Apollo 15. It was not known if they would be reassigned to Apollo 16, now set for launch Aug. 27, 1971, if Apollo 15 were eliminated.

There an six mission left in the Apollo moon exploration program, beginning with the launch of Apollo 14 Dec. 3. The space agency has seven Saturn 5 rockets left, with one scheduled to launch the Skylab 1 space station in 1972.

The basic hardware for a second Skylab is under construction as a backup to Skylab 1. Leaders of the program want to use it as Skylab 2 in 1973 or 1974 and possibly even build a third.

But to launch more than one Skylab would require one or more scheduled to be borne by the last four moonships, Apollo 16 through 19. Those flights also will be able to support more than one lunar surface a day longer.

Needed Lands Are Lost

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida has lost a chance to acquire some badly needed lands for parks and wilderness areas, and it would have been painless, the state officials say.

The chance was lor, they said Tuesday, when the 1970 Florida Legislature failed to pass a proposed constitutional amendment which would have allowed issuance of $20-$25 million in bonds for park land purchases.

The proposed amendment passed the Senate, but expired in the House.

National Reed, Gov. Claude Kirk's No. 1 conservation aide, said the recently adjourned regular session's record on conservation was excellent, except for failure to pass the amendment. He termed that failure a disaster.

*WHO CAN QUALIFY
UNDER NEW F.H.A. 235 INTEREST SUPPLEMENT PROGRAM

1. How much money can an applicant earn and still be eligible for this program?
ANSWER:
You can use this simple formula to determine your income limitation for Seminole County below:

Gross Annual Income (including overtime, bonus, wife's income, child support). Deduct 5% for Social Security or other unusual income. Less $500.00 for each minor child - - - (excluding spouse)
EXAMPLE: Family of four: Husband, wife, and two children.

$6,500 annual income	$6,175 difference
- 5% unusual income	- 600 ($300 per child)
$ 325	$5,575 Certified Adjusted Annual Family Income

You will be eligible if you earn less than $5,670 shown on chart for a family of four, in Seminole County.

Number in Family
Seminole County	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
	$4,185	5,130	5,400	5,670	5,940	6,210	6,480	6,615	6,750	6,885

2. Is there any limit to the amount of assets that a family may have in their possession; and, if so, what do they consider assets?
ANSWER:
In general FHA considers cash, checking and savings accounts, certificates of deposit, stocks and bonds, real estate holdings (lots or equity in a residence). To determine the total family assets allowed, use the following guide.
$ 500 for each dependent
$2,000 for the mortgagor if less than 62
$5,000 for the mortgagor if 62 or older
Plus 12 times the mortgagor's monthly payment under the subsidy program.
EXAMPLE: Using our family of four (husband under 62), we can ANS for the following total assets allowance:
$1,000—2 children at $500
$2,000 — mortgagor under 62
$ 960—12 x $80.00 (mortgagor's monthly payment)
$3960.00 —Total Assets Allowance
3. What constitutes a family and does the size of a family have any bearing on the size of the living unit?
ANSWER:
Definition of Family: Two or more persons related by blood, marriage, or operation of law, who occupy the same unit.
4. How much cash must my application have for a down payment?
ANSWER:
Total cash requirement of $200 which includes the borrower's prepaid items.
5. Are servicemen eligible for the 235 program?
ANSWER:
A serviceman, otherwise meeting the requirements of Section 235, is eligible for assistance payments if it is reasonable to assume his tour of duty in the area will be for two years or more.
6. What does my monthly payment include?
ANSWER:
Everything! Principal, interest, taxes and insurance.
7. Who pays the difference in my mortgage payment?
ANSWER:
Each month the mortgage company bills the Federal Government and they in turn send a check to the mortgage company.
8. Can a retired person or divorcee qualify?
ANSWER:
Yes, if you meet the income standards.

Government Securities Thefts Reach $20 Million In N. Y. Banks

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Theft of government securities has become so widespread that some insurance firms have balked at covering U.S. Treasury bonds, the Federal Reserve Board says.

Losses reached $20 million last year in banks in New York City alone. Wall Street brokerage firms were hit hard also, the board said.

The FBI, keeper of the only full list of which securities are stolen, won't make its data available to banks that may be confronted with a suspicious bond, the board told Congress.

The report was sent privately from the Federal Reserve Board to a House investigating sub-committee. A copy was obtained by the Associated Press.

The board made no mention of Mafia involvement in the rash of thefts from the multibillion-dollar flow on Wall Street of Treasury bills, bonds and notes —each a type of loan to the government that can be cashed in or sold.

But it said insurance firms have been asking their help for covering the government bonds in Wall Street hands since last fall and, in several cases, have refused to furnish any more protection.

The theft losses last year were substantially higher than any other year in history, the report said.

It cited the $25 million disappearance from the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. as well as two other New York bank cases that each topped $1 million.

Many Treasury bills are payable to the bearer and can be cashed easily. Other short-se curities have been used as collateral to get loans at banks ranging from Miami, Fla., to a small town in central Pennsylvania. Still other stolen bonds are carried overseas for sale.

The Federal Reserve Board report was sent in response to inquiries by Rep. Dante B. Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of a House government operations subcommittee.

The report said the Treasury had stopped keeping its central list of stolen securities 12 years ago, although it said several regional banks in the Federal Reserve system had renewed an informal checklist last fall to block attempts to cash stolen Treasury bills and bonds.

The FBI has a computerized list of stolen securities, but it will give out the information only to police agencies and not to banks, the board said.

The report recommended the FBI data be made available directly to banks, brokers and other financial firms. If this can't be done, it said some other federal agency should start keeping a computerized checklist of the stolen government bonds.

REMEMBER WHEN...

By GARY TAYLOR

This week in sports holds much significance for this writer. It was one year ago this week that this writer joined the Herald Sports Staff as a regular writer.

Again the news throughout the years, one, five, ten, 15 and 20 years back, was spiced with Florida State League Action and little league stars.

This week in sports:

1969

Little League month is saluted as the Seminole Little League and the Sanford Recreation Department are commended by The Herald for their fine programs.

Joe Sterling announces the signing of Ken Bryant to the Seminole Junior College basketball team for the coming year. Jim Starkey was named the "Outstanding Athlete" at the Sanford Naval Academy during graduation ceremonies.

Bergman tells of the year to come after just completing a very successful season. He predicts 1970 to be a "year of the pitcher" for SJC. He announces the signing of infielders Steve White of Lynn, Mass., and Bill Dancy of Winter Park.

Frank Mehane, Mike Leary and Rick Smith are winners in the Sanford-Seminole Junior Golf Tournament at the Mayfair Country Club.

1965

A young high school star from Oviedo leaves for Louisville, Kentucky to pitch in the Indiana-Kentucky Collegiate Baseball League. Jim Courier, a star in all sports at Oviedo, would pitch in the league. It was this same boy, who played on the first Oviedo football team, that would be named head coach at Oviedo for 1970.

Gary Maples continued to dominate city play as he pitched Elks to another win and extended his number of scoreless innings pitched to 42.

George's moved into first place in the American Little Major League with a last inning rally that dumped Navy. Mike Voltoline and Jim Sheffield star in little league action.

The Oviedo Junior High basketball coach, Carlton Henley is honored at a party given by his team. Henley in later years was named principal at Lyman.

The Sanford Greyhounds, on top of losing two games while winning one during the week, lose to the Sanford Hotdogs. The Hotdogs, made up of local members of the press win 3-0, behind the no-hit pitching of Jerry (Dizzy) Covington. Representing WIOD were Joe Drenstein at second base. Fred Ball in left field, Marion Russell in center field and Don Bariel at first base. Representing WTRR were Nick Pfeifauf at third base, Lonnie Padron at short stop, Jack Weible in right field and doing the catching was Gil Luck.

The Greyhounds were currently in third place but led the league in batting at .361. Ken (The Hawk) Harrelson, the first baseman, was leading the league at .356. Another hot Sanford batter was Bolivar Hinojosa in third at .341.

1955

Mario Maurielle replaced Dan Keith as manager of the Sanford Cardinals. He also caught for the team. The decision came after a 5-0 loss to Daytona Beach. The next night Keith signed with Daytona as a player. The Cardinals won 11-6. Sanford won five out of six games during the week and moved out of the cellar.

1950

The Sanford Giants of the Florida State League won three and lost two during the week, including having a seven-game winning streak snapped by St. Augustine.

Ed Levy, player-manager for the Giants, blasted a pair of circuit clouts against Palatka for his 19th and 20th homers to set a new FSL record.

The next night the Giants beat Daytona 4-3 with Buddy Lake winning in relief as they celebrate Ed Levy night at the Sanford Municipal Stadium.

The Sanford Celery-Fed nine advanced to the semi-finals of the State Tournament, while the Sanford American Legion team lost their opener 4-2 to Oviedo.

Tied For Second

Giants Blank FTU Nine

The Sanford Giants picked up their fourth win of the season against two losses last night as they blanked FTU 9-0 in seven innings. The game was called under the eight-run rule after seven.

The win moved the Giants into a tie for second with Bourger King of Orlando in Central Florida League. The Orlando Red Caps, currently unbeaten, lead the league.

Steve Shumaker hurled the win for the Giants and also paced the team at the plate. Shumaker, playing for the first time since he suffered a concussion two weeks ago, fanned 14, walked one and allowed only two hits.

The Giants had eight hits, Shumaker was two for four. Mike Ferrell was two for four. Moe Hawe had the only extra base hit, a double.

In the second inning, the Giants went ahead with two runs. Donnie Anderson walked, Darrell Hullinger singled Kincaid to third and then stole second and Shumaker brought them both home with a base hit.

The Giants scored a lone run in the fifth when Carl Shumaker reached on a base on balls and went on to score on a hit by Ferrell.

The Giants collected five hits in the sixth as FTU changed pitchers and they hit him hard. The Giants play the DeLand Rams Sunday afternoon at Conrad Park in DeLand.

'Clown Prince Of Baseball'

Max Patkin Coming To Orlando's Tinker Field

This was one day in the spring of 1946. Max Patkin had been summoned to the office of the general manager of the Wilkes-Barre (Pa.) baseball club, of the Eastern League, and he had a foreboding that something was going to happen.

It did.

"How," the general manager inquired, "is your sore arm?"

"It's still bothering me," Patkin replied. "But it ought to be all right in a couple of weeks."

The general manager shook his head. "I'm afraid we can't wait," he said, "we can't afford to carry a pitcher who can't take his regular turn. Sorry, Max. We're going to have to give you your release."

For Patkin it was the cruel end of a dream, or so he thought at the time. Since childhood he had been determined to become a great pitcher, to play in the major leagues some day. Now he was being given his release by a team in a Class A League, three steps below the majors. At the age of 26, he was washed up, as they say.

But before that 1946 season had ended, Max Patkin was in the majors. Today he is one of the best-known figures in baseball. Each season of late he has appeared before more than 2,500,000 fans in the United States, Canada, Puetro Rico, and Mexico. While the average pay of major league players is about $15,000 a year, Patkin's annual take is closer to $30,000. All this despite the fact that Max's name never appears in a box score. Patkin will be at the Orlando Twins' game at Tinker Field June 11.

Patkin is a baseball comedien. He is so adept at making people laugh that he now is widely regarded as the "clown prince of baseball," the successor to the storied Al Schacht, now a New York restauranteur, who was the first to mix comedy with baseball back in the twenties.

"It just goes to show," Max says, "what a goofy-looking guy like me can do when he stops trying to be a pitcher and become a comic."

As a comic, Patkin had dore pitches with two American League teams—The Cleveland Indians and the late St. Louis Browns. Since 1951 he has not been affiliated with an one club having found that barn-storming tours, during which he plays one-night stands in ball parks from Class D (the lowest classification in organized baseball) to the big time, are most profitable.

During the course of a season, Patkin fills between ninety and one hundred engagements. Guarantees range generally from $200 to $500, which the owners of ball clubs that "sign" Max for one game are glad to pay, because the fellow is a sure-fire Box-office tonic. In small communities where the normal turnout for one game is around six hundred, Patkin frequently brings out as many as five thousand people.

The things Max does on a baseball field are a caution. In the first place, he has the basic equipment of the true clown. a naturally funny appearance. He somewhat resembles an underfed scarecrow, with 185 pounds spread over a gangling six-feet-three frame. His body is seemingly tireless, and his face is dominated by a nose that must make Jimmy Durante envious.

To the customer in the grandstand, Patkin appears to be an absolute screwball, which is precisely the impression Max strives to create. Actually, however, he is a serious-minded person who worries continually about whether his act is going over. It has been said that all great clowns consider themselves unfunny, and Patkin is no exception. "I work under a great handicap," he will tell you on days when he isn't feeling up to par. "I have no talent."

He says such thing with sincerity. For although comedy has brought Patkin fame and financial security, he still is a frustrated pitcher at heart.

"But what's a fellow to do?" Patkin adds. "People always have laughed at me. I guess it's the way I'm built, the way my neck sticks out, the way I walk. I used to get laughs even when I wasn't trying to be funny. So when I found I couldn't make it in baseball as a player, I decided to capitalize on being laughed at."

Born and reared in Philadelphia, where he still lives during the off-season, Patkin set out early to be a ballplayer. At West Philadelphia High School he is remembered as one of the best pitchers the school ever had. A right-hander, he could fire the ball.

At the same time, Max also became a jitterbug. "I had to learn to dance," he says, "because my face wouldn't get me a date. He became so proficient at eccentric dancing that a few years ago he appeared with Vaughn Monroe's Orchestra in stage shows during the off-season He still fills theatrical engagements occasionally.

Patkin entered profession baseball in 1940. Signed by the Chicago White Sox, he was sent to Wisconsin Rapids, of the Class D Wisconsin State League. He did fairly well there until he injured his pitching arm and was given his release in 1941. Then Max enlisted in the Navy, its spent most of his service time at Pearl Harbor, where he was a chief athletic specialist, assigned to a Navy Hospital. When his arm regained its strength he pitched in the Hawaiian Army-Navy League, which was replete with major league stars.

"One day," Patkin recalls, "I pitched against an air force team that had Joe DiMaggio as its clean-up hitter. The first time DiMaggio batted, I struck him out. Man, I was feeling chesty. The next time pow! He clipped me for the longest home run drive I've ever seen."

Out of the Navy in 1946, Patkin was signed by the Wilkes-Barre team on the strength of his showing in Hawaii. He won one game. Then the arm trouble returned, and Max drew his release.

But he had begun to acquire a reputation as a clown—"strictly unintentionally," he says. One night, the Harrisburg (Pa.) team of the Class B Inter-State League, hired him to do a comedy bit during an exhibition game between Harrisburg and the Cleveland Indians.

Lou Boudreau, managing Cleveland, laughed heartildy at Patkin's antics. On Boudreau's say-so, Bill Veeck, then the Indian's owner and unfrigging screwball himself, hired Max as a coach sight unseen. So there was Patkin, in the majors.

For the remainder of the 1946 season and the entire 1947 campaign, Patkin cut upon the coaching lines for the Indians. There was one game, in July 1946, when Joe McCarthy, the New York Yankees' manager, threatened to pull his team off the field if Patkin didn't stop fooling around. Generally, though, the act was well received, by the baseball men.

"I've never tried to make a mockery of the game," Max declares. "My one aim is to brighten the dull moments. I've never mimicked anyone without first getting his permission to do it. Even the umpires go along willingly with my gags, as long as I don't foul up the game."

In 1948, Patkin left the Indians and went out on his own. He did well, and by 1950 was a much-sought attraction. Then, in 1951, Veeck, having sold his interest in the Cleveland club, bought the St. Louis Browns. He sent for Patkin.

The lanky crown didn't particularly desire to return to full-time work in the majors, but he cancelled his barnstorming schedule and joined the Browns as a coach. "I figured I owed Bill something for giving me my first break," Patkin explains. "Now that Bill is out of major league baseball, I'm not interested in a regular job in the big time. I like to play a few dates each summer in major league parks, but that's all. I do better financially in the minors."

Patkin left the Browns after the 1951 season. Now he travels some 45,000 miles a year to fill engagements. It is a gruelling schedule. Max may perform in Seattle, Washington one night; in Toronto, Canada, the next evening; and in Richmond, Virginia, the night after that.

He has had a full share of bumps and bruises. Once he fractured a toe while performing, and on several occasions has spiked himself. He has a weak right knee, the result of a fall during his act, on which he must wear a brace. He keeps osteopaths busy working kinks out of his muscles.

He has also been touring at different intervals, three years, with the Harlem Globetrotters, plus various Sporteman Shows.

MAX PATKIN, baseball's "funny guy" will be at Tinker Field in Orlando this Thursday, June 11, to entertain the crowd at the Orlando Twins game. He is so good at making people laugh he has been named the "clown prince of baseball." Orlando Twins general manager Bob Willis expects one of the biggest crowds of the season to be on hand for the performance.

The baseball game in New York's Shea Stadium was somewhat boring, but not to Alan Bennell. He had just disembarked from a 60-foot cruise ship after four wee small hours on the bridge. The game certainly wasn't boring to Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, baseball's No. 1 fan, who owns the world champion Mets.

Mrs. Payson was sitting in the confines of her field box soaking in sun and enjoying some 45 minutes while the Mets were scoring eight times in one inning. It used to take the Mets all season to get that many runs against the San Francisco Giants, a team Mrs. Payson almost bought for $10 million just to keep them in New York. Horace Stoneham wanted to sell but Toots Shor advised him against it.

Mrs. Payson wanted this game to end early. She hoped to dash over to Aqueduct in her Bentley to watch Cut the Comedy, a 3-year-old sprinter, run in the Withers Mile. But she remained through the three-hour-plus game. Anyway, Cut the Comedy didn't do as well as the Mets because Ron Turcotte saved Hedley's speed for the long stretch run and won handily. The Diamond Club had the game on TV and Alan Bennell knew a friend who had $2 on the winner.

The long inning was just what Bennell wanted. It gave him a chance to talk about British boxers—and whatever became of Phainting Phil Scott? The Diamond Club was empty and with 15 Mets going to the plate in one frame the exclusive club was one spot devoid of "Let's Go Mets" fans.

"There are 10 boxing clubs in Bermuda," Alan Bennell began, "and last season we got the idea aboard the Franconic that some of our crew might be interested in boxing.

"The Bermudian Boxing Association invited us to submit a team for amateur exhibitions. We came up with three boys—Billy Hanson, 21, Danny McCormick, 18, and Roy House, 20. Terry, from near Southampton, is a first class waiter. Danny is from northern England and Roy is from Wales. They are passengers mainly boys. They are considered flyweights weighing 112 to 125 pounds.

"We are grateful to these boys because we had to put them in the right just to compete since some 300 crewmen we were serious about a boxing team.

"It took time to get gloves and headgear but we managed. The young men are suddenly coming forward to take up boxing.

"We use 10-ounce gloves and the boys train near midnight on what we call the Butcher's Flat. It's where meats are loaded for some 600 passengers and 300 crewmen. The place must be kept clean, so we want no blood spilled there, or anywhere else for that matter. That's why we insist on heavy gloves.

"On the New York-Bermuda run the boys put on exhibitions at boys clubs under the jurisdiction of the BBA. And the Bermudians have become excited because we are the first cruise ship with boxers. We on board and the Cunard Line officials feel this will arouse public interest. We plan to carry on through November."

The first matches in Bermuda in May proved more exciting than Bennell and Hank Coombes, the bedroom steward who guides the team, had anticipated.

"Danny McCormick boxed a United States Marine who was winning quite steadily," said Alan Bennell. "The arena ought to be packed then."

Yes, the British, too, know all about rematches in boxing.

Pitching Coach Edwards Forced To Play Catcher

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

There's a little ache here and maybe a small muscle hurts there but Doc Edwards doesn't care. His pains are nothing compared to the things that happened to Philadelphia's first four catchers this year.

Edwards started the season in the relative peace and serenity of the Phillies' bullpen as a member of Manager Frank Lucchesi's coaching staff. No aches and pains there.

But suddenly Phillie catchers started dropping left and right. Tim McCarver and Mike Ryan both broke their right hands, unbelievably in the very same inning. Mike Compton hurt his back and then Del Bates hurt his hand.

The organization virtually depleted of catchers, Lucchesi did what any good manager does in a pinch. He went to the bullpen and suddenly 22-year-old Doc Edwards, was a big league catcher again.

Tuesday night Edwards played his third game since being activated and singled in both Phillie runs in a 2-1 victory over Atlanta. Two hits since he went to work behind the plate. Life in the bullpen was never like this.

In other National League games Thursday night, Montreal trimmed Houston 2-1, Cincinnati downed Montreal 6-4, St. Louis blanked Los Angeles 4-0, Chicago defeated San Diego 7-3 and Pittsburgh dropped San Francisco 3-1.

In the American League, Kansas City blistered Washington 8-1, Chicago dropped Boston 4-2, Detroit whipped Milwaukee 5-3, Oakland took Cleveland 5-2, New York defeated Minnesota 5-2, and California dumped Baltimore 7-5 in 11 innings.

"My legs were a little stiff at first," admitted Edwards "but I'm okay now. It's great to be helping out. I didn't think I'd go this far.

Edwards was drafted for duty with the Phillies in 1957 but not only singled in both runs Tuesday, but picked pitch on Sonny Jackson off first base in the ninth inning.

The heroics haven't turned Edwards' head. "If I was the manager," he said. "I'd put McCarver and Ryan back as soon as I could. I don't worry about them. I'm relaxed. When this is over, I only have to travel back to the bullpen."

The Cardinals also reached into the bullpen and came up with Chuck Taylor, who made his first start after 21 relief appearances and shut out the Dodgers on five hits.

Lou Brock, Jose Cardenal and Joe Torre had two hits apiece for the Cards who ended Claude Osteen's personal five-game winning streak.

Tom Seaver throttled Houston on three hits and pitched the Mets to their fifth straight victory over the Astros. Wayne Garrett homered for New York and Denis Menke connected for the Astros.

The victory was Seaver's first since May 15 and ended a four-game spin for the 1969 Cy Young Award winner.

Steve Blass halted an even longer dry spell, pitching Pittsburgh past San Francisco. It was his first victory since April 22—a seven week span in which he had lost seven games.

Willie Stargell hammered a two-run homer for the Pirates and Blass, 2-8, contributed a single and double as Pittsburgh beat Juan Marichal, 2-5.

Ferguson Jenkins rolled his record to 6-7 pitching the Cubs past San Diego. It was the third straight victory for the big right-hander, who struck out 12 in eight innings.

Cincinnati won its fourth straight and ninth in the last 10 games, beating Montreal and opening a 16-game bulge in the National League's West Division.

Blackhawks Lose Pair On Georgia Road Trip

The Oviedo Blackhawks ventured on their longest road trip of the season this past week end and came back unhappy. They traveled to Georgia for a weekend stand.

Saturday night's scheduled game with Macon was canceled and when they had completed a big Sunday double header with Valdosta, they had doubled the figure in the loss column.

Sporting a 15-2 record, the Blackhawks were swept two straight. The opening game saw them fall 11-3 before losing the second tilt 5-1.

Robert Jenkins took the mound for the Blackhawks. He not only turned in his usual fine performance on the mound, rapping 2 for 3, he slammed a home run and drove in all three Blackhawk runs.

He started things off with a run producing single in the opening frame. He then slammed the two-run shot in the third. But Valdosta got fired away and then broke it open, not so much on hits as errors.

They had six scattered hits, but the Blackhawks committed 10 errors to give them the game.

Charles Gainey had two hits for the Blackhawks as did Jenkins. Chico Davis and Dwight King had a hit apiece.

Jenkins' bat was again hot in the second game as he had one of the two Blackhawk hits. He also scored the only Oviedo run.

Duane Boston suffered the loss on the mound for the Blackhawks as he fanned seven and allowed only four hits. But again errors and several walks hurt him.

The Blackhawks are scheduled to play the Orlando Braves at McCoy's Field next Sunday.

Strikes And Spares

BY: JOHN A. SPOLSKI

This is the kids' week!

First of all, this past Sunday three teams of Juniors and bantams went over to the Cocoa Beach area and competed in their State Tournament.

This coming Saturday, through the generosity of the Sanford Loyal Order of the Moose, Lodge 1851 and the Sanford Men's Bowling Association and Jet Lanes, all of the boys and girls in both of our weekly leagues will have their end-of-the-season banquet.

It'll get underway at 11:30 a.m. at which time all of the many trophies, patches and awards will be presented. Directly following this, there'll be the banquet, along with many of the parents of the youngsters also taking part in the festivities, culminated with the adults joining the kids in a free game of bowling.

Earlier in the day, at 9:30, all of the boys and girls in the age bracket of 6 thru 12 (Bantams) will be invited to join in the organizing process of teams for a summer league.

And then again at 1 p.m. the slightly older 13 thru 19 guys and gals will duplicate the process in setting-up their Junior-Senior League.

All newcomers, as well as all former members are cordially invited to attend the meetings as well as the free banquet.

And If That's Not Enough . . .

Then there's the second and final week of the Adult-Youngster Tournament with squads at 2 and 5 p.m. In both categories for the kids and the moms and dads, if you want to bowl but don't have a partner, don't despair cause we'll go about the business of finding one for you.

ANN SCHNEIDER

DON WITT

So nice to have all of the men and women from Dynamics toppling timber with their own rated league here at the Lanes each Tuesday evening at 7 p.m.

A great deal of the credit for this one must go to pert Ann Schneider.

And while we're talking 'bout this group, let's give a quick look-see at their scoring for this past week . . . Lou Norton 183, 192/540 and E. Mallon 182.

Any number of the many different summer leagues have finally gotten around to bumping one another in competition, and as per usual, a couple of those who said that they'd bowl didn't show up on opening night. So, if there are a few of you who've been putting it off . . . get on the phone right now and we'll clue you in on which of the leagues is in need of a bowler or two.

One of the most popular mixed leagues is the Toyota Mixed (early) league . . . where there were thoughts of it only being 12 or maybe 14 teams, they started with 16 . . . added two on the first night of bowling and lo and behold, this coming Thursday will take the two remaining lanes to field a 20 team league.

When Is A Good Time?

This brings us around to answering the inevitable "when is it a good time to come out and open bowl?"

Any night after 8:45 p.m. there are always a couple of lanes during the summertime for open bowling, and of course, the weekends are the ideal time cause there aren't any leagues scheduled.

However, this too might just change on Sunday nights, what with Gladys Granneman going about the routine of calling the many females in Deltona to resume a Sunday-night Mixed League.

In the event she has enough of a favorable response, they'd bowl at 5:30 or 6 each Sunday for a very brief summer league.

★ ★ ★ ★

One of the steadiest and probably fastest improving male bowlers is Don Witt. Already clued via last week's column about Don's unique triplicate series of each game at 200. This past week he held his "poor ole partner" up in the Doubles League with some more sterling bowling. (Ah, don't make me tell you who his partner was, O.K.? My scores were low enough without broadcasting it, too!)

★ ★ ★ ★

From the Florida State Bank Mixed League, Bill Kinney paced the group with a 194/554 in series, but it was Linden Heger who took high game honors with his 204 effort. Bob Morgan came home with a 175 while Dot Butler was high for the lassies with her 162.

★ ★ ★ ★

In the Shooting Stars league, Carole Mace had one of her better mornings of bowling as she kept on striking until she burned in a 213/536 winning combination. A couple of the other 'stars' from this league were flirting with entering the "Charmed circle", but didn't get that extra break . . . Rose Patrick had a 180, Polly Snyder 183, one pin higher was Dottie Gray.

Incidentally, all three of these keglerettes . . . Hogan, Mace and Patrick rolled 'turkeys' — three strikes in a row.

The Wednesday afternoon league could use a couple more ladies . . . just to have 'em to bowl against, to complete their team rosters. They bowl each week at 1 p.m. and some of the gals who had the pins falling their way this past week were Dell Barco 155, Janet Bow 160, Pat Ripley 166, Linda Berreman 198.

That's a heavy group of lady bowlers who are mostly interested in socializing than in worrying about how high a score or an average they have to post.

That's what bowling's all about . . . for the fun of it. Come on out and join the crowds which make bowling the world's largest participation sport.

Dearborn Falters; Rebounds With A Win

First innings told the story Monday night in women's softball league action at Cooper Field. Gordon's Drugs pounded Lum's for 18 runs in the bottom of the opening frame and went on to bomb them 20-0 for the biggest shut-out win of the season.

Wilson Maier also capitalized on a big first inning, 11 runs, as they dropped Dearborn 24-8.

Shirley Bowen pitched the one-hit shut-out for Gordon's Drugs. Only Pat Young managed a hit off her. Gordon's was paced at the plate by Kathy Blalock and Shirley Bowen with three hits each. JoAnn Turner had a single and a double, Babe Von Herbulis had a pair of singles and Lee Heaney had one double. Helen Horton was the losing pitcher.

Lum's Restaurant	0	5	0	0	0	3	0	5	1	4
Gordon's Drugs	11	3	5	4	0	0	0	1	0	20-17

Shirley Thompson hurled a two-hitter and went three for four at the plate, scoring three runs, as she paced Wilson Maier to the win. Pat Shiver had three hits with a pair of doubles and Jo Quisso had three hits with one double. Shelia Blackburn and Patty Carlton had a single and a double each, Pat had two hits and Kathy Smith was one for two.

In last night's action, Motor Parts took a firm grip on first place for the second half as they knocked off first half winner WHOO, 6-3.

In other action last night, Dearborn rallied for their first win of the second half, dropping Lum's Restaurant 13-11.

Debbie Smith paced Motor Parts at the plate with three hits, including a double. Beverly May, Judy Clark and Freida Evans each had a pair of hits. Pat Lacey was one for two and Shannon Pauline was one for one.

For WHOO, Jo Stoudenmire, Patsy MacLeod, and Jeannie Bishkeswski all had two hits. One of Stoudenmire's was a triple. Joyce Clutter was the winning pitcher, while Lou Helms was the loser.

Motor Parts	0	3	0	2	0	0	0	1	6
WHOO	1	1	0	0	0	1	0	0	3

Cathy Grooms carried a hot bat for Dearborn in the second game. She slammed four hits, including two triples and a double. One of the triples came with the bases loaded. Lois Morgan had a pair of hits.

For Lum's, Cindy Flanders was four for five and Barbara Lee and three hits. Kathy Hodges and Cathi Dean doubled. Cathi Dean was the losing pitcher, while Carolyn Grooms picked up the win.

Dearborn	1	1	4	3	2	1	0	1	13
Lum's	5	1	0	0	0	5	0	0	11

In the first game Thursday night at Cooper Field, Wilson Maier will take on Gordon's Drugs. The second game sees Dearborn battling WHOO.

Flood Trial Nears End

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Veeck, controversial former major league club owner who gave baseball the exploding scoreboard, was expected today to fire the final shots in Curt Flood's $3 million antitrust suit against the sport.

The flamboyant, unconventional Veeck, who like Ted Williams rarely wears a tie, was scheduled to be the final witness for Flood before his suit challenging baseball's reserve system goes to Judge Irving Ben Cooper for a decision.

Veeck, who owned the St. Louis Browns, Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox, is the only witness for the plaintiff who can bring to the court room an owner's perspective on costs and problems within the framework of the reserve system.

Veeck's appearance is expected to draw a full courtroom crowd, and two of the main participants who have been absent for several days—Flood, and Justice Arthur Goldberg, who is representing Flood but has been campaigning for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

In testimony Tuesday that paved the way for today's winding session, Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, was recalled to the stand as a rebuttal witness for Flood after the defense had rested its case.

Miller contradicted testimony by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and John Gaherin, labor negotiator for the owners, that negotiations aimed at modifying the reserve system through collective bargaining had ended because Flood had instituted suit.

"There was no difference whatsoever in discussion," said Miller, "before news that Curt Flood intended to file a suit or after."

Miller also took exception to a statement by Gaherin that the players association had asked for a halt in discussions for fear that continuing them would harm Flood's court care.

"The statement was completely inaccurate—it was quite the reverse," Miller said. "We said if there were appropriate amendments, there would be no action. If we were able to agree on revisions, the plaintiff would withdraw his suit."

Jay Topkis, questioning Miller, continued to emphasize the position of the owners on bargaining to modify the reserve system—which Flood contends enables baseball to operate illegally in restraint of trade—by asking Miller if he considered the discussions that had taken place "collective bargaining."

Miller said he didn't.

"Has management proposed any modification of the system?" asked Topkis.

"No," replied Miller.

Miller also disagreed with testimony by Kuhn and other de-fe-se witnesses that modifying the system would affect the level of the sport's integrity.

Miller said he did not think anything "would result in a player not doing his best for any reason" in that he didn't think the owners would become in-

Tampa FBI Celebrates Birthday

J. F. Santoiana Jr., special agent in charge of the Tampa division, announced that he and all members of the FBI to the residents of Central Florida, who have, in any way, assisted the FBI in its operations since the establishment of the field division in Tampa.

Prior to June, 1960, all the area presently covered by the Tampa office was within the Miami division. Santoiana related that because of the population growth in the central part of Florida, Hoover opened a divisional office in Tampa in order to maintain the utmost efficiency in FBI operations in this area.

The Tampa division covers 25 counties in central Florida including Hernando County on the north to Lee County on the Gulf Coast and extends across the State to Brevard County on the East Coast. Additional FBI offices located at Jacksonville and Miami discharge FBI responsibilities in the remainder of the state. Tampa is the divisional headquarters for resident agents located in Clearwater, St. Petersburg, Sarasota, Fort Myers, Lakeland, Orlando and Cocoa.

Santoiana, who has been special agent in charge of the Tampa division since its establishment, in looking back over the years, said that there have been some exciting moments, as well as many long hours worked to either apprehend wanted criminals or conduct investigation into the over 180 different federal crimes over which the FBI has investigative jurisdiction.

During the 10-year period, agents assigned to the Tampa division have conducted investigations resulting in approximately 1,600 convictions, the recovery of 1,700 automobiles, the apprehension of 2,700 fugitives, and a return of $42 million in fines, savings and recoveries.

The Tampa office was first located in a small office building on South Dale Mabry, but moved in October, 1964, to its present space in the Federal Building at 500 Zack Street, where it now occupies the entire sixth floor.

DeMolays At Conclave

Members of Seminole chapter, Order of DeMolay, attended the DeMolay provincial conclave at Rollins College in Winter Park. The conclave, which is a word taken from the days when knighthood flourished and referred to a large gathering of the knights, is now used to name a DeMolay convention, hosted DeMolays from chapters throughout the Central Florida area.

Participants competed in athletics and ritual work for trophies and ribbons awarded at the general meeting in the Winter Park Masonic Temple.

Conclave participants stayed in the new hall dormitory located on the lake and ate in the Rose Skillman dining hall. Sunday church services were conducted in the Knowles Memorial Chapel on the Rollins campus.

Delegates from the local Seminole Chapter included Master Councilor Don Lewis, Senal Councilor Thomas Stapleton and Richard Colegrove. Other chapter members attending the conclave were Richard Chase, Michael Capko and Eugene Bertrang. Advisor E. L. Weber and former chapter member Steven Stein also took part in the conclave.

Seminole members are now preparing to attend the state conclave in Hollywood late next month.

Sun Not Guilty

ITHACA, N.Y. (UPI) — A Cornell University professor has discovered that it isn't the sweltering sun that keeps farmers in tropical lands from growing vegetables commonly found in northern countries.

It's the oven-like temperatures below ground that destroy the roots, says Prof. Peter L. Steponkus, who made his theory known at an international horticulture congress in Tel Aviv. He contends that proper irrigation would allow tropical countries to grow such northern vegetables as peas, broccoli, lettuce and cabbage.

We The Women:

By Betty Canary

I sat with Geraldine, whom I hadn't seen for quite some time, on the front porch. She was describing a lecture she had heard last week (I think the subject was Inside the Id is In) during a series of interruptions by my children.

"Mothers-is-understanding time was over when Stu and his friend Roger showed up to nag me about taking them to the shopping center. "Go away," I said sweetly. "Perferably to Lima, Peru!"

They went to Roger's house to bother his family.

Geraldine leaned close to me and whispered. "Why, that boy was a Negro!"

"Yes," I said, "he always has been. I guess."

"You know what I mean," she said archly. "Why, I would never have KNOWN he was a Negro."

"Really? I knew it the first time he walked in. It was the black skin that tipped me off."

"You weren't very nice," she scolded. "You shouldn't have told him to go to Lima, Peru!"

"You may be right," I agreed. "Usually I say Easter Island—it's lots farther."

"You KNOW what I mean!"

"Yes," I had to admit, it at last. "I do know what you mean. You mean I should speak differently to Roger than I would to one of Stu's white friends. But I don't think so."

"You should be charitable and not hurt his feelings!" she said. "Although I must say I would NEVER have known he was a Negro—the way he talked and everything."

"Yes, he talks the way most of the kids around here do—all the time and too loud."

"Not that I think Negroes are different or anything!"

"I'm sure you do not, Geraldine," I said. "After all, didn't the Supreme Court convince you?"

"I donated canned goods for the Poor People's march!" she retorted.

"Buenos dias!" Roger called. "Guess who's back?" Stu yelled. "I give up!" I told them.

"Go on and get in the car."

Merthie's Kindergarten graduation was a thing of beauty as the tiny pre-kindergarten students presented a program of their own prior to the graduation exercises.

The faces of the 27 grads as they marched in the processional held expressions of happiness, sorrow, and yet, some the expression of one receiving a college degree.

Their theme, "First Step to Success," was most appropriate for their school closing.

Honored also at the June 7 program were graduates of Merthie's Kindergarten graduates of 1960).

Household Hints

Cloudy egg whites signify a strictly fresh egg. They become cloudier at cold temperatures, but this effect disappears as the eggs warm up. A greenish or straw colored tinge to the egg white also is normal, as are those ropey white pieces also sometimes found in egg whites.

From a basic nutrition standpoint, doctors and other food authorities advise including more fish in weekly menu plans. They point out that fish, which cost substantially less than other sources of animal protein, is also a good source for essential vitamins and minerals yet has practically non-existent fat and cholesterol.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this not for myself, but for a friend. "Miss X" is a beautiful, intelligent 22-year-old girl who had an unfortunate romance when she was 16. This resulted in a hurry up marriage and a baby. She was divorced at 17.

She met and fell in love with David, a fine young man who knows about her past, but loves her and her child and wants to marry her. David was raised a Catholic, but he isn't devout. (However, his parents, for whom he has much love and respect, are strict Catholics.)

David is taking Miss X to meet his parents (they live out of town) before they announce their engagement. Naturally Miss X wants David's parents to like her, and I'm sure they will, after they get to know her because she is such a terrific girl, but don't you think since they're so Catholic, if they knew the real facts right off the bat that she's a divorcee with a 6-year-old child, they might be prejudiced against her?

Wouldn't it be better if David's parents met her and had a chance to know her and like her, and then they were told about her child and divorce?

MISS X'S BEST FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: It strikes me as rather strange that a young man who "loves and respects" his parents would suddenly appear with a fiancee on his arm without having mentioned to them that he had marriage in mind, plus a few vital facts about the girl. But since that's the case, I think Miss X and David should tell them right off the bat that she's a divorcee with a child. To deliberately withhold these facts until after they get to "know her better" would be dishonest, and would surely cause resentment when finally disclosed.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a brother-in-law, age 67, who makes improper advances to my 88-year-old mother. This started a few years ago. He is so sly, he makes sure he isn't seen by his wife (my sister), but I have caught him at it and so has the housekeeper. He obviously needs help! But how? And who?

I can't visualize this man going to a psychiatrist. Why he doesn't even go to church! Do you think I should speak to him? He isn't really what anyone can call "mentally unbalanced" — except in this one area of behavior. When he is around Mama we have to watch him every moment. Thank you for any help you can offer.

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Yes, speak to him about it. (He is probably becoming senile, so talk to him as if you were speaking to a "naughty boy.") And for goodness sakes, don't ever leave your poor mother alone with him. (P. S. It wouldn't hurt to ask your family doctor for his opinion.)

DEAR ABBY: This is in regard to "MOTHER," who was worried about her son seeming to want punishment.

I am only 15, but I have heard many friends say they thought their parents didn't really love them or care about them because they were rarely punished.

I believe that most kids NEED to be punished when they do wrong. It may be hard for parents to understand, especially when the child puts up a fight, but after the tears are gone and all is forgiven, the kids will have a much more secure feeling because they know their parents care enough about them to keep them on the right path. PUNISHMENT NECESSARY

DEAR PUNISHMENT: You may be "only 15" — but you are very wise.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Horoscope Forecast

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Be careful you do not alienate anyone of importance who can be helpful to you during the early part of the day. Avoid any sudden actions that could throw anyone else off base. However, the afternoon and evening are fine for joining forces with important men and coming to a new understanding with others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Morning could be rather difficult with an annoyed associate, but later all smoothes out very nicely. Do little talking in the morning. Later, you find you can express yourself well. Be happy in the evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be careful that you do not irritate a co-worker this morning or vice versa. Keep on an even keel. Keep busy at details connected with your own work and all is fine. Show devotion to mate and kin in the evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Steer clear of an argument with a loved one this morning and get busy at work on hand. The evening can then be a happy one with friends. Buy a nice gift for mate. Don't forget to pay that important bill.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't argue over any minor matter at home this morning. Keep busy at constructive matters. Plan a happy evening with friends at home. Ease tensions and have a very good time. Be cheerful.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't take up any fast plans in the morning but think them over carefully, then take friends out to lunch and discuss pertinent matters. Get creative skills working in the evening. Show that you are a clever person.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't commit yourself to anything in the morning without plenty of thought, study. In the afternoon you can see how to make needed changes. Listen to business expert's advice regarding finances.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) Showing others you have patience this morning is wise and then balancing everything before putting in appearance is the best way to proceed. Some delays in the morning will gain you personal aims. Be sociable tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A hunch this morning is not accurate so don't follow it, but solve problem in the afternoon by using a different tactic. Daytime is good for some investigation of whatever you do not understand. Drive carefully.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Your morning could be spoiled by the antics of a friend who is not thinking straight, but after lunch everything changes for the better. Use those clever ideas for social finesse. Be happy tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take care in handling duties in business this morning. Later, you can talk over aims with a powerful individual. Don't go off on any tangents early in the day; later, everything is fine. Be ambitious.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb. 19) You have to try a new approach if you want to gain your best aims and the afternoon is the best time to put in operation. Talk over aims with new partners and then study their ideas in the evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Some responsibility is annoying today whether of a personal or business nature or connected with government, but by the evening you know how to solve everything satisfactorily. Don't argue with a loved one early. By evening all is fine.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will be one of those charming young people who will be unpredictable and difficult to cope with. Later, your child benefits greatly from early experiences and becomes a very stable and solid citizen. This child will do well in whatever career deals with the public directly — selling, politics, theater, etc. There is ability at fine detail here, and touch that is very basic.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is known only to YOU!!

Jacoby On Bridge

Jacoby and Son

We aren't going to get into an argument with anyone about the merit or lack of merit in North's bidding. If you want to pass this type of hand we won't argue nor will we criticize this sort of opening bid. As for the second round five hearts, North had started and didn't want to stop. At least it had the merit of success. Had he passed, West would have made his five clubs.

If West had been playing with see-through cards he would have opened a diamond and South would have been automatically down one. However, he put the king of clubs on the table.

South ruffed, led a trump to his hand and a spade to dummy's king. At this point dummy's king. At this point

East made the brilliant play of ducking.

South had played rapidly so far. The next plays were very slow but nothing could do him any good. He was doomed to defeat.

"Nice bidding partner" said South. "They were cold for five clubs."

"Thank you, partner" replied North. It's too bad you didn't give them the full treatment and make your contract."

South should have led dummy's king of spades at trick two while still keeping three trumps in dummy. All those three trumps would have been entries and if East locked South would simply lead a second spade and there would be no way to keep him from setting up the last two spades for discards of his two diamonds. As a matter of fact, this time the duck would have given him an overtrick

Worry Clinic

By Dr. Crane

By GEORGE W. CRANE, M.D.

CASE N-545: David, aged 28, is our youngest snc.

He is both a psychiatrist (M.D.) as well as a lawyer (J.D.) and spent a year as roving psychiatrist in Vietnam.

On May 7 he was in Dallas, Texas, to attend a Law Convention.

About 9 a.m. he was crossing the campus at Southern Methodist University, when he noticed a large gathering of anti-war protesters.

"Dad," he told me later, "I drifted into the crowd to hear what was going on.

"A professor up front was delivering a typical anti-war talk and accusing our soldiers of deliberate cruelty to innocent Vietnamese women and children.

"After 30 minutes of his opinionated spiel, I interrupted the professor and asked him to cite the specific sources for his charges.

"For I told him that he was merely mouthing opinions, without giving any evidence or factual data.

"For a while there, he was taken aback so he stuttered into silence.

"At that moment, one of the a question at me; then another a question at me; then another did likewise.

"And before I knew what had happened, the professor had neatly slipped away, leaving me up front.

"Dad, I stood there from 9:30 in the morning till 1 p.m., answering the questions from members of the audience.

"And the students were very attentive, often applauding what I said.

"They apparently thought I was some sort of expert, but they were very friendly.

"One bearded hippie in the crowd said he wanted to run for Lieutenant Governor of Texas, but would need $6,000 for a filing fee.

"So he attacked the 'establishment' for thus making it impossible to enter politics, for he rhetorically asked where could he get any money.

"To which I replied he might start by at least taking a job and earning an honest dollar.

"Much to my surprise, the crowd applauded my answer!

"Another student charged Americans with atrocities via napalm and said we wantonly were killing thousands of babies and children thereby.

"By this time, I had to bring in some of my scientific qualifications, so I mentioned that I had been a roving psychiatrist in South Vietnam.

"Then I told them that I had personally never seen a child who had been burned by napalm in all my 12 months there.

"Nor had any other doctor reported seeing such a burned child, though I roamed freely and covered a dozen of our medical centers.

"So I asked the 200 students if they realized who was starting such wild charges of malicious mendacity harmless.

"Again, the students applauded; Indeed, they even booed some of their own crowd four or five times during that 1½ hour session I spent with them.

"A graduate student then pompously charged Indiana police with unwarranted cruelty at Bloomington, Indiana, where he said he was from.

"Then I knocked the wind out of the anti-war sails by saying I was also from Bloomington, having headed the Mental Health Clinic there.

"So I explained that the police did NOT engage in any brutality and arrested only those students who were obviously violating the law.

"They also brought up the Kent University fracas, so I asked who started the melee — the students or the Ohio State Militia?

"As a lawyer, I also warned them that when you are threatened with bodily harm, you are entitled to defend yourself in any way you deem fit!"

TV Time Previews

Wednesday, June 10, 1970

7:30-9 NBC The Virginian (Rerun) Summer repeats can be very confusing and this series seems to be deliberately doing just that. In this 1964 oldie, Clu Gulager was introduced as Ryker. Seems the quick draw artist is offered a contract to murder a rancher, which he turns down. But when the job is done, he becomes still around when this was first suspect No. 1. Lee J. Cobb was released.

8:30-9 ABC Room 222 "Fathers and Sons" (Rerun) There's some good humor and some bitter moments in this episode bared on the generation gap. Pet Dixon finds himself in no man's land when a rift spreads between a father and his son. The father believes that Pete's teachings are inciting the young man to acts, such as demonstrations. He wants it stopped and Pete removed. The solution to any gap is a bridge, and Pete must provide it.

8:30-9 CBS You're In Love, Charlie Brown (Rerun) While reruns in TV are generally a curse, there are a few exceptions where they are a blessing. One is the Charlie Brown series of specials and this one particularly. Charlie Brown is totally bedazzled by a little redhead, and like anyone in love, puppy or otherwise, all manner of problems have to be solved. Poor old Charlie isn't too good at problem solving, as any of his baseball players will tell you. So, as in real life, the little lady eventually sets things in order.

9-10 CBS Medical Center (Rerun) France Nuyen was fortunate in getting this very sensitive role to display her considerable acting abilities, and she handles it beautifully. She is a wounded Vietnamese teenager and the subject of a test. There has been a proposal to transport injured Vietnamese to the United States for treatment. The doctors soon discover that her wounds are far more psychological than physical. She understands she will be returned to her country, when she is cured, and she would rather die. The strength of her depression threatens to literally kill her.

9-10 NBC The Kraft Music Hall "The Des O'Connor Show" Carol Lawrence journeyed to England to appear here and provide the show with its feature, a singing and dancing production of "What Are You Doing the Rest of Your Life?"

She also teams with the Scott for "I'll Never Forgive Myself." Bob Denver is another feature, comically out of place in the British setting. Another British star relatively unknown in America, singing comedian Val Doonican, does a medley with O'Connor and soloing "Agricultural Irish Girl."

10-11 NBC Then Came Bronson "Old Tigers Never Die" Guest star Gale Dell ably portrays the frustrations of advancing age, where the passions are involved. He's a middle-aged bike rider who thinks his wife is being stolen by the younger Bronson. He decides beating Bronson in a bike race will prove himself to his spouse. Bronson also goes into a character named Iron Eyes Cody, a retired linotypist who wants to put his old machine to rest. A real burial, that is.

Polly's Pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY—I am answering Mrs. B. N. who wanted to make the cord to her electric kitchen clock less conspicuous. I would suggest that the clock be hung above an outlet, cut a hole in the wall and "fish" the cord through to the outlet opening below. Either connect the wires directly to the receptacle (back side) or bring the cord through the wall and plug in. Turn the electricity off while you work.

Another method would be to have an electrician place an outlet directly behind the clock. Shorten the cord so it does not drape down and you are in business.—ROBERT

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. B. N. could paint the conspicuous cord on her electric kitchen clock the same color as the wall.—LaVERNE

Patti's Problem

DEAR POLLY—We use a lot of toothbrushes at our house so I buy them on sale when possible. I can never find "soft" and often not even "medium" ones and my children complain about the "hard" ones. I wonder if there is a way to soften them before they are used.—LILY

DEAR POLLY—I would be nice if thoughtful friends who send notes and cards of sympathy would be sure to add their addresses as the task of sending cards or appreciation would be made easier for the family.—SON

DEAR READERS — When writing such notes be sure to add your last name as the family may have two or three friends named Helen or John. —POLLY

DEAR POLLY—A friend of mine has two small boys and a bowl of gold fish. To avoid confusion she has a small piece of cardboard placed next to the bowl. One side says "Ped" and the other says "Not Fed." Every day after one of the boys feeds the fish he turns the card over. I have always heard that fish may die from being overfed. This not only prevents overfeeding but also arguments about whether or not the fish have been fed.—HELISSA

Prober In Students' Deaths Opines:

No Evidence Of Snipers At Kent, Jackson

By MARK BROWN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The [illegible] the government's probe of student deaths on the Kent State and Jackson State campuses says there is "insufficient evidence" to support officials' claims of sniper fire.

"We have at this time insufficient evidence to establish the presence of a sniper," Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard said of the May 15 deaths of two black youths in a fusillade of police bullets at Jackson State College in Mississippi.

His statement directly contradicts the report released last Thursday by Mississippi Gov. John Bell Williams that said an investigation showed state troopers were shot at by a sniper before opening fire on a group of students outside a women's dormitory on the predominently black campus.

Leonard is head of the Justice Department's civil rights division and leader of a federal investigation into the Tate shootings by law enforcement authorities of the two youths at Jackson State, four students at Kent State University in Ohio and six men in Augusta, Ga.

In an interview Leonard was asked whether his statement could also be applied to the deaths at Kent State. Four Ohio National Guardsmen said they had been fired upon by a sniper before shooting into a crowd of students demonstrating against U.S. military involvement in Cambodia.

"Yes, there is insufficient evidence at Kent," Leonard replied.

The civil rights chief refused to comment on whether the problem, in the case of Kent State more than a month along, had identified the officers or guardsmen who fired the fatal shots.

But he acknowledged, in the case of Jackson State, that "procedural problems" had hindered the investigation by FBI agents and Justice Department lawyers.

"The state patrol has not provided us with the weapons, nor have members of the state patrol been offered for interrogation," he said.

Leonard implied the refusal of Mississippi officials to cooperate with the investigation will necessitate calling a federal grand jury to subpoena evidence.

Fewer difficulties are being experienced in the Kent State investigation, Leonard said although there are "unanswered factual and legal questions." He did not elaborate.

Leonard's statements came just a few hours before release of a Justice Department report from which a consideration of police firepower during demonstrations had been deleted.

Intended to provide guidance for law enforcement agencies faced with large groups of demonstrators, the original version as shown in advance to newsmen said:

"It must be recognized that use of firearms is inconsistent with the government's objective of protecting the lives of its innocent citizens."

Cheddar Cheese Loaves

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Cheddar Cheese Loaves are great to bake. We served them at a buffet supper and our guests gobbled them up.

The following recipe makes two loaves, but you may double the recipe if you like.

One warning. Be absolutely sure you seal the dough well before it is baked. If your sealing isn't perfect, some of the cheese filling will come out.

And be sure you serve the loaves warm or reheat them so the cheese filling sticks to the dough. If the loaves are cold, the cheese filling is likely to fall out when you cut the bread.

CHEDDAR CHEESE LOAVES

2½ to 2¾ cups unsifted flour
1 package instant-blend dry yeast
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup warm (120 to 130 degrees tap water
1 tablespoon shortening
¾ pound cheddar cheese, coarsely grated
1 tablespoon butter, soft
½ teaspoon coarsely ground pepper

Into large electric mixer bowl turn 1 cup of the flour, the yeast, sugar and salt; stir well. Add water and shortening. Beat at low speed for 30 seconds, scraping bowl. At high speed, beat 3 more minutes.

Stir in enough more flour to form a soft dough; knead until smooth—5 to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl; turn to grease top. Cover. Let rise in a warm place until doubled—30 to 45 minutes; dent is left when finger is pressed deep into side of dough.

Meanwhile stir together the cheese, butter and pepper. Grease a jelly-roll pan (15 by 10 by 1 inch).

Punch down dough. Let rest for 15 minutes. Divide dough in half. Working with one-half of dough at a time, pat into an oval that is 12 inches long and 8 inches wide in the middle. Spread one-half of the cheese mixture in a strip down the middle. Wet edges of dough with water; bring together at top and press firmly to seal. Leave as is or turn sealed edge to bottom, keeping ends pointed.

Place the two loaves about 2 inches apart on the jelly-roll pan. Let rise as previously until almost doubled—about 30 minutes; dent is left when finger is pressed gently on side of dough.

Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven for 25 to 35 minutes.

Remove from pan to wire rack. Serve warm or reheat.

Makes two ¾-pound loaves. Recipe may be doubled.

COMPANY BUFFET

This fruit-flavored dressing is one of the best of its kind.

Baked Ham — Potato Puffs
Tossed Green Salad with Orange Sections and Orange Dressing
Rolls — Homemade Mustard

ORANGE DRESSING

1 can (6 oz) frozen concentrated orange juice, undiluted
¾ cup salad oil
¼ cup cider vinegar
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon tobasco sauce

Shake or beat together all the ingredients; or mix in electric blender. Cover and store in refrigerator. Shake well before using. Makes between 1¾ and 2 cups.

PORCH SUPPER

Pimientos enhance a main course supper platter.

Cold Sliced Ham with Deviled Eggs, Romaine and Marinated Pimientos
Garlic Bread
Fresh Strawberry Cobbler
Beverage

Marinated Pimientos

2 tablespoons red wine vinegar
2 tablespoons salad oil
¾ teaspoon salt
1-16th teaspoon coarsely ground black pepper
1 medium garlic clove, peeled and cut in half
1 jar (4 oz) pimientos, drained

In a small bowl, with a fork, mix together the vinegar, oil, salt and pepper; add garlic. Add pimientos in whole pieces and let to marinate (cover) for 6 hours or more. Drain and use pimientos to make a main-course platter with cold sliced ham, deviled eggs and romaine.

When you want to puree avocado for a spread or dip, or for some other use, the electric blender will do the job well. Peel the avocado and cut it into chunks before blending at high speed.

Use Wine For Flair In Cooking

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer

Joe Sicari carries a pair of track shoes in his briefcase to keep in shape so he can eat those Sicilian dishes he loves to cook.

Sicari became interested in cookery at an early age. He used to sit in the kitchen and stare in fascination as his Sicilian-born mother recreated the culinary masterpieces of her homeland.

"About all I did was peel the potatoes," Joe recalled." But I learned a lot about cooking just watching her. For one thing I found out that the proper use of spices makes a big difference in how a dish turns out. Imaginative seasoning can turn a snack into a symphony."

Italian cuisine has a proud and ancient heritage and even has plaudits from the gourmets of France who usually give ground to no one in the art of gastronomy. In fact, the bible of the French kitchen, Larousse Gastronomique, coincedes that "Italian cooking can be considered, for all the countries of Latin Europe, as a veritable mother cuisine."

Italian cookery really began on the Isle of Sicily where more than 2,000 years ago, the natives learned the glories of Greek cooking from their Hellenic conquerors.

The islanders elaborated on their findings, adding a touch of Arab spice, some seasonings from Africa and a good many innovations from Rome.

Sicari likes to experiment with established recipies, "adding a dash of this and a dollop of that but never following the original exactly."

The results have been so successful that a couple of restaurants in town now use his recipes and feature them on the menu.

His specialties are pastas, salads and chicken dishes, "but he steer, clear of the legendary can-soli, those pastries with creamed cheese, candied fruits and chocolate. Even his daily two-mile run can't cope with that many calories.

"You don't have to spend a lot of money on food or buy expensive kitchen utensils to be a gourmet cook," says Sicari, "All you need is a sense of taste and a little imagination.

"And you don't have to drown everything in rich sauces. Cooks who do that are often trying to cover up their mistakes."

The following versions of cauliflower and chicken cacciatore are creations Sicari imparted to a Brooklyn restaurant owner 15 years ago, which to this day still are house specialties.

DITALINI WITH CAULIFLOWER

1 lb. ditalini (macaroni)
2 heads cauliflower
8 tablespoons olive oil
½ lb. salted butter
salt and pepper to taste
2 ounces freshly grated parmesan cheese

Place ditalini in boiling water and cook until done—about a half hour. While ditalini is cooking, prepare cauliflower, removing green leaves and breaking into flowerettes. Place in cold salted water and bring to boil. When almost done (should be slightly resistant) drain cauliflower. Put cauliflower in a large frying pan in which olive oil and butter have been sautéed.

Chop and turn cauliflower with spatula till evenly browned. Drain ditalini setting aside some of cooking water and return to pot. Add cauliflower, oil and butter to pot, stirring about three minutes over low flame. If it seems too dry add some of the pot water. Add salt and pepper to taste and serve with grated parmesan cheese on top. Serves four.

CHICKEN CACCIATORE

4 tablespoons olive oil
2 ounces butter, salted
2 pound frying chicken cut into small pieces
1 pound carrots, grated
4 medium green peppers, sliced
1 shallot

Heat olive oil and butter in heavy iron frying pan and brown chicken about 30 minutes. Remove chicken from pan, leaving any pieces sticking to sides. Add carrots, peppers and shallot to pan and saute over medium fire till everything is limp. Return chicken to pan, basting with melted butter and oil for another half hour. When carrots and peppers are brown and meat is tender remove and serve with the cauliflower and ditalini. Serves four.

Serve with a cold Sancerre or Rhine wine.

Spices And Herbs Spell Success Of Marinade

There are tricks to all trades. A good cook through experience and experimentation comes up with personal touches but often neglects to pass them on.

For example, successful marinades need the right oil and acid balance, plus proper spicing to enhance the food they bathe. Whole or ground spices and herbs are suitable. But, if whole spices are used, heat them briefly to release their flavor. Ground spices may be used best in cold marinades—ones that don't need or shouldn't be heated before use.

The item to marinate dictates spice selection. For example, beef or lamb call for hearty spices—black pepper, bay leaf, thyme, cloves, caraway seed. Chicken or turkey marry well with ginger, rosemary or tarragon and pepper. Select aromatic seeds such as dill, celery or fennel for your seafood marinades.

And don't forget the vegetables—cooked green beans, potatoes for salad, cucumbers, celeriac. Basil, marjoram, tarragon and parsley flakes are particularly good herbs for these.

Incidentally, a small amount of marinade goes a long way if you fit the meat into the smallest bowl possible. This raises the level of the marinade higher than the meat. Thin strips of meat need less time in a marinade than compact cuts. For example, kebabs need only an hour or two while an 8-pound roast needs at least 24 hours. When marinating a large piece of meat a day or longer, reduce by a third or a half the amount of vinegar ordinarily used since the taste of vinegar tends to build up.

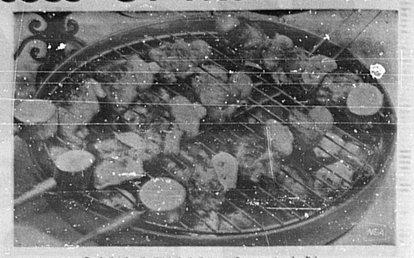
GARLICKY SHISH KEBABS

1½ pounds lean boneless lamb shoulder or leg
1 teaspoon garlic salt
½ teaspoon powdered mustard
¼ teaspoon chili powder
½ teaspoon ground black pepper
¼ cup cider vinegar
2 tablespoons catsup
2 tablespoons salad oil
2 zucchini squash, cut into 1-inch slices
3 canned artichoke hearts, halved
6 medium mushrooms
6 cherry tomatoes

Trim of excess fat and cut lamb into 1½-inch cubes. Combine spices, vinegar, catsup and oil. Pour over lamb. Cover. Marinate 4 to 8 hours, turning 3 to 4 times, in the refrigerator. String meat and vegetables, alternately on skewers. Brush with marinade. Broil, turning to cook uniformly on all sides, brushing with marinade frequently, 25 to 30 minutes or until done as desired. Makes 6 portions



Garlicky lamb shish kabob is perfect marinade dish.

Man-Made Lake Claims South Carolina Youth

By TOM ALEXANDER

An afternoon of fun, became an afternoon of sudden tragedy yesterday at a man-made lake just west of Sanford off SR 46.

Howard R. Pickett, a visiting South Carolina youth and a number of friends went swimming at what is known as the "dug-out", a clay pit created during construction work on Interstate Four. The pit has become a mecca of swimming enjoyment for numerous youths from throughout the Sanford area.

Pickett, 18, was swimming across the "dug-out" with six other people. According to witnesses at the scene, about three-quarters of the way across the 10 to 15 foot deep pit, Pickett disappeared.

Sheriff's investigators stated that the group swimming with Pickett apparently did not notice his disappearance until they reached the other bank. Three youths plunged in the water and brought the youth to shore.

All efforts to revive Pickett failed and the youngster was pronounced dead by Justice of the Peace Robert Carroll. The body was removed to Seminole Memorial Hospital by Herndon Ambulance Service.

The incident occured around 3 p.m.

AROUND THE CLOCK

By JOHN A. SPOLSKI

As might have been expected, yesterday's Senate roll call on the 22-14 vote to override the governor's veto went along party lines with Democrat Bill Gunter voting 'For' and Republicans 'Against' were John Ducker and Ken Plante.

About the governor 'complaining that those nasty capitol press corps TV newsmen for not showing up to cover his safety conference . . . . "him it a shame!"

• • •

After being the butt of Kirk's constant remarks at practically all of his public outings . . . it does get a little thin; but the press has taken it all along.

However, the real reason why the 'guv' got mad was that the TV people were covering two news conferences of two legislators, Rep. Ralph Turlington and Sen. Lawton Chiles.

We like the quote attributed to Bill Lee, veteran newsman who represents stations in Pensacola, Orlando, Tampa and West Palm Beach: "My stations have got thousands of feet of him saying absolutely nothing."

Contractor OKs Construction

Douglas Av. Paving Resolved

By MARION BETHEA

The continuing hassle over the paving of Douglas Avenue has finally found resolution as a result of action taken by the Board of Seminole County Commissioners.

County Engineer William Bush was authorized to advise the contractor involved in the road paving that the county declined a proposal to bear the costs of the road, and the contractor arranged to proceed with the road construction on the section of Douglas Avenue.

Controversy arose from the fact that the county paved a section of road from I-4 to the Dynatronics Plant. However, Commission Chairman John Alexander pointed out that this road carried 2,000 cars, and that when the industry came to this area, the county was apprised of the necessity of moving the vehicular traffic. For a time it was necessary to have a road grader get vehicles to the plant.

Commissioner Greg Drummond stated that he was opposed to the county paving any road for a developer. Alexander agreed that he did not see where the county should get involved and that it would be setting a dangerous precedent for "anyone owning two lots." Drummond continued that "we should be consistent . . . any developer should meet their responsibilities by paving the roads they create." Alexander reminded the commissioner that this was supposedly resolved in action taken by the board in January when it was decided that developers would pave from their roads to the nearest paved road.

The discussion of the Osceola Airfield property for use by the county as a central sanitary landfill site relative to a report by Mrs. Margaret Cammack was continued until June 16. Mrs. Cammack had advised the board that she was not in a position to report at the scheduled date upon a prospective buyer for the site or alternate locations. It was stated that there was no bona fide reason to delay the selection for Osceola.

County Sanitarian Val Robbins and County Road Superintendent J. C. Lavender have gone to Jacksonville to receive the criteria for approval of the site from the State Division of Health. Test borings, they stated, will be made at the site, which in their opinion offers no problem at this time. However, a letter was read from Alexander from property owners on the St. John's River objecting to the site as causing pollution to the area.

Robbins stated that any pollution could be controlled; that with a preliminary review of the water table, soil conditions and topography the state indicated the county could operate the site. Robbins continued that there would be no garbage below the water level table.

OUTING COMES TO TRAGIC END

Red Bug Road Annex Pondered

County Commissioners were advised by County Attorney Harold Johnson that the City of Casselberry is interested in meeting with the commission to attempt a resolution of the problem of annexation of Red Bug Road. The city has contended that it did not annex a portion of the road, but property on both sides.

Johnson elucidated that the problem was primarily one of jurisdiction over the road and was a matter of practicality.

Johnson was authorized by the board to talk with Kenneth Mebins gave a report upon the Tanglewood Sewage Treatment Plant. A letter had been received from the state sanitary engineer to Maitland Utilities Corporation advising that apparently the plan was making alteration to its system, was not applying secondary treatment and was only using primary treatment during the interim of modifications without the approval of the State Board of Health.

The plant has been advised that they are in violation by the state Division of Health and that there must be secondary treatment or the plant will be turned over to the state Water and Air Pollution Control Agency for prosecution.

Public hearings upon rezoning property from A-1 to C-2 on two parcels of land by Florida Land and Colonization Company's Celery Plantation were continued until June 16.

Radio Alarm Systems Opened

FOREST CITY-BEAR LAKE —Board of Fire Commissioners met recently and further discussed the radio alarm system, which was indefinitely deferred because of the necessity of there being 24 hour coverage at the department. Also cited was the necessity of having every person provided with radio equipment and the prospect of paying the Winter Park Telephone Company a substantial portion of an $815 termination fee.

Chief Eugene MacGeen reported that no work had been done in preparing advertising material which the Florida Power Corporation had agreed to include with its mailing.

The budget for 1970-71 was discussed, and it was voted to submit to the County Budget Authority a 1970 plan calling for the use of $44,459.

It was noted that Forest City-Bear Lake has in excess of $46,000,000 valuation, and covers an area of 26 square miles. In the past two years the average cost per call has been $148. The greater demands upon the department has reduced the current average to $109 per call. This compares with Lake Margaret Fire District at an average of $118 per call and Altamonte Springs at $216 per call.

Invoices were approved in the amount of $733.47.

The commissioners voted to make improvements in the following areas; organization, leadership, recruitment, discipline and morale, training, delegation of responsibility and authority and public awareness of the department and its work.

Alarm Scares Off Thieves

A burglar alarm saved Stubbs Pharmacy in Forest City extensive vandalism early this morning, according to sheriff's deputies.

The alarm sounded around 4:45 p.m. and upon arrival at the scene Deputy George Meyers saw a car leaving the area at a high speed. Meyers pursued the car but failed in his attempt to capture the suspects.

Following an investigation by Meyers, he reported that the vandals achieved entry into the building by entering a restroom window, but apparently when the would-be thieves opened the restroom door to gain entry into the merchandise section the burglar alarm sounded.

The sheriff's department is continuing its investigation into the breaking and entering.

Stadium Seat Bid Deferred

The County School Board was to open bids for construction of seating facilities at the Lyman stadium at 3 p.m. today.

Bids for 2,000 seats along with the construction of restroom facilities will be included in the bids. The bidder approved will start construction immediately on the seating with hopes that the stadium will be fully complete before football season in mid-September.

The regular School Board meeting is scheduled at 7 p.m. At that time the board will discuss and perhaps approve a lease agreement with the city of Sanford, for the Sanford Municipal Stadium.

The board is seeking to lease the stadium to provide a football playing facility for Seminole and Crooms High Schools.

A resolution honoring retiring teachers is also expected to be drafted by the board and following this item the board will consider personnel recommendations.

Benefits Listed At $676,000

Social Security benefits paid to residents of Seminole County totaled $676,000 a month as 1969 ended, Peter Ridosh, Social Security district manager, reported today.

A benefit increase, signed into law by President Nixon on Dec. 30, 1969, has since raised the monthly rate of payment by 15 per cent for the 8,317 social security beneficiaries in Seminole County, Ridosh noted.

Of the social security beneficiaries living in Seminole County, 5,381 are retired workers and their dependents. Another 2,597 are receiving benefits as the survivors of workers who have died, and 1,023 are getting benefits as disabled workers or the dependents of disabled workers.

Ridosh pointed out that although the majority of social security beneficiaries are older people, about one out of every four is under age 60.

In the State of Florida, 291,173 people under age 60 are collecting social security payments each month. The 112,250 who are under 18 are receiving payments because a working father or mother has died or is getting social security disability or retirement benefits.

Of the 17,742 who are 18 through 21 years of age, most are getting students' benefits under a provision which permits the continuation of a child's benefits past his or her 18th birthday and up to age 22 if he or she is attending school full time.

But in this 18 to 22 age group, Ridosh said, are some other types of beneficiaries, illustrating the broad family protection that is provided working people of all ages under the social security program.

A number are the children of retired, disabled, or deceased workers who became disabled before they reached 18 and who will probably never be able to go to work and become self supporting. The benefits of these young people, severely handicapped by physical or mental disabilities, will continue indefinitely and benefits are also payable to their mother if the disabled son or daughter is in the mother's care.
