

Sanford Cagers Are Favored Over New Smyrna Tonight

Fed Junior Varsity And Varsity Seek 3rd Consecutive Twin Bill Victory

By KENT CIETLANI
With the growing eminence of Seminole High School's cage machine there appears a discernible groundswell of interest in the game, the likes of which has not been observed here since the early 1930's. Climaxing this revitalized attitude toward the indoor struggle of backboards and nets will be tonight's twin bill clash between the East Florida Conference's leading Celery Feds and the New Smyrna Beach Barracudas at the hilltop gymnasium in the 6115 auditorium beginning at 7:00 p. m.

This evening's twin bill will be inaugurated by the high flying Fed Junior Varsity clash with the Deland JV to be followed by the important varsity encounter which will find John Scott's charges out to extend their two straight winning streak to three straight.

The Bill Fleming-Fred Gagned JV Feds, holding a three-game victory streak already, will be trying to stretch that one to four.

Conservative estimates place tonight's crowd at 400 but as Coach Gagned remarked, "When Sanford defeated Deland the other night it was the first time in so long that I can't remember when it last happened, so anything might happen and the auditorium might be packed."

The stringent fundamental reforms instituted by Coach Brooks appear to be finally paying the long hoped for dividends on the court as the Feds' victories over Palatka and Deland attest, which converted a losing 0-3 team into a quiet deadlocked tie for EFC case leadership with the perennially great Seabreeze Sand Crews.

While all appears to be rosy, including Coach Scott's recent reports on the development of his charges, all isn't running as smooth as it might seem at first glance.

In the first place, Sanford's star scorer, Gordon Clark, is nursing a severely sprained ankle that kept him and his mighty 11 average points per game out of the Deland clash last Tuesday night.

And secondly, a confused news source misconstructed one of Scott's comments about the promising rookie Clark, a headline which was transferred from Frankfort, Ky. It seems this outside source misconstrued a remark by Scott and which caused much unnecessary confusion after last night's practice.

Scott had been supposedly quoted as expressing his disappointment at Clark's not showing up at the Deland game. This was swiftly denied by the genial mentor.

"Actually, what I did say was that I was disappointed because Clark couldn't play which I was," Scott explained. "Clark has been a hero this year and his scoring record proves that. You will remember he scored 21 points off Edwards, and I don't know whether very many other players have done this or that year."

Vividly irritated over the result of the misunderstanding, he went on, "I never criticized Clark for not playing. I was disappointed he couldn't play. Besides, if and when I criticize a player, such as I have had to do with all the kids this year, I do it to him and in his face. I don't believe in publicly reprimanding any player."

Referring again to Clark, Scott added, "My opinion of the lad is the same as it was at the beginning of the season. He is a natural shot and needs work on certain fundamentals, like most of my boys. As far as the misunderstanding about my criticism of Clark, I don't know who said I was disappointed he didn't play. I know at the time he had been sent home to soak his ankle for the evening, a precaution I decided to get him back in the line up."

Scott held an outside hope that Clark's ankle would be fit for this evening's clash, but he said that nothing foreshadowed putting him back in the line up too soon would be attempted if he wasn't completely ready.

Turning to the more pleasant aspect of the team he continued, "The boys are responding to the hard work in practices and that's why Bubba Blythe has been a forward berth until he proves he can't handle it. Blythe hit for 11 points against the towering Bulldogs in Deland, the most points he has ever made in a basketball game. Jimmy Krier, Frank Stafford and Junior Metta drew warm praise for their performance in Deland, but Scott, ever cautious, said they still have a long road ahead of them and many basketball fundamentals have still to be learned.

He appropriately concluded his interview by saying, "Let's hope we win tonight and we must win it."

FSL Officials To Meet In Crescent City On Jan. 25

With three cities on his neck clamoring for a place in the Class D Florida State League, League President John Krieger today called a meeting of the FSL officials at Hupp's Cafe in Crescent City for the purpose of "clearing the air."

Melbourne, Oakland, and Gainesville, he said, "would like to be in our league this summer. I would like to see St. Augustine or Ocala to be in our league. I would like to see St. Augustine or Ocala to be in our league. I would like to see St. Augustine or Ocala to be in our league."

"So," he concluded, "I am calling our directors together and will ask them to come to a final decision as far as 1953 is concerned. I expect representatives from the three cities mentioned, and would like very much to see St. Augustine and Ocala's representatives. We will give them every consideration and assistance if it will mean we can solve our problem."

While the president's office was having its usual early winter problems, at least three of the eight had chosen managers and were going about the business of living up to them.

The league was managed by the veteran catcher Don Fori; Daytona Beach will turn the reins over to Ed Levy, former Sanford and Orlando pitcher, while Jacksonville Beach will give Red Treadwell a second crack at molding a pennant contender.

Mississippi Grid Victory Is Voted 'Upset Of 1952'

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Mississippi's smashing football victory over Maryland, one that Coach Johnny Vaught attributed to the boys "who really wanted to win," was voted very many other players have done this or that year.

Vividly irritated over the result of the misunderstanding, he went on, "I never criticized Clark for not playing. I was disappointed he couldn't play. Besides, if and when I criticize a player, such as I have had to do with all the kids this year, I do it to him and in his face. I don't believe in publicly reprimanding any player."

Tennis Clinic For Local Fans Opens At Mayfair Inn Tomorrow

Tennis enthusiasts of all ages, an accelerated program designed to teach tennis fundamentals in two easy lessons, the lean good news of Saturday morning two-hour clinics to begin tomorrow at 10:00 a. m. at the Mayfair Inn courts on East First Street under the expert tutelage of Bill Sweeney, illustrious New England professional.

"I am only charging a very small fee for these two-hour sessions," Sweeney stated. "The best job we professionals are faced with is to promote interest in tennis and we realize this must be accomplished by teaching young children at a cost within their reach. This is precisely what my Saturday morning clinics are intended to do for these two-hour sessions."

Sweeney, who is the Mayfair Inn's winter time pro, also stressed the fact that he would welcome adults at these classes. "That there are many adults who like to play but never develop an interest because they haven't mastered the fundamentals," he added. Sweeney, a tall lanky dark-haired man in a flat cap, is a firm believer in the basic theory that the work of tennis professionals is to teach the game rather than to play it. He is a member of the Professional Lawn and Tennis Association of America and several other regional tennis associations, was one of the most prominent young Eastern pros prior to World War II but an untimely severe injury in England almost ended his career.

Sweeney ended by saying, "Be sure and emphasize the fact that this clinic is designed for local children and adults. Remember, there is only one way to learn tennis which is the right way."

Spivey Stands Trial For Perjury Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Testimony in the perjury trial of basketball star William Spivey starts today, but without a key prosecution witness who has been charged with contempt.

A jury of eight men and four women, selected yesterday, will decide whether the former University of Kentucky player lied when he told a grand jury he did not discuss point-fixing of games before or during the 1950-1951 season.

The prosecution contends 23-year-old Spivey consulted alleged gambler Jack West and teammates Jim Line and Walter Hirsch about point-fixing in games against St. Louis University, De Paul University and Notre Dame and was paid $1,000 for scores - fixing of those games.

Instead of just wastering on who will win, gamblers usually make bets on how many points will separate the two teams at the end of a game.

West already serving two to three years in Auburn state prison for bribing basketball players, was brought here this week to testify against Spivey.

West balked at testifying before a grand jury or at the trial. Yesterday Special Sessions Judge Louis J. Capozzi issued papers charging West with criminal contempt if convicted. On this charge West faces a possible maximum of three years in jail and a $5,000 fine.

West's trial was scheduled for Monday. Conviction on the charge against Spivey carries a maximum possible of five years imprisonment and a $5,000 fine.

Robin Roberts, star hurler for the Philadelphia Phillies, just won from the Chicago Cubs in the 1952-53 season. He has averaged more than 50 points in the 21 games Rio Grande has played this year. In the grand total he has 116 points scored against Ashland, Kentucky, another national record for individual scoring.

Florida Coaches Generally Favor New Rule Changes

By The Associated Press
First reaction of Florida football coaches to the new rule limiting substitutions and limiting the two-plateau system is generally favorable. Andy Gustafson, Miami, said, "personally I think it is a good thing for boys will have to play both ways now. Days of specialization and the glory boys are gone."

Jay Patten, Stetson, believes the rule will help Stetson and other small schools who have lacked reserve strength. It will give more recognition to small college athletes, too, he predicted.

Don Miller, Florida State, said the rule should give smaller football colleges like FSU more chance to attract players because the "big league" colleges won't be offering so many scholarships for specialists.

However, Marcelino Huerta, Tampa Bay, who is popular among soon will bring back the liberal substitution rule "when crowds start falling off at the gate because of the less spectacular play."

"The rules committee apparently has defeated the principal reason of athletics in college, letting as many persons as possible complete," Huerta continued. Bob Woodruff, Florida, was away from Gainesville and unavailable for comment.

Some Florida players who are expected to be key men in the 1953 Gator team had this to say: Rick Casares, offensive fullback: "In these Saturday morning sessions which will last from 10:00 a. m. to 12 noon every Saturday during the season, I am going to try and work with each student and gradually working every Saturday. I will be playing in the beginning to get a well rounded knowledge of the rudimentary elements of the game," Sweeney explained.

The handsome 6-foot-2 inch tennis pro, who is a member of the Professional Lawn and Tennis Association of America and several other regional tennis associations, was one of the most prominent young Eastern pros prior to World War II but an untimely severe injury in England almost ended his career.

SPORTS ROUNDUP
By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP) — About the most serious problem arising out of the sudden demise of the two-plateau football system, as we see it, is what's going to become of all these 50 per cent All-American players who have been enshrined during the past several years.

Are these fellows, through no fault of their own, destined to go through the balance of their lives living in a sort of twilight zone, unable to explain to their children and their grandchildren the strange set of circumstances which provided them with only half a gold football to grace their expanding fronts?

Next year, of course, and in all years to follow, there again will be only 11 names on the Associated Press all-star array, and each of them once more will be a stout young 100 per center whose future peace of mind is assured. But what of the unhappy fellows who were only half-honored?

"Daddy," one can hear junior asking in a distressed tone, "were you really an All-American? I keep saying you were but all my friends say I'm full of whys."

"Of course I was, son," Daddy will boom consolingly. "You were an All-American linebacker, like I told you."

"Yeah, Daddy, but they say there's only quarterbacks and half-backs and fullbacks and linemen and that you must be dreaming or something."

"Maybe there isn't now," indignantly. "But there certainly was when you played football. I was about the most important position on the team, too. Tell your friends that."

New "One-Platoon" System Poses Problems For Nation's Coaches

By ED CORRIGAN
NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's college football coaches—both big and little—still were high and dry today trying to figure how they will adapt their teams to the new "one-plateau" system that will be in effect next fall.

With the outlawing two days ago of the two-plateau system which has been in effect 12 years, by the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Rules Committee, the coaches agreed they would have to revise their strategy considerably.

But just what they intended to do, even they didn't seem to know. The new rule took them almost completely by surprise, because they took it for granted the two-plateau system was here to stay. When they voted in favor of it by a 2-1 margin not long ago, there seemed little doubt that it was set for a long tenure.

But the committee apparently took more seriously the handsomeness of the NCAA's 17-man council "strongly urging" the Rules Committee to do away with the two-plateau system. The resolution was passed at the NCAA convention last week and came as a sort of end of the trail move.

It was made Saturday and passed by a margin of 65-22. There were 235 voting delegates at the convention and many had left. The committee is composed of athletic directors and faculty representatives, not coaches.

Probably not many of the coaches even were aware of the resolution, but it seems certain that it will have a profound effect on the two-plateau system, the committee would have left the rule alone.

Another major point made at the convention was that the two-plateau system might not have presented as many injuries as its proponents thought.

The Eastwood Committee of Injuries and Fatalities made this report to the convention: "Another factor contributing to the football injuries was inadequate provision for warm-up of the players. A technique must be developed to keep players warmed up between the offensive and defensive substitutions which have been greatly increased by the modern plateau system. Contrary to what had long been thought, inadequate warm-up is a more important cause of injuries than is fatigue."

There was no general line of opinion among groups of players and coaches. Some of the big school mentors were bitter at the thought of the new rule while others said it would be a boon to the game.

Perhaps the most surprising aspect of the entire picture was that the smaller colleges were split about 50-50 on the benefits, or lack of same, on the outlawing of the two-plateau system. It was thought the smaller schools were put at definite disadvantage by having to compete with large squads of top teams. But only half the little fellows saw it that way.

Players, too, were bitterly divided, but the fans, generally, seemed happy over the change. To the man who pays his way into a game, the plateau system meant nothing. He will be better able to follow the players and the game now.

One thing seems certain: It won't be the same game of football next season. Many of the teams that employ the T formation, which stresses individual talent and surprise maneuvers, probably will go back to the time-tested single-wing. The game will be slower or what with players being forced to keep something in reserve for their defensive efforts.

Probably the happiest group of all over the change is the athletic directors and officials charged with watching the college bank accounts. Faced with rising costs and declining receipts, athletic directors were caught in the squeeze of maintaining large squads. Now they'll get some relief.

"Rocky" Marciano Is Cited For His 1952 Boxing Feats
By TED MEIER
NEW YORK (AP) — Joseph W. Martin Jr., speaker of the House of Representatives, praised boxing in general and Heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano in particular at the Boxing Writers Association annual dinner last night.

In presenting Rocky the Edward J. Neil Memorial Plaque as the man who did the most for boxing in 1952, Martin termed the undefeated heavyweight champion "a credit to America and a symbol of the American spirit."

The Neil award honors the memory of the Associated Press boxing writer and war correspondent who was killed in 1938 during the war in Spain.

"I think if Ed Neil were here tonight," Martin declared, "he would join me in saying that no man has better earned the Neil trophy than my neighbor from Brockton, Mass. . . Rocky has earned the award by his conduct both in and out of the ring."

"In these days of super states, dictatorships and regimented societies, it is a wonderful thing that in America every kid, whether he is the son of a New York crooner, or the boy from the mansion on the hill, has the same opportunity to be champion."

Jersey Joe Walcott, the former champ who lost his title to Rocky last September in Philadelphia, joined in giving Rocky a thunderous ovation at the presentation.

"Boxing has been wonderful to me," Rocky said. "I do not ever intend to let it down in any way."

Commenting on the sport in general, Martin asserted that "boxing has come of age. Television now brings into the living room of 20 million American homes. Tank fighters have all but disappeared."

Convicts Defy Jail Officials In Angry Riot

Hundreds Of Police-men Ring Prison As Inmates Continue Riotous Activities

PITTSBURGH — Rioting convicts here who set fire and caused havoc in the western Penitentiary today defied jail officials backed by the armed might of Pennsylvania. The cold and hungry convicts, who were captured five days ago, defied police who tried to force them to return to their cells. They smashed windows and defied police who stood with rifles and sub-machine guns ready to mow down and prisoner break-down call blocks. Warden J. W. Clardy moved cautiously to avoid bloodshed although Pennsylvania officials are not bargaining with the rebels. Col. C. M. Wilhelm, state police commissioner, arrived from Harrisburg to direct 72 crack state troopers who moved into the prison yard. More than 400 other policemen ringed the prison and a police cruiser in the nearby Ohio street trained its machine guns on the convicts. After Wilhelm and Clardy conferred, other officials said a number is expected before the arrival of William B. Brown, state secretary of welfare, director of prisons, and District Attorney James Malone. Both were reported en route by plane from Washington.

Adverse Weather Is Hurting State's Vegetable Crops

WINTER HAVEN (AP)—Recent unfavorable weather is hurting Florida's winter vegetable crop in many areas with damage up to 25 per cent reported in the Florida City section.

Only a fair volume of commodities is expected at the Ft. Myers market the next couple of weeks because of retarded growth.

Shipments at Pompano last week totaled only 231 cars compared to 474 cars the same period last year. Several other markets also reported trouble.

Director L. H. Lewis of State Markets tells about it in his weekly summary:

Florida City—12,500 bushels of tomatoes sold last week for $1.07 to $1.70 a unit with gross receipts totaling $45,700. The decided drop in prices was attributed to poor quality and cold weather.

Ft. Myers—growers received $25,664.23 for 12,578 packages last week. Cucumbers brought $8.25 a bushel, pepper $4 to $5.25, tomatoes $3.50 to $5.50, eggplant $1.35 to $1.50 and squash $1 to $1.40. Harvesting of Irish potatoes will start this week with a good volume of good quality anticipated.

Pompano—all commodities normally sold on the market are in light to moderate supply with unfavorable weather affecting the crops.

Plant City—cold and damaging rain occurred in the area but future strawberry conditions appear good. The berries averaged 31 1/2 cents a pint with a total of 103,395 crates bringing $2,513.43.

Immokalee—grossed $22,100 last week on 5,000 units of tomatoes, cucumbers, squash, eggplant and pepper. Weather conditions have been poor.

Ft. Pierce—expects light volume of tomatoes next two weeks. Last week, moved 48,300 crates of

Gambling Spots In Dade Are Raided By Sheriff's Deputies

MIAMI (AP)—Sheriff's deputies and State Beverage Department agents raided a virus gambling place in North Dade County and combed 22 night spots in Perrine early Sunday in a roundup of gamblers and bolita numbers peddlers.

They arrested six men at the island club, including the doorman, and hauled in eight Negroes in the Perrine raid.

Robert Oakford, 52, doorman at the Island Club; George F. Ziehlis, 42; George Harris, 46; and George Kleerman, 40, were charged with being agents of the keeper of a gambling house. Harris was released under $750 bond and the others went out on $500 bonds.

Two other employees charged with violating the state beverage laws were released on $250 bonds each. They were identified as Harry Bennett, 51; and George Buttigieg, 59.

Deputies said the operator, identified only as "Bloom," slipped out of a rear door while a warrant was being read to Oakford, Dade County Sheriff Thomas J.

posed once, waving, and again with the other members of the family who came with them. Then Eisenhower shpherded to wole group down the steps and into an automobile, standing beside the car.

In front of the station, several hundred people were waiting, although the time of Eisenhower's arrival had not been announced. They can smell these things in Washington, recognizing the motorcade, they sent up a cheer. The cars, gathering speed, moved rapidly away.

There was another cheer at the hotel, and a brief moment of picture-taking. Then the group moved on to an elevator and was gone.

It was brief, simple, and done with a complete economy of time.

IN THIS BELIEVE-IT-OR-NOT PHOTO, a coach of the Pennsylvania Railroad's crack Boston-Washington express is shown as it wound up, almost intact, in the crowded concourse of the Union Station in Washington, D. C. When his brakes failed to work, Engineer Harry C. Brower radioed a warning, giving terminal personnel time to scurry for safety before the Diesel engine and the first four cars crashed into the station. Ninety-eight persons were injured. Eleven were in serious condition. (International Soundphoto) potatoes with best grades bringing $3 to $8; fair to ordinary $2 to $5.

Pahokee—potatoes bringing $1.25 to $3 a bushel and a light volume of beans $4 to $4.50 a hamper. Celery, radishes, escarole, lettuce, romaine and pepper also moving.

Sanford—the market this week expects to move potatoes, pepper, onions, iceberg lettuce, radishes and high grade citrus in good volume; and beans, eggplant, parley and squash in fair volume. Moved 78,337 units valued at $161,601 last week. Cabbage led with 23,493 sacks averaging 95 cents. Celery averaged $2.75 and cauliflower $2.35.

Kelly said the raiders apparently arrived too early to catch any gambling activity but reported finding gambling paraphernalia including cards, dice, poker chips, crapper sticks and a complete chemin de fer layout.

Beverage agents said the club did not have a liquor license.

The Perrine raid covered half a mile of taverns, dance halls, pool rooms and other amusement spots.

Thomas Ziegler, 40, was charged with possession of lottery tickets, operating a lottery and violating the state beverage laws. He was released on $3,000 bond.

Also arrested at the Iceman's Paradise, a night club, was Thelma Tillman, 27; and Robert Burke, 35, charged with possession of lottery tickets and operating a lottery. Bonds were set at $2,000 each.

Others arrested in Perrine were Dennis Bohler, 51; Clarence Jackson, 29; Albert Gardner, 23; and Jacob Williams, 25. Bohler posted $1,500 bond while Jackson, Gardner and Williams made $500 bond each. Taft Alline, 18, was lalled when he failed to raise $500 bond.

and a total absence of ceremony. But if the President-elect was conserving his strength, the rest of Washington was not.

The city is one long reception line, one tremendous traffic jam, a hurricane of voices, song, laughter and milling movement. Bleachers flanking the line of Tuesday's inaugural parade make the streets look like long football fields, and the flags and bunting enhance the illusion.

In any of the big hotels, there is only slightly more elbow room than in Times Square on New Year's Eve.

There are furs and diamonds and flaming purple corasges, cowboy hats, red silk shirts and Homburgs—lots of Homburgs—along with pearl grey vests, cutaways and striped trousers. Even the servicemen, in dress uniforms and blading with medals, look a little drab by comparison.

Traffic chokes the streets for blocks around the White House, and clogs in arteries a mile or more until long after dark.

In short, people are having a high old time, and even some Democrats, trapped in the vortex, are whirling around from place to place, shaking hands and offering congratulations.

The longest of all reception lines yesterday stretched clear from the main entrance of the Statler Hotel, curled around the corner, and lined the sidewalk on another street—something more than a long city

Inside, the governors' reception was taking place.

Prison Riot

the big cell blocks at will. After overpowering guards they unlocked individual cells in the blocks. However, their way to the outside of the prison was barred by heavy steel doors.

As dawn broke, an air of ominous silence hung over the penitentiary but it was soon broken as police reinforcements marched to their posts.

Prisoners belted Army cadence of:

"Hut, two, three, four! Hut, two, three, four!"

The grim faced policemen carried rifles, riot guns and sub-machineguns.

Tiring of their grim humor, some of the prisoners went back to smashing the few remaining windows in the big penitentiary.

Officials saw a big pile of mattresses stacked at the entrance to one cell block. Firemen hurriedly drenched the mattresses so they could not be used.

The rioters freed one of the guards, 58-year-old Frank Daugherty, within a short time after the outbreak started about 7 p. m. It they stubbornly refused to let the others go until their "13 concessions for peace" are met.

The peace demands were passed out in a note to Claudy early today.

The prisoners asked that there be no reprisals against the rioters. They also called for improved food, medical care, a plan to permit visitors to stay longer, investigation into operation of the prisoners' fund, better mail service, a "complete change of the parole board" and an opportunity to study law books so they can file court petitions.

Gov. John S. Figg made it clear to prison officials that there will be no dickering—no compromise with the convicts. He declared:

"There will be no deals. We certainly are not going to let prisoners dictate to us what shall be done."

The guards being held are John Platte, 35; Oscar Givens, 29; James Poole, 28; and Edward Ament, 42.

Prison officials were shocked as they surveyed the damage at the 76-year-old penitentiary. The convicts smashed virtually every piece of glass in the barred windows of each cell block during their night of terror.

Firemen were imperiled as the convicts threw out furniture from the windows. One fireman was hit on the head by a flying object. He returned to duty after treatment.

Some of the convicts shouted that they would never give up until they got better food and improved conditions.

One man screamed:

"Hey, you reporters, they give you meat only once a week. And that's only hamburger. They give you steak in other places."

Florida Crops Are Reported Affected By Bad Weather

WINTER HAVEN, (Special)—Unsettled weather conditions are reported affecting crops in many State Farmers' Market areas according to weekend reports received in the Winter Haven office of L. Lewis, Director of Florida State Farmers' Markets.

The Fort Pierce State Market reports a sudden unexpected increase in tomato volume last week due to Starnell and Abbot Farms having their peak picking. A total of 43,300 crates moved at $2.11 prices on next to ordinary quality at $2.00 to $2.00. Future outlook is a light volume for the next ten days to two weeks.

Unfavorable weather conditions are reported affecting crops in the Pompano State Market area however all commodities normally moderate supply making it possible for buyers to fill most mixed orders. Shipment of next week total 261 cars, 223 cars less than for a corresponding period last year. Some increase can be expected to follow the first good weather, but shipments are not expected for at least four or five weeks.

Beans in light volume topped through the Palmetto State Farmers' Market bringing $4.00 to $4.00 per hamper. Potatoes have not moved at $1.25 to $3.00 for best quality. Other items moving are celery, radishes, carrots, lettuce and romaine.

In spite of poor weather conditions Immokalee State Farmers' Market reported moving in excess of 5,000 units of tomatoes, cucumbers, squash, eggplant and pepper returning $22,169.75 to growers. Crop conditions only fair as strawberries averaged 31¢ per unit on the market. Plant City State Farmers' Market for the next week bringing growers $32,513.45. Cold and damaging rain occurred in the area but future crop conditions appear good.

Wind and rain damaged crops approximately 25 percent in the Florida City State Farmers' Market area. Some were a total loss due to water. Other damage to mature fruit. Prices on next week ranged from $1.07 to $48,700.00. The decided drop in prices the next week is attributed to poor quality and to cold weather in terminal market areas. Future volume of fair quality this week with steady improvement in the quality next weather conditions may improve.

Only a small volume of commodities are expected on the Fort two or three weeks due to cold weather. However, harvesting of potatoes will start this week with a good volume and good quality anticipated. Growers received $35,644.23 for 12,579 tons of the next week. Cucumbers at $2.50 per bushel, pepper brought $4.00 on California. Winter fair to excellent quality tomatoes brought $4.50 to $5.50 net with $1.50 and squash at $1.00 to $1.25 with $1.40 on Conocelles.

A total of 78,357 units valued at $10,811.10 moved through the Sanford State Farmers' Market. 498 sacks averaging like 2,000 rates of celery averaging $2.75. 864 crates cauliflower averaging $2.35 with 32 other varieties making up the total movement. In addition to these items, Sanford expects to move the following commodities in good volume: onions, iceberg lettuce, radishes, and a fair volume of beans, eggplant, carrots, squash and many other items including a good volume of high grade citrus fruits.

Man Informs Police He Killed His Wife

HOLLYWOOD—A Hollywood machinist walked into the police station here last night and told detectives he had murdered his wife in Mexico, stuffed her body in the trunk of his car and left the car in a Tijuana parking lot. Early today Mexican authorities found a woman's body in the trunk of a car in Tijuana. Detective Philip G. Bruno, 26, told this story.

He separated from his wife, Helen Lewis, 22, two months ago. Saturday he picked her up at her apartment and they drove to Mexico.

In Mexico they argued over the divorce. During the dispute Bruno pulled out a spring-loaded knife and stabbed her several times. He put the body in the trunk of his abandoned car in Tijuana. Bruno said Bruno would be booked on a charge of murder.

Coast Guard Seeks Missing Fishermen

ST. MARKS—A Coast Guard search started today for three unidentified Georgians who went on a gulf fishing trip and hadn't returned 24 hours later.

Wm. S. Schley, Coast Guard auxiliary commander, said the men gave no one their names when they rent a 20-foot skiff on Live Oak Island. They left at the camp, but Schley said the man who reported them missing hadn't taken the number.

All telephone service in the coastal area was out because of heavy Sunday rains and Schley had to drive 3 miles to Tallahassee to summon a search plane from the St. Petersburg Coast Guard base.

Fancy 'Shine Still Is Found Near Jax

JACKSONVILLE—An officer found a 200-million moonshine still in a seven-room lodge on the St. Johns River banks near here Sunday after a fire attracted a neighbor to the scene.

The neighbor, J. C. Siles, but saw burning investigators wrecked the still and seized 45 gallons of tax-unpaid liquor.

Who was occupying the lodge, surrounded by slant oaks and with a large gold fish pond in the yard, was not known. Milton H. Bevis, agent of the state beverage department, said "It's one of the finest still locations we've turned up in a long time."

Bevis said the lodge is the property of Don McEachern, now living in Miami, and had been turned over to a real estate firm for rental. Whoever rented it probably had a fictitious name, he added.

Confederate Soldier Honored On Birthday

LAUREL HILL—The years have mellowed William T. (Uncle) Ing Confederate veteran. He answered a newspaper question about his 100th birthday party Sunday.

"I guess there are a few good Yankee now—or at least that's what I've been told."

His eyes twinkled as he said it. Heavy rain couldn't spoil the anniversary celebration at the home where Uncle Bill's 10 children, their families and over 100 of his friends gathered.

A big picnic dinner planned beneath the peach trees was moved to the front porch. The friends brought little gifts, mainly delicacies like fresh pork that he likes. The rain, however, left the improved road leading to the house muddy. About that, he observed: "We had hard roads back during the Civil War and reconstruction days—they were hard to get over."

Uncle Bill built his house on the banks of the Yellow River near here over 30 years ago. Two of his six sons, Tom and Pete; and one of his four daughters, Miss Violet Lundy, live with him. All of his children are alive.

His wife died several years ago. One of five men in gray still living, Uncle Bill was a member of the home guard company at Etba, Ala., his birthplace, during the Civil War. He moved to Florida as a young man.

Increase In Flu Is Seen In Gainesville

GAINESVILLE—An increase in the number of cases of influenza among University of Florida students was noted here today.

University Vice President John S. Allen said that following a survey of dormitories some 100 students are known to be ill. This number represents 2 per cent of the 6,000 student body.

Allen said the dormitory check revealed that 100 students were staying in had there with the flu, and that most of them had not reported to the infirmary for treatment.

Seventy-eight others were being cared for at the infirmary. Dr. Sanford E. Ayers, director of the infirmary, reported that most cases of the flu among the students are of a mild nature and that very few complications have occurred.

With the advice of our doctors, we are not planning to close the university at this time," Allen said.

Three reporters were forcibly tossed out of a meeting of city commissioners in the Sarasota City Hall recently. Of course, the city charter requires official commission meetings to be open to the public, but this, according to the commissioners, was not an official session.
The situation in Sarasota is similar to that facing many cities in Florida where the laws require meetings to be open to the public but where important matters are sometimes transacted in closed or executive sessions and only the routine, the drab, the inconsequential are considered fitting for public scrutiny.

President Truman makes it as hard as he can for General Eisenhower to straighten out the mess in Washington incident to the offshore oil lands. He gives these lands belonging to the individual states to the Navy in the interest of national defense. No doubt the Navy could make good use of them. So it could of the steel mills and the shipyards which make their battleships. Or any other public or private property belonging to the individuals of the various states or to the states themselves. President Truman would have people think that because the Navy could use the oil that the oil belongs to the Navy. It shouldn't belong to the Navy unless the states themselves, are fully compensated for their loss.

Miami's detective force has been pulled off routine duties to go after police operators following sheriff's raid which netted a couple of big shot gamblers and $33,000 in cash.
The Miami commissioners are burned up because the sheriff got there first and they want to know why there has been "confusion" or reticent and flagrant violations of law and gambling ordinances.
It seems inevitable that when the rewards are fabulously great as they are in Miami, there will always be gamblers willing to run the risk involved in making an illegal bet, but so long as the sheriff wins and the state department gets more or less credit in the matter the law enforcement forces can be relied upon to do their job.

The Rights Of The States

On the occasion of Robert E. Lee's birthday it is well to consider the influence of state's rights upon millions of Americans. General Lee did not accept command of the armies of the Confederacy because he believed in slavery. Nor did he because he believed in secession. He had previously freed his own slaves and he had opposed secession. But when Virginia finally seceded, he resigned from the United States army, and returned to Arlington, "to draw my sword against none save in defense of my state".

Lee was first a Virginian and second an American. Though he was an honor graduate of West Point and had served his entire life until he was 52 in the Army of the United States, he still regarded himself as primarily a Virginian. His ancestors almost from the time of the founding of Jamestown early in the 17th century had been Virginians. They had been legislators, governors, judges and generals, all in the name of Virginia. His father, "Light Horse Harry" had been a cavalry commander under George Washington, also a Virginian.

And so when Lee was confronted with the choice of deserting Virginia, or resigning his commission in the United States army, there was but one answer he could make. It is said that General Scott, U. S. chief of staff at the time, under whom Lee had served with distinction in the Mexican War, tendered him the command of the northern army in behalf of President Lincoln. If this was only partly true, it must have been a tempting offer, for Lee himself who knew the industrial power of the north, was under no illusions as to the relative strength of the two sections. But he turned the offer down.

He turned it down, not to accept command of the Confederate armies. This title he did not gain until the waning years of the war, until the bitter winter of '65 when all hope was gone. His first responsibility was as head of the Virginia state militia with the rank of major general. But Lee would rather have been a private in Virginia's militia than commander of all the armies of the United States mustered to invade Virginia. While he did not believe Virginia should secede, he did believe it had a right to, and the federal government had no right under the Constitution to interfere.

The issue of secession was settled by the War Between the States. No one believes any more that any state has any right to secede from the union, but the sentiment which generated that belief is still strong in the hearts of millions of men. Today we are all Americans first, and Virginians, or Floridians, afterward. But we are strong believers in the rights of the individual states, and we believe as the Constitution says, that all powers not delegated to the Congress are reserved to the individual states, or to the people.

It is well for people who do not feel this way about it to consider the feelings of those millions of others who do when they contemplate legislation or other acts of government which encroach upon the rights of the states.

One Platoon

The end of the two-platoon system in college football came suddenly. For the past several years the rules have permitted unlimited substitution of players during a game. This led coaches to develop several squads specializing in either defense or offense. At a recent meeting of the National College Athletic Association, which makes the rules for college teams, set definite limits on the way substitutions can be made.

The recent change was welcomed by most small schools who do not have enrollments large enough to permit the development of specialists. It will please those who longed for the days when a football player had to be equally good on the defense and the offense if he wished to make the squad.

There were objections, however, from coaches who feel that football is a better game if each player is allowed to enter a contest, perform the function at which he is best, and then leave for a substitute. A strong case may be made for unlimited substitution on the grounds that it gives players more rest and reduces the possibility of injury which always becomes more acute when players are fatigued.

At any rate when the leaves turn color next Fall and the sound of toe against pigskin is heard in the land, the game will be different. Whether the change will be better for the game or for the players remains to be seen.

Ending The War

According to Newsweek magazine Republican senators have received many messages from voters asking why General Eisenhower has not ended the Korean war as he promised. In the first place he never made such a promise. In the second place he has only been preparing for the assumption of office and has had no real authority to end the war even if that were possible.

During the campaign much was said about conditions that needed to be changed. The new administration will find that changes take time and circumstances do not always permit the President or the Congress to make the changes they would like to make. It is about time that people put aside the idea that serious problems can be solved by magic formulas. It is time to face political reality.

BAD NEWS FOR TYRANNY

Sanford Forum

Jan. 12, 1953
The Sanford Herald
Sanford, Florida

Dear Friends:
It has come to our attention that some of our churches in other cities have been victimized by unscrupulous persons who incurred obligations for merchandise and services in the name of the church organization.

Least such an instance should occur in Sanford, we hereby disavow any responsibility for indebtedness incurred by any person other than our local church authorities, i. e., the pastors and church Executive Board.

Sincerely yours,
H. E. Bullock

Congressman Herlong Reports

By SID HERLONG

Committee assignments were announced today and the Florida delegation did real well. My hope of being retained on the Committee on Agriculture was realized, but only because the leadership on both sides of the House agreed to a 10-14 division on the committee. They were nice enough to tell me that the only reason that division was made was so I could keep my place. As it was, two Democratic members of the committee were "bumped". One from Arizona was moved to the Armed Services Committee; the other, from Minnesota, was moved to the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee.

The Florida picture now is Bob Sikes on Appropriations; Dwight Rogers on Interstate and Foreign Commerce; Charlie Bennett moved from Merchant Marine and Fisheries to Armed Services (this is an assignment he has wanted for a long time and will be very helpful to his district); Bill Lanstaff will retain his assignment on Government Operations Committee. This has just been made a major committee and, like the other committees on which our members are serving, is now an exclusive committee for minority members of Congress, as we all are. By reason of the fact that this committee was made exclusive, Bill moves up from number fourteen to number six or seven on the committee, as all members who had been serving on this committee and another committee had to give up one assignment. Bill preferred this committee, where he has done excellent work. The new members also fared well. Billy Matthews sought and got an assignment on the Veterans Affairs Committee; Jim Haley wanted to be on Interior and Insular Affairs and made it; Courtney Campbell wanted Public Works, but there were no vacancies. He is on the House Administration Committee now and we hope will get the first vacancy on Public Works.

Right now the inauguration has sidetracked everything else, but by the time this is published that event will be over. Then we can settle down to work.

Highway Arrests Increase 29 Percent

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower is now in the golden era of American politics. The golden era being that period in which a president gets a minimum of criticism and a maximum of co-operation and good will. It never lasts indefinitely.

Criticism of Eisenhower since his election certainly has been at a minimum. President Truman did throw the word "demagoguery" at him. And his fellow Republican, Sen. Taft, called his appointment of Labor Secretary Durkin "incredible".

But Truman tried to make the change-over smooth for the Eisenhower administration and urged the nation to support the new President. And Taft calmed down after his one outburst and didn't try to block the Durkin appointment.

But the very nature of his position since election, being on the outside looking in until tomorrow, Eisenhower hasn't been able to step on Truman's toes. He hasn't said much that could get him criticized. In fact, since election day he's said almost nothing publicly about himself.

But the various pressure groups of the country he must look like an over-ripe plum tree just waiting to be picked. They'll shake him, all right. The difference between their expectations and his delivery will be one of the causes of his future trouble.

As a highly successful military commander he never was the target for much adverse comment. But when he begins to get pasting in the White House it will be on the highest level. Criticism then is criticism that hurts. It will be interesting to see how he reacts to it. His trials and tribulations may not begin for some weeks, or even months, until he has sent his programs to Congress and had a chance to see what's going to happen to them.

For instance, on the amount of money he thinks is necessary for foreign aid. Not all members of his own party go all the way with him on this. The difference between his views and theirs on the size of foreign aid may mean, in the difference between success and disaster.

A president can operate in one of three main ways with Congress, which is full of self-willed men who are also politicians: surrender, compromise, or stand stiff and unyielding. He'll be a failure if he does the last. He'll be a failure if he always tries the third.

Like any other president who wants to get things done, Eisenhower will have to make compromises. His skill will show up in the final result.

And, although the Democrats in Congress are under obligation to go along with him on what they think is for the country's good, the next congressional elections are only two years away, and the

TALLAHASSEE (Special)

The Florida Highway Patrol had marked increases in enforcement work in 1952, although the trooper's work day was shortened in October and the need for enforcement efforts continued to rise.

Comdr. H. N. Kirkman said troopers had a four per cent reduction in the number of hours worked compared to 1951, but arrests went up 29 per cent and written warnings rose 95 per cent. Troopers investigated 13 per cent more accidents in the year than for the year before.

Troopers worked 642,830 hours last year, a reduction compared to the 671,209 hours worked the year before and they rode almost half a million miles more.

They arrested 41,660 persons, issued 69,373 faulty equipment notices and 12,191 written warnings to motorists, all a sizable increase over the preceding year's activity. In safety education, troopers gave more than 1,700 speeches, 2,700 radio talks and showed well over 1,300 movies on safety practice.

In the driver licensing 244,880 persons were examined and 104,880 either failed or did not otherwise complete their examinations properly.

The Weights Section of the department increased its activity 118 per cent, by weighing 135,033 trucks in 1952, more than doubling the number of 69,039 weighed the year before.

The earliest trombones used in Finland were called sackbuts. Tromps are closely related to sackbuts.

Democrats are not under any obligation to support Eisenhower as much political hay as they can at Eisenhower's expense.

Calcium Needs
By W. V. Hitting
Touchton Drug Co.

Calcium is the greatest chemical element present in the normal, healthy body. Ninety-nine percent of it is found in your bones and the other one percent is in your blood stream.

A great deficiency of calcium results in a poor bone structure which is very evident; not so evident are the minor deficiencies that nevertheless impair health. These are discernible only to the experienced physician.

To maintain normal calcium content in the body your physician may find it necessary to prescribe additional amounts in medicinal form. This can be obtained from a able pharmacist who carries quality drugs.

SMART FOLKS—THOSE BUICK ENGINEERS!

They've made the 1953 BUICKS 67 ways better

They did new wonders with the wonderful Million Dollar Ride. They stepped up visibility, comfort, handling ease, control.

And man!—what they did with getaway!

They dressed up, designed and developed a new Twin-Turbo Diesel Drive* that whisks you away quick as a wink—and just as smooth, almost as silent.

Fox-Marz Wedding Performed At Home

Mrs. Raymond George Fox and Philip Marz of Orlando were united in marriage in a quiet home ceremony on Friday night at 8:00 o'clock. Performing the candlelight wedding was the Rev. J. E. McKinley at the home of the bride at 1920 Magnolia Avenue, before a group of close friends and relatives of the couple.
Forming a background for the wedding was the fireplace which was banked with small palms and decorated with pink carnations, burning pink tapers in silver candleholders and maidenhair fern. Beautiful arrangements of pink carnations, gladioli and gerbera daisies with pink candles were used throughout the rooms. The candles were lighted by young Jimmy Kennedy, grandson of Mr. Marz.
The bride, given in marriage by her youngest son, Jimmie Fox, was lovely in a floor length gown of turquoise nylon lace and net with short jacket of matching lace. She wore a corsage of sweetheart roses.
A small reception followed the wedding ceremony. The bridal table was covered in pink satin overlaid with lace and at one end was a tiered wedding cake iced in pink and topped with pink carnations. In the center was a branched candelabra holding pink candles and coffee was served from the other end of the table from a silver coffee service. Other flower arrangements were of pink anthers, tulips and pink tapers.
Assisting were Mrs. G. E. McCann, Mrs. W. C. Hill, Mrs. W. G. Fleming, Mrs. Hugh Welchel, Mrs. George Harden, Mrs. Charles L. Park, Miss Jany Marz, and Mrs. James Kennedy.
Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Marz left for a short wedding trip. Mrs. Marz wore a Weather-vane suit of aqua with sheer white nylon blouse and a small winter white felt hat with a corsage of sweetheart roses. Upon their return to Sanford they plan to reside at 1920 Magnolia Avenue.
Mrs. Marz is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John L. Chappell, pioneer residents of this county and for the past two years has been associated with the Sanford Atlantic National Bank. Mr. Marz is a native of New Orleans and is now secretary-treasurer of Fosgate Growers Cooperative.
Among the guests from out of town who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. James H. Kennedy and son Jimmy of New Smyrna Beach, Mrs. James H. Kennedy of Florida State University in Tallahassee; Mr. and Mrs. Asa H. Hudson of Tampa; Mr. and Mrs. Claude C. Merahan, Mr. and Mrs. George Lounsbury, Mr. and Mrs. Randall Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. William Davenport, Mrs. Samuel Goble and daughter Mrs. Jan Goble Sanders, all of Orlando.

Dance Program Is Presented At School

The Grammar School PTA theme for the year, "Building the Pre-Adolescent Child to a More Healthful and Cultural Life" was presented on Thursday night through a musical review presented by Edith Royal and her dance pupils of Winter Park, before which Mrs. Royal pointed out dancing can assist a child in achieving this goal.
She said that dancing gives poise, posture and grace to a child and creates an interest in other arts such as the music which accompanies the dancing. She added that doctors now prescribe dancing for the mentally retarded child to aid in coordination.
The program, which included a number of variety selections, was under the direction of Mrs. Michael Gison.
A short business meeting was conducted by Mrs. C. E. Mitchell and it was announced that the annual Grammar School talent show will be presented on Feb. 20 with auditions to be held about Feb. 1. Talented students from Grammar School, Junior High, West Side and South Side will take part in the program.
The room count was won by Miss Lucille Campbell's room and the devotional was given by Mrs. Roy Reed.
