Management director resigns

SANFORD — Jean Kassab, Seminole County's director of the Office of Management and Budget, resigned suddenly Thursday afternoon, citing personal reasons. County Manager Ron Rabun said the decision was "strictly her own" and did not face termination. Rabun did say while Kassab's handling of county budgets was "excellent, creative," she was "slightly below average" in her management of her staff. Rabun did say Kassab was facing many personal challenges. Kassab was not in her office. A receptionist said principal analyst Dennis Joyner is acting director. Kassab served in the position since December 1991 when she was promoted by Rabun from the principal analyst's position. Kassab previously worked in Winter Springs and Orange County. Kassab is attending night school to complete her college degree.

Four women arrested

WINTER PARK — Three female body scrub salon employees and the business manager were arrested Thursday night for racketeering/prostitution.

City County Investigative Bureau (CCIB) agents served arrest and search warrants at A Beautiful Hostess, a body scrub business at 2230B Winter Woods Boulevard in the Goldenrod area.

Suspects arrested at the business were: Nicole Dyal, 24, 813 Oranole Road, Maitland; Julia Miller, 30, 4616 Middlebrook Road, Orlando and Jessica Rivera, 22, 805 Raven Circle, Altamonte Springs. The women are being held in the Seminole County jail on $10,000 bond, said Ed McDonough, public information officer for the sheriff's office.

A fourth suspect, the business manager, Susan Oberry, 34, 5998 Folkstone Lane, Orlando was arrested at her home on similar charges. She was booked into the Orange County jail but was to be transferred to Seminole County today. Oberry is also being held on $10,000 bond.

The charges against the women are a violation of the RICO law and a first degree felony.

The women are scheduled to make their initial court appearance at 1:30 p.m. today. The arrests were made after a two-month investigation of activities at the salon.

Dying mom murdered

Husband, roommate charged

By VICKI DeBORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Though she had a brain tumor and Multiple Sclerosis, 35-year-old Julie Stoll was not ready to die.

Police say her husband and his business associate wanted other wise.

Sanford Police Cmdr. Dennis Whitmire said Julie Stoll battled Christopher Matthew Stewart, 19, and her husband Michael Scott Stoll, 33, as Stewart tried repeatedly, under the husband's direction, to kill her.

Thursday afternoon, police were called to the house the three shared at 1805 W. Third St., Sanford, by Stoll who said he had come home to find the front door ajar and his wife dead inside.

Whitmire said Stoll told police that the house had been burglarized and that the perpetrators must have killed her.

When police arrived on the scene, however, they immediately began to question the verity of the story.

"There were just some things that were inconsistent with the story," Whitmire said. "It just didn't fit together."

Under more intense questioning, Whitmire said the following, quite different, story emerged.

Whitmire said Stewart told them that he and Stoll had gotten up in the morning and fed Julie Stoll's

After the investigation was concluded, above, at the house at 1805 W. Third St., representatives of Brisson Funeral Home took away the body of 35-year-old Julie Stoll who was allegedly murdered by her husband and a roommate, Tom Skiba, a crime scene technician for the Sanford Police Department. D.J. Delrusso, the officer in charge of the investigation and Ed Maldonado of the Sanford Police, are continuing work on the case. Below, husband Mike Stoll and roommate Christopher Stewart wait patiently for police to question them. They were later charged with first degree murder.

2 athletes voted into hall of fame

By TONY DeBORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — Two very familiar individuals — Seminole High School graduate Jeff Blake and Oviedo resident Mickey Norton — have been voted into the Seminole County Sports Hall of Fame.

The duo will become the hall's 27th and 28th members when they are formally inducted at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce's annual banquet on Jan. 26.

"Both are excellent choices," said hall of fame selection committee chairman Bud Layer after making the announcement Thursday afternoon. "They're both very deserving, as are many other individuals on the ballot."

Blake first gained national prominence as the quarterback at East Carolina University, where he set 31 school records while leading the Pirates into the Top 25 and to victory in the 1992 Peach Bowl over North Carolina State.

Last week, Blake caught the fancy of professional football fans all over the country by nearly leading the winless Cincinnati Bengals to an upset over the Dallas Cowboys. His performance earned him another start this Sunday against Seattle.

"I still consider Sanford my home," said Blake via telephone from Cincinnati. "This (being elected to the hall of fame) is a very big deal for me. I really appreciate the honor and look forward to attending the induction ceremony."

As a senior at Seminole High School in 1987, Blake led the Fighting Seminoles to the state semifinals. He earned Player of the Year honors

Lack of permit slows work on sheriff's substation

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

CASSELBERRY — Work is expected to resume soon on the remodeling of a new sheriff's substation office after a county building inspector shut the work down last week for not having a permit.

Sheriff's budget director Penny Fleming said Thursday the Sheriff's Department will seek three bids from licensed contractors to install separator walls in the storefront in Lake Howell Square on State Road 436.

A building inspector stopped the work and "red tagged" the project last week after discovering Gene Lovely was starting work which must be done by a licensed contractor with a county permit.

County Building Official Dave Beltz said minor repair and patchwork can be done without a permit. But for any structural construction, such as walls or dividers, permits are required, Beltz said.

Fleming said Lovely has performed minor repairs and cabinetry work for the department for several years dating to the administration of the late John Polk. Fleming said the Sheriff's Office required Lovely to have an occupational license, but not workman's compensation or liability insurance.

County occupational records show Lovely received his first license in March this year for a repair service, said Keylor Chan, occupational license manager. Fleming said she was unaware Lovely did not have a license prior to then.

Local media were alerted to the stoppage by former sheriff's spokesman George Proechel who said he was contacted by several sheriff's employees concerned over the problem. Proechel is critical of the situation because Sheriff Don Eslinger steered an unlicensed contractor sting last month which led to the arrest of 20 professionals.

Eslinger said the situation represented only a minor oversight which was being corrected.

"If we were wrong, we'll correct it," he said.

Sixth tropical storm forms in Atlantic

CORAL GABLES — The Atlantic hurricane season's sixth named tropical storm has formed far away from land, forecasters said.

Tropical Storm Florence formed Thursday evening, the first time in five years a storm has formed so late in the season, which lasts from June 1 until Nov. 30, the National Hurricane Center said.

At 5 a.m. EST today, the storm was located at 26.9 degrees north latitude and 53.1 degrees west longitude, or about 700 miles east-southeast of Bermuda, forecasters said.

The storm posed no immediate threat to land, said hurricane specialist Lixion Avila, who added the last tropical storm to form this late in the season was Tropical Storm Karen on Nov. 28, 1989.

Florence's maximum sustained winds were near 40 mph — the minimum strength for a tropical storm — and weren't expected to strengthen through today, forecasters said.

Florence was moving toward the northwest at 7 mph.

Tampa priest named Miami archbishop

ST. PETERSBURG — Bishop John C. Favalora, who has shepherded the Roman Catholic Church in the Tampa Bay area for the past five years, was named archbishop of Miami.

Favalora succeeds Archbishop Edward A. McCarthy, who submitted his resignation to Pope John Paul II last year at the mandatory retirement age of 75.

"To all in the Miami community, to Christians and non-Christians, to believers and nonbelievers, to all people of good will, today I extend my hand in friendship," Favalora said Thursday to the 700,000 Catholics in the archdiocese. "I assure you that I come to serve you with an open and loving heart."

The archdiocese comprises Broward, Dade and Monroe counties in South Florida.

Favalora, 58, was installed by McCarthy on May 16, 1989, as Bishop of St. Petersburg, which has 350,000 Catholics in 71 parishes across a five-county area: Citrus, Hernando, Pasco, Pinellas and Hillsborough.

Truant youth killed in accident

FROSTPROOF — A 14-year-old who was skipping school died when his go-cart wound up in the path of an 18-wheel truck.

Brian Leet, an eighth grader who missed 19 of 55 days at Frostproof Middle-Senior High School this year, had been warned by a counselor about playing hooky only 45 minutes before Wednesday's accident.

Counselor Walter Vanderpool said he told Leet to go to school. The boy agreed.

Soon after Vanderpool left, Leet got into the four-wheel, homemade cart which had no brakes. Leet sped down a dirt road, disregarding a stop sign and crossed Fort Meade Road into the path of a tractor trailer, said Florida Highway Patrol Trooper Frank Yodanis.

Hunters beware — killer of 2 still out there

JACKSONVILLE — Murder investigators and wildlife officials are warning Northeast Florida hunters that the killer of two hunters last fall may still be lurking in the woods.

The warning came at a Jacksonville news conference Wednesday as hunters prepared for the season beginning Nov. 12.

"Our intent is not to strike fear and panic into the minds of hunters," Major Laurence Rossignol of the Florida Fresh Water Fish and Game Commission said. "But it's always prudent to be very cautious in the woods, even more so now."

Members of the Hunter Homicide Investigative Task Force urged that hunters not go into the woods alone, and to leave an itinerary with friends or relatives.

The task force asked anyone with information that could be useful in tracking down the killer to call 800/940-2677.

"We have a great deal of concern that the person responsible has not been arrested, and there's a possibility that another homicide might occur," said Clay County Sheriff Scott Lancaster.

The two men were each shot in the head at close range with a shotgun. In each case, the bodies were discovered by worried relatives who went searching.

Don Hill, 63, was killed Nov. 19, 1993, in the Ocala National Forest in Baker County. Gregory A. Wood, 35, was slain a few days later, on Nov. 24, in the Camp Blanding Wildlife Management Area in Clay County.

The Wood family placed a plaque in his honor on a wall at the hunter's check-in building at Camp Blanding. It read: "May all who pass here go with peace in harmony with nature and all mankind. In loving memory of Greg Wood."

Bush after Chiles on taxes

Both candidates urge big election day turnout

By BRENT KALLESTAD
Associated Press Writer

JACKSONVILLE — Heading into their final weekend of campaigning, Gov. Lawton Chiles got personal with Republican challenger Jeb Bush as both candidates pleaded with their supporters to vote next Tuesday.

Chiles, at a campaign stop Thursday in downtown Panama City with about 100 supporters, ridiculed the idea that Bush could make good on his campaign promises to build new prisons and set up a voucher program to help parents pay for private school tuition without raising taxes.

"No new taxes, read my lips, no new taxes," Chiles said. "The father is the voice of the son in that regard."

In his 1988 presidential campaign, George Bush pledged he would not raise taxes, a promise he later broke.

"Chiles has tried to make this a referendum on me rather than on his record and his views," Bush told his supporters.

Bush drew huge, noisy crowds in his final bus swing across Florida, contending Chiles has failed to defend his record and plans to raise taxes if he is re-elected.

"He calls it tax reform," said Bush. "He said in the beginning it would be revenue neutral. Well, when does the beginning end?"

Chiles brought out a old Washington friend, Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Georgia, and chairman of the U.S. Senate Armed Services Committee, to drum up support in the Florida Panhandle.

"All of us involved in public life, all of us involved in good government have to make sure we don't let apathy rule the day next Tuesday," Nunn said.

The Bush campaign also tried to make headway on the home turf of Lt. Gov. Buddy MacKay at a noon rally attended by some 250 people.

But Bush wasn't able to persuade everyone in Ocala.

"Buddy is real popular here," said John Malinowski who retired to Ocala 12 years ago from New Jersey.

"My wife and I go to see both candidates, don't think any governor can do it all — think the governor has done a lot," said Malinowski, a registered Democrat.

Chiles, meanwhile, attracted about 200 people at a noon rally at the Jackson County Courthouse in Marianna before heading to St. Petersburg.

Both candidates sought to invigorate their supporters in a race that remains razor close.

Chiles, who lost Bay County to former Gov. Bob Martinez in 1990, also urged the crowd to make sure they voted.

"Now is the time for us to move," Chiles said.

"Young voters need to go out," said Bush. "If we get a good turnout of voters 40 and under, the party is over."

Could tobacco help treat cancer?

By The Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — Could tobacco, long scorned as a cancer causer, be used to help fight the disease?

University of Florida scientists have genetically engineered a tobacco plant to produce ricin, a compound that destroys cells and has tremendous therapeutic possibilities for cancer and HIV-infected patients.

In its natural form, ricin is extremely toxic. Since the discovery of the ricin gene 10 years ago, there have been many efforts by pharmaceutical companies and research centers nationwide to use it to kill cancer cells.

"The difficulty has been getting ricin to kill only the cancer cells and not other non-infected cells," said Robert Ferl, a UF professor of biological sciences. "But one of the things you can do with genetic engineering is modify the way ricin is produced and design it to only attack specific cells."

That's the breakthrough UF scientists say they have made with the genetically engineered tobacco plant.

Choosing the tobacco plant as a place to produce an anti-cancer agent may indeed seem ironic, but Ferl said it was picked because it is readily engineered, grows well in tissue cultures and allows protein production throughout the plant.

Now that the UF scientists have proven they can produce ricin, the next step is to increase the compound's ability to attack specific, unhealthy cells. If all goes well, within about five years the discovery may have big payoffs for therapeutic use, the scientists said.

Mother who staged abduction claims husband tortured her

By KAREN TESTA
Associated Press Writer

WEST PALM BEACH — The woman who staged the dramatic abduction of her 7-year-old daughter and later confessed the girl was killed turned on her husband, who's charged with the slaying.

Pauline Zile alleged Thursday John Zile tortured her and forced her to have an abortion.

While Mrs. Zile, 24, stood silent, her attorney, Ellis Rubin, said she was victimized first by her husband then by police.

Rubin said Zile, 32, tried to kill Mrs. Zile when they made a suicide pact the night before Zile confessed to killing Christina Holt. Police then threatened Mrs. Zile while questioning her husband in another room, saying they could not protect her from Zile if she didn't cooperate, Rubin said.

"The prosecution has condemned her and made her the most hated person in the southern United States and without her, the prosecution would not have solved this case," Rubin told reporters.

Mrs. Zile, who hasn't been charged in Christina's death, also asked for forgiveness.

"This is not a case of physical beating, this is a case of mental torment," said Rubin at the news conference attended by Mrs. Zile and her mother, Paula Yingling.

Mrs. Zile reported her daughter missing from a Fort Lauderdale flea market Oct. 22 and made a hysterical plea for her daughter's return. Days later, police announced Mrs. Zile had concocted the abduction tale to cover up the girl's death at the hands of Zile, her stepfather.

Zile remained jailed without bail Thursday on charges of first-degree murder and two counts of aggravated child abuse for two previous beatings the child allegedly suffered.

Mrs. Zile told police her husband had beaten Christina to death when she wouldn't stop crying in their Riviera Beach apartment. He led police to the body Oct. 27 in a field near a Tequesta shopping center.

"I pray that everyone who ever knew and will know me will forgive me for not being a strong person and eventually will trust me again," Mrs. Zile said in a statement read by Rubin.

"No mother just stands there and allows her child to be killed in cold blood," Rubin said.

Cops seek suspect in beating

By NICK PFEIPAUF

LONGWOOD — Seminole County sheriff's investigators are following up leads in an aggravated battery and robbery reported yesterday at 364 Howard Boulevard in Longwood.

According to sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough, at approximately 9:30 yesterday morning, James Lush, 25, met an unidentified man at a convenience store on C.R. 427 near Longwood, and the man followed Lush back to his home on Howard Boulevard.

McDonough said when the two were in Lush's home, the man reportedly picked up a ceramic statue and began beating Lush in the head and upper torso.

The man then reportedly ransacked the house for money and valuables.

Rush is then reported to have fled from his house to the nearby home of an off-duty deputy sheriff to report the incident.

The suspect meanwhile, got into his vehicle and drove off. Although the deputy reportedly tried to follow, he was unable to apprehend the man.

Paramedics took Lush to South Seminole Hospital with reported head injuries.

It is not known at this time whether any items were stolen from the house.

McDonough said the suspects vehicle is a 1987 silver Chevrolet Celebrity, that had been reported stolen during a carjacking in Winter Park earlier yesterday morning.

The suspect is described as a white male, 26 to 28 years old, five feet seven, 160 pounds, with short brown hair and a mustache.

McDonough suggests anyone with information regarding the incident should contact the sheriff's office or local law enforcement agency as soon as possible.

Predictions are for excellent weather and a good turnout this Saturday and Sunday for the 2nd annual Holiday Craftfest in Sanford, sponsored by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

The event will be held at Fort Melon Park, east of the chamber headquarters from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. each day.

Chamber executive director Dave Farr said this year is shaping up to be better than the first year. "We had just slightly over 40 crafters last year," he said, "but by early this week, we had already arranged for about 50 this year, so there will be a lot more to see."

Items include unique handmade crafts designed and produced by local and nationally recognized artists, blown glass, pottery, hand crafted furniture, heritage dolls, Christmas wreaths, Victorian crafts, ceramic gifts, leather, stained glass, hand made jewelry, and many others.

Entertainment is also being provided, beginning at 11 a.m. Saturday with the Sanford Middle School Jazz Band. Other entertainment will be provided at various times by Pinecrest Elementary School Chorus, S.O.D.A. Pops from the School of Dance Arts, and Hollywood East Cloggers. Other musical groups have are also expected to perform.

Blossom the Clown will be on hand for face painting and entertaining children as well as adults.

A car show is also planned. "We have a wonderful assortment of food this year," Farr said. "Just about everything people could think of will be available this year."

Food includes funnel cakes, nachos, gourmet coffee, soft pretzels, gyros, pita sandwiches, lamb, grilled onions, and various meat and seafood delicacies.

"We are fully aware that there are other arts and crafts festivals being held this weekend in Central Florida," Farr said, "but we have a wide variety of items and food right here in Sanford, and we believe with our good parking and less crowded atmosphere, we will be a good alternative to the other festivals."

Farr suggested, "Why not come to our festival at Fort Melon Park in Sanford one day this weekend, then visit some of the others on the other day."

For information on exhibit space or other matters, phone the chamber office at 322-2212.

The award winning S.O.D.A. Pops, from Miriam & Valerie's School of Dance Arts will be one of the featured performing groups at the Holiday Craftfest in downtown Sanford this weekend. The group will perform on stage near the Chamber of Commerce building at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Buddy Dyer for senator

When we first met Buddy Dyer two years ago, he argued his Democratic Party affiliation will give Central Florida a needed voice in Tallahassee as the District 14 senator. That affiliation did get him appointed to chairmanship of the Professional Regulation Committee, an impressive feat for a freshman. Yet there has been little evidence Dyer has used that influence to promote projects in his district, which includes Sanford and Midway. He did help preserve funding for worthwhile Seminole County school programs under threat of cuts, but he offers no examples, nor could we find any, of his torch-bearing for local initiatives. On a statewide level, he has sponsored or supported many worthwhile causes, including the merger of two statewide environmental agencies and welfare reforms, including working to stop prisoners from collecting state and federal assistance checks. And he also sponsored a very bad bill. Dyer authored a measure to allow pharmacists to charge for their advice. This proposal received unanimous, yes, unanimous support from his fellow senators, but died before a House vote was taken. This action raises serious questions about the sincerity of Dyer and his colleagues to make medical care more affordable for all and reduce the high cost of state-funded medical assistance. Dyer's Republican opponent Nancy Patterson takes strong stands on crime-fighting, saying criminals should serve longer sentences and suggests inmates share beds in shifts to pack more bodies into present facilities. She favors cutting benefits for single mothers who continue having babies and other get-tough stances which appeal to many but are unlikely to meet with much success. The Sanford Herald recommends the re-election of Buddy Dyer with the suggestion he focus more attention on the needs in District 14 and spend less time chasing political ambitions.

Gene Stephenson for circuit judge

The tough decisions required of our circuit court judges are best made by a person with much trial experience and working knowledge of the criminal justice system. Family law is an important and busy dimension of circuit court, but the explosive growth of juveniles in the system coupled with the added focus on felonies in Florida demands this experience. Gene Stephenson has practiced law for 34 years, as a trial attorney and including a 12 year stint as a municipal judge in Altamonte Springs and Longwood. He has been called tough, but fair, a position we feel he will carry with him to the bench in the Seminole Brevard district. His ideas include more active participation from victims of crime and a stronger working relationship with law enforcement. He will make himself available to issue search warrants at odd hours, a gesture that will surely make the job police officers do easier in the dead of night. Stephenson's opponent, Carmine Bravo, is a skilled mediator who employs those skills competently in his family law practice. Clients can be certain he has probably saved them fat fees with his ability to get adversaries to compromise. But a judge doesn't sit on the bench to seek compromise. Mediation should be done before a case comes to trial before him. He must make firm decisions based on case law and evidence before him. We feel Gene Stephenson will do that. The Sanford Herald endorses his election Nov. 8 to the Eighteenth Judicial Circuit Court in Seminole County.

Corrine Brown for U.S. House

Corrine Brown was elected two years ago amid a great deal of jubilation and hope. For the first time, minority Florida Democrats felt they finally had a voice in Washington. Since then, Brown has proven effective in assuring District 3 gets a share of federal funding for job-producing programs, new law enforcement officers and other programs. Unfortunately, she hasn't been as successful for the Seminole County portions of her district. Millions of dollars have gone to projects in her home Jacksonville and in Orlando, Daytona Beach and elsewhere, but not a cent here. Still, Sanford officials and residents have found her attentive to local needs. Brown has visited the area several times, surprising considering the gerrymander extends through 14 counties from Duval to Orange. Brown's GOP opponent Marc Little, while espousing sound conservative views, has stated he would refuse to hire persons with alternative sexual lifestyles. This position comes at a time when the federal government is realizing equal preference is not indicative of ability or ethics. We do not think this view is representative of the beliefs of most District 3 constituents. Corrine Brown has worked hard to represent a nearly unmanageable district and deserves to continue her efforts. The Sanford Herald recommends the re-election of Corrine Brown to the Third District of the U.S. House of Representatives.

Make the world safe for capitalism

"The world must be made safe for democracy" - Woodrow Wilson, 1917
Peace is a prelude to democratic government. Democracy paves the way for a capitalistic economy. In 1994, the world is more democratic than it was in 1917, when the world in Wilson's narrow view consisted of America, Europe and Haiti. But today's world is not necessarily more capitalistic. It is, however, doing better at being peaceful. Certainly that picture of Jordan's King Hussein lighting Israel Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's cigarette (no doubt to the delight of the tobacco companies) dramatizes how far nations have moved toward a global, peaceful co-existence. Peace isn't an established ubiquity yet, but it's on a roll. No small energy in that process is Bill Clinton. Like Woodrow Wilson, he is using - paradoxically - America's firepower and prestige to ensure peace. If the world has become more democratic, why hasn't it become more capitalistic? The evidence is conclusive. State-controlled economies cannot compete in productivity with free-market economies. Yet, many Third World nations still are reluctant to embrace an economic system that they link to colonialistic exploitation. The economic superiority of a free market over a state or oligarchy-controlled economy is a painful lesson Russia has learned and South Africa recognizes. The free market state is also a model to which Aristidized Haiti currently aspires. America's economic interests are heavily tied to all three countries' economic success. Clinton has not made as successful a case for propping up the democratically elected Aristide as he has in opening the U.S. Treasury to Russia. South African President Nelson Mandela's recent visit dramatically underscored America's economic involvement in South Africa's future. Along with Aristide's eloquent plea in his inaugural address for a political peace as a prelude to economic security, Mandela's equally eloquent plea for economic assistance before a joint session of Congress made the case for capitalism. "The new world order that is in the making must focus on the creation of democracy, peace and prosperity for all humanity," Mandela said. "The success of your entrepreneurs, and with it the capacity of your society to give work to every citizen, rests on the fact of the elevation of every person, anywhere in the world to the position of A FREE ACTOR IN THE MARKETPLACE (my emphasis)." "A buyer is a buyer, regardless of race or class," Mandela concluded. That's about as close as you can get to Economics 101, a lesson that even a capitalistic America has had a hard time accepting when it comes to the economic worth of black people. The Clinton administration has pledged almost $700 million in aid to South Africa, and reports from that country, according to the Wall Street Journal, indicate a coming together of black and white South Africans. Even so, American corporations still aren't rushing to invest in South Africa.

Peace is a prelude to democratic government.

WHEN YOU GROW UP YOU MAY, IF THE OCCASION DEMANDS, HENRY, HAVE YOUR WIVES BEHEADED. BUT IT WOULD BE VERY, VERY RUDE IF YOU WERE TO SAY YOU NEVER LOVED THEM. THAT COULD BRING DOWN THE MONARCHY.

GUEST COLUMNIST

Chiles is friend to educators

By PAT L. TORNILLO JR.

Florida Opinion
Polls show Floridians are most concerned about two issues in the upcoming election: crime and education. The two are inseparable. A good education is the strongest deterrent to a life of crime. Learning to read, write and function in society is the key to crime prevention and criminal reform. Unfortunately, crime and education often combine in another way, with crimes being committed on campuses across the state. Children cannot learn in an atmosphere of fear. Our schools must be made safe before any other reforms can take place. After taking a close look at the plans of Gov. Lawton Chiles and Jeb Bush for Florida's schools, FEA/United has joined a coalition of other education interests in full support of Gov. Chiles. It is clear to us that Bush's idea for "reforming" public education is essentially to get rid of it through the use of vouchers. This is not surprising coming from a man who attended private schools and is able to spend $30,000 a year to send his children to private schools. The core problem with his vouchers plan is the false assumption that the education offered by private schools is somehow superior to that of public schools. In fact, according to the Oct. 1994 issue of Money magazine:
• Students attending the best public schools outperform most private school students.
• The average public schoolteacher has stronger academic qualifications than the average private schoolteacher.
• The best public schools offer a more challenging curriculum than most private schools.
• Public school class sizes are no larger than in most private schools and are smaller than most Catholic schools.
So why does Bush want to spend millions of taxpayers' dollars sending public school students to private schools, including religious schools? If enacted today, these so-called "portable scholarships," or vouchers, would cost the state over $700,000 before the first public school student got one, because current private school students would be the first in line for the handout. When public school students are added in, we're talking about spending 41 billion to subsidize private schools. Where is the money going to come from? Jeb Bush doesn't have an answer. Another important fact to remember about private schools is that they do not have to accept any children that don't meet their criteria. In the end, only the best and brightest students would have their private school tuition paid for by the state, the others would be left behind in public schools because they don't meet private schools' lofty standards. "Segregation" is one way to describe the result. I won't even begin to examine the problems of using public money to send students to private religious schools, a blatant violation of the separation of church and state required by the United States Constitution. Now I return to the question of crime in schools. After 14 years as head of a union representing more than 50,000 teachers and school-related employees, I know this is the Number One concern of teachers, parents and students today. Chiles is committed to obtaining the funding necessary to put an end to crime on campus. He has already taken several important steps in that direction, including:

1. Placing police resource officers on campuses. This is being done as part of the Safe Schools program passed by Chiles in the last legislative session. He also provided $24 million to remove disruptive students from regular classrooms and place them in alternative schools.
2. Enforcing maximum punishment for all students who commit serious crimes on campus. This is the main focus of the new Zero Tolerance Policy on School-Related Crime that has been endorsed by Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Florida Cabinet. The policy requires law enforcement agencies to inform schools if a student commits a felony off-campus. All school boards are required to adopt the policy on a local level. What is Jeb Bush's plan for creating safer schools? He had none. In fact, he says he would do away with a new after-school program Chiles has enacted for at-risk middle school students. Gov. Lawton Chiles has shown a proven commitment to meeting the real needs of today's students. Creating safer schools is just the tip of the iceberg. He has already enacted reforms that will show positive results in coming years, and will continue making children a priority. He has empowered thousands of parents and teachers to improve schools and returned control to local school boards through Blueprint 2000. He has established 400 full-service schools to provide the health care and social services necessary for a safe and healthy student body. He has demanded schools be accountable to parents by releasing "report cards" on their progress. Bush, on the other hand, will only destroy any progress that has been made. His judgment is highly questionable, as seen by his choice of running mates. Tom Feeney is the product of the same extremist organization teachers worked so hard to successfully oust this year from Lake County's School Board. He publicly supported that group's "American First" policy to force teachers to teach their students that America is "superior" to other nations. He has also tried unsuccessfully to have vouchers adopted by the Legislature. Because of the vastly different platforms of these two candidates, the outcome of this election is crucial to every parent, teacher and student in the state. I cannot stress enough the importance of going to the polls Nov. 8 and voting for the children. Vote for Lawton Chiles. Editor's note: Pat L. Tornillo Jr. is president of Florida Education/United.

Democrats face trouble

WASHINGTON - Speaking of the aftermath of a nuclear war, Nikita Khrushchev once said, "The living will envy the dead." A political corollary to that chilling statement may be in the making for House Democrats the morning after the Nov. 8 midterm elections. Even if Democrats survive a Republican onslaught and retain their numerical majority, the victory will be one of the most hollow in the history of the House of Representatives. The casualty count goes beyond the number of seats the Republicans gain on the Democrats, who currently hold a 40-seat advantage. The House Democratic Caucus will emerge balkanized and conservative because moderates are facing a meltdown in their ranks. This specter is being suggested by one of President Clinton's closest political advisers, former California Rep. Tony Coelho, and several senior political strategists. Coelho told us during a recent interview: "The odds are the Democratic caucus will be more liberal because the moderates are the ones that have close races and are losing... You're going to have the (Democratic) conservatives demanding a bigger voice. The liberals will have a bigger percentage of the caucus and will be demanding that you stay the narrow path." The result, Coelho added, may be that "you won't have the votes to put things through within your own caucus." Rep. Jim McDermott, D-Wash., a liberal and a close ally of House Speaker Thomas Foley, D-Wash., concurs with Coelho's outlook. "The 104th Congress is going to be one of the toughest sessions, I think, in 50 years," says McDermott. "Whoever wins the so-called numbers game - and has 218 (seats) plus one - will essentially be struggling to govern the whole time." McDermott frets that Republicans will team up with Democratic conservatives to steer the agenda away from things he's been pushing, like health care reform. The coming upheaval reached critical mass because of two dynamics, says Norman Ornstein, resident scholar at the American Enterprise Institute. First, the activism in the Republican party tends to be more on the ideologically conservative side, just as the activism in the Democratic party tends to be more on the liberal side. Second, redistricting has left many congressional districts friendly to liberals. Political analyst Charles E. Cook also sees Democrats losing moderate voices through retirements and defeats. "They aren't going to lose many liberals," says Cook. "So the center of gravity within the Democratic caucus is going to move sharply left." Under one scenario spun by Coelho, the Democratic caucus could be thrown into chaos if the Democrats lose more than 25 seats, which is within the range he's predicting. Others like Cook are forecasting a blow-out of as many as 35 seats. "Twenty-five (losses) is the cut-off," warns Coelho. "Once you get over 25 you're starting to ask for trouble. The closer you get to 40 you could have defections (to the GOP). Or say you get to 30, you could have a coalition set up where Democrats and Republicans get together and organize the House in a unity ticket... You could have Democrats bolt the party and for a coalition government with Republicans." Coelho even believes House Minority Whip Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., the Democrats' chief nemesis, could be elected House Speaker even if the GOP falls 10 seats shy of winning a numerical majority in the House.

A political corollary to that chilling statement may be in the making for House Democrats.

Arrest warrant says mom confessed to killing sons

By JIM CLARKE
Associated Press Writer

UNION, S.C. — She spun a heartbreaking tale of being dumped on a lonely road by a carjacker who abducted her two young sons, and her tearful plea on national television for their return inspired a search from Georgia to Seattle.

Now Susan Smith has confessed to killing her sons, according to an arrest warrant.

And the nine-day search by authorities and hundreds of volunteers for 3-year-old Michael and 14-month-old Alex ended where their mother's story began, at John D. Long Lake.

Mrs. Smith's burgundy 1990 Mazda was pulled out of the lake Thursday night, the bodies of two children in the back seat. She was to be arraigned today on two charges of murder.

Union County Sheriff Howard Wells would not take questions at a news conference and did not discuss a possible motive. He said the identity of the bodies would have to be confirmed through an autopsy.

The arrest warrant did not say how they died. Police did not say if Mrs. Smith's estranged husband, David, was a suspect.

Residents of this mill town who searched and prayed for the children reacted with anger and bitterness. Dozens of people young son and sent him off to school.

He said he then donned a pair of rubber gloves, grabbed Stoll from behind and tried to snap her neck over his arm. With her husband looking passively on, she struggled and escaped, ran to the front door, which is in the bedroom, and screamed into the street for help.

Stewart told police Stoll told him not to stop or he would go to jail.

Stewart then pulled her back into the house where he said he tried to suffocate her with a cushion. When that attempt failed, Stoll allegedly provided him with a plastic garbage bag and told him to put it over her head.

She fought strongly. Even after the garbage bag was secured over her head, she ate through it and was able to breathe.

Whitmire said in the ensuing struggle, the rubber gloves Stewart was wearing tipped.

Julie Stoll was alive and conscious, Stewart told police, but was incoherent at that point.

Stewart told police Stoll handed him a padded bed rail from the waterbed and they put her neck on the wooden panel of the frame and snapped her neck.

Satisfied that his wife was dead, Stewart said, Stoll went about the house gathering up some items and pulling drawers out. He told police that Stoll took the gloves and the garbage bag and wrapped them in a towel and hid them in a car in the back yard.

Whitmire said those items were recovered.

The pair pried open a door and left the back gate open and went to work on a job installing flooring in Winter Park.

Along the way, the items Stoll took from the residence were thrown into various dumpsters. Her purse was thrown away in a Winter Park park.

Winter Park Police found the purse and called Sanford Police, thus confirming the connection between Stoll and Stewart and the murder, Whitmire said.

Stoll and Stewart have both been charged with first degree murder and are in the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Whitmire said Julie Stoll's child is presently with her mother, Julie Stoll and her mother had been making plans to be sure the grandmother would have custody of the child when she (Julie Stoll) died. According to Whitmire, she had between four months and a year to live.

Whitmire said police were called to the Stoll's house in May 1994 in reference to a report that Stoll had beaten his wife. He did not know if an arrest had been made at that time.

The couple were seeking a divorce, Whitmire said.

Stewart told police on Oct. 31 the Stolls had a particularly heated dispute in which Stoll claimed she was trying to "discredit" him in the community.

Whitmire said Stewart told police that later, he and Stoll were talking outside and Stoll told him, "That bitch has got to die."

Athletes

from the Sanford Herald, Pizza Hut, B1 105, and the Orlando Touchdown Club.

In his senior year at East Carolina, Blake was the MVP in the Peach Bowl, finished ninth in the Heisman Trophy balloting, and was named the North Carolina Amateur Athlete of the Year (over Christian Lattner).

While Blake is one of the bright new faces, Norton has been involved in recreational team athletics, youth and adult, since moving to Seminole County from Long Island in August of 1978.

"I did all of that when we lived in New York," said Norton, who was voted into the hall of fame as a contributor. "When we moved here, I had no intention of getting involved in it again. But Eddie (his son) was 12 and he started playing the different sports, so I just helped out the best I could."

That's understating Norton's involvement by a long shot.

On the youth level, Norton has been involved in or helped found the SYSA basketball program, the ICBA basketball program, Pop Warner football, Oviedo Little League, and the Southeast Seminole Babe Ruth Baseball League. And every softball season, Norton manages a men's team and a women's team.

"Helping the kids enjoy themselves and learn how to play is the real fun of it for me," said Norton. "The reward is watching those kids grow up and continue to be involved in athletics. It's a real thrill."

"Being voted into the hall of fame is a tremendous honor, especially since I'm a fan of several people already in the hall of fame, like Red Barber (inducted in 1982) and Joe Sterling (1982)."

The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce's annual banquet and hall of fame induction ceremonies will be conducted at Timacuan Country Club.

Tabled

coming from residents who live in the area near the subdivision and from a downtown residents' group backing them.

Joe Dennison, chairman of the P&Z commented on the matter this morning. "When I went to the meeting, I had reason to believe the applicant wanted to have the request withdrawn for a length of time until more plans could be made and details worked out."

"But when I got there," he continued, "I found a letter that didn't say anything about withdrawing it, it only said that they wanted it tabled because their attorney couldn't be at the meeting. It came as a surprise to me."

Citizens have objected to what they consider a lower priced development which they say may reduce the value of their property. They have also voiced complaints about increased traffic on Country Club Road and the possibility of increased crime through the large development.

"They have said it would be an instant slum, and all kinds of negative things," Dennison said, "but most of this is coming from rumor and innuendo."

Dennison explained that the land has been zoned for multi-family residential for possibly 20 years. "The developer only wants to develop," he said. "Actually, he would be upgrading it to single-family residential."

P&Z has been requested to approve the preliminary subdivision plat and approve a dimensional variance for rear yard setbacks and minimum parcel sizes.

When the matter was first brought before the P&Z, it was tabled when a controversy arose over the sending out of letters to surrounding property owners announcing the hearing.

Because of the letter received by Dennison last night, consideration of the requests by P&Z was postponed once again.

"We had practically all the seats in the commission chambers packed for this meeting," said Bob Cassels who had attended the meeting to voice his objections.

"I'll admit the crowd got rather rowdy and spoke when they probably shouldn't have," Cassels said, "but we were angry. They let the developers talk and talk during the first meeting, when the matter ended up being tabled, but they wouldn't allow us to give our side of the story last night."

Kim Myers, vice president of the Sanford Historic Trust was also on hand. "I can see the upset these homeowners feel," she said, "and the trust wants to give them our support. The letter we set out voicing our objections originally still stands, and we intend to continue pursuing this."

The proposal has now been tabled until the P&Z meeting on January 5, 1995. "It looks as though P&Z wants to continue holding off their decision long enough so that the people go away," Myers said.

Cassels agreed. "I believe they have already made up their minds to approve this, and are hoping the people will tire of attending meetings and stop showing up."

"I know people are saying we have already made up our minds on this," Dennison commented this morning, "but I assure you we want to give everyone the opportunity to discuss it and to know the facts, not just insinuations which surround this request."

Goal is to help protect all animals from abuse

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Correspondent

ORLANDO — "Animal Magnetism" is a musical endeavor coordinated by Riff West, former bassist for the bands Molly Hatchet and Foghat, to benefit people for the Ethical Treatment of Animals (PETA) and the P.A.W.S. in Harmony Foundation.

The world's largest animal rights organization with a membership of half a million, PETA's efforts include educational programs, advertisements, public events and investigations of any business where animal abuse and cruelty is found. PETA was founded in 1980 and is a non-profit organization.

P.A.W.S. in Harmony, Performers for Animal Welfare, was the brainchild West started in 1985. It is an organization of performers and entertainers, plus others, who are dedicated to the idea of protecting animal life through education, kindness and responsibility. With their yearly benefit concerts, and now a recording, P.A.W.S. works to educate and promote public awareness of the need to shield animals from any form of pain, suffering and abuse. West said the recording, "Animal Magnetism," is dedicated to all creatures great and small.

West grew up in the Winter Springs area graduating from Lyman High School in 1969, then attending University of Central Florida when it was Florida Technological University. He assisted in coaching at Oviedo High School in 1973.

"I always wanted to be a sports journalist. I'm just a frustrated jock," he joked.

Since one of West's brothers was in sports and one in music, he followed in each of their footsteps for a period of time until his big break. "I was always playing in bands," he said. "I was with a band called Brian Wood. We opened for Three Dog Night in Macon. It was then I said that's what I want to do. When I came back a guy from Vanilla Fudge told me if you start doing now what you really want to do, then by the time you're 35, you'll make it. He also said there's no such thing as luck when opportunity meets preparation. Another thing that was shared was you gotta be nice to people on the way up because you may meet them on the way down."

Although West's roots and family brought him back to the Central Florida area, he maintains close friendships in the music industry. After 19 years of road life he now combines his two loves — animals and music. His girlfriend and their seven animals live happily in Orlando.

The Hyatt Regency Grand Cypress will host the "Get A Life Festival Celebrating Pet Life" on Nov. 5. West along with Loretta Swit, and musical group, Rare Earth, will be present at the event.

West has been a longtime member of the Orlando Humane Society and has used his musical influences to produce annual benefit concerts to aid the society. In 1991, he received the Volunteer Service Award and was recently named Honorary Board Member of the Society.

Linda McCartney, Pat Travers, Jody Hudson, Linda Ronstadt, Edgar Winter, Carole King are some of the artists featured on the album. West and others from bands such as Bachman Turner Overdrive's D.F. Turner, Brian Howe from Ted Nugent and Bad Company, Jimi Jamison from Survivor, Lester Chambers, Alvin Morse, Lonesome Dave Beverett, Riff West, Dian Kelly and Michael Skye sing "Rescue Me" on the album. Many others have lent their musical talents for the benefit.

The festival will be held on Saturday, Nov. 5 at the Grand Cypress Racquet Club from 10

Satellite released from shuttle to map Earth's atmosphere

By MIKE DRAGO
Associated Press Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston — A rookie astronaut gently released a telescope-laden German satellite from shuttle Atlantis today for eight days of free-flying atmospheric research.

French crew member Jean-Francois Clervoy, on his first space flight, hoisted the 3,000-pound satellite from the shuttle cargo bay with the 50-foot robot arm. He held it high overhead while ground controllers completed final checks.

Then, as the shuttle flew 190 miles above northern Europe, Clervoy set the satellite free and commander Donald McMonagle slowly backed Atlantis away. The German space agency's white-and-gold-colored craft shifted into its own orbit against a backdrop of bright blue Earth and pitch black space.

"That was an outstanding deploy," Mission Control told the crew.

Release and retrieval of the satellite is one of the astronauts' chief jobs during the 11-day mission that began Thursday.

To avoid contamination from shuttle exhaust, the satellite must fly free during its observations and will trail Atlantis by up to about 70 miles until astronaut Ellen Gehos plucks it from orbit next week.

The $35 million satellite is carrying three infrared telescopes and other instruments designed to create a three-dimensional map of the flow of gases in Earth's middle atmosphere, an area from 7 to 17 miles up.

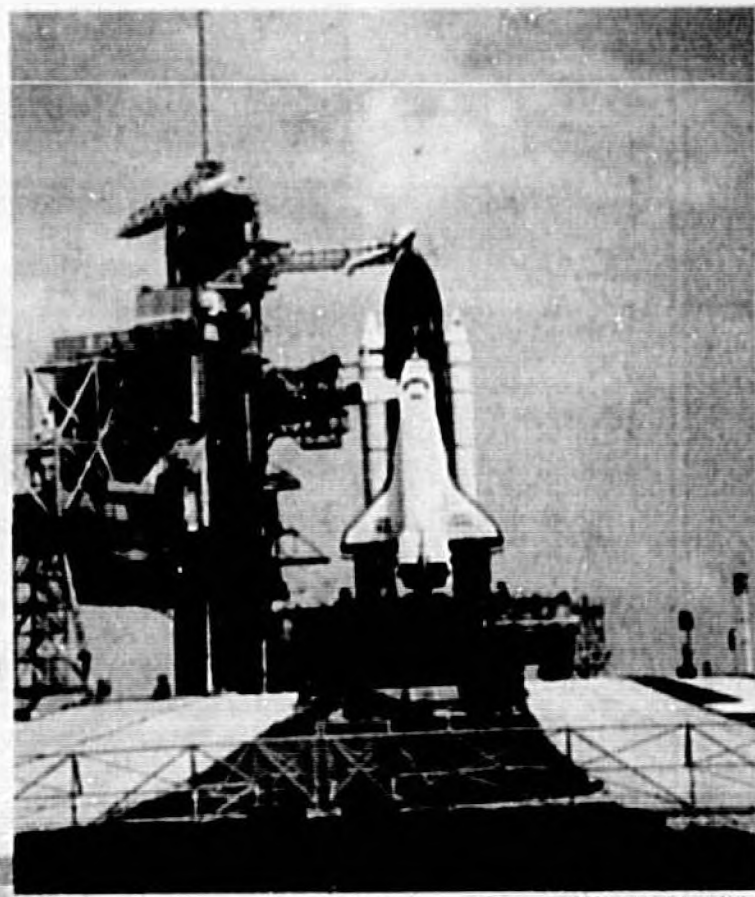

Physicists hope to gather the first global information about medium- and small-scale disturbances in the middle atmosphere. Much is already known about such phenomena as the gaping ozone hole over the Antarctic, but only theories exist about smaller disruptions.

Satellite data will be matched against current computer models and could lead to a better understanding of atmospheric composition and how heat is distributed around the planet, scientists say.

Ground controllers detected increasing pressure in a satellite helium tank Thursday after astronauts locked onto the spacecraft with the robot arm for a system check. About 200 gallons of liquid helium are stored on board to cool the delicate science instruments.

Mission scientists watched the tank closely overnight and reported early today that pressure had leveled off and was expected to decline. The glitch was not expected to disrupt operations, NASA said.

Astronauts today activated secondary experiments aboard the shuttle, including a study of crystal growth in space. Atlantis' other primary cargo, seven instruments scouring the stratosphere from the shuttle cargo bay were turned on hours after Thursday's launch.

Scientists in charge of the instruments are particularly interested in the ozone hole, which swells every fall and this year is about the size of North America. To study the hole, the shuttle orbit crosses just below the tip of South America.

Atlantis and its six-member crew are due back on Earth Nov. 14.

outside the county courthouse gasped and sobbed when the charges were announced.

"If you could see the way she acted that night, that's the main thing that gets me," said Rick McCloud Jr., who was at home with his parents on Oct. 25 when Mrs. Smith pounded on their door, crying for help. "Just to think, for a solid week I was defending her. It gets me sick to my stomach."

"Is there ever an explanation for murder?" David Smith's grandmother, Sara Singleton of Los Angeles, told KNBC-TV. "Two little innocent children? There is no explanation for murder."

Solicitor Thomas Pope said Mrs. Smith's confession led investigators to her car Thursday afternoon. It had been driven off a boat ramp. Divers had searched the lake several times, but the water was too murky to see the car, authorities said.

Mrs. Smith, 27, told authorities an adult man jumped into her car at a stoplight in a sparsely populated area at the edge of town near the lake. She said he ordered her to drive several miles, then forced her out and took off with her two sons still strapped in their safety seats.

"Our lives have been torn apart by this tragic event," Mrs. Smith said earlier this week, her husband by her side. "I can't express how much they are wanted back home."

Police circulated a composite sketch based on Mrs. Smith's description of the alleged kidnapper, and people called in tips from around the country. People in Union staged prayer vigils, hung yellow ribbons and posted pictures of the children.

"If she didn't want those children, she could have given them to me or any other mother in Union," said Karen Huss, who has two young children. "We would have taken them."

As late as Tuesday, Union County Sheriff Howard Wells said he was treating the case "as a carjacking that happened as it was reported," although investigators were perplexed about how the car and the boys could have disappeared so completely.

On Wednesday, police searched Mrs. Smith's home and took several bags. They refused to say what they were looking for.

The Smiths filed for divorce in September. Mrs. Smith was granted custody of the two children and her husband had visitation rights.

The unraveling of Mrs. Smith's story is similar to the 1989 Charles Stuart murder case in Boston. Stuart, a white man, told police a black man shot his pregnant wife to death. Stuart later jumped to his death from a bridge as investigators zeroed in on him as the killer.

Mrs. Smith, who is white, described the carjacker as an armed black man wearing a knit cap.

"No one asked the two babies whether they wanted to live or die," said Rose Marie Savage, the mother of a 3-year-old daughter. "Union used to be a close-knit town. Now things will never be the same around here."

Seminoles, Silver Hawks open with lopsided wins in Classic

Allison Duncan and the Lake Howell Silver Hawks advanced to Saturday's finals of the Lake Howell Tip-Off Classic with a 46-14 win over Tavares.

SANFORD — While the Seminole Fighting Seminoles were in a hurry from the opening tip, the Lake Howell Silver Hawks hurried up and waited Thursday night as both teams scored big wins in the Lake Howell Tip-Off Classic.

Seminole's defense forced more than two dozen turnovers in the opening game as the Tribe blitzed the Bishop Moore Hornets, 76-43. The nightcap saw Lake Howell methodically take apart the Tavares Bulldogs, 46-14.

The quartet of teams will return to Lake Howell Saturday night, Bishop Moore taking on Tavares at 5 p.m. and Seminole facing Lake Howell at 7 p.m.

"It's good for us to play a team like Seminole early," said Lake Howell coach Dennis Codrey. "They're very quick on defense and gave us a lot of trouble in the one quarter we played with them at the jamboree last week."

"We're going to have to learn to deal with that kind of defensive pressure if we're going to be competitive this year."

Pressing whenever possible and playing man-to-man defense every second of the way, Seminole ran Bishop Moore ragged. Along with the 26 turnovers created, Seminole was whittled for 27 fouls, leading to a 19-for-30 effort from the free throw line for the Hornets.

Tennessee Eason had 37 points, 10 rebounds, and five steals for the Seminoles. Minder Hampton contributed 14 points, Katie Graham and Gretchen O'Toole each netted 15 points for Bishop Moore.

SANFORD — It was a game fitting of its championship billing.

A.D. Rosier/Florida Sport Wear and Sportsmart hooked up in a classic defensive struggle in the Sanford Recreation Thursday Men's Fall Slowpitch Softball League at Chase Park.

The game went down to the wire before Rosier/FSW claimed its third straight league title, scoring four runs in the top of the seventh inning to win 6-2.

In the other game, M.A. Erectors grabbed a firm hold on third place, clubbing Beer:30 14-5. Wane Densch, Inc. had the week off.

Rosier/FSW scored a pair of runs in the top of the first inning on an RBI single by Mitch Burke and a sacrifice fly by Tony Baile. Sportsmart tied the score in the bottom of the fifth inning on RBI singles by Tom Wilks and George Davidson.

Rosier/FSW started the winning rally with three consecutive singles by Rick Yates, Jerry Brussels and Brantley Brumley, with Brumley driving in Yates with the go-ahead run. After a fly out, Gordon Clark and Steve Woodley singled in insurance runs and the final run scored on a throwing error.

Rosier/FSW, which has a bye next week, finishes the season 9-1 and now has the Fall title to go along with the Polar Bear and Spring titles it won earlier this year.

Trailing the winners are Sportsmart (7-2), M.A. Erectors (6-2) and Beer:30 (5-2).

FFWC VIPs meet in Sanford

Woman's club hosts District VII Fall Tour

SANFORD — The Woman's Club of Sanford hosted the FFWC Florida Federation of Women's Clubs District VII Fall Tour meeting in the clubhouse on Oct. 29 with dignitaries and representatives from 18 Central Florida federated clubs attending.

The welcoming addresses were given by DeLores Lash, president of the Woman's Club of Sanford and Tina Lee, president of the Junior Woman's Club of Sanford.

District VII Director Margaret Stricklen conducted the business meeting and introduced the guest speakers: Alberta Alberti, president of FFWC Florida Federation of Women's Clubs from Miami and her second vice president, Ann James of Auburndale. The District VII Junior Director, Debbie Doll from Kissimmee, was also present.

President Alberti spoke on "Leading the Way" and promised more brainstorming sessions, more workshops on parliamentary procedure and more help with club projects.

According to Libby Prevatt, woman's club spokesman, Alberti said, "The FFWC is having a big party to celebrate its 100th birthday on May 6-9 of 1995 at the Clarion Plaza Hotel in Orlando and all federated women's club members are invited to attend."

Vice president Ann James explained the structure of the FFWC and urged members to accept offices whenever asked and to become more involved.

The voting delegates from the Woman's Club of Sanford were President DeLores Lash, First Vice President Fran Morton, Recording Secretary Libby Prevatt, Rental Chairman Martha Yancey, and Jeanette Padgett, Long Range Planning Committee.

The FFWC Centennial Committee will honor three outstanding women in District VII for their contributions and achievements during the past 100 years of service. Two women from Sanford were selected, Dr. Herberta Ann Leonardy and Mrs. Ernest (Laura) Galloway. Both are now deceased but they will be honored for their outstanding service to their clubs, their district, and their state affiliations, Prevatt said.

Three members nominated to serve on the nominating committee to elect state officers are: Frances Mitchell, Martha Yancey and Tina Lee.

During their stay in Sanford, Alberti and James were the houseguests of Charlotte Smith who, according to Prevatt, took great pleasure in entertaining the state dignitaries.

Celebrating the season

Tenants at Bram Towers held a Halloween party during the regularly scheduled Oct. 28 dinner. A ham dinner was served to those attending and the Halloween contest was judged by Louise Hayes, Lou Wrobel and Rose Lauricella. Competing in the costume contest are (from left): Dot Kirtley, second place; Mable Pithoud, third place; Eleanor Eichorn, Carolyn Mason, first place; and Lola Mae Edwards.

Don't be haunted in January over Christmas bills

If you are an overenthusiastic gift giver in December, you can be haunted in January by the bills of December. You don't have to go broke during the holidays if you think ahead and do some advanced planning. Here are seven steps for keeping your holiday budget on track.

- Get organized. Make a list of all your holiday expenses including gifts, decorations, travel, entertainment, cards and postage, utilities, phone calls, party clothing, etc. Determine what you think you will need to spend.
- Know how much you are worth. List all your holiday assets such as bonus, Christmas Club account, savings, cash on hand, and checking balance after regular bills are paid. Then determine liabilities including debts, charges on credit cards, November/December bills, and other holiday expenses not already recorded. Subtract your liabilities from your assets. This is the net amount you have for the holiday spending.
- Decide what you want to do with your money. Decide on gifts for family, friends, co-workers, teachers, etc. What activities will you and your family participate in and what entertaining will you do. Will you take a trip during the holiday season? Have you budgeted for phone calls to family and friends who live out of town. Will you be sending cards and gifts? Have you determined how much postage will cost for these? If you will be attending any holiday gatherings, will you need any new clothing? What about decorations for your home? If you are having company, what special foods will you be buying and preparing?

● Determine how much you can spend. Review all the planned expenditures and activities. Balance your budget.

● Make a list. (Check it twice!)

● Stick to your plan. Ask yourself: Are you giving gifts because you want to or do you feel you must? Are you trying to keep up with the Jones? Do you set a price limit and stick to it? Remember, it's the thought that counts!

● Review your plan after the holidays: How did you do? Were your expectations realistic? What changes can you make next year? Organize a holiday business center. Begin planning for next year so you can take advantage of sales throughout the year.

Woman warns: Cancer strikes the young

DEAR ABBY: I am 24, married and have four daughters. Two months ago, I discovered a lump in my breast, so I made an appointment with my doctor. He examined me and sent me to see a surgeon, who did a needle biopsy.

A week later, I learned it was a malignant tumor (cancer), so I'm scheduled to have my breast removed in two weeks.

Abby, I'm so sick of hearing doctors say that women under the age of 35 are not at risk for breast cancer. Although there is no history of breast cancer in my family, I am living proof that cancer can strike anyone at any age.

If it weren't for doing monthly breast exams on myself, I never would have discovered the lump.

Please tell your readers to feel for "lumps" in their breasts regularly. (Men, too. Although breast cancer is rare in men — it does occur.)

TEENA: There are going to be a lot of prayers for you — mine included. Thank you for writing to warn my readers. Early detection has saved many a life.

Readers: For more information on breast cancer, call the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are having a disagreement, which I hope you can settle. He says I'm overreacting, but I think I have every right to be upset.

Ever since I married "Norm" three years ago, I have supported him and his children from a previous marriage on a teacher's salary. Needless to say, we live from paycheck to paycheck. Our credit cards are maxed out, and we have had to borrow money from our parents to live.

Nine months ago, Norm's sister "Emily" asked him to install heating and air conditioning in her new home. He did, but she hasn't paid Norm one dime! I estimated the total amount to be somewhere between $7,000 and $10,000. With this, we could have paid off almost all we owe on our credit cards, and also for the repairs to our house and car.

I feel used. It's one thing for Norm to expect me to support our family, but for Emily to take advantage of me too is a bit much! I know she has no intention of paying him, and he has no intention of asking her for the money.

Emily's income is three times greater than ours, and she just came into a substantial inheritance, so she can well afford to pay Norm for this work.

The financial strain has taken a toll on our marriage. Am I wrong to be upset?

FED UP IN ILLINOIS
DEAR FED UP: You are well

within your rights to be upset. I suggest that you speak candidly with your sister-in-law and explain that you desperately need the money Norm earned for working on her home. Taking this situation into your own hands may create some friction between you and your husband, but, as I see it, it's the most sensible solution.

DEAR ABBY: I used to date a guy who still likes me a lot more than I like him. He is also very nosy. He asks me questions that are none of his business. Lately he has been showing up at all the places he knows I frequent. This is happening too often for it to be coincidental.

He has been stopping by my house, unannounced and uninvited, and I have a hard time getting rid of him. This is beginning to irritate me. How should I handle this? He gives me the creeps.

NEED MY SPACE
DEAR NEED: There's a name for this guy's irritating behavior — it's called "harassment," and there are laws prohibiting it.

Inform this pest that if he doesn't stop harassing you, you will report him to the local police. And if he continues to stalk you, make good on your threat.

It All Adds Up...

"This couldn't be, I thought I used all the right numbers. It just doesn't add up."
 This young accountant is learning a valuable lesson. Life doesn't always add up...no matter how hard we try. Can we deal with these situations without becoming bitter and discouraged? There must be a way to make sense of it.
 We must accept the fact that there will always be times that try us, but we can be comforted that God knows of our frustrations. "When my spirit is faint, thou knowest my way!", exclaims David in Psalm 142:3. Our Heavenly Father knows the tribulations of humanity, yet through tribulation we grow strong when we have faith that God is in control even when we are not.
 Life is not an exercise in futility. It is a lesson in faith. When life doesn't seem to make sense, you can count on God. Worship Him this week. It all adds up.

Center ACCEPTs pregnancy

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Correspondent

LONGWOOD — The ACCEPT Pregnancy Center in Longwood began operation at its first location on State Road 427 in January of 1989. The office is now located at 282 Short Ave., Suite 124. The move took place in April of 1993. The center's Administrative Director, Sandra Adkison, was the hub that got the wheel rolling. She was unavailable for comment since most of her duties now take her to the new center in Ocoee. This ministry has become a large part of a mission of the Churches of Christ in the Central Florida area. Many of its volunteers and staff such as Patty Grinnell and others not only generously contribute time but also money to continue this work.

Sharon Daniel, Director of the Longwood office, spoke about the beginning of this work and how Adkison began. "For many years the question of abortion had been bothering her," said Daniel. "She studied the Bible and all different resources. That formed the opinions she holds today."

Daniel discussed that Adkison began working at a pregnancy center in Winter Park called True Life Choice to receive first-hand experience in the working and daily progress of a facility of this kind. "She saw one of the workers praying with one of the clients. She saw this as a ministry as well as a way of saving babies."

The center's numbers have grown progressively over the years. In January of 1989 they spoke with 21 clients then in January of 1994 - 133 clients were served.

"The goal of the pregnancy center is ultimately to lead women to Christ," said Daniel. "We offer free pregnancy tests, maternity clothes and baby clothes to size 6. We educate women on options for their pregnancy. We discuss the development of the baby."

In addition Daniel further elaborated. "We offer information on positive alternatives. We don't force our views. We take every person where they are and try to meet their needs. Whether the need is housing, or food if we can't help we refer them to someone who can. We give them information for a healthy pregnancy and we encourage early prenatal care. We help them find low cost medical care."

Because the center relies mainly on volunteers, daily operations can be quite busy with few hands. "We desperately need volunteers," said Daniel. "We need people to do clerical work and help in the clothing room."

Information may be received by calling the center at 339-1544.

Are Christians a light to the world?

SUSAN WENNER

SANFORD — The Bible says in Matthew 5:14 that, "Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on a hill cannot be hid."

In keeping with this verse, some in the Christian community voice that believers that choose to enroll their children in private Christian schools or choose to homeschool are not allowing their lights to shine as Jesus instructed. Many adults decide to begin a company claiming to be a Christian business of seek employment by such employers.

Are Christians coping out on the words of Christ? Are believers following the scripture that speaks of being in the world but not of the world?

Assistant Pastor Jim Harp of Deltona Alliance Church, spoke concerning his views on the topic. "I believe Jesus said you are the light to the world and salt of the earth. Jesus also said you are in the world but not of the world. He says we're to be a beacon and a seasoning. I believe schooling is an individual or family choice. As Christian parents we see that one child might thrive well as a light and others might not be able to handle it. Where would anything public be if all the Christians were taken out?"

He further explained his position. "I don't think Christians are coping out. You are more likely to find good workers in a Christian environment. You tend to find the honest qualities and moral qualities in the life of a Christian. It really is a blending. It's an individual call on individual circumstances. I think the key is it's an individual decision

I think sometimes people hide behind Christianity. We need to determine if we and the children are strong enough to withstand the storms."

Do herbal remedies help menopause?

DEAR DR. GOTT: Upon reading your column on post-menopausal hormone therapy, I have become curious why medical doctors do not recommend herbal treatments. I've been taking such a remedy for some time now and after the first week, my night sweats and hot flashes have disappeared completely.

DEAR READER: The reason that herbal remedies are not used is that they are generally ineffective, according to medical authorities. Most women pass through menopause relatively uneventfully, except for moodiness and hot flashes.

For those women who suffer more severe symptoms, such as heavy bleeding hormone therapy, prescribed by a physician, is more appropriate.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can a house cat transmit staph infection to a human? My 18-year-old daughter has had this problem for over two years, and her cat has open sores. Are the two related?

DEAR READER: Staph bacteria often infect animals as well as humans, causing open, draining wounds. Your daughter should take her cat to a veterinarian.

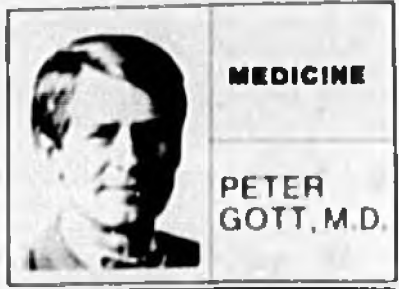

The animal may require simultaneous antibiotic therapy (along with your daughter) in order to cure the infection and prevent back-and-forth transmission.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Your December 1992 column discussed a testosterone patch. Due to cancer of the prostate, I first had radiation treatments. They worked for over four years, but the cancer ultimately reappeared. I then underwent bilateral orchiectomy. That cured my cancer but has caused a loss of strength and endurance, in addition to loss of leg and arm hair. Has there been any further progress on this patch and how would a person go about getting in on some of the testing?

DEAR READER: Prostate cancer thrives in the presence of testosterone, male hormone.

Therefore, the treatment of this cancer usually includes drugs that block testosterone, or orchiectomy (removal of the testicles) or female hormone (to counteract testosterone).

Unfortunately, all these therapies affect sexuality and can cause weight gain, weakness and hair loss. This is the price you have to pay to have your prostate cancer kept under control.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Bridge is difficult — some would say impossible — to show live on television primarily because the play is too slow. However, at some major bridge events, there is a Vu-Graph presentation. An audience sits in a theater, watching the play at one table, usually with closed-circuit television cameras showing the players' beads of perspiration. Simultaneously, commentators analyze the bidding and play. Sometimes, though, it is harder for the commentators to find the winning play, when looking at all 52 cards, than it is for the declarer, who can see only 26.

Today's deal was played during the final of a Vanderbilt teams by Lou Bluhm, who died in 1980. Two clubs was Drury, showing a maximum pass with spade support.

The defenders began with two rounds of trumps. At this point, the commentators decided the contract had to finish one down. But Bluhm found the way home. After winning the second trick in the dummy, declarer cashed dummy's heart ace and ruffed a heart in hand. Entering the dummy twice in diamonds, Bluhm ruffed two more hearts in his hand. Then South cashed the diamond ace, his eighth trick, and continued with the diamond king. How could West defend?

If he discarded declarer would claim his contract with dummy's top trump. So West ruffed. But now he had to open up the club suit, giving a trick to South's king.

Bluhm had gained one trump trick from the dummy reversal, ruffing those hearts in his hand, and one club trick from the endplay.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Nov. 5, 1994

Your material prospects for the year ahead are good, but unusual. Where you least expect to make money, you probably will where you think you'll score big, you might not.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your financial aspects look very good at this time, but you'll have to earn what you hope to receive. If you don't look at this as the hard way, you'll have fun prospecting. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail 82 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Whether teaching, selling or merely conveying information, you will be very effective today at getting your points across. The bits of wisdom you have to offer are helpful.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.

19) Today you might experience some unexpected changes that buffet you about a bit. However, when the turbulence subsides, the going should be smooth as silk.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're likely to fare better today in a partnership than operating independently. The results could be exceptional if you have a dynamic ally.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Objectives you establish for yourself today are achievable, because you'll not wane or waffle, regardless of the obstacles you may have to overcome.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Challenges are apt to stimulate you today. You'll take pride and pleasure in doing what you have to do well. Your example could inspire others.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't be content with things as they are today if you think you can make them better. Make improvements even if they are difficult.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your attitude and behavior today can earn you the respect of others. Live up to your word even if you feel it benefits the other guy more than you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your financial position will be enhanced if you focus on ways to add to your earnings today. Chances are you already know of something with good potential.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Some collaborative project is not being managed properly. Everyone knows this, but no one knows how to correct it except you. It's time to volunteer your services.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be optimistic today; you're likely to finish stronger than you started. Focus on victory and don't blink.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Listen to what others say today, but don't be overwhelmed by their suggestions and comments. When you stop and think about it, you'll see you're on the same wavelength.
