P&Z Member Recall Fails To Make County Agenda

By Kathy Tyrity
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Commission Tuesday night briefly considered scheduling a future agenda item to discuss recalling Harry Hagle from the Planning & Zoning Commission.

The matter was brought up by Art Davis of Sanford and Grant McEwan of Casselberry, who had also objected to the increase in sewer rates, saying the money would be going to pay for the purchase of property known as Yankee Lake.

McEwan said he has been trying without success for several weeks to get this item on the agenda but was not given an opportunity to speak. He had his opportunity Tuesday night, a few hours after the commission had reappointed Hagle to the P&Z commission.

McEwan, who runs a loss-recovery business, said Hagle "has threatened me with bodily harm due to my personal investigation of the purchase of property commonly called Yankee Lake by the Seminole County Commission on Nov. 6.

"This conduct by Mr. Hagle has rendered him unable to be objective in hearing requests from the public that affect property rights for years to come. In addition, he has embarrassed the entire board and brings disrepute to appointed board members."

Commissioner Barbara Christensen moved approval of his request to put the matter on an agenda, but her motion died for lack of a second. Commissioner Bob Sturm then moved that Hagle's appointment be reaffirmed. But the chairman, Fred Streetman, declared that motion unnecessary and said Hagle will remain in office as appointed on Tuesday.

Hagle has been accused by Christensen of diverting $5,000 of her 1984 re-election campaign funds to a candidate for the Legislature when he served as Ms. Christensen's campaign manager. It was reported that $1,350 from Ms. Christensen's account was spent on campaign signs for Joy Anderson, an unsuccessful candidate for the District 34 Florida House seat, in August 1984. Hagle signed a check from Ms. Christensen's campaign account to a public relations firm but has insisted he knew nothing of the diversion of funds.

Hagle also denies threatening McEwan with bodily harm.

After the meeting, County Administrator Ken Hooper said Hagle had been cleared of any wrongdoing in the campaign fund dispute, because, he said, "All parties had apparently agreed to (the transfer of funds)."

Pearl Bailey speaks informally at a meeting with Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith, chamber of commerce officials and reporters Tuesday afternoon prior to her scheduled appearance today.

Promote King's Ideals Everyday, She Advises

Pearl Bailey: Week-Long Tribute Not Enough

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Pearl Bailey says she might be an inappropriate speaker for Sanford's Martin Luther King celebration - unless the city commits to continuing its promotion of his humanitarian ideals after the week-long tribute is over.

"You have a special celebration, but will it last past this week?" Miss Bailey asked Mayor Bettye Smith during an informal meeting at the Lake Monroe Holiday Inn Tuesday. "That's where the trouble lies. You can't shove people into love. Maybe I'm not the one to be here. I'm not much for special celebrations. I'm an 'everyday liver.' I look each day at the humanity and goodness in people, not their color."

Miss Bailey complimented Sanford's appearance, telling Mrs. Smith, "It shows your citizens

care."

Miss Bailey is scheduled to speak today at a King tribute luncheon at the Sanford Civic Center. The luncheon is one of four events the city plans this week to honor King. The 68-year-old author and entertainer was welcomed to Sanford Tuesday by Mrs. Smith and Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce representatives Dave Farr and Shirley Schilke. Miss Bailey spent about an hour with them and members of the local media offering her opinions on racial matters, and what she perceives as a denigration of society through loss of the family unit and educational values.

"We're in trouble, deep trouble."

Miss Bailey said. "We've lost the family and as the family goes so does the nation."

She said society depends on automation to the sacrifice of family as well as education and that current concentrations "are on quantity, not quality."

Young people are graduating from colleges "unable to read, write or spell," as a result of their reliance on computers to provide ready answers, Miss Bailey said.

And, while "education is the answer," Miss Bailey said the young are not being challenged in classrooms to ask the questions.

Students are spoon fed lectures and as a result "communication, give and take" between themselves and their teachers is disappearing, she said.

Miss Bailey said although she was not with King during the civil rights demonstrations in the 1960's, "I march in my heart every day" promoting humanitarian ideals.

She also questioned whether whites or blacks "are following King's messages."

"He wanted a humanity of people, but he didn't want it to be a four cornered affair. People were to be together, with each individual knowing who they are, then accepting and loving one another for themselves, not labels that are attached to them."

"People give too much importance to labels, titles, instead of the person inside," she said. "I never took the time to spit on my finger and rub someone before I decided to love them."

Miss Bailey is married to white drummer Louie Bellson and said the entertainment field most exemplifies acceptance of individuals based on their merits, as

Polk Won't Get Local Crime Lab

State's Job, County Says

By Kathy Tyrity
Herald Staff Writer

Sheriff John Polk's fervent attempt to get a local crime lab which would analyze narcotic samples and speed up prosecutions was shot down by the county commission in a work session Tuesday because of the cost (about $170,000) and availability of such testing free from the state crime lab in Orlando.

Polk implored the commission to consider the two- to three-month time lag in getting samples analyzed in Orlando, plus travel time, and the possibility of losing some of the 600 or so court cases a year involving drugs because of unnecessary time delays. He said all the cities in the county plus the Environmental Services Department could use the facilities and save about $100,000 a year.

But Commissioner Sandra Glenn asked why the county should pay for services the state provides free and suggested lobbying the state to obtain more efficient service.

Polk said, "If the state could handle (the testing) on a timely basis we wouldn't be here.

"This is something that the entire criminal justice system feels is important. It is a local problem, because these are local crimes, and most economical way to do it is to do it in-house."

He said other counties and municipalities in the state had set up their own crime labs for the same reason, and they include: Monroe County, Dade County, Broward County, Palm Beach County, Indian River and Tampa.

Polk even offered $50,000-$90,000 in the Law Enforcement Trust Fund collected from drug cases and other cases that he said could be put toward the cost. All he asked the county to provide was salaries for four people and up to $40,000 for equipment.

The sheriff said the lab is needed due to the recent increase in narcotics violations locally and especially those attributed to crack cocaine.

The Florida Department of Law Enforcement Crime Laboratory system with facilities around the state provides drug analysis where local crime labs aren't available. This state lab was at one time located in Sanford but was moved to Orlando in recent years.

In relation to the crackdown on cocaine and particularly the "crack" derivative, Polk said there was a move afoot which he was sure would pass to reduce the felony amount of cocaine possession from 28 grams to 4 grams.

The sheriff said it was not mandated that either the state or counties provide the lab services, but he said such a lab would be greatly useful in Seminole County. He stopped short of just shouting when commissioners continually suggested the problem was one of timely processing on the part of the state.

"This is a local problem," Polk demanded. "If a woman gets raped in Seminole County it's a local problem, and the same is true of these drug cases."

But the commission decided it was truly a state-funded operation and the county should not spend its money on developing a crime lab.

Mrs. Glenn suggested county representatives meet with the local legislative delegation which meets Thursday in the county at 9:30 a.m., which the some of commissioners decided to do.

King Fete Continues With Play, Awards

Sanford wraps up its week-long Martin Luther King celebration Saturday with a banquet to honor community members with "Brotherhood Awards." On Friday the King tribute will celebrate Sanford's youth with a program featuring a play about the slain civil rights leader.

Both events will be held at the Sanford Civic Center.

There is no charge to the Friday youth program, which begins at 7 p.m. The evening will feature a retrospective about King, performed by about 65 young adults and children. The play's author-director is Doris Thomas, wife of Sanford city commissioner Bob Thomas.

Also highlighted Friday will be the winners of art, essay and oratorical contests held at Seminole schools.

The students' theme for the contests was tribute planners' anthem of "Peace and Growth Through Brotherhood." The phrase is being applied by planners to those they'll honor at Saturday's culminating banquet. The names of these private citizens, corporate and civic leaders will be announced at the banquet, which begins at 7:30 p.m.

The banquet's keynote speaker is Dr. Fredrick Humphreys, president of Florida A&M University. Sale of $10 banquet tickets was halted today at Sanford city hall. Some tribute planners are still distributing tickets to fill previously placed orders.

Humphreys is charging $1,000 to appear, and planners are confident banquet ticket sales will cover his fee, said King tribute chairman Dr. Lurleen Sweeting. All monies left after banquet expenses will become part of the tribute's King scholarship fund for deserving students.

King tribute planning was handled by Sanford's Human Relations Advisory Board at the request of city commissioners.

The board brought in various community members for a six-month effort that produced four tribute events. The events, organized to coincide with the slain civil rights leaders Jan. 15 birthdate, began with an interdenominational religious observance Sunday. About 750 residents and participants filled the civic center for the two-hour ceremony.

Planned for noon today was a tribute luncheon featuring author and entertainer Pearl Bailey. The Friday youth program and Saturday banquet round out the city's quartet of tribute events.

Court Hands Working Mothers Job Security

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Supreme Court ruled 6-3 Tuesday to uphold California's law requiring employers to grant pregnant workers disability leave and to reinstate them when they return.

The opinion by Justice Thurgood Marshall affirmed a ruling by the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which decided in April 1985 that the law did not conflict with federal statutes barring sex discrimination in the work place.

Chief Justice William Rehnquist and Justices Lewis Powell and Byron White dissented.

The California law, challenged by business groups including the Chamber of Commerce, requires employers to provide up to four months of unpaid disability leave to pregnant workers and to keep their jobs open during that time unless prevented by "business necessity."

The law covers the period immediately before and immediately after the birth of her child when a woman is physically unable to work. California does not require such benefits for workers disabled by other medical conditions.

The law was put to a test in May 1983, when the California Federal Savings & Loan Association of Los Angeles refused to reinstate Lillian Garland as a receptionist when she returned to work from a three-month pregnancy leave.

Garland, who filed a complaint with the state Department of Fair Employment and Housing, is now a real estate broker. She called Tuesday's ruling "long overdue."

"No woman ever has to worry about making a choice between an abortion and a job," she said. "I have accomplished security and protection for women in the work force. And that's a lot."

The ruling should improve chances for a national policy giving new parents leave with guarantees they could return to work, says Eleanor Smeal, president of the National Organization for Women.

But Paula Connelly, representing the U.S. Chamber of Commerce litigation center, said the ruling could be costly for employers because "it mandates that jobs be kept open for four months."

Smeal called the ruling "a solid win" for women but added, "We've still got a long way to go." She predicted the decision would boost efforts in Congress, led by Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., to require employers to give both men and women up to four months off without pay upon the birth or adoption of a child or when a child is sick.

In other action Tuesday, the court: Ruled 7-2 that New York's Alcoholic Beverage Control Law regulating the retail price of liquor violates antitrust laws.

Ruled 6-3 that a 1986 decision prohibiting prosecutors from excluding citizens from juries on account of race should be applied retroactively to all cases pending or

POLICE IN BRIEF

Buyer, Policeman; Seller, Jailed Charge: Selling Stolen Goods

A 26-year-old Altamonte Springs man who allegedly met with an undercover Altamonte Springs police agent on several occasions and allegedly promised and delivered stolen goods has been arrested.

The police detective reported that on Jan. 6 he bought a 4-wheel Yamaha from the suspect for $100. The officer also said he bought counterfeit crack cocaine from the suspect. The man allegedly said he could deliver four more of the same type vehicle at the same price.

The detective confirmed through the Seminole County Sheriff's Department that the Yamaha had been reported stolen in Altamonte Springs, Jan. 6.

Another meeting was arranged with the suspect Monday and he showed up without any stolen items, a police report said.

Preston Simpson, of 313 Longwood Ave., was charged with dealing in stolen property and resisting arrest at the Altamonte Springs police station at 10:30 p.m. Monday. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Driving Under Influence Arrests

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Wendell George Drummond, 57, of Charlie Drive, Casselberry, was arrested at 12:36 a.m. Tuesday after his car failed to maintain a single lane on U.S. Highway 17-92, Winter Springs.

—Harold McPherson, 41, of Ormond Beach, at 7:20 p.m. Monday, after his car was in an accident on State Road 434, Winter Springs. He was also charged with making an improper lane change.

Dealer's Cars Vandalized

The roofs of 25, 1987 convertibles were slashed and 42 tires cut on cars at Seminole Suzuki, 4601 S. U.S. Highway 17-92 Sanford. The vandallism was reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies after 8 a.m. Monday. Deputies have the name of a possible suspect. The cost of the damage was not estimated in a sheriff's report.

Burglaries, Thefts Reported

About $1,150 worth of jewelry was stolen from the home of Duane A. Bond, 56, of 3542 Munsey Place, Casselberry, Friday, a sheriff's report said.

Jody Eric Hecht, 26, of 2319 Lake Howell Lane, Maitland, reported to sheriff's deputies that two shotguns and a rifle with a combined value of $550 were stolen from his home Monday.

Two televisions, a video game and 46 game cartridges with a combined value of about $750 were stolen from the home of Thomas Glen Holloway, 33, of 9164 Overland Road, Apopka, Monday, a sheriff's report said.

John J. Paskoski, 30, of 290 Evansdale Road, Longwood, reported to sheriff's deputies that a 1977 AMC Gremlin valued at $1,000 was stolen from 377 U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood, Friday.

A burglar who stole a radio, crayons and two stuffed toy animals with a combined value of $120 from the studio of Geraldine S. Sparks, 800 Lake Marion Drive, Altamonte Springs, Sunday or Monday, also did $800 damage to a painting. A name was spray-painted onto the painting, a sheriff's report said.

Martha Ann Ferris, 36, of Orlando, reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies her wallet containing $430 and her check book was stolen from her purse as she shopped in Publix on Hunt Club Blvd. in Apopka, around noon Jan. 8. The loss was reported Monday.

An employee of A-Action Signs, 109 Atlantic Drive, Maitland, reported to sheriff's deputies that a soft drink machine belonging to Pepsi Cola Co., of Orlando, was stolen from that business between Saturday and Monday. The machine is valued at $1,100.

According to a sheriff's report, $100 that was to be put into a drop safe at Frank Tibbitts' Amoco station, 855 Lake Howell Road, Casselberry, didn't make it into the safe Thursday or Friday. An envelope believed to have held the cash was found crumpled up in the trash dumpster of the business. Station employees are being questioned about the missing cash, a sheriff's report said.

Drapes and a ceiling fan with a combined value of about $350 have been reported to sheriff's deputies as stolen from a rental home at 471 Forest Court, Altamonte Springs, between Dec. 16 and Jan. 6. Kenneth W. Morris, of Apopka, reported his loss Friday.

Woman Burned In Fire

A 74-year-old Altamonte Springs woman who Friday suffered second and third degree burns to her back, buttocks and leg told Seminole County sheriff's deputies she believes someone entered her home while she slept, doused her with a flammable liquid and set her afire.

The woman said she awoke in flames at about 7 p.m. Friday and took off her burning clothes and put out the fire with water.

Essie H. Blair, of 161 N. Street, told sheriff's deputies it was the next afternoon before she could get a ride to Florida Hospital-Altamonte Springs, where she remained Monday in fair condition.

Seminole County sheriff's investigator Bob O'Connor who visited Ms. Blair's home along with another deputy after she reported the fire, reported that he believes the fire was accidental.

O'Connor believes that Ms. Blair was burned when she tried unsuccessfully to light two kerosene heaters in her living room. He said she may have had some fuel on her polyester clothing, which was ignited by one of many burned matches found in her home.

O'Connor said he believes Ms. Blair may have passed out when her clothing was burning and the flames burned themselves out.

Ms. Blair, who lives alone, was taken to the hospital by family members who came to check on her Saturday, O'Connor said.

The other deputy who visited the home reported that there was no electricity or telephone service in Ms Blair's home.

Protesters Worry Military Officials

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Just days before 3,000 peace activists are expected to converge on government property protesting the launching of the Trident 2 missile, a rash of trespassing arrests has officials worried.

A total of 37 protesters have been arrested at Cape Canaveral Air Force Station and the nearby Kennedy Space Center during the weeklong protest.

Sources at Cape Canaveral said Air Force officials are worried that so many activists have gained access to Air Force and NASA property. Of particular concern was a woman, Willa Elan, who climbed up to the 13th level of a Titan rocket launch tower Sunday and telephoned security guards to tell them where she was. Titan rockets carry top-secret military payloads.

Seven people were arrested Tuesday, including three who were found asleep in bushes at the space center and four who were stopped while paddling a canoe on the Banana River near the space center. The four face both state and federal trespassing charges. Other protesters face either state or federal charges, or both.

Organizers from the three national anti-nuclear groups involved in "Cancel the Countdown" hope to delay or disrupt the missile's first test flight, which they believe will occur this week. Air Force oficials have not announced a date for the launch.

The first-strrike Trident 2 is scheduled for deployment in 1989 aboard Ohio-class nuclear submarines. The weapons can carry at least 10 warheads, each with up to 500 kilotons of explosive yield.

Two women arrested late Monday and one man arrested early Tuesday pleaded "self-defense for the security of our country" when they appeared before Brevard County Judge Peter Haddam Tuesday. A trial date was set for March 9th.

Lt. Col. Robert Nicholson, spokesman for nearby Patrick Air Force Base, which handles public affairs for Cape Canaveral Air Force Station, said none of the protesters has caused any property damage and all have surrendered peacefully.

Many activists were refused bail because they would not give their names to officials.

One protester, who gave her name as Harriet Nestel of Massachusetts, was released on her own recognizance late Tuesday following her appearance before U.S. Magistrate Donald Hall Dietrich in federal court in Orlando.

Ten other activists, who refused to give their names, remained in the Seminole and Orange County jails on federal charges. Those facing state charges were being held at the Brevard County Jail.

Police Arrest Man After Hose Attack

It took three Oviedo policemen to subdue a man who allegedly attacked an officer, hitting him with the metal end of a garden hose. The man arrested was treated at Florida Hospital-Altamonte Springs for injuries suffered before being booked into the Seminole County jail.

Police said they used a police club to help bring the man under control. The officer who was attacked reported that he was hit in the face and hit several times in the side with the hose at the suspect had been holding and refused to put down when the officer approached.

Police reported being called to a disturbance at 137 Rosa St., Oviedo, Monday where the suspect was found beside the home, screaming and holding a garden hose.

As an officer advanced on the man and told him to put the hose down, the officer was attacked and two other police joined in to bring the suspect under control.

William Lewis Painter, of the above address, was arrested there Monday. He has been charged with aggravated battery, resisting arrest with violence and disorderly conduct. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Jail Fire Reveals Alarm Malfunction

Twenty-three inmate assigned to a cell area in the Seminole County jail where a trash barrel burned at about 4:30 a.m. Tuesday are being questioned to determine the cause of the fire.

Jail administrator Capt. Jay Leman said fire investigators have determined that the fire was probably accidentally started by a smouldering cigarette that had been put into the trash.

Leman said this was the first fire of any significance in the new jail and he said some fire alarms didn't function properly.

Prisoners had been evacuated and the fire was out before the alarms went off, about five minutes late. Leman said the alarm system was being tested Tuesday.

A Seminole County sheriff's report said the fire was put out by guards who smelled the smoke and found the blaze. Inmates were evacuated from that cell area and then returned after the smoke cleared.

There were no injuries and the fire was out before Sanford firefighters arrived. A plastic trash barrel was destroyed in the fire.

Balmy Air Heads East

United Press International

Midwesterners, who only two days ago shed their parkas for bathing suits, pulled out their winter clothes again as cold Canadian air whistled into the northern Plains today, reminding them that spring is still two months away.

Temperatures from the Plains to the upper Mississippi Valley that ranged from the 40s to the mid-60s for the past two days, were expected to drop by 30 to 40 degrees as forecasters cautioned people to beware of arctic cold "ready to pounce on North Dakota."

The warm weather, which broke at least 20 records in the Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan Tuesday, and another 27 records in 10 states on Monday, was expected to shift into the Ohio Valley and the Virginias today.

Although the balmy weather delighted golfers and prompted sun worshippers to don short-sleeved shirts and bathing suits, winter-hardened Midwesterners knew it was too good to last.

"I washed some windows and cleaned up my car, which I don't normally do this time of year," said Sam Billingsley of Des Moines, Iowa, where the mercury climbed to a record 62 degrees Tuesday. "But I have a feeling the car will get dirty again and stay that way because it probably will snow this weekend."

Dan Colburn of Valentine, Neb., predicted there would be a price to pay for the unseasonable weather. "I suppose we'll all pay for it in February," he said. "It's been too nice. We'll pay for it somehow."

The abrupt end to the heat wave was caused by a mass of

City Traffic, Parking Draft To Be Reviewed

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

A $4 million multi-deck parking lot, financed primarily by parking meter fees and new businesses, has the potential to offset anticipated traffic woes in downtown Sanford. The four-story deck could be built on the city's municipal field behind the Seminole County Courthouse, according to the preliminary draft of a city commission authorized traffic and parking study.

These findings will be expounded Wednesday night when a meeting is planned between the consultants and community representatives who have an interest in downtown development. The session was arranged by city planning staff.

About 20 local representatives have received copies of the preliminary report and their input Wednesday will become part of the final study commission will receive later this winter.

Those invited to the session, which begins at 7 p.m. at city hall, are Sanford's commissioners, several city advisory board members, Seminole County government representatives and members of Sanford's downtown merchants association, Chamber of Commerce and Greater Development Corporation. Marina Isle tenants and downtown property owners, such as Jeno Paulucci and Gerry Gross, have also been asked to attend. The public is also welcome to provide input Wednesday, Mayor Bettye Smith said during Monday's city commission meeting.

The city may also want to consider buying parcels in the downtown area to develop as parking lots, and begin moving immediately to reduce parking times on First Street, from two hours to one, the study states.

Sanford presently experiences "minor" parking and traffic flow problems, according to the study. The conditions would be improved if First Street parking limits are cut in half, the study states.

The $12,500 downtown parking and traffic study was authorized by commissioners last fall. Preliminary findings were issued late last week. The study is being prepared by the private engineering and planning firm, Howard, Needles, Tammen and Bergendoff of Orlando.

The consultants' initial results run 45 pages, and include proposals to address anticipated parking woes as well as back-up documentation, such as traffic counts and demographic data.

The downtown study area runs from French to Mellonville avenues, bounded by the lakefront, including Marina Isle in the north, and Second and Third streets in the south. A more centralized emphasis was placed on a smaller area within these boundaries. City Planner Jay Marder said. This area runs east-west, from Cypress to Elm avenues, north to Lake Monroe and south to Third Street.

The city might want to pick up a number of new spaces downtown by downscaling space sizes from 9 feet by 20 feet to 8.5 feet by 18 feet, the study says. Proposed for immediate relief is the First Street parking time reduction. The proposal resulted from "man on the street" interviews, which determined shoppers usually don't park on First Street for more than an hour, Marder said.

The study anticipates downtown Sanford will be pretty much built out in the next 10 years and all vacant buildings occupied. The municipal lot, between the Seminole County Courthouse and Sanford Post office, could be developed into a four-story parking deck to help offset the anticipated parking shortfall, the study suggests. The decks would add 410 spaces to the 360 the lot presently contains, at a cost of around $4 million, the study states.

New businesses and fees from meters installed at all off- and on-street parking spaces downtown would go towards paying for the lot, according to the study.

Proposed is commissioners' formally adopting a policy to direct future development and parking provisions in the downtown area. The policy could set a parking fee new businesses would pay the city, based on the parking demand the development can't meet on-site. The policy could also establish meter fees, the study states.

Sanford may also want to consider buying land to develop as municipal lots, according to the study. Suggested is a 175-space field, at a cost of about $200,000, plus acquisition costs, for the privately owned vacant lot between Palmetto and Sanford avenues.

Tipsters Receive Cash

More than $55,000 in reward money has been paid out by Central Florida Crimeline Program through a system that keeps the tipster anonymous.

While it is not a cloak and dagger affair, steps are taken to assure the anonymity yet pay the person who gives authorities information that leads to the arrest of an individual, said Officer Jim Bishop of the Orlando Police Department.

When someone calls Crimeline with a tip, he is issued a code number. The caller is then asked to stay in touch with the office and use the code number.

If the information leads to an arrest — Crimeline does not wait for a conviction to pay — the board of directors of the organization is told about the tip and the arrest and a reward amount is set. The board meets once a month and the caller is asked to call back after the board's meeting, Bishop said.

After the reward amount is set, one of the board members knows that a person with a particular code number is to receive a specified amount of money. When the tipster calls, he is told to go to the bank where the board member works and give the board member his code number.

The board member then gives a bank check to the caller using either the code number or an alias. No identification is required, Bishop said.

After the caller endorses the check by signing it with whatever name or number is written on the front, the board member cashes it and presents the money to the caller.

Haves, Have-Nots Gap Must Close

Warning Westerners about the growing gap between the world's haves and have-nots may cause the same puzzlement as admonishing a finicky child to eat vegetables because children are starving in Africa. A sensible child wonders what eating broccoli can do to ease hunger in Ethiopia. Likewise, grownups may wonder what they can do to arrest falling per capita income in Latin America or falling per capita food production in Africa. Responsible people may want to help, but know those problems have complex economic and social causes that do not yield to simple solutions.

But a new report by the Worldwatch Institute reiterates one way that the developed world can offer immediate relief to poor Third World countries: family-planning assistance. Population, the report says, is a key factor distinguishing the prosperous half of the world from the poor half. In North America, Europe and East Asia, where population growth is slow, living conditions are improving; but in Africa, the Middle East, the Indian subcontinent, Southeast Asia and Latin America, rapid population growth is overwhelming social services and natural resources.

Lifting Third World countries out of their developmental doldrums will require improved international economic conditions as well as improved internal economic policies. But because of the backward pressure exerted by population growth, progress depends as much on family-planning experts as on economic experts. Delay is costly: At its current growth rate, Kenya's population will double in 18 years. And the symptoms of Third World overpopulation — severe ecological damage, social upheaval and cruel natural corrections such as famines — create problems and impose costs that do not stop at national boundaries.

"More and more, the choice will be between vigorous family planning or declining living standards," the Worldwatch report says. Countries which have made that choice — China, South Korea, Thailand — have slowed their population growth and improved their incomes and living conditions. They have translated a national population-control commitment into campaigns that teach people the benefits to themselves and their children of smaller families. With more Third World leaders acknowledging the importance of family planning, developed countries can do much to help by providing expertise and financial support.

Unfortunately, the Reagan administration has done the opposite by withdrawing U. S. support for the two major worldwide population-control organizations, the International Planned Parenthood Federation and the U. N. Fund for Population Activities. By doing so, the administration has inadvertently contributed to the widening gap between the world's haves and have-nots. In the next two years, Reagan should reaffirm the longtime U. S. commitment to international population control. Family-planning aid is more than a development tool; it is a humanitarian service that can improve the lives of hungry children in Africa.

'Tis Better To Have A Pocketful Of Dreams

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As may have been previously reported somewhere, the new budget President Reagan has sent to Congress tops the trillion dollar mark for the first time.

A trillion dollars? Fancy that! Let us pause here and ask in unison: Whatever happened to inflation?

By my calculation, a trillion is the figure 1 followed by approximately 12 zeros. One reason I use round numbers is because the precise amount of zeros may depend on who is doing the counting.

In England, and certain other countries, it takes 18 zeros to equal a trillion. So things could be worse.

To be on the safe side in this country, it might be better to think of a trillion dollars as $999,999,999,999.99, plus 1 cent.

Looking further on the bright side, the new budget may provide a different unit of measurement.

For years, Congress has thought in terms of mere billions, as in the late Sen. Everett Dirksen's famous observation that "a billion here and a billion there" eventually adds up to

"real money."

Although I can remember when millionaires were considered possessors of "real money," today a person who has amassed only that meager amount is regarded as a candidate for a broad line. Billionaires abound.

Does this mean that some day a private citizen can claim to be the world's first zillionaire?

Stay tuned to this channel.

One thing the next unit of congressional monetary measurement will not be a penny.

Has the copper come a cropper? Some economists who have called for its abandonment appear to believe so. And there is no doubt it costs more to repair their wear and tear on pockets and change purses than pennies are worth.

I trust, however, that Congress will move slowly on the issue. The 1-cent coin may be the cheapest way to honor Abraham Lincoln.

Imagine what it would cost to rebuild the Lincoln Memorial today. Land at the western end of the Mall isn't exactly inexpensive, you know.

The trillion also has rendered obsolete the old way of comprehending budgets by stacking dollar bills on top of each other. I don't know how many stacks to the moon the new bottom line would make but there might not be enough room for it in outer space.

But some comfort may be taken from the fact that if each American were assessed an equal amount on April 15, we would only owe the Internal Revenue Service about $4,000 apiece.

What does the IRS think taxpayers are? Pickers?

Likewise outmoded by the new budget is speculation as to what it would be like to spend a dollar every second.

Pennies aside, a millionaire would run out of pocket change in less than two weeks but a trillionaire could keep spending for almost 32,000 years, which is even older than President Reagan.

Rather than inventing new measurements, it might be simpler for congressmen to learn to paraphrase Dirksen: a quadrillion here and a quadrillion there and pretty soon you're talking about real money.

Japanese Economic Kickbacks

WASHINGTON — While the United States has been altruistic in giving foreign aid, it is learning that other countries use foreign aid to advance their economic interests. Japan is a case in point.

Business Week recently noted that in 1985 Japan provided $3.8 billion in foreign aid, more than triple what it gave in 1976. The U.S. gave $9 billion, and France $4 billion. However, Japanese giving wasn't as generous as it appears. The "developing countries of the Pacific Rim," according to the magazine, "are discovering that more yen aid doesn't necessarily produce bigger benefits."

Why? Japanese companies often win large contracts on projects financed by Japanese government loans. Business Week reports that these government loans are approved only after the Japanese are sure that their companies will be involved. Tokyo requires detailed project proposals in connection with its loans. This means that the recipients of Japanese foreign aid must consult with Japanese trading companies.

The Japanese are masters of this sort of thing. Charles Bond, General Electric's manager for international financial relations, says that the Japanese "put a lot of aid into a country to buy market position." A less kind commentator might say that Japan engages in a kind of kickback foreign aid.

It will be interesting to watch how this works in the Philippines. President Corason Aquino recently obtained a Japanese pledge of $625 million in economic aid for 1987. The Philippines wants and needs this infusion of Japanese foreign aid. However, the people of the Philippines don't want to become an economic colony of Japan through indirect means. They have long and grim memories of the Japanese from an earlier time. Economists in the Philippines will recall Japan's Co-Prosperity Scheme in the 1930s, and they may wonder what Japanese "foreign aid," with all its strings, will produce in terms of dependence on Japan.

Japanese methods are subtle and dissimilar from those of the United States and many other countries. The U.S., for instance, hasn't any agency for keeping track of the operations of Japanese "transplants," factories which are supposed to use a certain percentage of American-made parts. Short of a congressional investigation, the process of discovering the facts is grossly inadequate.

Carlucci's Ready To Dump Contras

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — The bell tolled for the Nicaraguan contras last week at a secret meeting of the National Security Council. The anti-Sandinista reb'ts should start looking somewhere besides Washington for funds to continue their desultory, five-year insurrection against the Marxist regime in Managua.

It was Jan. 5, and the NSC staff had been summoned for its first meeting with the new boss, Frank Carlucci. According to sources who were present, the first words out of Carlucci's mouth were these: "I don't see how the contras can win. We need a serious review of our policy now."

As the president's new national security adviser, Carlucci presumably spoke with the authority of the Oval Office behind him. So his remark confirmed a policy change that began with the forced resigna-

DON GRAFF

Try, Try, Try Again

This just may be the year.

For decades liberals have been trying to clean up the McCarran-Walter Immigration and Nationality Act of 1952, a particularly odious assault upon the free speech and thought supposedly basic to the American way.

The closest they came was in 1972, with an amendment by then-Sen. George McGovern (D-S.D.) that authorized the State Department to waive exclusion of some foreigners who would otherwise be barred under the act's provisions.

Those provisions keep out would-be visitors deemed "excludable" on grounds that lump people of suspect political views with psychopaths and sexual perverts.

The law has been applied most notably and controversially against writers and political figures who are not in sync with mainline American thinking — i.e., the ideological premises of whatever administration happens to be running the Washington show.

Of late, Rep. Barney Frank, a Massachusetts Democrat, has been leading the Capitol Hill charge against McCarran-Walter. He is re-introducing a revision proposal that was not acted upon in the last Congress.

Its prospects received a boost from a recent Public Broadcasting Service airing of the issue in a documentary entitled "Do Not Enter: The Visa War Against Ideas."

It was a balanced presentation of pros and cons, but what emerged most clearly were the flaws in McCarran-Walter.

The act's defenders see no need for change because its provisions are invoked in a minor percentage of cases. Thousands are eventually admitted on waivers, only hundreds remain excluded.

But it is precisely those hundreds that are the issue as opponents see it. The list is heavily weighted toward people of ideas, with an embarrassingly large contingent of Nobel Prize winners.

Pressed as to grounds for specific exclusions, the bureaucrats responsible reply, as they did on camera for PBS, that they cannot discuss details because a case is "in litigation," or it is based on information from "confidential informants," or that it involves "national security."

If patriotism is the last refuge of the scoundrel, as Samuel Johnson tells us, then "national security" surely serves a similar purpose for the bureaucrat who knows the reasons for his decisions would flunk public examination.

A list of "excludable" people is maintained, and checked against the passports of arriving foreigners at points of entry. Individuals no longer deemed threatening to American peace of mind are supposed to be regularly purged from the list. But what then explains some names that remain listed year after year after year?

As just one example, Mexican author and diplomat Carlos Fuentes, who lectures regularly at Harvard but must be admitted on each occasion under a waiver. Only the mindless bureaucracy responsible can find reason in such a contradiction.

Back to Rep. Frank, his primary objection to McCarran-Walter is not that foreigners are denied rights. It is that Americans are deprived of their First Amendment rights whenever someone in the bowels of the federal government decides with whom we may meet, listen to and exchange ideas with in our own country.

VIEWPOINT

Reduce, Not Limit Weapons

By William R. Hawkins

When the one hundred thirty-first B-52 was modified to carry cruise missiles in November 1986, the U.S. exceeded the limits set by the SALT II arms control agreement. There was an outcry from liberal circles after this action, but SALT II was not violated because the treaty had never been ratified, and would have already expired had it been ratified.

In 1972, the ABM treaty was signed to limit defensive systems, and the SALT I treaty offensive systems. The U.S. was willing to limit anti-missile defenses only if there was a reduction or at least a freeze in the offensive missile threat. The Soviets, then as now, only wanted to limit defensive systems that could disrupt their first-strike strategy.

The Soviets got what they wanted. ABMs were kept at a minimum; offensive limits allowed increased deployments. Also, the Soviets were allowed more missiles than the U.S. and a monopoly of "heavy" ICBMs. No limits were placed on multiple-warhead (MIRV) missiles or total warheads. This combination of heavy ICBMs and MIRVs gave the Soviets the first strike capability they desired and greatly destabilized the nuclear balance.

The U.S. was willing to sign SALT I on the promise that it was only an interim agreement that would lead to real missile reductions later. Six years of additional negotiations produced SALT II. Yet SALT II did not meet the American requirement for reducing offensive arms. Launchers rather than warheads were still counted and the Soviets were allowed to keep their first-strike weapons. President Carter withdrew the treaty from the Senate when the Soviets invaded Afghanistan, but even before that it was clear that there were not enough votes to ratify it.

During the 1980 presidential campaign, Ronald Reagan opposed SALT II. In effect, he abided by its internal limits, even to the point of scrapping two missile-armed submarines to offset higher bomber/cruise missile deployments. On strategic grounds, this was a mistake, given that missile submarines provide the most secure portion of the American deterrent. With fixed ICBM sites vulnerable, the U.S. needs more of these mobile systems.

The SALT process failed to stop the Soviet nuclear buildup. Fourteen years is long enough to pursue a line of unsuccessful negotiations.

tion of Carlucci's predecessor, Adm. John Poindexter, for his role in the sale of arms to Iran and diversion of the profits to the contras.

The effect of Carlucci's verbal bombshell on the NSC staff was revealing: Many breathed a sigh of relief, according to our sources. The "review of our policy" promised a return to sanity, as one staffer put it, a welcome end to the harum-scarum days when Poindexter and his deputy, Lt. Col. Oliver North, were playing cowboys and Indians in the White House basement.

There is more in Carlucci's appointment that comforts the decimated NSC staff. He is the first real pro that President Reagan has put in the job. The first national security adviser, Richard Allen, lacked clarity; the second, William Clark, had the president's confidence but was a fish out of water in the foreign policy area.

The president then went the "deputy" route, giving the job to Clark's second in command, Robert (Bud) McFarlane, an inveterate staff officer unaccustomed to the heady air at the top. McFarlane's poor judgment belatedly became evident from revelations of his role in the Iran/contras fiasco.

When McFarlane quit in frustration, he was succeeded by his deputy, Poindexter. A cautious man not given to rocking boats, the admiral tried to get rid of the rambunctious North, but was overruled. Carlucci has the crucial qualities that his predecessors lacked: political smarts that tell him what will fly in Washington and what won't. He has had broad and deep experience in both foreign policy and administration. He is a staunch but pragmatic anti-communist — as his rescue of Portugal's socialist government demonstrated when he was ambassador in Lisbon a decade ago. He is not a man to let the siren song of ideology lure him onto the foreign policy rocks.

Carlucci has friends and respect on both sides of the aisle in Congress, and has served Democratic and Republican presidents with equal skill and professionalism.

All this is what makes Carlucci's apparent view of the contras so significant. In the past, congressional disenchantment with the Nicaraguan rebels led to a cutoff of funds. The NSC's response was to get money to the contras in secret defiance of Congress' expressed wishes.

At the very least, no such end-around play will come out of Carlucci's National Security Council. For the present, of course, these tactics aren't needed: Congressionally authorized aid to the contras had already resumed before the arms scandal broke.

But Carlucci's opening statement to his staff and his general attitude suggest that he is ready to dump the contras overboard at the first opportunity.

Byrd Wants Water Bill Passed, Sent To President This Week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd wants a popular $20 billion clean water bill, killed by President Reagan last year but revived by the House last week, slapped back on the president's desk by Friday.

The Senate planned to take up the measure today, and Byrd said the chamber might work late. The West Virginia Democrat said he would like the legislation approved unchanged so it could be sent directly to the White House.

The bill, passed 406-8 by the House last week, is identical to one Reagan killed with a pocket veto last year after it was passed unanimously by both the House and Senate.

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas was expected to offer a $12 billion compromise proposed by Reagan, but Byrd expressed doubt Tuesday that it could win Senate approval.

Officials Say Mafia Crippled

NEW YORK (UPI) — The century-long sentences given to three mob bosses who helped run the "commission" that has directed the Mafia since the days of Al Capone will cripple organized crime for years, law enforcement officials say.

U.S. District Judge Richard Owen on Tuesday sentenced the bosses of the Genovese, Lucchese and Colombo crime families and five key associates to prison terms of 40 to 100 years and fines of up to $250,000 for a pattern of racketeering involving murder, extortion and loan sharking.

"I think it's a devastating day for the mob," said Ronald Goldstock, executive director of the state Organized Crime Task Force.

U.S. Attorney Rudolph Giuliani hailed the convictions of the mob bosses for helping run the commission as the government's most successful blow yet against the Mafia.

Super Sting Nets 67 'Winners'

DENVER (UPI) — California dreams faded into the reality of jail for 67 people who showed up at the municipal convention center in response to letters offering them free tickets to the Super Bowl game in Pasadena.

Police Lt. David Michaud said all of those arrested Tuesday in the sting operation were wanted on outstanding warrants for felony charges ranging from armed robbery to sexual assault.

Michaud said police mailed letters from the fictitious "Rocky Mountain Sports Federation" to 1,800 people wanted on outstanding warrants. The letters told the recipients they had won free Super Bowl tickets and a chance at one of 10 free round-trip airline tickets to Pasadena, Calif., for the Jan. 25 game between the Denver Broncos and the New York Giants.

Man Arrested In Fort Pierce Drug Bust Murders

FORT PIERCE (UPI) — The 25-year-old stepson of a man killed when a narcotics operation blew up and gunfire ensued is charged in the deaths of two police officers.

Ralph William Horton is charged with two counts of first-degree felony murder, two counts of first-degree felony attempted murder, one count of conspiracy to traffic in cocaine and one count of delivery of cocaine. He was ordered held without bond in the county jail.

Fort Pierce Police Lt. Grover Cooper, 32, and cocaine trafficking suspect James Daniel Hunt, about 47, died in the gunbattle Monday night inside a mobile home in the White City section of St. Lucie County, the sheriff's office said.

Police detective Jimmy Wouters, 33, died at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday following surgery.

Officer Robert Spring, 34, was wounded in the incident and was in serious but stable condition Tuesday in the intensive care unit of Lawnwood Medical Center.

Hospital Takes Malpractice Risk

MIAMI (UPI) — South Miami Hospital is taking over the responsibility for malpractice insurance involving its emergency room in order to keep its doctors on call, officials said.

Officials said they sent certified letters to doctors on the hospital staff that if they get sued for treating a patient in the emergency room, the hospital will hire a defense attorney and pay any claim that is awarded.

The hospital becomes the first in the state to take over liability for specialists, including neurosurgeons and thoracic surgeons, who are frequently called to treat trauma patients.

Topless Shop Fights Eviction

WEST PALM BEACH (UPI) — A topless doughnut shop owner says he will defy a court order to close his 50-seat "private club" restaurant by Friday and leave "a family shopping center."

"We will not close," Dandy Doughboy Donuts owner Jerry Gallagher vowed Tuesday after a county judge signed an eviction order with a Friday deadline.

"We felt from the beginning that it was a family shopping center and a topless doughnut shop did not belong there," said attorney Steve Gutter, who represents Forest Hill Associates, the shopping center owners who have been trying to close the doughnut shop since it opened last April.

Investigator: Amtrak Was Speeding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An Amtrak train was speeding just before it slammed fatally into a Conrail freight locomotive, but federal safety experts are not judging that the cause of the passenger line's worst disaster.

At a news conference Tuesday, Joseph Nall of the National Transportation Safety Board revealed the 12-car Amtrak train, en route from Washington to Boston, was traveling at about 128 mph — exceeding its speed limit of 105 mph.

Nall, the NTSB official in charge of the investigation, refused to assess blame for the Jan. 4 accident near Baltimore at Chase, Md., that killed 16 people and injured 175 others.

He suggested, however, that the engineer guiding three northbound Conrail locomotives linked together should have been able to stop before blundering into the path of the passenger train.

In a re-enactment of the Conrail route, Nall said, investigators were able to halt an engine more than a third of a mile from a signal — located almost 400 feet from the switching point — that warned the locomotive to stop. Amtrak had the right-of-way.

"The locomotives were proceeding at a speed of approximately 63 to 64 miles per hour," Nall said. "We are looking at how that additional speed would have changed the impact forces."

Under normal operation, the Conrail engineer should have been traveling at 30 mph and preparing to stop, Nall said. He offered no explanation for why the engineer failed to stop before crossing to the track used by the Amtrak train.

"It is much too early to determine a cause of this accident," he said.

Ricky Gates, 32, the Conrail engineer who survived the wreck, maintains he saw a "distance signal" 1.7 miles from the switching point alerting him to slow to 40 mph and prepare to cross tracks.

Three tests were conducted at the crash site Monday, Nall said, and engines similar to the Conrail locomotives began braking 1 mile from a "home signal," which is just 384 feet from the switching point. Investigators have determined that signal told the Conrail engineer to stop.

Nall said even when a train was traveling at 68 mph, the fastest of the three tests, it was able to stop 1,868 feet from the home signal.

"We are able to say at this point that a train can stop from when the signal is first visible, about a mile down the tracks," he told reporters.

Preliminary tests of speed recorders aboard the Amtrak train indicated the speed before the engineer began braking was 128 mph, Nall said. The speed at impact was 105 mph.

"The speed limit of the track itself is 125 mph," he explained. "There was a limitation on this train because of one of the cars on it of 105. That limitation apparently was exceeded by approximately 20 mph."

Nall said the limitation was given to the train running Amtrak's popular "Colonial" route because it was carrying a car from the Heritage line of Amtrak trains, a more box-like model than the sleek standard car.

Passenger Connie Barry, 31, of Ridgefield, Conn., became Tuesday the 16th person to die of injuries from the worst accident in Amtrak's 15-year history.

Lone Ranger's Guns Found

MALIBU, Calif. (UPI) — The Lone Ranger is getting some help from the Texas Rangers in tracking down the bandit who apparently stole a gun belt and a pair of Colt .45 pistols from the luggage he lost Christmas Eve.

Actor Clayton Moore, 73, famed for playing the masked man of the 1950s television series, said he received a call Tuesday from a lawyer in Beaumont, Texas, who said he had the missing items and wanted to return them.

Moore lost the luggage while flying home from a benefit in Houston on Christmas Eve.

If there ever was a reason to switch banks, this is it.

A First Union Prime Equity Line is a revolving line of credit, secured by a first or second mortgage on owner-occupied residential real estate. Single family detached only (no condos, town homes or modular mobile homes). No purchase money loans or refinances of first home equity loans are permitted by law.

The A.P.R. for Prime Equity Line accounts may vary. The rate will be tied to First Union National Bank's base rate on effect of all such monthly end and will be equal to the base rate plus 2% (fourths of 8.5% A.P.R.). A maximum of 9% A.P.R. applies. A late payment fee of $150 will be assessed by maintaining an average annual balance of $1,000 and a cancellation fee may be applied if the line is cancelled on the first year.

A Woman's Life In The Philippine Underground

Editor's Note: This interview was conducted in secret during a six-hour bus ride and four-hour night hike back to her base camp.

By Daniela Deane
GENERAL LUNA, Philippines (UPI) — Victoria Justiniani's future seemed assured when she graduated from an exclusive Roman Catholic high school on Negros Island. The "baby" daughter of a wealthy sugar baron, Victoria grew up surrounded by servants and with all the advantages her family's money could buy. During her first semester at the University of the Philippines in Manila, however, Victoria rebelled against her privileged upbringing and became a communist.

priority. She travels in disguise outside "rebel consolidated territory."

"My ancestors were land-grabbers," said Vicvic in her mountain hide-out. "It is my duty as a Filipina to dedicate myself to the peasants." Victoria, a shy, pretty woman with bright eyes and close-cropped hair, wore a khaki jacket over blue jeans, rubber sandals and an orange head scarf. She chain-smoked as she talked about her life as an underground fighter. "We slept outside on rice sacks for the first year in the countryside," she said, smiling. "We slept with our guns beside us. Now, with the help of the peasants, we have built a network of safe houses in the woods." Victoria said she doesn't stay long in one place, moving between safe houses or staying "with the masses." She has no personal possessions other than a knapsack "with very few clothes" and "my M-16." The New People's Army boasts some 23,200 full-time fighters, about 10 to 12 percent of them women, dubbed "Amazons" by the military. The 17-year guerrilla war has killed 17,000 people since 1979. The insurgents, considered one of the gravest threats to the government of President Corason Aquino, operate in at least

64 of the country's 73 provinces. A 60-day cease-fire between the government and the rebels — the first ever in the insurgency — went into effect Dec. 10. Talks between the two sides immediately bogged down on the issue of a common agenda. A year after Victoria became a communist rebel, she fell in love with a fellow fighter and the two married. "Sometimes we don't see each other for months," she said. "We often get different assignments. It doesn't bother us. We were prepared for it." The long separations from her three children, aged 11, 6 and 4, bother her more. "It hurts me when they ask me. Mommy, when can we be together for longer," she said, her eyes misting. "But I have to accept that as part of my sacrifice for the movement," she said. Victoria's children, all born in the homes of sympathetic peasants, live in Negros with her parents, who went bankrupt with the collapse of world sugar prices. "My husband and I try to explain to them that we are working for the people, that they too must sacrifice," she said. "But I'm not sure if they really understand yet." Victoria said the only time she was arrested was when her father turned her in shortly after she joined the rebels. "He invited me to come home for dinner and a military intelligence unit was waiting for me," she said. "I was arrested and taken to the house of one of their contacts. The guard fell asleep and I escaped." "I just jumped over the fence and ran," she said, laughing. Victoria said it took her parents many years to accept she was a guerrilla fighter. "My father has become a lot more sympathetic since he went bankrupt," she said, adding that her parents still maintained their position "in the landlord class" by getting money from tenants leasing their lands. "Yes, I do fear for my life," she said. "But I am convinced that what I am doing is right. I will only stop fighting when we have won."

In a matter of months, 18-year-old "Comrade Vicvic" took up arms and headed for the remote Negros countryside as a full-time member of the New People's Army, the military wing of the Philippine Communist Party. Victoria, now 31 and the mother of three, is one of the most wanted women in the Philippines. She has been living on the run for 14 years. The government has offered a $4,000 reward for information leading to her capture — the equivalent of more than 10 years salary to any of the peasants who have befriended her. Vicvic makes security a top

Parenting Classes To Begin

Classes designed to help today's families are to start in Seminole County Jan. 20, according to Sue Foreman of the Parent Resource Center, Inc., Orlando. The classes will address the issues concerning specific groups from parents of preschoolers to parents of teens, parents under pressure to step-parents, she said. Anyone wanting to learn helpful effective parenting skills may participate at no cost. Enrollment is limited so early registration is advised. Topics include: improving family communication, developing responsibility in children, building self-esteem, stress and team management, techniques for discipline, toilet training, combatting sibling rivalry, and caring for children with handicaps or special needs. Classes are co-sponsored by the Parent Resource Center, Seminole Community College, and the State Dept. of Health and Rehabilitative Services. To register, call Seminole Community College at 323-1450, extension 553. Classes and their times are as follows:

WORLD IN BRIEF

Drug Smugglers Suspected In Colombian Minister's Shooting

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — An assassination attempt on Colombia's ambassador to Hungary in Budapest may have been the work of drug smugglers seeking to avenge his drug-busting tenure as a justice minister, officials said.

Enrique Parejo Gonzalez, 52, known for his crusade against drug trafficking as justice minister from 1984 to 1986, was shot five times Tuesday outside his home in Budapest.

He was listed in serious condition after emergency surgery to treat three bullet wounds to the head and was apparently out of danger, Foreign Minister Julio Londono Paredes said.

Police late Tuesday were still seeking the assailant, the Hungarian news agency MTI said.

Newspapers File Against Bans

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — South Africa's two largest newspaper groups today filed court applications challenging emergency restrictions against promoting "unlawful" organizations.

The South African Associated Newspapers and the Argus Company asked the Supreme Court in Johannesburg to overturn a police order banning publication of "anything calculated to improve or promote the public image or esteem" of any "unlawful" organization.

The court, saying the minister of law and order and the police had not had enough time to prepare replies to the newspaper groups' challenge, postponed the applications until Jan. 23.

The ban was ordered last Friday, a day after the 75th anniversary of the outlawed African National Congress, which had placed advertisements in 22 English-language newspapers commemorating the event.

Hanoi To Release Prisoners

PEKING (UPI) — Peking today denied Vietnamese charges that its troops have occupied a strip of Vietnamese territory following fierce fighting last week along the border between the two communist nations.

Vietnam said today it would release an unspecified number of Chinese prisoners so they can celebrate Lunar New Years Day with their families on Jan. 29.

Waite Warns Foreigners: Stay Out

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Hostage negotiator Terry Waite, expressing sorrow over the latest kidnapping of a Frenchman in Lebanon, warned foreigners to stay out of west Beirut and pressed on with his bid to free 17 captives held by Moslem extremists.

No group immediately claimed responsibility for the abduction Tuesday of freelance French journalist Roger Auque, 31. His kidnapping raised to 17 the number of foreigners kidnapped and missing in Lebanon. Seven are French.

When told of the abduction, Waite, the envoy of Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie who is making his first trip to Lebanon since the secret U.S. arms sales to Iran surfaced in November, expressed sorrow.

"I am very sorry that another person was kidnapped," said Waite, who arrived in Beirut Monday to make a new bid for the release of the hostages. "But I would not advise foreigners to stay" in Moslem west Beirut.

"I met the man only half an hour before he was kidnapped," said Waite, who has played a role in the release of three Americans held in Lebanon. "There is always difficult news from Beirut."

Auque's colleague, Paul Marchand, who broke free from the kidnappers, said the gunmen moved in at 9:50 a.m. when Auque returned home after photographing Waite.

"Roger wanted to stop by his apartment to pick up something, and I waited outside," Marchand said. "At that moment, a white car came by, driving in reverse."

Two gunmen jumped out of the car, one carrying a pistol and the other a Soviet-made AK-47 rifle, while a third stayed inside the vehicle, Marchand said.

"The one with the Kalashnikov came toward me, took hold of my jacket and said to me in English, 'Follow me, come with us,'" Marchand said. "I managed to get myself free."

"Then the youth with the Kalashnikov said to me, 'I'm going to kill you,' and he took a shot in my direction. Then I saw that Roger had come out of the building. I shouted 'run, run.' "I ran away. I heard gunshots, and I jumped over a wall and didn't see what happened after that."

Marchand's driver, who was waiting on a side street for the journalists, said Auque was hustled into the car at gunpoint and driven away.

Waite met Tuesday with Druze leader Walid Jumblatt. Members of Jumblatt's Progressive Socialist Party militia have provided protection for Waite in Beirut.

"From (Tuesday) on, I have a lot of people to see, and I will not be making anymore press statements at all because it is necessary for me to be quiet and to be out of the lights for a while," Waite said.

Waite has been credited with helping secure the release of three Americans held more than a year by Lebanon's Moslem extremists: the Rev. Benjamin Weir in September 1985; the Rev. Lawrence Martin Jenco in July 1986; and David Jacobson, administrator of the American University Hospital in Beirut on Nov. 1, 1986.

Europe In Icy Grip

LONDON (UPI) — Europe's record deep freeze that has killed more than 140 people maintained its icy grip on the continent today, making life a frigid misery from Britain to the Soviet Union.

In Czechoslovakia, packs of wild wolves were seen by travelers taking to the roads in search of food. In Britain, panicked people stocked up on canned food and some shopkeepers in icy areas reportedly quadrupled milk prices.

More than 140 people have died during two weeks of record cold and snowstorms that swept in from Siberia and reached to the Mediterranean and the Atlantic coast.

The toll included 77 deaths in the Soviet Union, suffering through its coldest January in 37 years. Record snows triggered avalanches that buried three villages in the Soviet Republic of Georgia.

Among the latest fatalities were three people swept out to sea by huge, storm-tossed waves in Tenerife in the normally placid Canary Islands and two British pensioners burned to death by defective gas heaters.

Forty-eight people in the Soviet Union have died in fires triggered by faulty room heaters.

Flights were disrupted in northern Italy, trains were delayed throughout the continent and schools remained closed today from Britain to southern Sweden.

Course Set On How To Invest Small Amounts

"How to Invest Small Amounts of Money from $25 to $1,000s" is to be the third in a series of programs on Financial Management offered by the Seminole County Extension Service, according to Barbara Hughes, Extension Home Economist.

The program will be given beginning at 6 p.m. January 20 at the Seminole County Agricultural Extension Center, 250 West County Home Road, Sanford.

A preregistration fee of $3.50 covers the cost of soup, sandwich and beverage that will be served from 5:30 to 6 p.m. It will cost $5 at the door.

The program is to end promptly at 7:30 p.m.

Scheduled guest speaker is former University of Idaho instructor Myrna Kastner. She is security licensed and works with Massachusetts Mutual as a financial consultant.

Where Is The Justice For Payne?

If junior college basketball success is judged by wins and losses, Bill Payne is buying lunch. If success is judged in state-tournament appearances, you better pick up the tab.

Payne, 41, midway through his fifth season at Seminole Community College, has a whole bunch of the former and no bunch of the latter. He is a married man left at the JuCo state-tournament altar. Four times Payne teams have been of state-tournament caliber and four times they haven't escaped the toughest conference in Florida.

Year in and year out, Payne's Raiders beat the state's best teams. Year in and year out, those teams go to state via weaker conferences while Payne's Raiders fold in the post-season qualifying tournament. Again this year, SCC needs a victory at Ocala against Central Florida for a fifth 20-victory season. Again this year, the Raiders appear to be headed for the post-season qualifying tournament despite a 19-2 record.

Where is the justice?
In a hardcourt world, where coaches live their lives two years at a time, there is no time to feel compassion. Build and rebuild. Two years may be stretching it. A freshmen bumper crop may be picked clean by the major-college vultures.

Yet Payne, the individual, has won the respect and admiration of his peers in those four and one-half short years. While Payne bleeds inwardly without his final-eight date, the others bleed outwardly.

"It is a shame that a guy that works as hard as Bill hasn't been to state," one coach said recently at Ocala Vanguard's Kingdom of the Sun Holiday Classic. "No one works harder."

Another agreed. "Bill's had good teams — real good teams," he said. "And he coaches a great game. They have been good enough to get there. But he hasn't had the luck."

JuCo coaches aren't prone to sympathy. But they are prone to Bill Payne. JuCo basketball is a cut-throat game, yet Payne can play it without the knife. He recruits fairly and honestly. He knows the state so thoroughly that he can find the sleepers. That, too, cuts him above the competition. He will take a chance on the borderline player, pull him off the playgrounds, and turn his life into something more than pounding the blacktop.

Bill Payne is everything that is right and everything that is wrong with junior college basketball. As a coach, there are few who can match his preparation, strategy or counter-strategy. As an educator, he demands his players graduate before moving to another college. As a scout and recruit, he and assistant Dean Smith are tireless workers.

The Bill Payne family even lives and breathes junior-college basketball.

Organization is so refined that wife Barbara mans the hospitality room, son Bill oversees the concession stand, daughter

Susan provides the bench towels and warmups while daughter Lisa provides the noise. Not a snack, candy bar, towel or yell out of place.

Payne and Smith, meanwhile, will go anywhere and everywhere to scout a basketball game or gain a player who can help the program. Payne and Smith made so many trips to St. Petersburg that Vance Hall would have died of shame before attending another school. Payne scouts so many games he knows other teams' tendencies better than their coaches.

Bill Payne is a major-college coach in a junior-college program.

Yet, he is without his major — a trip to the final eight. Relegated to coaching the All-Star Game the past couple years, Payne yearns for a chance to patrol the sidelines during the prime time.

Why he has not grates on him.

There are reasons. The talent level is so even that just about every school has a good team. Even schools which don't emphasize their programs as much — Valencia two years ago — can sneak up and knock you out of a tournament.

Bill Payne, left, and Dean Smith operate a complete basketball program. All that is missing is a berth at the state tournament.

There is no justice.

While some teams run up and down the floor and beat you on talent, Payne's squads always adhere to the team concept. They pass the ball unselfishly and even play defense earnestly.

Whereas many JuCo teams lose players to grades and poor attitudes, you won't find many non-students or quitters running with Bill Payne. He is a good judge of character. Even his bad apples are not rotten to the core. They usually come around in time to graduate.

Yes sir, Bill Payne has it all together. Now, if he could just get that state tournament to cooperate. Then, and only then, will justice prevail.

Lloyd, Wiggins Are Out

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Houston Rockets, expected to battle the Boston Celtics and Los Angeles Lakers for the NBA title this season, have instead been facing internal problems.

The team that beat the Lakers to win the Western Conference crown and then extended the Celtics to six games in the Championship Series a season ago is struggling to win more games than it loses amid a series of personal problems and injuries.

The most damaging news came Tuesday, when NBA Commissioner David Stern ruled Rockets guards Lewis Lloyd and Mitchell Wiggins have been banned from the league for at least two years after testing positive for cocaine.

Lloyd and Wiggins — who rank fourth and fifth, respectively, in scoring for the Rockets this season — are the first players ejected from the league for failing to come forward and admitting to drug problems.

"This team has faced adversity all year," guard Dirk Minniefield said. "This is one more bitter pill we have to swallow. It's going to make us stronger as a group. We have to pull ourselves together."

Earlier this season, Rockets forward Ralph Sampson and center Akeem Olajuwon missed games with injuries. Last month, a newspaper reported Sampson and Wiggins were playing poorly in an effort to get Coach Bill Fitch fired. Sampson and Wiggins denied the report.

Before the season started, Lloyd had been arrested in his hometown of Philadelphia for failure to make payments in a paternity suit. Lloyd and Wiggins spent significant time on the Rockets bench after falling in Fitch's disfavor.

"They are two important parts of our team," forward Rodney McCray said. "We started off the season with 12 guys capable of doing a lot. The 10 guys we have left will have to exert that much more."

Lloyd and Wiggins, both 27, were tested after information they may have been using drugs was presented to the league's independent expert, R. Harcourt Dadds. The tests were conducted Saturday and confirmed Monday night at a lab in South Plainfield, N.J.

"This is tragic but shows our resolve to fight drugs in the NBA," Stern said at a New York news conference. "We are today reaffirming the covenant between the NBA and its players that we will take all steps necessary to eliminate drug use in our sport."

Lloyd and Wiggins were banned after a single incident of drug use because they did not come forward voluntarily to admit their problem in accordance with the anti-drug agreement signed in September 1983 by the league and players' union.

Micheal Ray Richardson and John Drew — the only other players ever ejected from the league for drugs — were allowed three incidents of drug use before being expelled because they admitted their problems and sought help through the NBA's rehabilitation program.

Lloyd and Wiggins, who were removed from the Rockets' payroll as of Tuesday, will have to sit out two years and then may apply for reinstatement. Both players told officials they would check into the NBA's rehabilitation clinic in Van Nuys, Calif.

Lloyd, who played collegiately at Drake, started the season overweight and was benched, but regained his past form and led the Rockets in scoring three of his last four games. He has averaged almost 14 points a game in his six-year career.

Wiggins, who played at three colleges, was averaging 11.1 points a game this season, his fourth in the NBA.

LOSSES FRUSTRATE FITCH

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Rockets have lost their second and third players in two seasons to drug use and Coach Bill Fitch says he is frustrated by the latest casualties, Lewis Lloyd and Mitchell Wiggins.

"You've got to play the cards you're dealt," Fitch said. "It's not the type of thing that should happen to any ball club. You've got to turn a negative into a positive. I think our club will respond in a positive way."

Starks' 26 Points Pump Lady Raiders Past CFCC

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

Seminole Community College used a career high 26 points by forward Lisa Starks to ease by Central Florida Community College, 91-78, in Mid-Florida Conference basketball at the SCC Health Center Tuesday night before 51 fans.

The Lady Raiders upped their record to 9-6, and 1-1 in the Mid-Florida Conference and will host Santa Fe Community College this Thursday. CFCC fell to 4-14 and 0-2 in the MFC.

Along with her 26 points, Starks grabbed a game-high 13 rebounds while playing consistently at the strong forward slot.

"I was getting the ball with an open shot because of the penetration of the guards," Starks said. "And after I saw the way the defense was playing me I either got a layup or turned and shot a short jump shot."

Guard Pam Jackson added 21 and center Paula White tossed in 17 more to pace the Lady Raiders. Jackson also handed out a team-high six assists while White grabbed 10 boards.

Cheryl Rice led Central Florida with a game high 29 points, 23 coming in the second half. Latonya Weaver added 25 more with 16 in the opening half.

"Though we won, we didn't play very good defense," head SCC coach Ileana Gallagher said. "We waited for things to happen to us instead of making things happen."

SCC took control, though being outbounded, with eight minutes to play in the first half. With the score 26-26, Jackson started a series of fast breaks coming off a pressing defense that led to a 42-33 halftime lead.

The Lady Raiders continued their fast breaks in the second half with a large amount of penetrating by Jackson and point guard Carol King. Both King and Jackson did a lot of dishing off to Starks and White who thwarted any comeback attempts by CFCC.

SCC went up by as many as 16 in the second half scoring eight out of the first 10 points in the second half and building the lead to 71-55 with 8:19 to play.

The Lady Raiders also got a boost by fine performances from reserve forwards Stephanie Nelson, an Oviedo High graduate, and Aileen Patterson, a grad from Lake Mary High. Both scored eight points which Gallagher was pleased to see.

"We need everyone to pull their own weight and they did tonight," Gallagher said. "We usually have Jackson scoring a lot and no one else in double figures."

SCC will look to slow the tempo down in its next game against SFCC and look to control the tempo. "Santa Fe is so quick that we need to dictate the tempo of the game," Gallagher said. "We're not as quick as I would like us to be so we need to be in control when we play them."

SCC's Lisa Starks dropped in two of her career-high 26 points as Cheryl Rice defends. Lady Raiders won, 91-78.

SCC Men Face Key Tilt At Ocala

Seminole Community College's Raiders, who have won five consecutive, travel to Ocala tonight for an important Mid-Florida Conference basketball game with Central Florida.

The Raiders are 3-1 in the MFC and CFCC is 4-0. Daytona, which is ranked fifth nationally, is also 4-0. Another conference loss would be devastating to SCC's hopes.

'The Hit' Branch Retains Vivid Memory Of Crunching Playoff Tackle

Long after the NFL Playoffs have gone, Sanford's Reggie Branch will have something to remember besides a 17-0 setback to the New York Giants.

"The Hit," delivered by Branch on New York punt returner Phil McConkey, came just before halftime. Branch, a 1979 Seminole High graduate, said Tuesday night he was "just doing his job" as a member of the Washington Redskins' special teams.

"We needed something to pick us up," Branch said via telephone from his Washington, D.C. apartment. "Things weren't going our way and I figured if I could put a good hit on him I might be able to cause a fumble."

Branch put on "The Hit" — and how. McConkey fumbled the ball and started up field. Branch shed an early block by New York's Pepper Johnson and started down field. "I was just thinking, 'we got to have a big play,'" Branch said.

"Johnson was holding me just off the line of scrimmage, so I had to get past him first. I just tried to sling him away."

Once Branch did, he said it was all steam ahead.

"That was great," Branch's mother, Annalee Mae, said Tuesday night. "Even though they lost, something good came out of the playoffs for Reggie."

Former coach Jerry Posey said he was also glued to the television set. "Reggie really nailed him," Posey said. "That was an ideal tackle. Just like they illustrate in the textbook. He did go right through his numbers."

Although dissatisfied with the Giants' domination with the Redskins, Branch said there wasn't a whole lot the 'Skins could do. "The Giants are awesome," he said. "The wind did make a big difference in the game. That was a smart move by the Giants to take the wind."

Smart indeed. Ten of the Giants 17 points came with the 17-30 mph first-quarter wind behind their backs.

Branch wore No. 30 before he was cut by the Redskins just before the season started. When he was re-signed he donned No. 29.

After his first taste of playoff action, though, Branch said it will be different for the 'Skins next year. "This is a good, young team," he said. "We'll be back next year even stronger than ever."

And while he waits for the '87 season to come around, Branch will have the fond memory of "The Hit" to relive each day.

Returning Stars Paint Bright Picture For Lake Howell

Lake Howell High School has without a doubt one of the most consistently good tennis programs in the state. Year after year, the Silver Hawks field highly competitive, even championship teams.

Last year was another fine one for Mike Hargis and his teams. Lake Howell's girls had a really outstanding season. They finished with a 13-1 season record, won the Seminole Athletic Conference, won the district and finished tied for fourth in the state.

Hargis said 1987 should be just as good. Five of the top six players return and all have worked very hard and have improved greatly. For sure this will be a good year for the girls team — which might even exceed the 1986 effort.

Last season the boys team had a 12-2 regular season record. That was very good but when one considers that all of the players were ninth and 10th graders, the record is even more impressive.

The Hawks are an up-and-coming state power and will have to be counted as a definite district and state contender. The top six players are still only sophomores or juniors, so the future is indeed very bright for the Lake Howell boys team.

A look at the lineups shows why the hopes are so high at Lake Howell this year. On the boys side all starters from last year's fine team are back. In fact, even though this is a veteran team there is still not one senior on the team.

Larry Castle
SANFORD HERALD TENNIS WRITER

Marion Wynter is like one of the top boys in the area this year. Wynter had a very good 13-5 record last year. Back at the number two position is Vince Regan. He was 12-4 last year. Number three will probably go to Mark Enriquez. Enriquez had a 13-5 record in 1986. Back at number four will be Scott Eastman. He has played a lot of tournaments this past year, so could move up in the lineup. Eastman was 15-4 last year. Number five will probably go to Larry Floyd. Floyd was 12-7 last year.

Also back from last year's team is Patrick Regan. Regan was 7-5 last year.

The lineup for the boys is, of course, not set yet and the order might well differ from last year's. At any rate the Lake Howell boys will field a very experienced and strong team this year.

The girls team has Emmy-lou Dulce back at the number one slot. She is one of the top girls in Central Florida and had a fine 15-5 record last year. Renee Martin is back and will likely move up to the number two spot this year (19-2 last year).

Bonnie Oliver will probably move up from number four to number three. Oliver was 20-3 in 1986. Mindy Gardberg moves from fifth to fourth. Gardberg was 16-3 last year. Moving up from sixth to fifth will most likely be Mina Allilia. Allilia had a fine 10-4 record in 1986.

This year's addition of the Lake Howell teams will carry on the great tennis tradition which has already been established.

Elks Hoop Shoot Has 6 Champs

Three boys and three girls were crowned city champions Saturday at the Elks Hoop Shoot competition at Seminole High.

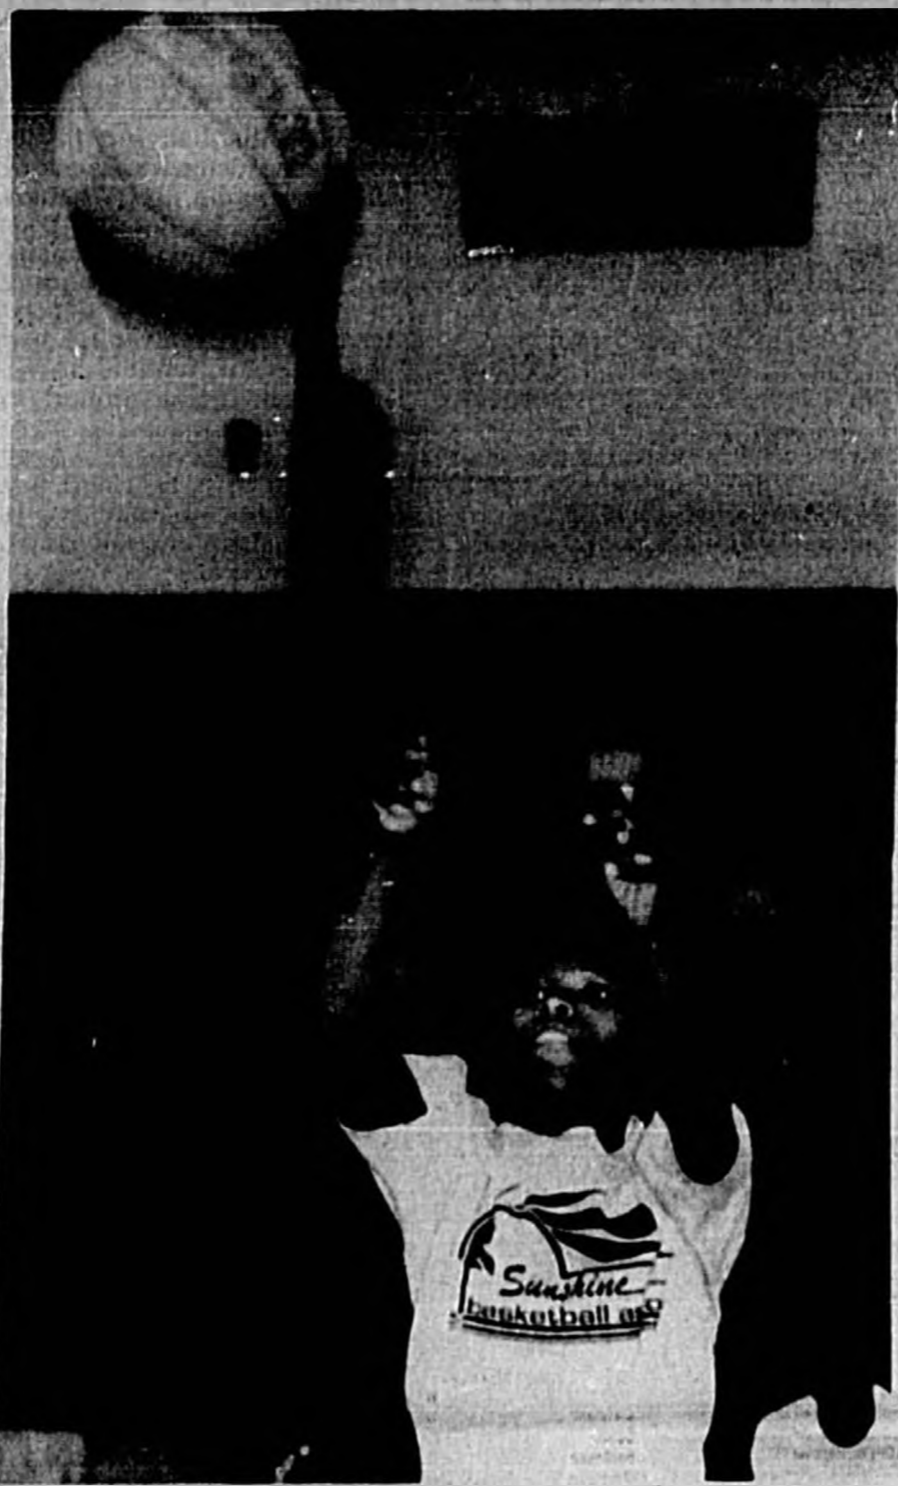

The champions in three age divisions will advance to district competition on Saturday, Jan. 31 at New Smyrna Beach High with hopes of going on to the state level on Feb. 21 at Seffner Armwood High near Tampa.

In Saturday's competition, Scott O'Brian won the championship in the boys' 8-9 age group with Waldo Makalani taking second and Kevin Korost third. The girls' 8-9 winner was Renee Farmer.

In the boys' 10-11 division, Larry Richard took first place with Jose DeJesus second and Aloysius Battle third. In the girls' 10-11 competition, Latonya Farmer was first and Rebecca Ireland second.

In the boys' 12-13 age group, Raymon Perkins was champion with James Davis second and Braniff Bonaventure third. In the girls' 12-13, Connie Bonaventure was the winner with Ashley Mossman second.

The Elks Hoop Shoot is in its 15th year of competition and has over three million competitors nation wide. The state winners go on to regional competition while regional winners go on to the national level. The six national champions — one boy and one girl — in each of the three age groups receive a trophy with their names inscribed at the Naimith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass.

Bishop Moore's Late Goal Salvages Tie With Howell

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

In a battle between a pair of state powerhouses, Tim Gertz stuck in a penalty kick with 4:58 remaining as Orlando Bishop Moore's Hornets, ranked third in Class 3A, and Lake Howell's Silver Hawks, the ninth-ranked 4A team, fought to a 3-3 tie Tuesday night at Lake Howell High.

Lake Howell now stands at 10-2-1 while Bishop Moore is 9-1-1. The Silver Hawks returns to Seminole Athletic Conference play Thursday night at Oviedo.

"I feel like we probably should have won," Lake Howell coach Glenn Griffin said. "The kids played well enough to win and pretty much dominated but Bishop Moore took advantage of their opportunities off the counterattack. We have to continue to tighten up our defense."

Lake Howell, which outshot the Hornets, 18-7, took a 1-0 lead less than four minutes into the game when Doug Lee blasted in a penalty kick for his 13th goal of the season.

Bishop Moore evend the score on a free kick by Gertz with 18:01 gone in the game, but Lake Howell came back four minutes later to take a 2-1 lead when Alejandro Ballaudo came up with the ball in a crowd near the goal and cracked it in. Bishop Moore, though, tied the score at 2-2 with 1:10 left in the first half when Jeff DeRose knocked in a rebounded shot.

Neither team scored again until 9:14 left to play when Lake Howell's Jeff Phillips scored off a rebound for a 3-2 lead. Bishop Moore, though, would come back one more time to tie it when Gertz scored on the penalty kick.

Lake Howell pressed hard on offense in the last five minutes and had a number of chances but could not come up with the tiebreaking goal.

"We were all around the goal in the last five minutes," Griffin said. "We had one great opportunity but instead of the kid touching it into a wide open goal, he tried to boom it and it hit the post."

Soccer

Defensively, Jekanoski led stopper Paul Kivimaa and weeper Rob Seltzer led the way for the Lions. Goalkeeper Gordon King made four saves in recording his third shutout of the season.

DELAND TIES LAKE BRANTLEY

Despite outshooting DeLand's Bulldogs, 16-3, and taking nine corner kicks compared to zero for the Bulldogs Tuesday night, Lake Brantley's Patriots had to settle for a 1-1 tie in non-conference play at Lake Brantley High.

Lake Brantley now stands at 5-5-3 overall and returns to Seminole Athletic Conference action Thursday at Lyman. DeLand now stands at 2-9-1.

Paul Ahrens scored on an assist from Pablo Garzon to give Lake Brantley a 1-0 halftime lead but DeLand tied in in the second half on Steve Gleason's goal.

"We were playing great until DeLand scored," Brantley coach Jim Brody said. "That took a lot out of the guys. We shouldn't have let DeLand score. They only had two real shots on goal in the whole game."

LADY PATRIOTS SWITCH STARS

Reenie Deaver and Julie DelRusso, a pair of talented juniors, are usually on different ends of the soccer field. But DelRusso at goalkeeper and Deaver at forward? Come on — what gives?

Deaver is the sweeperback for Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots and was an all-state selection last season while DelRusso, an all-state alternate, is the team's leading scorer.

But, this past Saturday saw DelRusso roaming the goal and Deaver assaulting the opponents' goal. Actually, coach Wolfgang Halbig shifted players' positions about as often as the wind changed directions Saturday in an 8-0 rout of Gainesville Eastside at Gainesville.

While Saturday was the Lady Patriots' fun day, this Friday night will be the most important of the Seminole Athletic Conference season for third-ranked Lake Brantley. Lyman's Lady Greyhounds, the state's second-ranked team, invade Lake Brantley High.

"It should be an interesting and exciting game," Lake Brantley coach Wolfgang Halbig said. "We need to put it all together and not make mistakes like we did in the tournament (2-1 loss to Lyman). And we need to get a good crowd out there."

While the weather has been pretty frigid so far this week, a warming trend is expected to improve conditions for Friday's game. Lake Brantley goes in with a 12-1-1 record over while Lyman stands at 12-1-3. Lake Brantley was scheduled to play Orlando Bishop Moore Tuesday night but Halbig said Bishop Moore cancelled due to exams week.

In Saturday's romp in Gainesville, Cara Marle and Michelle Herbst had two goals each to lead the Lady Patriots while Shannon Anderson, Colleen Lievertz, Michelle Schroth and — yes — Deaver scored one apiece. DelRusso had four assists while on offense, Lievertz contributed two assists and Marlen and Jennifer Josephs had one apiece.

Oviedo's Balance Trims Hornets

Oviedo received a balanced scoring attack Tuesday night and needed every bit of it as the Lions trimmed Orlando Bishop Moore's Hornets, 54-51, in prep basketball action at Oviedo High.

The Lions improved to 8-3 overall and gave coach Dale Phillips his 197th career victory. Oviedo is at Lake Mary in a Seminole Athletic Conference game Friday night. The Hornets now stand at 5-7.

"We got some good play from a lot of people tonight," Phillips said. "Robb (Hughes) and Dana (Hill) really played well inside."

Hill, a 6-6 senior center, led points) and Richard Cuff (11 points), took a 29-28 lead at halftime and the lead saw-sawed back and fourth throughout the second half.

Oviedo finally sealed the victory with some key free throw shooting down the stretch. The Lions hit 10 of 14 from the foul line for the game.

BISHOP MOORE (51) — O'Malley 6, Leinheiser 2, Cuff 11, Grim 10, Repassy 2, Anderson 2, Karlas 7. Totals: 21 9-15.

OVIDEO (54) — Campbell 7, Wilson 8, Bolton 6, Hughes 6, Kandall 3, Greene 8, Hill 12, Griffin 2. Totals: 22 10-14.

Brick's Trick Lifts Lions

Greg Brick posted a hat trick to run his season goal total to 20 as Oviedo's Lions blanked Orlando Lake Highland Prep, 3-0, Tuesday night at Oviedo High.

Oviedo, ranked 10th in the state in Class 3A, improved to 6-2-3 overall and returns to action Thursday at home against Lake Howell.

"We're really looking forward to Lake Howell," Oviedo coach Dave Jekanoski said. "It will be interesting to see what our young kids can do against their experience. We have seven underclassmen starting and four sophomores and a freshman playing critical roles for us."

Brick's first goal Tuesday came on an assist from Jim Guggenheim on an indirect kick and Oviedo held its 1-0 lead at the half. In the second half, Brick scored twice on assists from Duncan Jones as the Lions, who outshot Lake Highland, 38-5, sealed the victory.

"Duncan (Jones) had a very fine game tonight," Jekanoski said. "He plays right outside midfield for us and has come on very strong this season."

Taylor Wins MVP

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lawrence Taylor, the first person people think of on the New York Giants' defense, said Tuesday his No. 1 concern on the Denver Broncos is quarterback John Elway.

"I haven't come down from the (NFC title) game yet, we're all having a great time," Taylor said after being named the Pro Football Writers of America's NFL Most Valuable Player. "On Thursday we get down to business on the Broncos."

"The biggest thing we have to take care of is John Elway. The last time we played them, a lot of people on our defense came back and said he was one of the best quarterbacks in the league."

The Giants defeated Denver 19-16 Nov. 23 in the fifth game of the 11-game winning streak that led the Giants to Super Bowl XXI Jan. 25 at the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif. Elway completed 29 of 47 passes for 336 yards but the Giants intercepted two passes, including one returned 78 yards for a touchdown by defensive end George Martin.

Football

While Taylor will be watching Elway, you can be sure the Broncos passer will be watching the Giants' pass-rushing outside linebacker. Taylor led the NFL with 20 ½ sacks, made the Pro Bowl for the sixth time in his six-year career and became the first defensive player voted league MVP in the 12 years the PFWA has had the award.

"I've been able to do some innovative things," he said. "You really don't see people getting trophies like this unless they're running backs and quarterbacks."

Twins To Pursue Raines

The Minnesota Twins, usually tight-fisted when it comes to free-agent, said Tuesday they will pursue Tim Raines with hopes of luring the National League batting champion into their outfield.

Twins Vice President Andy McPhail said he talked to Raines' agent and was very interested. "We plan to actively try and sign Raines, who could be a great addition to our club."

Raines, though, has said in the past he doesn't want to go to the American League. "It would have to be a helluva offer to switch leagues," he said.

Winnipeg Knocks Off Capitals, Continues Terror Reign On Road

United Press International
The Winnipeg Jets, less than overwhelming at home this season, have become a terror — by NHL standards — on the road.
With a 3-2 victory over the Washington Capitals Tuesday night, the Jets improved to 10-9-2 away from home, second-best in the league. In Winnipeg Arena, the Jets are 12-8-2, and the combination is good for only third place in the Smythe Division.

"I think the reason we play so well away from home is that there's not as much pressure when you're on the road," said Paul MacLean, who scored the game-winner in the third period. "We can relax and concentrate, and we prepare ourselves better for the games."

Dale Hawerchuk and MacLean scored goals 1:46 apart early in the third period to help the Jets overcome a 2-1 deficit. Washington went on a power play for the final 1:53 when Mario Marois was called for roughing with 1:53 left. In other games, Edmonton defeated Detroit 5-3 and Pittsburgh tied the New York Islanders 3-3.

Johnson Promises Discipline

MIAMI (UPI) — The University of Miami, stung by national criticism following a season in which the Hurricanes off-the-field problems garnered as much publicity as their 11-1 football team, announced plans Tuesday to impose stricter disciplinary procedures on the team.

The Hurricanes arrived dressed in combat fatigues, staged a walkout at a steak fry put on for both teams by bowl officials, and several team members shouted obscenities at the Penn State players and fans just before the Fiesta Bowl game Jan. 2. Penn State won, 14-10.
"I think it's obvious to everybody that if we were 12-0 instead of 11-1, there would be more positive feelings about our football program," Miami coach Jimmy Johnson said. "But that does not avoid the fact that I want our people to act in the appropriate manner, use appropriate language, and dress in an appropriate way, regardless of our record."

Tomey Trades Beach For Desert

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Dick Tomey has moved from the beaches of Hawaii to the deserts of Arizona, becoming the first football coach at the University of Arizona to receive a multi-year contract.

Tomey, whose selection was announced Tuesday by Athletic Director Cedric Dempsey, is guaranteed a salary of $85,000. Outside compensation is expected to raise that significantly. He had earned $64,000 at Hawaii.
Tomey replaces Larry Smith, who gave up a $200,000 compensation package Jan. 2 to become head coach at Pacific-10 Conference rival Southern California. Tomey, 48, was 63-46-3 in his 10 seasons with Hawaii, where his Western Athletic Conference squad was known for its defense.

Lendl Struggles Past Saltz

MELBOURNE, Australia. (UPI) — Top seed Ivan Lendl struggled before defeating Danny Saltz, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1 today in the first round of the $1.65 million Australian Open tennis tournament.

The women's top seed, Martina Navratilova, trounced 24-year-old Jamie Golder of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 6-0, 6-1 in 47 minutes in their first-round match. Navratilova, bidding for her fourth Aussie crown, played under her new coach, Randy Crawford, following her split with Mike Estep, who had guided her for three years.
The third day of action was delayed for 90 minutes when light rain fell shortly after the start of play. A record third day's crowd of 10,500 watched Lendl open his bid for the elusive Australian crown.

Daytona, FCC-J Rank With Best

Daytona Beach Community College and Jacksonville's Florida Community College continue to rank with the best in the National Junior College Basketball Poll released Tuesday.
Daytona, which features Sanford and former Lake Mary High standout Darryl Menthie, climbed to No. 5 in the men's poll. Sophomore Menthie is averaging 18 points per game for the 20-1 Scots.
FCC-J, which features former Sanford Seminole star Mona Benton, climbed to No. 6 in the women's poll. Benton, also a sophomore, is averaging 11 points per game for the Lady Stars.

Cystic Fibrosis Benefit Feb. 14

The Orlando Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation will conduct its Sports Challenge Feb. 14. Davey Johnson, manager of the world champion New York Mets, will serve as the honorary chairman.
The Sports Challenge will consist of various athletic events that include relays, an obstacle course, a tug of war, and a basketball shoot.
Team entry fees of $400 will be donated to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. For further information, contact Zeke Willis at 898-1511 or the Orlando Cystic Fibrosis Foundation Chapter at 351-0911.

PGA Merchandise Show Jan. 24

ORLANDO — The 34th annual PGA Merchandise Show will be held for the third consecutive year at the Orange County Convention/Civic Center Jan. 24-27.
Conducted by the PGA of America, the show features some 500 exhibitors with new lines of merchandise ranging from clubs to umbrellas, all on display in more than 900 booths across 175,000 square feet of the sprawling center.
Show hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 24 through Tuesday, Jan. 27.

Oviedo JV Loses Game, Scorer

St. Cloud, taking advantage of an injury to leading scoring Cindy Willming, knocked off Oviedo, 32-25, in junior varsity basketball Monday night at St. Cloud High School.
Willming scored eight points before injuring the ligaments of her knee. Oviedo coach Mickey Norton said she would be lost for "at least three weeks." Michelle Wynn led Oviedo with nine points and six rebounds.
Oviedo, 7-3, hosts Lake Mary Thursday.

YMCA To Offer T-Ball League

The Seminole County YMCA will direct a T-ball league for boys and girls from grades kindergarten through second during an eight-week season which begins Feb. 23.
The fee is $30 for YMCA members and $35 for others. Cap and shirt included. Call (407) 321-3944 for additional information.

Stocks Open Lower

NEW YORK (UPI)— Prices opened lower today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues. The Dow Jones industrial average, which scored its eighth advance in a row Tuesday with a gain of 3.52, was down 0.84 to 2012.10 shortly after the market opened. Declines led advances 563-499 among the 1,547 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Early turnover amounted to about 22,977,000 shares. The stock market extended its trip into uncharted territory Tuesday, pushing the Dow Jones industrial average to its seventh record finish in seven sessions, but the gain was less than spectacular. Strength in two Dow components—International Paper and Owens-Illinois—gave the blue chip indicator some buoyancy. International Paper reported a nearly threefold rise in fourth-quarter earnings. Owens-Illinois is the target of a sweetened takeover bid by Kohlberg Kravis Roberts & Co. Ricky Harrington, analyst at Interstate Securities in Charlotte, N.C., said the market's ability to hold steady in the face of pronounced weakness IBM was "remarkable." As analysts continued to lower their estimates of IBM's fourth-quarter earnings, IBM fell sharply.

Gold Climbs As Dollar Takes Fall

By United Press International
The U.S. dollar opened sharply lower on major world money markets today, falling to a three-month low against the Japanese yen and 4 1/2 year low against the Italian lire. The price of gold moved higher. In earlier trading in the Far East, despite intervention by the Bank of Japan, the dollar plummeted against the yen on the Tokyo foreign exchange market, closing at its lowest level against the Japanese yen in more than three months. The dollar closed at 153.80 yen, down from Tuesday's close of 156.00. It was the dollar's lowest exchange rate against the yen since Oct. 7 when a dollar was worth 153.77 yen. Dealers said the Bank of Japan battled to prop up the sinking dollar by buying $1.5 billion, but the selling side of the market prevailed. The bearish mood was spurred by a New York Times report that the Reagan administration hopes for a further drop in the dollar to help ease the huge U.S. trade deficit. Some dealers believe the dollar may be headed for an unprecedented low against the Japanese currency. The record low closing level was set Aug. 21 at 153.03 yen. In European trading, the dollar opened in Frankfurt at 1.856 German marks, down from 1.886 at the close on Tuesday. The dollar opened in Zurich at 1.5592 Swiss francs, down from 1.5715, and 2.097 Dutch guilders in Amsterdam, down from a previous close of 2.113.

Retail Sales Up 4.4 Percent

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Booming auto sales powered a 4.4 percent increase in retail sales in December over the month before, the second-best monthly increase ever recorded, the Commerce Department said today. Auto sales rose 16.2 percent in December over November, the agency said in its advance report on monthly retail sales. Economists credited the boom to the new tax code, which started New Year's Day and no longer permits deductions for state sales tax. Away from the showrooms, non-auto sales grew 0.9 percent, matching last December's growth rate. General merchandise sales forces enjoyed a Merry Christmas by seeing their sales grow 1.3 percent—the best December since 1982's 2.5 percent increase. Total sales for the year hit $1.445 trillion, up 5.2 percent over 1985. But it was the puniest growth since the recession year 1982, when it rose 3 percent. The estimated sales of $126.3 billion in all of December represented 4.4 percent growth over November. The increase came after two months of declines and was the second-biggest jump since the Commerce Department started tracking retail sales in 1967.

Air Crash Survivor Arrested

CLEARWATER (UPI)— On the fifth anniversary of the day she was rescued from the icy Potomac River in Washington, D.C. following the crash of an Air Florida jet, Priscilla Tirado was arrested on drug charges. Tirado, 27, lost her husband Jose and their 9-week-old son Jason among the 74 passengers killed in the crash. Tuesday afternoon as she stood in her yard after being released from county jail, she said the anniversary of the tragedy always is depressing to her. "I didn't want to hang around home," she told a reporter for the St. Petersburg Times. "This is always a bad day. I can't help it. But next time, I'm going to do it at home." "It's still hard for me," she said. "Sometimes I have my days. I had a good life with Jose. He was real good for me. If Jose could see what I'm doing now." Tirado said she spent Monday night and early Tuesday trying to forget the crash. She was arrested about 5:15 a.m. Tuesday for driving under the influence of alcohol and for possession of crack cocaine, marijuana and drug parapherna-

2nd Dupont Plaza Employee Arrested In Fatal Hotel Fire

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI)— A second Dupont Plaza Hotel employee was arrested and will be charged today in the New Year's Eve inferno that killed 96 people at the posh seaside hotel, a U.S. marshal said. The suspect was taken to the U.S. District Court building in Old San Juan at 1 a.m. today. The U.S. marshal, who declined to be identified, could not say what the charges were expected to be. The New York Times identified the suspect as a hotel busboy and Teamsters union member who allegedly acted as an accomplice in the arson. The Times quoted federal sources as saying the man would be charged today with conspiracy and aiding and abetting in the fire. The FBI said it obtained a signed, sworn confession from Teamsters member and maintenance worker Hector Escudero Aponte, 35, before he was charged Tuesday in local and federal courts. Federal authorities told the Times the busboy is suspected of providing the material to set the fire and shielding Escudero Aponte from view while he allegedly set the blaze. FBI spokesman Anibal Torres said, "We have no comment on that at this time other than to say the investigation is continuing." Another FBI official said any suspect would be charged first in federal courts, as was Escudero Aponte. Escudero Aponte, a burly, mustachioed bodybuilder with a wife and two children, was described as a maintenance worker who belonged to the Teamsters union and worked at the posh 20-story resort hotel for more than 10 years. His exact duties at the hotel were not known. He was charged in San Juan District Court with 96 counts of murder and one count each of arson and destruction. A federal court also charged him with one count of arson. If convicted, Escudero Aponte could get a life sentence for each murder charge. Puerto Rico, a U.S. commonwealth, has no death penalty. "Escudero Aponte is charged with setting fire to the Dupont Plaza Hotel on New Year's Eve, in agreement with others," Justice Secretary Hector Rivera Cruz told a news conference. "The investigation is beginning to unravel," said FBI Agent James Esposito. "We have many interviews still to do. We believe there are additional people who had knowledge of the fire." He declined to elaborate. The fire erupted in the hotel's ballroom shortly after 3 p.m., New Year's Eve, minutes after union members meeting in the ballroom confirmed a midnight strike vote. The blaze quickly spread to the casino, where most of the 96 people killed by the fire died. The fire injured 120 others. The strike vote followed four months of contract talks and a bitter union-management stalemate.

"I have always been sure that the union (organization) was not involved and up until now this is what has been shown," Cadiz told reporters utilizing Sterno-type fuel. The complaint said he then placed the Sterno can on top of a stack of furniture boxes, next to another stack of boxes in the south ballroom of the hotel, and lit it after the union meeting, intending only to set a "small fire."

Cooks Of The Week

The Korgans, Partners For 48 Years, Share Culinary Spotlight

By Dorothy Greene
Herald Correspondent

A marvelous partnership was formed almost 48 years ago and is still going strong. As our Co-Cook Of The Week, Florence Korgan, explains, "We're a team — we do everything together, and half the recipes are Ed's." Mrs. Korgan readily admits that her husband, also, is a fantastic cook and they have always shared the culinary spotlight.

Through a lucky job transfer, Ed and Florence met in her hometown of Waverly, N. Y., and his position as meat specialist with the A & P supermarket chain gives him all the credentials he needs to create his own specialties in the kitchen. Since retiring four years ago after 46 years' service with A & P, Ed Korgan Sr. and his attractive wife are enjoying life to the fullest and they can often be found side by side cooking up the tastiest meals. "Ed usually takes care of the meat part of the meal," says Mrs. Korgan. "If we have a lamb stew or beef stew, I'll get the vegetables that go with it. If we have a roast pork or a fresh ham blade, we'll get in there and each do our own thing." One thing is certain, and that is our cooks' compatibility in the kitchen is second to none and that's the way they like it.

"I like to remember my grandmother's cooking," says Mrs. Korgan. "Back in Waverly at that time, my mother worked, so my grandmother taught me how to cook. Everything was from scratch. We cooked on a coal stove and she even cooked her bread on that coal stove. One of the things I remember is, if we ran out of bread and had to buy a loaf from the grocery store — that was a luxury! My grandmother taught me how to make biscuits and bread and pies. Of course, my cooking has changed throughout the years because I married a super cook. He excels in cooking all kinds of meats."

Looking back, Mrs. Korgan remembers meeting her future husband when she was 17. "We went together for two years, and then we got married," she says, and nothing puts a glow on her pretty face more than the mention of her fine family of three sons. Ed Jr. is a frequent guest for dinner, and this pleases the Korgans very much. Besides his night auditor position at the Cavalier Motor Inn, Sanford, Ed Jr. has returned to college and expects to receive his degree in June. His son, Eddie III, is 18. "Our son, Richard, is president of Pioneer Surveys, Inc. in Tulsa, Oklahoma," says Mrs. Korgan, "and his firm is licensed in 47 states to perform hydrographic surveys." A third son, Michael, has been a truck driver for Sears for over 20 years. "Have you ever wondered how all the merchandise gets to all the Sears stores?" asks Mrs. Korgan. "Well, he works from midnight to 8 a.m. driving a big tractor trailer delivering to Sears stores all over Florida." All three of the Korgan sons have diversified interests and personalities and are a great source of pride to our cooks of the week.

"We have decided," continues Mrs. Korgan, "that we don't have in-laws in our family and I have two of the most beautiful girls — Janet is married to Michael and Thelma is Richard's wife. They are both beautiful women." Another grandson, Michael, is 18, and a granddaughter, Kimberly, has made the Korgans great-grandparents three times. A thrilling holiday visit to Tulsa gave the Korgans a chance to spend time with little Richard, 4½, Christopher, 2½, and Andrew Michael, a tender 4 months old. "We had a wonderful Christmas," says Mrs. Korgan.

Aside from the things they enjoy doing together, Ed Korgan's encouragement and support have allowed his wife to pursue as many of her outside interests as she likes. A music lover, Mrs. Korgan is a member of the Sweet Adelines International Sound of Sunshine singing group. She also performs with the Women's Club Chorus in Sanford, and sings with the Saturday night full choir at All Souls Catholic Church. Presently, she is preparing to take part in the Martin Luther King Religious ceremony during the upcoming celebration.

By chance, Mrs. Korgan has entered into a glamorous sideline that would probably turn most grandmas green with envy — fashion modeling. For the past five years she has been a "full figure" model for most of the major department stores in Florida doing informal, in-store modeling of mature fashions. "I never thought I could do something like that, but it's been a wonderful experience and has given me a great uplift," she declares.

"Would you believe I'm also a clown," Mrs. Korgan laughs. After a 6-week course in "clowning," she graduated as a Liberty Bells club clown who talks to children in second, third and fourth grades about America. "I let them tell ME," she says, "to see how much THEY know about America." At the school, Mrs. Korgan learned how to apply her own makeup, in addition to other phases of clowning, and, in order to graduate, each student had to design his or her own costume and present their "character" to the class. In the true spirit of her Liberty character, Mrs. Korgan's costume is a brilliant red, white and blue combination topped with a blue wig.

A venture that is close to her heart is PLUS (Project Literacy U.S.), a program dedicated to teaching our less fortunate citizens to read, write and recognize numbers. A course at Seminole Community College prepared Mrs. Korgan to teach these skills to adults. "I have two students," she says, "and I just gave my first student his diploma and I was as proud as he was!"

Mrs. Korgan's first priority is being with her husband and sharing in his retirement, "but he's lenient," she adds, "and if I have something to do, he'll say 'go ahead.' If the dishes aren't done, he'll say 'I'll do them, go ahead.' He's a very sweet husband." On the other hand, Ed Korgan enjoys his garden and loves to fish. With more time for traveling in their future, the Korgans would love to take a leisurely cruise to the islands and have put that in their plans, also. As Ed Korgan says, a vacation isn't a vacation unless you go away somewhere. One member of the Korgan family who rates honorable mention is their precious little poodle, Gigi, who spends most of her time in Ed's lap. "She's a cagey one," laughs Mr. Korgan, referring to his wife. "Do you know what she did? When I retired, she bought this little puppy for me. I retired in the month of November and in December I had this little puppy — she was six weeks old — and she hasn't been without me ever since. People tell me I spoil her."

Perhaps one of the most memorable moments in Mrs. Korgan's life was when she received the Andrew Carnegie Hero Award in 1965 for saving the life of a young Sanford man trapped in a burning vehicle. Her unselfish act gained nationwide attention at the time, and the prestigious award is among her prized possessions. It is also indicative of the kind of person Florence Korgan is — caring and helpful.

Working together, the Korgans have a mutual admiration for each other's accomplishments which is evident in their cheerfulness toward one another. Ed Korgan is generous with praise for his pretty wife, and she is just as generous with her compliments of him.

Kitchen duty is never a problem at the Korgans' and each has a favorite dish or two. "When I cook," says Mr. Korgan, "I don't count noses, because I always put on a big pot and it's always cleaned up. And she's the best pie baker there ever was. She makes the best crust and she doesn't measure anything. And she (Florence) makes the best raised biscuits you ever had. The best bakers can't compare with her pie crust or biscuits — they come out so fluffy and light and delicious."

Listed below are some favorites from the Korgan kitchen:

STIR FRY VEGETABLES (For the wok)

3 tablespoons vegetable oil
½ head of cauliflower
1 bunch of broccoli
3 carrots, sliced diagonally
1 onion, sliced
4 stalks of celery, sliced diagonally
¼ teaspoon dill weed
¼ teaspoon seasoned salt
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Preheat oil in wok to 350 degrees. Stir fry carrots and celery until crisp/tender, about 2 minutes. Add cauliflower, broccoli and onions and stir fry for 3 minutes. Continue to cook and add dill weed, seasoned salt and lemon juice. Stir fry until well coated. Serves 4 to 6. (I bring wok to table and put heat on low. You may add slices of chicken for a complete meal.)

ED'S CABBAGE ROLLS

Combine 1½ pounds ground beef and 1 pound of ground pork.
1½ cups rice, partially cooked
2 eggs
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
2 tablespoons margarine, melted
2 onions, 1 sauteed — save one
1 16 ounce can tomatoes. Drain liquid and save tomatoes
Add tomato liquid to above ingredients and mix well. Set aside.
4-6 peppercorns
2 stalks of celery, chopped fine
3 bay leaves
1 head cabbage
2 tablespoons margarine
Cut core out of cabbage and place, hole side down, in large saucepan. Steam just long enough to loosen cabbage leaves. Separate leaves. Wrap a good tablespoonful of meat mixture in each cabbage leaf. Line your roasting pan with the 2 tablespoons of margarine cut in slices. Add extra cabbage leaves to bottom of pan, then your tomatoes, sliced. Arrange cabbage rolls in pan; they can be put on top of each other for a second layer. Add peppercorns, celery, bay leaves on top of rolls and bake, covered with foil, at 350 degrees for one hour and 35 minutes. Remove foil and bake 15 or 20 minutes uncovered. (This is a special recipe given to Ed by his mother. It is a Polish recipe called Galompki and serves 6 to 8 people.)

PASTA VEGETABLE SALAD

2 heads of lettuce
1 bag (12 ounces) fresh raw spinach
2 peppers
3 sweet onions
4 tomatoes
12 regular olives
3 boiled eggs
2 cucumbers
8 stalks of celery
3 raw carrots
12 ripe (black) olives
1 cup fresh mushrooms
¾ cup Italian dressing
1 tablespoon Wesson oil
2 cups vegetable Rotini, cooked and well drained

Seasonings & herbs:
1 teaspoon Ac'cent
½ teaspoon marjoram
1 tablespoon parsley flakes
½ teaspoon garlic salt

Combine washed lettuce and spinach in large bowl. Wash and cut into small pieces the cucumbers, peppers, celery, onions, carrots, mushrooms and tomatoes and place on top of lettuce and spinach. Cut the eggs in pieces and add with olives to the rest of the salad. Add 1 teaspoon of Ac'cent to salad and toss with two forks. Add garlic salt, marjoram, parsley flakes to Rotini, mixing well, then add to salad in large bowl. Pour the Italian dressing over salad, toss and set aside in refrigerator to marinate until dinner is served. Serves 12.

MICROWAVE ONION MEATBALLS

1 package onion soup mix
3 tablespoons all purpose flour
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
½ cup sour cream

Combine beef and milk plus 2 tablespoons of onion soup mix. Mix thoroughly. Shape into balls, approx. 24. Place in 3 quart microproof baking dish. Cover with waxed paper and cook on high power for 3 minutes. Turn meatballs over and cook on high power for 2 minutes more. Remove meatballs from baking dish. Stir flour into drippings. Stir in 1½ cups water and the rest of the soup mix. Cook on 60% power (bake) for about 4 minutes or until mixture comes to a boil. Add meatballs and cook on bake for six minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from oven and gradually add sour cream. Cover and let stand for 5 minutes before serving. Serve with rice or noodles and fresh cooked carrots. Serves 4.

ORANGE CARROTS

Clean and peel 4 good sized carrots.
Take ¼ cup fresh orange juice, 3 pieces of orange rind and ½ cup water and pour over carrots in a 1 quart pan. Cook on conventional stove until tender. Drain and add 1 tablespoon margarine and simmer on stove. Add any other seasonings you may use. Serves 4.

ED'S SCOTCH BROTH

1½ pounds lamb shank or neck
¾ cup pearl barley
2 stalks celery
2 medium onions
3 carrots, sliced
6 whole allspice
6 whole peppercorns
½ teaspoon curry powder
½ teaspoon basil
1½ tablespoon salt (or to taste)
2 or 3 bay leaves

Cook lamb until meat comes loose from bone. Remove bone. Add onion, celery and carrots (minced), plus spices, but not curry powder and basil. Simmer for ½ to ¾ of an hour. Add barley and cook for 10 minutes more. Add basil and curry powder and salt to taste. Simmer until barley is tender, about 15 minutes. Serves 6.

2 To Receive Distinguished Awards At Heritage Jubilee

The Afro-American Society of Seminole Community College invites the public to the sixth annual Heritage Jubilee, Friday, Jan. 16, at 8:00 p.m. in the concert hall of the Fine Arts building. There is no admission charge.

Vernon L. Jones is the featured artist at this commemoration of Dr. Martin Luther King's birthday. Jones, a Sanford native now living in New Haven, Conn., has received numerous honors for his gospel talent. He was recently voted the Traditional Gospel Male Vocalist of the Year at the Gospel Academy Awards held at the Apollo Theatre in New York. Jones has performed with such leading artists as the Rev. James Cleveland, Shirley Caesar, Dannielle Hall, Tremaine Hawkins, The O'Neal Twins, Andre Crouch and the distinguished Dr. Thomas A. Dorsey.

Two area citizens, Miss Rachel Lee and R.T. Milwee, will receive the Distinguished Service Award for 1987. Miss Lee, a retired registered nurse, is an active volunteer with several community organizations. Milwee, a pioneer in Florida's educational history, was superintendent of schools in Seminole County for 1952-1967 and is presently assistant to the president at Seminole Community College.

Unhappy Travelers Fare Better Alone

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am incensed over your reply to "Likes to Travel." She, her husband, and her unmarried sister, "Clara," took trips together and always booked one hotel room with two double beds. The married couple slept in one bed and Clara and her two dogs slept in the other. The couple thought the bill should be split in half — they paying half, and Clara paying the other half. And you agreed with the couple!

Abby, if this trio went to a restaurant and all three ordered the same meal, should the single woman pay one-half of the check — or one-third? There were three people in that hotel room, so why shouldn't the rent be split three ways?

Why do married people insist on being thought of as one "couple" instead of two individuals? It's appalling that singles are treated like second-class citizens. Single women don't have the same opportunities in the work force, and are overlooked socially, too! A person living alone pays the same rent on an apartment as a couple would for two. Utilities are the same, and so are car payments, etc., and I have to make it with one paycheck.

I suspect the married couple likes the arrangement as it stands. They're giving Clara the message that she can't possibly travel alone, so she can either go with them or stay home.

Tell Clara to dump her sister and brother-in-law, and travel alone. There are many wonderful tours that cater to singles — young and old. All Clara has to do is go to a travel agency and her eyes will be opened.

Please rethink your answer, Abby. Singles who travel with a couple should pay one-third, not one-half.

ON CLARA'S SIDE

DEAR ON: Now that you've explained it, I'm on Clara's side, too.

DEAR ABBY: I want to get a message across to architects, plumbers, construction workers and doctors. I know of no better way than to have you publish my letter. Very often when one member of a family has a cold, he passes it on to the rest of the family in various ways. One way is by others having to use the same bathroom sink as the sick person. In the modern bath we now can have twin sinks, sitz baths, whirlpools and bidets. Why can't someone come up with a small sink just for the family to use when brushing their teeth? To fill a sink with water for the face, etc., after another member has used the same sink for brushing teeth without first having scrubbed the sink is comparable to fast-rinsing a spittoon.

Let's push this idea, doctors. Let's initiate this in our plans, architects. And, plumbers, let's ask for a sink of this kind.

RID-A-GERM

DEAR RID-A-GERM: I have a better idea — and it's less expensive. Keep a bottle of disinfectant handy and instruct every family member who is tall enough to reach the sink to disinfect the sink after using it.

Adapt Favorite Foods To Lighter Eating

If you are like most of the people I know, you are already on a diet or some will be (as soon as the last Christmas cookie disappears). The microwave oven can be a dieter's best friend. The nutritive value of the food is retained, the natural flavor is enhanced and no high calorie fats are needed for preparation. The food looks so good you won't think about it being diet food.

The best diet is one that uses favorite foods which are adapted to leaner and lighter eating. In other words, developed to reduce calories, but give the dieter foods with which he can live happily.

A soup low in calories is a smart way to start a meal. It helps you feel full.

MINESTRONE (Serves 6 - 35 calories per serving)

- 1/2 cup thinly sliced celery
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced carrot
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 3/4 cup potato, cut into small cubes
- 1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes
- 1 cup thinly sliced zucchini
- 1/2 pound green beans, cut into 1 inch pieces
- 1/2 cup broken spaghetti

3 cups hot water
2 teaspoons instant beef bouillon
1 teaspoon basil
1 tablespoon parsley flakes
Combine all ingredients in a 3 quart casserole. Cover. Microwave on 100% power 25-35 minutes or until vegetables are tender, stirring once or twice.

There is something comforting about chicken noodle soup. It can be made quickly and is not high in calories.

CHICKEN NOODLE SOUP (8 servings - 111 calories per serving)

- 2 1/2-3 pounds chicken pieces
 - 6 cups hot water, divided
 - 2 ribs celery, thinly sliced
 - 2 carrots, thinly sliced
 - 1/2 teaspoon dried basil
 - 1/4 teaspoon rosemary
 - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 cup thin egg noodles
- In a 5 quart casserole or micro-simmer pot, combine chicken, 4 cups water, celery, carrots, basil, rosemary, pepper and salt; cover. Microwave on 100% power 30-40 minutes or until chicken falls easily from bone, stirring several times during the cooking. Remove chicken from bones. Discard skin and bone. Dice meat and return to casserole. Add 2 cups hot water and noodles. Cover. Microwave on 100% power 8-10 minutes or until soup boils. Continue on 100% power 7-8 minutes or until noodles are tender.

Poultry of any kind is a good substitute for red meat because it is generally lower in calories and cholesterol. By removing the skin before cooking you further reduce the fat content. When cooked with a sauce or covered the meat will retain moisture and flavor. Since poultry can be prepared so many different ways, one is less apt to become tired of it when dieting.

CRANBERRY-ORANGE GLAZED CHICKEN (4 servings - 197 calories per serving)

- 1/2 cup freshly squeezed orange juice
- 1/2 cup fresh cranberries, halved
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 2 teaspoon cornstarch
- Dash of clove
- 2 whole bone-in chicken breasts, halved, skin removed

In a 2 cup glass measure, combine all ingredients except chicken. Microwave on 100% power 3-4 minutes or until mixture thickens, stirring several times during cooking. Set aside.

Arrange chicken on roasting rack with meatiest portion to outside. Cover with wax paper. Microwave on 100% power 5 minutes. Rearrange chicken. Microwave on 100% power 3 minutes. Cover with 1/2 of glaze. Microwave on 100% power 2-4 minutes longer or until meat near bone is no longer pink. Serve with remaining glaze over chicken.

No one ever need know that this chicken dish is really part of your diet. It is special enough for dinner guests.

CHICKEN IN LEMON WINE SAUCE

- 3 carrots, divided
- 3 ribs celery, sliced
- 3 green onions, chopped

- 1 tablespoon fresh, chopped parsley
- 2 tablespoons dry white wine
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1/4 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 1/4 teaspoon basil
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme leaves
- 1/4 teaspoon lemon pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon instant chicken bouillon

2 1/2-3 pounds broiler-fryer chicken, cut-up, skin removed Combine all ingredients except chicken in 1 quart casserole to make sauce; cover. Microwave on 100% power 1-4 minutes or until vegetables are tender-crisp, stirring after half the time. Arrange chicken in a 12 x 8 inch baking dish with the meatiest portions to outside. Pour sauce over chicken. Cover with wax paper. Microwave on 100% power 15 minutes, rearrange and baste with sauce every 5 minutes. Reduce power to 50%. Microwave 4-10 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Baste 2 or 3 times. Skim fat from the cooking liquid.

If you desire a darker color for the chicken, brush the pieces with a bouquet sauce mixed with a little water before serving. Try some oriental cooking in the microwave oven using low calorie versatile chicken. CHICKEN AND BROCCOLI (4 servings - 249 calories per serving)

- 3 tablespoons water
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1 teaspoon instant chicken bouillon
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 3 green onions
- 3 whole boneless chicken breasts, skin removed, cut into strips
- 3 cups fresh broccoli flowerets
- 4 ounces fresh mushrooms, sliced

Combine water, soy sauce, cornstarch, sugar, bouillon and garlic powder. Set aside.
Pour oil in 3 quart casserole or 10" browning dish. Heat. Add onions, chicken strips and broccoli. Stir until sizzling stops. Cover. Microwave on 100% power 3-4 minutes or until chicken is no longer pink and broccoli is tender-crisp. Add mushrooms and soy sauce mixture, stirring to coat chicken. Microwave 2-3 minutes or until sauce thickens slightly. Mushrooms are tender, and mixture is heated through, stirring several times.

Try Alternatives To Calcium Supplements

DEAR DR. GOTT - I get intestinal pains and cramps from calcium supplements...

DEAR READER - If you cannot take calcium supplements, you will have to rely on natural sources of calcium...

I might add that calcium neutralizes stomach acid, so it can be constipating or cause excessive gas.

Remember that there are several types of calcium preparations, usually calcium carbonate or calcium gluconate.

DEAR DR. GOTT - Five years ago, my doctor said I had ulcerative colitis. Six weeks ago a surgeon removed a mass from my small intestine...

DEAR READER - Ulcerative colitis is a chronic inflammatory disease of the large bowel. It is characterized by periodic attacks of abdominal pain and diarrhea...

Crohn's disease is a similar affliction, and its cause is also unknown. The disease involves the last part of the small intestine (ileum), where it empties into the large intestine. Again.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Given the North-South cards to bid, even expert players would wind up in three no-trump more often than not. That contract makes easily with a diamond lead...

spade tricks. Right or wrong, North did bid four hearts and South had to play it.

If declarer grabs the first spade, then ruffs a spade and plays the heart king, he can be in trouble. East can duck the king, take the second heart and then, provided West has unblocked his spade queen, cash two spades and lead still, another to force declarer to ruff. That will set the four-heart contract.

Bridge hand details including NORTH, WEST, EAST, SOUTH cards, vulnerable status, and opening lead.

Warm Hearts, Cold Feet

By Mark Behwed
UPI TV Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — There are reasons to love and hate "Warm Hearts, Cold Feet," a cute two-hour CBS TV-movie that has the smell of a regular series.

First, let's dwell on hate. The movie, airing Sunday (Jan. 18, 9-11 p.m. EST), features Margaret Colin and Tim Matheson as a thoroughly modern, totally attractive couple of lovebirds.

Each has a fabulous career, each respects the other in the morning, and together they try to make their marriage a true 50-50 partnership. Yech.

If this is not too cute already, the couple work at competing newspapers. She is a sports columnist who knows all too well what a men's locker room smells like. Football players ask her out on dates. She says cute things like, "If you were a quarterback that pass would be incomplete." On the other side of the marital bed, he is one of those columnists who writes cheery things about life.

Everything is hunky dory until husband writes a column about wife, saying they have decided to have a baby. That wouldn't be so bad if he had first informed his wife that she was about to have his baby. This is where the conflict comes in.

Anyway, they have cute arguments until she gives in. Yes, she'll have his baby. Husband dutifully notifies the readership by updating his column with all the pertinent facts.

Along the way, she decides to write a column of her own in retaliation.

So now the cute couple try to have a cute kid, but this is the one thing they are not successful at. Since their private lives have become public, everybody on the street feels free to offer advice. One woman suggests they have sex every day until they drop, but after a week they are too pooped to cop. Next, a man suggests they abstain for a month and then go at it. That doesn't work either.

Finally they see a doctor, who has more scientific ways. Still no go.

Is adoption an option? Perhaps, but they can't locate a child.

Along the way there's a quickie in the elevator and more columns in the newspaper until finally the husband orders an anchovy and mustard sandwich. They know something is cooking.

Now, she is with child. The whole thing seems a direct theft from the plot of the ABC series "Jack and Mike," about two fabulously successful yuppies who can't find time to have sex because their careers keep them so busy. She was a columnist who wrote about their malady in the newspaper. He was a restaurant owner.

Despite the fact that some of the stuff makes the stomach turn, "Warm Hearts, Cold Feet" is quirkily appealing. Colin, a former soap star who did wonders as the prosecutor in CBS' "Foley's Square" until it was canceled, is equally sharp in this role. Same goes for Matheson.

As ridiculously perfect as their relationship is, the two actors still make it work. Something about the show seemed real. It brushed against such "today" topics as the role of the working mother, the father and child care, and prejudice in the workplace against pregnancy.

But the best thing is Colin and Matheson are so fun-loving and frisky.

Somehow, someway, all this sugar does not sour the show. In the end, it is not altogether unpleasant.

Video Beat Ethlio Ann Vars

Time for Video Beat's annual Cast of Awards for Meritorious and Meretricious Behavior in Rock, 1986. The winners, in no particular order:

The Do As I Say, Not As I Do trophy to Journey and Van Halen, both of whom declared in April that video clips were counterproductive and declined to make a video for their then-current singles from their albums.

The Boy Is Red-Faced Award to Lady Pank, the Polish rock band which was forced to disband by its government after appearing drunk and disorderly at a young people's concert outside Warsaw.

A What's Wrong with This Picture? 8-by-10 glossy to Asia and Boston, two all-but-indistinguishable bands who both put out a third album this year. Asia's "Astra" topped out at No. 87; Boston's "Third Stage" leapt to No. 1.

The Revenge Is a Dish Best Served Cold silver platter to Sen. Albert Gore, who instigated a governmental investigation into underworld connections within the music industry — 11 months after the same industry laughed his wife, Tipper, and her PMRC colleagues off the stage.

The Bruce Who? loving cup to Neil Diamond, who sold more tickets for a single concert booking than any other artist in 1986. His eight-night sell-out at New York City's Madison Square Garden grossed $2.9 million, and a follow-up series of dates at the Greek Theatre in Los Angeles grossed another $2.3 million.

A You Can Go Home Again bronze bust of Thomas Wolfe to the Monkees, who placed seven albums on the charts simultaneously — 20 years after the albums were recorded — and to Ben E. King, whose "Stand by Me" hit the top-five 25 years after it hit the top-five the first time.

The Mamie Van Doren Reverse Role Model plaque to Madonna, who portrayed herself on video as, variously, an unwed teenage mother and a 25-cent-a-peek stripper.

The Let Them Eat Cake silver salver to Comic Relief, who televised a special concert event for the homeless — on cable television.

A Let Them Eat Cookies diamond dolly to JSA for Africa instigator Lionel Richie, who spent $500,000 to make a three-minute video clip for "Dancin' on the Ceiling."

The Cowardly Lion commemorative coin to the owners and operators of Wal-Mart, a national retail chain, which pulled all hard rock records and teen magazines from its shelves when religious rightist Jimmy Swaggart hinted the items might be deemed offensive.

A Pullet Surprise to "Entertainment Tonight," the only broadcast outlet which adequately covered the landmark national event, Hands Across America. And, just what he was hoping for, a customized Time magazine "Man of the Year" cover with his name stripped in to HAA organizer Ken Kragen.

Marinate a boneless pork loin with dark beer, molasses and vinegar, plus chopped onion, whole peppercorns, allspice and salt to taste. Let meat absorb flavorings several days, turning now and then, before roasting at 325°.

Poultry scientists at Penn State University are working to develop a sturdier egg shell. (Sort of ruins the whole Humpty Dumpty mystique, doesn't it?)

Macaroni and cheese will stay moister if baked in a deep dish. If you want it crunchy, use a shallow container.

Making an apple pie? For extra apple-y flavor, use cider instead of water in the pastry. (We like the top crust brushed with milk and sprinkled with cinnamon sugar before baking.)

It's smart to UNDERCOOK foods that you're going to freeze for later reheating. Keeps them from getting mushy.

Country Sideboard. It's All You Can Eat.

Quincy's[®] Country Sideboard isn't just another food bar! For starters, you never pay for extras. Everything's included for one low price!

Start off with hearty soup and our fresh-baked, buttery yeast rolls. Then create your own salad. From garden-fresh salad fixings to cold cuts to fresh fruits and hoop cheeses, it's a meal in itself!

Next, sample our savory country-style meats and homestyle vegetables. There's even creamy macaroni and cheese. But be sure you save room for our tempting desserts — cobblers, cakes and more — all for one low price!

If you love fine country cooking and going back for seconds, you'll feel right at home with Quincy's Country Sideboard.

A Taste Of Home Away From Home.

Forgiving, Forgetting Can Be Bad

NEW YORK (UPI) — Forgiving and forgetting may seem the honorable thing to do but sociologists say it is emotionally destructive and "opens the self up to getting wallowed again," a published report said Tuesday.

"Going around forgiving everyone can be emotionally destructive; it reinforces your role as a victim," sociologist George Getzel of Hunter College told Glamour magazine.

One danger of forgiving and forgetting is allowing yourself to suffer the same hurt repeatedly, said Lewis Smedes, an ethics professor at Fuller Theological Seminary in Pasadena, Ca.

"To forget is to repress and deny what happened, which is self-destructive. To forget opens the self up to getting wallowed again," Smedes said.

Holding a grudge may actually be the healthiest response, Getzel said.

"Rage and anger are identified as so-called negative feelings, but they need not be. The question is, how do you use those feelings," he said.

For example, he said, getting stood up on a date may help a person choose dates more carefully.

2 Rescued

KEY WEST (UPI) — Two men ditched their small plane at sea and spent the night drifting in a life raft until a passing Navy ship rescued them early Tuesday.

The men, Jack Marshall, 41, of Saint Cloud, Fla., and Thomas Clay, 44, of Knoxville, Tenn., were in good condition, said Coast Guard Petty Officer Gary Starks. They were transferred to the Coast Guard Cutter Cape Fox and taken to Key West Tuesday afternoon.

French Report Substance Kills AIDS Virus

PARIS (UPI) — A French-made spermicide used for several years to coat condoms has been found to kill the AIDS virus, without causing harmful side effects, a scientist at the Pasteur Institute says.
 It was believed to be the first non-toxic substance that can be used locally to stop the spread of the deadly virus, which has infected an estimated 5 million to 10 million people in 78 countries.

 Research showed 10 minutes of contact at body temperature with a small amount of benzalkonium chloride "is enough to render the (AIDS-causing) HIV virus totally inactive," Dr. Jean-Claude Chermann said Monday in an interview with Le Monde newspaper.

 Chermann is one of France's leading experts on AIDS and was a member of the Pasteur research team that first isolated the virus in 1981.
 The discovery appeared to represent an advance from recent U.S. tests that showed another substance killed the virus. The substance, 9-Nonyl Phenol was found to be 25 times less powerful and had serious side effects.

 The French spermicide has been used for several years in a variety of French contraceptives, including creams and condoms, and has been exported to Canada, Spain, Switzerland and Africa.

1/4 INCH TRIM
In the Publix meat department you'll find professional meat cutters who take extra steps to make sure you take home the LEANEST CUTS POSSIBLE. Our steaks and roasts, pork and lamb are trimmed to not over 1/4 INCH AVERAGE. That saves you money. Because less fat means more value for your food dollar. Look for "NUTRIFACTS" brochures and displays in your Publix meat department. They'll tell you how to choose delicious meat meals that are low in fat, cholesterol and calories—but high in taste and nutritional value. And look for your favorite cuts of Publix meat—always lean, always the best.
