ARIES (March 21-April 19) Adjusting to events or things that you can't personally change or affect is far better than getting aggravated over them. Strive to be adaptable and sensible today.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Should some stress arise in an important personal relationship today, you can greatly reduce the tensions by excusing in others what you would want excused from yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be certain a critical do-it-yourself project is something you can handle today before you take it on. Instead of saving you money, any mishandling of the job could prove costly.

CANCER (June 21-July 20) Don't take yourself or the game too seriously today if you're going to participate in some type of fun, competitive activity. Above all, don't blame teammates for your own ineptness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Assert yourself as a leader today when events warrant it. Don't allow others to carry the load if you know they are totally unqualified.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If something has been disturbing you lately, don't keep it bottled up, causing you to brood. Matters or issues can only be resolved when brought out into the open and discussed.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Duck or win squared

By Phillip Alder

A month ago, we looked at ducking or winning trick one. There are some deals, though, in which you are faced with these options more than once — as here. How would you plan the play in three no-trump after West leads the spade queen?

The auction contains a couple of interesting aspects. Whenever you bid the same suit on the first two rounds of the auction, try to have at least six cards in that suit. Based over backwards never to ruff in a five-trump. South's two no-trump was invitational. North continued with three hearts to show both three-card support and the values for game.

When the dummy came down, South saw only five top tricks: two spades, one heart and two clubs. And the lead had removed dummy's side entry. So, to benefit from a 2-3 club split, declarer had to continue with a low club from the dummy at trick two — duck to the first power. It's the old story: If you must concede a trick to establish a suit, lose it as quickly as possible.

Presumably here West will win trick two and continue with another spade. South must play low again — duck squared. If the spades are 4-4, it doesn't matter; but if they are 5-3 (or 6-2), declarer must hope West hasn't got the diamond ace. So, South wins the third spade trick, crosses dummy's club winners, discarding hearts from hand, then drives out the diamond ace. With this layout, declarer ends with 10 tricks: two spades, one heart, two diamonds and five clubs.

ASK DR. GOTT

Common fertility tests

DEAR DR. GOTT: I am 34 and have been trying unsuccessfully for six years to start a family. What sort of testing do I need to identify the source of the problem?

DR. GOTT: There are many tests that could be used to determine if you are ovulating. If your husband's sperm count and motility are normal, the likelihood your medical examination is indicating the source of your infertility is minimal. Sperm examination to make sure that the cells you produce are healthy and that the sperm count is sufficient and motility is normal is the primary test in the diagnosis. In the last couple years, the sperm examination has 2-3% failure rate. I would have your husband have a normal sperm examination and a normal sperm count.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A lot of my friends are getting pregnant. I am 34 and have been trying for six years. I am not sure if I should have a fertility test. I am not sure if I should have a fertility test. I am not sure if I should have a fertility test.

DR. GOTT: Generally, your doctor would not do a fertility test until you are 35 or older. The average is 35 to 37 years old. The average is 35 to 37 years old. The average is 35 to 37 years old.

No one knows precisely why some people develop an infirmity to cope as they age. This type of decline is common in over-weight persons. Genetic factors and chronic stress certainly play a role. However the pancreas just wears out after decades of trying to produce enough insulin to provide the fuel for work.

In any case, with your doctor's help and encouragement, you may be able to control your diabetes and possibly if you lose weight and control your consumption of sugar. That way, your pancreas may not have to work so hard, and the insulin may be healthy that it will produce enough insulin for your body. However, I would have your doctor have a normal sperm examination. Remember that diet control reduces the consumption of sugar for all diabetes. In over-weight persons, it is essential.

PLAGENZ

Euthanasia will be story of 1999

New Year's prediction: Euthanasia will be the big religion story of 1999. Dr. Jack Kevoorkian will push Monica Lewinsky off the front pages.

A hint of what is to come was furnished by the record-high rating the "60 Minutes" program received in November when 16 million households watched the doctor give a lethal injection to a man dying of Lou Gehrig's disease.

The issue of assisted suicide has been slowly building up to its present fever pitch.

The subject of euthanasia (the word means "happy death") was opened by some of the leading doctors in England who founded the Voluntary Euthanasia Society in 1935.

The dean of St. Paul's Cathedral in England, Dr. W.R. Inge, lent his considerable prestige to the movement in the 1930s.

Inge said: "It seems anomalous that a man may be punished for cruelty if he does not put a horse or a dog out of its misery but is liable to be hanged for murder if he helps a cancer patient to an overdose of morphine. I do not think we can assume that God wills the prolongation of torture for the benefit of the soul of the sufferer."

The Euthanasia Society of America, organized in 1938, contained the names of many prominent clergymen on its roster, including Harry Emerson Fosdick.

Euthanasia, according to the Hastings Encyclopedia of Religion and Ethics, is "the doctrine that in certain circumstances when, owing to disease or senility, a person's life has ceased to be either agreeable or useful, the sufferer should be painlessly killed, either by himself or another."

Judaism and traditional Christianity have always opposed euthanasia of any kind, including suicide. But this has not stopped thinkers and philosophers at various times from considering the merits of "mercy killings."

One of the big arguments against euthanasia is that those who take the life of a terminally ill patient are "playing God." Only God, it is said, has the right to determine when a person should die.

The pro-euthanasia people respond by saying that if it is up to God to decide when life ends, then all attempts to lengthen life may be thwarting God's will, too.

It is just as logical, they contend, to say that many of those who are alive today only because of the intervention of doctors were supposed to have died, as per God's intention.

Many doctors favor euthanasia, but not all do. Some fear the legal consequences from malpractice suits. Others feel that the integrity of the medical profession will be compromised, if, instead of dedicating themselves to saving lives, doctors are asked to become judges of which lives they should save and which they should terminate.

Everyone dies sooner or later. Why the repugnance—especially on the part of religious people who believe in a happy life beyond the grave—to hastening the death of someone who is suffering the ravages of a terminal disease?

Wouldn't it be more Christian to end the patient's suffering and speed his entry into that realm where there is neither pain nor disease?

Using such reasoning, the consensus of many seems to be shifting to the position that euthanasia—in some situations—should be legalized.

Casselberry youth group helping the needy

By Jeff Berlinicke
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

Most high school and middle school students like to spend their spring breaks and summers heading for the beach or sitting by the pool.

In Casselberry, there are nearly 100 kids who are spending their time helping some people they may never get a chance to meet.

The Community United Methodist Church has a youth group that spends its spring break and summer building homes and repairing houses on the needy. For the past 15 years, the high school youth group has traveled to Birdstown, Tenn., and the group also makes a trip to Henderson Settlement, Kent., and more recently, Marlinton, W.V.

You may not have heard of those out-of-the-way sites, but Diane Thornton, who runs the program, said there is a reason for their visits.

"We prayed a lot about where God would want us to go and that's where he has sent us."

The youth groups go to build homes and, in the past five years, built a fellowship hall and sanctuary in Kentucky. The areas they work are very rural with a large needy population.

The kids build their structures with their own supplies and leave the recipients with debt-free housing.

Supplies and the funding, however, has to come from the church. So, every year, Community United Methodist has to raise approximately $40,000 for supplies and living expenses.

One of the main fundraisers is the annual rummage sale that takes place this year on March 19-20. Thousands attend the annual event and items such as clothing, furniture, toys, appliances and household items are accepted as long as they are in good working condition.

Building the houses is the easy part, Thornton said.

"It's amazing what the kids can do when they want to," she said. "We go to out of the way places where there are no distractions, and no television or music. The kids come together in fellowship and produce amazing things."

The youth group, made up mostly of Lyman, Lake Howell and Lake Mary High School students, don't see many perks once the money starts being raised. They sleep on the local church floor and shower at a local high school. They cook their own meals and travel by the church's bus and two vans.

Everyone participating must also meet some stringent requirements. They have to attend a weekly meeting each Sunday at 4 p.m. and collect rummage on Saturdays. They work during spring break and also help out at the rummage sale. Each member has to supply eight new auction items and sell 10 tickets for the benefit dinner while maintaining a good attitude all along.

Those that meet the requirements get an awful lot in

The Community United Methodist Youth Mission in Casselberry is trying to raise $40,000 for its annual trip to help build homes and refurbish churches for the needy. Last year, these kids worked in West Virginia.

return. "We keep in constant contact with those we help," Thornton said. "Even after 10 years, people still call us to thank us for the work. We have an almost family relationship, especially with the people from Tennessee."

They also return to see their work. Last winter, 43 kids traveled back to West Virginia for a ski weekend and stayed at the buildings they erected.

The kids aren't on their own. A home builder travels with them to provide instruction, but except for that, the kids do all of the work themselves.

The housing projects aren't the only things the Community United Methodist group takes on.

They work at the Good Samaritan House in Sanford as well as the Orlando Crisis Council.

"They are very service-oriented," Thornton said.

To help the youth group, drop off any donations to the church at 4921 S. Highway 17-92 in Casselberry or call 813-3777, extension 204 to schedule a pickup.

Energized boys down Lake Mary

By Dean Smith

SANFORD - The Seminole High School boys basketball team bounced back from a let-there-be-gods performance with a stellar one Thursday knocking off Lake Mary 54-44 at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

"We had no energy at all against Lake Howell," said Seminole head coach Bob Trama. "They have a good team and when you're having a tough year it's easy to get down."

"Tonight we had more energy and made less mistakes. And when we did make a mistake we didn't get down on ourselves. We also did a good job of withstanding several runs they made at us and we rebounded the ball very well."

Arrow Force VII led 11-9 after the first period and ended up winning three of the four periods and tied the other one as they improved to 6-18 on the season.

The two local schools split the preliminary games with Lake Mary winning the freshman game 54-44 and Seminole taking the junior varsity contest 50-46.

Freshman center Robby Day proved the way for Arrow Force VII with 11 points, while seniors Cornelius Blue and Sylvester Wynn scored 10 points each.

Lake Mary's Adams Smith and Mack Hofmann tied for game high scoring honors with 15 points each, while Darius Wells was also in double figures with 10 points.

Seminole will remain at home to host Oviedo tonight at 7:30 p.m. while the Rams (11-11) will be idle until next Wednesday (Feb. 10) when they visit Oviedo and high scoring Terrance Perkins at 7:30 p.m.

Bears girls reach soccer finals

GOLDENROD - Lindsey Alfalter scored the game's only goal in the first half as Winter Springs posted a huge upset of host Trinity Prep in the semifinals of the Class 3A District 6 Soccer Tournament Thursday.

Goalkeeper Denise Weber made Alfalter's 29th goal of the season stand up, recording her eighth shutout of the campaign as the Bears (14-1-0) eliminated the Wolves (10-4-0).

Rusty Wallace, who won last year's race and was the fastest in winter testing in this No. 2 Ford Taurus at over 193 m.p.h., which is now painted in the familiar blue of the Miller Racing team, drew the pole for this Sunday's Bud Shootout at a ceremony Thursday morning at Daytona International Speedway.

Wallace on pole for Shootout

Special to the Herald
DAYTONA BEACH - Rusty Wallace was already in a top position coming into the Bud Shootout as the defending champion.

But with the number one draw for the pole position Thursday morning, the Miller Ford Taurus driver moved another step closer to a run at a back-to-back victory in Sunday's 25-lap sprint at Daytona International Speedway.

"Daytona was great for us last year," said Wallace, who was the only driver to post a speed over 193 m.p.h. in winter testing at Daytona, after drawing the pole position. "I expect to make that a whole lot better this year and I can't wait to tell my guys I drew first."

Alongside the defending Bud Shootout champion on the front row is the 1998 NASCAR Winston Cup Rookie of the Year, Kenny Irwin. The Texaco/Havoline Ford pilot was the last of 14 drivers to draw for a starting position.

"I'm looking forward to getting rid of the rookie stripe and just keep winning more and keep getting better," said Irwin.

Two-time Bud Shootout winner and 1998 NASCAR Winston Cup Champion Jeff Gordon drew the eighth starting position for the Bud Shootout in his Dupont Chevrolet.

"This shootout is so much different than any thing else," said Gordon. "We're really excited about it. I guess this year I'm going to try to make sure I don't trash the transmission like I did last year and maybe I can give these guys a run for their money."

Fourteen of the 15 positions for the Bud Shootout were determined in the draw.

Trailing Wallace and Irwin to the green flag will be Rick Mast, Ken Schrader, Derrick Cope, Ricky Craven, Jeremy Mayfield, Gordon, Bobby Labonte, Bobby Hamilton, Ward Burton, Ernie Irvan, Mark Martin and Dale Jarrett.

Payton to join a list of 60,913

He was called "Sweetness," when he ran through and around opponents in the National Football League. The steadfast Chicago Bear running back, Walter Payton, gained more yardage than any other runner.

Today, America cries for one of its most loved athletes.

Payton, 44, has a rare liver disease and needs a transplant to live. Patients in his condition survive an average of two years if they do not get a liver transplant.

Baseball great Mickey Mantle received a liver transplant that extended his life but there was controversy that he was favored over patients who were well before him on the transplant waiting list.

Mantle's need and now Payton's heighten the awareness of organ transplants and the need for donors. In spite of a 20 percent increase in donations since 1992, the gap between those who need and those who get help has widened. The national transplant waiting list has grown by 70 percent in as much time. There are 60,913 presently on the U.S. waiting list. More than 12,000 need liver transplants.

On average, 11 people die every day while waiting for transplants.

Upon receiving his liver transplant, Mantle donated his time to the National Organ and Tissue Donation Initiative, urging thousands to close the gap between the number of donors and those on the waiting list. He died knowing he helped save lives.

There is much debate about transplant policies. Department of Health and Human Services Secretary Donna Shalala re-dered a plan in 1998 that would send organs to the sickest patients first, no matter where they lived in the nation.

The plan would have overturned the current system which offers organs to local transplant centers first, followed by regional and national matching attempts.

The Louisiana State Legislature successfully filed suit in federal court to force an injunction. Shalala's plan was scuttled.

More than likely, Walter Payton will get his liver transplant without a prolonged wait even though doctors insist he won't get preferential treatment because of his celebrity.

Payton's stature won't help as much as the fact that he is wealthy enough to afford transplant surgery. Many of those on the waiting list are not as fortunate. They do not have medical insurance or their insurance plans do not cover transplants over in life or death situations.

Payton is being evaluated for a transplant at the Mayo Clinic, where former Arkansas Gov. Jim Guy Tucker received a liver transplant three years ago for the same disease. Tucker was on the waiting list for four months.

Quiet and unassuming, Payton told about his liver ailment at a press conference this week. "Am I scared?" he said. "Well, yeah, I'm scared. Wouldn't you be scared?"

His ailment will need for a transplant made Page 1 of newspapers throughout the nation - pushing aside the Clinton impeachment. Many watched on TV as this man called "Sweetness" wept while talking about his illness.

Payton's chances for survival are "very promising" if he gets a new liver. His name is expected to be added to a waiting list in a week or so. It could be a year, however, before he gets a transplant.

Was Wedemeyer really a football star?

Q. The actor who plays the part of police officer Duke on "Hawaii Five-0" is Herman Wedemeyer. Is this the same Herman Wedemeyer who was an All-American halfback for St. Mary's College in Southern California in the early 1940s? — F.J.H., Topeka, Kans.

A. Yes, the very same. He was a native of Hawaii before he came to California to study and play football.

Q. I was wondering if you know how a person could go about getting a movie played on TV again. I have been watching our TV Guide for years wanting to see "The Scott Joplin Story" again. I also know some other people that would love to see it. I know there's a video of it. Also, I would like to see "The Grissom Gang" again. — J.S., Cleburne, Texas

A. First, to get a movie on TV, contact your local station and ask the station manager if he could get it on. The title of that movie is just "Scott Joplin." There is a video of both it and "The Grissom Gang."

Q. This is driving me crazy! What was Richard Crenna's name as a student of Ewo Arden on "Our Miss Brooks"? — N.G., Fayetteville, Ark.

A. Crenna played the part of Walter Denton on that series.

Q. I would really appreciate it if you could clear up a difference of opinion for me. My wife says that color television came out in 1955. I say it was 1963. Which one of us is right? — G.D.H., Portsmouth, Ohio

Robert Forster Lawrence Welk

A. "Bonanza" was the first regular series telecast in color, beginning in 1960. So neither one of you is right, yet neither one is totally wrong. Kiss and make up.

Q. Could you tell me if Robert Forster, who is in "Jackie Brown" with Pam Grier, ever made a TV series? — M.V., Lakewood, Calif.

A. He starred in three series — "Banyon" in 1973-74, "Nakis" in 1974, and "Once a Hero" in 1987.

Q. In 1987-88, I had a patient who was the widow of the old silent screen star, Hugh Herbert. What movies did he make? I have corresponded with his sister, Dolly, and his niece, Anita. I hope you can help me. — L.L.D., Ardmore, Okla.

A. He was not just a silent screen star, he was in many talkies. In fact, Herbert, an eccentric comedian, was in so many movies that it is impossible to list them

all. Among them were "The Great Waltz," "Hellszapoppin'" and "Kismet."

Woman charged for bilking elderly man

By Russ White

STAFF WRITER
SANFORD - Nanette Christine Allen, 36, has posted $4,000 bond to be released from the Seminole County jail where she was taken Tuesday on charges of exploitation of an elderly person.

Sanford Police Department investigator Gregory Smith said Allen deceived 92-year-old Wilbur Kallies of 2820 Central Drive, Sanford with the intent to deprive him of the use and possession of his property, assets and benefits.

Smith said Allen moved Kallies out of his own home, accused him of hitting her and went to court to obtain an injunction against him. The judge denied the injunction, and minutes later Smith handcuffed Allen and took her to jail.

Tipped by one of Kallies' neighbors, Smith gathered sufficient evidence to arrest Allen who had moved into the elderly man's home as a "caretaker" in August 1998. She took control of all the man's assets, checking and savings accounts and residence in October.

Allen also moved in her boyfriend, her mother and a child into the home, and in January called the SPD to complain that Kallies had hit her and threatened a 10-year-old boy.

Smith said that Allen and her friend also tried to get the SPD to "Baker Act" Kallies a week after they went to the police station to get information about the procedure, one that allows law enforcement officers to take custody of those deemed as dangerous.

In late January, Allen moved Kallies out of his home and into Good Samaritan Home of Sanford. She and her family stayed at his home. She then obtained an injunction for protection against Kallies.

Circuit Court Judge Kenneth R. Lester heard the case on Feb. 5. See Staff, Page 8A

Gas line break leads to road closing, evacuation

By Bill Kears

LONGWOOD - A gas line leak in Longwood Thursday forced the evacuation of 12 homes, caused traffic headaches, and will leave hundreds of customers without gas for the next 24 to 72 hours.

The gas line broke at around 6:13 a.m. on State Road 434 at Ichabod Trail from an underground pipe, damaging roadways. The ramps at Interstate-4 and S.R. 434 were temporarily closed, as was westbound traffic on Palm Springs Road, from 6:13 a.m. to 1 p.m. No one was injured.

Twelve homes in the Sleepy Hollow area were evacuated by authorities. An additional 10-20 homes evacuated voluntarily, authorities said.

A single west bound through lane of SR 434, near I-4, was closed for several hours at 1:30 p.m. The lane was closed to repair the damaged line.

"We've had very good cooperation from the area," Longwood Police Department Lt. Stephanie Lynn said. "Everyone from the different agencies worked well together. There were no illnesses or injuries. Everything went smoothly, considering the circumstances."

Workers from Able Construction were doing a directional bore to get in the existing fiber optic cable, an attempt from before. The action of the boring caused a leak in the gas line. The gas line crossed Gas to Interstate 4, according to Department of Transportation field engineer Bill Evans.

Agencies from across Central Florida, including Longwood, Altamonte Springs, Lake Mary, and Seminole County, worked together to control the situation.

Workers from TECO Peoples Gas worked with emergency crews to set up a hydraulic crimping line to control the gas leak. The crimping line was a last resort, since it leaves 650 customers without gas for 24-72 hours. Workers will purge the line, re-starting gas meter-by-meter, to individual homes and businesses over the next several days, according to Longwood Fire Chief Charles Chapman.

"We tried everything we could before crimping the line," Chapman said. "The break was right up against the road."
