More merger mulling

SANFORD — The Sanford Airport Authority has scheduled a meeting Monday, March 27, to continue discussion of the proposed merger of the Airport Authority with the Seminole County Port Authority.

Another meeting on the same subject was scheduled before the Sanford City Commission work session beginning at 4:30 p.m., on the same date.

The meeting of the Airport Authority is scheduled to begin at 10:30 a.m. at the new international terminal building authority headquarters, One Red Cleveland Blvd. at the Central Florida Regional Airport.

According to the agenda listing, "At the regular board meeting on March 7, 1995, the Board requested the proponents of the Port/Airport Merger concept be provided the opportunity to further explain the benefits of their proposals to the Airport. Staff has been advised that District 5 (County) Commissioner Daryl McLain will make the presentation.

Although an Airport Authority meeting, the meeting is also open to the general public.

For additional information, phone the authority office at 322-7771.

Homicide leads

SANFORD — Sheriff's investigators are reportedly following up on some calls received over this past weekend, connected with the murder Thursday, of Santiago Gongora, at the Quik Mart, 708 Bear Lake Road, Forest City.

Sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough says information has been received regarding to persons seen in the vicinity of the store on a regular basis, between 10 and 11 p.m.

Gongora was reportedly shot to death at approximately 10:30 p.m. Thursday, while he was getting ready to close his store for the evening.

Sheriff's investigators and CrimeLine are asking anyone else who may have information regarding the shooting or persons seen near the store, to contact them as soon as possible.

Justice meeting

SANFORD — The next meeting of the Seminole County Juvenile Justice Council will be Tuesday, March 28, at the Reflections Center, 532 W. Lake Mary Boulevard. The meeting is expected to begin at 3 p.m. and should conclude by 5 p.m.

Ye olde essay contest winners

The lords and ladies of Greenwood Lakes Middle School in Lake Mary recently took top honors in an essay contest sponsored by the Central Florida Renaissance Fair at L&L Acres Ranch in Lake Mary. Students from across a five-county area were invited to write essays about Renaissance times. The top scribes happened to be in Susan White's sixth grade class at Greenwood Lakes. The winners (wearing gold medals around their necks) are: Stacy Morris and Chris Hanson. On hand to present them with the awards were "Baron" Heinrich Von Gugenheim, "Princess" Amanda Larson and "Lady" Debra Haley from the Renaissance Festival committee.

Doers, Dreamers listed Disney honors central Florida students

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Youngsters in Seminole County are, on the whole, excited about learning, school officials say. They want to gain the knowledge they need to be successful in life.

But, there are some students who display these qualities with far more fervor than others.

Walt Disney World annually honors students from all over central Florida who display the four qualities of successful people that founder Walt Disney called the "Four C's."

More than three decades ago, Disney said, "Somehow I can't believe there are any heights that can't be scaled by a man who knows the secret of making dreams come true. This special criteria, it seems to me, can be summarized in Four C's. They are Curiosity, Confidence, Coirage and Constaney...and the greatest of these is confidence."

Each public school nominates a student they feel best represents those four qualities. They are named as Dreamers and Doers.

"These students were selected for giving 110 percent to every effort they undertake, having a positive influence on those around them, striving to improve themselves to be the best they can be," said Dede Schaffner, coordinator of community involvement for the school district. "They are the students most like Walt Disney himself."

The following students will represent their individual schools at the annual Dreamers and Doers program at Disney World's contemporary Resort in May:

- Nathan Almon from Altamonte Elementary School
- Juan F. Patino of Bear Lake Elementary School

Blazing new path in Navy Sanford son follows a family tradition

By ANNABELLE ST. GERMAIN
Special to the Herald

KING'S BAY, Ga. — When Navy Chief Petty Officer Craig Black decided to go Navy, his family members were not surprised. He had a lot of close role models to learn from. His grandfather, stepfather and several uncles were Navy men. What was surprising to them, is the fact that the chose the submarine service over surface ships.

Black, son of Burnett Washington and Carolyn Wiggins, both of Sanford, is onboard the fleet ballistic missile submarine, USS Kentucky, homeported in Kings Bay, Ga. Fleet ballistic missile submarines are not only more survivable than land-based missiles and strategic bombers, but they also deter aggression with their mobility and stealth.

Attack submarines like Kentucky are an important part of today's Navy. Whether operating near the coast or in the deepest ocean, their ability to launch Tomahawk cruise missiles, participate in special operations and other valuable information without being detected, makes them an indispensable part of the U.S. Naval force.

Since the end of the Cold War, the role of submarines has taken on new emphasis. Submarines like Kentucky can be first on the scene during a crisis situation, collecting intelligence, participating in special operations and if necessary, taking the offensive to control the crisis by countering opposing forces.

A 1979 graduate of Seminole High School, Black entered the Navy shortly after graduation. "I joined the Navy for the challenges of every day Navy life," he said. "To see the world, meet new people and travel, but also to be a positive role

Retirement Dekle hangs up gas pump to travel, fish

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — After almost 50 years in the gas station business, Mel Dekle decided it was time to take a breather. Being a newlywed of only seven months to his second wife, Alene, widow of the late Earl Higginbotham, Dekle felt it was time to let those full-service pumps cater to him for a change.

Regarding his wife, "We met through the gas station in a way," Dekle said. "We have four children between us and four grandchildren. It's time to relax for awhile. I'd like to rest, fish and travel."

The couple are active members of First Baptist Church of Sanford. Alene is a member of Mayfair Country Club. "She loves to golf," he said.

He recalled 1973 and times of gasoline rationing and also times of closing the station four days a week because of the shortage of gas. Although prices began at 39 cents per gallon they soared to a record $1.98 for premium gasoline for full-service pumping.

Dekle originally began his business at First Street and French Avenue but after six years moved to a location on Santa Barbara. He recalled watching during construction of the station. He offered 24 hour service in Sanford even before

POLICE

Knife fight leads to arrest

Two men were arrested after a fight broke out at a fish camp off BR 46 when the owner refused to serve a man beer.

Anthony Broome, 48, 2400 Celery Ave., Sanford, was arrested for aggravated assault Friday night. George Robert Smith, 23, 831 Little Prawn Lane, Geneva, was arrested for possession of a controlled substance, possession of drug paraphernalia and corruption by threat against a public servant at the same time.

There was a confrontation between the fish camp owner and Broome when Smith was refused service. The proprietor objected when Broome tried to share his beer with Smith, and the situation developed into a fight. Broome pulled a knife, according to the police report.

Smith was arrested after deputies, called to breakup the fight, performed a pat down on the suspects and an object they said felt like a knife turned out to be a pipe packed with unsmoked marijuana. Smith reportedly said to the deputy, "You think your (sic) bad." Asked if he was threatening the officer, he allegedly responded "I don't threaten."

Traffic stop leads to drug arrest

Jermaine Jerome Bradley, 18, 1508 Southwest Road, Sanford, was arrested by the Florida Highway Patrol Friday afternoon for possession of crack cocaine and possession of crack with intent to sell after a traffic stop at 29th and Hardy streets. Bradley was a passenger in a car driven by Toreon Pierre Foster, 19, 1206 W. 20th St. Foster was arrested for driving with a suspended license and having a tag not assigned to the vehicle. The tag was for a car reported stolen in Sanford March 15 from Arcadia Drive. After finding the remains of the stolen car, Sanford police also charged Foster with burglary of a conveyance and grand theft.

In a search after the traffic arrest, Bradley said he had found a small container of 60 pieces of crack weighing a total of 7.8 grams at a local flea market. The men were also arrested for possession of a stolen vehicle.

Drug deal arrest

Melanie Diane White, 41, no local address, was arrested by Sanford Police for the purchase of crack cocaine when she allegedly agreed to swap her ring for the drug with an undercover officer.

White was arrested at 1201 Seminole Blvd. about 5 p.m. Friday. The pre-arranged signal for backup officers was given before White removed the ring. When the officers approached, White wiped off the bag and claimed it wasn't hers, according to the police report. The undercover officer said the signal to move in was given because he thought the suspect would leave the car and escape capture.

Domestic violence arrests

John Doe, 1120 Florida Ave., Sanford, was arrested for aggravated battery/domestic and false imprisonment after he allegedly cut his wife with a 10-inch butcher knife and refused to let her get treatment or leave. The woman had defense cuts on her hands and stabbed wounds on her leg and arm and possibly a broken nose. She left after he fell asleep. She was held captive from 12:05 a.m. until 11:50 a.m. Saturday.

Timothy Ray Burden, 35, 106 Brier Patch Court, Longwood, was arrested for assault/domestic violence after threatening his wife and throwing things after drinking.

Rebecca B. Seisms, 35, 903 Scott Ave., Sanford, was arrested for battery/domestic violence after returning home after a fight in a bar and becoming involved with a disturbance with her ex-husband who still resides with her. The police report states Seisms struck him in the nose while he slept. He refused medical treatment.

Derrick Smith, 28, 1605 W. 25th St. and his wife, Katrina, 25, were both arrested after police were called about 6 a.m. Saturday.

DUI arrest

Bret Earl Dragland, 24, 11823 Groveview Way, Sanford, was arrested by Lake Mary police about 2 a.m. Saturday for driving under the influence. Police clocked Dragland going 52 in a 35 mile per hour zone along Lake Mary Boulevard. The driver refused field sobriety tests after the officer detected the odor of alcohol during the traffic stop near Holly St.

Arrested for misinformation

Two Sanford men were arrested by Casselberry police Friday after a traffic stop and were also arrested for obstruction when they gave the officer the wrong names and birthdates.

Alton Bernard Dixon, 22, 803 E. 14th St. and Herbert Andre Dixon, 27, same address were arrested. Stopped for a defaced tag decal, the two men were arrested for driving with suspended license and improper display of tag. Alton had $1,500 cash in a rear pants pocket and $19 in a front pocket while Herbert had $230 in cash found after the arrests.

Retail theft arrests

Demetrius Herdon, 35, 3855 S. Sipea Ave. was arrested for retail theft after leaving a convenience store in the 100 block of North French without paying for two brownies and a shortcake roll.

Nancy E. McMarin, 33, 2206 Park Ave., was arrested at the Winn Dixie on French Avenue after setting off an anti-theft alarm. About $9 worth of merchandise which she had not paid for was found in her purse.

Leonard E. Bellamy, 37, 2202 Orange Center Blvd., Orlando was arrested for retail theft after he attempted to leave the same Winn Dixie without paying for an $8.68 box of hair conditioner.

2 face attempted murder charges

A man hospitalized last week after being shot in the chest will be charged with armed burglary and attempted murder and another man faces similar charges.

Christopher Niles, 23, 622 Riggs Ave., Osteen, and his co-defendant Ronald Wayne Riggs Jr., 22, face charges from a March 21 incident. Sheriff's deputies answered a 911 call from 2620 Sanford Ave. stating a burglary and shooting had occurred.

Niles and Riggs went to the address at about 1:30 a.m. looking for a blonde, claiming she owed them money. The current male resident attempted to tell the pair the woman no longer lived there. The victim told police when the men threatened to kick down the door, he open it slightly. Then he told police one of the men demanded $10. When deputies arrived, the front door frame was splintered and there were signs of a struggle.

The landlord heard the altercation and entered the apartment through an interior door, armed with a .22 caliber Ruger and ordered Niles and Riggs to leave. The resident went to call police. There was a struggle for the gun and Niles was shot in the chest. The suspects wrestled the gun from the landlord and one pointed it at the landlord's head but the weapon did not fire.

Niles is in Central Florida Regional Hospital for treatment but refused to cooperate with police investigators. Riggs made a statement after waiving his Miranda warning and was taken to John E. Polk Correctional Facility. Niles will be jailed after he is released from the hospital.

Paying tribute to 'Doc' Gore

The Lake Mary Code Enforcement Board paid tribute to the late A.R. "Doc" Gore earlier this week during a regular board meeting. Prior to his service as a Lake Mary City Commissioner, Gore was a member of the Code Enforcement Board, having served as chairman from March, 1984 to November, 1991. The plaque, for years of dedicated service, was presented to Bette Gore by Joe Rosler another long-time board member.

Disney Wilderness Preserving wetlands crucial to state's water

By NE FLORES
Associated Press Writer

KISSIMMEE — The light breeze ripples the shallow water in the slough. Fish slither through the budding aquatic plants. Fresh deer tracks form a trail through the adjacent, muddy prairie.

Steve Gatewood stoops down after spotting a tiny carnivorous plant whose waxy little petals are slowly closing up on a fly.

"This is Sundew. It was native vegetation before the ranchers put in ditches that drained the wetlands so their cattle could graze here," says the lanky biologist.

Gatewood identifies other new plants — the aquatic bladderwort, the sweet-smelling, flatlands Candyweed — different grasses, and signs of wildlife that are rapidly returning to their former habitats.

The scene is a newly restored, forested wetland area of the Disney Wilderness Preserve.

Since the late 1800s, settlers of the former Seminole Indian stronghold had laced the environmentally rich region with ditches, draining the water into nearby lakes to turn the marshes into land suitable for cattle ranching, farming, hunting, lumbering and even turpentine production.

That is rapidly changing. The 11,400-acre Disney Wilderness Preserve, on the Osceola-Polk county line south of Kissimmee, has been created to restore, rehabilitate and maintain wildlife habitat and wetlands crucial to water quality in the Upper Kissimmee Chain of Lakes.

The nature preserve was the brainchild of the Walt Disney Co., creator of numerous lands of make-believe.

Because of an idea by Don Killoren, the Disney Development Co.'s vice president for community development, the entertainment giant served as the catalyst for a partnership among developers, state and federal regulators, environmentalists and The Nature Conservancy.

The agreement resulted in development of the wilderness project as "offset mitigation" for destruction of wetlands in other areas where Disney wants to build.

Under Florida's Clean Water Act, owners and developers who destroy or alter wetland habitat must replace it by creating similar wetlands.

Searching for a more meaningful way to compensate for Disney's proposed use of several hundred acres of wetlands on its 31,000-acre property, Killoren proposed that the company buy and preserve the 8,500-acre Walker Ranch.

Owners of this mosaic of scrub, prairie, freshwater marshes and forested wetlands were planning to build thousands of houses and six golf courses on it.

Killoren's plan was to restore the ranch to its natural state — before white settlers came on the scene — and maintain it on a long-term basis, preventing further damage from real estate development.

"We sat down with the environmental community and regulators in early 1991 and said, 'Maybe there's a better way to do business,'" Killoren said. "The environmental community supported it," supported it."

Carol Browner, then Florida's top environmental regulator, was instrumental in pushing the concept and bringing in The Nature Conservancy to develop the plan and manage the Walker Ranch restoration program.

Browner called the preserve "an environmental crown jewel."

The nonprofit conservancy had been trying to acquire and protect the Walker Ranch, but couldn't afford to buy it.

Disney will spend a total of $40 million to buy the property and finance education, restoration and management projects on it over 20 years. The Nature Conservancy will assume sole ownership after that time.

"We agreed to develop a program grounded in good science, not driven by the bottom line," said Jare Young, the conservancy's director of science and stewardship for this region.

The wilderness preserve's combination of plant communities, marshes and wetlands are habitats for 42 species of animals, including endangered bald eagles and wood storks, and a dozen species protected because of their declining numbers.

Just outside the preserve's western boundary is Polk County.

a 50,000-acre subdivision currently housing more than 10,000 people. But that development poses little danger to the Disney wilderness, which is fast becoming a model for other states, officials say.

Prep PA announcers shouldn't compete with action

When did public address announcers become such an integral part of high school athletics? It used to be that the PA announcer would welcome the fans, introduce the starting lineups, and play the national anthem.

heard Steam's "Kiss Him Good-Bye" (also known as the "Na Na Na Na" song).

That's what happens when someone tries to emulate professional PA announcers. At the other extreme are the gigglers, the butchers of names, and those who are paying such close attention to what's going on that they can't get the inning, score, or whatever right.

Having done some PA work in college ("Keep it short and simple. Nobody can understand you through that Massachusetts accent anyway"), I appreciate the contribution a PA announcer can make to the enjoyment of a game, primarily in the identification of players and announcing changes. But a little goes a long, long way. Easily the best PA announcer at a Seminole County high school athletic event is Lyman's Joe Laughlin, who announces track meets with a very listenable style and provides an amazing amount of information that adds to the enjoyment of a meet, especially for track and field neophytes.

two Georgia schools that participated in Friday night's Greyhound Relays made a point of stopping by the press box to thank him on a job well done. Another key to Laughlin's PA success is that he doesn't scream. Many area high school announcers would improve their delivery immensely if they'd just locate the volume control and use it.

IV is best therapy for histoplasmosis

DEAR DR. GOTT: An acquaintance of mine suffers from histoplasmosis. The treatment consists of IVs lasting several hours, several days a week. Since this causes physical hardship, is there any other method of treating the disease?

DEAR READER: Histoplasmosis is a chronic infectious disease caused by a type of fungus. It can affect any organ, most commonly the lungs, liver, intestine, and lymph glands. In many instances, the infection is mild and patients recover completely without treatment. For example, in certain parts of the country (chiefly the Ohio and Mississippi River valleys), histoplasmosis is often discovered by accident in routine chest X-rays.

However, the disease is not always benign. It can be fatal in persons with immune deficiencies, such as AIDS. In these cases, the infection leads to disabling lung disease and other serious consequences.

The generally accepted therapy for histoplasmosis is the IV anti-fungus drug amphotericin B. If your acquaintance has so-called "disseminated" (advanced) histoplasmosis, intravenous amphotericin B treatment, although inconvenient and expensive, will offer the best chance of cure.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What is your opinion of avascular necrosis of the knee? I had arthroscopy done about a year ago on the recommendation of an orthopedic surgeon. After three months, the pain returned. A new knee was then recommended. I had to get a second opinion, and that doctor said I should wait a year or so since the damage was to only one-fourth of my knee, and it might improve with time and exercise. May I have your comments?

DEAR READER: Avascular necrosis of any organ means that some tissue has died because of an inadequate blood supply. This can be serious and difficult to treat when it affects bone. I do not know why you developed avascular necrosis of your knee, unless you had a major injury to the joint. I don't believe that the arthroscopy was to blame. During this procedure, an orthopedic surgeon introduces a small tube into the knee joint and removes damaged material.

If the second specialist advises

MEDICINE

PETER GOTT, M.D.

you to wait, I'd do so. He may have thought that your knee would recover its proper circulation over time. If the pain and necrosis persist, you can always opt for knee replacement in the future.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
Sir Keith Joseph, a British politician, once said, "We need inequality in order to eliminate poverty." I'm not sure the homeless would go along with that. But at the bridge table, certain players would be less poor if only they knew how to organize an elimination play. Today's deal is a fairly simple example.

What should South open with his hand? There is the school that always opens one spade. They refuse to miss a 5-3 spade fit. Then there is the camp that always opens one no-trump when holding three hearts. They argue that if they start with one spade and partner responds one no-trump, a 5-3 or 6-3 heart fit might be lost. And there are those who open one spade when they think the hand is more two heart losers and 10 winners in all.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be extremely careful today in commercial dealings with strangers. They might fly false colors to induce you into doing something against your better judgment.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Objectives you establish for yourself today will be meaningful and worthy. However, cohorts who aren't in harmony with your aims might try to substitute theirs instead.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Before investing in materials or tools for a do-it-yourself project today, make sure it's an endeavor that will keep your interest and isn't just a whim.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Even if someone you know was lucky in a speculative venture, it's no assurance that you can replicate the results today if you take the same type of gamble yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Stay away from volatile issues with your mate today. What starts out as a discussion could quickly become an argument that drives you further apart.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your chart indicates that you will be more verbal than industrious today. Try not to talk about things you intend to do until they are completed.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you don't make prudent financial decisions today, you'll end up with more red ink than black ink on your balance sheet.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You will do well today with projects that can be accomplished easily. When patience is required, however, you could fall far short of your mark.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You must be able to distinguish between wishful thinking and realistic expectations if you want to succeed today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Any tug of war you experience today will probably be internal. Although you may acquire things easily, you will be equally adept at squandering your gains.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) An overly demanding agenda could be self-defeating today. Try not to waste your energy or your good intentions by attempting to do too much at once.
