Revenue News Beats Back Tax Hike

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford city commissioners are breathing easier today now that City Manager Frank Faison says the city can expect to get additional revenues which would require a property tax rate of about $4 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

Monday commissioners were looking at a $5.28 tax rate to meet required and elective spending increases. Faison said the extra revenues bring the proposed tax rate to about $4, almost a dollar per $1,000 drop from the $4.94 he first proposed. It is still a 14 percent increase over the $3.44 per $1,000 tax rate residents paid this year.

Faison and City Clerk Henry Tamm told commissioners Tuesday they have an additional $600,000 to work with in the 1985-86 budget. The money would cover the $165,000 in additional spending increases the commission has attached to the budget and cut the property tax rate, Tamm said.

"This really improves the picture," Faison said.

The new money came from unexpected revenue sources not figured into the original proposed budget. The $600,000 in additional revenues include: $118,985 from sales taxes, $21,637 from property taxes, $75,000 from the revenue bond debt service, and $59,408 from the utility fund.

The revenue increases include, however, about $264,000 in federal revenue sharing money, which Faison says the city may not get. He originally budgeted $89,000 in federal revenue sharing money, saying Reagan may kill the program. If that happened, the city would be caught short, depending on revenues it would not receive. Tamm said there is no legal problem with budgeting the federal money even though the city may not get all of it.

Eye Surgery Report Misleading

By Diane Petryk
Herald News Editor

"Much ado about nothing" is the way DeLand ophthalmologist Dr. Albert C. Neumann characterizes a recent Chicago Tribune report warning that surgery designed to correct nearsightedness may bring on farsightedness as a serious, long-term complication.

The Tribune's report stemmed from an article in the June issue of Archives of Ophthalmology, a publication of the American Medical Association. The article described research findings by Dr. Michael Deltz of the Bethany Medical Center in Kansas City and Dr. Donald Sanders of the University of Illinois Medical Center. The findings showed that of 79 patients who had the surgery, known as radial keratotomy, 25 have developed some degree of farsightedness after four years.

The problem is, the report of the research neglected to describe how much farsightedness. It also neglected to compare the degree of post-operative farsightedness, often barely noticeable, with the pre-operative nearsightedness, often disabling.

Neumann also said ophthalmologists using the study to further their negative points of view are part of "the same conspiracy" that developed in 1980 when doctors affiliated with universities tried to monopolize the new technique for the academic community. The doctors attempted to impose a moratorium on the private practice of radial keratotomy by calling the procedure experimental. Ten of them have just settled a "restraint of trade" lawsuit for $250,000. As part of the settlement the doctors have issued a statement saying radial keratotomy is an acceptable treatment for myopia and no longer experimental.

As for the Deltz and Sanders study, Neumann said it has scientific value, but the findings are clinically insignificant. The doubts and fears reports of the study raised "did a disservice to RK patients and potential patients."

Neumann said Sanders is one of his former students and Deltz a colleague. He said their research is trustworthy but was misinterpreted by the Tribune story, which was carried by many newspapers, including the Orlando Sentinel. And, he said, a few conservative ophthalmologists, inexperienced in the procedure, jumped to the wrong conclusion.

Surgeons To Pay $250,000 In Restraint Of Trade Suit

Ten university-affiliated eye surgeons have agreed to pay $250,000 to settle a "restraint of trade" lawsuit brought by two private doctors practicing radial keratotomy (RK) and seven of their potential patients. The settlement is final, having been approved by the U.S. District Court in Atlanta in late May with the time allotted for appeal just expired, said attorneys for the plaintiffs.

The suit, Vest vs. Waring et al., stemmed from a 1980 move by the 10 physicians to declare a moratorium on radial keratotomy, surgery that corrects nearsightedness.

Attorney Bill Duffey, Atlanta, who represented three of the defendants, said while his clients and the other doctors have Neumann said, "Dr. Deltz told me the Chicago Tribune article did not represent what he concluded and he was greatly disappointed by its negative bias."

Radial keratotomy involves cutting a series of slight incisions in the cornea in a spoke-like configuration. Nearsightedness is caused by too steep a cornea or an elongated eye. In either case, the incisions serve to flatten the cornea, the outer covering of the eye, correcting a curvature that sends light rays to a focal point too far in front of the retina for it to transmit a sharp image to the brain via the optic nerve. Between 100,000 and 120,000 Americans have undergone the procedure; millions could be candidates for it.

Here's why the farsightedness discovered among former myopia surgery patients is insignificant, according to Neumann:

The farsightedness that resulted measured, on the average, half a diopter. A diopter is an arbitrary unit of measurement in optics, Neumann explained. A half diopter is a "clinically insignificant" amount, he said.

"Anyone's vision, whether they've had radial keratotomy or not, can change by a agreed to pay the $250,000 and meet other stipulations, based on "a myriad of considerations" none has admitted any liability in the matter.

According to Robert Meales, attorney for the plaintiffs, the defendants, all affiliated with university teaching hospitals, met at the Atlanta airport March 15, 1980 to discuss the surgery, as yet unfamiliar to them.

"They knew nothing about it, except

Crime Victim Tells Story; Assailant Facing New Charges Now

A Washington, D. C. cook in private service to a psychologist who brought him to Longwood for a few days last week remains in critical but stable condition today at a Longwood hospital recovering from a gunshot wound in the chest. He was shot during a struggle with an Eatonville man who allegedly kidnapped him and tried to rob him.

The Eatonville man, Vince Lamar Rollins, 18, of 107 Greenwood St., faces additional charges in the July 11 shooting of the Washington D.C. man, previously thought to be from Longwood.

Rollins, charged soon after the incident with aggravated assault and illegal use of a firearm in a felony, will be charged with kidnapping and attempted murder as soon as sworn statements are given by Donald C. Bonner, 41, of Washington D.C., the man who said he was kidnapped and shot.

Bonner told Sheriff's investigators that shortly before midnight on July 10 he was driving along Lee Road near the Booby Trap topless bar and stopped to ask a man, later identified as Rollins, for directions.

After a short conversation, Bonner said, he and Rollins agreed to look for some bars, "and some pot."

Bonner gave this account from his hospital bed of what followed:

"He (Rollins) said he knew where we could get some pot, but we never did. Everytime we arrived at a spot where he said he could buy some, he'd leave the car with ten dollars that I gave him, then return and give me back the money, saying he couldn't buy any. We did that a few times, and each time he returned my money. I guess he was wanting to win my confidence and show me that he was an okay guy. After awhile, out of the blue, he pulls a gun on me and says 'give me your money, you ... I gave him all I had ... thirteen bucks. Boy did he get ticked off! So he says, 'C'mon, get in the car. We'll go to your employer's house ... I'm sure they got money there. I'll rob them.' I had already told this guy, you know, when we were riding around looking for pot, that I had flown in for a few days from Washington, D.C., where I cook for my employer. Well, my employer has her office in Washington and lives there, but she's also got a condo in Longwood. Anyway, that's what

Upbeat Reagan Doing OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The outpouring of messages and flowers from well-wishers helped to keep President Reagan optimistic and enthusiastic despite the discovery of cancer in his colon, a White House spokesman says.

"The president isn't one to dwell on anything of that type," said deputy press secretary Larry Speakes. "The president has a very optimistic and enthusiastic outlook."

"It's a solid, straightforward, let's-get-about-the-business-at-hand type of approach," he said. "And that is exactly the way he approaches this."

A medical report, issued by Speakes Tuesday evening, said Reagan "continues to recover well from surgery," and he "is not experiencing any discomfort. He's OK."

Reagan remains "very optimistic and enthusiastic" despite the discovery of cancer in his colon, Speakes said, telling reporters he is "chomping at the bit" to be "ready to be up and at 'em."

"I just think he'd like to spring out of bed, run down the hallway and jump into the car," Speakes quipped.

The subject of cancer has not come up in discussions between the president and his doctors and staffers, a White House official said. But Reagan is learning a lot about the subject by watching television and reading newspaper reports.

A senior administration official said Reagan was "very cheerful" and in good humor when aides visited him Tuesday. "His eyes are bright and have a twinkle in them," the official said.

Reagan was up and about Tuesday, taking walks around his $452-a-day suite at Bethesda Naval Hospital, reviewing briefing papers, devouring books and watching television.

Because of his position as commander in chief, President Reagan may pay as little as $3.80 a day for his 7- to 10-day hospital stay.

Tuesday afternoon, Reagan scanned the many flowers and plants he has received and was quoted as telling his wife Nancy: "This is the best medicine I could have. This outpouring of friendship and good will really warms my heart."

County Drops Fight To Rule Geneva Water Use

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Settlement may have been reached between the county and Geneva developer Margaret Cammack, removing the need for the county to appeal a circuit court decision on its power to regulate water usage.

"It appears we have a deal," County Attorney Nikki Clayton said today. But she added that before she makes a final decision she wants to read an agreement signed by Mrs. Cammack pledging to withdraw from the suit claims for damages, attorney fees and court costs.

Friday is the final day to appeal Circuit Judge Dominick Salfi's decisions on the issue.

The county commission last week voted to appeal only if Mrs. Cammack refused to withdraw "with prejudice" demands for the damages and fees in the circuit court suit. By withdrawing with prejudice Mrs. Cammack could not claim the monetary awards again in a new suit.

The issue involved the county commission's refusal to grant Mrs. Cammack approval to drill wells eight inches in diameter into the Geneva Bubble for water to serve a 300-acre development of one-acre estates in Geneva even though St. Johns River Water Management District had already approved the project.

The Geneva Bubble is a layer of fresh water floating atop salt water and is one of the few fresh water sources available in Geneva.

Salfi's decision said the county was pre-empted by state law from regulating the use of water in the Geneva Bubble. Marsee agreed with the decision, saying state law gives that regulatory power to the water management district.

County Administrator Ken Hooper said the agreement Mrs. Cammack signed was sent to the Marsee's Orlando law office and it is being forwarded to Ms.

Clayton. He said it will be up to Ms. Clayton "to make sure the agreement is complete and is in accordance with what the commission directed."

Since the county commission does not have a meeting scheduled this week to give Ms. Clayton further direction or to make the decision on whether the agreement meets its demand of dropping all requests for financial awards, it is up to the county attorney to judge the agreement.

Marsee in a report on the issue to the county commission last week advised an appeal be filed only if agreement could not be reached to withdraw the financial elements from the circuit court suit. Salfi has retained jurisdiction in that suit and could have ruled at a future time on the financial aspects of the case.

Lake Mary Man Killed When Truck Plunges Off Overpass

A Lake Mary man was killed when his dump truck plunged from an Interstate 4 overpass west of Sanford Tuesday, landing upside down next to the highway.

Dead is Leonard Johnnie Perkins, 67, of 371 East Lake Mary Boulevard, Lake Mary, according to the Florida Highway Patrol.

The accident occurred while Perkins was west-bound on State Road 46A, according to an FHP report. While on the overpass, the 1971 Ford dump truck swerved to the left, crashed through a concrete bridge railing, landing on the grassy west shoulder of the southbound lane of I-4.

The FHP report said the truck rolled during its 22-foot dive, ejecting Perkins, who died at the scene.

The accident is under investigation. There were no other vehicles involved.

Perkins' death brings the total number of traffic fatalities in Seminole County this year to 22.

Burglar Scores $700 Knockout

A burglar socked it to a 24-year-old Sanford man but police are looking to put the culprit in jail for the count.

Barry Ehrhart, of 2618 Mohawk Ave., was informed by an acquaintance Tuesday that the bathroom window of his house was broken, according to Police Chief Steve Harriett. When Ehrhart got home around 1:30 p.m. he discovered someone had broken into his house and stolen $700 he had socked away in a pair of boxing gloves hanging in his bathroom. Harriett said.

half diopter or more in a day as visual acuity fluctuates," he said. "And, two competent doctors can examine a patient's vision in the same hour and be a half diopter off in their results."

With vision only a half diopter from perfect a patient would never be a suitable candidate for corrective vision surgery of any kind, Neumann said. Patients who undergo radial keratotomy at the Neumann Eye Institute have at least 2-3 diopters of myopia, often substantially more.

Using the Russian method (Soviet eye surgeon Dr. Svyatoslav Fyodorov devised radial keratotomy about 10 years ago), Neumann said he can correct nearsightedness of 10 to 12 diopters.

"That's Coke-bottle glasses and higher," he said. If such a patient could, after the surgery, see well without glasses, a half diopter of regression or over-correction (into farsightedness) would be insignificant.

In a telephone interview, Dietz said a few of the patients included in his study did have more than a half diopter of farsightedness result after four years. It was also reported in the Tribune that another larger study, for the National Eye Institute, known as the PERK study, showed that nearsightedness was corrected in 78 percent of 413 eyes operated on. But, in a seemingly frightening statement quoting radial keratotomy antagonist Dr. William Stark of Johns Hopkins University, the report went on to say that 13 percent of those patients had permanent reduction in their best corrected vision. In other words, after the surgery their vision could not be corrected with glasses as well as it could before the surgery.

But here's why that's misleading. After the surgery the patients were able to go about their daily life without wearing glasses at all, a slight farsightedness being no problem. Before surgery they were helpless without their glasses for nearsightedness.

"Take the worst case," said Dietz.

"Without glasses this woman couldn't see the eye chart, let alone the big 'E'," he said. "With glasses she was 20/20 with a couple of mistakes. But they were very strong glasses."

"After the surgery she reads 20/30 with the naked eye. She's grinning from ear to ear!"

Better Or Worse?

It's true, Dietz explained, she no longer could be corrected to 20/20 with glasses. "But she can pass a driving test without glasses," he said. "She's no longer helpless without glasses. She said herself her glasses were so often in need of changing that she probably rarely saw better than 20/30 with them anyway."

"Is she better or worse? How do you report that patient in a scientific journal?"

Dietz said radial keratotomy is 90 percent good and 10 percent bad "as are most things in life."

"The surgery makes people very happy," he said. "The decision whether to have it done or not is a very individualized one."

If you have cataracts, it's only a question of when you're going to be operated on, he said. "But myopia surgery is good for some, mediocre for some and downright bad for others," and "that's why it's controversial."

For instance, he said, an engineer or draftsman who does very close work might be upset with 20/30 vision that can't be made any better with glasses or contact lenses. But a construction worker whose glasses slip down his nose when he sweats, or whose contacts can easily get a grain of sand underneath, would be ecstatic not to have to wear either. Glasses are often an ordeal for a sportsman; close the door on a career for potential pilots. A policeman who couldn't see if his glasses were knocked off would feel a lot more secure knowing he could see well without them.

It was a similar consideration that led former Seminole County sheriff's deputy Karl Rossman to have the surgery in the summer of 1980. He was among Neumann's first RK patients. Rossman, of Winter Springs, is now in the insurance business. In 1980 he felt losing glasses or contacts in the course of his work as a deputy could be hazardous. But at the time he said:

No Regrets

"The biggest thing was, I wanted good eyesight. I wore contacts for 10 years with constant eye irritations."

Rossman said before the surgery his vision was 20/400 in both eyes.

"It was like looking through a sheet of cellophane and trying to make out objects," he said. "If there was something written on a piece of paper lying on a desk, you couldn't sit up and read it, you'd have to bend over or bring it within one foot of your eyes."

Rossman's vision after radial keratotomy: 20/20. Five years later: Still 20/20.

"I'm real happy with it," Rossman said last week. "I'm real pleased with what Dr. Neumann did. I have no regrets."

The threat of growing farsighted in the future doesn't worry him. It could happen, he said, but radial keratotomy "was a chance to be rid of an impairment. I felt it was worth it. Even when he (Neumann) told you all the stuff that could go wrong, you felt it wouldn't."

The Dietz and Sanders study compared patients' sight four years after the surgery with what it was after one year.

Instability

"Everyone was stable within two diopters," Dietz said. But even the instability can, in some cases, be a good thing.

Sometimes patients who were undercorrected at first see their vision improve, he said.

It works this way. If zero is considered perfect vision, with negative numbers progressively more nearsighted and positive numbers progressively more farsighted, here's what can happen:

Two persons both have 5 diopters of nearsightedness and undergo radial keratotomy. The first patient has 5 diopters of correction and ends up at 0, or perfect vision. He's had 100 percent correction. The second, has 4 diopters of correction at first so he ends up a -1. "He's had 80 percent correction," Dietz said. "We missed by 1." (As yet, doctors cannot predict precisely how much correction the surgery will be able to give.)

Both patients are then checked after four years. If both experience one diopter of movement toward the plus side, the first patient, who attained perfect vision right after the surgery, moves to +1, slightly farsighted. The second patient, who was undercorrected, moves to zero. His vision has improved.

Dr. Morton Goldberg, chief of ophthalmology at the University of Illinois and editor of the ophthalmology journal, was quoted as saying Dietz and Sanders' findings show some patients "may be trading nearsighted glasses for farsighted glasses if the trend continues."

He apparently jumped to the wrong conclusion. Dietz said none of his patients have had to wear glasses for farsightedness as a result of this surgery.

Dietz and Sanders were quoted as saying their findings are "clearly disconcerting," but Neumann said the rest of the quotation was left out — if the findings are repeated in larger numbers.

Neumann has some of those larger numbers. After performing almost 2,000 radial keratomies, Neumann said he has not seen any late-onset farsightedness develop in his patients, some whose surgeries are over five years old. In addition, Fyodorov, a close colleague of Neumann's, has not reported such a complication. The Russians have done about 20,000 radial keratomies.

In Altamonte Springs, ophthalmologist Dr. John L. Isler said he and fellow eye surgeon Dr. Mitchell Shapiro, in more than 1,000 operations, "have not had that sort of bad result."

"It's almost unheard of for my patients to be unhappy," Isler said. "And it's very unusual to see a change after three months. It's a very stable result."

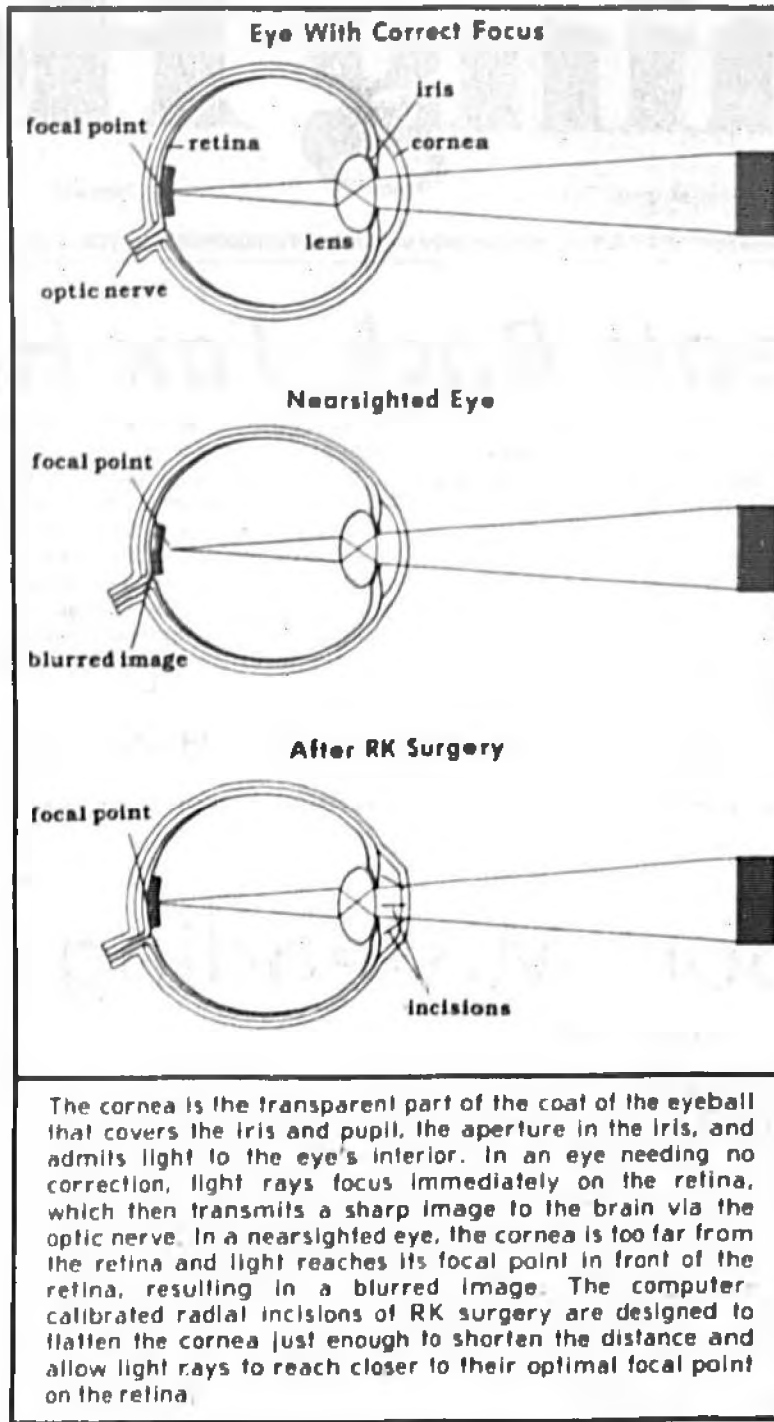

Dr. Ronald Schachar, of Denison, Texas, reported that his patients are "exquisitely happy" with the procedure. He said "it's safe and it works." He also said he has not found results similar to those of Dietz and Sanders. "Techniques are different," he said. "When others don't have the same results that tells you the surgeon may be doing something different."

Neither Isler or Neumann said they have had any patients cancel scheduled radial keratomies because of the adverse publicity. But it has caused concern, until it is explained, Neumann said. "It has had a damaging effect on patients."

Negativism

Neumann said the "little bit of negativism" at the end of Dietz and Sanders' article was probably more a necessity than a reflection of their true feelings. Such comments tacked on the end of an article are almost a prerequisite for getting papers published in medical journals, whose editor's are generally very conservative, he said.

"I often have to tone down my conclusions to get my papers published," Neumann said. "Here's the rub. The academic community sets itself up as

The cornea is the transparent part of the coat of the eyeball that covers the iris and pupil, the aperture in the iris, and admits light to the eye's interior. In an eye needing no correction, light rays focus immediately on the retina, which then transmits a sharp image to the brain via the optic nerve. In a nearsighted eye, the cornea is too far from the retina and light reaches its focal point in front of the retina, resulting in a blurred image. The computer-calibrated radial incisions of RK surgery are designed to flatten the cornea just enough to shorten the distance and allow light rays to reach closer to their optimal focal point on the retina.

'gatekeepers.' They decide what gets published. But they're not the people discovering practical refractive surgical procedures. As a group they haven't contributed new surgical techniques in refractive surgery or cataract implants surgery in the last ten to fifteen years. It appears that sometimes as gatekeepers they may obstruct rapid dissemination of information about new surgical procedures."

Russian Technique

Neumann said in the Russian technique of radial keratotomy, taught to him by Fyodorov, the incisions are made from the outside of the cornea inward. Also, a different type of surgical knife is employed. In the American technique, developed by Dr. Leo Boreas, the first to learn the operation from Fyodorov and bring it to the U.S., incisions are made starting from the inner part of the cornea.

Those using the American technique, such as Dietz, may get five to six diopters of correction where we can get 10 to 12, Neumann said. "More eye surgeons come here to have it done on themselves" than have it done elsewhere, he added. He said an American version of the surgery probably developed due to anti-Soviet bias or American "headstrong" pride. But he said, "the more I speak the more surgeons are changing over."

This fall Neumann will lecture on radial keratotomy in China, Japan, Korea and will address Australian ophthalmologists meeting in Hong Kong in December. He will speak to the entire European ophthalmological community in a meeting in Barcelona, Spain. Recently he performed the first RK surgery in France.

He said one of the greatest difficulties with measuring RK effectiveness is that traditional instruments are not sensitive enough to measure what's really happening. "With refractive surgery we are minutely changing the surface of the cornea and these traditional instruments of measurement are not sensitive enough to measure minute degrees of farsightedness or nearsightedness post-operatively."

"Why? Because we have produced an aspherical central cornea and the only real measure of success is the patients uncorrected visual acuity. Good vision is the only way to measure success."

"Conventional means of measurement can only give ballpark readings of what may be happening in the central vision zone of the cornea. For example, the vision is usually much better than the indicated change in refraction and the change in flattening the cornea is usually less than the change in the amount of myopia."

Bottom Line

"The bottom line is the procedure works. The patients are benefitted and the patients are happy. There's no reason for us to stop providing this service because it's working so well, even if as scientists we're frustrated not having as adequate a window as we would like to view what is happening on a scientific level."

In fact, Neumann contends radial keratotomy is an art form. Results will vary from doctor to doctor, he said. But, he said, RK surgery is the easiest, simplest and safest of a brand new subspecialty — refractive surgery.

"Our big job is trying to educate more conservative members of the profession that wearing glasses is abnormal."

"People get operated on to free themselves from hearing aids. People get operated on to free themselves from crutches. It is taking the conservative members of our profession time to get used to the idea that glasses are visual crutches."

Astronauts, Cosmonauts Urge Joint Mission To Mars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Space dreamers from the Soviet Union and United States say a joint manned mission to the planet Mars is possible before the year 2000, and the only thing standing in the way is a commitment to do it.

Scientists in a daylong round of seminars argued that such a mission could be launched as early as 1995 and that its $30 billion to $40 billion cost, after factoring in inflation, would actually be about half what the Apollo moon missions cost the United States.

The seminar, titled "Steps to Mars" and sponsored by the Planetary Society and the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, included a reunion of the three American astronauts and two Soviet cosmonauts who first joined together 10 years ago today in the Apollo-Soyuz mission.

The space veterans agreed that a joint Mars flight already is technologically feasible. Politics, they said, was the biggest obstacle.

"The biggest thing we learned in the Apollo-Soyuz mission was that we could work together," said former astronaut Donald K. "Deke" Slayton. "We gained the knowledge that we could work together despite differences in language, technology and even measurements."

Added Soviet cosmonaut Alexei Leonov, "I think that in the situation that existed we showed people over the world that we can accomplish big things on the ground and in space too."

American space veteran Vance Brand, a crewman on the Apollo-Soyuz flight who now is a space shuttle commander, said relations between the two nations tend to be cyclical and they currently "are not as high as they have been."

He said, however, that intense cooperative work on a mission of such grand scale would yield volumes of new information for all inhabitants of Earth and "improved relations from such a mission would be frosting on the cake."

...Lawsuit

that private ophthalmologists were using the procedure," Meales said. "They became concerned, at least this was their argument, that the procedure would become popular before it was evaluated and tested thoroughly."

But more to the point, Meales said, "These men saw a $67 billion opportunity."

The figure was based on consideration of the prevailing fee ($1,500 or more per eye) and the belief that 20 percent of Americans with myopia, estimated at more than 10 million, would be logical candidates for the surgery.

At the airport meeting the physicians discussed promoting a temporary ban on the surgery in private practice and applying for millions in government grant dollars to evaluate it. Meales said. "They were talking about more than just medicine. They were talking moratoriums, restraint and dollars."

"Then they went on a campaign in almost every state to try to influence state ophthalmology societies to impose their moratorium. A study was set up, but these doctors, while urging a moratorium, did not refrain from doing RK surgery on non-study patients."

"Had they truly been concerned about patient safety they would not have proceeded as they did."

For example, Meales said, one of the defendants, Dr. J. James Rowsey of Oklahoma City, was featured on an Oklahoma television station talking very positively about RK, "akin to what the medical community calls a testimonial." He continued to take private patients.

"Needless to say, people who had a lot of experience in RK at the time, people like Dr. (Albert C.) Neumann in Deland, felt they didn't have a right to. It was the teaching hospitals trying to catch up because they were behind in knowing about a procedure."

Dr. Leo Boreas, one of the plaintiffs, a Scottsdale, Ariz., ophthalmologist who learned RK from its Russian developer and was the first to perform the surgery in the United States, put it this way as quoted in the May issue of Forbes magazine:

"...Radial keratotomy is a new addition to the list of alternatives available to treat myopia."

"Imagine you have this baby, and all of a sudden social workers zoom in and say 'You can't back it. We'll raise the baby.' You'd say, 'Wait a minute, we're the natural parents.'"

As part of the settlement, plaintiff Dr. George O. Waring of Emory University, Atlanta, has issued a statement clarifying the status of radial keratotomy and agreeing it is no longer experimental, Meales said.

The statement is important to the plaintiffs, he said, because insurance companies backed off from paying for RK surgery once the doctors declared it experimental. Most of the patients who joined the suit were, according to attorney Larry Chesin, suitable candidates for the procedure who couldn't get insurance coverage because the companies relied on the defendants' statements calling it experimental.

Plaintiff Lloyd Vest was a RK patient caught with one eye operated on when the moratorium was pushed. He was told he could have the other eye done (RK surgery is never done on both eyes at the same time) at a university as part of a study, but not by his ophthalmologist who was already experienced in the procedure.

DeLand's Dr. Neumann was one of those experienced doctors. (He had been to the Soviet Union to observe the procedure performed where it was developed and Soviet eye surgeon Dr. Svyatoslav Fyodorov performed the first Central Florida RK surgery at Neumann's offices.)

"This was a conspiracy in restraint of trade," Neumann said. "They said, in effect, 'don't go to Dr. Neumann. Go to a university. We've never done a case, but we'll do your radial keratotomy for you.'"

The university-affiliated doctors also wrote to insurance companies urging them to drop coverage of radial keratotomy, he said, and malpractice carriers were urged not to cover doctors who performed it.

The rationale, according to Meales, was to stop others from performing the surgery while they gained expertise. "Practice would then flow to them, referral patterns would change."

"Look at it this way. If I got to do radial keratotomy for a couple of years and another doctor

Due to the volume of mail being received, inquiries without a self-addressed, stamped envelope cannot be answered, said Dr. Ronald Schachar, of the society.

didn't get to do it at all, I would then be the most experienced in the market and when the restraints came off, who would you rather have perform the operation on your eyes?"

Defense attorney Duffey said Waring's statement, about six pages long, touches on the current and historical situation regarding radial keratotomy and reflects the views the doctor holds. Duffey said it would be wrong to characterize the statement, as the plaintiffs and other private ophthalmologists have, as a testimonial to the safety and effectiveness of radial keratotomy. He would not quote from the document.

Obtained from another source, it says in part:

"...It is my opinion that a qualified ophthalmic surgeon may determine, based on the facts and circumstances of a particular patient's case, that radial keratotomy is an appropriate treatment for that patient and that a qualified ophthalmic surgeon may appropriately include it in his or her surgical armamentarium. I further agree that enough data is now available to establish that radial keratotomy is not an 'experimental' procedure."

"...Radial keratotomy may, in the consideration of the patient and his or her doctor, be a valid alternative to contact lenses and glasses. For those patients who have been fully informed of the risks and benefits of the procedure, and who desire that it be performed, and whose ophthalmologists feel it is appropriate, radial keratotomy may be validly considered by insurance companies to be a medically acceptable treatment for myopia."

"...The National Eye Advisory Council, and any state ophthalmological society or other professional ophthalmological organizations that have previously urged restraint of, or moratoriums with respect to, the use of radial keratotomy should, in light of the information presently available, reevaluate their respective position regarding the procedure."

"...Radial keratotomy is a new addition to the list of alternatives available to treat myopia. People who are interested in radial keratotomy should contact their ophthalmologists and discuss whether they would benefit from the procedure."

In addition to Waring and Rowsey, other defendants in the suit were doctors Dwight Cavanagh and Louis Wilson, both of Atlanta and Jay Krachmer, Iowa City, Iowa; Henry Gellender, Miami; Steven Obstbaum, New York City; Joel Sugar, Chicago; Richard Thoft, Boston and James Aquavella, Rochester, N.Y. In addition to Vest and Boreas, plaintiffs were Dr. Robert Marmer and Tina Horsely, Jerome Lyons, John Scott, Teresa Clegg, Joan Beck and Dale Relyea, all of Atlanta.

Meanwhile, another anti-trust suit had been brought against the American Academy of Ophthalmologists for the same reasons.

One of the plaintiffs in that suit, Dr. Ronald Schachar of Denison, Texas, said the suit will ask millions, maybe "hundreds of millions" in damages.

"Games have been played," he said, and we (private ophthalmologists) lost money."

The suit, filed in Chicago, alleges the academy acted in defiance of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. Its court date is April, 1987.

GE Executives Indicted For Bilking Government

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — An executive and two former officials of General Electric Co. have been indicted on charges of bilking the Pentagon of nearly $800,000 on a weapons contract by forging employee time cards.

The indictments were handed up two months after the giant corporation was fined more than $1 million in the overcharging scheme.

One of the three indicted Tuesday has agreed to plead guilty and cooperate with government prosecutors. U.S. Attorney Edward Dennis Jr. said.

The scheme involved a multimillion-dollar contract to refit Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missiles with a new, high-tech re-entry system, he said.

GE pleaded guilty May 13 to 108 counts of making false statements and agreed to pay a maximum $1.04 million fine in the case.

Smoke Hampers Firefighters

By United Press International

Firefighters throughout the West battled nearly a dozen range and forest fires that have blackened some 80,000 acres but a pall of smoke from California's last major brushfire grounded chemical dropping aircraft.

As many as a dozen chemical-retardant dropping aircraft flew sorties over the Rat Creek Fire in the Big Sur area of California Monday but a curtain of smoke hung over the rugged, remote region Tuesday and kept the planes on the ground, U.S. Forest Service spokesman Jerry Little said.

Little said as many as 500 exhausted firefighters suffered from poison oak exposure in the 36,500-acre blaze.

But a 2,245-member army of firefighters struggled in "some of the most rugged terrain imaginable" and had contained 49 percent of the fire by late Tuesday, Little said. The containment figure had risen as high as 73 percent before flames jumped lines in the southeastern corner and ran wild.

The fire has forced the closure of 50 miles of Highway 1 through the scenic Big Sur area.

Three fires, one of about 200 acres near the Sycamore Indian Reservation, were reported in Sierra Nevada.

Scientologists Celebrate Mistrial

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Jubilant Church of Scientology members called a judge's rejection of a $39 million fraud award a victory for freedom of religion, but the attorney for the ex-member who brought suit vowed to continue the fight.

Multnomah County Circuit Judge Donald Londer voided a $39 million fraud verdict against the church Tuesday, declaring a mistrial in the suit by former member Julie Christofferson Titchbourne, 27, who was not in the courtroom.

In a ruling frequently critical of his own conduct during the 11-week trial, Londer said the case had gone astray from the fraud accusations leveled by Titchbourne and had become an attack on the Church of Scientology itself.

Titchbourne, who left Scientology after undergoing "deprogramming," sued the church on grounds she was bilked of $5,903 paid for courses that were supposed to improve her eyesight, intelligence and study habits.

Volcker: Fed Can't Do It All

Budget Deficits, Imports Undermining Economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Reserve is reaching the limits of what it can do to help the American economy as the government continues to borrow huge amounts, and other countries rely on U.S. business, Chairman Paul Volcker said today.

In testimony to a subcommittee of the House Banking Committee, Volcker said Americans are still borrowing in order to enhance their standard of living, buying imports that have increased 60 percent in inflation-adjusted terms in the past three years.

Because of the government borrowing and other factors that turn a strong dollar into a trading disadvantage, imports are now equivalent to 21 percent of the American production of goods, Volcker said.

The Fed, up to now, has accommodated the process, confident that growth of the money supply would not fuel stronger inflation.

Managing the money supply is getting harder, Volcker said. Uncertainty about ourselves," he said.

The hard fact remains that so long as we run massive budgetary deficits we will remain dependent on unprecedented capital inflows to help finance, directly or indirectly, that deficit," Volcker said.

The borrowing from foreigners is represented by the trade deficit. "They are Siamese twins," he said.

But getting rid of one twin, the trade deficit, would harm the other, necessary twin, the borrowing from foreigners and raise interest rates to the further detriment of farmers, savings and loans and foreign countries heavily indebted to the United States.

There has to be a way out of the impasse — a way that would maintain and even enhance confidence in our own economy and prospects for stability," Volcker said. "But that way cannot be found by U.S. monetary policy alone."

A-Bomb Scientists Call For An End To The Arms Race

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Forty years ago, just before dawn, the Alamogordo bomb range in New Mexico was swept by a bomb blast so strong the heat was felt 10 miles away. The dust cloud rose miles into the sky, and the flash outshone the sun.

The atomic age was born. Three weeks later Hiroshima, Japan, and three days after that Nagasaki, were destroyed with atomic weapons to bring World War II to a close.

On Capitol Hill Tuesday, 40 years to the day after the successful test of the Manhattan Project weapon, members of Congress and scientists called for an end to the arms race spawned by the blast at the "Trinity" site.

Several scientists involved in the Manhattan Project urged adoption of "a policy for nuclear weapons that abandons the two grand illusions of our times: that nuclear warfare can achieve rational military or political objectives, and that a defense of populations against nuclear attack is possible."

Nobel Laureate Hans Bethe, now connected with Cornell University, said the superpower arsenal of 50,000 warheads should be trimmed to 2,000 through a variety of treaty actions.

That level, he said, could adequately maintain a nuclear standoff in which the threat of so strong a retaliation to a first strike deters the use of any weapon.

"The Bible tells us the Israelites wandered in the desert for 40 years. Our desert has been the fear of nuclear war, but I don't see any sign of the promised land," he said.

Bethe and other scientists involved in a Union of Concerned Scientists drive to curb weaponry also were sharply critical of the president's Strategic Defense Initiative anti-missile defense research program commonly known as "Star Wars."

"I am thoroughly convinced it will end up by making us still less secure," said Bethe.

They suggested cuts in the number of strategic warheads, the withdrawal of U.S. Pershing 2 missiles from Europe with a reduction of Soviet SS-20s to match English and French missile strength, a ban on sea-launched cruise missiles and a new comprehensive test ban.

Been Ripped Off? Call New Hot Line

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A state agency has established a consumer hot line as part of a $25,000 bid to protect Floridians against con artists posing as licensed building contractors, lawyers or doctors.

Dialing the toll-free number — 1-800-851-1204 — will put consumers in touch with the Department of Professional Regulation which keeps lists of the persons licensed to practice 37 professions in Florida. If the person who offers you a contract does not turn up on the list, warns DPR chief Fred Roche, don't sign.

"Those persons who practice a profession without a license are a danger to the people of the state of Florida," Roche said Tuesday. "Their competency hasn't been tested. They're responsible to no one. They defraud and injure."

The hot line is part of a $25,000 "Find out before you lose out" campaign launched by Roche's agency. The push will also include television spots in English and Spanish.

Roche said licensed professionals and contractors can face fines or lose their licenses unless they do their jobs properly.

Teacher Status Unsettled

The Evening Herald reported Tuesday that a Goldboro Elementary School teacher accused of abusing a 10-year-old Sanford boy will remain employed by the Seminole County School Board. Schools personnel director Ann Neiswender said today no employment action has been taken in the teacher's case but she cannot comment on what employment action may be taken in the future.

However, Mrs. Neiswender did say that the matter involving the teacher, Stanley Shave, is not yet settled and is still under consideration by school authorities.

Detente Again?

President Reagan and Premier Gorbachev, the new Soviet leader, have agreed to meet in Geneva this fall. It's uncertain why Mr. Reagan, who has successfully avoided summiting for five years, wants to meet with the czar of all the Russias at this point. Perhaps his advisers told him it would look good going into the 1986 political season. Or perhaps he just wants to get a gander at the folk who run the evil empire.

But it's fairly certain why Mr. Gorbachev wants to go to Geneva. The Soviet Union, suffering from economic rot from within and threatened by evidence of growing free world strength from without, would like to return to the good old days of detente. Western trade and credit would supplement Russia's feeble economy, and talk of a new era of good feelings would be used to derail the historic Reagan thrust toward nuclear defenses.

We see no reason for Mr. Reagan not to go to Geneva and listen to what Mr. Gorbachev has to say, provided his recent health status permits. The new Soviet premier is a relatively young man by Kremlin standards. He's likely to be around for a long time, and it wouldn't hurt for the American diplomatic establishment to get a close-up look at him. At the same time it might be helpful for Mr. Gorbachev to get a closer look at Mr. Reagan. We suspect he will return to Moscow with a healthy respect for his antagonist.

But we hope Mr. Reagan won't allow the predictable bluster of the Soviets and the handwringing of his own diplomats to push him into repeating the errors of the 1970s. Richard Nixon and his national security adviser, Henry Kissinger, believed that they could induce the Soviets to change their behavior by offering them material incentives in the form of trade and credit. At first, this seemed to pay off. An arms treaty was signed, and the Kremlin appeared to cooperate in bringing the North Vietnamese to the peace table.

In the end, however, North Vietnam's tank legions wound up conquering Indochina anyway. And the various arms agreements we signed, it's now apparent, weren't worth much. They didn't limit the arms race; they merely channeled that race in unhealthy directions and served to blind us to the buildup occurring on the other side. The arms race continued. It's just that the only one doing the racing was Moscow. The Soviets would now like to stop us from pursuing strategic defenses, which might render their huge stockpile of offensive missiles of questionable value.

Moreover, American banks and government lending agencies found themselves holding a mountain of bad paper from Soviet-bloc countries. The inefficient communist system, it turns out, was incapable of transforming Western credits into usable capital. Eastern Europe used the loans to import goods and equipment, which were basically passed along to the masters in Moscow to subsidize the military-imperial system. The loans still haven't been used — though many craven Western bankers would like "detente" to be resumed so that the bad debts could be rolled over before they have to be written off entirely.

We tend to believe that trade and commerce do have redeeming qualities. We don't oppose trade with the communists, though it may be necessary to constrain trade in certain strategic goods.

The recent pact between the Soviet Union and the United States to deal mutually with incidents of nuclear terrorism — agreed to during the Beirut hijacking crisis but not announced until after it was over — indicates that there is room for practical cooperation between the superpowers on subjects of mutual self-interest. Both sides should explore opportunities to widen and deepen that cooperation. But we should keep a solid grip on our hopes and a realistic eye on the Kremlin.

Washington Insiders Busy Writing Memoirs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Author! Author! That seems to be the battle cry in Washington this summer with a rash of new books being written about the ways of Washington.

House Speaker Thomas O'Neill is on of the latest to join the ranks, signing a $1 million contract. He will have a ghost writer.

O'Neill came out of a White House meeting recently and teased ABC White House correspondent Sam Donaldson, who also is writing his memoirs. "Only $250,000, huh," teased O'Neill referring to the price tag put on the Donaldson book by his publisher. "Yeh," said Donaldson. "But I'm writing my own book."

Assuming President Reagan's recent surgery will not change his plans for a November 19-20 summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, White House aides say there are "absolutely no plans" for the president to extend his travels in Europe after the Geneva meeting.

But at the same time, it does not seem likely that Reagan would cross the Atlantic and not arrange to meet with some of the European leaders, if only to fill them in on his talks with the Kremlin chief.

No decision has been made on whether Mrs. Reagan will accompany her husband, but it is possible and that time is being held pending a decision.

Reagan had wanted Gorbachev to visit Washington, promising that he in turn would go to Moscow. But the new Soviet leader, still a neophyte in foreign affairs, preferred neutral ground for his debut in the superpower arena.

White House social secretary Gahl Hodges is turning over her job to the experienced hands of Linda Faulkner, a Dallas, Texas, public relations executive.

Faulkner served as deputy social secretary from 1981 to 1984 when she was passed over for Hodges who moved from the State Department's office of protocol to become social secretary.

Faulkner decided to return to her native Dallas where she had been manager of public relations for Nieman-Marcus.

Hodges is leaving reluctantly, but marital duty calls, and she will become the chateleine of the U.S. Embassy in Bonn.

Her husband is Richard Burt, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, who is expected to become ambassador to West Germany.

The forthcoming departure of David Stockman as budget director may be a happy note for some White House insiders.

At times, Stockman was a loose cannon, taking issue with administration economic policies and rubbing other aides the other way by not following the party line — that tax increases are off limits as a mode of cutting the deficit.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Ignoring Energy Needs

ALEXANDRIA, Minn. — This beautiful region of lakes and rich farmland provides an ideal setting for busy executives who meet once a year to ponder the problems of their industry and region. This week, the presidents of utilities in the North Central states, members of the North Central Electric Assn., are gathered here to discuss what lies ahead for their utility business in their part of the country.

Minnesota, Wisconsin, South Dakota, North Dakota, and Iowa form a region that receives inadequate coverage from the major media. Yet it's a region with immense importance for the United States. It makes up a large part of the breadbasket of the nation and of the world.

For the utilities of the region to be healthy, the underlying economy also must be healthy. Unfortunately, the farm economy of the region is experiencing trouble. The United States has lost important foreign markets in the last year. Some observers of the farm scene, including some businessmen here, don't believe that these markets will be regained. Indeed the problems of imported grains and edible oils is increasing.

The North Central states are alert to change, however, and the need to create the best possible economic climate. It's significant that in a recent survey manufacturers ranked South Dakota as the state most amenable to manufacturing. Indeed the state has been able to attract important financial enterprises from the East. South Dakota doesn't have a corporate or personal income tax. Gov. Janklow says that a productive work force, good labor-management relations and an "unequaled tax climate" are behind South Dakota's climb to No. 1. He reports that these factors are paying off for his state.

Other states in the region have a long way to go — Minnesota, for instance. This is one of the cleanest states in the nation, but it also is one of the most highly taxed states. This is the state of Walter Mondale and the late Hubert Humphrey, and state government services are abundant and costly. Several Minnesota executives told me the costs of workmen's compensation are astronomical in Minnesota. There are indications, however, that a public awakening is taking place. The Minnesota legislature recently passed a very substantial tax cut, which is a good sign, though one businessman said this merely meant that a super-tax has been eliminated.

Are Soviets Winning The 'Mind' Race?

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — There are new developments on the psychic-warfare front: The Soviets are outspending us by at least 70 to 1 in occult research.

Most responsible scientists take a dim view of such self-proclaimed parapsychological practitioners as mind readers, voodoo pin-stickers and psychic spoon-benders.

We've reported in the past on such obviously ludicrous concepts as the "anti-missile time-warp machine." The Pentagon once considered developing this contraption to blast incoming missiles back into a prehistoric era, where they would theoretically harm only a few dinosaurs or Cro-Magnons.

For years the Pentagon psychic warriors were allowed to pursue any nutty will-o'-the-wisp that flew by, with annual budgets reportedly as high as $6 billion. No weapons were ever developed — of course — and now the budget has dwindled to less than $1 million, for exploration of potential capabilities of the human mind.

Meanwhile, the Kremlin has been working overtime to open a military "psycho-gap." The latest top-secret CIA review of Soviet efforts in parapsychology estimate that it would take a budget of anywhere from $500 million to $1 billion for the United States to play catch-up. Operating at much lower labor costs, the Soviets are probably spending $70 million to $80 million a year, but possibly as much as $350 million.

The delightful irony of the Soviets' parapsychology extravagance is that it began as a response to the perceived threat of U.S. progress in the art. Several years ago, the French reported that U.S. psychics had communicated with the nuclear submarine Nautilus via mental telepathy. This gave Soviet scientists the ammunition they needed to lobby for research funds — even though the reports were later exposed as a hoax.

Western scientists may chuckle, but the Soviets take their psychic-warfare experiments and would have been effective.

The point is not that Hispanic immigrants as such are undesirable. Hispanics here legally have made an enormous contribution to this society. Miami has been transformed by Cuban businessmen fleeing Castro and is now a vibrant international city.

Nevertheless there is a looming problem. According to responsible demographic projections, the population of Mexico will double every 20 years. It will reach 150 million by the turn of the century, not that far away. Chaos in Central America is bound to drive population northward, putting further pressure on Mexico. Clearly it is going to become more and more desirable to wade across the Rio Grande, even if you have to work for nickels and dimes. At least you won't be working for pesos, recently devalued naturally.

During the nineteenth century, the U.S. seized by force large sections of the South and Southwest from the Spanish empire, but now a retaking is underway. According to the Bureau of the Census, Spanish is now by a wide margin the leading foreign language spoken in the United States. Do we, passively, have to become a bi-lingual country? If we want to become one, at least we should make that decision and not have it imposed upon us.

In 1974 the French novelist Jean Raspail published a remarkable book called The Camp of the Saints both artistically and politically the equal of George Orwell's "1984." This book has been unjustly ignored, precisely because it sticks up for what can be called "high" Western civilization.

DON GRAFF

Public Opinion Shift

Ever so slowly, it may at long last be going the president's way on Nicaragua.

Not only has Congress said "uncle" on aiding the contras, but there are indications of a public opinion shift in his favor. A June New York Times-CBS News poll found 32 percent of interviewees favoring U.S. efforts to overthrow the Sandinista regime, up from 23 percent in June 1983 and 27 percent in April 1984. True, a majority — 53 percent — is still opposed, but the apparent winning over of so many previously undecided citizens has to be good news for the White House.

Goodness knows it has been trying hard enough. Since mid-1983, it has been engaged in a major public relations effort, under the direction of the White House Office of Public Liaison, to promote the administration view of Nicaragua as a communist beachhead threatening the entire hemisphere.

A recent turn by the liaison director herself, Linda Chavez, provides a good example of the pitch.

Addressing something called the Hispanic Coalition for a Free Central America, Ms. Chavez opened with the good news of a "seismic movement from despotism to democracy" in Latin America. But alas, she said, one country is bucking that historic trend — Sandinista Nicaragua, which has become a "fully credentialed" Soviet outpost.

This despite "active U.S. assistance" when the Sandinistas took power in 1979. Reneging on their promises of democracy, they are now threatening their neighbors with a Soviet-outfitted army as large as that of Mexico, a nation 25 times as populous. They have allowed the country to be so overrun with Cubans, Bulgarians and others of the "Soviet Foreign Legion" that it is "difficult to find Nicaraguans in Managua."

That is the gist of Ms. Chavez's version of recent history. It is at best an oversimplification and at times a rewriting.

Rather, for example, than actively assisting the Sandinistas, Washington sought alternatives to them until the next to last moment. Only when it was apparent there was no possibility of the detested Somoza or his guard hanging on in some capacity did American policy makers go along with a revolutionary takeover.

And that was the Carter administration. Ms. Chavez's boss was still on the sidelines at the time, objecting loudly to even that accommodation to reality.

JEFFREY HART

Control Our Borders

The Democrats in Congress stilled the Simpson-Mazzoli Immigration Bill last year, hoping to pick up votes for Mondale-Ferraro among Hispanics in the Sun Belt. Oh well. Perhaps this year, there being no election, something can be done to regain control of our national borders.

On a recent trip to California, I stood on Coronado Beach and looked southward to the dimly outlined hills of Mexico a dozen miles away. The border between the U.S. and Mexico is now patrolled by 1,700 men who are able to stop, according to the best estimates, one out of every three illegal Mexican entrants. The Mexican population is out of control, growing exponentially. Per capita Mexican income is $740. Per capita American income is $6,000. The growth of the U.S. population is a meager 0.9 percent. The growth rate of the Mexican population is, hold your breath, 3.2 percent. Mexico is poor and bursting at the seams.

Standing there on Coronado Beach and looking south toward Mexico you wonder why we haven't done something about the problem. After all, you cannot just stroll into France or England. Virtually every other nation except the United States makes a serious effort to decide who and how many come across the border.

It is nonsense to argue that we cannot control that border. A machine gun emplacement every hundred yards would discourage illegal immigration. Randomly sown land mines would do the same thing. The Simpson-Mazzoli bill of last year would have penalized employers who hired illegal aliens, and would have been effective.

The point is not that Hispanic immigrants as such are undesirable. Hispanics here legally have made an enormous contribution to this society. Miami has been transformed by Cuban businessmen fleeing Castro and is now a vibrant international city.

Nevertheless there is a looming problem. According to responsible demographic projections, the population of Mexico will double every 20 years. It will reach 150 million by the turn of the century, not that far away. Chaos in Central America is bound to drive population northward, putting further pressure on Mexico. Clearly it is going to become more and more desirable to wade across the Rio Grande, even if you have to work for nickels and dimes. At least you won't be working for pesos, recently devalued naturally.

During the nineteenth century, the U.S. seized by force large sections of the South and Southwest from the Spanish empire, but now a retaking is underway. According to the Bureau of the Census, Spanish is now by a wide margin the leading foreign language spoken in the United States. Do we, passively, have to become a bi-lingual country? If we want to become one, at least we should make that decision and not have it imposed upon us.

In 1974 the French novelist Jean Raspail published a remarkable book called The Camp of the Saints both artistically and politically the equal of George Orwell's "1984." This book has been unjustly ignored, precisely because it sticks up for what can be called "high" Western civilization.

of his work on "psychic energy" in a laboratory at Science City in Novosibirsk, Siberia. He said 60 scientists in Special Department No. 8 of the Institute of Automation and Electrometry had "unlimited funds" for such experiments as trying to hypnotize people from a distance and giving kittens electric shocks to see if their mothers showed any reaction three floors away. The lab was transferred to a KGB facility in Moscow in 1969, he said.

How serious does U.S. intelligence take all this? In 1972, the Defense Intelligence Agency said the Soviets might one day be able to learn the contents of secret U.S. documents by psychic techniques, make U.S. weapons malfunction by negative thinking and even brainwash or disable American leaders by willpower.

A 1978 CIA study, which cost $100,000, was more cautious, but it still warned that the Soviets may have tested and deployed second- or third-generation psychic weapons. So the psycho-gap widens. Can we shrink it?

Woman Raped By Men Taking Her To 'Party'

A 34-year-old unemployed Winter Park woman says she was raped by two men she had met in a bar.

A Seminole County sheriff's report said the woman left a Winter Park bar at about 11 p.m. Tuesday with four men who told her they would take her to a party in Oviedo.

However, when they arrived at a house in Oviedo, there was no party. One of the men took the woman into a bedroom, forced her to remove her clothes and raped her, the report said.

The woman told investigators that she tried to leave after the initial assault, but was brought back into the house and raped a second time by one of the other men.

After the second attack, the woman said she ran to a nearby convenience store where she called authorities.

The police report said the woman described the men's car as a white Ford Torino with a rifle in the back seat.

She was taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, early today for an examination.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

Someone stole $230 from the second-floor bedroom of Edward Gae VanValerah's home at 519 S. Park Ave., Sanford, on Monday, police reported.

About $1,000 worth of television and stereo equipment was stolen early Saturday from 606 Fifth St., Sanford, according to a police report. The thief broke into the house at about 12:30 a.m. and took a $500 television, $350 stereo and two speakers valued together at $300, Russell McKinney, 20, reported to police.

Someone stole $240 stashed in Merian Bowers' bedroom at 500 Park Ave., Sanford, early Saturday, police reported. The theft occurred between 2 and 8:30 a.m., according to a police report.

A stereo worth $300 was stolen from a car parked at 2526 S. Laurel Ave. Sanford, between last Sunday and Saturday, police reported. The stereo belongs to Mildred Long, 42, of the same address.

Two men stole two pizzas from a delivery man Saturday — after they made sure the pies were hot. Wayne Castle, who delivers pizzas for Hungry Howie's, 2400 French Ave., Sanford, reported to police that he was to deliver two pizzas to Johnny Brown at 611 Park Ave., Sanford.

When Castle arrived at the residence at about 11:30 p.m. he was met in the front yard by two men, one of whom said he was Johnny Brown, according to a police report.

The men asked to inspect the pizzas to make sure they were hot, the report said. When Castle handed them over, the two men ran, hotfooting in opposite directions. The value of the pizzas, $17.

Someone broke the window out of a car parked at a Sanford bar and stole $80 in rolled coins and a camera and carrying case valued together at $300, police reported. The owner of the car and goods, John Hardy, 42, of Lake Helen, reported to police that the theft occurred at the ABC Lounge, 2885 S. Orlando Drive, between 10:30 p.m. Saturday and 7 a.m. Sunday.

Someone hit Lawrence Williams' 1973 Chevy Impala with a blunt object, breaking out one of the windows and causing about $100 in damage, police reported. Williams, 66, of 1708 Mulberry Ave., Sanford, said the incident occurred Wednesday morning while the car was parked at 909 S. Sanford Ave., Sanford.

CONSTRUCTION THEFT

Thirty buckets each containing five gallons of joint compound were stolen from a construction site at 2118 Royal Fern Court, Longwood, over the weekend. The compound is valued at $240. Also listed as stolen were two boxes of joint tape valued at $120.

CASH STASH

A thief entered the home of Charles Silmon, 731 Lake Mills Drive, Chuluota, over the weekend and stole $900 stashed in a record jacket.

A Seminole County sheriff's report said the thief pried open the front door while Silmon was away at a fishing tournament.

Brewer was being held in the Seminole County jail in lieu of $300 bond.

Two Jobs, One Person: More Pay

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

If Longwood Police Chief and City Administrator Greg Manning continues in his dual role when the 1985-86 fiscal year begins Oct. 1, he will be getting $43,000 annual salary, $3,000 more than the commission was willing to pay a few months ago for a city manager and $13,000 more than he was making as just police chief.

The salary is a $7,000 raise over his present pay scale, but less than the $45,000 proposed by City Commission Larry Goldberg, who said if the city hired two persons in the positions it would cost $85,000 to $86,000.

"I want to deal straight out and across the board. If you want me to take dual responsibility after Oct. 1, I'm going to want $43,000," Manning told the commission in a budget work session Monday night.

"Anything less to run both the city administration and police department would be unfair to the city," he said.

Capt. Terry Baker was acting chief while Manning took over as acting city administrator Jan. 7 to April 8 whereupon he resumed the position of police chief when the city clerk became city manager temporarily. But, when Manning was again named interim city administrator June 28, he refused to relinquish control of the police department. Further, Manning asked for and got assurance that if he became city manager and the commission subsequently decided to replace him he would still keep his job as police chief.

Reminded that the dual role was his own choice, Manning insisted, "It was a mutual agreement" between him and the city commission.

City Commissioner Perry Faulkner, the only one of the five commissioners to oppose the

TV Ad Shows All

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI) — A new Brazilian television commercial is being touted by its creators as a bare-faced attempt to catch viewers' attention.

The ad, for a company that manufactures showers, shows a woman emerging from her shower and reveals her naked from head-to-toe for six seconds.

The advertisement, created by the Brazilian GTM&C publicity agency, was aired on Rede Manchete television network all over the country Sunday during prime time. The country's other major network, TV Globo, refused to run the ad because officials believed the nude scene went beyond voluntary limits set by the National Council for Self-Regulation in Publicity.

The ad "was made to catch the consumer's attention and make him want to see the ad again," Eluy Simoes, of the GTM&C agency, said.

"Rede Manchete doesn't censor itself because we believe it is up to the (advertising) agency to establish permissible limits," Dorival Seta, commercial manager for the network, said.

raise, reminded the other commissioners that in April they had a chance to hire a city administrator with a degree in public administration and experience in city government, but turned him down when he asked for $35,000 with a $5,000 raise in nine months. Faulkner had favored offering the applicant $40,000.

Manning does not have a bachelor's degree, but has 106 hours at Seminole Community College in Criminal Justice and is a graduate of the FBI Academy. He started with the Longwood Police Department in October 1972 as a patrolman and was named chief in January 1977.

After four of the commissioners agreed to the tentative salary increase, Manning told Perry "I understand why you feel the way you do and there's no hard feelings, but you may find your tires slashed when you go out." Perry did not laugh.

Manning was making $30,400 as chief in January, but as acting city administrator received $34,290. When he was made administrator again after City Administrator Don Terry resigned and went back to his previous position as city clerk, Manning asked for and got more than the $35,000 Terry was paid.

The city administrator's salary called for in the proposed budget drafted by Terry and Finance Director Barry Weeks was $36,900 plus benefits including $2,639 Social Security; $4,517 retirement contribution; health, dental and life insurance, $610.

The commission also raised Terry's salary as city clerk from $24,064 to $32,000.

"We need to right two wrongs," Mayor Harvey Simerilson said. "Let's go back and make a salary adjustment for Don." With the normal employee cost of living raise Terry's salary would have gone to $26,708.

Weeks recommended money be kept in the budget for both a police chief's and a city administrator's salaries in case the commission decides to hire a city administrator.

"If you are going to make Greg an offer then you can cut it at a later date, but leave the budget alone. You can put the savings in the contingency fund. If you cut a large chunk out now (one of the salaries) you will be virtually tying your hands for the rest of the year," he said.

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Apparently, the American League decided to go on strike three weeks early.

It's understandable, though. Fastballs under the chin from Nolan Ryan do sort of make you lose your desire to go to work.

Three weeks from now, on Aug. 8, major league baseball players will go on strike unless a new Basic Agreement is signed by then. American League players must be wondering today why they didn't vote to strike the All-Star Game.

Once again, the National League embarrassed the American League in the showcase event before a national television audience and the largest crowd, 34,960, ever to see a baseball game in the state of Minnesota.

Led by a superior pitching staff that allowed just five hits, the NL trimmed the AL, 6-1, to win the All-Star Game for the 13th time in the last 14 years and boost its overall advantage in the competition to 36-19-1.

The NL had many heroes and most of them wore the uniforms of the San Diego Padres. LaMarr Hoyt was the starting and winning pitcher and was named the game's Most Valuable Player. Steve Garvey had the game-winning hit, an RBI single in the second inning. Terry Kennedy chipped in with an RBI single and Rich Gossage put the finishing touches on the victory with a sterling ninth-inning performance that included two strikeouts.

"I felt Hoyt deserved the MVP, but he wasn't our only star," said NL manager Dick Williams. "It could have easily gone to Ozzie Virgil, Tim Lincecum, Darryl Strawberry or Nolan Ryan. Any of them could have gotten it and no one could have beefed."

Baseball

Virgil had a two-run single that put the NL ahead 4-1 in the fifth. Wallach had a clutch ground rule double in that inning. Strawberry reached base three times and scored twice and Ryan pitched three scoreless innings after taking over for Hoyt in the fourth.

It was the overall pitching mastery of the NL that proved decisive, however. The only run the AL scored was unearned, the result of a throwing error by catcher Kennedy in the first inning.

It marks the second straight year and third time in the last four All-Star Games that the AL has scored only one run against the NL. This has happened despite a stunning array of home run sluggers in the AL. Why, in Tuesday night's game the AL had an eighth place hitter, Carlton Fisk, who has hit a major league-leading 23 home runs.

But those big hitters are also free swingers and that seems to play right into the hands of the NL pitchers.

"The big sluggers in the American League can be pitched to," said Hoyt. "They have a lot of big boppers who can go deep, but they rarely show up in the All-Star Game."

They're a bunch of free swingers who are vulnerable to certain pitches. I'm not surprised they didn't hit any home runs. If they didn't hit any of me, I didn't think they could get to the other guys.

In our league, I've seen pitchers who can absolutely dominate a game.

Most of them are here and the American League hitters aren't even going to see them all. I don't think I saw quite the same kind of pitching in the AL, but, of course, I have to hit against these guys. Our pitchers were pumped up to the max about pitching in this game."

Ryan was the most fearsome. The only pitcher in baseball history to have struck out 4,000 batters, the Houston Astros' right-hander buzzed his 98-mile per hour fastball under the chins of New York's Rickey Henderson and Dave Winfield and sent them sprawling to the ground. He got himself into two jams but pitched out of them both times and left runners in scoring position.

The key to this game, no doubt about it, was Ryan getting out of those

Ormond Beach Ousts Sanford

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

ORMOND BEACH — Still reeling from Monday night's shocking defeat, the Sanford American League all-star team ran into a hard-hitting Ormond Beach squad Tuesday night and dropped a 7-4 decision in the Florida Little League District 4 Tournament.

The loss eliminates the Americans, who lost 4-3 to Holly Hill on Monday, from the tournament. Ormond Beach meets Holly Hill in the loser's bracket final today with the winner facing unbeaten Ocala Fisher Park. Ocala upended Holly Hill, 6-1, Tuesday.

"The loss last night took a lot out of them," Sanford coach Duane LaFollette said. "And it's even tougher when you only get four hits."

Ormond Beach pitcher Lynn Suttlemeyer tossed a four-hitter and kept Sanford off the bases almost all night. The Americans made the most of what opportunities they had, but they were few and far between.

Sanford got off to a good start Tuesday as it rallied for three runs with two outs in the top of the first. Eli Blanton, in his first start for Sanford, drew a two-out walk. Albert Anderson followed with a walk and Al Perkins reached on an infield single to load the bases.

Lorenzo Polk then coaxed a walk out of Suttlemeyer to force in Blanton for a 1-0 lead. Suttlemeyer then quickly got ahead of Harvey Clinger but Clinger looped a 1-2 pitch to right field for a two-run single and a 3-0 Sanford advantage.

Ormond Beach responded with two runs on three hits in the bottom of the first. Lavon Glenn drilled a double off the fence in left to leadoff and he took third when Mike Sanders reached on an error. Glenn then scored on Pepper Johnson's grounder back to the mound. With two outs, Frankie Thompson lined a single over the center fielder's head to score Sanders. Buddy Parker followed with a single to right center but Ormond left runners on second and third when Sanford starter Perkins struck out big (6-3, 200-pound) T.J. Blake.

Suttlemeyer set the Americans down in order in the top of the second and Sanford got out of the bottom of the inning with the help of a double play. With one out, Todd Mallon reached on a Sanford error. Glenn then smacked a grounder to James Jackson at shortstop. Jackson stepped on second for the first out then fired to Clinger at first to nip the speedy Glenn to complete the twin killing.

Suttlemeyer got Sanford out in order again in the top of the third and Ormond took a 4-3 lead in the bottom half. Sanders singled to left to lead off and Johnson then lifted a letter-high fastball over the fence in right center for a two-run homer.

Sanford tied it at 4-4 in the top of the fourth when, with one out, Polk drilled a 1-0 fastball well over the fence in left center.

Perkins set Ormond down in order in the bottom of the fourth and Sanford went down quietly in the top of the fifth.

Ormond Beach then took control in the bottom of the fifth with three runs on three hits. Sanders lashed a double down the right field line and Johnson followed with a single up the middle to put runners on first and third. Suttlemeyer broke the tie as he flew out to deep left to score Sanders. The next hitter, Thompson, then crushed Perkins' first offering over the fence in left center to give Ormond a 7-4 lead.

Suttlemeyer came back in the top of the sixth to retire the Americans in order.

"We could never get our leadoff men on," LaFollette said. "And that makes it hard on the third, fourth and fifth hitters."

"We came a long way and we have nothing to be ashamed of," said manager Ethel "Bootsie" Jackson after the Americans had been eliminated.

Fore's Relief Saves Oviedo

Special to the Herald

PIERSON — Oviedo's Major League All-Stars used the strong relief pitching of Marvin "Hubba" Fore to nip the Altamonte National's 6-5 in the losers' bracket final of the District 14 Division 2 Tournament here Tuesday night.

Fore pitched one-hit ball over the final two and two-thirds innings. The big right-hander struck out six of the eight batters he faced.

"I pitched good," said Fore. "My curve was breaking really sharp tonight. I think that threw the hitters off."

Oviedo plays the Altamonte Americans tonight at 7:30 at DeLand. Shelley Elliott, David Blanton or Russell Davis will hurl tonight for Oviedo. Altamonte will call on Chuck Lamb.

Altamonte's Nationals jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first inning. With one out Scott Davidson singled, he then stole second and scored on Andy Spolski's sharp single down the left field line. Spolski came around to score on Chris Pleconea two-out double off the right field fence.

In the bottom of the first Oviedo bounced back for four runs and take a 4-2 lead without the aid of a base hit. Starting pitcher Shawn Spivey walked the first three Oviedo batters, one run scoring on a wild pitch. Spivey was then relieved by Neill James, who pitched six strong innings of relief. Oviedo's second and third runs both scored on passed balls, and the fourth run scored on an error by the shortstop.

Altamonte manager Duke Pleconea said the early wildness led to his team's down fall. "At first we couldn't get the ball over the plate," said Pleconea. "If we had control, we would have won the game."

Altamonte came back to tie the score at 4-4 in the second. Travis Lloyd reached on an error by the third basemen. He was then sacrificed to second, and with two outs scored on Matt Albert's single to center. Albert went to second on the throw to the plate and came around to score when the catcher's throw sailed into center field.

Oviedo came right back with two runs in its half of the second. With one out, Allen doubled to right and Danny Phillips walked. Allen took third on a wild pitch and, with Craig Cozart at the plate, Allen scored on a passed ball. Cozart drew a walk and Russell Davis followed with a walk to load the bases. Fore followed with a single to score Phillips for a 6-4 Oviedo lead.

Altamonte pulled within 6-5 in the third when James reached second when the right fielder misplayed his fly and Spolski singled to left center to drive in James.

Fore came on in relief with one out in the fourth and Albert on first and a 2-0 count on Davidson. Fore struck out Davidson and, on the play, Albert was caught stealing by Allen for the third out.

Fore retired the side in order in the fifth and, after giving up a two-out single to Bill Rippard in the sixth, fanned Spivey to end the game.

"We always have a jinx against Altamonte but tonight we overcame the early jinx and played great," said Oviedo manager Louie Tulp.

It's Nitty-Gritty Time For All-Stars

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

It's down to the nitty-gritty for Seminole County Little League All-Star teams.

Here's a look at who is where and when.

Altamonte's Juniors have already wrapped up the 13-year-old Division 2 championship. They play Apopka the best 2 of 3 for the District 14 title and a chance to advance to the Section I Tournament at Rolling Hills.

The Juniors, managed by Kelly Wainscott, will go with Chris Radcliff on the mound tonight at 7 at Rolling Hills. Radcliff, who had 10 hits in 11 at bats during division play, hopes to match his prowess at the plate with his arm. The big lefty threw a no-hitter at Deltona on July 5.

Neither Wainscott nor District 14 Administrator Don Crawford expect Apopka to be on the level of competition of Deltona, Oviedo and Maitland, though. "We expect a good battle," said

Baseball

Wainscott. "But we're ready. I think we'll play better against better competition."

Crawford said Apopka will give Altamonte all its wants. "I expect this to be the best playoff of the year," said the 24-year veteran. "You have two excellent teams. I think it will go three games."

Altamonte's Americans need just one victory to clinch their spot in the District 14 title game, probably against Ocoee. Manger Mike Morro's 12-year-olds play Oviedo tonight at 7:30 at DeLand.

Altamonte crushed Oviedo in the Division 2 opener, 9-0. Oviedo had the hitters defensively and numerous errors ruined an outstanding pitching performance by right-hander Russell Davis.

Since then, Oviedo has won five straight, many of them tight ballgames in which it has pulled out the win with a clutch effort. Manager Wayne Jacobs and coach Kenny Tulp hope that trend continues tonight.

Maitland, which upended Oviedo, 4-3, Monday night, is awaiting the outcome of the Division 1 tournament before it knows whom it will play for the District 14 Senior League All-Star title. The game will be Thursday or Friday at Deltona.

Manager Bruce Hodgson received an excellent route-going performance from Willy Daunic to beat Oviedo. The slim lefty allowed just four hits.

Maitland's big stick was former Altamonte 13-year-old All-Star Bobby Liefelder who ripped a pair of doubles. Liefelder also made a great catch in center field to rob Gary Gotwalt on an extra base hit with the bases loaded.

Perry Teague, who drove in Maitland's first two runs with a double, will probably be the mound choice for Maitland.

Rolling Hills is the likely opponent, according to Crawford.

Sure It's Pure Drudgery But Practice, Practice, Practice

It never ceases to amaze me. The player comes off the court, is all upset and says something like, "I was awful out there. I couldn't do anything right. My timing was off. I lost 6-0, 6-1."

I asked him if he has been getting out to play much and he says, "No. It's the first time I've hit a ball in two weeks."

This floors me. Why do people think they can play two or three times a month and come out of their match with anything but frustration?

Tennis is a game that must be practiced, must be played on a regular basis for the player to have much "feel" for the ball, or good timing. I have known hundreds of tennis players over the years but only a couple who could play well without lost of work and lots of practice.

In fact, the more they practiced the better they played and could reach a much higher level of play.

If you are ever going to be any good at this game and reach the level that you really want to reach, you simply have to get out there on the court and work at it.

There are no shortcuts — hard work and court time is what it is all about. In order to keep your game sharp and keep improving forever and ever, a person should play a minimum of four or five times a week, even six or seven if it is possible.

Work on your tennis should be a good mix of playing practice sets and a variety of good tough drills. If you are like me, you love to play sets but hate to drill. Drilling, however, is very important and only through this type of practice will you be able to groove and develop certain shots.

If you are having trouble with your serve, get a basket of balls and spend some time just hitting serves. You will eventually find out the problem and be able to make corrections.

All it will take is time and practice. If your backhand passing shot is bad and you are constantly losing points because of it, get a friend to feed balls to the backhand so that you can groove this particular shot.

It may take many practice sessions to iron-out the problem but, with work it will come around. Any shot will improve with work. All you have to do is make the commitment to put in the time.

One good way to work on your game and have some fun during the same session is to drill on a weakness for half of the time and play sets the other half of your tennis time. Your game will improve and you will be having the fun of playing to.

I know it's pure drudgery for some people to just practice but, it is well worth it when you see how much you are improving.

If you are gonna dance, you've got to pay the band. If you are going to improve in tennis you've got to practice. It's as simple as that.

Oldtimers Can't Comprehend Andujar's No-Show

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — The Old Man wants everybody up in his room.

Lefty Gomez remembers it as if it were yesterday. It wasn't yesterday. It was 52 years ago and in a few more hours, the first All-Star Game was going to be played at Comiskey Park in Chicago.

The Old Man, of course, was Connie Mack. That's what everybody called him, the Grand Old Man, and if ever a description fit, this one most certainly did because he managed the Philadelphia Athletics until he was 88 and there weren't any grander individuals than him. In every sense of the word.

As manager of the first American League All-Star team in July 1933, Mack had called all his players to his Chicago hotel room for a meeting only a few hours before they were to go out to the park.

Gomez, a Hall of Famer now but then one of the Yankees' star pitchers, was among those who went to the room and he had hardly gotten there when Mack told him he was the starting pitcher.

"I nearly fainted," he remembers. "It ruined my whole day."

Not really. Gomez always was a great kidder. Almost as great as he was a pitcher. And could he pitch. He was the winning pitcher in that first All-Star Game and was such a bear of a competitor, he started five of the first six All-Star contests and wound up being credited with three of the victories. Moreover, his 60 World Series record still stands.

Lefty Gomez enjoys a good joke and a good time and I can't ever remember him ever getting into any kind of controversy during all the years he pitched.

But like so many others on hand for this All-Star game, he finds it hard to understand the thinking of Joaquin Andujar, the St. Louis Cardinals' 15-game winner who turned up his nose at coming because San Diego's Dick Williams wasn't sure whether he was going to name him the National League's starting pitcher.

Williams was on the fence whether to start Andujar or his own LaMarr Hoyt. Since Andujar was facing Hoyt in a game between the Cardinals and the Padres in St. Louis last Friday night, Williams thought the best way of settling the matter would be to designate the winner the National League starter.

Milton Richman
UPI EDITOR - SPORTS

He made his feelings known before the game, but that didn't suit Andujar at all. He thought he should've been named the starter regardless of whether he won or lost Friday night's game. And he said if that was the way Williams was going to handle it, he wasn't going to the All-Star Game.

Andujar lost that game and the All-Stars lost him. He's not here, but if his prime purpose was to stir the pot and get everyone talking about what he did, he has succeeded admirably.

Maybe that's what he really wanted. There has been even more conversation about Andujar's decision not to come than there has been about the players' decision to strike Aug. 6.

Gomez shakes his head over that.

"When I was picked to play in an All-Star Game, I considered it as much as honor as being in a World Series," he says.

"It was my dream to play in an All-Star Game as a kid and it's still a dream for me to play in it now," says Padres first baseman Steve Garvey, making his 10th All-Star appearance. "Playing in this game is something that gives you a special sense of pride, a sense of accomplishment and of being honored as the best. I know I never would pass it up if I were picked."

Mets catcher Gary Carter, twice an All-Star MVP, feels the same way Garvey does. He had to pull out of Tuesday night's game because of a knee injury and that bothered him so much he apologized to Williams about it over the phone.

"You're letting me down," Williams kidded him. "I wanted you to win your third MVP."

Andujar has been selected to three previous All-Star teams, so he has to know there is no other game quite like it. If he doesn't know that, he should. Joaquin Andujar made a mistake.

Maybe he'll get another chance in some future All-Star Game, but there is no guarantee. No one can look into any baseball future and foretell how suddenly it may end. J.R. Richard knows all about that.

Hoyt, who has won 10 in a row, said he is happy Andujar decided not to come.

"It gave me an opportunity to pitch in this game," he said.

Williams says he considers Andujar a first-class pitcher and he wishes the Cardinals' Dominican-born right-hander had decided to come. The manager, however, isn't happy over hearing one of Andujar's quotes about him — "I guess he doesn't like Dominicans."

Williams points out that one of his Padres coaches, Ozzie Virgil, is a Dominican — the first Dominican to play in the majors, in fact — and has been with him nine years.

"My son Rick, is a coach at Indianapolis," Williams went on. "His manager is Felipe Alou, who is also from the Dominican Republic. People can say anything they like, but that doesn't mean they're right. They should get their facts straight first."

IN BRIEF

Florida Explores Possibility Of Forming New Conference

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — The University of Florida is conferring with independent football powers about forming a new conference if the Gators withdraw from the Southeastern Conference, the student paper reported Tuesday.

The Independent Florida Alligator said school president Marshall Criser has had discussions with the University of Miami and Boston College, which have independent football programs. Boston College is a member of the Big East in basketball and other sports.

Criser said he was just checking his options. "If we get out of something, we're going to know what we're looking into," he told the Alligator. "I am not, at this point, leading a campaign to organize a new league, but I am evaluating."

Florida has threatened to withdraw from the SEC after league presidents voted 6-4 to strip the Gators of their 1984 SEC football title because of NCAA violations. The vote came after the presidents' executive committee had voted to allow the Gators to keep the title.

Other teams being mentioned for the conference are Penn State, Pitt, Syracuse, West Virginia, Army and Navy. Pitt and Syracuse are members of the Big East and Penn State and West Virginia are members of the Atlantic 10 Conference in basketball.

Criser claimed the needs of all athletic programs at Florida will be considered before a decision is made on the SEC.

Cherry Handcuffs Astros, 2-1

Paul Cherry hurled a three-hitter and Lance Johnson hammered a home run as the St. Petersburg Cardinals nipped the Osceola Astros, 2-1, in Florida State League baseball Tuesday night at Kissimmee's Osceola County Stadium.

The Astros lead Winter Haven by 2½ games in the FSL's Central Division. Osceola plays Daytona Beach tonight at 7:30 at Daytona's City Island Park.

In batting statistics released Tuesday, former SCC standout Bob Parker is hitting .273 for Osceola. The left-handed hitting infielder has 70 hits in 256 at-bats not including Tuesday's game when he was 0 for 1. Parker has scored 46 runs and drive in 25.

Orlando's Twins were idle Tuesday. They return to action tonight at Chattanooga. The Twins trail Charlotte by one game in the Southern League's East Division.

Curbin Takes 179-Pin Lead

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Mike Durbin, a 14-time champion out of Chagrin Falls, Ohio, finished the sixth round of the $115,000 Tucson Open 179 pins ahead of the field Tuesday night to earn the No. 1 spot in the televised finals.

Durbin, the winner of this event three years ago, will be just one win away from his second title of the year in Wednesday's championship round.

Also reaching the nationally televised finals were Randy Pedersen, Santa Maria, Calif.; Guppy Troup, Neptune Beach, Fla.; David Ozlo, Vidor, Texas, and Jim Tilton, Huntington Beach, Calif.

Durbin, who usually does the color commentating for ESPN during the Pro Bowlers Association Summer Tour telecasts, finished the 42-game format with a pinfall total of 9,829 and a 222.5 average.

Wrestling Begins Registration

Doug Peters, head wrestling coach at Lake Mary High School, said the Heart of Florida Wrestling Camp will be Tuesday, July 30 to Saturday, Aug. 3 at the Orlando Tennis and Racquet Club.

Pre-registration is $75. Brother combinations pay just $50 each. Send a check or money order to Heart of Florida Wrestling Camp, 825 Cortland St., Orlando, 32804. Registration after the camp starts is $80.

Peters and his assistant, Ron Pinnell, will handle the instruction. Pinnell, in his first year as Lake Mary assistant, previously coached at Spruce Creek High School and the University of Florida.

Rivera Knocks Out Carmona

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Luis Rivera Tuesday night knocked out Innocencio Carmona in the third round of a scheduled 10-round middleweight bout.

Rivera, 159 ½ from Camden, N.J., improved his record to 15-3 with nine knockouts. Carmona, Puerto Rico, landed a three-punch combination early in the third round but Rivera responded with three looping right hands that dropped Carmona in Rivera's corner.

Referee Joe O'Neill counted out Carmona at 2:08 of the third round. Carmona, 160 ½, fell to 10-3 with four knockouts.

Will Run-Ins Effect Gators' Bite?

ATLANTA (UPI) — It will be interesting to see what effect, if any, Florida's run-in with the NCAA and the Southeastern Conference has on the Gators' on-field performance this fall.

Ordinarily, the Gators would have to be considered contenders for the conference championship and high national ranking with 13 starters and 30 other lettermen returning from last year's team, which won its last nine games.

But a two-year NCAA probation for numerous rules violations means Florida is not eligible for the championship (which they won for the first time last season only to have the SEC presidents vacate the title), UPI national ranking (by order of the American Football Coaches Association), or television or post-season bowl appearances.

So, with all those limitations, what incentive do the Gators have as a follow up to their best ever gridiron season?

"I look at this as a great challenge," says Galen Hall, who spent only three games as

Football

Florida's offensive coordinator (after 18 years as an assistant at Oklahoma) before succeeding Charley Pell, ousted as head coach in an effort to minimize NCAA. "I look for us to be competitive every year."

Despite their off-field problems, the Gators have good reason to be optimistic about their 1985 on-field prospects. Their quarterback, Kerwin Bell, was the top-rated passer in the SEC last year although only a freshman, and Neal Anderson and John L. Williams are two of the conference's top-three returning running backs.

Florida opens (in Tampa, Sept. 1) against the University of Miami and, while Miami was the only team to beat the Gators last season, the early departure to the pro ranks (Cleveland Browns) by Hurricane's quarterback Bernie Kosar (who threw for 300 yards in last year's game) makes that task easier. Although Florida is ineligible to win the SEC grid race, the Gators, who play every likely contender with the exception of Alabama (which figures to be the league's top defensive performer), are expected to be a definite factor in determining its outcome.

"It appears LSU, Auburn, Georgia and Tennessee should all be in the middle of the championship race," said Hall. "There is tremendous balance in the SEC and I don't think there is a team in the league who could count on beating another."

As for Florida, whose only claim to fame will be its won-lost record, Hall says:

"We have a team which should improve as the season goes along as our young offensive line gets more experience. Our schedule includes eight of last year's bowl teams, five of which finished in the Top 20, and road games at Miami, Mississippi State, LSU and Auburn."

"We look forward to the competition."

'Basebore?' Not Much Excitement From Stars

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Put 56 of the world's greatest baseball players in one of the game's wackiest parks and what do you get?

Not much, really. While the National League's 6-1 victory over the American League Tuesday night in the 56th All-Star Game at the Metrodome produced some interesting moments, it failed to generate even as much excitement as the previous day's home run hitting contest.

No one managed to hit a ball out of the "homerdome," no one lost a ball in the tricky lights, and even the rock-hard artificial surface produced only a few high bounces.

Only one error was committed in the game and the reason for that was perfectly understandable. Terry Kennedy threw the ball away trying to catch Rickey Henderson stealing and that is certainly nothing new for catchers attempting to contain the New York Yankees' speedster.

"I don't think it was boring at all, especially since we won," Montreal third baseman Tim Wallach said. "We had a great time. It could have been boring for the people here since the National League won in an American League city."

Wallach had a point. After Henderson scored to give the AL a 1-0 lead, the game offered very little stimulation for the crowd of 54,960. Their biggest chance to cheer came when former Twins slugger Harmon Killebrew appeared on the first-base coaching lines.

They had another chance to stretch their muscles in the eighth when hometown hero Tom Brunansky batted. However, Brunansky grounded out to end the eighth inning.

Despite the lack of any spectacular plays, some subtleties were available for anyone who cared to notice.

One involved St. Louis shortstop Ozzie Smith, who played in shallow left field. He played flawlessly from there and played the entire game. He and Boston outfielder Jim Rice were the only players to go the entire way. Another point that made the game interesting was that two NL pitchers batted in the game, neither with success. Starter LaMarr Hoyt, the game's Most Valuable Player, did not earn the honor with his bat, striking out in the third Nolan Ryan, who pitched three scoreless innings, struck out to end the sixth.

FANS VOTE AGAINST DH

NEW YORK (UPI) — The concept of a designated hitter fared as well Tuesday night as the league that employs it — it lost.

Baseball fans from across the country voted decisively against the DH in a telephone poll conducted during the 56th All-Star Game in Minneapolis. The National League defeated the American League 6-1.

Of the 234,882 votes cast in the poll by NBC Sports, 59 percent were against the DH and 41 percent in favor.

RYAN KNOCKS A.L. FLAT

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — What should a ballplayer do if one of Nolan Ryan's speeding fastballs is headed his way? "I wasn't expecting it but there it was," said Dave Winfield of the New York Yankees, who was knocked flat on his back by one of Ryan's pitches Tuesday night in the 56th All-Star game.

Ryan, the only player in baseball history to strike out 4,000 batters, replaced All-Star MVP LaMarr Hoyt in the fourth inning. The Astros right-hander gave up two hits in three innings, shooting down two more victims — Rickey Henderson of the Yankees and Jim Rice of Boston. Winfield overcame the brushback by smacking a single to center but Henderson, who also hit the dirt in the fifth, ended his at-bat by striking out swinging.

"I think it was a reflection on the way I was throwing tonight," said Ryan, a member of the victorious National League team which topped the AL squad 6-1. "I had good stuff but I just had some problems controlling it."

"With Henderson, I was just trying to come in and I came in too far. On Winfield, I was trying to come in and it was too close, too."

The pitch was a little too close for comfort for Winfield.

"All I needed was a pitch over the plate and he got it right in there," Winfield said. "He didn't surprise me — that's why he has 4,000 strikeouts. He's an amazing guy."

How close was it? "It came just as close to me as I did to hitting one out," said Winfield, who downplayed the incident.

...Strikes

jama," said Gossage. "To me, that's where we held the lead to win the game."

While the NL pitching was superb, the AL pitching — especially by the trio of Detroit Tigers who performed — was horrendous.

Starter and loser Jack Morris of the Tigers gave up five hits and two runs in 2 2-3 innings and teammate Dan Petry was even worse, walking three and being charged with two runs in only one-third of an inning. Willie Hernandez of the Tigers wasn't so hot either, allowing a two-run ground rule double to Willie McGee in the ninth inning that sewed up the game for the NL.

"I went out and tried to put nine innings into one inning," said Petry. "I tried to do too much at one time instead of taking the batters one at a time. I realize that now, but I really didn't have time to do so when I was out there."

Quite often, the AL has been at a loss to explain its poor showing in the All-Star Game. This time the reason was clear.

"I know why they won tonight. It was the way they pitched," said AL manager Sparky Anderson. "You have to go on what you see at that moment. And tonight I thought the (NL) pitching was just outstanding."

Raines Walks, Scores For N.L.

Sanford's Tim Raines walked and scored on Willie McGee's double in the ninth inning in his only plate appearance. Raines also played left field for the victorious National League.

Tuesday's game was Raines' fifth appearance in the classic in his five years in the major leagues. During his rookie year, Raines finished fourth in the balloting after a furious write-in campaign. He was named as a reserve.

In the next three years, Raines was voted to the starting outfield one year and named as a reserve the next. He has played in every game.

N.L. Mound Dominance Becomes Commonplace

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — It seems the bigger they are, the more weaknesses they have.

The American League came strutting into the Metrodome Tuesday night flexing its muscles like so many Paul Bunyans, that fictional giant lumberjack from the Minnesota woods, and left dragging their bats behind them.

National League pitchers again dominated AL sluggers — a scenario becoming commonplace in this mid-summer showcase.

The AL has a stunning array of home run hitters, but they went down easily as five NL pitchers combined to pitch a five-hitter. The only run the AL got was unearned.

It marks the second straight year and third time in the last four All-Star Games the AL has scored only one run against the NL.

The AL's problem is obvious. Those big hitters are free swingers with a lot of weaknesses at the plate that can be exploited by good pitchers.

"The big sluggers in the American League can be pitched to," said LaMarr Hoyt of the San Diego Padres, the winning pitcher and a former American Leaguer. "They have a lot of big boppers who can go deep, but they rarely show up in the All-Star Game. They're a bunch of free swingers who are vulnerable to certain pitches. I'm not surprised they didn't hit any home runs. If they didn't hit any off me, I didn't think they could get to the other guys.

"In our league, I've seen pitchers who can absolutely dominate a game. Most of them are here and the American League hitters aren't even going to see them all. I don't think I saw quite the same kind of pitching in the AL. But, of course, I have to hit against these guys. Our pitchers were pumped up to the max about pitching in this game."

The NL pitchers challenged the AL sluggers as they always do and took the game away from them. With Nolan Ryan buzzing pitches under the chins of Rickey Henderson and Dave Winfield and sending them sprawling, the message was out that the NL meant business.

Ryan, who worked the middle three innings, was especially tough in the clutch. He created a couple of jams in the fifth and sixth innings but stranded runners in scoring position each time.

Eriksson Wins Booby Prize (Connors)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Stefan Eriksson's reward for picking apart his first-round opponent in a $200,000 clay court tournament might seem like a booby prize.

Eriksson — who played three qualifying matches just to win a slot in the 56-man tournament — posted an easy 6-2, 6-1 victory over Hans Gildemeister of Chile. The reward for that victory is a meeting with No. 1 seed Jimmy Connors — a hungry Connors, making his first appearance since a semifinal drubbing at Wimbledon.

Eriksson, 21 and ranked 187 in the world, said he is mapping out a conservative strategy against the world's No. 4 player.

"If I go for too many big shots, I'm going to lose it," said the baseline-hugging Swede. "I can only play my own game. That's the way I can do it. It's going to be a lot of fun," he added.

Eriksson turned professional last August after an all-America collegiate season at the University of Minnesota.

Eriksson has never played Connors. "He's always aggressive," said Eriksson of his opponent. "I just have to keep the ball in play. When I get the short ball, I've got to put the ball away."

Tennis

Of his relative anonymity on the tour, Eriksson said: "That's an advantage to me," he said.

Eriksson suffered a 6-1, 6-2 pounding at the hands of Mats Wilander last week in a Boston tournament — a match he said can only improve his play in the long run.

"If I play these guys a couple of more times, I can give them a good match," he said.

In other action in the second day of the eight-day event, Argentina's Guillermo Vilas breezed past Thierry Tulaane of France, 6-1, 6-3. No. 15 seed Mark Dickson of Tampa beat Mel Purcell of Murray, Ky., 6-1, 6-3, and No. 16 Lawson Duncan downed Roberto Arguello, 6-1, 6-2.

Tulaane said Vilas, who was the No. 2 player in the world in the late 70's, is starting to return to form.

Magic Tough

It's an unusual occurrence to have five greyhounds in a photo for win, but Saturday night in a stakes race for the 3/8th Derby, Polo Genie, right, showed why she will be a strong contender for the Derby title with a great run down the stretch to win. Polo Genie was sixth coming into the stretch and won in a photo finish by a nose over Shaggy Kelly (6), Midland Euble (2), Lomerick Tilly (7) and HD's Danny's Boy (1). With her victory, Polo Genie assured herself of a place in the run for the $5,000 first prize in the 3/8th Derby this Saturday night.

Hampton: Agent Says To Refrain

MIAMI (UPI) — One of the Miami Dolphins' four unsigned draft picks made an appearance at St. Thomas University, but No. 1 pick Lorenzo Hampton and two other draftees stayed away from the second day of the team's pre camp.

The pre-camp is a voluntary session before the official start of training camp Thursday, but coach Don Shula expects all rookies and many veterans to attend.

"Hampton could be here working out, the same way with Moyer," Shula said. "I talked to Hampton (Monday) and he said his representative thought it would be best if he wasn't out here."

Shula said it was difficult to evaluate players now.

"(Monday) afternoon, for the first time, I thought they did well," he said. "(Tuesday) was a little more difficult" because of the nature of the drills.

Also Tuesday, the saga of unhappy and apparently overweight fullback Pete Johnson continued, and Shula said he still had not talked to Johnson.

The Miami Herald reported Tuesday that Johnson would not report to camp, in part because of a Shula demand that he report weighing 255 pounds. A Herald reporter who spoke to Johnson at his Miramar home said the eight-year veteran from Ohio State looked much heavier than 255.

Shula has said if Johnson slims down and is in shape, there is a spot for him on the Dolphins. If not, he wants no part of Johnson.

Denver Opens Camp But Top Pick Absent

DENVER (UPI) — Denver's top draft choice was absent as the Broncos opened their 1985 training camp.

In all, Denver opened its camp Tuesday with two 1985 draft choices unsigned. They were first-round pick Steve Sewell, a running back from Oklahoma, and eighth-round pick Eric Riley, a cornerback from Florida State.

Earlier in the day, Denver signed three 1985 draft choices: second-round selections Vance Johnson, a wide receiver from Arizona, and Houston defensive end Simon Fletcher, and nose tackle Dallas Cameron from Miami University.

About 92 rookies and free agents, together with a handful of veterans, took physicals in Denver and then were bused to the University of Northern Colorado. They were to begin two-day workouts today.

The quarterbacks, running backs, receivers and centers will report to camp Monday, with defensive backs reporting July 24 and the rest of the veterans July 26. The Houston Oilers will practice with the Broncos July 31 and Aug. 1, and Denver will have a formal scrimmage with New Orleans Aug. 3.

The absence of the draft choices is not the only handicap Denver faces as it prepares to defend its Western Division championship. The Broncos, like other teams, will have to make do with only 45 players this year, down from last year's 49.

That makes it extremely difficult for a player who has potential but hasn't lived up to it so far. Or a quarterback such as Scott Stankavage, who hopes to become the third-string signal-caller behind John Elway and Gary Kubiak.

Showers Add To Difficulty Of U.S. Open

SANDWICH, England (UPI) — As if the course at Royal St. George's isn't difficult enough, the weather is lining up a few unpleasant surprises for the 153 golfers who will begin their British Open challenges Thursday.

Lee Trevino and Jack Nicklaus, 45-year-old veterans who know a thing or two about winning British Open golf championships, reckon whoever captures the trophy and winner's check at the famed course in southeast England will have patience as a strong suit. The peculiar bounces and potentially killing bunkers mark this course as one of the stiffest challenges an Open championship can offer.

"It's a patient golf course," Trevino said after Tuesday's practice round.

"It's the sort of course where you can be four or five shots back and go out early and shoot a good score that will put a lot of pressure on the leader."

With the pressure mounting, the sometimes crazy bounces on a dune-ridden course that is remarkably firm considering Britain's very wet June would try a tournament leader's patience to the limit.

And if his nerve broke, the worst of the rough and the bunkers would beckon all the more insistently.

Nicklaus agreed with his American compatriot's assessment of the route to success on this par 70, 6,857 yards course.

"You've got to be very patient with it, not be upset by awkward bounces and be very happy when you get a bounce that takes it closer to the hole — you're going to get those, too," Nicklaus said after including a hole-in-one at the sixth in an educational practice round Tuesday.

Nicklaus admitted that he had to learn all the tee shots over again, even though the Open was played here only four years ago.

Despite the problems here, Trevino, who is looking to add to his back-to-back British triumphs in 1971 and 1972, and Nicklaus think they can do very well on this course. From Trevino's viewpoint, it currently offers the chance for him to cash in on his bump-and-run style, so long as the running ball stays on the fairway.

Nicklaus was glad to find the fairways firm, as he prefers to play a fast course.

"I have a tendency to play better in Scotland than I do here. I play better on hard, fast courses, not so well on slow golf courses. In England, the courses have tended to be slow," said Nicklaus, who won his three British Open titles in Scotland.

The forecast up to the weekend alternates between sunny spells with occasional showers, and showery weather with sunny periods.

Over the first two days of the tournament, when position on the leader board has no influence on teeing off times, luck with the weather could play a major role.

Tuesday started off overcast, then it gradually brightened up to produce some very warm spells. But suddenly, clouds returned and hurried down rain at a rate similar to that at Wimbledon when the tennis courts and surrounding areas changed into swimming pools within minutes.

Cook Of The Week

Bachelor (Hopeless Romantic) Prepares Easy Dinners For 2

By Dorothy Greene
Herald Correspondent
"I'm bachelor-oriented and lazy," says Brent McCall, our Cook of the Week. "and everything I cook is easy."

An absolutely charming young man, 25-year-old Brent is a cut above the rest with old-fashioned qualities that are refreshing and a credit to his generation.

"Everything I cook can be made on top of the stove or in the microwave," says Brent. "If I can cook it in the microwave, I don't even crack the oven except to bake a pie." Brent likes to get "artistic" with his salads and says he spends more time on that than on the main dish sometimes. He is a lover of raw vegetables and often buys an assortment of fresh vegetables from a roadside stand for one of his salad creations. "It may be very un-Southern of me, but I refuse to eat cooked greens," says Brent. "I like everything raw, including squash and green peas."

Brent is a 1977 graduate of Seminole High School and lives just west of Sanford with his parents, Rita and Glenn McCall, and his sister, Shannon. Home life at the McCalls is quite versatile with two Siberian huskies, one Siamese cat, a brood of chickens, and a couple of cows in residence. Recalling his SHS years, Brent jokingly remembers "trying to cut classes," but, on a more serious note, some valuable knowledge and experience was gained, he says. During his senior year Career Education classes. Half the year was spent working in the state attorney's office and the other half Brent worked in the hospital pharmacy.

Brent is an extremely outgoing young man with a magnetic personality who enjoys being in touch with people which is why he has chosen retail sales as his present profession. "I'm kind of crazy and I just like being around people. And I don't like being bored." Brent is a musical buff and especially enjoys the classics, so he is fortunate to be able to incorporate something he likes so much with his work at

Car-Tunes Audio in Winter Park, where he sells sophisticated audio equipment for autos. Brent's company is a division of a highly diversified corporation whose president he sincerely admires as "a company-oriented, highly motivated man who keeps the morale high, which is why I love it!"

During a 3-year hitch in the Army after high school, Brent completed pharmacy school and then volunteered for the Airborne Division. "The Airborne is the stupid people who jump out of planes," Brent says with a laugh. "but it was fun, I really enjoyed it. Not to mention the fact that we got paid an extra $55 a month."

After his Army days, Brent moved to Lakeland where he worked at what he likes best, the music and stereo business, and "that's where I really had to learn how to cook," he says. Dating two or three girls on a steady basis can become pretty expensive, so ingenuity and a brand new microwave soon became part of the bachelor scene.

Armed with several 10-minute meal recipes and three or four microwave cook books, Brent embarked on an experimental journey which turned out some hits and a few misses. "I found out you can't bake a pot pie in a microwave," says Brent. "Neither can you bake a cake in one. For that, you need a conventional oven. I found that out the second day I had the microwave."

An old-fashioned romantic, Brent often likes to entertain his dates by preparing a dinner for two and serving an appetizer of various cheeses and wine, while he does the cooking. "An extremely impressive dish I ran across is Chicken Breast with Almonds. It's super-easy but looks like you've spent half the day in the kitchen," Brent says. "I'm a hopeless romantic," he says. "I still believe in opening doors for ladies and things like that." Brent enjoys dinners for two complete with candlelight and mood music. Brent has come a long way from his army days, when part of his "jungle training" in Panama included eating strange foods, such as monkey meat, to his present flair for creating gourmet-type dishes. Time is an important factor in some of his favorite dishes, since he works long hours and doesn't have the time to spend on intricate preparation. "If I have to spend more than 30 minutes preparing a meal," says Brent, "then forget it."

"I'm extremely bad at making plans," he says. "I'll have a date and not decide what to make for dinner until the last minute, then make a mad dash for the supermarket. Once I have established what I am going to cook, I have everything prepared and laid out before I start. The onions, bell peppers, etc. are all chopped and ready. That's about the only time I'm coordinated,"

Brent says. When he's not working, he's surfing. "Three or four of us from work will get a room at the beach and leave directly from work on Saturday night, get up real early Sunday morning, and just spend the day at the beach," says Brent.

A traditional get together that Brent and some old friends enjoy every year takes place at Kentucky Derby time. Some 15 to 20 young people gather for their weekend "watch party" which started when Brent was stationed at Fort Knox while in the army. Doing all their own cooking of hams, turkeys, and all the trimmings, including Mint Juleps and five or six sinfully delicious Derby Pies. Of course, the Kentucky Derby race is the highlight of the gathering, Brent says. "Sometimes there is a lot of food left over, but the pies disappear in nothing flat."

Brent's overall outlook is one of a person who likes where he's been, loves where he's at, and knows where he's going with a great deal of optimism and success.

Below is a collection of Brent's favorite recipes, some of which are deceptively quick and easy:

CHICKEN BREAST WITH ALMONDS

1 1/2 pounds chicken breast, skinned and deboned
1 10-oz. can cream of onion soup
Seasoned salt and pepper
Bacon strips
Cooking sherry
1/2 cup sliced almonds (tip: toast almonds on HIGH in microwave oven for 3 minutes)
Season chicken pieces and wrap each with bacon. Arrange in microwave baking dish. Cover with waxed paper. Cook on high power for 5-6 minutes. Remove and cover with mixture of soup and wine (about 1/2 cup wine). Cook 5 to 6 minutes more. Let stand for 5 minutes. Top with almonds. Serves 4.

WINE SCAMPI
2 tablespoons margarine
3 tablespoons dry white wine
About 3/4 to 1 pound peeled and deveined shrimp

Garlic powder and seasoned salt to taste

Combine margarine and wine in glass casserole. Microwave 2-3 minutes on ROAST to melt oleo. Add shrimp. Sprinkle with garlic powder and salt. Microwave on high 4 minutes. Stir. Continue to cook about 2 minutes until shrimp turns pink. Let stand 5 minutes. (Bay scallops or snow crab claws are delicious cooked this way). Serves 4.

LEFTOVER ROAST BEEF

1 tablespoon margarine
1 medium onion, thinly sliced
1 tablespoon flour
1/2 cup wine
1 cup beef consomme
Leftover roast beef thinly sliced or diced

Melt oleo in skillet. Add onion and sprinkle with flour. Cook slowly until flour is brown. Add liquids and simmer until slightly thickened. Add roast beef and simmer until hot. Serve over toast or rice.

DERBY PIE

1 stick butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1/2 cup flour
1 16-oz. pkg. chocolate chips
1 cup coarsely chopped pecans
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 9-inch unbaked pie shell

Stir sugar into melted and cooled butter. Add eggs, vanilla and flour, blend well. Stir in pecans and chips. Pour into pie shell. Bake at 325° about 1 hour or until knife inserted halfway between center and edge comes out clean.

CREAM CHEESE FUDGE

1 3-oz. pkg. Philadelphia cream cheese (softened)
1 stick margarine
1/2 cup Hershey's cocoa
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 box (1 pound) powdered sugar

Mix all ingredients together. Knead with hands until smooth. Form into balls or press into pan and cut into pieces. Makes about 2 dozen pieces of delicious no-cook fudge.

Respiratory Therapy Classes

Seminole Community College is now accepting applications for those interested in pursuing a career as a respiratory therapy technician. The college offers one year occupational program with classes beginning Aug. 26.

The program covers all aspects of respiratory therapy through didactic and clinical training utilizing 4 local health facilities. Advanced standing can be granted for those having at least one year experience in respiratory therapy.

Graduate technicians with be eligible to sit for the National Board for Respiratory Therapy Certification examination.

To apply for admission to this year's class, go to the admissions office in the administration building. For information, call 323-1450 (from Orlando, 843-7001) Extensions 440 or 228.

In This Country Women Shave For Good Grooming, Hygiene

DEAR ABBY: "Rapunzel Legs," a hairy feminist in Everett, Wash., refused to shave her armpits or legs, and now she's screaming "sexual discrimination" because she's not welcome at private swim centers and exercise clubs. I think she deserves all the grief that comes her way.

Doesn't she know that in this country women shave their legs and armpits in the interest of good grooming? Underarm odors are bound to be trapped in all that hair, so it's also a matter of hygiene.

If "Rapunzel" let her hair down for me, I'd send up a case of Right Guard.

DENVER READER

DEAR ABBY: Sure it's sex discrimination to ban "Rapunzel Legs" from swimming centers because she doesn't shave her legs and underarms.

Are men banned from swimming centers because they have beards and hairy chests, hairy legs and hairy arms?

Personally, I'd be happier if men and women got rid of all their body hair before swimming in a public pool. They don't realize that all that hair clogs the drains and filter system.

EX-POOL MANAGER

LOTTA GUTS IN RICHMOND, VA.

DEAR ABBY: That woman who refused to shave her legs should be named "Repulsive" instead of "Rapunzel."

If she's too lazy to shave, she should move to Europe.

RITA, CHARLOTTE, N.C.

DEAR ABBY: "Rapunzel" should realize that allowing her dark and plentiful hair to grow in an unsightly manner is uncooth, unfeminine and unsanitary. In America we consider hairy legs and underarms gross. In Europe it's considered sexy. But then, Europeans don't use deodorants, they think sweat and other natural body odors are "sexy." Peewee!

ALL-AMERICAN GIRL

DEAR READERS: And now, equal time for "Rapunzel Legs!"

DEAR ABBY: I applaud "Rapunzel," the hairy lady who dares to be herself. Let it grow—let it show. It suits closet fur fanciers just fine. I am one of them.

I adore furred feminine forearms, flashes of tufted armpits, downy mustaches and soft and silky leg hair. (It looks divine under nylon hosiery!) And if you care for me, don't change a hair for me. I love the natural look!

ROGER THE FUR FANCIER
DEAR ABBY: No woman should shave her legs if she doesn't want to. I haven't touched a razor for years, and when some no-class, big-mouth comments on my hairy legs, I say, "I'll shave my legs when my husband shaves his!"

Thompson To Attend Sterling

Kevin Thompson, Oviedo, has been accepted as a new student at Sterling College, Sterling, Kan., for fall 1985 and has received an activity award for athletics as well as an academic scholarship.

The son of Laverne Thompson of Oviedo and Sergeant Dave Lee Thompson of Frankfort, Germany, he is a 1985 graduate of Oviedo High where he was involved in varsity track, football, basketball and weightlifting.

At Sterling College Thompson is interested in a major in business administration. Sterling is a four-year liberal arts college in central Kansas and is affiliated with the Presbyterian Church (USA).

Celebrity Cooks Report Food Trends At Reception, Buffet

Today, when people discuss food trends, conversation seems to focus on caviar, exotic produce, imported specialties and regional American foods. When some of America's most respected food authorities discussed food at "An Evening With America's Celebrity Cooks," hosted by Kraft, Inc. during the annual Food Marketing Institute Convention, a wide range of observations were made.

New York's Barbara Kafka, restaurant consultant, cookbook author and cooking teacher observed, "Supermarkets have dramatically upgraded take-out foods and produce departments. Fresh herbs, specialty fruits and vegetables from reverse seasons and a broad range of ethnic specialties from new immigrant populations are readily available. Tofu is in every store. Lemon grass may be next."

"American cookery is returning to simplicity, with a re-discovery of fresh ingredients," commented Richard Nimmo, long-time associate to the late great James Beard. "At the same time, supermarkets are offering a wealth of foods once found only in specialty stores, from fresh herbs and imported sausage to caviar." He reported that "Chinese is the hottest food trend in New York right now," and predicted that "the next big move will be to Mexican food — not Tex Mex — but authentic Mexican cooking."

New Yorker Bert Greene, cookbook author, food columnist, cooking teacher and television personality, also stated opinions on food trends. "Americans want strong flavors in the Eighties," he said.

West Coast cookery was represented at the reception by California Ken Hom, star of a successful BBC-TV series on Chinese cookery, cookbook author and cooking teacher. Hom stated, "The trend towards fresh ingredients continues unabated in California. Here supermarkets have been in the forefront of carrying fresh ingredients — especially exotic ingredients like fresh ginger."

Jane and Michael Stern, noted television personalities, cookbook authors, newspaper and magazine writers and authorities on America's heartland cooking were among the food experts at the reception. They stated, "The trend towards regional American food isn't a trend at all. It is our birthright. What is different is that we are proud of it, and we are beginning to see American cuisine as fabulously diverse, expressive of our melting pot heritage."

At one of the reception's five buffet tables, designed as a tribute to the Sterns' contribution to American cooking, their original recipes reflected a respect for down-home American foods. Created especially for Kraft from ingredients available at the supermarket, Cincinnati Three-Way Chili Cups were spicy, colorful offerings.

At a casual buffet supper the evening before the reception, the Stern's Upside-Down Cincinnati Five-Way Chili was served to newspaper food editors from all areas of the country. A main dish variation of the appetizer Chili Cups, the lovely chili mixture was served atop Kraft macaroni and cheese dinner. Shredded cheddar cheese, kidney beans, chopped onions and oyster crackers were optional garnishes.

- CINCINNATI 5-WAY CHILI CUPS
- 1 lb. ground beef
 - 1 medium onion, chopped
 - 2 garlic cloves, minced
 - 1 cup barbecue sauce
 - 1 cup water
 - 1 tablespoon chili powder
 - 1/2 oz. unsweetened chocolate, grated
 - 1 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
 - 1/2 teaspoon ground allspice
 - 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
 - 1/2 teaspoon cumin
 - 1/2 teaspoon ground turmeric
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon ground cardamom
 - 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
 - 1/2 teaspoon ground coriander
 - 60 thin white bread slices
 - 1/2 lb. pasteurized process cheese spread, cut into 1/2-inch cubes

Brown meat with onions and garlic; drain. Add barbecue sauce and water; bring to boil. Stir in chocolate and spices. Cover; simmer 30 minutes. Cool 30 minutes at room temperature. Grease two-inch muffin pans with margarine. Cut bread slices with 3-inch round cookie cutter; flatten with rolling pin. Press into muffin pans to form bread cups. Bake at 350°, 12 minutes. Cool. Remove from pans; place on cookie sheet. Spoon one teaspoonful meat mixture into each cup, top with process cheese spread. Continue baking until process cheese spread begins to melt. Top with additional chopped onions, if desired.

60 appetizers.

CAJUN CHEESE BISCUITS

- 2 cups flour
- 1/2 teaspoon ground red pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup margarine
- 2 cups (8 ozs.) shredded sharp

natural cheddar cheese

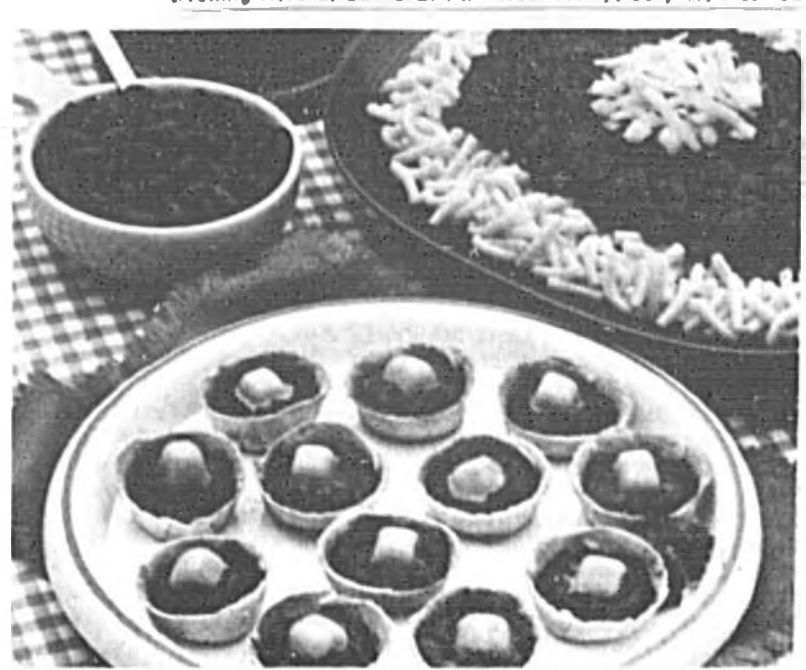

- 1/2 cup finely chopped pecans
- 1/4 cup milk
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 3 tablespoons mayonnaise-type salad dressing
- 50-60 pecan halves

Combine flour and seasonings; cut in margarine until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add all combined ingredients except pecans; mix well. Shape dough into 1-inch balls; place on ungreased cookie sheet. Top each with pecan. Bake at 350°, 15-18 minutes or until golden. Serve warm or at room temperature. 4-5 dozen.

UPSIDE-DOWN CINCINNATI 5-WAY CHILI

- 1 lb. ground beef
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 2 garlic cloves, minced
- 1 cup barbecue sauce
- 1 cup water
- 1/2 oz. unsweetened chocolate, grated
- 1 tablespoon chili powder
- 1 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon ground allspice
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon cumin
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cardamom

Versatile Desserts Showcased In Ice Cream Show-Off Recipe Contest

Favorite ice cream flavors developed into practical ice cream desserts dominated entries in this year's Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream Show-Off Recipe Contest. Recipes for ice cream drinks, cakes, and other award-winning desserts illustrated that easily prepared ice cream recipes can often become award-winning family favorites.

Over 8,000 recipes were submitted to the contest with a total of 131 entries receiving prizes. Twenty-eight earned top awards following a close review of their appearance, flavor, texture, use of ice cream, practicality and originality. Four categories are included in the Baskin-Robbins competition — Ice Cream Drinks, Ice Cream Spectaculars, Ice Cream Sundae and Individual Ice Cream Treats.

The versatility and convenience of ice cream was illustrated by the majority of this year's entries. Ice cream, itself, is a nutritious food and easy to have on-hand for any occasion. Many recipes can be prepared well in advance of serving with final touches added at the last minute by the cook or even with the help of dinner guests.

Many of the award-winning creations featured fruits and nuts, primarily of a tropical or exotic nature. For example, "Hawaiian Smoothie," a European Adventure award-winning in the drinks category blends kiwi, avocado, pineapple juice, honey and wheat germ with Baskin-Robbins French Vanilla Ice Cream and Orange Sherbet in a refreshing, nutritious combination.

A special award went to "Black Bottom Daiquiri Cheesecake," which combines the tart taste of Baskin-Robbins Daiquiri Ice with both lime and rum flavors and a creamy cheesecake for a delicious summer dessert.

Receiving first place in the sundae category was "Meringue Crunch Sundae," featuring Baskin-Robbins Lemon Mousse Ice Cream in a meringue shell combined with the simple elegance of a raspberry sauce and Chambord. The grand prize award went to an ice cream sundae, "Heavenly Chocolate Sundae Cups," an elegant variation of an old-time favorite.

Judges also awarded top honors to Show-Off Recipe Contest entries such as "Mahogany Sundae," a contrast in tastes with Baskin-Robbins Jamaica and French Vanilla Ice Creams topped with a warm rum toffee-like sauce; as a delicious ice cream beverage, "Foxy Friar Float" combines liqueur, coffee, chocolate syrup and cream with Baskin-Robbins Jamaica Ice Cream and cream soda.

For coconut fans, "Refreshing Lemon Surprise" delights enthusiasts of Baskin-Robbins Nutty Coconut Ice Cream in a spectacular torte, layered with lemon slices, raspberry preserves and Baskin-Robbins Lemon Mousse Ice Cream.

The grand prize and four European Adventure prize-winners (the top recipe from each category) won week-long trips for two to various European destinations. Airline transportation to Paris, London, Amsterdam, Frankfurt and Geneva are provided by British Caledonian Airways with connecting flights provided by Continental Airlines. Winners will enjoy accommodations at Inter Continental Hotels, returning with their memories recorded by cameras and film provided by Fuji. The grand prize winner also received American Tourister luggage, cookware by Cuisinart and $500 in cash, while each of the other European Adventure winners won $200.

First through fourth place awards in each category included Kelvinator freezers, American Tourister luggage sets, Cuisinart food processors and Hamilton Beach "Drinkmaster" mixers. Thirty-one special award winners each received 31 quarts of Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream and Baskin-Robbins Book of Ice Cream, Entertaining and Fun, while Make Ahead Meals, a recipe book from BON APPETIT, went to 70 honorable mention entrants.

Baskin-Robbins features its Ice Cream Show-Off Recipe Contest every two years in an effort to honor the creativity of today's consumer as well as allow many to enjoy new ice cream taste sensations. As the world's largest network of ice cream stores, Baskin-Robbins delivers a quality ice cream experience.

HAWAIIAN SMOOTHIE
(European Adventure Award)
This versatile recipe will quickly become a favorite once you've tasted its wonderful tropical flavor and creamy smooth texture.

1/2 pint orange sherbet
1/2 pint French vanilla ice cream
1 kiwi fruit, peeled and halved
1 avocado, peeled and pitted (1 cup)

1 tablespoon honey
1 cup pineapple juice
1 tablespoon wheat germ

Blend all ingredients until smooth. Garnish with orange slice on edge of glass. Makes 3 servings.

Note: This versatile recipe also makes a delicious dressing for a fruit plate or salad, or it may be thinned with additional pineapple juice for a cold summer soup.

BLACK BOTTOM DAIQUIRI CHEESECAKE
(Special Award, Spectaculars Category)

The fresh lime and rum flavor of the creamy cheesecake filling is a perfect complement to cool Daiquiri Ice and a dark chocolate crumb crust.

Crumb Crust:
2 cups chocolate wafer cookie crumbs
1 cube (1/2 cup) butter, melted

Cream Cheese Layer:
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
1 can (14 ounces) sweetened condensed milk
1/2 cup lime juice

1/2-1 teaspoon grated lime peel
1 teaspoon rum extract
1 1/2 quarts daiquiri ice
4 ounces crushed English toffee

Combine crumbs and butter until well blended. Place 1/2 cups crumb mixture into a buttered 8-inch springform pan and press into an even layer around side and bottom.

Beat cream cheese until light and fluffy. Add condensed milk and mix until thoroughly blended. Add lime juice, peel and rum extract. Mix thoroughly. Pour cream cheese mixture into crust and spread into an even layer. Sprinkle remaining 1/2 cup buttered crumbs over top and refrigerate for 2 to 3 hours.

Spoon one pint of daiquiri ice over top of cream cheese layer and smooth into an even layer. Scoop remaining ice into half-rounded scoops by leveling off excess ice from each scoop with a small spatula or knife to create a flat surface. (Use a 1-ounce scoop for a pebbled look.) Place scoops, flat side down on top of daiquiri ice layer starting at the outer edge and working in. Freeze until firm, at least 2 hours.

Remove springform pan and set cake on a chilled serving plate. Sprinkle top of cake with crushed candy and cut into wedges. Makes 8 to 12 servings.

MERINGUE CRUNCH SUNDAE (1st Place, Sundae Category)

A beautiful combination of smooth and crunchy textures with sweet and tart flavors.

4 egg whites at room temperature
1 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup finely chopped blanched almonds
1 quart lemon mousse ice cream

Raspberry sauce (below)
Chopped pistachio nuts
Fresh raspberries

Cut a piece of parchment paper to fit a large cookie sheet. Grease the cookie sheet. Spread the paper on the cookie sheet. Grease top of paper. Beat egg whites to form soft peaks in mixing bowl. Beat in one tablespoon of sugar, cream of tartar, and vanilla. Gradually beat in remaining sugar until stiff, glossy peaks form. Fold in nuts. Spoon the meringue mixture onto the parchment paper and spread evenly into a 8x12-inch rectangle. Bake at 250° F. for 60 minutes. Turn oven off and leave meringue in oven for another hour or until thoroughly dry. Remove from oven and cool completely. Peel off parchment paper and crush meringue into coarse pieces, about the size of peas. Meringue should be made ahead, placed in an airtight container or bag and stored in the freezer until needed.

To assemble, roll each scoop of ice cream in frozen, crushed meringue. Refreeze scoops for up to 2 hours. To serve, place one or two scoops in each dessert dish and top with the raspberry sauce, chopped pistachio nuts and fresh berries. Makes 4 double or 8 single scoop servings.

Raspberry Sauce:

Puree 3 cups fresh or one (12 ounce) bag frozen raspberries, thawed in blender. Sieve puree to remove seeds. Return to blender. Add 1/2 cup sugar and blend until sugar has dissolved. Stir in 3 to 4 tablespoons Chambord.

Note: Strawberries may be substituted for raspberries, use Kirsch instead of Chambord.

MAHOAGANY SUNDAE (Special Award, Sundae Category)

This recipe combines a warm, velvety smooth sauce which tastes like rum toffee, with cool Jamaica and French Vanilla Ice Cream.

2 tablespoons instant coffee powder

1 1/2 cups hot water
1 cup granulated sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons cold water
3 tablespoons butter
1/4 cup rum

1 pint Jamaica ice cream
1 pint French vanilla ice cream

Blend coffee with hot water and set aside. Place sugar in a heavy saucepan and melt over medium heat. After it begins to melt, stir constantly until golden brown. Slowly stir coffee mixture into melted sugar. Continue to cook, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Remove from heat.

Mix cornstarch with cold water to make a smooth paste. Stir a small amount of hot sauce into the cornstarch mixture, then stir this mixture into remaining hot coffee sugar sauce. Return to heat and cook, stirring constantly until sauce is thickened and smooth. Remove from heat, add butter and rum and stir until butter is melted. Refrigerate covered until needed. Sauce can be made up to several days ahead.

Before serving, warm sauce. Place a scoop of each ice cream into 6 dessert dishes so that all ice cream is used. Top with warm mahogany sauce. Makes 6 servings.

Fremont, California FOXY PEARL FLOAT (Special Award, Drinks Category)

The combination of hazelnut liqueur, chocolate and creamy coffee flavors in this adult soda, makes all others seem like child's play.

1/2 cup hazelnut flavored liqueur

2 tablespoons chocolate syrup

2 tablespoons heavy cream

2 scoops Jamaica ice cream

1 can (12 ounces) cream soda, chilled

Cinnamon to taste

Combine liqueur, chocolate syrup and cream in a tall chilled, soda glass. Stir. Slowly pour in enough cream soda to half fill glass. Add two scoops ice cream and fill glass with additional cream soda. Dust with cinnamon. Serve immediately with a straw, a long handled spoon, and remaining cream soda on side. Makes 1 large serving.

REFRESHING LEMON SURPRISE (Special Award, Spectaculars Category)

A beautiful and flavorful combination of tart lemon and raspberry flavors layered with cool Coconut and Lemon Mousse Ice Creams on a graham cracker base.

1 1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs

2 tablespoons sugar

1/2 cup butter, melted

12 thin slices lemon (no seeds)

1 quart nutty coconut or baseball nut ice cream

3 cup raspberry preserves

1 quart lemon mousse ice cream

Fresh or frozen raspberries and thin half-slices lemon for garnish

Blend cracker crumbs, sugar and butter together. Press mixture into bottom of 9-inch springform pan. Chill. Stand lemon slices around sides of pan. Carefully spread softened nutty coconut ice cream over the crust into an even layer, making sure that lemon slices remain up right. Freeze at least 30 minutes to firm. Spread raspberry preserves over ice cream layer. Freeze. Spoon lemon mousse ice cream in thin layer over raspberry preserves and smooth. Cover with plastic wrap and freeze until serving time.

Before serving, remove rim from springform pan, lift dessert off bottom of pan and place dessert on serving plate. Garnish with raspberries and lemon slices. Makes 12 servings.

Add New Twists To Favorite Picnic Foods

Summer is here — the season for enjoying outdoor activities and meals. Today, the simple pleasures of good ol' "down home" picnic foods are being discovered by Americans of all culinary persuasions. In fact, many of the nation's most sophisticated restaurants are featuring American regional foods such as chopped, barbecued or mesquite-broiled meats and cold picnic-style salads on their menus.

You too can add new twists to your favorite picnic foods this summer through the creative use of potato chips. Frito-Lay, manufacturer of Lay's, Ruffles, and O'Grady's brand potato chips, offer these time-saving suggestions and recipes for uncomplicated and successful picnics.

— Plan ahead and make a checklist. Store items like a can opener, plastic garbage bag, napkins and moist towels in the picnic basket where they're always handy and ready to go.

— Prepare cold meats and salads a day in advance. This allows the ingredients to blend and enhances the overall flavor. It also saves you time the day of the picnic.

— For a light picnic, prepare dips instead of sandwiches. Fresh garden vegetables combine easily with plain yogurt and spices. Eat with dip-style potato chips instead of crackers.

— Here's an idea for deli food fans. Create a spontaneous cold picnic salad for your lunch hour with the quick purchase of cole slaw, the sandwich equivalent of roast or corned beef and a bag of potato chips. Combine slaw with diced meat and scoop onto chips for added crunch and better flavor than bread.

— Food critics note that America's taste buds are preferring spicier foods this year. Plain picnic items such as deviled eggs, tuna, or even fried chicken can be enhanced with the addition of flavored chips such as the new Cheddar and Sour Cream or Hearty Seasonings flavors — and for a barbecue treat, substitute barbecue flavored chips for barbecue sauce.

— Remember, the outdoor air makes appetites heartier. Bring along plenty of food ... and enjoy the day!

TUNA NICOISE SALAD
2 cans (7 ounces each) tuna, drained
1 can (14 ounces) artichoke hearts, drained, coarsely chopped
16 jumbo size black pitted

Traditional Strawberry Shortcake

"Purists" will defend the traditional southern biscuit as the only legitimate method for strawberry shortcake, and butter as the only possible shortening. The strawberries may be sugared or not — but the heavy cream is beaten only until it is slightly thickened and still pourable.

Fortunately, the biscuit baking is easy, especially when you use enriched self-rising flour. The "self-rising" means exact amounts of leavening and salt are preblended into the enriched flour, eliminating extra measuring and mixing time.

TRADITIONAL STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE
2 cups enriched self-rising flour

2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 to 3/4 cup cream or milk
Butter

1 quart strawberries, sliced, sweetened to taste

Orange Whipped Topping
whipped cream

Sift together flour and sugar.

Cut 1/2 cup butter into flour mixture until it resembles coarse crumbs. Blend in enough cream to make a soft dough.

Turn onto lightly floured surface and knead gently 30 seconds.

Roll out 1/4 inch thick. Cut out biscuits with floured 2-inch biscuit cutter. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in preheated 450° oven 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Split warm biscuits, butter each half. Spoon sweetened strawberries on half, place other half on top with more strawberries and Orange Whipped Topping.

Orange Whipped Topping:

1 cup whipping cream

2 tablespoons orange juice

1 tablespoon sugar

1/2 teaspoon grated orange peel

1/2 teaspoon nutmeg

Whip all ingredients together until soft peaks are formed.

olives, coarsely chopped
1 cup cooked green beans, coarsely chopped
1/2 cup mayonnaise
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon pepper
potato chips

In large bowl combine tuna, artichoke hearts, olives, green beans, mayonnaise, lemon juice and pepper. Stir to blend. For each serving spoon 1 cup tuna salad onto center of serving plate. Surround with 15-20 potato chips. Makes 4 servings.

* Eating this salad with seasoned potato chips eliminates the need for adding seasonings to the salad.

DEVILED EGG DIP

8 hard-cooked eggs, shelled and chopped
1/4 cup prepared mustard
1/4 cup milk
1/4 cup chopped tomato

3 tablespoons mayonnaise
2 tablespoons minced green onion

1/2 teaspoon crushed red pepper

1/4 teaspoon salt
paprika
potato chips

In large bowl combine eggs, mustard, milk, tomato, mayonnaise, onion, red pepper and salt. Stir to blend thoroughly. Sprinkle with paprika. Serve in bowl with potato chips. Makes 2 cups.

CHIP FRIED CHICKEN

1 egg
2 tablespoons milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper

3 pounds chicken fryer pieces

1 bag (6 1/2-7 ounces) cheddar and sour cream flavored potato chips, crushed

In shallow bowl, whisk together egg, milk, salt and pepper. Dip chicken pieces in egg mixture, then in chips to coat. Place skin-side-up in large shallow baking pan. Bake in 350° oven about 1 hour until chicken is tender. Serve hot or cold. Makes 4 servings.

BARBECUE CHEESE 'N' BACON BURGERS

1 pound ground chuck

1 cup crushed bar-b-que flavored potato chips (measure after crushing)

4 ounces (4 slices) Cheddar cheese
4 strips cooked sliced bacon, crumbled

Extra bar-b-que flavored potato chips

Combine and shape beef and crushed chips into 4, 1/4 pound hamburger patties. Grill or broil to desired doneness. Place one slice cheese (1 ounce) on each patty. Continue to cook just until cheese melts. Serve on plates, topped with crumbled bacon. Crush extra barbecue chips and sprinkle over bacon.

Surround hamburgers with barbecue potato chips. To eat, cut off small pieces of burger and place on chips. Makes 4 servings.

Microwave Magic Hot Meals Can Be Ready In A 'Jiffy'

For those days when it's too hot to cook, the microwave oven is truly appreciated. Even cooking soup will not heat the kitchen. Soup and salad, soup and sandwiches are good hot weather meals and by employing the microwave you will have the preparation completed in a jiffy.

Vichyssoise is a chilled potato soup. This recipe is good served hot or cold.

QUICK POTATO SOUP
2 cups sliced, peeled potatoes
1/2 cup finely chopped leeks (or onions)
1 cup water
1 1/2 cups Half & Half
1 tablespoon butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
Chives

Midge Mycoff

Bacon
Microwave potatoes, onions and water on 100% power 8-10 minutes until potatoes are tender. Cover and let rest 5 minutes. Mash potatoes with a fork. Add remaining ingredients and microwave on 100% power 5-8 minutes. Garnish with chives or bacon crisps.
For Vichyssoise place the potato soup in the blender and blend until smooth. Chill. Serve garnished with chopped chives.

A hot sandwich to serve with cold soup? This one is usually a favorite with teenagers.

SLOPPY JOES
1 pound ground chuck
1/2 cup onion, chopped
1/2 cup celery, chopped
1/2 cup green pepper, chopped
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 cup barbecue sauce
8 hamburger buns
Place ground beef, onion, celery, green pepper in a 2 quart casserole. Microwave on 100% power 7 minutes. Drain off excess liquid. Add spices and barbecue sauce. Microwave 8-10 minutes, covered, on 50% power. Spoon over hamburger buns.

Use the fresh vegetables available now to make this home-made vegetable soup.

ITALIAN SAUSAGE SANDWICH

Flight Crew Sounded Normal

Crashed Jet's Voice Recorder Provides No Evidence Of Bomb

BOMBAY, India (UPI) — A review of cockpit voice recorder tapes from an Air-India jet that plummeted into the Atlantic gave no hint of mechanical trouble but failed to show if a bomb caused the crash that killed 329 people.

Investigators conducted their first review of the voice recorder tape Tuesday and a spokesman for investigators said information stored in the plane's flight data record would be reviewed today.

The Boeing 747 jumbo jet, on a flight from Montreal to London, disappeared from radar screens at 31,000 feet and plunged without warning into the Atlantic off the coast of Ireland on June 23. There were no survivors.

Three Indian extremist organizations claimed they planted a bomb aboard the plane.

Authorities hoped the plane's two "black boxes" — its voice and flight data recorders — will reveal the cause of the crash. The recorders were recovered last week from the wreckage in mile-deep Atlantic waters off the coast of Ireland.

S.N. Sharma, secretary of the six-man court investigating the disaster, said Indian and foreign experts listened to "a preliminary run" of the cockpit voice recorder tape Tuesday.

"The quality of the tape recorder appears to be good," he said.

Sharma said he could hear engine noise but did not know if an explosion could be heard at the end. He said it would be "a couple of days" before a final analysis was completed.

U.S. expert Carl Palkovich said the "voices sounded normal" and that there was no sign of nervousness on the part of the pilot — seeming to rule out a developing mechanical problem known to the crew or a terrorist threat from a passenger.

But Palkovich, an official of Fairchild Corp., which manufactured the voice recorder, said: "It is very difficult to determine whether an explosion on the tape."

Aviation experts said it was possible the plane was hit by a sudden electrical failure that could have deactivated the "black box" recorders.

The Press Trust of India news agency quoted "reliable sources" as saying the recording revealed that the end of communications between the aircraft and the ground station was "sudden and abrupt."

The news agency quoted one expert as saying: "We are no wiser than earlier."

Arson Blamed In Hotel Fire

SARASOTA (UPI) — Investigators said a hotel fire that killed three people early Tuesday was deliberately set and the deaths now are being treated as murders.

"It was arson, so now we are looking at three homicides," said police spokesman Mike Schott.

Schott identified two of the victims as Charles Osborn, in his 30s, and Robert Baldwin, in his 20s. No address was available for either.

He said the third victim was a female in her 50s or early 60s. He said she had been identified but withheld the name because of problems locating relatives. Schott said the woman had been a resident of the Sarasota area for about four years.

The bodies of Osborn and Baldwin were found on the third floor, the body of the woman on the second floor.

The Lynn Hotel, which was built in 1925, had been used in recent years as lodging for transient laborers and a few permanent low-to-middle income residents.

Schott said there were 16 people in the downtown hotel behind City Hall at the time of the fire and all had been accounted for.

In addition to the three fatalities, two men were taken to Sarasota Hospital with injuries. David Fleming, 27, was hospitalized in fair condition with broken ankles, and Bruce Aikens, 34, was treated at the hospital for a hip injury and was released. No hometown was available for either man.

In addition to the residents, five policemen and one fireman were treated at the scene for smoke inhalation.

Schott said investigators have not revealed how the fire was started, but said it was set in the lobby area and quickly spread down the hallway and up an open stairwell.

The fire was discovered at 4:48 a.m. by a policeman patrolling by patrol.

The bodies of Osborn and Baldwin were found on the third floor, the body of the woman on the second floor.
