TRENCHES GUARD RESISTING FORCE

SEARCHLIGHTS, MACHINE GUNS PLAY PART IN IMPENDING ASSAULT

NOGALES, Sonora, Mar. 30.—Naco, Sonora, miles east of Nogales today held the center of the revolutionary stage as federal troops under General Lucas Gonzalez remained within the shelter of their trenches expecting momentarily the long deferred assault of the rebels under General Fausto Tome, constitutional governor of Sonora.

Searchlights played about the surrounding plains during the night to thwart a possible surprise attack. Machine guns poised along the trench, 300 yards apart, were ready for immediate action.

The battle of Naco today seemed more probable than any since General Augustin Sanchez mucinied against Tome, defecting to the government cause.

Tome's field base is established at San Jose, about 7 miles south of Naco, according to rebel headquarters here, while General Ramon Yucupio commanding a contingent of Yanqui Indians from Agua Prieta has established his base at La Mota.

Although indications pointed to a probability of the Naco rebels winning today, rebel leaders here told International News Service that Tome may change his course to storm the garrison, beginning his campaign with predominantly "military operations," the nature of which headquarters here refused to divulge.

Tome late last night sent word to the American Consul at Naco, Sonora, advising that he was ready to begin the attack and warning the consul to remove Americans from the danger zone.

Douglas Says His Position On Court Is Misunderstood

Declarer that his position with regard to the proposed abolition of County Court had been misunderstood by many persons, E. Douglas, clerk of the Circuit Court, today denied the report that he had made any concession for or against the tribunal.

He said he had purposely retained from giving his own views because of the office which he held.

"All of the records of the court kept by me and naturally all of the records have been brought into the controversy because I have been called upon to furnish these figures. I have prepared statements for the County Board and am making one for the Bar Association just as I would for any individual taxpayer who asks for it. I have not given out my figures as conveying my own views," Mr. Douglas said.

The Clerk said if an analysis of the records showed the court to be too much of a financial burden for the amount of good it was doing, he would be in favor of doing away with the court as a measure of economy.

Inman Testifies On Stand That Liquor Was Cause Of All His Marital Troubles

Wealthy Heir To Duke Fortune States His Wife Was Always Drunk When She Committed Indiscretions

RENO, NEVADA, Mar. 30.—(INS)—Walker P. Inman, wealthy New Yorker, seeking to divorce Helen Garnet Patton Inman, faced another day of grilling cross-ways. Steele was dressed or un-dressed by his wife, the daughter of an Indian minister planned to question Inman further concerning the part liquor played in their marital discord.

At the end of several hours questioning yesterday, Inman admitted that the use of intoxicants was the rock that had shattered their matrimonial bark. "Isn't it true that all the evidence you have from your detectives of alleged indiscretions your wife committed were when she was intoxicated?" George Thatcher, counsel for Mrs. Inman asked.

"Yes sir," Inman replied. "Did you ever know of her staying away from dinner or coming home early in the morning when she wasn't intoxicated?" asked Thatcher.

"She was usually intoxicated," said Inman.

"Then this liquor question was the whole cause of this unfortunate conflict between you and your wife," the attorney continued. "Yes sir, I would say it was," concurred.

Two County Solons
Depart For Capital
For 60-Day Session

L. P. Hagan and C. W. Entzminger, Seminole County representatives to the state legislature which convenes Tuesday in Tallahassee, left Friday morning for the capital, where they went early to get the "lay of the land" and to line up support in behalf of several measures which they plan to introduce. The solons made the trip by motor.

Neither legislator would comment on his choice for speaker, the election of whom is expected to be preceded by one of the warmest legislative fights in the history of the state. The selection will take place Monday night at a caucus of the representatives, who will also select other officers to serve during the coming 60-day term.

The local delegation goes to the legislative committee to a definitive program of tax reduction and economy in government. Each representative has expressed his willingness to fall in line with any movement looking toward measures that would relieve the tax burden of the opinion.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Mar. 30—(INS)—A possible solution to the disappearance of one of two Smith College girls, Frances St. John Smith and Alice Corbett, loomed today with the finding of the body of a girl in the branches of a willow tree off the Long Meadow shore of the Connecticut River.

The teeth of the body were in good condition and the unusual and expensive dental work were expected to prove a determining factor in identification. Dr. W. J. Wood, of Pelham, New York, who had treated the teeth of Miss St. John Smith and Alice Corbett, joined today with the finding of the body of a girl in the branches of a willow tree off the Long Meadow shore of the Connecticut River.

Money Restrictions

Solons Condemn
Mitchell Action
May Probe His Conduct
In Lending Funds To Help frantic Market

By W. S. Cousins

NEW YORK, Mar. 30.—Open rebellion of New York bankers and stock exchange heads against the restrictive credit policies of the Federal Reserve Board and a congressional investigation of the whole system of stock market speculation loomed plainly before the financial district today, as stock exchange brokers saw their houses in order for what is expected to be another hectic period of trading next week.

The warfare which has been conducted behind closed doors for the last month or two broke out in the open this week as the head of the National City Bank of New York, America's biggest banking house, in defiance of the reserve board's policy, not only loaned money in a frantic stock market but announced in a public statement the reason into the death of Mrs. Julian De King, shot down in her home by dry raiders.

Taking his cue from the furor and public indignation that followed the raid, Fairchild quietly slipped out of town. He was taken at his home in Odell, Ill., late yesterday, but officials feared to return him to Kane County because of the tempest of the citizens he was being held somewhere outside of Kane County.

Asked why he slipped out, the informer said he became alarmed over the consequences of the raid and applied to state's attorney for permission to carry a gun. When this was denied he said he decided to go home by dry raiders.

Fairchild's spying was only a part time occupation. At other times he is an automobile salesman. His operations with the state's attorney's office were based on the "fee system," receiving $5 for each dry law violation.

It was his affidavit on the purchase of moonshine that prompted six deputy sheriffs under the leadership of Roy Smith to break into the De King home, batter Joseph De King unconscious with their guns, terrorize his 12-year-old son, Gerald, and finally to shoot and mortally wound Mrs. De King when she rushed to her husband's assistance.

Smith, who admitted firing the shot that killed Mrs. De King, was later shot in the leg by the woman's little boy, and is now confined in a hospital at Elgin, threatened with gangrene. Smith, too, was taken out of Aurora for fear of violence.

One thing is sure. Last week's 20 per cent duty rate denoting the tightest squeeze in money since 1920 has broken and the drop in call loan rates has brought to a crisis the controversy which has been developing for months in high financial circles.

Congress Plans To Make Credit "Oasis"
To Aid Agriculture

WASHINGTON, Mar. 30—(INS)—Taking note of the flow of western money into Wall Street speculation, the new Congress will establish a federal credit "oasis" for American agriculture.

Smith, who admitted firing the shot that killed Mrs. De King, was later shot in the leg by the woman's little boy, and is now confined in a hospital at Elgin, threatened with gangrene. Smith, too, was taken out of Aurora for fear of violence.

The creation of a huge revolving fund for loans to farm organizations and a loosening of credit rules in the federal farm bank will meet the situation in the opinion of congressional leaders. These provisions undoubtedly will be written into the new tariff act of 1922. The British will ignore the treaty's one hour's sailing distance limit for search and seizure, or whether Capt. John T. Randall, master of the ill-fated schooner, reckoned correctly when he put his position at 15 miles off the Louisiana shore.

The coast guard asserts the sunken runner was hovering eight miles off shore when accosted by the Walcott. There has never been mention in any official report, as far as it can be learned, of just where the Walcott first picked up the men.

The farmers, however, will be aided by provision of easy credits through a revolving fund to be handled by a federal farm board or through the existing land banks or intermediate credit banks. Spokesmen from farm organizations have urged a loosening

COOPER STARS IN FILM AND TELLS HOW JOB IS DONE

Colleen Moore's New Home Is Equipped For 'Talking' Films

By MODENA F. PERKINSON
HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 30.—I remember when I saw "Children of Divorce" that I was disappointed in Clara Bow. I thought she had been miscast; that she should go on playing "it" roles. Not that anybody cared what I thought. But I liked Gary Cooper. And it seems that a lot of other people did, too—especially ladies.

Helen Louise Walker tells about it in Motion Picture Magazine. It seems that most ladies, according to Miss Walker, like him because he looks as though he had suffered. But on being interviewed by her, he couldn't remember exactly what it was, though he obligingly tried.

"There was a time," he said, "the time I was going to play in 'Children of Divorce,' that I had only two real parts before that. The one in 'The Winning of Barbara Worth,' and a bit in 'Wings.' I was scared. All the cast were experienced troupers. I worked two days and then they called me and told me they guessed I wasn't quite ready to handle that part."

"That hurt. I went away—into the hills—alone. Meanwhile they had seen the rushes of the third day and they decided I could do it. They couldn't find me. I came into town and went into Henry's, to get something to eat. I was starving. Frank Lloyd saw me and rushed over. He said they had been hunting everywhere for me that they were holding up the picture and were going to use me.

"I had the funniest feeling—something inside of me changed. I didn't know until that moment how much that thing had hurt."

And then he went on to try to think of some other time when he might have suffered. After all, he's only twenty-seven. He had been in love once—for five whole months. He said: "You know that business of knowing something is wrong and not being able to put your finger on it. That awful business of going to bed and not being able to sleep—of getting up in the morning and wishing you need never wake to face another day—of that. I would go to see her—there would be explanations and protests. My mind would be set at ease. Then two or three days later something would happen. It would begin all over again. Not to be able to trust the one you love—that's hell."

"Then one day I found I couldn't suffer any more. It was over—done with. So I went and sold it."

"What I want from love is security. If I am in love I want just one woman. I don't know whether I shall ever be able to marry in Hollywood. Life isn't normal. People do not have a normal chance to be honest and sincere. It's all right, unless you fall in love. When you're in love, you're so helpless."

Colleen Moore's new home, still in course of construction, will be equipped with a projection room for talking motion pictures.

magazine, her ex-husband, Kenneth Harlan, wired her from New York. "Could you have gone to the central casting agency and got a few more men's names to mention in your story?"

That magazine is printing a series of "love lives," and Ben Lyon so they say, has been mentioned by the ladies in almost all of them—but only as among those present.

Ben Lyon sighs and adds that he wishes he might be featured in at least one.

This story is told of Gil Bogart, one-time husband and manager of Gilda Gray.

Two-burly strangers met him outside of his club one evening just before Christmas. "Here is a Christmas present," Gilda sent you, "said one of them, as he socked Mr. Bogart in the eye.

And what did Mr. Bogart do?

He didn't bandage his black eye, with beefsteak, or anything like that. He gave a party and invited all his friends, so that he could show them Gilda's Christmas present.

Incognite Wilson got plenty of publicity when her name appeared in the newspaper with that of Frank Tinney, but when she entered the movies she decided that it wasn't the kind of publicity she wanted, so she changed her name to Mary Nolan. Or perhaps Mary Nolan is her real name and Incogene Wilson just a stage name. Anyway she is winning new fame as a motion picture actress.

Says Women Will Refine Aircraft

Louise McPhetridge Thaden, who on March 17 set a new endurance flight record of 22 hours 4 minutes at the Oakland, Calif., airport, is pictured here with her plane and a Graham-Paige sedan. She predicts that women's influence will bring about improvement in the comfort and convenience of planes just as it has brought to the motor car the luxury, ease of operation, and beauty exemplified in the Graham-Paige. The photo was taken at the Oakland airport while the aviator was tuning up her plane.
