BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY:

A HATE FORTRESS: As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so the Lord is round about his people from henceforth even for ever.—Psalm 125:2.

And this is the day on which this page will decide whether the Literary Digest knows what's what in Florida.

One reason some people get by so smoothly as they do is that their sins never find them out and their creditors never find them in.—Clermont Press. These days creditors are usually out too.

General Johnson calls upon the manufacturers to advertise. We've been calling upon lots of folks all summer and trying to get them to advertise. Hope the general has a better batting average than we had.—Leesburg Commercial. The general is doing his best.

Premier Daladier declares the French people are solidly against any form of currency inflation. After inflating their currency by about eighty percent and receiving no benefits, it's no wonder they are against it. America should take heed from France's example.

Instead of buying lottery tickets, buy food and clothing now. If you want to gamble you have at least a chance by buying merchandise and commodities. Invest a dollar in a can of beans, and watch the price of beans rise. Sell at cost six months from now to a neighbor for twice what you paid for it. Or eat it yourself when the grocer's beans can't be bought for twice the price. It's a much better gamble than a lottery ticket.

The President's appeal to labor to lay off the strikes, at least until the recovery program is a little further along, is producing the right effect. The unions must realize that any effort to put men back to work cannot gather popular support so long as some men already working quit for any reason other than the most intolerable conditions. Other disputes involving methods, systems, and so forth, should be shunted to the background until the country is on an even keel again.

School teachers who have not been paid and those who fear their salaries may yet become delinquent are beginning to find a solution for their difficulties. They are organizing themselves into semi-political groups, part of teachers' unions, to fight politicians when it comes to dividing up the spoils from taxpayers. Even Florida has been penetrated by the idea. Duval county teachers have formed themselves into such an organization. They will get their salaries or know the reason why.

In the middle ages mad kings used to kill people by means of all kinds of strange devices of torture, but none of them was more ingenious and more costly so profitable as the system of modern execution. A woman in Georgia tells about a white woman, addicted to drink, whose life was insured by gangster friends. The drunk, one night, she was undressed, taken out of doors, where she was hanged by the neck until she was dead. The woman who had insured her life was collected by her friends and had killed her.

The government's credit policies, as far as the country is concerned, have been a success. No practical method has yet been found for decreasing the money supply. The NRA has not been able to do anything to help the business. The NRA has not been able to do anything to help the business. The NRA has not been able to do anything to help the business.

Modern Advertising

In stimulating sales as their part of the great drive to put over the "Buy Now Campaign", merchants are asked by General Johnson to do two things. He urges them to "give the public attractive, up-to-date merchandise, fairly priced" and to "aggressively promote your products to the public".

Aggressive promotion of the merchants' products entails primarily one essential undertaking. "American industry must help the public to find the goods it needs", General Johnson insists, adding that "The modern method is advertising. The American public looks to advertising for news of good merchandise and good values."

There never has been a time before when the American public was so imbued with what newspapermen call reader-interest. Every-day-events are of such importance and of such vital interest to every American citizen that the daily newspaper which brings these rapidly occurring developments to his evening fireside has assumed a position which is absolutely indispensable to his peace of mind. He can not go to bed until he knows the latest news from Washington.

And so it is with his wife. The one who once found her chief interest in the casual doings of her neighbors now notes the price trends on the front pages and looks with particular care to the ads to find where the best bargains are available. With commodity prices fluctuating daily and the cost of living climbing steadily, constructive advertising in legitimate newspapers has become more than ever an essential characteristic of the modern housewife's budget operations.

Most merchants are still feeling the pinch of necessity and the need for economizing in running their stores. They cannot afford careless or extravagant advertising any more than they can allow themselves to buy from profiteering wholesalers, but neither can they afford to eliminate their advertising. They have a message which must reach the public in the most effective and inexpensive way.

Advertising which produces results is likely to be the popular method. The cheapest advertising is not always the least expensive. The merchant should determine for himself which form of advertising produces for him the largest volume of business and then he should concentrate his advertising in that medium. This is good common sense economy. Duplication of advertising should be avoided during any period of hard times.

We have always felt that consistent advertising in established daily newspapers offers superior advantages to any other kind of advertising. When subscribers throughout a depression pay, and continue to pay, fifteen cents a week in order that they may receive their daily newspaper, it seems to us fairly convincing evidence that this newspaper is being read.

That is what the merchant wants. His ad must be read if it does him any good.

A Study In Contrasts

Human nature is a funny thing. Once upon a time Henry Ford is said to have lost a good many thousand dollars because he refused to allow a bird's nest to be moved from a construction project. Many a man has wrecked his car in trying to avoid running over a dog. Certain owners of horses have spent young fortunes on their animals in taking care of them in their old age rather than have them shot. More than once men have risked their lives to save some dumb animal.

The other day in New York state a young boy started to feed a bear that was tied to the end of a chain on the grounds of a filling station. The bear lurched against the chain, broke it, and attacked the boy, finally killing him after several minutes of pawing and biting. The tragedy took place under the eyes of a group of motorists who, unarmed, felt powerless to intervene.

The bear was only of medium size. He could very easily have been driven off without much danger to any grown person who might have seen fit to display a little courage. It seems like a sad reflection on the quality of human nature that the child should have been killed without some effort being made to save him.

Here in Sanford last Saturday several men stopped their work and went to considerable pains to release a cat which had unwittingly become imprisoned under the construction of a building. It wasn't much of an effort to make in behalf of a poor animal, but after all what does the life of a cat mean in the lives of most men?

The contrast between the way human emotions work on various occasions is a shocking one. In one instance we see men displaying the greatest of kindness, compassion, even risking their own skins for a mere animal, while on the other hand we have the example of persons heartless, cowardly, and filled with fear for their safety while a little child is mauled to death by a bear.

FARLEY GIVES REPEAL VIEWS IN TAMPA TALK

(Continued From Page Two) general said he recently had opportunity to discuss the question with the Chief Executive, and "not only was he pleased with the rapidity with which the states are accomplishing ratification, but he is eager that we finish the task at the earliest possible moment so that in planning the national budget for the next and succeeding years he can estimate the proper return to the national treasury of revenue from legitimate alcoholic beverages which now are going to the illicit traffickers of the underworld—the bootleggers and racketeers—in the form of tribute."

Citing the repeal movement as a non-partisan action which calls for the co-operative support of all parties, the speaker said Florida "has two widely different, yet equally emphatic reasons for joining the parade of states marching toward early accomplishment of repeal."

He listed first the right of the state to control its own destinies. The Eighteenth Amendment, he said, "destroyed the right of the people of Florida to decide for themselves on a state plan of liquor control which you believe to be best adapted to the special conditions of your great state. It sacrificed the principle of wise, local self-government—the principle of state rights. x x x It deprived the home of the protection and sanctity guaranteed by the American form of government. It changed the course of our institutions. It transformed our federal courts into police tribunals. It required federal officials to become snipers and sneaks. It sought to induce us to become a nation of spies, each to prey upon the habits of the other. It killed respect for the law. It brought our federal statutes into disrepute. It converted your ports and harbors into dens of smugglers and gunmen."

"It is altogether fitting, therefore, that Florida, which from the beginning has insisted upon the right of each state to handle its own affairs, should have the opportunity to register overwhelmingly its protest against the consequences of the Eighteenth Amendment and to re-dedicate itself, by an irrevocable majority, to re-birth of the doctrines upon which our government was founded."

"There is another reason Florida should be happy to be rid of the Eighteenth Amendment and that is the economic side of this question. "So long as heavy federal and state taxation must be imposed on the American people it is not likely that you here in Florida will be able to develop your state to its full possibilities as an all-year-round playground."

Lehmann, Glenn And Panworth Urge People To Buy Now

(Continued From Page One) called upon to join the "Buy Now" movement which was started Monday by General Johnson. "Many employers in our city have signed the President's Agreement and shortened their hours of work for employees as well as increasing these employees' wages. These employees are displaying the Blue Eagle insignia of the NRA."

"For these merchants in continuing their support, and the payment of the higher wages, it is our duty as consumers, citizens of this republic, and as loving people to join in the 'Buy Now' campaign so that our efforts will assist in making a success of the NRA."

Organized labor has been co-operating in the NRA and we again called upon our part in this buying campaign, so sure that we will do it.

3. Fiorello H. LaGuardia, fusion nominee, described the McKee ticket as a "reservoir for disgruntled politicians and office-holders."

4. Cornelius N. Bliss, former treasurer of the Republican national committee, charged McKee forces.

5. John F. Curry, Tammany chief, designated Thomas J. Dolan to replace Secretary of State Edward J. Flynn, McKee supporter as Bronx organization leader.

The leadership of two of Tammany's strongest allies—John H. McCooey in Brooklyn and John Theofel in Queens—was challenged as organization candidates withdrew from their tickets and declared for McKee.

In Brooklyn Frank J. Quayle, youngest leader in McCooey's machine, announced his withdrawal as nominee for borough president of Queens, followed suit. Both will vote election on the McKee ticket.

While reports he would withdraw in favor of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, nominated Mayor Office continued to divide Bronx supporters of McKee from Tammany's old and run for mayor were discounted.

Labor Approves Plan To Aid U. S. School System

The program called for "Truly professional standards" in all classrooms; smaller classes taught by trained teachers; broader curriculum; an equitable wage for all instructors with security for their tenure, and decent working conditions; the establishment of teachers' unions, and other points.

The Federation also agreed yesterday that its more than 3,000,000 members should patronize only good retail stores that display a blue eagle card in addition to the blue eagle.

Unanimously, the convention adopted a resolution saying that purchases from such stores would "guarantee fair wages and work-in conditions."

The resolution contended that "there are millions of retail store employees who are still unorganized and who have no voice in the regulation of their working conditions" but that "the presence of both the NRA insignia and the blue eagle is proof that the employer is complying with all the provisions of the retail code."

Awaiting committee reports on more controversial questions, and a speech yesterday afternoon by Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the national labor board, the convention also adopted committee reports urging that more states join the 16 which now have minimum wage laws for women.

FROST AT ATLANTA

ATLANTA, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Outlying sections of Atlanta, particularly the region around Smyrna, reported light frost yesterday morning, and G. W. Mrs. Wight's Comedy "The Shawl" Will Be Presented Tomorrow

Mrs. Henry Wight, of this city, a former president of the Woman's Club and the Garden Club of Sanford, is the author of a two-act play on Soviet Russia, "The Shawl", which will be presented tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Woman's Club by the Literature Department with the assistance of the Music Department. This will be the first program of that department for the 1933-34 season and promises to be one of the most interesting of the club year.

"The Shawl", which is directed by F. C. MacMahon, is a short play based on Soviet Russia and has only two characters, William J. Jacie, formerly of Jacksonville, takes the part of Ivan Nicolaich, an alert young villager who has learned much during his five years' residence in Leningrad, and is a promising minor official in the Soviet. The part of Caterina, his village sweetheart, who has recently come to the city as his bride, is portrayed by Miss Mary Dighton.

Music during the afternoon will be presented by Mrs. Frances A. Hickson, Mrs. Madeline Mallon, and the ladies' chorus of the club. Mrs. Hickson will give two piano solos, the Russian National Air and the "Internationale." Mrs. Hickson and Miss Mallon will present a piano duet, a march by Tchaikowsky and "The Volga Boatmen", a Russian folk song, will be sung by the ladies' chorus.

Mrs. Wight said that the playlet was suggested by one of "Four Russian Laughs", written by Michael Zoschenko for the magazine Asia and translated by Mrs. Vera Eforon Mintz, instructor in the Russian language at Smith College. It is through the permission of Mrs. Mintz, that she embroidered on the original joke and was able to offer the little comedy.

Fight For Love Told In Today's Milane Film

"Disgrace", the story of a woman's fight for love with honor, opens tonight at the Milane Theater. Helen Twelvetrees, wistful blonde star, is cast in the leading role, with Bruce Cabot, Adrienne Ames, William Harrigan and Ken Murray heading the supporting cast.

"Disgrace" is dazlingly modern in its theme. Miss Twelvetrees as an ardent model, fascinates Cabot, a wealthy man-about-town. His ardent wooing finally wins her, even though she knows he is engaged to marry Miss Ames. He promises to break his engagement and marry her. She believes him.

Miss Twelvetrees keeps this secret courtship from her father, a police captain, who has warned her against men like Cabot. One day she is called upon to model a wedding gown for Miss Ames, who announces her coming marriage to Cabot.

Filled with shame when she realizes Cabot has let down her father, Miss Twelvetrees faces Cabot with a gun. He struggles with her, locks her in a closet, and calls the police. Miss Twelvetrees' father is assigned to the case. What happens when he learns that the girl is his daughter brings the film to a stirring climax.

Fletcher said he had started to make up his report, but would not complete it until the hearing were over.

"We must check this gambling business on the stock exchange as far as possible," he said. "That is one of our main goals. The exchange had taken in along the right line.

"We must control brokers' loans, which permitted eight and a half million dollars to be syphoned out of the rest of the country and put up to Wall Street for speculation.

"Not only must we regulate the New York Exchange, but we must deal with the other exchanges. All should be forbidden to list the stock of a company that is bankrupt or in the hands of a receiver. One specific plan which the committee might consider, Fletcher said, is the proposal advanced by Senator Glass (D. Va.) several years ago for a tax on quick stock turnovers. The Virginian contended that all stock bought and sold within a few days or weeks was speculation.

GENESIS PLACED 17TH IN BOOKS OF NEW BIBLE

Amos Given 1st Place In Work Released In Chicago Monday

CHICAGO, Oct. 16. — A re-arrangement of the books of the Bible, with Genesis yielding its traditional place to Amos and becoming seventeenth, is found in the "Short Bible," which was published Monday by the University of Chicago Press.

The "Short Bible," edited by Professor Edgar Johnson Goodspeed of the University of Chicago and his associate, the late Professor J. M. P. Smith, arranges the books in the chronological order in which modern biblical scholarship establishes them to have been written.

The volume presents all that is significant of the religious, historical and literary elements of the Bible in a form that is readable and intelligible. It is based on the "American translation" published by the university two years ago.

Two thousand pages of the standard Bible are reduced to 550 pages in the "Short Bible." Like the "American translation," the "Short Bible" employs modern punctuation, with dialogue set in quotation marks, narrative paragraphs and blank verse, instead of the traditional form of the King James version.

Included in the shortened form, as an aid to understanding by lay readers, are introductory essays to each book, which explain its background, history and significance.

The "Short Bible" thus intended to be a bridge to the complete Bible for the average person, according to Professor Goodspeed, who holds that the full Bible is too big, bewildering and obscure that it intimidates most readers.

"Behind the re-arrangement of the books in the chronological order which modern scholarship assigns to them was the intention to reveal the development of the fundamental values in the Hebrew and Christian religion," said Professor Goodspeed.

"We know that the Book of Amos was written between 765 and 750 B. C. and is the earliest of the writings of the Old Testament.

"Amos expressed the justice of God; Hosea, who wrote fifteen or twenty years later, and whose book is second in the 'Short Bible,' introduces a different idea—the love of God.

"No violence is being done to the Bible in this re-arrangement, and in point of fact changing of the canonical order of the books is far from being a new idea. Luther said that four books—Jude, Hebrews, James, and Revelations of John—did not teach Christ, and he re-arranged the books in the order that he considered that they did teach Christ. Tyndale, who followed Luther, did the same thing."

Although elimination of any part of Genesis is almost impossible to justify, according to Dr. Goodspeed, the effort to reduce Isaiah and the Psalms presented the most difficult task. Dr. Smith faced, in these selections, there are the "Song of Songs," Lamentations, Obadiah, Malachi, Second Peter, Second and Third John or Jude, but their inclusion is no wise in the opinion of Dr. Goodspeed emphasized.

Although Solomon came to be regarded as the wisest of men, it is

The stage of the Milane Theater will resemble a sawdust sprinkled circus ring on Thursday, when Tom Mix, pictured above, comes to town with his rodeo riders and circus aerialists for special performances at the theater during the day.

Mix will head a company of hard-fisted, dyed-in-the-wool cowboys whose portion of the show is one of its features. In addition, Mrs. Tom Mix, pictured above with her sister, will perform several difficult stunts on an aerial trapeze, an act which they formerly used in the old Sells-Floto circus.

"Tony," known the world over as Mix's wonder horse, will probably share most of the attention among the younger theater goers to whom he is instantly recognizable. Mix will bring a collection of 15 or 20 prairie horses with him, all of which will be seen on the stage of the Milane on Thursday, at both afternoon and evening performances.

The stage show will include presentation of the scenically beautiful "Samsrang," made entirely in the 8-uth Seas, with native talent featuring the cast.

clients, the one to whom most proverbs were credited, and was said to have uttered 3,000 of them. These social axioms were actually the work of many minds and periods, the introduction to Proverbs states. The essay holds that the Book of Proverbs is evidently a collection of collections which probably reached its present proportions not long after 300 B. C.

The oldest part of the book, 22:17-24:22, is said to be based upon an Egyptian work, "The Wisdom of Amen-em-Ope," from which many of the proverbs were taken almost word for word.

The Summer Round Up of the

MARKET TRENDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Stock financial markets looked fairly cheerful at the beginning of a new week Monday.

Stocks advanced quietly but steadily, though their volume was small. Corn and hog improved, bonds were firm and cotton ignored a government crop estimate that was above expectations. Wheat fell back a bit, while sugar futures reacted on abandonment of the allotment plan.

Interest switched from group to group—building, issues, alcohol, oils, motors and rails were favored at intervals—and dealings were light, but the line of least resistance was rather definitely upward.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP)—While Monday's government cotton crop indicated figures of 12,885,000 bales were somewhat above expectations, they failed to stimulate much selling and early declines were followed by advances with prices reaching the highest levels of the day after publication of the report.

December contracts after declining to 9.25 sold up to 9.55, but increased offerings were encountered at this level and there were partial reactions. December closed at 9.55 with the general market ending steady at net advances of 13 to 17 points.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Both prime and secondary bonds moved up moderately yesterday in trading that was characterized by considerable caution in view of the fact that the government is the largest holder of bonds.

Bales totaled only 28,274,000 and value and low prices were accounted for most of this relatively small aggregate. The average for 20 weeks of 1933 is 28,274,000 bales, or 1.4 per cent of a bushel.

Rails, as a whole, were in better demand than other groups.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Corn led an energetic rally in bond of trade prices yesterday, and wheat was the only grain that failed to finish higher.

Reports of new governmental moves to expand credit did much to stimulate upturns of all grain values, but late selling of wheat available to be delivered at once was responsible for a moderate setback in prices of that cereal.

Corn closed firm, 1.28 to 1.34 above Saturday's high, wheat 1.2 to 1.18 down, oats 1.4 to 3.4 advanced, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to a rise of 10 cents.

RHODES SCHOLAR RECORD OF STATE COLLEGE IN FORT

University Of Florida Entitled To Send Four Men To Oxford

GAINESVILLE, Oct. 10.—The University of Florida's outstanding record of Rhodes Scholars in recent years is brought to the fore front by the announcement from Dr. W. H. Wilson, assistant dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, that the University is entitled to five applicants for Rhodes Scholarships for next year. Applications will be filed before November 11.

Florida is one of a group of six southern states entitled to send four outstanding men from the group. This state competes with Georgia, Tennessee, South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia. The other 42 states are arranged in similar groups which gives the United States 22 new Oxford students each year. Since these scholarships may be held over a three year period, there may be 96 Rhodes Scholars from the United States each year at Oxford.

That the University of Florida has stood out prominently in representation is evidenced by the several graduates in recent years who have attained this distinction: E. R. McGill, president of the student body 1925-1926; Albert A. Murphree, youngest son of the late Dr. A. A. Murphree; John George Miller, who made a straight A average in academic subjects; and W. R. McRae, one of the best all-around campus leaders; the university has ever had.

Professor F. W. Buchholz, principal of the Gainesville city schools, had the honor of being the first Rhodes Scholar from the state of Florida. He held his scholarship in 1908, the same year that Dr. John J. Tigert, president of the University of Florida, was sent as a Rhodes Scholar from Tennessee.

Rhodes Scholarships were founded in the will of Cecil J. Rhodes, South African statesman, for the purpose of furthering good will and understanding between the English speaking people and those of other world wide peace. They are tenable at the University of Oxford and may be held three years.

Four groups of qualities were stressed by Mr. Rhodes as being desirable for scholarship recipients to possess. Of the four groups, he considered the first two the most important. They are as follows: literary and scholastic ability; the qualities of unswerving truth, courage, kindness, and fellowship; leadership; and physical vigor.

COLLAPSE OF GROCERS' CODE IS IMMINENT

(Continued from Page One) described the code as essential to "stabilization" of the distribution industry, and as the means of ending price-cutting, which the farm administration is interested in stopping insofar as it believes this tends to depress prices paid to farmers.

With few exceptions they raised the heart of the code, provisions for requiring minimum mark ups of 2 1/2 percent over delivered cost in the case of wholesalers and 7 1/2 percent over delivered cost by retailers. But the provision that manufacturers should offer their goods for sale on the basis of open price quotations found no enthusiastic response for their spokesmen.

The mark-up provisions were abandoned over today's hearing under a floor rule that representatives of wholesalers and retailers' organizations found opportunity to express almost unanimous approval of the principle. Almost unanimously they labeled them as "too low", however, asserting that the cost of doing business for retailers ordinarily was far in excess of 7 1/2 percent.

Enthusiasm of some wholesalers for the code faded after manufacturing representatives asked for exemptions. A. W. Lutz, Los Angeles wholesaler, said the exemption, if approved by the farm administration would tend to make the code "valueless."

He said that, as a result, the latter would be forced to become manufacturers and to pay rebates to retailers in order to continue business, which would be in violation of the code which lists as "unfair practices" all types of price-cutting.

"It (paying rebates) will be not be illegal but it will not be done", Lutz said, adding that he regarded the code as unenforceable.

Three are not enough members of the Army, Navy and Marines to enforce it", he asserted. His statement was objected to by C. H. Janssen, of St. Paul, secretary-manager of the National Association of Retail Grocers, and other organization spokesmen who aided in drafting the code.

William A. Hollingsworth, New York, appearing for the retail tobacco dealers of America, said the 7 1/2 percent markup was "too low", in asking that tobacco be exempted. He said his organization has prepared a separate code for tobacco under which the markup for retailers would be a minimum of 18 percent over delivered wholesale prices.

DeWitt C. Reed, New York, representing the food importers association, said its members intended to join with importers of other products in completing a special importing code for presentation to the NRA and the farm administration.

Special problems including foreign exchange, ocean freight and tariffs, he said, made it desirable

PILOT TAKES $40,000 ANNUALLY FOR HIS SERVICES

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Bill Terry, the young man who introduced the "middle" system of management to baseball, topped off his world series triumph over the Senators yesterday by signing a five-year contract to continue as pilot of the New York Giants.

A big star in his teeth, the thrill of conquest still lighting his eyes, the 32-year-old "first base" man sat down with Charles A. ...

... of the club had signed a contract for $40,000 a year for his services through the season of 1933.

In doing so they tore up the two-year contract Terry signed in 1932, when he took over the club upon the resignation of the veteran John McGraw, and started the recovery campaign that wound up with the Giants winning the National League flag, and the World Series in five games, in the first full year of his management.

The old contract was reported to have netted Terry $30,000 a year.

Beyond the expression that all concerned were pleased with the figures involved, specific terms were not mentioned.

The joyous after effects of the Giants sparkling victory still hung over the club offices as the newspaper men, all of whom had predicted in the spring that Terry would be fortunate to land in the ...

... this year, however, is for the last time this year.

"It looks," said Bill, "as though I'm going to be around here a long time. I'm tickled to death about it."

While he had the reporters there, Stansham took the opportunity to deny the latest rumor that he had sold his ball club, a report that bounces up every month or so.

"I'm so tickled about everything that I haven't stayed long enough in any one place to talk business with anyone but Terry," he said. "There is absolutely no truth in the report. But, of course, everything in the world is for sale at a price, I suppose, and if ..."

He didn't finish the sentence, but there seemed little likelihood that he was seriously considering selling now or in the immediate future. The first National League world champion New York has had since the height of McGraw's power in 1922.

The signing of Terry yesterday set something of a new high for managers of New York champions. Last year, when Joe McCarthy piloted the Yankees to the world championship in four straight games, he was awarded only a three-year contract at a figure not considered as lofty as the terms of Terry's new agreement.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Manager Joe Cronin of the Washington Senators, today signed a three-year contract to pilot the American League champions.

His pay is undisclosed but Clark Griffith, owner of the team, indicated that it is considerably less than the reported $40,000 a year for which Bill Terry agreed to manage the Giants for the next five years. Cronin said "It is satisfactory, and a considerable increase over my salary this year."

OLD-STYLE RAZOR ON WANE

The old-fashioned razor still has a friend here and there, but the number has dwindled considerably in recent years, according to TeePee Razors. Manufacturers now sell only about $225,000 worth annually, compared with $1,500,000 of the safety variety, says the writer. From the standpoint of value, the sale of safety razor blades exceeds the safety razors by nearly 40 to 1. The yearly sale of blades amounts to $40,000,000, against $1,000,000 for the straight-bladed razors.

But EVE tired of wearing GREEN

THE First Lady of the Garden, of course, had a wild choice of fernery to convert into finery. But all of it was green . . . and that grew monotonous. So next we hear of her wearing furs! For women, it seems, just must have change. Everybody knows that a red hat will cure the blues!

Most important of all, new clothes for Mother even to have a cheering effect on the entire family. A successful little dress is worth a pang before breakfast or a Grand Surprise Dessert at dinner-time. So Wise Men (otherwise referred to as good providers and model husbands) are falling in with feminine plans to buy some new clothes this winter . . . and here's why we say to get now, and save!

The sweatshop, and the flashy little $2.95 silk dress, have peeled out of the picture together. There was no standard of value for the sweatshop worker. She toiled like a coolie for any wage she could get . . . sometimes was tricked into working without pay!

Now, the NRA codes in the dress industry, as you know, have raised wages, shortened hours, eliminated child labor, and improved working conditions all around.

This is a good thing for everyone concerned. For the truth is that the price of women's clothing had fallen so low that no one could make a decent living out of it. Wages went down and down . . . workmen were laid off . . . human hands and heads, and their products, too, seemed to have lost almost all their real value.

That is what the NRA codes are for . . . to restore value to the common things of life . . . to make everyone and everything worth something again.

And it's working. Wages are up. Workmen have advanced 45%. Silk and rayon dress goods 25%. The price of women's garments is bound to go up.

So good buys, right now, are ripe for picking, and prices won't trend so high, but only at January when the stores will probably have goods as low as they can get. Buy in the time to buy!

Upturn Item

Wool combinations between June 1932 and June 1933 showed a gain of 21%.

Suits . . . coats . . . hats . . . furs. What can be had, for how very little, you will discover in the advertisements in this newspaper. Every store announcement is packed with news. Go right through this paper NOW. List what you'd like to have. Then act quickly to take advantage of present favorable prices.
