Cosmonauts Launched Toward Space Station

MOSCOW (UPI) — Two cosmonauts rocketed toward space today aboard Soyuz-15 in an anticipated rendezvous with the new Mir space station in the first live televised launch of an all-Soviet crew.

A worldwide television audience saw Leonid Kizim and Vladimir Solovyov, who hold the record for the longest manned space flight, blast off in their space ship from the Baikonur Cosmodrome in Central Asia on schedule at 7:33 a.m. EST.

Western science experts hailed the "unprecedented" advance publicity of the space shot by a country that normally announces manned space accomplishments only after they have been successfully completed.

'The Soviets have said all along that they're planning to build a permanently manned space station. This is obviously the step in that direction.'

"This milestone launch has been exactly on time and apparently flawless," the Soviet announcer said as the rocket carrying the two men disappeared up into a clear blue sky. "Yes, the latest report, it is flawless."

The coverage, beamed around the world, began 18 minutes before the launch — and adopted the U.S. style of showing the crew preparing for the mission and being transported to their rocket.

Live pictures of the two cosmonauts were relayed back to Earth just moments into the flight.

It was the first all-Soviet space effort to be televised live and the first of any kind to be seen live

Challenger Parts Arrive By Night

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — A Navy salvage ship glided silently into port overnight bearing wreckage from Challenger's demolished crew cabin and ambulances whisked away what may be the remains of some of the doomed shuttle's astronauts.

In a somber, carefully orchestrated arrival that was carried off with military precision, the USS Preserver pulled into port about 9:45 p.m. EST and a half hour later, at least three ambulances departed with their lights flashing in the darkness. It was not known where the ambulances went.

A space agency statement issued earlier in the week said any crew remains would be identified at the nearby Patrick Air Force Base hospital.

The Preserver, a veteran of World War II salvage operations, had spent the day at sea hauling up debris that sources said came from Challenger's crew cabin flight deck. Among other debris recovered were unused spacesuits that had been stowed in the shuttle's airlock for emergency use in orbit.

"We were doing a heavy lift, and entangled in the (debris) was a space suit, a white space suit," a radio transmission from the Preserver said. "Of course the space suit was empty."

NASA officials had no comment on what was brought ashore from Preserver Wednesday night.

In what could be the most significant find yet in the 6-week-old search for shuttle wreckage, Navy officials said Wednesday the crew of a four-man submarine had photographed submerged wreckage that may be from the area of the suspect fuel segment joint that ruptured.

Sanford Native

Basketball Star Arrested For Drug Dealing

A star basketball athlete from Sanford was arraigned Tuesday in Hawaii on charges of dealing in cocaine.

Arrested and charged Monday with promoting a dangerous drug by Honolulu police was Keith Whitney, 23, who played for Seminole High School, Seminole Community College and Chaminade University in Hawaii. In 1985 his winning shot against first-ranked University of Virginia during the Silver Swords Classic in Hawaii was featured in Sports Illustrated.

"It's very up setting to me. He's a nice kid, always got his head on straight. I hope it's not true," said Bill Payne basketball coach as SCC and former coach at Seminole High School.

"I'm shocked. He's a good athlete and led our team to the state tournament," said Payne.

Whitney, no longer a student, was arrested along with four other persons, two of whom played this season for the University of Hawaii. Also arrested were Andre Morgan, kicked off the Hawaii team last month, Keith Turner, guard for Hawaii, and Hawaii students Allan Polendey and Bryan Rubio. Morgan incidently was threatening litigation against his basketball coach stating his civil rights were being violated because the coach was requiring drug testing, according to published reports.

Police allege Whitney, Morgan and Turner were selling cocaine on and off campus while the other men acted as suppliers.

Whitney played two seasons for Chaminade from 1983 to 1985 and was reportedly earning a living selling cars.

He was a starter on the varsity team three years at Seminole High School, leading team to state competition his senior year, its best year on record. Whitney attended SCC on a basketball scholarship and on scholarship to Chaminade University.

Payne said Whitney was a good athlete but too short as a prospect.

Another coach of Whitney's, Joe Sterling, now athletic director at SCC, said Whitney played well and was a good student. He left SCC after one season to attend a four-year school in Virginia but never started classes, Sterling said. He then played another semester for SCC, graduated, and went to Hawaii.

"I thought things were gong well for him but I hadn't heard from him in a year," Sterling said.

Schools Rezoning OK'd, 3-1

By Paul Schaeter
Herald Staff Writer

The School Board of Seminole County approved a modified middle school rezoning Plan I as recommended by Superintendent of Schools Robert Hughes by a 3-1 margin Thursday night with board member Bill Kroll voting no.

Board chairman Nancy Warren joined members Jean Bryant, and Joe Williams in approving the plan. Board member Pat Telson was absent.

Kroll said some of his questions about the plan were unanswered, and that further information on drawing new lines should have been sought. He said he also felt residents of the northwest Lake Mary community who have been lobbying to be included in the Greenwood Lakes Middle School zone, instead of Lakeview Middle School, could have been accommodated. The Greenwood Lakes school is in Lake Mary.

Kroll said a computer data analysis company such as Info-Tech of Gainesville, could have been consulted to determine proper racial balance in schools, which could have helped in drawing new zone lines.

Lake Mary-Rinehart Road resident Dennis Smathers displays slogan Wednesday night reading, "Reason often makes mistakes, but conscience never does" while asking the school board to allow students in his area to attend Greenwood Lakes.

He also claimed that the use of Lake Mary Boulevard as a north-south dividing line between school zones was no longer necessary.

Hughes contended that the road has been used as a dividing line since the 1970 federal court desegregation order, but Kroll said in 1980 when a new zone was created for Lake Mary High School, Federal District Court Judge George Young said that since the district had been complying with the court order, and had shown good faith, it would not be necessary for him to review zone changes. Kroll said that meant the zone line drawn on Lake Mary Boulevard could be flexible, thus allowing those northwest sector students to be included in the Greenwood Lakes zone. They live north of the boulevard, and will go to Lakeview Middle School under Plan I.

"A lot of things have changed in this county since 1970," Kroll said. "Why do we stick to that line?" he questioned.

Hughes responded that the boulevard does not divide a subdivision, can accommodate school bus traffic, was used in the Lake Mary High School zoning process, and that it was a good geographic boundary.

Escapee Nabbed, 2 Still At Large

WILDWOOD (UPI) — One of three dangerous inmates who escaped by overpowering their guard during a prison transfer was back in custody today following an attempted armed robbery and shootout in New Orleans, authorities said.

The whereabouts of the other two fugitives was unknown, officials said. A fourth inmate who also fled Wednesday when Polk County Deputy Charles Harmon Jr. stopped to let one of them use a truck stop restroom was recaptured near the escape scene.

The prisoners were en route to the Union Correctional Institution from the Polk County Jail in Bartow.

Robert Maliga, 24, of Fort Lauderdale, sentenced to an unknown term for armed kidnap and sexual battery was in custody in New Orleans today, according to the Sumter County Sheriff's Office and the state Department of Corrections.

However, Detective Elizabeth Joseph of the New Orleans police robbery division said there was no

Funds Usage Spurs Probe Of Program For Juveniles

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Financial practices and perhaps philosophical differences may be the cause of a probe of the Juvenile Arbitration Program in Seminole County.

Gov. Bob Graham this week appointed Orange-Osceola County State Attorney Robert Eagan to investigate the program after Seminole-Brevard State Attorney Norman Wolfinger concluded his office should not look into the program so as to eliminate any conflicts of interest. Wolfinger's office oversees the program which offers juvenile offenders an alternative method of restitution and punishment that they would receive in court.

"It was a problem with the way the money was used," said Norman Doyle, of Longwood, chairman of the private Seminole County Juvenile Arbitration Foundation Inc. The foundation provides funds for the Juvenile Arbitration Program, which is run by a county employee, A. "Dolph" Voge, and therein lies the rub.

There is some question as whether money raised by the private foundation should be used at the discretion of the the county, said Doyle.

Voge, however, said there is no problems with the financial accounting of the program and that the probe stems from personal conflicts.

Eagan could not be reached for comment.

The arbitration program works with first-time juvenile offenders who have committed a misdemeanor. Another program run by the county, the Juvenile Alternative Services Program, works with juveniles who are second and third time misdemeanor and second- and third-degree juvenile felony offenders, according to its coordinator, Richard Maynard. Doyle hinted there may be turf and philosophical squabbles between the programs but he would not elaborate.

The questions of funds, which may be only one area the probe will examine, arose when funds were requested by the arbitration program to start a law class for juveniles, similar to one run by the alternatives program.

The foundation approved the funds, because it was thought the alternative law class was going to be discontinued, but then learned that the law class was continuing. The foundation members apparently agreed that the arbitration program should not hold a law class but apparently the law class was held, Doyle said. That prompted Doyle to examine the management structure of the arbitration program and how the funds are handled.

The bottom line of that inquiry was that a county employee — Voge — was directing the program apparently including the expenditure of foundation money, Doyle said.

"If we buy a computer for the county and give it to them and they use it, that's all right," he said. "But if we buy a computer (don't give it to them) but they use it, that's not all right," he said.

Doyle's examination led to a five-page letter from him to Judge Dominick Salfi, who hears criminal cases involving juveniles. Salfi discussed the situation with Administrative Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffer. The situation was then handed to

Sunny Florida Offers No Escape From Flu

From Staff and Wire Reports

The flu and common cold cough up images of snow, ice and the frosty North, but nasal drip and congestion are as plentiful in sunny south Florida as palm trees and seashells.

"Most people associate colds with being in contact with the cold, snow," said Dr. Ron Wiewora, of the Palm Beach County Health Department. "It's just not true."

The county's first influenza — or flu — case was confirmed last week. As of Feb. 28, there were 53 confirmed flu cases scattered throughout 18 Florida counties, but no major outbreaks, epidemiologist Linda McCaig of the state Health Department said.

Hundreds more people have suffered colds and upper respiratory infections that share the same symptoms as influenza — headache, fever, runny nose. The Dade County Health Department reported that 1,249 cases of flu-related illnesses had been detected since Jan. 1 in a sample of select schools and hospitals. The figure was 1,839 during the same period last year.

"I realize there are cases in the community never reported to us," Dr. Miriam Area said.

In Seminole County residents are experiencing a higher incidence of influenza than in 1985, according to County Health and Human Services Director Jorge Deju.

Flu season generally runs from November through March, Deju said.

So far this year, there were 452 reported cases of flu and flu-related illnesses in Seminole County, he said. This past week alone, 83 cases were reported, Deju said.

Last year, the county had 307 reported cases, he said.

In flu cases, the influenza virus has been identified through blood testing, Deju explained. Flu-like symptoms associated with influenza and other viruses include a cold, cough, fever, even pneumonia, he said.

Deju attributed the increase to more upper respiratory infections, but also more detailed reporting from local hospitals and medical centers the county surveys to obtain its flu statistics.

Like the common cold, flu instances continue to baffle modern medicine, however he said the virus is just as alive in sunny Florida as it is in

IN BRIEF

Glenn: Senate Must End 'Rankest Kind Of Hypocrisy'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, saying it is outrageous that Congress "doesn't have to live by the same rules" as everyone else, has introduced a resolution that would create a Senate Fair Employment Relations Office, governed by a six-member board, to develop policy and guidelines and investigate complaints of job discrimination.

Glenn pointed out Wednesday that the Senate has a rule against job discrimination but no way to enforce it.

Glenn said most Americans would be shocked to discover "that despite our rhetorical commitment to the cause of equality, Congress has specifically exempted itself from most of the civil rights laws enacted in this nation."

"If a senator wants to discriminate on his staff against blacks or Jews or Hispanics or women, he can do it with no questions asked and with no fear of consequences," he said.

"In my view, that's worse than wrong," Glenn said. "It's outrageous. It's the rankest kind of hypocrisy. And I hope my colleagues will join with me today in declaring it completely unacceptable."

Chicago Now 'Nuclear Free'

CHICAGO (UPI) — The city where the world's first self-sustaining nuclear chain reaction took place 44 years ago has declared itself the nation's largest nuclear-free zone.

The city council passed an ordinance Wednesday banning the design, production or storage of nuclear arms in Chicago, but permitting continued atomic weapons research at the city's universities.

Politicians and pacifists lauded the nuclear-free designation despite warnings from Gov. James Thompson that the move was "stupid and un-American."

The nuclear-free ordinance, adopted on a voice vote, requires a phase-out of Chicago's nuclear weapons industry within two years and imposes criminal penalties on violators.

Eating Raw Shellfish Said Risky

BOSTON (UPI) — Doctors issued a strong warning today against eating raw or steamed clams and oysters after a new study.

"Public health officials and academic leaders will have failed as medical educators if people continue to eat uncooked shellfish without understanding the health risks they are taking," Dr. Herbert L. DuPont wrote in The New England Journal of Medicine.

DuPont's editorial accompanied a study conducted by the New York State Department of Health into several outbreaks of severe stomach illness and hepatitis-A affecting 1,017 people during an eight-month period in 1982.

Hope Grows Some MIAs Alive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Intuition, evidence and a more cooperative attitude within Vietnam is giving hope to some members of Congress and intelligence officials that some Americans missing since the Vietnam War are alive in Southeast Asia.

The hope involves a relatively small number of the approximately 2,400 Americans still unaccounted for after 11 years.

Lt. Gen. Leonard Perroots, director of the Defense Intelligence Agency, told a House subcommittee on Asian and Pacific Affairs, "I think some day we're going to walk some kid out of there."

Test Spots Likely Heart Disease

BOSTON (UPI) — Researchers said today their discovery of a link between a gene abnormality and coronary artery disease is "a starting point" to test people for susceptibility to heart attacks — the nation's leading killer.

The genetic mutation can be detected with a blood test that could become part of a battery of tests to uncover "markers," or early-warning signs of heart disease.

Coronary artery disease, which afflicts about 30 percent of the population and causes some 500,000 deaths annually, is the nation's leading killer.

24th Drunk Driving Charge Brings 12 Year Sentence

MIAMI (UPI) — The man holding Florida's record for drunken driving convictions — 24 since 1967 — was sentenced to 12 years in prison by a judge who said he took the action because the "community needs to be protected."

Johnny Elmore Dowless, 52, received the 12-year sentence Wednesday — "Say no to Drugs Day" in Miami — on four counts of driving with a suspended license.

That sentence is to be served concurrently with each of the automatic one-year jail terms he received Wednesday for his 23rd and 24th drunken driving convictions.

"You have consistently shown an inability to obey the rules for the safety of the community," Dade County Judge Joan Lenard told Dowless. "And the fact that each time you were released, you were arrested and convicted of the same offense indicates a tremendous crying out for help."

Dowless' attorney, public defender Jim Best, called the sentence "unconscionable" because of its severity and said he will appeal.

Best said his client has caused only one accident, in 1981, in which there was property damage but no injuries.

February Retail Sales Fall Slightly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Retail sales slipped back by 0.1 percent in February as consumers cut back sharply on car buying the Commerce Department said today.

Total sales for the month, adjusted for seasonal variations, fell to $117.27 billion down marginally from January's $117.36 billion.

It was the second consecutive monthly decline following a 0.2 percent decline in January according to revised figures released by the Department's Bureau of the Census. Advance figures had said that there was a 0.1 percent increase in January. The last two month slump in retail sales was in May and June of last year.

Analysts pointed out that non-automotive sales rose by 0.3 percent, reflecting strength in department store general merchandise and home furnishing sales.

Department store sales surged ahead by 3.0 percent following a revised 2.9 percent gain in January.

The biggest percentage drop in sales hit gasoline service stations. Analysts said the 2.6 percent setback was mostly attributable to a drop in pump price which reflected a slump on the world oil market.

Sellers' Daughter Wanted In Cocaine Ring Case

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — The daughter of comic genius Peter Sellers and actress Britt Ekland is wanted on charges that she belongs to a Hollywood-based cocaine sales ring that prosecutors say killed and burglarized for its drugs.

A federal grand jury Wednesday charged Victoria Sellers, 23, an actress featured nude in the current issue of Playboy, and five other California residents with conspiracy to traffic in cocaine.

One of the five, Sellers' Hollywood live-in boyfriend and manager, Reed Wallace, was accused of running the strong-arm operation and charged with heading a continuing criminal enterprise.

Ms. Sellers faces a maximum of 20 years in prison if found guilty of the charges against her. Wallace, charged with conspiracy and running a continuing criminal enterprise, would face 10 years to life in prison if convicted on all counts.

The indictment charges that Sellers was used as bait to lure a cocaine dealer into a meeting in California during which Wallace beat the unnamed seller and demanded cocaine and money.

"She is a member of the conspiracy and participated in the use of force and violence in the activities of the ring," said U.S. Attorney T. Greelish.

Latest Pageant 'Miss Man Made'

NEW YORK (UPI) — A young, statuesque woman — who was born a boy named Ronald — walked down the runway of a New York City disco in a black lace bathing suit early today to become "Miss Man Made 1986" in a transsexual beauty pageant.

"I'm numb," gushed Chakara Yorrke, 28, after winning the pre-dawn pageant at the Palladium, a popular nightclub packed with onlookers. "These women in the contest were beautiful."

The 5-foot, 10-inch Ms. Yorrke said she entered the pageant "because the public is so ignorant to transsexualism and they should be enlightened."

"I'm hoping it will alert people to not look at us as freaks," she added.

Ms. Yorrke was chosen from among seven finalists — narrowed down from "hundreds" of entrants — to win the title, $1,000 in cash and a bouquet of roses.

Ms. Yorrke said she underwent sex-change operation on Jan. 24, 1984 in Trinidad, Colo.

For the evening wear portion of the event, Yorrke wore a floor-length white crepe satin dress studded with crystal rhinestones. It featured a slit up to the thigh and a plunging back.

Her one-piece black lace bathing suit was designed by Norma Kamali, she said.

Crime Watch Programs Increase

By Staff and Wire Reports

More Americans, including residents in Seminole County, are getting involved with neighborhood watch groups and other crime prevention programs, as well as taking steps to protect individual property, a Justice Department study says.

The report by the department's Bureau of Justice Statistics said 38 percent of American families participate in neighborhood watch programs, and nearly 20 percent of families live in communities with such programs.

There are 156 crime watch programs serving about 7,500 people in Seminole County, up 36 programs from last year. Most of the families participating in the programs are white. Nationwide, more black families than white participate in neighborhood watch programs. In Sanford there are about 43 programs with about 2,000 participants. Again, the majority of the participants are white, according to Lt. Mike Rotundo.

According to the national report, households with higher incomes take crime prevention measures twice as often as those with lower incomes, the report said. All incomes are involved in Seminole County.

"Everybody is becoming very crime conscious and doing everything they can," said Sgt. Jerry Riggins of the sheriff's department.

He said the number of programs are going up in the county because of growth. Seminole is the seventh fastest growing county in the nation, according to a report released last week.

Beside helping citizens organize the programs, the sheriff's department distributes tips on how to make a home more secure and how to protect property. The department also gives home security evaluations at no charge.

"Give us a call, and we'll do it, absolutely free," Riggins said. The evaluation takes about a half-hour, he said.

In Sanford, citizens wanting to increase security at their home are given a check list to fill out which is then evaluated by police. The police also have a lock display and books and films available for people wanting to set up such programs.

About half of all households in the nation earning $50,000 or more a year use at least one crime prevention method, compared to only one-fifth of households with incomes of less than $10,000, the report said Sunday.

The report suggested the likelihood of high-income families owning more valuables that could be engraved and being able to afford burglar alarm systems as the primary reasons for the difference.

The report also found that black and white households are equally likely to take crime prevention measures, with more black households participating in neighborhood watch programs.

Although Hispanics are less likely to participate in a neighborhood watch program or engrave valuables, the report noted that the percentage of Hispanic households using burglar alarms is nearly the same as other groups.

About 59 percent of the families surveyed feel "fairly safe" in their community, compared to 32 percent who feel "very safe" and 10 percent who feel "unsafe."

An overwhelming majority of persons feel at least "fairly safe" in their place of work. The report discovered that more than nine in 10 people felt this way regardless of whether or not their workplace had any security features.

If you live in the county and are interested in a neighborhood crime program, call 322-5115 and asked for Riggins in the Crime Prevention office.

If you live in Sanford and want to know more about such programs call 323-3030.

Boy Pleads Guilty In Stake Stabbing Death

A 17-year-old Sanford boy has pleaded guilty to manslaughter in connection with the stake stabbing death of a Sanford man. It was one of three cases heard recently.

Karry Anthony Hunter of 116 Scott Drive entered the plea before Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Lefler who set sentencing for April 16. Hunter could receive up to 7 years but is expected to receive 2 years of community control, a form of in-house arrest. Community control was recommended by the assistant state attorney on the case, Stacy Britton.

Hunter was arrested in November following the death of Mark Sanders, 24, of 2007 Adams Ave.

Sanders died Oct. 25 at Central Florida Regional Hospital from a brain infection received during an Oct. 6 squabble. During that confrontation, Hunter, a Seminole High School student, threw a dirt-laden sprinkler at Sanders. It penetrated Sanders' skull and went into his brain several inches.

Assistant Medical Examiner Dr. Sara Irgang said the nature of the injury, where the wound occurred and what made the wound was a fatal combination and might not have been lethal if they had not occurred together.

The stake, she said, had dirt on it and contained a lot of bacteria. The brain, she said, is an area of low oxygen and a good breeding ground for bacteria and, unlike a wound elsewhere the infected area could not be removed.

According to court records, Sanders followed two kids to a park who taunted him. The kids then borrowed Hunter's bike and left. Sanders, with other youths around, then knocked a can of beer from Hunter's hand using a martial arts weapon, nun chakus. As Sanders chased Hunter and the others, Hunter tossed the stake at Sanders, striking him in the right forehead, an area of the brain covered by a thin layer of bone.

In other court action: —Wilson Arthur Knott Jr., 23, of Orlando, arrested in Sept. 8 and charged with conspiracy, armed burglary and grand theft. He pleaded guilty to solicitation to commit burglary and could receive up to a year in the county jail when sentenced April 9 by Lefler. According to court records, Knott was accused of tipping burglary suspects as to when his father would not be at home. In exchange for the information, Knott's was reportedly to receive 10 percent of their haul. The elder Knott's home in south Seminole County was burglarized Aug. 24, with jewelry and firearms stolen.

—Gregory Mark Jacobs, 26, of 341 Nebraska Ave., Longwood, arrested in November after being found in a fenced backyard at 333 E. Oakhurst Drive, Altamonte Springs. He pleaded guilty to trespass in an occupied structure and could receive up to a year in the county jail when sentenced April 9 by Lefler. According to court records, two girls reported seeing a light shining into their bedrooms at that address. Jacobs, however, told police when they arrived at the scene that he had been out running when he heard a noise in the backyard and went to investigate.

Man Threatens To Murder His Wife, Police And Self

A 34-year-old Lake Mary man is reportedly in Florida Hospital/Altamonte's Center for Psychiatry today, after threatening to kill his wife, police officers, and himself Tuesday, according to acting Lake Mary Police Chief Samuel Belfiore.

The Fourth Street resident, said to be depressed after a dispute with his wife, reportedly threatened to kill his spouse and himself, the wife told Lake Mary Police at about 8:15 Tuesday morning, Belfiore said.

He also allegedly threatened to kill any police officer who approached his house.

Officials did not release the man's name.

A negotiating team comprised of Belfiore, Lake Mary Detective Tom Taggart, Sanford police Lieutenant Bill Bernosky, who reportedly knew the man, and a counselor from the Seminole County Mental Health clinic were involved with talking with the man.

Belfiore said the man was unarmed during the negotiations, but there was a gun in the house.

Belfiore said he felt it was time to resolve the situation when the man's mood deteriorated. He asked the man if he could call a marked car and a uniformed officer to pick him (Belfiore) up. The man agreed.

The man was informed that he could commit himself to the hospital voluntarily, or he would be taken by force, since he was thought to be a source of potential danger to himself or his wife, Belfiore stated.

He was taken to the hospital voluntarily at about 2:15 p.m., six hours after the siege began, according to Lake Mary Police.

WINDOW BREAKER

A 50-year-old Apopka man, who allegedly threw a cement block through a plate glass window of the motel his wife manages and where she also lives, has been charged with throwing a deadly missile at an occupied dwelling.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies reported the man allegedly broke the window at Tony's Motel, 9290 Overland Road, Apopka, at about 9:50 p.m. Tuesday.

Evelyn Fisher, 47, and another witness told sheriff's deputies the suspect also cursed them before he walked away.

The suspect was found on the street, next door to the motel, a sheriff's report said.

Franklin Herbert Fisher of 7056 Rock Garden Circle, has been charged in the case and was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Angelo Delbert, 40, of 1903 Bluff Oaks St., Apopka, was arrested at 2:35 a.m. Wednesday, on State Road 436, Altamonte Springs, after his car reportedly ran two redlights and was clocked traveling 60 mph in a 35 mph zone.

—Danny Paul Bryant, 32, of 1134 Hillcrest Drive, Casselberry, at 11:07 p.m. Saturday after his car failed to maintain a single lane on U.S. Highway 17-92 at Lake Mary Boulevard. He was also charged with driving with a suspended license.

CAR THEFT/COKE

The driver of a car stopped by Sanford police because it had an improperly displayed license tag has been charged with auto theft, having an improperly displayed stolen tag, driving with a suspended license, possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia and resisting arrest.

Police stopped the 1980 Dodge, which had dealer's markings on its windshield, at about 10:57 p.m. Tuesday. They determined the vehicle had been reported stolen from the suspect's employer, Seminole Ford, U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford.

Inside the car they reportedly found cocaine and a beer can that had apparently been altered into a device to be used to inhale burning cocaine, a police report said. The suspect also reportedly gave police two false names.

Elvis F. Brown, 21, of #32 William Clark Court, Sanford, has been charged and was being held in lieu of $2,000 bond.

NABBED IN HOUSE

Seminole County deputies arrested two men who allegedly broke into a home at 2951 W. Fifth St., at about 2:20 p.m. Tuesday. They were responding to a call from the homeowner.

When they arrived at the home deputies said they saw the pair leaving through a sliding glass door. The suspects had apparently entered the home through a rear window.

Carlos Dante Burke, 18, of 54 William Clark Court, Sanford, and Michale Alexander Adams, 19, of #27 Lake Monroe Terrace, Sanford, have both been charged with burglary to an occupied dwelling and were being held in lieu of $2,000 bond.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

About $215 worth of jewelry was stolen from the home of Marlam F. Smith, 22, and Carol A. Buggeri, 20, of 149A Springwood Circle, Longwood, on Tuesday, a sheriff's report said.

Two video recorders, one worth $270 and the other $470, were stolen from the home of Lois Martin, 48, of 1234 Lynwood Ave., Apopka, Tuesday, deputies said.

Willie C. Cosby, 37, of Brisson Avenue, Route 2, Box 21, Sanford, reported to sheriff's deputies his $200 television and a radio was stolen from his home Tuesday.

A gold necklace and earrings with a combined value of $100 were stolen from the home of Diane Ristorelli, 40, of 117 Ingraham Circle, Longwood, Tuesday, a sheriff's report said.

Lowana Piercy of Route 2, Box 198 Beardall Ave., Sanford, reported to sheriff's deputies a Honda mini motorcycle worth $150 was stolen from a shed at her home between Sunday and Tuesday, deputies reported.

Jewelry, with a total value of $3,300 and including a diamond ring worth $2,000, was stolen from the home of Michael A. Murphy, 173 Holderness Drive, Longwood, on Tuesday, deputies said.

Bicycles headed for Kmart in Mt. Dora were stolen from a loading dock at Consolidated Freight, W. Eighth Street, Sanford, were stolen at about 4 p.m. Tuesday, according to a report freight company manager James Davis filed with sheriff's deputies. Deputies have a description of a suspect.

A thief stole two jacuzzi pumps worth $700 each from two homes being built by Southwestern Homes at 3770 and 3798 Kinsley Drive, Winter Park, on Monday or Tuesday, according to a report Steven W. Whitmore, 28, of Winter Springs, filed with sheriff's deputies.

Lita Friedland, 52, of 180 Shell Point West, Maitland, reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies that $600 was stolen from her desk at Webster Furniture, U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood, on Monday or Tuesday.

Three sets of drapes valued at $3,000 were stolen from a home at 104 Wild Fern Drive, Longwood, which is owned by Linda Williams, 46, Longwood. A sheriff's report said the drapes were stolen between Feb. 28 and Tuesday.

The rear tires were stolen off the car of Pierre T. Daye, 45, of 521 Rivera Drive, Altamonte Springs, while the vehicle was parked at 1501 North Orlando Ave., Fern Park, on Monday or Tuesday, deputies reported. The tires were valued at $150.

FLORIDA PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION NOTICE OF HEARING DOCKET NO. 850172-GU

NOTICE is hereby given that the Florida Public Service Commission will hold a public hearing in the above docket on the Petition of Florida Public Utilities Company (Gas Division) for an increase in rates and charges for natural gas service. The hearing will be held at the following time and place:

Wednesday, March, 19, 1986 9:30 A.M.
Room 122, Fletcher Building
101 East Gaines Street
Tallahassee, Florida 32301

PURPOSE AND PROCEDURE

The purpose of this hearing shall be to permit Florida Public Utilities Company to present its testimony and exhibits in support of its petition and any intervenors to present testimony and exhibits concerning this matter; and for such other purposes as the Commission may deem appropriate. All witnesses shall be subject to cross-examination at the conclusion of their testimony. The proceedings will be governed by the provisions of Chapter 120, Florida Statutes, and Chapter 25-22, Florida Statutes, and Chapter 25-22, Florida Administrative Code.

TARIFF REVISIONS

Although the Petitioner has proposed certain revisions to its existing natural gas tariff in order to generate the additional revenues, the Commission is not bound by such proposals and will give consideration to applying said increases, if any are authorized, in the manner it deems fair, reasonable, and appropriate.

Copies of the application including the proposed tariff revisions are available for inspection during normal working hours at the Commission's main office, 101 East Gaines Street, Tallahassee, Florida 32301 and at the offices of the Company in West Palm Beach, Delray Beach, Sanford and DeLand, Florida.

It's Just The Beginning

It was remarkable. A million Filipinos gathered recently in a huge park by Manila Bay for a national communion of thanksgiving — a combination Roman Catholic Mass and songfest. This outpouring of joy, unprecedented since V-J Day, celebrated the peaceful overthrow of President Ferdinand Marcos only five days earlier and the accession of Corazon Aquino, a new world figure. The multitude cheered the end of 20 years of tyrannical mismanagement and a new beginning.

Addressing the chanting throng — and her countrymen beyond — President Aquino displayed the same adroit decisiveness that carried her to victory in the presidential campaign against enormous odds. In her first official proclamation, she restored the right of habeas corpus, which Marcos suspended four years ago in order to jail his critics and enemies without trial. She also announced the immediate retirement of 23 top military officers appointed by Marcos.

Earlier, she had announced a cease-fire agreement with communist guerrillas, offered amnesty for all who would lay down their arms, and began releasing 600 political prisoners. And she offered forgiveness to Marcos loyalists: "Now is the time for healing and reconciliation ..."

Ever the realist, Mrs. Aquino didn't permit the mass enthusiasm of the moment to keep her from applying a damper: "Our struggle ... has just begun," she warned.

Just so. The Philippine government is heavily in debt, communist guerrillas have ravaged the countryside, the economy is moribund, inflation is rampant, unemployment is widespread and poverty extends its grip to the point of public hunger. Yet there is for Filipinos, beyond the momentary joy, bounding hope for the first time in years.

It centers upon their newly chosen leader, the remarkable woman who somehow embodies the almost mystic spirituality of a Joan of Arc. Such an allusion invites a sense of ultimate tragedy, and that might be, as terrible trials surely lie ahead. Meanwhile, there is no denying Cory Aquino's miracles and the liberation of her country. This new symbol of Democracy stands at the pinnacle of popular power.

The clamor from every continent now is to know more about President Aquino. The facts are beguiling. She is the mother of five children and a grandmother. She continues to reside at her modest home in one of Manila's middle-class neighborhoods instead of in the opulent Malacanang presidential palace. Although she is from a wealthy, landowning family, she thinks "it is not fitting for the leader of an impoverished nation to live in extravagance." And like the illustrious Golda Meir, the late prime minister of Israel, President Aquino attended high schools in this country — in Philadelphia and New York, graduating from Mount St. Vincent College in the Bronx. She abandoned the study of law in Manila to marry Benigno Aquino, who became the youngest governor of Tarlac Province and the youngest member of the Philippine senate.

Sen. Aquino was the first man arrested when Marcos declared martial law in 1972. He was jailed on murder and sedition charges and sentenced to die. But his popularity prompted Marcos to stay the sentence and he languished in prison for eight years until the Carter administration managed to obtain his release for medical treatment in the United States.

Sen. Aquino's assassination upon his return to the Philippines in 1983 was the beginning of Marcos's undoing. Cary Aquino, who described herself as a "housewife," became the fiery symbol of rebellion, confounding friend and foe alike with her astute political instincts.

The outlook for a better relationship between the United States and the Philippines is better than anyone could have hoped only a few short weeks ago.

As ecstatic crowds chant "COR-Y! COR-Y!" in towns and cities throughout the islands, Filipino leaders and their friends abroad worry about how inexperienced Mrs. Aquino can cope with all of the accumulated ills she has inherited. Still, if the past is prologue, the high drama unfolding in Manila is only the first scene.

Political Realignment Possible November

WASHINGTON — The political realignment that President Reagan and his strategists failed to seek in 1984 may come to life in this November's elections, says White House chief of staff Donald Regan.

Of course, mapping out such a strategy in the midterm elections may be a case of "too little, too late" in the Reagan presidency. Reagan's landmark re-election campaign was the time to have mounted a strategic hard-sell offensive campaign aimed at loosening the Democratic grip in the House.

Instead, as Regan characterizes it, what happened in 1984 "was a Reagan alignment, not a political realignment. People who voted so strongly for Reagan didn't think through that he also needed help in the Democratic-controlled House."

The reason was that the White House campaign was designed to re-elect Reagan by a landslide, not to use Reagan's politics of economic growth and opportunity as an instrument for political realignment.

Regan insists that's going to change in this fall's elections. Regan doesn't want to leave office repeating President Eisenhower's greatest political failure — leaving behind an anemic party base, which set the stage for a Democratic comeback.

"We think because the economy is good, because Ronald Reagan will be out there campaigning, that this year we may be able to gain seats (in the House)," says Regan. "And, if so, this will start the movement toward a realignment looking toward 1988."

The fact that Regan is even thinking about realignment politics may come as a surprise to both friends and critics, who see him as a sharp administrator and the ultimate organization man, but as someone with little political savvy. Says one former White House insider: "I'm not sure Don understands how to implement a realignment strategy."

Yet thinking about achieving political realignment is one thing. It's another thing entirely to mount an effective strategy to bring it about, aimed at specific constituencies.

Still, Regan demonstrated during a recent interview that the political equations for 1988 and beyond depend on how much emphasis the president places on shifting the party's equations in Congress and in the state houses.

"This year," he says, "the president will campaign in the states and make certain that the congressional candidates are shown on the very same platform with him, so that people can understand he wants them."

Of critical importance to future congressional realignment, Regan says, are the 36 governorships at stake in November. "The more governors we elect this year (there are only 16 GOP governors)," he says, "the more representatives and senators we get in the state capitals, the better off we're going to be looking forward to 1990 and realignment, as far as congressional districts are concerned."

Democrats have been able to maintain their lock on the House, Regan notes, because "we've been gerrymandered (by Democratic legislatures). That's where the nub of our problem is."

But the problem has also been the GOP's failure to exploit the popularity of realignment issues — economic growth initiatives — that have worked so successfully for the Reagan presidency.

VIEWPOINT

Violence Growing In Britain

By Ronald de Valderano

LONDON — Hotels in London are complaining that reservations are being cancelled by Americans who claim that London is becoming too dangerous, and there are Europeans who share this view.

The fact is that there has been an enormous increase in crime of every sort in the past few years with crimes of a particularly nasty and vicious sort at the top of the list.

Attacks on the police have become commonplace, and appear to have become accepted as being legitimate demonstrations of dissent and frustration in a democratic society.

Attacks on the elderly and helpless as well as the most revolting attacks on children are multiplying with a mathematical progression while the use of sawed-off shotguns, petrol bombs and knives are being carried by a vastly increased army of criminals who do not hesitate to use them.

The reasons for all this are multiple and can be found in the great increase in the use of drugs and in the fact that a gigantic immigration has taken place by many primitive people from the Caribbean and Asia. There has been a complete breakdown in respect for and acceptance of authority in any form whatever, whether of the family, school, church, employer, or the law.

Our "liberal" society has removed all fear of the consequences of crime, unemployment, and the total lack of any moral teaching, to name just a few of these factors. The ultimate result of all this is exactly what a number of organizations in Britain today are seeking to achieve.

The Direct Action movement has its headquarters in Manchester and describes itself as a federation of groups and individuals who believe in the principles of anarcho-syndicalism. They have branches throughout the North and Midlands in England and in London. "Class War" is probably the most violent of all the anarchist groups. It was founded by a former sociology student and rock musician. It publishes an inflammatory paper called Class War for which it claims a circulation of 15,000. It extols violence, attacks on the police and looting. It organizes marches under such banners as "Bash the Rich" and "Stop the City."

Defense Official Helps Gambler

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Richard Armitage, assistant defense secretary for international security affairs, has drawn mixed reviews for his high-profile activities lately. He was blamed for the confusion over the POW/MIA issue, but then got high marks for his part in the successful outcome of the Philippines crisis.

The White House is now reportedly concerned about Armitage's acknowledged friendship with a woman who has been implicated in illegal organized gambling operations in the Washington suburb of Arlington, Va. She is a Vietnamese refugee, Nguyen Thi O'Rourke, and she has pleaded guilty to conducting an illegal gambling operation.

We first reported the story two months ago, after the President's Commission on Organized Crime questioned Armitage about his relationship with Mrs. O'Rourke. The commission grew concerned after learning that Armitage had written

JEFFREY HART

Gipper: A Footnote

I believe that I have something to add about Ronald Reagan. It is a kind of important footnote to history.

In the course of finishing a book about the pivotal year 1940 — France fell, Roosevelt beat Willkie, there was a World's Fair in New York, "The Grapes of Wrath" won an Oscar, Joe Louis was the champ and Joe DiMaggio the baseball player — I viewed a great many movies that people were looking at that year, including "Knute Rockne: All American."

See it, if you can get it for your VCR. For one thing, it is a very good movie, not at all some sort of flickering period piece. Pat O'Brien turns in a fine performance as Knute Rockne, the great Notre Dame coach. And then Reagan, Walt a minute. It is sometimes said that Reagan was a "second-rate actor." Well, in the role of the legendary George Gipp, Notre Dame running back, Reagan is superlative.

Before we get on to the historical footnote, a few things about this movie. It wonderfully evokes the spirit of Notre Dame and South Bend. The famous Notre Dame football fight song is ever near at hand: "Three cheers for old Notre Dame ..." In the foreground is the fact that Notre Dame is a great university, proud of its academic accomplishments and its cutting-edge research, but also proud of its athletes. Rockne himself gives up a promising career as a professor of chemistry and researcher into the possibility of synthetic rubber; this is 1940, when the picture appears, and everyone knows war is coming — and declares that he intends to devote his life to coaching football.

Rockne proves to be one of those great coaches who teaches more than the technicalities of football. He is in the great tradition of Vince Lombardi, Earl Blaik, Joe Paterno, a father-figure and builder of character. He is inventive, as with his surprise use of the forward pass, and with his revolutionary "Notre Dame shift" which he derives from watching a line of chorus girls and sketches on the back of an envelope. One-two-three kick ... Rockne introduces surprise and spirit into football, and there are marvelous period-piece shots of the old single-wing formation in action. Traditionally, the single-wing had been a grind-it-out offense, but Rockne put electricity into it.

What also distinguishes the movie is its perfect expression of the ethos that dominated America in 1940. Rockne's parents come to America from Norway, believing in America and opportunity, and by hard work they make good in a modest, decent way. Rockne himself has to work at menial jobs for several years in order to earn the money to go to Notre Dame, but he prevails and ends up at the top of his class. His integrity and decency are enormous. His Christianity is straightforward; he believes in God. He is untouched by the efforts of modern theologians to correct the various errors that Jesus Christ somehow fell into.

But for all the power of Pat O'Brien's performance as Rockne, it is Ronald Reagan, starting in his youthful beauty, who dominates the picture as the legendary football star George Gipp.

WASHINGTON WORLD

Aid For Contras A Battle

By Norman D. Sandler

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When President Reagan goes on television Sunday to appeal for $100 million in aid to Nicaraguan rebels, he will be wielding the most powerful weapon in his political arsenal — but one that has failed him in the past.

Urged on by his senior advisers and GOP congressional leaders, Reagan will address the American people in the belief they will rally behind his aid request if properly informed.

But what went unnoticed as he announced his speech last week was that this is not the first time Reagan, skilled in the use of television as a medium for political salesmanship, has taken to the airwaves to promote the course he has charted in Central America.

If, as Reagan and his advisers believe, the lack of support for his Contra aid package is due to misunderstanding or because his message has not yet been received, the situation has not come about for lack of trying.

The communist threat in Central America has been the primary focus of two previous prime-time televised addresses, a half dozen other major speeches and countless weekly radio broadcasts and stage-managed White House events.

But all of these past attempts by Reagan to marshal public opinion, along with their lack of success, seemed to have been forgotten last week as the president, his senior aides and allies on Capitol Hill confidently predicted he will prevail in the showdown over the Contra aid once he takes his case directly to the American people.

The record of the last few years suggests the foundation for that belief is a shaky one.

One embarrassed Republican congressional leader did not recall that Reagan had gone before a joint session of Congress April 27, 1983, to warn that the communist presence in Nicaragua was a step toward "the destabilization of an entire region from the Panama Canal to Mexico on our southern border"; or how, in a similar appeal from the Oval Office a year later, he urged support for the Contras in their struggle to overthrow a Nicaraguan regime pursuing "a communist reign of terror."

Several months later, Congress responded with a cutoff of all covert aid to the Contras.

a letter on official Defense Department stationery urging the Arlington County Court to "show mercy" on Mrs. O'Rourke.

Armitage told the commission and us that he had been a friend of Mrs. O'Rourke's since his service in Vietnam and had seen her on numerous occasions in this country. But he denied knowing of her alleged involvement in organized crime.

Our associates Donald Goldberg and Corky Johnson have now learned that Mrs. O'Rourke has been linked by law enforcement officials to Raj Kumar Bansal, described in police records as a major gambler and loan shark heavily involved in organized crime. He was recently arrested on gambling charges in Virginia. In an interview, Bansal denied any involvement in gambling, and said he didn't know why he had been arrested. He said Mrs. O'Rourke is a friend of his, but that they have had no business dealings.

A report on file in the Arlington court, referring to a 1983 organized crime report from next-door Alexandria, Va., states: "Bansal was a major gambling figure who was tied to the organization of Michael A. Larusso, also known as Mario A. Scarfonti; James Corbitt Ballard; Roger W. Simkins Jr.; Herbie Cole, (and) Richard A. McCaleb; all known and convicted gambling and organized crime figures."

According to the report, Bansal recently assumed operation of a Washington, D.C., adult movie house from Cole, who is described as "into gambling and narcotics" and who is now serving time for tax evasion.

The report filed with the court quotes law enforcement officials as saying that "Bansal was the person who was over the Nguyen Thi O'Rourke gambling operation." Mrs. O'Rourke, given immunity to testify before the president's crime commission, stated in secret testimony that she phoned Bansal at his office two or three times a day. In police records, she is quoted as saying, "As the money got more and more, I couldn't cover the bets, so I passed the bets on to bigger people in Washington."

While Mrs. O'Rourke was awaiting trial on the gambling charges, according to police records, she and a friend were stopped by police as they were leaving a high-stakes gambling operation in Silver Spring, Md. Her friend had allegedly fired a machine gun during a dispute moments before. Police sought to revoke Mrs. O'Rourke's bond after that incident.

Three months later, on June 6, 1985, Armitage wrote to the Arlington court on Mrs. O'Rourke's behalf, describing her as "a successful businesswoman (with) a reputation for fairness and honesty..." Referring to her arrest, the Pentagon official wrote: "I believe that this experience has chastened her, clearly embarrassed her and certainly has left her with a better appreciation of our own law and norms."

Armitage told us he had been asked by Mrs. O'Rourke's attorney to write the letter, and said he hadn't seen the woman since he wrote it. Neither Mrs. O'Rourke nor her attorney could be reached for comment.

The High Cost Of Litigation

City's Legal Bills Top $65,000 With More Coming

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford commissioners have authorized payment of more than $65,000 to city attorneys for their thus far unsuccessful condemnation bid to obtain Yankee Lake for the city's wastewater management program.

The charges include the $25,638.10 in Yankee Lake condemnation suit vouchers approved by the commission Monday night. They do not include billing from city counsel beyond January or charges from one of two attorneys hired by the city in December to assist the condemnation effort.

City counsel began preparing the suit in October, and filed it on Nov. 8, two days after Jeno Paulucci agreed to sell the land to Seminole County for its own waste management project. The suit was dismissed on Feb. 3, and its next scheduled court date is March 26, when city attorneys will argue for reconsideration of the invalidation.

When the fees approved Monday night are added to the $10,822.20 paid to counsel since the Yankee Lake dispute began, Sanford's legal bill for the condemnation proceeding totals $66,460.30. Of this amount, $52,602 has gone to cover billings from the city's law firm, Stenstrom, McIntosh, Julian, Colbert and Whigam. The balance, $13,858.30, are condemnation suit charges from supplemental counsel Marcia Lippincott.

Ms. Lippincott has also submitted a $532.20 voucher for her efforts in February to defend the city against the $28 million civil claim leveled by Paulucci as rebuttal to Sanford's alleged "illegal and malicious" condemnation effort. The city's motion for dismissal of this suit has been scheduled for April 30. It will be heard in Rockledge by Seminole Brevard Chief Justice Clarence Johnson, who accepted the suit after the six judges assigned the case since its Jan. 27 filing submitted either formal or oral recusals to him.

Sanford pays Ms. Lippincott $100 an hour for her services and its law firm, $65 an hour.

Monday night's approval of the firm's $19,639.80 worth of January vouchers breaks down to $17,833.40 for 274.36 hours of effort on the condemnation suit and $1,806.40 for related expenses.

Since October, the firm has billed Sanford $47,496.15 to cover 730.71 hours of condemnation effort and an additional $5,105.85 for expenses involving court costs, mailings, consultations with supplemental counsel and photo copies.

The firm's Yankee Lake billing for December was $24,788.50, which breaks down to $22,317.75 for 343.35 hours of suit preparation and $2,470.75 for expenses. October and November billing was $7,345 for 113 hours of preparation and $828.70 for related expenses.

According to Ms. Lippincott's vouchers, she spent 57.25 hours working on the condemnation suit in February. This $5,725 charge, in addition to a $273.30 fee for related expenses, was approved by the commission Monday night.

When added to vouchers approved last month, her charges for the condemnation suit total $13,858.30.

According to vouchers submitted by the city's law firm since October, of the 1,035.86 hours it has spent representing Sanford, 305.15 of these hours have been devoted to legal matters other than the condemnation suit. Of these hours, however, 114.25 involved legal matters related to Sanford's state mandated wastewater management project which targets Yankee Lake as its effluent disposal site. The fee for these 114.25 hours came to $7,426.25.

They cover the 84 hours counsel spent during October, November and December preparing the legal groundwork for implementation of the state mandated project. These efforts addressed preparation of the $25 million waste program bond that was indefinitely sidelined when Yankee Lake litigation rendered the city unable to secure an equitable repayment rate. These efforts also included preparation of the city ordinance that raised water, sewer and impact fee rates in December to assist the project's funding and provide collateral for the as yet unsecured bond. The legal groundwork already laid will be applied when Sanford ultimately does float its bond issue.

$7,426.25 billing covers the 25.5 hours counsel spent in an unsuccessful battle with the state to secure approval for continued wastewater dumping in Lake Monroe instead of implementing a Yankee Lake land disposal program.

Also, 4.75 hours were spent in December to secure the $8 million line of credit the city sought to partially fund its wastewater program after the bond proposal fell through.

Batmobile To Aid Anti-Drunk Driving Campaign

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer
A $40,000 "Batmobile" will roll from its Sanford Police Department command post this summer and serve as highly visible weapon in the department's "war against drunk drivers." Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett said Wednesday. The city ordered its mobilized breath alcohol testing unit this week from Starline Enterprises of Sanford, which manufactures ambulances and emergency vehicles. The $30,000 purchase price for the Batmobile is being covered by the numerous "public spirited" local citizens and corporations who have contributed to the "community project" since last summer, Harriett said. "This is an asset to the community and so are the people who contributed to its purchase," he said. While waiting the approximately 45 days it will take to receive the Batmobile, the department is seeking an additional $10,000 in contributions to cover the enforcement and testing equipment it will contain, Harriett said. The largest contributor to the purchase was also the man who approached City Commissioner Dave Farr last year and suggested the city obtain a Batmobile to supplement the police department's efforts against drunk driving. Stan Sandefur, principal of Sandefur Properties of Sanford, said the $15,000 he gave to kick off the project with was his way of "returning something to the city." "I'm glad we're on our way and everyone's efforts will pay off with such an important piece of equipment," Sandefur said. "I think the Batmobile will have a tremendous impact on drunk driving in the city." The $10,000 now being sought by the department will enable the Batmobile to be outfitted with the latest in drunk driving testing equipment, including a video system and an alcohol analysis unit, Harriett said.

The vehicle will be driven by officers who have been trained to administer drunk driving tests and it will initially patrol city streets from 8 p.m. to 4 a.m., which Harriett said are "peak drunk driving hours." The Batmobile will also be outfitted with an electric typewriter, to take on-scene statements, and first aid and photography equipment. Harriett said. It's high powered lighting will make it an asset for investigation of nighttime auto accidents and it may also serve as an on-site center of operations during homicide investigations, he said. Although the Batmobile will structurally resemble an emergency truck, the words "Breath Alcohol Testing Unit" will be emblazoned along its sides and leave little doubt as to its primary purpose, Harriett said. "It will be eye catching, that's for sure," he said. "And that's another one of its benefits. Whenever people see it, they'll be reminded not to drink and drive." When not on the street, the Batmobile will serve as a "public education tool," through guest appearances at local schools and various city functions, Harriett said. The chief said anyone interested in contributing to the $10,000 Batmobile equipment fund drive can contact him at the Sanford Police Department, 323-3030.

Sanford will seek a $4,950,000 state grant this month to offset 55 percent of the estimated $9 million cost of sewage and stormwater system modifications the city must undertake as part of its state mandated wastewater management program. Planning and Engineering Director Bill Simmons said Wednesday. If the funding is obtained, Sanford' commissioners will begin considerations this year of another utility rate increase or an ad valorem tax to float a bond issue to finance the $4 million stormwater project cost not covered by the grant. Simmons said. An increase in the near future, however, is preferable to Sanford's holding off until 1993, which was when the stormwater project was originally scheduled to begin without grant assistance, Simmons said. "If we're able to secure the funding, we'll begin the project sooner, but it won't cost us nearly as much. "It boils down to our looking at raising $4 million now or $9 million a few years from now," he said. "Because of this, it makes sense to proceed. Grant rules have a habit of changing and what's available this year may not be around if we follow our original schedule." Simmons also said the city had "purposely" scheduled the stormwater project for 1993 "to alleviate the impact" of another increase to the water, sewer and impact fee rates that were measurably raised in December. "We intended to hold off," he said, "but the grant availability moved this part of the wastewater program and our funding plans for it to the front burner." The city should know this summer whether it will receive the grant, Simmons said.

Impoverished Filipinos View Opulence Of Marcos' Palace

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Hundreds of impoverished Filipinos today gaped at the luxuries of Ferdinand and Imelda Marcos, including a drivable toy Mercedes and 3,000 pairs of designer shoes, in the first public tours of the opulent Malacanang palace in 20 years.

"This is where the money of the people is — it gives a bad impression," exclaimed 61-year-old Dida Crystal to her husband.

Crystal and other Filipinos passed by glass cabinets full of Cartier jewel boxes — one alone bearing a $19,000 price tag. Imelda's basement storage area revealed rack after rack of glittering evening gowns, 3,000 pairs of size 8½ designer shoes and countless matching handbags.

"This is a crime, no?" she said. "We are a very poor country."

The sprawling, Spanish-colonial palace, replete with plush red carpets, elegant marble and varnished wood floors, crystal chandeliers and antique furniture, was heavily guarded and closed to the public during the two decades Marcos and his family lived there. It offers endless spectacles:

- A storage room packed to the ceiling with boxes of brand new TV sets, stereos and video sets kept on hand as casual gifts for family and friends.
- Marcos' 4-foot-long drivable toy Mercedes — a Valentine's Day gift from Imelda bedecked with laced red hearts inscribed "Ferdinand" and parked in what was the bedroom of the 68-year-old President.
- Imelda's dressing room, left strewn with a vast inventory of expensive Parisian perfumes, soaps, cosmetics and fine tailored clothing.

Worst Crash Survivor Flies Again

TOKYO (UPI) — A flight attendant who survived the worst single-plane crash in history left the hospital today and flew again — on the same route that the ill-fated airplane followed when it hit a mountainside, killing 520 people.

"I still want to fly," Yumi Ochiai, 27. "And I still want to continue as a flight attendant."

Ochiai boarded a commercial plane for the first time since JAL Flight 123 crashed in central Japan last year, killing 520 of the 524 people aboard.

The JAL flight attendant flew home to Osaka along the same route as that of the scheduled Tokyo to Osaka flight Aug. 12 that veered out of control before slamming into a mountain.

Ochiai, who suffered fractures of the pelvis and left arm in the crash, received rehabilitation therapy in a hospital in Atsugi, Kanagawa prefecture, or state, 20 miles southwest of Tokyo.

JAL spokesman Geoffrey Tudor said it would be "several months" before the stewardess would be back on active duty.

Panama Defends Austerity Plan

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — President Eric Arturo Delvalle defended his sweeping economic austerity plan in the face of a nationwide protest strike that shut down 100 industries and nearly cut off the country's fuel supply.

He spoke out Wednesday, on the third day of the work stoppage, as a police platoon moved into the Caribbean port of Cristobal. Police denied a union charge that they had arrested two labor leaders Wednesday.

Delvalle said his economic package was "designed to protect every worker" and to help the nation "better utilize our capacity in order to export, absorb costs and become more competitive."

The proposal will enable the country to qualify for a pivotal $60 million World Bank loan that would pave the way for commercial bank loans and aid debt repayments. Panama owes $3.7 billion to foreign banks.

The plan would cut subsidies for industry and some agricultural price supports, reduce overtime pay and place contract restrictions on seasonal labor.

Hostage 'Agreement In Principle'

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — An envoy negotiating with Moslem extremists for the release of French hostages in Beirut reported reaching an "agreement in principle" with the captors and "calming tempers" in the crisis.

What political sources described as a breakthrough in efforts to free the French hostages came after Iraqi President Saddam Hussein's pardon of two pro-Iranian dissidents expelled from France.

The surprise pardon Wednesday met a major demand of the pro-Iranian group Islamic Jihad, which claimed it "executed" one of four French hostages it held to avenge the expulsion of the two Iraqi dissidents.

French troubleshooter Dr. Razah Raad, after two days of meetings with the Islamic Jihad at a hide-out in the Shiite Moslem southern suburbs of Beirut, expressed optimism and said the talks had been "fruitful and constructive."

Spain Votes To Stay In NATO

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Spaniards voted overwhelmingly to remain in NATO, dealing a stinging defeat to the Communists and leaving the Socialist government of Prime Minister Felipe Gonzalez triumphant.

"It is the victory of a peace and security policy that lifts Spain out of its isolation," Gonzalez said today.

Opinion polls had indicated voters would choose to break from the Western defense alliance. But, instead, they abided by the Socialists' call to remain in the 16-member treaty organization.

Official returns today from the referendum showed 52.54 percent of the voters approved of continued NATO membership.

Probe To Rendezvous With Comet

DARMSTADT, West Germany (UPI) — Europe's Giotto space probe raced toward a perilous midnight rendezvous with Halley's comet on what could be a suicide flight just 310 miles from the core of the famed celestial wanderer.

The tiny probe, scheduled to make its closest approach to Halley's at 1:02 a.m. Friday (7:02 p.m. EST), was traveling so fast it will be literally sand-blasted by the dust cloud surrounding the comet.

If so, recovery could provide vital clues to what caused the worst disaster in space history. But officials stressed that the analysis of pictures of the wreckage was not complete.

As for the recovery of crew compartment debris and remains of the astronauts, NASA has had nothing to say since the announcement Sunday that cabin wreckage had been found along with "crew remains."

"We said that we're not going to comment until the recovery and identification is complete," a NASA spokesman said late Wednesday after Preserver had docked.

A Navy spokeswoman stationed temporarily at the Kennedy Space Center could not be reached for comment and it could not be confirmed that any crew remains were carried ashore from Preserver.

A source close to the investigation said some remains of the astronauts were brought to shore over the weekend under a cover of darkness and that more were recovered Wednesday along with the debris from the crew cabin's flight deck.

Preserver's crew stood shoulder-to-shoulder around the stern of the vessel when it pulled into port Wednesday night, apparently to prevent anyone at a public park across the channel from getting a good look at a mound of debris on the aft deck covered by a large blue tarpaulin.

The ship was directed to dock at the north end of a Navy pier in a basin where nuclear submarines are serviced — as far as possible from public view.

The site of the cabin wreckage, identified by Navy divers Saturday, is about 16 miles northeast of Challenger's empty launch pad and about 100 feet below the surface.

A radio transmission from the Preserver early Wednesday said divers were recovering some "fairly good-size pieces (of debris). We're starting to fill up the fantail. I'd say I have less than half the fantail available for debris."

At sea, the crew of a vessel supporting search operations with the four-man submarine, called the Johnson-Sea-Link 2, reported finding what appeared to be a large piece of wreckage from a rocket booster jammed into the ocean floor.

"It is very solidly embedded into the sea floor," searchers said. "The submarine bounced into it with the currents. There's a pretty heavy current in the area, and it did not budge."

So far, the space agency has spent more than $5 million in the search for shuttle debris. Before Wednesday, about 10 percent of the shuttle had been recovered, including all three of its liquid-fueled main engines and portions of its wings and fuselage.

by American viewers. The only previous Soviet launch to be televised was a joint U.S.-Soviet Apollo-Soyuz space mission in 1975.

The launch came one month shy of the 25th anniversary of the first manned space flight, conducted by the Soviets 1961. It was the first manned space flight anywhere since the in-flight explosion of the shuttle Challenger on Jan. 28 which killed all seven astronauts aboard.

Experts and Soviet space watchers said the two cosmonauts would link up with a new modular orbiting station named Mir, meaning "Peace," which was launched on Feb. 20 without a crew.

A Tass announcement Wednesday of the launch plans did not say how long the cosmonauts would remain in space, but a Western diplomatic scientific attache earlier said he believed Mir was meant to be permanently manned.

"It's a very sophisticated piece of equipment," he said. "The Soviets have said all along that they're planning to build a permanently manned space station. This is obviously the step in that direction."

Kizim and Solovoyov were part of a crew that spent 237 days in space from Feb. 8, 1984, to Oct. 2, 1984, setting the space flight endurance record.

Mir has six docking ports and four modules for living and research, including a technological shop, a biological research station and a medical laboratory.

Each crew member will each have his own sleeping cabin equipped with desks, arm chairs and sleeping bags, earlier Tass reports said.

Another Soviet space station, Salyut-7, remains in orbit, but Western space experts said it was unlikely to be used again now that the new station is available.

The arrival of the cosmonauts at Mir will inaugurate the third generation of Soviet space technology, which their scientists labeled "the beginning of a transition from research and experiments to large-scale production activities in outer space."

colder areas.

"Weather really doesn't have much to do with it," Deju said.

Although the number of flu cases has increased, the type of influenza "going around" this year is of a milder strain than what was experienced in 1985, he said.

Flu B is more prevalent this year, compared to the Flu A strain last year, Deju said. The latter is more serious in terms of numbers of deaths attributed to influenza, he said.

Twenty percent of Seminole County schools polled Tuesday reported absences higher than normal, and attributed the higher than usual students missing due to illness with flu-like symptoms.

Of the 24 schools polled, two of 15 elementary reported an unusually high number of absences, as did two of 6 middle schools, and one of three high schools, according to schools spokesman Karen Coleman. There are a total of 41 schools in the district.

Kroll also asked Hughes if the northwest residents, who say only ten middle school students are living in their area, had ample opportunity to be heard. They claim they were not listened to during the process.

Hughes said they were given the opportunity to voice their concerns, and they were heard. He said requests to include the students in that area in the Greenwood Lakes zone were listened to and discussed, as an alternative to sending them to Lakeview.

Kroll said he was in favor of "neighborhood schools", and felt it would have been possible to include the northwest Lake Mary students in the Greenwood Lakes zone.

Williams echoed Kroll's support for neighborhood schools, and voiced concern about racial balance in schools. He said figures show under Plan I, Lakeview will have a black population of 33.9 percent and Sanford Middle School 39.5 percent, while Rocklake has only 2.5 percent black population and Teague has only 3.5 percent.

"There are great inequities here. Something's wrong," he said. He also agreed with Kroll that "Info-Tech might have been the way to go," in getting more data on racial distribution data.

Mrs. Bryant said she had been asked what criteria she asked in making a decision on her vote. She said her vote was cast for a plan she thought "would do the most good for the most students for the longest length of time." Of Plan I, she said, "It isn't a perfect plan, but with all the work and input, it is the best we can do." Bryant was on the middle school zone task force, comprised of parents and school administrators who have been working since September to draw new middle school zone attendance lines, needed for the opening of the new Greenwood Lakes School this fall.

Mrs. Warren said, "Even if a computer drew the lines, it wouldn't be perfect."

"It bothers me that people say they weren't listened to," she said, indicating that at least 21 public meetings were held during the process. "Some areas parents wanted changed weren't, but we listened to the input. This has been difficult. It's not an easy thing to do.

Jan Railey, who led a group of northwest Lake Mary residents to a confrontation in Hughes office Tuesday, said after the meeting, "I think the board was insensitive to our needs and insensitive to the needs of our children. I don't believe people in our area will sit still for this."

She said the group had no plans formulated to continue to address or pursue the issue.

The northwest Lake Mary residents represent an area described as south of 46A, west of I-4, north of Lake Mary Boulevard, and east of the Wekiva River.

Joining them in asking to be included in the Greenwood Lakes zone was Dennis Smathers, a representative of parents living north of Lake Mary Boulevard on Rinehart Road. He said students living in his area were within a two mile walking radius of the new school, and that elementary school students needed the "security of their peers in elementary school when moving into secondary education."

"I hope you have not heard us without listening, and we plea, please don't split students friendships."

In recommending the approval of Plan I, Hughes said, "This is the first time I can recollect that all schools in one grade group have been rezoned. The majority of people approve Plan I, and it is the cheapest of all plans" regarding the cost of busing.

"It has been a most difficult and complicated process. Greenwood Lakes was built to relieve overcrowding at other schools, and the Plan I lines match the high school lines," Hughes continued, indicating students will graduate from the middle schools to the same high schools they do now.

I realize some people are still not happy, and my recommendation is unpopular and controversial with some. But Plan I evolved from Plans C and G which were recommended by the task force.

Mrs. Bryant moved to approve the plan, and it was seconded by Williams.

Following review by the justice department, the plan is expected to get final approval during a regular board meeting April 23.

DeLand Knocks 'Noles Below .500

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

There weren't any spectacular complex-opening festivities but DeLand's Bulldogs came on with some late-inning fireworks en route to a 12-2 thrashing of Seminole High's Fighting Seminole Wednesday night in the first game ever played at the new DeLand Airport Recreational Complex.

Seminole was not only DeLand's victim on the new field, but saw its record drop below .500. The 'Noles, 6-7, return to Seminole Athletic Conference play (1-1) Friday at 3:30 when they host top-ranked (4A) Lake Mary. Jeff Blake will start on the mound for Seminole and Mike Schmit gets the nod for the Rams, 15-0 overall and 1-0 in the SAC.

After two scoreless innings, coach Mike Ferrell's 'Noles took a 2-0 lead in the third and held it until the bottom of the fourth when DeLand scored four times. The Bulldogs pulled away with six runs in the fifth, then ended the game on the 10-run rule with two more in the sixth.

In the third for Seminole, Alonzo Gainey singled and Joey Corsi followed with a triple to left center to break the scoreless tie. Brian Sheffield drove in Corsi with a sacrifice fly to center for a 2-0 Seminole lead.

Seminole starter Mike Edwards had the Bulldogs shutout for the first three innings but the 'Dogs took a 4-2 lead in the fourth when they scored two unearned runs and Tom Montgomery added a two-run single.

In the bottom half of the fifth for DeLand, Dan Finley led off with a double and Edwards then walked both Troy McBride and Mike Hogue to load the bases. Seminole then went with Gary Derr in relief and Derr ran the count to 2-2 on Bob Peters before he unloaded a three-run triple that broke the game open and gave the 'Dogs a 7-2 lead.

Seminole had five hits for the game including two by Greg Pond and one each by Gainey, Corsi and Sheffield. The Tribe also committed six errors. Montgomery and McBride had three hits each for DeLand and Alex Chumley went the distance on the mound.

Smith, Tar Heels Will Take It All; Rams Lack Fans

In order to look ahead, one should always look behind.

Three of the past five NCAA Basketball Tournaments have been won by longshots. This year will be no different. North Carolina, the best team in college hoops for the first 13 weeks before a wretched slump, will regain its championship form and take it all.

Let's check the record book. Last year, Villanova somehow beat Georgetown. Two years ago, Georgetown took care of Houston as expected. Three years ago, N.C. State pulled off a bigger miracle than last year and nipped Houston. Four years ago, Indiana dropped North Carolina, another shocker.

Villanova lost 10 games, N.C. State dropped 10 and Indiana was on the wrong side nine times during their championship seasons.

Coach Dean Smith's Tar Heels were 26-5 with four losses coming in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Pearl Washington and Andre Turner aside, they still have the best point guard in the country in Kenny Smith.

North Carolina, which was seeded third in the West Regional, has a tough road to the Final Four at Dallas. After tonight's breeze against Utah, they will probably face Alabama-Birmingham, Bradley or Louisville and then St. John's, Maryland or UNLV.

Although Dean Smith has won just one NCAA title ('82 with Michael Jordan and James Worthy), he is no stranger to the tournament. The Heels will be joined in Texas by Memphis State, Duke and Michigan.

UNC will beat Memphis State in the semifinals and Michigan in the finals.

And if you don't believe that Final Four, sports writer Chris Fister, known in the gambling circles as mastermind of the Fearless Fister Forecast, has Syracuse, Georgia Tech, Kansas and Maryland making the trip to Dallas. The winner, he says, will be revealed later. Like after the tournament.

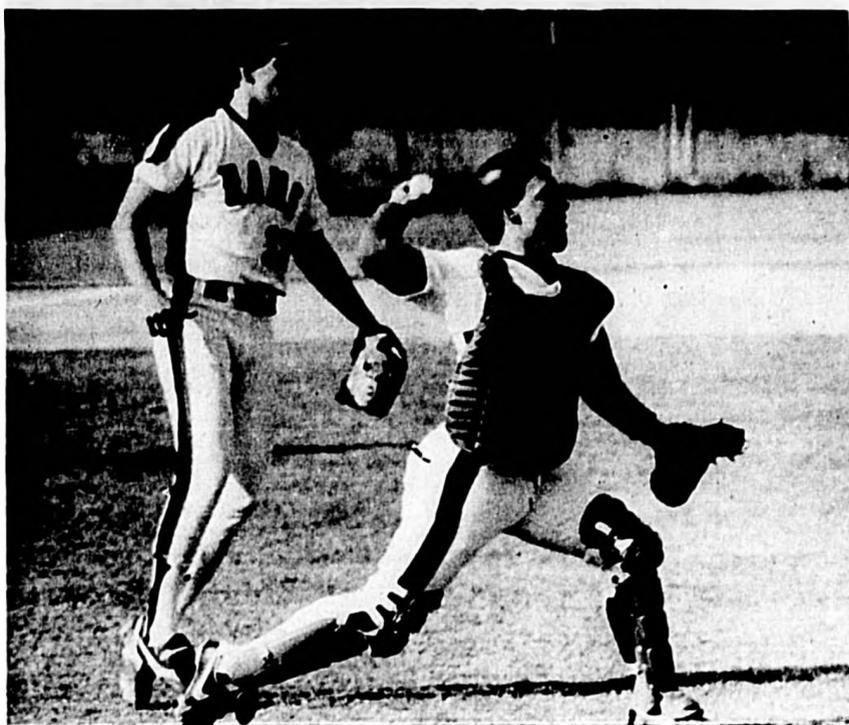

Speaking of championship teams, Lake Mary's Rams are doing the job on the field but not at the box office. Coach Allen Tuttle's powerhouse has reeled off 15 consecutive victories to hold the top spot in the Florida Sports Writers Class 4A Prep Poll all year long.

The support for the team, however, has been lacking. Despite a blockbuster lineup hitting around .325 and an excellent pitching staff, Lake Mary is drawing just 50 people per game.

Second baseman Shane Letterio, pitchers Mike Schmit and Anthony Laszale along with catcher Ryan Lisle have major-college credentials.

"I don't understand it," one parent said. "These kids have a great team that is fun to watch, yet they're getting no support from the students."

Lake Mary invades Seminole Friday. Game time is 3:30 p.m.

Lake Mary catcher Ryan Lisle pivots and throws to first base while pitcher Anthony Laszale watches the play. Lisle and the Rams, ranked No. 1 in the state, put their 15-game victory streak on the line Friday afternoon against Seminole at 3:30 p.m.

Marlette's Clutch Single Lifts Hawks Past Boone

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Damon Marlette singled home the winning run with no outs in the bottom of the seventh inning Wednesday to lift Lake Howell's Silver Hawks to a dramatic 6-5 victory over Boone's Braves in nonconference baseball at Lake Howell High School.

The victory upped the Lake Howell record to 6-5 while the Braves fell to 5-6. Lake Howell travels to Orlando to play Oak Ridge today at 4. The Hawks return to Seminole Athletic Conference action Friday at Lake Brantley. Game time is 7 p.m. Howell is 0-1 in the SAC.

"Marlette got a big hit," Lake Howell coach Birto Benjamin said. "He pitched pretty well, too. He couldn't get his breaking pitch over but we played real good defense behind him."

The Silver Hawks, who have plagued by errors throughout the year, made just one miscue. Benjamin said moving pitcher David Martin to shortstop has solidified the only weak defensive area in the infield.

"We had a three-day tryout and I told the kids to go where they thought they could best help the team," Benjamin said. "Martin moved right in a short. He handled four or five chances perfectly today. He's going to make a big difference on our team."

Lake Howell trailed, 3-0, entering the fourth but put two runs on the board to close the gap. Eric Martinez was hit by a pitch and Marlette doubled him to third. Martinez scored on a wild pitch with Ed Taubensee at the plate. Taubensee walked but was thrown out stealing. Sophomore Chris Norton, though, followed with a single up the middle to score Marlette.

Boone nicked Marlette for two more runs in the seventh and as the Hawks approached their last at-bat, they were staring at a 5-2 deficit. Five batters later, the game was history.

Tom Boucher, who Benjamin said has become a much better hitter since he began wearing glasses, slugged a home run to right center to lead off. Boucher also had a triple in an earlier at-bat.

Martin singled and Ernest Martinez reached on an error. Eric Martinez followed with triple to left center to chase home two more runs and tie the game at 5-5. Marlette followed with the game-winner, a single to left center.

Little-Knowns Should Exit Tournament Early

United Press International

With little-known teams from Mississippi Valley State, Marist, Drexel and North Carolina A&T expected to make opening-round exits from the NCAA Tournament today, the road to the Final Four still begins with some interesting matchups.

Chief among those is No. 13 Bradley against No. 16 Texas-El Paso in the West Regional at Ogden, Utah; Virginia against DePaul in the East Regional at Greensboro, N.C.; Virginia Tech against defending champion Villanova in the Southeast Regional at Baton Rouge, La.; and No. 18 Michigan State against Washington in the Midwest Regional at Dayton, Ohio.

UTEP is celebrating the 20th anniversary of its shocking NCAA title run. Don Haskins coach that 1966 team and today's Miners as well.

"I know why we were successful in 1966," Haskins said. "But this year we've played a lot of games where I wondered how we won. Depth has probably been our key this year. We've gone about eight or nine deep and someone has almost always been there to take over."

The game will match Bradley's

Basketball

offense, led by guard Hersey Hawkins with an 18.6 scoring average, against the Miners' defense. UTEP led the Western Athletic Conference in scoring defense, scoring margin and field-goal percentage defense. Dave Feitl and Juden Smith have played on four conference championship teams.

In the West Regional at Ogden, Drexel faces No. 7 Louisville. The Dragons, 19-11, won 14 of their last 15. Louisville is scorching with Billy Thompson reaching his potential and Milt Wagner full recovered from last season's broken foot.

In the Midwest Regional at Dayton, No. 2 Kansas plays North Carolina A&T. The Aggies, 22-7 and winner of the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference Tournament, have lost all four of their NCAA Tournament games. Kansas offers super sophomore Danny Manning to highlight one of the nation's top starting fives.

In other openers today: East Regional at Greensboro (Old Dominion-West Virginia, Oklahoma-Northeastern.); Ronnie Murphy leads the Jacksonville Dolphins into the NCAA Tournament tonight against Temple.

Southeast Regional at Baton Rouge (Memphis State-Ball State, Purdue-Louisiana State); Midwest Regional at Dayton (Jacksonville-Temple, Georgetown-Texas Tech); West Regional at Ogden (Alabama-Birmingham-Missouri, North Carolina-Utah).

Ronnie Murphy, an all-state and All-South performer while at Oviedo High School three years ago, is a key part of the Jacksonville attack. The 6-5 point guard turned a strong showing as the Dolphins won the Sunbelt Conference Tournament.

Norman Tries To Shake Off Doldrums At Bay Hill

ORLANDO (UPI) — Greg Norman begins today's $500,000 Hertz Bay Hill Classic trying to shake a slow start in 1986 and generate a solid game heading into next month's Masters.

The eighth edition of the Bay Hill, to be played at Bay Hill Club and Lodge, has drawn 114 golfers.

Norman spent the last three weeks in his native Australia following shaky play early this season. He finished tied for fifth in the Phoenix Open, but then missed the cut at the AT&T Pebble Beach and was tied for 39th at the Hawaiian Open.

Yet Norman, who has $22,419 in winnings this year, said his game is rounding into shape.

"Just a slow start," Norman said Wednesday when asked why he faltered in his past two tournaments. "I'm starting to play better now. I'm looking forward to playing 10 of the next 12 weeks and getting in the rhythm of things."

Norman, 31, will be looking to regain the form that helped him to $310,230 in 1984. He finished second in the 1983 Bay Hill after losing a playoff to Mike Nicolette. Much was expected of Norman last year following an outstanding 1984 season, his first full year on the PGA Tour. While his $165,458 in winnings was 42nd on the money list, it was a disappointing year for the "White Shark," who has 33 tournament victories around the world, including two PGA events.

"I have no idea what the reason is," for his decreased winnings last year, Norman said. "Sometimes you play better than you did the last year and make less money. You can't predict golf. It's an unpredictable game."

"I'm just gearing up for all the tournaments at the start of the year," Norman said. "I'm really looking forward to playing at Augusta (in the Masters April 10-13)."

Norman has had some good moments in major tournaments, including a fourth-place finish in the 1981 Masters and second place in the 1984 U.S. Open, where he lost an 18-hole playoff to Fuzzy Zoeller.

Curved Flukes Are Angler's Best Anchor For Soft Bottom

For the purpose of safety, Florida law requires that all boats carry an anchor. If all boats must have an anchor, it makes sense to carry an anchor that is suitable to the boating requirements of each individual boater.

Fishermen should pay particular attention to their anchor because its effectiveness or ineffectiveness could make or break a fishing trip. Unfortunately, however, many fishermen pay little attention to their anchors. After all, an anchor is an anchor. Wrong!

There are many types of anchors, and each is designed for a particular purpose. The type of anchor a fisherman selects should depend upon the water bottom he fishes. Is it mucky, rocky, or hard sand? Each kind of bottom requires a different style of anchor.

Nothing is more aggravating than trying to anchor over a muck bottom with the incorrect anchor. Many anchors slide through a muck bottom like a knife through butter. Since the St. Johns River and many lakes in Florida have soft bottoms, it would be prudent for many freshwater anglers to carry anchors that are designed to hold in this type of situation.

Good anchors for mucky bottoms are the mushroom and the Sombrero. These anchors are designed to sink into mucky bottoms and provide a flat surface which resists pulling free.

The best anchor for soft bottoms is the Tri-Fluted River Anchor sold by Bass Pro Shops. This anchor features three broad, curved flukes which dig into muck and provide plenty of resistance.

The mushroom, Sombrero, and the Tri-Fluted River Anchor are all vinyl coated to protect boat interiors. The vinyl coating also repels mud easily, and doesn't dirty the boat.

Other anglers, particularly in saltwater, fish over hard sand bottoms. Anchors designed for soft bottoms bounce off hard sand bottoms because they cannot penetrate.

Hard sand bottoms require anchors that have thin, pointed flukes. These flukes are designed to penetrate hard sand and hold. The more pressure exerted against this type of anchor, the deeper it digs into the sand.

Jim Shupe

GOING FISHING?

The anchor under the brand name Hooker has excellent holding power and hard sand and is sold locally in many discount and sporting goods stores. It is also galvanized to resist rust.

For rocks and reefs, the grapnel anchor is superior. It resembles a giant gang hook, but has long, curved prongs instead of hooks. These long prongs catch on rocks and ledges and hold securely.

Many anglers make their own grapnel anchors they use a piece of pipe for the stem and reinforcing rods for the prongs. If the anchor becomes lodged in the rocks, the prongs bend with a strong pull, and the anchor pulls free. The fisherman simply bends the prongs back into shape, and it is ready for the next trip.

The grapnel anchor is excellent to use around jetties. We have all had unpleasant experiences with fluke anchors around jetties.

What anchor should you use if you fish both soft and hard sand bottoms? Unfortunately, no anchor is adequate for both bottoms. This columnist has solved this problem by maintaining two sets of anchors — the Tri-Fluted River Anchor for soft bottoms, and the Hooker for hard sand bottoms.

Remember that your anchor is designed for a specific purpose. Does your anchor meet your needs?

SHUPE'S SCOOP — Always use a three to six foot length of vinyl coated or galvanized chain between your anchor rope and anchor. The chain adds weight to the anchor, but more importantly, it makes the anchor rope lie flat when the anchor is dropped overboard. This causes the anchor to grab quickly and effectively.

FISHING FORECAST — High winds have hampered fishing conditions recently. Dell Abernethy from Ocala's Bridge Fish Camp reports that fishing was good last weekend in spite of 30 mile per hour winds. Jerry Malloy and David Malloy participated in the Lions Club's Gene Gilmartin Memorial Fishing Tournament for the Blind. The Malloys took a blind man fishing and they caught a total of 22 bass that weighed 40 pounds. That is quite a catch. Speckled perch are beginning their spawning activities and are moving into Weedcraft Creek. Some catches have run as high as 80-90 per boat. Shad are still rated as strong in the Mullet Lake Park area.

Rick Rawlins reports that the high winds have made fishing conditions difficult at Highland Park. Large bass are being caught on wild shiners in the St. Johns River and in Lake Weedcraft.

Snook activity has picked up slightly at Sebastian Inlet. Action with snook should improve rapidly with rising water temperatures. A few scattered seatrout and bluefish are still being caught.

Captain Jack from Port Canaveral reports that saltwater fishing has been at a standstill due to high seas. Bluefish and flounder are being caught inside the Port. The flounder are being caught on finger mullet fished near dropoffs and rocky areas. Tru and redfish in the Banana and Indian rivers show improvement, but fishermen cannot get out due to high winds.

Action at the New Smyrna jetties has also been slow due to rough weather. A few drum and mangrove snapper have been caught back in the river. Sheepshead can be caught next to bridge pilings with tidler crabs or live shrimp.

IN BRIEF

Moore, Morgan Power Raiders Past Maramec; VCC Next Today

A five-run first inning and a seven-run sixth lifted Seminole Community College's Raiders to a 14-11 victory over Maramec (Mo.) Community College Wednesday afternoon at SCC.

Jeff Morgan's two-run triple highlighted the first-inning outburst while Mike Songini added an RBI ground rule double. In the sixth, John Moore belted a two-run double. Kevin Hill drove in a run with a double and Jeff Greene singled home a run. Morgan also added his second triple of the game in the sixth.

Maramec was held scoreless by SCC starter and winner Matt Lawton until the top of the fifth when it scored three runs. Steve Carter came on in relief in the sixth but Maramec came back with two runs in that inning and added three more in the seventh to pull within 14-8.

Leonard Thigpen relieved Carter in the eighth but Maramec score three more times in the top of the ninth to pull within 14-11 before Charles Brookes came on in relief and sealed the win for the Raiders.

SCC, 9-10 overall, returns to Mid-Florida Conference action today at Valencia Community College in Orlando. Maramec now stands at 3-2.

Leading the 14-hit SCC attack was Moore who was 2 for 4 with three RBIs. Thigpen was 2 for 5 and drove in two runs. Morgan slapped a pair of triples and Greene was 2 for 2.

Ringling Nearly Disrupts Martina

DALLAS (UPI) — A phone call nearly ousted top-seeded Martina Navratilova from the $250,000 Virginia Slims of Dallas.

Navratilova, Fort Worth, Texas, moved to the fourth round with a 6-4, 6-7 (5-7), 6-1 triumph Wednesday over Barbara Potter, but not before a scare.

With Navratilova serving and trailing 2-1 in the second set, a phone beneath the stands began ringing. Navratilova stopped play, but umpire Leon Lipp ordered her to continue. Navratilova, her attention diverted, made three unforced errors in a row to lose the game, her only break of the match.

She also lost the next six points and the set before pulling herself together to take the final set 6-1.

Navratilova's constant pursuer, Chris Evert Lloyd, moved to the third round with a 6-2, 6-0 rout of Terry Phelps, Larchmont, N.Y.

In other singles matches, No. 4 Hana Mandlikova, Czechoslovakia, defeated Tina Mochizuki, South Pasadena, Calif., 6-2, 6-3; Anne White, La Jolla, Calif., beat No. 12 Wendy Turnbull, Deer Creek, Fla., 6-1, 0-6, 6-2; Kathy Rinaldi, Martin Downs, Fla., the No. 10 seed, defeated Jo Durie, Britain, 6-1, 7-5; and Gabriela Sabatini, Argentina, No. 9, defeated Rosalyn Fairbank, South Africa, 6-2, 7-6 (7-4).

Harrah's: Duke, Kansas Are 4-1

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Harrah's Race and Sports Book Monday listed top-ranked Duke and No. 2 Kansas as 4-1 co-favorites to win the NCAA College Basketball Championship which begins Thursday.

Harrah's listed Kentucky and St. John's at 5-1, North Carolina at 6-1, Georgia Tech, Georgetown and Syracuse at 8-1, and Louisville at 10-1.

Memphis State, Michigan and Notre Dame were 12-1 and Indiana, Illinois, Michigan State and Oklahoma were 15-1.

In other listings, Bradley, Maryland, North Carolina State, 20-1; Alabama, Navy, 25-1; Alabama-Birmingham, Auburn, Iowa State, Jacksonville, Purdue, 30-1; LSU, Virginia, 35-1.

Harrah's listed all remaining teams with the exception of Nevada-Las Vegas at 100-1. No odds were listed for Las Vegas because state law prohibits it.

Seminole JV Squeezes By Lions

Seminole High's junior varsity baseball team squeezed out a win over Oviedo's Lions Wednesday afternoon — literally.

Four consecutive successful squeeze bunts highlighted an eight-run sixth inning as Seminole claimed an 11-5 victory over the JV Lions at the Oviedo Little League complex.

Seminole, which improved to 3-4, returns to action Monday at 3:30 at home against Lake Mary.

The four successful squeeze bunts in the sixth were laid down by Summie Edwards, Jerry Smith, Jimmy Bussard and Von Eric Small. The eight-run uprising in the top of the inning also gave Edwards the pitching victory. Jimbo Lucas came on in relief in the bottom of the sixth.

Unroe: Best Offense For Oviedo

Allen Unroe, the leading scorer in Seminole County, was named the best offensive player for the Oviedo Lions in a basketball awards banquet held Sunday night at the Cavalier Motor Inn.

Other varsity awards included Terry Campbell (defense), James Walker (coach's award) and Robb Hughes (rebounds) for coach Dale Phillips' squad.

For the junior varsity team, John Pettit (offense), Dwight Everett (defense), Dana Hill and Pete Lingard (rebounds), Alan Greene (most improved) and Robbie Bowers (coach's award) were the winners.

For the freshman team, Charles Warner (best all-around), Matt Blanton (offense), Chad Duncan (defense) and Shannon White (most improved) picked up the hardware.

Nelson: Oviedo's Most Valuable

Stephanie Nelson, who did a little of everything for the Oviedo girls' basketball team, was named the most valuable player at the team's awards banquet Sunday night at the Cavalier Motor Inn.

Coach John Thomas also named the following awards: Michelle Eck (offense), Cindy Wood (defense), Bobbie Kelley (most improved), Jodie Switzer (hustler), Julie Umphenour (coach's award) and Suzanne Hughes (free-throw award).

Hughes, a freshman, hit 31 of 37 free throws during the year for a county-leading 84 percent. The excellent percentage also set an Oviedo record.

For the junior varsity, Adrienne Wood (most valuable), Teresa Philpot (offense), Julia Dames (defense) and Brigitte Szobar (most improved), Coach Mickey Norton's girls won the Class 3A-6 District title.

Rotaract Bike-A-Thon March 22

The Rotaract Club Bike-A-Thon, whose proceeds will go for cancer research at St. Jude's Children's Hospital, will be held Saturday, March 22 at 8:30 a.m. at the parking lot south of the Sanford Civic Center.

Sponsor sheets for the benefit may be obtained by calling Scott Milsom at 321-2700. Billy Lee is the project chairman.

MOVING OR ARCHING THE LEFT WAIST AT ADDRESS PROMOTES MOVING THE CLUB QUICKLY UP AND INSIDE — WHICH CAN CAUSE HOOKING.

A CONCAVE OR BOWED-IN LEFT WAIST CAN PROMOTE AN OUTSIDE-TO-IN SWING PATH.

THAT'S WHY IVE ALWAYS ENJOYED KEEPING THE CLUB SHAFT AND LEFT ARM IN THE STRAIGHTEST POSSIBLE LINE AT ADDRESS AND DURING THE EARLY PART OF THE TAKEAWAY.

Philadelphia — Signed free agent infielder Tom Kavaney, hired David Price as the team's assistant manager.

At Clearwater, Scott Madison doubled in two runs to highlight an eight-run ninth inning as the rest of the Tigers posted an 8-2 victory over the Phillies. Reliever Willie Hernandez picked up the victory for Detroit.

At Kissimmee, Mark Davidson highlighted a five-run seventh inning with a grand slam and Kent Hrbek added a two-run homer to lead the Minnesota Twins to a 7-4 victory over the Houston Astros.

At Pompano Beach, Omar Moreno and Gerald Perry each hit a two-run home run in the ninth inning to lead the Atlanta Braves to a 6-5 victory over a Texas Rangers split squad. Atlanta raised its record to 4-1, while Texas fell to 3-1.

At St. Petersburg, an error by shortstop Vic Rodriguez led to four unearned runs in the ninth inning and gave the Pittsburgh Pirates their first exhibition victory, an 8-4 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals.

LA TRIMS EXPOS, 4-3 WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Alex Trevino singled in pinch-runner Mariano Duncan in the top of the ninth inning to break a 3-3 tie and give the Los Angeles Dodgers a 4-3 Grapefruit League victory over the Montreal Expos.

Greg Brock singled with one out in the ninth. Duncan ran for Brock and stole second. Trevino, who homered in the fifth inning to tie the score 1-1, singled for the game-winning RBI.

Oviedo's 11 Errors Make It Easy For Brantley

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer
Can't anybody around here play this game?

Oviedo coach Jackie Miller must be wondering the same thing legendary Casey Stengel did when he took over the New York Mets who wound up with the worst record in modern baseball history in 1962.

However, Miller is not in the same predicament as Stengel was. The Mets were a collection of misfits, outcasts and has-beens while Miller has almost the same Lady Lion team that won the district and regional titles last season.

Wednesday afternoon, Oviedo committed 11 errors and the beneficiaries were Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots who capitalized on most of the miscues en route to a 9-1

Seminole Athletic Conference victory at Red Bug Park.

Lake Brantley ran its overall record to 10-2 and evened its SAC slate at 1-1. The Lady Patriots return to action in Saturday's Lady Hawk Invitational at Red Bug Park. Oviedo now stands at 2-3 overall and 1-2 in the SAC. The Lady Lions are at Leesburg today and will compete in the Lady Hawk on Saturday.

The offense for Oviedo didn't fare much better than the defense Wednesday as the Lady Lions were held to four hits and three times players took called third strikes.

After two scoreless innings, Lake Brantley scored five times on three hits and took advantage of four Oviedo errors in the top of the third. Angie May led off with a single and Kim Wain also singled. Denise Burke's grounder to second went for a two-base error and allowed May to score the first run. Wain then scored on Deana Jeffers groundout and Burke scored when Dawn Gebhart reached on an error. Another error on the play moved Gebhart to second and she scored on Tracy Brandenburg's single. Brandenburg later scored the fifth run on Kim Robinson's sacrifice fly.

Brantley added another unearned run in the fourth when Davis reached on an error, moved to second on May's second base hit of the game and scored when Wain got on via an error.

Six errors in the first two innings opened the door for DeLand's Lady Bulldogs to score 10 runs and that was enough to lift them to a 11-8 victory over Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks Wednesday at the DeLand Airport.

Lake Howell, 2-4 overall, returns to Seminole Athletic Conference play today at 4 against Seminole High at Sanford's Fort Mellon Field.

"We killed ourselves with those six errors in the first two innings," Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano said. "Only two of the 10 runs they scored in those two innings were earned runs."

Lake Howell's offense got back a lot of what the defense gave away but couldn't pull the Lady Hawks all the way back.

The Lady Hawks came out cranking as they erupted for three runs in the top of the first. Tammy Lewis started it off with a single and Christy Tibbitts followed with a base hit that got by the outfielder allowing Lewis to score. Designated hitter Ava Gardner, still unable to play the field because she is coming off shoulder surgery, then stepped up and nailed a shot down the left field line for a two-run homer and a 3-0 Lake Howell lead. It was only Gardner's second at bat of the season.

DeLand answered with four runs in the bottom of the first and, after Lake Howell went down in order in the second, the Lady Bulldogs tacked on six more runs in the bottom half for a 10-3 lead.

Lake Howell got three runs back in the third on a two-run single by Tibbitts and an RBI single by Gardner.

'Ugly Americans' Need To Mind Their Manners

DEAR ABBY: My English husband and I howled with laughter when we read the letter from the Americans who had returned from England, Scotland and Wales and noticed the "strange" manner of eating. They said, "After cutting meat, they do not set the knife down and change the fork from the left hand to the right; they eat left-handed, which looks rather awkward."

Worse yet, these visiting Americans were not content to merely observe the "foreign" manner of eating, they attempted to instruct an Englishman in the "correct" way — theirs. What nerve! I'll bet you get a ton of mail on this.

SANDS IN MENLO PARK

DEAR S AND S: I did. Some samples:

DEAR ABBY: I married a man from Finland who always thought that European table manners were superior to ours because they never touch their food with their fingers as Americans so often do.

However, after living in Indiana for six years, my husband has become slightly Americanized. Instead of using a knife and fork to eat a Big Mac or a piece of Kentucky Fried Chicken, he eats with his fingers. I'm so glad. It was getting a little embarrassing with company. And you should see him tackle an Orto taco!

SUSAN M., CLARKVILLE, IND.

DEAR ABBY: Now I know where the phrase "Ugly American" originated. It was partly from people like your reader who had the nerve to visit a foreign country and criticize age-old eating habits.

When I dined in England during World War II, my hosts were very charming; they must have been vastly amused as they watched me switch my fork from one hand to the other, but no one had the bad taste to call it to my attention.

It's like the American who asked the British sergeant why his stripes were upside down. Or Americans who ask foreigners, in their own country, why they drive on the "wrong" side of the street.

JACK CORZETTE, HOUSTON

DEAR ABBY: I was born in England and now live in the United States. While dining in an American restaurant, imagine my horror when I was asked to keep my fork from the main course to use for my dessert. This disgusted me no end.

At least we use clean utensils for each course.

DOREEN IN PINE BLUFF, ARK.

DEAR ABBY: Who do those Americans think they are to criticize the way the English use their eating utensils? I'm English, and one thing we do not do is struggle with the side of a fork to cut our meat. We use a knife. And we do not use our fingers to eat bacon regardless of our how crisp it is, as I've seen countless Americans do.

Have you ever chased the last few peas around your plate, trying to get them on a fork? Well, that's where the knife comes in, to "rake" them, as you say, onto your fork.

I offer this little rhyme — a favorite with my countrymen: I eat my peas with honey I've done it all my life It may sound awfully funny But it keeps them on my knife.

BORN IN ENGLAND

DEAR ABBY: Please leave King Henry VIII at rest. The English learned their "strange eating habits" centuries before America was even born. So who is "wrong"?

The American tourists who thought the English need eating lessons should visit China and "teach" the Chinese to use a knife and fork, and throw away those funny little sticks they've been eating with for 5,000 years!

PROUD CANADIAN

DEAR ABBY: What is the correct way to spell the name of the colonel from Libya who is causing such a big commotion with his terrorist activities?

I have seen it spelled Kadhafi, Quadhafi, Khadafy and Khadall. There must be a correct way to spell it. Why so many different versions?

CURIOS IN CONNECTICUT

DEAR CURIOUS: The name is Arabic and cannot be written in English characters, so one must spell it phonetically (the way it sounds). Hence, all ways are equally correct — or incorrect.

Quilting Program Highlights Woman's Club March Meeting

The art of quilting dates back into Chinese history. Rae Harper, owner of "Patchwork Cottage — a Quilt Shop", told members of the Woman's Club of Sanford at their March meeting. Quilting was discovered, she continued, by the Crusaders and brought back by them to the Western world.

At first quilting was used for armor and a new art form was born. Originally quilting was done on a single piece of material, but when the colonists arrived in America, there was no material except what was hand woven or imported from England.

Patterns in quilting began from these creative housewives. At first each quilter was on his own. Gradually patterns emerged, were repeated or copied and eventually were classified. Today's "Encyclopedia of Quilting" lists over 3,000 patterns.

Quilting served more than one purpose during colonial and pioneer days. The quilts themselves were needed for warmth in poorly heated houses, but quilting bees also provided social outlets for frontier women. Today, quilting is a very popular pastime, one that satisfies the creative urge, but also produces future heirlooms.

One valuable tip Mrs. Harper gave her audience was a method for washing quilts. Put the quilt in a bathtub, she said, with supporting fabric beneath it (i.e. a sheet). Sponge by hand with a very mild quilt washing solution. Don't use detergents. Rinse well, press out moisture but don't squeeze. Take outside and place on clean sheets. Cover with more clean sheets and let dry. Turn when half way dry.

Mrs. Harper said that people interested in learning to quilt or needing help with specific quilting problems could attend classes at Patchwork Cottage beginning April 1, or call her for help.

The regular business meeting was conducted by President Ann Brisson. First vice-president Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith reported that the Italian Dinner had been a tremendous financial success. She also expressed her personal thanks and that of the club members to three husbands whose help was invaluable: Dick Colgrove, Ned Yancey and Dr. Robert J. Smith.

Four new members were introduced by membership chairman Martha Yancey and welcomed into the club: Maxine Marsh, Phyllis Conklin, Faye Siler and Beverly Huffman.

Ann Brisson told members that the Woman's Club of Sanford was well represented at the District VII Art Festival held at the Sorosis Club in Orlando. Seven members attended. Jean Marcel won "best of show." Leslie Pauline and Beth Weleboh won blue ribbons in candlewax and tatted respectively. Carole Ann Smith won a second in ceramics. The Woman's Club chorus directed by Mayor Smith presented the program at the festival — a medley of songs called America Sings. Madalyn Lawton, District VII Director called the 18 member choral group an "inspiration for all Women's Clubs."

Kate Nash, Education chairman, reported that four members of the club had completed the nine hours of training necessary for participating in the "Learn to Read" adult literacy program at Seminole Community College. She also noted that the program for the April meeting will be presented by the Lake Mary High School Odyssey Show Choir under the direction of Alice Ann Nielson.

Officers elected for the next two years include: Bettye Smith, president; Hazel Cash, first vice president; Viola Frank, third vice president; Lourine Messenger, corresponding secretary; Mary Tillis, chairman of the Arts Department; Martha Stevens, chairman of the Home Life Department; Doris Dietrich, chairman of the Public Affairs Department; and Kate Nash, chairman of the Education Department.

Legal Notice

NOTICE UNDER FICTITIOUS NAME STATUTE TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, pursuant to the "Fictitious Name Statute" Chapter 843.09, Florida Statutes, will register with the Clerk of the Circuit Court, Seminole County, Florida, upon receipt of proof of the publication of this notice, the fictitious name, to-wit: JAKE S SANDWICH SHOP under which I am doing business, 117 N. Longwood Avenue, Suite C, Altamonte Springs, Florida 32701 in the City of Altamonte Springs, Florida.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING TO CONSIDER THE PROVISIONS OF AN ORDINANCE BY THE CITY OF SANFORD, FLORIDA. Notice is hereby given that a Public Hearing will be held at the Commission Room at the City Hall in the City of Sanford, Florida, at 7:00 o'clock P.M. on March 24, 1986, to consider the adoption of an ordinance by the City of Sanford, Florida, as follows:

ORDINANCE NO. 1801 AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF SANFORD, FLORIDA, TO ANNEX WITHIN THE CORPORATE AREA OF THE CITY OF SANFORD, FLORIDA, UPON ADOPTION OF THAT CERTAIN PROPERTY LYING SOUTH OF AND ABUTTING THE INTERSECTION OF SANFORD AVENUE AND S.R. 427, SAID PROPERTY BEING SITUATED IN SEMINOLE COUNTY, FLORIDA, IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE VOLUNTARY ANNEXATION PROVISIONS OF SECTION 171.044, FLORIDA STATUTES; PROVIDING FOR SEVERABILITY, CONFLICTS, AND EFFECTIVE DATE.

WHEREAS, there has been filed in the Clerk of the City of Sanford, Florida, a petition containing the name of the property owner in the area described hereinafter requesting annexation to the corporate area of the City of Sanford, Florida, and it has further been determined that the annexation of said property will not result in the creation of any enclave; and WHEREAS, the City of Sanford, Florida, is in a position to provide municipal services to the property described herein, and the City Commission of the City of Sanford, Florida, deems it to be in the best interest of the City to accept said petition and to annex said property.

SECTION 1: That the property described below situated in Seminole County, Florida, be and the same is hereby annexed to and made a part of the City of Sanford, Florida, pursuant to the provisions of Section 171.044, Florida Statutes. The North 200 feet of the SE 1/4 of the SE 1/4 of Section 12, Township 20 South, Range 30 East, 100 feet of State Road No. 427, and the North 200 feet of the East 100 feet of the SE 1/4 of the SE 1/4 of Section 12, Township 20 South, Range 30 East, Seminole County, Florida. SECTION 2: That upon this ordinance becoming effective, the property owners and any resident on the property described herein shall be entitled to all the rights and privileges and immunities as are from time to time granted to residents and property owners of the City of Sanford, Florida, as further provided in Chapter 171, Florida Statutes, and shall further be subject to the responsibilities of residence or ownership of this property to be determined by the governing authority of the City of Sanford, Florida, and the provisions of said Chapter 171, Florida Statutes.

SECTION 3: If any section or portion of this ordinance proves to be invalid, unlawful, or unconstitutional, it shall not be held to impair the validity, force or effect of any other section or part of this ordinance. SECTION 4: That all ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith, be and the same are hereby revoked. SECTION 5: That this ordinance shall become effective immediately upon its passage and adoption. A copy shall be available at the Office of the City Clerk for all persons desiring to examine the same.

Discomfort In Ribcage Probably Not Arthritis

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — Would you please tell me a few facts about Charcot-Marie-Tooth disease? What causes it, how does it progress and what is the eventual result? I'm in my 80th year.

DEAR READER — Charcot-Marie-Tooth disease is a progressive inherited disorder that causes breakdown of the nerves supplying the lower legs. As the nerves begin to malfunction, muscle atrophy (wasting) can result, producing foot drop and other signs of muscle disorder.

This relatively uncommon disease generally begins between the ages of 15 and 30. Patients may remain active for many years; the disease does not shorten life. With time, the hands may be affected. There is no cure; however, physiotherapy, braces and exercises may permit patients to retain independence.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have arthritis in my knees and my spine. Now I am having a great deal of discomfort in the ribcage. Is it possible to get arthritis in the ribs?

DEAR READER — The term "arthritis" means joint inflammation or breakdown. In theory, any area where bones join may be affected. However, in my experience, rib pain is an extremely rare manifestation of arthritis. I think your doctor may wish to investigate other possible causes for your rib pain.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I went into the hospital with a broken bone in the spine. Two or three days later, I got pneumonia. Shortly thereafter, I had a stroke in the left artery of the neck. Only my speech was impaired. I've never had high blood pressure, and my cholesterol and potassium levels were fine. Why would this happen?

DEAR READER — No one knows precisely what causes strokes. The most likely cause is that tiny blood clots form on the insides of arteries, break off and get carried to smaller arteries in the brain, where they lodge and cause blockage. Some experts believe that, at times of stress and disease, certain patients develop a greater tendency to form clots. The fact that you were probably bedridden in hospital may explain why you were at greater risk. Because patients with major fractures of the hips or lower extremities require prolonged bed rest (and have a higher incidence of clots), many orthopedic surgeons routinely give low doses of anticoagulant drugs to prevent clots from forming.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, Ohio 44101.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Normally you'd be right to think that West might have been taking some psychedelic potions to open the bidding with three spades, except for the fact that East-West had 30 on score. In that situation at rubber bridge, an unusual opening can be countenanced. It's still wrong, but we can view it with some slight compassion. South certainly had no problem. He made his automatic bid of four hearts, which ended the auction.

The deal is interesting because it highlights an unusual declarer strategy that does not come along every time you sort your cards. I'm referring to transferring your loser. After playing two high spades, West notes his partner's high-low and naturally continues with a third spade. If declarer feels the absolute necessity of winning this trick, he will try trumping with dummy's nine of hearts, hoping the heart 10 is with West. East will of course win the trump 10, and later the defenders will score the setting trick in clubs.

How much easier it is if declarer simply discards one of dummy's small clubs on the third spade. That will be three tricks for the defenders, but now there is no way for them to take a fourth trick. When declarer gets the lead, he will draw trumps in two rounds and later trump his small club with dummy's nine of hearts.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY
MARCH 14, 1986

A bolder and more adventurous you will emerge in the year ahead. Your daring will impel you to successfully explore facets of life you previously avoided.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're gifted with a marvelous imagination, but you must be careful today not to use it against yourself. Stop worrying about things that may never happen. Trying to patch up a romance? The Matchmaker set can help you understand what it might take to make the relationship work. Mail #2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today, you might be hard pressed by an old obligation you've been ignoring. Try to clear it up once and for all.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Important one-to-one relationships must be handled today with all the tact and skill you can muster. Do nothing that might create ill will.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today, you're likely to have enough problems handling your own responsibilities without assuming the burdens of others. Don't get in over your head.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Resist temptations to plunge into speculative ventures today. It isn't likely that something for nothing will come your way.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The pressure pot could be boiling in your household today, so don't contribute to a potential spillover by introducing volatile issues.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you have strong opinions pertaining to certain issues today, it's best you keep your thoughts to yourself. Don't say things that could antagonize others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)

Where your finances and possessions are concerned, be extra security-conscious today. Additionally, don't deal with people with questionable reputations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Oppositions to your personal interests could be rather strong today. But be careful that you don't vent your rage on innocent bystanders.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The larger problems you have to contend with today are apt to be of your own making. Try not to be your own worst enemy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It may be wise today to avoid gatherings where you might not feel too friendly toward the people involved. Stick with pals you really like.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You could have rather strong tendencies today to try to assert your authority over others. This won't rest well with the targets of your directives.
