

National League Fielding Mark Is Equaled By Bums And Reds

NEW YORK—The Brooklyn Dodgers and the Cincinnati Reds today revealed that Ted Kluszewski, who equaled a National League club fielding record this year, placed three men each on the list of 1952 fielding winners.

In the American League, the world champion New York Yankees and the surprising Washington Senators topped the pack with two men each.

Final Associated Press figures today reveal that Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati and Mickey Vernon of Washington retained their 1951 titles. Each showed a .991 mark to place all other first sackers.

In the National League, Grady Hatton of the Reds took second base honors with a .990 mark.

Shortstop Johnny Logan of Boston, in his first full year in the major leagues, captured honors at his position over seasoned veterans like Pee Wee Reese, Al Dark and Cranny Hamner. Logan committed only 18 errors in 117 games for a .972 rate.

Brooklyn's Billy Cox went a long way toward evidencing his superiority by topping all NL third sackers with a .972.

Boston's Sid Gordon paced all the flycatchers with a .966 average. He is flanked in the outfield by Duke Snider of Brooklyn and Bob Barkuski of Cincinnati.

With Vernon in the AL infield were Nellie Fox, Chicago's setup by second baseman with .965; shortstop Johnny Logan, who split the season between Detroit and Boston, and Gil McDougald of the Yankees at third base. Logan, who was last among the short fielders last year with a .949 mark, posted a .979 this year. McDougald fielded .972.

Gene Woodling of New York, Jim Busby of Washington and Dale Mitchell, runner-up in the batting race for Cleveland, comprise the outfield.

Rookie Clint Courtney of the St. Louis Browns paced all AL catchers with a .986 mark. In the National League Brooklyn's Roy Campanella ruled the roost. His mark was .994.

Sports Roundup

NEW YORK—Ezzard Charles, the cautious pugilist, starts back up the long comeback trail this coming Friday night when he fights Cesar Brion, a big, awkward saloote from the Argentine at Madison Square Garden.

Ezzard figures to win this one without too much trouble. Almost everyone over voting age has beaten Brion at one time or another. But in Ezzard's particular case, a simple victory will not be enough, and he knows it. If the former heavyweight champion is to become one of the foremost contenders for Rocky Marciano's title, he must win this one impressively, preferably by a knockout.

The situation really is a very peculiar one. The Cincinnati Negro has proved on occasion that he comes close to being a great fighter. Actually, he won the crown back from Jersey Joe Walcott at their last meeting at Philadelphia as several million television viewers testify. Just about the only ones who didn't think Ezzard deserved the decision were the officials, and they had the vote.

And now, such a short time later, Charles finds himself on the outer fringe, striving desperately to get back in the running. A purely personal hunch here is that no matter what he does, Ezzard will never get a shot at Marciano. On a given night, Ezzard might cut lucky into ribbons. The men who guide the new champions' destinies are among the smartest in the business. They will make few mistakes.

Vic Seizas of Philadelphia, playing captain of the American Davis Cup tennis team, is scheduled to leave for New Zealand and Australia within a few days, and there still seems to be some uncertainty about who is going with him.

Though no official announcement has been made, our information is that Straight Clark of Los Angeles probably will be on the plane with Seizas. Ham Richardson, the former junior champion from Baton Rouge, will not leave for Sydney until late in November.

So far, only Seizas and Richardson have been named on the team. It has been taken more or less for granted that Tony Trabert would be given another leave of absence from the Navy to help challenge the Amateurs for the cup.

LSU's Emberg Is Cut From Squad In SEC Action

Tulane Backs Work On Passing Plays For Auburn Game

By The Associated Press

Another first-string football player has been kicked out of the Southwestern Conference team.

Ronnie Emberg, a freshman end from Milwaukee, was dropped from the Louisiana State squad yesterday. Coach Gaynell Tinsley said Emberg lost his athletic scholarship because of "disciplinary reasons."

There was no elaboration. Emberg had been a starting end in every LSU game this season.

Wednesday, Harold Chumley, center, who shared the No. 1 quarter back spot at Kentucky, was removed from the Wildcat roster for what Coach Paul Bryant termed "insubordination." Bryant later said that although he had an injured leg, he was told by Assistant Coach Ernie Allen to practice blocking or get off the squad, so he had to leave.

LSU, which missed Maryland, the nation's No. 2 team, Saturday, worked at full tilt yesterday. Larry Labat, LSU's top ground gainer last year, may be lost for the rest of the season because of a pulled muscle suffered in the Georgia game.

Most SEC teams took things easy and took stock of injuries. LSU, Tulane and Florida were exceptions.

Tulane Quarterbacks Pete Clement and Fred Dempsey concentrated on sharpening backfield timing. The Greenies meet Auburn Saturday and Bill Spolten, 225-pound guard, may miss the game because of a partial shoulder separation. Right Halfback Ray Weidenbar, who was out a week, should be ready, though.

The Gators spent an hour at contact work although three players are nursing injuries. Buford Long, the SEC's top scorer, Halfback Tommy Haddock and James Hatch, starting defensive right tackle, are ailing. Hatch probably will miss the Georgia game.

While several coaches were worried about new injuries, Ralph Jordan at Auburn was welcoming back Vince Dooly and Jackie Creel, two backfield stars. Both are expected to see action against Tulane. Jordan scheduled offensive drills this week.

Mississippi, Georgia, Vanderbilt see all victors in last week's contests, rewarded players with high drills yesterday.

Mississippi State got the bad news that Fullback Joe Fontaine will be out of the lineup for the Alabama game. Fontaine, who has averaged seven yards per carry, sprained an ankle against Kentucky. His loss probably means Tate will rely principally on the aerial Jack Baker and running of Zerk Wilson and Norm Duplain.

Alabama had injury trouble. Three regulars End Bud Wilts,

Rog Rogero Takes Over Navy League Lead On 164 Avg.

"Rog" Rogero's record 527 series for the Navy League last Thursday night plummeted the color to the top of the list with a record 164 average. Last week's leader, Bill Stogel, dropped into second place among the individual top pinners, while adding another point to his percentage, 1611.

Stogel clung to his record single game score of 206. Lou Cato kept his 155 percentage to retain third place again this week. Bill Gaston, who has played the maximum 21 games this far, has the most total pins in the bar circuit with 2987. Gaston, however, is the 19th ranking bowler with just a 137 average per line.

2 Candidates Give Views On Foreign Issue

Eisenhower And Adlai Reveal Positions In Forum Conducted By New York Tribune

NEW YORK (AP)—The two major party presidential candidates say the United States must continue to help the free world and lead the struggle against communism.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican, and Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic candidate, addressed the New York Herald Tribune Forum last night. Their speeches were carried nationally by radio and television.

Eisenhower, who spoke directly to the forum session here, urged a "new economic alliance of free nations" to confound Kremlin predictions of economic doom for the free world.

Stevenson, who delivered his address from Chicago, said America should lead in developing a "coalition of free nations strong enough to remain the masters of their destiny" and meet communism's threat. He said such a coalition could not be built without full-time American participation.

The two candidates spent 45 minutes each in a 15-minute debate.

Tests Are Started In Seminole County For Bangs Disease

Health and economy in Seminole County are directly affected by tests of individual milk cows for Brucellosis (Bangs disease) and tuberculosis, which were started today, according to Dr. W. D. Martin, director of the control of the two diseases for the State Veterinarian's Office, Tallahassee.

Tests, which will last about a month, are being conducted under the supervision of C. H. Dawson, County Agent, Dr. Frank Quillman, County health officer, and R. J. Robbins, chief sanitarian. Promoting the testing, besides Dr. Martin, is Dr. James Blake, St. Cloud, member of the State Veterinarian's force.

These tests, which occur each three years, are conducted for family milk and decide the accreditation which will be determined by the United States Bureau of Animal Industry, Department of Agriculture. The program, which has been in effect for this county the past 10 years, is necessary to permit the movement of cattle within and out of the county without the restriction of non-accredited county would encounter, Dr. Martin said.

The federal government requires testing of a cross section of cattle, which involves the percentage of the population in a county, before delivering its stamp of approval, Dr. Martin stated. Some small herd herds will also be tested during the routine testing.

Testing, he said, removes a potential danger of either of the diseases starting in an individual's herd.

Tuberculosis in cattle has shown a light trend upward throughout the state, Dr. Martin revealed, while Brucellosis has taken a downward trend. The latter disease is the source of undulant fever in human beings.

In Brucellosis, infection from one cow spreads rapidly to others and over a few years, brings about the loss of a number of calves.

"If just simply reduce the livability of calves," Dr. Martin pointed out.

The County Agent is interested in the health and economy of his area, Dr. Martin stated, bringing out that the cattle industry is growing by leaps and bounds in Florida. The County health department is extremely interested in getting all family cows tested for the two diseases, he said.

"With the individually-owned cow," Dr. Martin stated, "there is relatively no protection at all in eliminating disease germs. Only one in 1,000 owners of family cows test milk before feeding." He noted that the absence of the Pasteurization process, used in dairies, testing in dairies for Bangs disease and tuberculosis is conducted annually.

"State and federal regulations require tests for TB and Bangs Disease before either enter the state," Dr. Martin said. "After at times, they are tested again, then eliminate such a danger from imported cattle."

Lawton Endorses First Amendment On Nov. 4 Ballot

T. W. Lawton, superintendent of public instruction, went on record as favoring the first amendment on the Nov. 4 election ballot which would in his words, "assure that the people of this state have the right to express their views on public schools."

Mr. Lawton, speaking before the Seminole County Children's Committee in the Court House Monday afternoon, said the amendment will not increase taxes and will make it possible for the county school board to borrow money for building schools immediately when needed at a lower rate of interest.

"It will not give the state any more control over school funds than it has already," he asserted.

"Under this amendment," he pointed out, "seminole County could now borrow up to $1,000,000 for new buildings."

Preceding the committee reports from the 17 representatives of the County Children's Committee, Herman E. Morris, Seminole High School principal, announced that the high school's PTA program for the new year has been organized around the theme, "Building firm foundations for our youth."

Eminent speakers, including Dean Ray Stowers, Stetson University, Housatonic in Dayton County Schools, Dr. J. J. Walker, and Bishop John Brancumb, have been secured as speakers for the various monthly meetings at the Celery Crate.

Mr. Morris also told about a move afoot to broaden the scope of the Celery Crate making it county-wide. He brought to the group's attention that the Red Cross course in First Aid was beginning last Monday.

Judith Douglas Steinstrom told committee members that John Peterson has been appointed chairman in charge of the Junior Chamber of Commerce's Christmas parade. The judges, also, announced that the judges have made plans with the Episcopal Men's Club last night at the Parish House.

Raymond Lundquist, president of the Men's Club, presided over the meeting, which was preceded by a dinner served by the ladies of St. Catherine's Auxiliary.

Stetson Dean Is Main Speaker At Kiwanis Luncheon

Dr. H. W. Hunt, dean of admissions at Stetson University, told the Kiwanis Club today as he addressed them upon the topic of vocational guidance.

"Work is one of the things that has to be learned somewhere," he explained, and gave examples of education, experience and home teaching as sources. A person who does not enjoy his work has "choked off" one of the great values of life."

He outlined in five steps the procedure through which vocational guidance works, commencing with an information about various occupations, making a choice, training, getting a job and following up for information on further guidance.

He said information is available from various agencies about 20,000 different jobs and that the individual person involved should make the choice. Since 1941, Dr. Hunt said he has held approximately 10,000 interviews with youths of high school and college ages and that he knew "of no more effective device" than to take that degree of active, dynamic interest in students.

The speaker emphasized, "The most important thing that has happened in education in the last 25 years is the development of guidance (which) doesn't mean making the choice for students. He recommended that adults should help get necessary information, and stimulate the youths and help them weigh matters to."

Mr. Lawton, speaking before the Seminole County Children's Committee in the Court House Monday afternoon, said the amendment will not increase taxes and will make it possible for the county school board to borrow money for building schools immediately when needed at a lower rate of interest.

"It will not give the state any more control over school funds than it has already," he asserted.

"Under this amendment," he pointed out, "seminole County could now borrow up to $1,000,000 for new buildings."

Preceding the committee reports from the 17 representatives of the County Children's Committee, Herman E. Morris, Seminole High School principal, announced that the high school's PTA program for the new year has been organized around the theme, "Building firm foundations for our youth."

Eminent speakers, including Dean Ray Stowers, Stetson University, Housatonic in Dayton County Schools, Dr. J. J. Walker, and Bishop John Brancumb, have been secured as speakers for the various monthly meetings at the Celery Crate.

Mr. Morris also told about a move afoot to broaden the scope of the Celery Crate making it county-wide. He brought to the group's attention that the Red Cross course in First Aid was beginning last Monday.

Judith Douglas Steinstrom told committee members that John Peterson has been appointed chairman in charge of the Junior Chamber of Commerce's Christmas parade. The judges, also, announced that the judges have made plans with the Episcopal Men's Club last night at the Parish House.

Raymond Lundquist, president of the Men's Club, presided over the meeting, which was preceded by a dinner served by the ladies of St. Catherine's Auxiliary.

Stetson Dean Is Main Speaker At Kiwanis Luncheon

Dr. H. W. Hunt, dean of admissions at Stetson University, told the Kiwanis Club today as he addressed them upon the topic of vocational guidance.

"Work is one of the things that has to be learned somewhere," he explained, and gave examples of education, experience and home teaching as sources. A person who does not enjoy his work has "choked off" one of the great values of life."

He outlined in five steps the procedure through which vocational guidance works, commencing with an information about various occupations, making a choice, training, getting a job and following up for information on further guidance.

He said information is available from various agencies about 20,000 different jobs and that the individual person involved should make the choice. Since 1941, Dr. Hunt said he has held approximately 10,000 interviews with youths of high school and college ages and that he knew "of no more effective device" than to take that degree of active, dynamic interest in students.

The speaker emphasized, "The most important thing that has happened in education in the last 25 years is the development of guidance (which) doesn't mean making the choice for students. He recommended that adults should help get necessary information, and stimulate the youths and help them weigh matters to."

Ike Takes His Campaign Into Harlem Area

Tells Throng That He Doesn't Intend "To Bring Before America An Evil Tongue"

By DON WHITEHEAD

WITH EISENHOWER carrying his message to the Negro community into Harlem for the first time in his campaign today, the GOP candidate declared he did not intend to bring before you or before America an evil tongue. An evil tongue is found only in disappointed men. I'm no politician. I don't have all the answers.

Eisenhower said that "we must make our constitution live. We have to make these things live or our form of government makes no sense."

Stating that "the basic purpose of America is to provide a home for those people who live freedom more than anything else," the general added:

"We must always realize that there is a connection between a freely felt faith in America and the man who is made in the image of his God."

The aim of the Republican party he said, was to make the United States a freer, brighter, better people of the world.

The 62-year-old Republican candidate wasn't sparing himself in his staff as he fought for the 26 electoral votes needed for victory on Nov. 4.

In a follow-up to his rousing reception yesterday in Boston, he moved on Hartford, Conn. and Springfield and Pittsfield, Mass., as preliminary stops to a major speech tonight at Troy, N. Y.

The three states have a total of 69 electoral votes.

Last night both Eisenhower and his chief opponent, Gov. Adlai Stevenson, of Illinois, were heard by the New York Herald Tribune Forum in New York City.

His talks were about as unimpassioned as they could be at this stage of the fiercely fought campaign.

Eisenhower appeared in perky and confident mood, which he attributed to his "new economic alliance of free nations" to fight against the Communist prediction that the free world is headed for economic doom.

TALKS TO SON

Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower today she had received a telephone call from her son, Dwight D. Eisenhower. Later on, Mrs. Zorn said, "Eisenhower became president of the United States, which he strove to convert into a barracks, declaring that the U. S. needs no scientists, but only good fellows."

The climax of Zorn's analysis was a report on the Progressive party, which he said was supported by all the democratic forces of the U. S. He said the Progressive party's presidential candidate, Norman Thomsen, had been ousted by the other candidates, but he declared that "no person will succeed in intimidating progressive America."

Seminole County Figured To Be Close Despite Showing In Poll

By KENT CHETLAIN

Railroad workers and their families are probably cast the deciding vote for the presidential candidate who carries Seminole County. After the first week of the Herald straw poll, it appears that the Republican General Dwight D. Eisenhower, deadlocked Negro leaders expect 85 percent of the colored voters to cast their ballots for Stevenson while Republicans are cheered with the overwhelming support the general has been receiving from the white-collar workers here. The poll seems to indicate that Eisenhower, even with a substantial white-collar plurality will trail Stevenson when the Negro vote is counted.

Farmers have shown a disposition to favor a "change" in administration and are leaning toward Eisenhower. Many other farmers and farm laborers will continue to cast their lot with the Demos, but the consensus so far seems to indicate the farmers will swing over to Ike by a slight margin, enough to offset Stevenson's large Negro plurality.

With both Stevenson and Eisenhower knotted after the farm, white collar and colored votes are counted, it will then be up to the railroad workers and other union workers to cast the deciding ballot.

One railroad worker expressed the growing opinion that Seminole railmen will split between the two candidates. Another expressed it this way, "The union wants us to vote for Stevenson and sign Stevenson's labor contract. The union wants us to vote for Eisenhower and carry a lot of votes among the workers. But a lot of workers like Eisen-

Stevenson Says Eisenhower Is Completely Confused Over His Foreign Policy Beliefs

Moscow Thinks Both Adlai, Ike Backed By Rich

Reds Told To Expect Worst No Matter Who Wins Election

WASHINGTON (AP)—Moscow is watching the Russian people expect the two-time major who aims the American election. The word is that either Eisenhower or Stevenson is sure to win and about as good as the other.

This has been the Soviet line all along, that both major parties and their leaders will be the will of a Soviet domestic radio broadcast reported today by U. S. government members, brought the Russians up to date on the election campaign. It was a commentary by Valentin Zorn, Moscow's top expert on American affairs.

The U. S. elections said Zorn, "is a case in which all forces come out of the same stable. The winner of which will be decided less of which horse comes in first."

In fact, he added, "whatever of the two bourgeois parties wins, the election then means big capital will win."

Further election skunking between the two parties are to be expected by Zorn, who called the attention of the masses from vital problems of present-day America and to conceal the fact that the two parties are the main problems.

Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, the Russians were told, is a millionaire who is backed by big business banks and has connections with "large large New York capitalists as Standard Oil, Aluminum Company of America, and General Motors." He said that Zorn quoted the New York Daily Worker as explaining the Democratic leaders were able to avoid "awkward questions" and the Truman administration.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, according to Zorn, is an old-fashioned capitalist who has become a big business man. He said that Zorn said, "Eisenhower became president of the United States, which he strove to convert into a barracks, declaring that the U. S. needs no scientists, but only good fellows."

The climax of Zorn's analysis was a report on the Progressive party, which he said was supported by all the democratic forces of the U. S. He said the Progressive party's presidential candidate, Norman Thomsen, had been ousted by the other candidates, but he declared that "no person will succeed in intimidating progressive America."

BIBLE VERSE TODAY
Yet we imagine we own our farm, our factory, our stocks and bonds. Yet we may be partners of God and own all things. The world is mine and the fulness thereof.
— Psalm 50:12.

Snows in New England and Wisconsin, cold weather all over the North is a welcome harbinger of an early tourist season in Florida.
And no less welcome than the cool spell we are having ourselves.

The people of South Carolina are considering the complete abolition of the entire public school system in the event the Supreme Court rules against the South on the question of segregation. This may not be the best way out of the dilemma, but it is a likely one. And one which should cause people to stop and think when they talk about abolishing segregation in the public schools.

One of the most convincing arguments against Amendment No. 2 is that it would enable Governor Warren to appoint three more members of the State Supreme Court.
He has already appointed three members of the present court. If the Amendment carries, Warren would have appointed six out of the ten members, or a majority.
That is too many for any one government to appoint. The second amendment may well be called the first attempt in the history of Florida to pack the State Supreme Court.

He who believes strongly in socialized medicine should be among the first to oppose our present high standard of living. He is deeply concerned over the health of the people of this country, and he wants to take care of their doctors' bills so that they can have more to eat and wear. But according to the Public Health Association, the No. 1 health problem in this country is obesity. That is, the No. 1 health problem is the tendency of the people in this country to get too fat, to eat too much. Now if you do away with their doctors' bills which are caused largely by their over-eating, won't they have just that much more money to spend on food? And won't that just complicate even further the problem of keeping them healthy?

If the Democrats should win this election because of the large number of people on the government payroll, on the receiving end of government handouts, and doing business with the government, we wonder how we can escape the conclusion that we have in practice, if not in principle, already abolished the two party system on which our country's political system is based. By the time another administration could go out of office, the Democrats would have been in power for 24 years, too long, we submit, for it to be considered still a part of a two party system. We would feel the same way about it if it had been the Republicans who had been in control of the government for that long. A two party system at least implies that one party shall throw the other out once in a while.

Our readers know that we do not often quote Drew Pearson as the voice of God, but what he says about Governor Stevenson's effort to win Senator Russell to his side is interesting. Mr. Pearson, who is keenly interested in Governor Stevenson's election, says that the Georgia Senator has been repeatedly contacted in Stevenson's behalf to no avail. Finally Arkansas Senator Fulbright, one of the more intelligent Democrats, got through to Russell in Washington. "But", in Pearson's own words, "the Georgia Senator tried to drive a bar-nacle. He wanted Stevenson to change his mind on filibusters and in effect, approved the Southern States filibuster before he would agree to deliver a speech." Evidently the bargain was never made, Stevenson still wants to outlaw the filibuster, and Russell still isn't ready to back him.

Stop, Thief!

Picketpockets and the light fingered gentry in general frequently employ an old trick, we are told by criminal investigators, by which they often escape arrest after they are caught in the act of plundering somebody on a busy thoroughfare.

The instant they discover that their victim has become aware of their intention to rob him, they immediately point their finger at some innocent bystander in the crowd and begin shouting at the top of their voice, "Stop, thief." This tends to disconcert everyone present, and while confusion reigns they quietly disappear in the crowd.

That in substance is what the spellbinders of the Trumanites are resorting to now. They have been pillaging and plundering around Washington for many long years. If there has been any graft and corruption in Washington during the past few years, it is certainly the Trumanites who have benefited. They never had it any better. They are the recipients of the milk coats and the deep freezers.

So what do they do? They point their finger at General Eisenhower and shout "Stop, thief!"

They accuse General Eisenhower of being corrupt because Senator Nixon received aid for office expenses from private sources, a practice which has become universal among Trumanites. And they accuse him of being bigoted and intolerant because he is supported by Senator McCarthy. Everything that has gone wrong in the last five years they blame on General Eisenhower. They accuse him of creating the intolerable Berlin situation because he obeyed President Roosevelt's orders to stop at the Elbe. They blame him for the Korean war because he was chief of staff when President Truman ordered our army withdrawn from Korea.

If taxes are too high, it is because General Eisenhower spent too much money on the army. If we can't win the war in Korea, it is because General Eisenhower wouldn't provide enough men and equipment for the job. In denying that Stevenson is the captive of Truman, they insist that Ike is the captive of Taft.

The hoodlums in Washington are all pointing their fingers at Eisenhower and shouting "Stop thief!", but they are scared to death that the public is wise to the act.

Turnpike Dozing Danger

The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission has started research to determine why accidents are on the increase along the 327 mile superhighway. In addition to finding the causes of many of the accidents the study is expected to show what steps can be taken to reduce the accident total.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike is one of the finest roads in the world. It was designed with motorist safety in mind and many of the things which cause accidents on other highways, such as sharp curves, dangerous hills and narrow passing areas were eliminated. Yet despite these improvements there have been 63 deaths on the four-lane, divided highway since it was opened 11 years ago.

Many drivers accept highway improvements as a license to travel faster and, lulled into overconfidence by straight, wide stretches of road, they fail to exercise proper caution or abide by speed limits. The Pennsylvania Turnpike is regarded by many drivers as a speedway and police enforcement of the speed-limit is sometimes lax. There is something hypnotic to the rolling away of the long, easy miles that causes drivers to lose their alertness.

The findings of the accident research in progress by the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission will be of interest to all the other states which already have Turnpikes similar to the one in Pennsylvania and in those states which contemplate building such highways. Perhaps Pennsylvania can find the answer to its superhighway problem and at the same time prevent other states from making costly mistakes.

UN Peace Hopes

As the United Nations meets in its new building under president Lester Pearson, its main goal seems to be a workable peace in Korea.

Just how this can be brought about remains to be seen. However, a definite sign of concern over the potential danger of the Korean action is apparently realized by most of the nations of the world. They are intent on avoiding a third world war if at all possible.

As the truce negotiations grind to a stop over the ridiculous question of prisoner repatriation, the UN members must have a feeling of misgiving. The Mexican suggestion for peace with honor is still hanging fire.

Let us hope the United Nations will find the key to unlock this firmly closed door. The awareness of a need for stable foundations on which to build a peaceful, constructive world may give the United Nations new firmness of purpose.

By RUSSELL KAY

My good friend Joe Scates of Perry, who has actively supported the Florida State Chamber of Commerce statewide "Get Out the Vote" effort, has come up with a novel suggestion to promote greater interest in voting.

He suggests that every person who registers and votes be given a "Voter's Card" certifying that they performed their civic duty and actually went to the polls and cast their ballot on election day.

The card would be a plain simple affair that would bear the name of the voter and be signed by an election official attesting that the citizen had exercised his franchise by voting on a particular date at a named precinct. It would have no indication of party affiliation or any other partisan inscription or emblem.

"Imagine the boon to mankind," says Scates, "when some boss starts blowing off about elected officials or complaining about how the government is run, you could squelch him by simply saying 'O.K., Bud, but before you continue griping suppose you show me your Voter's Card' for unless you went to the polls on election day and cast your ballot, you are not entitled to gripe."

Scates feels that any good American would welcome the opportunity to have in his possession actual evidence that he had taken enough interest in his government — national, state, county or municipal — to participate in elections. It is human nature to like a reward, he says, even for an act that one would regard as a privilege. This little card will give a citizen a definite reason for going to the polls, and a tangible reward and evidence of his patriotism.

Just how such a plan could be put in operation is a debatable question. It might be advisable for the plan to have official sanction, handled somewhat in the manner of issuing draft cards, but Scates admits it would be preferable if handled on a voluntary basis.

A evidence that this question of voting is being given serious consideration by a lot of folks, I recently received a copy of an editorial written by Russell Edwards, a linotype operator, in the Kissimmee Gazette.

The editorial is too long to use in full, but it suggests an opposite view from that of Scates. Edwards thinks that we should penalize citizens who fail to vote. Deploring government by a minority, which is the case when less than half of our qualified citizens go to the polls, Edwards suggests a law that would subject every qualified voter to a "fine" or "tax" for failure to vote.

Following each election the supervisor of registration would certify to the tax collector, the name of every citizen who failed to cast his ballot and the tax collector would assess whatever penalty in the form of a tax that the law might provide.

In advancing his idea Edwards

THE WORLD TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON 08 — When he opened his TV fireside talk last night Gov. Stevenson mentioned how during the long presidential campaign can be on the candidates. He might have added: on the voters, too.

Steadily since early September we've been listening to, or reading, what he and Gen. Eisenhower have had to say. And there's no rest in sight for us for the next two weeks. Yet, they can hardly say anything on the main campaign issues, unless they reverse themselves, which we haven't heard before.

It's been enough for most of us to have made up our minds about them. But the candidates and their political advisers don't seem to think so. Otherwise, they wouldn't be embarking on the well-known whirlwind finish before election day.

Yet, even if the voters already know all they need to know about the position of the candidates on the issues, between now and election day other developments might swing the election.

For instance, if a major scandal exploded before voting day, and there is the influence—or effect—of other people who have been, or will be, crowding into the picture.

There's President Truman, trying to rock and sock the general into a defensive position to take him off the backs of the Democrats whom he had been merrily clubbing.

The President, who had been an issue in the campaign anyway, seems to have made himself a brand new issue by his attacks on Eisenhower. They may have won votes for Stevenson or cost him some.

In most of those who have jumped into the campaign in one way or another, the element of surprise was missing. They said what they were expected to say.

For instance, plugs for President Barkley and plugs for the Republicans by ex-President Hoover. Some eyebrows went up when Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Virginia Democrat, said last week he couldn't vote for Stevenson but for weeks it had been suspected he might say just that.

And when Sen. Wayne Morse, Oregon Republican, finally came out for Stevenson, there was no sense of shock anywhere. He had been edging in that direction for weeks.

between now and Nov. 4 is probabilistic. However the vote in this state will be very close and all indications point to Eisenhower carrying Florida.

Dear Sir:
During the short time that I have been serving as a Constable I have seen the tragic need of adequate hospital facilities demonstrated first hand. I would like to urge all of our citizens to find out for themselves how disastrous and deplorable our facilities are. I feel certain that if every citizen would do this before Nov. 4th, there is no doubt in my mind that the hospital bond issue would pass.

We NEED a hospital in Seminole County. Let's make sure we get one by getting a hospital ballot at the polls on Nov. 4th and voting FOR the hospital bond issue.

Sincerely,

Dear Sir:
I wish to express my stand on the proposed hospital bond issue to be voted on next Tuesday. I am a free voter in Seminole County. My sincere and deep conviction is that this bond issue must be passed.

From information that has been released to the public it is quite probable that eventually the State will construct a hospital. Nevertheless, we need a hospital and we need it quick. In my opinion, there should be every effort made to insure that a hospital be built soon. We should not wait on the Fish Estate.

If the bond issue does not pass, we may get a hospital. If the bond issue does pass, we will get a hospital. To my way of thinking this is the only issue. It does not matter particularly how the construction may be financed nor how the capital may be raised. The important thing is to get one.

Very truly yours,

Ava Gardner Won't Talk About Report Of Heated Quarrel

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ava Gardner won't say yes or no to reports of a super spat with hubby Frank Sinatra.

There have been a string of second-hand accounts that the shapely charmer of the films and her crozier husband quarreled following a week-end battle at their Palm Springs home.

"I have nothing whatever to say about the matter," said Ava here yesterday when asked to comment.

She was in town to leave her hand and foot prints in the cement forming Truman's Chinese Theatre. Sinatra still hasn't been indicated for comment, and the Palm Springs home is closed.

According to the reports, carried in newspapers of Los Angeles and elsewhere, actress Lana Turner was also in the act somewhere. But she also hasn't been quoted directly.

Columnists say Sinatra returned from a television show Saturday to find Lana, his former girl friend, and Ava discussing him in a manner not complimentary.

Stories said police were called during the show, but August Kottman, Palm Springs police chief, reported nothing on the record about a disturbance.

ROK Troops Retake Bloody Ridge Amid Torrent Of Shells

By STAN CARTER
SEOUL, Oct. 22—South Korean soldiers, scoring a deadly rain of Communist mortar shells, retaken the bloody crest of Sniper Ridge today in a fierce battle with Chinese Reds.

The battle took to the top of the Central Front hill nine hours after being chased off by about 1,500 Chinese.

The Reds seized the peak just after daybreak. A battery of 100-mm. mortars and a battery of 120-mm. mortars dug in on the south slope. The South Koreans held, and at 9 a. m. began their counterattack.

For more than six hours they battled slowly up the muddy, shell-scarred slopes. The Reds pounded them with shattering barrages of mortar and artillery fire, but still they inched forward.

Then, in a final charge, the ROK troops poured over the top and drove the Chinese back with showers of hand grenades.

AP correspondent John Randolph reported from the front that the South Koreans secured the high ground at 2:20 p. m. They dug in hurriedly and awaited new Red attacks. They also faced another night of drenching rain.

Little action was reported elsewhere along the 15-mile battle front. Allied warplanes, hampered by clouds, fog and rain, made comparatively few strikes against Red front lines.

In Washington, the Navy announced that two hits from a Red shore battery killed seven men and wounded one aboard the destroyer escort Lewis. The Lewis was covering two South Korean mine sweepers operating off the East Coast of North Korea.

Storm Toll

stacker from World War I, was escorted to the mouth of the St. Johns River after becoming disabled in heavy seas.

The U. S. Geologic Survey vessel Hydrographer escorted four fishing vessels to safety in San Carlos Bay after they were reported in distress 23 miles off Ft. Myers. They were the Sea Queen, Marco Polo, Jessie Quigley and Pink Gulf.

Two men swam ashore from the pleasure boat Groper when it was blown onto the north jetty at Ft. Pierce and pounded to pieces.

A Ft. Myers whirper, the Capt. Alfred, sank in 100 fathoms of water off the Campeche Banks near Mexico. Another vessel removed the crew.

Two fishing vessels recently bought in Tampa, the Poseidon and the Jim Smith, each with two men aboard, have been missing in the Gulf since Monday and are still being sought, the Coast Guard said.

Another distress report, apparently not connected with the weather, came from the fishing vessel Virginia Ann, out of Punta Gorda. A crewman radioed the Coast Guard that the captain had been intoxicated for three days and was endangering the lives of his crewmen. The Coast Guard planned to investigate. The Virginia Ann was reported near North Shore, Mexico.

Later, the Coast Guard said, a member of the crew radioed the rest of the crew was going aboard.

Blues In The News

By BOB ANTHONY

The Navy Center came to life last night for the first time in what seems to have been a long chain of comparatively uneventful evenings there. The reason for the new life was due mainly to the arrival of Photographic Squadron 22 aboard the station. The men of the squadron, along with the NAAS men present and the many lovely hostesses, proved to be one of the largest Tuesday night gatherings at the Navy Center in quite some time. Although the weather outside wasn't the best Florida has to offer, the atmosphere inside the Center was indeed a pleasant one with the long dancing in the open ballroom.

The early part of the evening found games of nine-pair cards, and checkers being played but soon the big box tables were moved to the rear of the ballroom and the dancing began. Senior Hostesses for last night's activity were Mrs. Rollman and Mrs. White of the Catholic Women's Club. The dancing started temporarily while the Senior Hostesses served coffee and coffee but the lake box kept playing and it didn't take long for the couples to fill the dance floor again. The dancing continued until 11:30 p. m. when the music stopped and the couples were dismissed. The program was a success and the couples who came for an enjoyable evening of dancing.

Chaplain Dierksen has announced the beginning of a week-long program to be held in the Station Chapel each Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. The program will consist of a movie on a religious subject and possible discussion of religious matters after the movie has been shown. All hands are invited to attend the weekly programs and are encouraged to bring their friends with them. Tonight's program will be a movie entitled "Search For Happiness." The Chaplain says he chose 6:30 p. m. for the program because it will be a convenient time for all hands to attend. The program will be concluded in time for everyone to go ahead with any other plans they may have for the evening.

The former Miss Bobbie Wadsworth of Sanford became the wife of "W" Thomason Friday and the newlyweds are now residing in an apartment at Second & Palmetto here in Sanford. "W" is a Seaman attached to the NAAS Security Department.

The U. S. Flag aboard the station was flying at half-mast yesterday and today in tribute to the Honorable Francis P. Matthews, who passed away on Oct. 18. The Honorable Mr. Matthews was the Secretary of the Navy from May 25, 1949 to July 31, 1951. He was most loyal friend to the U. S. Navy as he was to the entire United States and all naval ships and shore stations kept their National Ensigns at half-mast from 8:00 a. m. local time Tuesday until sunset today as a symbol of the loss of a truly great man.

ROK Troops Retake Bloody Ridge Amid Torrent Of Shells

By STAN CARTER
SEOUL, Oct. 22—South Korean soldiers, scoring a deadly rain of Communist mortar shells, retaken the bloody crest of Sniper Ridge today in a fierce battle with Chinese Reds.

The battle took to the top of the Central Front hill nine hours after being chased off by about 1,500 Chinese.

The Reds seized the peak just after daybreak. A battery of 100-mm. mortars and a battery of 120-mm. mortars dug in on the south slope. The South Koreans held, and at 9 a. m. began their counterattack.

For more than six hours they battled slowly up the muddy, shell-scarred slopes. The Reds pounded them with shattering barrages of mortar and artillery fire, but still they inched forward.

Then, in a final charge, the ROK troops poured over the top and drove the Chinese back with showers of hand grenades.

AP correspondent John Randolph reported from the front that the South Koreans secured the high ground at 2:20 p. m. They dug in hurriedly and awaited new Red attacks. They also faced another night of drenching rain.

Little action was reported elsewhere along the 15-mile battle front. Allied warplanes, hampered by clouds, fog and rain, made comparatively few strikes against Red front lines.

In Washington, the Navy announced that two hits from a Red shore battery killed seven men and wounded one aboard the destroyer escort Lewis. The Lewis was covering two South Korean mine sweepers operating off the East Coast of North Korea.

Length Of Battle Front Service To Remain 9 Months

TOKYO (AP)—Gen. Mark Clark under Pentagon pressure today reversed an order requiring battle front troops to stay in the line 9 1/2 months before they are eligible for rotation home. The time remains at nine months, of 30 points under the Army's system.

But Clark said that area troops in Korea and those in Japan would have to serve longer than previously because of a lack in replacements. No specific point quota was announced. Clark earlier had set it at 30.

Clark's statement was issued after Secretary of Defense Lovett said in Washington the Pentagon had overruled Clark's Sept. 7 order requiring 30 instead of 36 points for rotation.

The Army gives four points a month in the battle line. It gives three points monthly to troops serving immediately behind the front and two points a month to troops far in the rear. Troops in Japan get one point monthly. If their families are with them, 1 1/2 points monthly otherwise.

"Permanent solution to the problem of rotation," Clark said, "depends upon the arrival of replacements from the United States, for it is obvious that departures cannot exceed arrivals if combat efficiency is to be maintained."

Two Candidates

talks were relatively free of campaign politics. These comments were the nearest approaches to party campaigning.

By Eisenhower—"We must get our own administrative house in order" to better handle foreign economic cooperation. Various government agencies involved now "go their several, uncoordinated, though well-meaning ways."

By Stevenson—"We cannot set an example (for other countries) if we succumb to the economic reactionaries and to the hate and hysteria mongers. The things they stand for do not represent America at its best."

Eisenhower called for "a substitute for the purely temporary business of bolstering the free nations through annual handouts" which get "neither permanent results nor real friends."

Both candidates saw communism as the challenge to peace.

"With experienced and dedicated leadership, we shall meet this new challenge of Godless tyranny," said Eisenhower. "Then and then only can we look forward to an enduring peace and a great destiny."

Stevenson said leadership must be borne by the U. S. and added: "We must be strong until the enemies of freedom are ready and willing to join the free nations in honest disarmament."

Both men called on the U. S. to set an example for the world. Said Eisenhower: "We must show what they can accomplish elsewhere."

And Stevenson: "We want that image (we reflect to the world) to be an image of sanity, serenity and moral as well as economic and military strength of freedom and justice and confidence."

Together with our closest allies, Eisenhower said, a long-term consistent program must be produced "directing all of our economic power toward reviving free world economies and trade as a whole, instead of restricting our concern to emergency relief and isolated, piecemeal actions."

Stevenson cautioned that the free nations' efforts must be kept in balance. "There would be no point in setting a pace so fast," Stevenson said, "that we or our allies would exhaust ourselves."

He also told how co-operation between the City departments and the public school system made possible a wider and better recreation program for both white and colored children.

Mr. Lawton called particular attention to the fine recreation program provided for the children of Oviedo through the efforts of the school system in co-operation with the PTA and Woman's Club of Oviedo. He also cited the Longwood program made possible by school and community organization.

Mrs. Harold Appley said seven Seminole County children are now attending the Forest Park School for Exceptional Children in Orlando in her report on the school. However, she asked the committee that several other county children need these services.

The Boy Scouts are organized and ready to handle the County's "get-out-the-vote" campaign," Scout Director John Peterson reported.
