

Veterans Hold Memorial Services

By Jess Caselberry
In spite of threatening skies a large group of grateful Americans gathered in Caselberry Thursday afternoon at the Memorial Park of American Legion Post 256 to pay tribute to those who had given their lives to this nation's defense. The Lyman High School Marching Greyhound Band played for a parade of veterans from the town's Municipal Building to the Park for the Memorial Day Services.

A Color Guard consisting of Clyde Kerce, William Elder, Frank Messick and Wilbur Morry, led the parade. Wreaths were placed at the base of the flagpole by Commander George Howard of VFW Post 10066 and Commander Harold Kryder of the American Legion Post. The band played the Star Spangled Banner. Rev. Delmas Copeland of the Caselberry Community Methodist Church gave the invocation. Larry Maplesden, Americanism Chairman of Post 256, acted as master of ceremonies. Rev. Darwin Shea, post chaplain, delivered the principal address and Rev. John N. Montgomery of Westminster Presbyterian Church and Rev. Ronald E. Miller of the Messiah Lutheran Church each gave a short inspirational talk.

The audience stood silently at attention in a light rain for the climax of the program which brought a lump to the throat of those present as Paul McGhee of the Lyman Band played Taps on his trumpet while Frank Evans echoed back each phrase from nearby Quail Pond.

Rev. C. R. Zehnder of the Ascension Lutheran Church read as his benediction a prayer written by George Washington.

Altamonte Scouts—Explorers Sponsor Successful Dinner

By Louise Simunek
A delicious chicken dinner was served to more than 200 persons by the Boy Scouts in Troop 38 and Explorers in Post 38 in Altamonte Springs. The boys were gratified by the turnout on this project as they had put in a lot of hard work.

Proceeds of this affair will be divided between the two groups and be used to purchase some badly needed camping equipment.

Following the dinner the boys built a large council fire in back of Altamonte School and presented a unique program to the public. Colonel James Bennett presented the charter of the National Rifle Association to the Explorers. A Court of Honor was held and Micky Hawks was advanced to First Class which was the only advancement earned in the troop at this time. Personal Fitness merit badges were awarded to Raymond Gaines, Gary Garesche, Mickey Hawks, John Newell, Mike Rickett, Jack Simunek and Raymond Temple. Citizenship Merit Badges was awarded to Raymond Gaines and the Music Merit Badge to Mickey Hawks.

After the Court of Honor the boys enacted several skits and the evening was rounded off by an elaborate demonstration of Indian Snake Dances by the Tipisa Lodge, Kaliga Chapter, Order of the Arrow. The boys danced to the haunting drum beat with live snakes entwined around their arms and, as the dance ended, the boys were holding the large snakes in their mouths.

A fitting ending to the program was the plays of taps by Jimmy Fuller.

"LET'S TALK DRY CLEANING"

By - WOODROW CASH

The National Institute of Dry-cleaning is a term unknown to the average person, but to those in the trade, it represents the ultimate in teaching and practicing dry cleaning. In 1948, M. L. Raborn the late owner of the Downtown Cleaners, and I were members of the 6th class graduated at NID in Silver Springs, Md. According to their roster, in the year 1950 there were 2 graduates of NID in Sanford, while Orlando had 1. We went through an extensive course in chemistry, fur treatment and storage, analysis of fabric and treatment of clothes preparatory to cleaning. This is a long step from the early days when I first entered the dry cleaning business. Then anyone could open a cleaning shop. Cotton was cotton, wool was wool, or rayon was pure rayon. When I worked as a high school boy, the cleaner was an illiterate boy who could neither read nor write. His method of telling one cleaning compound from another was by his sense of smell. At that time, the cleaning process consisted of a simple method of clean and press. Difficult spots were considered impossible to remove. In today's modern shop of bottles of spotting fluids, chemical compounds, synthetic materials, this former cleaner would be at a loss as to whether he was in a cleaning shop or a modern chemical laboratory. We are assisted by the bulletins and brochures mailed at regular intervals by NID on the new types of materials being produced, the recommended cleaning method, and the safest way to protect our customers' investment in their clothes. We feel our greatest ally is NID, who we can always turn to for advice and assistance. For the most progressive dry cleaning in Sanford today, call, or drop by, the Downtown Cleaners at 113 Palmetto Avenue, phone FA 2-5292.

Oviedo May Lose Lee Gary As Mayor

LEE GARY

A new state law which became effective Monday may cost Oviedo its mayor of the last 14 years. The new law provides that one person shall not hold or seek election to two public offices at the same time. Lee Gary is now in his 14th year as mayor of Oviedo, having been elected to seven two-year terms. His present term expires at the end of this year. Also, he served three years as city councilman of Oviedo prior to his election as mayor.

Local Eye Bank Is Incorporated As SHEBA, Inc.

The executive board of the Seminole Hospital Eye Bank Association signed incorporation papers Monday and now will be known officially as SHEBA, Inc., Mrs. Frank Woodruff, board member said. Chairman of the organization is Lions Club member Dr. Richard H. Dougherty. Incorporation papers were drawn by Attorney Carroll Burke, also a member of the Lions Club.

The organization is affiliated with the North Florida Eye Bank for Restoring Sight, Inc., founded by the Lions Clubs of North Florida with headquarters at the J. Hillis Miller Medical Center, University of Florida, Gainesville. The groups are both affiliated with the Eye Bank Assn. of America.

The question of age has no bearing and the cause of death has little significance, Mrs. Woodruff added. The Eye Bank is wholly dependent upon the support of the public and financial donations are always gratefully received, Mrs. Woodruff said.

Since the beginning of the organization in Seminole County, nearly 200 persons have signed up to donate their eyes that others might see. The most recent donation card was signed by Mrs. Cary Collins, of Paola.

Mrs. Woodruff asked that anyone wishing further information contact officials of SHEBA, Inc. at Seminole Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Irene Lee Watt, who has taught approximately 12,000 children in the past 47 years, is retiring.

In honor of her many years of service and to show the appreciation that her former pupils wish to extend to her, a reception and tea will be held in the luncheon room of Westside School from 3 to 4:30 p. m. June 11.

All her former pupils, teachers, friends and parents are cordially invited to attend. The highly-respected and well-loved teacher has spent 37 of those years in Sanford, mainly in grades two and four "and every year was a pleasure," she says.

Asked who among her students was most outstanding, she replied, "They were all outstanding," and she has saved a stack of letters and many gifts and remembrances given to her by her "children."

Some well-known Sanfordites who were among those she taught are former State Senator Douglas Stenstrom and Mrs. Stenstrom, Mrs. Mildred Wells-Stemper, Dr. John Morgan, Dr. Walter Haynes, State Rep. In addition to her life work of instructing children, she has always been active in church work, in the Story League, the Garden Club and in the American Legion Auxiliary. As might be seen from her biography, she enjoys travel and the out of doors. Never content with halfway measures, she attended the University of Florida in her "spare time," graduating with her B. A. degree in 1930.

Mrs. Watt's daughter, Eleanor, is married to Maj. J. F. Richter and they have two sons, Mike and Frank. Her son, William Watt, and his wife teach in Seminole County schools and they have one daughter, Cynthia.

Airplane Debris Is Located

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI)—Debris found in the stormy seas in the Gulf of Alaska came from a missing military charter plane today.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Pentagon today released a list of persons aboard a Military Air Transport Service plane missing in the Gulf of Alaska. The list included Airman 2-C, Robert F. Dutton, husband of Mrs. Victoria J. Dutton, Route 1, Deland, Fla.

A Royal Canadian Air Force plane later notified the U. S. Coast Guard that it had sighted debris 60 miles west of Graham Island. The plane last reported its position as 150 miles northwest of Ketchikan, Alaska.

The Coast Guard cutter Sorrell, skippered by Lt. Cdr. Claude W. Jenkins, arrived upon the scene shortly after daybreak and reported finding conclusive evidence that the debris had come from the plane, but the Coast Guard spokesman stressed that the plane did not necessarily crash in the ocean, but may have jettisoned cargo over the ocean.

A spokesman aboard the Sorrell said the first ship on the scene, the Japanese ship Hasei Maru, had found a suitcase identified as being from one of the passengers.

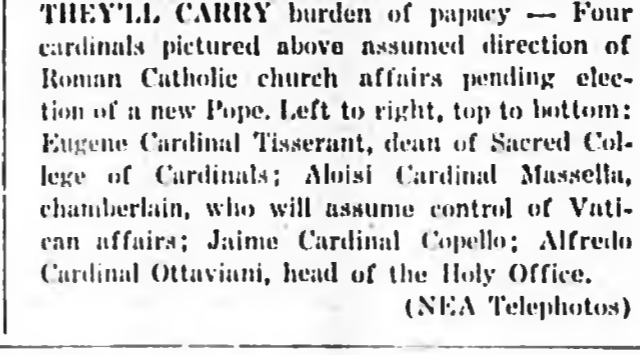

The Sorrell then reported discovery of a life jacket and some women's wearing apparel also identified as having come from the missing plane.

World Is Paying Tribute To Pope

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The body of Pope John XXIII, his face lined with the suffering of four days of agony, lay today in regal raiment in the Vatican Palace where cardinals and diplomats paid their last respects.

This evening the remains will be borne in procession to the Basilica of St. Peter's. Starting Wednesday, hundreds of thousands of the people of Rome and all others who wish, will begin filing by for a final salute to the late pontiff, who gave a new warmth to religious statesmanship.

Pope John died in his simple bed in the apostolic palace Monday night after almost 94 hours of suffering from a stomach tumor and peritonitis.

The suffering showed on his face as he lay richly-robed on a red-draped catafalque placed in a salon of the Vatican Palace. His gloved hands were clasped over a beloved crucifix.

A tall noble guard, wearing plumed helmet and holding his sword at salute position, stood on either side of the catafalque which was flanked by four giant candelas.

Pope John had on soft, richly-embroidered cloth slippers with soles that showed they had been worn.

Pope John's body was brought from his bedroom to the salon shortly after dawn, and at 9 a.m. (3 a.m. EST) there began a steady stream of cardinals and diplomats ranging from President Antonio Segni of Italy to members of the diplomatic corps accredited to the Holy See.

Pope John's face almost had the appearance of a lined statue.

As he lay in death, plans went ahead to choose his successor. The first to visit the Pope in the spectacular chamber in which he lay was the camerlengo, or chamberlain, Benedetto Cardinal Aloisi Masella, who carried for the first time the staff symbolizing his primacy in the church. He holds this authority until the election of a new Pope.

The Pope, son of a northern Italian peasant, brought new ideas and new warmth to religious leadership during his four and one-half year reign, set an example even in death.

Despite four days of agony that touched a listening and watching world, his last prayers were for others. In the words of the Vatican Radio, he showed the world "simply and magnificently how to die."

The visitors filed into the salon to see the Pope's body throughout the morning. Each one, from diplomat and cardinal to Vatican employe, bowed to kiss the red-velvet feet of the Pope as he passed.

The Pope lay with the golden conical-shaped mitre on his head. It glinted in the candlelight.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband's older sister is one for the books. She lives near me and drops in to visit quite often. Lately she has been getting "hot flashes." She tears off her blouse or dress (or whatever she is wearing) and pulls off her beads and earrings like a woman possessed. I have an 11-year-old son and I don't want her undressing in front of him. I have to be on my guard constantly and when she starts having a hot flash I get the boy out of the room, but fast. Now this sister-in-law was widowed in the past year, and I think these flashes are way overdone as a bid for sympathy. Can't her doctor give her shots or pills to help her? She claims he can't.

SISTER-IN-LAW

DEAR SIS: I have a "hot flash" for you, lady. What helps some women is of no help to others. Your sister-in-law needs sympathy and understanding, not criticism.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for eight months now, and happily, except for one thing. My husband still gets phone calls from his ex-wife. They had no children so there are no family or financial ties to discuss. About three months ago I thought the calls had stopped, but I happened to come home for lunch the other day and she called again. My husband seemed embarrassed and got rid of her quickly. I told him he could stop these calls by telling her bluntly he didn't wish to speak to her, but she claims he has already told her that. I trusted him completely until this last call. Do you suppose he enjoys knowing his "ex" is still carrying the torch? How can I put a stop to it? Or is this something a second wife must learn to live with? WIFE NUMBER TWO

DEAR WIFE: An unresolved suspicion is neither healthy nor fun to live with. If your husband does not appreciate these calls, he can put a stop to them by telling his "ex" in more emphatic language. If he "enjoys" them, you have another problem. You are competing with a poor loser who might be angling for another bout.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend and I have been going steady for three years and plan to be married this fall. When I was 15 (I am now 22), I had a child out of wedlock. My parents are raising her as their own child. Everyone thinks she is my younger sister. I told my boy friend all about it, and he said he didn't care about the past. I believe him, too. Abby, before I marry him I think his parents should be told about my mistake. He says he won't tell them, and as long as my parents plan to raise my little girl as their own, no one needs to know. I think his parents deserve to know all about me. Am I right? TROUBLED CONSCIENCE

Jacoby On Bridge By Oswald Jacoby

When I was a small boy, I can remember my grandfather telling me that he should never lead away from a king and that the lead of an unsupported king was even worse.

Since I am now a grandfather I realize that was quite some time back and conditions have changed. There is a time and place for anything at the bridge table and there are plenty of occasions for violating grandfather's rule.

We The Women: By Ruth Millett

An "eternal triangle" that helps break up many a marriage is one we think too little about.

It's the triangle of a man, his wife, and the wife's "best friend." And I mean girl friend.

Too many wives discuss their marriage and its problems with their "best friend." The average husband resents this—and he has a right to resent it.

In fact, he ought to put a stop to it immediately. Lots of young wives, because they got in the habit of confiding in a best friend during their dating years, keep right on talking over private lives after marriage.

As a wife, she should keep her own counsel. And no matter what goes wrong with her marriage, she should put up a good front before her friends.

Her marriage is her business and her husband's and nobody else's. And it is up to her to keep it that way.

The wife who discusses her marriage problems with a friend or tells a friend all her husband's faults is actually being disloyal to her marriage.

If a man is married to a girl who has never stopped to think of it in that light—he ought to set her straight, pronto.

After all, he has a right to be able to feel that what happens in their marriage is a private affair, and that his wife would no more discuss the marriage with her friends or family than he would discuss it with the boys at the office.

Miss Rossman, Thomas R. Sherry Married At Grace Methodist Church

Miss Linda Lee Rossman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack H. Rossman, of Sanford, and Thomas Richard Sherry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Sherry, of Driftwood, Pa., were married May 19, at 2 p.m. at Grace Methodist Church in Sanford.

Rev. John Hires, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with twin arrangements of white roses and baby's breath, on the altar table and burning tapers on the altar. Armon Rossman, brother of the bride, lighted the candles. The altar rail was entwined with fern, mums and baby's breath.

A program of wedding music was presented by organist Roger Harris who also accompanied Mrs. Robert Bennett, soloist. She sang "I Love You Truly," "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown with organza overskirt, scoop neckline, and full length sleeves terminating in points over her hands. Her elbow length veil of silk illusion, was attached to a satin covered pillbox headpiece and she carried a bouquet of white roses on a satin bound prayer book.

Mrs. Thomas Ramsey, matron of honor, wore a ballerina length gown of azure blue organza, over taffeta, similar to the bride's dress, and matching accessories. Her veil was attached to a shaded blue headdress of nylon petals and satin ribbon and she carried a cascade bouquet of shaded blue mums.

Thomas Ramsey was best man and serving as ushers were James Beasley and Walter Michels.

The bride's mother wore a pale blue brocaded taffeta, with matching hat, white accessories and corsage of white roses. The groom's mother wore a two-piece ensemble of white linen with matching accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in Fellowship Hall of the church. The refreshment table was overlaid with a linen cut-work cloth and the centerpiece was an arrangement of Fuji mums, shasta daisies, pom-poms and baby's breath, in a silver container.

Crystal and silver appointments were used and a four tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, mints and punch were served. Assisting with the serving were Mrs. J. N. Leonard, Mrs. L. M. Williams, Mrs. James Beasley and Mrs. Bill Reck. Penelope Waller kept the bride's book. Floating hostesses were Roberta Hankin, Sue Koke and Janet Ely.

For traveling, Mrs. Sherry chose a two piece beige linen suit, blue blouse and accessories and the corsage from her bridal bouquet. They left for a wedding trip to Denver, Colo., where the groom is stationed at Ft. Lowry AFB.

Pope's Imprint Great

From the high pinnacles occupied by the supreme Pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church, it is difficult to appear at once a great religious leader and a warm human being. Pope John XXIII achieved that distinction in his brief 4 1/2 years as Pope.

Possessed of a winning friendliness, he sought from the outset to invest the papacy with a deep sense of humanity. That he succeeded is attested by the fact that millions of people everywhere responded to him with great feeling.

Pope John was stoutly orthodox in his Catholicism. But evidently he did not think it necessary to stress this by holding himself and his office aloof.

He did not fear to innovate. He called an Ecumenical Council, only the first ever to be summoned in some 20 centuries of Catholic history. He consecrated a bishop, using an ancient Greek rite which was novel to Rome. There were many other such touches.

The warmth of his spirit was felt when he visited prisoners in a Rome jail, when he raised the salaries of many in the Vatican, when he broke the old tradition that the Pope must eat alone.

Not all his changes were liberalizing. Many reforms were, in fact, a return to older, largely forgotten ways of doing. In this respect he showed an abiding concern for the historical continuity of the exalted post he held.

Pope John did not forget either that his position gave him rare opportunity to speak to the world as an advocate of peace, of order, of sound morality. His various pronouncements were a powerful force for good in an age that desperately needs that influence.

At 60, Pope John was unknown to the world. Sixteen years later he ascended to the Pope's chair. Many thought his advanced age would make him a kind of "transition Pope" who would have slight effect on the course of Catholicism and religion generally.

Pope John confounded the doubters. He toiled with great vigor and full heart. His years at the pinnacle were few. But his imprint on the spiritual life of the world was great.

Thank Our Stars

Historians and social scientists probably would agree that most adaptations to important social and economic change have been reasonably managed by conservatives—in America and much of the Western world.

The idea that conservatism somehow operates as a bar to progress just does not fit the facts of history.

Through a great part of America's growth, for example, conservative political figures have been in control. Does anyone dare to suggest that this country stood still in that long, long span?

We all know that we did not.

Many years ago some social scientists devoted a hard weekend of thinking to the problem of how change is managed. The consensus was that generally it occurs through a process of "gradualism."

Not only American history, but British, was cited in illustration. The celebrated British capacity for "muddling through" was seen as a curious talent for effective management of gradual change.

What this amounted to is the ability to judge when the buildup of particular problems has reached the stage where intelligent action is called for. If that action comes, social tensions are eased, and the society moves ahead without undue strain.

Grave trouble comes, say the historians and social scientists when men in power try to put a lid on change. Then the result may be not peaceful advance but violent explosion.

The French Revolution was such an instance in history. French monarchs had sought for a century or more to arrest the processes of change. Finally the lid blew off.

The sad fact about the violent outbursts is that they almost inevitably lead to excesses which are avoided by the process of sane gradualism. Thereafter valuable energies can be consumed in correcting the excesses.

Those who try to block all change—and who thereby set the scene for social explosions—are not responsible conservatives at all. They are radicals of a sort, as extreme as the radicals at the leftward end.

The radical "conservatives" no doubt persuade themselves that they are busy "preserving the values of the past." But a course which tries to preserve these at the cost of all change leads only to their ultimate destruction by explosion.

Some who resist change believe sincerely they are not simply keeping the status quo for themselves but handing down a "sound heritage" of unchanging values to their descendants and successors. What they are really handing down is the certainty of an explosion.

The instinct of intelligent conservatives is to keep the processes of change under sensible control, to blend the best of the past with elements of the new, to make sure that escape-valves for society's tensions are always at work. A people thus guided moves ahead rationally if slowly.

But total resistance is like a cap on a volcanic cone. Beneath the cap, great counter-forces build. When the inevitable violent upthrust comes, it may engulf everything around the cone—good and bad.

We in America—and our friends in the free West—must thank our stars that we have most often been led by men who could see the peril of total resistance, and chose instead to keep us moving slowly but surely ahead.

BACK TO THE OLD FRONTIER

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

CASE P-456: Clark G., age 20, is the Journalism student who wanted to learn the secrets of human interest.

So I told him that people are interested chiefly in themselves, now!

The secret of human interest is thus wrapped up inside our own skin, now!

Every inch that a writer or speaker moves away from our skin in space, we tend to lose interest.

For example, you are far more concerned about your own aching corn or bunion than about Mr. Kennedy's lame back.

And your own painful corn monopolizes your attention far more than any painful people ulcer that Khrushchev may have.

Furthermore, people are more interested in "today" than in "tomorrow."

Offer school children their choice of half a day's vacation today vs. a whole day off next week, and they'll generally take the half day TODAY.

The ancient Hebrews showed this same tendency. For they actually revolted against Moses in the wilderness.

They wanted to go back to slavery under the cruel whips of the Egyptians, because they had empty stomachs in the Wilderness.

Their future freedom when they were due to enter their Promised Land, did not appeal to them as much as a full stomach, NOW.

And that is typical of millions of voters. They'll sell out the freedoms of the U. S. Constitution if somebody offers them a half dollar or a stein of beer on election day.

Applied to writing and the stage or speaker's rostrum, this means the audience prefers words that refer to themselves, now!

But you must distinguish between logic vs. emotion.

Nouns and verbs are almost devoid of human attributes and so are dry, "easy" sermons.

Textbooks usually make dull reading while novels and fiction stories are fascinating.

Because logic is without sensory qualities! And emotions depend on eyes, ears, nose, tongue or touch—the five senses.

To stimulate these senses, we find that adjectives are better than nouns! And narration is far superior to the essay format.

Yesterday I contrasted the factual statement, "The boy is walking," with the similar statement made more appealing to our sense organs, "The little immigrant boy is walking with tears in his eyes, carrying his dead puppy."

People can identify themselves more easily with your verbal scenes when you stimulate their sense organs. Adjectives and modifying phrases are the chief stimulators of emotion.

Notice these sample adjectives, "Fearful, hungry, furious, horrible, tearful, chilly, devoted, humble, prayerful, etc."

Logic depends chiefly on noun and action words called verbs.

Logic may be essential to carry the audience to the proper conclusion. But logic is like the bones of our skeleton. And a skeleton does not possess adequate humanizing qualities to permit empathy.

So adjectives permit the writer or speaker to add the dynamic flesh and blood to that logical skeleton which will fascinate an audience.

So send for my booklet "How to Write Salable Copy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON — (NKA) — The conflict between city and country is responsible for much of the controversy over some of the more important legislative proposals before Congress this year.

A dozen of the largest metropolitan areas, bogged down by their own phenomenal growth like dinosaurs in quicksand, are clamoring for help from the federal government to solve their mass transportation problems. Rural area congressmen couldn't care less.

Conversely, American farmers who have just rejected strict government controls over wheat production now look to Congress to save them from greatly reduced prices next year and bail them out with a new subsidy. City congressmen, tired of appropriating millions to support prices on unneeded farm production, would just as soon let farmers stew in their own sweat.

There is a possibility here that the two sides might get together in a mutual back-scratching hug that would give both what they want at the expense of the U. S. Treasury. That has been done before. But it is admittedly no way to solve problems.

The great shift of U. S. population from country to city that is responsible for this conflict has been going on for more than a century.

In 1800 the United States was 20 per cent urban, 80 per cent rural. In 1900 it was 30 per cent rural, 70 per cent urban, almost a complete reversal. This trend continues.

A forthcoming Twentieth Century Fund study, "Farms and Farmers in an Urban Age," goes into this problem in depth. The author is Edward Higbee, former Department of Agriculture conservationist, now professor of land utilization, University of Rhode Island. He points out that the number of American farms has dropped from 8.8 million in 1938 to fewer than 3.7 million now and is probably headed for under a million by 1960.

"Since agriculture has developed a highly effective production machine and its unneeded human resources have been shifted to the city," Higbee writes that, "America has been confronted by two kinds of surpluses. In the country is a surplus of food. In the city is a surplus of labor"

"Thus far the federal budget to relieve the problem of farm surpluses has been more generous than the federal budget to relieve the urban problems of surplus people."

This development has been responsible for a political realignment in America. Prosperous farmers have been traditionally businessmen and Republicans. But their numbers are decreasing. In contrast, the city dweller has also the great depression shifted more and more to the Democratic side, particularly in the lower income brackets. Their number is increasing.

One of the major problems of the Republican Party today is how to capture a larger share of the urban vote, as distinguished from the higher income suburban vote which is largely GOP.

This brings up still another problem—reapportionment. Making a first public report on research done by Nan Market of University of Chicago, Dr. Philip M. Hauser, former assistant director of the Census Bureau, has found that the population density of a congressional district influences the congressman's voting record.

On 12 key issues before the last Congress, three-fourths of over 100 congressmen from districts with a population density of 1,000 to 50,000 to the square mile voted "liberal" consistently. The remainder, who represented the more prosperous districts, voted conservative more than half the time. But the denser the population, the more liberal the voting record.

In contrast, among 800 congressmen from districts with fewer than 100 persons to the square mile, conservative votes outnumbered liberal votes 5-to-2. And nearly half of the conservatives voted that way all the time.

Carrying this study into the state government field, Dr. Hauser declared in a Stanford University lecture that under-representation of urban areas and over-representation of rural areas had undoubtedly kept the governments of each of the 50 states as well as that of the nation more conservative than the people. And he predicted that the Supreme Court's decision on state reapportionment cases "may produce a most dramatic economic and social change" in the United States.

Phil Newsom Says . . .

African Unity Years Off

Twenty-eight years ago when Emperor Haile Selassie, of Ethiopia, pleaded in vain for League of Nations action to regain his throne from the Italian invader, he served inadvertently as the catalyst which ended any hope for the league as a world force.

Last week in Addis Ababa the 71-year-old emperor served as a catalyst of another sort.

For it was at his invitation that heads of state or their representatives from 30 independent African nations met in Addis Ababa's new Africa Hall to draft a charter of African unity.

Speakers of the various leaders, themselves, made it obvious that any real African unity is years away by the most optimistic estimate.

Yet that agreement was reached on any charter at all represented a signal triumph.

For meeting in Africa Hall were such personally ambitious leaders as President Gamal Abdel Nasser, of the United Arab Republic, Premier Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria, and President Kwame Nkrumah, of Ghana.

Brought together were such militantly neutral African states as the Casablanca group and the more moderate and more pro-Westerner Monrovia group.

Deeply involved with his efforts to bring Syria and Iraq into the UAR and with success still in doubt, Nasser, contented himself mainly with the role of observer.

Ben Bella brought the conference to its feet on the one subject upon which they could be said to be united—anti-colonialism. He said he had 10,000 volunteers who would fight colonialism, notably in Portuguese Mozambique, Angola and Guinea.

But he also advocated the go-slow policy espoused by Haile Selassie.

The conference also brought together two antagonists of long standing. They were Nkrumah, long an advocate of a strong central African union, who told the delegates they "must unite now or perish," and Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, prime minister of Nigeria.

They first collided in 1960 when Sir Abubakar coldly informed Nkrumah that Nigeria had given up one form of colonialism, simply to fall prey to another.

Nkrumah is an ambitious man whose ambitions extend considerably beyond tiny Ghana. Suspicious of his motives held by other African leaders reflected themselves in the conference.

Town To Talk Over New Post

Recommendations will be made at Wednesday night's meeting of the Altamonte Springs Town Council that H. C. "Ace" Brown, former assistant water works superintendent for the city of Apopka, be hired as inspector and supervisor of construction for Altamonte's new municipal water system.

Decision to recommend Brown, one of seven interviewed by councilmen and Glace Co. engineer Harold Radcliffe, was reached after several applicants were heard at the council meeting on May 22, Mayor Lawrence Swofford told the Herald today.

Swofford, emphasizing the fact that there was no secrecy about the interviews, said that the only reason the press was permitted to leave was that there could be no final decision made concerning the job at that time since a full council was not present for the meeting.

Come hill... or high water
Vacations go smoother in a Chevrolet Corvair

Bring on those mountains! They're not so high and mighty when you've got Corvair's gully air and rear-engine traction working on them.

You scurry up the mountain grades. You move with sure-footed agility on wet pavement, muddy lanes, gravel and other would-be miseries.

And with most of Corvair's weight on the rear wheels, you have easy steering, too. Fact is, the handling's so light and responsive we don't even offer power steering for the car.

And there's more to feel good about. No problems with your radiator boiling over or going dry, because there's no radiator. Corvair's engine is air cooled. No concern about brake adjustments, either, because the brakes adjust themselves. Nothing much to think about at all except the good time you're having.

Farrell Slips In 2-1 Win

By United Press International
Giving 'em the slip is still Dick Farrell's No. 1 skill.
A strapping, 29-year old fireballer from Boston, Farrell won fame with the Philadelphia Phillies as one of the "Dalton Boys"—three fun-loving pitchers who thought training rules were for Vassar girls.

After 5½ years the Phillies traded Farrell to the Los Angeles Dodgers, from whom the Houston Colts purchased him for $125,000 in the National League's famous expansion draft on Oct. 10, 1961.
At Houston, general manager Paul Richards educated Dick in a new form of the "slip"—a Richards-invented curveball which has rounded out Farrell's pitching equipment and made him one of the best right-handers in baseball.

Farrell had only a 10-0 record with the Colts last season but Richards said he pitched like a "25-game winner" and called him among the best pitchers in baseball.

Farrell gave his former Dodger teammates a sample of his new-found art of the "slip" Monday night when he pitched a no-hitter for 7½ innings and wound up with a two-hit, 2-1 triumph over Los Angeles. Farrell didn't allow the Dodgers' first hit until Dick Tracewski singled in the eighth, and lost his shutout in the ninth when Sumner Gilliam tripled and scored on Tommy Davis' sacrifice fly.

Rookie Rusty Staub's first big league homer, with Carl Warwick on base in the fourth inning, gave Farrell the edge he needed to raise his season record to 5-6 and deal last year's 25-game winner Don Drysdale his sixth loss against the same number of victors.

The Chicago White Sox moved into a second-place tie with Baltimore in the American League when they beat the Los Angeles Angels, 4-0, and the Kansas City Athletics downed the Minnesota Twins, 4-1, in the only other major league games of the day. The White Sox, however, lost the services of first-baseman Joe Cunningham for an estimated eight weeks when he suffered a broken collar bone.

Drysdale, who had a 25-9 record last season, struck out 13 Colts and walked only one. Farrell had five strikeouts and three walks. The "slip" is similar to a change of pace although it has some "break" to it in addition to being a slow ball thrown with the sweeping motion of a fast ball.

Eddie Fisher pitched a four-hitter for the White Sox behind a nine-hit attack that included two hits each by Pete Ward and Sherman Lollar. Bob Turley yielded all the White Sox runs in five innings and suffered his fifth loss against one win. Cunningham tripped over first base in the fifth inning and the injury was diagnosed by Dr. Robert Kerlan as a broken collar bone.

Dave Wickersham's four-hitter enabled the Athletics to spoil Camilo Pascual's bid for the 10th win of his career. A homer by Doc Edwards and a single by Ed Charles were the key hits of the Athletics' seven-hit attack.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Yankees and the New York Mets have rescheduled their rained-out sandlot benefit exhibition game to the night of June 20 despite the fact it creates an awkward day-night doubleheader for the world champions.

In the teenage stock seat equitation, class nine, Mary Lucy, of Winter Haven, won the first place ribbon, with Margo Foster, of Orlando, second and Jane Bradbury, of Maitland, third.

Baseball's Chief Is 'Proud'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick met the gambling question head-on today, without flinching, sidestepping or denying "it" could happen to baseball just as it has to other sports.

The commissioner said he is proud of baseball's clean record overall although he is "not gloating over it."
"Who knows?" he said. "We might have some kind of incident tomorrow. I rather doubt it, though, because I have great confidence in our players."

Despite his confidence, Frick feels it still requires "a constant awareness" on the part of everyone connected with baseball, including his office, club owners, managers, players and even clubhouse boys, to maintain the integrity of the game.

Speaking straight from the shoulder on an admittedly touchy subject, Frick revealed that he has called certain players before him to speak with them regarding "rumors" that were brought to his attention.

"But," he added, knocking wood on the top of his mahogany desk, "never once has there ever been an accusation of any ballplayer throwing a game or betting against his own team during the 12 years I have been commissioner."

Due to the recent National Football League scandal and the frequent basketball investigations, there has been greater concern about gambling in all sports than ever before.

Frick insisted, however, he is "not running scared."
"Don't get me wrong," he said. "We certainly don't have our heads in the sand, but the NFL case has not caused us to take any step we did not take before."

"What it did do was to serve to alert us. Anytime a thing like this happens it brings you up on your toes," Frick explained his office operates its own policing system. "Although that doesn't mean we're doing detective work into the players' private lives."

"Players are human beings and, like all human beings, they have their weaknesses. My prime interest is not in regulating the lives of players, but in keeping them aware of the possible dangers they face."

"Specifically, I'm speaking of players being in the company of questionable associates. To me, that's far more important than any so-called gambling threat."
"No matter how innocent a player may be, he is immediately subject to public scrutiny if he associates with any type of undesirable element."
"And once the public doubts a player, it also doubts the game."

Warring Amateurs Turn To MacArthur

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who has had moderate success as mediator of America's warring amateur sports bodies, today faced further appeals by the NCAA and AAU concerning "open" track meets.

The Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) announced that its 132 member colleges have, in effect, been told not to enter AAU-sanctioned track meets, including the scheduled New York A.C. Games Saturday unless a sanction was obtained from the U. S. Track and Field Federation (USTFE).

George Shieber, aide to ECAC secretary-treasurer Ann S. Bushnell, acknowledged that permission will be granted by the ECAC for its athletes to compete if: "1, the meet is completely sanctioned by the AAU and 2, the AAU seeks and obtains sanction, authorization and approval from the U. S. Track and Field Federation."

Bushnell, in a late statement, said instructions to member schools regarding open meet competition "was not a directive setting up new restrictions, but merely a clarification of existing regulations."
"We positively have not ordered our member colleges to withhold their track and field athletes from the national AAU championships," Bushnell said.

Floridian Takes '500'

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—The same old caddy but a new grip on his driver pulled Dow Finsterwald out of gold-dom's doldrums today with his first major victory in more than three years.

The former PGA champion from Tequesta, Fla., banged home two birdies on the final three holes Monday for a three-under-par 68 to win the fourth annual $55,000 "500 Festival" golf tourney by two shots.

That gave him a 72-hole score of 288, 16 under par, and $10,000 top money and boosted him from ninth to sixth place in earnings on this year's circuit with $28,543.

Finsterwald, who now heads for the Buick Open at Flint, Mich., grabbed his first victory since the New Orleans Open in 1960. He set the stage for the showdown with a red-hot seven-under-par 64 that tied him for the 54-hole lead with Julius Boros.

Dissatisfied with his driver despite his fine round, he changed the grip for the final round and that and his caddy may have made the difference.

"I thought my driving was much better," said Finsterwald. "And my caddy, Tom Vinson, was a big help, too, especially in figuring the yardage from hole to hole."

Last March, MacArthur issued a statement, which the AAU claimed upheld the right of its organization as the sole sanctioning body in the U. S. for open track and field competition.

Central Index For Service Agencies Set

A central index registry for local service and social agencies is being established by Mrs. B. F. Ganas, executive secretary of the United Fund of Seminole County.

"The service is designed as a confidential file, to be used only by participating agencies to better coordinate services and promote efficiency in the handling of cases by eliminating duplication," Mrs. Ganas said.

"In many instances, the file would tend to expedite aid to those in need," she added.

Local agencies included in the central index registration include the Mental Health Association, the Salvation Army, the Seminole County Welfare Department, the Seminole County Health Clinic, the State Department of Public Welfare, Seminole County Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, the Probation and Parole Commission, Veterans County Service Office, Seminole County Vocational School, the Ministerial Association, and the Seminole County TB and RD Association.

State Employment Service Manager Joe Foy has indicated his full cooperation in assisting in the placement of any individuals with whom the various agencies are working.

"This is another example of the many services performed for the people of this county by the United Fund," said Mrs. Ganas.

Kennedy Asks Businessmen For Support

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy sought today to enlist the support of prominent businessmen for the civil rights program he plans to send Congress next week.

The President scheduled a 5 p.m. (EDT) meeting at the White House with 100 executives whose firms operate widely through the South. Kennedy had hoped to get his special civil rights message to Congress today, but administration sources said he had postponed the legislation to await conferences—such as today's—which he and Atty Gen. Robert F. Kennedy feel are vital to success of the program.

One of the proposals under consideration is reported to permit the attorney general to file suits on behalf of Negroes excluded from public schools and other facilities. Another would forbid racial discrimination in business dealing in interstate commerce — presumably hotels, motels, some stores, theaters, restaurants and such.

Involved in today's meeting were representatives from chain stores, restaurants, hotels and theaters, the target of many Negro demonstrations recently.

Among those invited to the White House meeting were Mrs. L. Claughton, president of Cloughton Theatres, Miami, and L. Finske, president of Florida State Theatres, Jacksonville.

The President leaves Wednesday on a speaking and inspection trip to the West Coast. He will return to the White House Monday morning for final work on the civil rights message and the accompanying legislation.

Cuban Experiences Shared With Casselberry Methodists

By Jane Casselberry
The congregation of the Casselberry Community Methodist Church gained more insight into what the Communist takeover in Cuba meant to the Methodist school and churches there when three speakers shared their personal experiences last Sunday night.

Jose and Rosita Martinez told of the many kindnesses shown them when they were forced to flee Castro's wrath with their three children aged three weeks, 18 months and three years.

Dave Rankin, son of Rev. and Mrs. Victor Rankin, Methodist missionaries to Cuba for many years, who is now in the United States to further his education, also told of his experiences in Cuba.

Rev. Delmas Copeland introduced the Martinezes, telling of their friendship and how their lives had been a real inspiration to him.

Tears came to Senora Martinez' eyes when four members of the Cherub Choir sang "Jesus Loves Me" in Spanish with the whole congregation joining in on the next chorus. "Christo me ama . . ."

Lovely Senora Martinez, known to TV viewers as Senorita Rosita, formerly taught in a Methodist school in Cuba where Chinese Communists are now teaching the doctrine of Marx.

The Martinezes were among the few who were not deceived by Castro's promises. When she told the truth about Communism to her pupils instead of propaganda, her home was searched repeatedly, allegedly for "mosquitos."

When it became obvious that their lives were in danger and that they must leave the country, a Methodist minister in Winter Garden became their sponsor and sent them airline tickets for the trip.

They turned their backs on their lovely home and, with limited funds and the possessions they could carry, came to the United States. Rosita could not speak any English at that time and with great foresight, Jose told his pretty wife to answer all questions by pointing to him and saying, "Thees ees my husband."

Rankin told of going to Cuba at the age of six years with his missionary parents to build a school and churches and to train Cuban ministers.

The Rankins left Cuba when it became obvious that because they were from the U. S. the lives of Cubans with whom they associated were being endangered. In 1960 many of the native ministers also were forced to leave.

Cuba has deteriorated and today young people of the secondary school level are out teaching younger children communist propaganda.

In spite of indoctrination and persecution there still are young Christians who work as volunteers to lead small groups in Bible study and worship. The need for Bibles for Cuba was emphasized by Rankin who also told of the difficulties encountered in bringing them into the country.

Village Buys Fire Truck

Definite steps to provide fire protection in North Orlando were taken Tuesday evening when the Village Council voted unanimously to put a $200 binder with the Union Park Fire Dept. for another truck and authorized Fire Chief Bill Hahn to go ahead with reorganization of the volunteer fire department.
A total price of $100 is being asked for the 1918 Ford truck which comes with an 800-gallon water tank and a 20-foot extension ladder. It is dual wheel, has good rubber and is in good running condition but will need an auxiliary pump at a cost of $325. Even so, it was the decision of Council and of those inspecting the truck that overall costs would be less than those needed to put the present 1929 vintage equipment in working order.
Council authorized Mrs. Irene Van Espoel to contact Chassin Insurance Agency on the possibility of getting coverage for the volunteer firemen at the same time police are written for the volunteer police after it was decided to get action started for the firemen.

The pair, Joseph M. Curry, 49, and Fred M. Gilbert, 45, are charged with first degree murder in the fatal beating of Floyd Dodson, of Paola, at a St. Johns River fishing camp May 14.
At a preliminary hearing Tuesday, Justice of the Peace J. S. Peterson set bond at $25,000 each. They are in Volusia County jail in lieu of bond. Two other men, Walter William Payne and Herman Turner, also are charged with first degree murder in the case and are being sought.

Overpopulation Considered Peril

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Historian Arnold J. Toynbee told a 10-nation food conference today that when mankind has conquered pestilence, war and crop failure it will still face a fourth peril—the "thundering tramp" of overpopulation.
His two-fold solution: — Establish a worldwide agency to administer production and distribution of food. — Extensive birth control.

Alaskan Crash Is Probed

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Bits of wreckage and human remains from the crash or ditching of a Northwest Orient Airlines DC7 in the Gulf of Alaska were expected in Ketchikan today aboard the Coast Guard cutter Sorrell.
Preparations for an investigation of the third worst air disaster involving predominantly military personnel will get under way at the Annette Island Coast Guard Station.
Although the Coast Guard said no conclusions could be reached yet about what caused the plane to fall into the gulf Monday, a spokesman said whatever happened was fast.
"It appears either the impact was tremendous or there was an explosion," Lt. Col. Owen Siler, directing Coast Guard operations at Ketchikan, said.
"Whatever happened happened very quickly because the plane didn't answer two minutes after it made its position report," he said.
Siler said the possibility of a bomb aboard the aircraft "could not be ruled out." He said he did not believe any of the bodies found so far were intact.
A Royal Canadian Air Force plane first spotted the floating debris about eight hours after the DC7's last radio contact. No survivors were found.

"Some of you will fly the fastest planes, reach the highest altitudes and lift the heaviest payloads of any aviator in history," he told the graduates. "Some of you will hold in your hands the most awesome destructive power that man has ever conceived."
"Some of you will work with the new leaders of new nations which were not even nations a few years ago. Some of you will support guerrilla and counter-guerrilla operations that combine the newest techniques of warfare with the oldest techniques of the jungle."
"And some of you will help to develop new planes that spread their wings in flight, detect other planes at unheard of distances, deliver new weapons with unprecedented accuracy and survey the ground from incredible heights."
Thus the President pictured what he called the "onrush of technology" which he predicted would lead to a constantly expanding role for the U. S. Air Force.
Kennedy also said the greatest value of "these new weapons of massive retaliation" lay in their ability to deter the very war which would require their use.

House Debates Finance Plan

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The House kicked off debate on the Governor's $125 million bond financing program today but bogged down in arguments over proposed changes in the plan.
Rep. Earl Faircloth, of Dade, sought to alter the proposal to back any bond issues for higher education construction with general revenue bonds. Under the Senate-passed plan, bonds would be backed by a pledge of revenue from the $22 million gross receipts tax on utilities.
Faircloth said putting a pledge of general state funds behind the bonds would reduce interest costs. He said if the State could save only one-half of one percent in interest, it would mean $18 million on the overall issue.

Senate To Act Next In Trial

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The House did an about-face today and impeached Pasco Circuit Judge Richard Kelly by a vote of 89-28.

Politics, Military Tied - JFK

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — President Kennedy said today the Cuban crisis had demonstrated that military policy and power must be tied closely to political and diplomatic decisions in the future.
The President is on the first leg of a five-day inspection and speaking trip which the president extended at the last minute to include Hawaii.
In a commencement address at the U. S. Air Force Academy Stadium here, Kennedy told the young Air Force officers that the nation would need military commanders "who can foresee the effects of military moves on the whole fabric of international power."
"We need men who can cope with the challenge of new political situations as well as new enemy weapons — who can keep their forces flexible as well as reliable, and alert without being trigger happy," he said. "For we live in a world where the principal problems are not susceptible of military solutions alone."
In his prepared remarks Kennedy attacked the suggestion that an Air Force career was "mortgaged to an obsolete weapons system, the manned aircraft."
The President said there was no truth to the forecast that Air Force officers of the future would be "nothing more than so-called 'silent silt sitters.'"
"Some of you will fly the fastest planes, reach the highest altitudes and lift the heaviest payloads of any aviator in history," he told the graduates. "Some of you will hold in your hands the most awesome destructive power that man has ever conceived."
"Some of you will work with the new leaders of new nations which were not even nations a few years ago. Some of you will support guerrilla and counter-guerrilla operations that combine the newest techniques of warfare with the oldest techniques of the jungle."
"And some of you will help to develop new planes that spread their wings in flight, detect other planes at unheard of distances, deliver new weapons with unprecedented accuracy and survey the ground from incredible heights."

Senate To Act Next In Trial

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The House did an about-face today and impeached Pasco Circuit Judge Richard Kelly by a vote of 89-28.
The surprise action came after the House voted by voice vote to reconsider the action by which it Tuesday refused to impeach the Republican jurist.
Some vote-switching overnight was enough to make the difference.
The House refused by a slim seven-vote margin to impeach. The vote Tuesday was 72-47. The 10 additional votes were either switches or from members who were absent Tuesday.
The Senate will have to meet later this summer to try the judge.
The fast impeachment automatically relieves Kelly of his duties as judge.
If the Senate, by a two-thirds vote, should convict him, he should be removed from office. If it fails to convict, he'd be reinstated with back pay.
Judge Kelly sat in the House gallery through Tuesday's long proceedings, but he had left town when the surprise reversal came up right after the House convened this morning.
There was talk that some House members, who had refused to impeach Kelly Tuesday, objected to remarks he made at a news conference after the failure to impeach Tuesday.
The Judge commented that his problems stemmed from the fact that one political clique wanted to rule the county regardless of the wishes of the people.
Republican Rep. James Russell, of Pinellas, was the only member who raised his voice in protest to the reconsideration today. He said regardless of newspaper comments, nothing had changed since Tuesday and if there weren't sufficient grounds to impeach him then, there were no more grounds today.
Earlier, a group of House members, frustrated in attempts to impeach the Judge, tried a new approach to get rid of him by pushing through a committee to the calendar a bill that would have had the effect of ousting Kelly as the circuit judge in Pasco County.
Rep. Woodie Liles, of Hillsborough, who voted against impeachment Tuesday, made the motion for reconsideration today, saying "this is a borderline case. This man does not have judicial temperament. I don't think. Let the Senate decide."
Russell, urging the House to stick by its guns, said nothing had changed since Tuesday as far as the facts were concerned.
In Tuesday's debate, he said, "There were charges the press had made an issue of the case. 'Now,' he said, the House is letting press reports turn you back around on it."
Liles, who said the Judge was a personal friend of his, said, "I'm not trying this in the press. The Senate will decide." There was no other debate.
The House several years ago impeached Dade Circuit Judge George Holt but the Senate refused to convict him after a lengthy trial.

Polite Gunmen Steal $50,000

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Three polite gunmen robbed hotel owner Jack Lieberbaum and his wife of $50,000 in jewels early today and escaped down the Intracoastal Waterway in a boat, calling out "good night" as they sped away.
The men surprised the couple when they returned home about 1 a. m. after an evening out.
A 19-foot combination inboard outboard motorboat, apparently stolen, was found aground at Pelican Harbor more than a mile from the Lieberbaum home shortly after the holdup.

Boy And Match: One Less House

MIAMI (UPI) — It was had enough when 10-year-old Jimmy Cooley, playing with a match and a candle, started a small fire in his house Tuesday.
But the whole house burned down when he tried to blow out the blaze with an electric fan, firemen said.
