Community Action Agency Threatened By County $$$ Cuts

By THE HERALD STAFF. A recommendation the county not provide $42,000 in funding in its new budget year for Seminole Community Action's (SCA) $500,000 worth of programs could "kill the agency" or "at least seriously jeopardize it," according to Rev. Amos Jones, executive director of SCA.

NATION IN BRIEF

Prosecutions Expected From Korean-To-Congress Payoffs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prosecutions may grow out of the Justice Department's investigation of alleged Korean attempts to buy influence in Congress. Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell said Monday that, "We expect there will be prosecutions." He indicated the department was moving more swiftly on the Korean case than on others because "it touches the public interest."

Meanwhile, Speaker of the House Thomas P. O'Neill promised he would see to it that the congressional probe of the scandal moves ahead speedily. He said he wants quick appointment of a new chief investigator to replace Philip A. Lacovara, who resigned last week.

Foreign Policy Concern

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's foreign policy is reported causing consternation among America's allies in the Pacific. Members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) apparently are having misgivings about U.S. policy, and have expressed their doubts both privately and publicly in recent weeks. Members of the association are: Indonesia, the Philippines, Thailand, Malaysia and Singapore. Their concern stems from the administration's human rights campaign, its interest in establishing normal relations with China and Vietnam and its plans to withdraw ground troops from South Korea.

Nun Abortion Stand A Threat

MONTEPELIER, Vt. (AP) — A Roman Catholic nun who heads Vermont's Human Services Agency has been threatened with church discipline for supporting the use of government funds for abortions.

The Most Rev. John Marshall, bishop of the state's 150,000 Catholics, issued the warning to Sister Elizabeth Candon after she said the state should not discriminate against poor people by denying them medical services available to others.

"She... should understand that these free-will decisions can place her outside the sacramental life of the Roman Catholic Church and deprive her of her good standing as a member of a religious community in that church," said Bishop Marshall.

In The Heat Of The Day ... Some Forest Fires Now Under Control

By The Associated Press

A fire possibly touched off by lightning still raged around the base of Maine's tallest mountain today, but other forest fires that charred thousands of acres in Utah, Wyoming and Montana were reported under control.

The rash of fires has been sparked by prolonged drought and heat in the many parts of the country.

Four hundred campers were evacuated Monday as flames whipped by high winds burned out of control at the foot of mile-high Mt. Katahdin in Maine's Baxter State Park.

One park employee was injured while fighting the blaze, which had consumed 1,250 acres by late afternoon. The blaze was formed when two separate fires spotted Sunday night in the park's southwest corner merged during the night and fed an area of timber blown down several years ago during a windstorm.

A park spokesman said the flames were near Abol Campground, a popular site with a trail leading to the summit of Katahdin.

"In a blowdown, fire travels very swiftly. The wind changes direction, Abol will be in great danger," the spokesman said.

Three Utah firefighters died in Ashley National Forest while trying to outrun a fire that has burned through 1,400 acres.

"The wall of fire had tremendously high temperature and as far as we know, they died from breathing the flames," said National Forest Service spokesman Bob Perkins.

He said three smaller fires in other parts of the forest had been controlled by Monday, helped by high humidity and low winds.

Killed Sunday were David Noel, 36, director of a Youth Conservation Corps camp; Gene Campbell, 57, a forestry technician; and Dwight Hodgkinson, 23, Vernal, a summer Forest Service employee.

In central Wyoming, firefighters were trying today to put a lid on a blaze that has consumed over 1,000 acres in the Jeffrey City area. It is believed to have been sparked by lightning.

Two other forest fires in northwestern Wyoming, less than 10 miles apart, were brought under control Monday after burning 155 acres between them.

Both were caused by unattended campfires in the Bridger-Teton National Forest 43 miles north of Jackson, the Forest Service said.

A heavy rain in the Missoula, Mont., area helped bring under control a fire that a 25-hour blackout caused so much trouble last week.

A minor traffic accident turned into a three-hour tieup on a Massachusetts highway when 150 cars waiting for a truck to be towed away overheard and stalled.

Poultry farmers in Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and Massachusetts reported thousands of chickens had died because of the heat.

Forest fires raged on in Utah, Wyoming and Montana.

Air pollution hovered over the nation's capital and wide areas of Kentucky, Minnesota, Rhode Island and Maryland as stagnant air masses refused to pass on.

Water pressure was down dangerously low in fire hydrants in Boston, Philadelphia and New York and officials tried to distribute hydrant caps to slow the flow.

What seemed like a break in the weather for two days turned out to be a lot of trouble. Thunderstorms and winds were accompanied by funnel clouds in several areas. Four homes were damaged but no injuries were reported when a funnel cloud swept over the Hillside, Mich., area, near the Ohio border. Watersford also was sighted near Watersford in northeastern Michigan and near Windsor, Ontario, across the border from Detroit. No damage was reported in any of those places.

The weather service teased residents of the sweltering Baltimore area. A spokesman said a cold front was moving down the East Coast from New York to Maryland, but would not touch down long enough to improve conditions today.

By The Associated Press

It was so hot, it was so unmercifully hot Monday that 10 rugged Marines participating in war games were overcome and had to be evacuated by helicopter from the Mojave Desert to Camp Pendleton in southern California. The temperature reached 117 at one point.

It was so hot along the railroad tracks near Paintsville, Ky., that the rails expanded and 18 cars of a 10-car freight train jumped the tracks. No one was injured. Temperatures had hovered near 100.

And the nagging heat became more unbearable as the National Weather Service announced that in most places, there would be no lull for most of the week. The heat reached across the country from the Atlantic Coast to the Rockies and into the Southwest desert.

The thermometer reached 107 in Las Vegas, Nev., and Gila Bend, Ariz. Near Phoenix it was 112. In New York it was an 11-year record 100. In Roanoke, Va., it reached 102, another record.

Air conditioning was turned up all over the country. Power companies in Pennsylvania and Minnesota asked customers to cut back on using electrical appliances. There were spot outages or cutbacks in Massachusetts and New York City, where a 25-hour blackout caused so much trouble last week.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Rain Gives Relief In Fires But Drought Still Exists

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Fire fighters battling blazes in drought-stricken North Florida have received some relief from the heavens, but they warn the potential for future blazes remains great.

Light showers fell Monday on many areas of North Florida, easing the threat of forest fires as firemen continued to battle one pesky blaze near Madison.

That 10-day-old blaze about 12 miles south of Madison already has burned 2,400 acres, officials of the state Forestry Division said.

The present fire lines, which have held the blaze in check since Friday, were being widened and improved Monday by about 60 men, said Gary Peoples, assistant chief of fire control.

PSC Says No To 'Now' Hearing

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Industries unhappy with a $60-million rate hike granted Florida Power Corp. will have to wait until September to voice their displeasure with the Public Service Commission.

The PSC voted 2-0 Monday to turn down a request for an immediate hearing by industrial groups protesting the rate hike.

Commissioners Bill Bevis and Billy Mayo said arguments from industrial users would be heard during hearings scheduled for the week of Sept. 13 when the PSC will decide whether to finalize the April increase.

Canal Committee Reports

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — A special task force on the Cross-Florida Barge Canal has outlined alternatives for disposing of the waterway and restoring the Oklawaha River, but declined to make a recommendation.

The state-federal group ordered by President Carter spent Monday finishing its report on how best to restore the River. Restoration was a major goal of environmentalists who struggled for years to kill the controversial Palatka-to-Yankeetown canal.

Punishment Not Strong

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — A one-year suspension is not adequate punishment for former Justice David McCain's alleged misconduct as a member of the State Supreme Court, says Florida Bar Counsel Norman Faulkner.

He said Monday that he would call for disbarment in appealing referee Jack Wayman's recommendation to the high court.

Wayman recommended a public reprimand for McCain and a one-year suspension from the practice of law. He said McCain, while a justice, improperly attempted to influence two other judges.

Coconuts Going Way Of Dodo

MIAMI (AP) — Scientists found lethal yellowing with everything they had, but South Florida's stately coconut palms are going the way of the dodo and dinosaur.

About 95 per cent of South Florida's coconuts are of the Jamaican Tall variety. Scientists have predicted that all of the palms in Dade and Broward will be destroyed by the end of 1978, and within five years or less the common coconuts of Palm Beach County and the rest of South Florida will be gone.

Juveniles Make Off With Trucker's 200-Pound Tire

Action Reports ★ Fires ★ Courts ★ Police Beat

Two juvenile thieves fled on foot carrying a 200-pound spare tire Monday night after awakening a trucker sleeping in his rig in a south Seminole, sheriff's deputies reported today.

Billy Raybrury, 33, of Fort Myers, told deputies he was awakened by an unidentified juvenile peering into the cab of the tractor-trailer parked at Lester Coggins Truck Co. on Miller Drive.

Raybrury said the youth shouted a warning to another juvenile before they ran from the truck carrying a $250 spare tire and wheel.

Deputies said a search of the area failed to turn up the juveniles or the missing tire.

Casselberry Garbage Hike?

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer
Casselberry residents will soon pay more for garbage collection if a request by the Hellbarg Garbage Service Inc. for an 18 per cent increase in fees for the service is approved.

The refuse collection agency currently holds the franchise for garbage collection in Casselberry.

Kenneth Tapley of the firm told the city council Monday night that, although his contract with the city doesn't expire until December, he would like approval for a rate increase from $4 to $4.75 monthly effective Oct. 1.

Tapley said the increase is necessary to defray costs of recent increases in sanitary landfill fees in both Seminole and Orange Counties. He said the new dumping fees schedule costs him 50 cents per customer monthly more than before.

Tapley submitted a new contract for a five-year period, rather than the current three-year pact, asking for a built-in increase annually geared to the consumer price index but with a six per cent annual cap.

He pointed to recent $11 monthly increases in fees to customers granted by the City of Winter Springs to another firm.

A citizen, Owen Sheppard reminded the council that Tapley's contract does not expire until December and, for commercial from residential classification to another to permit construction of 15-18 homes rather than 12.

Accepted the bid of $5,725 from Bennett's Truck Equipment for a used 1972 Elgin street sweeper, that formerly was owned by the City of Sanford. The council was told that a new street sweeper would cost from $18,000 to $20,000.

Announced that budget workshops would be held at 7:30 tonight and again Wednesday night.

Death In Pool Ruled Accident

Longwood police have listed the death of a woman whose body was in her swimming pool July 4 as accidental.

Police Chief Greg Manning said an autopsy and extensive laboratory tests showed Mrs. Lydia A. Johnson, 67, choked to death on food and fell hitting her head and falling into the pool at her 445 Wildmere Ave. home.

Her husband, Charles H. Johnson Jr., found his wife's body floating in the pool the following morning, police said.

clamps and six forps. SHERIFF'S DEPUTIES TODAY were investigating stereo thefts at two south Seminole residences. Lavalle L. Bowman reported a portable television and stereo equipment valued at $370 was missing following a burglary at his residence on SR-419, Chulotta.

Stereo equipment valued at $270 was taken in a burglary at the residence of Jon C. Burnbaum, 129 Ingram Road, Longwood, according to a report filed by deputy P.J. Higgins.

County Begins Hearings On Budget

By MARK WEINBERG
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Commissioners Monday night began deliberating the proposed budget for the fiscal year beginning in October of $31,089,848, which calls for a countywide property tax increase of $2.60 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. The proposal was prepared by County Administrator Roger Neiswander and budget chief Pat Gilson.

The commissioners also examined the budget proposals of 12 agencies funded by the county, including the county's health and human services, county attorney and county administrator's office. The directors of agencies examined Monday night had submitted budget proposals 15.4 per cent higher than their budgets for the current fiscal year, but the Gilson-Neiswander proposed budget recommends only a 6.2 per cent increase.

The commissioners made no decisions on the budgets they examined Monday night under the budget review process designed by Gilson, who heads the county's office of Management, Analysis and Evaluation (OMAE). The commissioners will begin making changes in a second round of budget reviews beginning next Tuesday.

If approved by the commission the proposed property tax increase from $5.40 to $8 per $1,000 of assessed valuation would be the first property tax increase in three years. The taxes would support a $14 million general fund, which pays for most functions of the county's major departments.

The proposed budget includes recommended expenditures of $18.8 million from countywide tax sources. This portion of the budget represents 60 per cent of expenditures for the entire proposed budget of $31.1 million.

The remainder of the budget proposal included a recommended $1.8 million for fire protection for unincorporated areas of the county, a 20 per cent increase over the $1.5 million in the current fiscal year; $1.4 million for the county's water and sewer operation, a 10 per cent increase over the $1.3 million budgeted in the current year, funded by user fees; and $8 million from federal grants-in-aid, an increase of 254 per cent above the current level of $2.3 million.

The grant-in-aid increase is due to a three-fold increase in federal money for the manpower program, known as CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) program.

The budgets examined Monday night by the commissioners are: Board of County Commissioners and county administrator, OMAE, county attorney, personnel office, Seminole County Industrial Development Authority (SCIDA), Seminole Memorial Hospital and the department of human services, including the director's office, health functions, animal control, social services, veterans services and community services agencies to which the county contributes some funds.

Below are the highlights of budget proposals for those agencies:

— Board of County Commissioners and county administrator: Gilson and Neiswander recommended a 5.2 per cent increase for the coming fiscal year above the current budget of $28,054. The recommended increase includes normal merit increases for personnel, $12,000 to comply the county code (county ordinances) and an increase in travel expenses to attend conferences of state and national organizations.

— OMAE, which prepares the budget and capital improvements program, long-range revenue analysis and forecasting, management analysis and performance evaluation of county employees. OMAE director Gilson's proposed budget is $100,227, a 12.1 per cent increase above the current $89,250. County Administrator Neiswander recommended a 9.3 per cent increase for a budget of $97,521. No new programs are proposed, but Neiswander recommended increases in equipment, travel expenses and the printing of a 25-page "budget in brief" to explain the county budget to county residents.

— County attorney: Earlier this year the commissioners picked Joe Mount to be the county's first staff legal counsel. The commissioners spent $140,000 for legal services in the current fiscal year, and the proposed budget is for $138,891, a 2 per cent decrease below similar expenditures for the upcoming fiscal year. Mount requested an additional attorney (for a total of three), an additional legal secretary and a legal assistant. The proposed budget recommends adding a legal coordinator and a legal secretary and upgrading the salary of the assistant county attorney from $15,000 to $21,000, with the addition of a new attorney getting a lower priority.

— Personnel: Gilson and Neiswander recommended $698,204, a decrease of 7.8 per cent below the current budget of $750,350. The reduction would be possible due to the change in the county's pension program, which is proposed to be transferred to the administrative services office. This budget also included $30,000 for labor attorney fees for Miami attorney David Korwich.

— Seminole County Industrial Development Authority (SCIDA): The proposed budget recommends $60,086, a 1.3 per cent decrease below the current budget of $61,001. Gilson and Neiswander recommended slight cuts in materials and travel expenses to be achieved by assigning a county car to the agency. In the current fiscal year, SCIDA Executive Director Jim Daniel drove his own car and was reimbursed by the county for the expense of operating it for SCIDA business, according to county officials.

— Animal control: Gilson and Neiswander recommended $110,800, a 15.3 per cent increase above the current $96,120. The proposed budget includes increases for a parking lot, equipment storage facility, masonry fence cage and renovated visitors' health functions, animal control, social services and veterans services, with a recommended decrease in funding of community services agencies of 10.1 per cent, as explained below:

— Director's office: The proposed budget recommends an 83 per cent increase, from $17,350 to $31,752. The increases are for the addition of a program evaluator (with an annual salary of $10,764) and a $2,400 increase in supplies.

— Health: Gilson and Neiswander recommended a 94 per cent increase, from $218,250 to $419,771. Major increases normal increases for health department employees, increases for supplies

Those Strange Soviet Signals

Ordinarily, Leonid Brezhnev's refusal to meet President Carter informally would have been Soviet diplomacy as usual. Russians prefer summit meetings to follow detailed preparatory work by technicians and ministers. Landmark or, in some cases predictable agreements can then be announced by the heads of state.

However, Brezhnev's behavior has been so unusual lately that his rejection to President Carter's offer to meet only to size up personalities may indicate deeper Kremlin problems.

The incident does not stand alone. The Kremlin also was unusually reticent in canceling Ambassador Malcolm Toon's proposed Fourth of July speech over Moscow television because it contained a sentence asserting "inalienable" human rights. The bulk of the proposed address stressed the need for improved U.S.-Soviet relations.

By the same token, Soviet reaction to President Carter's decision to cancel future production of the B-1 bomber and opt instead for a cruise missile strategy was excessive. Moscow went beyond the expected rebuttal that construction of cruise missiles endangers current strategic arms discussions. It challenged U.S. intentions to seek peace.

However, most observers agree that the most unusual recent case of Soviet heavy handedness occurred when the Kremlin savagely attacked Spanish Communist leader Santiago Carrillo for his assertions that fraternal Communist parties in Europe should march to the beat of their own drummers.

The savagery of the attack is being compared to the rhetoric that prevailed when Russia and China parted ways in 1960 or the Soviet diatribes against Tito of Yugoslavia in 1948. Yet a year earlier the Soviet Union agreed, during a Communist convention in East Berlin, that European parties should set their own policies.

But while the Soviet Union is on the defensive, the United States is not home free. Last month Mr. Vance said in a television interview that "... Our administration ... (is) not merely going to react to situations, we (are) going to shape an agenda ... to deal with issues."

So far the administration does not appear to have found an agenda for Eurocommunism. We cannot acclaim it because French, Italian, Spanish and other communists still could slip back into the Soviet orbit.

Our ability to encourage it surreptitiously is limited and that course is dangerous. We could cause sudden uprisings and counter-reactions that the West cannot risk because it is not prepared to support them.

An opinion maker in London suggested that Western nations should "accept with pleasure" the opportunity to have free competition between "Leninism and Western pluralism." That begs the question. A New York Times editorialist believes that we should "watch but don't touch." That's no policy at all. Other suggestions have been as general.

So far as we know, the last publicly enunciated policy toward Eurocommunism was laid out by then Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. Essentially, he warned that Western defense and economic institutions have a limited tolerance for European style communism.

Because the threat that it poses is greater to the West than it is to the Kremlin, the Carter Administration could do worse than adopt the Kissinger idea early, before the European Marxists can shrug off warnings because they already hold key posts. It will come to that if we just drift.

DON OAKLEY Time To Peek At Package

There is no guarantee that the increased trade between the United States and the Soviet Union will prevent war or eventually soften the U.S.S.R. into a liberal democracy.

The two countries could exchange goods with each other for the next 100 years and still be in danger of nuclear annihilation. It is not military. Even so, every new trade tie with the Soviets adds to a bond of mutual interest that is that much harder to break in anger.

There are two caveats to keep in mind, however. One is that we never again let ourselves be suckered like a bunch of peasants of the communal farm, as we were in the infamous 1972 wheat deal. (We seem to have learned that lesson.)

The other is that we permit nothing to be sold to them that would give the Soviets a military boost, or undercut an advantage we have.

The U.S. Commerce Department has upheld the second principle by denying Control Data Corp. of Minneapolis an export license to sell a sophisticated computer system to the Soviet Union.

The computer — the Cyber 76 — is designed for use in weather research. But "because it is far more powerful than any computer known to the Soviet Union, the likelihood of diversion to military or strategic uses is of serious concern," the department's export administrator decided.

Control Data is quite upset, and says it may appeal. Which inevitably reminds us of the prediction attributed to Lenin that when the last capitalist is hanged, it will be with the rope he sold his executives.

It can be argued, of course, that anything we sell the Soviets can be diverted to a military or strategic use. A pound of wheat can feed a worker to make a pound of steel to be used in a missile.

But the logical extension of that would be resolutely no trade with the Russians at all, which would be impractical, even if we didn't need their chrome and other resources.

What we don't need, however, is their chrome or rubies in exchange for technology they are years behind us in developing.

Too much American high technology has already been exported to the Soviet Union. This time somebody wisely peeked inside the package.

Six U.S. cities — Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, New Orleans and New York — are bidding to be selected as the site of the 1984 Summer Olympics.

This is more than a little surprising, given the recent history of the games, not to mention the budgetary plight of the last named city especially.

ICC--Justice Department: More Detente

WASHINGTON — The top brass of the Justice Department's Antitrust Division and the Interstate Commerce Commission got together in the backroom the other day to discuss their mutual animosities. Everyone shook hands, and immediately afterward, the antitrust officials began pulling their punches to spare the ICC from embarrassment.

Here are the fascinating events that led to the detente between the two bureaucratic barons:

The ICC's reluctant regulators had been fuming over some stinging criticism from the Justice Department's antitrusters. The antitrust Division uncharitably had blasted the ICC for several anticomsumer decisions.

This stirred the ICC's new boss, A. Daniel O'Neal, to seek a peace conference with the Justice Department's acting antitrust chief John Stenfeldt. They sat down together behind closed doors, each attended by aides.

An O'Neal aide asked the antitrust officials, please, to stop issuing "cheap-shot press releases" against the ICC. O'Neal put it more delicately: with apparent sincerity, he offered to incorporate more antitrust philosophy into ICC decisions.

By all accounts, the trustbusters were so overcome by O'Neal's cooperative attitude that they rushed out and reversed an earlier decision to challenge another ICC ruling.

This was a ruling to deny a small bus company, Latin Express Service, the right to provide

As millions of television viewers turn their attention to tonight's major league all-star game, watch Billy Martin.

He's the American League manager who has uprooted Mark Fidrych, Pete Rose and the rest of baseball's flamboyants as the game's most controversial figure of the day.

Martin has been feuding with the New York press, the New York players, the New York fans and just about anybody who wants a feud.

In fact, not long ago, Martin looked horns with Yankees owner George Steinbrenner. Speculation had it that Martin was on his way out of another job, winding up with the same fate he had encountered in previous managerial stopovers in Minnesota, Detroit and Texas.

Seems Billy is one of those cocky sorts who don't back down to anyone — including the boss.

Well, whatever Steinbrenner's methods, he managed to manage Martin. Martin is still wearing pinstripes after calling his boss an "idiot."

Noteworthy, however, is that Billy is still wearing stripes. Also noteworthy is that Martin isn't saying much. A sign in his office says it for

THE LONDON ECONOMIST Glamor Stocks Snubbed

NEW YORK — Growth stocks that have spent most of the past three years on skid row have powerful friends on Wall Street again. Drexel Burnham and Solomon Brothers say they are attractive on dividend prospects alone. Morgan Stanley says they are cheaper now relative to the market than for at least 17 years. Their analysis is, for the time being, wrong.

Salomon Brothers reckons that by last month the favorite 50 growth stocks it monitors were worth $13 billion less than at their all-time high.

They now account for around 25 per cent of the total value of the Standard and Poor's composite index, against nearly 50 per cent at the end of 1972.

IBM, once on a lofty price-earnings ratio of 60 now sells at only 18 times earnings. McDonald's, Company Rules — 1) The boss is always right; 2) In case the boss isn't always right, see rule No. 1. Martin has mixed pennant fever with controversy ever since he has managed. He won the A.L. West pennant in 1969 with the Twins, but his job was short-lived because he couldn't get along with Calvin Griffith's family, who help run the club.

Detroit grabbed the young manager and got second, first and third place finishes in three seasons before the Tigers pitched in the towel on him and brought in Joe Schultz as interim manager Sept. 1, 1973.

Brad Corbett brought him to Texas next, and although shocking the Rangers owner with some locker room language the Cowboys hadn't used, booted home sixth, second and fourth place finishes before Frank Lucchesi was summoned to finish the 1975 season.

The move opened the door for Billy to go back to New York, where he was a Yankee Stadium hero, playing second for the Yankees from 1960-67. He was a member of the major league nightclubs all-star team, his late-hour antics at the Copa Cabana with Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford frequently making headlines. Personally, I never cared much for Martin's cynicism, but who can argue that he isn't one of the greater motivators around? And, the Walter Alston-like guy managers notwithstanding, isn't that the manager's job?

And how ho-hum a game baseball would be except for the colorful personalities who step up and accept an umpire's necessity.

I took particular interest in Nolan Ryan's refusal to participate in this year's game. Overlooked by the injured Fydych and Frank Tanana. But Ryan said if he wasn't good enough to be picked the first time, he didn't care to play.

Ah, a raw nerve! Even after Commissioner Bowie Kuhn urged Ryan to play, he refused.

And this, friends, is the stuff of out of four balls, the side fanned in order and the anemic attendance of the day.

All it takes is a touch of controversy. And this game has it.

ANGLE-WALTERS Fading Of The Old Bulls

WASHINGTON — When the professional politicians began to analyze which seats in the House of Representatives might be considered "marginal" in next year's elections, they noticed something strange: The list included the 19th congressional district of Texas.

"Marginal district" is a term of art among politicians, referring to a House district where the current occupant is considered vulnerable because he or she received less than 55 per cent of the vote in the last election.

The list invariably is dominated by freshman and sophomore representatives whose names and accomplishments are vague in the voters' minds, plus a scattering of ideologues whose affinity for the distant right and left edges of the political spectrum often means the sacrifice of job security.

In theory, Texas' 19th district has no place on that list because ever since it was created in 1934 it has been the sole, virtually undisputed property of one man — Rep. George H. Mahon, a lanky, soft-spoken Democrat who is the "dean" of the House and chairman of its powerful Appropriations Committee.

Mahon has been elected to 22 consecutive terms, and in 18 of those contests he had no Republican opposition. When the first foothold GOP opponent surfaced in 1946, Mahon walked off with 94.8 per cent of the vote. Four years later, he slipped a bit and captured a mere 93.9 per cent of the vote against another hapless Republican.

But three other opponents surfaced in the early 1960s, but only one even came close to gaining a third of the vote in the barren but oil-rich West Texas district whose only sizeable cities are Abilene, Midland and a cluster of pretenders to the throne, Mahon was reelected without opposition for another five consecutive terms. Last year, the manager of an Odessa brokerage house decided to take his chances against Mahon.

Conservative Republican Jim Reese captured 45.4 per cent of the vote. Mahon, with the remaining 54.6 per cent, plunged overnight from political patriarch of the Permian Basin to "marginal" congressman.

"The big thing was age," says one newspaper reporter who followed the Mahon-Reese contest. "Mahon admits to being 78 and a lot of people suspect he's even older. They just decided it was time for a change."

Early this month, Mahon unexpectedly disclosed that he will retire at the end of his current term. Most of the news accounts of his announcement failed to mention the glamor stocks little-publicized brush with political defeat.

Ken Buckland of Altamonte Springs and Gerald Korman of Longwood have proposed sharing equally with the port the profits from future tenant rents of a planned 80,000-square-foot warehouse building to be built in three 20,000-square-foot increments. This would be an improvement over the current agreement between the port and Clifton Construction of Cocoa over profit-sharing from the 10,000-square-foot warehouse recently completed by the company. The port is considering contracting with Clifton for construction of the new warehouse.

The port's agreement with Clifton calls for the two-thirds of the profits from rents going to Clifton and one-third to the port.

"We felt a moral obligation to inform Clifton of the (better) offer, and they have offered a 50-50 profit split," Ryan said. The board instructed Ryan to

Comeback For Teng?

HISIAO-PING

TOKYO (AP) — China's purged moderate leader Teng Hsiao-ping has been reinstated to all the Communist party, government and military posts he once held, according to wall posters that appeared today, and a Japanese report from Peking says.

The Kyodo news service reported the posters said "we welcome the decision made by the party Central Committee to appoint Comrade Teng Hsiao-ping as party vice chairman, vice premier, vice chairman of the military commission and chief of the general staff of the People's Liberation Army."

The Japanese report said the posters were put up on the wall of the ministry of economic relations with foreign countries.

They were signed by "the first and fourth bureau of the ministry." Kyodo added, "No further details were given."

The Kyodo story was the latest in a series of Western reports out of Peking that the 72-year-old heli to the enclaves of the late Premier Chou En-lai was making a second comeback.

There was no immediate confirmation of the report.

Teng was ousted by radical leaders in 1967 during the cultural revolution because they said he favored capitalist policies.

After Chou rehabilitated Teng in 1973, he was expected to succeed Chou but instead was fired again in April 1976.

County Agrees On Light For Perilous Site

An agreement to purchase a new traffic light at an accident-prone intersection, agreeing to build signs for the Seminole County port and acceptance of a drainage easement were among the actions taken this morning by the Seminole County Commissioners.

The commission agreed to: — Purchase a $6,700 traffic signal to replace the faulty signal at SH-436, Red Bug Road and Winter Park Drive in Casselberry from Southast Safety Supply of Winter Park. County Public Works Director Jack Schuder told the commissioners the current signal won't work regularly, even after we've sent it back to the manufacturer.

Schuder said there had been "over 50 minor accidents at the intersection since January because the signal is faulty."

— Build three two-by-four-foot signs to improve safety at the port. Port administrator Jim Ryan requested the county build the signs to help protect a petroleum storage facility at the port. The signs will cost $120.

— Accept an easement on the property of J.A. and Ruth L. Farina to improve drainage on Longwood-Lake Mary Road. The property owners have granted the county a 15-foot easement.

Rozanski is employed under the federally funded Community Development Training Act (CETA) and has a cap on salaries it pays of $10,000. The salary increase will be funded from city money.

The new fireman will bring to the city a total of 10 city-funded full-time paid firefighters in addition to three CETA firemen while the newly authorized policeman will give that department a total of 10 other officers and two CETA patrolmen.

The revenues side of the proposed budget was reviewed and the council chose to accept Mayor Roy Filand's estimate of $100,000 as the amount the city will receive in the new fiscal year from utility taxes. The council had already agreed that

Snap, Crackle, Pop Goes The President?

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (AP) — Srimavo Bandaranaike, Sri Lanka's only incumbent woman head of government, faces stiff opposition in national elections focusing on this tropical island's monumental economic problems.

Her chief rival is promising eight pounds of free cereal a week for each Sri Lankan (formerly Ceylon).

About 6.6 million Sri Lankans are eligible to vote in Thursday's election for the 168 members of the unicameral National State Assembly, where Mrs. Bandaranaike's Sri Lanka Freedom party now holds a comfortable coalition majority.

Political observers say the contest is more one of personalities than ideology. Both Mrs. Bandaranaike and her chief rival, United National party leader Junius Richard Jayewardene, favor a nonaligned foreign policy and socialist economies.

But some economists say the deteriorating agrarian economy based on tea, rubber and coconut exports, cannot support the bounteous social welfare programs of this island nation — the former Ceylon — off India's southern tip.

Jayewardene, nonetheless, has promised eight pounds of free cereal a week for each Sri Lankan in an effort to improve his party's conservative image.

because of an apparent conflict in the city charter. The charter appears to make Filand responsible for submitting a budget, while city law seems to give the finance commissioner responsibility for the budget.

The council has not as yet agreed on the rate of property taxes to be levied in the new fiscal year. Filand has recommended that the current $2.43 per $1,000 assessed value be cut to $2.40 while Daniels has recommended a reduction to $1.85 per $1,000.

Daniels said the property tax levy will be used as a balancing factor. There will definitely be a reduction, he said, because of the tight rein being kept on spending and because the city is increasing services only where it has to. He pointed to the beefing up of the police and fire departments as an area where services must be increased.

Daniels also noted that the city has 10 full time CETA persons under projects and that this has resulted in a savings to the city.

Raises Okayed In Winter Springs

Winter Springs City Councilmen in their first workshop on the 1977-78 proposed budget agreed Monday night to authorize hiring an additional fireman and policeman and to grant the city's department heads a 4.8 per cent increase in salaries for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

Councilman John Daniels, the city's finance commissioner, said that the salaries of department heads, Public Works Director Ray Bradshaw, Police Chief John Gorenkuk and Fire Chief Charles Holzman were set at $13,500 annually in the new year. Council also agreed to grant a $450 annual raise to City Planner Dick Rozanski for $10,450 annually.

Rozanski is employed under the federally funded Community Development Training Act (CETA) and has a cap on salaries it pays of $10,000. The salary increase will be funded from city money.

The new fireman will bring to the city a total of 10 city-funded full-time paid firefighters in addition to three CETA firemen while the newly authorized policeman will give that department a total of 10 other officers and two CETA patrolmen.

GLORIA RIGLING DEMONSTRATES BATIK TECHNIQUE

By MARYLIN K. SHEDDAN
Herald Staff Writer

While much controversy raged throughout the recent International Women's Year (IWY) Conference in Orlando, one aspect went off almost without hitch: the women's display of fine arts and crafts.

The Seminole County area was well represented, with exhibits from such women as Gloria Rigling (batik), Maitland; Cecil Herring (sculpture), Geneva; Johanna Jordan (weaving), Maitland; Dorothy Kannon (graphics), Geneva; and Carole King (sculpture), Lake Mary.

In addition to the Women in the Visual Arts exhibition, there was a Women in the Performing Arts concert which included performances by Barbara Mueller, music instructor at Seminole Community College, and a vocalist in the Anglo-American folk tradition; and the Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole.

One of the more popular exhibits was by Jacksonville photographer Judith Gelfer, Black Star Photo Syndicate. She had on display her black and white illustrations of a transsexual surgical procedure showing a young black man being transformed into a young black woman.

'Greatest Dieter' Lives To Mark 76th Birthday

On Monday, Dolly Dimples, the world's greatest dieter as reported in the Guinness Book of World Records celebrated her 76th birthday.

Dolly, born Celesta Hermann, shed 401 pounds in a period of 14 months in order to save her life.

"In 1949, I had a heart attack. Doctors gave up hope for me. I weighed 555 pounds. During the night, I promised God I would make off all that weight if he would spare me.

"I was alive the next morning, and I decided, 'It's diet or die.' She has lost a total of 443 pounds.

"Dolly explains that she began putting on weight as a child. At the age of 24 she weighed 300 pounds. "I ate and ate. I married, and was happy, but I still put on

Don't Wash Up Friendship Over Kitchen Sink

DEAR ABBY: "Stay Out of My Kitchen" was a cute verse but you might have helped the lady more had you encouraged her to let her visitor come on in.

Consider the alternative, with the visitor sitting there, staring at your four walls, feeling she had put you to a lot of trouble and wishing she had not come.

Because of my husband's job, we moved nine times to strange towns where I didn't know Soul One, but we made friends easily by allowing people to know us as we were.

If you can summon up the courage to let the visitor see the dirty dishes in your sink, it's a good bet that she'll think, "Gee, that's just the way my sink looks," and a friendship will begin.

Instead of asking a guest to get out of the way, tell her what you want from the cabinet and ask her to hand it to you. People always feel more comfortable when they're useful.

FRIENDLY SOUL: A surprising number of readers agree with you. Meet another "FRIENDLY SOUL":

DEAR ABBY: May I suggest

DEAR ABBY: I notice from your column that you, too, must have been brainwashed into believing that everyone should have a will.

This is something I would very much like to know about.

but I can't seem to get a straight answer from anybody.

Isn't it entirely possible for a couple with a modest estate and no minor children to put all their property in both their names and eliminate probate court with its huge fees, delays and red tape?

My husband and I have twin wills and we're beginning to wonder if this doesn't invite the courts to handle something (for a huge fee) that would take care of itself. In other words, wouldn't the property all go to the remaining spouse with no help from the probate court?

NO NAME PLEASE: The laws differ from state to state. So, since your question is a legal one, ask a lawyer. I am constantly amazed at the number of people who are reluctant to pay a modest legal fee when it could solve their problems and give them peace of mind.

DEAR ABBY: My pet peeve is the accepted, though asinine, custom of seating wedding guests so that the bride's family and friends are on one side of the church and the groom's are on the other.

When the usher asks me, "Whose side are you on?" I always have the urge to say, "Must I choose sides? They haven't even started fighting yet."

WILLIE:

DEAR ABBY: I notice from your column that you, too, must have been brainwashed into believing that everyone should have a will.

This is something I would very much like to know about.

Business Review

Service Cuts Business Overhead

John Root, owner of Seminole Answering Service, checks Dr. Sara Irrgang's tone and voice pager. Dr. Irrgang, pathologist at Seminole Memorial Hospital and Assistant Medical Examiner for Seminole County, has used this pager service with complete satisfaction since March 1976.

Who can provide an "office" without utility bills or rent? Where can you find a "secretary" for little more than $1 a day? Who will give prices and take orders from your customers 24 hours a day? The answer is: Seminole Answering Service, serving Sanford and surrounding communities for 28 years.

There are a number of very important dividends that come with letting Seminole Answering Service serve you. John Root, who assumed ownership two years ago, and Office Manager Francine Ray offer a trained, experienced staff to handle every kind of personal, commercial or professional phone call, day or night.

Here's a hypothetical example: ABC Window Screen Company operates out of Bill Jones' Lake Mary home, where Bill produces his screens in his workshop and installs them himself. His day is spent at work in the back or away from home. Hiring a secretary to answer calls for price information and orders would make a big dent in his modest profits. So John Root arranges for Bill's phone, listed under ABC Window Screen, to be connected to the Seminole Answering Service switchboard. When a customer dials ABC's number, a pleasant female voice answers, "ABC Window Screen. May I help you?" Using a price list provided by Bill Jones, his "secretary" gives information and takes orders, relaying the messages to Bill whenever he calls in for them.

Bill Jones discovers some calls should have his immediate attention, he can purchase or lease a pager directly from Seminole Answering Service. This will alert him to an important message and, if he has the tone-and-voice model pager, the message itself can be relayed instantly. This pager service can be a great time and money saver for Bill.

Of interest to readers and Vicky's and Susan's customers is the origin of the shop's name: Jam-Up. Vicky and her husband, Andy, were enjoying jelly doughnuts and coffee one evening. The jelly idea hit Vicky and she remarked, "That's the name for the shop! Jam-Up!" After several weeks of consideration and discussion, Jam-Up Hairstyling stuck and Jam-Up Hairstyling it is!

In the near future, Vicky and Andy will open a men's and women's sportswear and casual clothing retail shop in conjunction with the hairstyling business. No children's clothing will be sold. Plans are already being made though no date has been scheduled for the opening.

Vicky did say the store will be opened as an Adcock family enterprise. Jam-Up is open Tuesdays through Saturdays, starting at 10 a.m. each day by appointment only for both men and women.

Call 322-4171 to make your appointment for a "wash and go" or "set" look hair styling. You'll be pleased with the results and you'll like Jam-Up's shop. It's new and beautiful. ADV.

There's no limit to the kinds of subscribers Seminole Answering Service assists: lawyers, real estate brokers, private residences, social clubs (they schedule the use of the tennis courts at one local club), small businessmen, state agency personnel, corporate executives and many others. And John Root's subsidiary business, Seminole Medical Answering Service, performs an important function for the area's physicians and hospitals, doctors and patients, the staff is continual, alert to the necessity for accuracy and reliability in their work.

John Root, Francine Ray or any member of the staff will gladly supply information on services and rates. Call Seminole Answering Service at 322-2770. They're at your service 24 hours a day. ADV.
