Tire amnesty day

SANFORD — Seminole County will hold a free Waste Tire Amnesty Days this weekend at the county dump. On Friday, Saturday and Sunday, the county will accept up to six tires from residents without the usual $1 per tire fee. Businesses will be charged a per-ton fee. State law has prohibited the disposal of whole tires at public dumps since 1989. Tires taken to the county dump are shredded and used to cover the garbage mound. The county dump is located on Ocoola Road, located just east of the St. Johns River bridge off of State Road 46.

Political interviews aired

SANFORD — The cable television Sunshine Network will continue its "Election '94" candidate forums tomorrow with three interviews. At 5 p.m., GOP gubernatorial candidate Josephine Arnold will be featured. At 6:30 p.m., interviews with Republican education commissioner candidates John Kager and Bob Morris will be broadcast.

Maude's birthday bash

SANFORD — A giant birthday party will be held Saturday at the Central Florida Zoological Park for a giant lady. Maude the elephant will be turning 20 years old.

A giant birthday cake, "Zoo You Know" game show, and special events are planned for children and adults as well as Maude, the guest of honor.

The focus of the event will be in connection with the plight of elephants worldwide through educational displays.

Normal admission prices will be charged at the zoo.

Marijuana cultivation

SANFORD — Members of the City/County Investigative Bureau (CCIB), conducted a raid yesterday evening at 707 Wynn Drive in Sanford. Daniel Calvin Benton, 30, of that address was arrested on one count of marijuana cultivation.

Sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough said a woman, identified as Benton's girlfriend, Lois Gandy, was also arrested on the same charge. She was to turn herself in at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility today.

McDonough said CCIB agents found six marijuana plants growing in the back yard of the home. Another plant was reportedly found in the master bedroom. Each of the plants is estimated to be worth $1,000.

McDonough said four children were in the house when the CCIB agents conducted the raid.

Ring ring?

SANFORD — The telephone system at the Sanford Herald facility, 300 N. French Avenue, continued to be inoperative for much of this morning. Only two lines were open, out of almost three dozen lines. Persons attempting to phone the Herald report hearing a continuous ringing but no answer.

The Herald regrets this inconvenience. The problem was resolved by 10 a.m.

Sanford's growth addressed

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County road engineers are bringing together the elements of a major road-improvement program centered at Sanford Avenue and Lake Mary Boulevard.

Design work and land acquisition are underway to widen the five-year-old Lake Mary Boulevard extension, Sanford Avenue and County Road 427. Construction has begun to extend Silver Lake Drive to Central Florida Regional Airport. Another extension of the road to State Road 46 is under design. The area's improvements will be done by the end of the decade and will cost $21 million.

The improvements are driven by Central Florida GreenWay access demands, airport expansion and Sanford growth. Traffic through the area is expected to increase two- and three-fold during the next 20 years, according to Dick Thomas, county transportation planner.

For example, traffic on Lake Mary Boulevard between U.S. Highway 17-92 and C.R. 427 is expected to rise from the current average of 8,645 vehicles per day to 23,876 vehicles per day by the year 2013. Silver Lake Drive traffic, now a paltry 3,953 vehicles per day will jump to 13,815 vehicles.

Resurfacing work set

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — In about two months, work will begin to resurface the 6.2-mile stretch of U.S. Highway 17-92 between 25th Street and Shepard Road in Winter Springs. Steve Homan, spokesman for the Florida Department of Transportation in DeLand, said the $2 million project will begin in October and be completed in about four months.

The work will include the construction of a pair of left turn lanes from U.S. 17-92 to eastbound County Road 419.

Much of the resurfacing work will be completed at night, so there will be no lane closings during the daytime, Homan said. Work will include tearing up the first one-inch layer of asphalt, pulverizing it and blending it with new asphalt before replacing it, Homan said. The contract was awarded to APAC-Florida Inc. July 20, he said.

SANFORD — A topless dancer told police investigating the disappearance of her boyfriend she believed he was dead but during the video taped interview denied several times killing him herself, even in self-defense.

Michele Ashley Roger, 28, is being tried for second degree murder in the September 1992 stabbing death of David Richmond in the Oviedo condominium they shared. Richmond's body was never found. Roger's family members have admitted disposing of Richmond's remains in the ocean. Wednesday marked the second day of testimony in the trial.

Roger is claiming self-defense in the killing alleging she was abused by Richmond, who the defense is portraying as a drug using, controlling,

Sun Drive: Who pays for improvements?

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Sun Drive in Lake Mary is less than a half mile long, yet it has been the subject of continuing concern by Lake Mary commissioners.

How to handle this situation will be discussed tonight during a special public hearing at the Lake Mary City Commission meeting.

The city has previously paved Sun Drive, and installed water lines. The aim was to finance the entire project, then assess property owners at a later time to compensate for the expense.

At question is a total of $226,857 for paving, and $83,543 for water line costs. Eleven property owners about the area which has been paved, and nine have had new water lines installed, two already having had the lines in place.

During the August 4th commission meeting, E.E. Waller III, a general appraiser with Pardue-Held Church-Smith and Waller of Orlando, presented a recommendation regarding the method of payment. Waller had been hired by the city to study the matter and propose a method of assessment.

Wilson contender for U.S. attorney

ST. PETERSBURG — U.S. Magistrate Charles Wilson of Tampa has emerged as a contender to succeed Larry Colleton as U.S. attorney for Florida's middle district, a newspaper reported.

Wilson, who like Colleton is black, recently traveled to Washington to meet with Attorney General Janet Reno and was among a field of two or three candidates, the St. Petersburg Times reported Wednesday.

Reno is personally selecting a nominee to fill a vacancy left by Colleton's resignation this month. Caught on videotape grabbing a reporter by the throat in May, Colleton took a leave of absence from which he never returned.

Tourist drowns in storm's surf

DESTIN — The storm-tossed Gulf of Mexico took Michael Mitchell's life, but not before he pushed his 13-year-old daughter into a rescuer's arms.

The 41-year-old vacationer from Chattanooga, Tenn., drowned Tuesday in rough surf churned by Tropical Storm Beryl at Miramar Beach about a half-mile east of this Florida Panhandle resort city.

Another swimmer, David Cartwright, 40, of Atlanta brought Megan Mitchell to shore unharmed and then returned to the gulf in a futile battle to also rescue the father.

"He died trying to save his baby," said witness Sherry Russell, also from Atlanta. "I guess he knew it was either him or her."

Baby killed in religious rite

ORLANDO — A mother who told investigators her premature baby was critically burned during a religious rite has been charged with murder as a result of the baby's death a year after the fire.

Orlando police say Jose Manuel Garcia's mother killed him, intentionally setting the fire and leaving the 28-month-old infant to burn.

Lupe Tejada, 19, is being held without bail on charges of first-degree murder, aggravated child abuse and arson.

Ms. Tejada told police on April 2, 1993, she was watching television when a smoke alarm sounded. She said she opened the child's bedroom door and discovered smoke so intense she could not reach the baby.

Firefighters rescued Jose and put out the fire. The child suffered burns over 80 percent of his body. His nose, hands, feet and parts of his ears were amputated. His condition never improved greatly, and he died April 22, 1994.

Police investigator Kathy Aringstall confronted Ms. Tejada with arson investigation findings that the fire was deliberately set, and the mother changed her story this week.

The child suffered from a variety of medical problems and had been hooked up to a variety of medical equipment that monitored and cared for his needs.

Woman charged with inciting riot

CRESTVIEW — A woman accused of firing two shots that prompted a rock- and bottle-throwing melee last week in an area known for drug dealing has been charged with inciting a riot and six other new felony counts.

JoAnn Leach, 33, of Crestview was first charged only with drunken driving after the disturbance that involved at least 75 people Thursday in this Florida Panhandle city.

She was arrested again Monday on the seven new charges and released Tuesday from the Oklawaha County Jail under a $25,000 bond.

Other charges are aggravated assault, possession of a firearm during the commission of felony, improper exhibition of a firearm, discharging a firearm in public from a vehicle, using a firearm while intoxicated and possession of a firearm by a convicted felon.

Four officers were slightly injured and one of five other people arrested was bitten by a police dog. Police credit Crestview resident Jeffrey Brown, 20, with preventing further injury by pulling a revolver from Ms. Leach's hand.

Man charged with theft of school funds

JACKSONVILLE — The chairman of a school advisory committee has been charged with grand theft in the disappearance of $9,500 raised by parents for a school addition.

Vernon Alvin Marier, 42, was charged last week with writing checks to himself from the Speicher Hall Fund account at Forrest High School, police reports said.

The fund was started by parents and the business community to build an extension to the school and name it in honor of Lt. Cmdr. Michael Scott Speicher, said Carl Moore, the fund's president.

Speicher was the first American killed in the Gulf War when his Navy FA-18 Hornet was shot down over Iraq. He graduated from Forrest High School in 1975.

Parents held a number of fund-raising events, including fish dinners, spaghetti dinners and barbecues.

Countdown clock reached zero Last-minute shutdown aborts shuttle on pad

By MARCIA DUNN
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL — Space shuttle Endeavour's launch was aborted at the last possible moment today when the main engines fired, then abruptly shut down.

NASA's countdown clock got all the way to zero when the launch was halted because of a fuel pump problem. It was "just very little time, milliseconds" before the solid rocket boosters would have fired and the shuttle took off, NASA launch commentator Bruce Buckingham said.

The six astronauts were strapped into their seats aboard the 2,000-ton shuttle for nearly an hour after the launch was aborted. It took ground crews that long to make sure everything at the pad was safe and secure.

When they finally emerged, their faces revealed various degrees of relief and disappointment. One astronaut gave a ground crew member a friendly pat on the arm.

It was the fifth engine shutdown at the pad in 13 years of shuttle flights and the third since April 1993. But none had been so close to launch.

Buckingham said the problem was with a high-pressure fuel pump on main engine No. 3 that apparently overheated.

Everything had been going well with the countdown this morning, and the weather was perfect.

The three engines ignited on cue 8 1/2 seconds before the scheduled sunrise liftoff, but on-board computers stopped them and the space shuttle remained bolted to the launch pad.

The familiar cloud of steam engulfed the shuttle as the engines fired. Then the huge cloud slowly drifted upward and dissipated.

The flight was expected to be delayed at least a few weeks. That in turn could push back the launch of Discovery, which had been planned for Sept. 9; NASA will have to decide which one goes first.

Endeavour was supposed to carry the world's most advanced civilian space radar on an encore of an earth-monitoring mission. It would have been the 11th shuttle flight this year and the 64th overall.

The shuttle and the $368 million radar flew in space just four months ago. Scientists hoping to understand global change wanted to compare the radar images of volcanoes, forests, deserts and oceans acquired during the first mission with images from what was supposed to be a 10-day flight.

In one experiment, German oceanographers had planned to spill more than 100 gallons of oil into the North Sea to test whether Endeavour's radar could track the mess. The oil would then be cleaned up within 24 hours.

'If Elvis was a teacher'

Stenstrom Elementary teacher Kozette Van Natta (holding microphone) used an Elvis tune to present a musical lesson to her class. "You Ain't Nothin' But A Common Noun." The words to the song she created were displayed on the screen, so the class could follow along. The timely presentation on Tuesday coincided with the 17th anniversary of the popular singer's death.

Chris expected to become hurricane

By CATHERINE WILSON
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — If Tropical Storm Chris continues on its current course over the Atlantic Ocean, it could reach the U.S. Virgin Islands on Saturday, forecasters said. The U.S. mainland would be safe for five to six days after that.

The storm was picking up strength late Wednesday, with sustained winds reaching 70 mph. Chris was more than 900 miles away from any land, northeast of South America and moving west-northwest at 13 mph.

It was expected to become a hurricane overnight. A tropical storm becomes classified as a hurricane when its sustained winds reach 74 mph.

Forecasters at the National Hurricane Center in Coral Gables said Chris should continue strengthening through today.

"But hurricane specialist Rich and Pasch said it is 'too early to begin worrying.'"

"It's way out there," he said. "They don't all have to come to Florida."

At 11 p.m. EDT Wednesday, Chris was centered at 14.3 degrees north latitude and 48.3 degrees west longitude, or about 950 miles east of the Lesser Antilles.

Northwest Florida was soaked by the first two storms of the season, and the second anniversary of the phenomenally destructive Hurricane Andrew is approaching. South Florida, which bore brunt of Andrew's wrath, is rebuilt but still wary of Atlantic hurricanes.

The peak of the hurricane season is late August and early September, and systems such as Chris that form off the African coast can be especially powerful and troublesome, forecasters said.

Beryl slipped ashore Monday in the Florida Panhandle, and dropped nearly 10 inches of rain in some areas.

BK franchise aims for expansion

From Staff and Wire reports

WINTER PARK — A company that operates 64 Burger King restaurants in Central Florida, Tallahassee and South Georgia has set itself up for expansion with two strategic partners in a $64 million deal.

Davgar Restaurants Inc. has turned over the real estate side of its business to a publicly traded real estate investment trust, or REIT, for $29 million.

In a separate transaction, Davgar also received a $17 million business development loan from Franchise Mortgage Acceptance Co., a Norcross, Ga., company that specializes in lending to successful chain restaurant franchisees.

The three-way alliance will merge Davgar's operating expertise with the resources of the financial community. "These transactions set a new strategic and financial direction for Davgar," said Manny Garcia, chief executive of the Winter Park-based company. "Going forward, we'll be able to concentrate on what we do best, which is run restaurants."

Davgar's real estate partner is Franchise Finance Corporation of America, of Scottsdale, Ariz. FFCA will lease the restaurants to Davgar and purchase or build additional Burger Kings after approving sites that Davgar has selected.

The strategy for franchise fast-food companies to own and operate their businesses as independent entities is becoming common in an increasingly competitive environment, said Morton Fleischer, chief executive of FFCA. Small operators are unable to achieve the economies of scale necessary to turn a profit and many are selling out to larger enterprises, he said Tuesday.

"Operators like Davgar, who are professionally managed and efficient, are in the position to grow," Fleischer said. "The key is appropriate financing, which they now have."

Davgar has rapidly increased its Burger King holdings over the past five years. Annual sales now approach $82 million.

Garcia said he now wants to expand his chain at the rate of about 20 percent a year, moving into new geographic markets.

Davgar operates ten Burger Kings in Seminole County including one in Sanford, one in Lake Mary and one in Longwood.

Incidents reported to Sanford police

Jewelry valued at $954 was reported stolen early Wednesday from a residence in the 900 block of Pine Avenue.

Property in excess of $1,320 was reported stolen Tuesday from a residence in the 100 block of Holly Avenue.

Currency valued at $140 was said to have been taken Tuesday from a restaurant in the 2800 block of Orlando Drive.

A 1986 Cadillac, reportedly stolen in Longwood, was located by Sanford police early Wednesday in Castle Brewer Court.

A woman told police a boy, estimated to be 10 to 12 years of age, took a coin purse from her table at a First Street restaurant on Tuesday, while she was eating. The coin purse reportedly contained $25 in currency.

Incidents reported

Sheriff's deputies say two generators, with a total value of $1,200, were reportedly stolen Monday from a construction trailer parked in the 4300 block of Lake Mary Boulevard.

Sanford police received a report that someone shot two rounds of ammunition into a car Monday, in the 1200 block of W. 13th Street. They said one round struck the windshield and the other smashed the right rear passenger window. The driver was reportedly uninjured.

Police said one shot was reportedly fired into the living room window of a home in the 100 block of Langston Drive on Monday.

An air conditioning unit, valued at $1,150 was reportedly stolen from a business in the 200 block of Coastline Road Monday. The owner of the business reportedly told police the same unit had been stolen on July 1.

Elks Lodge celebrates 70 years

By MARVA HAWKINS
Herald Columnist

SANFORD — Exalted Ruler Bernard D. Mitchell, anniversary chairman, Brother Roosevelt Cummings and the brothers of Celery City Lodge #542, Improved Benevolent Protective Order of Elks of the World, invite the community, current and former members to join in their 70th anniversary celebration Aug. 19-21.

Grand Exalted Ruler Donald P. Wilson of Philadelphia and the Grand Lodge will be the special guests.

Celery City Lodge #542 was organized on Aug. 17, 1924. They were granted a charter for a lodge to be known as Celery City Lodge #542 and sessions would be held in the City of Sanford. The application was made to the Grand Lodge by the following men: Brothers John Scipio Bracey, Dr. George M. Brewer, W.W. Lewis, D.C. Brock, A. Peacock, J. Argrett, Clarence Proffitt, Willie Williams, Chris Lomax, John Crawford, S.W. Harris, Italy Littles, John Hicks, Richard Handy, Lemon Burton, Otis Crawford, Edward Adams, S.J. Waldon, J.D. Sneed, S.M. White, William Burnett, Jerry Walker, Frank Blair, G.V. Johnson, Tony Blair, James Lamar, and Allen Blackshear. The first exalted ruler was Sippio Bracey and there were 43 charter members.

In 1928, the first Elks Home was located on the corner of Seventh and Cypress Avenue. W.W. Lewis was the exalted ruler and the building was used until 1973. Under the leadership of Exalted Ruler Lockwood

Brown, the present building was built. Several renovations have been made to the present site. The mortgage burning ceremony was held in 1981 when Brother Willie Merckerson served as exalted ruler.

The activities for the 70th Anniversary Celebration weekend are as follows:

- Friday, Aug. 19, 7:30 p.m., Awards Banquet, Sanford Civic Center, $10 per ticket.
- Saturday, Aug. 20, Elks Home, Country and Western Dance, Fish Fry, (free).
- Sunday, Aug. 21, Anniversary

Worship Service, 11 a.m., St. James AME Church, 819 Cypress Ave. Speaker is Grand Exalted Ruler Donald P. Wilson.

The community, national, state officers and area Elks lodges and temples will join the brothers of Celery City Lodge in this, their 70th anniversary celebration. Progress has and is being made. Exalted Ruler Bernard Mitchell and Celery City Lodge #542 solicit your continued support for a great Order. Working together, a successful celebration will be accomplished.

Honorable Donald Wilson

Private insurance: Quicker treatment

By KATHARINE WEBSTER
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON — People with private insurance go to the doctor sooner or get treated more quickly than the uninsured or those on Medicaid, according to a study of appendicitis cases.

The study also found that patients in HMOs fare better than those with other kinds of private insurance.

In the study, published today in The New England Journal of Medicine, uninsured people or those covered by Medicaid were 50 percent more likely to suffer a ruptured appendix — a sign of delayed treatment — than patients insured through health maintenance organizations.

Privately insured patients with fee-for-service plans, which require patients to pay more when they are sicker, were 20 percent more likely to suffer a ruptured appendix than those covered by traditional HMOs, which charge patients a flat fee covering all ailments.

The study examined the records of 96,587 people, ages 18 to 84, who were hospitalized for acute appendicitis in California from 1984 to 1989. Of that number, 30 percent suffered a ruptured appendix before surgery to remove it.

Dr. Arnold S. Reiman, the Journal's editor in chief emeritus, said in an accompanying editorial that the study adds to the evidence that uninsured people delay care because they're worried about medical bills, while those with Medicaid often have trouble finding a doctor who accepts low-priced federal reimbursement.

Both groups may not seek help until acute pain sends them to an emergency room. Or they may go first to an overcrowded public clinic, where it takes longer to see a doctor and be diagnosed, the study's authors said. The data suggest patients were treated equally once they got to a hospital.

The study also indicates that privately insured patients who have to pay a deductible — typically 20 percent — or a large co-payment also may be slow to seek care, Reiman said.

But Kyanne Green, a spokeswoman for the Health Insurance Association of America, which represents commercial fee-for-service plans and HMOs, said the study's results might be unique to California, where most HMOs have their own staff, clinics and hospitals.

Researchers chose appendicitis as a way to look at differences in access to medical care because its course is straightforward: The more time that passes after the onset of abdominal pain, the more likely the appendix will rupture.

Lawyers flock to breast implant agreement hearing

By JAY REEVES
Associated Press Writer

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — So many lawyers swarmed to town for a hearing on a $4.25 billion breast implant settlement that the judge reserved an 1,100-seat theater.

U.S. District Judge Sam Pointer already has tentatively approved implant manufacturers' plans to pay thousands of women who blame the implants for hardening of their breasts, nerve disorders, lupus and other illnesses.

Pointer called a hearing today to help determine whether the agreement is fair enough to become final. It would be the largest single product liability settlement in U.S. history. Pointer scheduled the session in a civic center theater. Workers planned to open the doors 1½ hours early to accommodate hundreds of lawyers, women and members of the media.

A Pointer aide, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Wednesday that at least 80,000 women have registered to join the settlement by Dow Corning Corp., Bristol-Myers Squibb Co., Baxter Healthcare Corp. and other companies.

Under the settlement, the manufacturers admit no connection between the implants and health problems.

The agreement was reached after more than 13,000 lawsuits were filed.

EDITORIAL

Systems overload

Editorial cartoons in a newspaper are not meant to be funny. They are to start people thinking. Unfortunately, people often look at them, nod in agreement (or disagreement), and move along.

The editorial cartoon in Tuesday's Sanford Herald was called "Horror Story." It expressed how in a world full of death, disease, crime, famine and other problems, we, (by watching it often on TV) have gotten used to it.

It is well intentioned, but we doubt if anyone will pay attention.

The cartoon creator was correct. We have become so used to the problems of the world we tend to take them for granted. Certainly, many people know more about places where the problems are occurring. We become familiar with Cuba, Haiti, Somalia, Rwanda, and many other areas. But they are far from our day-to-day life. Let them worry about it.

Unfortunately, we have become so complacent, we have forgotten about how serious our own problems are. Even though we see them on TV and read of them in the newspaper, we apparently have a tendency to consider their problems of others. Why should we care?

Almost every day, the Police Reports in the Sanford Herald tell of vehicles which have been stolen in the Sanford/Lake Mary/Longwood area. Yet people continue to leave a vehicle parked with keys in the ignition and windows open. Doesn't anyone pay attention?

We read about people getting mugged or nurses getting snatched. Yet people continue to walk in dark areas late at night carrying large amounts of cash. No one is learning the message the press is trying to give.

If people think TV is wrong for continuing to give news of the world problems, or the newspaper is wrong writing about the bad things, they may as well follow the example of the ostrich and hide their head in the ground.

Unfortunately, ignoring it won't make it go away. In fact, it will allow these problems to multiply.

Walk down First Street or through a shopping center parking lot during peak traffic time. You'll see many cars with their windows open.

Children are drowning because they don't wear life vests. Yet boats are continuously going out on Lake Monroe with children not wearing them.

The problem is not with the fact that there is too much of this tragedy. The sad point is that people are not learning from the mistakes and problems of others.

Find a copy of Monday's Herald, and examine the cartoon on page 4-A. Then don't just fold up the paper and go away. Give it some thought. What can we do, as individuals, to make this a better neighborhood, city, state, nation, and world?

Some hot licks on a few hot topics

Short comments on a few topics that can't wait for - and another that doesn't deserve - longer treatment.

Don't be surprised if President Clinton, despite the stinging rebuff handed him by the House on the crime bill, and the parliamentary snarcs awaiting a health care bill, manages to wangle something that he will call "acceptable" out of Congress in both cases.

Then he will promptly be hailed by the usual prompt-hailers as The Comeback Kid, a miracle-worker, etc. But the proof of the pudding will be the results of the November elections. If the American people approve of Bill and Hillary and what they are trying to do to this country, they can vote to re-elect the members of Congress who are helping them do it.

If not - if the voters perceive Mr. Clinton's health care package as simply a liberal grab for government control of another huge segment of the economy, and his "crime bill" as just a pork-padded welfare bill for criminals - they can register their disappointment in November by throwing the congressional Democrats who enacted them from here to Kingdom Come.

Liberal journalistic misrepresentations of the so-called "crime bill" rejected by the House may have reached a new low. Listen to this passage from a news story in the ultraliberal San Francisco Examiner:

"Clinton had lobbied ferociously on behalf of the bill, which included funds for hiring more police officers across the nation. The six-year legislation also would have banned many assault-style firearms, provided billions for prisons and crime prevention, made more than 50 additional crimes subject to the death penalty and allowed life sentences for some three-time felons."

Pretty tough, eh? No mention that only 20 percent of the new police officers' salaries are provided for; that those "billions" don't have to be spent on prisons; or that the federal government has little to do with most major crimes or with the penalties for them. And "crime prevention"? Would you have suspected that that mellifluous phrase conceals 30 new social-welfare programs costing $9 billion? Who on the Examiner's staff writes that bilge?

On a very different subject, I confess to feeling uneasy about the new indictment obtained by the Justice Department against Lemrick Nelson Jr.

Mr. Nelson, who is black, was found with a bloody knife in his pocket and confessed to having killed Yankel Rosenbaum, an Australian rabbinical student caught up in a Brooklyn riot following an auto accident that killed a 7-year-old black child. Nelson subsequently repudiated his confession, and was acquitted after an allegedly botched prosecution.

Normally, that - however regrettable - would be that. But our federal government has gotten into the habit of going after such lucky defendants (e.g. the police in the Rodney King case) under a law "against violating another person's civil rights": in this case, by denying the dead man his right to the equal enjoyment of the streets of New York.

Call it what you will, that amounts to double jeopardy. And there goes another chunk of the Constitution.

GUEST COLUMNIST

Creative governing has watered concept of cruel punishment

Another of the criminal lawyer's bellyaches, about something being unconstitutional that continuously keeps resurfacing in capital offense trials and appeals, is the one about "cruel and unusual punishment."

The odds are very good, in my "not so humble opinion," that if you were to ask that bellyaching lawyer to name the precise section of the Constitution that was allegedly being violated by the punishment to be applied, he/she couldn't come within a mile and a half of it.

Let's clarify that right here and right now. And while we're at it, let's clarify a couple - three additional points that you good folks out there in Lalaland might find interesting. Listen up, all you legal beanbags, you too might learn some things you forgot a long time ago.

It's called "Amendment VIII." It is part of the Bill of Rights. The exact quote follows as taken from my copy of the "Special Limited Inaugural Edition of the Constitution of the United States," dated Jan. 30, 1989 and published by the U.S. Government Printing Office in 1988. "Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted."

Well, there you have it. All 18 words of it. All clear and concise words that really do not need a 1995 Webster's World Dictionary to understand them. You just read what it "does say." Now - read what it "doesn't" say. At least, in part.

It doesn't clarify or set any "upper or lower" limits on what is OR is not "excessive," "cruel" or "unusual." I do not have any quarrel with that. I do have a really big quarrel with the legal profession's constant (again in my "not-so-humble-opinion") corrupting of the "cruel and unusual" part of it. Here's why!

Those first 10 amendments - the so-called "Bill of Rights" - were ratified way back on Dec. 15, 1791, and never - once more - "NEVER" revised since. Not one time. That's over 200 years ago. Way back then, the "stocks" were a popular minor crime punishment that were imposed on a regular basis (something I heartily endorsed some bunch-and-a-half of letters ago). Wasn't "cruel and unusual" then!

What's so damn wrong about using them now?

Mid-range criminal punishment included "flogging" with the cat-of-nine-tails (again recommended by this old duffer). Wasn't "cruel and unusual" then! What's so damn wrong about using it now?

SEMINOLE OPINION

NELSON TULLAR

Top range criminal punishment included death by hanging and/or firing squad (again highly recommended by this old fellow). Wasn't "cruel and unusual" then! Why are we, as a nation, so totally gutless in executing hardened-career criminals? Why should it take 8-15 years, or more, to cleanse society of its violent misfits? I'll give you four "clue words" and four "clue phrases." You try to match them.

1: governors, 2: lawyers, 3: judges and 4: courts. A: files appeal after appeal, B: Signs altogether "too few" death warrants, C: Gets all clogged up with "appeals constipation," D: Frequently issues idiotic decisions and overturns nearly everything beneath him/her including his/her own jury.

OK folks! go ahead and match 'em up, which number goes with which letter? Come on now, give it a shot. No, you do not win a new car if you get them right!

But then, you won't be "shot at sunrise" if you screw up some of the choices. In any case - in every case - you stand to win. Why? Simple! Now - you're starting to think. Yup! And thinking frequently leads to some sort of action. And some sort of action is what is desperately needed here in the good-old-U.S. of A.

Our "Constitution," especially the "Bill of Rights," is being trampled on, nearly on a daily basis, by many (not all) of our duly elected governmental representatives, from the very top on down, and by their "appointees" - some "appointed for life." The longer it takes for YOU to get off your dead duffs and start taking action (legally, of course) the longer it will take to reverse this "creative governing" trend that we've been stuck with for decades.

Now, you've "really" got something to gnaw on for a while. Start gnawing.

Caring about others

Recently in my letter (Sanford Herald, Aug. 1), I made a big error in my facts and wish to apologize for not rechecking before letting the letter go to the "post."

The money for the Christmas luncheon was delivered but after my phone call it was well received and many more people were fed and more toys filled Santa's bag. I will check more closely next time.

If one of your neighbors is short on food, Social Security just goes so far. Just fix a nice plate and knock on their door.

I guess I've told this story a million times but it stays with me and turned my feet and life around:

I love to flash down at Lake Monroe when the weather permits. So one day in our beautiful spring weather while sitting there, a little lady, approximately 5'2" and weighing approximately 98 lbs., sat down on one of the chairs and asked if I had another sandwich in my cooler. I at once gave her a big "ole" sub sandwich and a Diet coke. As she first lady ate she talked about her life. She only had one son who was in New York, but hadn't seen her for seven years and she couldn't reach him. She only had Medicare and had an operation a few months back and just couldn't get enough money for three meals a day. I checked this out closely so just ending up with $3 over her requirement for food stamps, she fell between the cracks and stated I was her last person she would ask for help. She had planned to return to her small apartment and close "God's book on her life." I'm sure there are plenty of these people.

I found her son and we had a good old-fashioned talk; he came down at once to ask forgiveness from his mother and he took her with him. She still lives here but such a difference. We visit by phone and her son told his mother there should be more people who cared enough to give people so much love, yes, a good "what for" when they slip.

Life can be so lonely if there isn't anyone to care and just say "I love you."

Income tax indexing

When Congress adopted President Clinton's outrageous tax plan last year, it called for delayed income tax "indexing" for one year for high income taxpayers. Tax-indexing prevents taxpayers from being ushered into higher tax brackets just because of inflation.

During health care reform debates in May, Rep. Stark of California, chairman of the House Ways and Means Health Subcommittee, proposed repealing income tax indexing for taxpayers at all income levels to help fund government-run health care. The congressional budget office predicts that with annual inflation averaging three percent, repealing indexing for five years would raise taxes by $132.2 billion. Inflation is the most insidious form of taxation because it requires no new laws to raise taxes. The economy itself becomes a tax collector, as unsuspecting taxpayers whose wages are merely keeping up with inflation suddenly find themselves paying rates under a static tax code.

There is no doubt that repealing indexing would hurt every American. As Dan Mitchell of the Heritage Foundation wrote in the May 5 edition of the Wall Street Journal: "Consider the example of a married couple whose taxable income is $38,000. This year, right at the level where the 28 percent bracket takes effect. Assuming their income kept pace with inflation over the next five years, they would pay an additional $2,320 in taxes over the next five years compared with current law. In other words, repeal of tax-indexing would cause this couple's income to drop by $500 a year." That's at three percent.

The National Taxpayer's Union fought to add indexing to President Reagan's tax cut bill of 1981. Since taking effect in 1985, indexing has saved taxpayers well over $100 billion.

Contact your senators and representatives today and ask that they vote against any attempt to delay, alter or repeal indexing, especially in the name of health reform.

Waller suggested the repayments be made by the property owners, based on a percentage ratio. The largest amount would be required from Feather Edge, which has 30 residential units plus four under construction and 24 more proposed for the future. The total assessment for the development would be $40,502. At the bottom of the assessment percentage level is property owned by George and Doris Brown which would be assessed at $10,793. All of the others, with the exception of Medplex, would range between two thousand dollars.

The Medplex facility, one of the Sun Drive buildings, had previously paid $46,700 to the city. With that removed from the total amount the city seeks to obtain, the total is now $179,957.

City officials say the focal point of the confusion is unclear methodology established by former commissions, when the project was first initiated, regarding how to pay for the work.

During the August 4 commission meeting, City Manager John Litton explained that the work being done now, "is to correct something which should have been done at that time," (when the paving was done).

The reason for the public hearing at tonight's meeting is to reach agreement on how to handle the matter. Litton had previously predicted that, based on agreement, he could have an ordinance pertaining to the assessments ready for formal commission action during October commission meetings.

Tonight's meeting is to be preceded by a budget meeting in the East Conference Room, beginning at 5:30 p.m. The regular meeting will begin at 7 p.m., or as soon as possible following the budget meeting, in the commission chambers of Lake Mary City Hall, 100 N. Country Club Road.

Roads

Thomas said the projections are driven by anticipated new housing and industry in Sanford and south Sanford.

To prepare for all those expected cars and trucks, the county has embarked on a road-widening project for the whole area centered at the intersection of Sanford Avenue-C.R. 427 and Lake Mary Boulevard-Silver Lake Drive.

Construction began in May to build a two-lane extension of Silver Lake Drive between Ohio Avenue and the new entrance to Sanford's airport. Jerry Matthews, county project manager working on improvements in the area, said the work will be completed by county crews in October.

The extension was sought by the Sanford Airport Authority to improve access to the airport and in turn, enhance industrial development of the airport by providing a direct link to the nearby expressway. The two-lane segment will cost about $290,000, Matthews said.

The county is already planning to widen the new Silver Lake Drive extension to four lanes to the airport, then a new two-lane extension past the airport to S.R. 46 at State Road 415. The $6.4 million construction is slated to begin in May 1998 and be completed about two years later, resulting in a new, seven-mile road.

The county is in the initial design stages to widen Lake Mary Boulevard between U.S. 17-92 and Sanford Avenue from two to four lanes. Although the two-mile roadway didn't exist before about five years ago, it needs to be widened to accommodate anticipated traffic, engineers say. The road will be designed so it can be easily widened to six lanes when needed, said Ota Gifford, manager of the project.

Work on the $3.9 million construction project is expected to begin in 1997 and be completed by the end of 1998.

Gifford said.

To move more traffic north and south, improvements are planned for Sanford Avenue and C.R. 427. Sanford Avenue between Airport Boulevard and the expressway will be widened to four lanes. The $3.6 million project is scheduled to begin in December and take about 18 months to complete, said Gifford. A land purchase snag has cropped up and the start may be delayed, he said.

The county plans to widen C.R. 427 between U.S. 17-92 and the expressway in two steps. The first step, from U.S. 17-92 and Hester Avenue, is scheduled to be under construction in February 1998 and be done about 18 months later. That construction will cost about $4 million.

The second step between Hester Avenue and the expressway is expected to be under construction in May 1998 and will take about 18 months to complete, said Gifford. That project will cost $2.9 million, he said.

Sales International, and Rehabilitation Center.

Farr says he expects several thousand participants and spectators to gather at the park on Saturday and Sunday to take part in the event, as well as tour the historic downtown area of Sanford.

For both days, the streets surrounding Fort Melon Park will be closed to traffic. This includes E. First Street from Sanford Avenue to Mellonville, San Juan Avenue, and the park area of Seminole Boulevard along the lakefront.

"That will be the general course for the races," Farr said, "running completely around the park."

There are no age limits for participation in the events, with the exception of the bike race in the youngest category which is age 14 through 14.

Registration may be made by contacting any of the sponsoring organizations or the chamber of commerce at 322-2212.

Registration may also be made on the days of the events at Fort Melon Park.

The Family Sports Festival will be held from 8 a.m. until 3 p.m. Saturday, and 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Sunday.

Murder

possessive individual.

At the beginning of their four-year relationship, Roger told police Richmond was not jealous of her work as a club dancer where she could sometimes make $300-$500 a night. As time went on, Richmond "got very possessive," she said. "He'd pull me off tables (when she danced) and stuff." Although some clubs do not allow the boyfriends of dancers in, Roger said Richmond would hang out where she worked, sometimes out of sight.

"We always had disagreements," Roger said on the tape. "I didn't like him doing drugs. He didn't like me dancing, taking my clothes off."

She described how her boyfriend was always trying to cut her long blond hair off to control her and to stop her from dancing.

"His hair was falling out and he was envious of mine," Roger told investigators. "If he cut my hair, I wouldn't work."

In earlier testimony, former dancer Natalie Luddick said the defendant told her she stabbed Richmond after he pinned her against a wall and threatened to cut her hair. Luddick said Roger told her about the crime and disposing of the body while the two were traveling to an out-of-town club date.

When Richmond returned unexpectedly from a trip to South Florida in the wake of Hurricane Andrew, Roger said she was happy to see him.

Richmond operated a tree service, lined up jobs and planned to return to the storm damaged area. Although Richmond objected, Roger invited an 18-year old woman named "Rose" who had no place to stay, to their home that night, Roger said. Roger denied to police they had a physical fight the night he returned.

Police questioned whether the couple's fights were ever really violent and Roger responded, "No, we'd push, hair pull and grab." Later she commented, "We've had some nice smacking around." However, Roger said she threatened to get an order of protection against Richmond if he threatened her, her dog or her mother again as his use of drugs escalated.

During arguments, Roger said if she was falsely accused of doing something by Richmond she would not just sit back and take it.

Roger speculated if Richmond was dead, he might have died of an overdose, been killed by people he owed money to or simply disappeared, feigning death "just to mess with me."

Defense attorney Mark O'Mara will attempt to show Roger was a battered woman who killed Richmond in self-defense. Two dancers at Cabaret International testified they never saw bruises or injuries on Roger in the brightly lit small locker room where they prepared to perform, nor did they observe her using makeup to cover injuries.

One dancer said Roger seemed "stressed" and did not work at the club for awhile after Richmond disappeared.

Luddick, who worked with police to gather evidence from Roger, said the defendant was trying to get in touch with David, "buying a lot of candles and stuff like that." She wanted to make sure he was in heaven, Luddick added.

Roger also offered to give Luddick some of Richmond's sweaters when Luddick visited Roger's condominium. The walls and floors had been cleaned, painted and new carpeting placed in the master bedroom.

Despite the cleaning, forensic experts discovered blood stains through chemical tests after Roger granted permission for the home to be searched.

Testimony resumed at 9:30 a.m. this morning.

One amendment per day

WASHINGTON — The Senate is considering health reform at the rate of one amendment per day. But the pace could pick up with the debut of a bipartisan plan widely viewed as pivotal in the muddled debate.

The moderate group of 10 Democratic and nine Republican senators was hearing today from the head of the Congressional Budget Office in a final numbers check before presenting its blueprint to the Senate Democratic and Republican leaders.

The Senate is formally considering Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell's 1,443-page bill, designed to make a basic insurance package available to nearly all Americans.

Debate was continuing today on a package of rural health-care amendments. The Democratic sponsors said they would aid rural health facilities; set up incentives for doctors and other medical personnel to practice in rural areas; and help rural providers form their own health-care networks.

House converts to help revive crime bill

WASHINGTON — The three black Democrats' opposition to Clinton's anti-crime bill is visceral — they abhor the death penalty. But each has agreed to help revive the bill on the House floor.

The trio, Reps. Cleo Fields of Louisiana, Charles Rangel of New York and John Lewis of Georgia, are Clinton's first converts among House members who used a procedural vote last week to block consideration of the bill. It will take five more turnabouts to bring the bill to the House floor.

"I cannot in my conscience vote for a crime bill that has 60 different death penalties," Fields said Wednesday. "But I will give the Congress and the American people the opportunity to debate the crime bill."

Lewis and Rangel, who called the death penalty "barbaric" and "racist," also said they would oppose the bill itself.

Problems at Denver airport

DENVER — Cracked runways, the latest dilemma for Denver's long-delayed new airport, will raise maintenance costs for the runways' entire 40-year life span unless they are dug up and fixed right, according to an expert consulted by The Associated Press.

City officials say the thousands of cracks and holes are being repaired and will not recur.

But Fu Hua Chen, one of the world's leading experts on expansive soils, said the fissures are "a good indication that in the future, we'll have serious problems with these runways" unless they are torn up and the earth beneath them replaced.

The $3.7 billion Denver International Airport was built 23 miles northeast of the city after officials decided that Stapleton International Airport could not be expanded to accommodate increased air traffic.

Psychologists offer therapy-to-go

NEW YORK — In a telling example of 1990s time-starved living, two psychologists are offering therapy-to-go.

Patients can buckle up and talk about themselves while a chauffeur drives them to or from work, an appointment, the airport or just around the block.

Mobile Psychological Services PC has 40 clients, four vans and a staff of six trained in therapies ranging from Gestalt to cognitive behavioral, said one of its founders, Shelly Lenox.

The idea began with Lenox's partner, Ursula Strauss, a New York psychologist who noticed more and more patients missing their regular appointments.

"They were busy executives with an imbalance in their lives toward work rather than recreation and interpersonal life," said Lenox, who had seen a similar trend.

On location: 'The O.J. Simpson Story'

ANAHEIM, Calif. — The big problem on the set of "The O.J. Simpson Story" wasn't the looming air date. It wasn't the criticism directed at Fox Broadcasting Co. for making dramatic hay of the tragedy.

On this sultry August afternoon at Anaheim Stadium, where the two-hour TV movie was shooting on location, the real difficulty was polyester.

"Ood, is this turtle-neck hot," moaned actress Jessica Tuck, dressed in 1970s bell bottoms and a snug pullover for her role as Nicole Brown Simpson.

Tuck and Bobby Hoese, cast as Simpson, were preparing Wednesday to re-create an early meeting between the football great and the woman he is accused of murdering.

"You don't look like the kind of girl who needs to follow every rule in the book," Simpson's character says in the script. "I've got a feeling about you, Nicole. About you and me."

"I've got a feeling too," Nicole replies.

"What more do we need?" he asks.

The film is to air Sept. 13, one week before the start of Simpson's trial for the killings of his ex-wife and her friend Ronald Goldman. He has pleaded innocent.

WORLD BRIEFS

Excitement over Mexico elections

MEXICO CITY — Hundreds of thousands of photographs of Mexico's presidential candidates smile down from posters strung over the capital's main thoroughfares.

The ruling party's white sound trucks cruise the city, blasting music praising candidate Ernesto Zedillo. Workers pass out T-shirts, baseball caps and plastic buckets emblazoned with his name.

On the surface, Mexico's political parties seem to be preparing a giant street fiesta to culminate in Sunday's presidential elections.

But the real excitement goes far beyond who might win. It's over the prospect that the nation may see its first free and clean elections. The government and Zedillo's ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, which is often accused of ballot tampering, have promised Mexico's cleanest balloting ever.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Hundreds of Cubans crowded along a seawall before dawn today waiting for boats — even anything that might loosely be considered a boat — to carry them to the United States.

Free care for pregnant women, children

SOWETO, South Africa — The first concrete effect of the first 100 days of Nelson Mandela's presidency is plainly seen at the Pimville Community Health Clinic, where needy mothers with wailing children line up for hours.

After taking office in May, Mandela decreed that pregnant women and children up to 6 be given free care. The long waits and overworked staff at the public clinics dotting the sprawling Soweto metropolis testify to the way black South Africans immediately took their new president's promise to heart.

In fact, according to Dr. Soomatt Naitha, who administers the clinics run from Baragwanath Hospital, no one before was turned away for lacking the $2 basic medical fee. But now worried mothers don't delay before bringing in their children, and the clinics are inundated as a result.

"No one ever got anything free in Soweto before," she said with a laugh.

Study shows workers concerned about privacy

By ROBERT NAYLOR JR.
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON — Plenty of American workers believe their bosses are snooping on them and don't respect their privacy rights, a new survey shows.

The survey says most workers oppose the kinds of questions about off-the-job lifestyles some companies are asking in an effort to hold down health care costs.

"Millions of workers fear that employers are now collecting and using health and lifestyle information improperly," said Alan F. Westin, a professor of law and government at Columbia University who was academic adviser for the study.

The random telephone survey was taken by Louis Harris and Associates of New York City between March 31 and April 28, 1993. The results were withheld until today to coincide with the release next week of a television documentary, "Off Limits: Your Health, Your Job, Your Privacy," which will air on public TV stations.

Pollsters interviewed 1,000 adults who said they were employees of private-sector companies with 15 or more workers. Also questioned were 300 senior-level personnel executives at companies with 25 or more workers. The survey has a margin of error of plus or minus 3 percentage points.

Most workers — 61 percent of those polled — said their employers respected after-hours privacy "very well." Another 29 percent said their bosses respected off-the-job privacy "somewhat well," 8 percent "not very well" and 3 percent "not well at all."

Respondents believed employers had the right to verify information provided by job applicants. For instance, eight in 10 thought it appropriate for employers to check an applicant's educational background or find out whether the applicant had a criminal record.

But they expressed less support for the inquiries many companies are making to help reduce health care costs. Tests for nicotine use away from work were opposed by 93 percent of the respondents and 69 percent objected to urine tests for alcohol use.

Another 69 percent believed psychological tests that measure attitudes and social preferences were inappropriate, and 59 percent opposed the use of blood tests to determine whether an applicant had been exposed to the virus that causes AIDS.

Minority and low-income workers were the most concerned about employer misuse of personal information.

Nearly a quarter of black respondents said their employers had asked for information they believed was inappropriate and not really needed for employment, as opposed to 10 percent of respondents overall.

One in 10 blacks said they had chosen not to file a claim to be reimbursed by employer-provided health insurance because they did not want the employer or another employee to learn the nature of their treatment. That compared with 3 percent of respondents overall.

Ten percent of respondents from households with annual incomes of $15,000 or less said they had medical or health information they provided to an employer improperly disclosed to other people, compared with 4 percent of respondents from all income groups.

Hulzenga denies Johnson deal

MIAMI — Miami Dolphins owner H. Wayne Hulzenga denies a magazine report that he sought a deal to make Jimmy Johnson the team's coach.

Hulzenga wanted the former coach of the Dallas Cowboys and Miami Hurricanes to replace Dolphins coach Don Shula, according to an article in the September issue of Q.

"It is absolutely, positively and unequivocally not true," Hulzenga said.

Offerdahl signs 1-year deal

DAVIE, Fla. — This season, John Offerdahl will be paid by the play.

The Miami Dolphins' middle linebacker returned to work on his 30th birthday Wednesday after signing a one-year contract loaded with playing-time incentives.

"I didn't want to make money when I shouldn't," said Offerdahl, a perennial Pro Bowl performer before he was slowed by injuries each of the past three seasons.

The deal could be worth up to $2.5 million if each incentive goal is achieved.

Bucs give Sisson a look

TAMPA — Scott Sisson is getting a fresh start. He's not sure he wants it.

The second-year kicker, whose inconsistency earned him the nickname "Missin' Sisson" last season, was cut by the New England Patriots this week and claimed off waivers by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers on Wednesday.

Under other circumstances, he might be thrilled to be getting another chance. But he has mixed emotions about joining the Bucs, who found a reliable kicker in Michael Husted after not taking Sisson in last year's NFL draft.

"It's nice to come in here for however long it will be, but if I had a choice, this is the last place I probably would have picked," the former Georgia Tech star said.

Suns overtake Knoxville

JACKSONVILLE — Tony Kounas hit a two-run double for the winning run as Jacksonville beat Knoxville 4-3 Wednesday.

The Suns got an early 2-0 lead in the third inning when Terrel Hansen drove in two runs.

Winning pitcher Milt Hill (3-1) worked seven innings. Jim Mecir earned his ninth save.

Kingdome accident kills two

SEATTLE — A construction crane accident at the Kingdome sent two men plunging 250 feet to their deaths and injured a third worker.

Two unidentified painters sandblasting the stadium ceiling fell some 250 feet to the floor when a basket affixed to the top of a crane broke loose, Seattle Fire Department spokeswoman Georgia Taylor said.

Hamm leads U.S. women romp

MONTREAL — Mia Hamm scored four goals as the United States routed Trinidad and Tobago 11-1 in the Confederation of North, Central American and Caribbean Associations of Football women's tournament.

The U.S. is tied with Canada for first place in the five-country tournament at 2-0. The top two teams will advance to next year's world championship in Sweden.

Royals use all weapons to top Sox

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Taking bases any way they could, the Cline's Painting/Good News Gang Royals rolled to a 10-5 win over the Metro Sewer Red Sox in the third-place game of the Sanford Recreation Senior Baseball League tournament Wednesday night at Sanford Memorial Stadium.

The Royals finish the summer with a 5-6 record while Red Sox went 1-10.

While they were outlit 7-4 by the Red Sox, the Royals' attack also included 10 walks, 15 stolen bases, five wild pitches, a balk, and five Red Sox errors.

Leading the Royals was David Yrurtagoyena, who hit two singles, drew a walk, stole three bases, and scored three runs. Winning pitcher Alvin Smith contributed a two-run double. Martin Cicero singled, stole a base, and scored a run.

Nathaniel Cline drew three walks, stole two bases, and scored twice while his brother, Jeremiah, walked twice, stole two bases, and scored two runs. Ronnie McNeil and Jason Compton each had a walk, two stolen bases, and a run scored. Brad Brumley drove in a run with a sacrifice fly.

Kai Godwin also played for the Royals.

Adrian Knight hit two singles, scored a run, and had two RBI to pace the Red Sox. Steve Pepitone chipped in with two singles, three stolen bases, and a run scored. Don Kramer doubled, scored a run, and had an RBI. Donnie Harrison and Mike Hawkins both had a single, a walk, one stolen base, and a run.

Other members of the Red Sox were Albert Harris, Don Carter, Fabian McKinney, Michelle Satterthwaite, and Richard Quiñones.

Despite the muddy conditions at Sanford Memorial Stadium, Wednesday night's third-place game in the Sanford Recreation Senior Baseball League tournament still had the look of a track meet. Nathaniel Cline (sliding, right), David Yrurtagoyena (No. 4, below) and the rest of the Cline's Painting-Good News Gang Royals took full advantage of their four hits and 10 walks by stealing 15 bases in the five-inning game. Adrian Knight (playing third, right), Michelle Satterthwaite (playing first, below) and the Metro Sewer Red Sox also did some running, collecting seven hits and six stolen bases.

Balough adds to victory total

By PAUL MARSELLA
Special to the Herald

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — Lately, the winner of the FASCAR's Late Model division feature race is a forgone conclusion when Gary "Hot Shoe" Balough is in the field.

He showed why last Saturday, Aug. 13, when he won he notched his 11th consecutive win at New Smyrna Speedway. For the season, Balough now has 38 wins out of 41 starts.

"Everybody talks about Balough, but it's not just me," said Balough. "I have a good car, a real dedicated crew, and a car owner that is real race savvy. Pee Wee (Griffin) has done it all, he was a driver, a car owner in NASCAR, a crew member, and a head wrench."

"My goal for the season is 50 wins. I'm almost there. We should make it. Racing is a funny business. Today, we're king of the hill. Tomorrow, someone can come along and knock us off. You just go out there every race and give it your best shot."

Balough started Saturday's feature from the fifth position and, by the end of the second lap, had moved around early race leader Ricky Wood for the No. 1 spot.

Several caution periods closed the field for restarts, but with each new green flag, Balough would pull away from the field and cruised to victory lane.

Wood, who finished second behind Balough, also has been enjoying a consistently successful season.

"We're still in first place in the FASCAR Late Model points standings and that makes me feel real good," said Wood. "We're a low budget team. We don't have any high-dollar equipment, but we still finish in the top five almost every week. You just do the best with what you have."

Dave Ponder was third followed by John Kennedy and "Big" Mike Kubanek.

Kubanek, who has not raced since he slid down the front straightaway on his roof during February's speed weeks, started Saturday's race on the tail end of the 20-car field.

"I'm ready to go racing again," said Kubanek, a former World Enduro 500 winner. "I still remember that February ride. It was real scary and something I hope I never experience again. I hurt for weeks after that accident."

In the Limited Late Model feature, Allen Rhodes avoided a two-car pileup on the first lap and went to notch the win. He started the race from the fourth position and inherited the lead on

Rogers 14-for-14 in WRS battles

By BILL SHERBET
Special to the Herald

BARBERVILLE — David Rogers, winner of the first 12 NASCAR Winston Racing Series events at Volusia County Speedway before rainouts started to plague the track, came away with two more wins last Saturday night, Aug. 13, to remain perfect through 14 Late Model feature events.

Rogers, from Orlando, came up short in the first 20-lap feature, finishing behind Edgewater's Jimmy Winks on the half-mile oval. But when the post-race weight-in determined that Winks' mount was too light, Rogers' winning streak reached 13 straight.

Then, in the second feature, Rogers started on the outside of the second row and needed 10 laps of the 20-lap event to work himself into the lead, eventually passing pole sitter Ronnie Roach. Once on the point, Rogers stayed there until the checkered flag dropped.

Rogers, the only undefeated racer in the Winston Racing Series, and the rest of the Volusia County Speedway competitors in the Late Model division are still six events behind schedule of getting 22 races in by the middle of September.

The division will run twin 20s again this Saturday, Aug. 20, when asphalt track racing resumes at VCS (weather permitting).

Rogers' big concern in his chase for the NASCAR Winston Racing Series' Eastern Seaboard Region championship, however, is that division leader Jack Sprague is almost perfect on the season, winning 16 of 17 races going into Saturday night.

"We're doing awful good and so is Jack," Rogers said from the winner's circle. "If we were running in any other region, we could run in the top five for the rest of the season and win (the region championship). But the way Jack is running, we have to win every time out."

After Winks was disqualified in the first feature, Rogers was awarded the win. Rounding out the top five behind him were, in order of finish, Guy Thomas, Jeff Burkett, Ronnie Roach, and Kevin Gillum.

In the second feature, Rogers led the way with Roach, Winks, Burkett, and Kevin Dicks filling out the top five.

In the other divisions contested Saturday night at Volusia County Speedway:

● Jerry Gilliard was the winner of the 20-lap Super Stock main event.

● Jon Compagnone Sr. claimed the Florida Modifieds headliner.

● Jeff Miller bested the Pro Stock field.

Strike forces staff reductions

By RONNIE BLANK
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK — As the baseball strike continues its first week today, teams are starting to make cutbacks.

The Montreal Expos became the first club to announce layoffs, and the New York Yankees said Wednesday that more than half their staff was sent on vacation.

Thirty-five Expos employees put on vacation this week will be laid off when their vacations end later next week.

"After that, for the duration of the strike they will collect unemployment," Expos spokesman Richard Griffin said by telephone from Montreal. "They're mostly in the departments like the ticket office and accounting, where there's going to be the least activity going on during a strike. They had been warned about the possibility a couple of months ago. They were officially notified last week."

The Yankees sent slightly more than half of their staff of about 100 on vacation, team spokesman Rob Butler said.

Butler said the employees are taking as much time off as they've accumulated. He said the Yankees hadn't decided what to do with employees when vacations end.

The total of suspended games rose to 86 today, matching the 1973 strike for the second-longest without a game since 1981, when 713 games were suspended.

Union head Donald Fehr and management negotiator Richard Ravitch said Wednesday no negotiating sessions were scheduled.

"We're maintaining contact with parties at all levels," mediator John Martin said by telephone from his office in Boston. Asked when talks will resume, Martin said: "It's too tough to call."

Rep. James Traflet, an Ohio Democrat, said on the floor of the House of Representatives that negotiators should be locked in a room with no windows and air conditioning, and should be fed "baked beans, fried cheese, hard-boiled eggs and chocolate kisses."

"In eight hours, they'll be pleading, 'Play Ball,'" Traflet said during his speech.

While players remained at home, with many spending their days on golf courses, the minor leagues provided some unusual replacements.

Butler Rahman, a Bangladeshi novelty store owner who gained fame with his appearance on "Late Show with David Letterman" was signed by the Sioux City Explorers of the Northern League and started SMYRNA — Trailing Rhodes to the checkers were Michael Williams, David Ponder, Claude Collignon, and Larry Cook.

The turn one wallbanger was triggered when Bill Morris tried to make it three abreast going down the front chute. Morris got loose, banged into Larry Cook, then collected Hal Krewson and took him into the wall. Cook was able to continue but Morris and Krewson were done for the night.

New Smyrna Beach's Conrad Grenier almost had it his way in the Mini-Stock headliner, leading the first 14 laps of the race. But on the drive to the checkers, Grenier was spun out in turn three by Jared Allison.

Bobby Sears, who was running in the No. 2 spot at the time, dodged the sliding duo to take the lead. He took the checkers in front of Bob Doxie, Gene Van Alstine, Ed Mann, and Bob Goff. Grenier had to settle for seventh.

Bobby Stevens avoided Grenier's fate as he led every circuit to take top honors in the Bomber feature. Rounding out the top five behind Stevens were, in order of finish, Chuck Vola, Gary Frost, Jeremy Fitch, and Rick Schlimmer.

Tommy Johnson edged Barbara Pierce by less than two car lengths to win the Sportsman feature. Trailing the lead pair to the winner's circle were Gary Salvatore, Jerry Smith, and Chuck McRoberts.

 • Wes Filyaw took the Mini Stock main event.
 • Keith Lawrence finished first in the Hobby Stock chase.
 • Gillard started in the third row of the Super Stock feature but had moved up to the lead by the ninth lap. He kept that spot, leading Donnie Classner, Hank Baker, Rusty Eberole, and Eric Bichelio across the start/finish line.
 • Tony Ponder of DeLand returned to VCS, this time in a Florida Modified, and ran away from the field to claim the checkered flag. But when Ponder wouldn't give up his engine in a claimer purchase, the win was awarded to Compagnone, who spent the entire race chasing Ponder after giving up the lead on lap three.

Jerry Lee Yarbrough was second behind Compagnone. Trailing the lead pair were Mike Loacher, John Carter, and Jon Compagnone Jr. Miller led Ray Fulford, Bruce Baker, Roger Wren, and Chris Lawrence in the Pro Stocks. Filyaw was followed by Robert Ham, Al Baker, David Johnson, and Nolan Wilson feature. Completing the Hobby Stock top five behind Keith Lawrence were Dave Denyer, Jim Butler, Russ Antonucci, and Jay Whitaker.
 Racing continues on Volusia County Speedway's asphalt track this Saturday, Aug. 20, with racing scheduled to get underway at 7:30 p.m.

Two cited for older worker's award Both enjoy their work rather than retirement

By SUSAN WENNER Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Many remember the Timex watch commercial that boasted of the durability of their watches. The phrase, "they take a licking and keep on ticking," was sounded over the airwaves. The idea of "You're Still Ticking" became the theme for a recent 1994 Timex Older Worker's award. Sponsors of the program are the Departments of Elder Affairs, Labor and Employment Security and various private industry firms. Two Seminole County employees were among the 900 nominees and were in the 71 semi-finalists' competition. A recent news release from Aug. 5 indicated the results have now been narrowed down to eight winners. Of the eight selected, one will be chosen as the grand prize winner. The winners will be honored and the award will be presented on Sept. 1 at the 13th Annual Older Worker Seminar and Luncheon at the Stouffer Orlando Resort. Each winner will receive a watch from the Timex Corporation and other prizes. The 1994 grand prize winner receives free use of a 1994 Ford Mustang convertible for a year in addition to many other prizes. Although the two Seminole County employees were not in the eight winners, they deserve a pat on the back for their honor in the semi-finalist category and many years of a job well done. They discussed their views on working past the usual retirement age and their employers shared a little about these employees.

wood as a seamstress. Although she has attended Upsala Community Church for 30 years much of her time is still devoted to her job of 15 years. Her boss, Viola Scheblein, spoke of Reece and her work. "She always wants to retire," she said. "She says to me, 'I'm retiring so hire someone else.' She'll be off a few days and call and say, 'Are you busy, can you use anyone?' Then she'll be back to work. She can sew circles around anybody I can bring in." Reece, herself, spoke about why she continues to work. "I guess I keep working partly because of the money," she said. "I live alone and it's best to keep busy. We used to come down here in the winter and go to North Carolina in the summer. We decided to stay. People that stay busy are better off. I think if they can work and stay busy they will be happier. I do have plans to retire one day. I've enjoyed meeting new people and making friends." She smiled and joked about her recent birthday on Aug. 9 and said, "Don't give my age. I'm just 25 and holding."

Dr. Robert Clemens, a doctor of osteopathy, is a physician for the HRS Public Health Department in Sanford. His employer, Dr. Deju, commented about his service to the community. "We have five physicians and two nurse practitioners here," he said. "Dr. Clemens is the one that is most highly reliable. He has a pleasant personality. He's been here six years plus. When he takes annual leave or a sick day he apologizes for the time off. He's true to his responsibility. The patients and other employees like him. He's a great physician. We have over 100 AIDS patients. He handles most of those patients. I've found that the older physicians are more reliable than the younger ones. Age obviously hasn't been a problem. His behavior is professional and reliable."

Dr. Clemens has been married for 30 years to his wife, Edwilda. They have one son, Ashley. He spoke about his long duration in the medical field. "I like my work and my profession," he said. "I worked hard to get into this. I enjoy medicine. I enjoy the patients. My father worked long past his retirement. I probably have plans to retire one day. I really can't understand why people work so hard just to retire. I really like public health work? That's the way medicine is going. It's more of a business. It's more difficult these days to run a private practice."

Clemens discussed the small town doctor type of medicine he remembers. "Things have changed a lot," he said. "When I first became a doctor we seemed to have a closer relationship with our patients. We were professional but closer. Many of our patients considered us their friends. The hometown type doctor was professional and friendly. We talked money last. They'd invite us to their homes to eat." Clemens also spoke of some of his patients. "I do have many AIDS patients," he said. "They are very appreciative. They are a real challenge medically whom we all need to be aware of. Eventually I think they will get the AIDS under control." He commented on the making of a good doctor. "I think the person should be really interested in people and enjoy working with people. It's important that these young doctors coming out of school be well trained."

Clemens summed up his feelings and emphasized, "I think a person should enjoy what they're doing and keep doing it!"

Police station: last place to look for help

DEAR ABBY: I have never written to you before but feel compelled to write after reading the letter in your column from a woman who was stalked on the freeway and tried to find a police station. Abby, having better locator signs may not help.

Many police stations are locked in addition, if they have windows, they're often shut, with blinds drawn to prevent looking in or out. Speaking from experience, if you are being followed, you will be no safer in front of a barricaded police station, with no hope of getting in, than anywhere else on the street.

ADVICE

In case you're thinking that I live in a high-crime area, this happened in North St. Paul and also in Oakdale, Minn. — two suburbs of St. Paul not commonly known as high-crime areas. (Certainly not the images some would have of Los Angeles or New York City, which come to mind when you think of barricaded police stations.)

The advice I got after my experience was to do just as that woman did — drive to a highly populated and well-lit area, usually an all-night store.

This just blew me away. Back in the old days, you went to the police for safety; nowadays, you go to an all-night store.

STALKED IN ST. PAUL DEAR STALKER: I checked with the North St. Paul chief of police and learned to my dismay that many police stations are not open 24 hours a day. But there is usually an outside telephone located near the front door, which rings another location where a dispatcher is on duty.

If you are being followed, drive directly to a well-lit area such as an all-night store; do not drive home — it's dangerous to let a stranger know where you live. And if you encounter a policeman on the way, honk and flash your lights to get the officer's attention.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend asked me to be his guest at the wedding of his friend, the groom. I didn't know either of the people getting married. After the ceremony, the bride stood on a stairway and threw her bridal bouquet out into the room. I was near the front of the group; the bouquet came right at me, so I caught it.

My boyfriend says I shouldn't have caught the bouquet or, at least, I should have given it back to the bride or to someone else. I didn't know it at the time, but the bridesmaids were standing behind me in the group. My boyfriend says the bride threw the bouquet toward her bridesmaids and intended for one of them to catch it.

Should I have given the bouquet to one of the girls behind me, or should I have given it to the bride? Did I commit a social blunder? What should I have done?

JACKIE IN LAS VEGAS

DEAR JACKIE: You were not obligated to surrender the bridal bouquet to the bridesmaids, but it would have been gracious had you offered to return the bouquet to the bride after the festivities.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby: For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. All correspondence is confidential.)

Filmmakers like Chuluota's look

By The Associated Press

CHULUOTA, Fla. - Producers of the movie "The Walking Dead" think they have found Southeast Asia's jungles of Duong Minh Chau on the 6,500-acre Lee Ranch near Chuluota.

"The terrain is great. We found all the jungle scenes we wanted in one place," said George Jackson, producer of the movie about four African-American Marines in the Vietnam War.

Other filmmakers like the wide-open grasslands, dense forests, alligator-infested swamps and river country of this remote Central Florida area.

"If you need Africa and South America. It is there," said Katherine Ramberger, director of the Orlando Film and Television Office. "The palm hammocks and savannah make it look just like Africa."

The land of mosquitoes, stretching from just east of this Orlando suburb to the St. Johns River, can be made to look like remote spots around the globe.

A Fox television pilot called "Wildlife" took advantage of the savannah for filming this spring. The show has not been scheduled for airing. Representatives of "SeaQuest," an NBC series now being filmed in the Orlando area, were scouting the ranch last week.

The ranch's top feature is a manmade, 80-acre swamp complete with dead oak trees rising out of waist-deep duckweed. Buzzards perch on the trees at dusk, giving the land a haunting appeal.

The site won out over others in South Carolina and Georgia for the Vietnam movie.

"It was a real eye-opener," said director Preston Whitmore. "You can be in the jungle, and 40 minutes away is civilization."

"This swamp has a prehistoric look that is one of a kind," said Bill Carraro, a co-producer for "The Walking Dead," due in theaters in January.

"Rick Lee is not star-struck by the glamour of Hollywood."

"This is a beef-cattle ranch," the owner said. "If it interferes with the cows, it does not get done."

NOTICE OF CHANGE OF LAND USE AND ZONING PUBLIC HEARING TO BE HELD

Notice is hereby given that the Seminole County Local Land Planning Agency/Planning and Zoning Commission (LPA/P&Z) will conduct a public hearing on September 7, 1994, beginning at 7:00 p.m., or as soon thereafter as possible, in the County Services Building, 1181 East First Street, Sanford, FL, Room 1088 (Board Chambers). The purpose of this hearing is to receive public input, input from any local government or other agency, and to make recommendations to the Seminole County Board of County Commissioners on a requested Small Scale Amendment to the Seminole County Comprehensive Plan, and associated zoning as follows:

Plan amendment from Public Goal-Public Law Donally Residential and Commercial zoning from R-1 (Single Family Dwelling District) to R-AM (Affordable Housing Dwelling District) described as Block "E", DIXIE TERRACE, as recorded in Plat Book 2, Page 22, of the public records of Seminole County, Florida, less the north 700 feet and also less the following described property: From the east line of said Block "E", thence run South 59°27'57" West for 545.23 feet to the Point of Beginning, thence continue South 89°07'27" West a distance of 100.00 feet, thence North 20°00'00" East a distance of 545.23 feet, thence South 10°00'00" East a distance of 545.23 feet, thence South 10°00'00" East a distance of 107.74 feet, thence South 27°30'00" East a distance of 545.23 feet to the Point of Beginning, further described as located north of S.R. 44, approximately 350 feet east of Britton Avenue, between Twenty First and Twenty Second Streets, containing approximately 2.9 acres (ICC District 1).

Note: Land use amendments on property containing flood prone and wetland areas remain subject to the applicable Conservation Land Use designation and various overlay zoning classifications and the provisions relating thereto. The general public is encouraged to appear at this hearing and present input in accordance with the procedures outlined by the LPA/P&Z c/o "Comprehensive Planning Office", 1181 East First Street, Sanford, FL 32771, telephone (407) 321-1126, extension 794. This hearing may be continued from time to time as deemed necessary by the LPA/P&Z. Copies of the proposed amendment and related information, including any comments received are available for public review at the address above, Room 1187, between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, excluding holidays.

Persons with disabilities requesting assistance to participate in any of the proceedings should contact the Employee Relations Department ADA Coordinator 48 hours in advance of the meeting at (407) 321-1126, extension 794.

Persons are advised that if they decide to appeal any decision made at this hearing, they will need a record of the proceedings, and for such purposes, they may need to ensure a verbatim record of the proceedings is made, which record includes the testimony and evidence upon which the appeal is based. Get second opinion from another dentist

DEAR DR. GOTT: My teeth are abscessed and my dentist refuses to pull them, claiming there's still smiles left in them. My medical doctor has me on Amoxicillin and Cipro, yet the infection continues. What can I do about this problem?

DEAR READER: See another dentist. In instances where professionals disagree, a second opinion will often provide patients with additional information to help them decide what to do.

Although your dental abscesses should respond to antibiotic therapy, I suspect that you will eventually need root canal work or extractions. See what the second dentist says.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've just been told I have liver cancer and a tumor on my kidney. My doctor says a liver biopsy will be very dangerous, but he didn't rule it out completely. Is there any hope for me?

DEAR READER: To a large degree, the prognosis of cancer depends on the type of malignancy and its location. Certain tumors, such as prostate cancer, grow relatively slowly and may take years to cause serious problems.

On the other hand, other malignancies, such as carcinoma of the lung, grow rapidly, metastasize (spread) quickly, and cause death in a few months.

Therefore, before answering your question, I'd have to know the type of cancer. Did it arise in the liver and spread to the kidney, or vice-versa? Are there, in fact, two different tumors? Could the liver lesion and the kidney tumor represent metastatic spread from yet another growth elsewhere in your body?

Your doctor should be able to answer these questions and give you an analysis of your future. But first, I believe, he'll have to biopsy the liver tumor (which is easier to get to than the kidney) to identify the type of cancer and its cellular characteristics.

I might add that radiation treatments and/or chemotherapy should offer hope, regardless of the nature of the cancer. Don't delay in obtaining the information I mentioned. Each day that you wait means that the cancer may grow and spread.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Viruses and

MEDICINE
PETER GOTT, M.D.

Cancer." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Your left-hand opponent opens one club, your partner passes, your right-hand opponent responds one diamond, you pass, LHO rebids one no-trump, and suddenly your partner comes out of the bushes with a double. What does his double say?

To pass on the first round and then to double on the second shows a respectable hand with length and strength in the first suit bid; here, clubs. And it reveals length in the unbid suits; here, the majors.

After East retreated to two diamonds (he had responded one diamond in the hope of improving the contract without getting overboard), what would you do with that South hand? Hoping his thin diamond holding would prove sufficiently strong, South jumped to three no-trump!

It was the winning bid (though if he had settled for two no-trump, North should raise to three). West led the diamond queen, trying to force out South's stopper while retaining communication with his partner. South discarded the heart three from the dummy and ducked in his own hand. Now West switched in vain to hearts. Declarer finessed dummy's queen before playing a club to his queen and West's ace. Back came the heart king. Declarer won with dummy's ace, cashed the club king, played a spade to his ace, finessed dummy's club nine and had 10 tricks when the spades broke.

Oscar Wilde claimed, "The basis of action is lack of imagination. It is the last resource of those who know not how to dream." Well, I think you will agree that South showed no lack of imagination in this deal.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Aug. 19, 1994

Some of the changes you've been hoping to make in your basic lifestyle might become realities in the year ahead. What previously restricted you may no longer be effective.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're not apt to duck making difficult decisions today, because you might view them through rose-colored glasses. Unfortunately, the pink cloud hovering over your judgment is not an ally. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences governing you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N. Y. 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Subordinates might not be too good at keeping accurate records today. Double-check their figures and also be sure they're doing things as you instructed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Generally speaking things might come rather easily for you today, but this could turn out to be a disadvantage, because you might take an opportunity for granted and fail to develop it properly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today you might have a greater propensity for making mistakes than usual. If you do make errors, correct them promptly and properly, rather than sweeping them under the rug.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your hunches might not be all that accurate today, so don't rely upon them too heavily. If your intellect is in conflict with your intuition, trust the former, not the latter.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Although you're likely to be money-conscious today, this still isn't liable to prevent you from spending beyond your means for things you can do without.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Try to avoid competitive situations, both socially and in the commercial world.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Usually you make cautious as-
