CHARMING SCENES IN ETHEL CLAYTON'S "BEYOND" AT THE STAR THEATRE TODAY

Star's Latest Paramount Picture Will Be Welcomed by All Her Admirers

Some of the most charming scenes imaginable distinguish Ethel Clayton in her new Paramount picture, "Beyond," which will be the feature at the Star Theatre today. The story by Henry Arthur Jones, is one of exceptional interest and the theme, that of communication with the world beyond the lifted veil, is quite timely.

The adaptation by Julia Crawford Ivers is smooth and the direction by William D. Taylor is polished and complete in every detail. The settings, designed by George Hopkins, are a particularly artistic feature. The manor house interior and the several pretty English country exteriors are beautiful and form appropriate backgrounds for the work of Miss Clayton—who is beautiful and charming in her portrayal—and the remainder of the characters.

The photography and lightings are excellent and the double exposure scenes in which the spirit of the mother returns to the girl are beautifully done, and vividly impressive.

Miss Clayton's work is highly emotional throughout and she handles her role delightfully. Other players in the cast are Charles Moredith, Earl Schenck, Fontaine La Rue, Winifred Kingston, Lillian Rich, Charles French and Spottiswoode Aitken and Herbert Fortier.

THE FIRST CELERY

The Herald office is in receipt of two firt stalks of celery from Miss Mary Ceresola who resides on the Joe Cameron farm south of the city. Mary's folks have not been in this country long and Mary has become interpreter of the family and seems to be the biggest part of it. This family shows what can be done here in the raising of winter vegetables and they have made good on the Cameron farm. They are shipping the first car of celery from this farm and it is bringing a good price.

Carey Hand and Mr. Rybolt were here today driving a brand new ambulance down from the cars having just been shipped from the factory in Michigan. It was one of the finest ever unloaded here and shows that Carey Hand and Orlando are in the big class and going strong.

Sanford is busy along every line. The stores all report a fine business for this week and many people are here and more of them coming. The hotels all report a good business.

Action Being Discussed In Capitals of World Today TO HAVE EFFECT

ON DECISIONS TO BE MADE AND THOSE ALREADY REACHED IN WORLD CONFERENCE

(By The Associated Press)
PARIS, Jan. 12.—Premier Briand resigned today.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The resignation of Aristide Briand as premier of France was received with almost a bombshell effect in the arms conference circles, the action being considered likely to have a great effect on decisions already reached or about to be reached.

Briand submitted his resignation to President Millerand after making a lengthy statement before the Chamber of deputies justifying his attitude at the Cannes conference. His intention to resign was announced to the Chamber at the close of his speech. The announcement was an entire surprise as he had apparently won the sympathy of the chamber and his colleagues were filled with amazement.

The entire French cabinet went out of office with Briand.

The premier told the chamber of deputies today the reparations commission had agreed to grant moratorium for Germany on her reparations payment.

CANNES, Jan. 12.—The German delegation was received by the Allied Supreme council this morning, reparations commission having reported last night conference with the Germans was without results.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Conference officials said M. Sarraut would remain in Washington and would continue to attend work of conference but would not feel entitled to make any definite decisions or pledge action of France on any question until a new cabinet was appointed. Secretary Hughes announced officially shortly afternoon the fact of Briand's resignation to heads of several armament delegations in conference with him at time. News received with expressions of dismay. "It is a very grave event" said the head of one delegation.

WEATHER AND CROP CONDI- TIONS IN FLORIDA FOR THE WEEK ENDING JANUARY 10, 1922.

Temperature: The temperature average 3 degrees in the extreme south to 8 degrees in the west above the normal for the week. Daily maximum were well up in the 80's over much of the section.

Precipitation: There was a continued deficiency in rainfall, except that the week's total was much above the normal in much of the section west of the Chattahoochee river. The total at Pensacola for the week was 2.10 inches, being an excess to 1.18 inches.

Condition of Crops: The weather was too warm, as a rule, for the best development of cabbage, celery, and lettuce, but the mild temperature stimulated other truck. Strawberries were rather plentiful in central counties, especially in the Plant City section; a few berries were to be had in northern counties. The crop is generally well advanced. Shipments of cabbage, celery, lettuce, and other truck continued from southern and central counties. The planting of white potatoes is active in the Hartness section, and land is being prepared for melons in central counties. The oat crop generally did well during the week, although it, like most other crops, would be benefited by moderate rains. Fertilizing groves receive attention, and plowing for general crops was advanced although work has been delayed to some extent by dry weather. Ranges are in fair condition. Sunshine was about normal in the west, where it was deficient.

WIGHT-MERO

The simple charm and beauty of the wedding arrangements seen in the lovely decorations of green and white harmoniously blended in vines, ferns and flowers, marked the marriage of Miss Sarah Louise Wight to Mr. Percy Ashton Mero, which occurred last evening at the home of the bride on Sanford Heights, as one of the very loveliest that has taken place here this winter.

The broad porches were transformed into a wonderful setting for the bridal party, for it was there beneath the soft radiance of white shaded lights that the ceremony was performed, Dr. E. D. Brownlee, joining the young couple in the holy bonds of matrimony.

Ropes of asparagus fern, studded with the wedding bell flower, fell in festoons between the pillars of the porch, and vines were entwined about the railing, beneath which were rows of stately calla lilies. Above were strings of electric lights shaded with white. At the northern end of the porch was a beautiful white arch interlaced with feathery fern suspended from which was a white wedding bell with its lighted clapper extending from the doorway to the arch where white pedestals connected by broad ribbons and surmounted by potted ferns, forming an aisle for the entrance of the bridal party. At the foot of the arch rested a white satin pillow, its only decoration a single white bride rose, held in place with a bow of tulle.

While the guests were assembling, Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Blackman sang, "I Know That Thou Art Near Me," Dr. Blackman playing the accompaniment. The wedding music was played by Miss Fannie Reba Munson, who rendered the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin as the entrance number and during the ceremony "The Sunshine of Your Smile" was softly played.

To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march the bridal party left the porch and entered the living room where Mr. and Mrs. Mero received the congratulations and good wishes of their friends.

Passing down the aisle together, came Mr. Mero and his best man, George McLaughlin, who were followed by the bride's maids and the groom's men. Miss Florence Mero, with Hodgson Ball, and Miss Francis Dutton with James Schaal, Miss Esther Miller, the maid of honor, entered alone and immediately preceding the bride was the dainty little flower-girl, Billy Bouchelle Wight.

Miss Wight entered with her sister, Mrs. C. R. Kirtley, the matron of honor.

The wedding party grouped about the arch formed a charming picture of youth and beauty, the bride and her attendants so quaint and lovely in their pretty frocks made in the style of a by-gone period.

The bride's wedding gown was a dainty creation of white taffeta and real lace, fashioned with a tight basque, panel front and bouquet effect. Loops of picot ribbon finished the basque and with taffeta formed the rosettes that ornamented the skirt, the hem of which was finished with hand embroidery. The long veil was worn over the face and held in place with a Grecian band of ribbon. Her flowers, the gift of Prof. Meade, of Oviedo, were orchids, Eucharist lilies and lilies of the valley.

The gowns worn by the matron of honor and maid of honor were fashioned alike of white taffeta and their flowers were old-fashioned nosegays of pink roses in lace paper holders.

The bride's maids were very attractive in their green taffeta frocks and carried golden staffs to which green tulle bows held in place shower bouquets of white narcissus.

The flower girl was a piquant little figure in her frock of green taffeta petals carrying a white basket filled with white rose petals.

Guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Hal Wight and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wight.

The interior of the house was prettily decorated with vases and bowls of sweet, fragrant narcissus from Cairo, Georgia, the boyhood home of the bride's father.

In the room where the reception was held white star jessamine formed a pleasing background for the brass bowls filled with narcissus. Pretty tendrils of the starry vine formed the overhead decorations and tapers burned in brass candle-sticks and candelabra.

A pretty sentiment attaches to the wedding ring, having been made from the engagement ring of the bride's mother. The original ring which was heavy and massive was made into wedding rings for the two daughters of the family.

Mrs. Mero is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wight. A charming young girl whose winsome loveliness has endeared her to a large circle of friends. She possesses a vivacious, sunny nature and is quite talented as a violinist and reader.

The groom is a Virginian of Quaker parentage and is one of the younger successful business men of Sanford. He served in the aviation section from the beginning to the close of the late war.

Both young people are popular in society circles, the prominence of the two families making the wedding of interest throughout the Southern states.

Mr. and Mrs. Mero left in their car for the wedding trip and will be at home at the Welaka apartments upon their return.

Mrs. Mero wore for travelling a handsome coat suit of brown Velour with hat and accessories to match.

Among the out-of-town guests for the wedding were Dr. and Mrs. Bouchelle of New Smyrna.

MEMBER THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There is just one to build up Sanford and that is to build up Sanford and stop talking, stop back biting, stop censure, stop knocking, stop all political bickering, stop all petty fights, stop talking at all—do something.

Orlando is making much talk about the ball team and asking whether the city wants it another year or not? Sanford has said "not". It is too expensive among our many luxuries and while it is a nice game for the boys it "galls" the men who have to pay for it.

A lot of these changes of secret treaties now being aired at the arms conference reminds us a great deal of the spirit of uncertainty, the clouds of misunderstanding which used to hover over the relations between Orlando and Sanford. We think the Nations ought to get in a League. Look what baseball did for The City Beautiful and the Celery City—it almost wrecked the two towns.—Orlando Sentinel.

Some men there are who having for some time set themselves up as great seers and philosophers and ever try to start political rackets here from time to time in order to air never satisfied unless they are stirring up something seeming to forget that their own doorstep is muddier than the one they are cursing. Many things are better left unsaid. All of us live in glass houses.

FARMERS IN FLORIDA FARES WELL

An Indian a large land owner, now in Tampa for the winter, declares he cannot sell land in that state for $40 could have gotten $200 an acre for. High taxes and low farm products are the cause. We suggest that he take $39 an acre for his land and come to Florida, where the annual increase in land values will enable him to invest here and recoup his loss and more, in the next five or six years.

The farmers of the western and central grain states have a just kick coming. The Republican party condemned Woodrow Wilson for fixing the price of wheat at $2.35, claiming they could have gotten $3.35 if Wilson had not interfered. Well, no one is interfering now; and they do say that the ablest bodied farmer's son in that section cannot stand up under a dollar's worth of Harding administration oats.—Tampa Tribune.

FINDING FAULT

"There are those in the world—and especially that part of the world as newspaper readers—who find their greatest joy in glancing over the errors a newspaper makes.

And since it gives them pleasure no newspaperman worthy of the name would for one instant deprive them of this surcease from their troubles and ills.

But sometimes even the newspaperman feels like taking a little joy out of life for himself and he finds that pleasure in "passing the buck" along to those who are responsible.

The wonder is, to those who know the inner workings of a newspaper plant, large or small because of the many and varied operations that are necessary in the production of a daily newspaper.

There are other reasons, however, for these errors and it is in this that the newspaperman engages in the merry and popular little game of "passing the buck." Since it is perhaps consistent in such a contingency "to let George do it," the explanation will come from Arthur M. Evans, of the Chicago Tribune, known as the "world's greatest newspaper." Evans says:

The sneer squad is always vastly intrigued by discrepancies of statement in different newspapers or in different issues of the same newspaper. Then it pulls its patent, double-action sneer—"Ah ha another sample of newspaper inaccuracy." Bunk! Far more often than not this is not the fault of either the newspaper or the reporter. By far the greatest cause of error in a representative metropolitan newspaper is not inaccuracy on the part of the reporter, but "ivory" on the part of established sources of information. When a railway labor board can change its mind three times in the course of one perfect day on the interpretation of a perfectly plain bit of English, reporting becomes a job for soothsayers.

Daniel, competent reporter though he was, would have had a fine time at Belshazzar's feast if they had kept changing the handwriting on him every ten minutes. That night it would have been Dan'l, not Bel, who died.—St. Petersburg Times.

ALWAYS NEED OF PUBLICITY

Without equivocation the assertion may be made that the cities and countries of Florida which are doing the largest amount of work along the lines of proper publicity are the places which are gaining the most in business and new people. It may be stated, further, that Osceola county has done nothing in this line; that the only publicity being gained is through private parties who subscribed for numerous issues of The Gazette and the free copies of this paper which are sent out each week upon request. Last week there was one visitor who placed the names of four friends living in Illinois upon the subscription list—each for six months—while there are numerous cases where single subscriptions were taken for the same length of time. The county of Osceola nor the municipality of Kissimmee subscribed for not one copy.

Manatee county has expended more than three thousand dollars in publicity through the newspapers and more than thirty thousand pieces of literature have been sent out. In Saint Petersburg nearly thirty thousand dollars have been raised among the citizens, in addition to what is raised on the millage, for the purpose of spreading over the world the advantages to be found there. Commissioners of Dade county have placed in her budget $90,000 for publicity purposes. Dade county is unafraid. In Lake county there have been more than one thousand applications made for rooms and homes and lands as a result of the propaganda previously sent out from the various cities in that county—and this is in addition to the applications received by the several towns.

Thus it goes throughout the state. Osceola county is, it is believed, the only county from which there is being sent out no inducements of a nature to attract those who seek a winter home or permanent residence. The matter might as well be looked at squarely in the face. With a desire to "save money" the levy for publicity purposes allowed the county by law was cut squarely in two. Then, because the attorney for the county believed that the commissioners should censor all newspapers sent out, merely because The Gazette had been scraping a bit of cuticle here and there by telling facts the agreed-upon subscriptions to be sent by The Gazette and paid for by the commissioners were "counter-manded."

It is time that little peccadilloes should be sunk when the good of a large number depends upon action. It is time that the "running of a country" by a one-man power should cease. If Osceola desires to come into her own at an early moment the people should seize opportunity when it is presented—and all should work together in harmony. Other counties in the state did not fear to plunge a little and results are being felt. The publicity for this city and this county in which all should have participated and in which all were willing to participate has been nil. Individuals have been responsible for what little there has been done.

There is such a thing, as being "penny wise and pound foolish." To invest a dollar and get back two is business; to invest nothing and get back nothing is foolishness.

It might be added, incidentally that the year just closed has been

The Daily Herald advent into court yesterday afternoon just as court recessed created a furor. Judge Maines brought in his copy and immediately Judge Housholder throw him down for it. Think it would be a good idea to have several copies in the court each night and stop a riot.

Young lawyers have an awful time it seems to us fellows looking on. They seem to feel their small hopes of getting by in a forlorn hope and yet they have to play the game as the court sees it, defending people often times that they know are hopeless but they "carry on" just the same.

Times Are Getting Better

Times are getting better and the sure signs are among the following: A bank cashier hesitated before he refused me a loan. A year ago he never even hesitated. He said "NO", just like that.

Merchants are going after business. Last year they had so much they didn't have to go after it.

More men are joining the Chamber of Commerce. They want to get together and talk over the roadjustments in business. Last year they didn't give a d—n whether their neighbor lived or not.

And business is getting better because Henry McLaulin says so.

"Back to the soil!" said the city man as he crawled under his auto to oil his clutch.

An Orlando woman, who makes her own dresses, cut up thirteen yards of cloth from a pattern and when she discovered it was a 1921 model instead of a 1922 one, it took two doctors to tide her over the crisis.

the best year The Gazette has enjoyed for two decades—possibly because it is conducting itself along the lines of legitimate work, and is lickspitting to no faction or crowd—merely catering to the general public in every line of every column.—Kissimmee Gazette.

IDLE HANDS THE DEVIL'S WORKSHOP

We learned this while in our infancy. We have seen it exemplified so many times and in so many ways. Idle hands seek something devilish to do nine times out of ten. Idle hands must find something that is unlawful. Every time you see a court in session you see too many cases especially of young lads who having nothing else to do engage in something that brings them within the pale of the law. There they are arraigned in court and their plea is usually their immature years which many times get them off with a light sentence. Idle hands and they are led into "devilment" usually, by away they go. So many boys grow some one older than themselves and ing up in idleness, in shiftlessness, in laziness. If they had to work ten hours a day they would be too tired at night to think of any devilment. If they worked ten hours a day they would have the money for their needs and not be forced to rob other people to get that money. If they had money earned honestly they would not need to break the laws in order to procure money. There are many young lads looking for work because they want to find work. There are many others looking for work so they can avoid it and if they had a job they would not hold it. The war brought many changes and as far as we can see it did nothing to bring the idle class into a better understanding. In fact the reconstruction has made more of them idle, made more of them vicious and made many of them think the world

NOVEL PHONE DEVICE

The laryngophone, a telephonic device, attracted considerable attention at the shipping, engineering and machinery exhibition in London. The laryngophone eliminates the mouth-piece and puts in its place a transmitter which is placed against the larynx when speaking so that the vibrations of the throat answer in the same way as when speaking into the mouthpiece. The device is intended for use in noisy factories.

owes them a living and they are too lazy to collect it. Idle hands are the devil's workshop.

A SONG OF REMORSE

Because it is so simple and human-like, a three-verso piece of literature which might be called blankety-blank verse, just clipped from an exchange, is too good to be hidden away in patent insides or small town papers. It is signed by John Palmer Cunning, who writes:

When I was feedin' fodder To a mule in Tennessee, A fellow come and told me, "You're a brilliant man to be A-feedin' this here fodder To a mule in Tennessee." An' when I thought about it I seen an open road, An' stopped and wondered whether This here road might of lead, A-leadin' from the mountain An' the only peace I knowed. An' though I made a bundle Of all there was to me, I've often thought how happy I certainly would be Back there a-feedin' fodder To that mule in Tennessee.

Taken altogether with the spelling and punctuation, the temptation and remorse, these three verses tell the story of many persons who aspire to live on planes not intended for them. It reminds one of the story of the Prodigal Son, in Scripture accounts, who, after a period of life in rapid company, found his way back to his father's house, satisfied to feed the hogs and out husks with them.

Mighty little difference between the Tennessee fodder feeder and the biblical husk later expect that the latter was treated to a fatted calf and a feast, while presumably the Tennessee is still hungry.

And from both of these cases one learns that the old homes and friends and occupations brought more contentment than can be found by roving. A feedin' fodder to a mule and tending the hogs at father's home are better occupations than forever chasing rainbows and subsisting on regrets.—Miami Metropolis.

ORLANDO BUYS COURTHOUSE

ORLANDO, Jan. 11.—As the result of two days' negotiations, the Orange county courthouse and jail was sold to the city or Orlando this afternoon for $137,500, splitting the difference in the figures asked and offered at the conclusion of yesterday's joint sessions of the city commission with the board of house to cost $300,000 and shifts county commissioners. This transaction is the untangling of a complex situation and results in the acquirement by the city for city hall purposes of a building of unique fitness and beauty; makes possible the erection of a new Orange county courthouse to cost $20,000 and shifts the erection of the new $30,000 high school building from the west shore of Lake Eola to the north shore to make room for the new courthouse, both locations being ideally suited for their individual purposes.

RUNAWAY BOYS CAUGHT HERE

Rafael Farless, Henry Hinson and Etel Hinson aged 12 and nine respectively were picked up on the street by Officer Powell here this morning early after they had rolled out of a box car from Orlando. The parents of the fearless boys had been searching for him in Orlando yesterday and could not find him. They will be held here probably until tonight and are pending the arrival of their folks from Orlando today. The boys probably wanted to see the world and therefore came to Sanford.

STORMS IN MANY PLACES POSTED TODAY ALONG COAST

The operators are experiencing wire troubles today everywhere as the big storms in the New England states, in New York state and also on the gulf coast are playing havoc with the wires. While the Daily Herald has been able to get good service the Western Union reports wire trouble in other places north of here and it is expected that much damage will be done by a heavy storm that seems to be sweeping the United States today. Sanford is getting the tail end of it and while the wind has been blowing for twenty four hours it has not been strong enough to do any damage except to tender vegetables.

FIGHT ON NEWBERRY IS TIGHTENING

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The Newberry election controversy in the senate revealed today indications of a seething line-tightening fight with the title to Truman H. Newberry's seat as senator from Michigan, hanging in the balance. Both sides claimed victory tonight, Mr. Newberry's supporters, predicting a majority or four to seven votes while his opponents declared he would be unseated by a margin of three to five votes. Five speeches voicing opposition to Mr. Newberry's being seated were delivered today. If a vote deciding the issue is not taken today, there is a possibility of one to recommit the whole question to the senate committee with instructions to call Mr. Newberry for an explanation.

AUTO ACCIDENT FATAL

(By The Associated Press) NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Jan. 11.—Mrs. Mary Gould of this city, is dead; two men and a woman are seriously injured and L. E. Smith, taxi driver, is held by county authorities pending an investigation, as the result of an automobile wreck near this city about 3 o'clock this morning. F. F. Allen, of Norfolk, another occupant of the car, escaped with several bruises and lacerations. The car crashed through the guard rail on a bridge near Young's mill and hurled to the ravine below, killing Mrs. Gould almost instantly.

DISCUSS RAILWAY LABOR

(By The Associated Press) Washington, Jan. 11.—Secretary Hoover, acting, with the approval of President Harding, has entered upon a series of conferences relative to railroad labor questions, with chiefs of the railroad labor unions, and representative of the railroads of the country are participating.

A LA WALT MASON

Tonight you'll want to go where the girlie and her beaux will trip the light fantastic 'neath the moon, there'll sure be lots of fun when the music's once begun, if you're single it's the bestest time to spoon. They'll provide a good sized ship in which to take a trip o'er the rippling wavelots 'neath the pale moonlight, and unless you're awful old or afraid you'll catch a cold you'll want to keep on sailing half the night.

You know the sil'vry moon has been told about in tune cause its fascinating light dispels one's cares; add to the sil'vry moon a raggy jazzy tune, it's the one best bet to keep away grey hairs. Then have a good dance floor near a lake close by your door, and a crowd of home folks young and just past young, and when the fun breaks up, man and woman, child and pup, will wish the evening's fun had but begun.

Now the dance that's held tonight 'neath the sil'vry moon's pale light will be just the kind to which you'll want to go, 'twon't cost you much to prance, the price, a dime a dance, there's no charge for giving them the double O. So shake the old hearth fire, take your only heart's desire and have the fun for which you work and hope, and if you do not dance or a boat ride take a chance or sit around and drink a shot of dope.
