Home invasion

The Sanford Police reported a home invasion at the Cedar Creek Apartments. Details are sketchy, but police spokesman Tom Skiba said that the invasion took place at about 12:30 a.m. on Tuesday. The victim heard a knock at the door. When she looked through the peep hole it was covered. Skiba said that the suspects then started beating on the door, and, finally, were able to penetrate the apartment. They demanded money and were armed. They ransacked the apartment, and it is unknown which direction they fled. No further information is available at this time.

Child found

The Seminole County Sheriff's Office has reported that its Alert 2 helicopter was responsible for locating an 11-year-old emotionally disturbed girl who had disappeared Tuesday night from the parking lot of the Home Depot on Lake Mary Boulevard in Lake Mary. After the helicopter located a heat signature, the Lake Mary police and Seminole County deputies found the girl in a wooded area about 300 yards from Lake Mary Boulevard, according to sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough. The girl, who was not hurt, was returned to her mother.

The Sheriff's Office Alert 1 and Alert 2 helicopters are equipped with a system capable of scanning a half square mile from a distance of one mile in all types of weather.

Planetarium show

The Seminole Community College Planetarium will feature its production, "The Stars of Mars" starting this Saturday, one day after Pathfinder lands on Mars. This production will introduce the public to the robotic stars of Mars, such as the Viking spacecraft and what they have discovered. Similarities between Earth and Mars will be discussed including the recent discovery of possible microscopic fossils indicating the possibility of life on Mars. The show will be updated weekly. There will also be a chance to view Mars through one of the planetarium's telescopes after each show, weather permitting.

The show will be offered every Saturday evening, July-September. Doors open at 8 p.m. and the show starts at 8:30 p.m. Admission is $3, adults, $1, seniors and children under 18.

Caucus changes name

Metropolitan Orlando Women's Political Caucus will now be known as National Women's Political Caucus of Florida/Central Florida Chapter. The name change passed by unanimous vote at the group's June meeting. The caucus, founded in 1971, is dedicated to maintaining political focus on women's rights issues and assisting women who seek elected office. The Central Florida chapter presents campaign training seminars and supports local candidates.

Prepaid cellular service

Starting today, BellSouth Mobility will kick off prepaid cellular phone service in Central Florida. The program does not require a contract. Customers may purchase a $30 card good for 30 days, a $60 good for 60 days or a $100 card good for 90 days. The rate is 99 cents a minute. Long distance and roaming charges are additional.

For information, call 800-243-3000.

Let's get these problems solved

Sanford City Commissioner Kerry Lyons talks to residents of Pine Shadow Apartments, behind Seminole High School, Tuesday. Lyons is irked by the city's lack of response to code violations and that a police call from the complex was answered after 16 minutes. Lyons says he is frustrated and demands action or resignations from key employees of the city.

Former official sues county

By VICKI DeBORMIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

Joyce Suber says she wants her job back with Seminole County where she was once the land acquisition manager.

And she wants more than $20 million.

Suber filed a lawsuit against Seminole County on June 30 which alleges age discrimination, sexual harassment and unfair treatment during her nine and a half year tenure with the county.

Suber was put on administrative leave last summer and fired on October 24. Her termination, county officials said, was for "misconduct," including falsifying time cards, discussing terms in an investigation into her department and abuse of her authority.

A county investigation alleged she forced two county employees to work on her son's Gulf County campaign for the property appraiser's office.

Airport to buy land zoned for adult businesses

By MARIA OREM
Herald Staff Writer

In an effort to extend a busy runway, the Orlando Sanford Airport will expedite the purchase of additional land which was recently rezoned to accommodate adult entertainment establishments.

The Sanford Airport Authority board of directors on Tuesday agreed to pursue a potential grant from the Federal Aviation Authority to buy at the earliest opportunity 430 acres of land located at the end of Runway 9L-27R on the east west side of the airport, said Steve Cooke, director of aviation.

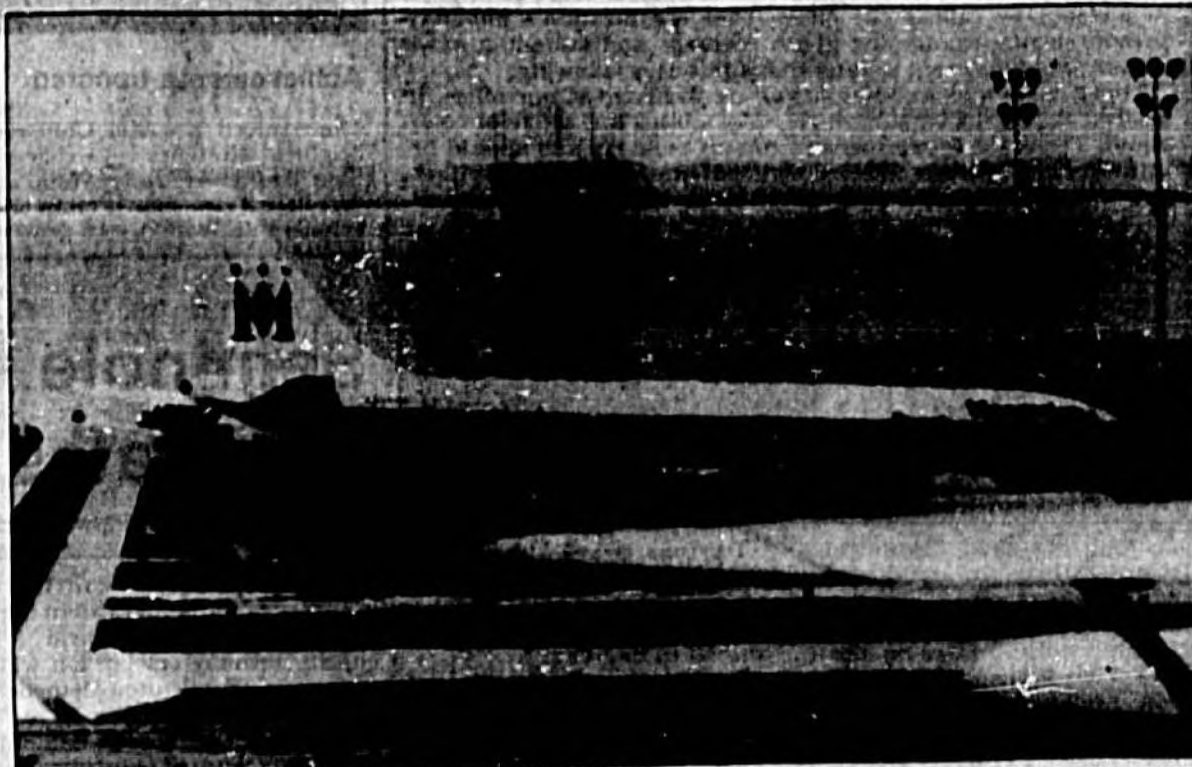

Also located on the parcel, are 30 houses and five mobile homes which are also eligible for acquisition.

Although the purchase has been part of the airport's plan for quite some time, Cooke said recent action by Seminole County regarding adult entertainment which resulted in rezoning of the land in the path of the runway, prompted the airport to speed up the acquisition process.

Cooke said the FAA grant would cover about 75 percent of the cost to purchase the land.

"It would be more expensive to buy the land once businesses are located there," he said. "With the establishments there it would make it more difficult."

You can log on to jungle expedition

By VICKI DeBORMIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

Bill Belleville, a Sanford-based environmental writer, is making plans to join an expedition of archeologists and paleontologists in the jungles of the Dominican Republic next week.

The group will be searching the jungle and the deep sacrificial canyons for a lost city once inhabited by pre-Columbian Indians.

Belleville will be covering the expedition for the Discover Channel and the Discovery Channel Online, in order to bring the whole story to his readers online. Belleville will be putting on his scuba gear and dive into a 200-foot deep limestone sinkhole that is deep in the Caribbean rainforest.

According to Belleville, that sinkhole, known as Manantial de la Aleta, has yielded scores of artifacts from pre-Columbian times, including carved wooden axes, baskets, ornate pottery and intricately-incised gourds.

The group will also explore a shallower spring system that is near the coast.

Belleville will write daily essays and take digital photos underwater. See Discovery, Page 6A

Volunteers will help kids learn to read

By VICKI DeBORMIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

Everyone needs a little help from time to time.

There are some economically-disadvantaged students in Sanford who need some additional assistance when it comes to achieving an academic advantage.

Several Sanford schools will benefit from the volunteer efforts of Americorp/VISTA and RSVP.

At a recent summit of national leaders, President Bill Clinton challenged Americans to have all children reading independently by the time they have completed the third grade.

A grant recently won by the Seminole Community Volunteers Program (SCVP) will help get tutors into schools to give kids the extra boost they need to get on the road to independent reading.

The federal grant will be used to help Retired and Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), which is sponsored by SCVP, start up an Americorp/VISTA-America Reads Program.

The local effort will be led by Shellane Babb, who has already served one year as a VISTA volunteer on the Welfare to Work program.

She will be assisted by Jane Morgan from Sanford, Suzanne Blanks from Altamonte Springs and Cynthia Spruill of Oviedo. Initially, there will be four target schools in Seminole County which will benefit from the program.

Hamilton, Goldsboro, Pine Crest and Midway elementary schools are all located in Sanford. These schools were selected for the project because many of the children in these schools in kindergarten through third grade are reading below grade level averages.

The program will officially get under way when classes resume at the end of July. Through the use of RSVP and VISTA volunteers, the program has a goal of reducing the See Read, Page 5A

Horton named the top protective investigator

By Marva Hawkins
Herald Correspondent

Employee of the quarter is Jim Horton of the Department of Children and Families located in the Reflection Service Center. Horton has worked as a protective investigator for five years, four years of service at Seminole County and one year in Orange County.

Horton served on the building improvement committee and has had many of the improvements recommended and implemented. He is one of the original committee members of the Employee of the Month Program that has honored one employee per month for 1996 and ended with the Employee of the Year to be so honored.

Horton's dedication to his work speaks for itself. To improve the work place, he has determined the best locations for computer placement, the SACWIS committee will eventually set up with in the center. The state of the art equipment will be for use by the staff at the Reflection Center.

Can you believe it's already half gone?

Today is...
VICKI DESORMIER
Staff Writer

It's sure doesn't seem like it, but this year is half way over already.

At noon, we will have completed 182 and a half days and will have a 182 and a half more to go.

Better start doing that Christmas shopping now.

Speaking of being in the middle: today is International "Hump" Day.

The event celebrates Wednesday, the middle day or "hump" day of the week.

The American Heritage Dictionary defines "hump" as a "difficult stage." But once we get through that difficult stage, things are much easier. And, just think, this week you only have one more day of work before you can have a blast on a three day weekend.

One of the ways people can celebrate the middle of the year is to make up for all they have forgotten over the course of the year.

International I Forgot Day is a day set aside to make up for all the birthdays, anniversaries, new births, graduations and other events that you've forgotten over the course of the year so far. Send out those cards and gifts that you've forgotten over the course of the year.

Of course, you might as well send the cards and things you're going to forget later on this year.

This is the anniversary of three very important events in our nation's history.

On this date in 1964, the Civil Rights Act of 1964 was passed.

On that date, Pres Lyndon B. Johnson signed the Voting Rights Act of 1964 into law. The law prohibited discrimination on the basis of race in public accommodations, in publicly owned or operated facilities, in employment and union membership and in the registration of voters.

The bill included Title VI, which allowed for the cutoff of federal funding in areas where discrimination persisted.

This is also the anniversary of the date on which the U.S. Constitution took effect.

Cyrus Griffin of Virginia, the president of the Congress in 1788, announced on July 2 of that year, that the Constitution had been ratified by the required nine states.

(New Hampshire was the ninth state, having ratified the document on June 21, 1788). A committee was appointed to make preparations for the new form of government.

Our first president you might remember that was George Washington) was unanimously elected by the electoral college and inaugurated on April 30, 1789.

Washington, a respected General during the Revolutionary War, was the chairman of the Constitutional Convention of 1787.

And finally, this is the anniversary of the adoption by the Continental Congress of a resolution introduced on June 2, 1776 by Richard Henry Lee of Virginia calling for the American colonies to be free and independent of England.

The resolution prepared the way for adoption two days later of the Declaration of Independence.

If the upcoming birthday of this nation isn't enough to get your celebratory juices flowing, you might want to consider these celebrity birthdays taking place today.

Baseball player Jose Canseco Jr. is 33, actress Polly Holliday is 69, former tennis player Jean Bruce Lancaster is 92, actress Cheryl Ladd is 45, actor Jimmy McMichael is 36, former New Hampshire governor and White House Chief of Staff John Sununu is 58 and Dave Thomas, founder of the Wendy's restaurant chain, is 65.

Achievements honored

The Sanford Kiwanis Club recently honored a pair of the area's brightest students with college scholarships to help them continue their education. Amy White, at left in the left photo, was awarded the Jim Crowe Scholarship. The young woman will use the $1,000 scholarship, which was presented to her by scholarship chairman

Jack Kaleita and president Dave Liddell. In the photo at right, Amy White, who will be attending Palm Beach Community College, received a $750 Kiwanis scholarship, which was presented to her by scholarship chairman

Seminole Chapter of Order of Eastern Star celebrates a century of activity in county

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Seminole Chapter #2 Order of Eastern Star of Sanford recently held its 100th Birthday celebration with a party at First United Methodist Church of Sanford.

Seminole Chapter #6, Sanford, Orange County, Florida, was chartered on July 12, 1897 with nine sisters and 10 brothers and dues were $25. Sister Jennie Cassil and Brother Herbert E. Munson were the first Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron and served for 1897 and 1898.

In 1904 a Convention was held in the Masonic Hall, Sanford for the purpose of organizing a Grand Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star for the State of Florida. Mrs. Alice Robbins of Seminole Chapter was elected the first Worthy Grand Matron and was re-elected in 1905.

The chapters were renumbered in 1908 with Daytona Beach becoming No. 1, Seminole Chapter #2 and New Smyrna #3.

On April 25, 1913 Seminole became a county instead of being a part of Orange County and Seminole Chapter #2 was the first organization to meet officially in the new county.

The current Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron of Seminole Chapter #2, Sister Juanita and Brother Louis Parratt, did the cooking of the chipped Barbecue beef on rolls, cole slaw, baked beans and two birthday cakes and served the meal as well.

And being a birthday party, Sister Joyce Fitzgerald and her husband, Bernard, provided homemade ice cream.

Also during the celebration, Sister Gladys Malcolm was presented with her 50-year pin by Sister Betty Boyer. Past Grand Matron and Grand Secretary Emeritus. Another Past Grand Matron, Sister Mamie Horton, was also among the 100-plus guests at the event.

After the presentations Brother Dean Smith emceed a Fashion Show of clothes from different decades over the past 100 years.

Brother Calvin and Sister Betty Clements and their

granddaughter, Heather Baker, were outfitted in attire from the 1840's, while their daughter, Sister Mari Baker, Sister Stella Pryor-Whitney and Sister June McFadden wore Martha Washington style long dresses from the 1800's.

Sister Alice James from Oviedo Chapter wore an early 1900's dress, complete with hat and high-button shoes.

Sister Juanita Parratt wore a peasant dress and apron befitting working women of the 40's and 50's, while Brother LeRoy and Sister Mary Thrift wore Bibb Overalls that became popular for farmers back in the 1940's and are still in use today.

Sister Sharon Smith and Brother Dean Smith represented the 1950's style clothes of school kids as Sharon wore a poodle skirt (updated to the 1980's with Olie being on the skirt) and saddle shoes and Dean wore rolled up jeans, a white T-shirt and letterman's jacket.

Sister Barbara Ash from New Jersey wore a 1970's style maxi-dress and Brother Louis Parratt wore 1990's style leisure clothes, shirt, pants and shoes. Sister Lyndell Francis concluded the festivities with a song fest of songs through the years which everyone enjoyed.

Scientists find fault with economics of clean air standards

Special to the Herald

WASHINGTON — Scientists from a variety of universities and research organizations have closely examined the tough clean air standards proposed by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and concluded they will damage the economy and do little to benefit public health.

Researchers from diverse oriented privately funded centers have called on EPA Administrator Carol Browner to slow down and do more work on the causes of asthma and other respiratory diseases before putting any new rules into effect.

There is a remarkable similarity to the conclusions drawn by scientists and economists at the Brookings Institution in Washington, the Center for the Study of American Business at Washington University in St. Louis, the Rochester Institute of Technology, the Reason Public Policy Institute in Los Angeles, and Citizens for a Sound Economy.

Under the proposed rules, state and local governments over the next few years would be required to sharply limit microscopic bits of soot and dust (particulate matter) and smog (ozone) at enormous cost to local economies. The new standards would force millions of families across the country to accept a higher cost of living and changes in their lifestyles even as the air in the U.S. gets cleaner under existing EPA air pollution rules.

Scientists working independently in different organizations, have looked at the rationale for the new rules and found flaws in EPA's own research methods.

Robert Crandall, a specialist on regulatory issues at Brookings, said that EPA's own research reveals that the new ozone standards will cost far more than they will benefit U.S. society.

"If the agency itself cannot find enough benefits to offset the costs," Crandall said, "the economic case seems to be closed."

Crandall said the billions of dollars spent on achieving the new standards would inevitably drain money away from other priorities and deny citizens the rights to spend limited resources on their own health care, education, or other improvements in the quality of their lives.

Similarly, in research titled, "More than a Particle of Doubt: The Science Behind EPA's Particulate Proposal," Stephen B. Huebner and Kenneth W. Chilton of the Center for the Study of American Business, disputed EPA's conclusion that tiny bits of dust and soot are causing deaths.

"Americans expect their government to protect them from air pollution that might significantly harm public health," the researchers said. "They do not, however, expect costly regulations to be enacted that may

EDITORIAL

Could this be the answer to the midge dilemma?

Since time began, we think, residents in our area have scratched their heads and racked their brains for a solution to the midge problem.

Sanford has tried Purple Martins to eat them, but the birds ended up smooched on the road, splatted by passing cars. The Sanford Herald has editorialized for employing bats, just like San Antonio does, to take care of the problem in an environmentally friendly way. Officials haven't tried that one, but they have tried giant bug zappers in the middle of the lake. All night long, an eerie purple glow cast itself over the water, as periodic streaks of electricity coursed through those unwitting little blind mosquitoes' bodies, electrocuting them like convicts convicted of capital crimes.

Now, Mayor Larry Dale has elicited funds from higher government entities to study the problem and hopefully, finally, find a solution to it. (We still like the bat idea.)

We continue to encourage our readers to share ideas with us via phone or letter, and on that note, one reader has found a unique solution to the midge problem.

Long-time civic activist Martha Yancey tells us that a recent television documentary caught her attention when the word 'midge' was heard. It seems in some faraway land also plagued with the little buggers, residents don't really look at the situation as a problem. Young men with large sweeping movements, with the midges take tightly woven baskets, collecting midges at dusk, each evening of their short season. The gleeful boys then knead the bugs into a thick paste, add a little flour and fry them like pancakes in a hot skillet over an open fire. The midge cakes are cut into smaller pieces and eaten as hors d'oeuvres each evening, a delicious delicacy, we are told.

Yancey speculates that Sanford could use the midges to make midge cakes and charge money for them in lakeside bistros downtown, thus solving the problem and making a profit. Yancey swears her suggestion isn't tongue in cheek, but really, midge in check. Should any of our readers actually recreate this delicacy and taste it, please let us know, as none of our staff volunteered. Neither did Yancey.

Reminder on hot days

As the summer officially arrives and the weather heats up, The Humane Society of the United States (HSUS) reminds readers that pets, like people, can suffer from the heat--especially when left in a parked car.

Like their owners, companion animals enjoy the opportunities warm weather provides for outdoor activities. However, the needless suffering, and occasional death, of an animal imprisoned in a car on a warm day is a tragedy that is entirely preventable.

On a hot and humid day, the temperature inside a car rises very quickly. On an 85-degree day, for example, the temperature inside a car with the windows open slightly will reach 102 degrees within 10 minutes. After 30 minutes, the temperature will reach 120 degrees. On warmer days, it will get even hotter.

A dog's normal body temperature is 101.5 to 102.2 degrees. A dog can withstand a body temperature of 107 to 108 degrees for only a very short time before suffering irreparable brain damage, or even death.

Although many pet owners may not realize the danger of leaving their dogs in parked cars even for a few minutes, their ignorance may prove fatal. A brochure to educate others about the hazards of leaving pets in hot cars may be obtained from the HSUS. It can be placed on a car, in store windows, or on bulletin boards. Please send a business size, self-addressed stamped envelope, with your request for flyers to: "Hot Car," The HSUS Southeast Regional Office, 1624 Metropolitan Circle, Suite B, Tallahassee, FL 32308.

The isolation of black schoolchildren

In Brooklyn's Junior High School 57 "fewer than 1 percent of the students are white," the New York Times reports, "and more than 87 percent are eligible for free lunches." In the eighth grade, only 11.7 percent of the youngsters are reading at their grade level.

These kids and many more like them -- black and Hispanic -- in segregated public schools around the country were missing in the president's "landmark" speech on race relations at the San Diego campus of the University of California.

The president wants us to be "one America" in the 21st century, but he explains, "money can't do it. It can come only from the human spirit." Hugh Price, president of the National Urban League, knows better: "It will take money ... to provide the resources and quality of schooling required for youngsters to succeed." Especially isolated youngsters.

Unless attention is paid to the students at Junior High School 57 in Brooklyn, the 21st century will be the same for most of them as their bleak present.

The president ignored the crucial fact that the division of the races is profoundly affected by experiences in the most formative ghetto in our society -- the public school. And these increasingly segregated schools continue to be inferior in resources of all kinds, including, with exceptions, the teaching staff.

This continuing discrimination -- not by law but by indifference -- is not only racial but is a matter of class.

Yet Clinton, in speaking of education in San Diego, focused only on colleges as he ritualistically preached the necessity of affirmative action. The students at Junior High School 57 -- where attendance is less than half in some classes -- may not get any closer to a college than a job as a security guard. Yet the president passionately said in his talk that "we must give our children the finest education in the world."

Which children? Or, more to the point, which class of children?

Much to the president's chagrin, affirmative action in colleges is in trouble not only because of Proposition 209 in California -- which the Supreme Court is likely to affirm -- but in courts elsewhere. So, what will happen if race and gender preference -- as a factor in college admissions -- can no longer continue, however it is "mandated"?

At San Diego, Clinton said he was willing to listen to any alternative to affirmative action. ("I would embrace it if I could find a better way.") Apparently his advisers had neglected to tell him what's going on around the country in class-based alternatives to race-and-gender-based affirmative action.

The very University of California system, for instance, has created a partnership between the state's 50 low-performing high schools that will help students achieve better test scores and grades and thereby qualify for university admission on academic merit. Many of the high schools involved in these college

I'm already disturbed and the colloquy hasn't even begun. 9

Mr. Clinton: Welcome to the discussion

The main thing Bill Clinton's great race debate is going to accomplish, I fear, is to make everyone madder.

I'm already disturbed and the colloquy hasn't even begun.

Let's start with Clinton's premise, which is specious. The time has come, he told a San Diego audience in mid-June, to launch "a great and unprecedented conversation about race."

Unprecedented. Did you get that? The fact is, this nation has been engaged in a robust dialogue about race since the 17th century, but our president has somehow not heard about it. He missed the Civil War, the Emancipation Proclamation, the 13th and 14th Amendments to the Constitution, Brown vs. the Board of Education, the momentous civil rights laws of the mid-'60s, and the Kerner Commission appointed by Lyndon Johnson.

To stimulate the discussion, Clinton called for a year-long series of town meetings, and he appointed an "advisory board" to give him guidance. The chairman of this panel, retired Duke University historian John Hope Franklin, had this to say: "I'm not suggesting that town meetings will solve the problems ... but I am suggesting that a national conversation about race and ethnicity has not occurred in our history."

Where in the name of Martin Luther King Jr. was this man 30 years ago? Indeed, it is an insult to Dr. King's memory to hear a prominent historian claim we've never discussed race.

Another thing that upsets me is the idea of apologizing for slavery. A dozen legislators have offered a bill that would accomplish this and Clinton says he is mulling it over.

I ask: Breathes there a sane and civilized person in these United States who believes in the enslavement of human beings?

What would I be apologizing for? I am not a racist. I abhor discrimination. No one with whom I associate -- no one with whom I have ever associated -- has condoned slavery. I certainly did not. My ancestors, so far as I know, did not. According to family legend, the Spears were sailors and shipbuilders who migrated south from Massachusetts and settled in Maryland. One male in my maternal grandmother's line fought for the Union in the Civil War and was severely wounded.

There are tens of millions of white Americans who share my attitudes. We feel great sorrow that people of different color are discriminated against. But how could we, with any degree of integrity, apologize for something we did not do?

To some agitators, not even an apology would suffice. They believe that black Americans should be paid billions in "reparations." As if half a million deaths in a war fought, in large part, to purge the nation of slavery counts for nothing.

I have some suggestions for Mr. Clinton and Dr. Franklin:

1. What we need more than talk is a time-out. For a period of one year, we should all go about our jobs in routine fashion, refusing to define each other by skin color. We should treat everyone equally, as basic morality and the law demand. We should all, black and white, quit blaming race for every problem and simply respect each other. We should tell David Duke to stuff it and Jesse Jackson to get a real job.

New ideas on race in short supply

Rather than an apology for slavery or vacuous speeches, what the nation's racial divide needs is action, but it's getting precious little from President Clinton and even less from the Republican Congress.

President Clinton clearly wants "racial healing" to be part of his legacy, but his June 14 speech on the subject was empty of content and dwelled rhetorically on old ideas like affirmative action and white racism rather than on new ones like personal responsibility.

The idea of issuing an apology for slavery seems to have been appropriately hooted down as a mere gesture made unnecessary by the blood shed in the Civil War.

Republican leaders in Congress, meantime, are studiously avoiding doing anything on race -- either ending affirmative action or instituting any new initiatives to replace it.

While politicians dither, however, two realities seem inescapable: The days of affirmative action are numbered, yet the playing field for blacks and whites remains far from even.

Recent Supreme Court decisions opposing racially gerrymandered congressional districts are part of an unmistakable trend toward a declaration that, except when prior discrimination can be demonstrated, special preferences for minorities will not pass constitutional muster.

Meantime, new Census Bureau figures on the black population indicate that, while significant progress has been made, blacks and whites remain unequal.

The median personal income for all white adults is $20,900, but for blacks it's $15,000. White high school dropouts make $11,700 a year; blacks make $8,900. White high school graduates make $17,400; blacks, $14,500.

Whites who attend but don't finish college make $22,500 a year; blacks, $19,800. And white college graduates earn $35,500; blacks, $29,000.

Interestingly, the income differential between males and females is considerably greater than between blacks and whites. For example, white male college graduates earn $45,500, while white females make $27,000. Black males make $33,500; black females, $26,500.

All this is a far cry from the situation in 1960, when a black college graduate made less than a white high school graduate, but some numbers remain dismal -- notably the fact that 42 percent of black children live in poverty, compared with 11 percent of whites.

Clearly, if race-based preferences are on their way out, measures need to be taken to replace them. One option is preferences based on a poverty background. Another is special efforts to give poor people of all races the education and training they need to compete equally.

Rather than an apology for slavery or vacuous speeches, what the nation's racial divide needs is action. 9

To some extent, the federal government has taken a step in the right direction through the combination of the 1996 welfare reform law, which reduces dependency, and the $3 billion contained in this year's budget agreement to help welfare recipients find jobs.

No one should forget, however, that the $3 billion to be spent on job-finding over five years is far less than the $27 billion in welfare benefits that are being cut.

Moreover, even as the government targets $3 billion for welfare recipients, it is cutting $3 billion from the 1993 empowerment zone program, effectively eliminating it.

Enterprise zones were a Republican idea for targeting tax benefits at low-income areas. The idea was picked up by Clinton, and 105 zones now exist, including some fabulously successful ones like Detroit's, where the auto industry is rebuilding former wastelands.

However, another 415 cities went through the empowerment zone application process, which involved extensive poverty-area economic development planning, but were excluded for lack of money.

Many anticipated inclusion this year, but opposition from the Treasury Department, which contends that breaks for poverty areas simply cause businesses to leave other areas, scotched the program.

Clinton's substitute was a $2 billion "brownfields" initiative designed to reclaim polluted industrial areas, some in poverty neighborhoods. The program made it through the budget agreement process, but not in "protected" status, so it was eliminated from the House's budget package and slashed to $247 million in the Senate's.

President Clinton complained about the cuts in his speech to the U.S. Conference of Mayors on June 23, but the director of the American Association of Enterprise Zones, Richard Cowden, says Clinton was "shedding crocodile tears" because he failed to protect the program.

Moreover, Cowden points out, the Republicans' supposed new alternative poverty-preparatory programs have predominantly black or Hispanic students. But there are also whites and others who have potential that needs to be nurtured.

Other colleges and universities -- aware of the dubious nature of affirmative action as currently practiced -- are engaged in similar outreach programs.

The University of California alternative -- a mention of which would have given some substance to the president's superficial speech -- is evidently going to include training of elementary and middle school teachers in those isolated lower schools.

Already under way in the Martin Luther King Jr. Middle School in San Francisco, as reported by Rene Sanchez in the Washington Post -- is a University of California engineering and science achievement program for students.

2. Nothing I can think of would be more conducive to racial harmony than a program of compulsory national service. Requiring young citizens of every economic class and every skin color to pull a hitch in the military, or in some civilian equivalent, would inspire more empathy than all the jawboning in the world could ever achieve. Take it from a person who shared time, tents and concerns with many of different cultures, there is nothing as leveling as living together.

I am convinced that the only permanent cure for racial enmity is this. Thanks to integration and education, each generation, I believe, is less prejudiced than preceding ones.

Perhaps when our great-great-grandchildren are gray and wrinkled, we will be a truly tolerant nation.

Airport

The 2,000 foot runway extension would provide an added safety zone for jets landing there. Cooke said, adding, "pilots always want as much runway as they can get."

Another reason the airport is extending the runway, Cooke said, is to move it further east for noise reduction. Runway 9L-27R is used primarily by the large jets coming from overseas. This year, close to one million passengers arrived at the airport and the numbers continue to grow and so does the noise.

Cooke said his goal is to secure the FAA grant within the year.

Also at the meeting:

• After 18 years, the airport has decided to get out of the fueling business. Jett Air, which serves as the fixed base operator, will take over fueling operations. The airport will continue to manage a fuel farm used for fuel storage.

"We have grown out of that," Cooke said. "It is not really an appropriate activity for an airport. Most airports don't handle fueling."

Jett Air will pay to the airport a fuelage fee of 3 cents per gallon for jet fuel and 10 cents a gallon on av fuel. Av fuel is used for piston driven aircraft and jet fuel is used for jets.

Based on past figures, Cooke said the airport uses about one million gallons of jet fuel and between 300,000 and 400,000 gallons of av fuel

The school is in a very poor neighborhood, and the principal, James Taylor, points out that for those youngsters to be qualified for college, "we have to start very, very early."

The students in these various programs -- from elementary school on -- will legitimately achieve self-esteem, to use a modish term. Most important, they will learn that they can learn. The most harmful effect of many ghetto schools is that many kids there learn that they are dumb -- and they are not.

Moreover, college admissions directors will no longer have to play a color-coded game in deciding who gets in and who doesn't.

In his speech, Clinton pointed to the presence of White House aide Thurgood Marshall Jr. Clinton did not mention Thurgood Marshall Sr.'s insistent focus on undoing the racial isolation in the public schools. Nor did he address the criticism of Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., who has said "if Clinton wants a legacy of race relations, he should invest in public schools."

To the students at Brookline's Junior High 87, the president was far more distant than San Diego.

fighting measure, the community renewal initiative sponsored by Reps. J.C. Watts (Okla.) and Jim Talent (Mo.), is going nowhere fast.

"Congress will hold hearings on it in the fall," Cowden said in an e-mail piece, "but the fact that it was not considered important enough to reserve room for it in the budget agreement is a dead giveaway that it is intended purely as political theater."

"Cowden" is almost all that either party is giving the problems of race and poverty in this year of middle-class tax cuts. With affirmative action on its way out, they need to get busy doing better -- and soon.

each year. "But it really depends on the market," he said.

Cooke estimated the added revenue from parking fees would be about $112,000.

• Board members discussed relocating Comair Aviation Academy, a flight training school which operates out of five buildings on the north west side of the airport, to the south east runway. Comair currently uses the main runway which is used primarily by the large jets. Cooke said the airport will try to refocus all general aviation on the south east end.

• Hangar 4, built in 1942, will be demolished July 18. The city and county will help with debris. The old hangar had been empty for the past two years and had been collapsing, Cooke said. The airport plans to build two new hangars.

• The new FAA control tower will begin operations August 17 and the temporary tower will be relocated to another airport.

• The board approved an operating budget for the airport of $4,309,475, a substantial increase over last year's $3,100,000. The airport has a firefighter, two maintenance workers and an assistant property manager. Cooke said the increase is not as much as it seems because about $700,000 of the new budget was not included in last year's budget. The difference is attributed to new accounting procedures, he said. The $700,000 is a reimbursable expense which the airport collects from TBI, an airport management company, to pay customs.

for the Discovery Channel website during the July 7-31 expedition.

"I will be using some pretty advanced technology out there in the jungle," Belleville said.

He will use a solar powered satellite telephone and laptop computer to transmit his stories and photos back to the rest of the world.

"I'll be able to send pictures and descriptions of new discoveries as soon as they're made," Belleville said.

The expedition will focus on the Tainos, known as the Mayans of the Caribbean. They numbered in the millions by the time Columbus arrived in the new world. Unfortunately, within half a century, most of the natives had died from disease or were killed by the Spanish.

Unlike other natives, such as the Mayans, little is known about the Tainos.

"This is going to give us more insight into the Tainos than has ever been known before," said expedition leader Charles Becker of Indiana University.

In earlier expeditions over the last year, archeologists discovered three ceremonial plazas and the remains of what they believe was a large settlement.

Other discoveries include a large number of pictographs on caves in the surrounding jungles.

The sinkhole is a major discovery, Belleville noted. It is thought to be a sacred place where ceremonies were held and sacrifices were made.

Belleville, who was a reporter for the Sanford Herald in the 1970s, has become well known as an environmental writer with articles appearing in publications including Newsweek, Parade, Readers Digest, Esquire, Nerve, Atlanta and Andover.

His public television documentary, "Searching for Xanadu," which focused on the history of the St. Johns River, recently won a national Telly Award.

His book about the St. Johns River is forthcoming from Pineapple Press.

Suber

Suber appealed her firing, but a grievance committee supported the county's decision, saying she was fired with just cause.

The Florida Department of Law Enforcement is still looking into the allegations by Suber and by the county.

She has asked for $5 million from the county for its failure to justify "giving preferential treatment to employees other than the Plaintiff or for the refusal to respect the employment and property rights... and to continue her employment."

Suber contends in her suit that she was regularly subjected to unwanted sexual advances and innuendoes by male members of the county staff, including elected officials, employees or paid agents.

Because such actions made her fear doing those parts of her job which brought her in contact with those people involved in that activity, Suber said the work environment was hostile.

She has asked for no less than $10 million in damages for those actions.

Suber has also made claims that she was discriminated against because she is more than 40 years old. She said she was fired, in part, because she is more than 40 years old. Her successor is younger than 40, the suit contends.

She has asked for no less than $5 million in compensatory damages for that discrimination.

Throughout the investigation process Suber was kept from testifying on her own behalf by her attorneys at the time, Mark Blechman and Marc Lubet. As a result the allegations of sexual harassment and age discrimination were not brought forth.

Suber is now represented by Orlando attorney John Vernon Head. It was he who filed the suit.

In addition to the $20 million, Suber is asking for $250,000 as compensation for her wrongful termination. That amount includes her lost wages, benefits and pension rights, as well as her attorney's fees, consultant fees and other fees and costs she otherwise would not have incurred.

Suber contended in the suit that the county has handled her employment termination so badly that her reputation is permanently damaged.

She has been unable to find other employment, the suit contends, because of the damages caused by the county's poor handling of her case.

County attorney Lonnie Groot has looked over the suit, but says he has not had the opportunity to analyze it.

"She seems to be taking a shotgun approach to this," Groot said. "It came as a surprise to us, however, because she never mentioned any of this during the termination hearing or appeal."

The attorney said he has not yet made a decision on what the county's "next appropriate action" should be.

not be aimed at the appropriate pollutant.

"EPA is not required to establish a new air quality standard for fine particulates, and it should not do so based on the current body of scientific evidence," according to Huebner and Chilton.

In another study, Thomas D. Hopkins, a professor of economics at the Rochester Institute of Technology, said EPA failed to demonstrate that the new standards covering particulate matter "would be prudent, effective, or efficient."

In three major works produced at the Reason Institute, researchers concluded that the standards would cost the U.S. economy between $90 billion and $150 billion annually, a figure far above the $8.5 billion projected by EPA.

In addition, Dr. Anne E. Smith, author of a study on economic impacts, concluded that at least 200,000 jobs will be lost mainly among blue collar, retail sales and clerical positions over the next 18 years.

Among costs of living imposed by the new rules would mean losses in annual disposable income of $1,000 to $1,800 for each family of four, mainly among low-income households, according to Dr. Smith's analysis.

In a study for Citizens for a Sound Economy, Dr. Kay Jones, a former advisor to the President's Council on Environmental Quality, concluded that EPA's estimates of the number of lives that would be saved under the new regulations are way off the mark.

EPA accepted criticism of its methodology from Dr. Jones and lowered its prediction from 20,000 to 15,000 lives saved under the new clean air rules. But Dr. Jones says additional flaws in EPA's methodology make it uncertain that any lives would be saved, and if there are any, the number would be lower than 1,000.

The Air Quality Standards Coalition is a broad-based organization whose membership includes more than 600 businesses, associations and other groups representing hundreds of thousands of individuals in local government, small businesses, agriculture, manufacturing, construction, transportation, aerospace, chemicals, pharmaceuticals, forest products, healthcare products, natural resource development, electric utilities and others. The goal of the coalition is to assure that the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) makes scientifically and economically sound decisions as it reviews the National Ambient Air Quality Standards for ozone and particulate matter.

Watrip to be honored at July 5th Pepsi 400

Special to the Herald

DAYTONA BEACH — Darrell Waltrip, who is celebrating his 25-year Anniversary of racing on the NASCAR Winston Cup Series, will be honored during pre-race ceremonies for the Pepsi 400 this Saturday at Daytona International Speedway.

The three-time NASCAR Winston Cup champion is the winningest driver of the modern era, compiling 84 NASCAR Winston Cup victories during his illustrious career. His career victory total ranks third all-time, trailing only Richard Petty and David Pearson. His victory mark equal that of Bobby Allison.

During pre-race ceremonies for the 1997 Daytona 500, Daytona International Speedway President John Graham honored Waltrip for his career accomplishments that propelled him to the pinnacle of his profession.

"Darrell Waltrip has been a true ambassador for the sport of NASCAR Winston Cup racing," said Graham. "He has accomplished just about everything as a driver, including winning the Daytona 500 in 1989. He has thrilled fans at Daytona International Speedway for 25 years, and it's the Speedway's privilege to honor such a true champion."

During pre-race ceremonies for the Pepsi 400, Graham will honor Waltrip once again, this time presenting him with a solid sterling silver tray commemorating his 14 overall victories at Daytona International Speedway, including Waltrip's most significant win of his career — the 1989 Daytona 500. The engraved tray will also include all 25 of Waltrip's Daytona 500 finishes.

Waltrip and more than 40 other NASCAR Winston Cup stars will be gunning for a trip to Daytona's Victory Lane when the Pepsi 400 gets a green flag at 11 a.m. this Saturday. Great seats are still available.

For ticket information, call (904) 253-7223. For more information regarding Speedway events or DAYTONA USA, "The Ultimate Motorsports Attraction," visit www.daytonausa.com.

Martin and eight other drivers. The 13 have teamed up with the Florida Community Traffic Safety Teams and law enforcement to raise the awareness of traffic safety in a campaign aptly titled, "Winners Do It!"

The Winston Cup winners will be in Victory Lane at Daytona International Speedway tomorrow as the "Winners Do It!" campaign kicks off. The campaign will promote traffic safety through a series of television and radio public service announcements. Three moon themes make up the program. Don't drink and drive, wear your seat belt, and obey posted speed limit.

Darrell Waltrip, a three-time Winston Cup champion and winner of 84 Winston Cup races, is the Honorary Chairman.

"I'm excited to be a part of this campaign," said Waltrip. "As a professional driver, I can tell you that practicing traffic safety is just as important on our roadways as it is on the track."

Waltrip is supported by seven-time champion Dale Earnhardt, defending series champion Terry Labonte, and 1995 Winston Cup champion Jeff Gordon.

The 13 participating drivers have reached the pinnacle in American motor sports. They get paid to go fast. They range from rookie Mike Skinner, in his first Winston Cup season, to Waltrip, a veteran of 26 racing seasons. Labonte is the "Iron Man" among the team with a record 557 consecutive starts halfway into his 30th season. Collectively there are 244 Winston Cup victories spread among the drivers.

The goals of the campaign were set one year ago during a meeting at Daytona International Speedway during the 1996 Pepsi 400. The response from the driver representatives attending, the Speedway and the community, was so positive that a statewide program was pursued.

The majority of taping and recording of the public service announcements took place during the January testing sessions at the Speedway with additional work done the week before the Daytona 500.

"The response from the drivers and the community was fantastic right from the start," noted Christianna Robinson, Manager of the Community Traffic Safety Program for the Florida Department of Transportation. "Even today, as we get ready to kick off the campaign, we are still hearing from drivers asking if there is anything else they can do to help."

"With strong support from the drivers and our campaign partners (law enforcement, Daytona International Speedway, IMRI Radio, Preston Road and VINDS Radio, WFSU-TV, Bob Dorman and Tropical Creations, Hunter Distributing, Inc., and State Farm Insurance Companies), we are working hard to spread the message that traffic safety saves lives."

In 1995, Florida crashes claimed the lives of 2,847 people, while an additional 228,589 were injured.

Data shows 52-percent of fatal crash victims did not utilize seat belts or shoulder harnesses. Additionally, alcohol was a contributing factor in over 37-percent of fatal crashes, while driving too fast for conditions or driving in excess of posted speed limits accounted for over 20-percent of Florida's fatal crashes.

Griffey, Piazza top voting for All-Star Game

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Editor

NEW YORK — Ken Griffey Jr. and Mike Piazza were the leading vote getters for their respective leagues as the results of fan voting for next Tuesday's Major League Baseball All-Star Game at Jacob's Field in Cleveland was announced Monday and Tuesday.

The American League starters were announced on Monday, with Griffey, the star centerfielder from the Seattle Mariners leading the way with 3,514,340 votes.

Also starting in the American League outfield will be David Justice (Cleveland Indians, 1,840,716 votes) and Brady Anderson (Baltimore Orioles, 1,197,817 votes).

The American League's starting infield will be Tino Martinez (New York Yankees, 866,722 votes) at first base, Roberto Alomar (Baltimore Orioles, 1,657,418 votes) at second base, Alex Rodriguez (Seattle Mariners, 1,854,758) at shortstop, and Cal Ripken (Baltimore Orioles, 2,571,985 votes) at third base.

The American League's starting catcher will be Ivan Rodriguez (Texas Rangers, 1,666,384 votes), while Edgar Martinez (Seattle Mariners, 1,213,429) will be the designated hitter.

Piazza, the catcher from the Los Angeles Dodgers, paced the National League squad announced Tuesday with 2,628,213 votes.

The National League's starting infield will be Jeff Bagwell (Houston Astros, 1,494,752 votes) at first base, Craig Biggio (Houston Astros, 1,161,810 votes) at second base, Barry Larkin (Cincinnati Reds, 1,160,651 votes) at shortstop, and Ken Caminiti (San Diego Padres, 1,438,736 votes) at third base.

The National League outfield will consist of Kenny Lofton (Atlanta Braves, 2,174,813 votes), Larry Walker (Colorado Rockies, 1,732,888 votes) and Tony Gwynn (San Diego Padres, 1,803,730).

National League manager Bobby Cox of the Atlanta Braves will have to pick a designated hitter (probably Barry Bonds of the San Francisco Giants or Andres Galarraga of the Colorado Rockies) and will have to replace Larkin and probably Lofton, both of whom are on the disabled list. Lofton can come off the list on Friday, but he is still having problems with a groin pull.

Possible replacements are either Jeff Blauser of the Atlanta Braves or Mark Grdzelanek of the Montreal Expos at shortstop and either Bonds or Ray Lankford of the St. Louis Cardinals in the outfield.

Cox and American League manager Joe Torre of the World Champion New York Yankees will announce the pitchers, including the starter for each team, and the reserves today.

Aaron Knight of the 17-18-year-old All-Stars scoots back into first base as 16-year-old All-Star first baseman Tug Daniels (No. 5) awaits the pick-off throw from pitcher Barry Porter. Knight would later score to tie the game, but it would be his team's lone tally as they fell to the younger squad 3-1 in a Senior Babe Ruth League game at Zinn Beck Field Tuesday evening.

Sheesh! Kebobs are cute and fun

I have a friend (and you know who you are) who is obsessed with kebobs. "Aren't they cute?" he says. "Aren't they fun?" And finally, "Do you have any recipes?" I am finally in a position to answer yes to all three questions.

Yes, kebobs are cute and fun. And yes, I have recipes, especially since I've acquired a copy of "License to Grill," by Chris Schlesinger and John Willoughby, which is simply the best new cookbook to come along this season. "License to Grill" dedicates no less than an entire chapter, "Threading Flavours," to the concept of grilling on skewers. I counted 15 recipes for grilled fish, chicken, lamb, beef and pork in that chapter. Unfortunately, I have only space to print two of the recipes here.

So, it seems, my kebob-obsessed friend is not alone. But not only Schlesinger and Willoughby share his passion. Lately, I've been seeing all sorts of grill attachments and gadgets designed for the grilling of kebobs. I know a man who just bought an entire grill - long and narrow -- just for grilling skewers, sort of like a yakatori, that special rig used for grilling in Japan.

But according to the authors of "License to Grill," you don't need much of anything fancy. They say that any kind of skewer is OK -- from the engraved metal kind to the cheap bamboo kind -- as long as the skewer is long enough and sturdy enough to hold what you are grilling. The only thing you really have to pay attention to is the heat of your fire, and the size of the food. Cut longer-cooking foods in smaller pieces than other kebob partners that take less time to cook.

I have only one more observation to make, which I've made in this space before, and that is that children especially like food on pointy sticks. You'd be amazed at what they will eat if it's skewered, including all sorts of fruits and veggies. My friend was right: Kebobs are cute and fun. Now here are the recipes.

Note: Speaking of grilling, Weber-Stephen Products of Palatine, Ill., -- maker of gas and charcoal grills -- runs the Weber Grill-Line, offering answers to all outdoor cooking questions, as well as recipe suggestions, cooking hints and food safety tips. Callers also receive a free barbecuing booklet. The line is open Monday through Friday (including holidays) through Labor Day from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Central. Dial 1-800-474-8568.

GRILLED CHICKEN SKEWERS WITH COCONUT GINGER SAUCE

For the sauce:

- 1 teaspoon sesame oil
- 2 tablespoons minced fresh ginger
- 1 tablespoon minced fresh garlic
- 1 tablespoon minced fresh chile pepper of your choice
- 1 12-ounce can unsweetened coconut milk
- 2 tablespoons fresh lime juice (about 1 lime)
- 2 tablespoons roughly chopped fresh cilantro

For the shake:

- 1/4 cup sesame seeds
- 1/4 cup unsalted roasted peanuts, roughly chopped
- 2 tablespoon red pepper flakes

1 teaspoon curry powder

For the skewers:

- 1 whole boneless, skinless chicken breast (10 to 12 ounces) cut into 12 chunks
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- Salt and freshly cracked black pepper to taste

Prepare a medium-hot fire on the grill.

Make the sauce: In a medium saucepan over medium-high heat, heat the sesame oil until hot but not smoking. Add the ginger, garlic and chile, and saute, stirring, until soft, about 2 minutes. Add the coconut milk and lime juice and bring to a boil. Reduce the heat to low and let simmer for about 20 minutes, or until the liquid has reduced by about half. Once the sauce has reduced, remove it from the heat, stir in the cilantro and sauteed chile pepper mixture, and cover to keep warm.

Meanwhile, make the shake: Heat a small skillet over medium heat, and pour in the sesame seeds. Toast seeds, shaking frequently, until fragrant, 2 to 3 minutes.

In a small bowl, combine all the toasted sesame seeds with the remaining shake ingredients.

Thread the chicken chunks onto 4 skewers, sprinkle lightly with the oil, and salt and pepper to taste, and grill over a medium hot fire for 3 to 4 minutes per side. To check for doneness: Cut into one of the chicken pieces and check to be sure it is opaque all the way through.

Remove the skewers from the fire, sprinkle a bit of shake over them, and serve with the warm ginger-coconut sauce.

Yield: 4 skewers, serves 2 as an entree, 4 as an appetizer. -- Recipe from "License to Grill," by Chris Schlesinger and John Willoughby (William Morrow, 1997).

SIMPLE GRILLED SWORDFISH SKEWERS

For the rub:

- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 3 tablespoons tumin seeds, toasted if you want, or 1-1/2 tablespoons ground cumin
- 1 tablespoon minced fresh garlic
- 1/4 cup roughly chopped fresh oregano or parsley
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 teaspoons freshly cracked black pepper

For the skewers:

- 1 pound swordfish, cut into 1-inch chunks (about 12 chunks)
- 2 small red onions, peeled and cut into eighths
- 2 nectarines, pitted and quartered (optional)
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 lemon, quartered

Prepare a medium-hot fire on the grill. In a small bowl, combine all the ingredients for the rub and mix well.

Thread the swordfish, onions and nectarines (if using) onto 4 skewers, using 3 chunks swordfish, 4 chunks onion and 2 chunks nectarine per skewer. Sprinkle with the prepared spice rub.

Put the skewers on the grill and cook for 6 to 7 minutes on each side, or until a peek inside shows that the fish is opaque all the way through. Remove from the fire, sprinkle with the olive oil, and serve with lemon wedges for squeezing.

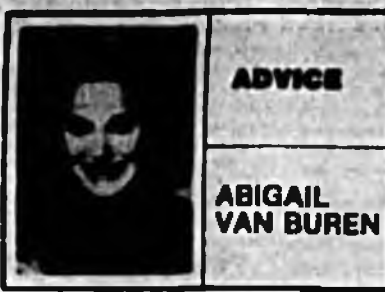

Yield: 4 skewers, serves 2 as a main course, 4 as an appetizer. -- Recipe from "License to Grill," by Chris Schlesinger and John Willoughby (William Morrow, 1997).

Pets left alone in cars are endangered

DEAR ABBY: It's happening again! What is the matter with people? Year after year, pet owners leave their poor animals in hot cars. It is so hard for me to understand how they could be so lacking in common sense.

I'm enclosing a clipping from the Albany, N.Y., Times Union describing our first reported case. It was an 80-degree day and the poor dog was left in a closed car for 70 minutes! I live near a tourist area, and every summer people visit the outlet malls and leave their dogs in the car with a window only slightly cracked. This infuriates me!

Please, Abby, tell your many readers to either leave their pets at home, or have one person remain in the car with the pet while the others shop. A simple rule of thumb is: If you can't sit in your car with the windows cracked for 5, 10 or 15 minutes because you're too hot, then so is your dog, who's wearing a fur coat. And remember, a day can be breezy and feel cool, but the sun is still very hot and can heat up a car in a matter of minutes. Thanks, Abby, for helping to take care of these defenseless ani-

male. ALBANY, N.Y., ANIMAL LOVER

DEAR ANIMAL LOVER: Thank you for a letter that may save some thoughtless pet owner a good deal of grief.

The Animal Protection Institute, P.O. Box 23506, Sacramento, Calif. 95822, sells cards that can be placed under the windshield wipers on the cars of thoughtless pet owners.

The printed message reads: "Your dog may be dying! We understand you meant to be kind by taking your dog with you today, but you could be risking your pet's life.

"On a hot summer day, the inside of a car heats up very quickly. On an average 85-degree day, for example, the temperature inside your car -- with the window slightly opened -- will reach 102 degrees in 10 minutes. In 30 minutes it will go up to 130 degrees. On warmer days, it will go even higher. "A dog's normal body temperature is 101.5 to 102.5 degrees Fahrenheit. A dog can withstand a body temperature of 107 to 108 degrees Fahrenheit for only a very short time before suffering irreparable brain damage -- or even death. The closed car interferes with the dog's normal cooling process, that is, evaporation through panting.

"If your dog is overcome by heat exhaustion, you can give immediate first aid by immersing him or her in cold water until the body temperature is lowered."

These cards sell for only $3 per 100. Allow 6 to 8 weeks for delivery.

DEAR ABBY: We received this letter the night before our daughter's wedding. It was Linda's gift to us. If you have room in your column, I am sure it will touch many people's hearts, as it did ours.

"Dearest Parents: On our wedding day, as my husband and I take our vows and make promises to each other, I make this promise to you as well. Even as I take him into my heart and life, I promise to keep you, parents dear, in my heart and life always.

"On this day, know that our love is not divided; it is multiplied, and you are embraced with the full measure of love and promises that he and I share here today.

"For I know that I am able to love and cherish him so much because you loved and cherished me first." BLOSSOM R. HOLLANDER, LOS ANGELES

DEAR BLOSSOM: What a beautiful tribute to you and your husband as parents, and to your daughter as well. Congratulations -- you raised a winner.

DEAR ABBY: A young lady we work with had a baby. She was hoping it would be a girl. In fact, we all hoped she would have a daughter, so when we held a shower for her, many of us gave her gifts for a girl.

Well, the baby turned out to be a boy. And guess what? She sent the gifts back to us and asked us to exchange them for boy things.

Abby, I ask you, is that proper etiquette? Or should she have exchanged the gifts herself? PEEVED IN PITTSBURGH

DEAR PEEVED: Was it proper etiquette? Absolutely not! She should have quietly exchanged the gifts herself.

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 89440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90089. All correspondence is confidential.)

Will Smith and Tommy Lee Jones in Men in Black

Aliens and G-men

Men in Black (PG-13): I remember this story that I read about "men in black". It was a tabloid story, one of the headlines for a Weekly World News or Star magazine. I think I must have picked a copy up from a grocery checkout lane waiting to get an order rang up. If I remember the story correctly, "men in black" were not indigenous to any particular region. And I think alien abductees are the only ones that could see them. It is one of those urban myths -- the kind that makes front page on those aforementioned papers. I always thought that the story arose out of the late 40's and 50's paranoia that we were not alone in the universe.

These "men in black" were either aliens or G-men. They were supposed to be dressed in black suits, wearing black hoes and adorning accessories like dark sunglasses or dark hats. Director Barry Sonnenfeld (Get Shorty) and screenwriter Ed Solomon (the Bill & Ted movies) probably heard of this story as well. Their collaboration, Men in Black, may be based on the comic book series by Lowell Cunningham, but it also borrows from this legend of "men in black".

Tommy Lee Jones and Will Smith are K and J, part of an unofficial government agency called "Men in Black" that monitors and police aliens that have taken human form and live domesticated lives here on Earth. Some of these aliens have taken higher positions in society, but I dare not give away that joke -- it's much too juicy. K and J have to find a dangerous alien called a "bug" that is running rampant in New York trying to find this little orb called a "galaxy". The earth is dependent on the success of this mission for its very survival.

Men in Black is an imaginative, hilarious sci-fi comedy. There is a lot of action that is moved at a delightfully brisk pace. And there are scenes that are huge belly laughs. One scene, in particular, is of this ball that turns the Men in Black office into a pinball machine. I wished, though, that Men in Black had a better story. It isn't the most important aspect of the picture, but it would have made it more enjoyable.

Men in Black relies heavily on its visuals. Most of its humor is sight gag-paired with great special effects. The scene where Will Smith's J helps an alien give birth is one of the best scenes in the whole film, but could not have achieved its effect without Industrial Light and Magic's superior f/x work.

Will Smith (Independence Day) is the motor for the comedy in this picture. He plays the brash and cocky J, a New York City cop that is brought into the agency by an impressed K. J doesn't believe his eyes or ears at first. He has to get used to this new situation, and most of the film's funny moments come from J doing just that. Tommy Lee Jones plays K straight up. He uses that same no-nonsense style that won him an Oscar for The Fugitive, but here he plays it up for a more comic effect and it works. Linda Fiorentino (The Last Seduction) plays New York's Deputy Medical Examiner who is intrigued with the men in black. I am surprised because every time she comes in contact with them, they erase her memory with this memory altering thing-a-ma-bob. It's a small role for Fiorentino, but she does a solid job. Rip Torn (Hercules) plays the skeptical head of Men in Black. And Vincent D'Onofrio (Full Metal Jacket) plays Edgar, a farmer possessed by the diabolical, havoc wreaking alien. D'Onofrio gives a funny Frankenstein impression, and after a while he begins to look like one of George Romero's zombies from Night of the Living Dead. It's a wacky performance.

Screen Tests

How the filmmakers develop the world of the Men in Black is the most intriguing thing about the film. They live in this secretive but lonely world. They sacrifice a lot to keep the Earth safe. Without them, gooey creatures would run amok, giant insects would bug us and who knows how to deliver tentacled babies? So if you see men in black standing at a street corner, ignore them, and know that you're in good hands. Three stars (out of four).

Legal Notices

NOTICE
 NOTICE is hereby given that the Board of County Commissioners of Seminole County, Florida, intends to hold a public hearing to consider the enactment of an ordinance entitled:

AN ORDINANCE RELATING TO TRAVEL EXPENSES AND REIMBURSEMENT THEREFOR, PROVIDING FOR MEAL ALLOWANCES, PROVIDING FOR REIMBURSEMENT OF TRAVEL EXPENSES DIRECTLY REQUIRED FOR THE SOLICITATION OF ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT IN SEMINOLE COUNTY; PROVIDING FOR INCLUSION IN SEMINOLE COUNTY CODE, PROVIDING FOR REVERSIBILITY AND PROVIDING AN EFFECTIVE DATE.

at 1:30 p.m. or as soon thereafter as possible, at its regular meeting on the 22nd day of July, 1997, at the Seminole County Services Building, 1101 East First Street, BCC Chambers, Sanford, Florida. The proposed ordinance may be inspected by the public at the office of the Clerk of the Board of County Commissioners, Room 2204, Seminole County Services Building, interested parties may appear at the meeting and be heard with respect to the proposed ordinance. Persons are advised that, if they decide to appeal any decision made at this hearing, they will need a record of the proceedings, and, for such purpose, they may need to insure that a verbatim record of the proceedings is made, which record includes the testimony and evidence upon which the appeal is to be based.

For additional information regarding this notice contact Cindy Manoni, Office of Management and Budget, (407) 321-1130, extension 7176.

Persons with disabilities needing assistance to participate in any of these proceedings should contact the Employee Relations Department ADA Coordinator 48 hours in advance of the meeting at 321-1130 extension 7941.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Not the right captain ... or admiral

By Phillip Alder Lord Nelson wouldn't have made a good bridge player, at least not in his Battle of Copenhagen mode, when he said, "I have only one eye; I have a right to be blind sometimes - I really do not see the signal."

the lead of the two is honest, the suit must be spitting 4-3, and South doesn't want a heart switch and lead a diamond immediately.
