Chemist used gas mask during recent inspection of controversial barrels

City Officials Irked

Toxic Waste Removal Could Take 2 Years

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Removal of toxic chemicals stored in barrels on a 2-acre site in Sanford could take nearly two years according to a plan revealed Wednesday by the firm keeping the material.

Although the City Chemicals Co. plan was a positive step toward the ultimate removal of the chemicals, Sanford City Attorney Bill Colbert said he was upset to get the firm's proposal "so late in the game."

"I'm appalled at this," Colbert fumed. "It's typical of what we've had to put up with since those barrels (of chemicals) were discovered back in September."

Because the plan was revealed just prior to the court hearing in which it was to be discussed, city and state officials would make no comment on it. To allow time for the proposal to be studied, another hearing has been scheduled before Seminole Circuit Judge Kenneth Leffler on August 10 when the plan will be discussed in detail.

City Chemicals attorney Royce Pipkins explained that his client's chemical specialist had been out of town and was unavailable for consultation. "We just haven't had time to get this together," Pipkins said.

That didn't satisfy Doug McLaughlin, state Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) lawyer, who also started to complain about City Chemicals' tardiness, but was cut off by Leffler.

"We're getting into a bickering contest here," Leffler said. "Let's get off that and get something done. I too am disappointed that this plan is coming forward so late. But I understand the complexity of the problem. The last time we were here, there was no solution at all. At least this is something," Leffler said. "We need to get the DER's experts to study this plan and see if it's workable. If it's not, what can be done to make it workable?"

Colbert and McLaughlin said they were peeved because at a July 16 hearing on the dump site issue, Pipkins had indicated he would present his plan to them prior to Wednesday's proceeding for examination.

"Now we're going to have more of a delay while our people study this thing," McLaughlin said. "If we could have had that done already, we might have been able to come up with some viable solution to this mess today."

The "mess" to which McLaughlin referred is 3,000-plus barrels of chemical wastes — which DER chemists have testified include industrial solvents, lead, and several combinations identified as cancer-causing agents — stored at a two-acre site on Airport Boulevard and Jewett Lane. The city and DER have been trying for months to get the court to force City Chemicals to close the facility and remove the drums.

At the July 16 hearing, DER's chief chemist, Dr. Robert Patton, said such a process could take up to four years. He explained that each drum would have to be tested to determine its exact contents before a licensed disposal site would accept it.

According to the City Chemicals plan, the job could be done, though not in such detail, in 86 weeks. Essentially, the plan calls for the identification of the contents of each barrel by general chemical category, and repackaging of the materials into more secure containers.

As a safety precaution, local fire departments, hospitals, and emergency rescue units would be notified during repackaging and removal, the plan states.

Final disposal of the wastes would be done under strict DER supervision, the plan provides with the materials winding up either in a federally approved out-of-state dump site, or incinerated.

Pipkins cautioned that the ability of City Chemicals to carry out the plan is contingent upon the company's "ability to continue its operations at its site at 3920 Forsyth Road, Orlando. If for some reason operations should cease at that site, through governmental edict or otherwise, City Chemicals Inc. will not be able to perform the site clearing task."

"In other words, the site cleanup at Sanford will be funded from earnings made on the Forsyth Road site."

The cleanup could cost upwards of $300,000, he said.

Pipkins made a bid for state financial help, but McLaughlin said, "We didn't put the chemicals there and we're not going to pay for their removal."

In a related matter, Pipkins reported that eight barrels of the deadly poison cyanide, the presence of which was revealed during testimony two weeks ago, have been removed from the Sanford dump and taken to the Orlando facility.

Child Killed, One Injured In Hit-And-Run Accident

A 12-year-old Sanford boy was killed and a 9-year-old companion injured Wednesday night when they were struck by a hit-and-run motorist as they rode their bicycles near their homes.

Pronounced dead at the scene was David Crews of 3410 Palm Way. The second cyclist, Ryan I. Stone, also of Sanford, was listed in satisfactory condition at Seminole Memorial Hospital this morning with both a fractured right leg and forearm, and scalp lacerations.

According to the Florida Highway Patrol, the boys were riding their bikes north on S. Sanford Avenue near State Road 427 about 9:10 p.m. when they were hit by an unknown vehicle which also was northbound. The driver fled, a FHP spokesman said.

Crews and Stone both were thrown several feet from where they were struck. At the time of the collision, the boys were riding on the right edge of the road, the patrol spokesman said. "There was no indication they were out in the middle of the street."

Wednesday's fatality brings to 17 the number of traffic-related fatalities in Seminole County this year. — BRITT SMITH

Longwood Garage Owner Told To Remove Old Cars

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

The Longwood Code Enforcement Board has handed down its first official ruling by ordering a garage owner to get rid of several junked cars.

The enforcement board met Tuesday night and found John Yarnell of 303 Lake St. N.E., Longwood, in violation of an ordinance that prohibits keeping of wrecked or abandoned vehicles.

Yarnell, who operates Longwood Garage on County Road 427, was given until Aug. 17 to get rid of the old vehicles at his business.

Failure to comply will subject Yarnell to a fine of $30 per vehicle each day beginning on Aug. 18. The fine can not exceed $500 a day.

Although the code enforcement board has considered other matters since it was organized during January, Yarnell is the first person to be ruled in violation of city ordinances.

Yarnell first came before the code enforcement board on July 14, but when he indicated he wished to get an attorney, his case was continued until July 28.

Yarnell was not represented by an attorney Tuesday night, but he said he had consulted with one.

Yarnell told the board that a six-foot tall, wooden fence he has erected along the front of the property should solve the problem by hiding the junked vehicles.

The code enforcement board disagreed ruling he was still in violation. The Owner must keep garage lot clear of junk cars garage property is zoned I-1 Industrial, but wrecked and abandoned vehicles are permitted only in I-2 Industrial zones.

Yarnell also was criticized for placing for sale signs on some of the vehicles, because his occupational license for operating a garage for auto repair does not include the right to sell used cars. The garage is closed although the occupational license does not expire until Oct. 1.

Yarnell said he will comply with the ordinance and get rid of the vehicles, which he hopes to sell prior to the Aug. 17 deadline.

Longwood policeman Larry W. Grose told the board that Yarnell has been cited for violation of the junk-car ordinance on three occasions other than the most recent incident. Those citations were issued in 1970, 1974 and 1980, according to the police officer. He was cited again on May 4, 1981.

Appointed in January for a six-month trial period, the board will continue to function indefinitely as the result of a resolution passed by the city commission.

"It's run along pretty smoothly," Mayor John Hepp said Monday night. "I believe it's what we need."

President Unveils An 'Open Door' Policy On Immigration

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration today unveiled its long-awaited immigration policy, calling for legislation to provide an amnesty program for upwards of 3 million illegal aliens now in the United States and setting up fines for employers who knowingly hire illegal foreign workers.

President Reagan said the policy was designed to preserve the American tradition of an "open door" to foreigners but "to accept them in a controlled and orderly fashion."

"Immigration and refugee policy is an important part of our past and fundamental to our national interest," Reagan said in a statement. "With the help of the Congress and the American people, we will work towards a new and realistic immigration policy, a policy that will be fair to our own citizens while it opens the door of opportunity for those who seek a new life in America."

The administration proposals were disclosed by Attorney General William French Smith at a joint congressional hearing on immigration and refugees.

"We have lost control of our borders. We have pursued unrealistic policies. We have failed to enforce our laws effectively," Smith said. "No great nation — and especially a great democratic nation — can long countenance ineffective and unenforced laws."

He told the hearing the proposals include:

—That it be made unlawful to hire illegal aliens. Legislation would impose civil fines of up to $1,000 against employers of more than four employees who knowingly hiring illegal aliens. It also would allow the government to seek court orders against employers who follow a "pattern or practice" of hiring illegal aliens.

—A new experimental temporary worker program for up to 50,000 Mexican nationals annually. The program will be targeted to specific areas and categories of jobs. Workers would not be permitted to bring in spouses and children and would not have access to welfare or food stamp assistance, or be eligible for unemployment compensation.

—Legal status for qualifying illegal aliens currently in the United States prior to Jan. 1, 1980. Those illegal aliens would be allowed to apply for a new status of "renewable term temporary resident." The status would be renewable after every three years, and after 10 years of continuous residence, those residents would be eligible to apply for permanent resident status if they otherwise can not be excluded and could demonstrate use of the English language.

There are an estimated 3 million to 6 million illegal aliens in the United States and their numbers increase by 250,000 to 500,000 each year.

Inflation At The Still

HOLLYWOOD, Md. (UPI) — Illegal moonshine isn't the bargain it once was in Maryland.

Before state Alcohol, Tobacco and Tax agents and state police raided and destroyed a southern Maryland moonshine still — operated by a state employee — earlier this week, undercover officers bought a gallon of the illegal booze for $25.

"This stuff is getting tremendously expensive," said Marvin Bond, a spokesman for the comptroller's office.

Casselberry Names Assistant Police Chief

Sgt. Winthrop A. Gates has been appointed assistant chief of the Casselberry Police Department, according to an announcement today by retiring Police Chief George Karcher.

Gates succeeds Fred McGowan, who will move into the department's top post when Karcher steps down Friday.

Gates was approved for the promotion by Mayor Owen Sheppard after Karcher recommended him for the position as assistant chief. McGowan concurred in the selection of Gates. He will assume his new duties Saturday.

Gates joined the department on Oct. 1, 1973, after he retired as a Navy chief petty officer, ending a 20-year military career. He and his wife live in Longwood.

Tonight at 8 o'clock, retiring Chief Karcher will be honored at a farewell reception and dinner at Lord Chumley's Restaurant in Altamonte Springs.

Tomorrow he will be honored at an open house luncheon from 1 to 3 p.m. at Casselberry City Hall.—JOHN DIXON

Mideast Fighting Continues Despite Cease-Fire

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel vowed vengeance today against Palestinian guerrillas for riddling an Israeli commuter bus with gunfire but said the attack was not connected to the cease-fire in south Lebanon.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin's spokesman denied a report in the Israeli newspaper Ma'ariv that Israel had informed Washington Wednesday night's attack on the bus violated the truce in south Lebanon with the Palestine Liberation Organization.

"The United States was not informed of anything," spokesman Uri Porath said.

At least two gunmen opened fire on the No. 63 commuter bus near a cooperative Kibbutz settlement outside Jerusalem Wednesday night. A woman seven months pregnant, Dvora Arent, 23, was wounded in the back and stomach and miscarried, although she was expected to live. Two other people also were wounded.

"This is a very serious affair," Porath said. "The government will weigh the development and decide how to handle it."

Though denying any connection between the attack and the week-old Palestinian-Israeli cease-fire, Porath served notice the attack would be avenged.

"We have no cease-fire with PLO," Porath said. "We have an arrangement with the government of Lebanon."

"Israel will continue to deal with the PLO as it has in the past whenever and wherever it decides and according to need," Porath said.

The PLO has declared it would respect the cease-fire along the Lebanese border, but would strike inside Israel and the occupied Arab territories.

Begin Wednesday taunted Syria for losing a MiG-25 in a dogfight with Israeli fighter jets in the skies northeast of Beirut and said Israel will continue to fly reconnaissance missions over Lebanon.

"Today, the Syrians tried to shoot down our planes and they used MiG-25s, the best Soviet plane under the sky," Begin told a lawyers' convention, and noted sardonically, "It's easier said than done."

In Washington, the State Department called the incident disturbing and appealed for restraint.

It was the 15th Syrian jet shot down over Lebanon in two years and the second loss of a MiG-25, a high-altitude interceptor code-named Foxbat by NATO. Israeli fighters downed the first Syrian MiG-25 Feb. 13 with a Sparrow missile.

Syria endorsed a Palestinian plan to deploy Soviet-built SAM-6 missiles around Beirut to protect the city against Israeli air strikes, but then said it could not afford to purchase the weapons to protect the Palestinians.

Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam told Palestinian leaders some Arab countries were ready to contribute money to purchase the Soviet-made missile batteries, the pro-Syrian daily Al Sharq reported.

"Syria did not possess sufficient quantity of missiles for stationing in Beirut, but would welcome any weapons which may be sent to Lebanon via Syria for the purpose of defense of the Lebanese and the Palestinians," Khaddam said.

NATION IN BRIEF

Reagan Savors Victory On His Tax-Cut Package

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, savoring a stunning tax-cut victory as an encore to his equally impressive budget triumph, had bottles of champagne popped open and said it had been "a nice day."

Reagan, in another tribute to his power of legislative persuasion, scored a decisive win Wednesday when the House approved his tax plan, rejecting an alternative pushed by Democratic leaders.

Coupled with earlier approval of his budget cuts, Reagan now can implement two of the major ingredients of his formula for improving the economy and returning the nation to prosperity.

Reagan celebrated the victory in the Oval Office with Vice President George Bush, Treasury Secretary Donald Regan, top aides and the champagne.

"I believe these first six months of 1981 will mark the beginning of a new renaissance in America," he said.

Casey Survives Senate Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — CIA Director William Casey, the first member of the Reagan administration to be the target of a congressional investigation, apparently has survived unscathed.

The Senate Intelligence Committee Wednesday ended a day of questioning Casey under oath by unanimously concluding it found no basis for determining he is "unfit to serve."

Committee Chairman Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who last week said Casey should resign, told reporters the panel still will "chase down some loose ends" before completing its investigation, probably within a few weeks.

Goldwater refused to answer questions. Sen. Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., the panel's vice chairman, said there were no matters involving Casey "which would remotely suggest referral to the Justice Department."

WORLD IN BRIEF

It's Honeymoon Time For The Prince And Princess

ROMSEY, England (UPI) — Newlyweds Prince Charles and Diana, Princess of Wales, carried echoes of the tumult and multitudes of their splendor-filled marriage into the solitude and stillness of an idyllic honeymoon hideaway today.

There were indications Charles and Diana spent part of their first married evening watching television replays of their "wedding of the century." They left TV-schedule magazines behind in the train which brought them the 90 miles from London to Romsey.

Charles and Diana were wed Wednesday amid spectacle and pageantry that had nearly 1 million flag-waving people cheering themselves hoarse. Nearly 1 billion others watched or heard the ceremonies around the world.

Earthquake Death Toll High

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — Search parties recovered the bodies of more than 800 people from Iran's second devastating earthquake in seven weeks and officials said the death toll could climb to 5,000.

Tehran Radio said Wednesday 900 injured people were treated in field clinics manned by medical teams flown into the stricken region 500 miles southeast of Tehran.

Pars news agency today said the bodies of 836 people were dug out of the rubble of towns and villages flattened by the earthquake in mountainous Kerman province. The official news agency said 40 people were killed and 400 injured in the provincial capital.

Police Told To Keep Eye On Offender

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole Circuit Judge Kenneth Leffler, disturbed by his own legal inability to keep an unrehabilitated sex offender locked up, has instructed area law enforcement officers to keep an eye on the man.

In a letter to all police agencies in Seminole and Orange counties, Leffler urged that 26-year-old Jeffrey Kossick, of 1112 Ocelot Trail, Winter Springs, be kept "under close surveillance."

Leffler said he took the somewhat uncommon step of writing the letter because "I think the public should be made aware that this man is walking among them. They need to be protected."

Leffler sentenced Kossick to 15 years probation Monday, noting that had he given him the maximum 15 years imprisonment allowed by law, Kossick would have been eligible for unsupervised parole almost immediately because he has spent the past 22 months in the North Florida Evaluation and Treatment Center in Gainesville undergoing psychiatric therapy.

By putting him on probation, Leffler said Kossick would at least be under some state control.

Kossick was accused of breaking into a Winter Springs home on April 14, 1978 and attempting to undress a 15-year-old girl who escaped through a bedroom window. According to court records, Kossick later made a series of obscene telephone calls to the girl's mother.

In his letter, Leffler noted that Kossick, who was scheduled to be released from the county jail today, has been diagnosed as a "mentally disoriented sex offender . . . and treated without apparent benefit. According to the hospital report, his propensity for recommitting sex offenses is extremely high and he is considered a manifest danger to others."

TEENAGER INDICTED FOR MURDER TRY

A 15-year-old Orlando boy will be tried as an adult in Seminole Circuit Court for the attempted murder of an Altamonte Springs woman last month.

Charles Horneel Thomas, of 10109 Barbuda Way, was indicted by the Seminole County Grand Jury Tuesday and was arrested at his home Wednesday. He was being held in the county jail this morning without bond on charges of burglary and attempted first degree murder.

If convicted, the Buffalo, N.Y. native could receive up to life imprisonment.

Thomas is accused of breaking into the home of Marie Miller, 10102 Durango Way, on June 27 and putting a pillow over her face in an attempt to suffocate her.

No trial date has been set in the case.

NURSING HOME FIRE PROBES

Sanford fire investigators are looking into a fire which broke out at the Sanford Nursing & Convalescent Center, 950 Mellonville Ave., around 4:20 p.m. Wednesday.

Investigators said the fire started in a bed in a room occupied by two 65-year-old women who were away at the time of the blaze. The flames were confined to the one room.

Land Wanted For New Crime Lab

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The Florida Department of Law Enforcement is actively seeking a site on which to locate its new Central Florida Regional Crime Laboratory.

The new crime laboratory would replace a facility located at the Sanford Airport, which has been used since the early 1970s.

During the past week, 65 letters were sent to Central Florida governing bodies and law enforcement units asking for help in finding a site. The present laboratory has outgrown its facilities.

The Florida Legislature in its 1981 session allocated $240,000 for land acquisition and architectural planning for a 31,000 square foot facility.

Bill Willis, analyst-supervisor at the Sanford facility, said today a committee composed of himself, Claude L. Trubey, another analyst-supervisor at the lab, a representative of state General Services and a representative for Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) Chief James W. York will begin the site selection process after Aug. 31.

He said the site should be a minimum of 2.5 acres, be easily accessible and be centrally located somewhere between DeLand and Kissimmee. The counties which are preferred for the new laboratory site are: Seminole, Orange, Lake, Volusia, Osceola and Brevard, Willis said.

The Central Florida Crime Lab was established in the early 1970s through the efforts of Seminole Sheriff John Pulk with cooperation from other area law enforcement agencies. It was a federally-funded, multi-county laboratory at first and became part of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE) in July, 1975.

There are currently 38 persons employed at the laboratory, Willis said. Two positions are vacant and within the next few months, the laboratory will be employing six additional workers in an effort to speed up the lab work, Willis said.

Labeling the present lab overcrowded, Willis said it has "wall-to-wall equipment and people now." The staff consists of four lab technicians, who work with evidence and help the analysts, for four clerical persons and four supervisors. The remainder of the personnel are analysts.

Last year, 5,368 criminal cases were processed at the crime lab. Although there are four other FDLE crime labs in the state — at Tampa, Jacksonville, Tallahassee and Pensacola — the Sanford lab does a higher volume of work than any of the others, Willis said.

Willis said the site should be at least 2.5 acres to give sufficient space for a new single-level building, and adequate parking area, an outside examining area and trees and shrubs to shield the laboratory from public view.

"We would rather the property were donated to us," Willis said, since that would leave additional money for architectural design. He added, however, that the FDLE is prepared to either buy or lease a site.

Willis said it is hoped that the acquisition of a site and the architect's plans can be completed in time to seek funding from the Legislature in 1982 for construction.

BURGLAR, THIEF, ESCAPIST SENTENCED

An 18-year-old Orlando man was sentenced in Seminole Circuit Court Wednesday to five years in prison and 20 years probation after pleading guilty to charges of grand theft, burglary and attempted escape.

Tracy Alan Hansen was sentenced on the Jan. 2 theft of guns, jewelry, and cash from Steve and Jane Gregory. He also admitted to breaking into a Coventry Drive home south of Casselberry two weeks later, and attempting to escape from the Seminole County Jail with three other prisoners on Feb. 19.

In other court action, a 35-year-old Orlando man was sentenced to two years in prison after pleading guilty to a charge of obtaining property with a worthless check.

In addition to the jail term, John T. Bulled was also ordered to pay $500 to his public defender and the $62 cost of prosecuting the case. Bulled was accused of cashing a $109.18 check at the Sun Bank of Pine Hills without having sufficient funds in his account to cover the check.

David Marshall Gibson, 23, of Winter Park, faces up to 10 years imprisonment after being convicted of burglary and grand theft in connection with the April 28 theft of a stereo from the home of Pam Fleishman, 532 Eldorado Way, Casselberry.

Also, Joseph Thomas Hill, 52, of 630 Grant St., Longwood, pleaded guilty to grand theft auto, and was placed on five years probation. Hill was accused of breaking into Bobby Clark's Used Cars, 423 Lake St., Longwood, on Nov. 26 and stealing two cars. The vehicles were recovered in Alabama four days later.

Polk County Jail Escapees Continue To Elude Officers

BARTOW, Fla. (UPI) — An accused triple murderer and a convicted multiple offender continued to elude law enforcement officers today as investigators sought to determine how they obtained a saw to cut their way to freedom Tuesday night.

Paul Beasley Johnson, 31, of Eagle Lake, and Michael Ernest Haager, 27, of Tampa, were discovered missing from the Polk County jail during a bed check Tuesday night.

Johnson was scheduled to go on trial Sept. 8 for the January murders of Lake Wales cab driver William B. Evans, 54, Darrell Hay Beasley, 21, of Lakeland, and Polk County deputy Theron Burnham, 27, of Winter Haven.

Haager was scheduled to go on trial Aug. 31 on bank robbery charges stemming from a theft in Lakeland last October.

Lt. J.J. Miller warned Wednesday that Johnson should be considered "extremely dangerous."

"He's in on triple murder now, so what does he have to lose?" Miller said.

Boy, 6, Still Missing

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UPI) — The search for Adam Walsh, the 6-year-old son of a Bahamas hotel executive who vanished from a shopping mall, entered its fourth day today.

Police reported little progress in tracking down the youngster.

"We've had no ransom calls or anything of that nature. We really don't know what happened to him," police spokesman Fred Barbetta said today.

Adam was last seen Monday while playing with toys in a department store at Hollywood Mall while his mother shopped for lamps just four aisles away.

Police and volunteers combed the area around the Hollywood shopping mall Wednesday and searched canals and waterways for the blond, hazel-eyed boy his parents called "shy and sheltered."

Adam's father, John Walsh, vice president of a Nassau hotel corporation, has offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to Adam's safe return.

"He's got to be so scared. He's such a great little boy and so sheltered by us," Walsh said. "You (news) people are one of our last hopes. We need him back."

Shuttle Passes Tests

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Problems with the space shuttle's "bionic arm" cargo crane have been corrected and the Columbia is on schedule to lift off on its second mission next fall, space agency officials said Wednesday.

Thirty hours of tests on the shuttle were completed Wednesday. The rehearsal ran 10 hours longer than expected because of problems with the crane, a "bionic arm" designed to handle cargo in space.

Social Security Cuts Fight Planned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Another Social Security fight is building in the House, where some Democrats are plotting a potential attack on the administration's plan to end the minimum benefit received by 3 million Americans.

Strategy was mapped out Wednesday, even as House and Senate conferees signed a budget compromise which would cut more than $35 billion from fiscal 1982 spending, including the minimum monthly Social Security payment.

Democrats on the House Rules Committee discussed ways to reverse the controversial provision, which terminates the $122 payment next March, staff sources said.

The panel, the final stop for the revised budget before it reaches the House floor, could either hold up the entire measure or allow an amendment to kill the Social Security cutback.

Republican and Democratic leaders of both houses have said they would try to soften the impact of the cut after Congress returns from its August recess.

But Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., a member of the Rules Committee, said, "Many of us who feel so strongly about it are going to do everything we can to get a vote before we leave here."

Discussions of ways of salvaging the Social Security minimum were being spearheaded by committee Chairman Richard Bolling, D-Mo., sources said.

If it is not sidetracked in a rules battle, the budget bill is expected to receive final approval by both houses Friday or Saturday.

Senate Budget Committee Chairman Pete Domenici, R-N.M., called it the "single most heroic effort at controlling federal spending in the nation's history."

"This is clearly the most monumental and historic turnaround in fiscal policy in this country," said House Budget Committee Chairman James Jones, D-Okl., at a ceremony where the final agreement was signed.

They said the reduction, still subject to official tallying, would trim Social Security outlays by between $35 billion and $36 billion.

The bill is a compromise between House and Senate versions passed last month and was worked out by subcommittees of an unprecedented 280-member conference committee.

It contains reductions in virtually every area of domestic spending and legislative changes that will reshape hundreds of federal programs.

It will bring the drastic rollback President Reagan wanted in programs like food stamps, which were cut by $1.6 billion; child nutrition, cut $1.5 billion; public service jobs, which were eliminated; and health programs, cut 25 percent.

But Reagan did not get requested termination of programs such as the Economic Development Administration or the Appalachian Regional Commission, which survived at much lower spending levels. The National Consumer Cooperative Bank also survived, despite the administration's plan to kill it.

Education programs, guarded closely by veteran Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., also were not changed as drastically as Reagan wanted. The large Title I program that serves disadvantaged elementary and secondary school students, received $3.48 billion — more than this year's cut-back level of $3.1 billion.

Inmate Indicted In Murder; Fort Confession Not Believed

LAKE BUTLER, Fla. (UPI) — Union Correctional Institution inmate Thomas Craig was indicted Wednesday for first-degree murder in the bludgeoning death of Vertis Graham and a state attorney said the grand jury did not believe the "confession" of former UCI inmate Johnny Fort.

Craig, serving 15 years for armed robbery, was in a bed next to Graham on the night of Dec. 7, 1979, when the victim's skull was crushed. State Attorney Eugene Whitworth declined to answer questions about possible motives.

Fort, a burly, 300-pound convicted murderer, told two state representatives, Arnett Girardeau and Andy Johnson, both democrats from Jacksonville, in June 1980 that he clubbed Graham to death on orders of a lieutenant. He said he was "an enforcer" for prison officials and got his pick of homosexual partners in exchange.

Then in January, Fort repeated the same story on nationwide television when he was interviewed by Dan Rather on CBS' 60 Minutes.

But Whitworth, of Gainesville, legal adviser to the Union County grand jury, said Fort was trying to get himself transferred out of the state penal system to a federal institution, and succeeded when Girardeau went to federal authorities with Fort's story instead of to him.

While Fort said he roughed up trouble-making prisoners for prison officials, Whitworth said, "Johnny Fort is an enforcer for himself and other inmates — not correctional officers. He is a leader because he is the biggest. He is a nice guy to visit, but I wouldn't want to live with him."

He said Fort ran a protection racket and loan-shark operation at UCI, and added, "We have information to believe his life is in danger from other inmates."

Regarding Girardeau's refusal to testify before the grand jury Monday — he spent 22 hours in jail for contempt, Whitworth said.

Now that we're part of Southeast Bank, some things are going to change.

And there'll be a lot of things that won't be changing at all.

The State Bank of Forest City has become part of Southeast National Bank of Orlando, and a member of Florida's largest banking group, Southeast Banking Corporation.

In your day-to-day banking, you probably won't see a great deal of difference.

You're still going to be dealing with the same thoughtful, friendly people you always have. And banking decisions will still be made locally. In the same management you've been doing business with. Only now, you're going to be able to count on them more than ever. And you'll have eight convenient locations where you can do all your banking in Seminole and Orange Counties.

With over $6 billion in assets behind us, we will be able to offer you services and capabilities far beyond the scope of any other bank in Florida.

We think you're going to like the changes you're going to see at your new Southeast Bank.

Even when you don't see any changes at all.

The Tragedy Of Cambodia

A world that fails to respond to acts of international aggression only invites more of the same. Thus, the recent United Nations conference on Cambodia was not without significance.

The conference, host to delegates from 91 nations, unanimously endorsed a resolution calling on Hanoi to withdraw its 200,000 troops from Cambodia. The resolution further proposed that Cambodians be permitted to determine their own political future via internationally supervised free elections.

The catch, of course, is that U.N. resolutions won't pry the Vietnamese out of Cambodia. As though to underscore the point, Vietnam and its chief military backer, the Soviet Union, boycotted the conference.

And Vietnam's U.N. ambassador lived up to the Kremlin's unsurpassed standards of cynicism by labeling the conference interference in the internal affairs of the (Cambodian) people.

That, remember, comes from the representative of a nation that invaded Cambodia, denied starving Cambodians food aid from the West, and installed a puppet regime wholly controlled from Hanoi.

The fact that the Vietnamese also toppled the barbarous Pol Pot government cannot begin to justify the Vietnamese army's continued occupation of Cambodia 30 months later.

What complicates the seemingly endless Cambodian tragedy for the United States and its non-Communist allies in Southeast Asia is that roughly three-quarters of the guerrillas still fighting the Vietnamese are under the command of the genocidal Pol Pot.

So, even assuming that the Vietnamese could be forced out of Cambodia, it would still be necessary to prevent Pol Pot's Khmer Rouges from once again seizing power.

The United Nations plan represents the ideal solution in that it would remove the Vietnamese and permit a free election in which Cambodians would unquestionably reject Pol Pot as well. A U.N. peacekeeping force could, if necessary, provide interim security while the new government established its rightful authority.

But if Hanoi continues to veto the United Nations peace formula, as appears likely, the United States, Japan and their non-Communist allies in Southeast Asia should certainly see that the guerrillas who oppose both Pol Pot and the Vietnamese receive all the weapons they need.

Check's In The Mail

Tentative agreement on a contract for the vast majority of the nation's postal workers comes as a great relief.

The $4.8 billion cost is a whopping bill for the taxpayer, but the U.S. Postal Service says it can handle it — with a 20-cent stamp.

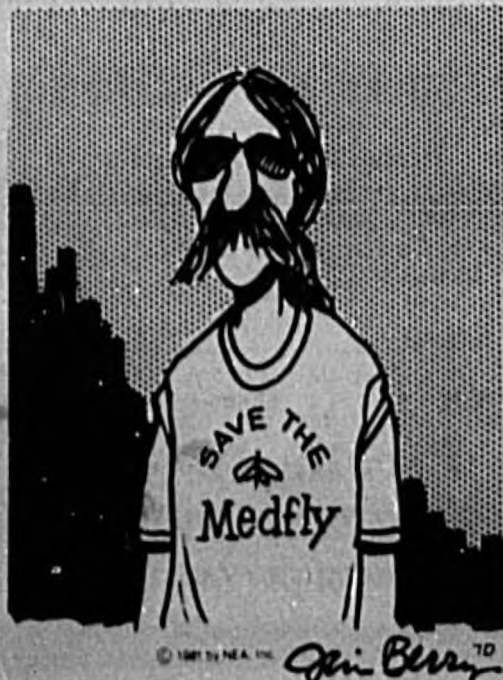

The settlement prevented a walkout by 600,000 postal employees — an illegal action that would have been disastrous.

One has only to look to Canada, where mail deliveries were halted for weeks, to see what havoc can be created. Business there is up against the wall. The old gag, "The check's in the mail," ceases to be humorous when payrolls can't be met and retirement checks don't arrive.

Without assessing the merit of wage and benefit demands by postal workers, the bad news is that postage is bound to increase.

The good news is a tentative agreement has been reached and there is no postal strike in the offing for this nation.

BERRY'S WORLD

By BRITT SMITH

I've been wondering what people talked about before inflation climbed right through the ceiling.

What kept people from buying houses when the interest rate was hovering around 6 percent? Everywhere you go these days, somebody wants to talk about inflation, interest rates, or gasoline prices.

For a long time, I didn't know what they were talking about. I thought inflation was what folks did to automobile tires.

But nowadays, most folks think inflation is meaner than a heart attack.

Not everybody suffers from a heart attack. But inflation strikes at EVERYONE.

But there is also some good in inflation.

At least it's good for those fortunate souls who had money to invest back when the economy wasn't lower than a snake's belly in a wagon rut. It's just a shame I'm not one of them.

That's not so bad, really. My neighbors — George and Laurie Carpenter and their two kids, Chris and David — are not only NOT such people.

they don't even know any. Heck, they don't even know anyone who knows any.

But down on Park Avenue in Sanford, the Carpenters are doing everything possible to Whip Inflation Now (remember that?).

They haven't given up the necessities like eating a couple of meals a day, using electric lights at night, or letting the air conditioner run every once in awhile.

But they are not going to fly to South America this year on vacation.

They are not going to Colorado for a little snow skiing.

They do not ride by new car dealerships. In fact, they don't ride much at all.

The Carpenter family has given up a few luxuries. Things like shoes for the kids, breakfast, and other ridiculously extravagant items have been deleted from their lifestyle.

Even so, I'm happy to report, the Carpenter family is doing just fine.

Five years ago, George told me, he sat down and made a list of his assets and liabilities. He discovered that he had to die and collect his life insurance just to pay the people he owed.

Now, five years later, in the midst of the worst inflation in years, he repeated the chore.

George says he is worth 50 much more. Now he can lose both legs, one arm, and an eye and he won't owe anybody a dime.

Speaking of inflation (how's that for a transition?), local cities are finding out just how bad things really are as they finish work on their 1981-82 budgets. It can be a very upsetting process.

During a budget work session in Winter Springs a couple of weeks ago, councilwoman Maureen Boyd became a little flustered at it all and spilled a cup of steaming coffee all over her notes and herself.

Councilman Martin Trencher rushed to her aid and, attempting to bring a little levity to the situation, grinned at the press and quipped, "As you can tell, it's a hot meeting."

The Price Of Cost Cutting

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Ronald Reagan and his administration swept into town with what they believed was a clear mandate to slash and save and deregulate and reform.

But now they are coming up against a hard fact of bureaucratic life: Savings and reforms can be very expensive. In fact, the taxpayers might not be able to afford those that Reagan and his advisers are contemplating.

Here are a few of the many cases in which the costs of savings or reforms outweigh the benefits:

The administration has announced a cap on the salaries of top federal bureaucrats — that is, those who earn $50,112 a year. These employees will receive no raises in the near future if the administration has its way.

The General Accounting Office says that denying raises to senior government executives will save the taxpayers some money in the short term. But in the end it will cost them a fortune.

The GAO reasons that most of the affected workers would not have reached the top pay level without having been on the federal payroll for some time. Therefore, most of them are eligible for retirement benefits.

Moreover, the abilities and experience of these employees make them prime recruits for private industry, which is willing to pay them far more than they are earning now. The GAO forecasts that many of these workers will retire and take well-paying jobs in the private sector unless they receive substantial raises.

The pension of the average senior bureaucrat with 30 years of service would total $92,828 over the next three years. He would start to receive that pension upon his retirement from the federal work force even if he obtained a new job in the private sector.

Replacing the retiree with an employee earning $50,112 annually would cost the taxpayers an additional $150,336 over the next three years. So, the combined cost of the retiree's pension and his replacement's salary would be $243,164 over three years.

The GAO estimates that the government would actually save $48,887 per position over three years by granting top executives a 16.8 percent raise. That is the percentage that the agency estimates would be necessary to make up for previous wage caps and to bring salaries back into line with those paid in the private sector.

Then there is the administration's promise to reduce the federal work force. If the administration is to cut the bureaucracy to the size it has promised while permitting rapid growth in the Defense Department, tens of thousands of employees will have to be let go — or, as the bureaucrats say, "RIFed," for reduction in force.

Figures from the Office of Personnel Management show that RIFing is not cheap. A RIFed worker is eligible for severance pay, allowances, lump-sum payments for unused vacation time and so on.

The worker gets one week of pay for each of his first 10 years on the job, two weeks of pay for each of his next 10 years and three weeks of pay for each year thereafter. The firings planned for this summer alone could cost the taxpayers $300 million.

Gold-Testing Methods Less Than Pure

WASHINGTON—With a minimum of publicity, Treasury agents have raided coin dealers in several U.S. cities and have seized fake gold Kruggerand coins. In Houston, for example, the costly counterfeiters were so well minted that they even fooled jewelers.

Most of the bogus coins were forged from lead and painted with gold. The forgers sought to capitalize on the public's covetous interest in almost anything that glitters.

This raises a question that goes beyond petty scams: Could big-time criminals with the right connections, tamper with the gold ingots in international commerce?

In an earlier report, I revealed that ingots, certified as 99.9 percent pure had been found by a variety of assayers to contain traces of silver, nitrate, copper, zinc, iron and other elements. The impurities would make a difference in value of thousands of dollars in a 1,000-ounce gold bar.

The allegedly diluted ingots came from Engelhard Industries, one of the giants in the bullion business, whose spokesman said he

DON GRAFF

Making It Clear In El Salvador

...only a genuinely pluralistic approach can enable a profoundly divided society to live with itself without violent convulsions, gradually overcoming its differences.

Wise words, especially for our times. They can be applied with equally urgent appropriateness to many societies around a troubled world — Britain with its riot-torn cities, Poland, Spain, Northern Ireland, Iran, the entire Mideast for that matter.

As it happens, they have been applied by Thomas O. Enders, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, specifically to El Salvador in a "clarification" of U.S. policy toward that Central American country's civil war.

What makes them special is that the State Department — rather, the department in its post-January function as an agency of the Reagan administration — is at long last getting around to acknowledging applicability to El Salvador. It doesn't require much of a memory to recall a much different reading of that society's convulsions.

Back in February, Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. was defining them not as the product of a divided society but of "a well-orchestrated international Communist campaign." And to back him up, the department was issuing an official white paper that has subsequently been shown to be — to put it as gently as possible — faulty in documentation and interpretation.

By March, the White House was deciding to overcome differences not gradually but militarily, authorizing an increase in U.S. arms aid and the assignment of American advisers to the Salvadoran armed forces.

Come July and state suddenly discovers the wisdom of pluralism. What happened to bring about the change? Pardon, clarification.

Possibly in part the administration's difficulty in selling its hard line on El Salvador, with implications of ever-deeper American involvement and echoes of Vietnam, to the U.S. press and public. Possibly its failure to get any other government of consequence, in Latin America or Western Europe, to go along.

And possibly a realism born of experience. Increased American support of the Salvadoran military has not produced progress toward overcoming differences but has deepened them. The land-owning and business elite, declared by junta President Jose Napoleon Duarte to be a greater threat than leftist guerrillas to his government, has been encouraged to greater resistance to economic and social reforms.

And the killing goes on — and will until the terrorist campaign being waged by Salvadoran security forces against the political opposition and peasant population is halted. Only American policy and pressure can do that.

Estimates of the lives claimed by the convulsions of the last two years range up to 20,000. Salvadorans have died singly, in groups and sometimes in wholesale lots, the victims of abduction, torture and summary execution.

SCIENCE WORLD

Survival Of The Fittest

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Health Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Amniocentesis took place at only a few medical centers in 1969. Now the process by which the fetus is examined in the womb is commonplace.

That point was made by doctors at Mount Sinai Medical Center a while back when they told about a controversial procedure: sacrificing a deformed fetus early in the second trimester to assure the birth of its normal twin.

Drs. Thomas Kerenyi and Kurt Hirschhorn said the procedure they used in the case now can be performed at just a few medical centers — "the way it was with amniocentesis in 1969."

But the technology and the trained hands needed to carry out "selective birth in twin pregnancy" — when one fetus is deformed — probably will be available at many medical centers within 10 years, they said in a report to science writers.

With advances in amniocentesis the doctors said the detection of fetus twins, one with an abnormality, probably will be more frequent. So the option of saving the perfect one and destroying the imperfect one will be outlined to more parents-to-be during genetic counseling.

That will open more debate on the bioethics front, the Mount Sinai doctors allow. But they emphasize that in genetic counseling — which is what happened before permission was given for the selective destruction of a deformed fetus so a normal one could be born — the mother is given the facts.

And then she and/or the family makes the decision.

Genetic counseling was described by Hirschhorn as a "means of communication."

During the prenatal counseling he said the mother is told:

—The diagnosis of a disease that places the fetus at risk for abnormalities.

—The course of that disease.

—The mode of inheritance.

—Various options, including the risks and benefits of each option.

The woman and doctors meet several times rather than just once to be sure she's got all the facts, Hirschhorn said.

He said counseling is "nondirective" — doesn't lean one way or the other.

"Given the information, the family makes the choice," he said. "The role of the genetic counselor after that is to support the family's decision and see that it is carried out."

The Mount Sinai doctors talked about the case in conjunction with publication of their report in the New England Journal of Medicine.

They used ultrasound, sonograms, and other sophisticated technology before accomplishing their mission — puncturing the heart of the deformed fetus with a hollow needle and drawing out about half its blood. Soon no heartbeats could be picked up from that fetus.

But the beats from the tiny heart of its normal twin continued strong. Four months later, one normal baby boy was born. What remained of the destroyed fetus — flat, papery dead tissue — was expelled at the same time.

Dr. Arthur Aufses, senior vice president for medical affairs at Mount Sinai talked about the medical center's decision to carry out the procedure that destroyed the deformed fetus four months before birth.

"The view was that this procedure would be done to save a life — the life of the normal fetus." The mother, the doctors reported, was 40, childless and wanted to abort the twin pregnancy when she learned one would have Down's Syndrome — be mentally retarded.

The doctors said the woman selected the Mount Sinai doctors from a list given her by doctors at another medical center after amniocentesis there showed one fetus was not normal.

in specified locations to test the chemistry of sample ingots. Spokesmen for the society acknowledge that the standards aren't designed to "prevent fraud" but merely to "facilitate commerce." But as ASTM insider has told society officials he could produce a gold bar loaded with impurities which will pass the standard.

The hole-drilling, say critics, is an antiquated and inadequate method of preventing gold tampering. Some experts contend it is no more effective than the crude assaying method that the Greek scientist Archimedes discovered 2,000 years ago.

He became so excited watching water overflow at a public bathhouse, according to legend, that he ran home without his clothes, shouting "I have found it!" What he had found was that some materials, being more dense than others, displace more water. He applied the lesson of the bathhouse to prove that his king's crown wasn't pure gold but was flawed with alloyed silver.

Far more than a king's crown is at stake in today's burgeoning gold market. Yet incredibly, no one seems to be concerned about the ineffective testing standards. Officials of the Commodity Exchange, the gold trading marketplace, appear indifferent to the possibility that the bullion they are offering may be full of impurities.

And federal bureaucrats, who will raise a ruckus over the size of the paper used for letter writing, are not disturbed over the industry's testing methods. Wrote an official of the U.S. Mint: "We're not in the business of certifying or recognizing assayers or assaying techniques."

In fact, the Mint referred inquiries right back to the industry-dominated ASTM, which referred my reporters to an official of a major gold refinery. Other inquiries were sent in similar concentric circles, without gathering any meaningful responses.

The Catch-22 is that the standards are accepted simply because they exist, and they exist because they are accepted. None of the insiders want to risk exclusion from the charmed circle by questioning the ways of the elite.

America Bay Is Eastern Gateway To Soviet Union

By KIRSTEN O. LUNDBERG
AMERICA BAY, U.S.S.R. (UPI) — On the Soviet Union's borders west of Moscow and Leningrad, foreigners can cross into the Soviet Union at many points along the border. In the Far East there is only one route, and America Bay is it.

Here on the coast lies the Pacific port of Nakhodka, nine days by train from Moscow, two days sail from Japan. Ferries from Japan bring foreigners through the eastern gateway of the Soviet Union.

Both the town and the bay were christened on the day in 1859 when the Russian corvette America, built in Philadelphia, was caught in a storm and chanced upon an uncharted harbor. The bay was named after the ship. The harbor was called Nakhodka, or "discovery."

Just 125 miles away, the port city of Vladivostok harbors the Soviet Pacific fleet. But Vladivostok has been closed to Westerners since World War II, except for the celebrated 1974 visit of former President Gerald Ford for a summit with President Leonid Brezhnev.

Even Nakhodka, a town of 160,000, is not well known to non-Soviets. It is usually only a transit point for those catching the boat train, a 14-hour express that runs along the Soviet-China border to Khabarovsk, where travelers can catch the Trans-Siberian railway or make plane connections.

But if foreigners' stays are fleeting, their influence is not. Both the business and consumer economies reflect the Western contacts, especially with Japan. Young women in Western clothes brought in by traders and sailors stroll the main street, as chic as their counterparts in Moscow. In a fish market, products are chilled in made-in-Japan Sanyo freezers.

At a local restaurant, a young man adding up the bill pulled out a Japanese calculator. One private apartment boasted a Western music center as well as a reel-to-reel tape deck.

In the harbor, heart of the city, Hitachi, Mitsubishi, Mitsui, Sanyo and other Japanese trademarks are visible on most of the loading equipment.

Such open use of Western products is unusual in the Soviet Union, where an emphasis is put on industrial self-sufficiency and Western consumer goods are coveted and scarce.

But Nakhodka, designated a city for only 31 years, is also very Soviet. It is plagued by labor shortages common to the Far East and Siberia. Specific goods also are occasionally scarce — recent shortages included cheese, which was not in the shops for five weeks. Fresh fish is virtually unavailable. By the time it reaches the stores, it has been frozen or canned.

The ragged village, which Nakhodka was until 1950, is still visible under the urban concrete. One of the city's major problems, Mayor Alexei A. Tkachev said, is that only one road, 20 miles long, runs through the town.

"This creates real traffic problems, you understand," he said.

Population turnover is high with an influx last year of 16,000, while 12,500 left for a variety of reasons ranging from an aversion to typhoons to job dissatisfaction, Tkachev said.

But he, and the rest of the city, seem to take the problems in stride.

"After all, we are a very young city — the average age of our citizens is only 29," he said.

There are incentives, as in many Soviet cities with labor problems, to attract workers. They range from relatively attractive housing possibilities to a wage bonus of up to 30 percent for those working the docks and the boats.

The setting of Nakhodka is striking, perched astride green hills rolling into the waters of the bay, with beaches hidden between the cliffs along the coast.

There is excitement, too. Stories prevail of tigers that stalk the hills throughout the Maritime Territory, claiming occasional victims. The latest celebrated incident occurred last year, when a hungry beast carried off a tractor driver in a village some 60 miles from Nakhodka.

Nor do the city planners lack humor. Outside town, perched atop a hill, sits the Good Ship Hope (Nadezhda) restaurant. With its ladder to the deck and restaurant, art deco stained-glass lampshades, sloping floor and enthusiastic orchestra, it could be an "in" place for beautiful people anywhere.

"Youth is always looking for romance," the mayor noted. "What's better than a town by the sea that we are building with our own hands?"

The Black Seeds Dance and Drama Group of Rochester, N.Y., under the direction of James Perkins, will appear at the Sanford Civic Center Friday at 8 p.m. This group consists of youth who are interested in drama. The repertory performance is being sponsored by the Youth Department of Trinity United Methodist Church, Sanford as a community service. A freewill donation will be accepted.

Casselberry Plans Action Against Double Taxation

The Casselberry City Council Monday night authorized City Attorney Kenneth McIntosh to conduct a legal study of double taxation.

McIntosh had recommended that he be allowed to interview legal experts on the matter, and council authorized him to do so.

McIntosh told the council that the interviews could lead to the hiring of one of the experts as an "outside consultant" on areas which the city might cite in a lawsuit against Seminole County.

"I think we should pursue it," said Councilman Frank Schulte who, along with other council members has expressed concern that county services are denied to city residents although they pay county taxes to support them.

He has cited as examples the services provided by the county building department, county zoning office and county engineering office.

County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff has maintained, however, that residents are in fact receiving those services.

"Anyone is welcome to come down to the county offices, ask questions, and find out for themselves about the services," Kirchhoff said.

Nevertheless, the Sanford City Commission, on recommendation from City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles, already has gone on record as willing to join any of the other cities in the county in protesting "double taxation" in any way necessary, including through a lawsuit.

In other action Monday night, councilmen unanimously voted to authorize Mayor Owen Sheppard to vote against a 20 percent pay increase requested by Pat West, executive director of the South Seminole and North Orange County Wastewater Transmission Authority, for the 1981-82 budget year.

Sheppard, the city's representative to the Authority, was told to restrict West's pay increase to an 8 percent cost of living adjustment.

West is asking for an increase in his salary from $25,300 to $30,500. Authority members have the final word on the budget proposal.

Acting on another agenda item, councilmen voted against authorizing the city attorney to attend meetings and hearings of the Seminole County Commission when discussions of raising charges for garbage disposal are to be discussed. Instead, they authorized Mayor Sheppard to send a letter to the county protesting the proposed increase.

"I think it's to our advantage that the city let its objections be known," said Councilman Schulte.

The county commission is considering raising its refuse disposal fee from $6.70 to $9 per ton. Casselberry does not operate its own garbage collection service. That service is provided to citizens under a franchise agreement with a private firm. However, councilmen have expressed fears that garbage collection fees to city residents will be raised if the county refuse disposal fee is increased.

The council also adopted a resolution declaring Friday "Chief George C. Karcher Day." Karcher, who retires as police chief this month, will be honored at an open house luncheon from 1 to 3 p.m. Friday at city hall.

Karcher became police chief in June 1971.

Schools Reopen On Aug. 31

Seminole County public schools will resume classes officially on Monday, Aug. 31 for the 1981-82 school year.

The spring break next year has been scheduled for April 5 through April 9, according to the school administrative office.

Thanksgiving school closing will be Nov. 26-27, and Christmas break, or winter vacation, will be Dec. 21 through Jan. 1, with classes resuming on Monday, Jan. 4.

No other teacher days off or teacher work days have been firming up yet, since those are negotiable items and have not yet been agreed upon, according to a spokesman for the administration.

Agents Liable In Illegal Searches

ATLANTA (UPI) — In a possibly precedent-setting decision, a federal judge has ruled a drug agent is liable for money damages because he carried out an illegal search of a man's luggage at Atlanta's Hartsfield International Airport.

The federal Drug Enforcement Administration is appealing the decision, which the DEA said is the first civil damage case to have gone against it.

If upheld on appeal, the decision could make searches by airline employees without warrants illegal. It is already against the law for the DEA to search luggage without a warrant but airline personnel can do so if they believe there is some danger to passengers or of the airplane.

U.S. District Judge Richard C. Freeman ruled that DEA agent Gerald Chapman violated the constitutional rights of Alphonso Sylvester Robinson by having an airline agent open one of Robinson's suitcases without his consent, without a search warrant and without a reason to suspect Robinson was carrying marijuana.

Agents found 22 pounds of marijuana in the suitcase which Robinson said he did not own but was carrying for a friend.

Robinson sued the DEA for $1.3 million in actual and punitive damages but a trial will be necessary to determine the exact amount of damages if Freeman's ruling is upheld.

The case arose when Robinson was traveling from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to Los Angeles with a stopover in Atlanta. A deputy in Fort Lauderdale asked to search his luggage and Robinson agreed, except for the blue suitcase which he said he was carrying for a friend.

The deputy found nothing suspicious but alerted Chapman in Atlanta who asked Robinson on his arrival about searching the bags. Robinson again refused permission to look through the blue bag.

Chapman said a loaded gun was found in Robinson's suitcase, and after that, he had a Delta employee open the blue suitcase, disclosing 22 pounds of marijuana. Chapman then arrested Robinson.

Robinson's civil suit was filed while criminal charges of marijuana possession were still pending against him. Those counts were dismissed, however, when another federal judge held the search was illegal.

Raymond Vinsik, DEA agent in charge of the Atlanta office, said if the ruling is permitted to stand, "it will definitely have an effect. If a federal judge in this district says we have to do it (conduct searches) a certain way, then we will have to do it that way."

Police Chief Arrested On Drug Sale

PONCE INLET, Fla. (UPI) — The police chief of this tiny suburban community south of Daytona Beach was arrested Tuesday night on charges of peddling cocaine.

Ted Grau, an eight-year veteran of the Ponce Inlet police force and chief since 1978, was arrested at his home by agents of the Volusia County Narcotics Task Force. He was released on $5,000 bond.

Grau, who was immediately suspended without pay by Mayor Ayres Davies, is accused of selling 13.5 grams of cocaine worth an estimated $1,000.

Authorities said Grau approached a woman employee at a Deland uniform shop about two weeks and asked her to peddle the drug. The woman notified police.

Laszaic Lassoos San Mateo, Altamonte Nears State Bid

By SCOTT SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

OCDEE — "We are no longer intimidated by who else is on the field," understated Altamonte Major League all-star Manager Gene Letterio Wednesday night here after Anthony Laszaic lassoed Jacksonville-San Mateo on three hits to keep Altamonte in command at the Section 1 Major League Tournament.

While Letterio's utterance may be news to some, it hasn't been news to anyone following Altamonte's path of ravaged 10-12 year-old Little League teams since the tournament began.

"Gene's Machine" has outscored the opposition, 58-3. A Letterio-coached squad has not lost this year — reeling off 31 straight victories. Tonight, the Altamonte team becomes spectators as Inverness, a 10-9 victor over Northwest Escambia Wednesday meets San Mateo to see who must do battle with Altamonte Friday. Both games begin at 7 p.m.

Wednesday night it was the Majors' precocious Laszaic that turned the trick against San Mateo. The smooth-throwing 11-year-old spaced three hits, whiffed nine and shut out Jax as Altamonte moved closer to a state tournament bid at Plant City.

The state tournament, however, is the furthest thing from the Altamonte players' minds attests Letterio. "I'm proud of these players because they're taking them one at a time," said Gene. "There's not one kid talking about state. St. Pete (Southeast Regional) or Williamsport (World Series)."

While the Altamonte players were taking them one victory at a time, Laszaic was taking apart San Mateo one batter at a time. Along with fanning nine, the cool blond walked just one and set down nine in a row at one stretch.

... three-hitter

Left fielder Ryan Lisle gave Altamonte all the runs necessary when he ripped a clutch, two-out double which scored first baseman Jimmy Fox and Mike Schmit. Bruce Carlson then followed with a single to plate Lisle for a 3-0 Altamonte edge.

Schmit made his presence felt again in the third inning. Tuesday's pitching hero with 15 strike outs, delivered a three-run home run which scored Shane Letterio and Bert Marshall, both who had reached on singles. Schmit, plagued by the flu, yanked a 3-2 curve ball out of the yard.

Letterio's second baseman son, Shane, drilled a single to score Laszaic with another run in the fourth to boost the lead to 7-0. The all-stars had two runners — Letterio and pinch-runner Jeff McGeath — cut down at the plate in the later innings, but it failed to dim their aggressiveness.

Schmit chased home his fourth run of the game in the sixth inning after Laszaic singled, Steve Shaker was plunked with a pitch and Letterio grounded into a force at second.

Oviedo's Doug Powell fired a no-hitter at Niceville Wednesday night in the Sectional 13-year-old Tournament at Ocoee. Powell also drove in two runs to keep District 11's hopes alive. Tonight, Oviedo plays Fernandina Beach at 7. Oviedo needs two victories for the championship.

Powell Stuns Niceville

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

EUSTIS — Wednesday night's seventh inning of the semi-final sectional tournament round game here between Oviedo and Niceville-Valparaiso may have been the longest of pitcher Doug Powell's young life.

Oh, the game was no longer in doubt as Oviedo held a 10-0 advantage with just three outs left to eliminate Niceville. But Powell, a stocky right-hander, had something on his mind. It was spelled N-O H-I-T-T-E-R.

Powell had curve-balled his way through the first six innings with ease. In the seventh, however, Powell walked four hitters and hit one with a pitch.

When shortstop Dave Wood went deep in the hole for Harold Tennant's ground ball, though, and kicked Tennant by an eyelash with a strong throw to first base, Powell had his 10-1 no-hitter and more importantly District 14 Oviedo had another shot at undefeated Fernandina Beach.

"He was tired that last inning," conceded Coach Charley Beasley about Powell's route-going effort which enabled Oviedo to save its other two starters—Wood and Craig Duncan.

One of the two will start for Manager Tommy Ferguson's squad against Fernandina tonight at 7. An Oviedo win would force a title game Friday morning at 9.

"We'll be pumped up for Thursday," assured Beasley. "The kids were determined to win tonight and get another shot at Fernandina." The undefeated District 11 entry will probably counter with Byron Felder who whipped West Hernandez with a two-hitter Monday.

As in an earlier victory (Monday) over Niceville, some daring base-running earned Oviedo a first-inning run. Wood reached on an error by H. Tennant's twin brother and shortstop, David, stole second and continued to third base when the throw sailed into center field.

Ferguson then called for a squeeze bunt with his son, Randy, but the pitch was way wide and Wood scored easily.

In the second inning, Mark Hofmann walked, raced to third base on a single by Lenny Hill and scored on a nice piece of baserunning when Hill was picked off second base.

Thus fortified with a 2-0 edge, Powell set down 11 straight batters between the first and fifth inning. The closest thing to a hit was a screaming line drive to center by D. Tennant and a soft grounder to Ferguson's left by Willingham on which the manager's son made a nice play and throw.

During the stretch, Powell fanned four hitters. He finished with six, but walked six and beated two hitters. In the seventh, Jimmy Hutchinson drew a walk and eventually scored when Wood threw wide slightly to Hofmann on a force out at home plate.

Oviedo blew the game open by sending 10 batters to the plate in the sixth. Hill and Powell each contributed two-run singles to signal the end for Niceville.

Long inning or not, Powell was not too tired to smile at the end. Oviedo hopes that same smile will carry over to Thursday evening too.

Correction

Oviedo outfielder Jimmy Andrews was incorrectly identified as Jimmy Williams in Tuesday's Evening Herald. Andrews scored Oviedo's final run in the seventh inning and played right field. The Herald regrets the error.

49 Days

Negotiators Revive Collapsed Strike Talks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Negotiators in the 49-day old baseball strike, fresh from caucus and needing a quick settlement to salvage the season, are scheduled today to revive the talks that collapsed a week ago in Washington.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, briefed some 70 players of the progress of the talks at a Los Angeles meeting and later said he would offer no new proposals in the session called by federal mediator Kenneth Moffett for 2 p.m. EDT in New York.

"The owners, who held two meetings, said they plan to seek a settlement vigorously but stressed they would need the cooperation of the players." "It was a matter of everybody stating what they felt," said Lee MacPhail, president of the American League and a member of the owners' negotiating team. "We still have to reach an agreement with the other people, though, before the strike can end."

The strike has forced the cancellation of 579 games, or 28 per cent of the season, and caused the indefinite postponement of the All-Star Game. Today originally was reserved as the rain date for the classic.

In the unlikely event a settlement is reached soon, the players would need a reconditioning period of about two weeks before resuming regular play. At that rate, the "stretch drive" would consist of about six weeks.

Steve Garvey of Los Angeles said he thought it would not be "fair to the fans" to finish the 1981 season "if something doesn't happen within a period that would allow us to get in 10 to 12 days practice and 100 games."

Bobby Grich of California said he could be ready to play on one week's notice and said he thought it would be worthwhile to finish as little as two weeks of the season.

"I think any part of the season we can salvage, it would be important to do that," Grich said. Owners of each league met for about three hours at separate locations before convening for their joint session, where Player Relations Committee director Ray Grebey brought them up to date on negotiations.

"The member clubs asked questions," said Ed Fitzgerald of Milwaukee. "We gave the PHC all the helpful advice we could. The consensus was we want to bring the strike to a conclusion and the only way that can be achieved is by collective bargaining. We instructed the PHC to resume their process at the earliest possible time."

Fitzgerald's pointed reference to collective bargaining appeared to rule out the possibility the owners would submit the issue to binding arbitration. Miller has said the union, in the interest of resuming the season, would go to arbitration.

As happened to the owners early this month, the Players Association has been plagued by voices of dissent. Miller, however, attributed most of the dissent to bad communication and said he has the support of the players.

"The players got a full report of all the developments in the negotiations," Miller said, "with particular emphasis on the last two weeks. I never had any doubt about the players' support."

Miller said he still plans to hold more regional meetings — the next one is scheduled for New York on Friday — to inform the players about the status of the negotiations.

Miller also acknowledged that many baseball fans are upset by the strike, but said the walkout should be compared to labor disputes by service workers.

"Fans are important," he explained, "but they are not more important than other consumers. We're all annoyed when we're inconvenienced, but that doesn't give us the right to dictate the terms of a contract."

Brantley's Moss Heads For Annual All-Star Contest

GAINESVILLE — Over 1,000 swimmers, many of whom are nationally ranked in either the Junior or Senior Divisions, began competition Thursday, July 30, as part of the third weekend of Sunshine State Games activity. Olympians Nancy Hogshead, Craig Beardley, Matt Gribble, Susie Thayer and Dave Larsen are among the distinguished list of swimmers registered.

Also included in this weekend's Sunshine State Games schedule are: pistol shooting, clay pigeon (international trap) shooting, weightlifting, volleyball, judo and six different All Star High School Invitational Games, co-sponsored by the Florida Governor's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports and the Florida Athletic Coaches Association.

Lake Brantley Coach Dave Tullis has one of his monstrous linemen competing in Saturday night's football game. Florida State-bound offensive lineman Danny Moss, will play in the 8 p.m. contest.

The 6-foot-2, 245-pound Moss is a late replacement for Florida Gator-to-be Scott Trimble, who couldn't pass the physical due to summer surgery.

Apopka's Keith Mutters and Deland's Lennie Chavers will also compete in the all-star classic which pits the best of the North against the best of the South.

Sanford Softball 'A' Teams Travel To Melbourne

By SAMCOOK
Herald Sports Editor

Sanford's three class "A" softball teams — Rich Plan, Oviedo Auto Parts and Sunniland — take their aluminum on the road this weekend to compete in the Florida Recreation Softball Association State Tournament at University Field in Melbourne.

Here's a look at Friday's schedule:
7 p.m. Oviedo Auto Parts vs. Ace Automotive of Vero Beach
8:15 p.m. Sunniland vs. Hughes Oil Sponics of Daytona Beach
9 p.m. Rich Plan vs. Daytona Beach A's

Auto Parts' Manager Kenny Hall said he's never heard of the Ace Automotive ball club, but feels it's a combination of two or three Vero Beach teams.

"They've always got two or three powerful teams in Vero Beach," said Hall. "I'm sure it's some of the old Pan Am Engineering boys."

Hall feels Oviedo's chances will be bleak because of injuries suffered by his club in the past month. Veteran slugger Lloyd Wall injured his wrist and had it operated on in early July.

Oviedo pitcher Jimmy Williams got into a scuffle with a teammate at practice last week and injured his ankle. "He's on crutches, so he won't be much good to us," lamented Hall. "I'd say our chances were very, very slim. We have to win the first two games, then just base hit the ball."

One pleasant happening for Hall has been the return of power-hitting outfielder Rick Grant from Miami. Grant will fill the shoes of his buddy Wall in left field. Buddy Stumpf, Neil Miller and Dave RiCharde complete the Auto Parts outfield.

DAVE HUDICK
... Auto Parts' pitcher

Dave Hudick will move to the mound for Oviedo, while Mike Galloway, Mark Whigham or Hall will catch Teddy Miller, Bob Robinson, Glen Robinson and Rico Peterson are the infield from first to third. Danny Hale provides backup help.

Rich Plan, who ended Oviedo's six-year stranglehold on the city championship, appears to have the best chance of the local entries. Plan has a balanced, young team with a nice blend of power and base hitters.

Hall feels, though, that Rich Plan will have to rely on the base hits and not the power if they plan to go anywhere in the tournament. "They've got some nice power, but you're not playing at no Pinehurst (Sanford's field)," reminded Hall. The University Field fences are 285 feet to all fields on one diamond and 285 feet down the line and over 300 to center on the other one.

Rich Plan had one of the top power hitters in the league in catcher Eddie Jackson. First baseman Don Causseaux had a five-home run night during the year, while right fielder Fred Aiken and left fielder Randy Brown both clout the ball.

Smooth-fielding Billy Griffith at second base and muscle-man Rod Turner at third complete the infield along with veteran hurler Burnette Washington and solid-hitting shortstop Levi Raines.

Singles hitter Brian Stenstrom, who had a great city series, and Fred Washington are the other outfielders. Chris Gilmore and Bobby Wells are the backup help.

Sanford's third entry didn't boost the 21-9 league-leading record that Oviedo and Rich Plan did, but Sunniland had a solid 17-13 mark just the same playing some tough competition.

One definite contribution to the Sunniland lineup will be power-hitting outfielder Joe Benton, who knocked Rich Plan into a tie with Auto Parts during the last weekend of the season with two round-trippers. Benton plays in Orlando with Lawson Auto Parts most of the time.

Joining Benton in the outfield will be spray-hitter Carl Lee, slugger Chuck McMullan and left fielder Tony Dunkinson. Phil Spake and Artie Arndt provide solid reserves with Spake likely to see a lot of action.

Bill Stouemire will be hurling for Sunniland with Chris Frank behind the plate. The infield from third to first in Don Anderson, John Whigham, Tom Gracey and Steve Ferrell.

Tollie Frank calls the shots as Sunniland's manager.

Defending champion Pruitt Insurance and Ormond Beach's Daytona Employment figure to be the teams to beat in the 20-team field.

Rich Plan first baseman Don Causseaux loosened up before a game earlier this year. Causseaux, who knocked five out of the park one night at Pinehurst, will take part in the State Recreation Softball Association Tournament this weekend.

Mecom: Compromise In Negotiations

By United Press International

John Mecom hopes the NFL takes a hint from the misfortunes of major-league baseball and settles its labor problems without a strike.

"I hope we (owners) have learned enough to want to compromise," said the New Orleans Saints owner, "that the players have grown up enough to want to survive, and that everyone realizes that you can't afford a strike."

"At least we started negotiating about three years ago on our collective bargaining agreement. It's been going on and on — as opposed to waiting to the last minute as baseball did. Two or three years ago, baseball owners gave everything away. Now they're trying to be hardheaded and get something back. You don't do it that way."

The NFL players currently are negotiating to receive a share of revenues. If they are unable to reach an agreement with owners, a strike could happen in 1982. Mecom said the owners are exploring the possibility of taking strike insurance.

He complained football players often do not feel bound by their contracts.

"If the players believe so much in the players' agreement, then it's a shame they don't believe as much in their own contracts," he said. "They feel they can break their own written contracts at will."

In other camps, the New England Patriots waived nine free agents to reduce the roster to 78 players. The team waived wide receivers Reggie Beard of Cheyney State and John Klein of Central Connecticut State, nose tackles Todd Lyon of American International and Colin McCarty of Temple, and defensive back Bob Manning of the University of Massachusetts. Also dropped were strong safety John Quinn of Springfield, offensive tackle Bob Regan of Yale, offensive center Jim Hill of Dartmouth, and running back Lee Walker of Texas Southern.

E. J. Junior, the St. Louis Cardinals' No. 1 draft pick tabbed as an immediate starter at inside linebacker, ended his holdout.

Yankees Sue In Munson's Death

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — The New York Yankees are seeking $4.5 million damages from Cessna Aircraft Co. and Flight Safety International, Inc., in the 1979 death of their All-Star catcher Thurman Munson.

The baseball club filed the negligence suit Wednesday in Summit County Common Pleas Court, about four weeks after a similar damage claim was dismissed by a federal judge.

Munson, who lived in nearby Canton, died Aug. 2, 1979, when his two-engine Cessna jet crashed and burned at Akron-Canton Airport. He had been trained to fly the plane by Flight Safety.

The Yankees' suit said Cessna and Flight Safety were negligent in training Munson and said negligence prevented Munson from making a safe landing — and caused the aircraft to crash.

Bush, Serum Remedy Twins' Losing Streak Against Chattanooga

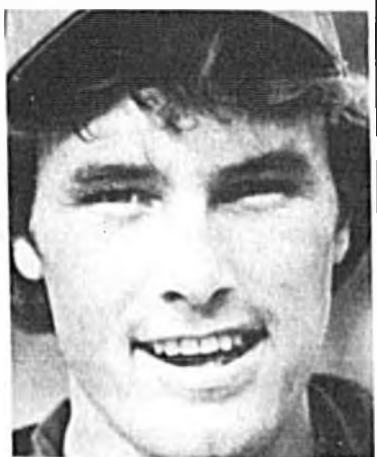

A Bush in the eleventh inning is worth two in the hand.

Especially if it's Handy Bush who cracked an extra-inning home run Wednesday night to lift the Orlando Twins to a 6-5 victory in Chattanooga.

Bush's clout severed a three-game loss skein for the O-Twins and made a winner of Gary Serum (4-3). The former major leaguer turned in two and two-thirds innings of one-hit relief.

Catcher Tim Laudner crunched his 34th homer to inch within three of the Southern League record with just 40 games gone in the second half. Orlando concludes its stay at Chattanooga with single games tonight and Friday before moving on to Knoxville Saturday. They return home Aug. 5 against the Memphis Chicks.

Miss Best, L.W. Turner Repeat Vows

Lucille Marie Best and Leonard Wesley Turner were married June 27, at 7 p.m., at the Lake Mary United Presbyterian Church, Lake Mary. The Rev. A.F. Stevens performed the candlelight and double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Best, 117 Azalea Lane, Sanford. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Turner, 105 Clyde Ave., Lake Mary.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal gown of candlelight-chiffon designed with a high mandarin neckline and full sleeves of Chantilly lace. Re-embroidered motifs of Chantilly lace lavishly embellished the bodice and double full skirt which terminated in a graceful chapel-length train.

Her tiered veil of illusion, edged in Chantilly lace, was secured to a scalloped lace headpiece. She carried a nosegay of yellow and white daisies showered with baby's breath and streamers.

Mrs. Allison Minor, sister of the bride, McCormick, S.C., attended the bride as matron of honor. She wore a buttercup yellow gown, fashioned along the empire silhouette, with an accordion pleated skirt, a delicately shirred bodice with double spaghetti straps and topped with a chiffon capelet dipping to a point in front and back. Her headpiece was a yellow lacy straw hat adorned with daisies and yellow streamers to the waist. She carried a nosegay of yellow daisies with light blue baby's breath and yellow streamers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Vicki Best, sister-in-law of the bride, Jacksonville; Patricia Best, sister of the bride, Sanford; Kathryn Martinez sister of the bride, Tampa. Their light blue gowns and headpieces were identical to the honor attendant's.

Toby Chapman served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Steven Clelland and Frank Kucera.

Heather M. Best, niece of the bride, Jacksonville, was the flower girl. Heath J. Best, nephew, was the ring bearer.

Following a wedding trip to Daytona Beach, the newlyweds are making their home in Sanford. The bride is employed by Continental Circuits Inc., and the bridegroom is a fireman with the Longwood Fire Dept.

TOASTMISTRESS INSTALLATION

Slim Says Cleaning House Naked Helps Lose Weight

DEAR ABBY: Several of my friends and I have hit upon a great idea for losing weight. We pull down our shades, lock our doors, and do our housecleaning in the nude! I know it sounds kinky, but here's what we do. We go from room to room and force ourselves to look at our bodies in every mirror we pass! There's something about a fat, unclothed body that spoils your appetite come mealtime.

Housecleaning is good exercise. There's lots of bending and stretching. There's only one rule. Always keep your stomach muscles tight. After a while, it becomes a habit, and those tummy muscles will be taut after the body is clothed.

This is no put-on, Abby. Pass this on to your readers. I don't know anybody who wouldn't like to lose 5 or 10 pounds, and this really works.

SLIMMING DOWN IN SCOTTSDALE

DEAR SLIMMING: Now, if you could arrange to watch yourself eat in the nude, you'd have it made. And should you decide to cook in the nude, do wear an apron while frying bacon.

DEAR ABBY: I have three daughters ages 7, 8 and 9. Ever since they were toddlers, I have been teaching them proper table manners, especially how to hold a fork or spoon properly.

My "problem" is the TV cereal commercials. Why do they show children eating cereal and holding the spoon like a shovel? When my children see children on TV eating like that, they think that's the correct way, and not the way I have been teaching them.

Mary Mahany Weds William S. Juby Jr.

Mrs. Mary Ryan Mahany, 2630 Laurel Ave., Sanford, and William S. Juby Jr., 305 Tangerine Drive, also Sanford, announce their marriage on July 11, at All Souls Catholic Church, Sanford. The Rev. Father William Ennis solemnized the nuptials.

The bride was attended by her daughter, Debbie Mahany. The bridegroom's best man was C. E. Busby of Orange Park.

After a wedding trip to St. Simon's Island, Georgia, the newlyweds will make their home at 305 Tangerine Drive where friends are welcome.

Dear Abby

Thanks for listening.

MRS. B. IN JEFFERSON, LA.

DEAR MRS. B: I wish children "holding spoons like shovels" were the worst examples seen on television commercials. However, in order to undo the damage, explain to your children that the children they see on the commercials have not yet been taught to eat properly.

DEAR ABBY: I've been dating a married man for several years. His wife found out about us and is filing for divorce. I love him and he loves me, but he isn't sure he wants to get married again. So where does that leave me?

He has asked me to wait and see what happens after he works out his present problems, but he won't make any promises.

Abby, I'm young and attractive and don't want to spend the rest of my life waiting for a man who may never marry me, but I've been out of circulation for nearly three years and am very happy and fulfilled when I'm with him.

Should I invest any more time in what could be a dead-end relationship? Or would I be wise to hang around and see what happens? And if I do decide to hang around, how long should I give him to make up his mind?

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: From the facts you've given me, your friend would like to put you on "hold" forever. Say goodbye now. If he really loves you, he will offer you what you want — marriage. If not, good riddance.

DEAR ABBY: I married a man whose wife had died and left with small children. I raised them all. My husband recently passed away. Are those children I raised still my stepchildren? And are their children still my grandchildren? And are my deceased husband's sisters still my sisters-in-law?

I am confused. Please let me know soon.

MRS. S

DEAR MRS. S: Yes. The relationships remain the same.

Humane Society Benefit

The Seminole County Humane Society and Creative Expressions, a home demonstration stitchery company, will be holding a fund-raising campaign during August for the humane society.

Tables will be set up in front of the Publix Supermarkets for stitchery sales and home demonstration bookings, all to benefit the humane society.

On Friday, July 31, and Saturday, August 1, the table will be at the Publix in Butler Plaza on State Route 436; on August 7 and 8 at Publix in Sanford Plaza; and on August 14 and 15 at the Publix in Altamonte Springs across from Sears.

Anyone who is interested in supporting this cause, who cannot attend at the above times, may call Shirley Dreifuerst at 323-2694 for more information.

Lose Weight First Then Try Medicine

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB—I want to ask about my blood pressure readings. I have readings as high as 170 over 110 and 148 over 114. I am concerned about these as my mother was only 56 when she had a stroke and two heart attacks. My doctor doesn't seem to be worried as my pressure comes back down to normal within one to three hours, with readings around 130 over 80. I am not on any medicine for high blood pressure but feel I should be. Am I wrong or is my doctor wrong?

I work in a hospital and have been sent to the emergency room several times. I'm 35, weigh 170 and am 5 feet 3.

DEAR READER—You should be concerned. Your story is that of a vascular hyperreactor, today often called borderline hypertension. A lot of people who have labile blood pressure never have persistently elevated readings. It is a reflex response. When you get excited—and that can include while having your blood pressure reading taken—your arteries squeeze down and your heart rate picks up, pumping more blood than usual, which causes your pressure to rise.

When you relax the arteries relax and your heart slows down, causing your pressure to fall. This can all happen in a few minutes.

The trouble with treating people like you is that the medicines that tend to lower your pressure when it is high also lower it when it is on the low side. The end result often leaves something to be desired.

You need to understand more about blood pressure so I am sending you The Health Letter number 154, Your Vital Blood Pressure. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551,

YOUR BIRTHDAY July 31, 1981

Don't sit on your artistic, musical or creative gifts this coming year. Take measures to develop your talents. You can make a name for yourself in the world.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Praise from you means a lot to your friends today. Whenever you see a pal doing something worthy of a pat on the back, be sure to give it. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Play your hunches today in business or financial matters. Your instincts are very sharp and your practicality won't permit you to go astray.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Just by being yourself today you'll be a standout in any crowd or gathering. Let your charm and personality glow forth.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Success is likely today regarding goals you establish for yourself, especially when you are trying to help others as well as to advance your own interests.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
It's important that you maintain a positive attitude today. Once you begin to feel self-assured you should be very lucky at anything in which you're involved.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Doing good deeds could reap you rather remarkable rewards today. Strive to be sincerely helpful, then stand back and watch what happens.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
Team efforts and partnership situations are likely to be far luckier for you today than things you try on your own. Forego solo attempts.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
It's very important today that your goals are in tune with your highest ideals. You should be exceptionally lucky when doing that which you know to be right.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Things should turn out to your liking today. You have a gift for managing others in ways which are beneficial to you and also helpful to them.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
A situation which appeared to be permanent and not much to your liking will undergo a favorable change today, although the shift will be barely noticeable.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Try to select companions today who are enthusiastic and positive. The right choice will assure you of a very pleasant day.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
This is a good time to bring to the attention of your boss ideas you have which could make you both more money. You might be able to negotiate a raise or a bonus.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 20-year-old woman and am considering starting a family within the next few years. When I was five I had an operation for a hernia on the right side of my abdomen. Will I have to deliver my baby by Caesarean section because of the scar from this operation? I have heard that doctors prefer to do a C-section on a woman who has had a C-section before to prevent a rupture. Is this because of fear of rupturing the abdominal wall or the uterine wall?

DEAR READER—The concern is that the scar in the uterus will rupture. Even so, not every woman who has had a previous Caesarean section will require one the next delivery. In some cases, such as a small pelvis that won't permit normal birth, the same indication for the first section will apply to all future pregnancies. Your hernia operation should not be a reason for a Caesarean section.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Wilmington, Vt., on individual tournaments and how to do well in them. He points out that there are special plays in these events. Here is an example of what we call the "individual" squeeze.

You are in six spades because you had mistakenly decided that your partner was an underbidder and he or she turned out to be an overbidder. Not that there are any roses on your slam bid, but there you are doubled with no play for it.

Anyway you don't give up. You lead dummy's queen of spades at trick two. You continue with the jack after West ducks. He wins that trick and triumphantly leads his last trump to stop any ruffs in dummy.

Now all you have to do is to run off five hearts while chucking the seven and jack of diamonds from your own hand.

Come to your hand with the ace of diamonds and cash your last two trumps. On the last trump West has to decide whether to hang on to the queen of clubs or king of diamonds.

This is an individual. He chucks his diamond winner.
