Possible Radiation Illness Will Haunt 100,000 Soviets

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — An American doctor who treated victims of the Chernobyl disaster says at least 100,000 Soviets will be examined periodically for the rest of their lives to monitor the long-term radiation effects of the worst nuclear accident in history.

Dr. Robert P. Gale told a news conference Sunday that the number of cases of radiation sickness from the nuclear power plant accident was surpassed only by the number exposed in the atomic bomb explosions of World War II.

Approximately 300 individuals were exposed to substantial doses of radiation," said the UCLA bone marrow transplant specialist, who was the first American to arrive in Moscow after the April 26 accident.

"We expect more casualties from the (group of) patients who received bone marrow transplants," he said.

In the past two weeks Soviet doctors with the assistance of three American physicians and an Israeli researcher performed bone marrow transplants or infusions of fetal liver extract on 19 of the 35 people who received the highest doses of radiation. Eleven of the patients have died, Gale

Gale, who returned from the Soviet Union late Friday with Drs. Paul Terasaki and Richard Champlin, also of UCLA, said he expects to return to Moscow later this week.

"It is now our intention to conduct long-term analyses of these patients," Gale said. "This will be an international effort."

The doctor said the reactor accident caused as many cases of severe radiation sickness as all other nuclear accidents throughout the world in the past several decades.

"With the exception of the atomic explosions in Japan, the Chernobyl accident is equal to all radiation exposure accidents, and many of these go back 20 to 30 years," Gale said.

Transplants of bone marrow, which produces vital components of the body's immune system, are the only known successful treatment for severe radiation sickness.

Terasaki, an expert on the tissue typing necessary for marrow transplants, said tissuetyping tests were well under way by Soviet doctors by the time the American team arrived in Moscow, but the Russians were ill-equipped to handle the job.

"Much of the equipment was very old. The microscope they were using was 30 years old or more," Terasaki said.

Two of the Soviet doctors who were matching the tissues between recipients and donors for the transplants previously studied tissue typing at UCLA, Terasaki said.

Six of the people who received transplants were not infused with bone marrow but instead received an extract from the livers of aborted fetuses, a rarely used procedure developed in the 1950s by the U.S. National Cancer Institute.

The Americans were invited by the Soviets at the suggestion of Dr. Armand Hammer, a Los Angeles industrialist with ties to the Soviet Union going back to the days of Lenin.

4 Guards Hurt In Jail Melee

By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

A Seminole County sheriff's investigator and jail officials began today to probe incidents surrounding a melee at the Seminole County jail, which occurred at about 2 p.m. Saturday.

The disturbance was calmed within about 15 minutes, said jail administrator Capt. Jay Leman. But four of the 10 jail guards who battled with 11 inmates needed treatment for injuries received in the fight. Leman said no inmates were injured seriously enough to require medical attention.

Leman said the fight began about one hour after inmate Kenneth McGill. 20. of 2000 Airport Blvd., Sanford, got word that the Florida Department of Corrections had ordered him to be isolated and to lose his telephone privileges as punishment for having allegedly damaged a jail telephone late last week.

In that hour. McGill, who has been jailed on robbery and burglary charges and who allegedly set a fire in the jail in Feburary, along with 10 other inmates housed in the same cell area of the jail. made a plan for resistance before three guards arrived to move him into isolation, Leman said.

Although a dozen prisoners housed in the same area didn't take part in the uprising. Leman said when the guards came to the dayroom cell. McGill and his supporters, who were also allegedly led by Neal Rena Wellon, 20, Vincent Leroy Ashley, 29, both of Sanford, had filled a 55-gallon garbage can with water and had attempted to block the entrance to the area.

Some of the inmates began to fight the guards and seven other guards joined the fight, Leman said. The guards were not armed and no inmates were armed, he said.

Sheriff's investigator Greg Barnett had not determined early today just how the fight ended, but the prisoners were brought under control.

Leman said they were locked inside their cells today awaiting the outcome of the investigation. Charges are pending against inmates who hit guards. All 11 inmates involved in the confrontation did not actually strike the guards, but "resisted" them. Leman said.

The corrections officers injured in the fight are C. White Jr., D.L. Payne, M. Elint and T. Belli, according to a sheriff's report.

The inmate peagers in the incident face possible charges of inciting a riot, Leman said. The Florida Department of Corrections labels any jail fight involving three or more people a "civil disturbance," which is another name for a riot, Leman said.

Climber's Legs Amputated

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) - Doctors said they amputated both legs of a teenage boy who survived the Mount Hood mountain climbing tragedy that killed nine people because "it was either amputation or his life."

Orthopedic physicians at Providence Medical Center said they performed the below-the-knees amputation Sunday on Giles Thompson. 16. of Longview. Wash., because of the threat posed by bleeding and tissue damage.

"It was a difficult decision to make." said Dr. Leo Marx, "but it was either amputation or his life."

Europeans On Alert Against Channel Ferry Terror Attacks

LONDON (UPI) - Police went on a a car laden with explosives onto a ferry major terrorist alert at ports in England, France, Belgium and the Netherlands to guard against a suspected Arab plot to blow up a passenger ferry in the English Channel.

The four-nation alert began at noon Friday after Scotland Yard issued a warning that Arab terrorists might strike at one of the dozens of crowded passenger ferries plying the busy waterway between Britain and continental Europe.

Police said the coordinated security operation was expected to continue until at least tonight, the end of a three-day holiday weekend in some European nations. A police spokesman at Maidstone, control center for the British operation, said it was a "fair assessment" that the alert was the biggest security operation ever at British ports. Certificates

In a not-so-traditional auction, the best buys may very well go to the lowest bidder Tuesday when Seminole County will put some 2,400 property tax certificates up for sale.

The annual sale, which begins at 9 a.m. in Room W120 of the county services building, is the method by which the county collects delinquent taxes on real property, according to Tax Collector G. Troy Ray.

Those who wish to buy the tax certificates for investment purposes bid on the rate of interest they will receive. The bidding begins at a rate of 18 percent, the maximum return a buyer can receive. The face amount of the certificate is tax plus penalties, as advertised. The advertised figure is the amount due for each certificate purchased.

The certificate holder pays the de-linquent taxes and gets back his investment plus interest when the property owner redeems the certificate or when the property is sold for taxes.

The number of tax certificates this year is expected to be up from last year, when the county sold some 2,100 representing $1.3 million in taxes, Ray

Here's how the process works:
According to state law, taxes become delinquent on April 1 each year. The county is required to hold the tax certificate sale on or before June 1. Prior to the sale, the county advertises the properties and taxes owed for four weeks. By selling the certificates, the county is placing a lien on the property.

Once the certificate is purchased, the buyer pays delinquent taxes and penalties which have accumulated. interest is earned from the date of the sale to the date of redemption.

The landowner has a period of two years from the date the tax became delinquent to redeem the tax certificate before the certificate holder can take any action.

The person redeeming the certificate pays the interest rate bid or a mandatory five percent, if the interest earned is less than five percent of the face amount.

The life of a tax certificate is seven years, which means before that period of time is up the buyer can apply for a tax deed as long as the property is two years delinquent.

Then, the property goes through a public auction similar to the first sale. The property owner may redeem the certificate at any time before the deed is recorded by paying the delinquent taxes and all penalties and fees involved with the sale.

If a certificate is not sold, it is "struck off' to the county which proceeds with a tax deed application after two years. Ray said. The county automatically receives 18 percent interest. If there are no buyers at the county tax deed sale, the county can take title to the property after a waiting period.

Less than one percent of the pro-perties go through the tax deed process, he said. A piece of property may have several tax certificates.

Missing People Believed Safe

LIVINGSTON, Texas (UPI) - Rescuers today tried to track down some 16 people missing since a weekend storm lashed a lake with 90-mph winds and drowned two boaters but authorities said those unaccounted for likely survived

The state Public Safety Department Sunday called off its search for boaters and swimmers unaccounted for since the storm swept Lake Livingston Saturday, drowning two people when their boat capsized.

But workers with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department planned to keep watch over the east Texas lake this week for bodies or debris.

Several hundred people were on or around the 40-mile-long lake for a sailboat race, bass fishing tournament and other weekend events when a line of storms struck the area 50 miles north of Houston.

Polk County sheriff's deputies said they had accounted all but about 16 of some 26 people reported missing

We don't think anything happened to these people." said sheriff's dispatcher Blanche Reedes. "They just didn't get to the phone or think people would be worried about them, so they didn't check in.

Officials attributed the large number of missing persons reports to the loss of telephone and electric service after the storm Saturday.

One of the issues delaying a White House decision on approval of a shuttle to replace the Challenger is whether the shuttle fleet should be used only for launching military and scientific satellites with commercial satellites assigned to unmanned expendable rockets.

Assad Denies Terrorism Ald, Blames U.S. Actions

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Syrian President Hafez Assad denies harboring terrorists in his country and blames President Reagan for strained U.S.-Arab relations, but Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres says Assad must answer charges of "directly supporting acts of terror."

Assad told The Washington Post in an interview published Sunday that he is "bitter and disappointed" about what he views as threats from the Reagan administration and a policy of alternately ignoring and confronting Syria.

"No one can do anything when the United States administration is carrying the hammer of war." he said. referring to the U.S. bombing of Libya last month.

Assad said he recently was a guest of Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy, and voiced disbelief that "a superpower would use a fleet of bombers and fighters to try to assassinate a head of state."

Syria has drawn renewed attention, in the context of terrorism, from recent allegations it helped supply explosives to a Jordanian arrested in London for a failed attempt to blow up an El Al airliner April 17.

Assad, in the Post interview, denied involvement in that incident, and said he would not allow any terrorist action abroad to be based in Syrian territory - except for "cultural and political" activities of the Abu Nidal Palestinian group, which is suspected in many violent

Leftists Raid UPI Bureau

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Armed leftists raided a United Press International bureau and transmitted a revolutionary proclamation attacking the military government and the United States.

Three men and a women armed with handguns broke into the UPI offices in downtown Santiago Sunday, tied up and gagged three staffers, and forced them to transmit the statement to four Chilean clients. The statement called for an uprising against the government of President Augusto Pinochet.

The 200-word proclamation, which was typed out by the woman on a video display terminal, charged that the U.S. was responsible for the "tragedy that Chile is living through.'

The gunmen, wearing wigs and dark glasses, spray-painted "Yanks out (of Chile)" on a wall and left the bureau after 30 minutes.

The group belonged to the "United Popular Action Movement" (MAPU), a left-wing party that supported former Marxist president Salvador Allende, whose Socialist government was overthrown in a CIA-backed coup in 1973.

Dominican Vote Count To Resume

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI) - Reformist Party leader Joaquin Balaguer held a narrow lead in the presidential election as officials prepared today to resume vote counting abruptly suspended without explanation.

Soldiers patrolled the streets of the capital to maintain calm after election officials halted vote counting Sunday afternoon. They announced it would resume early today.

With nearly 2 million votes counted, Balaguer, the partially blind 78-year-old former president, had 799,968 votes, or 41.5 percent of the valid votes in Friday's election. Trailing less than 2 percentage points behind him was ruling Dominican Revolutionary Party candidate Jacobo Mailuta, who had 764,509 votes, or 39.64 percent.

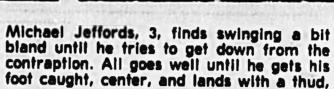

Dominican Liberation Party candidate Juan Bosch won 351,749 votes, or 18 percent.

Both Balaguer and Majluta promised to improve the economy, but opponents of the ruling Democratic Revolutionary Party blamed it for the soaring 37 percent inflation rate that has been a heavy burden on the Caribbean nation's 6 million people.

Balaguer, a protegee of former dictator Rafael Leonidas Trujillo, ruled the country from 1966-1978, when he lost elections to the Dominican Revolutionary Party.

Allies Awaken To Reality At Summit

What a difference a little persuasion can make. It was just two years ago, at the economic summit meeting in Bonn, that the Western allies couldn't bring themselves to pledge a hard-hitting stance against terrorism. For instance, on the subject of banning weapons shipments to terrorist states, all they could muster then was a declaration that some countries wanted to consider such bans.

But at the just-concluded meetings in Tokyo. Britain. Canada, France, Italy, Japan and West Germany joined the United States in an anti-terrorism statement that suggests that our allies have come a long way in finally understanding the situation. They denounced "blatant and cynical government use of terrorism," and promised to ban the export of arms to terrorist states, advocated closing or limiting diplomatic missions of nations that support terrorism, will impose tighter immigration and visa requirements on diplomats suspected of terrorist activity and stepped up extradition procedures for suspected terrorists.

While the statement does not endorse last month's bombing raid on Libya, it condemns Col Moamarr Khadafy's government directly as a sponsor of terrorism. And while it avoids threats of military action, it declares that "terrorism must be fought effectively through determined, tenacious, descreet and patient action combining national measures and international cooperation."

U.S. Secretary of State George P. Shultz certainly professed to be highly satisfied with the agreement, declaring that it amounted to a message to Col. Khadafy that, "You've had it, pal."

It might have been a good deal stronger if France's foreign minister. Jean-Bernard Raimond, had not felt it necessary to reiterate France's policy of not allowing U.S. warplanes to fly over its territory en route to military strikes against Libya. Never mind such "ancient history" as how U.S. forces rallied to the aid of France to two world wars; Mr. Raimond's invoking of diplomatic niceties in forbidding U.S. over-flights suggests that France's heart really isn't in the war on terrorism.

Certainly, its commitment falls far short of that of Great Britain, whose prime minister, Margaret Thatcher, once again backed the United States position to the hilt after taking considerable political heat for having permitted U.S. bombers to take off from British bases for the Libyan raids. She is said to have firmly supported President Reagan's plea to the summit leaders "to consider an attack on one as an attack on all."

There's a good deal of rhetoric in the summit partners' statement on terrorism. But there's also considerable meat in the form of specific pledges to implement international cooperation, the only strategy that offers real hope of success against the shadowy forces so eager to murder the innocent to achieve their goals.

Look For Leaky Pipe Before Cursing Puddle

By Arnold Sawislak

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There is, and should be, a rule of journalism that says the mechanics of news reporting are not news. "Nobody cares how hard it was to get the story," the old city editor told the young reporter. "Just tell the news."

This, with apologies, is an exception to the rule. It is about reporting news in Washington, and it may help you understand some of the stories you read or hear on radio and television.

Most news stories are not eyewitness accounts, but are based on what someone said — a police dispatcher, a nuclear scientist or a president. The person who spoke to the reporter usually is identified by name and title.

But in some stories, especially from Washington, the information is attributed to "an informed source" or some other phrase to disguise who is speaking.

Reporters and editors do not like these stories, but sometimes it is impossible to get the news without agreeing to conceal the source. Most agree to do so only if the information is very important to the public and there is no way to get it on the record.

But this device can be abused, both by journalists and their sources. Reporters have fabricated information and attributed anonymous sources. And some news sources have used anonymity to spread lies or reveal secrets.

This last abuse is an issue in Washington. It has become the habit of many officials to insist that they not be identified when they talk about important matters of national policy.

An example was Henry Kissinger, who often would allow himself to be quoted only as "a senior official" when he talked to reporters. When Kissinger left, the "senior official" dodge was hungrily embraced by officials in the Democratic and Republican administrations that followed.

The most extreme example of the device is the "leak." the disclosure of information, sometimes involving national security, that is supposed to be secret. Many leaks come from people angry about losing some bureaucratic battle to embarass their enemies. But they also come from high ranking officials or their aides who want to influence public opinion without taking responsibility for their statements.

When that happens, reporters can find themselves in a bind. They know they are being used, but they also believe the information is important to the public. If they use the information, they may be denounced in public by the same person who gave it to them in private.

One could say, with Willie Lohman, that kind of heat "comes with the territory."

But what does one say when one high-ranking official of the government proposes to prosecute news organizations that print or broadcast news that was given them on the sly by another high-ranking official of the same government? This is not a rhetorical question. It is a question that might be put to CIA Director William Casey, who has proposed prosecuting five newspapers that disclosed how the United States got evidence that Libya was involved in a terrorist bombing of a Berlin discotheque before the U.S. air strike against Libya.

It is a question that might lead Mr. Casey to the conclusion that when you have water in your basement, it's smarter to look for the leaky pipe than to curse the puddle.

DICK WEST

Taking Safety Too Far

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A publication in his home state has raised the question of whether Dale Lowdermilk of Santa Barbarba. Calif., and environs, founder of a national safety organization, is himself safe for the nation.

Most headline writers toil in various degrees of anonymity, but I assume the question was rhetorical. I have no idea who posed it, any more than I know the identity of the savant who made my day by penning the line: "Travels with Mr. Goodgrief."

I have been intimately associated with Mr. Goodgrief for a number of years. He has even been along on a few of the trips I have made, so it may be fair to say I know what it is like to travel with Mr. Goodgrief.

It also may be fair to say I know what it might be like to travel with Lowdermilk. At any rate, rhetorical or not, I think the question raised by the an unidentified headline writer deserves a reply.

My answer, formed after reading the latest recommendations of NOT-SAFE, the 900-member group Lowdermilk founded, would be in the negative. In other words, I am convinced he himself is not safe.

It was OK as long as he stuck to mechanical devices. I certainly would not protest his proposal to require seat belts on bicycles, three-wheeled vehicles, high chairs and anything else "you could move on."

After all, NOT-SAFE's forte is stepping in where Lowdermilk feels existing law doesn't go far enough.

If he wants to make it illegal to sell spray paint to teenagers, that's likewise all right with me. At least, I can understand it.

I definitely would classify graffiti-sprayers as mechanical.

But when Lowdermilk starts messing around with Congress, I believe he has overstepped the bounds of even so wide-ranging a group as NOT-SAFE.

A lawgiver can't safely be construed as a mechanical object. Nor are any congressmen teenagers. Not as long as the nation has a Constitution to set minimum ages.

National safety, I submit, is too complex a matter to leave to the voters or organizations of the type Lowdermilk heads. We need to call in real experts, like consultants.

ROBERT WALTERS

The Labor Mismatch

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The seemingly ubiquitous signs posted outside of every imaginable type of business proclaim "help wanted" and "now hiring." They are the first evidence of a labor shortage that is likely to become far more severe.

Figures compiled by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reveal the scope of a nationwide phenomenon:

— From 1975 to 1985, the country's economy created 21.3 million new jobs but the labor force expanded at an even faster rate, growing by 21.7 million people.

— From 1985 to 1995, 15.6 million new jobs will be created but the labor force will expand at a much slower pace, growing by only 13.7 million.

There will also be important qualitative distinctions between the jobs of the past and those of the future. That has become apparent during the past 15 years, when 90 percent of all new jobs were in the service and information sectors while only 5 percent were in manufacturing industries.

The business community, which desperately needs a larger and more sophisticated labor force to sustain economic growth, may soon be ready to undertake a task that it has generally shunned.

"There remains an isolated minority, an underclass located largely in our major cities but found in many rural areas as well, who are cut off from the mainstream of American life," notes John Ong, board chairman of the B.F. Goodrich Co.

He suggests that the business community, acting in its own selfinterest, may now accept the responsibility to educate and train the disadvantaged, many of them poor and members of minority groups.

Ong made that proposal here recently in his role as chairman of the National Alliance of Business, a Washington-based organization that long has been concerned about the issue.

"Unless we change how we educate and train the U.S. labor pool. American business increasingly will be at a competitive disadvantage in the world marketplace," warns the NAB.

Federal, state and local government efforts to aid the disadvantaged have produced only limited success. Perhaps the NAB will fare better in dealing with what it aptly characterizes as "pervasive mismatches between workplace needs and workforce capabilities."

Early Test Detects Defects

By Gayle Young UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Technology has given new promise to a test to detect birth defects during the first trimester of pregnancy after research a decade ago indicated the technique could cause misearriages, researchers say.

researchers say.

Chorionic villus sampling, in which a snip of placenta is removed and evaluated for genetic information, can be performed up to six weeks earlier than anmiocentesis, the currently approved test for birth

Researchers said earlier detection of birth defects could mean an earlier decision to terminate a pregnancy, making it less traumatic and potentially harmful to the health of the mother.

The test, known as CVS, was first developed in the late 1960's but early studies in Scandinavia showed it caused a high number of miscarriages.

In the test, a thin tube is inserted through the cervix to the placenta, where a piece of tissue is removed for study.

Researchers said the development since the 1960's of ultrasound, which can show doctors images of the womb during the procedure, has made it safer.

"The procedure has been refined

"The procedure has been refined and our results so far have been promising," said Heidi Beaver, a genetic researcher at the Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis, where the test has been studied for two years.

Of 116 women who have undergone CVS testing at the school, one has suffered a miscarriage that may have been linked to the procedure, she said.

Washington is one of a dozen research centers granted permission to study CVS by the federal Food and Drug Administration. In addition, the National Institutes of Health is sponsoring a study of CVS on an estimated 4.500 women at seven other research centers, said Maureen Gardner, spokeswoman for NIH.

She said the study will be completed in two years.

CVS is painless and is done in a doctor's office without anesthesia. The cost is approximately $750, roughly the same as amniocentesis.

Radiation Levels Worry Pennsylvanians

By Jack Anderson And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — The United States has criticized the Soviet government's failure to give its people timely information on the Chernobyl nuclear disaster. But for 25 years the residents of Apollo, Pa., a small town about 20 miles northeast of Pittsburgh, have been wondering if their government has withheld information on radiation exposure they might have been subjected to from a pair of nuclear materials plants.

The plants, which process radioactive material for military and other use, made headlines in the 1960s when several hundred pounds of its weapons-grade uranium disappeared. Speculation was that it wound up in Israel. But the missing uranium might have been dumped into a huge pit behind one of the plants. The trouble is, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission doesn't know.

Now the commission is considering a plan by the facility's current owners to make one plant the first commercial incinerator for radioactive wastes. The owners, Babcock and Wilcox, acknowledge that some radioactive particles will escape into the environment from the disposal method, but insist that the emissions will be at such a low level that they pose no health threat to the community.

But possible radiation in the past has residents just as worried as future emissions. The original owners, Nuclear Materials and Equipment Corp., sold the plants to Atlantic Richfield in the late 1980s; Babcock and Wilcox purchased them in the early 1970s. Federal officials claim the plants have been operated safely over the years, but federal documents obtained through the Freedom of Information Act by our associate Corky Johnson tell a different story. Here are just a few of Apollo's problems, culled from hundreds of reports:

— The Pit. In the 1960s, radioactive material was dumped in a 15-acre site only a few yards from several homes. The dumping was then legal, though federal law stopped such burials in 1970. The pit remains, and tests have shown dosens of "hot spots" in it, with radiation readings far above acceptable limits.

Some discarded uranium was left in open containers. And both plant and state health agency documents indicated a problem with radioactive runoff into nearby streams.

— The River. One plant is in the middle of Apollo, less than half a mile from two achools and sitting on a river that feeds into the Allegheny a few miles upstream from Pittsburgh. Radioactive material and cancer-causing poisonous wastes have been discharged into the river by the plants. Incredibly, one regulatory commission report in the mid-1970s said the high pollutant levels were nothing to get excited about because the river was already "dead" from pollution.

"dead" from pollution.
In one 12-month period, from June 1975 to May 1976, there were 30 occasions when high-level radioactive material was dumped into the newage system. A former plant employee charged that thousands of galions of radioactive wastes per day were dumped into the river in the 1980s.

When the plant began dumping chemical and radioactive pollutants into the river above the legal limit, the regulatory agency raised the limit.

— Emissions. Throughout most of the 1960s, the plants released unfiltered radioactive particles into the air; they were cited by federal inspectors for broken air monitors and faulty emissions equipment. A 1973 uranium leak was 20,000 times greater than acceptable limits. More than 60 cases of workers' overexposure to radiation have been reported.

In 1976, a state inspector wrote: "There seems to be some possibility that small amounts of radioactive dust are being emitted to the atmosphere, which disturbs (us). There are homes very close to this plant."

When the plants started emitting radioactive dust at higher levels than the regulations allowed, they were granted exemptions in 1969, allowing new levels 100 times higher than the old ones. The plants even exceeded the new levels.

Sanford's Campbell Wins 400 Meters At SEC Meet

From Staff and Wire Reports

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. - A year ago, a sore hamstring kept Sanford's Cliff Campbell from showing the state what he was capable of in the 440 yard dash. Sunday afternoon, Campbell showed the Southeastern Conference that he will be a force to be reckoned with in the future.

Campbell, an Auburn University freshman, claimed first place in the 400 meter dash with a Auburn freshman record 45.43 and he also ran a leg on the winning 4 X 400 meter relay team at the SEC Track and Field Championships.

The University of Tennessee claimed the SEC men's title while the University of Alabama women took first place in the two day event held at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville.

In the 400 meters, Campbell, a 1985 Seminole High graduate, won by nearly four tenths of a second over Georgia's Gary Duncan who finished in 45.82. With Campbell well out in front, the battle was for second between Duncan and Mississippi's Perry Catlidge who finished in

"He (Campbell) is having an excellent year," Auburn assistant Hal Cooper said. "He's one of the top prospects to ever come to Auburn. He's already making his presence felt."

In the 4 X 400 relay, the Auburn team of junior Daron Council, senior Steve Griffiths, junior Kevin Henderson and Campbell on the anchor took first with a time of 3:08.50, easily outdstancing Tennessee which finished in 3:09.00.

Another former Central Florida track great now running for Auburn. Winter Park's Brian Jaeger. finished fifth in the 1,500 meter run Sunday with a time of 3:47.96.

In the women's division, former Lyman High standout Schowonda Williams, a sophomore at Louisiana State University, soured to second place in the 100 meter hurdles. Tennessee's LaVonna Martin took first place with a wind-aided time of 13.05 with Williams outrunning teammate Alicia Bass for second. Williams finished in 13.32 and Bass 13.40.

Williams, a 1964 Lyman High graduate, still holds two Florida state records in the 110 high hurdles and 330 low hurdles, both times run at the 1984 state meet.

The Tennessee men's team, under first-year coach Doug Brown, rolled to victory at the SEC Track and Field Championships — the Vols' sixth in a row. Tennessee also has won six consecutive SEC indoor titles for good measure.

Brown, who came to Tennessee from the Athletics West track club when Stan Huntsman went to Texas, said the Volunteers dominance is the product of "hard work, good coaching and having a balanced program."

Brown also said it helps when the football program helps recruit top-notch sprinters to campus - like Sam Graddy - and lets them run track in the spring.

"It's definitely a plus having cooperation from the football coach," Brown said.

Tennessee held off a challenge from upsetminded LSU to take the title.

Tennessee took the lead away from the Tigers midway through Sunday's events and went on to post a 158-131 victory. Alabama finished third with 120 points and Auburn was fourth with 72 points.

Georgia was fifth with 52 points, Mississippi State was sixth with 46 points, and Florida and Mississippi tied for seventh place with 20 apiece. Kentucky placed last with one point and Vanderbilt did not compete.

In the women's division, Alabama won with 155 points, while defending champion LSU scored 125 1/2 points to nail down second place. Tennessee was third with 87 1/2 and Florida followed with 74 points.

Georgia was fifth with 67 points, Kentucky was sixth with 56, Auburn had 22 and Mississippi did not score. Vanderbilt did not enter.

A light rain fell on Tom Black Track during the late afternoon and a fairly stiff wind blew most of the day, resulting in some excellent times that will not be allowed in the record book because of the wind factor.

In the men's competition, LSU took a 108-103 advantage early Sunday when the Tigers tallied 19 points in the pole vault competition. Greg Duplantis tied the SEC record with a vault of 17 feet. 8 1/2 inches, and teammate Rickey Wright vaulted 17 feet. 4 % inches for second place. Tennessee did not score in the pole vault.

the State Decathlon team title Saturday at Lake Howell High. King finished with a new state record 19.270 points to nip perennial bridesmaid West Palm Beach Twin Lakes. 19,063. Twin Lakes has been runnerup the past three years and four out of the last five vears. Brown's point total for the 10-event competition was less than 100 points off the school record of 6,501 set by Frank Barnett is 1985, Included in Brown's outstanding effort was a 21.5 in the 220 dash which set a State Decathlon record and also broke the Seminole High school record. He also ran a 10.7 in the 100 meters (874 points) and a 48.9 in the 440 dash (872).

"Louis' times in the sprints. were outstanding." Seminole coach Ken Brauman said. "His total was very good for the first time he's ever competed in the decathlon."

Brown also turned in strong efforts in the long jump with a 21-6, discus with a 117-8 and the high hurdles with a 15.8 to go along with a 5-8 in the high jump, 37-2 in the shot put and 7-6 in the pole vault.

Completing Seminole's team in the decathlon were senior Andre Jackson (5.474 points) and junior Jerry Parker (5.284). The team finished with a total of 17.227 points.

"We're happy with fourth place," Brauman said. "The guys did a good job. They competed real well and had a lot of fun."

Lake Brantley's Patriots finished 16th in the meet with a score of 13,421. Leading the way for the Patriots was senior Sam Sears with 4,595. He was followed by Cornelius Friendly with 4,540 and Dwayne McDaniels with 4.286.

Lake Howell's Silver Hawks jost their top decathlete on the first day when senior Dylan Rowe twisted an ankle. The Hawks finished with 10,775 points.

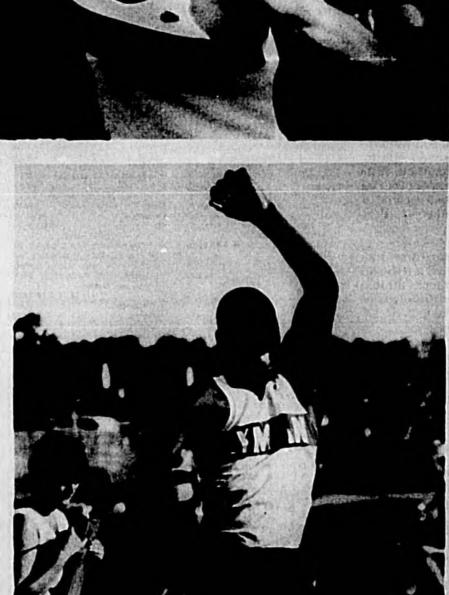

Senior John Davis was the top scorer for Lake Howell with 4.788 points and junior Andy Terechenok finished with 4,263.

Oviedo High didn't send a full team to the State Decathion but its two competitors, sophomore Karl Wright and junior Robb Hughes, both turned in outstanding efforts. Wright finished with 5.336 points and Hughes totaled Decathletes Sam Sears, above, and Ralph Philpott put everything they have into their efforts in the State Decathlon held this past weekend at Lake Howell High. Sears, a Lake Brantley High senior, strains to heave the shot put en route to a team leading score for the 10 events. Philipott, a Lyman High senior, stretches for all he's worth in going over 21-0 in the long jump. Philpott was the top scorer for the Greyhounds and finished 13th in the individual standings. Tampa King took team honors with Seminole High finishing fourth and Lyman took seventh.

Glades Central Overpowers Lady Tribe

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

Seminole High's second-place finish in the State Heptathion Championships wasn't a case of too little, too late. Actually, it was too much Belle Glade Glades Central too early.

Seminole coach Emory Blake felt his trio of Shownda Martin. Dorchelle Webster and Adrian Hillsman had a chance to win it if they stayed close going into the final event, the 880 run. Glades Central, however, sizzled in the field events in the blistering afternoon heat Saturday at Lake Howell High and sewed up the title before the Tribe had a chance to hit the track.

Behind the magnificent per-formance of individual champion Evette Lyman, Glades Central amassed 13,436 points for its third straight State Hep-tathion title. Seminole finished strong in the 880 but was still a distant second at 12.067.

"Our only chance was to keep it close going into the 860 but Glades Central just had too much in the field events," Seminole esach Emery Make said, "But second place ion't had considering we did it with two

Celts Sweep Bucks

MILWAUKEE (UPI) - The Boston Celtics have brushed aside the Milwaukee Bucks, and await the winner of the Houston Rockets-Los Angeles Lakers series to decide the NBA championship.

'The Celtics were able to play at a different level than we were throughout the series," Bucks coach Don Nelson said Sunday after the Celtics' fourth straigh victory, 111-98, claiming the Eastern Division title.

Larry Bird scored 17 of his game-high 30 points in the fourth quarter, taking control early in the period when Boston ran off 10 straight points in a 2:43 stretch to turn an 04:79 deficit into an 09-94 lead it sever relinquished.

Milwaukee closed to 95-93, but Bird swished 4 3-point field goals in a row to put Boston in the NBA final for the third straight year. Boston won three seasons ago, but lost its title last year to Los Angeles, which trails Houston three games to one in the Western final.

"I'm not so sure that Boston isn't just on a different planet than the rest of us mere mortal teams." said Nelson, whose 227th playoff appearance broke a tie with Bill Russell for the most in NBA history. "They are really good. I wish everybody would know how tough it is to score inside when they want to shut you down."

Boston is easily the most physical team in basketball. The addition of Bill Walton makes it perhaps the most physical team

Bird added 8 rebounds and 5 esists to his 30 points. Kevin McHale scored 20 and had 11 rebounds, and center Robert Parish had 12 points and 9 rebounds.

Danny Ainge scored 25 points. 22 in the middle two periods, with 5 assists. Dennis Johnson added 13 points.

Milwaukee countered with a 27-point game from a player who wasn't even supposed to play because of an injured left heel. Sidney Moncrief, and a 23-point game from Paul Preseey. Terry Cummings was held to 15 points, and Craig Hodges hed 13.

It was when Johnson fouled out that Boston went to its out that Boston went to its "Lumberjack Lineup" — inserting Walton alonside Parish and McHale. That swung Bird to shooting guard beside playmaker Ainge.
"When D.J. fouled out."
Walton said, "I was a little worried about going to the big lineup for the first time this year.
I was afraid they would put pressure on defense and we'd get in a little bit of trauble.

"Larry just started throwing in those 5-point bambs," Walton said. "Larry Bird: what can you say? He's such a fastantic player. He can do saything out there he wasts in. We're just

Rockets Outgun Lakers, Take 3-1 Lead To LA

The state of the s

HOUSTON (UPI) - Houston Rockets coach Bill Fitch has been around the NBA long enough to know a team the caliber of the Los Angeles Lakers can bounce back from a 3-1 deficit in a playoff series.

"It can happen," Fitch said. "Remember our championship year with Boston?"

That year, the Celtics under Fitch trailed Philadelphia 3-1 in the Eastern Conference finals, but rallied to advance to the finals and an NBA title over Houston.

"We won three in a row, and they (Lakers) can too." Fitch said. I'm more frightened of them now than I was a few days ago."

The Lakers must win three straight if they hope to defend their NBA title, after the Rockets, behind 35 points from Akeem Olajuwon and a strong performance from reserve Jim Petersen. beat the Lakers 105-95 Sunday.

The victory gives Houston a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven Western Conference final, and the

NBA Playoffs

Rockets can wrap up the series in Game 5 Wednesday at Los Angeles. A loss sends the series back to Houston for a sixth game Friday.

"We don't like being in this position," said Lakers center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. "But if we go down, we go down. Houston was definitely the better team today. We did a lot of good things, but not enough of them. We don't doubt oursevies. When you lose, you lose. That's all.'

For the second straight outing, the Lakers were unable to execute late in the game. A bucket by Abdul-Jabbar pulled the Lakers within 96-92 with four minutes to go. Houston's Ralph Sampson, who spent 18 minutes of the second half on the bench because of foul trouble. countered with a inside shot to push Houston's lead to 98-92 at the three-minute mark.

The Lakers got a free throw from James Worthy with 2:23 showing, then did not score again until Worthy hit a layup with just over 30 seconds left. By then, it was too late.

"It's the same thing as the other games," said Lakers guard Magic Johnson, "They killed us on the boards. We have to do something about it. If we don't correct it by Wednesday, they'll bury

The Rockets have outrebounded the Lakers in every game of the series, including 49-38 Sunday.

Fitch was pleased his team was able to win without Sampson or starting guard Lewis Lloyd having a strong game. Sampson played just 27 minutes (21 in the first half) and scored 12 points. grabbed 8 rebounds and picked up 5 fouls. Lloyd. who scored 20-plus points in the two previous games, played 30 minutes and scored just 5

Instead, Rodney McCray and Petersen did the job inside, and Robert Reid sparked the outside attack. McCray scored 12 points and grabbed 12 rebounds while Peterson, playing for Sampson, finished with 13 rebounds.

"Petersen hurt us on the boards and got some points inside," said Lakers forward Kurt Rambis. "We can't concentrate on just one or two guys. Houston is playing with unbelievable confidence. That's what it takes to win championships."

Reid shot well from the outside, finishing with 23 points.

Worthy led the Lakers with 26 points. Abdul-Jabbar scored 24 and Johnson 20.

"Our effort was great," said Lakers coach Pat Riley. "The point is to make the other team crack, and Houston isn't cracking. We need a more sustained effort if we want to come back. We haven't been able to stop Akeem yet, and we had four bodies on him at times.

"We knew they weren't going to fold," Riley said. "This may be the most severe challenge we've had to face this year."

Bosox Top Texas, But Lose Nipper

BOSTON (UPI) - The Boston Red Sox, the surprise league ERA leader early in the season. will have their pitching depth tested now.

In a 5-4, 10-inning victory over Texas Sunday, the Red Sox lost right-hander Al Nipper for six

The injury occurred in the sixth inning when Nipper covered the plate on a tag play after a wild pitch. Catcher Rich Gedman fired to Nipper, who blocked the plate on Larry Parrish attempting to score from third.

The pitcher left the field on a stretcher and underwent surgery at the University of Massachusetts Medical Center in Worcester. He is expected to make a complete recovery. "The doctor said it would be approximately sometime in July when he will be able to pitch a game again." said team spokesman Jim Samia. "We're looking at six weeks or more for recovery.' Nipper, 9-12 with the Red Sox last year, was 3-4 this season with a 3.68 ERA in 51 1-3 innings before Sunday's game. Texas, one game out of first place in the AL West, took leads into the bottom of both the ninth and 10th, but could not hold either one. Bob Stanley, 2-1, was the winner. Greg Harris, 2-6. took the loss.

The winning runs scored when Texas right fielder George Wright's throwing error allowed Steve Lyons and Marty Barrett to score with one out in the bottom of the 10th.

Wright attempted a shoe-string catch, missed, then threw the ball into the dugout, allowing two runs to score. Boston nearly botched the play with a base-running mistake. "When I went toward second, I saw Steve coming back and yelled at him, 'What are you doing here?" said Barrett, "and he started to head towards third."

Wright tried to capitalize, but failed. "Anytime you look up and you see two men on a base, there's a good chance you'll get one," he said. "That's the first time I've been involved in anything like that." White Sox 5, Royals 1

At Chicago, Carlton Fisk hit a three-run homer, and Floyd Bannister. 2-4, scattered seven hits in seven innings to give the White Sox their fifth straight victory. Chicago has won eight of 10 games since Manager Tony LaRussa received a reprieve from club management May 9. Bret Saberhagen fell to 2-4.

Yankees 11, Mariners 3

At New York, Bobby Meacham had three hits and two RBI, and Gary Roenicke belted a two-run homer to highlight a 16-hit Yankees attack. Dennis Rasmussen. 4-1, went seven innings for the victory. Mike Morgan, 3-4, lasted 3 1-3 innings, giving up seven hits and three runs. Twins 5, Brewers 3

At Milwaukee, Bert Blyleven threw a four-hitter. and Kirby Puckett hit a two-run double to lift the Twins. Blyleven, 4-3, notched his third complete game and the 12th of the season for Minnesota staff. Tim Leary, 3-4, took the loss.

Orioles 8, A's 2 At Baltimore, Eddie Murray drove in seven runs, four with his 14th career grand slam, to power the Orioles. Murray highlighted a six-run seventh with his seventh homer. He is tied with Gil Hodges for eighth place on the all-time grand slam list. Rich Bordt improved to 2-0 and Chris Codiroli fell to 3-4.

Blue Jays 10, Indians 2

At Toronto, Damaso Garcia, who earlier this week burned his uniform in frustration, delivered a pair of two-run singles to lead the Blue Jays. Jim Clancy, 4-2, pitched a seven-hitter over eight innings for victory. Cleveland, since winning 10 in a row, has lost five straight and nine of its last

NIPPER OUT FOR 6 WEEKS

BOSTON (UPI) - Doctors say Boston Red Sox pitcher Al Nipper will be lost to the team for about six weeks while he recovers from a 4-inch gash on his right knee suffered in Sunday's game against the Texas Rangers.

The 27-year-old righthander underwent a 75-minute operation to repair the cut Sunday night at the University of Massachusetts Medical in Worcester, and team physician Dr. Arthur Pappas said he expects Nipper to make a "full recovery.

Pappas, who performed the surgery, said through a team spokeman the cut had torn through 80-85 percent of the vastumedialis, one three major muscles surrounding the knee. He said no ligaments had been damaged. Pappas said the gash had missed the knee cap by half an inch. Everything in the knee joint was okay. There were no torn ligaments," said team spokesman

Samia said Nipper will wear a splint for several days to allow doctors to check for infection before the knee is placed in a cast. He said it was not certain when Nipper would be released from the hospital, but said he would begin "light rehabilitation" exercises today. "The doctor said it would be approximately sometime in July when he will be able to pitch a game again. We're looking at six weeks or more for recovery," Samia said.

He said Pappas made no prediction about whether Nipper's pitching would ultimately be affected by the injury.

Sanderson Takes For The Cubbies

HOUSTON (UPI) - Chicago Cubs pitcher Scott Sanderson won a game at the plate instead of from the mound.

Sanderson was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded in the second inning Sunday and received credit for the game-winning RBI in Chicago's 5-2 victory over the Houston Astros. The left-hander, however, had to leave the game with a bruised right knee, and Guy Hoffman took over for Sanderson to record his first major-league victory since 1983. "It's a tough way to get an RBL" said

Sanderson, who pitched one inning, "but I'll take Cubs pitchers have four of Chicago's last 13 game-winning RBL The Cubs also turned to the sacrifice in an effort to boost their offense, getting a total of five successful sacrifices from Jody Davis, Ryne Sandberg and leadoff hitter Bob Dernier.

"We had to do something to get some numbers up on the board." Cubs manager Jim Frey said. "and I felt if we got some runners in scoring position, something good might just come out of

The Cubs took a 4-0 lead in the second, Ron Cey drew a leadoff walk, and Gary Matthews legged out an infield hit. Davis sacrificed, and Bob Knepper intentionally walked Shawon Dunston to load the bases before Sanderson was hit by a Dernier squeezed home Matthews, making the score 2-0. Davey Lopes doubled off the wall in center to score Dunston and Sanderson.

Hoffman, 1-1, pitched 5 1-3 innings of four-hit relief, and Lee Smith worked 2 1-3 innings to record his fifth save.

Expos 8, Padres 3

At San Diego, National League home run leader Hubie Brooks highlighted a seven-run first inning with a grand slam that carried the Expos. Floyd Youmans, 3-3, pitched seven innings for the victory. San Diego starter Mark Thurmond, 2.3, failed to retire any of the six batters he faced. Reds 7, Pirates 3

At Cincinnati, Dave Parker hit a three-run homer in support of Tom Browning's first victory of the season. Browning, 1-4, scattered six hits over six innings to pick the first victory of his sophomore season and first overall since Sept. 28. his 20th victory of 1985. Mets 8, Dodgers 4

At Los Angeles, George Foster homered in his first two at-bats, and Tim Teufel added a two-run single to back Randy Niemann's first majorleague victory since 1982. Niemann, 1-2, pitched 3 2.3 innings of scoreless relief. Foster's homers made a loser of starter Jerry Reuss, 2-2.

Bravos 5, Cardinals 3 At Atlanta. Bob Horner cracked two home runs for the 25th time in his career, backing the combined six-hit pitching of Zane Smith and Paul Assenmacher. Smith improved to 4.3 and Assenmacher picked up his third save. John Tudor, 3-3, took the loss. Giants 4, Phillies 1

At San Francisco, Jeff Robinson pitched 3 2-3 innings of one-hit relief, and the Giants took advantage of five Philadelphia errors. Robinson entered with the bases loaded and one out in the sixth and induced Glenn Wilson to ground into a double play. Robinson struck out six for his fourth save.

Sutcliffe expected to be ready

CHICAGO (UPI) - Cubs pitcher Rick Sutcliffe remained under observation in a Houston hospital Sunday night after a bout with food poisoning. but was expected to rejoin his team in Chicago Monday, a club spokeswoman said.

Sutcliffe, hospitalized during Saturday night's game against the Astros, also was expected to make his scheduled start Tuesday night in Atlanta, team spokeswomen Sharon Pannozzo said from Chicago Sunday night.

The right-hander, who is 1-6 this season, was one of four Cubs who got sick Saturday night. The others affected were Leon Durham, Ron Cey and Gary Matthews.

Matthews and Cey were in Sunday's starting lineup, and Durham was inserted later.

Pannozzo said the four, along with catcher Jody Davis, ordered sandwiches Saturday afternoon from room service at Houston's Stouffer's Hotel.

The players said on Sunday they suspected that bad mayonnaise was the cause of the food potential. Of the five, only Davis did not use mayonnaise on his sandwich, and he did not

IN BRIEF

Snider, Bettenhausen Complete Fastest Indy 500 Field In History

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) - Veterans George Snider and Gary Bettenhausen completed the field for the 70th Indianapolis 500, bumping Dick Simon, and creating the fastest starting lineup in the race's history.

The 33 starters in next Sunday's race qualified with an average speed of 210.358 mph, surpassing year's 208.138

Rain delayed Sunday's opening of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway until 3 p.m., and mandatory practice delayed the start of qualifying attempts until 4 p.m. With a vacancy in the field after Saturday's time trials, there was concern among all the drivers how much time would be available

Under thick, dark clouds, Snider filled out the field, qualifying an A.J. Foyt backup March-Cosworth at 209.025

"We weren't sure what was going to happen with the weather or what car we were going to run." said Snider. who has qualified for 21 Indianapolis races, most of the time putting Foyt reserve cars into the field.

Steve Chassey made an unsuccessful run, setting the stage for an emotional final qualifying attempt by Bettenhausen. He had already waved off two previous runs that, unknown at the time, would have made the field.

Bettenhausen, a 14-time starter who had not made the field in four years, qualified with an average of 209.756 mph. He bumped Dick Simon, the slowest of the first 33 qualifiers.

'Believe me, it's unbelieveable how I feel right now." said a tearful Bettenhausen. "The only thing better would be to win the race. I've dreamed of this since 1980," when he finished third.

Pearson Registers 1st Tour Win

CHATHAM, N.J. (UPI) - Pat Bradley has her $2 million or what's left of it after taxes — and Becky Pearson has something even more precious to her.

After seven years of trying. Pearson registered her first LPGA victory Sunday when a 3-foot birdle putt on the final hole provided her a one-shot success in the $200,000 Chrysler-Plymouth Classic.

Meantime, Bradley could do no better than a tie for 11th place with her 72-217, but her $3.425 enabled her to become the first woman golfer to surpass $2 million in career earnings at $2,000,346.

It would be difficult to determine which of the two is feeling better.

"I'm sure Pat feels terrific, but to me my first victory means more," Pearson said before running off to a party. "I can't relate to $2 million.

Pearson, after starting the day two shots behind leader Betsy King, closed with a 2-under-par 71 for a one-shot decision over King and tour rookle Deb Richard. Her victory was worth $30,000, and in contrast to Bradley, her lifetime earnings amount to $243,239.

Pohl Gets First PGA Victory

FORT WORTH, Texas (UPI) - Dan Pohl, regarded as one of the best players on the PGA tour never to have won a tournament, lost the latter half of that distinction Sunday. The hard-luck reputation of Payne Stewart, meanwhile.

was greatly enhanced. Pohl beat Stewart on the first hole of sudden death in the Colonial National Invitation Sunday to end a tournament plagued by rain but blessed by a wild finish.

Soon after the final round began, there were 16 players gathered within two shots at the top, and before the day was over, Bernhard Langer and Tom Watson threatened to slip into the winner's circle.

It finally was left to Pohl and Stewart to decide the event.

shortened to 54 holes by Saturday's day-long rains. "It's hard to explain how I feel," said Pohl, who joined the tour in 1978 and was without a victory until his triumph Sunday. "It's been a long time coming. I've knocked at the door many times, but haven't been able to

Bodine Keeps Running, Wins

DOVER, Del. (UPI) - To NASCAR Grand National driver Geoff Bodine, Sunday's victory was simple.

"Today was a matter of not making any mistakes, and keeping everything working." he said after capturing the Budweiser 500 at the Dover Downs Speedway. "The fact that I found a groove I could run in just before a late caution, and that I was able to stay cool, and that the crew got me out of the pits faster than Dale Earnhardt were all factors," explained the Massachusetts-born Bodine.

running." Bodine took the lead in the 457th lap when he was the first of six cars running on the lead lap to come out of the pits during a caution period. The caution was brought about by a spectacular crash that sent Jody Ridley to a local hospital where he was treated and released Sunday

"but the fact is that you can't win if you don't keep

Clutch Putts Lift Player

MALVERN, Pa. (UPI) - Gary Player made only two clutch putts Sunday in the final round of the United Hospitals PGA Senior tournament at Chester Valley Golf Club, and needed both for victory.

Player sank a 6-footer for his only birdie of the round. and a 5-footer on the final hole to clinch a one-shot victory over Bob Charles and Lee Elder, who each shot final rounds of three-under par 67. "I really played well today," Player said. "I played better than I did on Friday when I shot the 66. But I just couldn't buy a putt today."

Player, who had a one stroke lead after the first two rounds, missed short birdle putts on the second, third, fourth, and eighth holes, and blew a 3-footer on the ninth that led to his only bogey in a round of 70.

Hawks, Savages Open With Flurry

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

If the opening tournament is any indication of things to come. the Seminole Hawks and Seminole Savages should be about ready to break out the suitcases.

A year ago, both of the Seminole Softball Club teams did some heavy traveling as the Savages and Hawks advanced to the American Softball Association nationals. This past weekend, in the teams' first tournament of the 1986 season, the Hawks took first place and the Savages second at the West Orange Invitational.

The Hawks, the club's 12 and under all-star team, rolled to four straight victories in winning the tourney. They opened up with a 7.2 win over Conway followed by an 8-4 triumph over Rockledge. a 4-3, eight-inning win over West Orlando and a 10-1 rout of West Orlando in the final.

"This is a good start toward her three hits with the nationals." Hawks' manager Schrupp was 2 for 3. Larry Risse, who managed last

In this past weekend's tourney. April Manning led the Hawks at the plate as she went 7 for 11 (.636 average) with a double, triple and four RBIs. Connie Bonaventure was 7 for 12 (.583) with three RBIs, Maria Montalvo 5 for 9 (.555) with two ribbies, Mishelle Davis 5 for 11 (.454) with a homer and four RBIs and Christa Schroeffel 4-10 (.400) with a double and three

Without El Nino, More Hurricanes Thought Possible

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) - El Nino, the warm water current in the Pacific ocean that causes weather alterations around the world, and means fewer hurricanes for Florida. may not appear this year, scientists said.

El Nino, which means "the child" in Spanish, is the gradual warming of the Pacific Ocean around the equator and a subsequent shift in winds that causes unusual weather around the world. It sometimes causes violent changes in the global climate.

The most intense El Nino recorded was in 1982 and 1983. In those years water tornado activity was well below the average six storms per hurricane season, which runs from June 1 to Nov. 30, the newspaper said.

There was no sign of El Nino last year and there were seven hurricanes, said William P. Gray, a weather researcher who uses El Nino as an indicator to predict hurricane activity.

"There's no question," he said. "With El Nino, hurricane activity goes way down, regardless of the other factors."

Packager Aims To Foil Tampering

MELBOURNE (UPI) - A possible answer to the rash of product tampering nationwide has taken Visual Product Systems Inc. from a business of three employees to a purchase offer of $1 million.

And VPS President Gil Slaton, a former operations manager with Jell-O, says he is glad he turned down a Japanese company's offer for his patented process that seals products in virtually tamper-proof packages.

Slaton founded VPS in 1984. Today, the privately held business employs 16 people, has a sales office in New Jersey near major drug manufacturers and expects to double its sales this year due to concerns with product

'What's happening is the stores are putting pressure on the manufacturer." Slaton said. "They're saying. 'Unless you have a tamper-evident package, we're not going to handle your product."

VPS boasts such clients as major pharmaceutical industry players Squibb. Lederle and Ciba-Geigy. And Slaton said 30 other companies have inquired about the VPS system on the heels of recent drug tampering in Orlando, Houston, New York and elsewhere.

Miami Trip Last-Minute Decision

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) - A British tourist who remained in a coma nearly one week after being kidnapped and beaten decided to come to Miami on vacation at the last minute. friends said.

The story of Katherine Jones, 27, a nurse who was dragged from a telephone booth on a busy Miami Beach street May 12 and found left for dead in a remote Hollywood, Fla. field the following day, has prompted the sympathy of area residents. They have started a fund to help pay for Miami accommodations for her family, said Miami beach police spokesman Howrad Zeifman.

Her sister, brother-in-law and flance were flown to Miami by Eastern Airlines from London.

Jones might never have come to Miami at all. 'She talked all winter of going away to somewhere warm." said Peter Dixon, a student who shared a house with Katherine Jones. "She's been thinking of going to Malta, but then all of a sudden there was a late cancellation and good deal on the States and she took it." "It was very much a last-minute thing to do."

Assassination Plots Alleged

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) - Plots to assassinate a U.S. ambassador and a former Nicaraguan rebel leader aimed to discredit the leftist Sandinista regime, a report said.

The report, published in the Fort Lauderdale News/Sun Sentinel Sunday, quoted John Mattes, a federal public defender in Miami who said his client, Jesus Garcia, was asked to join the alleged plot against U.S. Ambassador to Costa Rica Lewis Tambs.

Garcia, a Cuban-American currently in jail in Miami on weapons charges, said he also "has some knowledge" of a plot against Eden Pastora, the contra leader who laid down arms Friday and asked for asylum in Costa Rica. He was not directly involved. Mattes said.

Sources said both murders were designed to look as if Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista regime was responsible, the newspaper reported. The killings would provoke international condemnation of the Sandinistas and perhaps even draw the United States directly into the conflict between the Nicaraguan government and rebels, known as contras, fighting to overthrow the regime, those sources said.

High Court Blow To Affirmative Action

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Supreme Court dealt affirmative action plans a major blow today, ruling unconstitutional a scheme that lays off white teachers before less experienced blacks if necessary to achieve racial balance.

The justices, on a 5.4 vote, sided with eight white public school teachers from Michigan who were laid off during a budget crunch in the 1970s and Board of Education.

Justice Lewis Powell, writing for the majority, said the layoff clause "operates against whites and in favor of certain minorities, and therefore constitutes a classification based on

He said there was not enough of a compelling state interest to support that classification and the plan was too broad.

The layoff clause, adopted in 1972, was part of a policy to achieve the same percentage of black teachers as black students.

Officials believe the find is significant and they hope to have radio carbon tests conducted on the bones by summer to determine their age before allowing the bones to be reburied. John Pousson. archaeologist with the National Parks Service in Washington. said Thursday.

Because no one knows how many people the bones represent. Pousson said a proposal under discussion would put them in one grave that would be marked by "some kind of monument.

Pousson said American Indian groups would be consulted before the burial so a ceremony could be arranged.

"We would honor reasonable requests for whatever ritual they will choose how to honor, might want to invoke to ensure the reburial is correct," he said, Long before the sandy dot of such as placing the bones in the land became an immigration grave facing the rising or setting ... Though this limits the significance of the find, it hasn't dampened interest in the bones and the site.

Hammer said no nation would have been able to cope alone with the magnitude of the radiation exposure suffered in the Chernobyl accident.

In Moscow, Izvestia newspaper Sunday published notes written from hospital beds by six firefighters who answered the emerg the blazing atomic power station and later died of contamination.

Ivan Prishchepa wrote that he was watching television when the alarm summoned the fire trucks from Klev to Chernobyl, some 80 miles to "From the car I could see flames at the atomic plant." Prishchepa wrote. "I crawled up a fire ladder to the roof of the station. When I climbed up I saw the roof cover was destroyed.

"I stayed there until morning," he said, "Then I felt bad. We got washed and I went to the medical center.'

Izvestia did not say how long the men battled the fire from the reactor roof, but another firefighter said it was impossible to stay there more than 15 or 20 minutes before being taken away in ambulances.

The newspaper did not say whether the firemen were wearing special protective clothing and masks. It said firefighters "knew perfectly well what they were up against," although when they began battling the fire "they did not yet know the fire was not the most terrible enemy ... that it was radiation - that invisible, most perfidious enemy."

The newspaper ran photographs of Prishchepa and the five other clean-cut young men in firefighter's dress uniforms.

"The grateful memory of them will live on forever," the newspaper said. "There will be a time when we will breathe more easily."

Soviet authorities have said two people died during the April 26 accident at the giant nuclear power station and that seven of 35 people who suffered serious exposure to radiation died later.

But Dr. Robert Peter Gale, a U.S. surgeon who performed bone marrow transplants on radiation victims, said Friday that "24 of the 35 are still alive," indicating there have been 13 fatalities.

Three weeks after the explosion, more than 400 firemen have been taken off duty and replaced by new teams. Izvestia said.

The Russian republic newspaper, Sovietskaya Rossiya, told of three scuba divers who swam into radioactive water beneath the super-hot reactor It said the divers sloshed through contaminated water before diving into a basin beneath the reactor to drain thousands of gallons of reactor cooling water stored under the facility.

Experts feared a steam explosion, which could have caused more radiation contamination, if the water came into contact with the burning atomic

Soviet newspaper reports also revealed firefighters battled to keep the blaze away from large tanks of oil in a nearby engine room and a main cable shaft for the plant's electrical system. Officials feared further serious damage if the fire had spread to the oil tanks or the cable shaft.

The Communist Party newspaper Pravda Sunday again assailed the Western media for "exaggerating" reports of the disaster, saying the Chernobyl accident has become "a kind of test of political morality." "No leak of radioactivity can compare with the discharge of anti-Soviet lies and slander into the airwaves and into the pages of the Western press in recent weeks," the newspaper said. Moscow Radio said thousands of physicians were working in Kiev, the Ukrainian capital.

monitoring the environment and treating victims.

"Besides treating ordinary patients and rendering assistance to evacuees, physicians have come across a psychological consequence of the Chernobyl accident - the greater health consciousness of many Kiev residents," the radio said.

The radio interviewed a doctor who said 20,000 adults and 5,000 children asked for checkups.

"We found no malfunctions of their body systems," he said.

DEAR READERS: Three years ago I wrote a column telling women what to do if they have car trouble while they're alone at night. It read (in part): Turn your emergency blinkers on, or lift the hood to let passers-by know you have car trouble, then sit in your car with the windows rolled up and wait

Then a reader wrote in to say: "Abby, I wouldn't recommend getting out of the car even to lift the hood. I bought an inexpensive reflective banner with large red letters bearing the message 'Please Call Police.' It can be easily secured inside the windshield or rear window of a car with double-faced tape so the driver doesn't even have to get out of the car. It is highly visible both day and night. This discourages would-be robbers or rapists from attacking because the police could already be on their way." (The 3-foot reusable plastic banner folds up to glove-compartment size.)

DEAR ABBY: I need your help desperately. I have just lost my precious pet - a toy poodle. She was intelligent, sweet and very loving. Her name was Fe-Fe. I had her for nearly 13 years and I can't believe that she is gone. Abby, people just don't understand. She was like a child to me. No mother ever loved her baby more.

Someone told me that you had a helpful suggestion in your column about this very subject. What was it? I break down and cry when people laugh at me and say, "Snap out of it. After all, she was only a dog!"

Please help me. Abby. I can't handle this alone.

Long Arm Of Law Reaches Wyoming

The legendary long arm of the law - now aided by computers nabbed a former Orlando man in Wyoming recently on a charge of passing a bad $100 check in Seminole County in 1981.

James R. Reynolds, 25, now of Denver. pleaded guilty Wednesday and faces up to a year in the county jail when sentenced by Circuit Judge Robert McGregor June 27.

According to court records, Reynolds wrote the check on a closed bank account in June, 1981. The bank reported the incident and the State Attorney's Office issued a warrant for Reynolds' arrest but he was no longer at his address when a deputy went to serve the warrant. Reynolds name was then put into the national crime computer system.

On Feb. 13. Reynolds, a truck driver, was arrested in Chevenne, Wvo., on a charge of driving with a suspended license. The next day Florida began extradition proceedings. Reynolds waived his right to an extradition hearing and consented to come to Florida to face the charge.

In another case, a Midway man who allegedly sold a gun and a rented television then reported them stolen has been sentenced to 20 weekends in jail.

Alexis L. Bradley, 26, of 2154 Center St., was sentenced by Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffler who also ordered Bradley to serve 3 years probation, make resitution, pay court costs and complete 100 hours of community service.

According to an arrest report, a deputy reported recovering Rent America's television from a Titusville couple who said they paid $150 for it on Jan. 10. He also found the shotgun in the hands of a new owner in Titusville, a sheriff's report said. Bradley could have received up to a year in the county jail.

In other court action: Donald Steven Bullard, 25, of 112 Avacado Ave., Sanford, arrested Feb. 27, after he reportedly pursued and threatened a man who he thought was a burglar. Bullard has pleaded guilty to aggravated assault. McGregor set sentencings for June 27. Bullard could recieve up to a year in the county jail. According to court records, on Feb. 27 he arrived at Sanford Auto Auction on State Road 46, just west of Sanford, with a Sanford woman. They were reportedly searching for a suspect who had burglarized the woman's home. Bullard reportedly confronted a laborer inside a vehicle at the auction. Though the woman told Bullard the laborer was not the man who burglarized her home, he reportedly brandished a hammer and threatened to do a "hammer job on him." according to a sheriff's report. Two men came out of the auction building and intervened. One convinced Bullard to put the hammer in the woman's car. Deputies then arrived and arrested him.

-Donald Gannon, 35, of 252 Green Acres Camp, Altamonte Springs, arrested in August and charged with battery after he reportedly dragged his wife out of their trailer and onto the ground. He was sentenced by Leffler to one year probation and ordered to pay the Public Defender's Office $350. -Charles Keith Anderson, 21, of 812 Richbee Dr.. Altamonte Springs, arrested in
