CONVICT STATUS READJUSTS ITSELF TO REFORMS ENACTED BY THE RECENT LEGISLATURE

ACCORDING TO OFFICIALS AT STATE CAPITOL WHO DEAL WITH THEM

LACK OF ABILITY

On Part of Some of the Guards Was to Blame for Too Much Whipping

(By The Associated Press)
TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 23.—That convict business is rapidly readjusting itself to the reforms enacted by the recent legislature, according to officials here who have to do with them. Their observation of the effectiveness of the new rules and regulations promulgated to take the place of corporal punishment and conditions in the camps generally under the new system in its first weeks of operation has caused a feeling of optimism to gradually supplant the apprehension freely expressed in some quarters at the outset.

"And the sooner some of the guards who are having trouble realize that the fault lies primarily in their lack of ability rather than the abolition of the whip the better off conditions will be," one high official stated.

Scattering reports of restlessness and decreased man power continue to come in from some of the camps. There has been a marked falling off in these unfavorable reports, however, and the new system, on the other hand, has been highly commended by quite a few of the convict wardens, especially among the old-timers.

"It was to be expected that some trouble would be encountered at the outset," this same official stated. He would not permit the use of his name, asserting that the "less we say and the sooner we quit talking about convicts the sooner things will return to normal." He has had closely to do with prisoners for several years, however, and although he did not express any opposition to the abolition of the whip he followed the legislative fight closely and with undoubted apprehensions over the outcome. "I have no doubt," he continued, "that some of the less efficient guards who knew nothing but the whip, so to speak, were so resentful at its being taken away that they probably intimidated to the prisoners that they were free now. Naturally the men were quick to take advantage of any affected helplessness on the part of the guards and those of this type were largely responsible for any trouble that they had. The other fellows who in the absence of substitute punishment at the outset, set about to devise ways and means of disciplining their men a whole-hearted, fair spirit have had little trouble."

Specifications for the solitary confinement cells as agreed to by the state road department some time ago. Many of the road camps have now become equipped with them, while the others are rapidly installing them. This form of punishment together with restricted rations for the more serious offenses, is generally developing as an effective substitute for the whip, reports indicate.

The prison department of the commissioner of agriculture's office is keeping in close touch with conditions in state and county camps. Camp wardens have been directed to report their observations of the new system periodically and from time to time are given suggestions as to the application of the new rules and regulations by the prison department. Captain C. E. King, of a state road camp at Bathona, has found that restricted rations and a very little time in solitary confinement has proved highly effective. One prisoner who turned his spleen upon the guards and refused to work was of an entirely different frame of mind, Captain King reported, after serving one hour in confinement. Another man who had to spend the greater part of a day and night under this punishment before he was cured of his primitive propensities, and a third report by Captain King read like a military indictment, as cryptic and

FLEECE RECTOR FALSE STOCKS AND BONDS

Hornswaggled Washington Church Parish in Deal

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 23.—A mass of cancelled checks, notes, stocks and other documents were brought to light here today as outward evidence of how several men obtained a hundred and fifty thousand in personal funds from Monignor James O'Brien, former rector of St. Peter's Catholic church of this city, on stocks regarded by legal representatives of Monignor and church parish as of doubtful value. Whether there be any prosecution is yet to be determined. O'Brien, aged 83, is said to have acted within his rights in handling the moneys.

Rev. Dr. Tikhon Has Been Released From Moscow Prison

To Await Trial by Civil Authorities for Activities

(By The Associated Press)
MOSCOW, June 23.—Rev. Dr. Tikhon was released from prison today to await trial by civil authorities for counter revolutionary activities, denies reports that he was tortured while in jail asserting he was well treated.

brief was it in form. But in the words of a prison attaché, it expressed a "mouthful." It said: "Prisoner—, number—, tried to be a bad man. We made a good man of him."

A prison supervisor in his rounds ran across one warden who in his native zeal to run his camp, the legislative notwithstanding, went too far in the way of solitary confinement. At that time, the term "solitary confinement" had not been put into practical form by the state officials. The guards had been told to put the unruly prisoners in "solitary confinement" and left to their own interpretation of the term. The guard in question constructed a box in the shape of and size of a coffin. In fact it resembled a death box in every way. A negro prisoner had grown beyond his stripes and so the captain laid him but in the box. It had ample ventilation at the head, but certainly capable of conjuring up unpleasant visions. The negro stayed in there, lying on his back for about an hour, the captain stood beside the box. Finally the negro asked: "Boss, what's ah go to do to get out th' thing?"

"Apologize to the guard for cursing him and promise to go to work," the captain replied. "Well, I'll stay in heah," the negro replied. The captain started to walk away and the negro called to him, with the plaint: "Boss, I'se libe to die in heah." When the captain assured him that in that case nothing would remain but to throw dirt over him and he would be buried without any further expense on the part of the state, the recalcitrant decided he would make the necessary amends and go to work. Whereupon he was freed and has been a good convict since.

The supervisor, however, made the warden tear up his box and build a regulation cell.

A member of the last legislature, who is now attending the summer teachers' school at the Woman's College here, reported that he was travelling in his automobile between Jacksonville and Tallahassee the other day and noticed that there seemed to be a better feeling among the convicts at the camps he passed. At one camp he thought he would have a little fun, and yelled to the guards: "Don't whip them." The negro convict before he was cured of his primitive propensities, and a third report by Captain King read like a military indictment, as cryptic and

PRESIDENT TALKS ON POST-WAR REVIVAL OF BUSINESS IN AMERICA NATIONAL MOBILIZATION NEEDED

Of Business, Labor and Government Forces to Overcome Depression

(By The Associated Press)
BUTTE, June 23.—Presenting here in Butte today a report on post-war revival of business, President Harding declared the national mobilization of business, labor and government forces to overcome depression "was no less accomplished than great co-operation to win the war." Outlining the steps taken under the government direction to wipe out the unemployment and restore confidence in business the president said: "If our procedures have been rather plain and old fashioned they have yet produced results that justify a pride and require no apology."

"If we are accused of getting no where in particular," he added, "We may very well reply that at any rate we have been able to stay right here and that we regard it as a good place, that day by day we are getting better and better." The address was the first of two scheduled for today. The other will be given tonight at Helena.

WITNESS SAW HIGGINBOTHAM STAND ON TAERT'S BODY AS HE APPLIED THE LASH

Clashes Between Attorneys Still Take up Time of the Court

(By The Associated Press)
LAKE CITY, June 23.—J. S. Tyson, former employe of the Putnam Lumber Company, but recently released from prison, was the state's first witness today in the trial of Thomas W. Higginbotham charged with murder in connection with the death of Martin Tabert. Tyson testified he saw the whipping of Tabert and counted 97 lashes. On cross examination he said Higginbotham applied the lash while standing on the prisoner and that the strap weighed seven and one-half pounds. On direct examination Assistant State's Attorney asked Tyson whether or not after he was summoned as a witness for the state he was served with a warrant charging larceny, and arrested, convicted and given six months sentence by a judge who is a witness for the defense. Objection to question by defense counsel was sustained. Tyson said he had been accused of stealing a pistol, the alleged theft having taken place some time before he was summoned as a witness.

Nina Bell, another former guard at the convict camp testified he saw Higginbotham give Tabert 110 lashes. When Tabert "Begged the Lord for mercy," Bell testified, "Higginbotham remarked, 'Don't call on the Lord, call on me, I'm doing the whipping.'" Objection by defense to question whether Higginbotham was drinking was sustained. On cross examination the witness was asked: "Do you know for a fact there's nothing to this prosecution except to get money out of the Putnam Lumber Company?" He replied: "I don't know it to be a fact but it seems to be."

CONFIDENT THAT DEMPSEY BOUT TAKE PLACE

Despite Disquieting Reports of Financial Difficulties

(By The Associated Press)
SHELBY, Mont., June 23.—Confident that the Dempsey-Gibbons fight will take place despite disquieting reports of the financial difficulties Shelby today swung into the task of caring for the influx of visitors.

HELENA, Mont., June 23.—If the July 4 fight at Shelby does not materialize, every dollar which is paid for tickets must be refunded and "Mr. Kearns and Mr. Dempsey can not sit idly by, knowing as they have known that tickets were being sold, without rendering themselves blame-worthy and culpable, under our law," according to a statement issued this afternoon by Attorney General W. D. Rankin.

Following is the statement: "The persistent rumors that Dempsey will not fight in Montana unless the last dollar of an unconscionable bargain is in his hands by July 2, if true, presupposes that the laws of Montana against obtaining money under false pretenses are impotent.

"The state of Montana is interested in seeing that its people are not defrauded. Mr. Kearns and Mr. Dempsey can not continue to sit idly by knowing as they have known that tickets were being sold without rendering themselves blame-worthy, and culpable, under our laws, unless every dollar is refunded the purchasers of tickets in event no contest takes place by reason of Dempsey's refusal to appear.

"Do you keep a car, Mrs. R.?" Immediately came the reply, "No, sir."

"How many children have you?" "Four," was the answer.

I have heard of some men and some women who have cars in which to ride to church, and who haven't four husky boys to get ready for Sunday school who think it a rather serious matter to be on hand when the bells ring at 9:30. I became rather curious to know how this woman had solved the problem.

"Mrs. R.—what time do you get up Sunday mornings," and without a moment's hesitation came the answer, "six o'clock."

For a woman who has looked after the multiplicity of needs of a husband and four children for seven days during the week to get up on a summer Sunday morning at the unearthly hour of six o'clock calls for an investigation, and so I proceeded to investigate.

"Mrs. R., why do you go to Sunday school?" The reply was so quick that one could tell that her convictions were as well defined as Park Avenue, or the shore line of Lake Monroe.

"There are many reasons why I go to Sunday school," said this woman who gave evidence of fine common sense. "I think it will do me good to go. I like the Sunday school as fine. I like the folks. I like the fellowship. I like the teaching and the music. And then I must go for my children's sake." And then I broke in with another question: "Why do you take your children to Sunday school?"

"I want my children reared aright," was the answer.

And this ended the interview, but it did not end my thinking. The beans and the conversation came back to me again and again. In that interview I found the ideals which will save the American home if it is to be saved, and there I found the ideals which will save this country if it is saved.

The courage which gets this mother up at 6 o'clock on summer Sunday mornings that she may be ready and have her children ready to leave home early enough to walk eight or ten blocks to church—I say such courage and such convictions as these should cause hundreds of Sanford's citizens to completely change their Sunday morning program. There should be fifteen hundred in the white Sunday schools of Sanford every Sunday morning.

"Mrs. R.," I said, "With interest I have observed that you are attending Sunday School, and I have walked

GREAT BRITAIN'S REFUSAL AND REJECTION OF PROPOSAL FOR TWELVE MILE LIMIT

STATE RESTS ITS CASE TODAY IN BENNETT TRIAL

Charged With Killing of Herbert Caruthers in Tampa

(By The Associated Press)
TAMPA, June 23.—The state failed to rest its case this morning in the trial of Raymond O. Bennett, charged with killing Herbert Caruthers May 23, jury going to view the scene of the shooting.

The state rested its case later in the day. The defense began presenting witnesses. They announced they expected to complete the case late today.

All of Thursday was taken up with the direct and cross examination of witnesses for the state. Contradictions on material points developed in the testimony of several of the state's witnesses. In his testimony Wednesday Policeman Raulerson stated that when he approached the scene of the shooting a minute or so before midnight of May 23, a woman was supporting the wounded man, whom Raulerson at the time did not know, and that this woman held the falling man until he was almost down on the sidewalk. J. E. Hostetter, a chauffeur, testifying yesterday, said that an instant before the shooting he passed the scene of the tragedy and saw a group of three men—two wearing light suits and one in a dark suit with a mustache—standing in the street just off the sidewalk, with a woman, whom Hostetter described as of mature appearance and wearing a light dress and a large hat, standing close by on the sidewalk. Sidney V. Grose, the state's star witness and companion of Herbert M. Caruthers on the night of the tragedy, testified that at the time Caruthers was shot there was no woman near him and that he fell on the sidewalk after he was shot. Grose also testified that no man in dark clothes, nor any such group as was described by Hostetter, was at the scene of the shooting or near Bennett's automobile when the shooting occurred.

Some of the strongest advocates of using the ship seizure proposal were said to be the prohibition unit. Mr. Gilbert made it plain, however, after a conference with Prohibition Commissioner Haynes, Assistant Secretary Moss and Commissioner Blair of the Internal Revenue during the day that an announcement of the treasury's policy would be forthcoming from his office. He added that ample notice would be given if the treasury decided actually to promulgate the ship seizure regulations.

Reports that the acting head of the department had admonished Commissioner Haynes against too strong an advocacy of the seizure proposal were not officially confirmed. Mr. Gilbert, replying to questions, said that the treasury proposed to guide its own policies. Mr. Haynes declined to talk in any way, referring inquiries to Mr. Gilbert.

Name Engineers to Set Values on St. Johns Bridges

W. C. Jackson, county commissioner for the DeLand district, has named C. M. Rogers, of Daytona, as engineer to represent the DeLand district in making an appraisal of the Crow's Bluff and Monroe bridges across the St. Johns river, which connect DeLand with Lake county and Seminole county. Commissioner Thurabay, it is understood, has engaged the services of a Sanford engineer to represent his district in making an appraisal of the violation of both the bridges in question.

According to the resolution as passed at the last meeting of the board of county commissioners the bridge companies have the right to appoint a third engineer to serve with those appointed by the two commissioners in making this appraisal.

A special bill was passed at the last session of the legislature which empowers Volusia county to issue three warrants in an amount not to exceed $75,000 for the purchase of the two bridges. This is the price that has been set by the two bridge companies for the two bridges.

The franchise for the county on the Monroe bridge has about two years more to run, it is said, while that for the Crow's Bluff bridge is for a slightly longer period. A bill passed at the last session of the law-making body makes it impossible for any bridge to charge toll on state Road No. 8, from Jacksonville to Orlando, via Palatka and DeLand.—New Smyrna News.

HAS LEFT ADMINISTRATION OFFICIALS NO ALTERNATIVE BUT TO WAIT WILL OF CONGRESS

As to Revision of Law and in Meantime Refuse Admittance to Boats Shipped

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 23.—Great Britain's rejection of American proposal for prohibition 12 mile limit has left the administration officials no alternative, it was said authoritatively stated today, but to await the will of congress as to the revision law. Meanwhile to refuse admittance to ship liquor stores under penalty of seizure.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—Treasury officials revealed today, for the first time, that the proposal to seize liquor-carrying liners in American waters had reached the stage where new regulations to carry such a policy into effect had been drafted in tentative form and were in the hands of the prohibition unit.

Whether the ruling is to receive final approval, and be put into execution, depends on the foreign shipping lines themselves. Acting Secretary Gilbert said today he hoped such a course would be unnecessary, but it was reiterated at the treasury that a continuance of the present open disregard of the prohibition on importation would be dealt with in a vigorous manner as developments warranted.

Mr. Gilbert's statement is understood to have been made after he heard several ship companies were ready to abandon their program of bringing to this side of the Atlantic under seal a sufficient stock of bar liquors to supply passengers on the return trip. He had said previously that this government could not continue to tolerate what is regarded in some quarters as a studied effort by the foreign shipping companies.

Some of the strongest advocates of using the ship seizure proposal were said to be the prohibition unit. Mr. Gilbert made it plain, however, after a conference with Prohibition Commissioner Haynes, Assistant Secretary Moss and Commissioner Blair of the Internal Revenue during the day that an announcement of the treasury's policy would be forthcoming from his office. McKEE-JARROTT

Miss Helen Louise Jarrott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Jarrott, became the bride of John Wilbur McKee of Sanford, Florida, at a beautiful ceremony taking place last evening at 9 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, 1108 East Forty-eighth street.

The house was effectively decorated with Southern simlas, ferns and palms while a profusion of orange and peach colored gladioli carried out the wedding color scheme of peach and orange. The ceremony was performed before an improvised altar by the Rev. S. B. McGlohon, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of white organdie over metal cloth. A deep bertha of imported cut work embroidered adorned the tight basque bodice and bands of the same embroidery were inset in the full skirt which it also edged. Her veil of tulle worn very simply over her hair was held in place with a half wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and swansonias showered with real orange blossoms.

Miss Edie Wells, who was maid of honor, wore a dress of peach colored organdie over cloth of silver. The tight bodice and full skirt opened at the front on a straight panel of cloth of silver extending the entire length of the dress and rows of lace adorned the skirt. She carried a bouquet of Orphelia roses.

The bridesmaids, Miss Dorothy Allan and Miss Mildred Gribble, were dressed alike in orange organdie over cloth of silver. Their dresses, fashioned similarly with tight basque bodices and full skirts had soft bands of golden brown tulle outlining the necks and falling gracefully from one shoulder to the hems of the skirt which were effectively adorned with several rows of narrow metallic ribbons in shades of brown. They carried bouquets of sweetheart roses.

Randall Chase, of Sanford, Fla., was the bridegroom's best man and the groomsmen were John Register and Howard Jarrott. All of the men of the wedding party were in white.

Following the ceremony there was a reception. In the dining room where the bride's table was arranged the decorations were in white and green. Streamers of white tulle suspended from the chandelier were caught in large bows on the crystal candlesticks holding white tapers at the four corners of the table. White roses formed the centerpiece and at one end was the bride's cake in a large heart shape, iced in white and pierced by an arrow of silver.

Mrs. Jarrott, the mother of the bride, was gowned in grey crepe with a corsage bouquet of pink roses.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. McKee left for a wedding trip to New York where they will visit the bridegroom's parents in Schenectady. The bride wore for traveling a suit of sand colored Polret twill with a blue blouse and a hat of sand colored Neapolitan straw trimmed with a blue ostrich feather.

On their return they will make their home in Sanford, Fla.

Among the out-of-town guests for the wedding were Randall Chase, of Sanford, Fla.; J. B. Jarrott and C. E. Jarrott, of Florence, S. C.; Mrs. G. C. O'Connor, of Atlanta; Mrs. R. F. Britton, of Charleston; Mrs. R. F. Leem-hues, of Ohio; Mrs. F. J. Blackwood and F. J. Blackwood, Jr., of Greensboro, N. C.—Savannah Morning News.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Monday night, the Christian Endeavor executive committee, of the Presbyterian church, held its regular monthly business meeting at the home of Mrs. R. C. Maxwell.

The usual business was transacted, after which the Society Charts were gone over and checked up to date. The Summer Contest, which is to be carried on by the entire state, was investigated and the committee decided to enter this contest, which commences July 1. Full announcement will be made at the regular meeting Sunday night.

Several members of the Intermediate Society are to be promoted into the Senior Society in the near future, as they are of the senior age.

The committee agreed, since Sanford lost the 1924 state convention to Tampa, by the small majority of three votes, that we should try for the 1925 convention. We feel confident that with the support of the other organizations, which they so willingly gave this year, and with the impression we made in Miami that with a little advertising we can get the 1925 state convention for Sanford. In the opening address at Miami, Hon. W. J. Bryan offered the Endeavorers of Sanford his Celery field for a convention ground, if we secured the 1924 convention. We are confident that he will renew this offer next year.

The social committee is preparing plans for a "moonlight picnic" to be given at the F. T. Williams home, some time next week. The time and full particulars will be announced at the Sunday night meeting. All old and new members are urgently requested to be present and bring their friends. We are planning for a good time and your hearty support will be appreciated.

It will be our pleasure to have with us next Sunday evening, July 1, Miss Loyola Stacey, the State Intermediate Superintendent. She is a wonderful

Summer School Term At Women's College

TALLAHASSEE, June 28.—The summer school session at the Florida State college for Women has begun on its third week. Already 552 students have registered and it is expected within the next few days there will be several additions to the number. Students are in attendance from all sections of the state, and two other states are represented.

The personnel of the student body is far above the average and there is a seriousness of purpose and an evidence of determination on the part of the students to get the most out of the few weeks' attendance at the summer school. A large number are pursuing regular college work with the intention of coming year after year until they have won a sufficient number of credits to entitle them to a degree. Some, however, are attending summer school in an effort to make up time and so obtain their degrees earlier than their school mates who study only during the winter months.

Many of the summer school students are teachers, impelled by the desire for progress and on the alert for new ideas. Much has been said recently of the terms off interest, motivation, projects and type studies, and the public school teachers throughout the state, are improving the opportunity to meet the new theories and practices face to face.

The faculty of the state university and Woman's college have planned special courses to meet the needs of the public school teachers. The summer schools are enabling hundreds of these teachers, who have received through the educational magazines, a smattering knowledge of the new education, to get the needed vision the perspective and the proper balance.

WEEK FOR FARMERS AND FRUIT GROWERS IS SET

GAINESVILLE, June 28.—The date for the farmers' and fruit growers' week, to be held at the University of Florida, has been set for August 6 to 11. This annual event is arranged to give instruction, inspiration and entertainment to men and women who are especially interested in farm life. Special programs are being arranged in dairying, poultry, citrus culture, bee keeping, crop improvement, home economics and other subjects related to farm life.

The college of agriculture, the agricultural extension division, the Florida experiment station, the state plant board and the home economics department of the extension division will contribute to the program. There will be help from other departments of the University of Florida, and from outside sources. There will be special features throughout the week, with prominent men and women in agriculture and home economics taking part in the program. The instructional matter will be divided into sections, with a leader and program for each.

Provision is being made to offer accommodations in the dormitories of the university, where people can spend the entire week at a very small cost. The dining hall will be open to the visitors and they can get their meals at actual cost.

Farmers and fruit growers' week is intended to bring together the farmers and fruit growers of Florida and everything will be done to make their stay in Gainesville exceedingly profitable and entertaining.

A strong program, in charge of home economics specialists and dealing with various phases of home economics is being arranged. Every care and comfort will be offered to the women of Florida who come here to spend the week.

Farmers' week last year proved successful from every standpoint. Being new, it was something of an experiment. Several additional features will be added this year, and it will be bigger and better in every respect. The program and more definite announcements will appear at an early date.

C. E. worker and will bring us a fine message.

On Sunday night, June 17th, the convention Echo meeting was held. Miss Gayle Marshall, Robert Greene, Wm. Brunley and others gave enthusiastic reports of the convention, and preparation is being made for the greatest year our society has ever had.

Sunday, June 24, Victor Greene and Theo. Runge, who attended the after-convention trip to Cuba, gave some short reports on the trip. All these reports were very interesting and inspiring and after attending this great convention we should be prepared to do greater work than ever before.

Leader for Sunday, July 1, Miss Mildred Holly. Come to C. E. Sunday night, 7 p. m. at the Presbyterian church, corner Oak avenue and Third street. Everybody welcome.

Longwood Longs For New School House Other Improvements

LONGWOOD, June 28.—The County Board of Public Instruction has called an election to be held July 10th in this special tax school district for the purpose of voting on a bond issue of $30,000, the proceeds of which are to be used for a new school building at Lake Mary and a new Junior High School building to be erected on or close by the brick road midway between Longwood and Altamonte Springs which is the most central point and most convenient for the transportation of all pupils attending the school. The local trustees hope every qualified voter will turn out and vote for the bonds as it is imperative that new buildings be erected, as all of the old buildings are unsafe, unsanitary, obsolete and a disgrace to the communities where they are located. Everybody turn out and vote for bonds for schools.

Longwood is especially well served at present in the way of ice and bread, as there are three ice companies running daily delivery trucks and about three bakeries delivering hot bread and rolls daily right out of the oven.

The new municipal water works still hangs fire, the delay in beginning the work being caused by title to the land the plant is to be erected on is not yet perfected.

This locality has been very fortunate so far this season in the distribution of rain. There has been just enough moisture to keep crops growing in good shape and not enough at any time to do any damage, except to a few watermelon fields which were ruined. Orange and grapefruit trees were never in better condition than at present and there is a heavy crop of clear, smooth fruit, fully equal to last year in quality. Previous to the 1895 freeze, this was one of the largest orange growing districts in the state, and from the way new groves are now being set out, it will soon regain its prominence in that line.

D. W. Short has sold his fine home place, south of town, to parties from Pennsylvania, who will in the near future make it his home. Mr. Short will soon have another home just as good or better, as he is not going to leave this city.

The voters of this place always vote almost unanimously for bonds for roads. Why not vote UNANIMOUSLY FOR BONDS FOR BONDS?

Urges Dry Enforcement Inspector Be Removed

GREENVILLE, S. C., June 28.—Urging the North Carolina body of the joint pharmaceutical association of North Carolina and South Carolina in convention here, to ask the North Carolina prohibition director to remove Prohibition Enforcement Inspector Augustus W. Bradley of Salisbury for methods "high handed and most unreasonable," J. A. Goode of Asheville, head of the North Carolina delegation in an address yesterday evening continued:

"This association was one of the first professional bodies of our state to endorse prohibition and we will stand as its friend but such methods of inspection as used by Mr. Bradley can not be tolerated."

Attacking the use of patent medicines, President Goode urged that the profession of pharmacy back the state boards of health in their fight against certain patent medicines. Mr. Goode then recounted the story of the association's legislative fight in Raleigh.

Mr. Goode urged that laws be passed requiring medicine manufacturers to label containers plainly "showing ingredients which they claim will do such wonders."

Yesterday afternoon here the North Carolina association held a session separate from the South Carolina association and heard reports from officers including President Goode and Secretary J. C. Beard of Chapel Hill. Secretary F. W. Hancock of the North Carolina board of pharmacy also submitted his report.

The South Carolina association also held a session and heard an address by President T. P. Young of Greenwood and the report of Secretary Frank M. Smith of Charleston.

Last night there was a dance for the joint association. Today there will be a number of business sessions.

GENEVA

The "Backward Social" of No. 1 Circle of the Community Club was given at the home of Mrs. T. McClain and was a most successful affair with a fine attendance. Everything was carried out backwards, the entire afternoon. First a delicious lunch was served backwards, after which a series of games was carried out backwards. Ten pennies to land and ten pennies to give away was carried out the entire afternoon, which netted a nice sum of money. Every guest departed with a feeling that they enjoyed a very pleasant get-together afternoon.

Plant City Growers' Association Closes Its Biggest Year

Reports covering the business of the Plant City Growers' Association, read at the annual stockholders' meeting Saturday, proved the fiscal year just closed to have been the most successful in the history of the organization.

President F. E. DeVane, who presided over the meeting, which was attended by about 100 of the stockholders and all the directors except one, stated that the books of the Association had been completely audited, showing the business to be in very satisfactory shape, with net profit for the year amounting to $11,582.60. It had been decided, however, to put most of this amount back into the business, paying a dividend of 8 per cent to the stockholders.

Mr. DeVane said, that he was proud of the business and the organization that was owned and controlled by the farmers, and that its success was a sufficient refutation of the old idea that farmers could not make a success of their own business.

Secretary R. M. Anderson then read the auditor's report. He said that he was proud of the business, and that in spite of the fact that the business had grown steadily for the past six years, the past year had been the most successful in the history of the organization.

Mr. Anderson called attention to the fact that shares which had cost the owners $11.50 now had a book value of $90, and were actually worth more than that, as depreciation had been charged off on the buildings which had actually increased in value, due to the growth of the city.

PREDICT FALL OF PRICES IN BUILDING COST

CLEVELAND, June 28.—Predictions of falling prices in the cost of building and a general real estate activity were made by speakers at the opening session of the sixteenth annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards here. The convention, said to be the largest gathering of business men this year, attracted approximately 7,500 delegates from the United States and Canada.

Basing his conclusions on questionnaires issued to all real estate boards by the national association in May, Melvin L. Morse, real estate statistician of Wellesley Hills, Mass., also forecast some depressions for general business. He predicted no general crash; however, but a gradual decline of business in a series of steps.

"The demand for new buildings at the present level of costs is nearly filled," Mr. Morse stated, "but the need for new buildings, taking all classes as a whole, is by no means filled. When costs are reduced another lot of contracts will be forthcoming."

The extent of each drop "will depend mainly on the readiness of building material men and of labor trades to adjust themselves to the situation," he added. A marked depression would be prevented by the suburban movement of home building, which he said would rival the growth of the automobile, good roads, the movies or radio.

A general diminution of prices in the near future also was predicted by Congressman Theodore E. Burton of Ohio, who added that this would not be a real disadvantage to many because of the greater purchasing power of money. During the afternoon the realtors divided into seven divisional meetings.

Speaking before the property management division, Albert W. Swayze, of Chicago urged co-operative apartment building and ownership as a great step toward solution of the housing problem. It is practically impossible for the family of moderate means to live in its own bungalow and enjoy modern comforts because of high values, increased taxes and maintenance expense in the larger cities, he said.

Predictions that business rentals will remain high "because America is doing business on a higher level generally than ever in her history," were made by Mark Levy of Chicago in a talk before the property management group.

Pointing out great losses to both sellers and buyers, William C. Demorest of New York warned against under development of the subdivision.

SENATOR FLETCHER'S BROAD-MINDEDNESS.

Duncan U. Fletcher, senior United States senator from Florida, has given a striking bit of evidence of his broadmindedness, something that accounts, very largely, for the eminence he has attained in the national congress and in the esteem of people everywhere. Reference is to his recent participation in the trial of the Leviathan and his authorized statements with reference thereto, as reported in the Times-Union.

The incident to which reference is made, while of only passing importance, is important, however, in that it provides a illustration of one of the many estimable characteristics of the man who honors Florida, and himself as the senior senator from this state, through his very commendable attitude on public questions of moment no less than for the enormous amount of work worthily performed by him.

The broadmindedness displayed by Senator Fletcher has won for him much of the high regard in which he is held. He is a Democrat in politics, but an American citizen in thought and effort. He has never been heard to boast, or even say anything about his "100 per cent Americanism;" he lets his conduct speak for him, and it is more eloquent than words.

Senator Fletcher accepted an invitation to go on the trial trip of the Leviathan, in spite of all the "barking" of the "little fellows," those who sought to condemn the trip as a junket, which it was not, any more than when the city of Jacksonville, or any private individual, insists on a trial of a machine, a heating plant, or even an improved highway before accepting it from the contractor or builder. The trial of the Leviathan was nothing more or less, notwithstanding the contentions of the "little fellows."

Senator Fletcher, because of being a member of the commerce committee of the senate, was eminently entitled, to witness the trial of the Leviathan, a government vessel on which millions of dollars of the people's money has been expended. He represented the senate and the people on that trip. Before going, Senator Fletcher announced that if he saw anything on the trip that was not as it should be he would not hesitate to say so publicly and unreservedly.

The readers of the Times-Union know that, Senator Fletcher, as quoted on the first page of this paper on Tuesday, after returning from the trial trip, described it as "a history making event," and added: "I think the trial trip was advisable, and was well conducted, and the beneficial results from it will far outweigh its cost"—this because, as he says, this great vessel, now about to begin its peaceful voyage of the seas, gives "notice to the world that the United States were prepared, and at last determined, to take the proper place on the seas."

Only a fair, broadminded man, especially one who is in political life and prominence, would speak as Senator Fletcher has spoken and as he will continue to speak on all matters of public welfare and progress.—Times-Union.

FORD KEEPS HIS PROMISE MADE TO LITTLE GIRL CRIPPLE

FORT MYERS, June 28.—Despite the many demands made on his time, Henry Ford has not forgotten his promise to a little crippled girl at La Belle, near here. His promise—that of medical attention—came true the other day. A long trip to Detroit, Mich., a thing of the past, the little girl is now a patient in the manufacturer's hospital.

One day last winter a little girl, a cripple since early childhood, sat on the front porch of her home at La Belle. She was watching a host of little friends playing merrily in the street. Her gaze wandered from the children to a pair of crutches which were leaning against a nearby post. A tall man came by, and he spoke to her.

"Would you like to play with them?" he asked.

"Oh, yes," the little girl replied.

"Then you shall," the man told her.

Bessie Smith was the little cripple and Henry Ford was the stranger who addressed her. Mr. Ford has a winter home here and had been enjoying his customary daily walk when he saw the little girl.

The other day Bessie was informed that all arrangements had been made by Mr. Ford for her to enter his hospital at Detroit. Not only the hospital bill was paid by the manufacturer, but her transportation and all other expenses. Accompanied by her father, Ham Smith, Bessie left the other day for Detroit.

WOMAN'S CLUB COLUMN

Mrs. Henry Wight, Reporter. Phone 345-W

It has been a pleasant surprise to the women so interested in the establishing of a new and suitable home for the Woman's Club to see the generous interest being manifested. The question has been asked whether there were articles that could be donated in case one wished to make a contribution in such guise that it should be a little set apart from the mere matter of dollars and cents, hence this report of certain gifts of this kind and an enumeration of others that would be most acceptable. The first donation came from Elton J. Moughton, the talented young architect of the building. The rules of the Architect's Association do not permit of cutting the regular fee, which in this instance would be $226.28, and so to show his warm interest, Mr. Moughton made a donation of half of that sum, $263.14. Mr. Gillon, of Gillon & Fry, donated one center light and four brackets for use in the sun parlor of the club house. The Idlers Club of eight rather busy women are giving a charming fountain to ornament the terrace in front of the house, while Miss Marie Burkbile, the attractive niece of Mrs. Harry Heeren, who spent the past winter in Sanford, has presented the social department with four beautifully embroidered luncheon sets. Now as to other suitable donations for those who feel so inclined the following list will be a guide.

For kitchen furnishing, Mrs. Howard Overlin, chairman:

A four burner gas plate, gas stove and oven.

A small ice box.

A coffee urn, of six gallon capacity.

For reception hall, a console table and mirror.

Six electric fans, on which Mr. Gillon will donate his commission of 25 per cent.

From two to four floor lamps.

One wicker day bed, wicker rockers and straight chairs, desk and davenport. Desk or table for the president's use.

Rugs.

Chairs for the auditorium.

At four-thirty on Saturday afternoon, there will be a meeting of the Cemetery committee at the home of Mrs. Henry Wight on Sanford Heights and any one who is interested in the work the Woman's Club has been doing in the cemetery for the past three years, is most cordially invited to be present at this meeting and enter into its councils. There will be representatives from each of the churches, and a free expression of opinion will be welcomed.

VICTORY OVER MILD DISEASE

French Physician Announces Discovery of Serum Which Has Good Effect on the Victim of Measles.

A protective serum against measles has been discovered by Doctor Mery, director of the Emile Zola Hospital for Children at Medan, France. This serum is taken from the blood of children who have just recovered from the disease, and inoculation with it seems to afford a certain though probably only temporary immunity against contagion. The method is based on the results of the researches of Charles Nicolle, director of the Pasteur Institute in Tunis, who has shown that by the injection of the serum of convalescents children as well as adults can be protected against an outbreak of measles. Dr. Mery had occasion to keep within bounds by this method two epidemics. It was shown that an injection made at the beginning of the incubation time—the time elapsed between the infection and the breaking out of the disease—was followed by a mild development of the disease.

Seminole County's fish law is published in full in this issue. Read it and digest it for the teeth in this law are apparent and it will be enforced to the letter.

One could not get any finer breeze at the beach than that blowing in from the gulf today and keeping all Sanford cool and comfortable. There is no place on earth quite as fine as Sanford.

President Harding is making speeches all through the west and he is saying something that the people can well afford to read and digest. He seems to have the right idea in all his utterances and we like his whole-hearted Americanism even if we don't agree with all his views.

"The Need of the Present is a Shorter Bridge Between Producer and Consumer" says President Harding in his speech at Idaho Falls, and he never spoke a truer word in his life. And that is just what the Sanford growers are trying to build at present—a shorter bridge and the tolls abolished.

Now that our streams are to be protected from the seines there should be an effort made to uphold the law. If it is not a good law it can be repealed at the next session of the legislature. But if it is broken in any instance whatsoever the offenders will be punished for the people intend to see that it is carried out and tried out in full.

Each Friday as we sit in conference with members of the Chamber of Commerce at noon day luncheon we look round the table and note the absence of those men who are supposed to be leaders in their city affairs and yet who are making no headway because they will not take their share of the work of building up the city. It is strange how some men believe they can shift the burdens to others shoulders and yet bask in the limelight as men who are doing things.

NO TROUBLE WITH ENGLAND.

Those of our people who think there will be trouble with England on account of the seizure of the liquor on the English ships need have no fear on that score. The folks running booze on English ships and American ships and other ships are not the best people of any of these countries, and as soon as they find out that America means business about bringing booze to our ports in open defiance of the Volstead act, they will desist and obey the laws of this country. England as a whole is not in favor of breaking any laws any where or at any time. The English people are sticklers for obeying the law and you will recognize this fact if you ever travel in England and observe their customs. You will also observe that the English people are calm and slow to anger and stop to ponder these questions very deeply before taking any action. This means that when they get their bearings they will put the lid on in Merrie England much tighter than it is on now and eventually you can look for some form of prohibition in England. About this time of the year you can always hear much about a fuss with England and America, probably because it is near the Fourth of July and the Yankees have to twist the tail of the English lion about this time but there is nothing to it in a serious vein. The Ocala Star says: "About the most annoying thing next to its own criminals, the United States has to deal with is the gang of British bootleggers, some of them merchant princes, some members of parliament some plain bums, who are trying to force on the American people the criminal traffic which they have voted out and which our government is trying to suppress. It is not that these scoundrel minded children of the devil have any less principle than the French, Spanish, Cuban and other moral perverts engaged in the same pernicious traffic, but their ability to annoy is greater. So far below the plane of humanity are these thugs that they would be glad to engage their government in war with the United States if they could thereby again ship their hellbroth unrestricted into America. There is only one class of two-legged hyenas worse than they, and that is the rotten hearted, scabby minded Americans who approve of and aid them.

There is no any danger that this scum of the world will do any more than cause some inconvenience between the nations. There are too many sensible and high principled people on both sides of the water to allow their respective countries to be used as catpaws for those whose avarice makes them caterers to vice.

"The people of Great Britain as a whole have been responsible for many grievous crimes against humanity; many awful oppressions of the weak. Yet they have also had a conscience, weak at first, but growing as it struggled against wrong. The American conscience is the British conscience, brought to America by Pilgrim and Cavalier, and growing more rapidly in the more congenial atmosphere. It has outgrown the parent stem to the extent that no American, not even a thief, would expect his country to buck him up in a transgression of British law committed in Great Britain.

"But the British conscience struggles on and has grown and won many a good fight. It raised its head manfully in our Revolution; in no other country in the world would so many men dared to openly rebuke their government for waging unjust war. Later, the same class of British subjects that now upholds the rum runners forced the opium traffic on China—a crime for which all civilization suffers. But, while the rest of the world pointed the finger of scorn at Britain for this probably most wicked of all its actions, it did nothing to counteract it. It was the British people themselves who most sincerely denounced the crime and after many years of struggle compelled their government to withdraw its support from the pernicious traffic and in time to become the leader in trying to suppress it.

"No, we are not going to have any trouble with the British government over the bootleg traffic. It is probable that in time the two governments will get together and aid each other in suppressing it. There are many people in England fully aroused to the evil of alcoholism. In Britain as in America, they will eventually prevail. It is a safe bet that few passenger liners will stock up with liquor in Europe after they have one time returned from America. That we have the right to enforce our own laws in our waters is something no other nation is big enough to dispute."

COLOSSAL IGNORANCE OF FLORIDA CLIMATE

The Boston Post, attempting to defend the climate of that neck of the woods, institutes a comparison between it and the south, which contains a few grains of truth, buried in a mass of misinformation, which is appalling. First, the truths command our attention. It says, "People from the south, reaching Boston in the midst of a hot wave invariably tell their friends 'we have nothing like this in the south.'" True, every word of it, but not convincing enough for the Post. It goes on to admit that summer temperatures will not run as high, even as far south as Florida, as "we get in Boston." Thanks for the admission, but we fail to see how it proves the contention of the Post. It goes on to admit that on a certain day when the mercury in Boston rose to 96 degrees it was but 82 in Jacksonville. It gets a bit of comfort out of the fact that the minimum in Boston on that day was 66 degrees while in Jacksonville it was 74. If it admires a climate that changes 30 degrees in a day, why that is the climate it admires, and there is no chance for argument.

Then it marshals its stock of misinformation, and to let our readers see how gross it is we quote it in its entirety. It says: "The Florida cities, while they may not go above 90 the entire summer, will have a steady run of breezeless days between 80 degrees and 88 degrees for weeks at a time. It is this steady heat, coupled with a blazing sun and unrelieved by any cool streaks, that makes the summer in Florida hard to bear. Then, again, the nights in Florida are much warmer than Boston maximum night figures."

Absolutely wrong and misleading, every word of it. Breezeless days are so rare in Florida that they are noticeable. Every afternoon we have a cooling breeze from the salt water within fifty miles of every point in the state. If a person keeps out of the sun there will be no suffering from the heat. Our rainy season comes in the summer time, and nearly every day brings its cooling shower, and sometimes two or three. There is no mud nor dust, for our sandy soil quickly absorbs the rain, but there is a delightful and refreshing coolness. Our nights are always cool, and northerners who have lived in Florida for years unite in saying that they have seen more hot nights in the north than they ever did in Florida.

But it is useless to argue with people who reason that being so far south must make our summer climate unbearable hot. They forget the ameliorating influence of the great bodies of salt water on both sides of us, from which no point in Florida is more than fifty miles distant. They forget its numerous lakes and rivers, and they know nothing of its daily balmy breezes. We have spent years in bringing the delights of Florida's climate to the notice of the benighted and suffering denizens of the north, and it is discouraging to find such prominent and influential journals as the Boston Post still displaying such colossal ignorance of the truth.—Tampa Times.

CRITICISMS OF STATE ROAD ENGINEER COX.

The state road department is a good institution, but it makes mistakes sometimes. Hardly any citizen of Florida will disagree with us when we say that work on Florida roads should be done as far as possible with Florida material. We have almost everything that needs to go into a road in the state. It is to our advantage to keep as much of our money as possible in Florida, not only because thereby a large part of it goes back to the taxpayers who contribute it, but because we save money in freight charges. We understand that the road department intends to build 10 miles of road No. 2 from Lake City toward Gainesville of concrete. It will cost, we are told, $40,000 a mile. Of this, everything except water will be bought and paid for in other states, and pay heavy freight charges. There is plenty of good Florida material to build the road in a comparatively short distance. Yes, a lot of it is in Marion county. But Marion county isn't the only county that produces road material. And every Florida county that saves money on road building helps to lighten the burden on all the other counties. We don't know much about road building, so we ask other people about it—people who have experience in the work. And they say concrete is not so good as the material being used on that section of the road being built in Marion county. It is not elastic, and any roadway that is not elastic breaks after a while.—Ocala Star.

This is by no means the first criticism of this nature that has reached the Times. We have heard similar complaints from men whose judgment is entitled to respect, and who have been keeping close tab on the operations of the state road department.

We are persuaded, from what we have heard, that the responsibility for these unsatisfactory conditions is very largely due to the arbitrary attitude of Cox the chief engineer of the department. It has been stated to us that he is dictating to the members of the department in matters which could not be legitimately considered within his jurisdiction, and we have heard many expressions of resentment at his autocratic methods. The particular case to which the Ocala Star refers is a conspicuous instance of his objectionable policy. It is said on what we regard as good authority that Florida materials could have been used in the construction of this road at a great saving to the road fund, and that in addition the money paid out for the material would have been kept in the state.

These complaints are so general that there must be some basis for them, and if that is the situation it would appear to be—the duty of the state road department is give Engineer Cox his walking papers.—Tampa Times.

THE PRICE OF ELECTRICITY.

The people have never been able to decipher the peculiar code of the various utility companies doing business in the state. Just why there should be the fluctuating scale upon which our monthly bills are based is something that has been puzzling the brains of the people for many years. We use the lights sparingly in order to cut down the bill for no one can burn electric lights these days as they should burn them. No one can light the home brilliantly and make things cheerful as they should be made and yet if you economize on your lights, you will find the bill is just about the same as the month in which you burned all the lights. It is something that has never been explained and never will be explained. We cannot use the lights that we wish to use and we cannot use the juice we wish to use for heating and lighting on account of the price of electricity. Sanford is paying too much and every other city in Florida is paying too much except those cities where the plants are owned by the municipality—this also calls for no explanation and everyone knows why this is the case. Daytona recently found that the public service company was charging too much and they took the franchise from them. This could be followed by other cities where the utility companies are charging exorbitant prices and it would be well for the officials of all Florida cities to investigate the price of electricity. The Daytona Journal says:

"Declaration that if a consumer would use so much juice he would get such and such a price does not explain why the Public Service company violated its franchise. Neither does the mere assertion that certain figures are correct make them correct.

"The figures given out by the company do not explain why John Kludjny paid $3.83 cents in March for 14 KW and J. T. Dixon used 13 KW and paid $8.74 for it. Both use the same kind of motor, draw juice thru the same transformer and over the same wires. Similar cases are numerous.

"Now that their franchise has been declared forfeited assurance that anyone can secure the 12 cent rate by asking for it is a very different attitude from that taken a few weeks ago, when written requests for transfer to the 12 cent lighting rates were flatly refused in writing over the signature of the company by its manager."

THE POWER OF PUBLIC OPINION.

The striking shopmen lost their strike last season, mainly for the reason that they foolishly placed themselves in opposition to the decisions of the United States railway labor board. That alienated public sympathy, and the strike was lost from the start. The labor board was instituted for the express purpose of settling all disputes regarding wages and working conditions between the railroads and their employes, and it was hoped that it would forever eliminate strikes with all their demoralizing effects on business. Unfortunately the board was given no power to enforce its decisions. It depended entirely on the power of public opinion to enforce respect for its rulings. The shopmen believed themselves strong enough to flout public opinion, and because the rulings of the board were displeasing to them they did flout them and refused to be governed by it. The result showed the supreme folly of running contrary to public opinion. The strike lost out, and many of the strikers lost their jobs and had ample time to regret their folly.

Recently a similar situation has arisen, but now the shoe is on the other foot. The labor board has administered a sharp rebuke to the Pennsylvania Railroad company, which has steadfastly refused to acknowledge the jurisdiction of the board or abide by its orders. The Pennsylvania company has organized its employes into local associations and claims the right to deal with them alone, to the exclusion of outside assistance or counsel. It is a poor rule which doesn't work both ways, and if a powerful corporation can defy the labor board and fly in the face of public opinion the strikers can do the same, and the power and authority of the labor board is gone forever. The strikers made a serious mistake last year in defying the labor board, but the great Pennsylvania road, which ought to know better, is making the same mistake, and will call down on its head the same condemnation of the public.—Tampa Times.

ONE WAY TO STOP DRUNKEN DRIVERS.

There is but one way to stop drunken men from driving automobles. Finding it of no use, it has been tried a countless number of times. The fine is dug up somewhere—it is an unusual case where the driver has it—and the driver is given the permit to take his car and carry others into dangerous ways at a dangerous pace. There is but one way to stop the habit. That is to jail the offender for from ten to thirty days. In Jacksonville the officials have commenced the practice—the first one going up for ten days. His next offense will win thirty days, while the third will give him six months on the road seeing the automobiles of his friends drive by. It might not prove a very bad idea to put such a sentence upon men in this county who try to drive when in a hoosey condition. When a man gets too full to walk home it is a mighty risky thing to allow him the use of a car.—Palatka News.

Things We Have Always Known

The recent business condition has brought to the forefront of thought many fundamental considerations that have always been known but have been damned with faint praise. Human nature in the mass is very much like human nature in the individual. One of its dominant characteristics has been summed up in the observation, "You never miss the water till the well runs dry." We never appreciate fundamental things until we have occasion to do without them. This observation has a special application to the demand of the public for the products of industry. While the demand was at high tide and everybody was busy trying to supply that demand at a profit no one, seemingly, gave a thought to where the demand came from, how long it might last, or what would happen if it should fail. We merely assumed the permanent existence of the demand, just as we assume the presence of water, air and fire. But a day came when demand began to subside, and in many industries it came almost to a full stop. And then we missed it, and realized, as never before, what an important thing it was. And we began to inquire where it came from in the first place, and how it might be restored. We always knew—everybody knew—that desire for things made a demand for them in the market. That people desired things we accepted as an elemental fact. But when we discovered that desire fluctuated we began to appreciate that desire, as we know it, is a thing created by the art of man. It is a highly specialized form of an elemental need—just as a Louis XVI chair is made out of a tree. This discovery led to another equally important discovery that the means of refining and specializing that desire was advertising. The gigantic work that has been accomplished by modern advertising now stands out in bold relief. It has been the means by which the refinements of civilization have been made known and made desirable, and this desire has been made into demand. It is a simple fact that a million profitable forms of industrial activity owe their very existence to the fact that Advertising upheld the standards of living which in turn provided the demand for their products.

Only through the use of genuine Buick factory-made parts can the mechanical excellence of Buick cars be maintained. These parts are identical with those originally used in building the car. The same materials, the same workmanship are employed.

The infrequency with which Buick requires such service is proved by the experience of every Buick owner. If, however, for any reason such service is necessary, Buick Authorized Service is available everywhere.

NEW PARACHUTE IDEA

The parachute inventor, Mr. E. R. Calthrop, declares that he could design and construct a life-saving device that would be capable of saving the twenty or more soldiers carried in the new great aerial transports, should the pilot lose control of the machine. His idea is a parachute which would bring safely to earth an airplane cabin containing twenty passengers. The parachute would be released in the event of an accident by the pilot simply pulling a lever, and in four seconds the cabin containing the passengers would be clear of the fuselage and on its descent to earth. The launching of the cabin body into space, he says, would have the effect of stabilizing the airplane, and the crew would not necessarily be sacrificed.

Miss Lucy Byrd Smythe spent the day yesterday most pleasantly at Daytona Beach with friends.

CELERY SEED

Don't look as if Sanford baseball teams have lost that jinx yet. DeLand was on top of an 8 to 6 score with her little umpire's assistance. Oh, well, he did his best that he could.

If he called that straight umpiring—we'll suggest that the young gentleman visit Dr. Selman, the local eye doctor and have a little examination made.

The write-up of the ball game was crowded out today on account of the lack of space but will appear in tomorrow's Herald.

A man's head didn't seem to be worried a bit yesterday when he'd get the bases loaded with no out. He'd just tighten up a little and DeLand swatters would fan the breeze.

The real fun came in the second when Manager Whiddon stepped to the plate and hammered the ball to French avenue scoring McCall ahead of him. Now this hit should have been a double in any old ball game—but you just ask Manager Whiddon why he didn't run it out.

The rest of the fun came when our stout manager ventured too far off first and the wary DeLand pitcher attempted to catch him. We say that he did SOME sliding. It's a wonder the bag wasn't torn off when he hit it—but it wasn't. Anyhow our manager played a fine game while he was in it. He retired in the fourth to letter a better player in so you can judge what a good team it was.

Talk about bone plays but it certainly was heart rending for the DeLand rooters when the DeLand catcher threw the ball to first when a Sanford base runner was stealing second. Wish the catchers on the other teams would pull such bones when we play baseball. No such luck though!

Donner, the left handed star of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew team pitched a good game yesterday but lost the big end of the score by poor support. There's some good pitchers in the Pepper League but none of them have excellent support. A little practice wouldn't hurt any of them.

The Big Borean Brotherhood was scheduled to play in Orlando yesterday but by some misunderstanding the big Borean team failed to go to Orlando and the Sentinel team was

Brother St. Andrews Gives Up Game, Oviedo

The Oviedo team of the Pepper League invaded the domains of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew team yesterday and administered a 5 to 1 defeat.

Donner was the best in the pitching part of the game allowing only one hit while McCall allowed the Brotherhood players to pound out four safeties. Poor support back of Donner gave Oviedo the game which should have been a shutout.

Moye was the hitting star of the game getting two bingles out of three tries. Game called first of seventh on account of darkness. The box score:

A FOUR CROP STATE.

Traveling northward from Florida, over a thousand miles of hill and dale, the observant passenger notes crop conditions. Passing through states where the principal money crops are corn or cotton or wheat, the observer will see vast acres of cotton struggling in wet fields for existence, the growth stunted, the leaves a dirty yellow; corn fields sloppy with stalks of all sizes and too wet to cultivate; wheat fields showing evidence of rust or else the crop is beaten to the ground.

This is a pitiful thought—for these farmers stake their all on one crop a year. There is no replanting, no second attempt, or any possible crop that can follow disaster to cotton, corn or wheat.

In Florida, some of the cucumber fields failed from rain or other causes. On these fields are now growing crops of corn. Real corn, too—15 to 16 feet high, making 50 to 60 bushels to the acre. Forage crops can follow the corn. Then begins the fall planting of vegetables, and then the early spring "cukes" and tomatoes and beans and peppers.

In Florida this year the watermelon crop was about one-third of the normal, on account of excessive rain. The farmers will not suffer any loss, although they have not made as much money on melons as in previous years. They can raise peanuts and forage crops on the land this summer and harder vegetables this fall, or set out the land to citrus groves.

Some day the farmer of the North will gain a better understanding of Florida and come here by the thousands to improve the millions of acres waiting for the hand of man to make them fruitful. Some day, the northern farmer who is now merely existing will come to Florida and LIVE and enjoy life, getting away from excessive heat and excessive cold and sudden changes

THAT "NEW" LAW.

The Tribune is advised that the so-called "new" law, requiring that the trial judge charge the jury prior to the arguments of counsel, has really been in effect for two years, although it is just now being recognized in the courts of the state.

The law, as the Tribune understands, was passed by the legislature of 1921. It was vetoed by the governor but, unfortunately, the governor's veto was signed one day too late—the day after the expiration of the period during which the governor must act. This technicality had the effect of making the bill the law of the state. It was either overlooked or ignored, however, and never put into operation, the judges of the state evidently being under the impression that it had been killed by the governor's veto.

During the recent legislature, those in favor of the measure under the same impression, took it up again with the idea of again passing it. Then the technicality was discovered. The bill not having been legally vetoed, no further action was necessary to make it a law. So, a statute which has been lying dormant for two years springs into life and is now being observed in the course of the state.

It is unfortunate for the ends of justice that it did not remain asleep. It was unfortunate, in the first place that the governor did not administer the "knockout" within the legal limit.

The law was given its first workout in a murder trial at Gainesville. Judge Long charged the jury and then the lawyers made their speeches. The editor of the Gainesville News was in court and declares that he doesn't like the new law. In his opinion, it "gives the attorneys who are bound by their association with a case to be prejudiced, the last crack at justice, when we have always believed that the last say in a court should come from a judge, whom everyone knows is unprejudiced."

The law was also observed in a murder trial at Ocala last week—and the defendants were promptly acquitted. The News says it believed the lawyers who made this law "thought they were adding justice." The Tri-

The barometer behaves in an unexpected manner sometimes, going up or down, as the case may be, with results quite different from what we anticipate.

When the mercury has fallen very low continuous rain is the natural expectation. But that is where you will be at fault. On the contrary, there is not likely to be very much rain—only short, heavy showers, with squalls of wind. The mercury drops because the air is either very warm or very moist, or both. But it will not part with its moisture in the form of rain until cold air comes along. This will condense the vapor, rain will fall, and the glass will rise.

Moisture in the atmosphere keeps the air light, so that there is very little pressure on the mercury. When the atmosphere is dry the air becomes heavy, and as the mercury is subject to more pressure, it rises.

AND THEREFORE—

Two young surveyors working in a Louisiana swamp spied what they at first thought was a hoop snake; but at second glance they saw that two snakes, each with the other's tail in its mouth, were strenuously trying to swallow each other.

On reaching camp that night, they told their snake story to the cook, a gray-haired veteran of the swamps.

"That was a mighty curious sight, boys," said the old man, "a mighty curious sight. I reckon you wouldn't have believed it if you hadn't seen it, would you?"

"Probably not," agreed the boys. "Well," said the old man, "I didn't see it."—Youth's Companion.

"I Think the Immigration Laws of the Future Should Be Wholly American"

By JAMES J. DAVIS, U. S. Secretary of Labor.

IN IMMIGRATION I propose that we establish strict but just tests of physical and mental health, and that we make these tests under the numerical restriction now placed upon immigration. I would have these tests made abroad, in order that the applicant for admission may not have to spend the savings of a lifetime on a long sea voyage to find out whether he can enter the United States. All the sorrow and despair at Ellis Island arise from the cases of those immigrants who come here despite the fact that the law prevents their admittance. If we halt those cases before they leave their native countries we will end the troubles at our ports of entry. This I call selective immigration. So long as the United States is to admit foreigners I would have our system function to bring us the best we can get from abroad and to make their entry into America easy and comfortable. Coupled with this I would have the immigrant enrolled upon his admission, and over a period of years I would provide for a census of the alien population by the naturalization bureau. We register every American citizen to ascertain his right to exercise the suffrage. Surely there can be no objection to the enrollment of the alien who comes to us to help him acquire the qualifications to be an American. If after a period of years the record of the individual showed plainly he was unfit for American citizenship I would provide for his deportation. I am not in favor of compelling an individual to become a citizen. Compulsory citizenship is impossible. I hold that whoever comes from abroad to degrade the American level of intelligence, of physical or mental or moral life, degrades every honest naturalized citizen. It is a shortsighted policy to seek cheap labor through immigration. Cheap labor is expensive labor, both for the industry which employs it and the community which houses it. I think the immigration laws of the future should be wholly American, drawn by Americans, enforced by Americans, for the benefit of America today and in the future.

PLAYING UP THE VACATION IDEA

What kind of an appeal is the most effective to induce people to leave their homes and go on a trip to California or Florida? The Californians have studied the question for years, and studied it earnestly and intelligently and with profit. The manner in which they make the appeal for tourist business gives the answer to the question as well as an answer can be given. It is a question and answer worth while for people of the lower east coast of Florida to meditate upon, in order to learn from experience and apply the learning to their own profit. The most conspicuous word in the largest advertisement used in New York city papers by the California advertisers for tourists is "vacation." It looks and sounds like good sense to emphasize the vacation thought; vacation is the opposite of business—the word vacation has thought-associations that are pleasant. A great number of persons take vacations; to take a vacation they must go somewhere, and the California advertiser utilizes the vacation habit and thought at proper season to say, "Come to California." The next line of "display" in the advertisement is "Cool Summers," because coolness in summer is exactly what is wanted, just as warmth is wanted in winter. The Californians extend their analysis and give general but not specific answers to the next question, What am I to do on my vacation in California? The general answer is: Fish, play golf, go to the mountains, go to the seashore, go to a quiet lake. They do not try to tell too much—they have sense enough to leave something to the prospective vacationist's imagination, because too much definiteness may repel the reader. Vacation is the thing the clever Californians harp on. Every man believes he works too hard and likes to be told that he deserves a vacation; women have always preferred the specialist who tells them they should have a change of scene, and air, and a vacation is the only thing that logically justifies a pleasure trip away from home.—Palm Beach Post.

KEEP OUR BOYS CLEAN.

What of our boys, are they being given the encouragement and protection to which they are entitled? From time immemorial there has been a tendency to protect the girls lest they be led from the path of righteousness by some bad man. It is all right to protect the girls from such fate, but why not help train and develop the boy that he will not be the kind of a man who may be a menace to those girls who are easily led astray. The clean boy deserves more credit for being clean than does the girl; this is true for the reason that the average boy's environments during at least part of his idle hours is such that he is in far too many instances encouraged to be unclean; this should not be true and would not if simple justice, just that and nothing more, was done. Not alone is the duty incumbent upon the parents of the boy but it extends to every good citizen with whom that boy comes in contact. Suggestive stories, foul language, and vile talk is indulged in the presence of the boy often with never a thought as to the future consequences by those who are supposed to be gentlemen and who profess to desire to be of service in the betterment of mankind. It is far from surprising that the boy as he approaches manhood has become imbued with the double standard idea and regards the playmate who is clean as a "sissy." The boy is just as much entitled to the loving consideration and thoughtfulness at home as the girl. The parent who fails to do that which tends towards manliness and cleanliness in their boys are derelict of a duty. There is not and can never be any excuse for the parent who allows the boy to grow to manhood without the same tender watchfulness which is given the girl.—Fort Pierce News-Tribune.

GOOD WORK OF BOY SCOUTS

Boy Scouts of Colorado Springs, Colo., recently planted 4,000 Douglas fir seedlings and 2,000 pine seedlings in the Pike National forest under the supervision of forest officers. Boy Scouts of Denver are eager to plant an area containing several hundred acres which was burned over several years ago, and arrangements have been made to begin planting operations in June. The Boy Scout organization in Seattle is also showing an active interest in forestry, and forest officers located in that city have recently conducted a series of examinations for those scouts who desired the merit conservation badge.

AGRICULTURAL MARKET NEWS EXTENDED TO WEST AND SOUTHEAST

Extension of the market news service of the United States department of agriculture involving the establishment of one of the largest commercial leased telegraph wire and radio systems in the world has been announced by the department of agriculture, effective July 1. The main extension is from Kansas City to the Pacific Coast with new offices at Denver, Salt Lake City and Portland, Oregon. In the Southeast a branch office is to be established at Atlanta in addition to the field stations already operating in that territory which cover the major producing districts. Offices at several other Southern points are being considered.

Additional branch offices for reporting the markets on fruits and vegetables will be opened early in July at Denver, Salt Lake City, Portland and Atlanta. The leased wire system will run into San Francisco and the entire west coast will be effectively covered by radio and wire telegraph from San Francisco. Final decision has not been reached as to whether radio telegraph or leased wire will be used to the Southeastern states.

Authority for extension of the department's service is contained in the appropriations voted by the last congress providing for an increase of about $300,000 to carry on the work, making a total approximately of $700,000. During the war the leased wire system covered over 18,000 miles and connected practically all of the leading market centers of the country. The service was regarded as an important factor in bringing the war to a successful conclusion by making available at all times the fullest information on the food situation. Following the war the service was curtailed until it comprised only 1,600 miles of wire, and only a comparatively few of the large Eastern and Middle Western markets could be covered. Last September an additional circuit was started from Kansas City to Austin, Tex., with a drop at Fort Worth.

Under the present extensions of the service the leased wire system will cover approximately 7,000 miles. The circuit will extend from Boston south to Washington, thence west to San Francisco or Los Angeles. En route it will connect New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago, Fond du Lac, Wis., Minneapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Omaha, Denver and Salt Lake City. A special line will run from Kansas City to Fort Worth and Austin, Texas. Contacts will also be made enroute at various offices operated by state departments of agriculture. These will include Trenton, Lancaster, Harrisburg, Columbia, Waupaca, Wis., Jefferson City, Mo., Sacramento and Austin, Tex. The Southeastern circuit contemplates reaching Richmond, Raleigh, Clemson College and Jacksonville.

The leased wire circuits are in operation from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. daily except Sundays, and through the development of code systems are more intensively used than any other leased wire system in existence. In the opinion of department telegraphers, Official estimates place the amount of traffic handled by the circuit prior to present extensions at approximately $850,000 per year based on commercial rates, with an actual cost to the government of $160,000, a saving of nearly $690,000 annually.

All traffic is scheduled and controlled by the Washington office and is transmitted simultaneously to all the big market centers. During the night the Washington office receives hundreds of telegrams from railroads reporting the carload movement of perishable commodities over their respective divisions. These telegrams give the origin, destination, commodity and number of carloads in transit. The information is classified and tabulated and moved to all branch offices early the next morning to show graphically the total volume of perishable fruit and vegetable products moving to the various cities.

Following this information the estimated receipts at live stock markets are dispatched, followed by general reports on live stock, meats and other products showing supply, demand, wholesale prices and conditions. Flashes on cattle, sheep and hogs are dispatched. Butter and egg quotations and information from the big markets on fruits and vegetables follow. During the day considerable general information on cold storage products, peanuts, honey, hay, grain, live stock, fruits and vegetables moves over the circuits.

At the close of the day market summaries on all commodities are dispatched for release to more than 2,000 newspapers throughout the country. Special reports are also prepared for radio telephone or telegraph broadcasting stations and transmitted to the offices of distribution. The information received over the wires at the various branch offices is immediately communicated to producers and the trade by telephone, telegraph, radio and the press so that almost at any moment farmers and the trade everywhere may have an accurate picture of the national agricultural market situation. Consuming centers are also advised as to the supplies of various products. This enables producers to regulate shipments so as to prevent the glutting or underapplying of markets which according to department officials is the outstanding value of the service as the request is stabilization of prices to both producer and consumers.—Jacksonville Times-Union.

EAST SANFORD

The revival meetings are continuing this week at Moore's Station church and are drawing crowds; there are meetings each morning and evening. There were several auto loads of people from Lake Helen in attendance at the afternoon service on Sunday. Mr. Whitworth, the evangelist, carried on a two weeks revival in Lake Helen before he came here. W. R. Bates reached home Sunday from Clifton, Ga. He was called there by the illness of a niece. The young lady died shortly after Mr. Bates arrived there. W. R. Prevatt has been in Geneva recently helping to care for his mother, Mrs. Jennie Prevatt, who is very ill.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Raynor are moving to their new home on Silver Lake. The house has had an addition of several rooms and some porches built and many improvements made. They have sold their farm on Celery avenue to people by the name of Tuttle, of Long Island, N. Y., who are expected to arrive here in August.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stowe and little daughter have gone to Orlando to reside. Mr. Stowe has gone into the florist business there. They will be greatly missed, having been residents of Cameron avenue for several years. Annie and Harry Weeks drove to Tampa Saturday to be over Sunday guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. James English.

Mrs. T. M. Hledsoe and children left Sunday for Dothan, Ala., for a visit with home folks expecting to remain until September.

Mr. and Mrs. Carraway and children, of Beardall avenue, are spending the summer at their former home in Alabama, making the trip in their new Overland car. Watson McAlexander began his duties as mail man on Route No. 1 on Monday, having received the appointment some time ago. John Cranston has been substituting since Mr. Green's retirement last July.

Mrs. Lilly F. Jones and Miss Hoskins Jones reached home Monday night from several weeks auto trip to Tennessee, visiting old home folks.

There has been crowds of visitors every day for weeks past to the Geneva and Osteen ferry bridges to see the high water. Old timers say the water is at the highest ever known and conditions are bad enough at the Geneva bridge. The bridge man's residence being on the bridge they escape the water but the rear of the house in which Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan lives at Osteen ferry has been under water for weeks with the front porch submerged also and water seeping up through the floors of the main part of the house. The house is located in a low place that is full of water at every raise of the river and a menace to the health of the bridge tender's family. It would seem as if the two counties could afford to make a better showing of a home for the bridge man, located as it is at one of the most prominent gate ways to both Volusia and Seminole counties. It does not look well to strangers coming into Seminole county and certainly is most unpleasant and dangerous as well.

SNAKES' FRIENDS ORGANIZE

The Reptile Study Society of America, Inc., the purpose of which is to preserve "good" snakes, if there are any, and to exterminate dangerous snakes, was incorporated in the New York Supreme court. The incorporators are Raymond Lee Dilmar, curator of the Bronx Zoo; Miss Nellie Louise Cauden, T. Gilbert Pearson, Arthur L. Gillam and Raymond H. Torrey.
