LAVAL'S TALK WITH HOOVER COMES TO END

President And Premier
Conclude Overnight
Discussion Concerning
World Crisis

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—(A.P.)—President Hoover and Premier Laval this morning concluded their discussions of how the United States and France can expedite world economic recovery.

A brief concluding talk before 9:30 o'clock was participated in by Secretary Stimson and Undersecretary Mills, the latter of the treasury department, who was also present in the long conference last night.

Shortly thereafter the Premier, accompanied by Mills, returned to the home of Walter Edge, ambassador to France, his official residence. Stimson remained with the President.

The Premier's daughter, Doe, didn't leave with her father but stayed awhile with Mrs. Hoover.

The basis for a closer Franco-American cooperation for world economic recovery was discussed by the president and the premier at the overnight conference. Points on which they completely agreed will embrace certain measures for a joint action by the French and Americans.

Whether intentional or not Senator Borah found today he had projected himself into the Hoover-Laval negotiations with such unexpected and terrific force as to all but take the spotlight away from the White House while the dignitaries were conferring yesterday.

Borah spoke for the publication of his notes and in detail even suggested that the United States should have a treaty and a condominium in the Polish corridor which of the foreign relations committee chairman were read this morning with amazement by officials.

In the celebrated Lincoln study at the White House, the heads of two great nations sat side by side last night and with smoke curling upward quietly talked over what can be done to help the world.

Hardly had Premier Laval entered the White House late in the day, than President Hoover extract ed him and his interpreter, Jacques Blini, in the study and the conversations began. A few minutes later they were joined by Secretary Stimson.

Only one interruption was permitted. The dinner hour break at an informal repast, not to be completed before talk was resumed again over coffee and cigars in the study. At the table, they were joined by Ogden Mills, under-

King And Queen Of Italy Celebrate
31st Wedding Year

ROME, Oct. 24.—(A.P.)—King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena, who in 31 years as the throne have had the longest reign in modern Italy, celebrated their thirty-first wedding anniversary today at San Marino.

Throughout the Kingdom the Italian tricolor will be flown.

The Italian rulers intend to observe the anniversary quietly. They will have with them their daughter, Princess Marie, Queen Giovanna of Yugoslavia, who is observing the first anniversary of her marriage to King Peter.

Crown Prince Umberto, preparing for his marriage in November as general of the military forces of Naples, will not be present.

King Victor, now 61, and Queen Elena, now 51, are in excellent health.

During the interval of their stay in Italy, their participation in the active affairs of state, they frequently travel from one end of Italy to the other to lead their presence to important public events. Whenever they do this they are immediately accompanied for the most part by their son and the crown prince of the Kingdom.

The queen married October 24, 1900, in Rome. Her husband was a young naval officer, and she was a young girl of 18.

The queen, after 17 hours, had given birth twice on a high- way between Orvieto and Williston,

Co-Operative Marketing With Grower Control Is Called Citrus Solution

WINTER HAVEN, Oct. 24.—(A.P.)—Cooperative marketing with the grower in control, was a solution for Florida's citrus problems, offered here yesterday by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, at the opening of a new citrus products laboratory.

Several hundred persons attended a meeting at a hotel to hear the agriculture secretary. In his address accepting the laboratory for the federal government.

"There was a time," Hyde said, "when production was a problem in United States agriculture, but that time has passed. Now it is an economic problem from the planting of the crop to the ultimate consumer."

"We must find some means to achieve the balance between production and the markets. We must be mindful of foreign competition. It is important that every citrus grower know the posture of foreign citrus competition."

"Prosperity will only come from a profit left on the farm, not larger production. Shotgun control of production, as was tried at Oklahoma will not achieve the desired result. But cooperation of the Florida growers with Florida may control marketing of the crop, organizations, as the farmer is the practical solution of the problem facing the citrus growers of the state and the only way profit can be left on the farm."

A national council of able men to regulate production was suggested by Secretary Hyde as a means of further aiding the grower. He cited the federal farm board and the federal marketing act as two organizations which can help bring about new prosperity to the grower will get together with them.

Concluding, the secretary said the new citrus laboratory will seek means to widen the citrus market, and to find greater uses for fruit juices. We will expand the laboratory to keep pace with production."

Judge Allen E. Walker opened the meeting and introduced Mayor O. P. Warren, who delivered the welcome address. Judge Walker then introduced Congressman Drane, who read a telegram from Governor Carlton.

Dr. Henry C. Knight, chief of the bureau of chemistry and soils of the Department of Agriculture; Dr. W. W. Skinner, assistant chief of the chemical technological research bureau of the Department of Agriculture, and Dr. E. G. Blanck, chief of the division of forest products research of the Agriculture Department, were other speakers.

Short addresses were delivered by E. L. Wirtz, chairman of the board of the Florida Citrus Exchange; A. M. Tilden, president of the Florida Citrus Growers Clearing House Association; Nathan Mayo, state commissioner of agriculture; Senator Trammell, L. S. R. Anderson, Winter Haven, and Fred W. Pope, Lakeland.

The new laboratory was thrown open for inspection after the meeting.

TRAIL OF DEATH FOLLOWS TRY TO FLEE FROM JAIL

Two Convicts And One
Policeman Killed
In Run For Freedom

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 24.—(A.P.)—Shooting a guard and fatally shooting a policeman, four convicts fled from the New Jersey state prison yesterday in a spectacular getaway which brought death to two of them.

Jack Wierman, 24-year-old prisoner, committed suicide in Pennsylvania woods rather than face his airplane-directed pursuers, who fatally shot his companion, James A. McGrath, 30. McGrath had fatally wounded a Philadelphia policeman, Joseph V. Campbell, Jr., in the escape.

The other two fugitives, James Stoddard, 35, and Frank Gilbert, 25, separated from Wierman and McGrath after shooting John D. White, a guard, near the prison wall. Each of the two pairs commanded automobiles as they dashed away in opposite directions, one into Pennsylvania and the other toward northern New Jersey.

The prison break came in mid-afternoon, shortly after the reactivation period. White was on duty in a tower house on the second street wall. Near him the prison electrician, a civilian, and a trusty.

COLLEGE HEAD IS SPEAKER AT HIGH SCHOOL SESSION

President Of Palmer Tells Students Of Education Values

Declaring "It is the little things of life that count" and that the things which are taking place in the most ordinary day will test the course of the student's life, Dr. Pierre DuBois, president of the Palmer College, DePaul Springs, addressed the students of Seminole High School Thursday morning on a subject dealing with the advantages which are in store for the high school and college graduate.

Dr. DuBois stressed the importance of the establishment of junior colleges in the various cities throughout the state. He told the high school boys and girls that "The junior college gives you two years in which to find out what you want there and when you can go to the senior college. You can find yourself."

Portions of Dr. DuBois' talk are as follows: "It is the little things in life that count. The things that are taking place in the commonest every day will tend the course of your life. What are you going to do with your life? I once heard a sermon on this.

Atlantic Bank Makes Orlando School Loan

THE SANFORD ATLANTIC-NATIONAL BANK yesterday announced the completion of negotiations between it and the Orange County School Board, whereby a loan of approximately $100,000 will be made to assure pay for school teachers in that county until early in the spring.

The loan has been made to tide the county over until its tax funds accumulate in February or March, according to a press dispatch from Orlando today which adds that the county had $40,000 in the treasury to begin school, and that salaries would be paid at various times from the latter part of August to Sept. 21, when all the checks were open.

King, 30, now 31, and Queen Elena, now 31, are in excellent health.

During their participation in the active affairs of state, they frequently travel from one end of Italy to the other to lead their presence to important public events. Whenever they do this they are immediately accompanied for the most part by their son and the crown prince of the Kingdom.

The queen married October 24, 1900, in Rome. Her husband was a young naval officer, and she was a young girl of 18.

The queen, after 17 hours, had given birth twice on a high-way between Orvieto and Williston, and denied she had any knowledge of why the man wanted him to be acquitted.

These statements were Marcus Blumenthal, alias Jack Markham; Albert Silas, alias John Keene; Theodore Adeloff, alias Harry King, the latter two from Newark, N. J., and Nicholas Rotigliano, manager of a hotel where the ransom money was delivered.

Their only defense during the trial was an assertion that Rosenblatt had engineered the abduction so that he might obtain money from his mother, Rosenthal, widow of Cyrus McCormick, inventor of the reaper.

The trial, which ended yesterday, was held before Justice Jacob Rosenthal, of Newark, and the jury was a negro given death for attack on girl.

OCAJA, Oct. 24.—(A.P.)—Lee Jacobs, 22-year-old negro, yesterday was sentenced to die in the electric chair for criminally assaulting a 14-year-old girl high school student who passed by Circuit Judge Frank Stringer, after a jury had found Jacobs guilty without recommendation for mercy.

SURE REVIVAL OF BUSINESS IN U. S. PREDICTED

SLOW BUT CERTAIN RISE IS KEYNOTE SOUNDED
AT ANNUAL MEET OF IRON AND STEEL MEN

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(A.P.)—Belief in slow but sure revival of business throughout the United States was the keynote sounded yesterday at the annual fall meeting of the American Iron & Steel Institute.

While leaders of the industry, headed by Charles M. Schwab, president of the institute, did not attempt to gloss over or evade conditions, they were generally of the opinion that the worst had been seen and that there were indications of a betterment all along the line.

Although Schwab was somewhat more optimistic than usual in his characteristic optimism he recalled that during his career he had seen a number of business crises weathered with the result that the country always emerged more prosperous. "Don't be afraid," he added, "history will repeat itself."

"Fear has been lessened," he said in expressing his belief that better times were ahead. "There will be no collapse. The source of credit have been stabilized and we shall pull through. I have seen us pull through too many crises to be overwhelmed by the situation of the past months."

"I believe in the continued growth of our country, the essential strength of the steel industry and the ability of our nation to master the problems of a complicated age. If this be optimism, make the most of it."

Other speakers expressed belief President Hoover's credit corporation had generally strengthened and although the steel industry was admittedly "in the dumps," just as previously forecast, was not viewed as disastrous.

Sentiment was "a little better," Eugene C. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel, told the meeting, with some consumers already showing signs of taking more interest in their steel requirements. The recent slight ease in commodity prices was looked upon as encouraging.

Grace's talk was followed by the arrest of E. T. Weir, engineer of the National Steel corporation.

"Sentiment is generally better," he said, "and there is willingness on the part of buyers to contract for next year for the lines on which books have been opened for advance delivery. Our volume of small orders has been heavy during the past week. I have seen this before. In past depressions when the number of small orders begin to increase, it has always indicated in the past a definite improvement in demand. I am confident the entire industry will show better earnings over the fourth quarter."

Portions of Dr. DuBois' talk are as follows: "It is the little things in life that count. The things that are taking place in the commonest every day will tend the course of your life. What are you going to do with your life? I once heard a sermon on this.

16 Year Old Boy Is Charged With Fatal Shooting Of Woman

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—(A.P.)—A 16-year-old boy was charged by police yesterday with fatally shooting Mrs. Agnes Lovelace, 35, on Feb. 18, 1930, and attacking Mr. Jane Meyers, 33, last Tuesday night.

Both crimes, to which police said the boy, Vernon Royal, confessed, took place on lonely spots near Forest Glen railroad station.

Royal, a six-foot lad who weighs 170 pounds, was arrested Wednesday night near the scene of the crime. He stubbornly maintained his innocence, police said despite the fact that Mrs. Meyers, who died the same day, identified him as the killer.

Two hours later, he was taken to the scene of the attack on Mr. Meyers and confessed, police said, not only to the attack but also the alleged slaying.

Those arrested were Marcus Blumenthal, alias Jack Markham; Albert Silas, alias John Keene; Theodore Adeloff, alias Harry King, the latter two from Newark, N. J., and Nicholas Rotigliano, manager of a hotel where the ransom money was delivered.

Their only defense during the trial was an assertion that Rosenblatt had engineered the abduction so that he might obtain money from his mother, Rosenthal, widow of Cyrus McCormick, inventor of the reaper.

MRS. JUDD AFTER HIDING FOUR DAYS ADmits MURDERS

LIKE NAPOLEON

The citrus and farming industry of Florida is threatened by the invasion of communistic workers who are believed bound to this state this winter seeking to organize groups of white and negro workers.

Sheriff J. F. McClelland, who has just returned from a convention of sheriffs, police chiefs, lawyers, and members of the state bar association who met in Jacksonville this week to discuss ways and means of handling transient relief here, said:

"The trial and attractive young woman, after hiding four days, emerged to give herself up to her attorney and receive treatment for a bullet wound in her left hand."

She told how she shot two women in self-defense after being hit in the hand by one of them after going to an apartment to upgrade Miss Samuelson and Mrs. Agnes Le Roy whose bodies were sent in trunk to Phoenix here last Monday.

OFFENSIVE PLAY FEATURES GATOR DRILL YESTERDAY

Calling Of Signals To Be Used Tomorrow Instead Of Huddle

GAINESVILLE, Oct. 23.—Offensive play featured the entire practice session as Coach Charlie Bachman directed his charges through their next-to-final work-out yesterday in preparation for the Auburn battle, the Gators' third conference tilt of the season. The three orange-jerseyed varsity teams spent the entire afternoon in grooming their attack, except for a brief period when the second eleven shadow scrimmaged against the Auburn plays which were run by the scrubs. The varsity men were thoroughly drilled in the Florida offense as they ran signals up and down the gridiron in the Gator stadium and worked out the more precise maneuvers by employing shadow scrimmages against the Omelets.

The shrill staccato of the quarterbacks as they called signals yesterday was a decided contrast to the quiet that has predominated in the past as the Gators employed the silence of the huddle system. Coach Bachman, the master of Gator grid ceremonies, reverted back to the old style of calling signals and believes that this will make the Florida attack more effective. Back in 1928, the first year that Coach Bachman was at the helm of the Orange and Blue grid craft he started out with the huddle system but before the season had progressed far he had the Gators calling signals again.

Yesterday's practice was another scrimmage-less affair in keeping with the Gator leader's edict of no more heavy work for the squad. Mentor Bachman inaugurated this plan of caution last Monday in an effort to reduce the Florida hospital list. So far this season the Gators have been weakened by injuries to a greater extent than at any time in the past several seasons and the majority of the casualties have been suffered in the drill sessions rather than in the games.

For this reason Bachman decided against any more scrimmaging for his protégés. The heaviest portion of the Florida campaign lies ahead and the squad of almost entirely inexperienced sophomores is none too strong in reserve strength.

The Floridians may take to the air lanes against the strong Tiger outfit was indicated yesterday as the boys received considerable grooming in the art of tossing and receiving forward passes. Use of the "barking" system by the quarterbacks will also tend to speed up the game.

More than three teams will be taken to Jacksonville for the Auburn fracas and a tentative starting-line-up is: Hall and Parnell, ends; Jenkins and Phiel, tackles; Forsyth and J. D. Williamson, guards; Ferrarsi, center; Fountain and Rogers, halfbacks; Bilsby, fullback, and Seay, quarterback.

Big Bill Ferrarsi, varsity center has practically recovered from his week-old injury and will in all probability start against the Auburnites. He will be supported at the pivot position by Doc Spiers, another likely looking sophomore. Turner, senior.

Billy McClellan, scrappy little senior halfback, refuses to be pushed out of the Florida gridiron picture and will report for work next week after a month's lay-off with a broken leg. McClellan received a broken leg in a pre-season scrimmage and was thought to be out for the balance of the year. He took his injured leg out of the cast yesterday, however, and will don tog again Monday.

Attorney Scores U.S. For Action On Alphonse Capone

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22.—(A. P.)—State's Attorney Herbert H. O'Connor of Baltimore, speaking yesterday before the American press association, condemned prosecutions such as that of Alphonse Capone for income tax dodging, as "left handed justice that should be frowned upon."

In line with this viewpoint, efforts should be frowned upon which have as their object the imprisonment of a man upon a minor technical charge, when he is known to be a major offender and his conviction for his other wrongdoings has not been proved," Mr. O'Connor said.

He did not deny that the reason for the prosecution for the lesser offense is that the particular offense is a menace to society.

He said that he ought to be held responsible for the lesser offense which he is responsible for, but that he ought not to be punished for them because he has already suffered heavy income tax dodging

SOLDIERS DEFEAT SANFORD HERALD BOYS ON DIAMOND

Company D Chalks Up Ten To Six Victory In Game Last Night

By PETER SCHÄL

While practically every rabid football fan will be at Daytona this afternoon watching Coach Leonard Meloche's Seminole High outfit take the measure of the Daytona elev., there will also be plenty of local fans in Orlando tonight to watch the Lakeland Dreadnaughts mix it with the Orlando Tigers. The Dreadnaughts, ordinarily the leading team in the Big Ten conference, are today out of the running, with two defeats and one win to their credit. But, they always present a rugged team, which never stops. The Tigers are also out of the running, having dropped three conference games without a single win. This being Homecoming Day at the Orlando High Schools, the Tigers will naturally be fighting hard, and a real game of night football is in prospect, especially so since the weather is cool. Be there.

As an added attraction, you'll see "Buddy" Hackman, the senior half of that famous Hack to Mac passing combination which brought so much glory to Tennessee during the past few years. Hackman, always a Florida booster, had a dozen offers at coming when he graduated from Tennessee last year, but chose the Lakeland proposition although it did not assure him the income he could have received elsewhere. Lakeland, one of the most enthusiastic of football towns gave him a real welcome, and, despite his team's losses, has experienced confidence in the future of the team by attending every game in large numbers. Hackman may have had a bad year this year, but from then on, he ought to be hard to handle.

Tomorrow will certainly be a red letter day in football in Florida and especially in Jacksonville. The old stage is all set for one of the most colorful and exciting games of the Fall season, and Jacksonville is making ready for a record crowd. Four bands will fill the air with music, headed by the University of Florida's 75 piece outfit, and with the 60-piece Jacksonville Police Band a close second. Auburn feels so sure of a win and wants to add to the joy that will reign, by sending its own 40-piece band down. On top of all that music, the Jacksonville Fifes and Drums Corps of the American Legion will figure in the parade and attend the game.

As for the game, it should be a corker. Auburn has an impressive record so far, what with a 7-7 tie with Wisconsin in that team's own back yard, and that glorious 13 to 0 defeat of Georgia Tech after 12 long years of waiting. Added to that the Plainmen last season amazed some 7500 frightened fans by holding the Gators to a hasty 7 to 6 victory. The Plainmen certainly made friends that day, as well as gained the respect of the Gators from that day forward. Their coaches, Jack Cannon, Roger Kiley, and Chet Wyane, all Notre Dame graduates, and two of them All-American players of recent years, certainly did a good job last year. So far this year, Wyne, as head coach, and Kiley, as line coach, have done a better job, and it looks as though the Plainmen are in for another reign as football champions. We hope so. The game starts at 3:00 o'clock, by the way.

Coach Meloche found out yesterday that his scheduled game with the Andrew Jackson team in Jacksonville next Friday had been changed to next Thursday because Robert E. Lee High has a game scheduled on Friday. The idea is that both teams would lose financially, so they drew lots to see which team would change playing date, and Andrew Jackson lost, as won, whatever way you look at it. So, Coach Meloche will have but three days practice to get his boys in shape for that tough Andy Jackson outfit. The team will leave here early Thursday morning, and return that night.

Among the other things you'll notice at the Gator-Auburn game tomorrow is a return to the old time system of calling signals. Coach Charlie Bachman has finally decided that the huddle system tucks up the game as well as strains the nerves. He gave orders to his four quarterbacks that they better know the signals from now on, because they had to call them. Tomorrow we'll see whether the boys are as alert as they used to be in the good old days when Florida was a wild bunch. Looks as though we are making a gradual return to the good old days.

D. A. R. Forces Are Called To Arms To Fight Communism

CHARLESTON, S. C., Oct. 23.—(A. P.)—Daughters of the American Revolution from five Southern states yesterday heard their national leaders sound a call to arms against the forces of atheism and communism.

Mrs. Lowell F. Hobart, D. A. R. president-general, addressing the southern division congress of the society here, asserted that communists working hand in hand with atheists, are determined to destroy all religions everywhere. She said that a determined assault was being made upon the United States, the youth of the nation, and urged the D. A. R. to take the lead in the fight against the "Invasion of foreign fallacies."

"Let us interpret Americanism in a glorified fashion," she said, "so that youth will be satisfied with native land and determined to keep free from the invader of foreign fallacies."

Mrs. Hobart, accompanied by other national officers and leaders of the organization from several states arrived in Charleston early yesterday from Washington. All the five states embraced in the southern division—North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, and Alabama—were represented at the conference by officers and members of the society.

WORK ON ZRS-3 BEGUN

AKRON, Ohio, Oct. 23.—(A. P.)—Officials of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation announced yesterday that work on the ZRS-3, sister ship of the Akron accepted by the Navy yesterday, has been under way since July 1. The second ship is expected to be completed for the Navy early in 1933.

Both teams played good ball and the game was close enough to keep the crowd on its toes the entire time.

Umpires Steele, Hodge, Grooms, some old time idea is brought back and captures the spirit of the new generation with a bang.

"Funny to read this morning that the Sewannee Tigers, boasting a squad of 30 men who are as yet undefeated, have actually figured it out that they are going to beat the Alabama Crimson Tide! The funny part of it is that a sport story would never be published again in which the Alabama outfit is even mentioned in the same paragraph with the word defeat. The "wolves" start howling the minute the soul leaves the body, don't they?

For the first time in four years, Billy Laval's South Carolina Gamecocks triumphed over the Clemson Tigers, by the score of 21 to 0. It was the annual ancient classic, staged in that old wooden bowl at the Columbia fair grounds before some 15,000 fans who yelled themselves hoarse as the Gamecocks finally sprang to life, after a shaky year so far. Clark, Shinn, and Blount starred for the Carolinians and gave some evidence of the work they might do down in Tampa on Nov. 14, when they meet the Gators.

Coach Meloche found out yesterday that his scheduled game with the Andrew Jackson team in Jacksonville next Friday had been changed to next Thursday because Robert E. Nothing less

smoothness

The whole question was settled long ago—as to how many cylinders it takes in a motor car engine to give satisfactory smoothness. Science definitely established the fact that at least six are necessary. And today, the public accepts the multi-cylinder engine in the same way that it accepts 4-wheel brakes, parallel-mounted springs and every other principle of proved and acknowledged superiority. Everybody knows that nothing less than a six can give you built-in smoothness.

Today, six-cylinder smoothness is within reach of every new car buyer. For Chevrolet has produced a quality car, powered it with a firmly-mounted six-cylinder motor—engineered it to run with unsurpassed economy—and priced it down among the very lowest-priced cars in the market.

TIME IS GRASS

Knowing how surely there will come
The old recipe
With half above the breast;
Knowing the silver sword of speed will slip
Quietly into the long, dark sheath of death.
And of how inevitably
The toll of days and nights becomes a muffled bell
Bringing unseen, ringing unheard above,
My heart takes courage,
Knotting in the coolness of the grave.
There is no room for dreams;
And he whom a dream has swept
Free of every calm, resigning mood
May rest with peace at last.
A cool thrust of the wind in grass.
Inse. Benjamia.

A Dog For A Boy

Parents are always confronted with the problem of keeping their young sons out of mischief. It is difficult to provide the proper diversions for healthy boys without running the risk of too much liberty which may lead in the wrong direction, and it is with this in mind that parents are often found holding a tight rein on their children's activities with the frequent result that life becomes pretty much of a bore for the young people. An one aid to the situation the Orlando Reporter-Star suggests, in the case of boys, a dog. "The fondness of a small boy for a dog is proverbial," says the Reporter-Star, "and the magazine, The New Yorker, recently illustrated it with a little anecdote."

"A youngster has just returned home after a summer at a boy's camp. When his parents asked him if he were not glad to be back he shook his head meditatively; then he added, 'But some of the fellows were—they've got dogs.' "All of which, somehow, is a reminder that the fate of the lad who lives in a city is apt to be a hard one, from the dog-owning aspect. For the city is no place for a dog. The boy whose parents have established their home in an apartment cannot have a dog; or, if he does, half the fun of it will be missing, since dogs were designed by nature to accompany small boys on those aimless rambles through woodland and meadow which are the priceless heritage of all boys lucky enough to live in or near the open country.

"Yet that isn't the dog's only function. Chiefly he is a comforter; and while the woes of the world may not seem to rest very heavily on the average boy's shoulders, anyone who can recall his own boyhood will remember that there can be moments in which a lad of 10 or 20 is the most melancholy mortal alive.

"These spells of melancholy usually come from trivial causes—such as failure to 'make' a neighborhood football team, or the loss of a prized jack knife, or a sudden harsh word from an adult. But while they last they are extremely real, and if a youngster hasn't someone to turn to he has a pretty bad hour or so.

"And there is where the dog does his best work. The small boy is inarticulate; he can't explain things so that any grown-up can understand, and there isn't much any grown-up can say that will do much good. But a dog can do the job in jiffy-time.

"For the dog doesn't need to be told what is the matter, and he has no good advice to hand out. He is simply there, with a wagging tail and a wet nose; and in a few minutes the boy feels better and perceives that life, after all, is worth living.

"That is the sort of thing that the city chap is apt to miss. If the world were shaped to boyhood's liking there would be room for a dog in every house."

A Way To Help

Many suggestions as to the cause and cure of the present economic depression are being made but most of them are couched in terms of technical and high-sounding phraseology which leaves the average person a bit puzzled. We hear much about the gold standard, reparations, payments, tariffs, free trade, debt cancellation, and disarmament, all coming in for certain amount of consideration in connection with hard times, but these are things which the people as individuals cannot do much about. We believe that a clearer explanation of our difficulties might help and we contain in a recent editorial of the Tampa Tribune. The Tribune says:

"Whatever else may be said about the so-called depression, one thing is certain—the public is partly responsible for its continuance.

"What is first needed is once more to get money into circulation all along the highways and by-ways of retail trade.

"Then the great wheels of industry and the intermediate gears of trade can once more begin to turn day by day, week by week, throughout the year.

"Ask any merchant. He will tell you that the depression has gone on this long because the public has failed to buy, and failed to pay its bills for what it has bought. The merchant is therefore unable himself to buy stock in the quantity he would if he had the trade to justify it; and the factory is therefore unable to buy raw materials and operate as it would if it had the orders from the merchant. And so on all along the line.

"There is no lack of money or raw materials in this country. The problem is to get it into the hands of those who will put it to work by using it for helpful purposes.

"There is no better time than now—at this season of the year—to buy what you need, and do your bit. Prices are the lowest in 10 years.

"The business man consults his bank and avails himself of the financial credit he enjoys there. Families and individuals who want to buy useful goods or who owe money have the same type of service available to them through the numerous personal finance companies.

"If you owe a number of small bills, pay them now. This will help the merchant, the doctor, the dentist, the tradesmen, to pay the bills they owe, and will go a long way towards setting in motion quickly the wheels which circulate money and make jobs for thousands of men. This means prosperity to your community and to the entire country.

"Buy now. Pay now."

CANDLE LIGHT

By Miss Oliver Dean

The myth that the English have no sense of humor has been greatly exploded in a day wherein constant exchange of theoretical fables across the Atlantic brings to our shores such plays as "Galathée's first comedy, "Bird in Hand"; "Neil Coward's "Flitter Sweet"; such metresses as Gertrude Lawrence and Beatrice Lillie, and such actors as Cyril Maude and George Arliss. Even in the tragedy of Robert Sheriff's war play, "Journey's End," we find the delicious bit where the cockney sergeant remonstrates with the school master for enjoying the "Jabberwock" in "Alice in Wonderland," and insists that "there ain't any point to it."

There is another myth, set going probably by someone who had never read Thackeray, that the great Victorian had no sense of humour. I admit at the outset that there is not much opportunity for what Cory Ford has called abdominal mirth, the kind of laugh one gets when viewing the antics of Clark and McCullough in a slapstick movie, for the humour is of the subtle brand that brings a smile instead of a laugh, and sometimes a tear accompanies the smile. But the smiles are there, plenty of them, from the opening chapter at Miss Pinkerton's Academy in Chiswick Mall to the last page wherein Becky Sharp goes to church and interests herself in destitute orange girls and distressed muffin men. The humour of Thackeray partakes not only of the ironic quality of the Shavian type of wit but also of the gentleness of Barrie. In the parlour, at least, of those characters with whom weaknesses he deals with a tender touch such as Dobbins in "Vanity Fair" and Colonel Newcome in "The Newcomes."

The ponderous Jos Sedley, who lumbers through "Vanity Fair," much like the elephant to whom George Osborne compared him, furnishes a huge target for his creator's satire. The first picture of Jos on his arrival in London from India, stout and puffy, in buckskins and Indian boots, with several immense neckcloths that rise almost to his nose, vainly imagining that he is a famous dandy about town, and the later picture of Jos dramatising himself again, but in a military role this time, attached to the Duke of Wellington's army at Waterloo, dressed in a frock coat, duck trousers, and a foraging cap and growing large military mustaches which he shaves off hastily when danger comes, are both hideous and pathetic.

Becky Sharp is handled with a cool and delicate irony from the moment that she vanquishes Miss Pinkerton, the head-mistress at the Chiswick Academy, by appealing Frank to her and hurling Dr. Johnson's famous dictionary back at the school as she drives away, to the end when the incorrigible Becky insists upon calling herself Lady Crawley even though Rawdon died six weeks before his brother's, Sir Pitt's death. If Thackeray had not possessed a sense of humour, I do not think that it would have been plausible for him to create a character endowed with so keen a sense of fun as Becky, Becky who could even laugh when old Miss Crawley left only twenty pounds to her husband. It is amusing to wonder what her thoughts must have been at Queen's Crawley during the dull evenings when she ingratiated herself with Pitt Crawley by listening to his sermons and his pamphlets on malt and corn laws, and when she sought his company to translate French passages which she could not understand though her mother was a French woman. Becky could appreciate a joke as well as one at someone else's expense, as for example, when she chattered gaily over the picture of Becky Sharp having a companion, a sheep-dog, as she called it. Thackeray's description of the typical feminine companion or sheep-dog would be ample evidence of his humour if there were not other fine sterna of proof in every chapter of "Vanity Fair."

Becky's last is handled with a cool and delicate irony from the moment that she vanquishes Miss Pinkerton, the head-mistress at the Chiswick Academy, by appealing Frank to her and hurling Dr. Johnson's famous dictionary back at the school as she drives away, to the end when the incorrigible Becky insists upon calling herself Lady Crawley even though Rawdon died six weeks before his brother's, Sir Pitt's death. Thackeray's description of the typical feminine companion or sheep-dog would be ample evidence of his humour if there were not other fine sterna of proof in every chapter of "Vanity Fair."

Upon Frank O'Dowd, the major's wife, Thackeray makes the following pungent comment, "before she was a half hour in Amelia's (or indeed in anybody else's) company, this amiable lady told all her birth and pedigree."

The sly humour of this cannot but bring a smile to the lips of those of us who have run across similar persons who wave their ancestral flag under the nose of every passing stranger. An exceedingly human bit discloses with which man is apt to regard his neighbour, who seems to live very well on nothing at all.

"No man in Vanity Fair who does not wonder how Jesus can make both ends meet at the end of the year, I cannot but say that the appearance of the Jenkins, in the park, in the large carriage with the grandeur of a baronial hall.

"The Jenkins take a good-natured air at the crime stories of the day when he apologizes for the cold time that he is piping, and says that if he had taken a fagot for the terrible and made the smoke of the new fagot do the professional burglar, he would be a professional burglar.

"The Jenkins, in the large carriage with the grandeur of a baronial hall, carry off Amelia in triumph, not to be let loose in the wild woods, but to be educated in the art of thrill-seeking, through which the Jenkins are expert.

Young Sanford Group Attending Meeting

With Captain Harris and Lieutenant Porteus of the Salvation Army headquarters, a group of young persons are attending the annual young people's congress for the state of Florida in Orlando to-day and tomorrow. On Saturday evening when each delegate presents a sketch, the Sanford group will give a Japanese lantern drill and sing Salvation Army choruses in English and Japanese. This program will be held in the high school auditorium in Orlando.

Sunday will be devoted to spiritual meetings under the direction of Commissioner and Mrs. Damon, Southern territorial leaders. These meetings will be held in the Salvation Army auditorium.

Mrs. L. E. Spencer Has Party For Children

The home of Mrs. L. E. Spencer was the scene of a children's party yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Alice Brooks whose birthday anniversary it was. The children were entertained with games and contests on the lawn after which they were invited into the dining room where a birthday cake, adorned with nine lighted candles, was placed in the center of the table. Refreshments were served at this time.

Those invited to be with the honor guests were: Evelyn Stiles, Betty Coker, Orlieben Morrison, Jean Brooks, Mary Frances Harvey, Sally Morrison, Jewell Betts, George and George Spencer. Mrs. Spencer was assisted in entertaining and serving the guests by Miss Dorothy Brooks and Mrs. Harvey.

Mrs. Weinstein Gives Party At Her Home

Orange-colored silks and other fall flowers were used to dress the rooms of the home of Mrs. Weinstein, South Avenue, when she entertained a number of friends with a coffee, cake and bridge party yesterday night immediately after the arrival of the guests dinner was served in courses from the dining room.

Following the evening bridge program, the guests were invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Tolar, where they will join Mrs. Harriet and son, Spencer, who have been visiting there for the past week. They will return here Sunday.

Mrs. Robert Howard, of Atlanta, Ga., who has been visiting her son in Orlando for several days, will return here tomorrow to be with her daughter, Mrs. Wallace W. Wright, at her home on Malloway Avenue, Lake Hall and Mrs. J. C. Tolar.

WILMINGTON, N.C.—Mrs. Willie L. Parker, widow of the late John Jackson, died yesterday.

IN WEDDING GOWN

Personals

W. M. McRory, of Jacksonville, spent a short time here yesterday afternoon with friends.

Miss Martha Fox has returned from Asheville, N. C., where she has been visiting Mrs. S. O. Chase at her summer home there.

Mrs. Sadie Baumel is expected to return today from New York City where she has been for the past two weeks.

Friends of A. Company will be glad to learn that he is improving at his home on Bearden Avenue after a recent illness.

Miss Elva Pearce, of Jacksonville, arrived last night to spend the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Pearce.

Friends of Mrs. George Knight will regret to learn that she continues to be ill at her home in the Mahone Apartments.

Miss Georgia Mobley left yesterday for Jacksonville where she will be the weekend guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Mobley.

Miss Dorothy Lane and Shade Walker, of Petersburg, are the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Roby Lang at their home in Rose Court.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Haynes and Miss Dorothy Haynes, who have been residing at 309 West Sixteenth Street, have moved to 210 West Sixteenth Street.

Mrs. R. A. Winston and daughter, Shirley, of Montgomery, Ala., are visiting the former's sister, Mrs. C. P. Henderson, at her home in Wynnewood.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Whidom, of Jacksonville, are visiting the latter's sister, Mrs. George Weinstein, at her home on South Sanford Avenue.

Over 150 visitors and about 80 delegates from all parts of the state attended his eighteenth annual series of syndical meetings of the Presbyterian Church held here for the first time in 15 years on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week at the Presbyterian Church with the following committees in charge: Mrs. H. J. Luman, hospitality; Mrs. Walter L. Cooper, transportation; Mrs. M. D. Brownlee, welcoming committee; Mrs. May McGinn, quadrille; Mrs. J. A. Harrold, decorations; Mrs. Henry McLaurin, luncheon committee; and Mrs. F. S. Verney, music.

Outstanding features of the group of meetings were the address by the Rev. P. D. Miller, of Atlanta; the quiet hours taken each day by Mrs. W. H. Reynolds, of Jacksonville, the choir music on Tuesday evening and the male quartette composed of Dr. J. S. Johnson, J. M. Stinecipher, Dr. H. W. Husker and Homer J. Chase, which rendered musical numbers on Wednesday evening.

One of the most impressive parts of the meetings was the pastoral service conducted Thursday morning for Mrs. C. H. Knight, former pioneer of the eye, dental and Mrs. C. A. Rauhauer, late officers of the organization. For this service the church had been decorated with a profusion of white flowers. On other days quantities of roses and bright colored wild flowers were used to adorn the church.

Installation services for the newly elected officers were conducted by Mrs. A. A. McLeod, of Bartow. The following officers were installed at this time: Mrs. Robert Dewell of Haines City, president; Mrs. H. D. Campbell, of DeLand Springs, vice-president; Mrs. Glenn Morrison, of Lakeland, secretary; Mrs. F. C. Way, of Miami, treasurer; Mrs. G. C. Willis, of the city historian; Mrs. L. R. Andrews of Jacksonville, secretary of religious education; Miss Dulmen of St. Petersburg, secretary of home missions; and Mrs. J. M. Edmondson, secretary of social service.

Before leaving Thursday, the visiting delegates and guests were entertained about the splendid way in which the Sanford women had entertained them.

Miss Ella Spence and George Hadden left yesterday for Asheville, N.C., where they will join Mrs. Harriet and son, Spencer, who have been visiting there for the past week. They will return here Sunday.

Mrs. Robert Howard, of Atlanta, Ga., who has been visiting her son in Orlando for several days, will return here tomorrow to be with her daughter, Mrs. Wallace W. Wright, at her home on Malloway Avenue, Lake Hall and Mrs. J. C. Tolar.

Red Activities Seen Menace To State Industry

Sheriff McClelland learned that beginning this fall and continuing through 1932, an attempt will be made to destroy the citrus industry of Florida. The Communist Party of Russia, knowing that many of the state's citrus groves are owned by wealthy people, and that Florida's principle industry, the winter tourist, comprising the winter tourist, the winter playground, has centered its activities in this direction, Sheriff McClelland said.

He also learned that several attempts have already been made to organize the negro in Florida.

Several arrests have been made of communist organizers recently, all of them possessing printed communist propaganda advocating social equality for the negro, equal rights at the ballot box, abolition of the chain gang, and abolition of all Jim Crow laws.

This is done, Sheriff McClelland reported, in order to gain the negro membership in the communist party, thus paving the way to disrupt negro labor in Florida's industries.

Governor Carlton will be appealed to by a committee of sheriffs and police authorities, Sheriff McClelland said, to appoint a group of persons to be stationed at the state line of each important road entering Florida. Their duties will be to question all persons entering the state, and to discourage them from entering if they are seeking work. All who enter, after knowing the conditions in this state, are to be told that police and sheriffs will enforce the Florida vagrancy law to the limit, meaning a jail sentence of from 60 days to six months.

Transient relief in this county will be handled in much the same manner as last year, Sheriff McClelland said, all transients to be taken to the county line unless their cases are of such seriousness that immediate relief is necessary.

SEMINOLE POW-WOW

Sponsored by
THE GIRL'S HI-Y OF
SEMINOLE HIGH SCHOOL

Our High School Orchestra has started an orchestra in our High School, and we hope—and are pretty sure—that it will be a success.

Mr. Hall, the leader, says that we have quite a bit of home talent in our school. He says that he believes it ought to be able to play within the next six or seven weeks.

Those in it are: Bill Tyre, John Courier, Wilson Smith, and H. B. Odham playing saxophones; Gilmer Steele Max Rumbley and John Bills, playing trumpet; Robert Young, John Benkerik, Nancy White and Joe Thompson playing violin; Allen Nagel and James Dyson, playing clarinet; Russell Odham, and Paul Biggers beating drums; E. Z. Johnson playing cornet; Melton Ware, bass, and Edwin Smith at the piano.

These students have been working hard to put over this orchestra business with a bang. Our school is going to have one of the best High School Orchestras in the state.

Hi-Y News

The Girl's Hi-Y will meet Monday night October 28, at 7:30. All dues must be paid by that time. Reports will be made on the party for the Freshmen Girls and the play to be given to raise funds for the Foot-Ball Banquet.

Girls Intramural Department of Athletics

The girls of Seminole High are surely keeping up with the boys in athletics. The Intramural Department consists of an Administrative Board, which includes the Director of Athletics, Intramural manager, President of the Student Council and Senior Managers.

Senior Head manager—Pauline Stoudemire; Director of Publicity—Mary Hurt.

The Sport managers are picked from the Junior class: Julianne Newman, Hand Tennis; Helen Colbert, Basket Ball; Hortense David, Field Ball; Lois Britt, Tennis; Katherine Allen, Badminton; Lucille Thornley, Track; Bronnie Dugger, Valley Ball; Martha May Swimming; and Josephine Minor, Diamond Ball.

Intramural Athletes are divided into teams, with about 16 girls on a team. There are nine Intramural teams. Hi-Y team, Captain, Mary Hurt; Blue, Strakes, Inez Thompson; First Period, Dot Powell; Second Period, Dot Marshall; Fourth Period, Bronnie Dugger; and West Side, Erickson.

These teams are playing off their Hand Tennis Tournament. Dot Powell, a real athlete of the "Rat" class, holds the school's Single Hand-Tennis Championship and Higgins and Hickson, both from the "Rat" class, hold the school's Double Hand-Tennis Championship.

Boys can these little "Rats" play Freshman Hand Tennis! The upper classmen are hoping they are not such athletes in other sports as they are in Hand-Tennis. Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors watch out, as these three Rats will walk off with three honor letters, and maybe the trophy.

Points are given for making the team and additional point-winners during the entire year in Intramural sports will receive an Honor Letter, and the individual scoring the highest number of points in the individual point system will be awarded, in addition to the honor letters, a trophy. This trophy shall become the permanent property of the winner each year.

HELEN COLBERT
Athletic Manager.

Did You Know That?

The first issue of "The Colby Fed," published monthly by the Boy's Hi-Y, came out Thursday, Oct. 18. John Bills, the Editor with his staff, is to be congratulated on the initial success of his publication.

This being exam week, an unusual burst of industry and study pervades the school. Report cards next week will tell the results, good and bad, to waiting parents.

The results of the recent election of Student Council officers are as follows:

President, John Bills; Vice President, Roy Echo; Secretary, Carolyn Cogburn; Treasurer, Hoyt Wiles.

Senators: Senior Class, Clarence Anderson and H. B. Odham; Junior Class, Cornelie McRay and Louise Long. Sophomore Class: Dorothy Marshall and John Digh. Freshman Class: Eleanor Clegg and Charlene Betts.

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, England—Miss Diana Crawford, above, volunteered to help paint the emblems of the nations of the world, as part of the celebration in honor of William Shakespeare. She painted the Spanish emblem, but, because of the abdication of King Alfonso, she isn't sure that the emblem is now correct.

Junior Class Meeting

"Junior class meeting was called to order by the president, Bill Preston.

The students were divided into two groups, I and II.

Group I is called "Red Feathers" and the leader is Pete Higgins.

Group II is called "Green Feathers" and the leader is Patsy G'Ommer.

A representative from the Curtis Publishing Company presented a proposition to the class which will enable them to make money by selling magazines published by this company.

Pamphlets were given to all the students of the class, (1) "Explore the World of Jobs" (2) "How to be a salesman."

A committee composed of Bill Tyre, Martha Ann May, Sprott Long, and Helen Colbert was chosen to see about the Junior Floats for Armistice.

The two groups together are called Indians. Chief Bill Preston's name is "Kick a Hole in The Moon."

Contest starts Thursday morning and ends the next week on that day.

Sophomore Class Meeting

The Sophomore Class had a pep meeting Wednesday with the following officers presiding:

President, St. Clair Cameron.

Vice-President: Melvin Taylor.

Secretary Gilmer Steele.

Treasurer: Elizabeth Methvin.

Class Managers: Robert Knight, Mary Nuckel.

Sponsors: Mrs. J. M. Stinecipher, Mr. Rodman Lehman.

The Sophomore Class went on

After the business was attended to, we had an impromptu program.

Eloise Winn gave us a reading entitled, "Elmer's Last Beau." She then sang a Blues Song entitled "Would You Like To Take A Walk?"

Robert Mould sang a comical song entitled "Sippin' Cider Through A Straw."

James Dyson was called upon to bring her comb.

sing a song, but he kindly refused because he had a cold.

Carolyn Cogburn sang a song entitled "Don't Know Why."

Freshman Class Meeting

The regular meeting of the Freshman Class was held Wednesday morning.

The committee for the Freshman float was chosen and Eleanor Hickson was appointed chairman.

A group of people was asked to meet Monday afternoon for a try-out for Stunt Night.

The class decided to pay 25 cents a year class dues.

Plans are under way for our Hallowe'en stunt. We want that loving cup! Says the Rat.

The Rats are beginning to fear "Rat Day"!! They will not have to wait long.

We are proud of our new President. We know how to keep order.

In touch foot-ball the Sophomores have won 1 game, tied 2 games and lost one game.

Yesterday is marked on the calendar—Marilee Torrance, our Biology teacher—Marilee, do you know about the functions of the skeleton?

Max Rumbley—Well—

—it did.

The class meeting of the Rats was very successful yesterday.

Several building beauties of this class were chosen for their parts
