A PROTEST

I HOPE they finish up this war before next month, for then I got to learn 'bout Europe, for My school begins again. An' this is what I'd like to know: However can a chap Learn things when every day or so They go and change the map I KNOW most all the boundaries now

I had 'em pat last June, But-I have got a hunch, somehow, They'll change 'em pretty soon. I'll have to learn a different way To bound the countries then, An' what's the use, then every day They're changin' 'em again?

I tell you it is work enough To learn all them things once, An' it most certainly is tough To do them changin' stunts. An' so I hope they'll end the war, Whatever nation wins, An' get things straightened out Next term o' school begins.

Every day hidden away somewhere in the dispatches with the story of the slaughter which is devastating Europe there is a line that makes a particular appeal to the emotions of the reader. It may be the brief statement that a parish priest fell before the leaden hall of death while performing some mission of mercy, and one sees the mutilated body of one of God's messengers lying with upturned face and glazed eyes, a sacrifice to the passions of men, even as was the Master himself.

Another paragraph tells the story of the patriotism of the women who have formed a League of Death and are ready to follow their fathers and husbands and sons upon the carmine fields of slaughter and sacrifice all in defense of their homes and the land of their birth. Hands that should be fondling little children are twining to grasp a death dealing weapon and annihilate the invader. The spirit of patriotism is commendable but what a shame that the passions of men bring about such a condition.

The commander of a great ocean liner quietly calls the male passengers aside and informs them that the waters of the wide sea abound with destroyers which threaten danger. Faces blanche and fear leaps into many eyes. But it is dissipated when the captain says, "we are going to turn around and make a run for God's country." The great ship is darkened and with full steam a head the great steamer makes its way to a U. S. port and a great feeling of relief and thanksgiving permeates every soul as the passengers once more set foot on the domain where the stars and stripes are floating in peace.

The ultimate consumer is due to get another jolt as a result of the war which has developed in Europe. already the prices of food stuffs are advancing rapidly; meats and sugar and beans have already begun to climb and there is no way of telling how high they will get. Naturally the United States will be called upon to help feed the warring millions who will neglect the arts of husbandry for those of war, and it means blessing to him who has to sell and a curse to the laboring man who has to buy.

The farm and the factory should profit greatly during the coming months if the war is long continued, but the laborer will have much to worry about before the snows of winter have melted away. It may be that increased demands for labor will ultimately mean an increase in wages also, but this is the last to come and suffering will invade many a home before its arrival.

William Allen White has his own idea about patriotism and they are, incidentally, just the sort of ideas that all of us must come to if this old country is to be saved. But William Allen White needs no explanatory chart when he writes. Hear in his homely, but glorious preaching:

"If we who live in these small towns in America cannot see that our duty to our country lies first of all in our duty to our neighbors, then we are blind indeed to the basis of real patriotism. For, after all, Patriotism is not cheering for the flag; it is not in feeling out eyes filled with emotional tears in hearing 'The Star Spangled Banner,' patriotism is just old-fashioned human duty.

To sacrifice our neighbors-the man who helps the town with his taxes, with his public business, with activities of neighborly righteousness to sacrifice that man and his business for the mere sake of saving a dollar on the purchase of a hundred dollars' worth of goods is just as unpatriotic as it is to spit at the flag. For the flag, if it means anything, means the golden rule; the friendly burden bearing; it means mutual help in trouble; it means standing together against common foes.

Each of us have some trend of thought that is uppermost in mind at nearly all times and it is liable to crop out most unexpectedly. At a picture show recently there was depicted a scene in a restaurant. Customers came and went, the waiters hurried from table taking orders and serving food and drink and a cash register occupied a prominent place in the center of activity. A lady sitting nearby remarked to her escort: "Well, they are certainly doing it of business in that place." "Yes," answered the man, "it looks like it. But you can't always tell. I don't see them putting any money in the cash register."

Speaking of picture shows reminds me of a circumstance that is apparent to any movie maniac. That is the fact that the actresses who are employed by American film manufacturers have their foreign sisters backed clear off the screen when it comes to the matter of personality.

Apparently the American companies take this feature into consideration or else the American women as average higher in good looks. At any rate it is seldom that you see an imported film wherein the heroine is marked with beauty. Her work may be as good as the best, her costumes' marvels of the designers art, but she certainly isn't in it with the daughters of Uncle Sam when it comes to the matter of good looks.

From time to time agents of the Salvation Army come to the city of Sanford from Jacksonville headquarters, and solicit aid for the army.

This is certainly for a good cause, for the Salvation Army does much good among the down and outs, but in the case of Sanford it seems to be incumbent upon us to support our own churches, and if all the building that is now in progress is to be finished soon we will need all the help we can get, and every nickel and dime should be garnered for the home institutions. The Salvation Army in Jacksonville ought to depend upon the people of Jacksonville, or the visitors to the city to help them out, for it is almost certain that they do not need to take any Sanford people for an uplifting.

I am heartily in favor of the Salvation Army, but I am not in favor of the Salvationists or any other religious order coming to Sanford to solicit. We have the churches and missionary societies and many other branches of the home churches to keep up, and if we keep them up as they should be kept, it will about take all the spare change we have. Just another case of our home institutions coming first.

I see that the school election will be held again as there was some discrepancy in the other election regarding the right of the ordinary voter participating.

I am not dictating the election, but this seems to be the first time they ever asked me whether I was a freeholder or not, when I marched up to vote on the question of school board members. But then the elections are changing all the time, and these days we hardly know whether we are voting or just marking time.

You certainly have to pass a physical and mental examination nowadays before you are allowed to vote.

Steps have been taken to send $2,500,000 abroad for the benefit of Americans who are caught there by the tide of war and at present are unable to get away. The foreign banks do not honor letters of credit and travelers are at their wits' end for means to return home, even when their personal resources are ample.

To send $2,500,000 abroad is to give one the idea of how much Americans spend on their travels. It has been estimated at $100,000,000 a year more than is spent on this side of the water by the opposing side of tourists, and that means that America must sell $100,000,000 more than are bought in order to make the balance even.

When we add $250,000,000 to $300,000,000 that Americans pay in to foreign vessel owners for carrying goods between the United States and other countries, it will readily be seen that the balance of trade in favor of the United States must be in excess of $500,000,000 a year, in order to pay for freights, travelers' expenses and the interest on foreign investments in our own country.

A Georgia couple have named their eleventh child "Silence," and almost every parent in the land is watching the experiment with interest.

The difficulty of getting fresh meat in the country regularly confronts every housekeeper, especially those who have moved from the town or village where fresh meat could be had at any time.

A plan that is adopted in many of our Northern States to overcome this has proven very satisfactory, and I see no reason why it should not solve the problem in Florida.

A co-operative club made up of country residents agree to furnish one beef each some time during a period of twenty weeks. This beef is cut into the twenty equal pieces of approximately twenty pounds, each member getting twenty pounds a week during the twenty weeks.

When the club is organized the members draw numbers. The drawing No. 1 supplies the first beef, and gets cut No. 1 that week. No. 2 supplies the beef the second week, etc., and during the twenty weeks each member gets every cut in the beef in their successive order.

A butcher is employed by the club who butchers and divides the carcass. This butcher keeps an accurate account of the amount of beef each receives. The price per pound is fixed by the club, usually 8 cents per pound. In case a member receives more meat than he supplies, he pays the club at the above stated rate, and this money is passed over to other members who have supplied more than they received.

Each member pays for the killing of his own beef, a fee of $2 or $2.50 and is entitled to the hide, heart and liver. In other cases the butcher gets the hide for his services. It is the duty of the butcher to see that all beef received shall be good and healthy and to reject any that he considers unsatisfactory to the customers of the club.

NO POTASH

The small supply of potash in this country is being used up rapidly, and very many of the fertilizer companies have served notice on their customers that they are now withdrawing all their brands and mixtures that contain more than 5 per cent potash. This is of course on account of the supply of potash being shut off on account of the European war.

TEMPLE SELLS GROVE

W. C. Temple, of Winter Park sold his Sunnyside grove for $30,000. There are 79 acres in the property, 40 of it in bearing grove. This is not the place upon which Mr. Temple resides; his home place being on the Alabama Grove, which is located on Lake Maitland, not a great distance from the Sunnyside property.

THE SANFORD HERALD

Published Every Tuesday and Friday Morning By THE HERALD PRINTING COMPANY...

The Zolfo Truth is a credit to the State press, and George Adams is to be congratulated upon keeping his excellent paper up to the standard even in the Summer months.

Rob Holly says—Sanford needs a daily paper to print the war news. Go to it, Bob; we are willing.—Tampa Tribune.

Now if we just had the permission of the Sanford people we could go ahead and start it.

We hate to talk about folks and further increase the danger of international complications, but this Oul-yi, detailed from the Jap Army as attache with the British head-

When you have a million one-dollar bills and pile them one on top of the other and you want to take off the top one you would have to reach 276 feet.

Five hundred copies of the Sanford Herald sent out to prospective settlers in the north would do more to increase the population of Sanford than any other medium.

Many and varied are the schemes to take money of the Sanford merchants for so called advertising, but it has been found by the advertiser who wants results, that an advertisement in every issue of the Herald will get better results than any other form of advertising.

Harry Thaw appears to have been lost sight of since the death struggle began in Europe. Will Rubie Allyn or Bob Holly or some other bright light, please inform us as to the abouts of that distinguished gentleman.—St. Cloud Tribune.

Just now Harry is rusticiating in New Hampshire, awaiting the decision of the Supreme Court, and the Supreme Court is waiting to take a last guess at the case.

After Harry's release he expects to come to Sanford and spend the winter.

TOO MUCH TERRITORY Bob Holly goes the Jacksonville Metropolis, which claims to be "Florida's Greatest Newspaper," one better and says: "The Daily Herald would be the greatest thing on earth just now."

SPEAKER FOREST LAKE Forest Lake has the inside track in the speakership race. He is so far in the lead that it appears the other candidates have quit cold.

When he is made speaker, as it appears now he surely will be, Forest Lake will do what he loves the people want him to do.—Jacksonville State.

EUPENDEN ANIMATION Among the latest cases of suspended animation among the newspapers is that of the Mulberry Herald. Editor Bulloch announces in last week's issue that the paper suspends on account of non support.

We are sorry to chronicle the end of these papers or of any papers. Not only do we sympathize with the owners and editors, but with the people of the community in which the paper has been published. It is a poor community that will not support a paper—at least one paper. There is no excuse for the people of Mulberry not supporting a weekly paper, although there is some mitigation in the suspension of the daily at Palatka, for a country daily in Florida or any other state has a hard struggle for existence.

On the other hand, no newspaper man should inflict a paper on the community already supplied and expect to obtain a living from the charity inclined, or a few politicians who are anxious to start a paper for their own aggrandizement, and always drop it after the campaign.

It takes a good town to support good paper and each one is dependent upon the other.

OUR SCHOOL TRAIN

The Herald is informed that the Sanford Traction Co., will not operate the school train this season and this means that the children in the eastern part of the Celery Delta will have no way of coming to school unless a wagon can be provided and that the farmers, living in that section will be unable to get their hands to and from the fields unless the A. C. L. Ry that recently purchased the Sanford and Everglades road place a school and labor train on that road and operate the gasoline traction car, as formerly.

Certainly in a section where there are so many farms and families and where there are so many laborers on the farms and many people working at the shops who ride to and from their work, with the numerous people residing in the suburbs and more of them building homes every day on the outskirts of the city this plan of a belt line and transportation to and from the farms is worth while investigating, and the A. C. L. can rest assured that they will have the hearty cooperation of the citizens and the city officials in an enterprise of this kind.

DEVIL'S WORK OF WAR

Nations go mad as men do, it was a soldier who said "War is Hell." The mystery of life and death is nowhere so impenetrable as when, taking its flight above the cradle and the grave, it wings its way to the edge of the battlefield and hovers over the slain. Whence, therefore, to what end?

Before the awful spectacle of a general European war with its appalling impendences, the thoughtful American will hesitate before taking sides. He stands aghast. It is the brotherhood of man, not the rights and wrongs of nations, that gains possession of his mind and heart.

The world has a long way to travel before it reaches the Mount of Olives. Lo, we build a house of cards in the low country. Comes a wind across the North Sea in a moment to blow it down. Comes a blast from hell the Hapsburgs made and not one stone remains. Truly the Home of Tragedy! A race accursed of God! Was it not enough that self-slaughter and the assassin had done to work the devil's will on the Danube that a desolate old man should be left to end the drama with a conflagration sweeping across the Rhine to the Rhone and the Seine, to the Severn and the Clyde? What is Serbia to England, what to France, that they should bleed for her? And after all is over how shall the Balance of the Powers stand? Henry Watterson in the Louisville Courier-Journal.

THE PANAMA BUBBLE Some of the promoters of the Florida exhibit at the Panama Exposition at San Francisco seem to have the stomach ache because the newspapers of Florida are not falling all over themselves, boosting the idea, and giving columns of space every day to the private exploitation of a private scheme to advertise Florida at the fair. The following appears in the Times-Union:

"I have been puzzled for some time to understand why some of the papers of the state, especially those down the a state, are voicing a half timid opposition to the proposition to have Florida make a creditable exhibit at the Panama-Pacific International exposition, in San Francisco next year."

"A scheme was put on foot some time ago by some of the newspapers in Florida to have established a publicity bureau chiefly through the medium of the press, the papers of the state interested of course to figure largely in the plan and undoubtedly to get something in return for their patriotism in this matter. It was proposed to have the next legislature appropriate the sum of $50,000 for this advertising plan.

"Now, anybody can see with one eye that the fellows battling the exposition exhibit proposition are the ones who are instigators of the other scheme and they fear if this exposition commission succeeds there will be no chance for their appropriation and plan. Consequently the word has gone out: 'Kill it or it will kill us.'"

This statement is in keeping with some of the 'dope sent out by the promoters of the Panama exhibit, and as the editor of the Herald is the Chairman of the Publicity Bureau mentioned, we will take pleasure in answering the gentleman who interviewed himself in the Jacksonville paper.

The Publicity Commission was organized several months ago by a number of newspaper men and other prominent business men of the state. It was organized for the purpose of endeavoring to promote a state campaign of advertising, an immigration bureau and a censorship over all advertising going out of the state of Florida—something that the editor of the Herald tried to get before the session of the Florida Legislature eight years ago and the state of Florida would have been spared the mortification and injury subsequent, when all kinds of wildcat lands were floated at will to the everlasting shame of our state.

The Publicity Bureau is just what the name implies—no more and no less and would be absolutely under the jurisdiction of the State officials and the censoring committee.

Aside from the editors who are on the committee, such public spirited citizens of Florida as W. C. Temple, W. Z. Chambliss, M. E. Gillette, P. A. Vans Agnew and many others will take an active interest in exploiting Florida through the Bureau and see that only the truth is told about Florida. So much for the Publicity Bureau that has recently been formed and has asked no favors from anyone.

The Panama Exposition fiasco has received the support of all the newspapers of Florida. Some of them reserved the right to criticize the methods employed, some placed the free advertising just as the commission sent it out. Certainly none of the newspapers refused to boost the proposition where it looked legitimate, but all of the newspapers are jealous of the good name of our state and none of them will stand for anything that looks like a half way exhibition of the state's resources in the territory of our only rival and they said so in no unmeasured terms.

The Herald has consistently boosted the Panama Exposition from the start in more ways than one, and we are not in the frame of mind that will brook criticism either as to the manner of refusing the columns of free dope or the nasty sting at the Publicity Bureau.

The Panama Exposition Commission and Ministers Plenipotentiaries to California will please be governed accordingly. We don't owe them a picayune one way or the other and there is an old adage about looking a gift horse in the mouth.

FROM THE NATION'S CAPITAL NEWS FROM WASHINGTON BY THE SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT OF THE HERALD. Washington, August 18.—(Special) As might have been expected, work on many important waterway projects is being suspended, the men employed laid off and in some cases machinery is already showing signs of rust and disintegration because of the failure of Congress to pass the pending river and harbor bill. From figures submitted by forty dealers to the Department of Agriculture, a milk bottle will last from six to fifty trips, the average being 22 1/2 trips. In the opinion of the Department not all of these bottles are lost or broken; many of them have merely strayed. Some of the bottles get into the hands of other dealers and some are dumped into the ash barrel, which has suggested that milk bottle cle ring houses be established in the large cities for order that the losses in bottles may be reduced to the minimum.

The World Awaits Tidings of a Great Battle

The Germans Continue Their Advance on the Capital of Belgium

The Allied Forces Have Not Shown Their Hand—No Real News

London, Eng. Aug. 21.—The most complete absence of news from the theatre of war today is the best evidence that all that can be expected by the intelligence permitted to the outside world, on both banks of the Meuse, the Germans are crowding southward toward the entrenched French army waiting to stem their progress toward Sedan and Paris.

The invaders already have reached a line between Dinant and Neufchateau, the latter point being less than twenty-five miles from Sedan as the crow flies. To the northward their advance troops have reached the river Dyle near Malines, almost halfway between Brussels and Antwerp.

Before this northward rush, the Belgian forces are retreating on Antwerp. In Brussels they call this a strategic retreat.

Whether the movement is strategic or tactical, the Germans have gained much ground in the direction of Brussels.

London, Eng. Aug. 21.—A dispatch from the staff from Brussels says the German occupation of Brussels is imminent.

The burgomaster of the Belgian capital has ordered the visé guard to disarm.

The following information was given out by the official bureau this afternoon:

The Belgian staff general command is reported to be in Brussels, but fallen back to the west.

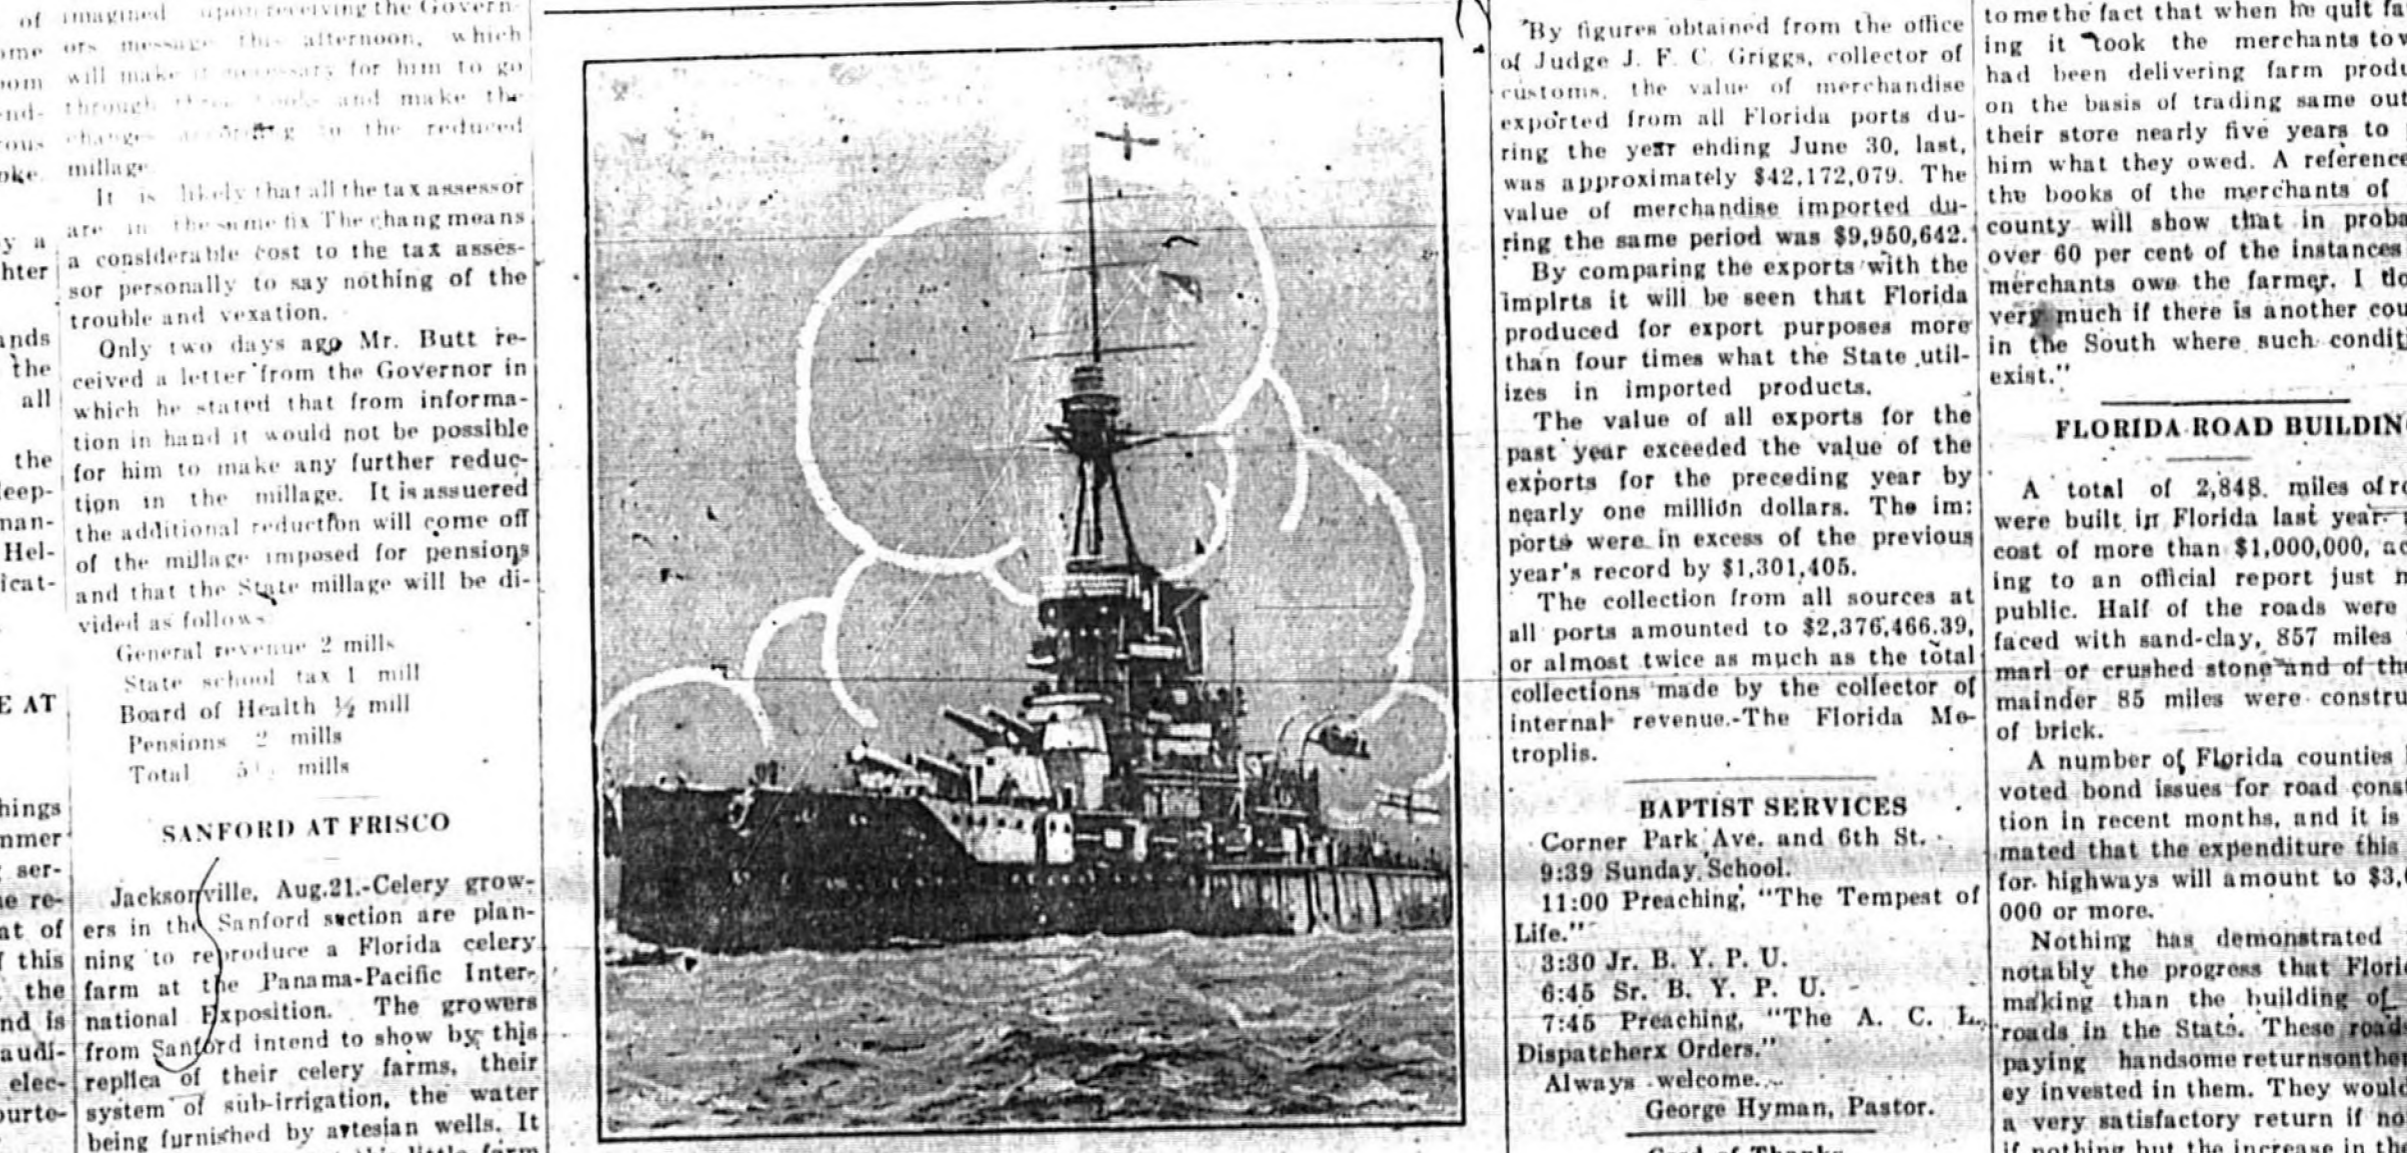

The Belgian troops have admirably performed their duty in delaying the hostile advance and enabling their allies to complete their concentration.

A large majority of the land in the district have signed the petition and no opposition to the formation of the district is anticipated.

Notice of application to form the upper St. Johns drainage district in Brevard and Osceola counties, in accordance with the Statutes in force, appeared recently in newspapers in that section of the state. This district comprises nearly three hundred thousand acres, the greater part of which is considered equal to the best lands in the State for general farming, trucking and fruit growing. Among the leading owners of land within the district are The Bills Ewing & Neff Co. and Florida Indian River Land Co., of Melbourne; Gleason Bros. Co., of Eau Gallie; Geo. W. Hopkins, of Hopkins, and several others.

By the late development of credit for the success of this project is due Col. Frank L. Bills, president of the Bills, Ewing & Neff Co. For the past two years or more Col. Bills has labored unceasingly against the great obstacles at times, but his persistent efforts finally overcame the opposition.

The towns of Cocoa, Eau Gallie, Melbourne, Hopkins, Titman, Malabar, Grant and Mico, all in Brevard county along the Indian river, will be greatly benefited by this drainage system through the possible development of their back country. Florida Homesteaker.

Monster Iron Duke, British Fleet's Flagship

As Wellington was the hope of the Briton in the final struggle against Napoleon, so was the British battleship Iron Duke, named after Napoleon's conqueror, hailed as the hope of the English navy at the beginning of the war with Germany. The Iron Duke is the largest and newest of the British battleship line. She has a displacement of 25,000 tons and is armed with three of the newest battle cruisers, each with 12,000 tons each, size only by three of the newest battle cruisers, which are 13,500 tons each. The Iron Duke is the flagship of the entire British home fleet. She carries 13 13.5-inch guns. She was completed in January, 1914.
