SMITH SWINGS INTO INTERIOR OF NORTHWEST

Governor Continues To Make Bid For Votes Of Progressives On His Campaign Tour

Follette's Aid Is Being Sought

Democratic Candidate Leaves Montana In State Of Confidence

BILLINGS, Mont., Sept. 26.—Enroute with Governor Smith to Minneapolis—Governor Smith swung into the heart of the progressive northwest today, still hot on the trail of the LaFollette independent vote of 1924, which is necessary to his candidacy if it is to be successful west of the Mississippi river in November.

During the night, the Smith campaign let Montana and enter North Dakota, home of the old agrarian league, and home of the insurgency against Republican national administrations the past two decades.

The Governor left Montana after days well satisfied. He entered North Dakota with hopes high. Montana looks all right to me," he told newsmen as his train rolled along. "But ask Senator Wheeler here who knows more about state than I do."

Senator Wheeler, vice president, candidate on the LaFollette ticket four years ago, declared with positiveness: "Montana is the Montanan went further, said he was convinced Governor Smith would carry North Dakota, Wisconsin and Minnesota six weeks hence, and possibly South Dakota."

Relief Program Is Given By Kiwanis

Interesting and entertaining program was enjoyed by members of the Kiwanis Club at today's meeting held at the Valdez Grill. Highleyman was in charge of the program. Sid Rye sang a song and a negro male quartet, composed of Chevrolet employees, sang several numbers. The program was concluded with a collection which each Kiwanian had a telegram using the letters of his last name. Howard Long declared the winner with the message "Leave Out Party Girls."

Overlin, Joe Marentette, Berg and John D. Jenkins named as delegates to the convention which is to be held later at Jacksonville.

Vote For Votes Boosts Competition Among Leaders In Campaign For Pony

Only three days left. In a work before the close of Sanford Herald's Shetland and bicycle campaign, candidates are putting forth every effort in this community. The outgoing worker Tuesday was Wilhelm, who increased his number of votes. Sharpe and Richard Smith, second and third places, failed to pass Woodrow Riser, Young Riser still holds place by a small margin as related to his standing.

Shetland pony is offered the major award in this campaign while a Ray-O Bicycle is the prize for the bicycle campaign. Every worker wins according to the rules of the campaign which provide a liberal com-

Probe Shows Power Trusts Used Advertising Agencies In Spreading Propaganda

Owner Of Cartoon Syndicate Declares He Was Paid Over $800 Per Month By Representatives Of Utilities

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—(INS)—Further evidence of the power trust's widespread propaganda activities was laid out today's Federal Trade Commission investigation.

Albert T. Reid of New York, owner of an advertising and cartoon syndicate furnishing copy to between 50 and 25 daily newspapers and 2,000 weeklies, testified he was on the payroll of the joint committee of National Public Utility Associations from August, 1927, to June, 1928.

Reid said he was paid $833.33 a month by the committee, made up of representatives of the National Electric Light Assn., the American Gas Company and the American Electrical Company, for his services. He said he laid out a national advertising campaign for the power trust, of an educational nature. Questioned by Judge Robert E. Healy, commission counsel, he admitted six or seven of the cartoons sent out by his organization touched on government ownership of public utilities, the misuse of public property and no government contracts for the printing of envelopes.

Healy questioned Reid closely with regard to his pay. He asked if Reid's paychecks were not at first made out to him, but later cashed by J. S. Richardson, publicity director of the joint committee, and the actual money paid to him. Reid admitted this was true.

"Can you tell me why this was done?" Healy asked. "I don't know," said Reid. "I was working directly for Richardson and the National Electric Light Association did not want to take active part in a national advertising campaign."

STORM EFFECTS APPALLING, SAYS SANFORD DOCTOR

Legion's Relief Work Praised By Stevens; Puts Deaths At 2,000

Describing the effects of the hurricane at West Palm Beach and in the Okeechobee regions as appalling and deplorable, Major Ralph E. Stevens, head of the local medical detachment which was among the first of the national guard units to reach the storm area, returned to Sanford yesterday after spending a week on active duty in the stricken section.

Major Stevens described the hurricane as worse than the Miami disaster of 1926, not in the value of damage or destroyed property but in the completeness of the destruction and in the extensiveness of suffering. The exact toll of death will never be known, he said, but added that in his opinion it would reach 2,000.

WOMAN DENIES SHE WILL GIVE APOLOGY TO AL

Mrs. Willebrandt Says She Has No Explanations To Offer Concerning Her Attacks

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—(INS)—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant United States attorney general and center of one of the bitterest controversies developed in the Republican national campaign, came out of "hiding" at the Blackstone Hotel here today to deny vigorously she had any explanation or apology for anyone regarding her campaign speeches in which she assailed Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

Mrs. Willebrandt also stated emphatically she will continue to make campaign speeches. She refused to be drawn into any controversy or any replies to repudiation by Western Republican headquarters of one speech delivered in Ohio in which she was quoted as telling a group of Methodist ministers that the Methodist Church had 500,000 members who should help the Republican ticket.

"I have no apology to make for anything I have said and no explanation to offer to anyone," Mrs. Willebrandt said today. "To the speech about swaying 500,000 votes you will have to ask Congressman Newton, chairman of the Western Republican Speakers' Bureau, whether that was an authorized speech or not."

"It is not true," she continued, "that I have raised the religious issue in any of my speeches, regardless of what construction may have been placed upon them by people interested in misconceptions."

"I will say, however, that I have a number of future speaking engagements and I intend to keep them all. Dates you will have to ask the speakers' bureau."

Asked if she were going to see Rep. Newton or other Republican leaders at headquarters today, Mrs. Willebrandt declared she had "a number of engagements, some of which I kept in person and others by telephone," but did not answer the question directly.

CATHOLIC ABBESS IS ARRAIGNED IN OREGON DEATH

Mother Superior Goes Before Court And Pleads Not Guilty

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 26.—(INS)—Charged with complicity in the assassination of President Elect Alvaro Obregon, on July 17, Mother Superior Concepcion Acevedo de La Liza, a Catholic nun, was arraigned for preliminary hearing in the San Angel District court today and pleaded not guilty.

The opening session was emceed by a spirited fight between the nun and the federal prosecutor, Juan Correa Nizto, during which the former defended her religion.

LEOPOLD, LOEB PAROLE HINTS STIR CITIZENS

Storm Of Protest Descends When Possibility Of Pardons Is Disclosed To Public

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—(INS)—The faint flickering light which pierced the grim walls of Joliet Penitentiary—bringing hope to Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb that they might be free within six years flickered again today and then became extinguished.

Following the statement of Hinton G. Clabaugh, director of pardon and paroles that because of "error" in the millium sentencing the two college youths to prison for the brutal slaying of little Bobby Franks four years ago, the murderers might be eligible for parole after serving 11 years, there arose today a storm of protest which swept Chicago.

Clabaugh charged flatly the two sons of wealthy parents were being "molly-coddled" in the penitentiary, that they had been given prison positions where little work was expected of them and that they were building up a "good behavior" record which would warrant their consideration for a parole six years hence.

The parole director based his declaration upon the fact that the "error" was committed in the mittimus not stating the sentences of the youths were to be consecutive and not concurrent. They have been sentenced to serve life for murder and 99 years for kidnaping.

However, of the two sentences, technically "life" is the longest one, human beings have been known to live longer than 99 years, and thus "life" should be the means of reckoning their parole.

Clarence Darrow, veteran criminal attorney, whose golden plea to Judge John Caverly, on behalf of Leopold and Loeb undoubtedly saved them from a hanging sentence, characterized Clabaugh's declaration as "pure nonsense."

Federal Men Probe Attempted Delivery In Atlanta Prison

Mexican Congress Names Gil To Fill Position Of Calles

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 26.—(INS)—Two Department of Justice agents, Thomas C. Wilcox, and W. M. Boland, have been in Atlanta for a week investigating the attempted jail delivery last July of Roy Gardner, and other convicts in the penitentiary here, it was learned today.

The Department of Justice men said they were investigating various reports as to where Gardner and his fellow convicts obtained the weapons with which they tried to shoot their way out.

Wife Of Kidnaper Is Arrested In Chicago

Police Of Spokane Seek Man Whom Slain Woman Was To Have Married

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—(INS)—Mrs. Angelo Pettini, wife of the man now under indictment and heavy bail for the kidnaping for ransom of 16-year old Billy Ranseri was arrested today. It was recalled that when Pettini was first held, the woman had offered to disclose the whereabouts of the "kidnapers' farm" where little Billy had been held 13 days if police would allow her husband to go free.

In the meantime, Billy and his father, A. Frank Ranseri, with police, were scouring the countryside in an airplane, hoping the boy might recognize the farm. Pettini and Pasquale Totoli are in jail awaiting trial for the kidnaping while police are endeavoring to round up other members of the Mafia band of extortionists.

Police Of Spokane Seek Man Whom Slain Woman Was To Have Married

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 26.—(INS)—Police search for the mysterious "James R. Murphy" whom the murdered Mrs. Catherine Clark of Boston was to have married was continued today, but officers believed Murphy was the convicted brain child of Archie F. Mook, created to lure Mrs. Clark here for the purpose of robbing her.

Mook is in jail facing a murder charge and is asserted to have carried on the correspondence with the Boston divorcee through a matrimonial agency under the name of Murphy.

Discovery of $1,500 and fragments of love letters in the yard of the Mook home aided police in establishing their theory. Mrs. Clark was said to have been robbed after she was killed.

Mook, a mill worker, is married and the father of three children. He maintains he was merely a "go-between" in the postal romance of Mrs. Clark and "Murphy" but has been unable to produce Murphy.

Stotesbury Pictures Hurricane To Hoover

U.S. Representative Is Heated In Criticism Of Pact After Study Of European Affairs

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—(INS)—A first hand picture of hurricane conditions in Florida was given to Herbert Hoover today by E. T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia and J. L. Repligen of New York. They stopped here in the way from Florida.

The conditions in the Palm Beach district are even worse than described in the newspapers," said Repligen. "There are at least 2,500 dead." He predicted Hoover would win Florida.

NORTH COTT NIECE SELBY DECLARES GIVES STARTLING HURRICANE AREA STORY OF DEATHS

Here is one of the first photographs taken in the storm area of Porto Rico. It is a street scene in San Juan where houses, trees, telegraph poles and many other things were wrecked by the tornado.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Sept. 26.—(INS)—Florida's hurricane area needs $12,000,000 to complete the work of restoring 2,881 homes, aiding refugees and finishing the burying of its nearly 2,400 dead, Howard W. Selby, chairman of the local chapter of the Red Cross declared today in a letter to John Barton Payne, national chairman.

Selby now is on his way to Washington where he will discuss his complete report with Judge Payne. The report paints a picture of extreme desolation in the storm area. The letter in part follows: "Set down in the history of the United States has there been a calamity equal to that which recently befell the State of Florida as a result of the tropical hurricane which swept over a portion of the state last Sunday and Monday, and because that is true, the local chapter of the American Red Cross felt it incumbent upon it to address to you a report of conditions here and to appeal to you as head of our organization to aid us in administering the relief which must be applied if sections of the state are to be satisfactorily rehabilitated."

"When the winds of the Sept. 16 hurricane had subsided, there was left a picture of destruction, desolation and death. Bodies of the dead were strewn out over the fields and highways and millions of dollars of property had been swept away, homes and farms ruined, dykes washed away, the crop lands denuded, and thousands were homeless."

"Our first work was to establish a relief fund for the hurricane victims. It is now up to you to see that the relief fund is maintained and that the work of the Red Cross is carried on."

John Fish, 75, Dies Here This Morning

John Fish, 75, who has been making his home in Sanford for the past eight months, died this morning at 205 east Fifth Street. Fish came here from Washington county but efforts to locate relatives were unavailing today.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the Municipal Cemetery, with Rev. W. P. Bahman, pastor of the First Methodist Church, in charge of the rites.

BRITTEN RAPS ANGLo-FRENCH NAVAL TREATY

U.S. Representative Is Heated In Criticism Of Pact After Study Of European Affairs

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—(INS)—Rep. Frederick A. Britten, chairman of the House Committee on Naval Affairs, who arrived here today, enroute home from England, described the Anglo-French naval agreement as the first step toward the old balance of power in Europe "which rocked the world in 1914."

Britten, who has been making a study of European affairs, made the following statement to international news service: "Unless their respective consciences are troubling them I do not see any reason why they should feel bothered over the leak which permitted the disclosure that the agreement not only tends toward co-operation in the land and sea forces of France and England but also points towards the inference that the legislation will attempt to submerge the world interest of the United States—at least in so far as the American navy is concerned."

"I would not be surprised to learn that the publicity was disseminated rather than accidental. Surely French statesmen must realize that leading themselves to any British scheme to put America in the line most ultimately resulting to the detriment of French credit abroad."

"Any French promise to vote with England against the United States is incomprehensible to me, but with France voting as $1,000,000,000 she might be expected to combine against the United States."

"The disclosure which I am convinced are sure to come will reveal plans for British protection of France conditional upon American acceptance of the Anglo-French pact limiting the construction of 10,000 ton cruisers."

"Just how far that protection goes is problematical. British statesmen appear to have greater fear of limited American cruisers than unlimited French submarines. This is quite a heck commercial for British statesmanship. Perhaps the friendship of France is more important to Great Britain than the present whole-hearted cooperation and friendship of the United States."

"The whole matter resembles a return to old fashioned statesmanship, which made Europe a bloody volcano and will surely result to that condition if the pact continues."

BRITAIN DENIES PACT

LONDON, Sept. 26.—(INS)—The Foreign Office denied this afternoon that Great Britain has entered into an air agreement with France similar to the naval accord.

Thursday Will See Crucial Games For 2 League Leaders

Cards And Yanks Still Maintain Leads Over Rivals In Close Race

Giants Trim Reds

McGraw's Outfit Has Four-Bagger Sprée

By Les Conklin

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Thursday will either make or break New York's two pennant contenders. On that day the Yankees play two games with Detroit, a strong outfit at present; and the Giants face a doubleheader with Chicago, the only club that has gotten better than an even break against them this season.

The Yankee-Athletic Alliance and Gaston act continues, with both teams trying to hand each other the pennant. New York's 4 to 3 defeat yesterday by Cleveland, a team that had lost 15 out of its last 16 games, was the Yanks' fourth setback in nine starts in the West.

Babe Ruth's game leg prevented him from catching Luke Sewell's fly and the winning run came in. Southpaw Walter Miller, who had also beaten the A's held the Yanks to five hits while the Indians nicked Phipps and Heimach for 11.

But the Athletics ran afoul of General Alvin Crowder, the league's leading pitcher, lost a 6 to 2 decision and remain two games behind. Crowder yielded only four hits and chalked up his 20th victory. Jack Quinn was no puzzle to the Browns.

Goose Goslin's three hits beat the White Sox, 8 to 4, and enabled the Washington slugger to regain the league batting leadership from Manush of St. Louis.

Two homers by O'Doul, one by Ott and finally Jackson's four-bagger with two on base accounted for all of New York's runs as the inspired Giants nosed out Cincinnati, 7 to 4. Benton was hit hard out romped home with his 25th victory, tying Burleigh Grimes, of Pittsburgh.

Jumbo Jim Elliott was easy for St. Louis and the Cardinals maintained their one-game lead by trouncing Brooklyn again, 9 to 2. Old Pete Alexander toyed with the Dodgers and Bottomley hit his 31st homer, taking the league leadership away from Hack Wilson of the Cubs.

The Cubs hung on that mathematical chance of outgunning the Phillies, 7 to 6.

Boston will be no set-up for St. Louis later in the week. The Braves who split a double bill with Pittsburgh yesterday, have won five out of 10 from the Western clubs in their last home stand.

Landslide Threatens Dwellings Near Alps

PONTRESINA, Switzerland, Sept. 25.—(INS)—All houses in a wide zone around Monte Arbedo have been ordered evacuated as a result of the discovery that the mountain is moving to such an extent as to imperil the lives of dwellers about the base of the mountain.

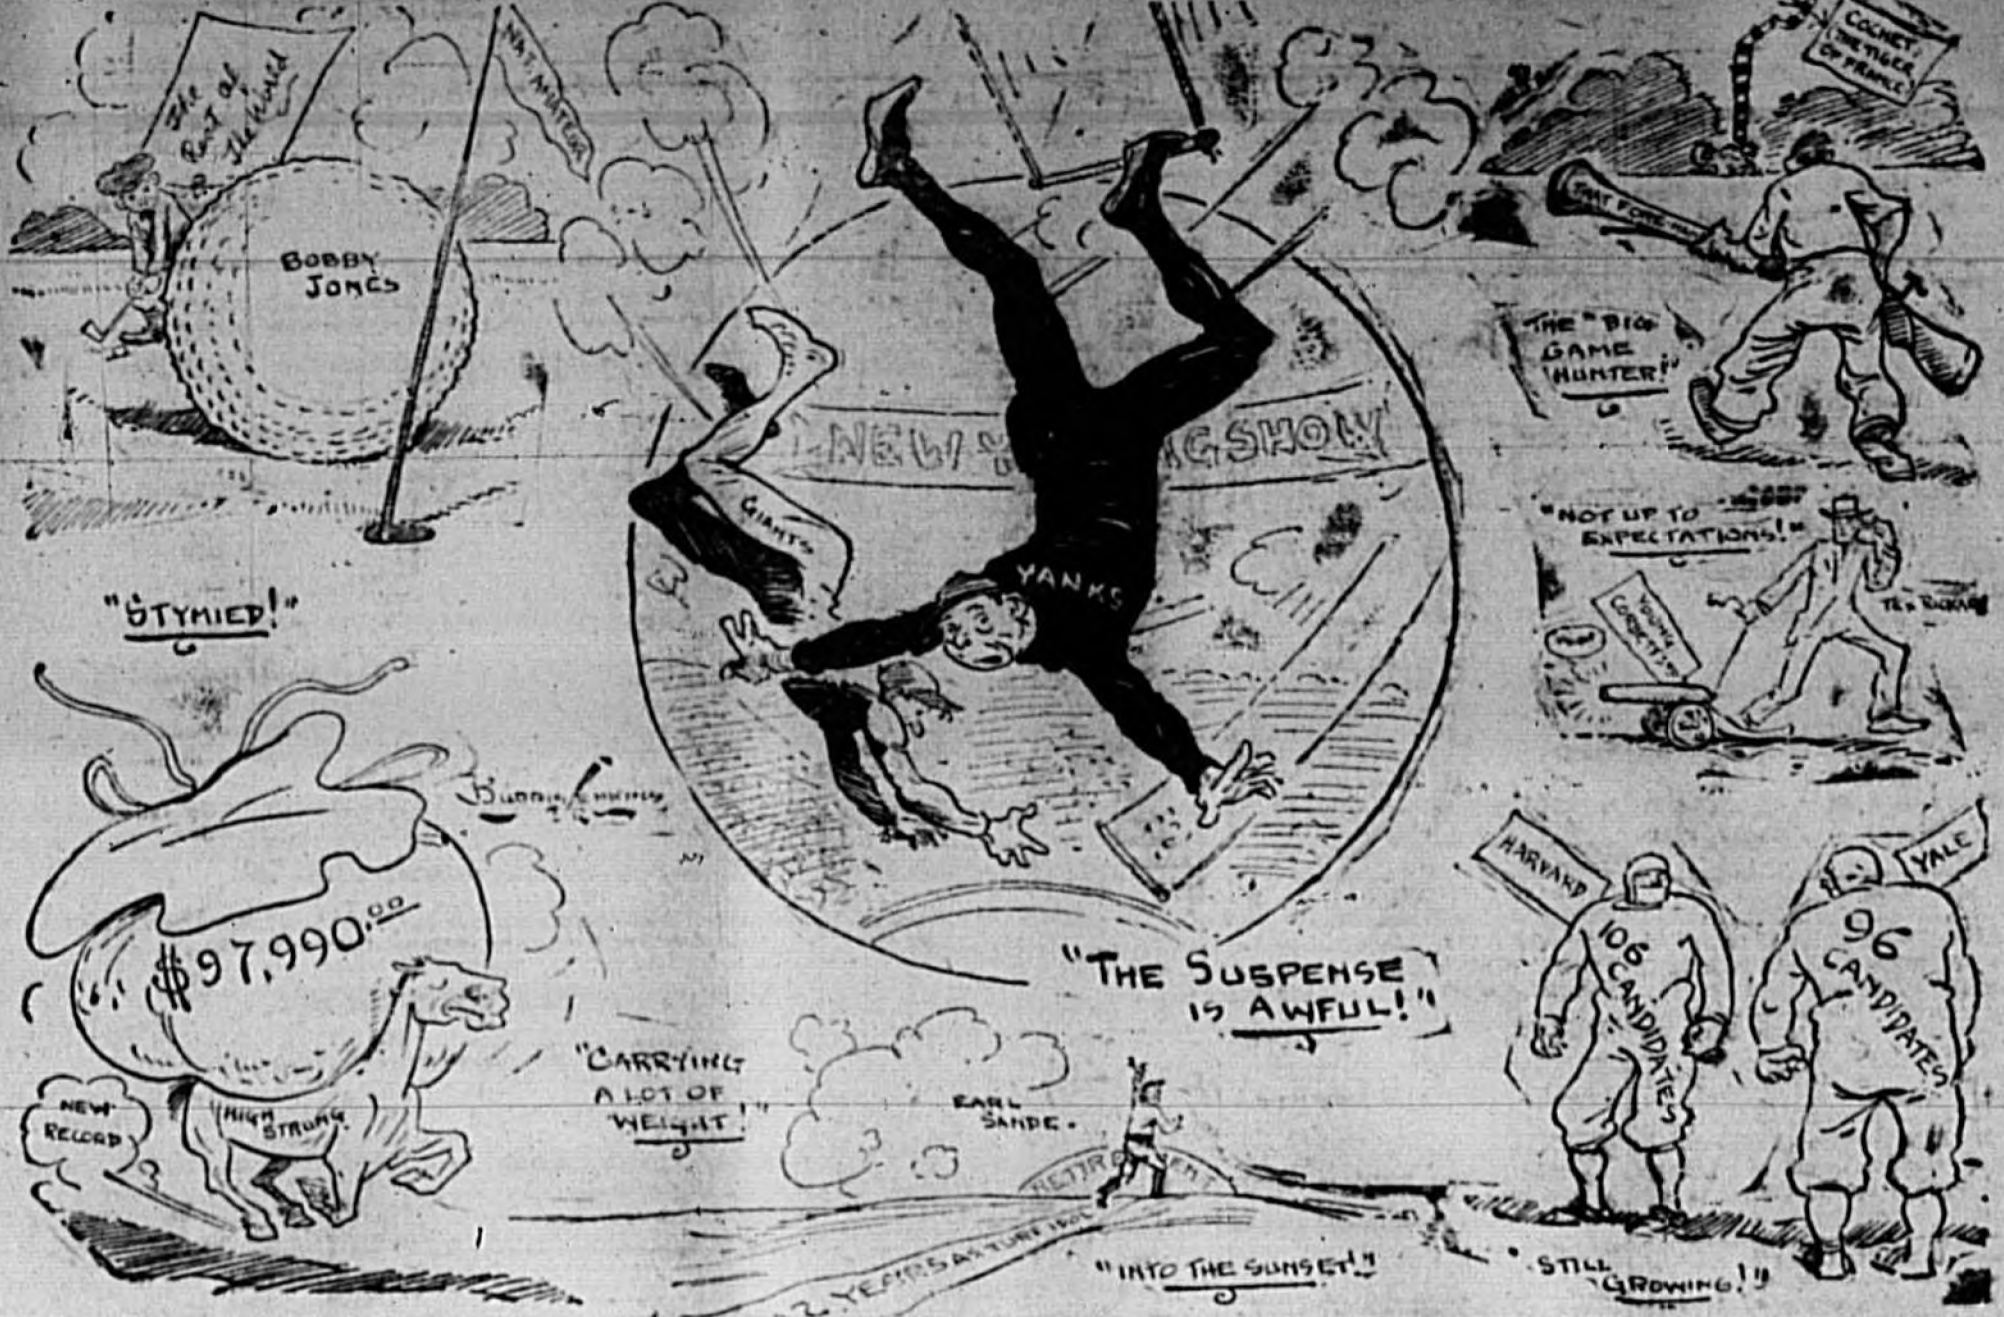

Mount Arbedo, near Bellinzona, is known as the "moving mountain" of Switzerland, but heretofore it was not believed to have constituted any great danger. The sliding movement of the whole mountain has been greatly increased during the last few weeks.

Particularly great is the danger in the directions of Mount Chiara and Mount Ruscaia. Officials of the Swiss Geological Survey, and authorities of the Canton of Ticino are taking all precautions to prevent a loss of life in case the mountain collapses, and accordingly have ordered the evacuation of the nearby territory.

Fast Mail Soon To Link Pacific Coast To France, Britain

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—(INS)—Mail and fast express will soon be transported between France, England and Germany and the Pacific Coast of the United States within a week, the American Air Transport Association predicts.

Steamers can cross the Atlantic in six days and planes will bring last minute mailings to ships 600 miles at sea. By using planes again when ships are 500 miles from New York, approximately 40 hours of the regular trans-Atlantic schedule can be saved. By using mail planes at both ends of the voyage the European mail and express would require only four and one-half days between the Continent and New York, where the regular mail planes would pick it up and carry it between New York and the Pacific Coast in 32 hours.

France and the United States are almost a day nearer since an amphibian plane carrying mail was catapulted from the Ile de France 18 miles off New York and landed 18 hours ahead of the steamer. The device can project an eight-ton weight off the ship at a speed of 35 miles an hour.

Modern Farmer Has Never Had Motor Car

WASHINGTON, Ia., Sept. 25.—(INS)—Most farmers think automobiles are necessities for them nowadays.

Not so, however, with Melach Marek, prominent cattle man living 16 miles northeast of here. Marek, now 57, has spent his entire life upon the farm where he was born. Today he has 382 acres. He has a modern farm home and his machine shed is filled with up-to-date farm machinery. But he never has owned an automobile.

He and Mrs. Marek admit they come to town "only about once a year."

Cardinals And Giants To Face Big Crisis Today In Race For League Pennant

Yank's Hold On American League Title Is Being More Firmly Established As Close Of Season Approaches

By DAVIS E. WALSH
International News Service
Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—It is barely possible that the big break in the National League stretch run between the Cardinals and Giants will come before tonight.

The Giants, one game off the pace with only six to play, figure to have nothing to beat in the bayer's sample of Cincinnati pitching still to be exposed to public gaze. The Cardinals, having used Gaines and Alexander to win two games from the Dodgers, are down to a choice between a kid and a couple of veteran left-handers who wouldn't feel particularly irritated if McKechnie discovered at this juncture that he simply didn't know them from a couple of other fellows.

The Dodgers, meantime, have declared for Vance as today's pitcher, meaning that Vance had decided to declare for Vance. Dazy has a manager over there but the understanding is that he doesn't use him very much. He couldn't very well look this one over from the bench, however, after pitching the Cubs out of the money last Friday. So the word is that the young man will so far forget himself as to go out there and pitch the ball game and the Cards say they are glad of it. He can't get them out most of the time.

However, this bid can pitch a quantity of baseball when the fancy moves him and this may be one of his days.

As for the Philadelphia Athletics, if they blow the American League title—and no one can claim that they aren't giving the matter a good, hard try—they may be able to find the answer in their accommodating spirit or in the fact that they played only 127 games in a 154 game season or in both. The Yanks lost yesterday; so did the Athletics. It has been thus for a month or more. Somehow, I can't throw over a ball club that persists in going nowhere with all this haste. I feel that I am violating no confidence in saying that it looks like New York in the American League.

The other half of the proposed subway series may or may not be closer to its goal line by tonight but no one can say that their chances are only nominal. They probably will take the big chair off Fred Fitzsimmons this afternoon and, while Frederick was no riot with the Cardinals on Saturday, he is a 20-game winner and ought to have something on the Reds, who have almost no pitchers and used both of them Sunday and yesterday.

All in all, the Giants may find themselves with the whole world in front of them today. McKechnie had been pitched, Sherdel or Frankhouse, but finally he is understood to have voted for Sherdel. Mitchell pitched less than five innings on Saturday but his elderly biceps, to use the possessive singular or something, probably needed a good rest. Sherdel pitched a game and a half in 48 hours at the Polo Grounds and shouldn't be right today. But it was a choice between experience and youth and the former always gets the nod in a spot like this.

In Frankhouse's favor is the fact that he pitched sound performances against the Dodgers the last couple of times out. Also that two right-handers have confined the Dodgers to three runs in two days. However, there are right-handers and right-handers. It is a gamble, any way you view it.

Vance, of course, could miff this one, as he is prone to do against the Cards, and save them from a possible tie with the Giants at the end of the day. If this happens and the Giants fold, it might be good night, too. They may never get a better break than they face this afternoon.

Speaking about the 153-game schedule of the Athletics, it will be impossible to play off this postponed game with the Red Sox, as both will be in the West tomorrow, the only open date on the schedule. They did have an opening on Sept. 13 last but the Athletics decided to go through with an exhibition in Albany. Maybe they will regret it; maybe they won't. If they keep on with their dance-tram specialty with the Yankees, they could never see the Red Sox again; it would be somewhat sooner, than necessary.

Gator Freshmen Prospects Are Not As Bright As For Last Year's Winning Team

Nearly 2 Hundred Candidates Turn Out For First Practice Session; Florida's High Schools Send Many Of Star Players

UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA, Gainesville, Sept. 25.—(ANS)—

Freshmen football mentors at Florida seem doubtful that the 1928 edition of the famous "Baby Gators" will compare in strenuousness with the machine that turned in four victories, against a lone defeat, last fall. Though the number of candidates for the frosh football team swelled to nearly 200 the first week, many have dropped by the wayside and as the second week's practice came to a close, about 125 were reporting for daily sessions. At that the squad is considerably over-size, and a cull in the ranks is expected shortly.

Coach Brady Cowell and his chief aide, A. P. Pierson, glance back upon last year's backfield with Bethen, Sauls, Ferguson and Sibley in the leading roles and wonder if the 1928 team will produce as powerful an offensive and defensive group of backs. There are at least two dozen candidates for backfield posts who are certain to survive the axe for a time at least, and Coach Cowell sees in the aggregation perhaps more versatility than in the backs of '27, yet in individual abilities, not so thorough a development at this time.

Carlos Proctor from Tampa; Monk Dersett from Jacksonville; Bob Adams from Indiana; Leo Wernicoff from Jacksonville; the Graham brothers from Daytona Beach; Alvarez from south Jacksonville; and McLean from Bartow, among the outstanding candidates at present, though such names as Brennan, Millan, White, Hattroll, Parker, Qillman, Drew, Dykes, Hayworth, Parnell, Hobgood, Mann, McCallister, Ludwig, Clark and Carlisle may yet burst forth into front rank prominence as "Baby Gator" backs.

There isn't any likelihood that a center will be found equal to Ben Clemons who performed in the middle of the line for the 1927 frosh. George Pressman, Roland Dyson, Ramsey, Haynes and Toole are among the chief scrappers for the position. The great freshman guard of last year, Jimmy Steele—left a post difficult to fill, but there are many candidates fighting hard.

Horace Marsh, the All-Southern prospect, is a wonderful prospect, but a rather serious injury may handicap him for the approaching season. Don Forsyth, Turner Hootson, Sunny Ennis, Jimmy Carney, Jack Tunnell, Renfro, Williamson and Pries are outstanding candidates at present. The 1928 team will be stronger at the tackle posts than in the past two or three seasons, the coaches believe. A. Dodge, Clarence Phil, Big Hanks, Larry Lemon, Pat Pressman, Henry Vandegriff, Finkelstein, Getchell, Salls, Rhea, Vaughn and Chilson are showing their way to the foreground and loom as some of the best prospects for tackles Florida has ever had.

Skepticism hinges about the ends for 1928. Last year the youthful Gators were moderately strong at the wings, with indications pointing to about the same situation for this fall. Vickery, McMullin, Carmichael, Sanderson, Connolly and E. Jones are top ping the candidates at present. Earl Hirsch of Jacksonville was a chief candidate until rendered hors de combat this week when he sprained an ankle.

The Cowell machine swings into action at Columbus, Ga., on October 13 for the opening game, meeting the Auburn frosh. This teen days later they go against the Georgia yearlings at Jacksonville.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 26.

FIAMMETTA GROWS OLD

I'll burn no candles and I'll tell no beads,
The gentle saints must let me go my way,
For happy sinners who forget to pray,
And weep, perhaps there's one who intercedes,
And says "She keeps her garden free of weeds;
And quiet children with gray eyes may find
Their was among her asters, she'll not mind.
The larkspur sheds blue tears, the poppy bleeds
Red petals, columbine droops low in prayer—
All doing penance for her sins, she lives
Without remorse or memories, and gives
Herself with joy to flowers. No man comes there . . .
She wants none but the wind's kiss on her brow,
Dear God, let her have done with lovers now!"
By Emma Gray Trigg

Mr. Hoover is now running for office for the first time, and picked a nice office to run for.—Detroit News.

Palm Beach—the city which the hurricane shattered but could not subdue, is the way the Independent speaks of it.

Just think you might even have gone to Spain to escape the fury of tropical hurricanes, and you might have been burned up in that Madrid theater fire.

Investigations as to why newspapers print so much crime news are invariably followed by the discovery that in proportion to the amount of crime existing, newspapers print very little of such news.

Dr. J. H. Kellogg, of Battle Creek, must be convinced by this time that there are a number of communities in this state that are perfectly situated for a sanitarium. Orlando Reporter-Star and Deland is one of them.—Deland News. So's Sanford

Pictures from the storm area show National Guardsmen wading up to their necks in water while looking for bodies of the victims. The National Guard, as well as the American Legion, should be highly commended for their heroic and unselfish work in Palm Beach county.

Senator Fletcher who saw something of the recent storm from his car window says that the rain fell so hard that he believes if a man stood out in it he would have been drowned. We even venture the guess that the people of Lakeview had difficulty in distinguishing the rain from the flood.

Clarence Darrow denies that he has ever taken a drink with Herbert Hoover, an announcement from which we deduce that Hoover has never taken a drink with Darrow. But the fact still remains that if Hoover doesn't drink, now and then at least, he is about the only man in public life who doesn't and must be deterred from thus quenching his thirst by dyspepsia.

A reader of The Herald asked us the other day why it is that we sometimes print such beautiful poems in this column and at other times such poor ones. The answer is, of course, the difference of opinion which not only makes horrid rates, but is also a predominant characteristic of human nature. What pleases one person does not necessarily please all.

George McRory has announced from his Jacksonville headquarters that November 3 will be "State Democratic Day." It will be a regular, old-time Democratic love feast, says George, and one will be held in every county where suitable speakers from the state and nation will be on hand to urge faith and loyalty to the party. We sincerely hope the speakers will come with olive branches and silks and spices and not with the edict of excommunication.

It's An Ill Wind . . .

Without attempting to minimize in the least the necessity for outside assistance and without losing sight of the sorrow and suffering which has been caused by the deaths of some twenty-two hundred persons living between Lake Okechobee and the Atlantic, we can't but feel that the ultimate reaction of Florida's most recent disaster will be beneficial rather than harmful.

Undoubtedly there are thousands, made homeless or deprived of father, mother, husband or wife, who will never recover from the effects of the hurricane. Always there will be that agonizing memory of some loved one swept away in the swirling waters, of the sheltering walls of home cracking and collapsing under the pressure of the winds, of everything that one has of all worldly goods being mercilessly swept away.

But for those who, fortunately living in stronger houses far from the shores of the rebellious lake, escaped serious damage in the storm, a new era must be dawning. During the past two years, Palm Beach has been trembling dangerously under the strain of financial uncertainty. Banks have failed until citizens trust nothing more remote than the old sock. Merchants have closed their stores, with the business decline, and have moved away.

Construction has been almost at a standstill for months. Carpenters, painters, masons, architects, builders, decorators, and dozens of other classes of artisans, have only with the greatest difficulty found any kind of employment, and many of them have also departed. With the hurricane we can see an end to all this. We can see employment for all.

Authentic reports of the full extent of the damage in the Palm Beaches had scarcely reached the cities of the North before capitalists, who find time to play in Florida and own homes in Palm Beach, were on their way south to repair their properties and get them ready for the winter months. Those who could not come themselves sent their wives, or their managers, or their secretaries, to see that the work was properly done.

They will bring in hundreds of thousands of dollars of outside capital and spend it among local workmen and among local stores. People of Palm Beach who cannot afford to rebuild their own homes will have this work done for them by the American Red Cross. For this purpose a goal of five million dollars has been set. This means more and more outside capital which will pour into Palm Beach for reconstruction work.

We do not believe that stories of the storm will keep as many tourists away this winter as they will bring down. Curiosity is a human characteristic of tremendous strength. Many northerners will come down for no other reason in the world than to witness the damage and to see what Palm Beach looks like now. Very few will stay away for fear of another hurricane. They have been pretty well advised that lightning does not strike twice in the same place and storms do not hit in Florida in winter.

We find no less an authority than J. P. Yoder, director of publicity for Miami, saying that he has never found a friendlier feeling for Florida than he finds right now in the North. He adds that "From expressions of opinion in all quarters I believe that not one person who planned to spend this coming winter in south Florida has or will change his plans."

So we can see no reason for pessimism in the storm struck area. Palm Beach will rebuild more beautifully and substantially than ever. It will come back and again be the pride of Florida which it has always been.

Exercise For Women

News which will undoubtedly be received with enthusiasm by every red blooded young woman at the Florida State College for Women is to the effect that the state board of control has awarded a contract for the construction of a modern and up-to-date gymnasium costing three hundred thousand dollars. The work is to begin at once and by the Fall term of next year the gym will be ready for use.

Time was when women would have fainted and men fumed at the spending of three hundred thousand dollars for a gymnasium for women. Those were the days when women were supposed to faint at the very sight of rats or spiders or anything which they now regard with utter unconcern. Those were the days when women wore so many clothes that they could not have run and romped as they do today even if their sense of propriety did not forbid them.

We for one are glad to see the new era dawning. We believe that exercise will do away with fainting and many other signs of ill health common of that day. We feel that exercise, as it is supervised in the college gymnasiums for women, will make far healthier individuals of all of them, and that they will thus be happier, and their children will be happier for being healthier themselves.

THREE NOBLE POEMS
LAKELAND LEDGER

Three of the finest war poems in American literature were written by southern men. One of these, "Little Griffen," is a rare gem. It is the true story of a lad who was nursed back to life by Dr. Francis Orray Ticker, a native of Georgia. It is doubtful if one can find six finer lines anywhere;

"Out of the focal and foremost fire,
Smitten of grapeshot and gangrene,
Eighteenth battle and he sixteen—
Spectre such as you seldom see,
Little Griffen of Tennessee."

Akram Joseph Ryan, native of Virginia, probably produced a poem that is dearer to the hearts of southern people, regardless of the outcome of the War between the States, than any other southerner. This young man studied for the Roman Catholic priesthood, was ordained and became a chaplain in the Confederate army, sometimes "serving in the ranks," where he continued throughout the war. His love of country and flag is expressed in "The Conquered Banner," which contains many beautiful lines. To refresh the memory Father Ryan says of the Confederate flag;

"For its fame on brightest pages,
Penned by poets and by sages,
Shall go sounding down the ages,
Purl its folds though now we must."

It remained for a Kentuckian, Theodore O'Hara, himself a soldier of distinction in two wars, to give the world one of its greatest poems, in "The Bivouac of the Dead." Educated at St. Joseph college, a Catholic institution, in Kentucky, O'Hara was appointed captain in the United States army, served in the Mexican war and was brevetted colonel. In the Civil war he served as colonel in the Confederate army. His poems, however, was written in memory of Kentucky comrades killed in the Mexican war. The first verse shows the quality of his poetry;

"The muffled drums' said roll has beat
The soldier's last tattoo:
No more on life's parade shall meet
That brave and fallen few
On Fame's eternal camping ground
Their silent tents are spread,
And Glory guards, with solemn round."

The bivouac of the dead.
It is difficult to find in literature three finer poems or in history three nobler ones than Ticker, Ryan, and O'Hara literature. Their religion, by the way, did not lessen their genius or impair their patriotism.
Perhaps one reason Tunnyer isn't as popular is because his opponents always seem to be more approachable fellows.—Walter Eagle

A CRY, FOR HELP

Telling The World

By NEAL O'HARA

As Simple As 2 And 2 Make 4

1. Bootleggers ply their trade today in the same professional manner as a district sales manager peddling steel rails, radio sets or canned goods. Drinking could immediately be made unpopular, however, if Congress passed a bill requiring that every bootlegger, before he tried to sell you his stuff, should state he was trying to work his way through college, and unless you ordered a case of Scotch and gin, you were depriving him of an education. At this familiar recital, people who have been hard or medium drinkers for years would slam the door in the bootlegger's face and the decrease in liquor consumption would be enormous.

2. Have Mrs. Willibrand order all United States District Attorneys to padlock every bathroom door. This would make it impossible to use the bathtub for cooling beer, and as people do not like to drink their beer warm, they would give up drinking it altogether.

3. Design a new uniform for revenue officers without pockets. The revenue officers would, then be unable to shove their bribe money anywhere, so they would be in a humor to seize every load of booze they located. Of course, some of the more ingenious revenue men might think of taking the run runner's money and shoving it in the crown of their hats, the way policemen do with cigars, but this could be obviated by designing a new pocketless uniform without any hat.

4. Have the Prohibition enforcement department rule that all ginger ale and mineral water must contain at least 50 per cent cyanide of potassium or bichloride of mercury. Of course, much liquor now consumed contains deadly poisons, but people are able to cover up the taste and hold down the effect by mixing poisoned liquor with ginger ale. By poisoning all ginger ale, however, millions of drinkers would be killed off and drinking statistics much improved. Naturally, some adults and children who like to drink plain ginger ale would also be blotted out in this process but it would serve as a good object lesson to other children and adults. The deaths of a few thousand innocent ginger ale drinkers are no objection to this plan.

5. Clap an injunction on all power companies that serve electricity to operate electric refrigerators that freeze individual ice cubes. There are millions of persons in this country who boast they never take a drop of liquor until they installed electric refrigerators and started making their own highball cubes. Cutting off their power would be a good thing for them, as millions would quit drinking if they had to fall back on the treacherous chopping their ice.

6. Make it a punishable offense to sing "Sweet Adeline" out loud. This alone would tend to diminish drinking by 50 per cent.

7. One of the most discouraging phases of Prohibition enforcement is the large number of persons around with whiskey or gin breaths. This condition could be wiped out by getting Congress to appropriate $100,000,000 to erect a roller coaster in every town large enough to have a fourth class Post Office. Then, whenever a person is found who smells of liquor he shall be sentenced to ride on the Government roller coaster. This will take his breath away and he will step off the roller coaster a better and more useful citizen.

Finlanders call moonshine liquor korpiuksen kynnleita. The effect some of the moonshine liquor in this country produces looks like that.—Tampa Times.

A message to the editor of this paper from
GENERAL MOTORS

JUST about a year ago we published, in your advertising columns, a message in which we sought to give you and your readers an idea of what General Motors is and what it is trying to accomplish. At that time the public was purchasing our cars at the rate of about one in every three; and our Frigidaire automatic refrigerator and Delco-Light electric plants were leading in popular preference in their respective fields.

Since then each of our car divisions has introduced new, further improved models and public patronage has reached the point where almost one out of two automobiles purchased is a General Motors car. Frigidaire and Delco-Light products have showed comparable increases in sales.

The reason for this is two-fold. First, the public wants value for its automobile dollar and recognizes value when it is given. Second, General Motors is seeking so to conduct its operations as to deserve the goodwill of the public.

We are particularly impressed with the number of letters which have come to us from editors of small city newspapers during recent months. These editors, who are in a position to reflect local sentiment, speak of the goodwill which attaches to General Motors in their communities and express an obviously sincere appreciation of the character of General Motors' advertising in their publications.

For our advertising has been as much concerned with giving your readers facts of helpfulness to them in the purchase of automobiles as with the merits of our own products. Our messages have set forth the principles of trade-in transactions and used car allowances. They have dealt with time payments and the change in the public's attitude toward the used car. Other messages have told of the policies of General Motors and of how our resources are being employed to effect them.

That General Motors enjoys the goodwill of the people in the small cities and on the farms of America gives us an especial satisfaction and confidence in the future. It is in the country sections of the United States that half our population lives. It is there that the whole industry must look in increasing measure for maintenance of the production volume upon which high values and low prices depend. And it is there that General Motors is paying particular attention to its facilities for sales and service.

To our friends in your community we express our thanks.

Baumel's Fashion Show At Milane Theater Enjoys Big Success

One of the most elaborate affairs of the season was the seventh annual fashion show put on by Mrs. S. Baumel of Sadye's Shop last night at the Milane Theater. The spacious stage was attractively arranged to represent a garden scene with a profusion of potted plants and palms forming a suitable background.

A very entertaining musical program added to the revue, Brockhahn's Orchestra furnishing the accompaniment for the models. Other interesting numbers given by Sid Rive, who sang; R. Bushnell and Howard Trea, who played a saxophone duet; Mrs. W. E. Stone, who gave some musical readings and Harve Clemens who played a violin solo. P. Paul personally supervised the make-up and coiffures of all the models.

Miss Margaret Cowan and Miss Virginia Barber displayed the "missy" type of dresses. Miss Cowan, whose brunet beauty was enhanced by the lovely models chosen for her, was especially lovely in an independence blue afternoon dress of printed transparent velvet with flared skirt of the same shade. A smart velvet hat and other accessories completed the costume. She also wore an unusual maroon glaze brown coat of kitten's ear suede, a straight line model with a shawl collar of badger fur.

Miss Virginia Barber, in her usual gracious manner, displayed to advantage a Spanish brocade dress, with a two-piece effect and skirt, the belt and trimming being of transparent velvet. With this attractive costume she wore a velvet hat, an "off the face" model with feather trim. Her girlish blonde beauty was accentuated by a silver blue evening dress, basque effect with a tiered bouffant skirt and uneven hem line.

Miss Hazel Sorrell, a striking brunette, was radiantly beautiful in an evening gown of white fallie taffeta, combined with crimson velvet and embroidered in silver. Miss Sorrell also wore a soft draped model of coral crepe chiffon combined with transparent velvet of the same hue.

Mrs. H. N. Sayers, a petite vivacious brunette wore a sea green evening dress of transparent velvet in a soft draped model with an uneven hem line featuring also the flared skirt and snug hip line. Another very attractive dress was a youthful model with an accord-ian pleated black silk velvet jumper with a buff satin blouse, worn with a tiny black velvet hat and other accessories.

Miss Ethelda Tatterson's particular type of beauty was made more lovely by a wrap around coat of kitten's ear broadcloth with shawl collar of brown fitch, and the new flared sleeves. Miss Tatterson modeled also the bride's outfit of white duchess satin, embroidered with pearls and trimmed with orange blossoms, with a semi-fitted waist and uneven hem line, a real lace veil and other accessories completing the outfit.

Mrs. Robert Williams charmingly displayed an afternoon frock of printed chiffon, embroidered in gold with long waisted effect, the flared skirt being of transparent blue velvet. Mrs. Williams also wore a white georgette evening dress embroidered with rhinestones and having a flared skirt of black transparent velvet.

Miss Nan Paxton, a tall slender blonde, wore a brown velvet sport dress with a tiered skirt and unusual collar and cuffs of pleated tan crepe, set off with a large brilliant pin. A tan hat and shoes completed the costume. Miss Paxton next wore a very youthful dinner dress of black silk velvet, combined with Nile green taffeta and having a tulle yoke, with cape collar trimmed with French flowers.

Miss Ruth Pearson was lovely in a black satin model with basque effect and circular skirt trimmed with coral satin georgette, wearing with this a tiny black hat, shoes and purse. Another decidedly fetching model was of black taffeta with trimming of vari-colored French flowers and point de spre.

All hats matched every costume, and were mostly small and medium models of velvets, felts, haters' plush, soleil felts and combinations of each, plain and brilliantly trimmed in rhinestones and sequins.

The shoes furnished by Lloyd's Shoe Store included the latest in sport, street and evening wear. The most attractive of the evening shoes were white satin pumps, gold slippers, silver slippers, and red brocade pumps. Among the street shoes were navy blue kids, black moire pumps, high heeled patents with the new side bows black satin pumps, and various other patent pumps and straps. Two-toned brown sport oxfords, grey sport oxfords and a number of tap and white pumps made up the sport shoes.

Moving Pictures Aid In Americanization

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26.—(INS)—Motion pictures instead of uninteresting books and lectures is the key to the Americanization of aliens.

No declares Edward Mayer, executive secretary of the visual education department of the University extension division, in an article translated into Russian for a San Francisco Russian magazine.

"The educational motion picture has a distinct function in acquainting the new comers to our customs with our customs, manner, mode of life," Prof. Mayer wrote.

By appealing to the national pride of newcomers by showing motion pictures of their native lands, the reticence of the foreigners is overcome to a large degree, Prof. Mayer pointed out. This, he said, has a tendency to create a better feeling of understanding between foreign groups.

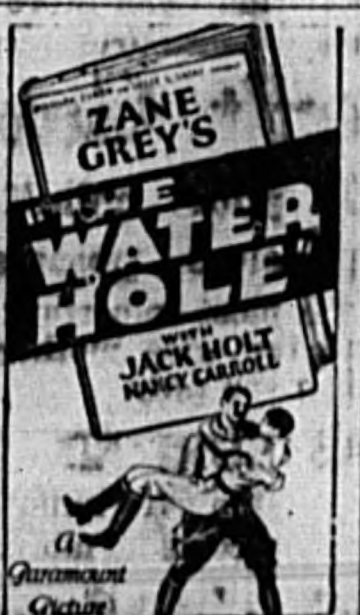

Sanford Orchestra To Hold Rehearsal

Rehearsals of the Sanford community orchestra will get under way within a short time, according to an announcement today by Harve Clemens, director. All persons, who desire to play with the orchestra this season, are urged by Mr. Clemens to confer with him at his studio in the McLander Arcade.

Mr. Clemens, who is a conductor of much experience, announced that following an extensive season of rehearsals, the orchestra will make a series of public appearances this winter.

Mr. Clemens will direct the orchestra as an instructor of the Rollins College conservatory of Music, which recently opened a branch here. Students of that institution, who are pupils of orchestral instruments, will also play with the organization as a means of securing practical experience in orchestral routine and technique, Mr. Clemens said.

All local players of orchestral instruments, Mr. Clemens said, are urged to join the organization and share in its pleasures and educational opportunities.

HOME BREWING IN KANSAS CITY HAS BECOME POPULAR

Hard Hit By Raids On Liquor Joints, People Begin Making Own

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 26.—(INS)—Hard hit by raids prior to and following the Republican National Convention, hard liquor "joints" in Kansas City are fast becoming scarce and, as a result, home brew manufacturing is widespread. Kansas City, at least, has a "home brew taste."

That is the gist of a report issued by Chief of Police Lincoln R. Toyna who recently conducted raids from downtown to outlying residential sections of the city.

Speakeasies Closed
Ninety "speakeasies"—some of which were really regulation bars—rooms never changed from the 1918 "flavor" except in product—were closed just before the delegates arrived in June, and there followed a gradual closing down of the less pretentious "joints" in a total of 574 raids.

Because the "hard liquor" became scarce with each close-down, drinkers just as quickly shifted to home brew and now, according to the police chief's report, "a great deal of brew is being made in the home."

Grocery stores, drug stores and "bottlers' supply houses" are featuring malt, hops and accoutrements in their windows in place of the hitherto usual grocery or drug displays.

Liquor Seized
Only 1,742 gallons of wine and 1,693 gallons of corn whiskey have been seized in numerous raids since May 15, Chief Toyna's report shows. Compared with five years ago, or even two years ago, the same number of raids would have netted many times that amount "without looking around any too closely," raiding squad men say.

Wines are found in a great many of the homes, especially in the Italian quarter, it is shown in the raid statistics.

In the place of the old "speakeasy", where a "shot" meant a generous glassful of corn liquor that tastes like gasoline, has come the apartment house—"third floor porch," etc., if you follow the taxi man's instructions—where the drinker can rest in comfort and drink home brew.

Spivey Makes Tour Of State In Behalf Of Believers Club

SOUTHERN COLLEGE LAKE-LAND, Sept. 26.—(Special)—Dr. Ludd M. Spivey, president of Southern college, has gone on a 10-day tour of Florida in the interest of the Believers in Southern college club, an organization conceived and begun by Southern's chief executive three months ago. Total membership in the club at present numbers 18,000. The goal has been placed at 100,000 and President Spivey expects to enroll that number before 1929.

His tour is primarily for the purpose of visiting as many Methodist churches of Florida as the 10-day period will permit. He will confer with the pastor and prominent lay leaders of each church visited in preparation for the state-wide observance of Greater Southern College day on the second Sunday in October.

This special day was set aside by the Florida Methodist conference in session at Tampa when the state membership voted to pledge the 66,000 Methodists of the state to membership in the Southern club. Each Believer will pay a nominal membership fee of $1.

Informative literature, touching upon the special day in October has been going out from President Spivey's office to Florida Methodists for several weeks, and reports coming in from leading Methodist leaders of the state indicate that Florida Methodism will join the Believers club 100 per cent.

The $100,000 realized from Believers' memberships will be added to the present endowment fund to total the total to a half million dollars.

Wage Cut Agreement May End Long Strike

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 26.—(INS)—By a unanimous vote the membership of the New Bedford Cotton Manufacturers Association today accepted a compromise of the state board of conciliation and arbitration and the strike mediation committee that the strike of 27,000 textile operatives now in its 163rd day be settled by a five per cent wage reduction. The strike was called when wages were cut 10 per cent.

The strike committee of the textile council had rejected the plan but it was put up in the full membership of the textile association. It was stated in union circles this afternoon, however, that there was little likelihood that the council would accept the compromise.
