Atlanta Cubans Show 'Little Interest' In Louisiana Accord 90 Hostages Still Held In Georgia

By Joe Parham
ATLANTA (UPI) — Cuban inmates in Atlanta showed "little interest" in the accord that ended an uprising at Oakdale, La., and officials said there were no plans to enlist the help of a bishop who helped free the Louisiana hostages.

Patrick Korten of the Bureau of Prisons said Jorge Mas Canosa, Roberto Perez and Armando Valladares, three Cuban-Americans who met Atlanta's prisoners last Thursday, spent two hours with them Sunday, but reached no accord.

"One of the things they did was describe to the detainees the terms and provisions of the agreement by which the Oakdale settlement was reached," Korten said.

Auxiliary Bishop Agustin Roman, who helped win the release of 26 hostages Sunday at the Federal Alien Detention Center in Oakdale, offered to help mediate the Atlanta uprising, but Korten said. "There are no present plans for him (Roman) to come to Atlanta."

"That, of course, could change down the road," Korten said late Sunday, "but there are no plans like that now."

Justice Department spokesman Tom Stewart said Atlanta's inmates "expressed very little interest in the solution to the Oakdale riot."

OAKDALE, La. (UPI) — Cuban inmates whose revolt drew the world's attention to the plight of detained refugees walked today from the ruins of the prison where they made their stand, lining up for a 45-mile bus trip to a Louisiana air base and an uncertain future.

The first of 999 Cubans who freed 26 hostages and surrendered Sunday, ending the eight-day siege of the Federal Alien Detention Center, left by bus in a convoy with police cars for England Air Force Base in Alexandria. Others will be processed and bused out throughout the day, prison officials said.

From England, federal officials planned to scatter the Cubans around the 45-unit federal prison system.

The Cubans, who relinquished machetes and homemade weapons at the urging of Catholic Bishop Agustin Roman, surrendered Sunday and released their 26 remaining hostages after winning a seven-point agreement absolving them from blame in the ordeal and guaranteeing passage, if they can arrange it, to a third country.

The 26 former hostages ended an eight-day diet of rice with a meal of steak, corn bread, baked potatoes and salad at Humana Hospital, where they were taken after their release at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Two others who had been held by the

Released Murder Suspect Arrested

By Susan Loden

A 18-year-old Midway murder suspect, free on $8,000 bond since August in the shooting death of a 17-year-old Midway youth, has been charged with attempted murder and armed robbery in connection with a shooting Saturday night in the south Florida city of Coconut Creek.

Jamie Wendall Taylor, of 24 Crawford Drive, was arrested in Broward County by Coconut Creek police after he and two other Seminole County males allegedly robbed two men in the street there Saturday night. One victim was allegedly shot in the chest by Taylor in the robbery attempt.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies did not have the name of the injured man, but said he was alive early today.

In the Seminole County case, at about 10:45 p.m. Aug. 11, Taylor allegedly mortally wounded Luray Demair Aikens, 17, of 2480 Sipes Ave., in a street shooting in Midway. Aikens suffered multiple wounds including a fatal wound to the head from a .38-caliber weapon.

He was denied medical care at Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, and was transferred to a hospital in Jacksonville, where he died Aug. 12.

Taylor, who was then 17, was charged with murder Aug. 12 and was booked into the Seminole Juvenile Detention Center, Sanford. He was released on bond in August. Seminole County sheriff's investigator Billy Lee said today.

Lee said the gun used in the shooting of Aikens has not been recovered, but it was not the same gun used in the Saturday shooting.

Taylor allegedly shot Aikens as revenge for Aikens having stabbed Taylor July 31. The two were said to have been involved

Judge Signs Expressway Land Grab

Order Effects Parcels On Link-Up Near Oviedo

By Richard Whittaker
Herald Staff Writer
Circuit Court Judge Kenneth Leffler signed an order at 8 a.m. today allowing the Seminole County Expressway Authority to take control of about 40 acres of land it will use as a half-mile link between the proposed Seminole and Orange County Expressways.

Assistant County Attorney Lonnie Groot said the land involved in the take-over suit consists of about 20 or more parcels amounting to approximately 39.8 acres, which is located near the Oviedo area.

Sanford attorney Clay Simmons, representing landowners Ira and Mary Jarvis, 5911 Deep Lake Road, Oviedo, filed a motion with the court on Nov. 5 that Leffler had to deal with before he could decide to grant the quick-take order for the SCEA.

Simmons' motion claimed the Florida Constitution forbids people in the state from holding more than one office at a time. In this claim Simmons cited Article Two, Section Five of the Florida Constitution as prohibiting dual office holding.

The SCEA is comprised of all the members of the Seminole County Commission, Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith and Lake Mary City Commissioner Paul Tremel.

Hope for those owners fighting the SCEA faded Wednesday afternoon when Leffler called for the order for the SCEA to take over the titles of the land he prepared.

Leffler had only an hour earlier told the Sanford Herald he would probably be making a decision on Simmons' motion sometime early this week. He said he was still waiting for further arguments from both Groot and Simmons before he ruled on the motions.

Groot said that Leffler's signing of today's order obviously meant the judge (Leffler) felt the

Time Bomb Suspected In KAL Disaster

By Richard Rothhaus
BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — A South Korean team investigating the crash of a Korean Air passenger jet carrying 115 people said initial reports indicate "a time bomb-like device" exploded on the plane as it flew over the Thai-Burma border, a KAL official said today.

"We cannot point out the organization who might have carried out the bombing. But the group might have been one of those who are intent on hampering the 1988 Olympics" scheduled to open in Seoul Sept. 17, 1988, said a KAL official at the temporary disaster center set up in Seoul to deal with the crash.

"As of now, the crash seems to have been partly caused by a time bomb-like device put in the luggage or in the cargo section," said the official, who refused to be identified.

The official said the initial report had been sent to Seoul by a South Korean

Hope For SAA Crash Survivors Gone

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Four badly mutilated bodies were recovered today from the Indian Ocean scene of a Boeing 747 crash that killed 160 people, increasing to nine the number of victims recovered, officials said.

Reports from the search area about 135 miles northeast of Mauritius Island indicate the plane hit the water very hard or exploded in the air Saturday. Airline officials ruled out the possibility of any survivors among the 160 passengers and crew members, making it the year's second worst air disaster.

Only two of the nine bodies have been positively identified as male or female, according to an official at the Plaisance Airport in the Mauritian capital of Port Louis.

The rest were so badly mutilated in the crash or by sharks cruising among the

Longwood Police Investigating Accident

Unidentified Bicyclist Is 23rd Traffic Death

By Richard Whittaker
Herald Staff Writer
The identity of a man who was killed Sunday night after being struck by a car while bicycling across U.S. Highway 17-92 remains unknown, Longwood Police said today.

Longwood Police Capt. Terry Baker said the accident occurred at approximately 6:52 p.m. when the man, who was described as a black male between 25-30 years-old and approximately 5'11" and 170 lbs., was hit by a 1983 Dataun 280-X driven by Anthony J. Castellano Jr., 50, Longwood.

Baker said the man was attempting to cross the busy four-lane highway near Wildmeer Ave. from the north side of the road to the south.

Castellano was reportedly traveling in the southbound lane at approximately 40 mph when the man allegedly crossed in his path. Baker said the bicyclist was wearing dark clothing and had no safety equipment, such as lights or reflectors, on his bike.

Baker said he doesn't know what injuries led to cyclist's death, but said an autopsy should reveal that information later today.

"We're still investigating this accident," Baker said.

"For the next 2-3 days, an officer will be conducting more interviews of employees of businesses near the accident scene and will be taking another look at the bicycle and other evidence from the accident," Baker said. He added the department still had a "little bit of leg work" to do on the case.

Baker also said he believes there was at least one eyewitness to the accident.

Charges against Castellano are still pending until the investigation is concluded, according to Baker.

The death of the cyclist is the 23rd traffic fatality in Seminole County during 1987, according to the Florida Highway Patrol.

POLICE

IN BRIEF

Man Arrested After Scuffle With Woman At Pub

A man who allegedly tried to force a woman to leave Sir Walter's Pub, Winter Springs, with him at about 3 a.m. Saturday, was arrested by Winter Springs police on a charge of battery.

Police said the man allegedly argued with the woman in the pub parking lot and grabbed her in a choke hold. He reportedly threw her to the ground and dragged her across the parking lot.

Police arrived and the woman asked that the suspect be arrested. Steven Carlton Rose, 26, of 203 Sherry Ave., Winter Springs, has been charged with battery. Bond was set at $500 and he has been released.

Woman Nabbed With Stolen Car

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy aware of a reported stolen 1978 Datsun spotted that car on Brentwood Avenue at Salem Court, Altamonte Springs, at about 2:30 a.m. Saturday. The driver of the car has been arrested on a charge of grand theft auto.

Michelle Elizabeth Ryan, 23, of 662 Kenwick Circle #103, Casselberry, has been charged in the case and released on $1,000 bond to appear in court Dec. 14.

Clues Lead To Burglary Arrest

A laboratory analysis of clues left at the scene of a Oct. 19 burglary at the home of Vera B. Jack, 239 Lake Ellen Drive, Casselberry, led to the arrest Friday of one of her neighbors.

The suspect left behind muddy footprints and a sock at the scene, where windows had been tampered with and the home entered. Nothing was stolen, but $200 damage was done to windows in the home, Casselberry police reported.

At 8:51 a.m. Friday, Randy Bruce Enslin, 22, of 214 Lake Ellen Drive, was arrested at his home on a charge of burglary to an occupied dwelling. At the time of this arrest he was out of jail on bond for another burglary charge, so Saturday, he was being held without bond.

Witness Identifies Suspect

A witness who reportedly saw two suspects taking a $370 video recorder from 1810 E. Landing Drive, Sanford, at about 6:30 p.m. Oct. 12, identified a suspect for Sanford police.

That brought the arrest at 4 p.m. Friday of Michael Brian Hatch, 20, of 407 W. First St., Sanford. Hatch has been charged with grand theft and bond was set at $1,000. He has been released from jail. In Hatch's arrest report police mentioned a co-defendant, but did not report the arrest of a second suspect in the case.

Fleeing Suspect Alerts Police

When Oviedo police approached a car on Tyson Street at about 6 p.m. Friday a man standing beside the car ran into nearby woods. Since this is a "drug dealing area," police said, they approached the car and inside saw a beer can that had apparently been altered into a cocaine smoking device.

The car's driver, Jerry Allen Parker, 31, of Orlando, was arrested and the car was searched. Police reported finding marijuana in the car. Parker has been charged with possession of drug paraphernalia and having an unassigned license tag and no driver's license. He was being held in lieu of $500 bond.

Driving Under Influence Arrests

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

- Homer L. Blankenship, 33, of 292-A S. Third St., Lake Mary, was arrested at 7:40 p.m. Friday, after police saw him park his car, with one headlight burned out, at the 7-Eleven on County Road 15, Lake Mary. Blankenship came out of the store with a 12-pack of beer and Lake Mary police asked to see his driver's license. The license had been suspended and he was arrested on that charge, as well as for DUI and possession of a suspended driver's license.
- Steven Lee Tucker, 32, of 3301 S. Sanford Ave., #80, Sanford, at 8:32 p.m. Friday after his car was in an accident on U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford.
- Michael Robert Nievison, 34, of 1503 S. Mellonville Ave., Sanford, Friday on Celery Avenue, Sanford, after his weaving car hit the curb of the roadway a couple of times. He was also charged with careless driving and driving with an expired license.

Witness Chases Purse Snatchers

Betty Jean Mann, 61, of Orlando, was getting into her car at Walmart, State Road 436, Casselberry, at about 9 p.m. Friday when two men drove past her and one grabbed her purse. Mann was knocked to the ground and her arms were cut.

The bandits sped away, but witness Wayne M. Leniham, 22, of Altamonte Springs pursued their car and the robbers threw the purse out of their car near Butler Plaza, State Road 436. The purse was recovered, but $30 was missing, a Seminole County sheriff's report said. The robbers made their getaway in a 1973 Dodge.

Circle K Store Robbed

A Circle K clerk was robbed today when a robber held a knife at her throat and demanded money from the store's cash register.

Two robbers, a man and a woman, approached clerk Gail Richter, 21, of Winter Park, as she began to cleanup outside the Circle K at 5009 Howell Branch Road, rural Casselberry, at about 2:50 a.m.

The man brandished a knife and put it to Richter's throat. He demanded cash, and when the three went inside the store, the robbers took $40 from the cash register. However, the man said it wasn't enough.

He wanted money from the automatic safe and pressed buttons on the safe until a roll of quarters came out, a Seminole County sheriff's report said. The robber still wasn't happy with his haul and asked for Richter's wallet. She offered him 55 cents from her pocket, but he wouldn't take it. He ordered her to fill a milk case with cigarettes and told his female companion to take beer from the cooler.

Before they fled with their loot the robbers ordered Richter into a backroom and told her to stay there until they had time to make a getaway.

She followed the instructions and about 15 minutes after the robbers left, she called sheriff's deputies to the scene.

$12.6 Million Worth Of Goods

Feds Ready To Seize Cartel Property

MIAMI (UPI) — Federal agents plan to make their "most significant seizure" of property linked to the Medellín drug cartel today, taking possession of $12.6 million in property, including a ranch with 15 horses and a condominium.

U.S. marshals and Drug Enforcement Administration agents will search two apartment buildings, a Bal Harbour condominium, a Miami Beach luxury home and a horse ranch in central Florida with 15 walking horses, officials said.

"This is the most significant property seizure ever against the Medellín cartel," drug agency spokesman Jack Hook said. The agency called a news conference at 10 a.m. to announce the seizures.

The federal government filed complaints against the properties late Friday, charging the owners, chiefly Pablo Escobar Gaviria, used profits from the sales and illegal distribution of cocaine to purchase the properties.

Escobar is reputedly the biggest cocaine trafficker in the world, officials said.

All the real estate, except the horse ranch in Summerfield in Marion County, eventually were sold to Panamanian corporations, whose owners, the government said, were members of the cartel or related to cartel members.

The Medellín Cartel is charged by the government with being the principal source of cocaine entering the United States. Two leaders, Carlos Lehder and Jorge Ochoa, have been arrested. Lehder is on trial in Jacksonville; Ochoa faces unrelated smuggling charges in Colombia.

Government documents show the properties were bought between March 1980, when Escobar bought a Miami Beach luxury home and an Plantation apartment building, and August 1985, when Juan David Ochoa Vasquez, Jorge Ochoa's brother, acquired the 40-acre horse farm 20 miles south of Ocala.

Hook said all the Ochoa brothers are fond of small Andean Paso Fino walking horses, and their father, Fabio Ochoa Restrepo, is an internationally known breeder.

Ochoa Restrepo has been shipping the horses, six at a time, from Colombia to south Florida, where the animals are held in quarantine until they are moved to Marion County, officials said.

Haitians Protest Cancellation Of Elections

MIAMI (UPI) — Many of the estimated 400 Haitian-Americans demonstrating in Miami's Little Haiti neighborhood after elections were canceled in their homeland say the Reagan administration is collaborating with the country's military leaders.

"The same way the American government protects (Augustin) Pinochet in Chile ... is the way they are protecting the military government in Haiti, to further their geopolitical interests," said Jean Robert LaFortune.

About 400 people gathered midday Sunday for a peaceful demonstration, although several people shouted angrily. Police blocked off a one-block area while scores of protesters waved signs and chanted.

"We want to elect someone who respects us as human beings," said Jean Simon, 30, a worker at the Haitian Refugee Center, speaking at a news conference inside a meeting activity room.

Haiti's provisional government, the National Governing Council, canceled the country's first free elections in 30 years after bands of gunmen roved unchecked through the streets, killing at least 22 people.

Simon said he favored halting Sunday's election, but he wanted the voting to resume as soon as possible. "We want safe and clean elections," he said.

Many protesters carried placards with red letters. Some said "We Want Justice" and "Tell CIA Stop Killing Haitians." They also chanted in Creole, "We want Castro."

"There is a danger of civil war in the country," said LaFortune. "It is then that people would want (Cuban leader Fidel) Castro to give a helping hand. That would be an option, to join with Cuba."

Such statements are unusual in Miami, home to thousands of Cubans who fled Castro and who are virulent anti-communists.

Oreste Carl said he refused to join with the demonstrators calling for Castro's intervention. "I don't think Haiti wants any foreign force," he said.

Many huddled around radios listening for the latest news accounts of their homeland, while others stood in a laundry and other businesses in Little Haiti.

"I'm very mad," said Joseph Cadet, 56, who was folding his clothes at the laundry. "All my family is in Haiti. You see my people every night, police killing people."

Jacques Despinosse, 41, head of the Haitian-American Democratic Club, blamed Haitian authorities for the pre-election violence that wracked the nation.

"They created the atmosphere," he said. "The election is the only salvation."

There are an estimated 80,000 Haitians in south Florida.

IN BRIEF

Reagan Will Deliver Speech After Gorbachev's Visit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan will deliver a nationally televised speech and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev will hold a news conference at the close of their Dec. 7-10 summit meeting, highlighted by the signing of an arms agreement.

Not since June 1973, when the late Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev came to Washington, has there been so much excitement on the superpower foreign policy front. Reagan and Gorbachev will meet as old friends, having conferred at two previous summit meetings, in Geneva in November 1985 and in Iceland in October 1986.

Administration officials said the Kremlin leader, along with his wife, Raisa, and his official party, will arrive in Washington in mid-afternoon Dec. 7 after a stopover of a few hours in London, where he will confer with British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

The Soviet party is expected to be met by Secretary of State George Shultz at Andrews Air Force Base and will travel by motorcade to the Soviet Embassy.

Poll: Public Worried About AIDS

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than half of those questioned in a poll said they were taking recommended steps such as using condoms to protect against AIDS, while 18 percent are avoiding public restrooms.

The Gallup poll, reported Sunday in The New York Times, also said 20 percent of those surveyed said they were "very concerned" that acquired immune deficiency syndrome would strike them. Another 23 percent said they were "a little concerned" about contracting the disease, for which there is no known cure.

The survey showed many Americans are taking steps to avoid the virus that researchers say are unnecessary and unrelated to preventing the disease. For example, 18 percent of those interviewed said they were avoiding public restrooms, 12 percent said they were avoiding homosexuals and 8 percent said they were not donating blood.

Cubans 'Victims Of Gross Injustices

Lawyers, Families Say Uprisings No Surprise

By David Mould

ATLANTA (UPI) — Last week's prison uprisings by Cubans in Atlanta and Oakdale, La., came as no surprise to families and supporters of the detained refugees, who claim they are victims of "gross human rights violations" by the U.S. government.

"You could have figured on something like this happening," said Rep. John Lewis, D-Ga., whose district includes the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary. "The situation in that prison was a time bomb, a powder keg waiting to go off."

Relatives of the Cuban prisoners — upset with a Washington-Havana agreement to return many of them to their island homeland — say the men are being unfairly deprived of the freedom they believed they were promised when they came to America.

"My husband has been in prison for most of six years, and he has committed no crime," said a plump Cuban woman sitting under a makeshift tent outside the Atlanta prison. "He is a human being, but he is treated like an animal. His only crime is that he is Cuban."

"Can you blame them for this after going for so long with no one having no regard for their human rights? What could they do? If they go Cuba there will be prison or death, and here there is only prison," she said, peering at the floodlit penitentiary across the street.

"Is this American justice?"
At least one American judge thinks not. U.S. District Judge Marvin H. Shoob of Atlanta, who has tried several cases involving the Cubans, decries the "basic injustice" of jailing people who have not been sentenced to prison by the courts and of keeping convicts behind bars after they have finished serving their sentences.

"The thing that has upset me was the basic injustice of it, the indefinite detention aspect, and the cost — about $15,000 a year per Cuban," he said.

"I certainly don't advocate opening our doors to anyone who wants in the country. But I don't think anybody's rights should be violated, be they Cubans or anybody else."

Some of the Cubans were mental patients and criminals before coming to America, and have been in federal prison for almost six years. Others have been imprisoned for one to five years for breaking American laws. They are shipped to Atlanta to await deportation after being arrested or after finishing serving their sentences in other parts of the country.

Most of the Cubans belong to a group of 125,000 who fled to the United States in 1980 from the port of Mariel, Cuba. Their "freedom flotilla" to Florida was launched following an April 1980 incident in which a group of Cubans sought refuge in the Peruvian Embassy in Havana.

Cuban leader Fidel Castro allowed some members of the embassy group to emigrate, then announced that any Cubans wishing to leave the country could leave through the port of Mariel.

President Carter then announced the Cubans would be greeted in the United States "with open hearts and open arms."

But when the refugees flooded in, U.S. authorities discovered many had come from the Castro regime's prisons and mental institutions, and others were charged with criminal acts soon after their arrival.

Under U.S. law, aliens convicted of crimes are deportable, but Cuba usually has been unwilling to take any of the Mariel emigrants back.

President Reagan reached an agreement with Castro in December 1984 to send 2,700 Cubans back home. Five months later, after 201 protesting refugees were shipped back, Castro ended the agreement because he was angry Reagan had started Radio Marti, broadcasting American government news programs to Cuba.

But last week, the Reagan administration announced a new agreement with Havana that would allow Washington to resume sending "undesirable" Cuban aliens back home. That announcement touched off last Saturday's violent revolt among the 1,000 Cubans at the Federal Alien Detention Center in Oakdale, followed by last Monday's rebellion by the 1,400 inmates in Atlanta.

A chief demand of the Cubans was political asylum in the United States, and several relatives of the inmates said the inmates would prefer death in America than life under Castro's communist rule.

"They would rather die than go back there to Cuba," said Lazaro Lopez, 17, whose father, Lazaro Carmelo Lopez, 42, was among the inmates in Atlanta.

"They would rather die because they know what will happen to them there. They know that Fidel is going to make slaves of them for the rest of their lives," the boy said. "He may even kill them. They will just go up to you and kill you. Boom! Blow you away. Nobody wants to go back to that."

Janet Lugo, 30, said her husband, Fernando, an inmate working in the prison kitchen, "would rather die here" than "go back to Cuba and be put in another prison."

Holding her 10-year-old daughter in her arms, Lugo said her husband was arrested three years ago in San Francisco for carrying a $20 bill that had been marked by police in a drug deal.

The woman with long dark hair said her husband was released from a San Francisco jail after serving out his term and had been back home for 21 days when federal immigration agents knocked on the family's door.

She said the officers pronounced her husband an "undesirable" and took him away to a detention center in Oakland, Calif. He later was transferred to Atlanta.

"Remember when Daddy was handcuffed and thrown on the floor?" the woman asked the little girl she held in her arms.

The dark-haired child nodded yes.

"The majority of the Cubans in there don't deserve to be in there," she said, noting that many of the rioting inmates had completed their jail sentences long ago and were held only on the grounds of being "undesirable aliens."

Need Remedies, Not Quick Fixes

There are several reasons to worry about the record $170 billion U.S. trade deficit, not the least of which is the protectionist remedy proposed by the charlatans on Capitol Hill.

Even though the disastrous Smoot-Hawley Tariff of 1930 sparked a global trade war five decades ago, the Democratic-controlled Congress seems determined to repeat the mistakes of the past by raising tariff walls to discourage foreign imports. Two bills that would bring this about are in a House-Senate conference committee. Meanwhile, President Reagan promises to veto any protectionist legislation that reaches his desk.

He's right of course. Puritive trade laws are not the answer to the staggering U.S. trade deficit. Rather, this nation should be concentrating on increased productivity which is the ultimate solution to making American goods more competitive abroad.

Among the misconceptions about the nation's trade problems is that the underdeveloped countries undercut U.S. products with cheap foreign labor. Actually, the United States is importing a far lower percentage of goods from low-wage countries than in 1960 when it enjoyed a trade surplus. Another false assumption is that the trade deficit stems primarily from unfair practices by foreign countries.

If low wages and unfair foreign practices are not the cause of the rising American trade deficit, then what is to blame?

The hard fact is that the United States is spending more than it produces. Between 1981 and 1986, total real private and government spending increased by 19.6 percent compared to a 13.2 percent increase in production. The federal government is to blame for most of this imbalance, having increased its annual borrowing by approximately $140 billion during these years. Washington's deficit, in turn, raised interest rates, sucked in foreign capital and drove the value of the dollar so high that American exports were prohibitively expensive for overseas customers.

Although Congress understands this vicious cycle, many lawmakers blame the problem on the administration's trade policy. No surprise here. Cutting the budget deficit is politically difficult, while railing against unfair competition and calling for trade barriers allows congressional demagogues to show that they are standing up for American workers.

Such nostrums, of course, ignore the need for enhanced U.S. productivity in order to regain the competitive edge. Last summer, for example, West Germany replaced the United States as the world's biggest exporter. West Germany's dominance is all the more striking inasmuch as its population is one-fourth that of the United States. West German exports represent 25 percent of GNP because the Germans are known for high-quality workmanship, which makes their goods sought after throughout the world.

By contrast, American exports account for 7 percent of GNP, and have been falling steadily during the last seven years. The congressional answer to this slippage is a protectionist trade law that would raise U.S. consumer prices and could even cost American jobs. One only has to look at the so-called voluntary export restraints on Japanese automobiles to the United States since 1981 to see the folly of trade barriers. Such restraints not only raised the price of Japanese cars sold in the United States in 1983 and 1984 by an average of $1,700, they strengthened the Japanese auto industry. Meantime, layoffs are commonplace in the domestic auto industry.

Congressional charges to the contrary notwithstanding, there are no quick fixes to the U.S. trade deficit. The surest way to boost U.S. exports is through increased productivity and more free-trade agreements, such as the recent accord with Canada. That's surely preferable to the Smoot-Hawley strategy that, in the wake of the stock market crash of 1929, helped bring about the Great Depression.

BERRY'S WORLD

VINCENT CARROLL

Don't Allow White Supremacism To Air

If a dinner guest, deep in the sauce, declared unexpected affection for the memory of Adolf Hitler, a civilized host would kick the fellow into the street. A naive host would proclaim a belief in free speech and permit the guest to poison the rest of the evening's discussion.

This principle holds elsewhere as well, although a radio station owner in Salt Lake City doesn't realize it. John Hinton believes in indulging his guests no matter how obnoxious they become.

Hinton, who owns and manages KZZI, recently learned that one of his Saturday morning talk-show announcers was a white supremacist. The bigot, Dwight McCarthy, buys his own air time for the "Counter Marxist Alliance Hour" (to be renamed the "Aryan Nation's Hour"). According to McCarthy, it was high time to come "out of the closet" and admit his racism.

At this point, the station owner should have responded: "Well, Dwight, your views are quite provocative and would make entertaining talk radio, but I'm afraid I can't permit you to peddle racism on my station. The show is canceled."

Instead, Hinton served up the hallowed rhetoric of free speech. While he opposes white supremacism, he said, he supports McCarthy's right to say what he believes. Besides, Hinton added, McCarthy doesn't advocate violent overthrow of the government or preach interracial hatred.

Oh, no? McCarthy intends to repeat messages from the Rev. Richard Butler, the Idaho zealot linked to two neo-Nazis convicted in federal court for violating the civil rights of Alan Berg, a Jewish talk-show host gunned down in Denver in 1984. Butler himself will go on trial next year on other federal charges.

By his own admission, McCarthy thinks non-whites should be barred from holding office or voting—hardly a position to warm the hearth of brotherly love.

But Hinton's argument isn't merely flawed. It's rotten at the foundation. He is not defending free speech, after all, but $100-an-hour speech. That's how much McCarthy pays KZZI for his weekly hour on the air. Turning off McCarthy's microphone would hardly muzzle the man. He'd remain free to shout his message on street-corners, pass out handbills, trudge door-to-door in search of converts. No one threatens his constitutional rights.

The right to free speech has nothing to do with a duty of media owners to indulge anyone's point of view. They have no such duty. What Hinton really seems to mean is that he values an open exchange of ideas. Show hosts on KZZI include a psychic, libertarian, "mountain man," investigative reporter and chiropractor, to mention a few. They run the ethnic and religious gamut from Jew to black, Hispanic to Mormon.

Such diversity of views is for the most part refreshing, given the narrow range of opinion found in media outlets these days. Typically, editorial positions range from a sluggish conservatism to a timid liberalism, with the debate generally mired in the middle ground of accommodation.

Yet a neo-Nazi, like a communist, is not merely plugging another point of view. His vision, if implemented, would require the abandonment of national ideals.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

On The Waves Of Prosperity

WASHINGTON — Around the world economists are presenting theories of what caused the stock market crash of Monday, Oct. 19, and what it signifies for the Western world. Thoughtful people are looking to history to discover causes and future effects.

One of the most interesting comments on the meaning of the crash comes from Ronald de Valderano, a London-based associate who writes on international affairs. De Valderano writes:

"A spectre has risen from an unmarked grave in the frozen soil of a Siberian concentration camp. It is the ghost of Kondratieff, Nikolai Kondratieff was a Russian economist who produced a theory that there was an inbuilt seismic movement in the system of capitalism by which periods of prosperity built up and up until, reaching a climax, they toppled over like a wave and came crashing down into the trough of a depression.

"His theory pleased the Soviet leaders, but when Kondratieff went on to postulate the depression would be followed by another gradual buildup to a climax of prosperity, Stalin was enraged. Kondratieff is said to have died insane in the misery of solitary confinement in a Siberian labor camp.

"The theories of Kondratieff have been recently studied by Prof. Peter Hall of the Universities of Reading and Berkeley. The theories make fascinating reading. The end of the 18th century was a period of great prosperity which continued into the beginning of the 19th century. It reached a climax during the time of the Napoleonic Wars, and then in 1816 (two years after Waterloo) there was the crash.

"By 1825, the depression was nearing its bottom when, with the invention of the railways, prosperity started to climb back, reaching a peak about the time of the American Civil War. This was followed in 1873 by another crash. It reached its bottom about 1890 and was followed by another build-up of prosperity with the invention of the motor car and electric power.

"This build-up continued through the Great War of 1914-1918. Twelve years after the war there was the crash of 1930. Once again there was a deep depression, to 1950 when, with electronics, computers, television and jets, the wave of prosperity again built up. Once again there was a war—the Vietnam War—and then a peak reached some 12 years after, and another toppling over, in 1987.

CIA Confronts The AIDS Threat

By Jack Anderson
And

WASHINGTON — Could Mata Hari have operated in the age of AIDS?

Without going into this idle historical question, the CIA has finally decided that it has to deal with the reality of the worldwide epidemic of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome. The agency has sent out urgent warnings to all its agents and has begun routine testing of applicants, employees and their families to identify carriers of the deadly AIDS virus.

Earlier this year, the CIA issued a special alert to its spies in 15 countries, warning them to be more careful about their sexual contacts — whether recreational or on-the-job — with individuals who might have the disease. The countries of highest risk were identified as Haiti, France, Italy, the United Kingdom, West Germany, the Central African

JEFFREY HART

Illegal Presidency?

This column is going to be fun, but serious fun, and maybe you like that sort of thing and maybe you don't. But anyway, here goes.

In this year, 1987, we are celebrating the bicentennial of the Constitution. We are also in the process of electing a president. And with Bork and Ginsburg we have been debating the meaning of the Constitution itself.

But there is an enormous irony. Our process of electing a president is entirely outside the text of the Constitution.

Nothing in the Constitution provides for "political parties." They nowhere appear in that text, and, indeed, Washington, Jefferson, Madison and all the others thought that political parties—"factions"—were British phenomena that had no place in a virtuous republic.

There is a fascinating book on all of this titled "The Presidential Game" by a first-rate scholar at Rutgers named Richard P. McCormick (Oxford University Press).

In the beginning, the president and vice president were supposed to be "eminent men," conspicuously public spirited and known to be virtuous. Any sort of "campaigning" was out of the question.

The Constitution left the nominating process vague. Would the various states' congressional delegations decide on that state's nominee? Would there be a state-wide caucus? How would the states' "electors" be chosen?

On top of that, the Constitution required that the man with the most electoral votes, however chosen, be named president. The man with the second highest total was to be vice-president. A tie vote was not provided for.

What appears to have been the unstated political-theoretical assumption here was that the president would be a man of such compelling character that he would be a consensus candidate, and also that disagreements over policy would be so comparatively minor that there would be no serious rivalry between the president and his vice president, who, after all, had run against him. The last gap of this political theory may have been Thomas Jefferson's remark upon inauguration that "We are all Republicans. We are all Federalists."

Oh yeah? Up in New York, Gov. Dewitt Clinton didn't think so. He was definitely a Federalist. Parties, in some inchoate sense, were emerging.

But Jefferson was intelligent enough to know that he was talking through his wig, if not through his tri-cornered hat. The issues were becoming sectional and territorial, with Jefferson himself leading the way for Virginia.

From Jefferson's inauguration until the election of James Monroe in 1820, every president came from Virginia. The Virginians were politically disciplined and had learned to vote as a bloc for one man. Other states followed Virginia's lead, with offices suitably distributed.

Furthermore, Virginia's prosperity and expansionism pushed Virginia's influence westward into the new states. On top of all that, the Virginia statesmen were genuinely more impressive than their New York, Pennsylvania and New England rivals. The Federalist Party was actually strong for secession during the Virginians' War of 1812.

Deciding When Test Is Needed

By Gayle Young
UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Since Pap smears became routine in the United States in the 1940s, the number of women who die from cervical and related cancers has declined steadily by 70 percent.

But health officials are still trying to determine how often the cancer screening test should be performed.

The American Cancer Society recommended women have the test two years in a row and then every three years if their results were normal. Recently, the organization revised its guidelines and suggested that after a woman has three annual pap smears that are normal, it is up to her doctor to decide how often to perform the test.

"A woman who is at high risk for cervical cancer would need to have it performed more often than a woman who has no known risks," said Dr. Robert V.P. Hutter, chairman of the society's committee on cancer prevention. "A 45-year-old prostitute is at higher risk than a woman who has had a hysterectomy for unrelated causes."

The society estimates 13,000 women will get cervical cancer this year and 6,800 will die from it. The 15 to 20 percent of American women who do not have regular Pap smears account for the majority of those who die.

In a Pap smear, a small sample of cells is swabbed off the cervix and lining of the uterus then examined under a microscope. A trained technician or physician can detect abnormal changes in cells that may be precursors to cervical cancer.

It may take 20 years from the earliest cellular changes to full-blown cancer, Hutter said. But he said the average is about 10 years. It is estimated only 5 percent of cervical cancers develop rapidly. Because of that, only 2 percent of early cervical cancers will be missed if women have Pap smears every two years instead of annually and 5 percent will be missed if women have them every three years.

Hutter said some government agencies recommend less frequent Pap smears out of a desire to get the most from the limited amount of money available for preventive health care.

Doctors interviewed said women who can afford annual examinations with a private doctor may opt to have annual Pap smears to be absolutely safe. But public health facilities may perform the exams less frequently on women who are not at risk because the chances of missing an early cancer is not worth the cost of the procedure.

Republic, Congo, Ivory Coast, Kenya, Rwanda, Tanzania, Uganda, Zaire, Zambia and Zimbabwe.

We've obtained an internal report by the CIA's Office of Medical Services, which reveals that the agency "began routinely testing" employees and job applicants last February. They have been using two laboratory procedures, both of which check for the presence of antibodies to the AIDS virus, which is easier than detecting the virus itself.

The first procedure is a blood test called ELISA, for Enzyme-Linked Immunosorbent Assay. If the test result and a re-test are positive, the "Western Blot" procedure is then used. "Should the Western Blot read positive, a second blood sample is drawn and the entire three-step procedure is repeated," the internal CIA report states.

"Like any laboratory test, there are false positive and false negative results," the report adds. "By doing two different procedures and repeating them with a new sample, the chances of a 'false' report are minimized. Nevertheless, the implications of a 'positive' test are potentially devastating, and for this reason every effort is made to insure the utmost accuracy of the report and protection of the patient's confidentiality."

The spy agency's medical officers are testing three specific groups, according to the internal report:

"1. Applicants for employment;
"2. Employees and dependents over age 18 who have physical examinations for official purposes (such as posting abroad);
"3. Those recommended by a staff physician — (such as) persons who received transfusions of blood products in the period 1978 to the spring of 1985, hemophiliacs and selected other individuals."

The CIA has established a "protocol" or set of administrative courtesies that are extended to individuals "who have a confirmed positive test" to the AIDS virus, now known as HIV, for Human Immunodeficiency Virus.

"Any such individual will be informed directly by an agency physician, and the information will remain medically confidential," the report states, adding:

"Applicants testing positive will be counseled but disqualified from agency employment. If an agency employee or dependent is HIV-positive, comprehensive counseling and further medical evaluation will be made available. Depending upon the state of HIV infection, overseas assignability would be limited as appropriate."

The CIA does not fire an employee found to have AIDS. The internal report says it is the Office of Medical Services policy "to regard HIV infection of AIDS the same way as any other illness and to expect that an employee will continue to work as long as he or she is able to do so."

'Noles Need Top Effort At Satellite

It isn't often that a football team can play at less than its potential and still win in the playoffs.

That was the case Friday night as Seminole edged Land O' Lakes, 16-7, for the 4A-4 Region title before a disappointing crowd of 2,201 at Seminole Stadium.

By their own admission, the 'Noles didn't play up to their full potential. Seminole played better against Lake Howell and DeLand in the final two weeks of the regular season, but even a sub-par performance was good enough against the Gators.

"We made a lot of mistakes tonight," Seminole linebacker Ernie "Sackman" Lewis said. "We are just going to have to work harder this week in practice."

The triumph, which improved the 'Noles record to 8-3 and extended their winning streak to six games, advanced Seminole into the 4A-2 Sectional playoff against Satellite on Friday night at Satellite. Satellite, the Region 3 champs, dumped Middleburg, 24-14, last Friday.

Seminole knows it must play much better in order to earn a berth in the Final Four.

"Our coaches will correct the mistakes we made and have us ready for Friday's game," senior quarterback Jeff Blake said.

Blake had another fine game as the rifle-armed senior threw for 151 yards and two touchdowns, Blake, who won the Seminole Athletic Conference quarterback title, has thrown for 1,667 yards and 14 touchdowns.

Friday night, Terrance Eaddy was the recipient of six and 25 yard TD passes from Blake. Eaddy, who won the SAC receiving title, has caught five touchdowns this season. He hauled in five passes for 92 yards against the Gators.

The Seminole defense has had its ups and downs this season, but the 'Nole defense controlled the Gators. The Gators only had 98 total yards.

"Our defense really came through when it had to," Seminole coach Roger Beathard said. "They really kept them shut down."

Lewis, defensive tackle Ralph Hardy, and "Monsterback" Ron Blake all had superb defensive games for the Seminoles.

Seminole actually had more yards in penalties (106) than Land O'Lakes had in total offense (98). The 'Noles were flagged 13 times.

One of Seminole's touchdowns was set up on a botched field goal. J.J. Partlow stroled on the field to try a 34-yard field goal. When the snap got away from holder Curtis Rudolph, he rolled out and hit Jerry Governall with an 11-yard bullet and first down. The play proved to be a pivotal one for Seminole as Blake hit Eaddy for a touchdown as a result of it.

"This was a nice win for us," Beathard said. "I do think that we can play better, though."

The Lake Mary Rams had dreams of going a long way in this year's state playoffs, but their dream quickly became a nightmare as Jacksonville Sandalwood whipped the Rams, 27-7, to capture the 5A-2 Region title in Jacksonville last Friday night.

Sandalwood (10-1) ran over, through and around the Lake Mary defense. Saint's running back Darrell Stringfield, an elusive senior, rushed for 236 yards and four touchdowns to lead the way for his team.

"We just couldn't stop him (Stringfield)," Lake Mary defensive coordinator Doug Peters said. "Their offense is just like a machine. They reminded me a lot of the Pensacola Woodham team that we played in the playoffs a few years ago." Lake Mary fell to Woodham in the sectional final two years ago.

The Saints were mourning the death of Eric Fayson, a defensive back who suffered a critical spinal injury three weeks ago and passed away on Thanksgiving morning. The Sandalwood principal honored Fayson before the game with a speech that brought a tear to just about everyone's eye.

Radkewich, Mitchell Qualify For Nationals

By Chris Pieter
Herald Sports Writer

It was Thanksgiving weekend, they were about 1,000 miles from home. It was muddy, rainy and about 40 degrees. Just for Nick Radkewich and Teddy Mitchell to brave those conditions and run a decent 5,000 meter race would have been asking enough. But the two Lyman High distance ace disregarded all the negatives and went out and had the time of their lives.

Radkewich, a junior, and Mitchell, a sophomore, both finished in the top eight Saturday at the Kinney Regional Cross Country Qualifying meet at Charlotte, N.C. In finishing in the top eight, they qualified for the Kinney National Championships on Dec. 14 at San Diego. All expenses will be paid for Radkewich and

Cross Country

Mitchell for their trip to nationals.

"It doesn't get any bigger than this in cross country," Lyman coach Fred Finke said. "This is higher than the state meet. We're talking the All-South team. Everybody who is good runs in this meet and the top 32 from around the nation will go on to the meet in San Diego."

Radkewich finished fourth in the race with a time of 15:37 and Mitchell came in sixth at 15:38. It was only the second time in the history of the Kinney meets that two runners from the same team qualified for nationals.

"They took it out pretty hard the first mile but the times were pretty slow because they had to run through standing water the first quarter mile," Finke said. "I told the guys to try to get into the fourth and fifth spots and hold their position."

"At the mile mark, Teddy was in third place and Nick was back in a back of about 8 or 9 kids," Finke continued. "At the two-mile, Nick moved into about a three-way tie for fourth place and Teddy got stuck in a pack and dropped off just a little. With a quarter mile to go, everybody took off on the sprint. Nick got in good and Teddy outkicked everyone in a battle for sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth place."

The overall winner was Travis Grindstaff (Georgia) with a time of 15:22 followed by Ernest Shepard (S.C.), 15:27, Alex Mendoza (Texas) 15:34, Radkewich, Danny Green (Texas) 15:37, Mitchell, John Masie (Virginia) 15:38 and the eighth and final qualifier was Paul Stoneham (Texas) 15:39.

Other Florida participants who didn't fare that well included Class 4A individual champion Pat McDonough of Largo (11th) and 3A champion Micah Gardner of Tallahassee Leon (14th). Lake Mary High's Brad Smith was 89th.

"To have three All-Americans (Mitchell, Radkewich and track's Robin Rogers) at one school is phenomenal," Finke said. "And it's even more impressive considering they are all distance runners."

In the girls race Saturday, Lake Mary had two runners complete the 5,000 meters as Heather Heikkila was 96th at 21:18 and Tara Braheny 100th at 21:58.

Sunshine: Clearwater, Auburn Big Winners

LAKE MARY — Clearwater High School dominated Lake Mary's Lady Rams, 67-43, to win the high school division of the ninth annual Lady Sunshine Classic held at Lake Mary Saturday.

Clearwater had a balanced attack with all-state Candace Freeman leading the way with 17 points and 12 rebounds. Point guard Andrea Wheeler added 13 and forward Andrea Evans tallied 12.

"This is a very good tournament with quality teams," Clearwater coach Anne Balderson said. "With the college teams here also it makes this tournament great."

Clearwater, ranked as the top 4A team in the state, dominated Lake Mary from the beginning.

Clearwater took control early, building an 18-4 lead, but the Lady Rams hung tough and came back within 20-10 at the end of the first quarter.

Lake Mary's Teri Whyte, a 6-5 senior center, picked up three early fouls and sat out for over 11 minutes in the opening half, allowing Freeman to dominate the middle.

"It hurt us without Teri (Whyte) in the paint," Lake Mary coach Mae Blythe said. "We wanted to overplay them and have her back there as a safety valve if anyone blew past us."

Clearwater was able to capitalize and out score the Lady Rams, 18-5, in the second quarter and take a commanding 38-15 lead at the half.

"We played with more intensity this game," Balderson said. "We had our opening game against Ribault and their quickness took some of our game away from us but we were able to play our type of game against Lake Mary."

Lake Mary refused to give up and behind the play of guards Anita Mitchell and Amy Kuvach stayed right with Clearwater in the second half.

Both Mitchell and Kuvach finished with 10 points apiece to lead the Lady Rams. Whyte played a strong second half and finished with six points and battled with Freeman on the boards.

"I was pleased with the play of Anita Mitchell and Amy Kuvach in the second half," Blythe said. "We didn't execute well, we're capable of playing much better than we did Saturday."

Brookville Hernando won the consolation game 49-40 over Jacksonville Ribault.

Seminole Community College's Barry Dunning put together his best performance as a Raider as he poured in 39 points Saturday night to lead SCC to a 97-81 thrashing of North Florida Community College at the SCC Health Center.

SCC, now 6-3, opens play in the Mid-Florida Conference Wednesday night at home against Santa Fe Community College. The Raiders, who have lost only once at home this season, remain home Saturday against Polk Community College.

North Florida gave the Raiders all they could handle in the first half Saturday as SCC held a narrow 45-44 lead at the half. Dunning proved to be too much to handle, though, as North Florida could not keep up in the second half.

Dunning, a 6-7 sophomore forward, hit 18 shots from the floor and 3 of 5 from the free throw line. Malcolm Houston, the state's leading scorer with a 27-point per game average, finished with 17 points and three three-point goals. Mark Hadden returned to the lineup and added 16 points to aid in the winning effort. Terrell Barnes contributed 10 points and Vince Emerson tossed in eight.

The Raiders hit 42 of 78 shots from the floor (54%) and 10 of 15 (67%) from the free throw line while North Florida made 33 of 77 (43%) floor shots and 9 of 12 (75%) free throws. Dana Mills led North Florida with 17 points and Adrian Kinsey added 16.

Rams Takes Bucs To Cleaners, 35-3

Football

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams and Tampa Bay Buccaneers, both with 4-7 records, are heading in entirely different directions.

The Rams posted their third straight victory Sunday, a 35-3 rout of Tampa Bay, handing the Bucs their fourth straight loss.

"We've got our momentum," Los Angeles quarterback Jim Everett said. "It is a little late, but better than never. We are having fun out there."

Tampa Bay Coach Ray Perkins threatened broad changes on his roster.

"I think we found out today what happens when you put boys on the field against men," Perkins said. "Nobody showed any courage with the exception of Steve DeBerg. It was embarrassing at times. We still have a nucleus of a good football team, but we aren't a good football team right now."

"Some of our problem is the lack of ability that some players have. We have major offensive problems. We need some new people and I intend to find them."

NFL rushing leader Charles White ran for 137 yards on 29 carries, scoring on runs of 2 and 7 yards in the second period as Los Angeles built a 21-0 halftime lead. White, who took over for the traded Eric Dickerson, has gained 952 yards on 219 attempts this season.

Everett hit 14 of 19 attempts against the Buccaneers for 208 yards, including a 19-yard scoring pass to Henry Ellard in the first quarter and a 39-yard TD strike to Ron Brown early in the fourth period.

"Ron Brown had one of his best days ever," Everett said. "He is a good receiver. With his speed, we were able to hit our timing patterns and he and Henry ran very disciplined routes."

The Buccaneers advanced into Rams' territory only twice, and managed only a 33-yard Donald Igwebulike field goal 2:02 into the third quarter.

UCF Nips Indiana (Pa.), 12-10

By Scott Sander

ORLANDO — It wasn't pretty, but the University of Central Florida football team will take it just the same.

UCF made its first playoff game in school history a memorable one Saturday night, nipping Indiana University of Pennsylvania, 12-10, in opening-round action of the NCAA Division II playoffs, before a crowd of 15,043 at the Florida Citrus Bowl.

The victory, which improved UCF's record to 9-3, advances the Knights into next week's semi-final round.

UCF will host Troy State next Saturday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. Troy State (Ala.) advanced by destroying Winston-Salem State, 45-14, on Saturday. After losing its first game and tying its second, Troy State has won 10 in a row. The Div. II championship game will be played on Dec. 12 in Florence, Ala.

The setback snapped a 10-game winning streak for the Indians, who ended their season with a 10-2 record.

"I think we got a taste of how it feels to play big-time football," UCF coach Gene McDowell said. "This was a great win for us. The fan support was a big boost for us."

The Knights played what might have been their poorest offensive game of the season, but it was still good enough to win. UCF committed seven turnovers (five interceptions, two fumbles), but the Indians couldn't take advantage of them. UCF all but gave the game to IUP, but the Indians just couldn't score when they needed to.

"Every time that I thought we had the game wrapped up, we'd have another turnover," McDowell said. "It was a very emotional game to say the least. If you missed this game, you missed a great one."

"If you would have told me that we would have committed seven turnovers before the game, I never would have believed you," McDowell continued. "We made a lot of mistakes, but fortunately we still pulled it out. It feels just great to win this one."

After UCF's Mark Giaccone fumbled at his own 25, UCF cornerback Corris Ervin iced the game with an interception.

UCF kicker Eddie O'Brien rebounded from a pair of poor games as he connected on field goals of 35 and 44 yards. "It is good that Eddie is reapeaking," McDowell said.

Stocks Open Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened sharply lower today in heavy trading of New York Stock Exchange issues, reflecting Wall Street's concern over the plunging dollar.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 3.15 last week, was down 30.34 to 1880.14 shortly after the market opened. Declines led advanced 843.74 among the 1,128 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 28,849,000 shares.

The stock market ended the Thanksgiving Day week with the slowest trading day of the year on Friday, but the otherwise placid session left traders extremely concerned over the possible impact of a falling dollar.

Hildegard Zagoraki of Prudential-Bache Securities Inc. said, "The lower dollar, lower bonds and strength of commodity prices ... don't make anyone too happy."

In Tokyo Monday, the dollar plummeted to a new postwar low against the Japanese yen, and Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita called on industrialized nations to keep their promise to stabilize the market.

The dollar closed the day at 132.45 yen, down 1.30 yen from Friday's 133.75 yen and 1.20 yen below the previous record low close of 133.65 set Nov. 10.

Gold Makes Gains As Dollar Tumbles

The dollar opened sharply lower on major world money markets today, hitting record lows in Frankfurt and Zurich and prompting one dealer to predict a "mini-crisis" for the currency in the weeks ahead.

A resulting flight into bullion sent gold prices soaring in Zurich, Hong Kong, London and New York.

The dollar fell to new lows of 1.346 Swiss francs in Zurich and 1.64 German marks in Frankfurt.

The previous lows were 1.3617 Swiss francs set last Friday and 1.6587 German marks on Nov. 10. The mark had closed Friday at 1.6587.

Earlier, the dollar posted a new post-war low in Tokyo, closing at 132.45 yen, down from Friday's close of 135.75. The previous record low close of 133.30 was set Nov. 10.

Traders in Amsterdam and Zurich blamed the dollar's woes on failure by the U.S. administration to deal satisfactorily with America's whopping trade deficit.

"We see the Americans as having lost all control over the forces which control the dollar," a Zurich dealer said.

"They have to come up with solid answers to resolving the budget deficit and not just expressions of intent."

"The market has seen nothing to the way of concrete, meaningful action," he said. "We are heading for at least a mini-crisis, as all the signs are there with a flight into gold."

An Amsterdam dealer said, "It's the same story, what's happening, or not happening, in America. We'll just have to wait and see, but I expect to see it weakening again" in the days ahead.

Japanese Finance Minister Kiichi Miyazawa attributed the dollar's slide to slow progress in the U.S. government's efforts to work out a package to reduce the budget deficit.

The Reagan administration and Congressional leaders have agreed to reduce $76 billion of the deficit over the next two years.

Elsewhere in Europe, the dollar fell in Paris, opening the day at 5.5875 French francs, down from Friday's close of 5.643.

In Amsterdam, the dollar opened at 1.845 Dutch guilders.

The uprisings at both prisons by the Cubans, most of them members of the 1980 Mariel boatlift, were prompted by a U.S.-Cuban accord to deport 2,500 undesirable refugees back to their homeland — a fate the prisoners called worse than death. The 1,119 Cubans still in control of Atlanta's Federal Penitentiary freed four of their captives early Sunday but vowed to keep 90 others until eight demands are met.

The 989 Cubans who seized the Oakdale prison last Nov. 21 agreed to free their hostages after hearing a videotaped message from Roman, who said the deal offered by the government was fair.

Prison officials whooped and embraced the 26 Oakdale captives as they left the fire-ravaged prison and were driven by bus to a nearby Humana Hospital, where Dr. Roy Harding pronounced them "in good shape."

inmates were released Thursday night and Friday.

"They're dirty, looking for a bath and they're hungry," said Dr. Roy Harding. "All have been seen, checked in and all appear to be doing well."

Doctors said some of the former hostages, taken by bus to the hospital as cheering townspeople waved yellow ribbons and yellow balloons, showed signs of "Stockholm Syndrome," in which captives identify with their captors.

"We understand that these will go away with time and counseling," Harding said. "The people I saw seemed to be relatively well-adjusted."

"Everyone was treated fair, with respect," said guard Leon Smith, 32, who was freed Sunday. "When they ate, we ate. When they drank, we drank. They took very good care of us."

But Smith said the Cubans told hostages they "were willing to die for the cause, and if someone came into the institution ... they would have to basically kill us."

Manny Cedillos Jr., 40, a prison counselor who was stabbed by a mental patient and released by the Cubans Friday, said the inmate leaders took care to "keep any of the more militant types away from us."

But he added: "I'm not a super-hero. I had a definite fear for my life."

The surge ended after Roman, a Cuban exile, appealed to the prisoners in a videotaped message.

membership of the SCEA was legal.

Leffler didn't give any opinion on why he thought the SCEA membership was legal, according to Groot. "The order only said the motion to dismiss (the suit) is denied," Groot said.

Leffler was unavailable for comment on the case this morning, according to his office.

When asked his own opinion of the legality of the SCEA's membership, Groot said, "I think the law clearly shows the Legislature (Florida) validly created the SCEA." Groot added that the other expressway authorities around the state are comprised of a similar membership as that of the SCEA's.

Groot said Leffler's ruling on the motion could have been crucial to the state. "If he'd (Leffler) ruled the body (SCEA) unconstitutional, he would've called under question numerous (governmental) bodies across the state," Groot said.

Stimmons had also filed a motion claiming Florida Statutes prohibited the SCEA borrowing $6 million from Seminole County to use in acquiring the property. The motion contends that, according to Article Seven, Section Nine (a) of the Florida Constitution, it is illegal to use money generated by ad valorem taxes for any special reason without a voter referendum.

Leffler agreed with Groot that the motion had no relevance in a quick-take action hearing, and he immediately ruled against considering it.

The SCEA will probably deposit a little over $1.2 million with the court to effect the take-over of the land either this afternoon or sometime tomorrow, according to Groot. He said that to cover unexpected smaller expenses the deposit will be approximately $1.6 million. Groot said that of the 20 or so parcels the SCEA was trying to get for the expressway link, only 11 or 12 of the owners have not reached an agreement on selling their property. "We did settle on some of the parcels prior to filing the suit though," Groot said.

"Typically, you settle on most of the parcels, even after the suit has been filed," Groot said of his experience in quick-take cases. He added that he doesn't know for sure at this point how many of the land owners will have to be dealt with in court, but he's sure the Jarvis family will be one of them.

in a dispute related to drug dealing in the Midway area.

Taylor remained jailed without bond today in the Broward County jail. Arrested in Coconut Creek along with Taylor, on charges of armed robbery were William Ellis, 20, of Sanford, and Roosevelt Frost, 29, of Lakeland.

Coconut Creek police spokesman Judy Reiss said today that the three men arrested allegedly approached two men on the street in Coconut Creek at about 9:30 p.m. Saturday. The three demanded money and when one man told the robbers to "get a job," Taylor allegedly pulled a gun and shot him.

The three suspects were nabbed near the scene, Reiss said.

She did not have the identity of the victim, but confirmed that the victim has survived the shooting and remained hospitalized today.

Fiancee Waits In Wings As Dad Plays Father Of Bride

DEAR ABBY: Please, am I being too sensitive, or is it just plain rudeness on the bride's part? I am about to marry a man who has three daughters — all grown.

Several months ago, his eldest daughter was married. He took me to the wedding. His daughter insisted that her father be in the group pictures—standing next to his ex-wife. Not only that, but he had to have the first dance with her and stand in the receiving line next to her, which I thought was rather tacky since he had nothing to do with the wedding.

Also, I resented being left alone while all this was going on. I thought once a man was divorced, he doesn't have to play the part of a "husband."

Do I have to go through this with the other two daughters when they get married?

TEED OFF IN N.J.

DEAR TEED OFF: When a divorced man has daughters, he is usually expected to play "father of the bride" in order to keep the peace with his first family. It matters not how "Dad"—or the new woman in his life—feels about it; it's the bride's day, and she wants to preserve the illusion of Mom and Dad together (for the bridal book) no matter how lousy the marriage was.

Grin and bear it. That's part of the price you pay for loving a man with a first family. It's only one day out of the year for you. It's his daughter's wedding day.

DEAR ABBY: I am deeply in love with my boyfriend and he says he loves me, but he has a lot of women calling his apartment night and day—and he won't ask them to stop calling him even though I am living with him. He also keeps phone numbers in his wallet. He's a disc jockey and says he has to keep in touch with these women; it's part of his work. He says there is nothing wrong with calling them or them calling him.

Abby, I love him so much. I would never allow another guy to call me, and I certainly wouldn't be calling anyone else. What should I do? I'm so tired of being hurt and feeling sick every time the phone rings — hoping it's his mother, his sister or a guy.

It's to the point where I just don't trust him anymore. Please give me your best advice. I'm going absolutely crazy!

CRASY IN LOVE IN BALTIMORE

DEAR CRAZY: I know you are hoping for some kind of magic solution that will transform your "boyfriend" into a faithful one-woman man. Sorry, I have none because there isn't any. Pack your things and move out. If you're looking for "Old Faithful," head for Yellowstone Park in Wyoming.

DEAR ABBY: One of my co-workers is polite, kind, handsome and fun to be with. He always buys the newspaper you are in, then he draws mustaches, blacks out teeth and disfigures everyone whose picture is in the newspaper. Men, women, children, the pope. Dear Abby — no one is safe from this pen-pushing fiend.

Abby, could this be some kind of mental disorder?

WONDERING IN MISSOURI

DEAR WONDERING: I'm not qualified to interpret the psychological implications behind idle doodling. Your co-worker could be a normal but somewhat nervous fellow who needs to keep his hands busy. Why assume there is something sinister or sick about a compulsive retouch artist?

Rocket Success Praised

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) - The successful launch of a Titan-34D rocket carrying a secret Pentagon satellite is back on track after a devastating string of failures.

"We are really back in business now," said Col. Lawrence Gooch, commander of the Eastern Space and Missile Center, after Saturday's picture-perfect Titan-34D launch. "We're going to be very busy around here from now on."

In a spectacular nighttime blastoff, the unmanned rocket, America's most powerful launcher after the space shuttle, streaked away from its launch pad at the Cape Canaveral Air Force Station at 10:27 p.m. EST after a secret countdown.

As usual with such classified missions, the Air Force refused to discuss the rocket's payload. But space experts said it was a Defense Support Program - DSP - early warning satellite equipped with a heat-sensitive telescope to detect enemy missile launches.

Such satellites rely on an attached rocket motor for the push to their final orbital position 22,300 miles above the equator, a maneuver presumably completed early Sunday. But Air Force officials, maintaining a no-comment policy, would not discuss the success or failure of that portion of the flight.

The performance of the Titan-34D, however, was hailed as a complete success.

"The dry spell is over. We have momentum again," Gooch said.

The launch followed a successful Titan-34D flight last month from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., that marked the program's first success since back-to-back failures in 1985 and 1986.

Those failures, along with last year's Challenger disaster, sidelined the nation's two most powerful rocket systems and created a backlog of grounded national security satellites.

The shuttle Discovery is scheduled to blast off in June on the first post-Challenger mission, and Air Force Secretary Edward "Pete" Aldridge said the successful Titan launches "confirm the importance of a strong national space launch recovery program."

"There are many positive trends in time," Gooch said. "We're on the threshold of a new heyday around here."

America's space program, trends that provide us assured access to space and a robust launch capability well into the next decade," he said.

Only four more Titan-34Ds exist in the Air Force inventory, but 23 more powerful Titan-4 rockets have been ordered, and the Pentagon has asked Congress for funding to buy another two dozen. The new rockets will be ready for launch in 1989.

The Air Force also plans to order more than 20 Delta-2 rockets to carry Global Positioning System navigational satellites into orbit. The medium-lift rockets, built by McDonnell Douglas Astronautics Co., also will be available for commercial use as will General Dynamics' Atlas-Centaur and Martin Marietta's Titan-3.

Softening Of Water Can Increase Sodium

DEAR DR. GOTT - I'm on a low-sodium diet. What about drinking water treated by a water softener?

DEAR READER - The small amount of salt delivered by a water softener should not affect your health, even if you are on a low-sodium diet. However, to an extent, my blanket answer depends on your drinking water. Water softeners work by exchanging "soft" salt (sodium) for "hard" salts (usually calcium) in the water. Therefore, the harder your water, the more sodium will replace calcium. If your drinking water is extremely hard and you must be meticulous about avoiding sodium, you may have to consider using the softened water for household chores, such as washing, and limit your drinking water to a non-salt variety. Ask your doctor about this. For the usual patient, softened water is harmless.

DEAR DR. GOTT - My daughter, a registered nurse, applied to a medical school in the Caribbean. She was accepted, completed her course and graduated with a medical degree. Now she finds it impossible to obtain an internship, after all the hard work and money. Why do hospitals discriminate against graduates of foreign medical schools?

DEAR READER - Although many foreign medical schools have upgraded their curricula, some simply do not provide an acceptable level of education. Unfortunately, the Caribbean medical schools are in this category.

Your daughter may be very bright and capable; nonetheless, before she can continue her training in the United States, she will have to pass a qualifying examination. Whether she will be accepted into a U.S. internship depends on her score, as well as on individual licensing regulations that vary from state to state.

Hospitals don't really discriminate against foreign medical graduates: rates they can from a pool of medical-school graduates, both domestic and foreign. Your daughter chose a difficult road to follow when she opted for a Caribbean school; surely she must have been aware of the built-in difficulties when she made that decision. She deserves a lot of credit for pursuing her goal, yet her frustrations could not have come as a surprise.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
It's instructive to watch Careful Charlie play a hand. He pays attention to his spots in the trump suit and always handles his entries with caution. When the jack of hearts was led against four spades, Charlie ducked in dummy. East won the king and returned the suit. Charlie then played a diamond right away, finessing his 10. West won the king and played back a low trump. Declarer won the king in his hand and played back the jack. West took the ace and exited with his last trump. Charlie won that trick in dummy. Now what?

Obviously declarer needs to take another diamond finesse. He also needs to take a winning club finesse. But it all has to be done in such a way that he will not suddenly be stranded in the wrong hand. What Charlie did was simple enough - he led the club queen from dummy. When East played low, he unblocked with the jack. He was now able to play another club and retain the lead in dummy. After making two club tricks, he switched back to diamonds, taking the successful finesse against East's diamond queen to make his contract.

Other plays can lead to failure. Suppose declarer first plays the nine or 10 of clubs from dummy. That's fine, but what happens the next time the suit is led? If declarer then leads dummy's queen, defender East can cover and declarer will suddenly find himself in the wrong hand to play diamonds.

Bridge hand diagram showing North, South, West, and East hands with cards and a declarer's plan.

Influential people with whom you'll socialize in the year ahead will prove helpful to you in furthering your ambitions. It pays to have good friends.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't lock yourself into a tight schedule today, because things that you do on the spur of the moment will turn out to be the most beneficial. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail 82 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Advantageous developments are in the offing for you at this time, but they are not likely to come about in ways you presently anticipate.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

Today, if you find your thoughts focused on a particular friend, it could be because you're on this person's mind as well. Make an effort to get in touch.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Conditions that affect your career or finances could make a sudden change for the better today. Be prepared to move swiftly if things start to break.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll be rather restless today if you aren't involved in something that challenges your imagination and intelligence. Seek creative outlets.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you are negotiating a business matter today, don't tip your hand prematurely. Wait until it's time to close before you expose your aces.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your luck is still holding in situations that require a collective effort. Don't do on your own something that can be done more effectively with a competent partner.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Put your innovative talents to work for you today. An objective that cannot be achieved with traditional methods can be attained if you're inventive and resourceful.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Worthwhile information may be passed on to you today through a friend you'll encounter socially. It could stem from some casual comments.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be alert today for a unique opportunity that could provide additional earnings for you through a new source. A relative or family member may also be involved.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Even though you may already have your mind set on doing something a certain way, don't discount alternatives that pop into your head today.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something materially advantageous may be offered you today from a least expected source. It will be related to your present field of endeavor.
