SOLONS LEAVE CAPITAL AFTER ACRID SESSION

Hoover Has Been Subjected To Extravagant Praise And To Caustic Criticisms

By George R. Holmes

WASHINGTON, June 20—

A rebellious and insurgent Congress snarled its way homeward today, leaving half the things President Hoover wanted done not done, and with the threat that when it reassembles in late summer there will be fireworks aplenty.

The first session of the 71st Congress—the so-called "honeymoon session" of the new administration—was anything but harmonious. Grudgingly and by dint of every adroit political maneuvering, it gave President Hoover the kind of a farm relief bill he wanted, and it passed the reapportionment bill which he recommended. There it stopped.

It left behind today a tariff bill half-finished, and it is the kind of a tariff bill that is giving President Hoover and his advisers cold shivers. Mr. Hoover wanted "limited revision" for agriculture and a few "sick industries". The house has provided him, instead, with a bill revising more than 2,000 schedules upward, which Senate Republican leaders have every intention of increasing if possible. If this tariff bill passes in anything like its present form late this summer, it will put a pretty problem up for Mr. Hoover whether to veto it or approve it.

Thus, in the eternal conflict between the executive and legislative branches of the government, there appeared today to be about a stand-off with round two coming up in late August and September.

More significant, perhaps, than the actual accomplishment of the "90 days" session was the temper Congress displayed toward the new administration. While the House, with its strong disciplinary leadership, proved docile enough to the President's wishes, not so the Senate. There, as of yore, it was proved on numerous occasions that a coalition of Democrats and insurgent Republicans can, on any given occasion, defeat the White House. It was twice proved in the farm relief fight by adoption of the alternative plan in the face of the President's earnest and emphatic disapproval. It was proved again by the Senate's refusal to appoint the prohibition committee Mr. Hoover asked for.

Organization of Seminoles County citizens association in the interest of the campaign against the Mediterranean fruit fly will take place Saturday night at a mass meeting which has been called by a group of prominent men, interested in seeing the County cooperate with state and federal authorities to the fullest extent. The meeting will be held at the City Hall and will be called in order at 8 o'clock.

Those taking the lead in calling the meeting include: W. D. Chaney, T. L. Dunbar, R. F. Wheeler, S. P. Long and John Meich. In a formal statement issued today, the committee made this appeal to the people:

In view of the fact that a statewide organization was put on foot recently in Orlando, known as the "Florida Citizens' Organization," having for its purpose co-ordination with the Florida Board in its attempt to eradicate the Mediterranean fruit fly, and further, in view of the fact that 16 counties in the State were represented, many of which have organized county units to be affiliated with the State organization, it has been suggested that a meeting be called in Seminoles County for the purpose of organizing the County along similar lines.

Clergymen To Hold Golf Tournament At Local Country Club

A ministers' golf tournament, opened to clergymen in Central Florida, will be staged next Monday at the Sanford Country Club, according to an announcement today by J. A. Stewart, local professional. Between 15 and 20 entrants are expected with the possibility that as many as 40 may be included to participate.

The tournament arrangements are in the hands of a committee composed of the Rev. Mortimer Glover, Rev. W. P. Huberman and Frank M. Marler. The winner will be determined by medal score and no handicaps will be given. Tentative arrangements call for the playing of nine holes in the morning and 18 in the afternoon. A cup, donated by McLuskin's jewelry store, will be given as prize while other awards will be made to the runners-up. The tournament will get under way at 10 o'clock.

Seminole Indians Try Medicine Man Who Is Charged With Killing

FORT MYERS, Fla., June 20—(INS)—Deep in the Everglades, a Seminole Indian court of justice today heard the case of Jack Billy, Seminole medicine man, charged with the murder of "N.C." a widowed woman.

Whatever the verdict of the primitive tribunal may be, there will be no interference from the state. For, in Seminole law long has taken procedure over Florida jurisdiction.

Billy also will have to answer to the Indian court for the murder of Charley Lee in a liquor argument. Two white men have been indicted in the case, but no action was taken by the courts against the Indian.

At the conclusion of the trial the Seminole tribe's annual dance of the green grass will be held in the Everglades.

BIG CLEAN-UP BEING PLANNED BY DRY FORCES

Prohibition Department, Relieved Over Slackening Of Jibes, Will Start Campaign

WASHINGTON, June 20—(INS)—Vastly relieved over the departure of Congress and a consequent slackening of the demerit of criticism, prohibition authorities pressed forward today with their plans for "a grand clean-up" of the Canadian border situation, with Detroit as the spearhead of the drive.

The Congress departed grumbling and critical over the present trend of enforcement.

In the closing hours, President Hoover was subjected to the most savage attack he has yet experienced in Congress, at the end of which both Houses failed to carry out his request for the appointment of a joint committee to study the question of transferring enforcement from the Treasury to the department of justice.

Two Are Arrested And Two Still Are Seized In Dry Raids

Two men, one of them white, were arrested and two copperheads were confiscated, in raids conducted yesterday afternoon and last night by Constable R. C. Wilcox and deputy Sheriff Chris St. Paul.

F. Denver Ditch, young white man, was nabbed last night near Alamo Springs. A set of four wheels, two barrels of much were seized by the officers. Constable Wilcox said Ditch was getting ready to "run off" some liquor when he was arrested.

Prospects Fade For Additional Session Of State Law Body

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 20—(INS)—With the passage of the general revenue bill by both Houses, together with the act of the Governor's tax measures, prospects of an additional extraordinary session of the Florida Legislature fade today.

In Spite Of Ailments Woman Will Be Tried

MAON, Ga., June 20—(INS)—Despite her numerous "ailments" because of which she hoped to delay standing trial on a charge of murder, Mrs. J. C. Powers, 71, boarding house-keeper, probably will have to go on trial Monday in Bibb superior court. Two physicians have certified to the court that Mrs. Powers is in perfect health and able to face her charges.

Mrs. Powers with Earl Manchester, 19, is charged with participation in the murder of James Perkin, 18-year-old printer on May 27 in Calhoun. Insurance on his life payable to her, Manchester was convicted last week and sentenced to die in the electric chair on August 14.

Leavenworth Inmate Hits Man On Head And Then Threatens Fellow Prisoners

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., June 20—(INS)—The federal penitentiary here was set into an uproar today when one of the prisoners attacked and killed the foreman of the prison laundry plant by striking him on the head with an iron pipe.

E. G. Wrenke, 40, Leavenworth, the foreman, was at work when Carl Panzani, under a 25-year sentence from Washington, according to the other prisoners, struck while he was boiling Wrenke.

After the attack, Panzani rushed into the prison streets waving a pipe and threatening those prisoners who had fled as a riot from the laundry. Panzani was captured by a guard and placed in solitary confinement.

Women Run Liquor Across Border To Prevent Suspicion

MOORE'S, N. Y., June 20—(INS)—Women runners are the latest trouble in the lives of the border patrol. The women, "liquor importers" revealed today, are being paid as drivers of cars which cross the border in order to allay suspicion. They have passed the customs men and the cars are turned back to male drivers.

Mysterious Fumes Claim Two Lives In Texas Oil District

EL PASO, Tex., June 20—(INS)—A cloud of gas of mysterious origin lifted today, killing two children and 17 persons unconscious at Acarate, 17 miles east of El Paso. All of the victims were brought to the El Paso county hospital. The gas was two Mexican children of 3 and 8 years.

Mother Of Youth, Slain By Dry Men, May Institute Suit

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., June 20—(INS)—Mrs. Frank Stay, mother of young Arthur Gordon, slain by customs guards near the Canadian border, may file suit against the government for $50,000, it was learned today.

Judge E. C. Gordon, former assistant United States attorney and former city judge, will act for the mother in her effort to compel the government to make restitution for the death of her son. The suit will be in the nature of a test case, as it has been proven that young Gordon was transporting liquor when fired upon.

Meanwhile, both the government and district attorney Loyd O'Connell were marking time today in anticipation of the preliminary hearing of the case which comes Monday. Customs guards Chestman and Conway, claim the killing was accidental. They have been transferred to another county and have thus far refused to accept summonses.

Heflin's Son Denies That He Had Been Taking Drugs; Blames Accident On Liquor

Hertz Entry Begins Event As Favorite; Palais Royal Third

WASHINGTON, June 20—(INS)—There is likely to be another woodshed meeting between Senator J. Thomas Heflin, Sr. (D) of Alabama and his son, J. Thomas Heflin, Jr.

"Young Tom" is "in" trouble again. He was at liberty today under $1,000 bond, charged with driving an automobile "while under the influence of drugs." He was arrested after his automobile crashed into the rear end of a laundry truck on Pennsylvania Avenue when the traffic light turned against him at Seventh Street.

But the drug part of it is all wrong, according to the Senator's son. He told the police he had taken some venereal tablets, but that was a ruse, he admitted today, to conceal the fact that he had taken several drinks before starting out on his ride.

"I had several drinks during the day," said young Heflin, who is 28 years old. "When the car crashed up on the sidewalk, I got out and I smelled liquor on my breath. On the way to the station, he asked me what was the matter with me. I didn't know what to say. I promised my father I would never take another drink following the New York episode several months ago. My father also told me that the next time I got drunk he was going to sell my car."

"Four years ago when I was in the University of Alabama, I was placed on probation for drinking. Things went along smoothly until I got drunk at a football game. My friends told me just to say I was drunk from venereal tablets. I did and got by with it."

"So that is the reason why I told them I had been taking venereal tablets. I was arrested. It was my first impulse. When they asked me if I had been drinking, I told them no, but just took several venereal tablets. Instead of getting by, the darn fool charged me with driving a car while under the influence of drugs. So my Alabama story didn't work with the Washington cops."

"They took me to the hospital. The doctor's emergency told me—and they told the police, too—that I wasn't under the influence of venereal, but was intoxicated from liquor."

"If so," concluded young Tom with a sigh, "they're just going to let me go. I am Senator Heflin's son."

J. L. Thurston, secretary to the Senator, who presided the residence of young Heflin last night, also declared there was "nothing to the drug charge." Young Tom does not use narcotics, Thurston said. "When Tom last came into the limelight three months ago after landing in New York from Panama, he promised his father faithfully he would never touch liquor again."

Let it perfectly logical the boy would refrain from telling the police he had been drinking liquor again for fear his father, who is now in Washington, would know that he had broken his promise.

HARD GRILLING ELICITS CLUES FROM SUSPECT

Snook, Held In Death Of University Girl, Admits Burning Her Clothes After Crime

COLUMBIUS, O., June 20—(INS)—Following more than 16 hours of questioning, Dr. James H. Snook, who has been held for investigation in connection with the murder of Miss Thea Hix, 25-year-old Ohio State University co-ed admitted, according to Chief of Police Harry E. French that he had been with Miss Hix the night of the fateful slaying, and that he burned some of her clothes, two days later.

Snook has been subjected to the longest grilling in the history of Columbus police. The questioning took place at the city jail, after which Snook was returned to his cell at the county jail. At 11:45 o'clock, an hour and a half later, the probers made a sudden dash from the city jail to the county house, and with a stenographer, entered Snook's cell. A sensational confession was momentarily expected.

Horribly mutilated, the body of Miss Hix was found among the weeds of a field near the outside of the city June 14. The girl had been brutally beaten and slashed to her death the previous night. Until his admission early today, Dr. Snook, who had admitted slaying in a room apartment "some week" with the girl, had steadfastly maintained that he had not seen her since June 12.

Authorities placed the utmost importance in the statement of Snook, who according to prosecutor John J. Chester, admitted returning to Miss Hix a key to her home last night on June 13. Snook turned into the landlady of the apartment the same key. Two keys belonging to the body of the murdered girl had been identified, as that of Miss Hix, Chester declared.

Chief of detectives, W. G. Shell, colleague informed International News Service that when Snook, during the grilling this morning, was asked when he secured the key to return to the landlady, he replied: "After the slaying."

Shell bargainer stated Dr. Snook admitted to investigators that a family race which they were in the furnace of his home, belonged to the slain co-ed. Snook had previously admitted burning "two pairs of the girl's underwear, and her slippers," however, he explained that the wearing apparel had been left by her in the "have been" room but he desired to "destroy" it after he had learned she was dead.

The grilling of Snook started at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The probers, seven of them, worked in relay. It was the most grueling and prolonged in police annals. (Continued On Page Three)

Tom Mix Is Robbed Of $75,000 By Valet Who Missed Gems

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., June 20—(INS)—Tom Mix, the "cowboy" movie actor and circus performer, has been robbed of $75,000. This became known today when city marshal George H. Ducker and patrolman Dennis Kelly arrested an Fryebellah 32, native of Denmark and valet for Mix.

The arrest of Fryebellah was made in a spectacular manner. The circus train, to which the private car of Mix was attached, was pulled out for Concord. Fryebellah protested his innocence. He was taken to police headquarters and booked as a suspicious person.

The cash bonds, checks, credit slips and real estate deeds belonging to the Mix car were not found, police said. The missing property, Mix told police, was in a special made bag to fit in a box under the berth of Mix in his private car. The bag contained, police announced, the following: $35,000 worth of credit slips, $10,000 worth of banker's checks, $25,000 in liberty bonds, $8,000 in other bonds, $7,000 in cash and several real estate deeds.

Mix told police that $50,000 in jewelry, also in the box beneath the berth had been overlooked.

WASHINGTON, June 20—(INS)—Appointment of U. E. Blackock, president of the North Carolina cotton growers' association, to the new federal farm board was recommended to President Hoover today by the North Carolina congressional delegation.

BILL TERRY GETS LEAD IN BATTING RACE OF LEAGUE

Despite His Play-How-ever, Giants Drop 2 Straight To Robins

NEW YORK, June 19.—Memphis Bill Terry, slugging first baseman of the Giants, is leading in the race for the National League batting championship today as a result of his hitting spree in the New York-Brooklyn double header yesterday. In 10 times at bat Willam blasted nine hits, including one home run, and ran his average 24 points up to an even 400—one of the most spectacular feats of the year.

Joe Judge's slugging, the Yankees dropped both twins of the twin bill, 8 to 7 and 7 to 6, and lost considerable ground in the pennant race. The high-flying Robins have copped seven of their last nine starts.

The Cubs virtually created a triple tie for first place by swamping the league-leading Cardinals, 13 to 6, while Pittsburgh lost to Cincinnati, 2 to 1. Two home runs by the mighty Hack Wilson, the second coming with the sacks fully populated, accounted for six of Chicago's tallies.

The Cincinnati-Pittsburgh game was a brilliant pitching duel. Red Lucas allowing the Bucs only four hits and Brame yielding six hits by Swanson, Dresden and Kelly broke up the game in the eighth. The Pirates have been held to an even break by the Reds—in four games.

Chuck Klein's 17th homer featured the Phillies' 4 to 2 win over the Braves.

The heralded "slump" of the Athletics was limited to two consecutive defeats when they noted out the Senators, 7 to 6, Lefty Grove was knocked out but Rube Walberg stopped the Nats, who have beaten the Mackmen only once all season.

The Yankees beat the Red Sox, 7 to 4, after Fred Heimach had blanked the Sox 9 to 0 in the opener. An error by Durocher paved the way for four Boston runs in the nightcap. Earl Combs of the Yankees hit

STRANGE POISON BALKS EFFORTS TO SAVE VICTIMS

Doctors Fight To Keep Alive 3 Children As Two Others Succumb

CHICAGO, June 19.—(INS)—Three-year-old Lorraine Markowski died today, the third victim of a mysterious poison that is threatening to claim the lives of a family of seven.

CHICAGO, June 19.—(INS)—In the great wards of the county hospital, where acres and acres house pain, grief and suffering, a single case of sorrow seldom has the power to center more than passing interest. Today however, a battle, with four tiny lives in the balance, brought attention of the whole institution to a flaming point of interest.

Room 114 held the cots where Chester Kiwitswki, 7; Agnes Kiwitswki, 8; Richard Kiwitswki, 6; Lorraine Markowski, 3; and Boris Markowski, a year and a half old, children of Mrs. Vera Markowski, three by a former marriage, lay.

At midnight last night, all five were alive and frantic nurses, doctors and internes moved rapidly to find insidious poison that cut slowly but surely at their cord of life. An hour later, in spite of all that doctors could do, Chester gasped and died.

STOOD ALONE FIVE YEARS AGO—STANDS ALONE TODAY

"Chrysler came into a seemingly crowded motor car market and almost immediately swept its way into unprecedented acceptance as a quality product. That which ordinarily takes years to achieve was won almost overnight. + + Why? Because Chrysler brushed aside outworn traditions in engineering, in design, and in performance. It brought to bear both scientific exactness and artistry. + + That is why Chrysler has taken the country by storm—why it still stands and will long stand alone—why, if you want what Chrysler gives, Chrysler alone can satisfy you."

CHRYSLER'S PLACE IN THE SUN

Prior to five years ago there were no Chrysler motor cars. In five years, Chrysler, from a standing start, has overtaken leading cars of three, four and five times its age.

The spectacle of a newcomer so swiftly becoming a leader can bring the logical mind to but one conclusion: There must be something remarkable, something altogether different and superior, in the cars that Chrysler builds.

There is a definite superiority in Chrysler cars. Hundreds of thousands of motorists the world over have learned it.

There is Chrysler performance, a thrilling sense of endless power, a swift eagerness of life and spirit, a restful feeling of perfect balance and positive safety that cannot be experienced except in a Chrysler. There is in Chrysler, design artistic freshness and modern charm. There is in Chrysler riding qualities a smoothness, a cradled restfulness quite without counterpart.

Drive a Chrysler car today and realize, better than words could ever tell you, why Chrysler has won so glittering a place in the sun—and why Chrysler goes on and on to an ever-increasing popularity and prestige.

Dawes Scores Again

In his first speech as United States ambassador to the Court of St. James, Charles G. Dawes, before a group of notable Britishers, apparently "rang the bell" when he propounded the policy of the Hoover administration on limitation of naval armaments. For the newspapers of London although of widely different political opinions, the next day proclaimed the outspoken appeal for a world disarmament conference in terms of high praise. And when the English press comments favorably upon any plan affecting their navy, it may be taken as a certainty that quite an impression has been made.

Mr. Dawes told of an understanding based upon equality which can serve as a foundation for a broader consideration which will include the other principal naval powers, Japan, France and Italy. He also referred to the "yardstick" for measuring the relative naval needs and this perhaps was the most vital part of his address, for upon this point has hinged the success or failure of past attempts to curb the race for sea power. He suggested that experts figure out the naval needs of each nation and that statesmen then work out the inevitable compromise.

Great Britain's position, which has acted to thwart previous efforts to reach a real agreement, is that she can utilize a large number of smaller cruisers. The United States, on the other hand, because she lacks the far flung coaling stations and naval bases such as England possesses, must have larger cruisers with greater cruising radiuses. It has been suggested that the difference in the tonnage between the requirements of England and the United States could be made up in the size of the guns. For instance, England with more light cruisers would be restricted to smaller guns. That such a plan can be worked out seems to be nearer the realm of possibility, since Mr. Dawes met with such general approval in his first "shot" at a very delicate question.

Surprising But Commendable

Once a year the prettiest girls of two dozen nations vie for the title of Miss Universe, and the distinction of being acclaimed the most beautiful demoiselle in the world. The contest to determine who's who in pulchritudinous perfection is held at Galveston, and is always accompanied by pomp and display and by brilliant pageantry. With lavish entertainment, the Texas metropolis pays homage to its fair visitors, confident that, for the time being at least, it has within its midst more beauty per square inch than any other place on the globe.

The title of Miss Universe and the gold cup that goes with that distinction are by no means the only rewards held out to a winner of the Galveston pageant. She has an opportunity to sign testimonials for everything from a cigarette to an automobile, each endorsement carrying with it a substantial check. Then there are stage offers and fat vaudeville contracts dangled before her eyes. The lure of the movies is inevitable and most of the beauty queens succumb to the sight of greenbacks and the desire to perform before the camera. In short, fame and fortune are always there for the acceptance, and most of them can't seem to find it in their hearts to refuse.

It, therefore, strikes us as a bit strange when we pick up the papers and note that there is considerable doubt as to whether the 1922 edition of Miss Universe will follow in the path of her predecessors. Testimonials have failed to arouse her interest; the stage seemingly holds no allurements for her. As to an appearance in the movies, the latest Miss Universe demurely and with exceptional parental respect remarks that "Father must decide that." There is no explanation for the young lady's action. It may be that such potential wealth makes her suspicious and distrustful of American ways of doing business. Then again she may realize, as does Col. Lindbergh and Gene Tunney, that exploitation of a name cheapens achievement and reduces fame to purely a commercial basis.

Clothes And The Man

"Clothes do not make the man" is a statement frequently heard from some people who like to believe they are propounding a great philosophical axiom. We have an idea that no wise man ever was responsible for the above alleged truism, and we impute its origin rather to anyone of a number of disgruntled tailors or possibly to some slaying editor whose twisting and turning in his chair has put a glossy finish on his blue serge suit, if not worn it through completely. But "clothes do make the man," that is, they contribute their part in the subtle fabric of personality which is the reflection of man's character.

UNHAPPY RIPON! COLUMBUS ENQUIRER-SUN

From the news reports of the attempt of Ripon, Wisconsin, to celebrate what it claimed was the seventy-fifth anniversary of the birth of the Republican party in that little city, a cause for joyousness was slaughtered by a combination of official cynicism which synchronized with raids made by dry law enforcement officers.

It is not likely that Ripon will attempt to celebrate the seventy-fifth anniversary of the party which provide a speaker who questioned the Wisconsin town's right to claim it was the G. O. P.'s birth place and at the same time sent a small army of dry raiders to complete the misery of the occasion. According to the New York Times' news story of the event, Secretary of War James W. Good, told the Diamond Jubilee audience of about ten thousand that he had looked into the origin of his party and decided that "events, not men called it into being" and that when fifty-eight men were called together in Ripon on March 20, 1854 by Alvin Earle Hovey to unite the scattered anti-slavery element among Whigs, Free Soilers and Northern Democrats in one party "similar gatherings were being held at the time throughout the country."

The Riponites, already slicked on the raw of their throats by dry raiders, stood dumbfounded. It was bad enough that thirteen perfectly good Republican saloons which shared the thirst of 4,000 Riponites, should be raided by the agents of Volsteadism, but to have the President's oratorical representative blast the town's claims to the honor, so-called, of being the birthplace of Republicanism—too much, too much. Listeners turned away and followed the energetic and heartless Republican dry raiders as they worked their way down the street destroying the beer which had been made ready for the celebrants. The calamity to once happy little Ripon, 1,000 Riponites and their guests is related as follows by the Times' correspondent. The prohibition raiders worked up and down the street, followed by crowds, and eventually came opposite the headquarters of the Jubilee Committee, where the official programs, on sale at 50 cents, said: "The city of Ripon and the State of Wisconsin take correct pride in calling the attention of the world to the birth of the Republican party." While the birthday parade rested on its arms and the 10,000 spectators waited for Governor Walter J. Kohler of Wisconsin to take his place in it, they watched the raiders close another place where twenty barrels of beer were found on tap. The dull thrub of the raiders' mauls, smashing the barrel heads, spread like drums through an agitated crowd. Some suggested breaking in and saving the beer, but the day was sunny and the crowd had been in a peaceful mood all day. Formal condemnation of the Wisconsin Assembly upon the prohibition raiders will be asked.

Offhand we can think of several hundred ways in which Stowaway Arthur Schreiber differs from Charles Augustus Lindbergh. But Schreiber himself can't think of any at all, apparently.

In an altogether back-handed fashion, however the graciously and thoughtless American stowaway has become a factor in Franco-American good will. The undeservedly beautiful treatment he has received from the French flares most surely warm American hearts towards France even as American cheeks blush for their country's silly representative.

"The well-to-do and wealthy men of today," says Editor Schumann of the Orlando Reporter-Star, "are those who stayed and fought when others fled. ... Out of every calamity that has come to any state there has come a resourcefulness, on the part of courageous people that has enabled them to ride triumphantly to greater achievements. ... Out of the present situation will come a wondrous development that will set Florida ahead on the most substantial basis that the state has yet known." Amen and amen! Editor Schumann has dipped his pen in the blood of pioneers and written in a spirit that "breasts the rush of all the fortunes it may happen through."

If the pot really did call the kettle black, adumbrates Phil Hanney in Tampa Tribune. "It was probably under strong provocation." Our own theory is that there was no intent of character defamation anyhow. The pot was merely trying to be complimentary after its own lights - which were dark. And the kettle, in resenting the remark, betrayed at once an inferiority complex and a disloyalty to its own predominant color which were probably to have been expected from a half breed.

A Medfly, for example, which called an ordinary housefly a "pest" would mean nothing uncomplimentary. In its lexicon the word stands for prowess for supremacy in egg-laying contests, for public generative capacities, for epicurean taste in fruits, for wide travels and nation-wide attention.

The more we think of it the more convinced we are that the kettle hadn't a leg to stand on. It is not too late, we hope, to right the wrong which has been done to, put in the scorn, the charges of hypocrisy, the misgendering of its unique point of view - that an unthinking world has heaped upon it these many years disdaining to amend or explain its original statement even as it boiled indignantly at the stark injustice of the interpretation made, is comment enough upon the fineness of its motto. Mr. Barney, in resurrecting the matter, has given us an opportunity to bury it again more honorably. We here and now do so.

however, by Assemblyman L. A. Lamoureux of Ashland County, who said that he would introduce a resolution as soon as the Legislature convened on Tuesday. Other members of the Legislature who attended the jubilee in a body joined in the condemnation on the spot.

The unwelcome activity of the Federal enforcement officers caused the legislators to take particular note of observations in Secretary Good's speech to the effect that the recent election showed that the South was becoming reconciled with the Republican party and that "we must be worthy of the new consideration given to the party of the Southern voters." The Wisconsin legislators immediately wanted to know if Wisconsin was not worthy of as much consideration in Washington as the South.

Thrice unhappy Ripon. Yet Riponites should not be too downcast in the midst of the speaker's inconceivable and the hog-busting dry raiders for it might have been worse. If for instance, Ripon had been celebrating its anniversary on the birthplace of Volstead, the dry-raiders would not only have looted the saloons but destroyed houses—and killed scores of suspects. Be of good cheer, unhappy Ripon.

DIRECT ELECTION OF PRESIDENTS TAMPA TRIBUNE

Representative Leas of California, has introduced in Congress a joint resolution proposing to abolish the Electoral College system of electing the President. His resolution, if adopted, would abolish the Electoral College system.

Provide for the direct election of President and Vice-President. Instead of voting for Electors, the people would vote directly for the candidates.

Each state would retain its present proportion of electoral votes. It would have electoral votes but not Presidential Electors.

It may be contended that a better substitute would be to abolish state lines and count the grand total of popular votes in determining the result. An amendment making this change could not be adopted, because of the varying percentages of voting population in the respective states. Under the electoral plan, a state has a certain number of electoral votes, based on its total population, without regard to the number of people actually voting. States of low voting percentage would not vote to ratify an amendment depriving them of this advantage. The retention of the electoral vote, but divided strictly according to the proportion of the popular vote, is a better plan and one, which, we believe, the people would vote into the constitution, if given the opportunity.

The person receiving the greatest number of electoral votes would be elected. This would avoid the possibility of a deadlock or the necessity of having an election in the House of Representatives or in the Senate.

Mr. Leas, in advocating his resolution, quotes the figures of the election of 1920. Nearly 37,000,000 people voted in that election. Hoover received over 21,000,000 votes and Smith over 16,000,000. The vote for Hoover was 58 percent of the vote of the nation and that of Smith 40 percent. In the Electoral College, Hoover received 444 votes and Smith 87. In other words, Hoover had over 83 percent of the electoral vote or 25 percent more of the electoral vote than he received of the popular vote. Smith received a little more than 16 percent of the electoral vote, or 24 percent less than his popular vote. Taking the vote of the nation as a whole, an electoral vote for Hoover represented 48,180 popular votes and an electoral vote for Smith represented more than three and one-half times as many people as an electoral vote for Hoover.

In 1912, Wilson received 435 electoral votes and Taft received eight. Each electoral vote for Wilson represented 14,451 voters and each electoral vote for Taft represented 435,490. Each of Taft's electoral votes represented 31 times as many popular votes as each electoral vote for Wilson.

In the eight states carried by Smith, he received 1,640,000 votes, and their total electoral vote of 87. He received 13,570,000 votes in states from which he did not get a single electoral vote. In other words, 1,640,000 people gave him 87 electoral votes and 13,570,000 people gave him no electoral vote.

In Florida Hoover received 144,168 popular votes, Smith 101,764, Thomas 4,030. Hoover had 568 percent of the popular vote, Smith 401 percent. Yet Hoover, with only 40,000 more popular votes than Smith, received the entire electoral vote of the state, six. Under the Leas plan, Florida's electoral vote would have been divided, 3,408 for Hoover, 2,460 for Smith, 990 for Thomas.

If 401,000 votes for Hoover had been distributed in the eight states carried by Smith, Hoover would have carried all the states and received all the electoral votes—so that Smith, with 15,000,000 popular votes, would have been without a single electoral vote, and all the Smith voters would have been virtually disfranchised in the Electoral College. In this election 38 percent of the electoral votes were counted exactly opposite to the way intended by the people who cast the votes; only 62 percent were counted in accordance with the will of the people who voted.

Let us see how the electoral vote would have been divided under the plan proposed by Representative Leas. Figuring for each state the percentage of the total vote received by Hoover, Smith and Thomas, and dividing the electoral vote of each state accordingly, Hoover's electoral vote would have been 291,398, Smith's 231,251 and Thomas 2,872. The result would not have been changed, but the vote would have accurately represented the division of the popular vote—the ballots of individual voters—and would therefore have been more expressive of the will of the people and decidedly more in line with the principles of democratic government.

Three times in our history, a minority candidate has been elected President. In the election of Harrison over Cleveland, Cleveland actually received a plurality of the popular vote, but Harrison

Oklahoma has a legislature in extraordinary session and The Daily Oklahoma of Oklahoma City has been watching it, course and finally decided to say something about it. Here is a part of what it says:

If the general good were the first consideration of all our lawmakers, there would be no delays and no divisions in our legislative body. Every legislator would be taking of the best interests of Oklahoma and nothing else. A real yearning for the general welfare would terminate all discord, placate all factions, and convert the entire assembly into a highly organized and efficient body working enthusiastically for the common good. Unquestionably a goodly number of our lawmakers, are actuated by the most patriotic motives. But the patriotic element either constitute an impotent minority or lack the necessary leadership to make their will effective. There is a surplus work designed to give one party or the other a tactical advantage in the next campaign. There is effort a plenty to get even with some one or protect some one. And there is the usual amount of self-seeking and the burning desire for self advertising.

There is more of the same tenor. The editorial might be reprinted in a Florida paper without a change, except in the name of the state and would fit the case. Perhaps other commonwealths have similar conditions though, fortunately, not all of them have had to bear with an extra session necessary because the legislators did not do their duty in the regular session.

There is no doubt that most of the legislatures are not worth what they cost. It would be incorrect, however, to say that they are disappointing because the people have learned not to expect much. They are prepared for the worst and they usually get it.

The success of cities under the city manager plan makes the suggestion that states be governed the same way seem reasonable. Perhaps it will come about some day. The legislature are doing all they can to bring about that time. Oklahoma is some distance from Florida but the lawmaking bodies assembled in the two states would seem to be twins.

Herbert Messer And Miss Sperry Are Wed

A wedding which will be of great interest to the many friends of the bridegroom in this city was that of Monday, at high noon, when Miss Marian Sperry of Sistersville, W. Va., was married to Herbert Messer of this city. The Rev. George Wood, rector of the Episcopal Church, performed the ceremony in the presence of a small number of intimate friends and relatives at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Sistersville.

The bride, who is from the Sistersville, W. Va. Review, describes the wedding in detail. "The church was a scene of exquisite beauty for the brilliant wedding. The altar was banked with greenery and interspersed with baskets of summer flowers making a fitting background for the ceremony which was read at 11:45 o'clock. Baskets of pink and red roses and hydrangeas used in the window casements and other points of vantage gave additional color and beauty."

The Sistersville paper continues: "The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, W. R. Schupbach. She was attended by her sister, Miss Jane Sperry, and by Miss Helen Dwyer of Cleveland, Ohio and Miss Esther Gillespie of Marietta, Ohio. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Robert Lewis of Akron, Ohio."

"In an ensemble of blue paillette crepe trimmed with French outline lace the bride was most lovely. She wore a hat and shoes of the same color and carried an arm bouquet of sweetheart roses."

"Miss Sperry and Miss Gillespie were gowned in figured rose and pink chiffon, Miss Dwyer in blue crepe with hats, slippers and hose in harmonizing shades. All wore shoulder corsages, of sweet peas."

Following the ceremony a breakfast was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Schupbach with covers for members of the bridal party and a few friends. At an early hour in the afternoon the bride and groom left in their automobile for an extended wedding trip.

Mrs. Messer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Schupbach of Chelsea Street and is a graduate of the Sistersville High School. She later attended the Academy of Fine Arts in Chicago and since the announcement of her engagement she has been the honor guest at many social affairs.

HARD GRILLING ELICITS CLUES FROM SUSPECT

(Continue From Page One) here, Snook maintained a remarkable calmness until 3 o'clock this morning. Then he became nervous and, according to chief Schreiber, contradicted himself.

Mrs. Snook, wife of the former Ohio State University professor, was questioned by authorities Tuesday. Discrepancies between the information she gave and the statement of her husband are believed to have caused Snook to become muddled in his answers this morning.

The wife told investigators that she did not know of the relationship between her husband and Miss Hix until after the murder.

During the early stages of the investigation, Dr. Snook admitted he had lived part of his time, with Miss Hix in their "love nest" as husband and wife. Subsequently, President George W. Light of Ohio State University dismissed Snook as professor of anatomy in medicine at the college, due to his "moral delinquencies."

Former Dry Agent Makes Appeal In Washington To Curb Prohibition Killing

By William S. Neal, I. N. S. Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON, June 20.—"They don't tell you to shoot but they might as well—they tell you to stop 'em at any cost."

This is the charge against his superior officers which Louis H. Jacques, former patrol leader in the customs service at Detroit, is in Washington to present to assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman today.

Jacques, who resigned after the shooting of Archibald Eugster in Detroit June 12 by a dry officer, came to Washington in an effort to persuade the directors of the prohibition drive to stop killings by dry officers.

He said he resigned solely because he "couldn't stand for the promiscuous shooting which already has cost the lives of many innocent people."

An ex-service man and the father of a family, Jacques revealed an amazing picture of the "rum war" now being waged on the Detroit River in an exclusive interview with International News Service.

"I went into the service to uphold the prohibition law, and I quit because I couldn't stand for the killing of innocent people," he said. "Every time they line a patrol up which is every eight hours the officers in charge ride you," said Jacques.

"They tell you that the immigration officers are making seizures and they want to know why you're not doing something. When the boys go out they are ready to shoot anybody and anything."

"It is an unfortunate situation. In Detroit the augmented force of dry officers is largely recruited from Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky, and Tennessee. Many of the agents are green youths from the hills of Kentucky and Tennessee."

"They are frightened when they go out on the job. They are imbued with the idea that they are going into battle. They want to keep their jobs and make a record and they shoot to do it."

"A lot of the trouble comes from Washington, too. Only a short time ago, after high Washington officials were in Detroit, our chief told us that they were sore because so many motorists broke down and said that the boys must be 'on the take' (accepting bribes). I know that the boys broke down because the men running them were inexperienced. But all this complaint makes them quick on the trigger."

Jacques, who is returning to the real estate business in Detroit, declares that he is interested only in halting unnecessary killings by dry officers. His father is a retired sergeant of police in Detroit who says he never was forced to kill a soul.

"I kept that statement in my mind out on the Detroit River," said Jacques. "The fact is that there isn't a great deal of liquor imported from Canada. There are five lines of patrol there. The big bootleggers go to Lake St. Clair or Lake Erie to get their liquor across."

Expressing astonishment at the present drive being made in Detroit, with a force increased from 300 to 500, Jacques declared that the dry regime is concentrating a force which doesn't exist. Only a few months ago a customs officer on the Detroit River, he asserted.

"I'm not attacking the force at Detroit or any other place," he said. "I don't think there is much bribery, and I believe most dry agents are honestly trying to do a good job. But I am fighting this promiscuous shooting."

"One day a boy in my patrol who just came under civil service, fired three times at an innocent boat. I asked him why he did it. He said, 'I don't know. I must have been crazy.'"

They have had the border patrol agents armed with tear gas bombs. A few days ago some of the officers in Detroit asked Washington to permit them to arm their boats with machine guns.

"It isn't necessary. The rum runners don't shoot. They'd rather lose their liquor than be charged with murder."

Some of his strongest campaign supporters in his own party, notably Senator Brookhart (R) of Iowa, accuse him of violating his campaign pledges to the farmer. Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, his chief in the campaign also split with him on the farm relief issue. Senator Watson of Indiana, the majority leader, has parted company with the White House on the tariff, saying openly he wants general revision instead of the limited revision Mr. Hoover proposes.

Senators Reed, Moses and Smoot, ordinarily stalwart party wheel horses, have adopted a similar attitude on the tariff.

Opposition to administration policies is naturally expected from the Democrats, but when such old guard men as Watson, Reed, Smoot and Moses raise the banner of opposition against a Republican president it bodes ill for future harmonious teamwork.

High praise and strong condemnation on his prohibition policy was meted out to Mr. Hoover in large measure. The dries of both parties are generally standing with him, although there was a notable exception in the closing hours when Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, accused Mr. Hoover of "pusyfooting" on the whole question of prohibition.
