The term Soul as applied to God as well as man's spiritual individuality will be discussed in the Lesson-Sermon on "Soul and Body" to be read in all Christian Science Churches next Sunday. The Golden Text is from Isa. 63:17: "In the way of thy judgments, O Lord, have we waited for thee; the desire of our soul is to thy name, and to the remembrance of thee."

Selections from the Bible include the following: "For in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring" (Acts 17:28).
Passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include: "Sooner or later we shall learn that the letters of man's finite capacity are forged by the illusion that he lives in body instead of in Soul, in matter instead of in Spirit (p. 223)."

Savage Chinese Red Counter-attacks Hit Advancing UN Units

Assault Is Pressed On Red Triangle Dominating Road Hub; 2 Transporters Lost

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
TOKYO, June 4.—(AP)—Allied troops fighting through driving rain toward the main Communist stronghold in North Korea beat off savage Red counterattacks today. Artillery thundered over the sound of hand grenades as United Nations forces threw back the thrust. Red attacked all threatening U. N. spearheads. They fought stubbornly everywhere against the crushing Allied advance.

U. N. officers said the offensive appeared to be reaching the main Red defense line. On the eastern front Chinese fought from heavily constructed fortifications built by North Koreans in greater days. Pillage had broken over them in natural camouflage. Chinese waited until advancing Americans came unknowingly within a few yards. Then they opened up.

Bombing turned them out with flame throwers. "You can't call this a delaying action any more," one high officer said. "The way the enemy is set and dug-in and shooting from well-prepared bunkers and the determination of his defenses shows we are really hitting a main line."

Small but sharp battles flared all along the saw-tooth front from newly captured Yongchon in the west to Kangson in the east where Reds attacked the Allies' deepest penetration of North Korea. Tank-led U. S. forces hacked out gains of one to three miles in spots. In other places they stood still.

Allied gains were checked out slowly in tough, often hand-to-hand fighting. Spearheads of infantry and armor pushed northward trying to reach and break the Red "iron triangle," tipped by Chongwon, Kumhwa and Pongwang. They were thrusting up from Yonchon, 13 miles below Chongwon, from Yonpung and Yonngun, near the 38th Parallel; and from Hwachon, 16 miles from Kumhwa. The Eighth Army was willing to pay the cost of taking the triangle of cities because it dominates an important network of highways. 2. If masses of Allied tanks could reach Chongwon, they would have a base in the flat land country, excellent for tanks. Allied artillery would be some bloodily efficient than ever.

Summer rains which once threatened to bog down U. N. armor no longer were a bugaboo. Tanks and infantry learned how to operate in Korea's mud during the rain-soaked month of May. In that month 11.3 inches of rain fell—twice as much as in any other May in the last 20 years. The summer rainy season "can be as bad as any," one officer commented, "but it can't stop us."

General James A. Van Fleet, U. N. group commander, made it clear his forces have no intention of stopping although the "harsh phase" of their counteroffensive ended when the Reds escaped beyond encircled areas. His men, Van Fleet said, "will continue to destroy military targets in North Korea before they (Continued On Page Two)

Barkley Scorches Unruly Shoppers Partisans In Missouri Speech

Vice-President Calls For Unity In Face Of Russian Menace

ELIJAH, Mo., June 4.—(AP)—Vice President Barkley today denounced what he termed "disgraceful" attempts to weaken the people's confidence in the government. The vice president, here in a capacity of temporary degree of doctor of laws, bestowed by Westminster College, called on Americans to turn their backs on those who, he said, would "frighten the people" in the name of political or personal gain. Barkley named no individuals in the prepared text of his address to the graduating class and guests.

The 73-year-old vice president recalled that when he was a boy in college a favorite subject in intercollegiate debates was "Resolved, that the signs of the times point to the downfall of the republic." In what he termed "a message of hope of faith and a degree of charity for all mankind," Barkley reviewed the nation's prospering growth since then through three wars and all demagogues. "Who is there an selfish, or an egotistical, or a greedy man who is so short sighted or so self contained as to doubt the great future which lies before us as a people?" "Who is there an selfish, or an egotistical, or a greedy man who is so short sighted or so self contained as to doubt the great future which lies before us as a people?"

He called it tragedy that "man kind has been maneuvered into a position where it must now fight to preserve what in the past it has fought to create." The crisis today, he said, requires sacrifices from all. And that, he continued, "means that government must meet it self in the private affairs of men and corporate organizations." He urged Americans to stand up to the "demagogues" and "through various controls" those who resist, he declared, "must be made to conform to the requirements that every honest and every sensible man knows must exist."

"Any man," the vice president said, "who seeks to take advantage of the sufferings of the people to reap political advantage" (Continued On Page Two)

Elimination Of Double Censorship Seen For Korean Correspondents

TOKYO, June 4.—(AP)—General Ridgeway's press advisory division in Korea was news.

Details of the new system, which will replace all censorship in the hands of general headquarters in Tokyo now are restored at Eighth Army headquarters. They are transmitted to Tokyo by telephone or teletype and submitted to the press advisory division in Tokyo for a second screening. The proposed change would eliminate the necessity of having a story censored a second time in Tokyo. Press advisory division censors from Tokyo would replace the Eighth Army censors in Korea to bring the entire censorship program under one office. Similar blackout had been imposed, particularly to screen United Nations' troops movements. Correspondents in Korea say the new rules are based specifically on the desire of Allied commanders to keep the Communists from knowing the U. N. order of battle—the disposition of front-line troops. Eighth Army officers contend that constant close pinpointing of Allied positions by news correspondents has enabled enemy in-

Conviction Of Reds Upheld By High Court

"Clear And Present" Danger Of Communism Is Cited By Majority Opinion

WASHINGTON, June 4.—(AP)—The Supreme Court today upheld the conviction of Communist Party members in a 5-4 decision. Chief Justice Vinson delivered the majority decision which held that the Red leaders "intended to overthrow the government of the United States as speedily as circumstances would permit."

The conviction was upheld by a 5-4 vote. Chief Justice Vinson, Justice Frankfurter, Justice Burton and Justice Minton wrote the majority opinion. Justice Black and Justice Douglas wrote dissenting opinions. The majority opinion stated that the Communist Party had a "clear and present danger" of overthrowing the government. The dissenting opinions argued that the government had not shown that the Communist Party was a threat to the nation's security.

The Communist Party was convicted of conspiracy to overthrow the government. The conviction was based on evidence that the party had a plan to overthrow the government and that it had recruited members for this purpose.

The Supreme Court's decision is a significant victory for the government in its fight against communism. It shows that the government has the right to take action against groups that threaten the nation's security.

The decision is also a warning to other groups that are active in subverting the government. It shows that the government will not tolerate such activities.

Terminal Bond Issue Objection Seems Cleared

Validation Proceedings Look Favorable, Avers, Lawyer

CHICAGO, June 4.—(AP)—The proposed $400,000,000 terminal bond issue for the United States government appears to have been cleared by a decision of the U. S. Supreme Court today. The court ruled that the bond issue was valid and that the government could issue the bonds.

The court's decision is a significant victory for the government. It shows that the government has the right to issue terminal bonds to finance its operations.

The court's decision is also a warning to other groups that are active in subverting the government. It shows that the government will not tolerate such activities.

The ability to beat a man in a fight proves to him only that your muscles are better than his. The ability to avoid a fight with him and still not have him beat you might prove to him that your thinking is better than his.

Today's nomination for "the meanest man in the world" title; the insurance broker in Brooklyn who absconded with one-third of the $150,000 war memorial fund being raised to erect a monument to Marine heroes of Iwo Jima.

The Legislature late last week completed action on a bill asking the state of South Carolina to return the poor old bones of the late Chief Osceola to Florida. Thus the wrongs done him a century ago are righted. Or are they?

Rep. Volie Williams had his picture published in all the big newspapers of the state for his opposition to Governor Warren's "freedom of the press" veto of the anti-bookie bill. Volie was right about it too.

Secretary of State Acheson and Senator McCarthy one of his bitterest critics, met face to face in the national capital the other day, and no blows were struck. Instead, they shook hands. The world moves on.

If you asked someone his name and he came back with Capt. Major, or even Major Major, you'd probably think he was crazy, and yet the Marines Corps boasts no less than two officers and 16 enlisted men who are named "Major" and one of the officers is a major and the other a captain.

The Senate has finally passed the compromise version of the House draft bill providing eventually for universal military training. Major provisions are reduction of the draft age from 19 to 18 1/2, increasing the length of service from 21 months to 24 months, reduction of mental standards from 70 to 65 on qualification tests, and setting a ceiling of 9,000,000 on the armed forces.

We are not one to pay much attention to so-called political surveys or straw polls, but the first one to be held in nearly two years is worth mentioning. Joe Abram is just out with the Florida Political Survey and Poll indicating that next year will be a political year, and declaring that "McCarthy is the most talked man for Governor in Florida's history." Sub winners, with an 800,000 vote, are: Dick Ervin and Edward Holland.

Question Of Breakfast

Is breakfast necessary? This is a question of which any argument can be raised in almost any company of varied persons. The purpose of the meal, as clearly indicated by its name, is to break the fast which occurs during the night. Some persons, to be sure, do not fast through the night but may be found rummaging in the refrigerator at odd hours. But in it necessary to break the night's fast while sleep still clouds the eyes and the taste buds, or might one just as well wait until mid-morning or even noon?

There are pronounced views about breakfast. Some scorn it. Others insist on a meal almost equal to dinner. There are devotees of toast and coffee, of oatmeal or dry cereal, of bacon and eggs, of hot cakes, and even of beans and potatoes. Who is right?

A three-year study of breakfast has been made at the University of Iowa, and the most definite conclusion is that the no-breakfast people are dead, wrong. Breakfast increases ability to work, mental alertness and muscular sturdiness. As to size, the best breakfast is one which supplies about a fourth of the day's calories. Less may be inadequate, more may send the breakfaster back to bed, in which if not in fact.

Content apparently makes little difference as long as the number of calories is right. The argument about what makes a good breakfast can go on and on. But those who argue for only a cup of coffee can henceforth be ignored. They are not as alert as they might be after a good breakfast.

Protective Tariff Era

It may be that the end of an era is marked by the Senate vote renewing the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act. The significant fact is the overwhelming failure of an amendment to deprive the President or the State Department of the right to negotiate trade treaties and turn that power over to Congress. Though the Republican party's central plank for many years was the opposition of tariff reduction, which is the main accomplishment of the reciprocal trade program, only 14 Republicans out of 46 voted for this crippling amendment. They were joined by one Democrat.

The old system of general protective tariff bills, enacted by Congress and unsettling business on a nationwide scale, never worked well. It is fortunate that the amendment to give the trade negotiation job to Congress was voted down. The protective tariff is based on a theory of aiding infant industries, long after these have grown up. It has transferred large sums of money from consumers to manufacturers, sometimes in excess of any legitimate profits and without the presentation of convincing evidence of necessity.

The typical tariff bill of the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries was written by lobbyists and passed by logrolling. The Senate vote recognizes this system to be out-of-date and bad. The protective tariff era may really be ending.

Revival In Norway

One country, at least, believes that it has recovered from the war. Premier Einar Gerhardsen, visiting New York, says that Norway has completed her reconstruction. The shipping industry, her great resource, is larger than before the war. The production of water power is 70 per cent above that in 1940.

Norway, a poor country with a small population, fought heroically against the overwhelmingly superior German armies. Resistance never ceased, although it could not be practically effective. Few countries suffered more from the German stripping of all materials that could be carried away.

The Norwegian experience under a ruthless conqueror and the liberty-loving spirit of the people make her a valuable member of the Atlantic Pact. If the Russians attack Norway, they will know that they have been in a fight.

Key to this is the "iron triangle" from which the Chinese launched their spring offensives and now the target of U. N. troops on the west and central fronts. Other Allies backed their way through the mountainous east-central front intent on sealing off the road network.

Fury of the ground actions play a part in the loss of two F-100 flying last Sunday. They were shot down by Allied fighters which failed to stop firing when planes reached the drop zone over the front lines. One was hit squarely and disintegrated. Seven crewmen were missing. An F-84 Thunderjet was also lost Sunday.

Typical of ground actions was the battle around Yanchon. The Allied spearhead captured the city six miles north of Parallel 38 on Sunday and pushed beyond Flanking forces also fought forward. But to their rear, south-east and south of Yanchon, Red soldiers stubbornly clung to the ridges.

On the central front, Allies north of Yongpyong were held to limited gains, and U. N. troops also were stymied Sunday. Near Chail Red artillery opened up on a task force probing toward Kumhwa. Chail is 16 miles southwest of Kumhwa.

Both sides attacked on either side of the Incheon Reservoir on the east-central front. Reds attacked from three sides north of Incheon, at the western end of the reservoir. Sunday night and Monday morning on the eastern end. Red units launched a series of probing attacks north of Yanchon. Allies in both areas made gains.

Two thousand Chinese attacked South Koreans near Kansong, 26 miles north of the border on the east coast. An Eighth Army briefing officer said "some of the enemy infiltrated friendly positions."

Moslems To Match Aga Khan's Weight With Platinum Gift

KARACHI, Pakistan, June 4.—Moslem followers of the Aga Khan will weigh him in when he begins the 70th year of his reign as their spiritual leader and will pay him off pound for pound in platinum.

At last available reports, the Aga Khan weighed 240 pounds or thereabout. Provided the price of platinum remains about the same and the Aga Khan doesn't gain any more weight, when 1954 rolls around he will be paid about $2,000,000.

It is just a coincidence that this is precisely the amount that his daughter-in-law, actress Rita Hayworth, is asking from the Aga's son, Aly, in a divorce settlement. Prince Aly some day will inherit the Aga's title and his money.

The Aga, now 74, began at the age of eight his reign as the spiritual head of the Ismaili sect. Moslems of whom there are millions, heeded throughout the world. The sect honors him as a direct descendant of the prophet Mohammed and a sort of deity on earth. They weigh him on his jubilee in various precious metals and pay him pound for pound.

George Stine told of the fine work done for the boys.

loss of the will to fight," Barr reported.
On the point of MacArthur's dismissal, Acheson said the Far Eastern commander "in effect challenged the policies as laid down by the President." He said he not only concurred in the decision to fire him but helped to draft the official announcement of the commander's removal.

"I think it is very clear," he said, that MacArthur "was unable to give his wholehearted support to the policies handed down to him by the administration."
Acheson also said:
1. Former Vice President Henry A. Wallace won an agreement from Chiang Kai Shek, head of the Chinese Nationalists, in 1944, not to oppose American military help to the Chinese Communists.

The United States was not able to guarantee the survival of Chiang's government in the post-war revolution which swept China.
"Republicans have attacked the Yalta agreement, contending they let Russia into Manchuria and gave her territory from which she now can threaten Japan."
These critics said that there was no reason to obtain a Russian agreement to enter the Far Eastern war, which was ended when two atomic bombs were dropped on Japan. The Russians came into the war only a week before Japan's surrender.

Mrs. Rathvon Head Christian Science Church In Boston

Mrs. Lora C. Rathvon of Boston, Mass., was named President of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, at its Annual Meeting today.

Mrs. Rathvon, widow of William R. Rathvon, who was a member of the Christian Science Board of Directors and at one time corresponding secretary for Mary Baker Eddy, Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, has been active in Christian Science for almost 40 years.

She participated in Christian Science Welfare activities during two world wars, and has served the Mother Church in a number of special assignments, including membership on the Bible Lesson Committee.
Mrs. Rathvon spoke today to nearly 7,000 Christian Scientists assembled from all over the world.

The officers contend that the rules reimposed over his weekend actually are only a return to the original censorship instructions under which the eighth army has continually tried to operate.

The new regulations have been relaxed already to permit mention of specific fronts, a return to an open-minded, inquiring attitude in human thought toward religion "which presages a new era in Christianity."
The group attending the meeting overflowed the main office of the Mother Church, which seats nearly 5,000, to a smaller auditorium and also a nearby theater building.

Price War

merchandise slashed as much as 50 per cent. Some favorites were out of stock.
Macy's counters had been stripped of the popular Sunbeam Mix master and the McGraw Toast master in last week's free-for-all and this morning substitutes were being offered.

The Dormeyer Miter, heretofore price fixed at $46.50, went on sale at $30.55. In place of the Toastmaster, Macy's offered the Westinghouse Automatic Toaster, reduced to $32.99 from its fair-trade price of $42.99.
Still available for the best-selling book, "From Here To Eternity," marked down to $1.94 from $4.50.

At Bloomingdale's, men shoppers found springware summer suits back at their original price—$49.50—after plunging to $29.75 last week. It was the same story with other higher-priced lightweight suits.
The less expensive Haspel and Palm Beach lines could still be had at bargain rates but only a few were available. The Haspel cotton cord—price-fixed at $20.75—opened this morning at $13.45. Palm Beach suits, fair-traded at $29.95, went on the block at $17.95.

In the line-up at Macy's was F. R. Heric of Amarillo, Tex., shopping for a birthday present for his mother.
There was still no indication when the battle of prices would end.
Store executives appeared unconcerned by a state legislative investigation into the price cutting. The probe is scheduled here Thursday.

The public inquiry was ordered yesterday by Irwin Steingut, chairman of the Legislature's joint committee on unfair trade practices.
Steingut, assembly democratic leader, invited businessmen and consumers to express their views at an all-day meeting.
But store officials unanimously predicted that there was "no end in sight" to the price tag battle set off last Tuesday, when Macy's reduced about 6,000 priced items.

Macy's action, following a U. S. Supreme Court ruling upstating such fair-trade law price-fixing, was matched by Gimbel's and other stores.
In newspaper advertisements yesterday, Macy's let it be known that it intended "to save our customers at least 6 per cent for cash."

Bernard Gimbel, president of Gimbel's, flew back to New York from the south to direct his store's operations against the 34th street competitor, Macy's, and others.
"We are not going to be undercut," Gimbel said. "By Macy's or anyone else."

Richard Weiss, Jr., Macy's president, said he had not discussed a truce with other stores and that such an action would be "against the law, in restraint of trade."
Even Sunday failed to bring a complete lull in the price war. Two stores, Gimbel's and Namm's in Brooklyn, took telephone orders at rates that exceeded Christmas rush records.

The price war has brought reductions of more than 30 per cent on items. Men's cotton cord suits, regularly $20.75, closed Saturday at $12.93.

HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, June 4.—John Barrymore, Jr., who is 19 years old today, wonders if it wouldn't be wiser merely to be Joe Doakes, Jr.
The young actor, who started his professional career just two years ago, has found the going isn't easy. He is his own severest critic and is amazingly self-critical.

"Sure, it's easy for me to get into a studio," he admitted. "The name 'Barrymore' is a key that unlocks any door. But once you're inside, you really have to prove your worth."

John would never qualify as a press agent for himself. He is now making his fourth picture, "The Long Night," said he: "If I'm not any better than I was in the first three, I ought to quit and find myself a trade."

"I don't know if he'll be giving me any lessons," he observed, "but it's an education just to be around her."

Sanford Giants Win Two; Tie G-Men For Sixth Place

Swiderski, Schultz Stop Leesburg And Daytona Beach In 2 Weekend Games

The Sanford Giants went into a sixth place tie with the Gainesville G-Men over the weekend, defeating the Leesburg Packers 8 to 7 and the Daytona Beach Islanders 6 to 2.

Lefty Jerry Schultz earned down the heavy-hitting Islets allowing but seven hits. The Giants' fast ball ace relaxed only once serving up a rubber ball to Rocky Colavito in the sixth, which sailed over the right field fence and ruined his shutout. The game marked the seventh straight defeat for the once-hot Daytona team.

Schultz, usually fairly wild, walked but four men while striking out six.

Mickey McFride and Don Bailey were the big guns of the Giants' offense with two hits apiece.

In Friday night's game, Carl Swiderski picked up his second win when the Leesburg Packers' manager Mickey Hunsicker walked in two runs in the top of the ninth inning.

Although out to 9 to 0, the Giants made every blow count and took advantage of every break. Al Keeble, playing in center field, led the attack with two hits, one a double.

Seventeen walks by a trio of Leesburg batters made the difference as the Giants left an amazing total of seventeen men stranded—an average of almost two an inning.

The Giants meet the league leading Orlando Senators here tomorrow night.

Packers Hit Aces

PALATKA, June 4—The Leesburg Packers raked on a 11-4 win over the Daytona Beach Islanders here last night behind the effective bowling of Jess Gaines and the hitting of Joe Burgess and Mickey Burnett, who led the 13-hit barrage on three Palatka hurlers. The loss broke a five-game winning streak for the Aces.

Red Hats 5, G-Men 3

DELAND, June 4—The Deland Red Hats went into a virtual tie for first place with Orlando here last night as they downed the Gainesville G-Men, 5 to 3.

George Fullin was his second game in as many days but had to have help in the late innings from Walt Jasinski who came in the seventh with two new men and two on the pitch the Hats out to a 3-0 lead.

Both the G-Men and Hats had an even dozen base hits.

Indians 8, Senators 5

COCOA, June 4—The Cocoa Indians coasted in the early innings and held on to drop the Orlando Senators for a sweep of their two-game series 8 to 5, yesterday afternoon.

Two walks and three hits started the Cocoa scoring in the first and three doubles, a single and a base on balls pushed across the margin of victory in the fourth.

Pint Sized Ernie Oravetz Leads League In Batting For 2nd Week

SILVER SPRINGS, June 4—(Special)—Showing no signs of letting up, and ending up as one of two of the "First Ten" batters to improve their standing, pint-sized Ernie Oravetz, Orlando rookie, led the Class D Florida State League in batting for a second straight week after stealing it away from the lanky veteran Ed Levy, his boss as manager of the Senators.

Official averages released at league headquarters here today give Oravetz a healthy .324 through games of midnight Thursday, a gain of five points, while Levy, despite a blistering "aha for aha" against Daytona week-end, dropped three points to a second place .307.

Gainesville's Red Roberts, with the best individual performance of the week, entered contention for the crown by pounding out 16 hits in 29 trips to the plate from a ninth place .257 to a sixth place .300.

The week had numerous high-lights, topped by rookie Joe Altabelli's knocking the loop out of the wily veteran, Myril Holt of Gainesville. The G-Men fired and bared in all directions during the week, and appear aiming at nothing less than the pennant despite their sixth place standing as of Friday morning.

As the week ended, Altabelli was leading in times at bat with 28. Truss was leading in runs scored with 49; Oravetz in hits with 69; Levy in homers with 11; Luttrell of Orlando in stolen bases with 13; Kawanaka of Palatka in RBI's with 18.

Straight from the Horse's Mouth

By ED HAMPER

Ty Cobb, the fabulous Georgia Peach, was feeling in an expansive mood recently after watching his Coca-Cola stock take another rise and let fall to an attentive and opportunistic sports writer the opinion that Ted Williams wasn't really much of a hitter—couldn't push the ball to left field.

Since Williams was in a species of slump at the time—a species because he was hitting only .275 but at the same time led the league in home runs and RBI—the remark wasn't accepted with the usual degree of incredulity he would ordinarily have evoked.

Williams is now hitting a healthy .321 and still leads the American League in several departments—and Cobb's curious idea on what constitutes a great hitter has fallen into the limbo reserved for other monumentally stupid propositions.

Ted Williams is unquestionably the most maligned professional athlete in the world today. He is one of the finest players ever to walk on a baseball field excelling every category—magnificent hitter, superb fielder and the possessor of a feared throwing arm.

Why is he hated? The answer is fairly simple. Williams is a complete and unconstructed individual who refuses to pander to the stands of any ball park the athletic and essentially cruel side of human nature rises to the surface like the acorn on a swamp.

"Just him, dust," comes frenetically from the crowd when a single breaks a player or forces him to step back from the plate. Always the blood-thirsty facet of the human animal lies close to the surface in any sports contest—which is essentially a rationalization of mortal combat no longer permitted by organized societies.

In this frame of reference the sports addicts of forty years ago come through in their true perspective. It isn't the game that has degenerated, since most of the old time major league ball players wouldn't be able to play on modern teams, but the lessening of the roughness and neck-breaking style of play prevalent in the early years of the game.

The change hasn't come about because of any sudden shift to gentleness of the part of professional athletes—it came about because the modern ball player realized that the percentage is against him in a fight or bone breaking play. He gets paid for what he can do with his body.

If he hurts the injury he himself is responsible.

The result is that intelligent players seldom pick fights or set out to deliberately disable an opponent—as Cobb did on many an occasion during his turbulent career.

The audience, being human, want a bloodier style of play and the lack of it is one reason why baseball crowds have fallen off in recent years. The game has become too soft and too civilized. The limited combativeness and as a result its function has been taken over by other, more dangerous sports such as stock car racing and a dregnet to form of sodium known euphemistically as wrestling.

Thus it is when a sensitive and intelligent man lashes out at the basest of human emotions he is crucified. And that is the personal tragedy of Ted Williams—a man who personifies an American virtue which has fallen on evil days... individualism.

Jon Jonkel Pleads Guilty To Violation Of Election Laws

BALTIMORE, June 4.—Jon M. Jonkel, 35-year-old public relations man from Chicago, was fined $3,000 today for violating Maryland's election laws as campaign manager for Senator Butler (R-Md.). Jonkel pleaded guilty to six charges and was fined by criminal court Judge Joseph Sherbow. The judge could have fined him a total of $6,000 and sentenced him to 12 years in prison under Maryland's Corrupt Practices Act.

BALTIMORE, June 4.—Jon Jonkel, former Chicago public relations man, pleaded guilty today to violating Maryland's election laws as campaign manager for Senator Butler (R-Md.). Jonkel came here to manage Butler's campaign against Mildred E. Tydings last year. Tydings, Democratic senator 24 years, was beaten by 43,000 votes. Criminal court Judge Joseph Sherbow delayed sentencing of Jonkel to hear motions by the attorneys. Jonkel is subject to fines up to $1,000 and prison sentences up to two years for violating Maryland's corrupt election practices act on each of the six counts against him. Jonkel was indicted May 2 on six charges, three identical ones for the primary and general elections. They were that he failed to keep required detailed accounts of money handled by him, to report campaign finances properly and on time, and was not a designated political agent and resident of Maryland.

The indictments grew out of hearings by a Senate Elections subcommittee on complaints by Tydings of the conduct of Senator Butler's campaign. He charged campaign funds were handled "irregularly" and that tactics were "unfair."

The elections subcommittee headed by Senator Monroney (D-Okl.) started hearings Feb. 20 and they ran into April. No report has been made yet. During the hearings, Jonkel filed a supplementary list of $27,100 in contributions. The Maryland election law requires such statements within 20 days after the election. Senator Butler's original campaign statement was filed by his treasurer, Cornelius P. Mundy, on Nov. 27. Mundy filed the supplementary statement after Mundy refused to do so because he had not handled the money.
