A BUNCH OF INTERESTING ITEMS FROM CORRESPONDENTS—EVENTS OF SEMINOLE COUNTY—EFFICIENT REPORTERS COVER TERRITORY FOR HERALD

CASSIA CHATTER

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Webb and children are now comfortably settled in their new home.

Mrs. Lumpkin's sister, Miss Ida Davis of Atlanta came down recently and is staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rose.

Owing to the unfavorable weather Wednesday the Cassia exhibit did not reach Tavares, much to the regret of those who had worked for it. Although there was no exhibit Alto Royal entered the contest for the best ten ears of seed corn and won first prize. The prize for the largest yield was won by Cecil Royal, which goes to prove that Cassia has good farming land and good farmers.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Royal and children, Helen, Alto and Charlie and Mr. Rose attended the fair at Tavares Friday. Miss Ruby Cobb who had gone to Eustis Thursday afternoon returned with them.

Mrs. Alonso Royal and children, Luella and Cecil also attended the fair Thursday.

A few friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Royal in honor of their niece, Miss Lucille's fifteenth and Mr. Wilbur Royal's eighteenth birthdays. Games of various kinds made the time pass all too quickly. Am-brosia, cake and coffee were served during the evening.

Mr. Walter McLatty and children left Thursday for Tampa on a business trip.

Mr. Rose motored over to Umatilla Sunday and visited at the home of Mr. Sam Owens.

MOORE'S STATION

All roads lead to Sanford this week, to the first great Seminole County Fair.

Rev. A. S. Peck may be expected here Sunday p. m., Feb. 7th to preach.

Walter Ingram has gone to Melbourne to accept a position.

Duncan Mitchell was in Fort Lauderdale and other points recently.

Misses Laura Parker and Edna Thompson from the other side of town were week end visitors at the Vaughn and Hart homes.

Mrs. Jennie Powell Cowan of Jacksonville arrived on Tuesday for a visit with her sister, Mrs. W. W. Miller during the fair.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson Daniels of Cleveland, Ohio will arrive in Sanford Thursday for a visit with her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth of Beardall avenue.

F. P. Evans of Kelton, Pa., a director and stockholder in the Florida Gardens Co., Inc., arrived in Sanford Thursday night and will be the guest of B. A. Howard while here. Mr. Evans has an extensive mushroom growing plant in his home town.

Mr. Holden of New York city, of the commission firm of Smith & Holden was looking over the cropping situation throughout the celery delta this week with his Sanford representative, J. W. Barnes and was much pleased at the showing.

Cameron avenue is to be widened ten feet on each side of present roadway and graded, making a much needed improvement.

Wade Hasty has been in New Smyrna plattting into lots a portion of the land owned by him there, near the ocean front.

W. A. Knight has now purchased two acres more land of Duncan Mitchell, adjoining on the west that recently bought of Patrick Mitchell. O. J. Pope has purchased 10 acres on Celery avenue, just west of where he now resides on the Campbell place and is having improvements made and expects to build a home in the near future.

A noisy electrical storm occurred during Monday night. More rain fell than during any storm throughout the winter.

T. J. Hill and G. W. Shields sold lettuce to commission man, A. M. Sam last week for $2.55 per hamper. This is the highest price we have heard of this season. Celery is now being shipped from here in car lots. F. N. Estridge sent out a car Saturday.

In driving through the celery delta one can see a still greater diversifying of crops than ever this season. The ever present celery and lettuce, next in acreage cabbage and cauliflower, with garden peas, turnips, radishes, also seen in the fields at present, with Irish potatoes being planted and seed beds sown to eggplant, poppies, tomatoes, to be set out later in the fields; onions, snap beans, cucumbers, sweet corn, melons and a never ending list of vegetables. It is being found that anything will grow in our celery delta. Field corn, sweet potatoes, tobacco and the finest hay ever are some of the summer crops.

Six carloads of celery were shipped yesterday from Beardall station by Messrs. Merryweather & Monroe.

WEST SIDE ITEMS

Mr. Sheridan Jewett cut a car load of celery last week.

Mr. James Smith cut 213 crates of celery Saturday.

Mrs. Alice McCracken, accompanied by Mrs. Minnie Gullette from Crystal Lake grove spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred King.

Mrs. Camp has the sympathy of all her friends in the loss of her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. John Warren and two children visited home folks Sunday at Sylvan Lake.

Dr. J. T. Denton drove over the brick road with his automobile Tuesday afternoon on his way to Sanford. He has been away for several years. We are glad to know he is back in Sanford and wish him success in his line of business.

A New Telephone System

If the railroad commissioners at Tallahassee will approve the agreement made between the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company and the city council of Sanford for the telephone rates to be charged by that company for Sanford Exchange Service our city will have a new telephone system to be owned and operated by the Bell Company, and the Herald in common with the Sanford telephone user and the public earnestly hopes the commissioners will promptly give their approval.

The Sanford Telephone Company which now owns and operates the telephone exchange here, and which is controlled by local stock holders fully recognizes that Sanford should have better service and that to meet the reasonable requirements for our city a large additional amount of new money would have to be spent. The local company was not in position to do this and it opened negotiations with the Bell Company to sell it their plant.

A representative of the Southern Bell came to Sanford and after several full and frank conferences the sale was agreed upon, subject to the approval of our city council and the railroad commissioners.

The whole question was submitted to the mayor and council, after the officials of the Sanford Telephone Company conferred with our leading citizens and ascertained that the proposed sale met their approval, and the council unanimously granted the Southern Bell a franchise and approved the sale to it by the Sanford Company, and also unanimously approved an agreement with the Bell Company covering the rates to be charged in Sanford. There will be no increase in the charge for residences, but all business telephones will be increased. It is agreed, however, and a condition precedent, that the Bell Company, before the increase is made, will make each subscriber's line metallic—that two wires from each subscriber's station to central—and will also install in place of the present a new Common Battery System, so that when the new system is completed our subscribers will stop ringing the crank, but will simply take the receiver off the hook and will thus signal central.

The new rates will not be higher than in other cities under similar conditions and are conceded to be fair and reasonable.

A representative of the Bell Telephone Company and of the local company fully and frankly discussed every feature with the city council and they unanimously approved it and passed a resolution requesting the railroad commissioners to approve the new rates. Under the law the railroad commissioners have exclusive jurisdiction over telephone rates.

The action of the mayor and city council, however will, it is believed, be favorably considered by that body.

The Herald congratulates the city on the prospects of having an up-to-date telephone system, and joins with our people in hoping the commissioners will promptly give their approval, which is now the only thing lacking to consummate the plan.

POLITICS AND HEALTH*STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

It is vastly more important to you, the average taxpayer and property owner, who is your tax assessor, your representative in the city council or in the state legislature, or even who is the policeman on your beat, than who is president off the United States.

The larger part of the price you pay for living is paid out for the support of local administration. The general policies of the federal government in the tariff on imported goods and other taxes don't affect your pocketbook near so heavily as what you pay for street improvements, the maintenance of police and fire protection, and for the protection of your health. City, county and county taxes are a heavier burden than any imposed directly or indirectly by national government.

Therefore, your choice of officials to administer home affairs is one of your most important duties as a citizen. And having elected such officials, it is your duty further to see that these officials do what you expect them to do. The penalty for dropping them from the list at the next election, for the man who retires voluntarily from public office or declines re-election is rare.

The preservation of public health through proper sanitary conditions, the relief and prevention of illness among the poorer classes who are ignorant or too impoverished to care for themselves, are among the functions of local government, both for the protection of the poorer classes and for that of the entire community. Local government has its duty in this direction in the enactment and enforcement of proper ordinances and in the apportionment of public moneys raised by taxation for the general welfare. Most of the communities in Florida, whether cities or counties, find it necessary in the management of public affairs to study economy. The apportionment of public moneys should be made according to the relative importance of various expenditures to the general welfare. Nothing is more important to the individual or to the community than physical health. Health is affected by the conditions of the streets, pavements and sidewalks, sewers and an ample supply of good water, by the system of removing garbage, and most intimate ly by an energetic health department fully equipped to control and relieve suffering.

More than one-half the children attending the public schools of Florida, city or rural, are physical defectives—seventy-five per cent was in proportion in Florida's largest city in 1913. One death in every ten in Florida is of a child under one year old. Statistics show that in the United States at large, one child of every five born never completes its first year, and one quarter die before they are five years old, and of those who survive a large share is marked or disfigured for life by causes that might have been avoided by proper attendance at birth.

Because most of this large mortality occurs in ignorance, impoverished families, it is incumbent upon public health officials to relieve, to change these conditions. Nearly or quite one-half the deaths among the colored race in Florida occur without medical attendance of any kind.

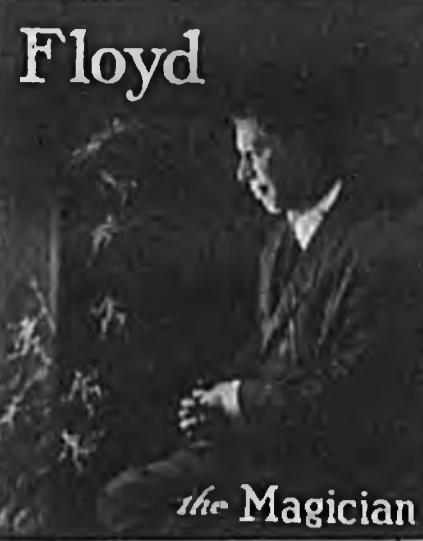

To better these conditions requires money, public money. To secure proper and adequate appropriations requires intelligent officials in charge of public health departments. An official may be wholly efficient and honorable in his attitude toward the public generally but if he fails in his attitude towards the health of his constituents, he is unworthy of the trust placed in him and he should give place to another better equipped in intelligence.

Florida has provided for the support of its State Health Board, but there is need for active, efficient city and county boards, and to establish these and to make them efficient requires intelligent public officials and these must be provided by the people themselves.

Oldtime Needlework.

Needlework is so rapidly becoming a lost art that it is in the nature of a fairy tale to explain that something like half a century ago little girls, not especially precocious either, learned the fundamental principles of threading a needle and pushing it through the fabric at the age of two and one-half years, and by the time that girl was three, passed away at squares of patchwork, ultimately completing "quilts" for future use.

IS HERO OF HEROES*Corporal Rewarded for Repeated Acts of Gallantry.

With 25 Men He Occupies New German Trench and Defends It Against Whole Company—Rescues Officer Under Fire.

By R. FRANKLIN TATE.
(International News Service.)

Paris.—Corporal Phillip of the Twenty-fourth Colonial Infantry is a brave of braves. He has been awarded the military medal for repeated acts of gallantry in this war. When his lieutenant fell wounded and the Germans were running up to capture him, the corporal rushed in under their heavy fire and rescued his officer under their very noses. He is the kind of man who comes at once to the front when the situation is desperate.

The other day the colonel sent for him and said:

"Phillip, I know you are a gallant fellow and that is my reason for intrusting you with an extremely portentous mission. At nightfall you will take 25 men and go to the crest under where German soldiers are seen digging a trench. You are to endeavor to remain there in concealment till the morning, when you will return and report what you have seen."

At nightfall away went the little party. On reaching the crest the corporal saw German engineers digging a trench while a sentry kept guard. Hiding 24 of his men in a little wood, he took the twenty-fifth man with him, saying: "When we get near the German sentry and he cries 'Wer da?' you must keep apart from me to the left, and make a noise with your bayonet, so as to make him turn your way. Then, no matter what he does or what I do, lie down and await my orders."

Stealthily, the two approached so near the sentry that they could hear him softly humming a tune. Then Phillip moved to the right and intentionally made a slight noise.

"Wer da?" challenged the sentry. Instantly the soldier keeping to the left rattled his bayonet, and the German turned toward him. At the same moment Phillip was on him, running him through the body twice with his bayonet. His aim had been so true that the sentry dropped dead without a cry. The men working vigorously in the trench twenty or thirty yards away had heard nothing. Quicker than a quick-change artist the corporal donned the dead man's helmet and cloak and seizing his rifle began pacing up and down in his stead. Every now and then as he passed he rolled the body a little farther away. At last the trench was ready, and the Germans retired to the main body, calling a friendly good-by to the sentry, who, without a word continued on his beat. But they had no sooner disappeared than helmet and cloak were flung to the ground and the corporal was running toward the wood. A few minutes later the 26 French infantrymen were installed in the German trench.

At daybreak, a Bavarian company marched up to occupy the trench. The men, all unsuspecting, were chattering and joking. A few yards away from the trench a murderous fire greeted them. They attempted to rush it, but 26 rifles kept mowing them down, and finally the survivors broke and fled—all except 18, who threw up their hands.

A few days later the corporal was shot in the right arm and shoulder, but refused to go to the ambulance. He fought on for the next 24 hours. In the thick of the fighting he shot a German officer, who fell. The corporal ran forward to bring him in, but the officer, drawing his revolver, fired the last shot, the bullet shattering the corporal's shoulder. The Frenchman had strength enough to beat out his enemy's brains with the butt end of his rifle, but then he collapsed with pain and loss of blood.

They are here.

The Fair is the thing.

From the appearance of the streets the world is here.

There is a more homelike feeling to have the crowds in the city instead of on the fair grounds.

The Fair news will be given in the next issue of The Herald. Get a copy and send it to your friends.

The business men of Sanford are thoroughly convinced that the fair should be held every year and they are for it.

The automobile parade yesterday was one of the finest that has ever been held in the state. The cars were beautiful and there were many of them in line.

Our Orlando friends were here in force yesterday and we want to tell them right now that we propose to return the favor next week. Sanford will have fifty cars at the Orlando fair on Friday.

SANFORD'S FAIR

Tomorrow is the day for the opening of the Seminole County Fair at Sanford, and the Tribune bespeaks the state's kindly attention to the enterprising show which the people of that section have prepared. Every Floridian who can spare the time and the money ought to go to Sanford and get an idea of the progress which one Florida county and town have made by utilizing and developing natural resources. Everything is ready for the opening and our busy friends of the "Celery City" have not overlooked anything within the range of their possibilities for a real, up-to-date fair. Here is good luck to them and all the crowds they can handle. Tampa Tribune.

BEING READY

"Let preparations never cease—the strongest guaranty of peace is readiness for war." So we've been told by statesmen great, who navigate the ship of state, that we pay taxes for. "If we'd feel safe we must prepare, with airships we must fill the air, and stock the sea with ships; we ought to blow a billion yen to drill and train a host of men, if we'd avoid eclipse." And even now, while Europe rocks, beneath her armies' mighty shocks, our statesmen talk the crime: "We must be building battle boats, if we'd prepare our sacred gods, and sidestep grief and shame." And it was Europe, gentle nuns, that guaranteed a lasting peace by loading up for bear. Whenever she acquired some man, she blew it for a wet elm gun till she had guns to spare. And Europe's sons, for countless years have toiled in agony and tears to pay a brutal tax; to pay for "guarantees of peace" they labored till Death should release the burtons from their backs. The peaceful man won't carry arms; he has no use for war's alarms, his quiet way he goes; but once you turn him to the ears, with boomerangs and guns and spears, he'll surely twist your nose. —Walt Mason.

AS OTHERS SEE US

The Seminole County Fair is on at Sanford, and amid the carnival and other attractions, including a fine display of the products of the soil, the four days will be full of interest to all visitors. There is so much displayed in the allotted space, that the visitor for a day finds the time all too short. The tucking interests of the rich muck lands, large areas of which stretch away toward Lake Jessup, are splendidly shown in the exhibits of this department. The fair will continue on through Saturday, and daily there will be aeroplane flights by Karl Kuhl, the Orlando aeronaut, who is to fly here at the Mid-Winter Fair, and at night fireworks and the water carnival, in which beautiful floats are shown, and where the center of attraction will be about the court of honor. Events, all full of interest in one way or the other, and there will be no lagging seen at any point.

Think of it, a fair absolutely free, with no admission to the grounds, where visitors are invited to participate in the joyous occasion, and everywhere met with a welcome significant of the occasion.

Thursday is "Orlando Day," when Sanford will greet the long line of automobiles, carrying a large number of visitors to see and join in the pleasures which have been arranged for the edification of visitors. They will receive a rousing welcome, when Orlando, for the first time, invades the capital city.—Reporter-Star.

SORE BUT SATISFIED

As the Herald goes to press today, the third day of the great Seminole County Fair, it is with the feeling that we have really accomplished something in this workday world. With all the attractions going full blast, with all the happy crowds surging past the office with the fair spirit, with all the satisfied merchants of the city, with all the satisfied thousands who have been here and were treated right and given everything that the advertising called for, the Herald feels sore but satisfied. Sore from the strain of the past few days, but satisfied with the thought that the baby County of the great state of Florida has pulled off an unprecedented stunt—that of holding a county fair with no buildings, no grounds, no preparation and no funds, and we have given the world the greatest free exhibition that has ever been held in the south.

It is rather early to predict a four days' success, but the first two days have certainly been record breakers and we have no fear for the remainder of the week. The weather is perfect, the people are coming and Sanford and Seminole county is here with the goods.

Our C. E. Society is a good place for young people to go for a pleasant and profitable hour Sunday night, they meet at 6:15 p. m. Christian Endeavor offers a school of training for all live wire Christians. You are welcomed.

Our C. E. Society is a good place for young people to go for a pleasant and profitable hour Sunday night, they meet at 6:15 p. m. Christian Endeavor offers a school of training for all live wire Christians. You are welcomed.

But we must have a bigger fair next year.

Every one realizes the importance of the county fair and everybody will boost it another year. We should have a concerted effort and no laggards.

Remember the Chautauqua While we are so engrossed with the fair this week let us not forget that beginning Tuesday of next week we will have a Chautauqua course, the talent represented and the attractiveness of which has never been excelled in this state; hence, we can ill afford to become so tired and depressed that we cannot be prepared for this delightful entertainment.

A goodly number of our best citizens are personally responsible for the financial success of this enterprise, and they having investigated the talent represented and its general character of the entire program say that unquestionably it is the best program, educationally, scientifically and religiously ever presented here.

Children's Home Society

At the annual meeting of the Children's Home Society of Florida held in Jacksonville, Jan. 28th, Supt. Marcus C. Fagg reported that 959 homeless and needy children had come under the care and attention of the society during the year of 1914, this number being the largest number of children ever referred to the society for aid in all its history. These children were referred to the society from every section of Florida and represented all creeds and races, except colored. A good family home was secured for every orphan and homeless child and others were sent to special schools, hospitals, boarding houses and were provided the care and attention most needed.

Practically $28,000 was spent in providing for these 959 little ones, an average of a little more than $33.00 per child. The society closed the year free of debt and expects to do even greater work for Florida's little ones in need in 1915, and appeals to the good people of Florida to send in money, clothing, food, etc., to help in the continuance of the great work—generally conceded to be Florida's greatest charity. The work is supported entirely by free will donations and has provided for thousands of little ones in its twelve years of work.

Judge W. H. Baker of Jacksonville was elected president for 1915; Frank G. Johnson, secretary; R. V. Covington, treasurer; and Marcus C. Fagg was re-elected as state superintendent. Forty other prominent men of Florida were elected as directors for 1915.

The state headquarters for the work are located at 361 St. James building, where applications for children will be gladly received, and also donations of money. The state receiving house—in which no child is kept permanently—is located at 1944 Riverside Ave., Jacksonville, where the children can be visited every day between 3 and 5 p. m. Everybody in Florida is invited to come and see what this great organization is doing.

Re-Making a Present Day Faith

The above is the title of a series to be given at the Congregational church by the pastor, during the night services of February, at 7 o'clock. It is hoped to make this a genuine contribution to the religious thinking of the day, a vital and constructive basis for a steady and growing life. Not a little confusion exists in the minds of men as to what are the positive things in Christianity; an attempt will be made to set these forth in a clear and helpful manner. All desiring such aid will meet a cordial welcome with us. The next musical prelude will also be given next Sunday night.

Congregational Church

Don't forget the specially prepared musical prelude for next Sunday night at 7 o'clock, consisting of solo, trio, violin and organ work. All are cordially welcome.

Also the special series begins Sunday night, entitled "Re-Making a Present Day Faith," and will be given each Sunday night of this month.

Our Sunday school is now in better "running order" than for some time, every department well managed and adapted to the needs of the boys and girls. All parents whose children are not now in any Sunday school will be repaid for considering this one as a place for them.

Our C. E. Society is a good place for young people to go for a pleasant and profitable hour Sunday night, they meet at 6:15 p. m. Christian Endeavor offers a school of training for all live wire Christians. You are welcomed.

of the state was very promising and further plans along this line were outlined.

Additional information suitable to Florida conditions was given by Mr. A. M. Flannery of Palatka, an expert silo builder, who outlined the advantages of silo in Florida ably assisted on the matter of crops for the silo by Prof. A. P. Spencer of Gainesville, District Agent of the Farmers' Cooperative Demonstration Work.

A part of the second day was used by the representatives of the Agricultural papers of the state, including one prominent guest, Mr. W. R. Goodwin, editor of the famous Breeders' Gazette of Chicago.

Mr. Goodwin spends the winter season each year at his home on Lake Weir, and is very anxious to see Florida progress along live stock lines. His suggestions to the Florida Stock Men were very helpful. The local men were Mr. Will M. Traer, of the Florida Farmer and Homeseeker and Mr. Wright of the Florida Grower.

The program of the day was finished with some excellent illustrations of Florida forage crops and grasses by Hon. R. E. Rose of Tallahassee and Prof. John M. Scott of the Experiment Station. As live stock work progresses it is necessary to secure permanent pastures and proper hay and forage crops. The talks of these gentlemen furnished exactly the information desired.

During the day a talk was given good roads for the farmer by the special lecturer who are touring the state. Messrs. Chas. E. Foote, Good Roads specialist and Mr. J. P. Clarkson, president of the Association were in charge of this.

On the third day, Feb. 5th the Association heard from several of the representatives of the railroad companies operating in the state. Mr. T. E. Waldrup of the Georgia, Southern and Florida talked on the relation of live stock to agriculture, or "Beef, Bread and Bacon." Mr. Waldrup is a fluent speaker and greatly interested his hearers.

The discussion was continued by Messrs. Wilbur McCoy and E. B. O'Kelley of the Atlantic Coast Line and Mr. J. E. Ingraham, vice president of the Florida East Coast Railway.

One of the leading guests and speakers of the day was Dr. Peter F. Bahnsen, state veterinarian of Georgia, who came down from Atlanta to the meeting to see Florida take some progressive steps for more and better live stock and for the removal of the cattle tick. Dr. Bahnsen has had long experience in the Texas range country, as well as years of official work in Georgia, and is now president of the Association of Live Stock Sanitary Officers of the United States. He is one of the most convincing and businesslike orators in the southern field, and his observations on all the possibilities of Florida made him worth coming miles to hear. Those who heard Dr. Bahnsen at the first meeting of the the evident new order of things will be for bringing the stock to produce greater profits to the farmer. Sanford, than heretofore. This opinion was voiced by such men as S. H. Gaitskill, McIntosh, Z. ## ORGAN GRINDER'S DAY

HARVEST REAPED BY WASHINGTON STREET MUSICIAN.

Story From the Capital Concerning French and German Ambassadors Is a Good One, Though It Is Not Official.

It was before the war came in grim earnest, of course, but here is the form in which perfectly respectable old story used to be told over the cigarettes in Washington. When the governments of France and Germany were barking at each other across the conference table, it happened one day that an Italian organ grinder, strolling along the streets of Washington, planted his instrument of torture on the curb in front of the German legation and began grinding out the Marseillaise.

The strains of France's great national air fell upon the ears of the German ambassador, Count Bernstorff, as he sat within, deep in the diplomatic puzzles of his office, and a frown overspread his brow; for the Germans, though a music-loving people, love not the tune of the Marseillaise. However, he passed the incident, as a momentary annoyance, and buried himself deeper in his work.

When the musician, having reached the end of the Marseillaise, proceeded to adjust his machine and play it over again, the ambassador grew restless. And when the third round began, Count Bernstorff's patience broke under the strain. Hammering upon his call-bell, he summoned an attendant.

"Go out and drive that fellow from the block!" he commanded, and was turning again to his work when a bright idea flashed upon him. "Here, wait a moment," he called, and, drawing a coin from his pocket, gave the valet some instructions along with the money.

The valet, swiftly making his way to the street, addressed the organ grinder.

"Can you play 'Die Wacht am Rhein?'" he asked.

"Yes, sure, Mike, I play him," replied the son of Italy, in the lingo of the country.

"Do you know where M'sieur Jusserand, the French ambassador, lives?" now queried the servant.

"Yes, yes, sure, Mike, I know," responded the dago.

"Well, here's a half-dollar," said the servant, handing him the coin. "I want you to go up to Ambassador Jusserand's house and play 'Die Wacht am Rhein' for 15 minutes without stopping. Understand?"

"Yes, yes, sure, Mike," exclaimed the dago eagerly, and slinging his organ across his back, as he prepared to go.

move on, added proudly.

"Today, heeg day, today I make do heeg mon' Ambass' Jusserand. Just now he giv me one dollar to come here and play de Marseillaise for 15 minutes"—New York Evening Post.

The Dam Bill.

It was a legislative field day in the house, and a call for a quorum had been sent forth. Wearily the members dragged themselves forth from the cool house offices into the heat of a summer day. And as one congressman greeted another, the question, "Is the dam bill up?" was overheard by a rather grim and earnest visitor, who went on, horrified at such profanity, only to hear another group inquire, "Is the dam bill up?" Hurrying on toward the office building, still a third time her ears were assailed with the undignified query—"Is the dam bill up?"

"Well, I never," said the good lady, shaking her bonnet plumes viciously. "I never heard such profane congressmen. The changeable weather has worked on their tempers sure enough, for every congressman I meet has been inquiring about that dam bill, and the thought of it so impressed itself on my mind that I almost feel like saying that dreadful word myself for the sake of relief!"—"Affairs at Washington," by Joe Atchison Chappel, in National Magazine.

Deposits of Phosphate Rock.

While the states of Florida, Tennessee and South Carolina have for many years been the principal sources of phosphate rock in the United States, it is believed that the main production in the future will probably come from the great deposits of phosphate rock on public lands in Idaho, Utah, Wyoming and Montana. While Georgetown is the only village strictly within the area discussed, Montpelier and Soda Springs are closely adjacent. An estimate of the high grade phosphate rock available in the area northeast of Georgetown has been made—2,663,200,000 long tons.

Although this estimate is approximate, it is derived from the most complete data available at the present time and has been checked to the content of the main body, which lies in the greater part of the area near the base of the phosphate shales, and no attempt is made to estimate the vast tonnages of the intermediate or low grade rock.

Cat Had the Advantage.

Cherry Kearton, the famous photographer of wild animals, says that during the bombardment of Antwerp a dog and a cat followed him down the street. As the shells burst the dog went dodging from one side of the road to the other, but the cat never turned a hair. A cat is naturally used to being bombarded and because it has right-angled advantage on a dog.

MULE FOILS A HOG THIEF.

Animal Ran Away and Thereby Gave Away a Beautiful Bit of Strategy.

No better example of "ways that are dark and tricks that are vain" has come to light recently than is afforded in a dispatch from Bowling Green, which tells of the arrest of one Robert Fites, colored, charged with the theft of a hog.

The details that are given show the resourcefulness of a man when he is "out of meat." Robert Fites, colored, was in that condition last winter, and, as the story goes, he knew of a farm owned by a white man several miles away which was well stocked with hogs. After sizing up the situation, he decided it would be an easy matter to get a fine young sow if he had any way of carrying it home after killing it. This difficulty was solved by borrowing a buggy and a mule from a neighbor—without the neighbor's knowledge or consent.

Setting out in the middle of the night, he drove to the place where hogs were abundant, and succeeded in catching and killing a hog. To conceal his prize he had carried along a dress and bonnet belonging to his wife. He dressed the stolen hog in the apparel, set it upright in his buggy, and started home. It was daylight before he began the return trip, and it happened that he met a few early travelers along the road. At such meetings he would address the hog with admonition: "Sit up, old lady; folks will think you're drunk."

But the best laid plans go wrong. The subterfuge might have been successful if the mule had not become frightened. The animal ran away, and threw out both the driver and the "old lady." A master stroke of hog-stealing strategy had gone amiss, and, mindful of the fact that he who steals and runs away may live to steal another day, Robert Fites took to the woods. He stayed there for several months, but when he came out the grand jury had indicted him, and an officer found him and took him to jail.

There is no doubt that Robert Fites is a genius in his way. He had a great scheme. The only weak thing about it was that it failed to work.—Louisville Courier Journal.

War and the Samoan Islands.

A special link exists between Scotland and the German Samoa Islands, which have just been occupied by a British expeditionary force from New Zealand. Most people know that Vailima, on the Island of Upolu, was the home of Robert Louis Stevenson in the closing years of his life. It is not so generally known that since his death the house and estate, some 300 acres, have been acquired by the German government and converted for use as a residence for the governor of Samoa.

The ratio of Ford owners as compared to owners of all motor cars is shown, for example, by California, Iowa and Florida, three extreme points in the Union. ## He Was Right.

King Peter of Serbia, who does not mean to let Austria have everything her own way, once had for a valet a man who seemed to find it quite impossible to understand an order intelligently. However, some of his mistakes, though annoying at the time, had their distinctly humorous side.

On one occasion King Peter sent the man with a message to his wife. Alas! He forgot it on the way.

King Peter was furious when the man returned.

"Why you noodle!" he exclaimed. "I don't believe you know what woman's spells!"

"Trouble, as a rule, sir," was the man's quiet retort, and his majesty now wonders whether the man was as stupid as he used to appear.

ONE BODY FOUND IN WELAKA MYSTERY*TOURISTS WHO PLUNGE
INTO FLA. WILDS WITH NEGRO MURDERED

Jacksonville, Feb. 9.—One step in the mysterious disappearance of Alonso and Horace S. Gardner of Springfield, Mass., has been solved and brings to light one of the most cold-blooded and most dastardly crimes that has ever been committed in the state of Florida.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock the body of Alonso Gardner was found by Captain Hiscock of the mail boat Harry Lee and Oliver Lind of Georgetown. It was laying in a dense palmetto swamp within a quarter of a mile from the last camp of the Gardner brothers. The body of H. S. Gardner has not yet been found, but it is now believed that it will be located close by the body of his brother.

Alonso Gardner's body was found clutching tightly a 22-caliber rifle, which he was evidently using to shoot small game, when shot to death.

A wound on the back of the head showed conclusively that he had been shot from close range and that the crime had been committed for robbery, as the pockets of the victim's clothes had been torn and wrong side out.

The only jewelry found on the body was a stickpin and by this the body was identified, the pin bearing his initials. The face had been shot beyond recognition.

Brother Still Missing

Welaka, Fla., Feb. 9.—The body of Alonso G. Gardner of Baltimore was found today in a dense palmetto thicket along the banks of Raft Creek, near Georgetown, Florida. Death had been caused by a shot in the back of the head. He and his brother, Horace B. Gardner, of Springfield, Mass., have been missing for three weeks. No trace had been found of the latter, but the authorities believe that he also is dead. It is thought that both men were killed for the purpose of robbery. The pockets of the brother found today were turned wrong side out. Both are known to have worn valuable jewelry and are said to have carried considerable money. A scarf pin was the only jewelry on the body found.

Search for the men was begun immediately after a negro pilot returned here alone on January 22, on the yacht which the brothers had engaged for use on a hunting trip up the Oklawaha river. The negro shortly afterwards disappeared and efforts to find him thus far have failed.

Camp Equipment Fired

Charred camp equipment belonging to the Gardners was found about a week ago near the place where the body was discovered. The authorities believed an attempt had been made to burn the camp articles to make it more difficult to trace the missing men.

The body found was located by Captain Hiscock, of a river mail boat and Oliver Lind. The dead man's hand gripped a 22-caliber rifle, which he usually employed for shooting small game. In addition to the wound on the back of his head, his face was mangled almost beyond recognition.

Death of W. D. Gillon

The friends of Mr. W. D. Gillon will regret to hear of his death, which occurred at Plant City Saturday night. He leaves a wife, four daughters and two sons to mourn his loss. Mr. J. M. THE SEMINOLE COUNTY
FAIR HAS FITTING CLOSE
DESPITE WEATHER CONDITIONS
THE GREAT FAIR ENDS IN A BLAZE OF GLORY

The great fair is over and like generals on the deserted battlefield we can count up the results and plan for another campaign. There is no doubt in the minds of the people here that the Seminole County Fair, despite the handicap of two days rain was an unequalled success and there is no doubt in the minds of all concerned that next year Seminole county should prepare many months in advance and have one of the greatest gatherings that has ever been collected in the state. Our fair here the first two days demonstrated beyond a shadow of a doubt that the people are anxious to come to Sanford and that on account of the natural location of this city and the advantages of water and rail transportation this city is the nucleus around which the people from every nook and corner of the state will gather. From several who came here from the great cities in the north to investigate conditions comes the report that Sanford is the natural location for a $50,000 land show and steps will be taken to investigate this matter and if possible put the big show on next season. Our bulk-head lake shore would make a most excellent location and with the proper advertising there would not be merely thousands of people here but hundreds of thousands.

Great trees from little acorns grow and from our humble start in the Herald office with a few men the Seminole County Fair has already grown to large proportions and if the land show develops as it should this city will be the mecca for thousands from every part of the civilized globe next year.

If the land show does not materialize the Seminole County Fair can still be made the greatest fair in the state and if so desired the buildings can be erected for a real live stock display another year. This was our deficiency this year and on account of the scarcity of buildings the cattle and hog department were short on specimens although there are plenty of hogs, cattle and sheep in this county and we should have had a grand display of all of them.

Aside from these the management gave the people everything that was advertised and a little bit more, and only the rain kept every feature from being shown. If Seminole could have had four days of clear weather, pulled off the boat races and the great water carnival as scheduled the fair would have gone down in history as the greatest fair and exposition ever shown in the south.

The water carnival had been worked up to magnificent proportions and this feature was one of the best on the entire program but the downpour of rain all day Friday precluded any outdoor entertainment of any kinds.

The management will arrange for a detailed report of all the entrants and prize winners to be given in the next issue of The Herald and in this way only will it be possible to give the public any idea of the magnificent displays of fancy work, products of the kitchens, fields, and gardens, etc., but they were all so grand and called forth so much praise from all the visitors to the fair that some mention of some of them is due and in this brief mention only is possible. All of the displays cannot be given space for they were so large and varied that no ordinary newspaper could cover the work.

The fancy work and jellies and flowers were displayed in the second story of the Woudruff building over Hayman's garage and this room seemed specially constructed for the exhibit. Under the skillful hands of the decorators and the ladies the room was made a veritable fairyland and the different displays in the booths were simply grand. From the head of the stairs one started with the beautiful and fragile china and hand painted ware, oil paintings, etc., of the artists of Seminole county and they were most creditable, the china showing the hand work of Mrs. Commons, Mrs. Dingley, Miss Fish and many others. Mrs. Commons also had a fine display of miniatures all of Florida scenes, etc.

One of the most interesting displays was the antique or rustic furniture displayed by Mrs. N. E. Overman of Enterprise. This furniture consisted of benches, settees, porch swings, urns, etc., all made from Florida woods in the most approved style and made a fine display. This is a new departure and is being tried out by Mr. Overman, who expects to find a ready market in the near future for this furniture.

The collection of antiques at the fair was pronounced the greatest that has ever been displayed at a fair anywhere and included old heirlooms that were priceless. Among the best might be mentioned the Cust collection of quilts and antiques.

Second collection of china etc. over 100 years old.

Mrs. Enslinger, spinning wheel and纺车.

The Health Exhibit

Sanford and Seminole county were fortunate indeed to have the Florida State Board of Health and the Jacksonville City Board of Health make the fine exhibits at the fair. Never before in the history of the state has there been such a complete exposition of the practice of the principles of the health authorities and no exhibit at the fair accomplished so much in good government as the health exhibits. On account of the combination of the two exhibits Sanford has one of the best that could be procured for either one of these exhibits are a compendium of valuable knowledge unto themselves.

Special attention was given to the flies and the machinery made application showing the flight of the flies from the stable yards and the open closets to the food on the table was a revelation from those who saw this feature more vividly than ever before. The mosquito and other pests and disease breeders were also taken up and shown in their true light and the exhibit was most complete in every way. The Imhof system of disposal of sewage was outlined and the entire system was shown in miniature, demonstrating this practical idea in disposing of the sewage of a city where there are no flowing streams or other places of disposal.

Tables were filled with literature demonstrating the various diseases and their preventatives and none who visited this booth in the Woman's building but what went away satisfied that the state board of health was doing a noble work in educating the masses in these great principles of health and sanitation. It would take a whole newspaper to describe in full the many valuable details of this exhibit and the work accomplished will be felt in this community for years to come in better health and sanitary methods.

The state exhibit was under the

ORLANDO VISITORS
ENJOYED THE FAIR*WORDS OF PRAISE FOR FIRST FAIR IN SEMI-NOLE COUNTY.

"Orlando Day" at the Seminole County Fair was a great success, and the streets of Sanford were thronged with automobile traffic green and yellow pennants, and with visitors adorned with small bows of the same colors. So much in evidence were the Orlandites that the "tube" who made his way through the crowd soon gave up his attempt to make individual mention of each group of visitors, and continued his joyous journey proclaiming "EVERYBODY from Orlando is here!"

Estimates varied as to how many automobiles went from here, but one hundred and three were counted early in the day and many others left during the day for the fair. Eustis and Ocala also sent large delegations and the visitors seemed well pleased with the excellent and well arranged exhibits seen at the "Candy City."

Sanford gave a cordial welcome to the visitors and ten automobiles, headed by that of Mr. F. P. Forster, chairman of the hospitality committee came out to meet the Orlando cars as they neared their destination. The first installment of cars, some forty in number, drove into Sanford together and were greeted by the cheers of the school children and of the crowds lined on the walkways. It was unfortunate that all of the Orlando cars could not have arrived in Sanford at the same time, but many parties who were unable to leave here in the morning went later in the day and there was a splendid showing from this city.

This being the first individual fair held in Seminole county, which as yet has no permanent exhibit grounds, the exhibits could not be shown all in one place, but much care was taken in making the displays attractive and all were very creditable. The schools of Seminole county sent splendid specimens of grade work and more advanced study, and the domestic exhibit was unusually good.

The most interesting exhibit of all was the fruit and vegetable display, and the products of Sanford's "gold fields" attracted most attention. One entire end of the hall was devoted to a single display of citrus fruits, and the words "Seminole County" were formed of oranges. To the left of this was a huge cornucopia, Sanford's horn of plenty, which held a store of fine vegetables and fruit. A little log cabin constructed of celery stalks was the focus of great interest, and the general display was splendid. The "Lantern Gong" oranges, grown by a Chinaman, and being propagated at Glen St. Mary was particularly interesting, several specimens being on exhibit. This orange is said to be juicy and sweet even after it has remained on the tree two years, and is thought by many to be the solution of the all-year crop question. In the same hall with the fruit and vegetable exhibit was a display of forge glasses sent from the Experiment Station at the University of Florida which was valuable as an educational lesson on what is being done, and what it is possible to do in Florida.
