A golden girl
on the mend

RUSS WHITE

Harriett Boyd, who has more than 500 sports medals in her trophy case, is one of the area's natural treasures.

She was born and raised in Sanford but now lives in Lake Mary. Her grandfather, surgeon Seth French is the French of French Avenue. Boyd's maiden name was Harriett French Hayman.

As a child, Boyd liked to play marbles and tops, roller skate and shoot baskets. She grew up in the Depression years and graduated from Seminole High School in 1942. She was a clerk for the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad for 28 years. She married and had two children.

In 1978, she began dominating every event imaginable in Sanford's Golden Age Games. This year's event wasn't quite as golden as in previous years. That was because 75-year-old Boyd was unable to compete.

Boyd was hospitalized for three weeks after a scary incident at a senior games event in St. Cloud/Kissimmee in October. She was on the basketball court when suddenly she experienced "an awful feeling" in her throat and needed to sit down. Doctors told Boyd that she experienced a T.I.A. - a transient ischemic attack. She underwent numerous tests.

T.I.A.'s often serve a warning that a stroke could happen. Boyd's Golden Age Games friend Kay Thompson brought her a T-shirt and get-well wishes from those who run and participate in the games. "Harriett embodies the spirit of the Golden Age Games," said Director Lisa Jones. "We missed her terribly."

For 20 consecutive years, Boyd won medals for swimming, canoeing, biking, discus and javelin throwing, archery, basketball, tennis and golf. She also excelled in the pancake race and the talent contest. Vacuuming her cat "Streaky" was Boyd's contribution to the wackiest moment in Golden Age Games history.

There's a competition in Sarasota next month that Boyd said she would like to give a try. "I've lost 12 pounds and feel stronger every day," she said. "If the doctors allow me to go, I may go pick up a shot put or discus and see what I can do. I'm not about to do anything like pole vaulting."

If she needs longer to recuperate, Boyd is confident she'll be part of the 1999 Golden Age Games. "Next year's games are the 25th annual," she said Thursday. "I'd definitely like to be in those. I'm only getting started, you know."

Teen falls from stolen boat

GENEVA - A Sanford teenager is in serious but stable condition after falling from a stolen boat and getting hit by its propeller Wednesday afternoon.

The 16-year old boy was traveling north on the St. Johns River near Osteen. He is receiving treatment for major lacerations to his left thigh, knee, and wrist at the Halifax Medical Center in Daytona.

The Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission is investigating the incident, spokesperson Lt. Joy Hill said.

Hill said charges, including grand theft, are pending on the investigation. The victim was traveling with two other Sanford boys, ages 15 and 16, in a 25-foot Lowe pontoon boat.

According to witnesses, the victim fell off the front of the boat when it reduced speed. Officers said the boat ran over the victim, striking him with the propeller.

Officers from the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission were notified of the accident by the Volusia County Fire and Rescue unit at 5:15 p.m. Wednesday.

The boat had been stolen Wednesday from a Geneva residence along the St. Johns River, about seven miles south of the accident, officers said.

County air quality ranks poorly on certain toxins

By Bill Kerns
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SEMINOLE COUNTY - Seminole County ranks in the top 20 percent in the nation in the production of certain chemicals that are harmful to the immune system, according to a study released by the Environmental Defense Fund.

From 1988 to 1996, the release of suspected immune toxins in the county has risen 12 percent, based on data released from the Environmental Protection Agency that is current through 1996.

Individual companies provided the pollution data to the EPA used in the study.

David M. Co., at 201 Valentine Way in Longwood, emitted the largest amount of recognized developmental toxicants to the air in the county in 1996, ac-ording to the EDF study. The company is within legally permitted pollution limits, and produces industrial machinery and equipment, the report said.

Plant manager John Ploenes of David M. Co. said the company is spending up to $1 million in capital funding to improve its capturing capacity to improve emission efficiency.

Within one year, Ploenes said the company expects to reduce the solvent used in the manufacturing process by 25 percent. Two research and development processes are also underway that would potentially reduce pollution by an additional 30 percent, Ploenes said.

"We expect year to year to continue to release less pollution," Ploenes said.

"We have always operated within the permitted limits." Toluene, a toxic chemical solvent used in laboratory chemicals, printing, and pharmaceuticals, is the highest single immune toxicant in the county, according to the EDF.

"The amount of toxicants being released in the county are legal," Ken Leiserson, an engineer with the EDF said. "Unfortunately, legal doesn't necessarily mean safe."

In 1996, according to the study, 256,000 pounds of suspected immune-toxicants were released in the county.

"We can't tell you whether the release of certain chemicals causes cancer," Leiserson said. "We can't say for sure what all of the health effects are. That is a connection that needs to be studied in greater detail. What our agency does is gather information from the EPA, and relate it to suspected health efording to Wolfgang Halbig, Seminole County School District Security Chief.

Henderson re-elected to Audubon

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

WINTER PARK - Clay Henderson has been re-elected to a fourth term as President of Florida Audubon Society. The action took place at the 98th annual meeting of the state's oldest and most influential conservation organization.

The Audubon annual meeting was held just days after the general election, in which Amendment 5 was overwhelmingly approved by Florida voters. Henderson served on the Constitution Revision Commission and was the principal architect of Amendment 5. Audubon joined with other conservation organizations to lead a million-dollar campaign for approval of the Conservation Amendment.

"Today we can celebrate that the entire environmental community has come together with a single voice supporting land acquisition of our special places, restoration of places like the Everglades and Florida Keys, and creation of a new commission to protect all creatures great and small," Henderson said.

"We can celebrate that we have etched into stone that environmental protection is a fundamental value shared by Floridians," he said. Henderson announced that the top conservation priority for Florida will be implementing legislation for the Conservation Amendment. The 1999 Legislature will be asked to pass Forever Florida, a program supported by Governor-elect Bush as a successor program to Preservation 2000. The Legislature will also have to sort out the details of the new Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission now approved by the voters.

"Florida voters have sent the Legislature a strong message that we expect them to protect our natural environment. We will be closely watching the Legislature to make sure that they fairly implement the directives of Amendment 5," he said.

Florida Audubon Society is the voice of conservation protecting birds, other wildlife and their habitats, through science-based advocacy and education with 40,000 members in 45 community-based chapters.

POLICE LOG

The following reports were compiled from the Seminole County Sheriff's Office for incidents recorded Nov. 12.

Aggravated assault:

WINTER SPRINGS, Spring Villa Court, 10000 block, Nov. 12, 1:55 a.m. A 22-year-old man was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies for aggravated assault and battery. Deputies said he went to a local restaurant and accused an employee there of "fooling around" with his ex-girlfriend. While making these accusations, he allegedly grabbed the other man by the throat and threatened to hit him with a beer bottle. The other man said he was in fear for his life.

Aggravated battery:

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS, State Road 436 at County 427, Nov. 11, 6:37 p.m. A 32-year-old man was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies for aggravated battery. Deputies said the man sprayed another man in the face with mace after they got into an argument over a traffic mishap. Deputies said witnesses reported the man became enraged with the other driver after he cut him off in traffic. In addition to spraying him with mace, he also attempted to run him off the road while they were driving, deputies said.

Battery on a law enforcement officer:

FERN PARK, Macaw Lane, 500 block, Nov. 11, 4:41 a.m. An 18-year-old man was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies for battery on a law enforcement officer, for resisting arrest without violence and for disorderly intoxication. Deputies said they had been called to his neighborhood earlier in response to complaints that he was causing a disturbance and that he was drunk. When they arrived he had already left the scene. A neighbor called later to report that he was hiding in his pantry. When deputies arrived to remove him from the cupboard, he resisted and refused to be handcuffed. He thrashed about and was uncooperative so he had to be sprayed with pepper spray. When he was sprayed he pushed the spray toward a deputy, spraying the officer as well.

Driving under the influence:

LAKE MARY, Lake Mary Center, Nov. 10, 5:07 a.m. A 49-year-old man was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies for driving under the influence.

Deputies said a deputy pulled up next to a driver at a stop light and saw the man take a drag from a pipe traditionally used to smoke marijuana. The driver looked startled and then tried to hide the pipe when he saw the deputy next to him. When the deputy pulled in behind him, he tried to hide the pipe, but when the deputy approached the car, he willingly turned over the pipe and a bag of marijuana.

anybody could be up to the very last," he said.

"My mom's last words were to tell my dad, 'I love you,'" Teague said. "She died as dad said, 'I love you.' They were married 65 years. My mom was a wonderful, loving mother."

Mrs. Teague had a couple of strokes but she was still getting around until the heart attack two weeks ago, her son said.

The Teagues met while they were attending Newberry College in central South Carolina. They graduated and taught for three years in South Carolina. They came to Sanford in 1933. It took awhile to get teaching jobs in Florida. Mr. Teague ran a paper route for a year until he became a math and science teacher at Lyman High School.

A year later, Walter A. Teague became the principal at the school in Chuluota and Mrs. Teague was hired by the county to teach at the same school. They were together again at Oviedo, which had grades 1-12. She was a third grade teacher, he was the principal 9 of 11 years.

"I was fortunate to have a mother who could teach me both at school and at home," her son said. "There were so many lessons, so many times for me to feel extremely blessed by such a wonderful loving mother."

Katherine Teague was born in Newberry, South Carolina and came to Florida in 1933. She was a member of the Delta Kappa Gamma teachers sorority and attended United Methodist Church in Oviedo. She had two grandchildren, and one great grandson.

Visitation hours for Mrs. Teague will be from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Saturday, with a service at 3 p.m. Sunday at United Methodist Church in Oviedo. Burial will be at Oviedo Cemetery. Baldwin Fairchild Funeral Home is handling the arrangements.

gun. And we did look, we looked very hard."

The Team Concept involves teachers, administrators and students working together with law enforcement officers and other agencies for the safety of the school, from the opening of a school day to the time the last student leaves the campus.

During the last school year, Halbig said no guns were found in Seminole County's schools, compared with 14 guns found in 1994.

Ron Davis, the School Board's professional standards investigator, said the success of the Team Concept comes from students knowing that people are sincere in their efforts.

"We have a desire to help people," Davis said. "We have that in our hearts. That's the key."

The School Board's Emergency Management Planning is a system in which all of the county's schools have the same plans in place to handle a variety of emergency situations, such as violence in school, Halbig said. A communications network is in place between the schools, the police, the fire department, and other agencies.

"This is part of our team concept," Halbig said. "It's a good, new plan. It's all about knowing how to communicate, and practicing the plan. This wouldn't be possible without the Superintendent (Paul Hagerty) and the school board being willing to think outside the box."

The emergency management system works thanks to an Interagency Agreement that allows schools to communicate effectively with law enforcement, the juvenile court system, the Department of Juvenile Justice, and family service agencies, Halbig said.

The Secure Our Schools program places silent burglar alarms, with audio detection, inside schools, Hagerty said. There are also surveillance cameras in schools.

"In today's time you have to be proactive," Hagerty said. "We're protecting property, teachers, staff, students, and the life of a police officer. It's important for an officer to know what he may be facing before he goes into a situation."

The school board's Safety

Audit program uses undercover officers in a high school, with the invitation of the principal. Halbig said an undercover officer remains in the school for a minimum of 2 1/2 months.

"The officer can see what kids see," Halbig said. "We want to know what's not working. If there is a crime, he alerts the school resource officer. The undercover officer's identity is never revealed. In middle schools, we have other ways to evaluate a situation. On school buses, we use security officers. We're here to serve the whole school system, everyone within it."

The School District's Save a Friend Hotline allows students to seek professional help for a friend who is in crisis. The hotline is monitored 24 hours per day, at 1-800-338-2327.

"There's a code of silence among students," Halbig said. "These students are smart, they know what's happening. It behooves us to teach them responsibility. It takes courage to pick up a phone, and let somebody help them with a suicide, a drug problem, harassment, or someone who is thinking of bringing a gun to school."

Davis is active in the Alcohol Awareness Program. "The district is very fortunate to have someone with his background and experience," Halbig said of Davis. "When he gives a presentation to children, the room grows silent. You can hear a pin drop. He's a passionate speaker."

Halbig and Davis conduct training seminars for teachers and administrators, so they will learn their legal rights and responsibilities in student discipline. They also teach conflict management techniques.

"Colleges are not preparing young teachers for their role in schools," Halbig said. "That's sad. Teachers need to know their rights, and they need to know what to do in certain situations."

Halbig has been a Dean of Students, an assistant principal, and the director of an alternative high school. He has been at his current job since 1993, and says the number one problem teachers face today is a lack of respect from students.

"You can't teach students who don't want to learn," Halbig said. "There are gangs, drugs, weapons, and disrespect brought into schools from the outside. You can't teach children who are not in the classroom. You can't teach children who don't have dreams and aspirations. Teachers today are being asked to be drug counselors and police officers, and their only job is to educate."

Halbig describes himself as an at-risk student when he was young.

"I came to this country when I was 12," Halbig said. "I couldn't read or write a lick of English. I'm only where I am today because one teacher took an interest in me."

Davis has been the Professional Standards Investigator for Seminole County Schools since July. A 17-year state trooper, Davis also worked as a felony investigator for the state attorney's office.

Halbig and Davis have been friends since 1974 when they worked together on a case in Miami as Florida Highway Patrol officers.

"We're combining our backgrounds," Davis said. "Then, we're teaching others what we've already learned. We're trying to make schools a safe and secure environment."

Both Davis and Halbig have children currently attending Seminole County schools. Davis has a daughter in the fifth grade, and Halbig has a son in the 11th grade. They also both have sons who graduated from Seminole County High Schools.

IN BRIEF

Women of the Bible

OVIDEO - The St. Bridget's Ladies Guild of St. Alban's Anglican Cathedral will be hosting a presentation of "Women of the Bible" on Saturday at 1 p.m. Perfect as a pre-Advent event this presentation is open to the public at no charge. A free will offering will be taken to help defray the costs of the dramatic troupe.

"Women of the Bible" is an original dramatic presentation of twelve characters from the Old and New Testaments. Beginning with Eve in the Book of Genesis to Priscilla in the Book of Acts, the story unfolds as each one gives a personal account of her experiences as they relate to the promised Messiah. The central message is God's eternal plan to rescue His creation through His Son Jesus Christ. The central purpose of the drama is evangelist to call people to Christ.

"Women of the Bible" was originally written as a program for a women's group in the United Methodist Church. Since its first performance in 1986, it has been seen by men, women and youth in churches, clubs, hotels and retirements center in many different cities.

The Pfeifers to perform in Lake Mary

By Susan Wenner
HERALD STAFF WRITER

LAKE MARY - The Central Florida Christian Church will present an evening of entertainment with The Pfeifers at Lake Mary Elementary School on Nov. 20 at 7 p.m.

"The Ministry of the Pfeifers is rather unique to most Southern Gospel artists," said J.D. Seagroves, minister of the church. "Their ministry shows their versatility and ability to blend brass instruments with traditional Southern gospel vocals. This exciting blend is quite refreshing for audiences they perform to each week. Their sincere positive attitude unspoiled nature and their great desire to serve the Lord to proclaim His Word in song."

"The Band" in every sense of the word back their three-part harmony with trumpet, saxophones, drums, keyboard and guitars," said Seagroves. "This magnificent sound gives a 40's big band sound to Southern Gospel music. Present Pfeifer members include John & Candy, Mary Carter, Rob Collins, Stan Sheridan and Rob Snyder. The Pfeifers are Gospel music's best kept secret."

The message of faith and family values brings people to their concerts for packed houses. According to recent press information, "The Pfeifer's ministry is one that was born over a decade ago when a young, vivacious, yet rather shy 20-year old by the name of Candy Pfeifer organized a musical ministry with several friends. As the group evolved and various personnel changes began to take place, the music of The Pfeifers went through a transitional period, as well. With the addition of John Pfeifer, Candy's older brother, the group began to incorporate various musical instruments to add to the group's diversity and musical style."

This musical group was performed in locations such as Dr. Jerry Falwell's Thomas Road Baptist Church in Lynchburg, Va., as well as the Mickey Gilley Theatre in Branson, Mo. Other appearances include The Nashville Network's Primetime Country and the Trinity Broadcasting Network's Praise the Lord program.

They host a weekly television program, "The Pfeifers-Lifting Jesus," which airs on 20 television stations and two satellite feeds.

Concert Coordinator, Chris Freshwater, concluded by saying, "The Pfeifers music is refreshing, exciting and has been a tremendous influence in my life. Their soulful, yet crisp harmony, is a captivating mix with their 40's big band instrumental talent. Concert attendees will be blessed."

Lake Mary Elementary School is located at the corner of Lake Mary Boulevard and Country Club Road.

No admission will be charged but a love offering will be taken.

For more information call the church office at 323-7328 or 444-8150.

Operation Rescue ministry reaches the community

By Susan Wenner
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - Donita Sturch, director of Operation Rescue Sanford, is excited about the work that the organization has planned for the holiday season.

In addition to their ministry visits to numerous areas in the community, she said the group hopes to share toys for Christmas with over 250 children from the ages of birth to 14.

The group helps the community in other endeavors. In August, volunteers received a check for $1,000 after the presentation of testimonies of children and parents that had been positively affected by this work.

Sturch will present, on request, a five-minute video showing the actions of this ministry and will tell how the Lord is reaching more than 100 children each Saturday morning. At the beginning of the school year, several businesses helped with the "Back to School" program, assisting needy families in providing school supplies for those without necessary items for class.

Operation Rescue Sanford helps train interested parties to reach the community. Their vision is to provide "Sidewalk Sunday School" throughout the city and reach as many as possible.

Typically, volunteers begin their Saturday mornings with buses, provided by Family Worship Center, bringing children to designated parks to learn God's word, enjoy positive fellowship and loads of fun.

Sturch told of the stage of a music sound system transformed from a flat bed truck. Tarps are then laid on the ground. Each tarp has either boys or girls sitting in anticipation of the events to come.

Songs are sung, short plays, entertainment appealing to children and prizes are included in this day. She shared that "the children love to sing, dance and have a good time. We have the children pledge to the American and Christian flag and we use visuals to illustrate the point we are trying to get across. We just want them to learn about Jesus."

With the ongoing work of this organization being so uplifting, Sturch has petitioned the residents to help these children have a joyous holiday season by helping either financially or by the contribution of toys or candy.

For those interested in assisting call Donna Sturch at 321-6971 or write to P.O. Box 702, Sanford, FL 32772.

"We are seeing a positive response to the program we are providing," said Sturch. "Children are learning to control their anger and behave better. With the positive interaction with these children we are seeing their lives affected from a life of crime to a loving attitude. As a part of this outreach we want to help the families with toys and candy for the holiday that they may not be able to provide themselves."

"I am going to be singing and speaking about Operation Rescue Sanford this weekend at the Sanford Heritage Festival," she said. "We will be at the Glory Cloud Bus. We want people to know about our work and we will play a video to tell a little more about what we do."

Seek second opinion on fibromyalgia

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was recently diagnosed with fibromyalgia, after suffering decades of stiffness, muscle pain, trigger points and a variety of symptoms. The doctor, who is a recognized specialist in fibromyalgia, prescribed many medicines, which I will list below. After six months of therapy, I am no better. In fact, I feel like an addict. Is fibromyalgia a death sentence? My medicines are Ultram, Neurontin, Robaxin, Klonopin, Ambien, Wellbutrin, Coenzyme Q10, magnesium, creatine and DHEA. Help!

DEAR READER: I see from your letter, which I have excerpted, that you are a 30-year-old man. This may be important, as I'll mention in a minute.

Fibromyalgia is a chronic constellation of symptoms that includes muscle pain, aching and stiffness associated with trigger points. It is much more common in women, especially those in middle age.

Coenzyme Q10 has not been shown, in suitable scientific studies, to be useful in treating any medical conditions, including fibromyalgia. Magnesium is a mineral that is plentiful in most normal diets. Creatine, which is supposed to build muscle mass, has not been proven to affect afflictions such as fibromyalgia.

In reviewing your medications, I was struck by two conclusions: Your diagnosis is still in doubt, and the drugs you have been prescribed clearly indicate a shotgun approach by your "recognized specialist."

Be sensible and listen to your body. Stop the drugs that aren't helping you (most of them), and seek a consultation with a reputable diagnostician in internal medicine. Yes, you might have fibromyalgia, but let's confirm this.

There are no tests to confirm fibromyalgia. The diagnosis is one of exclusion, meaning that other, similar diseases — such as lupus — must first be discarded. Many authorities believe that fibromyalgia is a functional disorder, one in which the function of muscles is somehow impaired. Depression is often an important consideration, and stress frequently plays a role. No therapy is consistently effective.

Without intending to be politically incorrect, I must point out that fibromyalgia is extremely rare in men. In your case, I'd want to make sure that you don't have a look-alike, such as Lyme disease, lupus or rheumatoid arthritis, all of which are diagnosable with blood tests.

At this point, I am concerned about the effect the prescribed drugs may be having, as well as their potential interactions.

Ultram is a non-narcotic analgesic. It may be appropriate for you, but it can cause sleepiness and poor coordination.

Neurontin is an anticonvulsant that has a truckload of potential side effects and interferes with a variety of other medicines.

Robaxin is simply a muscle-relaxant.

Klonopin is a powerful medication used to treat seizures and panic disorders. It, too, has a long list of unfavorable consequences and drug interactions.

Ambien is a sleeping pill that is safer than most.

Wellbutrin is an antidepressant with extensive side effects and drug interactions.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Below the line

By Phillip Alder

Rubber-bridge players know all about "below the line." That's where you score the trick points that lead to game bonuses. There is another line: the equator. And below that line we find two English-language magazines. The bigger is Australian Bridge. It appears bimonthly, containing 84 mid-dling sized pages. The larger page size permits more attractive layouts and the inclusion of photos. Most articles aim at the tournament player, but there is a fair amount for the improver.

Here is a declarer play quiz from the magazine. You are in three no-trump. West leads a fourth-highest heart two. What would you do?

Declarer won the first trick, which is correct. (If West has led from king-fourth of hearts and wins a trick with the club ace, he won't know South has the singleton heart jack left.) Declarer continued with a club to dummy's king, and the club jack to West's ace. The defenders took their three heart tricks. Then, West switched accurately to a spade. Declarer was in a predicament. He could gamble on the spade finesse or assume a 3-2 diamond split. Playing with the odds, South called for dummy's spade ace and tried to run the diamonds. Unlucky!

Of course, that wasn't unlucky. Before attacking clubs, declarer should have cashed two top diamonds just to check if both opponents follow. South knows he doesn't need the spade finesse. But when the 4-1 break is revealed, declarer realizes that he needs two spade tricks for his contract. He doesn't have a choice.
