Public Services And Development Department Asks $5.3 Million

(Second in a series of in-depth county budget articles)

The Seminole County Department of Public Services and Development, which is responsible for the construction, operation and maintenance of parks and other county facilities, has a $5.3 million budget for fiscal 1982-83.

The department employs 135 people and is responsible for parks, county recreation programs, libraries, the extension program, land management, building code enforcement and maintenance.

The 1982-83 budget figure is 10 percent greater than last year's budget of nearly $5 million.

The Facilities and Parks Division represents the largest expenditure in the budget. More than $3 million is budgeted for the duties of the division. Fifty one people are employed in the division and the total for salaries and other personal services

The division has a capital outlay program of $537,500 which is designated for renovation of county facilities. That expenditure will go toward planned alterations to provide temporary office space for some departments.

Another $104,262 capital outlay is budgeted for construction of six more tennis courts at Sanlando Park and for lighting of a softball field at Red Bug Park.

The Recreation Division is closely aligned with facilities maintenance and parks. The nine people in the division are responsible for conducting the various softball, basketball, tennis, swimming and other programs that the county offers.

The division's payroll is $184,462 for salaries and benefits and another $71,411 is budgeted for operating expenses. Included in the operating expenses is a $47,078 expenditure for contracts to referees, umpires, lifeguards and tennis instructors, who work on a part-time basis. Department Director John Percy said a summer playground program is not in the budget for the second straight year. He said the program could be reinstated if there is enough interest.

Library Services has a $944,787 budget for the coming fiscal year. The division has 25 full-time and 9 part-time employees at the Sanford and Casselberry libraries.

The budget includes $494.532 for salaries and benefits and $206,796 in operating expenses.

Also included in the library services budget is a $231,735 expenditure for books and other library materials. "Since the county took over the library system in 1978, this has been a big expenditure," Percy said.

Omitted from the budget was a request for $300,000 to fund library expansion and other capital improvements.

But scheduled to go on the budget in October is a $7 million bond issue which would finance construction of four new libraries in the county.

"The Building Division is the only one which pays its own way," Percy said.

The Building Division employs 19 people and supervises all construction in the county, making sure county building laws are observed.

The division budget includes $428,568 for salaries and other benefits and $63,316 for operating expenses. The department takes in $500,434 in building fees, matching its total divisional expenditures.

The Land Management Division oversees zoning laws and land use in the county. Ten people are employed in the division with a budget of $233,229 for salaries and benefits. The division has a total budget of $282,849.

In the Agricultural Division, the county cooperates with the state to operate extension programs. The county funds five full-time employees for the staff and pays a portion of the salaries of three others.

The budget for salaries and benefits for the division is $95,894, with a budget of $51,143 for operating expenses. Director Percy's office has a staff of three with $84,362 appropriated for salaries and benefits.

Within the department, Percy has the largest salary. He is at level 14 in the county's administrative salary scheme. meaning his salary must be between $26,070 and $36,836. Percy will make more than $30,000 this year.

Division heads will earn between $19,000 and $32,960 this year. The county librariran's salary is fixed at Level 12, which is $23,326 to $32,960. The facilities-parks and recreation manager is at Level 10, which is $20,582 to $29,081. The land management manager and building manager are at Level 9, which is $19,210 to $27,142. -MICHEAL BEHA

New Tribes Mission Eyes Old Hospital

The New Tribes Mission in Sanford is in-Memorial Hospital, a mission official said

Mel Wyma, foreign secretary of the mission, Hospital. said the mission committee, which makes all policy decisions for the organization, has not had the opportunity to meet.

"but our mission committee is scattered all over the world."

Wyrna said the group would be meeting in the next few weeks and the possible hospital purchase would be on their agenda.

"There would be a lot of things we'd have to discuss before we decide," he said. Things like financing. Where we'd get the kind of money

The building would be converted into a Bible training school or Bible college, Wyma said, with the idea of using the building as a training center for missionaries.

"I hadn't talked to them personally but I heard they were interested," he said.

Officials from the mission toured the hospital a few weeks ago, Percy said. The now." hospital is about a block from mission property on First Street.

County commissioners will meet Monday to of the bargain." discuss the hospital and how it might be used to solve the county's office space problems. The commissioners are considering putting the property up for re-bid. That process would take at least 60 days.

The county also has the option of selling the terested in purchasing the old Seminole hospital property back to Hospital Corporation of America, which operated the building prior to construction of the Central Florida Regional

> As part of a contract between HCA and the county, the county has the option of selling the property to the HCA for $500,000 prior to Jan. 14, 1965.

> "The county has an option to sell the hospital back to them within 18 months after July 14, 1981," County Commissioner Sandra Glenn said. "If for some reason we can't sell it for at least $500,000 the hospital has to buy it."

Mrs. Glenn said commissioners had hoped to sell the property for at least $1.5 million prior to the bid opening earlier this week in which no bids were submitted.

The clause in the contract gives the county some breathing space to determine what action to take.

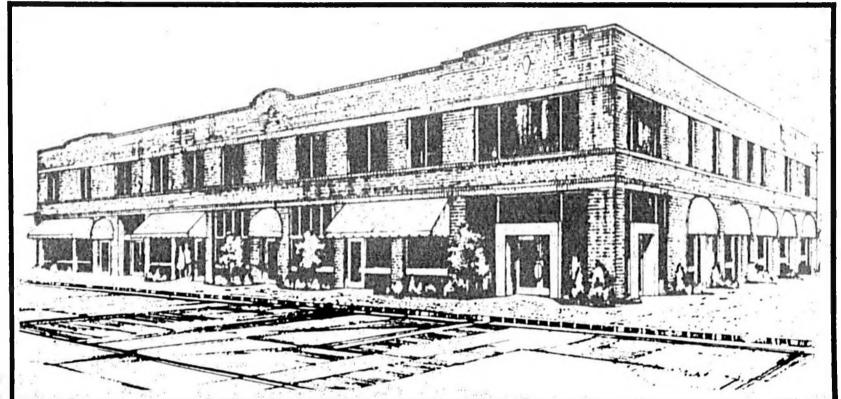

"We've got until Jan. 14 to make up our minds if we're going to sell it or use it our-

Another downtown Sanford building is slated to be renovated and modernized. Paulucci Enterprises announced today that the 920's vintage "Kent Ideal Garage" on Commercial Street will be restored and modernized before the end of the year. And, Tom Stevenson, director of real estate operations for Paulucci, said some $500,000 will be spent in the renovation-modernization. Roger Soderstrom, real estate consultant for the firm, said the brick exterior of the building will be chemically cleaned to preserve the brick. The interior of the building will be modernized and an elevator installed to carry passengers between the first and second floors.

Business Booming At Nudist Condos

TAMPA (UPI) - An executive at what is billed as the nation's first nudist condominium says business has been booming since it started advertising and the result has been "wall-to-wall bodies."

The 185-unit Paradise Lakes Condominium north of Tampa was built last year and has only three vacancies.

The owner of the operation is Fred Bischoff, who received national attention in the 1960s as a St. Petersburg radio evangelist.

"I get up in the morning, take a shower, dry off, comb my hair and go to work. I never could have imagined it," he said of his nudist existence.

Paradise Lakes is the first nudist condominium complex in the United States, says the American Sunbathing Association, which has 25,000 nudist members and 150 nudist parks as affiliates.

IN BRIEF

Ex-Superintendent Demoted For Allowing Inmate Abuse

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - The former superintendent of troubled Sumter Correctional Institution near Bushnell is being demoted as punishment for allowing the abuse of inmates.

Wayne Helms had his salary and benefits cut Thursday as Corrections Secretary Louie Wainwright implemented the recommendations for punishment of high-level Sumter officials made recently by state Inspector General Ray Lammbert.

Helms is being demoted from a superintendent to a planner in the department's Bureau of Planning, said Department of Corrections spokesman Vernon Bradford. His salary will be reduced from $33,700 a year to $30,500. He loses state housing and his eligibility for special risk retirement.

He will have no direct supervison over prisoners in his new capacity and will be working as a coordinator of the emergency housing program currently underway because of severe prison overcrowding.

Refugees May Go Free

MIAMI (UPI) - A handful of the 410 long-struggling Haitians detained at Mairni's Krome Avenue detention center may finally be released today, according to volunteer relief agency workers.

A compromise reached Thursday night at a meeting of attorneys for the government and the Haitians. along with relief agency volunteers, may have removed the final stumbling block in the Haitians' struggle for freedom.

Many of more than 1,800 Haitian refugees detained around the nation have been incarcerated for more than a year while their requests for political asylum are pending.

In trying to leap the delaying stumbling block, attorneys and volunteers reached an agreement on the wording of a document that sponsors of released Haitians will have to sign.

Block Of Ice Baffles FAA

STUART, (UPI) - Federal Aviation Administration officials are trying to figure out how a 100-pound block of ice smashed through Edith Turner's roof as she sat sipping coffee in the kitchen.

Mrs. Turner said the crash Thursday sounded like "the sky was falling in." No one was injured.

"Right now we don't know where it came from," said Federal Aviation Administration investigator Lee Guenther of the mysterious ice chunk, "There were a couple of airplanes in the air at the time - we're checking with the airlines."

Sgt. McClung Hearing Set For August 5

Herald Staff Writer

Sgt. Mike McClung, an 11-year veteran of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department, is expected to appear before the Civil Service Board at 2 p.m. Aug. 5 in an appeal of his May 10 suspension from the department without pay.

McClung, who requested that the Board investigate his suspension and impending termination, is also asking Sheriff John Polk to put charges against him in writing.

McClung, 35, of Sanford, was suspended May 10 without pay for 30 days, at the end of which he would leave the department permanently unless reinstated by the Civil Service Board. Polk has declined to discuss the reasons for the suspension, but court and sheriff's department officials said the case may involve sexual misconduct involving a 15-year-old girl. McClung, who receives an annual base salary of $20,916, was employed by the department Sept. 11, 1971. Until his suspension May 10, he was assigned to the department's service division where he supervised the transportation of prisoners.

CAMPING GEAR, JEWELRY TAKEN Thieves broke into a south Seminole County man's home

IN BRIEF

Tax Increase Bill OK'd, Cigarette Taxes May Double

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Cigarette taxes could double and business lunch deductions be cut in half because the Senate approved the record $99 billion tax increase bill endorsed by President Reagan. The next move is up to the House.

Tense moments preceded the 50-47 Senate vote early today, as it appeared for a few moments the largest tax-increase bill in history would fail by one vote. But conservative Sens. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and James East, R-N.C., were persuaded to vote in favor of the bill, assuring its passage.

In addition to increasing cigarette taxes and watering down the "three martini lunch," the bill reduces medical deductions, stiffens taxpayer compliance rules and penalties, takes a bigger tax bite from wealthy individuals, boosts airline ticket and telephone service taxes, and closes an array of business loopholes.

The package also includes more than $17 billion in spending cuts in such programs as Medicare, welfare and unemployment compensation.

Gang Leader Wins New Trial

TUCSON (UPI) - James "Big Jim" Nolan, reputed ex-leader of the Florida branch of the Outlaws motorcycle gang, won a new trial Thursday in connection with a fatal shooting after his lawyer claimed the jury was biased.

Nolan, 38, was convicted of manslaughter June 15 for shooting death of John McQuillen, 26, at the Bashful Bandit bar, a midtown biker hangout, McQuillen was slain in July 1981. Nolan claimed self defense.

Bertram Polis, Nolan's attorney, argued that during three days of deliberation, the jury discussed matters not in evidence, including unrelated prostitution, child molesting and kidnapping allegations against Nolan.

Superior Court Judge G. Thomas Meehan, who heard testimony from jurors July 12, agreed with the defense argument and set aside the manslaughter conviction.

Acid Rain Plan Advances

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Environment Committee made Congress' "first assault" on the problem of acid rain by unanimously approving a 12year program to curb the pollution.

The plan adopted by the panel would require that sulfur dioxide emissions in a 31-state area be reduced by 8 million tons below 1980 levels by the end of the 12 years. The area covers states east of and bordering on the Mississippi River.

Jay D. Hair, executive vice president of the National Wildlife Federation, called the vote a "decisive first step in controlling one of the most serious environmental threats of the decade."

Ed Meese's Son Killed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The son of presidential counselor Edwin Meese was killed when his car missed a turn, skidded on grass and crashed into a tree along a highway near Washington, D.C., U.S. Park Police reported today.

Scott R. Meese, 19, died on impact after he lost control of his compact car on the George Washington Parkway near McLean, Va., late Thursday, said Officer John Nawrot of the Park Police. The parkway is just across the Potomac River from the capital.

Weidenbaum Resigns Post

ST. LOUIS (UPI) - Murray Weienbaum, who the White House said wants to return to academic life but whose friends say was uncomfortable in the job, has resigned as chairman of President Reagan's Council of Economic Advisers.

The White House announced Thursday, Weidenbaum, an author of Reagan's economic recovery program, submitted his resignation in a letter dated July 20.

Envoy Steps Up Search For Mideast Consensus

By United Press International U.S. presidential envoy Philip Habib searched for consensus on a Lebanon peace plan today in a multination tour of the Middle East almed at staving off an invasion of west Beirut by the impatient Israelis. Israel broke an 11-day-old cease-fire Thursday with air raids on Syrian and Palestinian targets in retaliation for the deaths of five of its soldiers Wednesday. Later, it called the seventh fighting halt of the seven-week war.

The air raids in Beirut and the eastern Bekaa Valley left 182 civilians dead and wounded. Palestinian reports said. Two Israeli soldiers were killed in the fighting the Israeli military command said.

Habib, dispatched on a four-nation swing shortly before the air strikes began, was to meet Syrian President Hefez Assad today before taking his search for peace to Saudi Arabia, Egypt and Israel, government sources in Damascus said.

Gulf War Still Deadlocked

By United Press International Iraq and Iran ended another inconclusive battle on the desert sands east of the strategic oil port of Basra with both sides claiming thousands of enemy casualties at the start of the 23rd month of the Persian Gulf War.

The Iranian invasion of neighboring Iraq entered its 11th day today with scant signs of a quick resolution of the conflict.

But in an indication Iran was easing its resolve to topple Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, Iranian President Sayed Ali Khamenei said Tehran wanted to neutralize its neighbor rather than annex it into a greater Islamic republic.

Inflation Up 1% For June

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Consumer prices rose a full 1 percent in June for the second month in a row, the Labor Department reported today.

About three-fifths of the increase was due to higher prices for gasoline and houses. Medical care also rose.

Prices of food, beverages, entertainment and other goods and services also rose but more slowly.

The June increase amounts to a compound annual inflation rate of 13.5 percent, which is about where inflation. stood for 1979 as a whole before it started a gradual decline.

May and June were sharp increases from very low inflation rates during the first half of this year. Even including these two months, inflation now cumulatively amounts to an annual rate of 5.1 percent during the first half of this

The Consumer Price Index stood at 290.6 in June, which means that a market basket of goods that cost $100 in 1967 were up to $290.60 in June.

Gasoline prices had a monthly increase of 5.4 percent in June, after a rise of only 0.9 percent in May.

The housing category rose 1 percent overall. This included a 1.2 percent increase in the cost of buying a home. That percent for the next few years. in turn resulted from a 2.3 percent in-rose 0.6 percent in June compared to 0.8 percent in May. Grocery store prices rose 0.8 percent, largely due to increases in prices for meats, poultry, fish and eggs, and fresh fruit and vegetables.

Medical care rose 0.9 percent, about the same as recent months.

From annual inflation rates of 12 and 13 percent a couple of years ago, the price increases for the first five months of this year were down to about 3 percent.

In March the CPI reported prices actually declining. But in May they were back to a 12 percent annual rate. Most economists believe these statistical gyrations mask an important fact: Inflation has declined fundamentally. It is neither as low as the bottom of the roller coaster or as high as

Wharton Econometrics, an economic analysis firm in Philadelphia, estimates AEI says lasting progress against the "underlying" inflation rate has inflation cannot be made unless there is a moved down one or two percentage narrowing of the gap between increases

A Wharton report notes two recent crease in house prices, partially offset by recessions - the one in 1980 and the one a 0.8 percent decline in mortgage interest that may be just ending — helped bring inflation down. It notes in past Prices of food and beverages combined recoveries, after they had progressed for awhile, inflation rebounded.

This time, it says, the rebound of inflation may be less because the Federal Reserve promises to continue a restrictive money policy. That means economic growth may be slower, unemployment may stay high longer, but inflation may stay lower.

Another recent report by the American Enterprise Institute, a Washington thinktank, says much the same thing:

"The moderation of inflation since early 1980 has occurred in conjunction with back-to-back recessions separated by the shortest recovery since 1920. The impact on jobs has been substantial. The economic policy problem is how to restore those jobs without rekindling rapid inflation."

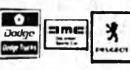

In its publication "Inflation Watch," points. It projects price rises around 6 in wages and increases in productivity. Evening Herald, Sanford, Fl.

A Chance For Cambodia

Seven years ago, the United States abandoned Cambodia to the Khmer Rouge communists. The ensuing bloodbath was followed in turn by a Vietnamese invasion, famine, and a guerrilla war now in its fourth year.

The Reagan administration could help promote an end to this agony at trifling cost and without risking a single American life. The mystery is that Washington has not acted long ago.

An estimated 40,000 Cambodian guerrillas continue to resist Hanoi's 200,000-man army of occupation. Perhaps two-thirds of these guerrillas are Khmer Rouge, steadfastly supported and armed by China.

The remaining resistance fighters, most of them members of the staunchly anti-communist Khmer People's National Liberation Front, receive only a trickle of arms plus tacit political backing from Thailand and other members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN).

Recently, under pressure from China and ASEAN, the two non-communist guerrilla factions joined in an anti-Vietnamese coalition with the Khmer Rouge. The hope is that the coalition, under the titular leadership of former Cambodian monarch Prince Norodom Sihanouk, will make for a more effective insurgency.

In addition, a "unified" resistance movement including Cambodian guerrillas untainted by the mass murders of 1975-79 should help the United Nations General Assembly resist Soviet bloc demands that Cambodia's seat be given to the puppet regime installed by the Vietnamese army.

But it will take more than the political equivalent of a shotgun marriage with anticommunist Combodians to sanitize the loathsome Khmer Rouge.

More to the point, Cambodia's non-communist resistance fighters can never hope to emerge as the dominant partners in their uneasy alliance with the Khmer Rouge unless they begin to receive the requisite quantities of arms, funds, and outside political support.

Son Sann, the widely respected leader of the Khmer People's National Liberation Front and a the acute form that includes jaundice. About former premier of Cambodia during the 1960s, estimates that he could double or triple his guerrilla force if only he could obtain sufficient

That judgment is echoed by Prince Sihanouk, now pleading for arms and other forms of assistance from ASEAN and the West.

Why not provide these non-communist nationalists with the means to fight for the kind of Cambodia Washington should want in any case?

Doing so may not persuade the Vietnamese to withdraw from Cambodia, or the Khmer Rouge to disband. But it might well preclude a Khmer Rouge return to power should the Vietnamese ever decide to leave. And it just might prompt the Vietnamese to consider a negotiated settlement establishing a neutral Cambodia with international guarantees against any foreign domination.

That could strike Hanoi as an attractive possibility if, and only if, the alternative appeared to be an interminable guerrilla war supported covertly by China and the United States.

A Cambodia tragically victimized by the Sovietsupported Vietnamese and the Chinese-backed Khmer Rouge might yet be saved by the patron that once abandoned it altogether. That would be no more than Cambodia's suffering people deserve, and have every right to ask.

"We the Lefthanded people of the world, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common conveniences, promote our dignity and welfare, and secure the blessings of manufacturers, teachers, parents and peers to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Bill of Lefts.'

If that preamble sounds vaguely familiar, it should. It's an almost verbatim recreation of the Bill of Rights, but for lefthanders who are preparing to celebrate International Lefthanders Day on Aug. 13.

The International organization, headquartered in Topeka, Kan., is offering all the lefthanded people of the world a chance to stand up and be counted on Aug. 13, which just happens to fall on

The organization is offering free buttons that tout "Left-On."

Lefties can obtain one by writing to the Lefthanders International, 3601 Southwest 29th Street, Topeka, Kan., 66614.

Researchers claim that about 15 percent, and probably more of the world's population is lefthanded. And Lefthanders International wants the world to know that the "right" way isn't the

Among the actions taken by the group to "right" some wrongs, has been the adoption of the Bill of Lefts, a 10 article bill demanding the "rights" of the world's lefthanders.

Historically speaking, there have been many, many famous lefthanders.

Had Michelangelo not been a lefty, we may never have realized the beautiful art work on the Sistine Chapel.

The sports world, too, has had its share of famous lefty's, among them Olympic Decathalon gold medalist Bruce Jenner, seventime American League batting champ Rod Carew, soccer's most famous player Pele and Kansas City pitcher Larry Gura. Come to think of it Sanford's Tim Raines, who plays for the Montreal Expos is a switch hitter.

The entertainment world has given us its fair share of lefthanders, too. Among the more notables are Judy Garland, Marilyn Monroe, Richard Dreyfuss, Charlie Chaplin, Jimi Hendrix and Jim Henson, the creator of the Muppets.

The professional-political world is no stranger to lefthanded dealing either.

One of America's most famous attorneys, F. Lee Bailey is a southpaw while there have been a few famous and infamous lefty's that have occupied the Oval Office.

Harry Truman was a lefty as is vice-president George Bush. Ronald Reagan was a lefty as a child, but it figures that his propensity for politics would have given him early impetus to develop the use of both hands equally, so when it became politically expedient, it would be much easier to straddle the fence on issues or change horses in the middle of the stream.

Former president Gerald Ford was lefthanded also. Didn't do him much good on the golf course,

And finally, one of our founding fathers was also a southpaw. Benjamin Franklin inked the Declaration of Independence lefthanded.

Let's see. Have I left anyone out?

SCIENCE WORLD Hepatitis Vaccine Candidates

NEW YORK (UPI) - Hepatitis B vaccine, now trickling out of a drug company pipeline, will reach gusher proportions soon — with up to 5 million doses-a-year headed for pharmacies.

Who should get the vaccine, how much will it cost and what is the payoff?

These questions were answered at a symposium held soon after the first 300,000 doses were shipped from the Merck, Sharp and Dohme laboratories in West Point, Pa.

Dr. Maurice R. Hilleman, vaccine developer and a director of virus and cell biology research at the drug company, said payoffs should include the saving of up to 5,000 lives a year — the number now felled by fatal attacks of hepatitis B and associated

Dr. Saul Krugman, professor of pediatrics, New York University, said the vaccine also may score as the world's first against one form of liver cancer — the form that develops in livers ravaged by hepatitis B and kills up to 800 a year. His hunch is that the vaccine, by preventing hepatitis B infections and resultant severe liver damage, will prevent the cancer.

Krugman also believes the vaccine has the capability of eventually stamping out hepatitis B — the most severe form of hepatitis. It causes nausea, prolonged fatigue and jaundice. Symptoms may last six weeks.

About 200,000 hepatitis B infections occur in the U.S. each year with 50,000 patients getting 20,000 of these must go to the hospital.

Three doses of the new vaccine are recommended. The vaccine costs $30 a shot, plus whatever the doctor charges for giving the shots. If the doctor's bill is $30, the bill for a full course of shots will come to around $180

Dr. James Chin, chairman of the Immunization Practices Advisory Committee of the U.S. Public Health Service, said healthcare workers, homosexual males who have many partners, prostitutes, embalmers and morticians are among those who should get the first shots.

Generally, he said, the list should include also anyone who handles blood or its products in the course of work.

Bables of mothers who have hepatitis B also are on Chin's priority list.

Also on the priority list are patients and staff in hemodialysis units, military personnel, blood bank and plasma fractionation workers, prisoners and users of lilicit injectable drugs.

Also dentists and oral surgeons, physicians and surgeons, nurses, laboratory technicians, paramedics and others who nay be exposed to the virus in blood or other patient specimens, dental nurses and hygienists and dental, medical and nursing

The vaccine takes 65 weeks to produce, from start to finish. When a batch is done it must be inspected by Uncle Sam's health experts before it can be marked "approved" and shipped to market.

The vaccine is made from blood plasma collected from people who can't give blood to blood banks because they have had hepatitis. The plasma, bought from commercial suppliers, costs between $500 and $800 a quart. Bits of hepatitis virus, extracted from the plasma, are used in making the vaccine. The virus is inactivated or killed by formaldyhyde during the manufacturing

Scientists say the vaccine is 95 percent

Competition In Space

The exciting success of the fourth test flight of the U.S. space shuttle should not lead the American people to believe that we have won the space race. The U.S. pace in space activity has slowed, while the Soviet program has accelerated.

The effective tests of the space shuttle mean that the United States has easy access to low earth orbit. If an American space station is authorized, the shuttle will be an important tool in building it.

Last year, however, NASA had 17 launches of space vehicles. Robert Cowen, writing in Technology Review at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, notes that 1981 was a typical year for the Soviets, "with 98 launches that orbited some 125 separate payloads."

The United States has not made the decision to establish a space station. Congress has its eye on federal jobs programs and on expanding welfare in a recession era, not on dramatic and strategically significant ventures in space.

According to Mr. Cowen, "the U.S. has all but abandoned the planets" while the Soviets are maintaining a strong solar system exploration effort. The Soviet space activities have a heavy military orientation, including a hunter-killer satellite that could be used against America's reconnaissance satellites.

The Soviets already have the Salyut-6 space station. Four manned craft and one unmanned supply ship docked with that station. Mr. Cowen quotes President Brezhnev as saying "We are ready to make the next stepto graduate to the creation of permanent orbital complexes." The next Soviet space station may be able to accommodate 12 cosmonauts.

This huge Soviet space program isn't in the spotlight in this country. Understandably, Americans rejoice at the success of the space shuttle, and properly so. But the shuttle is only one tool in space. The United States cannot afford to neglect deep space probes or fail to build a space station more advanced than what the Soviets possess.

A generation ago, the American people were shocked when the Soviets were first in space. A country that was backward economically and technologically made a dramatic leap forward. The United States has the know-how to move far ahead of the Soviets in space in the 1980s and 90s. The question is whether we have the leadership and will to do so. The most advanced country in the world seems reluctant to undertake the most daring tasks. Many congressmen are bent on preserving the welfare state of yesteryear and on creating new handout programs instead of preparing the United States for the technological challenges of the 21st century.

America needs imaginative new goals in space that will pay off in terms of new processes for our everyday life and also in terms of augmented national security. Certainly, the U.S. can't afford another Sputnik situation to develop while we are bemused with the space shuttle.

Metals Fall On Hard Times

By MARY TOBIN UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) - Strategic metals and critical materials have fallen on hard times, but some say these elements still can be a profitable investment - if one is willing to take a huge long-term risk.

Copper highlights the depressed market for strategics - those elements that are absolutely crucial to industry and to national

"Copper, as a strategic metal and a basic industrial raw material, is an unofficial bellweather for the strategic metals. Its depressed state tells us much about the broader markets in other metals," said James E. Sinclair, head of Sinclair Securities Inc., which has a London-based commercial.

Copper is selling at a four-year low of around 61 cents a pound, roughly 40 percent below the cost of production in the United

Zinc, another basic industrial raw material and strategic metal, "also is caught in the recession blahs," Sinclair said, as is bauxite from which aluminum is produced. The low demand for these base metals is important, since such elements as germanium, gallium and indium are recovered as a by-product of their production. The recession also has cut demand for such metals as cobalt, manganese, molybdenum, tungsten and chrome, highly important as defense materials and essential to industry. Paul Koerner, publisher of St. Louis-based Worldwide Investment Notes, believes strategics are a good investment precisely because of the low price.

"Indium was $26 an ounce a year and a half ago and now it's $4, for example. We feel that most of these metals prices have bottomed out," he said.

In a report titled "Strategic Minerals: More Precious Than Oil or Gold," Koerner noted that western economies are dependent on imports for much of our necessary strategic metals and in addition there is the potential of an OPEC-like cartel being formed by producting countries.

Koerner said the recession and the relative stability in southern Africa, where much of the western world's supply of strategies is located, has contributed to the depressed price of these metals.

Although Koerner believes strategics, and the companies that mine the metals, are "the breakthrough investment of the 1980s," he adds that direct investment in strategies is for wealthy, sophisticated investors. It requires huge outlays, storage costs and is a limited market.

E. F. Andrews, vice president of Allegheny International, said the price undoubtedly will go up but "it's no barnyard for the amateur. Most users are tremendously large buyers and they are professionals who spend their careers at it. They know the market and the political factors that affect it."

Sinclair said the strategics market "is one of current reality. It acts only on present supply and demand and doesn't make any assumptions about the future."

Barring regional wars, embargoes, politically motivated withholding of supplies or major industrial accidents, Sinclair doesn't foresee a recovery in strategics prices until well into the mid-1980s. Andrews agrees with that assessment.

"This is not to say that somebody can't and won't make money investing in such metals, but they should be aware that it's a high-risk, long-term investment."

Commerce Desk 'Probe' Inane Exercise

WASHINGTON — There's no doubt about it: Inspector General Sherman Funk is the Fearless Fosdick of the Commerce Depart-

I've already reported how he whitewashed an investigation of Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige's misuse of a charter jet. Now I'll tell you how he cost the taxpayers $1,442 by investigating a desk.

This cockamamie caper began when Commerce Department general counsel Sherman Unger broke his shoulder and arm. As part of the recuperative process, Unger decided he needed a deak he could stand up at. Instead of just jacking his desk up on a couple of file cabinets. Unger did what any potentate would do: He ordered the government to build him a stand-up desk. But when Assistant Commerce Secretary Arlene Triplett saw the bill from the General Services Adminstration - which eventually came to $1,442 - she refused to authorize payment.

Unger ordered the desk anyway. He told my associate Peter Grant he planned to take the desk home eventually, and had every intention of reimbursing the GSA personally. this, of course, would have been a violation of federal regulations; GSA isn't in the customfurniture business.

Unger had nothing to worry about, though. When the inspector general heard about the general counsel's fancy desk, he grabbed his magnifying glass and set out to crack the case. Perhaps as a courtesy to a fellow general, Funk handled the investigation himself.

After sifting all the clues, Funk pounced on the broken-winged lawyer. It would be wrong, he told Unger to pay for the desk and take it

. Unger delightedly agreed. He would let the government pay for the desk and use it only in his office, he assured Funk.

Having straightened out the general counsel on the federal regulations, Funk then called Triplett. He had solved the case, he told her, and the government should pay for the desk. Triplett reluctantly agreed to approve the expenditure. So the $1,442 desk is now government property, sitting in the Commerce Department waiting for the next high muckamuck who breaks his shoulder.

Meanwhile, Fearless Funk isn't through with Unger. He's currently investigating charges that the high-flying general counsel flew first-class to London when a cheaper seat was available, and also winged off to a fat farm at the taxpayers' expense. If Funk's past performance is any indication, he may solve this case by asking the government to provide Unger with a private plane.

Footnote: Through a spokeswoman, Funk said of the desk caper: "Each case is handled on its own merit. Here, a few phone calls established there was nothing wrong."

Swimming Becoming The Fitness Sport Of The 1980s

ORLANDO (UPI) — Put away your running shoes and grab your bathing suit, because swimming is becoming the fitness sport of the 1980s, so says author-swimmer Dr. Jane Katz.

Katz, who wrote "Swimming for Total Fitness: A Progressive Aerobic Program," is touring the nation to preach what she calls "the swim gospel."

"We want to tell people how to swim better. It's getting those basics to the people, so they can enjoy the water and swimming," said Katz.

"Swimming is good for you and more and more people are realizing it. As a matter of fact, a Nielsen survey shows that 102 million people are swimming today for fitness."

Swimming, she said, strengthens muscles on both sides of the body by exercising shoulders, the waistline, hips and legs. Unlike jogging and other land sports, swimming delivers the benefits of exercise without jarring muscles and bones.

"I'm prejudiced but I have never seen a runner smile," said Katz, spokeswoman for a leading chlorine company. "You feel good when you are in the water. It's refreshing and it gets you off your feet. You can never be too tired, too old or too heavy to take the plunge."

Katz, a professor and swim instructor at Bronx Community College in New York City, predicts "swimming will be the fitness sport of the 1980s."

"There are more adults that swim three times a week for fitness then there are joggers," she said. "With swimming, people feel better and their circulation improves after they work out. I just feel alive when I'm in the water."

Katz, 39, is not only a lecturer on the sport, but also a com-

Ties That Bind GOP

NORTH ADAMS, Mich. (UPI) - Economist Donald Lipsett is inextricably tied to the Reagan administration.

Lipsett spends a good portion of each working day fielding inquiries from Republicans in the White House or on Capitol Hill, but they're not looking for advice - they just want his Adam Smith neckties.

The neckties, emblazoned with a profile of the conservative political economist, have become a badge of allegiance for the Reagan administration and loyal Republicans on and off the George Schultz wore an Adam Smith tie when posing for a Time Magazine cover marking his recent appointment as . Secretary of State. They also are worn by Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, Sen. Jesse Helms, economist Milton Friedman and countless others.

When Jimmy Carter, Gerald Ford and Richard Nixon gathered at the White House with President Reagan before traveling to Egypt for Anwar Sadat's funeral, a photograph was take of presidential adviser Edward Meese standing between the unprecedented gathering of presidents and he was wearing, of course, an Adam Smith tie.

Not long after that historic occasion, Meese sent Lipsett a copy of the photo with this note on the back: "To Don - You wonder what I am doing in such distinguished company? Just showing off my Adam Smith necktle, of course."

Lipsett an wife. Norma, market the ties by mail order under the name of the Decatur Shop, housed in their stately brick home in North Adams, a small, sleepy southern Michigan

Lipsett came up with the idea in 1974 as a novelty to commemorate the 200th anniversary of Adam Smith's treatise on the free-market economy, "The Wealth of Nations," which coincided with the United States' Bicentennial celebration in and the rest, as they say, is history. "Luck has had a lot to do with it, being in the right place at the right time," Mrs. Lipsett said. "It really kicked in about a year ago."

1976. His wife, an accomplished wildlife-artist, designed the ties

Lipsett is familiar to many members of the Reagan administration through his early work with the American Conservative Union. It was when Reagan took office things really started booming, she said.

"We are receiving calls from all over the place," she said. "I didn't know how many Adam Smith fans there were. We didn't start out intending for this to happen."

Mrs. Lipsett estimated she and her husband have sold about 10,000 of the ties at $20 apiece. They come in four styles, all burgundy or navy blue with profiles of Smith in gold.

Skip Who For Governor?

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - Nick Longworth, the veteran political manager who is heading Rep. Skip Bafalis' campaign for governor, says he is not worried about polls showing his candidate trailing far behind Gov. Bob Graham in voter preference and name recognition.

Graham himself was a virtual unknown when he set out on his longshot bid for governor more than four years ago, Longworth notes.

More important, he says, Bafalis is running ahead of schedule on improving his name recognition and their own polls show Graham is vulnerable if voters have a viable At a time just two years after a conservative wave took control of the White House and the Senate, Bafalis' people believe the unashamedly conservative congressman is a viable alternative. The most recent independent poll, an MGT of America survey conducted in June, showed Bafalis trailing Graham by more than a 2-1 margin.

But the same poll showed Bafalis over 50 percent in name recognition for the first time. Bafalis, Longworth said, had not projected passing the 50 percent mark until August.

The Bafalis people are buoyed further by a campaign poll in April that showed 43 percent of the voters want Graham back in office. A solid 26 percent say no.

That would seem to give Graham a big edge, especially when independent polls give Bafalis no more than 23 percent of the vote.

But Longworth says no.

"I know from experience that anytime an incumbent is below 50 percent on the re-elect question, you've got a doggone good chance," he says.

Graham, he says, is perceived as a weak leader who is soft on crime and sat idly by and let then-President Carter "work his will" on the refugee question.

He says the election is one between a conservative and a classic "tax and spend liberal."

Bafalis hammered on all of those points when he announced his campaign two months ago, blaming Graham for the state's crime and refugee problems and scorching the governor for Another factor in Bafalis' favor is that the national Republican party has elevated the race to a high priority.

petitive swimmer and a member of the Swimming Hall of Fame in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. She swims about one and two miles every day at a pool in Harlem and is an AAU masters swimmer, a national competition for swimmers age 25 to 90.

She holds several world masters records in her age group. If that isn't enough, Katz is also involved in synchronized swimming, an art and ballet form of the sport which will be an event, for the first time, in the 1984 Olympics.

Katz said swimming not only helps your cardio-vascular system, but also enhances mental well-being and is an important tool in many rehabilitation programs.

"Swimming is getting backlashes because sports medicine experts send people with knee injuries and shin splints from jogging to the water for therapy," said Katz, who looks like a dolphin in the water. "There are always injury-prone problems with land sports. Here, you can move more freely, feel good and it's a family affair.'

If you swim every day for 30 to 45 minutes, you can burn up to 500 calories, depending on your size and how fast you swim, Katz said. In a week, she said, you would lose a pound of weight or 52 pounds a year.

Katz recommends the novice swimmer "start easy and build up, and then listen to your body and don't overdo it." She also recommends the beginner seek instruction from a qualified

"Most people don't know how to swim properly," Katz said. "They do what I call the 'Silver Springs Crawl,' thrashing their head wildly to each side and in two minutes they're pooped

"Any team that gets down 17-3 go to Tallahassee."

Pete Frazier felt after his spirited squad pulled off a stunning 20-18 come-from WAY-behind victory over the Sanford Little Major Tournament at Fort Mellon

"The team that really wanted to win won it," an ecstatic Frazier said. Ormond's victory forces a final game playoff to decide which team goes to the state tournament in Tallahassee. The District Title game will be played tonight at 7 at Fort Mellon Park.

Ormond Beach was on the verge of being blown out early as they trailed 17-3 going into the bottom of the fourth frame.

It was the second inning. The Sanford Junior All-Stars held a comfortable 6-2 lead on two hits, not one. The coach may be forgiven for his slight oversight.

Anyway, coach, relax. The worst was yet to come.

Get this. Sanford pushed across five runs in the bottom of the sixth inning without hitting the ball out of the infield to bewilder New Smyrna Beach, 11-8, in District 4 Junior Tournament action.

Tonight at 6, manager Pete Courlas' All-Stars tackle Holly Hill, a 12-4 loser to Ormond Beach in Thursday's second game when Kenny Connell's third-inning, grand-slam home run propelled Ormond.

"Sanford can beat these guys (Holly Hill)," said tournament director Doug Thomas. "I've seen both of them play and Holly Hill pitched their best guy

Despite Sanford's lack of aluminum power - only one of the locals four hits left the infield - aggressive base running made the difference between two clubs which had lost opening-round games.

New Smyrna seized a 2-0 lead against Sanford starter Brian Ashcraft in the first frame. Brian Span doubled past third and moments later scored all the way from second on an infield out. Richard Beauchamp singled and scored on Paul Mahoney's base hit for a 2-0

Sanford came right back. With two out, Bryan Debose walked, stole second and scored on two wild pitches. Donald Grayson, who like Debose hit a homer Sanford pulled its one-hit act again in the second. Dexter Franklin rapped a legitimate double over the right fielder's head to start the inning. Theron Liggins topped a ball down the first baseline and the catcher's throw glanced off "T.L.'s" shoulder allowing Franklin to score.

With no one out, Liggons tried to steal third and was tossed out. Ashcraft, though, rekindled the rally with a walk. Eddie Korgan and Alvin Jones did the same to load the bases.

Debose fanned for out number two. Grayson then worked the count to 3-2 and lifted a monstrous pop fly between home and the mound.

NSB pitcher Frank Freeman settled under the ball, but at the last instant Freeman and catcher Mahoney collided and the ball jumped out of Freeman's glove. With all the runners moving on the pitch, Ashcraft and Korgan scored easily while Jones alertly sprinted all the way home from first base. Three runs on a pop fly which traveled all of 30 feet for a 6-2 Sanford lead.

An inning later, Jimmy Hardy blasted a three-run double into left center to pull New Smyrna within, 6-5.

In the top of the fourth, the Beach retied the game on an RBI-single by Jimmy Merrick which dropped among three Sanford fielders in short right field to score Tony Plummer.

New Smyrna promptly snapped the deadlock when Span ripped a drive over the left center field fence. NSB added another run when Liggons overthrew Ashcraft (W) third on a steal attempt allowing Beauchamp to score.

Wiggins Left In Limbo By Release

Sanford's David Wiggins didn't know it it was good news or bad news.

The ex-Seminole High standout was released by the San Francisco Giants organization on June 29 when the Giants didn't feel his shoulder would respond after an operation.

"I didn't hardly have any reaction," Wiggins said recently about the move. "Of course I was upset, but my main worry now is if my shoulder is ever going to get better.'

Wiggins, who signed right after a spectacular high school career in 1978, injured his shoulder while sliding in spring training. The Giants will pay for any medical expenses incurred from the shoulder.

The injury has been diagnosed from everything as major as a rotator cuff to as minor as torn cartilage. Therapy has run the gamut too. First, rest was prescribed, then rehabilitation on Seminole Community College's weightlifting machines.

Earlier this week, Wiggins met with a roomful of physicians and the outcome was still the same — a mystery. The physicians did recommend, however, that Wiggins consult with Jimmy Andrew, a specialist in Columbus, Ga., in an attempt to get to the root of the problem.

Wiggins said Andrews will do an arthroscope on his shoulder which is an exploratory probing and correction method which is used primarily on the Wiggins is taking a wait and see approach.

"If everything turns out all right after the operation, I'd like to give baseball another shot," said Wiggins, 23. "But it would have to be on my terms. I wouldn't start at anything less than AA."

Until his injury this spring in Phoenix, the prep pitcher turned outfielder had turned in some pretty impressive credentials until he ran into a logjam in the AAA outfield.

It was 1981 and Wiggins tore 'em up in spring training with a .360 batting average. The blazing start earned him a spot on the Phoenix (AAA) roster with eventual major leaguers Jeff Leonard, Chili Davis and Max Venable - all outfielders Wiggins started the season with a 13game hitting streak and a .448 batting average. An achilles tendon injury, however, forced him out of the lineup for three weeks.

When he returned, Leonard, Davis and Venable - all command much larger salaries than Wiggins -- were firmly entrenched in the outfield. Despite a .306 average, he was farmed out to AA.

The blond-haired outfielder took the demotion hard. He went to Spreveport (AA) and sulked. He felt he was good enough to play AAA and his statistics seemed to warrant it.

Wiggins finished the season hitting .230. This year, however, Wiggins began the season with new optimism. Things didn't go right for his optimistic approach, thought. Once again at Shreveport, his car was broken into several times and the injury still nagged him.

"It was just never quite right," said Wiggins despite hitting two home runs in his first seven games.

The decision was made to send him home for rehabilitation. Then, the release came which put him in limbo. And, now, the waiting game con-

Mustang World Series Opens Tonight

Two Seminole Squads Host Tournament With Miami, Tampa Area Entries

Herald Sports Writer

An impressive but untested Seminole Mustang (nine and 10-year-olds) National League All-Star team will begin play tonight in the Florida Mustang World Series which will be held in its entirety at the Seminole Pony Baseball Complex near Winter Springs.

The National League Stars, managed by Bob Mauro and his assistants Jim Mocny and Greg Twiggs, drew a bye into the tournament by virtue of the National League's Pop's Pirates victory in the Seminole Mustang regular-season championship playoff.

The Seminole Mustang American League All-Stars, managed by Gene Oliver and his assistants Nat Reyes and Larry Cole, will also be in the Mustang World Series after claiming the District Championship with two straight wins over the Semoran All-Stars.

They will play tonight at 7 on the Bronco Field.

The National League has the pitching and offensive punch and now Mauro and his squad are working on defense. "We are working exceptionally hard on players in new positions."

Seminole's Mustang National League All-Stars, meanwhile, are fresh from a sweep of Semoran (13-7 and 11-2) in the District Tournament last week.

Manager Oliver's gang is a heavyhitting crew paced by the explosive bats of Brad Black, Matt Tickle, Ethan Bauer, Patrick Newell, Todd Harrell, Donny Bryan, Jeff Livernois and Lance Reyes.

Black, a power-hitting outfielder, clubbed two home runs against Semoran and smacked two other balls off the fence. Reyes had two doubles in the championship game and Livernois, just a nine-year-old, turned in a good defensive effort behind the plate in both games.

Bauer was the Mustangs' most effective pitcher, turning in an excellent relief job in the final game against Semoran.

The double-elimination tournament, called the "Little World Series" is one of the most prestigious youth baseball tourneys in the state.

EUSTIS — Altamonte's one-two punch of Scott Underwood and Rod Metz proved to be too much for West Oak Ridge Thursday night as the Senior League All- from the second inning until Underwood Stars escaped with a narrow 4-3 win in the District 14 Tournament.

Underwood erased a 1-0 West Oak Ridge lead when he unloaded a three-run homer to deep right field in the bottom of the fifth inning and, after West Oak Ridge tied it in the top of the seventh, Underwood scored the winning run in the bottom of the seventh on Metz' two-out single to right. Derek Livernois went the distance on the mound and recorded the victory with 11 strikeouts and only three walks. Mike Owens absorbed the loss for West Oak Ridge, striking out five and walking five. Altamonte and West Oak Ridge clash straight batters and two runs scored in the process.

BOSTON — The ball wasn't falling in the basket for Florida Wednesday as coach Bill Moore's AAU-Jr. Olympics Girls' 15 and under basketball team dropped a 46-35 decision to Michigan in the National AAU-Jr. Olympics basketball tournament.

Ron Blake came in for McCloud, threw seven straight balls, and was taken out. Blake was relieved by Willie Grayson with still one out and the bases loaded. Grayson also had trouble and by then, the disease had spread throughout the entire Sanford defense.

All told in the fourth Orinond scored 14 times on seven hits and there were five Sanford errors.

The Nationals were set down in order in the fifth by Ormond reliever Jeff Grodi, who picked up the win.

Ormond Beach scored run number 18 in the bottom of the fifth when Scott Stipsits reached on a fielder's choice, stole both second and third and scored when Grayson's (Sanford's catcher) throw tipped off Edward Gordon's glove for an error and dribbled into left field. Gordon erased Ormond's lead, though, when he slapped a two-out single in the top of the sixth to plate Tarance Carr with the tying run.

Ormond's tremendous comeback all but wiped out a controversial call that occurred earlier in the game.

Sanford led 3-2 going into the third inning, and, after Todd Revels walked. Gordon sliced a curving liner that cleared the right field fence inches inside (or outside?) the foul pole.

First base umpire Henry "Press" Debose signaled home run but home plate umpire Rick Russi "adamantly yelled out foul, foul," according to Gary Taylor.

After a long skull session between the umpires (Bob Hartman was the third base ump) Russi ruled Gordon's shot a homer. Ormond Beach coach Lowell Lohman stormed out of the dugout to dispute the call and was eventually ejected from the game. Ormond Beach filed a protest but Taylor settled things when he pointed out that in the rule book, "on conflicting calls, the home plate umpire makes the decision, if he feels the other umpire had a better view then he can go with that

The Nationals ended up scoring six runs in the third and home runs by Grayson, Revels and Jeff Blake paved the way for the nine run fourth and a 17-3 Sanford lead.

Besides Madden's game winning homer, Ormond Beach also got round trippers from Grodi, Benji Fricke and Jay Lendway.

Ormond Beach out-hit Sanford 13-12 and had key defensive games from Madden at third and Fricke at short. Sanford will go with fireballing righthander Leonard Lucas tonight.

It would be the only ball hit past the pitcher in the whole inning which saw 11 batters stride to the plate.

Jones stole second and third before Debose and Grayson, after hitting a 325foot shot five feet foul, both drew free bases to load the bases.

Dewaine Mitchell, who turned in three nice fielding plays on slow rollers at shortstop, walked to force in the first run. Mike Wright dribbled one toward the pitcher whose throw to the plate was too late to catch Debose for an 8-8 tie.

Franklin then was hit by a pitch to force home Grayson for a 9-8 lead. Liggons hit another roller to the pitcher who fumbled the ball which allowed Mitchell to score. Ashcraft then drew a free pass to force in the inning's final fun for an 11-8 lead.

Thoroughly demoralized, New Smyrna Beach was putty in Ashcraft's hand in the seventh, going down 1-2-3 - two of which were strikeouts.

The blond-haired right-hander fanned seven hitters while going the distance. He walked only two and retired the final three hitters in NSB's order, 10-of 11

Burns Baffles Blue Jays; Yankees Edge Texas, 4-3

United Press International

Jerry Koosman's experience and Britt Burns' arm is a parlay that could send the Chicago White Sox off to the races.

"Koosman told me to start using my slider and save it for certain situations," Burns explained Thursday, after pitching the Chicago White Sox to a 3-2 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays. "I had a good fast ball going tonight, but it wasn't the only pitch I used."

Burns struck out a personal seasonhigh eight and walked none in pitching his third complete game of the season. He scattered nine hits in defeating Toronto for the fourth time ir. his career without a loss.

Chicago Manager Tony LaRussa credited Burns with pitching as strong as he has all season.

"I felt he pitched as well as he has all year, and I felt I saw him have better control with his pitches tonight...." LaRussa said.

Jerry Hairston, who started the game in left field, sliced a bases-loaded, tworun single with one out in the eighth. Hairston's single off reliever Joey McLaughlin, 8-4, delivered pinch-runner Ron LeFlore and Rudy Law and made a winner of Burns, 10-4.

Pinch-hitter Steve Kemp drew a oneout walk to start the rally. LeFlore, running for Kemp, went to third on Law's Toronto took a 2-1 lead in the seventh. Alfredo Griffin lined a two-out single, went to third on a single by Damaso Garcia and scored on Garth lorg's single.

The Blue Jays tied the score, 1-1, in the third. Garcia singled with two out, stole second and third and scored when shortstop Bill Almon booted Iorg's grounder.

The White Sox scored a run in the first when Law singled, stole second and went to third on catcher Buck Martinez's throwing error. He scored on Bernazard's infield out.

In the only other game in the major leagues, New York shaded Texas, 4-3. At New York, Dave Winfield had two

Bulls Peddle Gilmore To Spurs

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Bulls believe they have made the San Antonio Spurs an instant contender for the NBA championship while at the same time putting themselves on the right path toward respectability.

The catalyst for the changes was the swapping Thursday of veteran 7-foot-2 center Artis Gilmore from the Bulls to the Spurs, for center Dave Corzine and forward Mark Olberding.

Gilmore, among the career leaders for the Bulls in nearly every offensive category, had asked to be dealt from Chicago. Corzine had signed an offersheet with New Jersey, forcing the Spurs to match the offer, trade him or lose him without compensation.

"We feel ... with this trade we are headed in the right direction," said Chicago General Manager Rod Thorn.

Basketball

"We have had good players here before but we haven't had the right chemistry. It is not just who has the five best players but the five who interact the best."

Corzine, 26, had signed a contract offer sheet with New Jersey for a reported $600,000 earlier this month. San Antonio matched the Nets' offer by signing the former DePaul star, then traded him to the Bulls along with the 26-year old Olberding.

Thorn conceded the Spurs had agreed to pick up a "certain portion" of Corzine's five-year contract. San Antonio had until next Wednesday to decide what to do with Corzine.

"He's a class guy and a terrific individual," Thorn said of Gilmore. "He's going to a team that has a good run at a championship."

Thorn indicated he believed Corzine would likely move into the starting spot although the final decision would be up to new Coach Paul Westhead.

In Corzine, Chicago will be getting a 6foot-11 center who is considered a better passer than Gilmore. However, Corzine has never approached Gilmore's offensive statistics in his career.

Gilmore owns a career scoring average of more than 20 points per game since he joined the Bulls in 1976 after he played with Kentucky in the now-defunct ABA.

"I don't see myself taking Artis' place," said Corzine, who was traded by Washington to San Antonio in September, 1980, for two second-round draft picks.

Mr. C's knocked off the Orlando Pioneers, 81-72, Thursday night at Oak Ridge High School to cap a perfect Summer League season with a 12-0 record. Payne, who took the basketball coaching position at Seminole Community College and will be reptaced by Chris Marlette, received a strong all-around goingaway present from Calvin "Kiki" Bryant.

The 6-1 all-conference wingman fired in 22 points and pulled down 14 rebounds to lead the Seminole effort. 'He sure was doing some rebounding," said teammate Vernon Law in awe. "When Willie Mitchell was on the bench it seems like he got every one."

Mitchell tossed in 18 points and grabbed 12 boards. Torie Hendricks (14), Jimmy Gilchrist (12) and Law (10) completed the double-figure scoring. Law had seven assists.

In junior varsity action, James Rouse threw in 22 points but Mr. C's lost to Orlando, 94-71.

Kenny Gordon dominated the backboards with 14 rebounds plus 16 points. Rod Alexander tallied 14 markers and freshman Daryl Williams handed out eight assists.

In action Tuesday, the varsity knocked off Lake Howell, 79-55, and the junior varsity tripped the Silver Hawks, 64-51. The JV finished 7-4.

Super 8 Hits For $8,000

Here comes the Zipper. For the third time since the return of the Super 8 race at Seminole Greyhound Park returned on July 2, a big winner walked away with a whopping prize for picking the exact order of finish.

David Savitz of Orlando correctly picked the 8-2-3-4-6-7-1-5 finish during the 12th race of Wednesday's matinee performance. For his expert Greyhound prognostications Savitz took home an $8,000 check from the track, the largest of the Super 8 payoffs this

The Super 8 purse now goes back to $5,000 with $250 added each performance the Super 8 remains unhit.

Little Poison' Waner Dies After Illness

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) - Lloyd Waner, the last of the Hall of Fame "Poison" brothers of the Pittsburgh Pirates outfield, died Thursday. He was 76.

Lloyd, the "Little Poison" of the brothers who were born in Harrah, Okla., played in the major leagues for 18 years and was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1967. Brother Paul, known as "Big Poison," spent 20 years in the majors and was elected Lloyd, who had been ill for about a year, died of pneumonia and emphysema at an Oklahoma City hospital.

A funeral was scheduled Saturday in Oklahoma City, where he had lived since retiring from baseball in the early 1940s. Other than George and Harry Wright, the Waners are the only brothers to be enshrined in the Hall of Fame.

New York Rangers — Appointed The younger Waner idolized his brother, and when told he had made it into the Hall of Fame, said, "I just wish my brother Paul was here to share it."

The "Poison" names were coined when a fan with an eastern accent called Lloyd a little person, Waner's son recalled. "I believe it was in New York," Waner said. "A fellow in the stands with his Yankee accent talked about Lloyd being a 'little poison.' He and his brother were known from then on as 'Little Poison' and 'Big Poison.'"

The pair played in the Pittsburgh outfield for 14 years, combining for 5,611 hits, almost 1,000 more than the five Dalahanty brothers achieved and 500 more than the three DiMaggios made.

Paul and Lloyd spent 12 weeks on the Vaudeville circuit after the Pirates won the 1927 pennant and were swept in four games by the New York Yankees in the World Series. "We got $2,100 a week, which was really big money in those days," Lloyd said. "The most I made in a season was $13,500. The master of ceremonies was Jack Benny." It was Lloyd's bad fortune to have the best look at Gabby Harnett's renowned home run, the shot that enabled the Chicago Cubs to overtake the Pirates as the 1938 pennant race drew to a close. "It went right over my head," Lloyd recalled. "I saw it in my sleep for a long time. I know I didn't move - I looked around disgusted. I knew it was gone." Lloyd Waner holds the record for the most hits in a rookie season with 223 in 1977. Of that total, 198 were singles, a majorleague record.

Man Digging Grave With His Teeth?

DEAR DR. LAMB - I've got a real problem with my husband. He is 20 to 30 pounds overweight and simply will not cut down on what he eats. When I try to serve light meals he just goes to the store and buys some bologna or other cold cuts, some milk and comes home and eats it. He says he just doesn't feel right if his stomach is empty. I say he is digging his grave with his teeth.

It is obvious that I am not going to satisfy him with just a salad and a bowl of soup. He says that if I don't serve meat he will just have to get something to eat elsewhere. Do you have any suggestions?

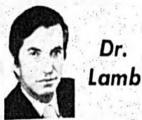

DEAR READER - Many people have trouble losing weight because they do not feel satisfied with small meals. But you don't need to eat small meals to cut down on calories. How many calories are in the food you eat depends a lot on how the food is prepared. I call it kitchen power, not willpower.

If he really likes to eat a lot start him off with a large howl of light soup or consomme, but go easy on the salt. Avoid the cream soups or those that contain fat. Keep in mind that your goal is to eliminate all the excess fat and sweets you can. That is where the calories are.

Follow that with a leafy salad with a low-calorie salad dressing. You can make your own with a little oil and vinegar and spices but avoid those high-calorie dressings.

Then serve him lean meat with all the fat removed or baked or broiled fish or broiled chicken with the skin removed. Don't fry. For vegetables serve him plenty of the low-calorie items such as green beans or cabbage without added butter or sauces. Finally, if he must have a dessert serve him fresh fruit.

There are lots of hidden fats, such as those in breakfast rolls, commercial mixes and toppings. Desserts are often a major source of fats.

I have outlined how to eliminate fats and sweets from all the four basic food groups in The Health Letter number 9-12, Kitchen Power-Weight Control, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, selfaddressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City

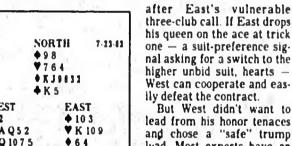

Station, New York, NY 10019. DEAR DR. LAMB - I would like some information on trichomoniasis. I understand this is a sexually transmitted disease. How does this disease affect both males and females if untreated for a long period of time? Is there any evidence that it may cause cancer of the cervix? DEAR READER -Trichomoniasis is a rather common vaginal infection. It may cause a yellowish. sometimes blood-tinged discharge, although there are many other causes for a discharge. It is a parasite belonging to the same type of organisms as amoeba. It can involve the urethra, bladder and the prostate in the male.

An infection may be asymptomatic or it may cause painful urination or a discharge in a female. Since it may infect both males and females, treating a woman's discharge caused by trichomoniasis and not the man will result in re-infection, so called "Ping-Pong vaginitis." Both partners be should treated simultaneously. Flagyl is commonly used in treatment but should not be used during

One of the first rules every bridge player must learn is "third hand high." There are exceptions to this rule, but they are difficult to recognize.

On today's hand the defense can take the first four tricks against South's four-spade game. West should lead the ace of clubs

But West didn't want to lead from his honor tenaces and chose a "safe" trump lead. Most experts have an aversion to singleton trump leads. They are afraid to finesse partner's possible trump holding or give declarer a vital tempo. After the opening trump lead was covered by dummy's nine, it was up to East. If he automatically covered with the 10 as many players would, South would easily make 10 tricks. South wins the ace of spades. Then he cashes the diamond ace and enters dummy with the eight of spades to discard a losing heart or club on the diamond king.

East, however, was no slave to rules. He knew from the bidding that South had a long spade suit. He correctly surmised that there could be no possible gain for the defense if he wasted the 10 of spades. After he played low, declarer was finished. Proper defense held South to his obvious nine tricks eight trumps and one

diamond. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Gardening

Diseases, Weeds And Nematodes Easily Controlled

Vegetable gardening is a popular pastime in Florida. Many Floridians, now growing their own vegetables, find it gratifying to display their skills. Unfortunately, many gardeners have experienced failures because of diseases and nematodes.

Disease causing organisms such as fungi, bacteria, nematodes and viruses are some of the greatest enemies of a gardener. These pests can not only ruin a garden but also can discourage a gardener. What makes this situation worse is that in most cases you cannot see these organisms - you see only the damage they cause.

You must also consider weeds germinating in the garden. As you know. weeds can be a very troublesome and time consuming problem for the garthermore, they can be controlled easily and without a major drain on the pocketbook.

Soil Preparation:

The soil should be moist and in excellent seedbed condition before fumigation. All previously applied organic matter and crop residues should be decomposed.

When to Treat:

The best time to treat is 2-4 weeks prior to planting. Soils can be effectively furnigated when the soil temperature is between 50 degrees and 80 degrees F. at a of row (undiluted). six inch depth. Below 50 degrees, the chemicals do not volatilize and spread throughout the soil properly; above 80 degrees, funigants tend to escape too rapidly from the soil.

Evening Herald, Sanford, Fl.

Fumigants to Use:

Two materials most commonly available in small containers for the home garden are: D-D, and Vapam (registered trademark). However, these have their advantages and disadvantages.

1. Apply at least two weeks prior to planting. 2. Can be mixed with kerosene or mineral spirits for dilution. 3. Will control only nematodes.

4. Available as a liquid.

5. Must be applied in a 6-inch furrow and covered with soil immediately.

6. Can be used for all crops. 7. Rate to use: 1 cup of liquid per 100 ft.

and pack it by walking over the row. Apply about 12-inch of water to help seal soil. If using Vaparn cover with plastic. Make a shallow trench around the outer edge of area to be treated. This trench is to be used to seal down the edge of the plastic. Precautions to Take:

1. DO NOT apply D-D or Vapam near trees, shrubs or other living plants. Use only for pre-plant application.

2. These chemicals are toxic to humans. DO NOT get on skin or in eyes. Avoid breathing fumes.

The vegetable garden should be fumigated once a year to keep nematode population levels low. The quality and yield will be much better if the soil is treated.

4. Fill the furrow immediately with soil known in Florida as "pig weed." Several species of Amaranthus are used for food in different parts of the Tropics and the Mediterranean.

Leaves of the different species or varieties are either red, variegated, or green. The green form of A. gangeticus I., is most commonly cultivated for use as boiled greens. It is an upright branched annual. The young leaves and stem tips are ready to eat 3 to 6 weeks after the seed is sown. Seeds can be popped and eaten like popcorn. There is a red-leaved species (probably A. tricolor L.).

Amaranth or Chinese spinach grows well and rapidly at all altitudes in the West Indies. The green-leaved variety, Tampala, which can be obtained from United States seedsmen, is satisfactory. Direct broadcast seeding is practiced and the seedlings are thinned when quite young to 3 inches apart. The thinnings can be used for greens. Tampala may be killed by cold, so grow it in warm weather.

Energy Conservation Show

A Home Energy Conservation Show will be held this weekend at the Winter Park Mall. Show hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. today and Saturday, and from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m.

The purpose of the show is to afford the public the opportunity to find out the many and different ways that they can conserve energy in their own homes in both hot and cold weather. It is a non-commercial show comprised of utilities, energy-related associations, educational institutions and governmental groups. One of the show's highlights will be Florida Power Corporation's Traveling Energy Saver Show (TESS), a huge display trailer incorporating many exhibits and demonstrations to inform customers how they can save energy and money in their homes.

The Masters Five' Appearing Tonight

The Masters V is just what the name implies-great artists

The talented quartet will appear tonight, at 7:30 p.m., in the Oviedo High School auditorium. Sponsoring the singers is the B. J. Johnson Ministries Inc. of Geneva.

The names, James Blackwood, Hovie Lister, Jake Hess, J. D. Sumner and Rozie Rozell, are better known than any name of any major quartet or personality in gospel music.

For the best in nostalgia, talent, voices, showmanship, sincerity and laughter, meet these five superstars tonight.

Belinda Henson came back from a week's stay at New Smyrna Beach brown as a berry.

Belinda and her children, Shawn, Arny and Katie joined her mom, Jean Bays, and her brother and his family, Rick and Belinda Bays, Heather and Tyler, all from West Virginia, for a week of fun in the sun, while Belinda's husband, Glen, "held

O.A. Gives Obese Woman New Identity, New Friends

DEAR ABBY: My brother, knowing I am a Dear Abby fan, gave me your bock, "The Best of Dear Abby," for Christmas. I will be forever grateful to you for one letter on Page 205 in the chapter, "The Sad Ones."

It was from a 23-year-old woman who weighed 326 pounds, was a drug addict, a prostitute and a divorced mother of three on welfare. You advised her to go to Overeaters Anonymous. She went, and in her letter she said, "Today I've lost 121 pounds and I'm still losing. I'm drug-free and I'm learning to like myself. I have a responsible job, a belief in a power greater than myself, and the love and respect of my children and people who believed in me when I didn't believe in myself. After sinking so low, Overeaters Anonymous gave me a chance to be what I've always wanted to be. A lady. Thank you for sending me there."

Well, thank God, I didn't have all her problems, but I did identify with one - I was nearly 100 pounds overweight and had spent most of my 34 years losing weight and gaining it back.

I went to Overeaters Anonymous, and since Christmas I have lost 55 pounds and made a whole new circle of loving, caring

Please give O.A. a boost whenever you can. The organization deserves it.

CARRIE C. IN INDIANA DEAR CARRIE: I've given O.A., so many "boosts," I've been accused of being on its payroll. However, it deserves all the boosts I've given. And more.

DEAR ABBY: Last Tuesday I buried

my husband of 33 years, and on Friday an invitation to a wedding came in the mail addressed to him alone - just like he never even had a wife. It was a nice one with fancy print, and I never heard John mention any of the names that appeared on this invitation. It had a "RSVP" card enclosed with a little envelope already stamped to say whether he's coming or

Here's where you come in, Abby. Should I write: (1) John is dead now, so please don't expect him, and please don't expect a present either, because widows don't send gifts to strangers. Or should I write: (2) Don't plan on John for the wedding. Or (3) should I just ignore the invitation since it wasn't sent to me? WHAT TO DO

DEAR WHAT: I opt for No. 3.

DEAR ABBY: Re. the letter signed 'Concerned Daughter," whose poor, elderly parents had been in an automobile accident, sued and collected a sizable amount of money, whereupon their "churchgoing lawyer-friend" said he needed to "borrow" it and promptly pocketed all the money: You suggested they engage an ethical lawyer to retrieve their money.

There is a faster and easier solution: The old couple should contact the ethics committee of their state bar association.

The bar association is empowered to compel the dishonest lawyer to return all the money, and also to censure him, suspend him from practice for a period, or even to disbar him completely. This service will not cost the old couple one down the fort" - and his job - in Geneva. Belinda says everyone had a good time, but as with most vacations, "It is good to be home."

Karin Cochran says the summer activities program being held every Thursday at the Geneva Elementary School from 9 a.m. until noon is very well attended. This past Thursday the children participating were given a guided tour of the Geneva

Next week, Karin is hopeful that McDonald's will be bringing a safety movie for the children's viewing pleasure.

The activities program is being hosted by the Dividend mothers and will be held each Thursday through Aug. 19. It is designed so that each week's activities are "complete" therefore, if you miss a week, or start coming in the middle of the summer, it won't matter.

Call Karin for more information at 349-5888.

Have you been on a picnic yet this summer? Our community is surrounded with three good parks, each providing tables and scenic settings.

The first is the well-known Lake Mills Park in Chuluota. Then there is Mullett Lake Park, down on the beautiful St. Johns. And, last but not least, our own Ft. Lane Park on Lake

Why not pack up the kids, the cooler, and some sun tan lotion for a change of pace, and enjoy the beauty this is available.

Just a reminder that Martha Lochte of Geneva still parks the Bookmobile at the Geneva Post Office every Thursday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

What a privilege to have books at your fingertips. I'm sure Martha would appreciate a "rush" at her door next week.

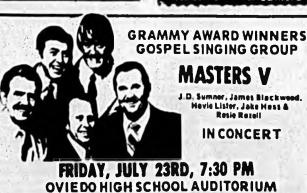

Did you notice the latest landmark in Geneva? It is at the corner of Avenue C and Old Osceola. Anyone coming into the community looking for the Lighthouse Youth Ranch will know they are at the right place when they see the four or five foot replica of a lighthouse that is now in the front yard there.

Salvation Army Donations Are Eyesore

By DORIS DIETRICH PEOPLE Editor

The Salvation Army in Sanford will probably never turn its back on a person

Nor will the staff look a gift horse in the mouth. The Army has an open door policy toward the needy and usable donations of any type

But, please, no more junk and garbage. A drop box located on the Salvation Army premises, Holly Avenue and 24th Street, is a serious eyesore that mars not only the appearance of the sparkling facility, but gives a bad flavor to the surrounding neighborhood.

And it is upsetting to Capt. Michael Waters and his wife and full-time assistant, Capt. Beverly Waters, who took command of the Sanford Salvation Army post on June 23.

The harsh truth of the matter is that the Army has to dig into its already depleted treasury to pay the costs im-anyone about this.'

Acknowledging that some of the items deposited in the drop box are unusable. Mrs. Waters ruefully notes that it costs $5 to $7 per load to dispose of the junk at the dump, noting that the Army averages. two trips a week to dump the unusable

Capt. Michael Waters said he couldn't blame the neighbors for complaining Even garbage has been deposited in the

"I wouldn't want to live in a neighborhood like this, either," he said

"It looks bad for us as well as the neighborhood," Mrs. Waters said "We certainly don't want to offend anyone about this."

And the Army is in continuing need of mattresses, beds and good usable furniture for welfare clients in low-income housing units. Mrs. Waters added. "These items are graciously accepted

Do TV Suicides Inspire Them?

SAN DIEGO (UPI)-When soap opera characters attempt or commit suicide on television, the nation's suicide rate climbs, says a sociologist who compared health statistics against the story lines of daytime TV dramas.

David P. Phillips of the University of California at San Diego also said Monday, fatal car crashes increase after television suicides and his study indicates these wrecks may be disguised

The findings are based on a computer survey of health statistics and newspaper summaries of 13 attempted or successful suicides in soap opera episodes, said Phillips, whose study will appear in Thursday's edition of the American Journal of Sociology.

"There was an increase of at least 127 suicides and 161 motor-vehicle fatalities immediately following soap-opera suicide stories," Phillips said.

Phillips conceded the evidence is too preliminary to justify undue concern about content of the daytime shows, and he said the correlation may be a statistical illusion since there is no way of knowing whether the real-life suicide victims ever watched soap operas.

His study found city-dwelling women are the most likely to try to kill themselves in the event of a fictional suicide on a

He claims in the article his study "presents the first systematic evidence that violent, fictional television stories trigger imitative deaths (suicides) and near-fatal accidents in the United States."

Phillips suggested many soap-opera viewers strongly identify with their video favorites, as attested to by the amount of mail received by the fictional characters offering advice as if the soap operas were real life.

The computer survey was based on 1977 records from the National Center for Health Statistics and the California High-

Groping Toward Economic Order

NEW YORK (UPI) — After spending $95 million in 30 years on grants for economic research, leaders of the Ford Foundation have decided that the free enterprise world really is groping towards a new economic order.

The foundation recently published a booklet summarizing its economic research entitled "The Search for a New Economic Order."

Robert Tolles of the foundation, who wrote the booklet, conceded the title may be somewhat misleading because the conclusions in many instances dealt more with international problems than with a basically new economic order.

Nevertheless, much of the work did deal with basic economic questions having little to do with international problems. For example, Columbia University's labor economist, Eli Ginzberg, who also is chairman of the National Commission on Manpower Policy, concluded that the single outstanding economic phenomenon of the twentieth century, more important than the development of the automobile or aviation or nuclear power, was the vast movement of women into every level of the working force.

Another that dealt with fundamental economics was the work of Michael J. Piore of MIT and other younger economists in the Cambridge, Mass., area on defining the differences between the primary and secondary sectors of the American labor market and the way this division "creates many of our economic wees, including persistent high inflation, unemployment and a failoff in capital investment and productivity."

The primary labor market is composed, Piore and his colleagues say, of the better educated full-time workers and employment and wages in this sector are relatively stable.

The secondary market is composed of disadvantaged ethnic Piore and his colleagues argue that this division of the labor force caused U.S. industry not to expand its plants and hire more full-time, well-educated workers in the 1960s and 1970s, but instead to use worn-out or obsolescent plants, run them overtime and staff them on a labor-intensive basis with cheap workers who could be laid off easily when demand for products fell. Piore blames the uncertainties created by the war in Vietnam, the recurrent oil crises and global inflation for the adoption of these short-term, short-sighted policies.

Many of the projects dealt with international problems created by the growing demands of the underdeveloped and less developed countries, the world energy crisis and the power of OPEC, the enormous impact on American industry and business of the growing interdependence of the world economy, the phenomenal rise in overall international trade, the growing complications and contradictions of international currency translations and the puzzling aspects of foreign aid.

Every area of the world was studied and the grants for research went to universities throughout the world; the largest number to scholars in American universities.

Tolles told United Press International that, in concluding that the free enterprise world is groping towards a new basic economic order, the foundation's leaders feel they must continue to support this research and possibly step it up because a much better understanding is needed of how economics really works. Perhaps the most significant conclusion to be drawn from the foundation's research projects is tha "he traditional tools of economic management do not seem to be working" any

Getting Some Sun? Learn Not To Burn

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

It's summertime and Floridians and tourists alike are heading for the beaches, tennis courts, pools and golf courses and working on getting a good suntan.

As a result, many will be suffering from sunburn and peeling skin while others will manage to turn a lovely bronze.

The secret of getting a tan rather than a burn may be whether one uses a sunscreen while soaking up a few rays.

Although sunscreens and suntan lotions are not always necessary to get a healthful looking suntan, they do permit you to remain outdoors in the sun longer without burning and also help reduce the danger of skin cancer, according to Phil DeLisle, consumer safety officer with the local office of the Florida Department of Agriculture (FDA).

Delisle says lotion-less suntans are possible by gradually increasing exposure to the sun over a two-week period. But that depends upon a person's ability to tan and whether, ones skin cooperates during a daily bout with the tropical sun.

He suggests that persons choose the sunscreen product best suited for their skin type, coloring and tanning history.

The rating system on suntan products originated in Europe and was adopted in the United States a few years ago on recommendation of the Food and Drug Administration.

The scale runs from 2 to 15, and refers to the products' sun protection factor, DeLisle says. Screening products absorb, reflect or scatter the sun's potentially harmful ultraviolet rays, he says. The higher the protection factor number, the more protection the product provides.

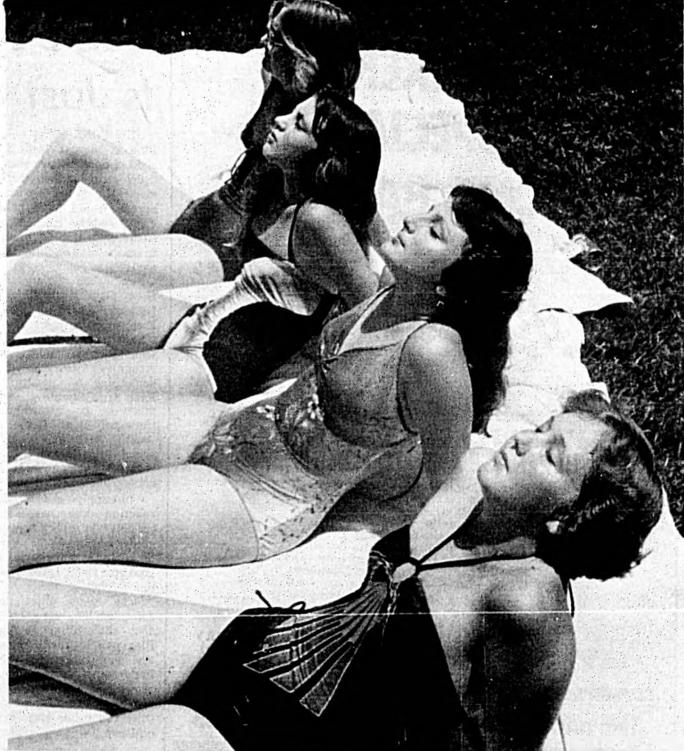

DeLisle says the minimal rating of 2 to 4 on a product would be for persons who seldom burn, but tan well. It would offer minimal protection.

At the other end of the scale would be the 15 protection factor, an ultra rating for those who burn easily and have difficulty tanning. Products with such a rating would provide almost total blockage of the sun's rays, he says.

In between are the moderate rating of 4 to 6 for those who need extra protection from sunburn and the maximal rating of 8 to 15, for products that permit little or no tanning, Delisle says.

For an even tan, DeLisle recommendes combining a sunscreen and a tanning lotion for sunbathing. The sunscreen could be used on sensitive areas, such as nose, lips, shoulders, feet and upper chest, and a tanning lotion on over that. The sunscreen would block out the burning rays while the tanning agent would enhance a quick safe tan.

It is best to avoid being in the sun from noon to 2 p.m. when the sun's burning power is at its peak, he says.

July 25 Prognosis Favorable For New Cable Health System

industry received a shot in the arm when yet another new programming service the Cable Health Network went on the satellite June 30.

CHN, a 24-hour-a-day network currently available to about 4 million viewers, is like a giant health-and lifestyles video magazine.

Its 22 regular segments include "Human Sexuality," "The Sporting Life," "Regis Philbin's Health Styles,"

"The Do or Diet Show," "Mommy, Daddy and Me," "Crisis Counselor" and "Medical Marvels." The theme throughout is inspirational - according to CHN chairman Dr. Art Ulene, the goal is to use television to motivate people to help themselves.

"We have entered an era of 'lifestyle diseases' - high blood pressure, obesity, alcoholism, heart disease.

This is an area of health care over which each of us has some control. We are not out to keep people away from doctors' offices, only to teach A Rock Opera

About Monroe

NEW YORK - Marilyn Monroe is due for some more immortality. Now written and scored is a Broadway rock opera, "A Fable of Marilyn," plus a signed, sealed and confirmed MCA album plus a deal for Universal to make this into a move... Those legal hassles betwixt Jacqueline Onassis her nemesis, photographer Ron Gallela. not only caused a courtenforced DMZ between Jackie and Gallela, they also caused Mr. G. to moan recently, "Jackie broke us. I don't know if we'll ever get out of debt again."... While Maggie Thatcher plots what to do with the Falklands now that she's got them, son Mark, 28, is weighing two offers to join teams for his third Le Mans road race. Decisions, decisions.

There's an abstract slatewood-marble polygon sitting on 52nd Street & Park Avenue with an occasional notice stuck onto it or an occasional message scrawled on its blackboardlike slate. It's only there until Aug. 21. Then anyone with a big living room can negotiate with Don Gummer, Meryl Streep's sculptor husband.

CHN, which has a medical advisory board to monitor the credibility of its programs, says it wants to be a forum for open discussion on controversial health-related issues. But since the network is advertiser-supported, it remains to be seen just how far it will go.

A sampling of CHN programs shown at a recent press conference seemed entertaining and informative, though not drastically original. A show called "Real Life Stories," which profiles actual families who have overcome traumas, has a trueconfessions feel. The press clipping focused on a husband father recovering from a heart attack and bankruptcy. The idea behind the "Crisis Counselor" program is once again to show people solving problems. But it uses actors to dramatize case studies

The thriving cable TV them to use doctors more "wife" have an emotional argument about the wife's mastectomy while a sympathetic "therapist" offers guidance. Time will tell if CHN - unlike life chooses to write a happy ending for every episode.

> "Are You Listening" is a much more realistic rap session for contemporary problems. In the sample a group of widows (real ones) discussed life without their spouses. Among the "hard news" programs, there are "Medical Marvels," which takes you right into the operating room to report on medical advances, and "Cable Health World Report," a health-andscience related newscast.

CHN looks promising, as long as its series remain fresh. We already know that individual programs will have multiple showings throughout the day (a practice common in cable). But we can only hope that the same themes will not keep reappearing as the netand this can get sticky. In the work's scriptwriters use up sample a "husband" and life's store of tragedies.

MONDAY

Beauty Contest Airs Via Lima (Peru) Beams

When CBS televises the "1982 Miss Universe Pageant" live from Lima, Peru on Monday, July 26, it will mark the first time ever that the pageant has been held in South America.

The Amauta Coliseum, a converted bull ring, is the site for the 31st pageant which will be hosted by Bob Barker, John Van Ark of "Knots Landing" will be the television hostess and John Schneider of "The Dukes of Hazzard" will appear as the musical guest star.

It is estimated that an international television audience of more than 700 million viewers will be watching as last year's winner, Irene Saez of Venezuela, presents her crown to new Miss Universe. Approximately 80 of the world's most beautiful women, including Miss USA, Terri Utley from Cabot,

Ark., will by vying for the

The 12 judges for this year's pageant include: actor Franco Nero, New York Rangers hockey player Ron Duguay, Broadway producer David Merrick, magician David Copperfield, former ''Hollywood Squares" host Peter Marshall and actress Sally Kellerman.

Miss Universe The cluding $75,000 in cash plus a Pageant may be a once-ayear event for television viewers, but to the pageant's executive producer Harold Glasser, it's a year-round responsibility. Glasser and his staff of 25 - which increases to 150 during the pageant - have been working on this year's event since last October.

"We are committed to a standard of excellence," says Glasser, from his New York City office. "The contestants are treated in the best way possible. We do everything possible to maintain the extremely high standards of CBS and the Miss Universe Pageant.

"At a time when criticisms are being leveled at television because of sex and violence," Glasser says, "the important thing is that the Miss Universe Pageant can be watched by the entire family." Even the Moral Majority has given its OK to the event.

"We have been on network TV for 23 years," he says, "We've always been with EVENING 6:00

Recycled Sullivan Shows Is The Best Of Television

Sullivan Show," the Sunday as that. Ed had class. night variety institution on CBS from 1948 to 1971.

Sullivan" offers significant early TV appearances by heavyweights like The Rolling Stones and Richard Pryor. It also offers a revealing glimpse at summer rerun that's worth catching.

During his heyday, Ed Sullivan was probably the most imitated man in America, and his standard opening line, "We've got a really big shew tonight!" was the most aped sentence.

He was the most unlikely TV star. He had no personality and no talent. He talked funny and looked like he'd been weaned on a lemon. His were a cross between Howdy Doody and Quasimodo. If you'd seen him in a restaurant and had to guess his occupation, you'd have said instantly "mortician."

What Ed did have was an could. eye for talent. All kinds.

No matter your age, television's past. Here's one background or level of sophistication, you'd find somebody on the show you liked. Grandma, Pop and Junior could all watch it, and did. It was designed that way. It was a show where Sophie Tucker rubbed Dinah Shore with Elvis Presley, Myron Cohen with Albert Brooks.

The Sullivan show functioned as America's stage. It was the glue that held all the awkward body movements different facets of the entertainment world together. When it went off the air, it sent showbiz off into fragments. No common forum like it exits anymore. It's hard to imagine one

First, The Barrymores, And Now, The Osmonds

A stunning new postage stamp with the likenesses of John, Ethel and Lionel Barrymore officially honors performing arts. Unofficially, it reminds us that the children of actors. and the siblings of actors, more often than not decide to ply the family trade.

In the case of the majestic Barrymores, they were the product of two great acting clans as famous on the mother's side (Georgianna Drew) as on the father's (Maurice Barrymore), Easy to see why they were dubbed "The Royal Family" in their heyday.

But show business dynasties didn't die with the Barrymores. And neither did the questions and conjecture that pursued them all their lives. "Do you get along? Are you rivals? How do you like competing with your brother?"

How about "dynasties?"

The sons of the late Jack Cassidy and Shirley Jones stage stars before movies and television captured their talents - constitute one family dynasty. But as each the limelight, starting with David (who co-starred with Shirley, his stepmother, in "The Partridge Family") each has done well, and brought individuality to his convinced they current roles and-or music. That goes for Shaun Cassidy and now Patrick. Each has been asked if he is competing with a brother, Each says no. We believe them.

For real harmony, though, of the boys has moved into top believability goes to the Osmond family - with Donny and Marie the faces best known to us. What with their devotion to their Mormon religion, we're don't squabble over anything.

Early in his career David Carradine told me he considered his style to be totally unlike that of his father. But as the years have passed, David is now beginning to resemble his dad in looks and, with time, has broadened his acting range. Earlier differences seem to have faded. No rivalry reported with his brother Keith, either, friends say.
