The President is expected to discuss the wage problem at length today with Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach, who has spent three weeks attempting without success to conciliate the oil and coal disputes.

Conference Postponed Schwellenbach accordingly postponed until today the next negotiating conference with the soft coal operators and President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers. The disputes will begin their eighth day of meetings with little progress apparent in efforts to end the strike of 200,000 miners which is costing the nation more than 1,000,000 tons of soft coal a day.

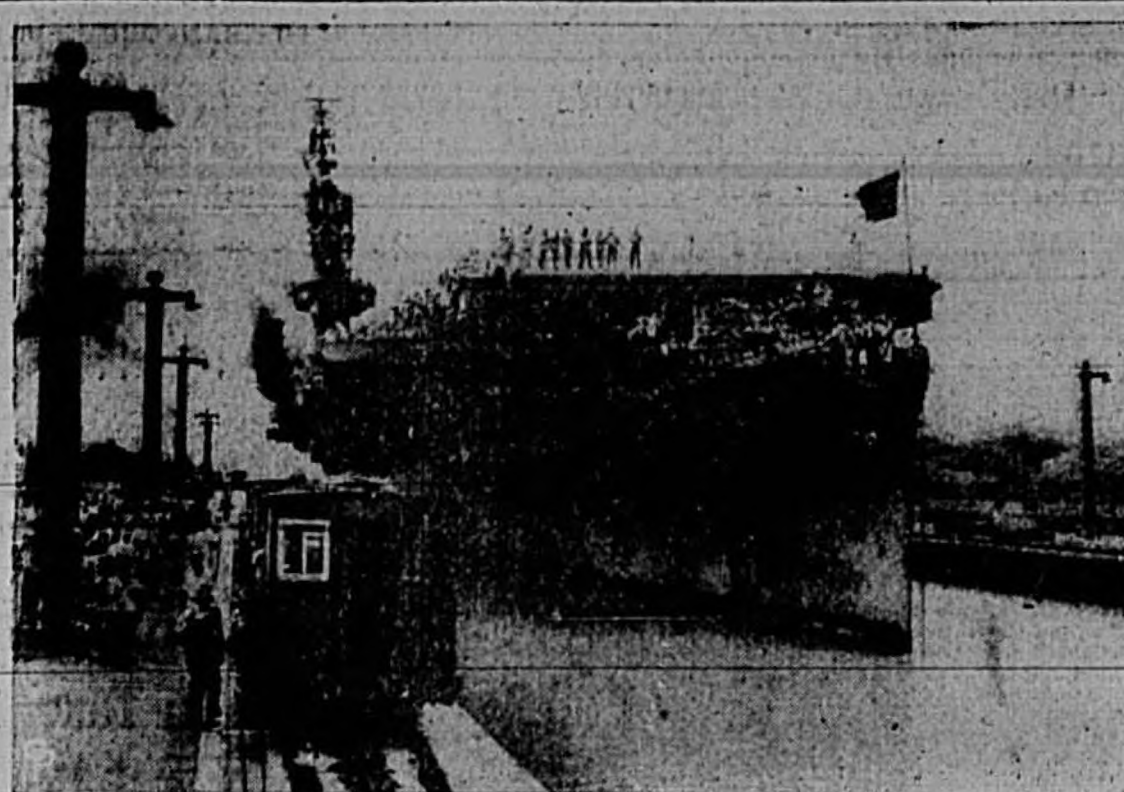

Sen. Owen Brewster (R., Maine), said last night he thought the President "is considering doing something at what he considers the proper time."

"But it's pretty close to midnight," he said. "In fact, it's about 11:59."

"The country seems to be in about the same frame of mind as it was about big business barons 20 years ago. Labor will be taken for a ride by an arous-

The heavier of your two Sunday meals needn't, in fact, shouldn't, be one that's nuisance to prepare and requires that the cook (be she you, your daughter or some one paid for the purpose) spend most of the Day of Rest in the kitchen. The coal dispute centers around Lewis' demand that the operators recognize UMW as bargaining agent for soft coal supervisory employees. Farreaching as that issue is, administration leaders are said to feel they must move quickly on another front—growing unrest over the issue of higher basic wage rates to compensate for lower take-home pay.

Asked To Arbitrate WLB, now under Schwellenbach jurisdiction would ask labor and industry to proceed with reconversion production and submit their wage disputes for WLB determination. Parties would not be bound by the decision because there would be no way to force acceptance, but the board would reply on public opinion. Its orders would amount to the administrator's considered judgment of how high wages and prices could be raised and still the economy in balance.

"We have only just begun to fight"

We were sitting around Bill Webster's fire the other night, enjoying a mellow glass of beer, and talking—now that the war is over—about what Peace really means.

"I can tell you one thing it doesn't mean," says Bill. "It doesn't mean that we can all relax—and take things easy—and figure we're living in Utopia."

"You're right," Judge Cunningham agrees. "Peace means, among other things, eternal vigilance. Free men are still at war with hatred, prejudice, intolerance—whether it's intolerance of a man's political beliefs, or of his right to choose between a glass of beer or buttermilk."

From where I sit, the Judge is absolutely right. Peace means continued vigilance—continued struggle against all the forces of intolerance that caused the last war, and can sow the seeds of future conflict. Maybe we should paraphrase the slogan of a Revolutionary hero: "We have only just begun to fight."

Mrs. Roosevelt Warns Veterans On Self Interest

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 15. (AP) Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt warned this week that it was veterans' band together to promote their interests as veterans above the good of the nation as a whole, they can do "enormous harm."

The veterans, she pointed out, will form a tremendous group, either by joining existing organizations or forming new ones. "If they think of themselves only as veterans," Mrs. Roosevelt asked, "have you ever thought what they could do to the country?"

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

WE WILL BE HELD IN HIGHER ESTEEM IF WE THINK MORE AND TALK LESS: Set a watch, O Lord, before my mouth; keep the door of my lips.—Psalm 141:3.

Scientists claim they have a counter-weapon for the atomic bomb. We should be sure to reveal that secret to the Russians, too.

Those soldiers on Okinawa had a tough time all right, but it was not until a first class hurricane came along that they knew what trouble really is.

Seminole County's war bond quota this eighth and last time is $1,000, somewhat less than in the last drive, but none the less difficult, we're afraid, because the war is over.

Strife and discord all over the civilized world seem to give the impression that the rank and file believe the only way to guarantee the peace of the world is to fight it out to the last ditch.

We understand Lieut. Fuller Warren of the United States Navy is back in this country. It is quite possible that big breeze which blew through Florida a week or so ago was just Fuller getting back from the Pacific.

We belong to that school which believes that among our plans for enduring world peace should be a big navy and a big air force manned by trained men.—Titusville Star-Advocate. And a more enlightened public opinion, one might add.

Francis Whitehair, former candidate for governor, and now mentioned as a senatorial possibility, is back in Deland following a tour of duty in the Pacific where he was in on some of the big action from Tarawa to Okinawa. If Whitehair runs against Senator Andrews next year, it will be an exciting election.

Speaking of Columbus Day, the Tampa Tribune recalls that when Columbus set out on his voyage of discovery he didn't know where he was going, who he was there he didn't know where he was and when he got back he did not know where he had been. Which seems to be just about the way we have left this country in ever since.

We would like to see the Junior Chamber of Commerce reorganized on a post-war basis and take over as its No. 1 project the correct regulation of the time piece which marks the intersection of First Street and Park Avenue. Walking down the street the other day, we looked up to notice it was 1:30 and got home just in time for the 10:30 A. M. news broadcast.

Of course all of us are glad to get a tax reduction as provided for in the House bill passed last week, but some of us more skeptical individuals may wonder what the government means by voluntarily cutting its income at a time when its expenses are already vastly more than it takes in. One might well reason that what it is trying to do is to permanently wreck the country's fiscal economy.

Dr. McDaniel, a former major in the Medical Corps, which did such a marvelous job in saving lives of wounded American soldiers, says that surgeons frequently worked 20 hours daily in the most gruesome kind of work repairing the shell-battered bodies of war-torn veterans. The regular working day was 12 hours, seven days a week. Someone, it seems to us, should tell that to the CIO which has been making brooms that fall apart the first time they're used for $1.25 an hour.

Dr. Conant of Harvard University warns against draining colleges and universities of the youth of the future in order to give them a year or two of military training. Nobody believes in adequate preparation for war more than we do, but it is worth while remembering that in this war it was the scientists who developed the atomic bomb, the chemists who developed the gas, the biologists who developed the penicillin, and the atom bomb who contributed the most to the winning of the war. In the future, we must have a more scientific and technical education.

Jobs And Foreign Trade

The outlook of providing sixty million jobs in the United States is of vital concern to other uncalculated millions in foreign countries who are dependent on our goods and services for their well-being, as well as to ourselves. The complaint is sometimes made that in production heydays industry is indifferent about exporting its product, regarding export as a backlog for lean years. But if it is true, according to an accepted figure, that ten per cent of labor goes into foreign trade, the estimated need right now is for six million workers on that score alone. Ten per cent of labor for exporting and importing seems a low estimate when it includes, in addition to factory, warehouse and store workers, those in rail and ship transportation clerks in forwarders' offices, insurance companies and banks.

Many returned service men may find work which will interest them in the field of foreign trade. The United States as the world's trading center now mustering in all skills available, helps itself when it trains its sights on those places near and far where our output is needed. Foreign trade is important now and will be more so as the time goes on.

Bestiality And Horror

"All I can say to all this is that it is untrue from beginning to end," protests Josef Kramer, called the "Beast of Belsen" because of the horrors attributed to him and his associates in the infamous Concentration Camps at Oswiecim and Belsen. He had "complete confidence in the guards" and they had done all they could, it seems, to make the conditions tolerable and pleasant before the British arrived. He is grieved especially by the charges that he cruelly punished women prisoners.

Of the varying 15,000 to 40,000 prisoners under his control, he explains that the deaths totaling 350 to 500 a week all resulted from natural causes, such as illness and old age. There were so many of them because he "had a camp with sick people who came from other parts of the camp." And so on and so on. It is hard to establish clear proof to the contrary because "all the prisoners who died were cremated."

So ends, or seems to end, what is probably the most horrible episode on record in this or any other modern war. Before long, it may be assumed, the whole story will be established beyond challenge and justice, as far as possible, will be done. For generations people everywhere will blush with shame and horror and try to forget that human beings in this modern world should have sunk so low.

He Turned The Scale

The death of Truman H. Newberry recalls the narrow margin by which the League of Nations was defeated in the 1910 Senate. Newberry, formerly secretary of the navy under Theodore Roosevelt, was in 1918 nominated for senator. His opponent was Henry Ford, an admirer of President Wilson and presumably willing to follow him in securing peace through a world organization.

To beat such a popular candidate Newberry spent, according to the official record, over $500,000. He won by a narrow margin, and his vote in the Senate was the one which made Henry Cabot Lodge chairman of the foreign relations committee and thus in a position to do the league to death.

Newberry's expenditures stirred up a scandal. He was convicted of spending an unallowable large amount, but freed when the Supreme Court declared unconstitutional the law under which he was tried. Public opinion became increasingly unfavorable to Newberry, and in 1922 so many of his supporters were defeated for re-election that soon after he resigned his seat.

A part from the destiny of the League of Nations, it is interesting to contemplate what kind of career an industrial magnate like Ford would have had in the Senate.

Admiral King Declines

Admiral Ernest J. King has declined an appointment as Senator from Ohio to fill Justice Burton's uncompleted term. The admiral is doubtless right in feeling that such a post is not in his line. It is true that he would find an old friend and associate in the Senate, Admiral Thomas C. Hart of Connecticut, commander of the Far Eastern fleet in 1942, who likewise was offered an appointment to fill a vacancy and, unlike Admiral King, accepted the position.

But in general professional soldiers and sailors are neither happy in politics nor successful. General Grant added little to his reputation by his two terms in the presidency, and General William T. Sherman profited by his example when he announced in 1864. "If nominated I will not accept, and if elected I will not serve."

The Senate and the state of Ohio would have been honored by Admiral King's acceptance, but he has chosen the wiser part.

"FIRST BLOOD"

Very truly yours, Claude Pepper

All day yesterday I did what every Christian dreams of; I visited the sacred shrines of the Holy Land. With an able guide from the American Consulate, I tried to retrace as accurately as possible the way the Master trod into Jerusalem and to Gethsemane on Thursday and Friday of His last week on earth. First we went to the top of the Mount of Olives across which Jesus came from nearby Bethany into Jerusalem on a donkey on Thursday. The Ascension after His Resurrection also occurred on the Mount of Olives. There is a Moslem mosque at the spot where the Moslems say he ascended. There is a Russian Orthodox church there also where that church places the Ascension. At the Moslem church, communicants of other churches are permitted to come at their worship time.

From the Mount of Olives you get the finest view of the city of Jerusalem. The remains of an old wall marked out what was the ancient city of Jerusalem although this wall is only a few hundred years old and the earlier walls of Herod's times have totally disappeared. We follow the winding road down from the Mount of Olives past the Garden of Gethsemane into the walls of the old city to the Praetorium. This is the place where Jesus was judged on Thursday night after His arrest in the Garden of Gethsemane by Pontius Pilate. It was in the courtyard, you'll remember, where Pontius Pilate finally pronounced the words that mean the death of Jesus. Underneath a police station which now covers the place you see the old stones of this courtyard and you can almost hear Pilate arguing with the Master's persecutors and finally attempting to wash his hands of Jesus' death. It was here that Pilate ordered the inscription upon the cross of Jesus, 'Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews.' The Jews are supposed to have demonstrated and Pilate, you recall, said, 'What I have written, and so the inscription stood. Nearby this courtyard Jesus was called the eleventh station. The twelfth station is the spot where the cross stood, now covered by an altar. You can look through the floor and see some of the same rock which bore Jesus' cross. You can also see what tradition has it is the rent in the rock caused by the earthquake when Jesus died.

In this church there is also an altar which purports to mark Jesus was taken down from the place where the body of cross. This spot is marked by a beautiful statue of Mother Dolorosa which was sent from Lisbon in 1778. It is covered with diamonds and precious jewels sent by princes or are the thank offerings of Pilgrims. Here it is that Joseph of Arimathea and Nicodemus, by the permission of Pilate, took the body of Jesus down from the cross and as tradition has it laid it in the arms of Mary.

The fourteenth and last station is the sepulchre of Joseph's new tomb, hewn out of rock according to the custom of the time, where Joseph and Nicodemus laid the body of the crucified Lord. You see in an inner room a marble sepulchre containing some remaining stones from Jesus' grave. The grave from which on the third day he arose to confirm his victory over death and to give assurance that there is a life beyond the grave.

In the afternoon we drove along a winding road from Jerusalem to Bethlehem. On the left as you go along you pass a wall where tradition says the Wise Men saw the reflection of the Star of Bethlehem where the Christ Babe was born. And further along, a short distance before you reach Bethlehem, there is the pasture where the shepherds were tending their flocks when they heard the first Hosannas ringing from the Heavens and the glad tidings of the birth of Jesus.

Finally in a great church, the first part of which probably dates back to 300 A.D., you see the birth of Jesus is said to occur which marks the spot where he was born and close by the site of the manger where He was first laid in His swaddling clothes. In this great church there were services by two different churches while I was there for here also many churches come to As you stand here upon the hill of Jerusalem and look over the Dead Sea at the Mountains of Moab and remember Moses

German Prisoners Of War To Be Back Home By Spring

Washington—All enemy prisoners of war, their work rapidly nearing an end in the United States, are expected to be returned to Europe by next spring, providing a major source of labor for reconstruction of the battered continent.

The office of the provost marshal general of the Army says the number of enemy prisoners of war in the United States as of Sept. 1945, was 302,170 Germans and 49,784 Italians. (There were also 5,080 Japanese).

This does not include approximately 12,500 prisoners who have been shipped back to Europe since the day.

The provost marshal general's office expected 18,500 additional POWs to be returned to Europe during September, including 49 Italian service units comprising 329 officers and 8,400 enlisted personnel.

Major Gen. Archer L. Lerch, provost marshal general, said the prisoners of war in this country are working at present but they need for such labor is decreasing.

The release of men from the Army, cutbacks in government contracts for war materials and layoffs of workers during reconstruction of war industries have freed thousands of Americans to replace prisoners of war in certain industries.

In the South, the POWs picked cotton, citrus and other fruits, cut sugar cane, harvested peanuts, rice and tobacco and cut pulpwood.

In the West they harvested sugar beets, corn and grain, picked and packed fruits and vegetables, while in the North and East they cut pulp and chemical wood, harvested and packed roots and vegetables.

In addition to this work, which was mostly on a contract basis between the government and private agencies, prisoners also worked for the Army at bases and camps.

Although paid at the prevailing wage level for civilian workers doing the same type of labor, the prisoners working on private contracts receive only 80 cents a day. They are paid in coupons redeemable for goods at camp canteens.

The remaining money earned by the prisoners is paid to the Army and deposited in the treasury.

Through 1944, $22,000,000 was deposited with the treasury. The total of such deposits was $38,700,000 to June 1, 1945.

In addition, the Army estimated it saved $152,000,000 in wages by using POW help in camp.

Housed in Camps Prisoners are housed in 150 camps located on Army bases, and at 200 branch camps set up wherever the prisoners are working.

The POWs housed at bases live in compounds, usually an unused section of the camp's barracks. However the branch camps vary from tents to abandoned schools or buildings in the vicinity of their work.

When they are ready to be shipped home, the POWs are moved into a staging area near their port of embarkation. They then are loaded in most cases aboard Army transports headed for Europe to bring Americans home.

Together with other prisoners taken after the capitulation of Germany, the POWs will be assigned to various types of reconstruction work in Europe by the manpower division of the Army's control council.

The provost marshal's office said that with increased shipping, lessened needs for POW labor in the United States, and better facilities in the European theater to handle them, the return of all POWs in the United States will be materially stepped up so as to have them all returned by spring.

Doodlers Are Turning To Football Plays

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 12. (Special)—The armchair strategists who planned their military campaigns on restaurant tablecloths were blasted out of the war by the atom bomb, but the Monday morning quarterbacks are still with us, according to Roy J. Friedman of Chicago, president of the Linen Supply Association of America.

Except for an occasional world planner who uses the restaurant napery to partition the Japanese empire, the military second guessers seem to have gone into retirement, Friedman reported.

The football experts, however, are up to their old tricks again, Friedman said, and soiled linens returned to suppliers bear the usual seasonal indications of the versatility of the T formation.

Instead of planning a defense against Jap suicide fliers, the football second guessers are using the tablecloths to determine by diagram whether the 6-2-2-1 defense is better than a 7-man line to stop the offensive power of the T.

In normal times, Friedman stated, the amateur quarterback offers no problem to linen suppliers, but he pointed out that members of the association are still faced with a shortage of materials.

"The extra washing necessary to remove pencil marks from napery means wear on materials which must last until the supply of textiles for civilian uses gets back to normal," Friedman pointed out.

"During the war, our industry managed to maintain adequate service for its thousands of customers. From the corner grocery store to the largest war plants," he stated, "With the war over, we wish to continue that service and expand it."

Friedman declared that linen suppliers will give their customers the best service in the history of the industry as soon as materials, equipment and manpower are available.

Rent Waiting Period Changed To 6 Months

The waiting period for purchasers of homes in the Sanford Defense Rental Area, who wish to evict tenants on the ground that the purchaser wishes to live in the house himself, has been changed to six months under Federal Rent Regulations, it was announced by Russell B. Davis, area rent director.

Where a purchaser was a member and served in the forces of the United States during the period of the war emergency and desires possession of the accommodations for the adequate housing of himself and family, the rent director may issue a certificate even though the veteran has paid less than twenty per cent of the purchase price down and may authorize the purchaser to pursue his remedies for the removal or eviction of the tenant at a time less than six months waiting period.

Landlords who desire to substantially alter, remodel or demolish a structure occupied by a tenant are now required to file a petition for a certificate of eviction and are not permitted to give the tenant a notice themselves.

Mr. Davis further advised that all purchasers are required to file a petition known as D-4 in order to secure a certificate permitting them to proceed under local law to evict the tenant at the expiration of six months.

Navy Reduces Point Scores For Personnel

Goal Is To Discharge 1,100,000 by Jan. 1; Enlisted Men Need 41 Points For Out

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—(AP)—The Navy has marked down the discharge scores of most personnel, with a goal of releasing more than 1,100,000 officers and men by New Year's. Effective Nov. 1, most enlisted men's point score will be cut from 44 to 41. Further reductions to 39 on Dec. 1 and 38 on Jan. 1 are promised.

The Navy's announced reductions in point scores for the greater part of its personnel, are intended to release one-third of its war-end strength by the first of January.

With further cuts predicted in December and January, the score for enlisted men will be reduced from 44 to 41 points, effective November 1.

On the same date male officers will be cut from 49 to 46 points. Wave officers from 39 to 32 and wave enlisted personnel from 29 to 26.

No change was made in the formula by which points are computed. The new schedule steps up the Navy's demobilization plan by some two months.

The Navy announcement also said that a further reduction in point scores for medical doctors probably will be made on January 1. Reduction of doctor's scores from 50 to 43 points was announced recently. The expected reduction in the further preferred cut will be to 51 points.

For enlisted men, the score will be cut from 44 to 41 points on December 1 and 39 points on January 1.

For wave officers to 30 points on December 1 and 29 points on January 1.

For enlisted waves, to 34 points on December 1 and 32 points on January 1.

Richard D. Eaton Back in Sanford From Carrier Duty

Richard D. Eaton, who prior to the J.C. Penney Stores, has returned to the Navy three years ago as assistant manager of the store in his former capacity, after receiving his honorable discharge from the service.

As an aviation ordnance man, first class, he served for a long time on the USS Carrier Card which operated so effectively against submarines in the Atlantic area, that it was the first carrier of its type to receive a presidential unit citation.

It was Radar equipped carrier of this type, working in perfect teamwork with destroyer escorts, that broke up the Nazi wolf pack submarines that were creating havoc in Atlantic shipping lanes.

Plans for T.B. Seal Sale Made At Meeting

Mrs. Mary Rawlins, Seal Sale Chairman for the Seminole County Health and Tuberculosis Association, met with her committee at her office in the Sanford Clinic on Monday evening to discuss plans for the sale of the seals which will be officially launched sometime in November.

The Seal Sale was taken over as a major project of the Pilot Club last year and Mrs. Rawlins appointed chairman to succeed Mrs. J. L. Ingley, who had been chairman for a number of years.

Mrs. Rawlins was appointed as chairman again this year at a meeting of the association.

A new method of checking the sales and work of the various committee members was outlined at the meeting. Those present with Mrs. Rawlins were Mrs. W. L. Morgan, Mrs. Josi E. Field, Mrs. Lourine Seal and Miss Blanche Kennedy.

Kiwanis Approves Resolution For Permanent Base

Kiwanians today at their meeting approved a resolution to be sent to the Secretary of the Navy requesting that it be for the best interests of the country operations be continued by the Navy at the Sanford Naval Air Station. The resolution was introduced by J. W. Hall.

It was pointed out that three years of operations had proved that the station was so located as to be most conducive to the health and comfort of the men.

Kiwanians were entertained by Tom Trent of Orlando, a former resident of Sanford who for many years was an entertainer at the Keith Vaudeville circuit, and prior to that was with Field's Minstrels. Mr. Trent told many jokes that had the Kiwanians in an uproar.

Harry Kudell accompanied Mr. Trent sang the song he first introduced at the Colonial Theater in Akron, Ohio, in 1912, "My Melancholy Baby," words of which are printed on the song sheet the Kiwanians use. He then told of how Harry Kudell first introduced in Chicago, Irving Berlin's initial hit, "Alexander's Ragtime Band," which was sung by Sophie Tucker.

M/Sgt. Julian Spenser, former Herald sports writer who recently returned home from France, and who has received his honorable discharge, thanked the Kiwanis club for donating at his request a flag which was first flown over 0-870 Ammunition Depot in England, then over 0-604 depot at Omaha Beach, Normandy and which is now flying over one of the world's largest ammunition depots, 0-611 near Verdun, France.

Dr. L. T. Doss, club president told of his enjoyment of the recent Kiwanis convention in Miami.

Commerce Board Discusses Plans For New Projects

Disposition Of Naval Air Station Property Is High On List

Progress on road building in Seminole County, securing of hospital and other facilities of the Sanford Naval Air Station in event the Navy leaves here, and means of furthering improving the St. John's River channel, were the major topics of discussion at the meeting of the board of directors of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening at the Hotel Mayfair.

H. H. Coleman, newly elected president succeeding T. W. Lawton, told the Chamber members he was glad to serve them and expressed confidence that a number of "worthy projects" awaiting development would be furthered and other projects would soon be unfolded.

Senator Lloyd F. Boyle reported good progress in Seminole County's secondary road building program, and stated that following the letting of the contract, that work should be started soon on the 10 mile stretch of Road 44 from the Lake Jessup bridge to the completed Volusia county link of the road leading to Mims on the East coast. He praised the manner in which West First Street had been retrofitted west to Monroe corner. This road is being financed with State money because of a delay in receiving Federal monies due in part on the project, whereas Road 203, Geneva to Chuluota will be financed with Federal funds, he said.

The Foxgate-Forest City road has been completed, he announced, adding that he and Mayor Edward Higgins will leave for Tallahassee today and that efforts will be made to secure resurfacing of Road 202, Ovelto to Geneva, and to provide a better surfaced road to Bear Lake, whose residents have had a lot of trouble getting back and forth to work on the present clay road.

President Coleman announced that on Saturday Oct. 27 Navy Day a dinner honoring Captain William T. Easton of the Sanford Naval Air Station will be given. J. L. Ingley reported on Chamber finances and the budget for 1945-46 was adopted as read.

H. B. Pope reported that he and his committee had contacted Captain Easton in regard to disposal of facilities at the Naval Station in event the Navy leaves, particularly of the hospital unit.

It was reported by Mr. Pope that if the station should be abandoned, at the end of the two months following, the Senior Officers would make a list of all equipment, and circulate this list to the Navy or Army so they could pick up articles needed for their use, and after the matter would be turned over to the Surplus Property Commission for action.

Mayor Higgins then stated that he is preparing a request to the Commission, asking that in event the Navy leaves, the Station be turned over to the City and County, principally the hospital unit. He spoke of possible use of the facilities for aviation training, a vocational or military school, or for schooling of returned veterans.

He then told of the needed procedures relative to securing of ways or routes through right bids of the St. John's River channel and of the program instituted for deepening it.

G. W. Spencer appeared and outlined a method for putting the Country Club and Golf Course in better shape.

A new visitor to the meeting was Philip Mars of Forest City.

Striking Movie Workers Resort To Sit-down Picketing In Newest Technique

CHICAGO, Oct. 17 (AP)—Reconversion difficulties have been slowing down essential parts in the radio industry and it now appears that far fewer sets than were anticipated will be available for Christmas. Retail prices will be the same as in 1941.

LONDON, Oct. 17 (AP)—Striking stevedores decided at a mass meeting today to remain away from London docks where soldiers have been working nearly a week in an effort to keep food ships from sailing. Strikers ignored back to work pleas from the Labor government, union leaders and newspapers. In the big ports north of London, there was no immediate sign of a break in a strike which has 45,000 idle, has immobilized scores of ships and tied up some 200,000 tons of food.

The national idle expended today as the labor dispute idle total jumped to 450,000. Widespread strikes in the soft coal fields of six states remained the most critical postwar labor dispute with 1,000 mines closed, shutting down steel and other industries through fuel shortages. The coal operators hint at a new proposal, the possibility of reopening during construction efforts by the government.

Disruption within the AFL Longshoremen Union is keeping a large part of New York's harbor idle, while insurgent stevedores demand the ousting of the union's President, Revin, as his faction blamed the CIO leaders, Harry Bridges and the CIO Maritime Union for the split.

Sitdown picketing—a new technique in strike procedure—by movie workers in the AFL jurisdiction during the collapse of union leaders and film producers continued their efforts to end the walkout.

Negotiations continued in the near-month-long strike of some 6,000 AFL lumber workers in the Pacific northwest and 40,000 CIO workers over wage demands. Steel production, backbone of America's peacetime redoubt, declined at an alarming rate under the weight of the collapse of negotiations between soft coal operators and United Mine Workers.

More than 20,000 steel workers in the Pittsburgh area alone were thrown out of jobs as the walkout among miners spread to other pits with 200,000 mine workers striking. These idled men accounted for almost half the 464,000 American workers thrown out of work by labor strife in hundreds of plants.

U. S. Steel Corporation reported unemployment in its Pittsburgh plants had passed the 15,000 point and operations had been reduced to 28 per cent of capacity.

On the same evening, Campbell-Lossing Post 53 will sponsor a dance to be held at the Sanford Armory.
