Iran Official Warns U.S.

Of Release By Installments

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Iran's parliament speaker Hajj-Ali Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani warned the United States today if Iran's demands for freeing the hostages are met only in installments, the American captives will be released the same way — in stages.

The United States said publicly late last month any piecemeal release of the captives was "unacceptable" and also warned Iraq at the same time of "grave" consequences if any of the Americans were put on trial in Tehran as spies.

The strong statement by Rafsanjani came hours before a three-man Algerian delegation, Iran's first between the hostage crisis, was to arrive at the State Department to explain Iran's position on the release of the captives, who on Thursday will spend their second Thanksgiving in captivity.

The Algerian envoy — Abdelkarim Uherah, Algerian ambassador to Iran; Hedha Malek, Algerian ambassador to Washington; and Mostapha Seghir, head of Algeria's central bank — were to meet with Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher.

Quake Toll Nears 4,000

NAPLES, Italy (UPI) — The death toll in Italy's massive earthquake climbed to near 4,000 today, the worst quake in Europe in 65 years, and rescue teams reached isolated villages where still more bodies are believed buried in the rubble.

Tuesday night, tens of thousands of survivors slept in fields, in automobiles and tent cities for the third night as army relief trucks bounced over mountainous roads still shaking from more than 100 aftershocks.

The Interior Ministry in Rome today listed the known dead at 3,700 in the devastated region east and south of Naples, another 1,000 missing and presumed dead and at least 3,600 injured. How many more of the missing were still alive.

Unrest Persists in Poland

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Government negotiators and fall-winter reached agreement today on a long-standing pay dispute but labor unrest, including strikes and sit-ins, persisted across Poland.

An all-out continued at a cotton mill in the textile center of Lodz and another all-out was reported at a mine in Gdansk, where workers were demanding a payment.

Mao's Widow Defiant

PEKING (UPI) — Mao Tse-tung's widow, Jiang Qing, stubbornly refused to cooperate with prosecutors today at her trial, but the court said there was "sufficient" evidence to convict her after a member of her "Gang of Four" turned against her.

The court declared "the evidence was abundant and sufficient" at the conclusion of the stormy session during which Jiang, in a gray Mao suit, sat immobile and stone in the cage-investor's dock. The court did not deliver a verdict, however, apparently saving it for the end of the hearings of all 10 defendants. The court ordered that her refusal to answer questions fully be recorded as denial of all charges.

Altamonte May Lay Off 9

By CHARTY CICARDO Herald Staff Writer

To get the city out of its financial bind, Altamonte Springs City Manager Jeff Elchberger Tuesday proposed a layoff of nine city employees and an increase in the city fees.

In a work session after the regular meeting, Elchberger outlined his proposed $5 million budget for the proposed fiscal year 1983, the estimated deficit for next year would be $23,484.

Earlier, Elchberger told the commission there was a $20,000 deficit in the 1979-80 budget.

He said if the city stays with its current proposed budget for fiscal year 1981, the estimated deficit for next year would be $23,484.

To reduce the budget, Elchberger gave the commission a proposed budget with $500,000 in cuts. He also proposed revenue of $118,000 from increases in city rates. A bulk of the budget cuts came from eliminating jobs.

Elchberger's proposal eliminates 31 positions, 21 of the jobs being which would not mean less service from his department.

Elchberger proposed a layoff for the following positions: a watch commander, patrolman and clerk in the police department; two firefighters and one paramedic in the fire department; two maintenance positions in the civic center; and one maintenance position in recreation.

The bulk of the eliminated vacancies were proposed in the fire and police departments. The fire department had 10 vacancies eliminated while the police department had six vacant positions eliminated.

Fire Chief Tom Siegfried said, "The cuts are very drastic and there will be a reduction of services."

Siegfried said he realized the cuts had to be made. "Even though we have these cuts, we're hoping to redevelop and grow again," he said.

Police Chief Barry Cook said the cuts would not mean less service from his department.

"I think with what has been cut, we'll still be able to do it," he said.

Elchberger's proposed budget also includes a $118,000 increase in user's fees raised through garbage and recreation fees increases.

He proposed a 30 percent increase in the garbage service rate from $5.50 to $7.15. Elchberger said he wants the service to become self-supporting.

Elchberger also raised recreation fees to get the department self-supporting also.

The biggest increases were in tennis and racquetball court memberships. There are no fees currently, but Elchberger proposes an $11 quarterly fee for residents and $22 quarterly fee for non-residents for court memberships.

Johnny Carson To Star At Reagan Inaugural Gala

HERE'S JOHNNY — AND RONNIE: Johnny Carson will be the master of ceremonies at Ronald Reagan's inaugural gala. The all-important appointment was made Tuesday in Los Angeles by more than 200 gala organizers.

Other stars who will perform, include Ethel Merman, Dean Cain, Jimmy Stewart, Rick Laine and the original Oremed Family, including Donny and Marie Osmond. Carson, who produced the inaugural event for John Kennedy 20 years ago, also is scheduled to perform at the Reagan gala at Capitol Center in suburban Maryland on inauguration eve.

Ullmann, UNICEF Team Up

LET'S LATEST ROLE: Film star Liv Ullmann is taking on a different role these days. For the last six months, she says she's been traveling to Third World countries as a UNICEF "goodwill ambassador."

Ullmann, 45, says her last mission was to Ethiopia and Uganda where suffering and starvation as bad as ones in Vietnam and Cambodia.

She's The Marrying Kind

INGRID'S REGRET: Swedish film legend Ingrid Bergman was married three times but she says her only regret was she didn't do it more often.

"I'd rather have three husbands than one," she said in the latest edition of People magazine. "I should have married more."

Ingrid, now 65, says her last marriage was to producer Lars Schmidt whom she divorced two years ago — was her best. Will she marry again? No, she says. "I'm too old."

Borge Writes Unusual Book

MUSICAL COMEDIES: Antonio Vivaldi, Franz Joseph Haydn and the all-gift orchestra are some of the characters in an unusual new book on comedy. It's called "My Favorite Comedies in Music" and was written by piano-playing funnyman Victor Borge, his second book. Borge says all the anecdotes are true, including the one about how Haydn used to go into a rage when he found his wife curving her hair with his music manuscripts. The book was published by Franklin Watts.

Miss Piggy Loves Christmas

A PIGGY CHRISTMAS: Super star Miss Piggy likes the quiet joys of Christmas. "I shop for gifts myself — usually in large department stores where my fan club can't see me," she said in a recent interview with McCall's magazine. She said she believes Christmas presents "need that personal touch."

California Fires Contained

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (UPI) — Hot, howling winds that drove demonic brush fires through Southern California's exclusive neighborhoods for three days, turning them into charred war zones and killing at least four people, began to abate Tuesday.

Winds packing gusts up to 90 mph died to 30 mph in most areas, giving the 4,000 firefighters on the lines some hope of containing the eight separate fires that so far have blackened more than 50,000 acres and damaged or destroyed more than 300 homes, some valued up to $750,000.

"The winds have died down and we have been able to take the fires," said U.S. Forest Service spokesman Charles Covell. There were no fatalities on when the fires would be controlled. Four people died in the flames.

Reagan Backs Deregulation

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — Ronald Reagan, who campaigned on a theme of unleashing the oil industry to end U.S. dependency on foreign suppliers, says he favors lifting price controls on oil and gas.

Reagan, 71, said he was surprised to find a growing possibility Reagan may put off announcing his choice for Cabinet appointments beyond next week and perhaps until after he returns to Washington on Dec. 4.

Deltona Corporation Wins Fight To Be Paid For Land

MIAMI (UPI) — A U.S. Court of Claims judge has ruled in favor of the Deltona Corp. in its four-year battle with the federal government to be paid for land on Marcus Island the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers won't let it develop.

The huge development corporation, which sued the government in 1978 after the Corps denied it permits to dredge and fill 8,000 acres of marshy mangrove lowlands on the lower Gulf Coast island near Naples, said it was informed Tuesday of the Miami federal judge's decision, which must be upheld by a three-judge panel of the court of claims.

A Deltona spokesman said Judge Francis Brown ruled that unless the Corps rescinds its denial of the permits and files certified copies of the permits with the court within 90 days, Deltona is entitled to damages.

If Brown's decision is upheld, a separate hearing would have to be held to determine the amount of damages.

Senate To Zap New Zip?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As spectators littered, Sen. Roger W. Jepsen, R-Iowa, explained how a future mail user can call a toll-free Postal Service number to obtain a free ZIP Code after it is expanded from five to six digits next year.

"What this boils down to is a one-time charge to an individual to call a 10-digit number to get the correct nine-digit number that must be placed on the letter," Jepsen told a Senate news Tuesday.

"Now if people can't remember the 10-digit number that must be called," Jepsen continued — as spectators at the hearing began laughing — "they can always dial a three-digit number — 11 (information) to get to me."

Jepsen told the Senate Government Operations subcommittee he believes the shift from five to nine digits scheduled to start next October will prove as unpopular as the recently initiated Susan B. Anthony $11 coin.

Postmaster General William Bolger testified the four added numbers will be optional. If widely used, he said, the Postal Service will be able to make greater savings from a computerized and automated mail sorting system.

He said mail carriers will get discounts if they cooperate, but the choice will be theirs.

Bolger noted it takes 10 numbers to dial long distance, bank statements have 10 digits and credit cards have 13.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

School Districts Compete Under Turlington's Plan

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington believes competition between school districts is one way to improve the test scores of Florida students.

Under a decentralized program announced by Turlington Tuesday, counties will compete against neighboring counties in student test scores and other measures of scholastic achievement.

Heady relying on local newspaper, radio and television coverage, the new strategy is intended to instill a competitiveness into the state's education system as it attempts to raise its test scores to among the highest in the nation, Turlington said.

Turlington has carved the state into five regions, each defined primarily by the reach of local newspaper and broadcast audiences and each consisting of at least seven counties.

Graham Seeks Public Input

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham wants the advice of voters, county commissioners and citizens as he prepares a $17 billion budget recommendation for the Legislature.

Graham announced Tuesday plans for public input into the 1983 state government spending plan, including a television program that will include questions and comments from citizens around the state via a special telephone hookup.

The governor mailed booklets to almost 600 mayors and heads of county commissions outlining the broad goals he will highlight in the budget, including continued emphasis on expansion of business and industry, upgrading of public schools, colleges and universities and an all-out attack on drug trafficking.

IRS Officers Deny Threats

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Internal Revenue Service officials Tuesday denied oath they threatened to discipline and IRS employees who criticized the agency's harassment of Florida taxpayers.

And U.S. District Judge Susan Black granted a government motion to quash subpoenas of documents that would have gone to the issue of the truth or falsity of allegations by IRS employee John E. Wilkes, and excused seven witnesses called by Wilkes' attorney to corroborate his charges.

Wilkes told the St. Petersburg Times in an Oct. 18 interview that IRS revenue officers were under such pressure from IRS management to close out "overdue" tax cases that they were resorting to threats and harassment against taxpayers.

Costa Rica Defends Moves

MIAMI (UPI) — Costa Rican President Rodrigo Carazo defended his country's support of the Sandinista revolution Tuesday night and warned that unless other Democrats help Nicaragua's new leaders "there is true danger they might fall into the hands of Communists."

"If we do not help Nicaragua now, we may have to in the future," like the Moorish King of Spain, "we will have to fight for what we did not know how to defend like us," Carazo told an estimated 500 delegates at the closing ceremonies of the fourth annual Miami Conference on Caribbean Trade, Development and Investment.

In a news conference before his speech, the Costa Rican president pointed to the outcome of the Cuban revolution and said to abandon Nicaragua would constitute the same "mistake."

He said he was confident that the Cuban revolution would be a success and that the Cuban people would be able to govern themselves.

Mysterious Mist Puzzles Scientists

ORMOND BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Scientists today will test for the source of a mysterious "alien" substance in the air that has bothered beachgoers and residents of 40-mile stretch of Florida's east coast at least four times in the past eight days.

The colorless, odorless substance causes stinging eyes, scratchy throats, coughing fits and nausea, said Dr. Robert King, Volusia County Health Department Director.

No one has been hospitalized, but King said hundreds of people between Flagler Beach and New Smyrna Beach have experienced temporary discomfort since the beach was first reported Nov. 17.

King said Airborne Science members found "several dozen dead birds, primarily seabirds, a heron, two and some sandpipers," Sunday in New Smyrna Beach near the location where residents complained of the hay-fever like symptoms.

King said one dead seagull will be shipped to either the Florida Department of Environmental Regulation or the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta for testing.

So far, scientists are baffled and say they have no idea what killed the birds or what the substance is except that it is some kind of "particulate or gaseous" matter.

Gasoline Truck Driver Charged After 7 Killed in Explosion

KENNER, La. (UPI) — Negligent homicide charges will be filed against the driver of a gasoline truck that exploded in a parking lot, killing seven people and injuring 11 others.

The driver was charged with manslaughter and negligent homicide after a jury found that he was negligent in driving a gasoline truck that exploded in a parking lot, killing seven people and injuring 11 others.

Several Hurt In Fight At Sanford Bar

By DAVID M. RAZLER Herald Staff Writer

A fight at a Sanford bar Tuesday night ended with several injuries and three arrests, police report.

The injured included the bar owner, who required stitches at Seminole Memorial Hospital.

Police say the fight erupted at 8:30 p.m. at Cooper's Pub, 205 Park Drive, when Ricky and Tony Duncan, both of 20 Holly Ave., Sanford, and R.D. Zipper, 21, of 220 Columbia Drive, Delray, began swinging beer mugs.

Ricky Duncan, 31, was charged with two counts of aggravated battery, one count of fighting and one count of criminal mischief and ordered held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

Tony Duncan, 27, and Zipper were both charged with fighting and criminal mischief and ordered held in lieu of $100 bond.

Bar owner Kenneth Krosser, of Longwood, and patron Sita Morrison, 215 Viewwood, Sanford, were treated at Seminole Memorial Hospital and released for cuts suffered in the fight.

A camera worth $300 was stolen from a vehicle parked at Benning, 344 W. Altamonte Drive, Altamonte Springs, Thursday, police say.

Thieves entered the vehicle by prying open the right rear window causing $100 damage. The vehicle belonged to Todd Johnson, 1018 W. Lake Brantley, Maitland.

Let's Deal With First Things First

It is significant that President-elect Reagan and his chief advisers are concentrating their attention first on solving the country's economic problems...

Tax and budget strategies for the new administration were mapped at the recent weekend economic summit conference in Los Angeles that brought Gov. Reagan together with some 15 top economists...

Another interesting tidbit from the tie-breaker is the fact Apopka High had the nerve to charge the regular season admission price of $2.50 per head...

Neither player appeared to be injured and both were in the backfields all four downs.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Here it is three weeks after the election and despite tenacious winnowing of the returns by political analysts some aspects of the voting remain indistinct.

Speculation that the lunatic fringe might be a position to the scales one way or the other proved groundless, as we know. The election was so one-sided that even obsessive voting by a single faction would not have made much difference.

The schizophrenic vote is always split and this year it appears there was a great deal of vacillation in the other components.

My analysis of the crackpot vote leads me to believe that representatives of the lunatic fringe who participated in the polls listed their position as "undecided" whereas, in fact, they had already made up their minds.

These switches were never picked up by the polls, and hence further distorted the estimates of relative strength among the candidates.

Putting this another way, presumably "undecided" voters were telling pollsters just before they entered the voting places that they were going to vote for Carter. Then, as they emerged, they reported they had voted for Reagan.

Either way, it was a mess. And until opinion sampling techniques become sophisticated enough to detect shifting trends within the "undecided" factor, I fear the polls will remain susceptible to error.

Neither player appeared to be injured and both were in the backfields all four downs.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Here it is three weeks after the election and despite tenacious winnowing of the returns by political analysts some aspects of the voting remain indistinct.

Speculation that the lunatic fringe might be a position to the scales one way or the other proved groundless, as we know. The election was so one-sided that even obsessive voting by a single faction would not have made much difference.

The schizophrenic vote is always split and this year it appears there was a great deal of vacillation in the other components.

My analysis of the crackpot vote leads me to believe that representatives of the lunatic fringe who participated in the polls listed their position as "undecided" whereas, in fact, they had already made up their minds.

These switches were never picked up by the polls, and hence further distorted the estimates of relative strength among the candidates.

Putting this another way, presumably "undecided" voters were telling pollsters just before they entered the voting places that they were going to vote for Carter. Then, as they emerged, they reported they had voted for Reagan.

Either way, it was a mess. And until opinion sampling techniques become sophisticated enough to detect shifting trends within the "undecided" factor, I fear the polls will remain susceptible to error.

Casselberry Stop Signs Stolen As Council Debates

By CHARITY CICARDO Herald Staff Writer

While residents discussed the removal of stop signs on Wilshire Drive at the Casselberry City Council meeting Monday night, the signs were being removed. Some of the signs were being taken to the city's storage yard.

Two stop signs were being taken from Wilshire Drive to make a three-way stop with Mark David Boulevard. The signs were erected to slow traffic on Wilshire Drive.

Karcher said police have found the two stop signs which were at the intersection of Mark David Boulevard and Wilshire Drive but have not found the other signs which were recently placed on Wilshire Drive.

There's an obvious connection, but I can't say it was the people at the council meeting who did it," Karcher said.

But other residents who belong to the Somerset Homeowners Association said they asked Karcher to put the signs at Wilshire Drive to slow traffic.

Karcher told the council he felt the intersection of Mark David Boulevard and Wilshire Drive was the most appropriate intersection to put the stop signs.

Councilman Carl Robertson said he observed the traffic for over an hour at the intersection and felt the traffic sign should be moved to a different place.

Councilman Tom Embree, who is also president of the Somerset Homeowners Association, said he believed Karcher took the information and through his professional knowledge and manuals of Highway and Safety Division, placed the signs properly.

Council Chairman Frank Schutte said he believed the signs were placed for the betterment of the majority.

Karcher said today new signs would be replaced on Wilshire Drive as soon as possible.

City Mulls Lake Monroe Harbor Bond

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

Sanford city commissioners have indicated an interest in sponsoring the issuance of $1 million in industrial revenue bonds for improvements at Lake Monroe Harbor.

The indication of interest is the first step by the bondholders of the city-owned property, Joe Manno and Chuck Volk, in proceeding with retaining a bond counsel to prepare the bond issue.

Under this type of bond issue, the city accepts no liability. Mayor Lee P. Moore said. Among the improvements anticipated is construction of a yacht club and shops.

William J. Hart, vice president and senior loan officer with Flagship Bank of Seminole, said the bank is interested in buying the bonds when issued.

In other business, the commission: adopted a resolution regarding city building official Bill Bracedwell in his new job as plans reviewer for the Walt Disney Experimental Prototype City of Tomorrow (EPCOT).

Bracedwell has been employed by the city for the past eight years. His last day on the job with the city is Friday.

Approved the transfer of $4,000 from the utility, renewal, and replacement fund to replace the working part of the pump in city well No. 7 behind Harcor.

Approved the installation of a street light at 116 N. Jessamine Ave.

Adopted a resolution supporting the Hospital Corp. of America plans to build a new hospital in Sanford.

Agreed to adopt an ordinance similar to one in effect in Tallahassee to regulate transient precious metal dealers. The Tallahassee ordinance has survived a court test of its constitutionality.

Granted 90 days additional time to bring the following condemned properties into compliance with the city building code: 618 Palmetto Ave., owned by Robert Hosteninger; 1803 Sumner, owned by Paul DeVelder; and 1620 W. 12th St., owned by New Mt. Calvary Baptist Church.

Authorized the use of mobile signs by the following: Central Baptist Church, 1311 Oak Ave., from Tuesday to Dec. 3; Optimist Club of Sanford, from this week through Christmas at the Zayre's parking lot for the sale of Christmas trees; Occasional Piece Antiques, 1913 French Ave., for 60 days for its grand opening.

Adopted on final reading an ordinance amending zoning regulations to require a minimum of 900 square feet of living area in single family homes and 700 square feet per family unit in two-family residences.
