BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

FROM ANCIENT TIMES MEN HAVE WANTED TO GAIN THE WHOLE WORLD, THERE IS NO LIMIT TO THE AVARICE OF A DISORDERED MIND, BUT THAT WOULD ONLY PILE UP GREIF, IT CERTAINLY IS NOT WORTH LOVING OUR SELF, RESPECT TO PILE UP ANY MATERIAL THING: For what shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul—Mark 8:36.

The First National Bank of Leesburg has $4,769,000 on deposit.

The St. Augustine Record thinks now is the time for all men to come to the aid of their country—not their party.

We see where GI shoes are going to be made more comfortable. Maybe they're going to take that last long mile out of them.

This isn't the first time oil has been discovered in Florida. The binder boys brought in several bushels of bananas oil 18 years ago.

Subscribers can help to improve the service they get from carrier boys by improving the notice they give themselves on collection day.

The Republicans seem to be kicking up a fuss about the kicked spiffers. They want him to resign his commission and run for President.

Don't try to outrun an escalator. A woman in a Chicago department store tried it the other day and collapsed from exhaustion after she had climbed six steps.

Nowadays women read the ration book and the bank book in the same way. They see what to have for dinner—Jacksonville Journal. Still a well read book both is no handicap to a good cook.

If a husband ever lets a woman wear the pants, never let her buy the pants. Titusville Star-Advocate. Yeh, the chances are you'll call 'em slacks and continue to wear 'em.

We see where President Roosevelt insists food prices have been held stable during the past few weeks. They didn't lock the barn door until after the horse was gone.

In Birmingham, Ala. a sandwich maker overcharged a customer 6 cents on the price of a ham sandwich and was fined 65¢. Varieties says that a few years ago he'd be made prohibition a failure.

It is the Germans now who are cheering from the war of nerves. They are said to be fearful of a British invasion across the channel which may come at any moment. If it does and if it is successful, the war will be over within a year. If it is not successful, it will last.

President and Manatee are preparing a referendum on the proposition of merging the two counties. Bradenton now has a population of 7,444 and Manatee has a population of 11,000. As they are so close together they are naturally one city anyway.

Dr. Morris Phillips, editor of the American Medical Association, says most of the doctors in the United States are overworked. All the busy rescue hospitals and modern hospitals are overworked. It is a fact that the hospital in the south is overworked.

Not So Bad

Recently there has been considerable publicity over the complaint of war workers who have accepted jobs in the city of Baltimore. They do not like its overcrowded conditions. They think its stores are strangely lacking in merchandise and they find the prices unreasonably high.

No doubt this sentiment prevails fairly generally throughout the United States among persons who have left their original homes to take city jobs in war plants and shipyards. They complain bitterly of present living conditions, little realizing that things may also have changed some back home since the war began. No doubt there are some newcomers to Sanford who do not find everything to their liking.

But we met one young fellow at the Naval Air Station the other day who had nothing but praise for it. In all our twenty years of residence in the Celery City, we have never seen anyone so completely sold on this place as he was. When we learned he had been here only a week, we suggested that we hoped he liked it here.

"Like it," he said, "why I love it! I think it's wonderful. Just look at all your beautiful girls. They're wonderful! And your city, it's so beautiful too. And everything is so clean and nice. And the people, they've been a sight grand. And that swell golf course. Everything is so green and nice."

Well, we learned later he had just arrived here from one of those little islands in the South Pacific where everybody has malaria, sleeps in foxholes, if he can between bombing raids, and the food is issued in the form of pills. The only girls he'd seen in 13 months were bushy headed natives and Saturday night off were confined largely to a couple of hours of gin rummy and then back to the foxholes.

No doubt a person does gain a new perspective after such an experience as that. Anyone who has faced death time after time on any of the battlefronts of the world is not apt to be hard to please once he returns to the United States. To the thousand or more Sanford boys scattered all over the globe, Sanford is going to look mighty good when the war is over.

The folks on the home front may find plenty to gripe about, but the boys on Attu, Guadalcanal and Sicily would call it heaven.

455 A. D. And 1943

What are the Germans up to in Rome? People would like to know. Hardly a trickle of news comes from that great city, which, more than any other in the western world, bridges the gap between ancient and modern civilization.

One thing fairly certain is that the Nazis are looting there, as they have done elsewhere in captured and enslaved cities. But are they making a thorough job of it, pillaging and confiscating everything that can be of material use to the German army, and destroying the rest, as they did in Naples?

What about the vast and irreplaceable art treasures of the Eternal City? It is a reasonable supposition that the masterpieces of the museums and the private collections of wealthy citizens are being shipped north, to fatten the steadily growing treasures of Berlin. But there are thousands of priceless things in Rome that cannot be so easily transferred. Are they being destroyed, as so many treasures have been in other places, from sheer animosity or malignity?

The apparent attitude of present-day Germany is that, if the Germans can't take whatever they covet from their neighbors, it shall not be left for others to enjoy. Probably these modern Vandals are having a greater orgy of destruction than their ancestors had when they sacked Rome in the year 455 A. D.

THE DUKE OF WELLINGTON has just been killed. Not the famous Duke who beat Napoleon at Waterloo, and was buried "with an empire's lamentation." He has been dead for a long time. This is his great-great-grandson, a young man of 31, who lost his life fighting against the Germans in Italy. His death shows the great families of England still try to live up to their traditions. How the original Duke would have thrilled at a war like the present!

BOBBING FOR APPLES SEASON

Celeryfeds Win By 24 To 6 Score Over Mullets

The big thriller of the game, however, came in the second quarter when Bill Fleming, receiving the ball on his own 35 yard line, ran 72 yards through the entire St. Augustine team for another touchdown. The Feds again failed to convert. The Feds very nearly scored again in the quarter when Pete Brock after making a first down, completed a 30 yard pass to Cranston on the Mullet 28. Bill Fleming for another touchdown was run out of bounds on the Mullet 5 yard line just as the half ended.

Near the end of the first quarter with the Feds ahead by two touchdowns, Coach George Ziemer sent in his entire second string team consisting of Cranston, Madden, LT, Kenis, LQ, McKee, C, McNeil, RO, Hoyt, RT, Raborn, E, McMullen, QB, Cullum, RHB, Temple, LHB, Harnson, FB. The Celeryfeds put on another series of precise formations including a V echelon. They then joined up with the Seminole High School Band and were led by Majorette Sophie McDougal who, swinging two batons, paraded the whole group into a complicated snake dance that delighted the crowd.

The third quarter resulted in no score as the Mullets fought hard to hold the Feds back. During this time Ray Fox made a nice interception of a Mullet pass on his own 25, but was downed before he could register much gain. Later the Feds lost the ball on a fumble and McMullen of the Mullets completed a nice pass from his own 30 to Skinner on the Fed 48, right at the end of the quarter.

Sanford then received the ball after a Mullet fumble. Fleming made a first down, and a bit later Pete Brock raked 15 yards on a reverse, and Bill Fleming went over for the Fed's final score. The Feds again failed to convert when Fleming's kick hit the goal bar.

On the next kickoff by Sanford, McMullen and Fox advanced far gains to the Sanford 35 where Fox was taken out of the game.

Major Shutdown In Coal Industry Is Anticipated

(Continued From Page One) The picture has changed considerably since then, however. And the policy committee today was expected to act on two decisions of the War Labor board, one reflecting the proposed "model" Illinois contract for the soft coal industry, and the other denying hard coal miners' demands for a $2-a-day wage increase.

In the hard coal case, the board awarded a $2.2 cents a day increase and other concessions amounting to 20 to 25 cents a day.

The Illinois agreement, worked out by the union and Illinois operators, would have put all soft coal miners on an 8 1/2 hour day based on the time they enter the mines until they left. The proposed basic wage was $8.50 a day with overtime for more than 40 hours a week.

WLB said it would approve $8.12 1/2 for an 8 1/2 hour portal-to-portal day. The present scale is $7 for a 7 hour day with no allowance for underground travel time at all.

President Backs Plan The President said he believed the board's offer would be accepted. But he added that "I am mistaken and the miners do not accept the board's proposal. I shall take decisive action to see that coal is mined."

Following Roosevelt's suggestion, the board announced that it had no objection to insertion in a new contract of a clause stipulating that "in no case shall a miner receive for a day's work less than he would have received from his productive work at the straight time hourly rate under the old contract."

Lewis had said that the WLB recommendation would mean a cut in hourly rates of pay.

European Women's Big Job After War Is To Bar Hatred

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Features Writer
After the last war a little Belgian girl of four listened intently while her Sunday school teacher told the story of the crucifixion of Christ.
"I understand," she interrupted, while her dark eyes flashed fire. "The Boches did it."
Behind that story of a four-year-old's hatred and all that provoked it, Marie Ginsberg is the outline of European women's biggest job after the war: the job of educating Europe's children for peace instead of war and of weaving women's activities and influence into the fabric of a new national life.
Marie Ginsberg, 40, is a former assistant librarian of the League of Nations. She has traveled the globe, and she has seen the newly formed Women's Council for Post War Europe whose membership includes women from the United States, France, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Greece, Denmark, England and Holland. It is her job to prepare women for their responsibility in the post-war reconstruction of Europe.
After the last war people said that if women had had the same political rights as men, there would not have been a war. Marie Ginsberg told me that European women got their political rights during or after the last war. And now look! Twenty-five years later we have another war. Women didn't stop it. They didn't pass empty resolutions. They didn't pull together. They took another war.
It took another war to give women teamwork. Now that women have teamwork and are pulling together as never before, they are not to lose that precious teamwork by pulling in different directions after the war.
Marie Ginsberg, who took refuge in the United States after the last war, was dismissed for the duration and who founded

SOLDIERS OF THE 810th Ordnance Depot Base in a new hat worn by actress Dolores Moran, who says the girl who wears the real life description of the soldier. "That War Time soldier" she built a sketch of that girl's uniform by a soldier who had been in the front lines.

the children, she said. "We want to found homes for the care of youngsters whose parents have been killed or taken from them. Some of these youngsters are coming up and down the land living under such terrible conditions that they are known as the wall children."
The real aim of the children's movement is important. We are going to try to bring about a new vision of the world. They play a tremendous part in the child's personality and hence on his behavior. A young child told me that the German boys always have their hands in their pockets. We should like to see an upbringing of stories of all nations introduced in all our schools. It is the duty of the young and old to help in the building of a new world.
Marie Ginsberg wants to organize women of all nations to take part in the reconstruction of Europe. She says that the most important thing is to have a new vision of the world. They are going to try to bring about a new vision of the world.

Miners Ignore Orders Issued By Roosevelt

Only Handful of Workers Return To Pits Following Seizure By the Government

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP) Triumphant in key eastern seaboard contests, Republicans today viewed the off-year election returns as a signpost on the road which they hope will lead back to the White House in 1944.

The Democrats beaten in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP) President Roosevelt's directive to the nation's coal miners to return today to their jobs in the strike-bound workings, now under government seizure, was generally ignored in the major producing states this morning.

In Alabama only a few mines had a handful of men, while surveys in other states indicated a total of 100,000.

Union President John L. Lewis and Secretary of Interior Ickes, U.S. mine boss, attempted meanwhile to come to some agreement on the terms of government operation. They held a three-hour conference today and UMW district presidents will reconvene at 11 A.M. to hear the results, if any.

Another Day's Wait
Cancellation of a scheduled policy committee meeting late yesterday signalled that the union's action on the strike under the UMW technique the continued suspension of work is tacitly understood to be in effect.

Interviews in the mining regions strongly supported the belief that most of the miners would stand by this traditional policy.

Lawrence Lewis, UMW district leader, promptly issued an order forbidding dealers to deliver fuel to any household which has more than a 10-day supply of coal in its basement.

No More Than Ten
Under the order—issued as coal production came almost to a complete standstill—household may get more than one ton of bituminous, but bigger deliveries are permitted to hospitals, hotels and other such uses, provided their bins are not filled beyond the 10-day limit.

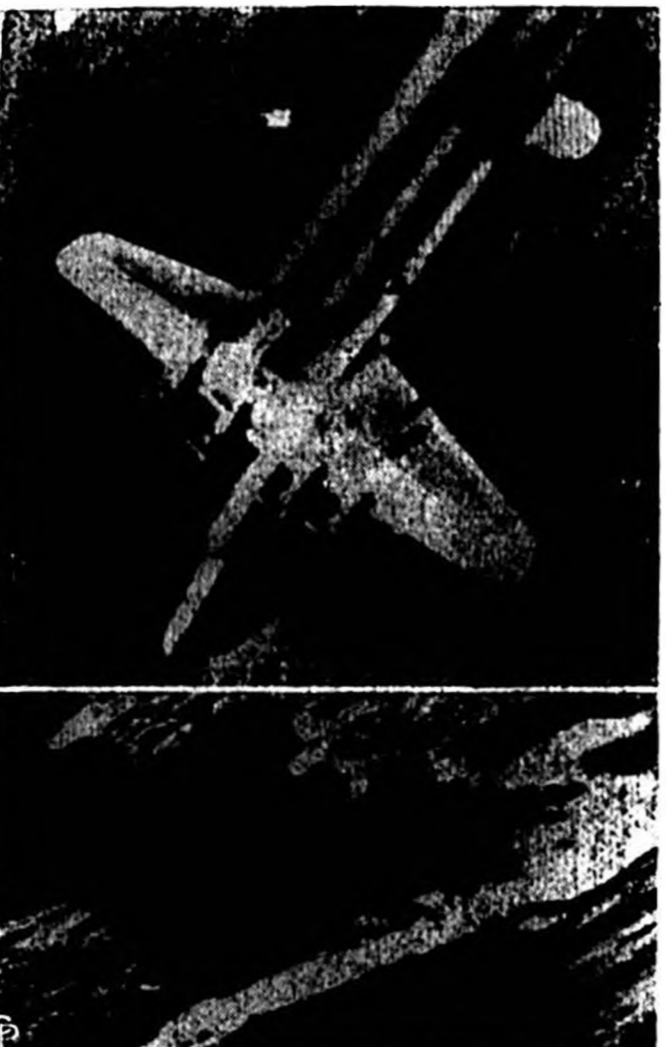

The UMW policy committee meeting Monday brought a prompt order from the President to seize the struck mines and operate them under the American flag, rather than the meeting yesterday but postponed its formal opening while Lewis conferred with Ickes. As Lewis came out of the meeting the union leadership announced the meeting would be delayed at least until today.

Lewis silent
Lewis, amber and silent, refused comment to reporters. Even before the second meeting between the government's mine boss and the union official, Jim Egan, president of a UMW local in Fayette county, West Virginia, declared:

"I am not going back to work tomorrow—the day President Roosevelt set for the resumption of mining as he seized the shafts for the government last night."

Eubank said other miners in his local had the same "general understanding" but another workers' spokesman in the state argued, "We shouldn't leave quit in the first place."

End Of Giant Jap Flying Boat

ONE OF JAPAN'S BIGGEST FLYING BOATS, an engine spouting gasoline (top), plunges towards the sea after a five-minute engagement with two Navy carrier-based Hellcats near the Gilbert Islands. A few seconds later she hit the sea and exploded. U.S. Navy photo.

Hardrick "Billy" Cooper, salesman for an Atlanta Chemical Co., was a tall blonde with light blue eyes that seem forever to be looking out to sea. He was in Sanford on his route to different Army and Navy camps where he sells chemicals for disinfecting and other uses.

Doing Well As Civilian But Misses Thrills Of Flying
He visited Daytona recently he said. "I got acquainted with a WAC captain. She invited me to attend a night club. You know I felt awfully out of place—there I was a civilian, and everybody else in uniform. I like civilian life, and I have been quite successful as a salesman, but I feel awkward—all my friends in the service and here I am, physically fit, going around in civilian clothes."

"Besides, I've got a lot to be thankful for," he continued. "My mother was bombed and killed in a bombing raid by the Germans on Portsmouth, England. My father, Major John Cooper, who served as a captain of the British field artillery during the last war, was shot down over the English Channel in 1941 while ferrying a plane from Canada to England."

He added that while he had been born in Wales, he was an American, having been brought to this country at the age of 10 by his father.

"As I lay floating in the water at Daytona the other day, looking up at the sky, somebody suddenly ducked me," said Mr. Cooper. "I spluttered, raged and came up fifty feet. Then in front of me I saw the fellow who had done the ducking with his one good arm—his other arm was severed above the elbow. I blinked my eyes and gaped at him, and I'll be damned if I was there!"

New Air Force Foreshadow More Bombing

Moscow Conference Is Seen As Providing For Long Term German Occupation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP) Formation of a new all-American Mediterranean Air Command will be interpreted here as heralding an imminent step-up in bombing of Germany, in what may prove to be a significant signal.

The creation of a new 15th Air Force to be trained with the veteran 12th of Maj. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle, can only mean the number of bombers at Spang's disposal will be greatly increased and he is now ready to match the second force from Britain with comparable assaults from the south.

Meanwhile a complete long term military occupation of Germany will be the result of all major German armaments industries after the war is among the possibilities mentioned in speculation on what was decided at the Moscow conference. The American delegation is known to favor a plan to occupy all the larger German cities and paralyze the German war potential.

MEETING HELD AT WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(AP) A meeting of the Joint Chiefs of Staff today was held in the War Department building. The meeting was attended by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Secretary of War, General George C. Marshall.

Other and new means must be found to ship celery, lettuce and cauliflower that cannot be taken care of by crates. Mr. Lettice said new means of packaging must be found or more growers will move in bulk, he added. He stated that in this case less labor will be required to prepare future war time crops for shipment.
