

4 U.S. Marines Slain In Submachine-Gun Attack

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Gunmen killed four U.S. Marines, two American civilians and seven other people in a submachine gun attack on a crowded cafe district, officials said. Twelve people were wounded.

Justice Ministry officials identified the off-duty Marines slain in the attack Wednesday night as Tom Handworn, Gregory Webber, Patrick Kwajaski and Bobbie Joe Dickson. They apparently were in civilian clothes.

The ministry said U.S. citizens George Viney, a computer technician for the Wang company, and Roberto Albridez also died in the attack, which appeared to have been a random terrorist strike.

The men's hometowns, ages and military ranks were not released.

Six other civilians — a Guatemalan, a Chilean and four Salvadorans — were killed in the attack, along with one Salvadoran soldier, the ministry said.

In Washington, National Security Adviser Robert McFarlane said today the attack may be seen "as a time of testing for the United States."

"I think action against this outrage is justified," he said, but later explained he did not envision U.S. military involvement. McFarlane said he informed President Reagan during the night of the guerrilla attack.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman in San Salvador said six to 10 guerrillas in a Datsun pickup truck pulled up beside an outdoor restaurant in a residential sector of San Salvador and opened fire indiscriminately with submachine guns, killing the four Marines and nine other people.

He said all four Marines were security guards for the embassy.

A Salvadoran military spokesman said 12 other people were injured in the attack, all Salvadoran civilians. They were taken to an emergency clinic.

A state of emergency was immediately declared, the spokesman said, and air force helicopters flew over the area. Hundreds of soldiers were dispatched throughout the city to search for the gunmen.

An embassy spokesman called the group a unit of leftist rebels "dressed up as members of the armed forces."

"In our judgment it is not clear whether the guerrillas specifically intended to kill the Marines or if the Marines just happened to be in the place the guerrillas decided to attack," he said.

"About 8:45 this evening (local time) a Datsun pickup truck with anywhere from six to 10 men in camouflage uniforms pulled up beside a cafe in one of San Salvador's nightclub districts, and these terrorists opened fire with automatic weapons across what amounted to nearly a block of wall-to-wall cafes," said Donald Hamilton, another embassy spokesman. "Obviously when terrorists open up with automatic weapons toward a crowd of several hundred people, you're going to have this many casualties."

A White House spokesman said today that "we're aware of the report," but had no further comment.

The shooting of the Marines was the first killing of U.S. military personnel in El Salvador since May 25, 1983, when the deputy commander of the U.S. military group, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Albert A. Schaufelberger, was shot by left-wing guerrillas.

According to the U.S. Embassy, Schaufelberger, 32, was sitting in his car outside the University of Central America, waiting for a friend when two men shot him four times in the head.

Seminole Won't Hike Tax Rate

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Commissioners voted unanimously early today to keep the county-wide property tax rate at its current level of $4.18 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

Even though a greater tax base would have allowed for a 18-cent per $1,000 reduction and still have brought in the same amount of revenue as last year, commissioners in three days of budget work sessions with department heads opted to add staff and services requiring greater income.

Commissioners Fred Streetman and Bob Sturm said the property tax rate should be reduced if county staff finds more money from other sources. But Commissioners Bill Kirchhoff, Sandra Glenn and Barbara Christensen said they prefer to maintain the $4.18 rate.

Mrs. Christensen has said she would vote for a tax increase for road improvements and none of her colleagues earlier disagreed, but County Budget Director Eleanor Anderson said today an increase is not necessary because there is enough money from all sources to fund all road projects thus far approved.

On Wednesday, commissioners voted to add 10 new employees to Sheriff John Polk's department to bring to a total of 19 new people to that department, eight of them corrections officers, in the 1985-86 fiscal year. Polk had asked for 31 new employees.

And commissioners approved the hiring of a property acquisition coordinator, but not in County Attorney Nikki Clayton's office. Earlier in the week, the commission rejected Ms. Clayton's budget calling for the coordinator and a secretary, a new assistant attorney, federal law books and bookcases because of frustration in the time it is taking for acquiring rights-of-way for road projects like Red Bug Lake Road. Ms. Clayton insisted that her office could not move to acquire the rights-of-way until designs for projects were submitted. Even after that, she said, surveys, title searches and negotiations had to be done before her office could go to court to acquire the property through condemnation.

In line with their desire to get more roads paved, the commissioners agreed to boost Public Works Director Larry Sella's road budget from $1.3 million to $2 million. Sellers is to tell the commissioners today the roads he recommends for paving with the extra $700,000.

In addition, Deputy County Administrator for Development Woody Price was given the $450,000 budget he requested for studies necessary to prepare a new comprehensive land use plan.

In his second appearance before the county commission, Polk got approval from the board for two new school resource

Others Won't Change Travel Plans

Student Trip To Bypass Athens

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County school officials canceled a student group's trip to Athens, Greece, Wednesday because of alleged lax security at the city's airport, from which TWA Flight 847 was hijacked.

Other Seminole County travelers are going ahead, albeit apprehensively, with plans to go to Greece and the Middle East, local travel agencies reported today. However, the agencies polled report there aren't too many people traveling to the Middle East this summer.

Six teachers and about 70 students from Seminole are scheduled to leave Friday for a 25-day tour of Europe, which up until Wednesday, included a stop in Athens.

"We had planned to go to Greece but because of the international situation and the safety of our students we decided to go to Madrid instead," said Joanne Bohannon, registrar at Lake Brantley High School and one of the coordinators of the trip.

In addition to Madrid, the students are scheduled to tour five countries and visit most of Europe's major cities, including London, Paris and Florence.

The stop in Athens was canceled after teachers polled parents of the students and asked them if they favored a trip to Athens or not. In light of the hijacking of the TWA flight, "The parents felt and we felt we needed to take an alternate route, particularly since the president has urged us (the American people) not to go there. We need to honor our government's request," Ms. Bohannon said.

Sanford P&Z To Review Plan For $12 Million Jail Addition

The site plan for the $12 million addition to the Seminole County jail at Five Points is scheduled to be reviewed by the Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission tonight at 7 in City Hall.

The addition, which includes renovations to the existing facility, will add about 121,000 square feet to the building, more than tripling the size of the complex, according to Dale Nederhoff, architect for Watson and Co. which is designing the project. The existing facility contains about 62,000 square feet.

The addition will house about 480 more inmates, bringing the total to 716, as well as a food, laundry and general services center, Nederhoff said.

The jail's present capacity is 212, according to Nederhoff, a figure disputed by Seminole County Sheriff John Polk who says it's 236. Whichever is correct, the jail is overcrowded. About 263 inmates are presently packed into the jail, Polk says.

Nederhoff said the addition will have a modular design with five hexagonal "pods" that will house 96 inmates each. Corrections officers will be stationed in the center of each pod to guard the inmates.

The addition will be made of

GNP In Sharp Rebound

Consumer Prices Held In Check

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer prices, held in check by decreased food costs for the third straight month and a slower increase in energy products, rose only 0.2 percent in May, the Labor Department said today.

The May figures mean that what had cost $100 in 1967, now costs consumers $321.30.

The 0.2 percent increase, reported by the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics on a seasonally adjusted basis followed increases of 0.5 percent and 0.4 percent in March and April, respectively.

The transportation, food and beverage, and apparel and upkeep portions of the index all registered declines in May, the bureau said.

Meanwhile, government economists today estimated the economy is growing at a 3.1 percent rate, a sharp rebound for the gross national product from only 0.3 percent growth in the first quarter.

In projecting the "flash" GNP figure, the Bureau of Economic Analysis assumed that sales are increasing, that less merchandise is being tied up in inventories, that trade losses are shrinking a little and that business spending is going up sharply.

If the assumptions do not prove correct the "flash" will turn out to be too high, as happened in the first quarter. The first quarter "flash" was 2.1 percent.

With regard to consumer prices, the bureau said the sharp turnaround in the transportation component, as a result of smaller increases in gasoline prices and declines in new and used car prices, was largely responsible for the moderation in the overall May index.

"On the other hand, the housing component, reflecting a more rapid increase in shelter costs, advanced more than in recent months," the bureau said. "All other major groups — medical care, entertainment and other goods and services — rose the same in May as in the preceding month."

The bureau said that for the first five months of 1985 prices rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 3.9 percent, about the same as for all of 1984.

The bureau said food and beverage prices dropped 0.1 percent, apparel and upkeep 0.1 percent and transportation 0.2 percent.

Gasoline prices continued to increase, but by only 0.5 percent in May as compared to increases of 3.6 percent in March and 3.1 percent in April. New car prices dropped 0.2 percent and used cars declined 1.4 percent.

Grocery food prices dropped for the third straight month, down 0.4 percent, led by declines in meats, poultry, fish, eggs, fruits and vegetables. Beef prices dropped 2.6 percent in May and were 5.9 percent lower than at the end of 1984.

Housing prices rose 0.6 percent in May as did medical care costs. Other increases came in entertainment, 0.3 percent, and other goods and services, 0.4 percent.

The bureau said automobile finance charges dropped for the sixth consecutive month, down 1.4 percent, but automobile insurance rose 0.7 percent and was 9.4 percent above its level a year ago.

In housing, maintenance and repair costs declined 0.5 percent, while fuel and utilities costs increased 0.2 percent. Fuel oil prices declined 0.5 percent, after advancing 3.3 percent in April. Charges for gas and electricity rose 0.5 percent and 0.1 percent respectively. The index for household furnishings and operations rose 0.1 percent, the same as in each of the preceding months.

Case Of The Docile Doberman

Under the nose of a guard dog, a thief cut the chain locking a fenced compound of a Sanford gas station Monday night, and stole a car confiscated last week by Seminole County sheriff's agents.

But sheriff's Capt. Jay Leman didn't blame the unexpectably docile Doberman pinscher.

"It had a hurt paw. He had a bad night," Leman said.

Sheriff's agents seized the 1987 Chevrolet Camaro last Tuesday after they arrested a man and charged him with driving without a license tag and a suspended driver's license. The car was taken to Butch's Chevron, 1122 Celery Ave., where the theft occurred.

Security has since been stepped up at the station.

Leman said the man charged in the original case, Tracy Steven Towers, 25, of 512 Satauma Drive, Sanford, was arrested again Wednesday charged with auto theft. Towers, released on $5,000 bond last week, was being held today in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Chronic Sex Offender Sentenced In Child Assault

A Longwood man convicted three times this year for child-sex crimes and currently serving a life sentence for molesting a 9-year-old girl received additional prison time Wednesday — 4 1/2 years for fondling an 11-year-old girl.

Sentenced was John Sessums Worling, 52, of 318 Heather Drive.

According to court records, Worling assaulted all the children — including the latest victim — in the same manner: molesting them while they were at his house playing on a swing or with computer games. The assaults occurred during recent years until his arrest in September.

Worling has maintained that he is not a bad person and blames his troubles on hysterical parents, coaxed children and the news media.

In the case for which he was sentenced Wednesday, Worling was convicted of fondling the girl while placing her on a swing. He testified at his trial in February that he was "protecting" her with his hands from parts of the swing each time he put her on it.

RAN WITH KNIFE

Two Sanford men have been charged with armed burglary after a Sanford policeman chased them from a suspected burglary site and reportedly found a large butcher knife under one of them.

The pair was nabbed in the woods off Magnolia Avenue near 15th Street in Sanford. A police officer reported chasing two men from the Velma Mitchell Administrative Annex.

A knife was found hidden on the ground under one of the suspects after they were cap-

PANCAKE HOUSE CASE

Casselberry police have charged a 19-year-old Longwood man with the January theft of $200 from a Casselberry restaurant.

The man allegedly stole keys from the purse of the owner of International House of Pancakes, 700 E. state Road 436, Vera Duncan, 46, when she left her purse on a counter at the restaurant, a police report said.

Keys from the purse were used to open a safe from which Ms. Duncan said $200 was missing.

Police said the girlfriend of a suspect gave them a lead in the case on Friday. Arthur Robert Rippey, of 1340 Boyer Drive, was questioned by police, and charged with grand theft and petty theft. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

HIDDEN GUN

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy who saw a suspicious bulge in the rear pants pocket of a Longwood man searched him, found a handgun and charged him with carrying a concealed firearm.

The suspect was spotted on Fernwood Boulevard at Oxford Road, Fern Park, at about 8:50 p.m. Tuesday. Paul Sarbough Jr., 63, of 485 Seminole Drive, was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Fredrick Joe Vance, 22, of 108

Poplar Ave., Sanford, at 3:26 a.m. Wednesday in front of his home after he was seen driving the wrong way on U.S. Highway 17-92. Sanford. He was also charged with careless driving and fleeing and attempting to elude police after not stopping when first signaled by Sanford police.

—Tyrone B. Robinson, 29, of 73 W. Orange St., Apopka, at 5:41 p.m. Tuesday after driving on the wrong side of Celery Avenue, Sanford. He was arrested on 11th Street in Sanford after a police pursuit and was also charged with careless driving and attempting to flee and elude police.

—Sandra N. Butler, 28, of 750 Lorman Circle S., Longwood, at 2:25 a.m. Wednesday after her car reportedly sideswiped a parked vehicle on Florida Avenue, Longwood.

'Lust' Not Enough To Throw Out Anti-Pornography Law, Court Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Lust" may not be the right word to define obscenity, but it was no reason to throw out Washington state's anti-pornography law, the Supreme Court has ruled.

The court, on a 6-2 vote with Justice Lewis Powell not participating, Wednesday reversed an appeals court ruling that said Washington state's obscenity law was not specific enough in outlining what kinds of books, magazines, movies and other materials were obscene.

The court said only the portion of the law that dealt with "lust" should have been invalidated.

"Unless there are countervailing considerations, the Washington law should have been invalidated only insofar as the word 'lust' is to be understood as reaching protected materials," Justice Byron White wrote.

However, in a dissent Justice William Brennan, joined by Justice Thurgood Marshall, said the Washington law was "unconstitutionally overbroad and therefore invalid on its face."

In other action, the court:

—Ruled that former Attorney General John Mitchell cannot be sued for conducting illegal wiretaps while in office, even though Cabinet-level officers are not immune from similar damage suits.

In a 4-3 decision that split the justices two ways on two issues, the court said Mitchell does not have to go to trial on charges he conducted warrantless electronic surveillance in 1970 because the illegality of such wiretaps was not established until a year later.

But the court said, also with a 4-3 majority in which two justices did not vote, that "the attorney general is not absolutely immune from suit for damages arising out of his allegedly unconstitutional conduct in performing his national security functions."

—In a major victory for unions, ruled 6-3 that pension fund trustees have a right to audit all employer payroll records, even those of non-union workers.

—Held 8-0, with Lewis Powell abstaining, that citizens who criticize prospective federal officeholders in letters are not absolutely immune from libel suits.

The high court reached its decision on the Washington state obscenity law after poring over a variety of definitions of lust, including dictionaries dating to the 1930s and former President Jimmy Carter's famous remark that he had "looked on women with lust."

In arguing its case before the Supreme Court, Washington state also used the dictionary.

"The (appeals) court failed to note, however, that the dictionary still defines prurient as lasciviousness and that lascivious is defined by the same dictionary as: 'inclined to lechery; lewd; lustful,'" the state said.

They added that the appeals court's "reliance on a dictionary definition is simply misplaced" because such definitions are not legal, judicially defined terms.

However, those fighting the law, including distributors of sexually explicit material and civil liberties groups, argued that dictionary definitions were appropriate to define obscenity because they reflected the common usage of words.

Washington state has been attempting to pass an anti-obscenity law since 1977 when voters adopted a sweeping initiative measure aimed at wiping out "moral nuisances."

In 1980, the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco ruled the initiative unconstitutional because it was vague and overbroad and infringed on the right to freedom of speech.

The state legislature, responding to the appeals court, enacted a second law in 1982. The law allowed officials to ban materials that were deemed "prurient," which was defined as "that which incites lasciviousness or lust." Opponents of the law said the Supreme Court would only allow banning of materials that promoted "morbid or depraved interest in sex, nudity or excretion."

Twelve days after it was passed, U.S. District Judge Robert McNichols refused to let officials enforce it until it had been reviewed by the federal courts. The judge eventually rejected the ordinance as overly broad and the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals agreed for a second time.

The ordinance could not pass constitutional muster, the appeals court said, because it outlawed materials that incited lust. The word had so many different meanings, the court said after consulting a variety of dictionaries, that it was not an acceptable standard.

"Indeed, the word has acquired such acceptable connotations that, prior to his election in 1976, Carter confessed in a popular national publication that he had 'looked on a lot of women with lust (and) ... committed adultery in my heart many (times).'" the court said.

"We do not think President Carter was describing a shameful or morbid interest; rather, he was obviously expressing a healthy, wholesome, human reaction common to millions of well-adjusted persons in our society."

Screw In Burger Worth $25,000

PENSACOLA (UPI) — A man who found a screw in a hamburger he bought at a fast food restaurant four years ago was awarded $25,000 in damages, but the South Carolina firm that lost the case has asked for a new trial.

An Escambia County jury Tuesday deliberated a half-hour and awarded James Busby of Gulf Breeze $24,000 in damages from Spartan Food Systems Inc. The jury also awarded Busby's wife $1,000 after she claimed she was kept awake by her husband's tossing and turning.

But attorney Robert Heath of Pensacola, who represents the Spartanburg, S.C., firm at the half-day trial, said he has already filed a motion for a new trial and said the company is "looking" at a possible appeal.

Busby, a former computer salesman who lived in Pensacola Beach at the time, said he had taken his family to a Hardee's restaurant in Gulf Breeze, south of here, on Aug. 26, 1981 to grab a bite to eat.

Busby, who is now manager of Digital Systems Inc. of Pensacola, said he bit into the metal screw after taking a bite from a Hardee's Big Deluxe hamburger. Busby filed suit, claiming the object tore up his mouth.

Heath said the firm never disputed that the screw was in the hamburger Busby purchased. The attorney said the company felt Busby was entitled to be reimbursed for medical expenses, pain and suffering, but said the case came to court because the company felt the claim of $25,000 to $30,000 in lost wages was too high.

...An Evening To Be Remembered

The 1935 graduating class of Seminole High School held its 50th class reunion at the Skyport Restaurant on June 8 with "much gaiety and reminiscing," according to Margaret Ganas. "The committee did a superb job of gathering classmates from New York, Virginia, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, Sanford, Lake Mary, Winter Park, Orlando, Tampa, Plant City, Sarasota, New Smyrna Beach, Jacksonville, New Port Richey, Ponce DeLeon, Dunedin, St. Petersburg, Hollywood, Holly Hill and Deltona," she Dot Powell, Katherine Vernay Miller, Helen Ceresoli Constantine, Billy Vihlen and Jack Kanner formed the committee who spent many hours of detective work and telephoning on this labor of love, resulting in the attendance of 64, including Honored Class Sponsor, Mrs. Elizabeth Shoemaker Lynch, Mrs. Ganas said.

Mrs. Frank (Helen Vernay) Chase, the other class sponsor, was unable to attend due to celebrating her golden wedding anniversary in North Carolina. The entire class of 1985 was invited to that wedding, Mrs. Ganas said.

The cocktail hour began at 7 p.m. with dinner at 8 from a bountiful buffet. Champagne was furnished by George McRory of Ashton, MD. Vihlen served as M.C. and after the welcome and invocation everyone settled down to an evening to be remembered with no speeches regarding grandchildren.

Time flew as had the 50 years and before leaving many expressed the desire of getting together again in five years, Mrs. Ganas said.

Prisoner Desires To Benefit Mankind While Serving Time

DEAR ABBY: I am a 54-year-old man who is just beginning to serve a 50-year prison sentence. There is absolutely no chance of my being released earlier, hence I am resigned to the fate of having to die in prison.

Why must I be compelled to go on suffering the dehumanization of prison confinement until I die? Is there any way I can volunteer to be a "guinea pig" to advance medical science in its search for a cure for AIDS or cancer?

Although I am not a homosexual, I do not hate my fellow human beings for being human.

Any assistance you can render in this matter would be greatly appreciated. Perhaps by my death I will be able to accomplish that which I failed so miserably to do in my 54 years of life. Thank you.

NO. 15621-008

DEAR NO. 15621-008: Sorry, there is no way you can escape serving your sentence by offering yourself as a human guinea pig. I have heard of some prisoners volunteering for non-life-threatening experiments. But to my knowledge, human sacrifices are not accepted to further medical research.

You seem to be an intelligent, well-intentioned person. Ask your prison chaplain how you can make a contribution to your fellowman while in prison.

DEAR ABBY: Recently "Disgusted" complained that she had discovered a peephole on the wall of a ladies' rest room at a gas station. You advised her to write to the consumer relations department of the oil company that owns (or leases) the gas station. Your advice was sound but limited.

In Delaware, people are entitled by law to privacy when they are using the bathroom. Anyone who installs in any private place, without the consent of the person entitled to privacy, a device for observing events in the private place or anyone who uses such a device is guilty of a misdemeanor, which is punishable by up to two years in prison. I believe that a peephole is a device and that a rest room, public or privately owned, is a private place for purposes of Delaware's law. Other states may have similar laws.

Anyone who is victimized by a creep using a peephole ought to contact the police. If that does not work, she might consider contacting her attorney. I understand that there have been large verdicts awarded against people who have invaded women's rights to privacy in rest rooms and dressing rooms.

CHARLES M. OBERLY III, ATTORNEY GENERAL

DEAR MR. OBERLY: Bravo for Delaware. But how about equal rights for men? Or aren't men entitled to as much privacy as women?

DEAR ABBY: I think "Disgusted," who finds "peepholes" at filling stations, is taking you for a ride.

Holes in the walls of such places? Sure. Holes left by vandals who have ripped toilet paper holders and soap fixtures off the walls. A peek into any of these would give a nice view of a cinder block or the backside of aluminum siding.

In my view this is one of the most ridiculous letters you have ever published. I drive up and down the East Coast with some frequency, and find attendants much too busy to glue themselves to some peephole. I see public facilities wrecked by vandals. I don't see peepholes.

Vandalism is a subject much better addressed, and it is not confined to filling stations.

Take to the road sometime, Abby, and you'll find that toilet paper in public rest rooms is a rare occurrence. The vandals have gone off with that, too.

I suspect you're being a bit naive here, Abby. But I love you all the same.

Childproofing House Can Help Save Lives

DEAR DR. GOTT — Yesterday I took my 5-year-old son to the hospital to have his stomach pumped. He ate a whole bottle of my thyroid pills, which I had stored in the top kitchen cabinet. The little devil climbed right up — I wouldn't have believed that he could do it. Please warn your readers of this kind of danger.

activity, but I mention it to illustrate the corollary: by ignoring non-patterned sensations, you can block out an enormous amount of nervous "static" produced by our complicated nerve systems. Life becomes simpler and more enjoyable. Naturally, any persistent hurt may indicate an abnormality that should be checked out.

DEAR READER — Poisoning and accidents are the No. 1 killers of children. Any family with preschoolers must take meticulous care to protect youngsters. Although medicine cabinets are a prime source of trouble — and should be locked — other areas in the house are dangerous, too. Cleaning agents, solvents — in fact, any hydrocarbon compounds — can be lethal. Chemicals of almost any sort, particularly lye, can have tragic results when children who attempt to swallow them.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is it possible that I am allergic to the

Go through your house like a child — on your hands and knees. If you must — to identify sources of poisoning. Use childproof latches on all cabinets. Put tightly stoppered cleaning materials well out of reach. Use childproof caps on all medicine, aspirin and vitamins included. Keep particularly poisonous medicines in a locked box.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Why do various parts of my body hurt for a very short time? I have heard that this is caused by nerve endings. Will this continue, and what is the treatment? I never heard of this until I saw my doctor last month.

DEAR READER — Various aches, pains and hurts are normal for most healthy adults. If the transitory discomforts you feel have no predictable pattern, you are probably better off ignoring them. There are webs of nerve endings over virtually every millimeter of the body's surface. These early warning systems alert us to danger. However, sometimes they misfire and produce pain for no apparent reason.

When you focus attention on any area of the body, you can — with enough practice — make pain appear. I don't endorse this

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

"Winning Defense for the Advancing Bridge Player" is the title of Frank Stewart's latest contribution to bridge literature. He selected a title which should offend no one, since all of us are certain that we are getting better at bridge.

Early in the book, Frank demolishes the old chestnut "second hand low." Here is the deal.

West leads the four of hearts to his partner's king, which wins the trick. East continues with the heart jack and then the eight, which South finally wins.

Now comes a low diamond, and West must be alert to the right play. It is absolutely essential for him to put up the king. Otherwise declarer will put in the 10, which will be won by East's jack. On the next diamond play, West's king will go under dummy's ace, and the rest of dummy's diamonds from the queen down will all be winners.

Of course in many instances putting up the king would not prevent declarer from eventually running the suit. After all, South can let West hold the trick. If that were to happen here, West would immediately take two more heart tricks to set the contract.

"Second hand low" is a fine old adage, and it is usually right. But if you're one of Frank Stewart's advancing bridge players, keep your eyes open for the exceptions.
