School Officials Settle Dispute With Kradle Kare

By Kathy Tyrity
Herald Staff Writer

All four district school employees assigned to teach and care for children with multiple handicaps at the private Kradle Kare home in south Seminole County have been reassigned and replaced following lengthy personality disputes and a final battle over whether the children should wear disposable diapers, according to school officials.

Two newly-assigned teachers and two aides commenced working with the 30 handicapped children this week, following a two-month shutdown of the home to district employees imposed by the school's director and founder Dave Meier.

Ruby Hendrix, principal of Rosenwald Exceptional Child Center, who helps operate the handicapped students' care, and Don Ricci, director of exceptional education, said they were pleased that the school at the home is running again after a two-month shutdown. But they said the children were the real losers during the dispute because they had not been receiving their education and therapy for that length of time.

Meier said his staff of nurses and physical therapists has taken good care of the children, seeing to it their needs were met while administrative problems were worked out.

He explained that he was concerned over many months that the children weren't getting their due and he did not want to assume liability for teachers who are injured on his property or who harm the students. At one point, his staff (excluding the district employees paid to work there through a contract with the school board) signed a petition asking for changes.

Officials and Meier signed an agreement this week. See SETTLE, page 10A

SIB Names Chairman

$3,000 In Pledges Revealed

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

The controversial leader of Sanford's Scenic Improvement Board stepped down from its chairmanship Wednesday during the SIB's annual reorganizational meeting. The board's new chairman, Ray Priest, is director of site planning for Cardinal Industries.

Former Chairman Sara Jacobson will stay on as a board member, but a less active one, she said Wednesday. She also reported she recently collected $3,000 in pledges from about 40 local residents and businesses as shows of support for the SIB's beautification efforts.

The SIB finished out 1986 conducting a city commission requested "self-evaluation" amidst charges that Ms. Jacobson and other board members were promoting Sanford's beautification with a heavier hand than city charter allows.

On Wednesday, the board wrapped up the review and will submit its results to Mayor Bettye Smith. Addressed were charges made last fall by city commissioners Milton Smith and Dave Farr, who said they felt the board had overstepped its role as an advisory body. The commissioners alleged board members directed city staff who implement SIB projects and were pressuring local businesses and private organizations to improve their property's appearance. Smith also proposed Ms. Jacobson's resignation as board chairman, although the move was not supported by a commission majority.

Mayor Smith will receive a position statement from the board, saying the review had been completed and no serious problems found. Back-up data will include letters of support from businesses and organizations the SIB has worked with, the names of the businesses and residents who pledged the $3,000, and a memo from Faison saying he feels the SIB hasn't directed city crews.

Ms. Jacobson said the pledges were received through phone calls she made for three days. The support should help offset recent criticisms leveled against the board's projects, she said.

"Granted, I didn't call the enemy," she said, but those she did call were "asked to document their support through the old adage of putting your money where your mouth is."

Ms. Jacobson said all but two or three of those she called agreed to make pledges and the respondents "are attesting to the positive acceptability of the beautification campaign."

Callers were 'asked to document their support through the old adage of putting your money where your mouth is.'

-Sara Jacobson

The donations range from $25 to $100, and will be submitted through checks made out to "The City of Sanford," she said. Cardinal Industries has also committed about $500 worth of plants for a yet to be determined SIB project, Priest said.

Ms. Jacobson said City Manager Frank Faison will have the donated funds placed in an account earmarked for beautification efforts. The seven SIB members present for Wednesday's session all agreed to add $25 to the fund.

In nominating Priest for the chairmanship, Ms. Jacobson said she wants to devote more time to the three businesses she runs in Sanford. "I don't think it would be fair to continue to dominate the (SIB) chair and not give it the attention it requires and deserves," she said. "The chairman needs to take a very active role in order for things to get done."

Ms. Jacobson chaired the nine member SIB since its formation in January 1985. Her board appointment expires next year.

Priest was unanimously voted in as the board's new chairman on a nomination by Ms. Jacobson.

Ms. Jacobson said she didn't want another term and that her decision was not prompted by recent board controversies. Instead, she said the chairmanship has been hampering her desire to begin devoting more time to professional pursuits.

On another nomination from Ms. Jacobson, the board unanimously agreed Judy Wimbish will continue as SIB vice-chairman.

Ms. Jacobson said as opposed to other city boards, the SIB is "self-initiating," in that it works up its own projects. The projects are implemented by city crews after city commission approval.

Priest said Wednesday he looks forward to serving the city as board chairman and will continue joining with fellow board members in putting recent controversies to rest and continuing beautification projects.

"Life's full of criticisms," Priest said Wednesday. "Some See SIB, page 10A

Auction Money Slated For Top Students

By Kathy Tyrity
Herald Staff Writer

Scholarship money collected from the Seminole Community College Dream Auction thus far and next month will have to go to academically outstanding students — whether they are needy or not — rather than simply to financially needy students, according to Ken Jarrett, administrator of budget and accounting for the division of community colleges with the state Department of Education.

"The program is not designed (specifically) for students with financial need," Jarrett said. He quoted the statute saying scholarships must be "program specific and require high academic achievement for students who qualify for or retain scholarships."

He said also the scholarship program may be used for "minority recruitment" of students, but may not be used for athletic programs. However, he said the program is designed to recruit the most "promising black students."

In addition, the students assisted will have to be in a program the school wishes to emphasize, such as nursing, which school officials feel meets a strong community need, Jarrett said.

In a letter to school patrons invited to this year's Dream Auction, the school states that the SCC Foundation assists about 1,000 college students annually with money for tuition or books, and the major fundraiser of the foundation each year is the Dream Auction. But it does not say the Dream Auction doesn't fund any of those scholarships for students in need, but must follow state mandates to help academically outstanding students. And that can only go to students in a college program-enhancement project approved by the state.

Asked about that possible misunderstanding, Dr. Earl Weldon, president of the college and the foundation, said it (the letter) may indeed be misleading, but it was really a question of semantics. "All the money will be going for helping students," he said, regardless of from which pot the money is drawn. "I understand what you are saying and I think it's logical, but it's really a question of semantics, because the total amount of money makes our operation possible," he said.

Although SCC has collected more than $200,000 in Dream Auction funds thus far (the figure includes state matching funds) for the special scholarship fund, the board hasn't actually made a formal request to the state on how to use the funds. And no scholarships have yet been given from this fund, said Dr. Jim Sawyer, vice president for Student and Information Services.

SCC officials said this morning they hope some of the interest ($13,600) from the two-year-old fund can be given to 10 or more students in the fall, following a plan by the SCC board of Trustees that would have to be state-approved in the spring.

Jarrett said the auction funds which are augmented by the state don't have to go to scholarships.

"They can go for equipment or a number of 'quality improvement' programs," he said. But the college has said it will use

High Court Hospital Ruling Won't Affect Seminole

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Private hospitals may no longer count on public hospitals to accept their patients who cannot pay under a Florida Supreme Court ruling that effectively outlaws the practice known as "patient dumping." The ruling, however, will apparently have no effect on patient care in Seminole County.

The 6-1 ruling came Tuesday over a dissent by Justice Joseph Boyd, who warned of financial hardship to the private hospitals, their paying patients and insurance companies.

"I believe that the 'dumping' of indigent patients on public hospitals is far preferable to dumping them on the streets," Boyd wrote. The American Hospital of Miami, Inc., the Federation of American Hospitals, the Florida League of Hospitals and 47 private Florida hospitals argued state law requires public hospitals like Jackson Memorial in Dade County to accept non-emergency indigent patients.

But a majority led by Justice Ben Overton said private hospitals have a legal obligation to bear their share of the burden. The majority rejected the hospitals' contention that public hospitals must accept such patients or reimburse private hospitals for their care, but invited the Legislature to address the issue.

Jim Tesar, administrator of Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford, said the ruling will have no effect on indigent patient care in the county because there is no publicly supported hospital here to transport such patients. The three private hospitals pass the costs on to paying patients, he said.

He said CFRH does receive some money from the county for care of poor patients but only if the patient meets the county's income criteria and that is not known until after they are treated, he said.

"Once we admit a patient, we see that patient through to the end of the hospitalization," he said.

Longwood Eyes Higher Sewer Hook-Up Fees

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

The Longwood City Commission has given tentative approval on another boost in the cost of Development Assistance Fees to those who may want to connect to the city's sewer system and set a public hearing for Jan. 19.

The action taken Monday night was proposed because of increased cost of hooking up to Seminole County's Greenwood Lakes regional treatment plant. The city has borrowed $2.5 million to build its own 600,000 gallon per day plant, but with the change in plan has come up $680,000 short.

On Dec. 1 the fees went up from $5.50 to $8.50, but when it was learned that will not be enough an ordinance was prepared calling for the Development Assistance Fee for sewer to be $5.50 a gallon plus the sewer capacity charge to the city of Longwood from Seminole County or about $11 per gallon.

In the meantime City Administrator Ron Waller has been asked to look into other options to avoid the increase.

Tentative approval was also given to vacating and abandoning a portion of Wildmere Avenue west of Sarah Avenue and a portion of Charles Avenue north of Marvin Avenue at the request of Georges St. Laurent, owner of St. Laurent Properties. This would total about 1 1/2 acres, according to Mayor Ed Myers. A public hearing and final action are scheduled for Jan. 19.

The developer wants the unused portions of the streets closed so that the company can build a 171,000 sq. ft. warehouse on property next to its commerce park.

City Planner Chris Nagle said one benefit to the city in the plan is the property would be back on the tax rolls with a higher assessment bringing additional taxes to the city.

Ann Sweeting, representing St. Laurent said 1500 feet of six-inch water lines would be put in at a cost of about $20,000 and turned over to the city. The company's engineer John Morrison said the system will be looped providing better fire protection.

The city can either sell the vacated property, receive compensation or enter into an agreement.

Faced with the expiration of paying bids the following day, Longwood City Commission also voted 4-1 Monday night to approve assessments to pay for improvements on South Milwee Street and North Milwee (formerly West Lake Street) between West Warren

Jewel Thief Awaits

A Texas man, convicted in a 1983 theft of $1.5 million worth of jewelry in Texas and who faces charges of stealing another $250,000 in jewels in Texas in August, Wednesday remained in the Seminole County jail following his arrest at a Fern Park home Dec. 31.

Wesley Donald Crowder, 36, who has waived extradition to Dallas, Texas, was awaiting Dallas authorities who are scheduled to pick him up some time this week for a return trip.

Seminole County sheriff's department officials said Dallas police, through a teletype on Dec. 31, notified local lawmen of Crowder's location in Fern Park and that he was wanted in connection with the Aug. 9 theft of jewelry from the Tower of Jewels store, where he had been hired as a salesman Aug. 8.

On the job he had reportedly been seen taking jewelry from a locked cabinet in the store and putting them in a box which he put in his car.

Crowder, who did not have custody of his children left Texas with them. The children, ages 5, 12 and 14, were with him when he was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies in Fern Park and they have been returned to their mother in Texas. In Fern Park Crowder used the name Frank Bower.

In February 1985 Crowder was paroled after serving 15 months for a $1.5 million jewel theft from another jewelry shop for which he worked.

Fake Cocaine Leads To Jail

A person who reportedly paid $20 to a man who handed over fake cocaine at the Disco Food store reported the sale to Seminole County sheriff's deputies and described a suspect.

A police bulletin describing the suspect was issued and a man matching that description reportedly identified the man before he was arrested.

Charged with sale of a counterfeit controlled substance was Ronald Reginald Davis, 23, of 107 Mercury St., Altamonte Springs. He was arrested at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday on Magnolia Ave., Altamonte Springs, and was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

There was no mention in the arrest report of charges being filed against the victim in the alleged sale and the report did not say if that person was working with police as an informant or undercover agent.

One Inmate OK In Razor Blade Caper

One of two Seminole County jail inmates, who each swallowed a razor blade on New Year's Day at the jail, Wednesday passed the blade with no apparent ill effects, jail officials said.

That inmate, Robert Kevin Sawyer, 32, of Charleston W. Va., had along with his former cellmate, Robert Lee Morgan, 19, of 849 S. Wymore Road #22-D, Altamonte Springs, been under medical watch at the jail since the incident. Morgan continues to be watched and is scheduled for additional X-rays at Central Florida Regional Hospital at Sanford Thursday to determine the location of the blade he swallowed.

When in line to receive routine, prescribed medicine at about 8:50 p.m. on Jan. 1, Sawyer stepped up to a jail nurse and, as she watched, wrapped a single edge razor blade in a butter patty wrapper, put the blade in his mouth and swallowed it. Morgan advanced and did the same.

Both were taken to CFRH where they were examined and X-rayed, then returned to the jail within four hours after the incident.

Jail administrator Capt. Jay Leman said the men gave no reason for having swallowed the blades. The blades had been taken from disposable razors distributed to inmates. The razors are confiscated by jail officials after they are used, but Sawyer and Morgan apparently were able to hide two from guards.

Five Suspects Sought For Vendor Insult, Truck Assault

A vendor for Dot's on the Dot mobile catering described for Seminole County sheriff's deputies five men she said insulted her and then threw objects at her company truck at about 1:45 p.m. Tuesday on Longwood Hills Road, Longwood.

The woman said the men flagged down her truck and approached when she got out. One of them made a sexual remark and as she backed away another of the men grabbed her. She told them she needed to get money from her truck and was released. She got in the truck and as she drove away the men threw objects at the truck and broke a side mirror on the vehicle, a sheriff's report said.

In addition to descriptions of the suspects, deputies have a description of their late 1950s Ford pickup truck, which had the name of a landscaping company on its door. The case is under investigation.

Early morning patches of fog gave way to clear and sunny skies over Seminole County this morning as a three or four day hiatus from chilly air and overcast skies set in. Low last night in Sanford was 51 degrees but it shouldn't be that far down tonight.

A gradual cooling trend should set in this week-end introduced by showers on Saturday.

The second winter storm to strike the West and Southwest this week, blanketing parts of Utah with another 30 inches of snow, headed into the central Plains today, while snow was scattered over New England.

Snow fell early today across much of Colorado, northern New Mexico, Kansas and portions of the Oklahoma and northern Texas panhandles. Three inches fell overnight at Las Vegas, N.M., while Denver and Dodge City, Kan., picked up an inch.

More than a foot of snow was expected to pile up in southwestern Colorado and the mountains of New Mexico by the end of the day.

Storm warnings were posted for southwest Kansas the mountains of north-central New Mexico, northwest Oklahoma and the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles, the National Weather Service said.

DeLand Man Sentenced To 30 Years For Sexual Assault On Child

A 34-year-old DeLand man charged with sexual battery on a child has been sentenced to 30 years.

After 17 years in prison, Ray Douglas Marple is to serve 13 years probation and not be alone with any female under the age of 17. He was sentenced by Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor.

McGregor ordered Marple receive treatment as a mentally disordered sex offender. He also gave Marple credit for 18 days already served.

According to court records, the 9-year-old victim and her mother, a friend of Marple, told Lake Mary police on May 10 about the assaults.

The girl told police she delayed telling her mother about the incidents because the man threatened to hit her if she told. The girl also told police that when the man "touched her it hurt a lot," a police report said.

In a second case, a Winter Springs man was sentenced to a year in jail or complete a drug program for possession of a variety of drugs.

Kurt Vining, 20, of 1603 Little Sparrow Court, was given the choice by McGregor.

According to arrest records, Vining was stopped when an officer who knew Vining's license had been suspended saw him driving a car on State Road 436 in June.

After the arrest, he was also charged with possession of controlled substances, drug paraphernalia, marijuana, pills and cocaine, which were reportedly found in the car.

In a third case, a Leesburg woman arrested on charges of forgery and grand theft was sentenced to three years probation.

Tequilla Renee Morris, 22, was sentenced by McGregor.

According to court records, Ms. Morris was arrested July 2 at Circle K convenience store on Country Club Road in Sanford. Sheriff's Sgt. Ken Starr reported that just before Ms. Morris was arrested a man had allegedly tried to cash a money order Ms. Morris reportedly had bought there earlier. A clerk refused to cash the money order because it had not been bought by the man.

Sheriff deputy Vicki Morris was called to the store by the clerk and while deputy Morris was at the store the suspect arrived but drove away when she saw deputy Morris, who stopped the woman.

When deputy Morris questioned the woman she at first gave her own name, but then gave her mother's name, Mildred P. James, as her own, a sheriff's report said. The woman had no identification, Starr's report said.

Deputies determined that the Mildred P. James' Sun Bank account, on which the stolen checks were drawn for a total of about $400, had been closed on June 27 because Ms. James had reported that her daughter had allegedly stolen her checks and had forged and cashed some, the report said.

Ms. Morris also allegedly tried to cash a money order bought at another Circle K in Sanford. When the clerk said she didn't have enough money to cash the money order, Ms. Morris allegedly cashed a $35 check drawn on Ms. James' account, the report said.

A man arrested on a charge of attempted murder has pleaded guilty to shooting into an occupied vehicle.

Arthur Benefield, 21, of 93 Stephens St., Oviedo, entered the plea before Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Lefler who set sentencing for Feb. 3.

According to an arrest report, Ronald Roux had reported to Seminole County Sheriff's deputies that his vehicle was shot at around 5:30 p.m. July 29. The incident followed a fight on North Street near Altamonte Springs. Two other men arrested on similar charges await final disposition of their case.

In a second case, a man who was caught napping on a golf course has pleaded no contest to battery on a law officer and resisting arrest with violence.

Kirk McKinzie, of no permanent address but formerly of Winter Garden and Winter Park, is set to be sentenced Feb. 3 by semi-retired Circuit Judge Volie Williams.

According to an arrest report, McKinzie struggled with a deputy in January 1986 after McKinzie was caught and bystanders had to help subdue him.

In a third case, a man arrested in connection with a greenhouse of marijuana has pleaded guilty to possession of more than 20 grams of marijuana.

Sentencing was set Feb. 4 for Michael Muscato, 19, of 5636 Deer Path Lane, Sanford. Two codefendants await final disposition of their cases.

According to an arrest report, Muscato and the other men were arrested after agents spotted the greenhouse from the air. The agents, from several law agencies, had received a tip that marijuana was being grown in the area.

They confiscated more than 100 pounds of the illegal plant, some of them up to seven feet tall.

The greenhouse was near the Deer Path location, behind 12 Oaks Campground in the Seminole Woods area off State Road 46, records show.

In another case, an uninvited man who reportedly entered the home of a Longwood woman, then awakening her in bed has been sentenced to 5 years probation.

Michael Carullo, 21, of 1217 Randolph St., Sanford, was sentenced by Circuit Judge Robert

B. McGregor.

The woman told police Carullo pulled the covers off her, lay on top of her, and held a knife to her throat while making sexual advances, according to an arrest report.

She struggled and forced him away from her and he fled after threatening her and her family if she reported the incident to police. Three days later, police were called to the woman's home and arrested Carullo.

In another case heard recently, a man charged with spouse abuse, battery on a law enforcement officer and resisting arrest with violence was sentenced to a year probation.

John Joseph Szczewinski, 30, was arrested after a dispute in July with Susan M. Szczewinski at 85 Georgia Ave. in Longwood, an arrest report shows.

According to the report, Szczewinski, in the presence of police, used foul language and pinched his wife. He then walked towards his house, disobeying police orders to stop, and went in and shut the door. A police officer followed him inside and grabbed his arm and told him he was under arrest. He then resisted and broke free, striking the officer in the face, according to the report.

UN Budget Action Merits Support

The United States finally has succeeded in reforming United Nations budget practices. Congress should celebrate this historic event by authorizing payment of $110 million in United Nations dues withheld this year.

That's the recommendation of Vernon A. Walters, the Reagan administration's chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations. Walters says a General Assembly resolution passed nine days ago fulfills a congressional mandate that member nation's budget influence be commensurate with their dues payments.

The resolution certainly conforms to the spirit, although not the letter, of the Kassebaum amendment. That legislation, named after Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan., required a 20 percent cut in U.S. dues contribution unless the General Assembly adopted weighted voting on budget matters. Such a change would require amending the U.N. Charter.

Instead of amending the charter, the General Assembly strengthened the authority of its 21-member budget-making committee, which traditionally votes by consensus. In effect, the new rules give each of the committee's members — including the United States — veto power early in the budgeting process. The budget committee also will set a ceiling on supplemental spending that can be allocated after the budget is adopted.

These long-overdue reforms create the needed balance between a nation's dues and its influence on the U.N. budget. Last year, countries that contribute 80 percent of the U.N. budget either voted against the budget or abstained.

The United States pays 25 percent of the United Nations' $800-million-a-year operating budget, down from 30 percent before 1972. But Congress voted in 1985 to reduce the United States' contribution to 20 percent unless the budget process changed.

Now that these changes have been approved, Congress should restore full funding to the United Nations. And U.N. officials should encourage international deadbeats, including the Soviet Union, to follow suit.

The world needs the United Nations. Despite its shortcomings, and they are legion, the United Nations has been a positive influence on the world for 41 years. It remains the world's most important international forum and our best hope for peace on Earth.

Trickster Picture

"Did you hear the latest on Leo and Mona? That Da Vinci — didn't he just love to play tricks?"

"Yeah, I've heard," said the college computer's friend, waiting with us at the morning bus stop. "So what trick does it seem that he played on Mona?"

"The biggest trick of all. He created her, but she doesn't exist."

"Say what?"

"No kidding. Some artist with a computer measured the picture and figured it out. Nose, eyes, hairline, smile — they're the same as in one of the painter's self-portraits. So the mystery is solved. That was no lady; that was Leo."

"Maybe not," warned a busstop eavesdropper. "Computers can measure, but no computer can outthink a good trickster. Who says Da Vinci used himself as the model for Mona? More likely, he used Mona as a model for himself. After all, her portrait came first. Leo must have laughed when he drew her face later with a beard like his, and everybody called it a perfect self-likeness."

We laughed too. It's touching, the faith people put in computers. But it's nice to hear the notion that this computer makes Mona Lisa more mysterious, not less.

Rampant Racism Is Reagan's Legacy

A mushrooming of racial setbacks in the last few weeks may be fulfilling the ominous prophecy of a 1968 government report.

"This is our basic conclusion," warned the Lyndon Johnson-appointed Kerner Commission:

"Our nation is moving toward two societies, one black, one white, separate and unequal."

On the threshold of 1987, that movement leapfrogged across the country in Howard Beach, N.Y.; Tampa, Fla.; Jefferson Parish, La.; Charleston, S.C.; the University of Massachusetts; Philadelphia and Arizona.

No longer a regional aberration, racism has been upgraded to legitimacy.

Until Ronald Reagan became president, the Kerner Commission's words have never been ratified with the imprimatur of the presidential seal. It's taken Reagan six years to accomplish this distinction.

But Reagan's benign spirit of "separate but equal" is not new, even though it may deny it finds inspiration in the 19th-century eloquence of that distinguished Southern racist, Henry W. Grady.

"Not the cowardly mask or shotgun," declared Grady, for whom the University of Georgia School of Journalism and Mass Communication is named, "but the peaceful majesty of intelligence, massed and unified for the protection of its (the South's) homes and the preservation of its liberties."

A few days ago, those same sentiments were uttered by a Howard Beach construction worker after a black man had been beaten and killed by a car as he fled from his white assailants.

"It's very easy to spot a black person in this neighborhood," said the worker, "and whenever I see one, I know he's up to no good. They come in the neighborhood and rob everybody."

I can appreciate that emotion, implied Washington Post columnist Richard Cohen, who wrote a justification of D.C. downtown merchants who refuse to admit young black males to their stores.

In Jefferson Parish, La., Sheriff Harry Lee ordered his men to stop all black men "driving a car late at night in a predominantly white neighborhood."

At the famed Citadel in Charleston, S.C., Ku

Klux Klan-clad cadets harassed a black cadet, who later resigned. The tepidity of their punishment suggested to many blacks that the Citadel was not offended by the racist prank.

At the University of Massachusetts, a large group of white students violently attacked a small group of blacks who had made the mistake of cheering for the New York Mets' defeat of the Boston Red Sox in the World Series.

But racism is a two-way street. In Philadelphia, a group of black teenagers savagely beat up an Asian student while a group of black girls stood around and cheered.

This is the new racial polarization that Ronald Reagan has left America as his legacy.

After six years of publicly opposing legitimate efforts to raise the economic and educational standards of blacks and eviscerating the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, the nation is reaping the harvest of Reagan's racism.

And all of us are morally poorer because of it.

Hawaiian Raindrops Biggest

Weather researchers have found some of the world's largest raindrops over the Pacific Ocean near Hawaii.

Cloud physicist Kenneth Beard of the University of Illinois said the drops were as big as 8 millimeters, or about one-third of an inch, in diameter — three times the size of raindrops previously observed in Hawaiian showers.

Beard said the largest raindrop on record was a 9mm one photographed by the Illinois State Water Survey in Champaign during a 1953 thunderstorm.

The discovery of the large raindrops in tropical showers challenged previous assumptions that large drops were rare and had short lives because they would disintegrate in collisions with more numerous small drops. Beard said the life expectancy of the Hawaiian drops was long — about 10 minutes.

The finding is expected to be helpful in interpreting weather radar results, a process that relies heavily on information about raindrop size, Beard said.

Beard and colleagues were participating in the Joint Hawaiian Warm Rain Project, sponsored by the government's National Science Foundation, when they observed the big raindrops in the summer of 1985. They reported their findings in a recent issue of the journal Geophysical Research Letters.

EB Registry Established

The National Institutes of Health has established a national registry for patients with epidermolysis bullosa, a rare hereditary blistering disease suffered by an estimated 50,000 Americans, mostly children.

The skin disorder, often known simply as EB, can range from a relatively mild case to severely disabling and sometimes fatal condition.

The patient registry, under the direction of Dr. D. Martin Carter at The Rockefeller University in New York, is designed to obtain statistical and genetic information from patients and their families, to help researchers assess the economic and social impact of the disease and to help link researchers and patients willing to participate in EB research projects.

The NIH's National Institute of Arthritis and Musculoskeletal and Skin Diseases is supporting four EB medical centers in conjunction with the registry.

Bob Dole Emerges As Republican Hero

By Jack Anderson and Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — As the incoming congressional Democrats and the tenacious surviving Republicans assemble in Washington to take up their respective dominions, they must warily pick themselves out of the shambles of Iranamuck. For the wreckage is littered with political hazards.

The scandal has broken down the cordon sanitaire around Ronald Reagan. But before the Democrats resume their Reagan bashing, they might hearken to the advice of Wilbur Mills. Once a power in the party, he was ruined by alcohol but is now the most sober man in Washington. He has warned party leaders privately that the attacks on the president could backfire.

Mills has advised them not to underestimate Reagan's buoyancy; the president's cheerful visage may yet loom above the wreckage. Given his ingrained nonchalance about details, it is unlikely he was aware how far his subordinates had gone. He has always steered the ship of state, setting the course and issuing orders from the bridge, without much interest in the workings of the engine room.

Though Reagan may now be sagging in public esteem, he has always been able to exude a special calm. Mills predicted that, in the end, most Americans will feel the president is entitled to sympathetic national understanding.

Meanwhile, a degree of paralysis has already been inflicted on the Reagan administration. This may excite and delight Democrats of narrow perspective, but those with broader vision are concerned about the damage to the credibility and stability of the United States.

If the Iranian revelations keep reverberating in the public dialogue, Mills said, the Democrats may lose more than they will gain. For bashing the president has its inherent dangers — hazards that will be tested in the 1988 presidential election.

Among the many constellations shaken by Iranamuck is George Bush. He achieved his place in the heavens as the tail to Ronald Reagan's comet, but on the descent, the tail appears to be ahead of the comet. Somehow the woebegone Bush has sustained more measurable political damage than the president.

Bush is seeking the kind of sympathetic neutrality asked of the Lord in the story about the country boy who was running along a railroad track inside a long, narrow tunnel while a train bore down on him from behind. As hope of escape withered, he cried out, "Lord, if you can't help me, for God's sake don't help the train!" Iranamuck seems to be helping the train.

But if Bush can't be rescued from the train, this will remove the presidential contender whom Democratic strategists considered easiest to defeat. Worse, his place is even now being taken in the polls by the candidate they fear the most: Senate Republican leader Robert Dole.

The nimble Dole is a charter member of the crew of Senate

Reagan's Critical Winter

By Helen Thomas

UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI) — This may be the winter of President Reagan's discontent.

Although he is an eternal optimist, which has been a tremendous political asset, the president may be wondering what his final two years in office hold for him.

He has had a longer honeymoon than most presidents. His popularity has remained phenomenally high for a second-term chief executive, and he has kept the Democratic opposition off stride throughout his White House years.

But something happened on the way to the forum last fall. The Republican Party lost the Senate, putting both houses in the control of the Democrats two years before the presidential election.

And the roof fell in on the administration with the revelations that Reagan had been sending secretly arms shipments to Iran, a country on his terrorist list, with the proceeds from the sales diverted to the rebels seeking to overthrow the Nicaraguan government.

The disclosures were a bombshell and severely strained the credibility of the Reagan White House that already was trying to repair damage from its "disinformation" campaign against Libya.

The president also revealed a lot about his style of governing when he stated flatly that he did not know that profits from weapons sales had gone to the guerrillas, known as Contras.

Three major inquiries will soon get under way to determine the truth: what happened and who was running the show.

Vice Adm. John Poindexter, who quit as national security affairs adviser, and an aide, Lt. Col. Oliver North, who was fired, handled the covert operation with the help of the CIA and other agencies, including the Pentagon.

Reagan, who underwent prostate surgery this week, has not held a news conference since Nov. 19 after the Iran arms sales were discussed. He has not answered questions publicly in depth on why he did not know about the diversion of funds to the Contras, and how it is possible that such information could have been kept from the chief executive.

He is hoping he can get the scandal behind him and finish out his last two years in the White House with a continued pursuit of the Reagan Revolution.

WILLIAM RUSHER

Letter To Liberals

Dear Friends,

Believe me, I understand very well the high hopes with which you greeted 1987. Having been defeated in the last presidential election by your usual 49 states to 1, and facing 1988 without any serious hope of improving much on that score, you were forgivably desperate.

Then a Beirut weekly disclosed what the massed resources of your Washington press cronies had not managed to discover: that President Reagan had been dealing secretly, even to the point of arms sales, with certain elements in the government of Iran — elements which, in turn, had obtained the release of three of our hostages in Lebanon! It was the work of only a moment to condense this whole series of transactions into "trading arms for hostages," convert yourselves retroactively into firm opponents of "bargaining with terrorists," and denounce President Reagan in shocked tones for bad policy and (worse yet) "deception."

But that was only the beginning. Too bad it was Reagan who told the press about the secret diversion of arms-sale profits to the Contras, rather than vice versa. Still, disciplining was called for. National security adviser John Poindexter and Lt. Col. Oliver North had to go, and the stage was set for the gaudy pair of Democrat-controlled congressional investigations now under way.

So your high hopes for 1987 are understandable. Surely, some law has been broken by somebody. If Ollie North so much as skin on the sidewalk, he can be prosecuted to justify these heavy-breathing probes. And if (just in) it can be established that somebody really high up did something truly reprehensible...! No wonder you marvel at this apparent recurrence of the Miracle of 1974, when your vanquisher was struck down by what must have seemed to you the inevitable consequences of his obvious defects.

Of course, you know very well that you aren't going to be able to impeach Ronald Reagan, or force his resignation, or even diminish materially the affection with which he is held by the American people. But you are confident that he can, at a minimum, be depicted as a half-senile non-entity, unaware of what was going on in his own administration. As a national leader, as a symbol of a new dispensation, Ronald Reagan (you are sure) is through.

It is true, of course, that no president is as strong at the end of his administration as he is at its beginning. And it is even true that the Iran/Contras controversy has forced the Reagan administration into an unaccustomed defensive posture of indefinite duration. But let me disabuse you, my liberal friends, of any notion that the strategic balance of political forces in this country, or the issues that shaped them, have somehow been fundamentally altered.

The welfare system that you foisted on America in your heyday is a shambles and you know it. You created a vast new underclass of permanent mendicants, and all but destroyed the black family.

NATION IN BRIEF

President To Leave Hospital, Schedule Limited For Week

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, restless and on the mend from prostate surgery, awaited a final go-ahead from his doctors today to leave Bethesda Naval Hospital and complete his convalescence back at the White House.

That word was expected early amid strong indications that Reagan, who sailed through this week's surgery and related examinations for cancer, would return to the White House by the end of the day with a clean bill of health.

Reagan tended to presidential business, was visited by two top aides, the first lady and daughter Maureen, and dined on beef stew and rhubarb cobbler Wednesday as his doctors put off a decision on when to send him home.

He also visited another patient at the hospital, Navy Petty Officer Michael Ryan, 37, of Urbana, Ill., assigned to the USS John F. Kennedy.

Air Force Wants To Fix B-1

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Major problems afflict the radar and other key electronic systems aboard the B-1B bomber that cripple the capabilities of the new plane, and senior officials say the Air Force is seeking $486 million to solve them.

Lt. Gen. William Thurman, commander of the Aeronautical Systems Division at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio, estimated Wednesday that fixing the problems will take more than a year, when the 100th B-1B is to be delivered to the Air Force in April 1988.

The problems have not affected deliveries of the plane, built by the Rockwell International Corp. The B-1B is the successor of the B-52 and the forerunner of the radar-evading "stealth" bomber under development by the Northrop Corp.

The Air Force and the Pentagon asked for $600 million for the next two years for the B-1B just as the first 15 of the $280 million planes went on alert at Dyess Air Force Base, Texas, last month, Pentagon officials said. Some planes at Dyess were grounded initially because of fuel leaks and other problems.

Babbitt Begins Presidential Bid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt, a leader of the conservative wing seeking a new direction for Democrats, is the first in his party to launch a 1988 presidential campaign committee.

Although not well known nationally, Babbitt hoped to use his Sunbelt base, a record of strong economic achievement in Arizona and a less liberal philosophy than New Deal Democrats to break through the field now led by former Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado and Gov. Mario Cuomo of New York.

Babbitt's announcement Wednesday came as Edward Rollins, the architect of President Reagan's 1984 race, said he was joining the yet unlaunched presidential effort of Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y.

Rollins, who ran the Reagan-Bush landslide over Walter Mondale, turned his back on Vice President George Bush and joined the conservative New York congressman best known as the author of the Kemp-Roth tax and budget cuts of the early Reagan years.

Engineer: Signals Cleared Train

ESSEX, Md. (UPI) — A Conrail engineer testified an early track signal that should have told him to prepare to stop cleared him to proceed through the switch where his locomotive was rammed by an Amtrak train, killing 15 people, investigators said.

The Washington Post reported today, however, that the federal investigators determined the engineer should have been able to stop his locomotive in time to avert the accident if he heeded the signals he claims to have seen.

Conrail engineer R.L. Gates and brakeman Edward Cromwell testified under oath for 90 minutes Wednesday before a National Transportation Safety Board panel investigating the deadliest accident in Amtrak's 15 1/2-year history.

Homeless Advocate Lives The Street Life

By Susan Seeger

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ted Hayes has a wife and four children waiting for him at home in the suburbs, but he says he is happier living on the streets of Skid Row and serving the poor.

An articulate former preacher who left his suburban life two years ago, the bearded, gaunt-faced Hayes has emerged as the chief spokesman for the nation's largest concentrated population of homeless men, women and children.

His latest project is Tent City II. Pitched in a park across from City Hall during the holidays, the 16 tents have provided temporary shelter to more than 200 homeless people and served nearly 1,000 meals a day.

"I had to do this to make a noise, to do something controversial," Hayes said.

He is now trying to get the state, city and county, which jointly own the tent city site, to let the homeless live in a three-story parking garage underneath it.

Hayes, usually wearing a leather fringed vest, his hair beneath a blue scarf, spends most of his days panhandling on the streets and his nights huddled with other homeless activists in a parking garage at the Music Center.

But on weekends, at the request of his wife, Arlene, he takes the bus or gets a ride to his house in Arlington, a semi-rural community about 50 miles east of downtown, to visit his family.

"I visit, but it's not my home," said Hayes, 35. "I have no home. I don't think I'm ever going back home. Not unless the homeless situation turns around."

'I have no home. I don't think I'm ever going back home. Not unless the homeless situation turns around.'

Hayes said he has been a preacher and worked as a roofer, but admits he has never really had a full-time job.

His four children, ages 7 to 14, cling to their father when they see him. They say they miss him, but are proud of him.

"At least he is doing something to help," his oldest daughter, Hadia, 12, said after she and the rest of the family paid a visit to their father and camped out at Tent City with him.

The family is especially worried these days about a Skid Row serial killer linked to the deaths of seven men downtown. "L.A. is a rough place," Hadia said. "But he told me not to worry because Jesus Christ won't let anything happen to him."

Los Angeles has the largest homeless population in the nation, with an estimated 33,000 men, women and children lacking a permanent place to live, according to Mayor Tom Bradley's office.

Arlene Hayes said she is not sure her marriage will survive the strain of her husband's absence. But "I would never say to Ted, come home, because I know he has to be there," she said.

The marriage has been tested by other strains, she added, including the fact that he is black and she is white.

Mrs. Hayes said she shares her husband's strong religious convictions that Christians should help the poor, and she would join her husband if it were not for their children.

At home, she has taken in five homeless teenagers. She supports her family with a part-time teaching job, money sent from relatives and welfare payments.

Hayes said he misses his family, too, but felt he had to give them up.

He quotes a passage from Matthew. "And everyone who has forsaken house, or brethren, or sister or father or mother, wife, child (and) lands for my name's sake shall receive one hundredfold and receive everlasting life."

Besides setting up a permanent shelter for the homeless, Hayes has other long-term plans. One of them is Justiceville Urban Regenerational Villages, which would set up three communities to be run by and for the homeless — one downtown, one near downtown and one in a rural area.

"We've got to decentralize downtown," he said. "It's a concentration camp. It's dangerous and unhealthy."

Hayes's life with the homeless began when he paid a visit to the first tent city in late 1984. He said he thought he would merely preach and sing to the homeless for a day or two.

But after a few days on the streets, he said he found a place where he was needed. He had been looking for a way to serve God and help the poor ever since he was dismissed from several churches on the East Coast because of his radical ideas about an imminent revolution of the underclasses.

He has since rejected organized religion and preaching, although he quotes from the Bible often. Looking for work, the Hayes family came west in the 1980s.

"I have been called a protector of thieves and thugs," Hayes said. "Man, what an honor. I feel humbled by that. I know God is behind me."

In the two years since becoming a self-appointed spokesman for the homeless, Hayes has evolved from a spontaneous street activist into a more sophisticated organizer.

Some praise his outspoken views on the plight of the homeless, while others find him disorganized, abrasive and too far-out.

"There are some people who consider him to be a radical because of the garb and the way he talks," said Jay Melnick, aide to City Councilman Ernani Bernardi. "But I don't consider Ted as a radical. I consider him to be very mainstream."

"He's a very articulate, intelligent person," Melnick said.

"When he first came around, he was pretty unsophisticated about City Hall bureaucracy, as most lay people are. He's really learned quite a lot. I give him a tremendous amount of credit for that."

Radar Review Fails To Confirm UFO

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Federal investigators said a review of radar tapes failed to show a UFO shadowing a Japan Air Lines cargo jet, contradicting reports made by the crew and the air traffic controller who handled the plane.

The Federal Aviation Administration's examination of radar tapes shows what appears to be a second object near Japan Air Lines flight 1628 on Nov. 17, but investigators now believe it to be a double image from the JAL Boeing 747. FAA spokesman Paul Steucke said Wednesday.

The FAA released details of the UFO sighting Dec. 29, revealing the flight controller handling the jet saw an object on radar 5 miles from the plane. The Anchorage Air Route Traffic Control Center directed the crew to take evasive maneuvers, including a 4,000-foot drop and a 360-degree turn.

Co-pilot Takanori Tamefuj, 39, said Wednesday in an interview with United Press International that he did not know why the FAA first confirmed a nearby object and now dismisses it as an image of the 747.

"At first I thought it was head-on traffic. I was a little scared," said Tamefuj, who has 10 years of cockpit experience. "Actually, I saw something flying to our left. ... I thought there were two (objects), but I couldn't identify them. It is very unusual."

Although the FAA is satisfied with the double image explanation, the inquiry is continuing with interviews of the crew and a review of data, Steucke said.

In his second interview with the FAA Tuesday, Tamefuj reiterated that he saw lights, and Steucke said the co-pilot's testimony supported the pilot's.

The FAA reopened its inquiry of the incident with a second interview of the pilot, Capt. Kenji Terauchi, who again said he saw lights. Steucke said the FAA also plans a second interview with flight engineer Yoshio Tsukuda.

Steucke said all three have told the same story: Blinking yellow, amber and green lights appeared too close to their plane for comfort.

Steucke said the FAA believes the controller apparently misinterpreted what he saw on his screen. But Steucke defended the controller's response, saying, "He had a pilot tell him he was seeing something right there. This is not something where he can take a risk even if it is a double image."

The radar image seen in the JAL cockpit and by the controller also appeared intermittently on Air Force radar. Air Force spokesmen dismissed it as "random clutter."

Terauchi, 47, who has 29 years experience, said he saw two small objects and a third enormous object as his plane was flying from Reykjavik, Iceland, to Anchorage as part of a chartered cargo flight from Paris to Tokyo.

Steucke said the FAA will complete its inquiry and send a report to its Washington headquarters, but he said he doubted whether the mystery of the lights over the arctic that November night will be solved.

"The bottom line," Steucke said, "is that this tells us that we don't have any radar confirmation of the object that the pilot said he saw."

Social Security Head Attacks Interest Group

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Social Security Commissioner Dorcas Hardy has denounced a group led by a son of President Franklin Roosevelt for solliciting money from old people for the avowed purpose of saving their Social Security benefits.

Hardy accused a lobbying group headed by former Rep. James Roosevelt, D-Calif., of being "irresponsible" and "inaccurate."

A spokesman for the organization headed by the son of the president who began the Social Security System denies scare tactics have been used to raise money.

The group began a nationwide mass mailing Dec. 26 in which senior citizens are warned by Roosevelt that "never in the 51 years since my father, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, started the Social Security system have there been such threats to our Social Security and Medicare benefits as (in this) decade."

The four-page letter says the government has used money from the Social Security Trust Fund to keep its checks from bouncing and that Congress has cut benefits for more than 10 million Americans born after 1916.

It notes that Social Security payments are being taxed for the first time under the new tax reform law and claims that the retirement age for receiving full benefits, will be increased from 65 to 67.

"I expect to receive a lot of complaints," Hardy told United Press International in an interview Wednesday. "Congress will receive numerous complaints."

"This is really very irresponsible to suggest that current (Social Security) beneficiaries have to pay $10 to an organization to save something that's perfectly OK," she said.

Hotel Fire Victims Evacuated After Bomb Threat To Hospital

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UPI) — Responding to anonymous bomb threats, authorities Wednesday evacuated a hospital treating victims of the Dupont Plaza Hotel arson disaster and a hotel where the resort management had set up an operations center.

"We suspect this has to do with patients from the Dupont Plaza," said Jose Alberto Rivera Rodriguez, medical director of the state-run Industrial Hospital. "Obviously this is speculative, but in the past, we've never had these calls."

Meanwhile, investigators opened up a new avenue in their search for the exact cause of the fire that killed 98 people, saying a non-explosive incendiary device has now not been ruled out.

Police reported at least 15 bomb threats Wednesday in the metropolitan area and in the southern city of Ponce, but said no explosives had been found. The threats, most by telephone, were made after noon.

Beirut Airport Bombed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — At least 10 shells crashed into Beirut Airport today, hitting an empty passenger plane 30 minutes after 80 people left the aircraft, an airport security officer said.

Maj. Mustafa Ibrahim said the Middle East Airlines Boeing 707, which had just arrived with 80 passengers from the Ivory Coast capital of Abidjan, caught fire but there were no reports of casualties.

Ibrahim said the airport was closed and all flights into Lebanon were diverted to nearby countries.

Ibrahim said at least 10 shells crashed into the airport's runways and tarmac in a 90-minute span beginning at 8 a.m. The main terminal building, which was packed with people, was not hit.

Anniversary Celebrated In Exile

LUSAKA, Zambia (UPI) — The African National Congress, the oldest nationalist movement fighting white-led rule in South Africa, marked its 75th birthday today, still outlawed and in exile in Zambia.

The exact site of the anniversary celebration was not disclosed because of fear of an attack by South Africa. "We have evidence that there are such plans for South African security forces to attack the ANC," said an official who asked not to be identified.

The official said government officials and diplomats were invited to attend the commemoration ceremony. "We expect the missions of the major nations will be there and that includes the United States," the official said.

There was no confirmation of the invitation by U.S. Embassy officials.

Vietnam, Chinese Fighting Fierce

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Chinese troops engaging in the fiercest battles with communist rival Vietnam since 1979 have focused their fighting on an entry point along the Sino-Vietnamese frontier, a Vietnamese Embassy spokesman said today.

The spokesman charged Chinese forces launched a three-prong drive Monday to seize hills in Vi Tuyen District in the Ha Tuyen Province. China claims the fighting was a "counterattack" to recent Vietnamese provocations.

A Vietnamese diplomat in Bangkok indicated the fighting some 170 miles north of Hanoi, the heaviest since the February 1979 border war, was continuing today. He declined to give details.

Hanoi claims 500 Chinese soldiers were killed but Peking denied that and said its frontier guards in Yunnan Province "wiped out" 200 Vietnamese soldiers and "annihilated" an entire company.

South Africa's Outlawed ANC Turns 75

By Kevin Jacobs

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — The African National Congress — outlawed, exiled and its leader in jail for life — this week marks 75 years as the vanguard of resistance to minority white domination in South Africa.

Celebrations planned for today at its headquarters in the Zambian capital of Lusaka coincide with a darkening anti-ANC mood in Pretoria as South African President Pieter Botha prepares white voters for a general election in a country under siege.

But the rebels, 26 years into a sporadic guerrilla war against white rule, have broadened their international image as world opinion on apartheid hardens.

Acting leader Oliver Tambo already has been received in London and he is due to meet U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz in Washington later this month — his highest-level contact yet with the American administration.

The ANC's constituency is untested in South Africa and support for it illegal. But it leads a continuing rebellion in seething black ghettos and from havens beyond the nation's borders.

Two years younger than unified South Africa, the ANC presents conflicting images: freedom fighters and terrorists.

To many of the nation's 25 million blacks, the oldest nationalist movement in black Africa is the agent of liberation.

Most whites, ranging from supporters of Botha's Afrikaner-led white government to more liberal critics, see the movement as random killers at worst. At best, they recognize it as a powerful voice of black demands.

Movement leader Nelson Mandela, in the 23rd year of a life jail sentence for sabotage, is known worldwide as a prisoner of conscience. He is a symbol of resistance whose personality is submerged by an almost mythical international reputation.

Two years after the British Cape and Natal colonies and two Afrikaner republics united as the Union of South Africa, several hundred prominent blacks formed the South African Native National Congress in Bloemfontein on Jan. 8, 1912.

It opted to use black power to advance black interests, sidestepping sympathetic white go-betweens.

It rollercoasted through years of growing frustration as moderate protest gained little, and the National Party's accession to power in 1948 structured apartheid more severely.

The movement, renamed the African National Congress in 1923, was radicalized by association with the South African Communist Party, a link Botha frequently cites.

After leadership squabbles and a breakthrough by black consciousness followers to form the Pan-Africanist Congress (PAC) in 1959, an increasingly militant ANC rose to greater prominence.

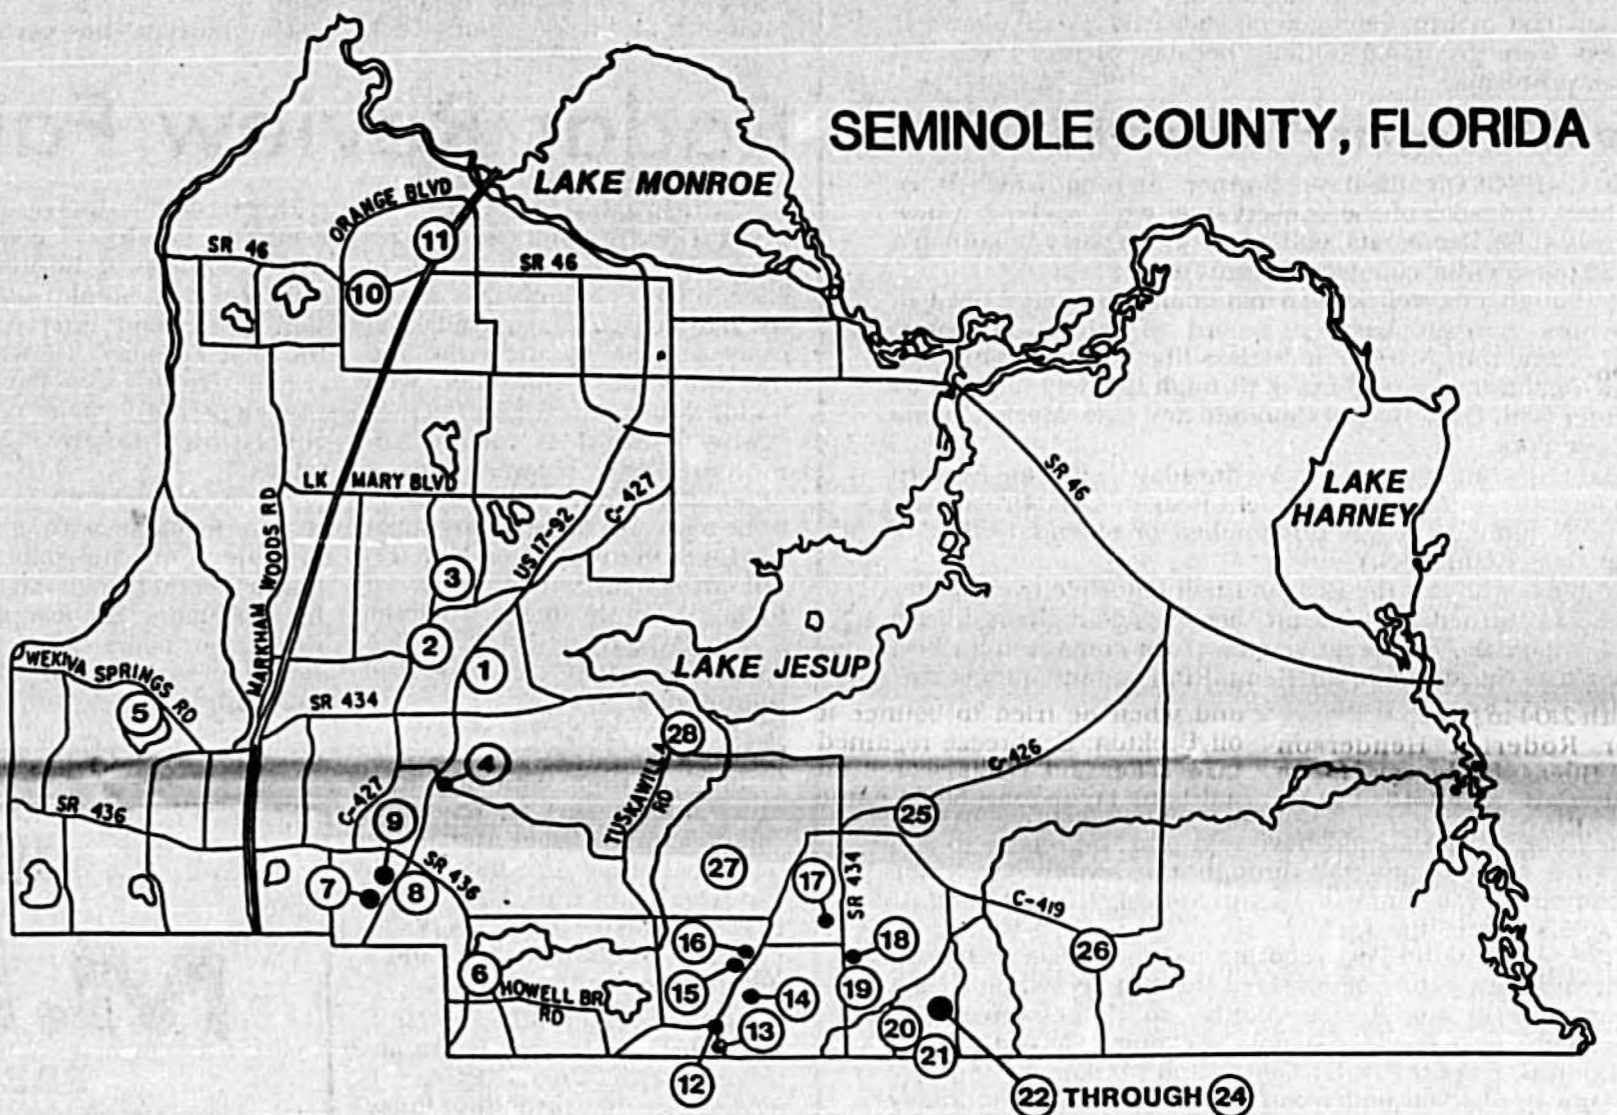

Under a state of emergency the two black movements were outlawed on April 8, 1960. In 1963 the ANC formed Umkhonto we Sizwe (Spear of the Nation), an underground military wing.

For 26 years its guerrillas have conducted a hit-and-run campaign of incursions, bombings, landmining border roads, attacking white farms and fomenting black revolution.

Mandela was jailed for five years in 1962 on charges of leaving the country illegally.

Sea Search For Orlando Woman Discontinued; Still Seek 8 Others

MIAMI (UPI) — Two fishermen who spent 52 hours in a life raft after their fishing boat sank in the Gulf of Mexico Monday have been rescued by another boat, the Coast Guard said today.

But Coast Guardsmen continued the search for another eight people missing off Florida. Efforts to find an Orlando, Fla., woman whose sailboat rolled in rough seas were suspended.

The two who were rescued had been aboard the fishing boat Shannon, home ported in Tarpon Springs, Fla. They clambered aboard a life raft after their craft went down. They drifted around for two days before being found about 90 miles west of Hudson Wednesday night by the fishing boat Fat Cat.

The Coast Guard dispatched a vessel to go out to the Fat Cat and bring the two unidentified survivors to shore.

The Coast Guard said there was little or no hope of finding the missing woman.

Air Crash Kills Pilot

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A light plane crashed into the Ochlocknee River shortly after takeoff at the Tallahassee airport, killing the pilot and injuring a passenger, officials said today.

They said the plane had taken off from the Tallahassee airport Wednesday and went down minutes later, killing pilot Benjamin Brown and injuring James Edwards, both of Tallahassee.

Officials say Edwards jumped from the plane as it was going down. He landed in the river and suffered a broken arm, but was able to swim to shore.

The two men were beginning a business trip to St. Augustine, Fla., when the crash took place.

Witnesses say the Cessna 210's engine began sputtering before the crash took place. Federal authorities were investigating.

Condo Regulations Questioned

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Condominium owners who agree to association regulations prohibiting children or pets may unknowingly be agreeing to rules that violate their constitutional rights, a law researcher says.

Alison Lisa Patrucco of the University of Florida's Center for Governmental Responsibility says condominium associations are within their rights to set parking and building alteration rules, but may not have the legal power to regulate other aspects of owners' actions.

Payne, Raiders Break Lake City Jinx

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor
Bill Payne has yet to attend a state tournament as Seminole Community College basketball coach. Prior to this year, the fifth-year mentor had yet to make a successful (victorious) trip to Lake City either.

One jinx was shattered Wednesday night when Payne's Raiders knocked off the Timberwolves, 83-74, in Mid-Florida Conference basketball at Lake City. Armed with a 17-2 record, Payne said he hopes a berth in the final eight will be the next conquest.

"It was a great win. We played under control this time, but I don't know what bearing it will have on the conference race," Payne said this morning. "The two best teams are in the state are in our division (Florida Junior and Daytona Beach), but last night may have determined where the tournament is played."

Payne was referring to the post-season qualifying tournament which sends the winner as the second conference representative. Payne said a host site is deemed crucial since it is so tough to win on the road.

Seminole improved to 2-1 in the conference. The Raiders trail 3-0 Central Florida and 2-0 Daytona Beach. Florida Community (formerly Florida Junior) is 1-1. The Raiders host the University of Central Florida junior varsity Friday and Valencia Saturday. Lake City fell to 11-8 and 0-3.

The Raiders' frontline of Claude Jackson (7 of 13), Vance Hall (8-13) and Barry Dunning (8 of 12) combined to hit 21 of 38 field-goal attempts. Jackson led the way with 19 points while Dunning had a career-high 17 and Hall 14. Gallagher handed out 10 assists to go with his 18 points. Malcolm Houston was held to 10 points but collected eight boards, four steals and four assists.

NFC Schroeder Promises Patience

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jay Schroeder, the NFC's premier big-play quarterback this season, promises to show his new, patient side when his Washington Redskins play the New York Giants Sunday in the NFC Championship Game.

Schroeder was anything but patient during the Redskins' last game against the Giants, the NFC East champs. New York, which had surrendered a career-high 420 yards passing to Schroeder in a 27-20 victory in Week 8, confounded the first-year starter five weeks later with a soft, two-deep zone secondary that effectively eliminated the Redskins' deep passing game. Schroeder, known for his poise under pressure, lacked patience and forced deep passes that day, but says he's learned plenty in the last month.

"You have to be patient; you can't always rely on things you think are going to be there," said Schroeder, who threw a career-high and club record-tying six interceptions in that 24-14 loss Dec. 7. "I went into that game thinking they were going to do some of the same things they did to us (Oct. 27) and they didn't. They changed things up."

"I didn't adjust at all," added the NFC's Pro Bowl reserve quarterback. "I tried to force the ball downfield and got caught, and got myself in big trouble."

Washington, 14-4, travels to East Rutherford, N.J., to face New York, 15-2. The Giants, on a 10-game winning streak, are undefeated at home this season.

The Redskins went through two hours of drills Wednesday at Redskin Park, their first practice of the week after three days off. No one missed practice and reserve defensive lineman Steve Hamilton, eligible to come off the injured reserve list, participated and may be activated later this week, a team spokesman said.

Schroeder, 25, was the most productive quarterback in the NFC this season, passing for a club-record 4,109 yards, surpassing Hall of Famer Sonny Jurgensen's 19-year-old mark of 3,747. Only Miami's Dan Marino threw for more yards this season, as Schroeder recorded the 10th-most-productive passing season in NFL history.

Schroeder has guided the Redskins to a 19-5 record since becoming their starting quarterback after the Nov. 18, 1985 game against the Giants when Joe Theismann suffered a career-ending leg injury. Schroeder also completed 10 passes of more than 50 yards this season and 36 passes of at least 35 yards since becoming the Redskins starter.

"I don't think anybody's got better physical tools than Jay. If you're going to draw a quarterback up, you're going to draw him up just like Jay," Redskins Coach Joe Gibbs said.

Schroeder is the 6-foot-4, 215-pound, three-year NFL veteran and failed minor-league baseball catcher — has surpassed all expectations in his first full year as a starter.

"He's big and strong and athletic, and I think he'd done a remarkable job for a guy his age," Giants Coach Bill Parcells said.

TRICKS ARE FOR KIDS
EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — The New York Giants say they doubt Washington will use any of its new tricks Sunday in the NFC Championship Game.

The Redskins changed defensive looks last week during a 27-13 upset victory over Bears. They used a five-man line on dde famous by winning Super Bowl XX.

The Giants are aware of Washington's changes but don't expect to see much of anything new Sunday. New York has already defeated Washington twice this season.

"They've done that in the past," Giants Coach Bill Parcells said of the five-man line. "We've seen them do it, but it was very effective. They wanted to stop Walter Payton and, of course, they were up against an inexperienced quarterback (Doug Flutie). I don't think it will be a steady diet, but we'll prepare for it."

The defensive changes helped against the Bears. The Redskins outscored Chicago 20-0 in the second half, holding Chicago to 87 yards in the final two quarters.

Tribe Escapes On Parker FTs

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor
Seminole pushed its winning streak to five consecutive Wednesday night. Its biggest enemy was itself. Fortunately for Seminole, Daytona Beach Seabreeze was its own worst enemy, too.

Seminole missed four one-and-ones but Seabreeze countered with four consecutive turnovers — all in the last 1:30 — to allow the 'Noles to escape with a 57-56 victory before 253 fans at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

Jerry "Stick" Parker, who missed his first two foul-line opportunities during the last 1:17, atoned by swishing a pair with six seconds to play for a 57-54 lead. Mark Samples scored with one tick left for the one-point difference.

"We were all tight," Parker said about the foul-line misadventures. "I just had to relax myself. It seemed like I was rushing myself. I just tried to relax."

Seminole, which upped its record to 11-4 with arch-rival Lake Mary invading Friday, relaxed its way out of a 10-point lead with 2:04 to play.

After Roderick Henderson found Steve Hathaway for a bucket and a 53-43 bulge, Gerald Smith, a 6-1 junior, started to find the range for Seabreeze. "When the game is on the line, Smith wants the ball," Seabreeze coach Joe Pig-gotte Jr. said. The 'Crabs fell to 5-4.

Smith scored from the wing

Basketball

before Andre Whitney hit Seminole's last free throw for a while for a 54-45 lead. Smith, though, hit another jumper, and after Parker missed his free-throw attempt, Kevin Willis swished another "J" to slice the Tribe's lead to 54-49 with one minute to play.

Whitney then tried to dribble through three Sandcrabs against the press and turned it over. Sean Beckton quickly fed Smith who scored and drew the foul. His free throw pulled Seabreeze within 54-52 with 53 seconds left.

Henderson missed the next Seminole foul attempt but Willis double-dribbled to hand the ball back. Edwards then took it to the hoop and was fouled on his layup attempt with 40 ticks left. Edwards made the second free throw for a 55-52 lead.

Henderson then tied up Smith on the inbounds pass, giving the ball to the Seminoles since the possession arrow pointed their way. Edwards, though, couldn't get the inbounds pass in play and when he tried to bounce it off Beckton, Seabreeze regained possession and Willis scored on a driving layup for a 55-54 game with 32 seconds left.

Seabreeze fouled Parker and he obliged by missing the free-throw attempt. Beckton, however, threw the ball out of bounds on the other end with just 20 seconds to play.

Johnson Brothers Boost Howell — Rams Fall In OT

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer
Lake Howell's Silver Hawks served notice Wednesday that they don't like being known as the team that always plays hard but bows out in the end. Behind Matt Johnson's career-high 24 points, the hustling Hawks pinned a 60-57 upset on the unsuspecting Apopka Blue Darters on the Darters' home floor in prep basketball Wednesday night.

It was the first on-the-court victory for Lake Howell this season. The Hawks' only other win was via forfeit over Daytona Beach Father Lopez. Lake Howell, 2-4 overall, opens play in the Seminole Athletic Conference Friday night at Lyman.

"I was real proud of the way the kids played," Lake Howell coach Greg Robinson said. "They didn't get down on themselves when they were behind and didn't turn the ball over."

Johnson scored eight of his 24 points, including 4 of 5 free throws, in the fourth quarter as Lake Howell outscored the Darters, 23-15, to erase a 43-39 third-quarter deficit.

Johnson, a junior forward, also pulled down seven rebounds while his younger brother, sophomore guard Steve, added 10 points.

"The Johnson brothers did a super job tonight," Robinson said. "Matt played a tremendous game even though he got in early foul trouble."

Junior center Alonzo Robinson led the way inside with 10 points and 13 rebounds while junior point guard C. Gibson dished out six assists.

"We did a real good job on the glass," Robinson said. "We had 38 rebounds which is a high for us this year. And C. Gibson did a good job running the offense. He only made three turnovers against the press."

RAMS FALL IN OT

Lake Mary's Rams came within seconds of upsetting powerful Lake Weir in regulation but Mike Mandeville's shot wouldn't fall and Lake Weir went on to claim a 73-71 overtime victory Wednesday night at Lake Weir.

The Rams, 2-6 for the season, open play in the Seminole Athletic Conference Friday night at Seminole High.

Wednesday's game was close from the start to the end of overtime as the Rams would not give an inch to the highly favored Lake Weir squad. With the score tied at 65-65, Lake Mary had the ball and a chance to win it with seven seconds left. Mandeville's last second shot rolled around and out and the teams went to overtime.

Lake Mary played overtime without starters Matt Napoli and Oscar Merthie and Terry "The Cat" Miller fouled out early in OT. Still, Lake Mary managed to stay tied with Lake Weir until Lake Weir took the lead with five seconds left. Lake Mary got off a last, desperation shot but it didn't come close.

"I tried to get a time out as soon as Lake Weir scored but the officials didn't give it to us until two seconds were left," Lake Mary coach Willie Richardson

Midnight Hour Nears For Raines, Montreal

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

The midnight hour arrives tonight at 12:01 for Montreal Expo free agent Tim Raines. Raines and the Expos have until that time to work out a contract or the ex-Seminole High stand-out will not be able to re-sign with Montreal until May 1.

A Montreal Gazette sports writer said Wednesday night that Expo President John McHale and Vice-president of Baseball Administration Bill Stoneham are camped out at Olympic Stadium and will remain there until midnight with hopes of working out an agreement with Raines and fellow free agent Andre Dawson.

Both parties have indicated they do not expect to reach agreement tonight.

Raines, meanwhile, is in seclusion in Los Angeles. He left Tuesday, according to his mother Florence, and is expected to return Saturday. The Expos' offer is $4.8 million over three years. Raines, the 1986 National League batting champion, said he wants $6 million over three years and the Expos to pay the Canadian taxes.

Baseball

"If I don't sign with the Expos by Jan. 8, I won't be playing with the Expos," Raines said earlier this year. He also said he feels the Major League owners will be more aggressive on the free-agent market after tonight.

The Gazette, though, said the Montreal brass has expressed confidence they will re-sign Raines, a six-year Expo veteran.

Raines is also waiting for a verdict concerning the Players Association charge that "collusion" is keeping the owners from bidding on the free agents. A verdict in that case, however, is not imminent. Any decision is also expected to be appealed by either side.

Raines made $1.5 million last year.

Saltwater Species No Longer Unlimited In Supply

The winds of change are blowing over the waters of saltwater fisheries management. No longer are saltwater species of fish considered to be in unlimited supply. Due to heavy commercial pressure and increasing sports fishing pressure, many species are becoming depleted.

The Marine Fisheries Commission has made a recommendation, which is expected to go to the governor and cabinet for approval in February, that will result in a year-round two king mackerel per person daily bag limit on recreational fishermen in all state waters.

Commercial hook and line fishermen will have a 50 fish per boat trip limit on king mackerel in Monroe County and the entire east coast from April 1 through Oct. 31, and from Flagler County north from Nov. 1 through March 31. This limit will apply only until the federal commercial quota is filled each year.

The Marine Fisheries Commission also agreed to recommend to the governor and cabinet in late January or early February portions of its original redfish rule which were upheld by a state hearing officer in a recent rule challenge proceeding. These measures include increasing the minimum size limit in northwest Florida to 18 inches (consistent with the rest of the state), a statewide closed season in March and April, and prohibiting the use of treble hooks while using natural bait.

Harvesting of redfish by all fishermen is currently prohibited in state waters through Feb. 4 under an emergency action to protect this highly overfished species.

The commission has received reports from fishermen in many areas of the state that indicate current regulations for snook, including the addition of August to the closed season the past two years, are achieving positive

Jim Shupe
SANFORD HERALD FISHING WRITER

RESULTS. The Department of Natural Resources has scheduled a March symposium on snook to evaluate the condition of the fishery, and the commission directed staff members to prepare a rule draft that would make the August closure permanent, unless biological evidence received at the symposium suggests otherwise. The Commission also intends to consider broadening the rule to include all species of snook.

SHUPE'S SCOOP — Here's a hot tip for a new way to catch specks by the score. Leave the floats at home and drift with a rig that consists of a small barrel sinker (1/2 ounce) at the end of your fishing line and two dropper hooks above the sinker spaced about 18 inches apart. Drop the rig, baited with two Missouri minnows, to the bottom and reel it up a few feet. Let the speck take your rod tip down when it bites, and set the hook gently. Experts usually fish two light spinning outfits at a time and can load the boat in a hurry when the action heats up.

WEEKEND FORECAST — Rick Rawlins from Highland Park Fish Camp reports that bass and specks are active. Trout Hal Flies in Lake Woodruff for a good stringer of specks, or fish wild shiners near floating cover for bass from 3-8 pounds.

Dell Abernethy from Osceola Bridge Fish Camp is happy with the bass and specks are biting. Good stringers of specks are being caught in Lake Manatee drifting with Missouri minnows or trolling with Beetle Spins. Most bass are being caught over underwater structures such as points and sandbars.

Use Shad Raps and other similar crankbaits for bass from 2-6 pounds. Some sunshines are also being caught near Marker 7 and the cut by Osceola Bridge.

The bluefish have invaded Sebastian Inlet by the dozens. Anglers are having a hard time catching sea-trout or flounder due to the voracious swarms of these toothy eating machines. Snook are in the doldrums due to the cooling water temperatures.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports that offshore fishing has been non-existent due to high seas. Action inside the Port has been limited to large bluefish, flounder, and sheepshead. Use large topwater plugs early in the morning around points and rock-pile shore lines for bluefish to 12 pounds. Flounder prefer a live finger mullet fished on the bottom, and sheepshead go nuts for fiddler crabs or live shrimp fished near the pilings. Trout are slow in the Banana and Indian rivers. The weather has not been cold enough to concentrate trout in the holes, and they are scattered and difficult to locate.

Bluefish are active at the New Smyrna jetties, but only anglers with seaworthy boats have been able to get out and fish the rocks due to rough seas. Giant sheepshead to 10 pounds should be making their annual appearance soon, and live shrimp fished near the tip of the north jetties can result in some rod bending action from these strong fish.

Want to catch a sailfin? What angler doesn't? Keep an eye on the marine forecast and head for Ft. Pierce Inlet the first good day you get. Go out 12-13 miles to the southeast and start trolling artificials or live bait and hang on for sure action from these spectacular gamefish.

Can 'Noles Test No. 3 Lake Mary?

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

It appears to be the biggest mismatch ever in the Seminole-Lake Mary girls basketball rivalry, but both Seminole coach Charles Steele and Lake Mary mentor Bill Moore feel it can be a close game.

Steele said his young Lady Seminoles have to play their best game to stay close to the Lady Rams, the third-ranked team in Class 4A. That means handling Lake Mary's relentless defensive pressure and playing a mistake-free offensive game.

"Lake Mary's really strong this year and we're not as strong so I know they'll probably come after us and try to rip us apart," Steele said. "And we'll do our best to try to keep them from doing it."

Lake Mary enters the Seminole Athletic Conference encounter with a 13-1 overall record and an 11-game winning streak. The Lady Rams are 1-0 in the SAC. Seminole, which has won four of its last five games, stands at 4-6 overall going into its first conference game.

Junior varsity action starts tonight at 6:30 at Lake Mary High while the varsity clash is set to tip off at 8.

Steele said he expects the Lady Rams to come out pressing and he hopes the Lady Tribe will be able to handle it.

"We know the pressure is coming so the girls have to maintain their poise," Steele said. "It's going to be hard for our young kids. They can't fall apart under the pressure because if they do the game will come apart at the seams."

Seminole, which had the upper hand in the early years of the rivalry, has won at least one of the meetings every year since the two teams started playing one another. Lake Mary has won some of its biggest games against the Lady Tribe, including downing the Seminoles in the district finals the last two years.

Last year, the strength between the two took a slight turn in Lake Mary's direction. Lake Mary returned the nucleus of last year's team while Seminole lost its three leading scorers.

Lake Mary definitely has the advantage in experience as it starts three seniors in guard Tonya Lawson, forward Cynthia Patterson and point guard Gabby Olden, all averaging 10 points or more per game. The Lady Rams also start 6-5 junior Teri Whyte, who started as a sophomore last year, and 5-11 junior Sharon Bonaventure, who started for Winter Park last season.

The Lady Rams also have experience off the bench in senior shooting guard Ashley Thomas and junior forward-center Gina Dawson. Additional strength is provided by center Dena Mulholland, forward Patty Roldan and guards Marnie Frey and Tonya Davis.

While Lake Mary has plenty of experience on its roster, Seminole is dominated by youth. The Lady Tribe starts one junior in guard LaShon Cash, three sophomores in guard Adrian Hillsman, forward Liz Long and center Chineta Gilchrist and a freshman in forward Mechelle Toombs. The bench consists of sophomore guards Tammy Scott and Cindy Lyons and freshman forward-center Sherry Reddick.

"I've sat in the stands at watched Seminole and they don't look that strong," Moore said. "But there have been times when I've watched teams I thought we could handle who came out and gave us trouble. Seminole has some good athletes and they always play tough against us."

Lady 'Hounds Survive Scare From Seminole Soccer

Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

In the past, staying within five goals of the powerful Lyman side was a moral victory for Seminole High. Wednesday night, the much-improved Lady Seminoles came out with fire in their eyes and, for most of the second half, had the state's second-ranked team on the ropes.

Instead of staying on the ropes and taking the beating, however, Lyman, led by seniors Karen Abernethy and Diana Boyesen and junior Bonni Steves, put on a strong counterattack in the final 10 minutes and came out on the winning end of a 3-2 Seminole Athletic Conference thriller before a small but rowdy crowd of 51 at Seminole High.

Lyman improved to 9-1-3 overall and stayed in the running for the SAC crown with a 2-0-3 record. Lake Brantley leads the SAC with a 4-0-1 mark. Seminole now stands at 3-6-2 overall and 0-4-1 in the conference. Seminole is at Lake Howell Friday while Lyman has a nonconference match tonight at home against Winter Park, then hosts SAC rival Oviedo Friday night.

"We're a second half team and we really gave Lyman a scare in the second half tonight," Seminole coach Suzy Reno said. "And, for a while, I thought we were going to pull it out."

Lyman took a 1-0 lead at halftime but Seminole came out blazing in the second half and took immediate control. Cindy Bengé tied the score at 1-1 nine minutes into the second half and Seminole rallied for a 2-1 lead with 25:32 left to play on Tracey Farrelly's goal.

Just when it seemed the Lady 'Hounds were out of "hubba," though, Abernethy and Boyesen sparked Lyman back to life. With 21:28 remaining, Abernethy blasted in a free kick from just outside the box and, with just 5:42 left to play, "Aber" drilled in a penalty kick for the winning score.

Both of Abernethy's goals were set up by fouls called on attempted tackles by Seminole sweeperback Bengé. Reno was not pleased with the calls against Bengé.

"She (Bengé) made two beautiful sliding tackles and the referee made two ridiculous calls," Reno said. "Philip (Reno, Seminole's assistant coach) was beside himself. He's an official and he couldn't believe those two calls."

Lyman controlled the first half of the game with 15 shots on goal compared to Seminole's five. The lone goal of the opening 40 minutes came on a nicely worked play on a long header from Abernethy to Dana Boyesen who flipped the ball to Mitchell and Mitchell lofted a shot over Seminole goalkeeper Kim Walsh's head.

Walsh, who played the entire game in goal, earlier saved point blank shots by Mitchell and Abernethy within 30 seconds of each other. Walsh played magnificently the entire way as she made 16 saves.

The tying goal for Seminole came on a free kick by Bengé from 25 yards out. Bengé hooked the ball around the Lyman wall and it bent just inside the far post.

Seminole got the go-ahead goal six minutes later when Sherri Rumler beat two defenders, broke into the open and fired a shot that Lyman keeper Sarah Cobb kept from going in the goal. Cobb, however, couldn't control the ball and Farrelly was there to knock in the rebound for a 2-1 Seminole lead.

"We're happy to come away with a win tonight," Lyman coach Laura Dryden said. "Seminole outplayed us in the second half. They were beating us to the ball. We were doing too much dribbling and then kicking long."

Rumler stayed on offense the entire match and had a number of good runs. Melissa Shuckman and Farrelly also played strong on the offensive end while Reno said Shannon Sundvall and Jennifer Lindamood led the way at midfield and Bengé, Jennifer Roberts, Michelle Bisignol, and Vicky "Spuffy" Pakovic played outstanding defense.

BRANTLEY BOPS OVIEDO

Cara Marien pumped in three goals and Julie DeRusso scored a pair as Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots downed Oviedo's Lady Lions, 5-1, in SAC action Wednesday at Lake Brantley High.

Lake Brantley improved to 10-1-1 overall and maintained its lead in the conference. Oviedo now stands at 3-6-3 overall and 0-3-2 in the league.

Oviedo cut the lead to 3-1 late in the first half when Jennifer Whitaker scored on a direct kick.

Brantley tacked on two more goals in the second half to seal the victory.

Alabama Rips 'Cats At Rupp; Gators Win, Cards Drop FSU

United Press International

Alabama, which lost four times last season to Kentucky and Eddie Sutton, Wednesday night handed the second-year Wildcats coach his first home defeat.

The Crimson Tide ripped No. 8 Kentucky 69-55 in Lexington, Ky., ending Sutton's string of Rupp Arena victories at 23. Kentucky's 14-point losing margin matched the worst defeat ever for the Wildcats at Rupp, which opened in 1976.

"Because Kentucky is the basketball power that it is, this win makes it more important than others to our fans back home and to the coaches and the players," Alabama Coach Wimp Sanderson said.

A year ago, Kentucky beat the Crimson Tide twice in the regular season before beating Alabama in Southeast Conference and NCAA tournament play.

Derrick McKey scored 23 points and Jim Farmer added 22 to lead the Crimson Tide.

Kentucky, which trailed the entire game, pulled within 59-53 with 5:52 left when Rob Lock converted a 3-point play. Farmer then scored 6 straight points as Alabama took command for good.

Alabama improved to 8-2

MOTEN, MAXWELL: 48

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Andrew Moten and Vernon Maxwell each scored 24 points Wednesday to lead Florida to a 100-56 victory over Mississippi State.

Florida, 11-3 overall and 3-0 in the Southeastern Conference, shot 12 of 19 from 3-point range. Mississippi State fell to 4-7 and 0-2.

Florida's 7-foot-2 freshman center Dwayne Schintzius blocked a game-high 5 shots and Chris Capers rejected 3 as the Gators blocked 12 shots to go along with 14 steals.

Anthony Blakley scored 15 points to lead Mississippi State.

ELLISON TOPS SEMINOLES

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Pervis Ellison scored 18 points and grabbed 11 rebounds to lift Louisville to a 73-64 win Wednesday night over Florida State.

Louisville (7-6) led 38-37 at the half but widened their lead with a 15-2 spurt early in the second half.

The Seminoles (8-3) were led by LaRae Davis' 16 points forward Randy Allen's 10. Pee Wee Barber, who fouled out, added eight points.

Tony Kimbro hit 13 for Louisville.

Jones' Pins Overhaul Oviedo, 37-26

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Oviedo was in position to pull out a victory Wednesday night, but Orlando Jones came up with two key pins at 188 pounds and 223 en route to a 37-26 victory in prep wrestling action at Jones High.

Going into the 188 match, Jones held a slim 25-20 lead. Oviedo's Emery Sneed was close to pinning Rod Beauman but Beauman then turned Sneed on his back and pinned him to give Jones a 31-20 lead.

Oviedo still had a chance to win the match since heavyweight Mike Lee picked up six points by a forfeit. Again, at 223, the Oviedo wrestler, John Dent, had his opponent in a pinning combination but Jones' Jerome Moore worked his way out of it and pinned Dent in 3:57 to seal the win for the host Tigers.

"We had a chance to win it but Jones fought us hard," Oviedo coach John Horn said. "Sneed had the lead in his match and had his guy in a pinning combination but couldn't finish him off. Dent had his kid on his back, too."

Shawn Dezego, Kenny Schupp, Scott Rogers and Richard Dickens all claimed victories for the Lions Wednesday night. At 108, Dezego outlasted Tyrone Solomon, 12-7. At 115, Schupp pinned Neal Stevenson in 1:13 and Rogers came through with a pin of Walt Frazier in 3:43 at 141 pounds. Dickens put Oviedo in position to win the match when he defeated Terrence Sessler, 15-7, at 170.

Secord's 4 Second-Period Goals Propel Blackhawks Past Toronto

United Press International

Of the eight players in NHL history who have scored four goals in one period, half are Chicago Blackhawks. Al Secord became the fourth when he scored four straight goals over an 8:24 span of the second period Wednesday night in Chicago's 6-4 triumph over the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Secord, however, was far more impressed with the fact the victory was Chicago's first against Norris Division rival Toronto in nine games dating back to Feb. 13, 1986. That streak included a first-round playoff sweep last spring when the fourth-place Maple Leafs won three straight games from the division champions.

"I stewed about this game for a long time," said Secord, who scored the fifth hat trick of his nine-year career and has 22 goals this season. "The last thing I wanted was for them to come in here and take two more points."

"The first thing on my mind after the fourth goal was not to let down. But we did, and it almost cost us the game." In other games, Pittsburgh defeated Washington 5-2, Vancouver edged Montreal 3-2 in overtime, Philadelphia downed the New York Rangers 6-3, St. Louis beat Hartford 6-3, Buffalo topped Winnipeg 4-2 and Los Angeles routed Edmonton 8-1.

Turnbull Surprises Mandlikova

SYDNEY, Australia. (UPI) — Tenth-seeded Wendy Turnbull needed only 80 minutes to upset top seed Hana Mandlikova 6-3, 7-5 Thursday in the third round of the $150,000 New South Wales Open Tennis Championships.

Turnbull, of Australia, is scheduled to meet Californian Lori McNeil, seeded seventh, in Friday's quarterfinals.

Pam Shriver rolled to a 6-3, 6-0 victory over fellow American Gretchen Rush on center court.

Sweden's Catarina Lindqvist earned a 7-5, 7-5 victory over South African Dinky van Rensburg and Bulgaria's Manuela Maleeva defeated Anne Smith of the United States 7-5, 6-1. Japan's top player, Etsuko Enoue, defeated Australia's Anne Minter 6-4, 2-6, 6-4 to claim a quarterfinal spot.

Georgia's Mack Ruled Ineligible

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — The Georgia Bulldogs will play the rest of the season without their leading scorer and rebounder, sophomore forward Tony Mack.

Mack learned Tuesday he is academically ineligible because he failed to earn enough credits during the fall quarter, Coach Hugh Durham said.

Mack earned only five of the eight hours required by the Southeastern Conference. He will be allowed to stay in school and practice with the team.

Mack, from Brandon, averaged 17.6 points and 4.4 rebounds per game.

Earlier, guard Patrick Hamilton was ruled academically ineligible.

Penn State Gets No. 1 Trophy

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Penn State, represented by Coach Joe Paterno, was officially installed as the national champion of college football, receiving the UPI Coaches Trophy and a $32,000 four-year academic scholarship Wednesday.

Paterno's Nittany Lions became the first school to be awarded the scholarship, which is funded by the newly formed Gerrits Foundation. It is awarded to an entering freshman who demonstrates strong academic potential and financial need. The Gerrits Foundation, run jointly by UPI and the Edward J. Gerrits family of Miami, Fla., stipulates the scholarship must go to a non-athlete.

DELAND OPENS LYMAN
Marlin Lane and Robbie Wilkes combined for 26 points as DeLand's Bulldogs avenged an earlier defeat with a 58-51 victory over Lyman's Greyhounds Wednesday night at DeLand High.

The loss dropped Lyman to 5-4 overall while DeLand improved to 6-3. The Greyhounds open play in the Seminole Athletic Conference Friday at home against Lake Howell.

Lane's 15 points led the way for DeLand while Wilks tossed in 11 and Ed Miller contributed nine. Robert Thomas poured in a game-high 17 points to lead Lyman while Vince Florence popped in 10.

DeLand had just one more field goal than Lyman but the Bulldogs hit 12 of 24 from the free throw line compared to 7 of 10 for the 'Hoops.

"It was close all the way and either team could have won it," Lyman coach Tom Lawrence said. "I didn't like the fact that DeLand only had eight fouls and we had 17, though."

Stocks Open Mixed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened mixed today in heavy trading of New York Stock Exchange issues, marking a pause in the Dow's assault on the 2000 level.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which rose 19.12 to a record high of 1993.95 Wednesday, was down 0.70 to 1993.25 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 575-371 among the 1,387 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 17,217,000 shares.

The stock market scored its fourth straight advance Wednesday and the Dow Jones industrial average set its third consecutive record close, nearly reaching the unprecedented level of 2000.

The stock market's ability to hold its ground despite repeated bouts of profit-taking Wednesday gave credence to the view that institutional demand soon will push the Dow Jones Industrial average past the 2000 mark.

"The market withstood profit-taking extremely well," said Michael Metz, a portfolio strategist at Oppenheimer & Co. He said investors fearful of missing a "straight line move to 2100" will enter the market, and their purchases will help send the market higher.

"It's a self-fulfilling phenomenon," Metz said. "The strength begets buying, not selling."

week whereby several points have been laid to rest. Meier said a dispute over whether the children should wear disposable or cloth diapers was just the culmination of the problem.

Nevertheless, the culmination was a dispute brought by the school staff asking that disposable diapers be bought for the children to avoid getting teachers' clothes soiled — at a cost of about $300 a month.

Meier said he was opposed to getting disposables partly because it would aggravate the children's fragile health and it was too expensive.

He said on Nov. 4 it became apparent the school staff was not willing to abide changing cloth diapers anymore and in an effort to settle the problem he closed down the school portion of the home.

Rice would not say why the two teachers and two aides formerly assigned to Kradle Kare were replaced. Meier said he requested the change in a dispute over the treatment of the children they were caring for.

Meier said he had made the superintendent of schools aware of the various difficulties back in October, after the request was made to use disposable diapers. But he said nothing was done and on Nov. 18 the school board renewed its six-year-old contract with Kradle Kare. Meier said he had also made a written request to the principal that a teacher be reassigned.

On Dec. 5, the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services agreed to pay for the disposable diapers.

Now that HRS has provided funds, the children will be cared for in disposable diapers, he said.

In other aspects of the agreement with Kradle Kare, it was agreed that district employees would not answer to Kradle Kare staff. Meier said he didn't ask to hire and fire teachers but only to point out "acts that are detrimental to the students."

It was also agreed children would be readied for class on time, and that school officials and Kradle Kare staff would hold regular meetings to smooth out difficulties.

Kradle Kare is under contract to care for 20-30 multiply handicapped children too fragile to be transported to Rosenwald. Among other things, they administer relaxation techniques.

Mrs. Hendrix made comments Wednesday about the agreement, after school had resumed at Kradle Kare Tuesday.

"I don't think it was a dispute but a matter of clarification that was needed," she said. "On the concerns that we addressed, we have come to agreement and the teachers re-implemented the program on Tuesday."

"Everything is going very well," she added.

Asked why the teachers and aides were reassigned and new ones brought on, she said, "The district is always trying to project a positive image of cooperation, and we wanted to make the next step so that we will have a positive relationship. We thought this would be in the best interest of all of us with the new procedure we have agreed upon. We hope this will result in positive experience and improved relations for all of us."

She identified the teachers who were reassigned from Kradle Kare as Lynne Micohen, who she said went to Rosenwald, and Diane Mewes, who she said went to Sterling Park Elementary program for the handicapped.

The aides who were reassigned from Kradle Kare, she said, were Devolla Sims and Nannette Pate, who went to Rosenwald.

Coming in as the new teachers at Kradle Kare, she said, are Karen Smith and Beverly Hawkins, who both had been at Rosenwald.

The aides coming to Kradle Kare, she said, are Carolyn Williams and Edna Matipano, who also had been at Rosenwald Exceptional Child Center.

The Herald attempted to contact the two teachers who had been reassigned from Kradle Kare to Rosenwald, but the phone calls were not returned.

Patients from outside of the county, however, who live in counties with tax-support hospitals — such as in Volusia — are given the option of transferring to such a hospital or staying at CFRH and being held responsible for their bill. Tesar said.

The majority of the justices said they ruled as they did because of an absence of law pertaining to the issue.

"We conclude that no existing legislation imposes a financial or legal duty on the counties of this state to provide their indigent residents with post-emergency medical care," wrote Overton.

"Even if the courts had the authority, they are ill-equipped to investigate and evaluate changing public needs in this area," he said.

"Post-emergency, indigent health care is a problem for legislative solution."

Boyd said Jackson Hospital had to accept any and all indigent patients under Dade County's charter. He said public entities bear full responsibility for solving public problems.

the money for scholarships.

Sawyer said a plan will be presented to the trustees this spring with a formal request on how to use the $13,800 interest (the principal cannot be used). But he said he is certain the money will go to scholarships, with the approval of the state.

For every $6 raised locally, the state pays another $4, up to a point. The state has capped its participation at about $25,000-$30,000 in the few years since the beginning of the Academic Improvement Trust Fund set up by the Legislature.

Dr. Bill Odom, deputy executive director for finance for the state Division of Community Colleges, said there are "special forms and procedures" for SCC when the school applies to use the interest money. "They must get approval of the state Community College Board," he said.

The SCC Foundation, which is a separate entity from the college, operating since 1967 to raise funds for the school, does give out scholarships apart from the newer state-partnership "Dream Auction" fund (called the Academic Improvement Trust Fund), the latter of which is still waiting for interest to accrue before issuing scholarships.

R. T. Milwee, treasurer of the SCC Foundation and assistant to the college president, said those regular foundation scholarships range from a few dollars to a couple hundred or more, and some provide assistance in other ways. But the 50 or so accounts in the foundation together, he said, may have as little as $9,000 at any one time.

Unlike scholarships to be given from the Dream Auction fund, the Foundation scholarships are mainly given to needy students to help them stay in school. Short-term loans are also given from foundation accounts, Milwee added.

The first year's state-shared money, collected in 1984, went for equipment, but the $186,000 deposited from the two Dream Auctions since then has been put into a trust fund, according to Milwee and Sawyer.

In 1984, the first year of the state-shared Academic Improvement Trust Fund, Sawyer said $30,000 was collected from local donations (no Dream Auction at that time) and the state gave $20,000. He said all but $1,100 of that money was spent for equipment, and the rest remains on account for that purpose.

In 1985, the first year of the Dream Auction, a total of $98,389 was raised which included $25,000 from the state, Sawyer said. But after expenses of about $18,000 for the hotel, meals, printing, postage, etc., he said $80,324 was deposited that year.

After the 1986 auction, he said $108,600 was deposited which included about $33,000 from the state.

On all items sold at the auction, Sawyer said the school must pay a 5 percent sales tax, and there are many miscellaneous expenses to be paid. However, he said this year ticket prices have been increased from $50 to $75 per person so that should take care of a greater portion of the expenses.

Personally, Milwee said, he is in favor of using as much money as possible to help students who need it — "Just keep them in school" — but he said the criteria had to be followed. He said he was never in favor of using the first year's money to buy equipment. He said the state should have provided such funds.

The Dream Auction is scheduled for Thursday evening, Feb. 19, starting at 6 p.m. at the Hilton in Altamonte Springs. SCC volunteers and organizers gathered this morning at the SCC Cookery for a kick-off breakfast and announced a goal of meeting or surpassing the $100,000 mark.

people are for us and some are against us. I think we need to be a bit more thick skinned and get on with our work."

Priest joined the SIB last spring, when city commissioners approved Ms. Jacobson's request for a "landscape architect" position on the board. The opening was created by deleting the spot Sanford's Planning and Zoning Board liaison held. The liaison at that time, Brent Carll, criticized the move, which commissioners unanimously approved.

Priest's creative touch has since been displayed during board discussions of plantings for projects and the site plans he's drafted for SIB proposals.

The foundation Ms. Jacobson laid during her tenure as chairman was lauded by fellow board members during Wednesday's session. Among the board's accomplishments during the last two years are landscaping efforts at Sanford city hall and along the lakefront, and a maintenance and rehabilitation program for plantings at city parks. All efforts come from the SIB's "master plan" for beautification, the drafting of which was spearheaded by Ms. Jacobson.

designated as a drainage easement and since he had no access to the street to be paved, he did not think the city could assess him. He said he was willing to donate the property, but not want a building erected on it.

Newly installed commissioner Dave Gunter cast the dissenting vote, but said it was only because he was not familiar with the background and what it involved for the city.

City Finance Director Barry Weeks, interrupted Commissioner Harvey Smerilson while he was making the motion, to object. Weeks said, "If you allow him (Philyaw) to donate the property the city will have to pay the assessment and you will get that." But Smerilson said the money could be taken from funds set aside for street improvements, but not yet used.

The other property owners, John H. and Joan M. Bernard of 511 Howard Ave., Altamonte Springs, assessed $6,799.48, and Craig A. Ebaugh, trustee, of Winter Park, assessed $14,142.25, also objected to their assessments but were not granted any relief.

Martin Paving Company was awarded the contract for the $114,026 project, which includes extraordinary demucking cost of $24,000 to be assumed by the city. Other fees and expenses bring the total estimated cost of the project to $128,809.77. The $104,809.77 balance will be divided 10 percent to the city and 90 percent to adjacent property owners.

However in passing the resolution, the commission accepted donation of a triangular piece of property and with it assumed the $6,327.84 assessment. Owners Homer E. and Elizabeth C. Philyaw of 122 Temple Drive were willing to donate the property, which is next to Reiter Park, for use as park and recreation land, but asked that it not be built on because it is in back of their house.

Philyaw told the commission it was a small piece of property at the Dec. 15 meeting, Bernard presented a letter from former Longwood city manager David Chacey to his parents asking them to donate the property to the city since it had no value and they would not be able to build on it. Bernard said the property is appraised at $210 for tax purposes by the county and he wanted the city to go 50-50 with him to get the property appraised to determine the actual value. He said he had gotten a figure of $1,500 from an appraiser to do the job. Deputy Mayor June Lormann said she thought it could be appraised for a lot less.

Ebaugh said it was not fair because he was being assessed for paving on three sides of his property and did not have access on all three streets.

In other business, the commission:

- Voted to include the West Lake waterfront at Cor Je Su in the city's lake maintenance program with The Lake Doctors, Inc. of Winter Springs for an additional $50 a month.

Sorry, Buddy, But Don't Call Dad Until You're 18

DEAR ABBY: Twelve years ago, when our two children were small, my husband had an affair with "Maggie," a girl who hung around his place of employment. Maggie knew Denny was married, but she didn't care. When I found out about it, I confronted Denny and he broke it off. Soon after that, Maggie told Denny she was pregnant with his child. About a year later we heard she had a son and got married, and that was the last we heard of her — until four years ago when she called our house and told me that Buddy, her 8-year-old son, wanted to meet his "real" father. Denny wasn't home, so she left her phone number. When Denny got home, I told him about it, but he didn't seem too interested in meeting the boy, so we just forgot about it.

Now, four years later, Maggie's husband called and repeated the request: "Buddy wants to meet his real father." Denny still isn't interested. I have forgiven Denny for this affair, and we are happier now than we have ever been. Our children are 16 and 17 and we've told them all about this situation. They say they just want to be left alone. Denny and I have decided to put off meeting Buddy until he's 18, and if he still wants to meet his real father, he can come around on his own. Until then we don't want any involvement. Any advice?

BIG DILEMMA

DEAR DILEMMA: Your apparent lack of interest in Buddy

is obvious, but I advise you to consult a lawyer to discuss your legal obligation to the boy. You've already made it clear to all concerned that you want no "involvement" with Buddy, who surely must feel the pain of your rejection. I urge you to face whatever responsibilities you have now. Postponing it will not make them disappear.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend is the greediest person I've ever laid my eyes on. Whenever we are invited to a function, he eats like there's no tomorrow. I hate to go to any kind of buffet with him. He piles up his plate with so much food, some of it falls on the floor! My friends don't like to have him over for this reason, and I hate to invite him to my house for dinner.

He feels no shame when others laugh at him for being such a pig. It's really nauseating to watch him stuff his face. He eats as though he hadn't eaten for a week. I am not exaggerating.

He is not overweight, and he's a very attractive and loving person — when he's not eating. Is there some way I can get him to eat like a normal person? I have told him over and over again how embarrassed I am to eat with him, but it hasn't done any good.

GOBBLER'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Your friend's problem (and it is a problem) is not just a matter of greed. He's compulsive about eating; witness his uncontrollable pig-gishness once he gets going. You can't help him. He needs professional help, but first he must accept the fact that he has a problem — then do whatever is necessary to overcome it. Behavior modification therapy is indicated here.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old girl with a terrible problem: my nose. It has a bump on it and it's way too wide. Everyone says I'd be really pretty if I didn't have this awful nose. I've talked to my mom about it and she says I'll have to wait until I stop growing. Abby, I'm only 13! I can't go on being miserable until I'm an adult. I want to have a happy teenage life. Isn't there any way a 13-year-old girl can get her nose fixed while she's young enough to enjoy it?

It's really terrible to have your friends call you "Honker." I've been able to laugh, but I'm falling apart inside. Please help me. I can't wait any longer.

'HONKER' IN TEXAS

DEAR HONKER: Your mother is right. No surgeon will "fix" your nose until you have reached your full growth. Please be patient, pretty girl, and in about four years you'll win by a nose.

'Jack And The Beanstalk' Coming

Jack and the Beanstalk is coming to Sanford. Filled with medieval magic at every turn, the new Vagabond Marionettes production will be performed in fellowship hall of the First Presbyterian Church, Sanford, Friday, Jan. 9, at 7:15 p.m. Sponsored by the Pre School Center, admission price is $2.50 a person. Performed with hand-crafted marionettes, the delightful production explores this popular tale with creativity and charm and features an actor as the "fe fi fo fum" giant. A beanstalk sprouts out of the stage and grows right before your eyes.

Beth Israel Observes Holiday

Congregation Beth Israel (Sanford Jewish Community) held its annual Chanukah celebration on Sunday, Dec. 28, at the Pine Ridge Club in Sanford. Not only did members of the congregation greet many old friends and newcomers, but at the party, the congregation played host to congregants from Temple Shalom of Deltona.

Betty Tollesfrud and Millie Levenson, social committee co-chairmen, directed the activities as the attendees were served traditional latkes, blessing of the Chanukah candles, retelling of the story and message of Chanukah, and playing with dreidels. Gifts brought by attendees were shared with the children who were present and with the Jewish Family Services.

This Chanukah party is an example of Congregation Beth Israel's expanding role as it continues to serve the social and cultural needs of the Jewish community of Greater Sanford. For further information about Congregation Beth Israel, please call Sara Epstein, president, 322-0821.

Wallace Wants Better Shake From History

By Terry Abbott
MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — George Wallace, the cigar-chomping Alabama governor who ran for president four times and stood in the schoolhouse door to block integration, is now more concerned with how history will treat him.

The wheelchair-bound Wallace is retiring this month at age 67 after four terms as governor. He is enjoying more favorable, if sometimes skeptical, reviews from some black leaders.

Wallace himself now says his most infamous utterances — including "Segregation now, segregation tomorrow, segregation forever" — were only made for political expediency.

He admits many of the things he said were "poor public relations." He says his anti-federal government tone was confused with hatred for blacks, and claims history has been kinder to his political contemporaries, including the late President Lyndon Johnson and Sen. Sam Ervin.

"I wish I'd come in four years later. I would not have had to be involved in (the segregation questions)," Wallace said in an interview with UPI.

"In saying 'segregation forever,' I knew that wasn't going to happen."

Wallace, paraplegic and confined to a wheelchair since an assassination attempt ended his most promising bid for the presidency in 1972, has suffered bouts of depression and battles pain almost constantly. He is nearly deaf and an aide must be nearby at all times to repeat shouted questions to him.

"I never said one unkind word about black people in my whole career. You go back and check some of those early leaders who have been rehabilitated (in history) and listen to some of the speeches they made," Wallace said.

"The media never liked me. I was too brassy. But I don't deserve the epithets of being a man of animosity and hatred."

"I don't even hate (Arthur) Bremer, who shot me. Why should I hate people of another color?"

Wallace proudly displays to visitors the honorary doctorate he received from a prominent black school, Tuskegee University.

"(Others) have all been rehabilitated," Wallace said. "All of us were mistaken in that matter. That's over. It's been over a long time."

Wallace also now takes credit for paving the way for Jimmy Carter of Georgia to be elected president. "Now they say you can't win a race unless a Southerner is on the ticket," he said. "I'm proud of my involvement."

However, there is a current of belief that Wallace's name will be forever marred by his political opportunism.

"He could not control his political ambitions," said J.L. Chestnut, a veteran civil rights leader and Selma lawyer.

"I am convinced that some of the things he did after the shooting were not so much because we had 300,000 new black voters in Alabama as they were an effort to try to secure an honorable place in history, and I don't think he succeeded."

Wallace vowed after the loss never to be "out-segged" again

Wallace rose from poverty in the small south Alabama town of Clio to a circuit judgeship before running unsuccessfully for governor in 1958 against John Patterson. In that race, Wallace was the moderate and Patterson the segregationist, and Wallace was vowed after the loss to never be "out-segged" again.

Four years later, at his inauguration, he made his "Segregation forever" declaration, and in the same year stood in a doorway at the University of Alabama to block the entry of the school's first black students.

Vivian Malone Jones was one of two blacks who traveled to Tuscaloosa on June 11 with a convoy of federal marshals to find Wallace standing in the doorway.

Jones, now 44 and an affirmative action officer with the Environmental Protection Agency in Atlanta, and another black, James Hood, knew Wallace's stand was only temporary.

"Obviously I did not appreciate it. He made statements that he was doing what the people of Alabama wanted. Well, I had been a resident of Alabama all my life, and he wasn't doing anything on my behalf," Jones said.

"Now, I really don't think about him. At that time he was an impediment to something I had to do. I certainly don't have to keep my mind cluttered with hatred all these years."

By the time Wallace ran for an unprecedented fourth term in 1962, he had come full circle, riding to victory on the crest of a wave of black support. But state Rep. Alvin Holmes, D-Montgomery, said Wallace received black support because he was a lesser villain than his opponent, Montgomery's gun-toting Republican mayor Emory Folmar.

"Blacks looked at Wallace as a setting racist and Folmar as a rising racist," said Holmes, who complained that Wallace still discriminated against blacks in hiring for state jobs.

Another national crisis for Wallace came March 7, 1965, when state troopers and a mounted posse of deputies ordered out by the governor brutally attacked civil rights marchers on the Edmund Pettus Bridge in Selma with dogs, nightsticks and water cannons.

National television cameras recorded the event, which shocked the nation and led to the passage of the Voting Rights Act.

Joe Smitherman, Selma's mayor then and now, says Wallace was unfairly rapped for inciting that bloody riot, and called to warn him to rein in the troopers for a second march three weeks later.

"I would be the first to admit that regardless of what people say, Wallace has changed," said the Rev. John Nettles, president of the Alabama chapter of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

SCLC president Joseph Lowery said Wallace's defiance of the law encouraged racial violence.

"He was a very capable man with leadership abilities that were tremendous," Lowery said. "But he was an opportunist, in a sense a demagogue who exploited the feelings of the people."

Wallace changed for the better in his declining years, Lowery believes.

"I think he was humbled by his suffering," said Lowery, who last met with Wallace at the conclusion of the 1985 reenactment of the Selma to Montgomery march.

"I was very moved by his suffering. He was obviously in pain. I had prayer with him. We all cried. But I don't think he ever stopped being a politician."

Wallace still believes he would have been in the White House if not for the shooting. But others, including George McGovern, who won the Democratic nomination that year but then lost to Richard Nixon, say voters were not ready for his brand of Southern politics.

Wallace said Nixon's campaign poured $400,000 into Alabama in 1970 in an attempt to beat him in the gubernatorial election and keep him off the presidential ticket.

Wallace says it was his strong showing in 1968, when his third-party run gathered a surprising 45 electoral votes in five Southern states and 10 million votes nationwide, that Nixon feared.

In testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee, former White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman said Republicans feared Wallace would run for president on a third-party ticket, possibly throwing the election into the Democratically controlled House of Representatives.

According to transcripts of White House conversations, presidential counsel John Dean told Nixon that money left from the 1968 presidential campaign went to Alabama to try to defeat Wallace.

Wallace, running as a Democrat, had won five presidential primaries and was leading in popular and electoral votes when he was gunned down in a shopping center parking lot in Laurel, Md., on May 15, 1972.

"Had I not been shot, I would have been on the ticket one way or the other," Wallace said. "Humphrey was going to accept me as his vice presidential running mate."

McGovern rejects the notion that the shooting kept Wallace from the White House.

"He wouldn't have been nominated, but he made a valiant bid," McGovern said. "He was the toughest competitor that I had in a number of states. But George was probably too far to the right ever to win the Democratic nomination."

Wallace said McGovern asked for his endorsement after the shooting.

"Two times, McGovern said ... If you endorse me, it will turn the corner for me," Wallace said. "I said, 'George, you know one man can't turn the corner for you.'"

Wallace says McGovern supporters also suggested he could be McGovern's running mate, but he balked because he would have "repudiated half the platform."

"It wouldn't have been feasible to run on the same ticket," McGovern says, acknowledging that the idea "was proposed to me by some of my backers who felt that was one way to broaden my constituency."

In any case, Wallace's dreams were shattered when Bremer, an ex-busboy from Wisconsin who wrote that he also stalked Nixon, shoved his arm through a crowd and fired five shots.

Bremer is serving a 53-year prison sentence in Maryland. The diary he kept during the spring of 1972 showed he decided to kill Wallace after he missed six chances to shoot Nixon.

"He won't get more than three minutes on TV," Bremer, then 21, said of Wallace in a May 7 diary entry. The diary said Bremer stalked Wallace at rallies in Michigan.

Wallace is convinced Bremer was paid to get him out of the race, and he wanted the Senate Watergate committee to branch out and find "the man who paid the money to have me shot." He still wonders if Bremer's diary was an alibi and where Bremer got the money to travel around the country.

He holds an abiding grudge against Nixon. "I did know Nixon tried to destroy me politically," Wallace said.

Nixon called Wallace shortly before he resigned the presidency and asked Wallace to pressure Rep. Walter Flowers of Alabama to vote against impeachment, Wallace refused.

"Nixon had a grand jury for four years that investigated my entire family. He said 'get him out by damning his career and honesty and credibility,' which they couldn't do. (But) when I was shot, he was mighty nice to me then."

Wallace now will work on his memoirs, possibly take a consulting job at a university, and work on patching up his marriage to Lisa Taylor. The 38-year-old, called a "Dolly Parton look-alike," moved out of the governor's mansion last year and did not appear with him when he announced his retirement.

Wallace's first wife, Lurleen, died of cancer in 1968, two years after he successfully ran her for governor when the constitution forbid him to seek a second term. He married his second wife, singer Cornelia Snievy, in 1971. Their marriage ended in a messy divorce seven years later after Wallace said she bugged his bedroom telephone.

Your Family Doctor Is Best Initial Resource

DEAR DR. GOTT - In your column, you often recommend that people with medical problems see specialists. For example, in a recent column, you advised a patient with scabies to see a dermatologist; however, a family doctor, using an inexpensive remedy, could have cured the condition at a fraction of what a specialist would charge. As a family doctor, I would like you to emphasize that many ailments are best treated by a general doctor.

DEAR DOCTOR - I agree with you that a person's family doctor is the best initial resource to use in finding solutions to medical problems. However, many readers write for help with situations that their own doctors have been unable - or unwilling - to resolve. Many ailments are, indeed, best treated by a general doctor. Yet, for reasons best known to the doctor, family physicians often seem hesitant to refer difficult or challenging cases to specialists.

As diagnosis and treatment require more medical sophistication, I'd like to see more general doctors take the initiative in obtaining second opinions. People usually will welcome this approach, and we owe our patients the courtesy of prompt referral if we are stumped or otherwise unable to help.

As a general internist, I'll go on record as saying that I support the family physician as a primary caregiver - with the hope that you and other general doctors will agree to refer patients whose needs exceed your abilities.

DEAR DR. GOTT - I have diabetic neuropathy and find that rubbing alcohol really helps. Is there a medical reason for this?

DEAR READER - There is no sound medical reason why the external application of alcohol should relieve neuropathy. Alcohol is a vaso-dilator, which means that it causes some blood vessels to open more widely.

However, this effect is unlikely to influence structures, such as nerves, beneath the skin. In diabetic neuropathy, it is these nerves that malfunction. Ask your doctor if, in fact, you are really having symptoms of diabetic neuropathy. Perhaps the alcohol is helping a skin condition that is not related to your diabetes. (A reminder to all readers: Don't drink rubbing alcohol - or any type of alcohol, medicinal product or substance labeled "for external use only." The results can be fatal.)

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
Several of the themes in this week's deals have been inspired by the book "A New Approach to Play and Defense" (Eddie Kantar, P.O. Box 427, Venice, CA 90291; $9.95 postpaid).
It's a safe bet that many of our readers would bid four spades with the South cards after the one-heart overcall by East. That would be wrong. Of course you plan on playing in four spades, but jumping to game immediately would deny any possible interest in slam. Although it's not true on this deal, many times a minimum opening facing South's hand would produce 12 tricks. Making a forcing bid of one spade and then bidding game at his next turn was the right way for South to bid his hand.
Having bid it right, declarer had to play it right. The first instinct, to win the heart lead and play a club, must be suppressed. Even novice defenders would simply grab the spade ace after winning the first club and take two more club tricks to defeat the contract. And if South were fortunate in finding the club jack in East's hand, it would still be an easy matter for the defense to take the spade ace and play another spade, thus forcing declarer to eventually lead away from the Q-10-9 of clubs.

The simple winning play, if you haven't already noticed, is for declarer to play A-K of hearts immediately, pitching the ace of diamonds. Now he can cash K-Q of diamonds in dummy, throwing two clubs away. He will then lose only the spade ace and two club tricks, making his contract.
