Thomas Puts Bi-Racial Panel On Hold

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford City Commissioner Robert Thomas Monday temporarily withdrew his plan to establish a bi-racial committee to study race relations, saying he doesn't want to further "irritate" the racial climate in the city.

Reading from a prepared statement, Thomas told his city commission colleagues "I realize if the committee is to represent the city and have any credibility, it must be approved by a majority vote of this commission."

He requested the issue be postponed until he could study what other Central Florida communities are doing about improving racial relations using committees or other means. He said he would then turn his findings over to the commission for their discussion and action.

"I am not relinquishing. I repeat, I am not relinquishing the idea, but only requesting time to present it more fully in an effort to secure your participation and cooperation," Thomas told the commissioners.

Thomas would not say after the meeting how long his research would take or when he would bring the idea up again.

But he did say the heated discussion at last week's city commission meeting is what prompted him to "back off." Thomas said what started out to be a good idea got muddled in political and racial rhetoric.

Thomas said two weeks ago he had asked several blacks and whites in Sanford to join a committee to study race relations in the city and see how they could be enhanced. The committee was to hold its first meeting the first week of May. He said the committee's first task would be to schedule interfaith, interracial religious services to get people together from "black" churches and "white" churches. He reasserted Monday that his purpose was to get black and white worshippers together and study equity within city government.

"I didn't like the way my intention was distorted," he said Monday, adding that some of the commissioners whose "minds were in the wrong places" misunderstood what he was trying to do.

At the meeting, Commissioner David Farr and Dr. Velma Williams, one of the 16 people

Thomas asked to serve on the committee, had a tense exchange during which Farr said he resented a committee trying to tell him how to relate to others in his community. Ms. Williams, a counselor at Seminole Community College, said Farr's statement showed the need exists for such a committee.

"I haven't heard some of those statements since my people were battered over the head during the demonstrations (of the 1960s)," Thomas said.

But Thomas took part of the blame for the distortion, saying

Girl Testifies Lewd Assaults Were Frequent

A 9-year-old girl testified today that she was molested so many times by a man in her neighborhood that it was difficult to remember isolated instances.

The girl was the state's first witness in the trial of John Sessums Worling, 51, of 318 Heather Drive, Longwood.

Worling is accused of committing sexual battery on the girl when she was 8-years-old and lewdly assaulting her twice after she turned 9-years-old. The girl can only approximate dates for three incidents. The sexual battery allegedly occurred in April 1984 and the lewd assaults between May and September 1984. The girl is now almost 10 years old.

If convicted by the six member jury, Worling faces life in prison with no possibility of parole for 25 years.

The brown-haired girl said the assaults occurred during the period of a year when she was at Worling's house playing with computer games and a free swing. She said she went there often with a friend.

The case took an unexpected turn when Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis said he would allow expert testimony at the end of the trial to possibly explain why the girl did not mention all of the assaults when she was first asked by investigators.

She said she did not mention all of the assaults because she

No Looking Back

On his last day on the job today, City Manager Warren "Pete" Knowles finishes cleaning out his desk. "It's nice to be looking forward to new challenges," he said and offered a bit of homespun philosophy: "I'm not one to look back. If you look backward sooner or later you stumble, but if you look forward you can see where you're going." This afternoon it will be farewell to the troops as he plans to go around the city saying goodbye to the crews from various departments. A veteran of 31 years as Sanford's city manager, Knowles will be turning over the reins to Frank Faison, whom he has been helping to get oriented.

Begged Not To Drive

Drunk Driver Gets 7 Years In Teen's Death

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A Sanford man was sentenced today to 7 years in prison for the DUI manslaughter death of a teenage pedestrian who was killed as he walked along Celery Avenue east of Sanford.

Ernest Thom Pitts, 47, of 1752 Midway Ave., was sentenced by Seminole Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor. In addition to the jail time, McGregor also sentenced Pitts to 8 years probation and ordered him to make $3,019 restitution to his victim's family.

Pitts could have received up to 15 years for the death of Tommy Mills, 10, of Academy Avenue, Sanford.

Prosecutor Donald Marblestone recommended that Pitts receive more than the 12-month to 2½-year sentence recommended by state sentencing guidelines because not only had a friend literally begged Pitts not to drive but that Pitts was in fact heading to another bar when the accident occurred.

According to a Florida Highway Patrol report, Mills was eastbound on the south side of Celery Avenue at 11:32 a.m. on Nov. 4 when he was struck from behind by an eastbound 1972 Ford.

Witnesses said the car was weaving from lane to lane and struck Mills, throwing him into a damp, weed-filled ditch on the south side of the road. Mills was dead at the scene.

With a description of the car, authorities arrested Mills within minutes of the incident. Court records said Mills' blood alcohol level was .40 at the time of arrest, considerably higher than the .10 which state law defines as under the influence.

"Most people who get beyond point three are horizontal," McGregor said. "That would indicate you've developed a great deal of tolerance to alcohol over the years."

"It is hard for me to understand how you could hit somebody along the side of the road and then go home and go to bed," the judge said.

Pitts has a 10-year history of arrests associated with alcohol, court records show.

Perez To Lead Florida Physicians

Sanford physician Luis M. Perez will be installed Sunday as the 111th president of the Florida Medical Association at its annual meeting at the Diplomat Hotel in Hollywood.

A 22-year resident of Sanford, Perez, 57, will be the first Sanford resident to hold the statewide office, as well as the first Cuban-American.

Perez specializes in cardiology and internal medicine. His wife, Dr. Maria Perez, is a dermatologist.

For the past year, he has been serving as president-elect of the medical association, having been elected unopposed in 1984.

A native of Camaguey, Cuba, Perez received his medical degree from the University of Havana Medical School in 1955. He practiced medicine in Cuba before coming to the United States in 1956.

Did Spurned Officer Arrest Her To Get Even?

Curiously aroused, a Seminole Circuit judge wants to know how a crime was uncovered — by good police work or unrequited romantic overtures.

Paula Kathleen Pedrotti, 18, of 396 Zinnia, Caselberry, admits she was underage and drinking in a bar. She also admits to having an illegally issued driver's license.

But she told the judge at her sentencing hearing Monday that she wouldn't have been caught if a police officer hadn't asked her for a date.

She told Judge Robert McGregor that her arrest may have been a convenient way for a turned down officer to get even.

McGregor reacted by re-scheduling her sentencing to June 10 and ordering the appearance of a police officer and two sheriff's deputies.

According to court records, Miss Pedrotti was drinking in a Fern Park bar when an officer, whose offer of a date she had spurned, saw her. The officer, Brady Myers of the Caselberry police department, said in the arrest report that he knew she wasn't 19, but since he didn't have any arrest powers in Fern Park he called a Seminole County sheriff's deputy.

The deputy, Barry Brady, who also said he knew Miss Pedrotti, saw her drinking and placed her under arrest. A subsequent search of her purse, taken from Miss Pedrotti forcibly by deputy A. J. Collazo, according to court records, revealed that besides her own driver's license she had a phoney driver's license with her picture and the vital statistics of her 24-year-old sister.

An attorney in the State Attorney's office said today the officers' relationships to Miss Pedrotti do not change the facts in the case.

Miss Pedrotti faces up to 5 years imprisonment for the unlawful possession of the phoney driver's license.

Man Dies When Pickup Flips

A Deltona man was killed near Sanford late Monday when he lost control of his pickup truck. It flipped several times and was thrown from the vehicle.

Dead is Gregory D. Sherill, 24, of 333 Montego St.

According to a Florida Highway Patrol report, Sherill was westbound on state Road 46 west of Sanford when his truck left the right side of the road near Airport Boulevard. The accident occurred at about 11:10 p.m. Monday.

Sherill attempted to get the 1976 Ford truck back on the road, but oversteered causing the pickup to spin around. The vehicle then crossed the road to the median, rolled over several times, ejecting Sherill. There were no other occupants or vehicles involved.

There were no other occupants or vehicles involved.

Sherill was the second person to die Monday during a car accident in Seminole County and the 12th to die in the county in vehicle accidents this year.

Early Monday a north Orange County man died in an accident near Trinity Preparatory School.

Craig Sanders, 21, of 705 Carnation Drive, died when he lost control of his Jeep and it overturned, ejecting him. He died at Winter Park Memorial Hospital. There were no other occupants or vehicles involved.

Indicators Down; Economy Slowing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The index of leading economic indicators dropped 0.2 percent in March, surprising analysts and reinforcing signs of a slow moving economy, the Commerce Department said today.

The latest report also trimmed some strength from the February report, seeing 0.5 percent upward movement instead of the 0.7 percent reported earlier.

Seven of the 10 indicators contributed to the decline, lead by a slowdown in the formation of new businesses.

"The economy is kind of going nowhere," one department analyst said. "It's not exactly busting the buttons."

After reaching its recovery high point in May the index tumbled, regaining only some of the lost ground this year.

The department also reported the March merchandise trade deficit was a whopping $11 billion, nearly the same as February and the third big monthly deficit in a row.

Moscow Pledges More Aid To Nicaragua

MOSCOW (UPI) — Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega won a pledge of more economic aid from Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev on the heels of President Reagan's failure to get new funds for rebels fighting Ortega's government.

A statement by the official news agency Tass on Monday's Kremlin meeting between Ortega and Gorbachev gave a clear signal of strong Soviet support for the Marxist Sandinista government although it did not give details of the assistance.

Moscow also pledged complete "political and diplomatic support" for Ortega and joined him in condemning U.S. "intervention in Central America and the expansion of U.S. military presence there."

Tass said the two leaders signed an agreement to set up a joint commission on economic, trade and scientific-technical cooperation that will extend Soviet assistance to the Nicaraguan government.

"The U.S.S.R. will continue to give friendly Nicaragua assistance in resolving urgent problems of economic development," Tass said.

A Western diplomat said the package likely included military aid.

"I can't believe they only want economic aid," the Western diplomat said. "They've been known to be on the lookout for fighter aircraft, for example, for some time."

In its report "Soviet Military Power 1985," the Pentagon estimated that Moscow supplied Nicaragua with 18,200 metric tons of armaments in 1984, a 157 percent increase.

The Soviet show of support for Nicaragua came after Reagan failed to win congressional approval Wednesday for an additional $14 million in aid to Nicaraguan rebels.

The rebels have already received at least $80 million from the CIA in the last several years and both Moscow and Ortega have strongly denounced Reagan's effort to obtain additional financing.

A Western analyst said the Ortega visit, which began Sunday, could influence Congress to be more sympathetic to Reagan in future requests for aid for the rebels.

Although Ortega condemned "incessant acts of hostility on the part of the U.S. administration," he reportedly told Gorbachev that he wanted to normalize relations with Washington.

Father Of 7 Wins $2.9 Million

PHOENIX (UPI) — A 46-year-old payroll clerk and father of seven has won $2.9 million — the largest jackpot in Arizona's "The Pick" state lottery.

Robert Batson of Chandler held the only ticket out of 1,658,165 sold last week that correctly matched all six numbers drawn in the lottery, officials said Monday.

Batson, a payroll clerk at Williams Air Force Base, and his wife, Donna, a Motorola employee, will use part of their initial winnings "just to pay off a few bills."

Batson will be paid 20 annual net installments of some $112,890 after taxes. The Batsons have seven sons, ages 7 through 23.

House: Let HRS Decide Where Group Homes Located

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Although a committee spent two days last week fine tuning a draft of the proposed State Comprehensive Plan, lawmakers and lobbyists predict many more hours of debate as the full House takes up the measure today.

House Speaker James Harold Thompson scheduled a full day to debate the House version of the plan (PCB AP 4), which would guide the state's growth into the next century in every conceivable area — from schools to prisons, from environmental protection to road building, from family planning to nuclear evacuation.

Meanwhile, on Monday the House agreed to strip local governments of the power to bar placement of group homes for the elderly and handicapped in residential neighborhoods.

A Senate committee will take up a similar measure today. If the full Senate goes along with the House, the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services would be authorized to place group homes for up to six residents and two staff in neighborhoods zoned for single family or multi-family residences.

Supporters of Martin's bill said the alternative to group homes for many of the elderly, the mentally and physically handicapped and youthful runaways would be mental hospitals, nursing homes or reform schools — institutions the Legislature has begun to phase out for persons who, with some help, are independent enough to live on their own.

Opponents argued the bill would undermine the authority of local governments to order their own affairs.

Governor's Race Begins

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — In a move that shook up the 1986 political picture, Senate President Harry Johnston Monday jumped into the race for governor with Attorney General Jim Smith as his running mate.

By putting Smith on his ticket for lieutenant governor, Johnston assured himself wider name recognition and virtually unlimited campaign financing. Smith, a veteran of two statewide campaigns for attorney general, is a wealthy north Florida attorney who contributed heavily to his own previous races.

He is also a "law and order" conservative who briefly considered switching to the Republican Party and running for governor himself. Smith announced March 4 he would remain a Democrat, but would not be a candidate for governor, and that instantly prompted expectations that Johnston would become a candidate.

Johnston initially said he would delay any decision until after the current legislative session ends, next June. Last week, however, Johnston said delay was interfering with Senate business — and teamed up with Smith to make the race.

Disney Plans Huge Hotel Complex

LAKE BUENA VISTA (UPI) — Mickey Mouse helped scoop the first shovelful of dirt during ceremonies for Walt Disney Productions' plans to build a $265 million hotel and convention center complex near the Magic Kingdom.

The complex will be the largest hotel and convention project in Florida and anywhere on the East Coast, Disney officials said during ground breaking Monday.

The hotels and convention facilities will be built on a 68-acre site on Disney land that includes manmade lakes.

The two hotels, which will be operated by Sheraton Corp. and the Holiday Inn Crown Plaza Division, will have a total of 2,300 guest rooms and 200,000 square feet of meeting and convention space.

Officials said construction begins this summer on the Holiday Inn Crown Plaza Hotel, which is expected to open in 1986. The Sheraton Hotel and its major convention facilities will open in 1988.

Vietnam Celebrates End Of War

U.S. Fled Saigon 10 Years Ago

HO CHI MINH CITY, Vietnam (UPI) — Vietnam celebrated the 10th anniversary of the communist capture of Saigon today with a three-hour parade of Soviet-built tanks and goose-stepping troops through the former South Vietnamese capital.

An estimated one million people watched as the Vietnamese — badly in need of foreign aid — used the occasion to call for normalization of ties with the United States.

"We extend to the progressive American people our friendly greetings," said Communist Party Chief Le Duan in the capital of Hanoi Monday in a speech reported today by the official Vietnam News Agency.

"Our country is disposed to normalize relations with the United States in the interest of the two countries and of peace and stability in southeast Asia."

More than 40 delegations from a dozen nations attended today's celebrations — the centerpiece of a monthlong series of events marking the end of the Vietnam war.

Vietnamese officials said they invited American anti-war activists including actress Jane Fonda and pediatrician Dr. Benjamin Spock, but only David Dellinger — a defendant in the "Chicago 7" trial — and Hohn McAuliff of the American Friends Service Committee attended and were given prominent positions on the reviewing stand.

Ho Chi Minh City's Communist Party chairman Nguyen Van Linh read a 40-minute speech at the climax of today's parade praising Vietnam's founding father, Ho Chi Minh and noting the celebration marked the end of a 30-year war "for national liberation" against French and then U.S. forces.

"Our great victory crushed the largest counter-attack ever organized by the leader of imperialism against revolutionary forces since World War II," Linh said.

The parade through the former Saigon began with a salvo from a battery of 105mm howitzers left behind by U.S. forces when they evacuated Vietnam in 1973, two years before the communists' final triumph.

The volley signaled a display of military might that featured trucks bearing Soviet surface-to-air missiles and units of goose-stepping troops marching past the former U.S. Embassy.

Vietnamese officials said 100,000 soldiers and civilians marched in the festive parade while an estimated 1 million people lined the route that ended at the former presidential palace, now known as Independence Palace.

The last U.S. personnel in Vietnam fled Saigon in a helicopter that took off from the embassy's roof on April 30, 1975 as North Vietnamese tanks rolled into the city and crashed through the gates of the presidential palace.

Le Duc Tho, the powerful politburo member who squared off against Henry Kissinger at the Paris peace talks, was among leaders at the gala celebrations.

In an interview with NBC, Le Duc Tho also called for the establishment of relations with the United States.

"The war has been over for a decade. It is high time for our two countries to normalize relations. We pose no preconditions for normalization and we believe the United States should not either," he said.

The Vietnamese made clear they attached considerable importance to today's celebrations. Although Vietnam ranks among the world's 20 poorest countries, its resources were used for the celebrations and hundreds of journalists — most of them Americans — were allowed to cover the event.

Shuttle Flight A Study In Foul-Ups, Frustration

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The crew of the shuttle Challenger, forced to cope with plumbing problems, balky equipment and a reluctant satellite among other problems, gamely pressed on today with a complex Spacelab mission.

Since blastoff Monday, the seven-man crew has fielded a series of snags ranging from poor communications to a bent handle on a Spacelab airlock assembly that interrupted operations with a French astronomical camera.

In addition, civilian scientist Lodewijk van den Berg had problems activating a fluid experiment system in the Spacelab module carried in Challenger's payload bay.

Commander Robert Overmyer, copilot Frederick Gregory and crewmen Don Lind, Norman Thagard, William Thornton, Taylor Wang and van den Berg struggled to keep the tight flight plan on schedule.

Despite the trouble bothering the human crew, Challenger's "space zoo" of two squirrel monkeys and two dozen white rats seemed to be enjoying the flight, although three of the rodents had their own minor problems.

The water system in one cage had to be switched to manual operation, water-bearing gel had to be placed in another cage, and in the cage of rat "alpha-9," a feeder mechanism got stuck and Thagard had to change the animal's food bar.

"He's a curious little fellow. He's come to the front of the cage to look at me," Thagard said. "He's certainly not suffering or anything. He's looking real healthy and active."

"He's certainly learned how to use zero (gravity). He's turned upside down to get at everything," Thagard said.

Earlier today, Thagard was unable to open the outer door of the airlock in the Spacelab module to expose the wide-field astronomical camera to the vacuum of space for the second of six planned runs.

After several attempts to get a latch to engage, Thagard reported the mechanism was bent slightly and mission controllers told him to discontinue efforts to open the door.

The crew's primary goal during the second flight of the $1 billion European-built Spacelab module is to perform a series of experiments in a variety of fields, including materials processing, fluid dynamics, astrophysics, life sciences and studies of Earth's atmosphere.

The rats and monkeys are on board to test special cages that will be used in future Spacelab life science missions.

No in-flight experiments are planned but five rats have surgically implanted sensors and all 24 will be killed after the weeklong mission for research into the physiological effects of weightlessness.

The astronauts were hampered by plumbing problems as well. The shuttle's galley water system refused to work, prompting Overmyer to complain he was "dying of thirst."

The balky system mysteriously began working again early today.

To carry out the 15 experiments on board, the astronauts were split up into two teams to work around the clock.

Overmyer, Lind, Thornton and Wang make up the "gold team," while Gregory, Thagard and van den Berg comprise the second shift, or the "silver team."

Challenger blasted off at 12:02 p.m. Monday to begin its seventh space flight — the 17th in the shuttle program — and annoying problems were the rule, not the exception.

About 4½ hours after blastoff, the second of two small million-dollar research satellites — dubbed "cheapsats" — could not be launched from its trashcan-size container and the experimental radio relay station will have to be returned to Earth.

The other satellite, built by students at Weber State University of Ogden, Utah, was successfully launched for an experiment designed to help calibrate aircraft radar systems.

During Challenger's launch, one of the ship's three hydraulic power generators overheated, and later various instruments gave faulty readings, a motor in the ship's toilet stuck in the "on" position and a urine study experiment backfired, spraying liquid into the crew cabin.

Admitted Child Molester Gets 20-Year Prison Term

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A Sanford man with an admitted history of molesting children has been sentenced to 20 years in prison for sexually assaulting two young sisters.

James Neilson, 46, of 2007 Adams St., was sentenced Monday by Seminole Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor. Neilson could have received a total of 105 years for the sexual battery and lewd assaults on the girls, now 11 and 12 years old. The 20-year sentence for the sexual battery was the maximum recommended under state sentencing guidelines as were the concurrent 15-year sentences for the lewd assaults. Neilson pleaded guilty to the charges in November and asked for counseling in prison.

The girls' mother told McGregor that Neilson had wrecked her daughters' lives, especially the younger one who apparently was more attractive to Neilson because she had not entered puberty.

"Who is going to help my babies?" the mother asked in a trembling voice. "He ruined them."

"Please, he doesn't need any help. He needs to be punished," she said, and began to cry.

McGregor asked Neilson why he was asking for counseling after the fact instead of before the assaults.

Neilson, who admitted to molesting at least one child several years ago in a separate incident, said he had not sought counseling because he feared people would learn of his perversion. He said he acted out of ignorance.

"Your problem is more deep seated than that," McGregor replied. "You like little girls. You are a menace to any little girl you come near."

"You victimized another family," McGregor said.

Neilson, tall and balding with sandy hair and beard, expressed no emotion when sentenced.

In exchange for the guilty pleas, the state agreed not to prosecute two additional counts of sexual battery and three more counts of lewd and lascivious assault.

Neilson, arrested in September after a social worker informed authorities of the molestations, said he assaulted the girls during a period from Aug. 1982 to Sept. 18. The girls are the daughters of a former friend of his.

was afraid and embarrassed. She said Worling told her there would be trouble if she told anyone about the incidents.

Prosecutor Steven Brady said it was only after the use of counseling was the girl able to talk about all of the experiences. That would explain, he said, why the girl's story has changed since she first told her mother about an assault.

Davis said the expert testimony, that of two psychiatrists, could be entered into evidence after the defense has had the opportunity to question the girl's credibility.

Worling's lawyer unsuccessfully argued that bringing in expert psychological testimony would taint the jury by presuming she had already been assaulted when the purpose of the trial was to determine if an assault had occurred.

In another case Worling was convicted of committing a lewd and lascivious assault on a child. The jury in that case took just one hour Feb. 5 to convict him of the crimes.

During that trial, the victim testified that Worling fondled her on two occasions, once during Dec. 1983 and Sept. 1984.

He has not been sentenced in that case but faces up to 30 years, with though the guideline recommended sentences is about 3 years.

Worling, a realtor, faces more charges involving sex-crimes with children.

His original arrested was Sept. 24 and he has been rearrested several times and charged with various child-sex crimes.

In early March Worling apparently failed in an attempt to consolidate the various charges if a judge would guarantee a one-time sentence of 17 to 22 years.

The trade figure has a big influence on the measurement of the gross national product and another $11 billion in red ink at the end of the first quarter dashed hopes that the weak GNP figure already reported for the period — 1.3 percent — will be revised upward by any great amount.

Besides slower business formations, the index was hurt by a decline in orders for factory equipment and a similar decline in orders for consumer goods.

Vendor deliveries also speeded up, which shows up as a negative influence by suggesting demand is falling. Raw materials prices went down, also considered a negative for the same reason. Finally an average of 500 common stock prices edged lower and the money supply contracted.

On the positive side were three indicators, an expansion in the length of the average work week, an improvement in building permits and fewer new claims for unemployment insurance.

The accompanying index of coincident indicators, measuring current income, production, orders and employment, went up 0.5 percent in March after remaining the same in February and declining 0.3 percent in January.

The leading index is one of two government efforts to forecast the future of the economy. The other is the department's "flash" report on the gross national product, an estimate of quarterly growth put out four times a year before the actual economic data for the quarter is available.

"It's what I should have done all along," he said.

After Thomas told the commission he was temporarily withdrawing the idea, Milton Smith commended him for his "thoughtfulness." Other than that, nothing else was said.

Two of the 16 people who were to be on the committee agreed with Thomas' move.

Ms. Williams. "The purpose of it had not really been defined and so — people began to misinterpret what it was for."

Gary Wiley, a white Sanford businessman, said Thomas' decision, "was the best action to take" at this time.

"If the committee is to become a reality it would be better to take a second and come up with some clear goals," Wiley said.

Thirty years ago the first Ray Kroc-franchised McDonald's opened in Des Plaines, Ill.

It was No. 1 in what eventually became a chain of 8,000 restaurants that serve about 40 percent of all fast-food hamburgers sold today. That counts up to more than 50 billion hamburgers since 1955, to say nothing of Eggs McMuffin.

McDonald's is celebrating the anniversary by designating 1985 as the "Year of the Crew." The restaurant chain will honor thousands of employees who have manned grills and counters over the years, cooking burgers and fries and taking customers' orders with pleasant smiles, speed and efficiency.

The real genius of McDonald's was its franchise approach. Investors could buy in and run their own restaurants in the chain, with know-how input, supplies and supervision from the parent company. It was free enterprise at its purest. McDonald's made millionaires out of a lot of franchise holders.

The first store, in Des Plaines, is to become a museum, and well it should. It not only was the start of the world's biggest hamburger empire, but its success launched a myriad of other fast-food franchise chains. Because of the McDonald's beginning, America now can eat off the street with style, dining on almost anything — hamburgers, pizza, spaghetti and meatballs, chicken and biscuits, wieners and sauerkraut.

McDonald's is truly a success story, selling hamburgers and free enterprise. It has provided careers and jobs for thousands and has provided America with billions of meals at the right price. May the chain have another successful 30 years.

Dimes Vs. Scourge

Polio, then known as infantile paralysis, first terrorized the nation in 1916 when a summer epidemic took 6,000 lives and paralyzed 27,000 victims.

In 1927 and 1931 each there were more than 10,000 cases. In 1945-49, cases averaged 24,000 a year and in 1952 came the worst polio epidemic — 57,628 cases.

Thousands of victims were crippled for life. One of them was President Franklin D. Roosevelt. In 1934 he established the Warm Springs Foundation in Georgia to help polio victims with water therapy.

Comedy star Eddie Cantor conceived the March of Dimes and the first national radio appeal went out urging people to send dimes directly to the White House. An avalanche of mail began which took five months to sort. The Dimes totaled $1.8 million.

The research war began. Victory came much later, on April 12, 1955, when the polio vaccine discovered by Dr. Jonas Salk was declared safe, effective and potent and the March of Dimes entered the books as the first — and it is still the only — voluntary health organization to conquer the disease it fought.

It was a victory shared by many kindred scientists and the American people. Thanks to the Salk vaccine, and the Sabin oral vaccine, polio has vanished as a significant public health problem.

Instead of retiring in glory, the March of Dimes in 1958 began its continuing campaign against birth defects. It is a complex struggle involving hundreds of scientists in laboratories around the country. But on this 30th anniversary of the introduction of polio vaccine, the promise of other dazzling victories is all the more real.

BERRY'S WORLD

McGOVERN

'...The Mischief Which The Very Virtuous Do.'

In the course of a long political career, I have faced the necessity of having to revise earlier judgments on public policy. But not on Vietnam, where the American war effort finally collapsed on April 30, 1975.

For a decade prior to that final ignominious liftoff from Saigon, I regarded that deepening venture as a political, moral and military nightmare.

If I have any regrets it is that I did not oppose the war with even greater force at an earlier time, as did the late Senators Wayne Morse of Oregon and Ernest Gruening of Alaska. They remain the two most perceptive and patriotic members of Congress in standing by American ideals and the national interest during those years of folly.

One way to redeem something of the terrible losses is to understand our errors and resolve not to repeat them in Central America or elsewhere. It amazes me that some of the most badly misled hawks of the Vietnam period seem to have learned nothing.

One should be tolerant of those who recognize error, but what are we to say of Richard Nixon's tortured recent book, in which he argues that the mistake in our Indochina struggle was that we didn't stay longer. He does not yet see that the series of judgments that took us into this devastation were conceived in ignorance of history and in defiance of reality. This is all the more distressing because Nixon had the intelligence to come to realistic terms with the two communist superpowers — China and the Soviet Union — which he mistakenly thought were controlling Ho Chi Minh and causing all the trouble in Indochina.

He, and for that matter Henry Kissinger, seem incapable of understanding the revolutionary forces that we were bucking up against in Vietnam.

Beyond killing 58,000 young Americans, the war disrupted our society, weakened our economy and devastated Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, which were fragmented by the most sustained bombardment ever delivered against a people.

Ho Chi Minh — a genuine nationalistic revolutionary, albeit a Marxist — was entitled, after cooperating with us to defeat the Japanese in World War II, to at least our neutrality in preventing a return of French colonialism to Indochina. Instead, we financed the French colonialist war against Ho Chi Minh for eight years until it finally collapsed in defeat in 1954. Learning nothing, our leaders took over the French mantle and fought the revolutionary forces of Indochina for another 20 years until we, too, were exhausted and defeated.

Vietnam destroyed the presidencies of both

Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon. In Johnson's case, the war disrupted a humane, well-conceived effort — the "War on Poverty" and "The Great Society." Disillusionment over the falling Vietnam enterprise led Johnson not to seek re-election in 1968, just four years after he had won one of the greatest landslide victories in American history. Four years later Nixon scored another landslide only to be driven from office by the scandals of Watergate. What is frequently overlooked is that Watergate was an outgrowth of Vietnam. It had its origins in Nixon's desperate struggle to manage the domestic political fallout from his conduct of the war in Indochina. There probably would have been no Johnson withdrawal in 1968 and no Watergate disgrace for Nixon if these two talented presidents had not first been contaminated by the tragedy of Vietnam.

The mistakes continue as our policy makers refuse to recognize the government of Vietnam and ignore opportunities to assist in rehabilitating the land we did so much to destroy.

My only concession is to recognize that, however mistaken, they acted from what they believed were patriotic motives. It was not wickedness that wrought such havoc but, rather, in Thackeray's phrase, "...the mischief which the very virtuous do."

EDWARD J. WALSH

Vast Promise In Space

The just-completed flight of the space shuttle Discovery coincided with the televising by CBS of an abysmally bad movie, entitled Space, by James A. Michener. The movie was terrible, either because the book is, or because a good book fell into the hands of incompetent producers.

It can only be a weird juxtaposition of misfortunes that Space was broadcast in the same week the Discovery completed its least satisfying mission. Unlike the astronauts in the TV movie, the shuttle crew came back safe and sound, as they have since the program began. However, they did fail in their attempts first to successfully launch, and then relaunch a military communications satellite built by Hughes Aircraft. The satellite's engines failed to start after it was released by the shuttle. The crew then tried to futilely to jar it into igniting by manipulating it with a makeshift tool held in the shuttle's mechanical arm.

America has lost interest in the space program — again. It happened in the mid-sixties, after the spectacular successes of Alan Shepard and John Glenn. Three astronauts died in a capsule fire in 1966. The moon landings of 1969 cheered us up again, but even that faded.

It was only with the inauguration of the shuttle program and the Enterprise in 1977 that Americans were roused again to pride at their own achievements. The early shuttle missions reaffirmed America's vast mastery of high technology at its highest, and dispelled the doubts of many who wondered about our competence in research and manufacturing.

The poetry summoned up by the majesty of early space flight is gone; instead we get ho-hum newscasts. Its vast promise is too vast, too distant to hold our continuing enthusiasm. But our space program offers an immediate dividend: the promise of peace between the superpowers. America's mastery of the far heavens, if maintained, can provide the margin of difference between the perennial threat of Soviet nuclear terror, and relative safety from it. We hope for and seek that margin. The shuttle, without the applause, can provide it.

U.S. Should Follow Soviet Weapons System

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Good old American know-how and free enterprise are what made the United States the arsenal of democracy, and will assure that we triumph over the hopelessly inefficient Soviet system of military research and development.

American industrial management needs no lessons from a bunch of commie bureaucrats, right?

Wrong, declares a CIA specialist in a study intended for official eyes only. The U.S. weapons procurement system, the study reports, is "in deep trouble." It takes too long, costs too much and "taxes away too much of the time and energies of the limited personnel."

The study's heretical conclusions, which may induce cardiac seizures among the procurement poobahs, are that U.S. policy-makers would be well advised to borrow a few leaves from the Soviet book on weapons development.

In fact, the report congratulates the Reagan administration for

IN TALLAHASSEE

The Top Issues

By William Cotterell

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Florida House takes up two top issues of 1985 — growth management and medical malpractice — this week while the Senate deals with some of next year's major political matters.

Senate President Harry Johnston, D-West Palm Beach, was expected to announce his plans to run for governor, with Attorney General Jim Smith as his running mate. Johnston had supported Smith for governor, until the attorney general dropped out of the race March 4, but last week the two men were reported to have made a new pact for the 1986 race.

Senate Democrats have a caucus scheduled later this week to formally elect Johnston's successor as presiding officer for the 1987-88 sessions. Sen. Ken Jenne, D-Hollywood, has signed pledges from fellow Democrats to make him president designate on Thursday.

Johnston and Jenne last week scuffled at persistent reports that Republicans and conservative rural Democrats might form another coalition to deny Jenne the presidency, regardless of the outcome of the Democratic caucus. The GOP holds nine seats in the 40-member Senate, and would need to pick up a dozen votes in 1986 — either through Republican victories or a combination with renegade Democrats — to stop Jenne.

Sen. Dempsey Barron, D-Panama City, who denied another Senate president-designate the office in 1975, forged a coalition with Republicans to control the Senate in the late 1970s and early 1980s. Last year, while Johnston was still president designate, he engineered Jenne's election for the subsequent term to head off a return of power from the urban southeast to the rural northern Senate districts.

Another crucial political issue of 1986, limiting Cabinet members to two terms in office, comes up for a vote in the Senate Judiciary-Civil Committee on Wednesday. The constitutional amendment would allow Cabinet incumbents to run again next year, but they would only be allowed one more re-election campaign after that.

Johnston frankly admits he wants the two-term Cabinet limit as a step toward abolishing the six-member executive board. Johnston conceded he does not have the votes to do away with the Cabinet, so he decided its members should at least be limited to the same eight years governors can serve.

The Senate Commerce Committee also has hearings scheduled on nine malpractice bills — including abolition of joint and several liability, which Johnston wants.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

First Line Of Defense

CHICAGO, Ill. — The Philadelphia Society, which holds its annual meeting in this midwestern city, brings together conservative thought leaders from public life, the academy, journalism and other professions. Its concerns reflect the general concerns of American conservatives who have a commitment to traditional values as well as a free economic system.

This year, the focus of the society's meeting was on the international scene. Its principal speaker, Evan Griffith Galbraith, outgoing U.S. ambassador to France, underscored the strength of President Reagan's will with respect to security in the nuclear age. He warned that immense pressures are being and will be exerted on the President to give up the Strategic Defense Initiative, the so-called Star Wars proposal, in order to obtain concessions from the Soviets.

The Soviet goal in the Geneva talks is to force abandonment of the SDI. Indeed the Soviet Union is orchestrating a global disinformation effort aimed at persuading people inside and outside the United States that SDI is a threat to peace. At the minimum, the Soviets seek to get a firm commitment against testing or deployment of any equipment that results from SDI research. Meanwhile, Moscow is proceeding with its own SDI program. Ambassador Galbraith is convinced that President Reagan will not yield to pressure.

Unfortunately, resistance to Left ideas is not strong everywhere in the West. Dr. Paul Gottfield of Rockford College cited the diarray of German conservatives. No single, unifying philosophy or outlook characterizes German conservatism today.

The addresses given at the Philadelphia Society meeting make clear the commitment traditional American conservatives have to historic institutions and values, to all that makes up Western civilization. For them, values have primacy. That's good news for America and Europe. Adherence to values and to realism is the first line of defense against Soviet disinformation.

Spring Football

Mosure: It's Time For Tribe To Get Intense

It's time to get intense. When a football team opens with Titusville Astronaut the first week of the season and follows it up with Titusville High the second week, it's never too early to get intense.

Dave Mosure knows that. He's "Mr. Intensity." Mosure, who took over the Seminole football program when Jerry Posey stepped out last fall, opens spring practice with the rest of the county coaches Wednesday.

As one might expect of a football coach, he's raring to go. "That's right," said the intense one Monday. "Spring football practice is what keeps you going. Helps you make it through the rest of the (school) year."

Mosure will call roll at 2:45 p.m. Wednesday. The practice will last two hours. That's a 4:45 p.m. walk (make that run) off the field.

Mosure, who won three district championships while coaching in Miami, said he can tell you every move and every minute of spring practice. "We've mailed a detailed outline to the parents," he emphasized. "We will follow it to the second."

Mosure issued equipment to 53 players. More will come from the track team which is en route to what it hopes is a state championship. Coach Ken Brauman's squad partakes in the regional Thursday and the state meet the following Saturday.

Seminole's losses to graduation were massive. Linemen Carl Tipton and Alan Kendall are the lone returnees on offense. The defense has twice as many returnees. Brian Hinson returns at tackle. Dexter Franklin and Theron Liggins line up in the secondary and Jerry Littles returns at linebacker.

The coaching staff will be about the same with different responsibilities. Emory Blake will handle the receivers. Roger Beathard will handle the defensive ends and linebackers.

Sam Cook
HERALD
SPORTS EDITOR

Greg Register will help with the secondary and John Brady will work with the defensive interior.

Glenn Malolini, a transfer from Lake Howell, will handle the offensive line. Mosure will work with the running backs and quarterbacks.

There will be some changes offensively. Posey's Wing-T will be replaced by Mosure's Veer. "We're going to change our offensive scheme to a certain degree," he said. "Basically, it's a veer attack. Hopefully we'll mix in enough air work to keep everybody honest and remain sound."

Mosure didn't come right out and say it but he implied that just because freshman Jeff Blake has a rifle arm, Seminole will not become "Air Mosure."

"You can't base a sound attack on the big play," he said. "You have to force a little respect up close before you air it out. You gotta have kids who can catch it and kids who are going to block for him (Blake)."

It's a one step at a time process. What develops develops. I think you're a fool if you go into the spring talking absolutes.

There is one absolute. This team will work.

"The off-season training went well and the kids have a good attitude," assessed Mosure. "Overall, the average kid is in real good condition. He made it through the off season program, that says a lot for him."

Mosure said the off season work is loyalty work. That's where he finds out who wants to play — and who doesn't.

"It's not torture or anything like that," Mosure said almost sincerely. "But if he's a half of a foot out the door when the bell rings, he runs extra 440s."

Discipline — that's where it's at for winners.

All of this spring musing and groaning is geared for the Thursday, May 30 jamboree. Seminole will host it this spring. Lake Howell and Seminole will play one quarter. Oviedo and DeLand the other. The losers meet in the third quarter and the winners meet in the fourth.

"Our first four games are going to be tough," said Mosure about Astronaut (Sept. 13), Titusville, Lake Howell and Lake Mary. "It's a helluva schedule."

Mosure hopes to have the team to match

Esposito, Lee Carry Lumber For Wildcats

LONGWOOD — Rich Esposito and Bill Lee, two players with Seminole County baseball ties, carry the big lumber for the Winter Park Wildcats as they take on Lyman tonight in the 4A-5 Region Baseball Tournament at Lyman High School. Game time is 8 p.m.

Esposito, a shortstop, was a key cog in coach Howard Mable's District 14 Big League All-Stars who finished third in the World Series last year at Fort Lauderdale. Esposito is hitting .390 with five homers. Last year, the powerful senior swatted 12 taters.

"Rich is a great athlete," said Winter Park coach Bob King. "He's one of our fastest guys and along with Eddie Aiello definitely gives us pretty good speed."

Maitland's Esposito, who was also the quick-stepping quarterback on Winter Park's powerhouse football team, is leaning toward a baseball scholarship to Georgetown, according to King.

Lee, who also lives in Maitland, has been one of the best players in the Maitland Little League program over the past few years. The rifle-armed catcher is batting .310 with five homers.

Lee is also a savage hitter as a linebacker for the 'Cats and was an uninvited guest in Lake Mary's backfield when the Wildcats demolished the Rams in the region football title game.

But this isn't football and King is genuinely worried about how his 24-10 Parkers will stack up against Lyman ace Derek Livernois. "We haven't faced a pitcher the caliber of Livernois," said King. "He's got to be the best around. We usually make contact, though, and Esposito and Lee are our long-ball threats."

King, who lost to Apopka in last year's region, will counter with right-hander Randy Snodgrass. Snodgrass, who has had some arm problems this spring, was 8-4 with a 2.79 earned run average. He picked up one of the

Both are very important to the success of Lyman's Greyhounds.

Coach Bob McCullough's 26-5 ballclub, however, couldn't have achieved its success without the consistent support from its role players.

The blue collar workers. The 9 to 5 guys. The steady performers who make the routine plays and go virtually unnoticed while making Lyman's appearance in tonight's 8 o'clock Region 4A-5 Baseball Tournament championship with Winter Park a possibility.

Every championship team has them and the Greyhounds are no different.

"This team plays very well together," said McCullough. "It's not a team of superstars but as a team it's jelled."

Lyman lost twice to Lake Mary, which finished 29-7. The Greyhounds suffered single defeats to DeLand (22-10), Apopka (22-9) and Lake Howell (11-15).

Jersey Freight Train Smashes Renegades

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — The Orlando Renegades stepped in front of a freight train known as the New Jersey Generals Monday night and the damage incurred was predictable.

Herschel Walker recorded his fourth straight 100-plus-yard game Monday night to lead the Generals to their fourth consecutive USFL victory, a 24-7 decision over the Renegades.

Walker gained 157 yards on 22 carries, the seventh time he has surpassed 100 yards in a game this season.

"Flutie made a couple of great plays. Walker made a couple of great plays," Renegade coach Lee Corso said. "We were not strong enough to beat them. We got a lot of guys banged up tonight."

Walker's running lifted the Generals' record to 7-3 and put them in a three-way tie for first place in the Eastern Conference with Tampa Bay and Birmingham.

"Right now the unity on this team had picked up," said Walker, the league's leading rusher with 1,163 yards. "We're playing the kind of ball we need to win the championship. The team has come together. We're playing as a family."

"Each week there has been different aspects shining through," said Flutie who completed 7-of-17 passes for 109 yards and one touchdown while carrying eight times for 67 yards. "Lately it's been Herschel. Herschel. Herschel. But with that comes the offensive line and the defense has been making big plays."

After Renegades quarterback Reggie Collier was knocked out of the game with a back injury early in the fourth quarter, Jerry Golsteyn threw an 18-yard TD to Joey Walters for Orlando's only points. Jeff George's 61-yard interception return set up the score. Golsteyn's left hand was broken later in the period.

New Jersey took a 24-0 lead on Maurice Carthon's 3-yard TD run. The drive covered 56 yards on six plays, highlighted by Walker's 33-yard run to the Renegades' 13.

Walker capped a seven-play 64-yard drive with a 2-yard touchdown run to give the Generals a 17-0 lead.

USFL Opts For Fall...Without Bassett

TEANECK, N.J. (UPI) — The owners of USFL teams voted Monday to follow through on their decision to move the season to the fall in 1986 and challenge the National Football League head-to-head. John Bassett, owner of the Tampa Bay Bandits, however, said he will withdraw his team to form his own league.

In a meeting that lasted nearly eight hours, the owners voted 12-2 to proceed with the move originally approved last August. Bassett and Denver Gold owner Doug Spedding cast dissenting votes.

Bassett plans to establish a league that would continue to play spring football. Spedding, who does not want to compete with the NFL's Broncos in the fall, is uncertain of his franchise's future.

"It was a businesslike and productive meeting," USFL commissioner Harry Usher said. "The first issue that was decided was the spring-fall question that has been ballyhooed around in the print and electronic media."

"All but two owners reaf-

firmed a move to the fall in 1986. One of the teams announced it will withdraw from the league. John Bassett Enterprises will try to put together a multi-sport league that includes spring football.

"The meeting was extremely cordial and productive."

"I have a little different version of what cordial means," Spedding said. "I'm going to take a long look at what John's going to do."

Bassett said he is going to do what he's done for three years — run a spring football team.

"I'm not going to sit back and be told what to do," said Bassett, who stuck by his previously announced intention to buck the move to the fall. "The reason I got into this thing was for spring football. I guess owners spent too much money and couldn't cover their expenses with spring revenues."

New Jersey Generals owner Donald Trump, who engineered

Buccaneers Get Holmes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bruce Smith, his four-year, $2.6 million contract already two months old, was officially introduced this morning as the top pick in the 1985 NFL draft.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle opened the draft at 8:01 EST by announcing the Buffalo Bills had selected the 6-foot-3, 275-pound defensive end out of Virginia Tech.

Buffalo traded the seventh pick acquired from Cleveland to Green Bay in exchange for the Packers' first round and second round 1985 picks. The Packers, who also acquired Buffalo's fourth choice next year, picked Southern Cal offensive tackle Ken Ruettggers, who shook off an injury-filled college career to have an outstanding senior season. He could have come out of school last year and perhaps be drafted in the third round but decided on another season to improve his standing.

The Tampa Bay Buccaneers were fortunate to get the player they wanted on the eighth pick. Washington defensive end Ron Holmes, and made him the eighth straight linemen or linebacker selected. The strong and fast Holmes overcame a blood sugar disease at the start of his senior year to finish strong and was outstanding against Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl.

The Minnesota Vikings traded the second pick to Atlanta in exchange for the Falcons' first (fourth overall) and third round picks in today's draft. The Falcons used the pick to select Pitt offensive tackle Bill Fralie.

The Houston Oilers, as expected, used their No. 3 pick on Texas A&M defensive end Ray Childress.

The Vikings drafted Fralie's teammate, outside linebacker Chris Doleman of Pitt, with the fourth pick.

Indianapolis picked inside linebacker Duane Bickett of Southern Cal fifth.

Detroit, picking sixth, grabbed Florida offensive tackle Lomas Brown, who some scouts rated the best offensive lineman available. Brown's forte is drive blocking but he can also protect the passer.

the plan to move to the fall last year, was pleased with the result.

"I'm not surprised by anything John does," Trump said of Bassett. "Then again, he was in the World Football League and that wasn't very successful. I've never been associated with anything that is not 100 percent successful."

The owners also reaffirmed their commitment to fund the ownerless Los Angeles franchise from the league's coffers, and agreed to allow financially-troubled Birmingham to defer payments until 1986. Each team has been assessed $520,000 to support the Express this year.

Included in the fall of 1986 season will be the Chicago Blitz, an original USFL team that disbanded before the 1985 season. Eddie Einhorn, owner of the Chicago White Sox, purchased the franchise last year and will revive it next season. His vote was included Monday, but Los Angeles, due to its status, did not vote.

NCAA Informs Memphis State It Will Investigate Lee, Bedford

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Memphis State University informed the Metro Conference of possible violations related to basketball players Keith Lee and William Bedford, officials said.

MSU athletic director Charles Cavagnaro said Monday he would investigate the incidents and report it to MSU president Thomas Carpenter, who will forward it to the NCAA.

"A report has been given to the conference commissioner," Cavagnaro said. "Basically that report was an informational thing. We made the commissioner aware of what was reported in the newspaper."

Bedford was ticketed twice for speeding and once for driving without a license in the past six months. All three times he was driving a late-model car.

One car was registered to a man whose company donated at least $5,000 to the MSU athletic program while two others were owned by companies who were MSU boosters.

NCAA rules bar booster from loaning cars to athletes because it is not a benefit for the general student population.

Paulk's Kennel Blankets 7 More

LONGWOOD — Paul Paulk's powerful kennel, by virtue of blanketing seven additional winners and earning another $4,886.85 the past week, remains atop the leaderboard in the kennel standings as the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club.

In statistics released by Director of Racing Tom Bowersox including 149 performances, Paulk has a total of 110 winners and has earned an overall total of $85,507.70.

Not too far behind is the Hughes Kennels, Inc., especially after its 10-victory week last week. At this writing, Hughes has 102 winners and earned $83,109.85 to maintain a hold on second place after spending a couple of months in the top position earlier.

Rounding out the Top Three, and still within striking distance to Paulk before the meet runs out on Thursday night, May 2, is the James Robinson Kennel which has earned 106 trips to the winners circle and earned $81,101.90 in purse monies.

Jackson, Morro Toss No-Hitter

Chris Jackson and Kevin Morro combined on a no-hitter in one game and a three-hitter in another as the league-leading Tigers stormed to two more victories this past week and raised their record to 11-1 in the Altamonte Little League Major American Division.

The Tigers backed the pitching duo with an 18-hit attack in a 24-2 romp over the White Sox. Terry Brown led the way offensively with five runs scored, three hits and four RBIs. Chuck Lamb also drove in four runs with three hits and Chris Koepke collected three ribbies on three hits.

In a 18-5 drubbing of the Indians, the Tigers backed the pitching of Jackson and Morro with a 10-hit attack. Brown slammed a pair of homers and drove in four runs to lead the way.

Freedom Pintos Pound 2 More

Longwood Freedom Bank pounded its way to two more victories in Seminole Pony Baseball Pinto Division action, 10-2 over Casselberry Reflected Shields and 17-1 over Sanford Sunniland.

Against Casselberry, David Kilroy smashed his first homer of the season while Matt Knox and Chris Kliebl added three hits each.

Against Sanford, Bubba Lamb had four hits including a home run while Ryan Fuller also blasted a round tripper. Scott Jones, Kilroy and Matt Knox added three hits each. Nicholas Tidwell had the only hit for Sanford.

The teams have met once previously. Lyman pulled out a 3-2 victory behind Clint Baker and Livernois. "Livernois pitched King has a hefty hitting lineup which includes Mark Waggenhauser (.375) at first, Duane Madill (.301) at second, Brent Fleming (.290) at third and Esposito (.390) at shortstop. The outfield consists of Jeff Scarlett (.290) in left, speedy Atello (.345) in center and Mattland's Dave Cavanaugh (.315) in right.

Fisher Hurls 1-Hitter At D.A.V.

Wesley O'Neal's solo home run in the bottom of the second inning Monday was the lone hit D.A.V. (Disabled American Veterans) got off Maurice Fisher as Fisher led Poppa Jay's to a 20-3 rout of D.A.V. in Sanford Little National League action at Fort Mellon Park.

Fisher, who struck out three and walked six, was backed by a 13-hit offensive attack. Poppa Jay's took control early with seven runs in the first inning, then put the game away with seven more in the third.

Key hits in the first included a two-run triple by Demetrius Presley and a two-run double off the bat of Shane Stewart. The big hits in the third included Presley's double and singles by Fisher and George Martin.

Fisher and Presley led the way for Poppa Jay's with three hits each while Stewart and Demetrius Beamon added two each.

RAILROADERS DEMOLISH RINKER

In Monday's second game at Fort Mellon Park, Calvin Donaldson and Scott Sestack combined on a three-hitter as the Railroaders demolished Rinker, 20-2.

Donaldson went the first three innings for the win and Sestack pitched the final frame.

Baseball

Donaldson, Lorne Jones, Richard Washington and Alex Hayes had two hits each for the Railroaders while Sestack was 1 for 1 with a solo homer.

Corey Bennett had two of the three hits for Rinker.

In Little National action at Westside Field, Anthony Robert singled in Terry Williams with two out in the bottom of the sixth to lift Cardinal Industries over Sunniland, 9-8.

Robert, Joe Webster, Williams and Daniel Minton had two hits each to lead Cardinal while Robert Redding had three and Ned June two for Sunniland.

MOOSE, KIWANIS STAY IN HUNT

Kiwanis and Moose both stayed in the hunt for the first half title in the Sanford Junior League Monday as Kiwanis rolled past Knights of Columbus, 15-3, and Moose outlasted Rotary, 10-4.

Both moved to within a half game of league-leading Ball Motor Line which stands at 6-2. Moose and Kiwanis are 6-3 and Elks is 5-3. Elks and Ball Motor Line meet tonight at 5 in a pivotal first half game. The first half of the season ends Friday night.

In Monday's first game, Kiwanis trailed, 2-1, going into the fourth inning but scored 14 runs in the next four frames to sew up the win. Ruben Blake and Anthony Harris led the 10-hit offensive attack with three hits each while Sammy Edwards and Bernard Mitchell had two hits apiece.

Edwards was once again the winning pitcher for Kiwanis as he scattered six hits, struck out six and walked just one. Edwards control pitching has been the key for the Kiwanis in the first half of the season.

MURPHY STYMIES SLUMPING ROTARY

In Monday's second game, Jimmy Murphy pitched shutout ball for four innings as Moose cruised past Rotary, handing Rotary its ninth straight loss.

Moose built up a 7-0 lead behind Murphy's pitching before Rotary scored in the bottom of the fifth. Mike Merthle and Scooter Leonard led the way for Moose with two hits each while Murphy had one hit and drove in two runs.

Robert Whittaker had two hits for Rotary and George Gordon was 1 for 1.

Aretha's 4 Hits Insure Frey's Winning Ways

Forest City 1 George Frey Insurance, the first half champions in the Eagles Division of the Seminole Softball Club, continued its winning ways by improving to 2-0 for the second half with a 14-7 victory over Longwood J&V Enterprises.

Sanford's Aretha Riggins led the 14-hit Forest City attack with a 4 for 4 performance that included two doubles and two RBIs. Niki Burke added three hits, including a pair of doubles and also picked up the pitching victory.

Renée Mathieu added four RBIs for George Frey Insurance and Kristine Blust smacked a two-run triple. Amy Adams was 2 for 4 to lead Longwood at the plate.

In other Eagles Division play, Jodie Switzer drove in five runs and pitched a four-hitter as Oviedo Wington Sprinklers downed Winter Springs Credit Card Software, 13-4.

Switzer did a fine job on the mound as she walked just one and struck out two. Corrie Lawson added two hits and drove in three runs for Oviedo. Caroline Chavis had two of the four hits for Winter Springs including a single and double.

The Forest City Angels rapped out 16 hits en route to a 11-5 victory over Winter Springs.

Softball

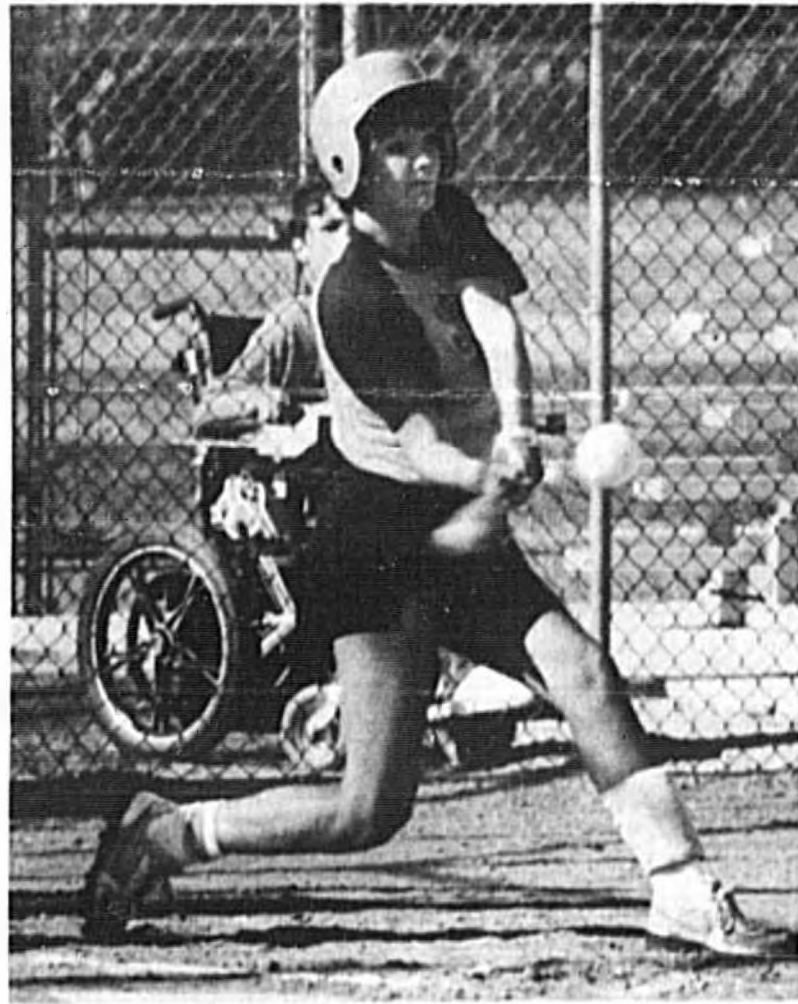

Susanne Dubrouillet drove in four runs for the Angels. Tonya Colvin contributed three RBIs and Sherry McDonald drove in three.

In another win for the Angels, Rinehart drove in the winning run in the bottom of the sixth in a 5-4 victory over Longwood J&V Enterprises. Denise Burke smacked a double and drove in three runs to lead the way for the Angels while Leticia Strickland added an RBI double.

In Hawks Division play, Missy Martinez slugged a pair of home runs while Tanya Lewis and Tanya Higgins also homered as Casselberry Pools by Max drowned Longwood Denny Salvaggio's Girls, 17-3.

Martinez also scored four runs while Lewis scored three times to back the pitching of Christy York.

In Starling Division play, Marcy Schroeder, Amanda Miles and Gina Bazler all slammed home runs as Atlantic Bank outlasted SunFlight Construction, 16-12. Jill Stada added three hits for Atlantic Bank while Angel Daniels had a pair of hits.

Oviedo's Jodie Switzer drove in three runs with this double against Osceola. Switzer, who drove in five runs in the Seminole Softball Club Eagles' play last week, journeys to Brooksville Hernando tonight with her Lady Lion teammates to play for the Region 3A Softball Championship.

Page, Broad Lose Crowns

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Buffalo is no place for boxing champions.

Two titles went down the tubes in Buffalo Monday night, with undefeated Tony Tubbs handing a major setback to Greg Page in capturing the WBA heavyweight title in a 15 round unanimous decision.

James "Broadaxe" Broad, looking a bit ahead to a future bout against Page, found himself flat on his back in the second round, dropping his North American Boxing Federation title to Tim Witherpoon.

Last June in Buffalo, Johnny Bumphus lost his WBA world junior welterweight crown to Gene Hatcher, and Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini had his WBA lightweight crown to Livingston Bramble.

"It's another setback for me," said Page, now 24-4, who won the title in December with an eight round knockout of Gerrie Coetzee in South Africa after two losses to Witherpoon and David Hey.

"The fight was close, but I'm not taking anything away from Tony," Page added.

Tubbs, now 22-0, was 7th ranked by the WBA when he entered the fight. He gained his title shot with a 10-round decision over James "Boncrusher" Smith March 15.

Kurt Thomas Leaps To Help Gymnasts With New Facility

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Since it was founded in 1977, the Sanford Gymnastics Association (SGA) has produced a number of top-notch gymnasts. Many have won local and state competitions and one even claimed a pair of silver medals in the International Special Olympics.

While the gymnasts, under the tutelage of coach Eugene Petty, have continued to bring home numerous awards and have made the SGA a state power, there has always been one thing missing.

That one thing is a permanent training facility. The SGA has trained out of a number of temporary sites since 1977, including the Crooms High gymnasium this past year.

The SGA will make a giant leap toward its goal on Tuesday, June 4 with the help of World Class gymnast Kurt Thomas. Thomas, along with his Gymnastics America Show, will stage a benefit for the SGA. The benefit will be held at Sea World and will start with a reception at 7:30. The Sanford gymnasts will also perform prior to the Kurt Thomas Show.

"This is a great chance for our gymnasts to perform before a big crowd," said coach Petty. "Not to mention performing before Kurt Thomas. We're really looking forward to it. A good turnout will do a lot toward financing our building."

There will be 850 tickets available for the benefit with two types of sponsorships, gold sponsors who donate $1,000 for 10 tickets, and silver sponsors who buy five tickets for $500. Individual tickets are also available for $100. Tickets are available at all Sun Banks in Seminole County.

'A good turnout will do a lot toward financing our building.'

— Eugene Petty

The SGA has established a goal of $85,000 to complete construction of the permanent building. The association already has a building site which was donated by the Sunrise Kiwanis along with the City of Sanford. Gold and silver sponsors for the benefit will have permanent recognition on the new building.

Those who attend the benefit will see one of the top gymnasts the United States has ever had. Thomas was a U.S. Olympic team member and is a five-time World Champion. He is one of the most innovative performers in the U.S. and many of his routines and individual moves are still in use by today's gymnasts.

Those in attendance at the benefit will also get to see the Sanford gymnasts in action. As recently as November, one of the SGA's teams took first place at the Sectional Championships in Jacksonville.

One of the brightest moments in SGA history occurred in 1983 when Linda Arent brought home two silver medals from the International Special Olympic Games in Baton Rouge, La.

"It was the most thrilling experience of my life," Ms. Arent said at the time. "It was something I wish everybody could do."

A permanent building for the SGA will better give the potential medalists of the future a chance to develop their talents instead of worrying whether or not they will have a place to train.

Parrish Spoils Martin IV

ARLINGTON, Texas (UPI) — The wind was blowing approximately in the direction of New York City Monday night, which is where Billy Martin may have wished he had spent the evening.

A.L. Baseball

Larry Parrish however, was delighted to be exactly where he was — at home plate at Arlington Stadium with the breezes blowing out to left field.

Parrish, an All America at Seminole Community College, took advantage of the wind to blast three home runs and drive in six runs, all of which spoiled the return of Martin as manager of the New York Yankees.

The last of Parrish's homers, his fifth of the year, brought Texas a 7-5 decision and ended the Rangers' five-game losing streak.

"This was just one of those nights," said Parrish. "Any time you hit three balls out of the park, especially this park, you have things going your way."

win," said Parrish. "Now what we have to do is do this for a week."

Don Mattingly put New York ahead in the third with a two-run double and the Yankees increased their lead to 4-0 in the fourth. But it should have been more.

With Butch Wynegar on third and Willie Randolph on first, Bobby Meacham got a ball into the wind and it sailed out of the park.

But before he knew it Meacham had overtaken Randolph on the basepath and was declared out.

"I was running hard," said Meacham. "I went to touch first and he (Randolph) was there going back to first (thinking the ball would be caught). There was no way I could stop. It's just one of those things."

New York lost another chance for a run in the second when Wynegar ran directly into Texas' second baseman Toby Harrah.

Scott's Switch-Hit Homers Sink Brewers

United Press International

For one rare night, picture Donnie Scott alongside the great Mickey Mantle — Scott and The Mick side-by-side.

Scott, a little known switch-hitting catcher, accomplished a pretty rare feat Monday night when he hit home runs from both sides of the plate to hit the Seattle Mariners to a 9-7 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers in 10 innings.

The first homer, which he hit left-handed, was a solo shot off ace reliever Rollie Fingers that tied the score. Then Scott, a target of the boo-birds at the Kingdom after a couple of passed balls contributed to a four-run Milwaukee third, came right back in the 10th and hit a two-run homer to win the game and snap an eight-game Seattle losing streak.

Baseball

At Anaheim, Calif., rookie left-hander Pat Clements pitched six innings of one-hit relief to earn his first major-league victory and Doug DeCinces drove in two runs with a double and a homer to propel the Angels past Boston. DeCinces put the Angels ahead to stay with his home run in the fourth off loser Steve Crawford, 2-2.

Blue Jays 2, A's 1

At Oakland, Calif., George Bell collected two hits and scored a run and Toronto reliever Bill Caudill halted an eight-inning rally to preserve the Blue Jays' victory for Luis Lead, 2-1.

Phillies 3, Expos 2

At Philadelphia, Juan Samuel's two-out 10th inning single scored Darren Daulton from third base with the winning run to make a winner of Kent Tekulve, 1-0. Pittsburgh's Bert Roberge, 0-1, took the loss.

PETE KNOWLES

This Man Is An Enigma.

Webster's definition is, "One that is puzzling, ambiguous, or inexplicable."

See what we mean? Doesn't that describe Pete Knowles?

For thirty-two (32) years, there are those of us who have tried to understand him. (Perhaps we had difficulty adjusting to that New England accent of his . . . or perhaps it was because we just didn't see nor recognize the solution to the problem as quickly as Pete did.)

There is no question that this "Damn-yankee" has a way with words; and by his personality, would motivate us to do things many times without our realizing that we were doing it "my way."

However, whatever the project, it was always his purpose to make Sanford a better place to live.

His legion of friends know of his unheralded contributions to this area. The newcomers in our midst, probably don't fully realize the pleasures they savor were influenced in one way or another by this dynamic leader, Pete Knowles.

Although Pete officially retires from public duty and responsibilities to the city of Sanford, his contributions will live on adinfinitum.

Sanford and its friends have been extremely fortunate to have had his guiding influence at the helm for the past 32 years.

All of us wish for him and his family nothing but the very best.

Bike Shop Teaches Pedal Pushing

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Ashamed." The male college student who never learned to ride a bicycle. I'm a 27-year-old male who's never learned how to ride a bicycle either. I can't believe there are two of us! I certainly can identify with his shame and embarrassment.

Ironically, I recently completed a motorcycle course and obtained my license.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in response to the letter from a young college man who did not know how to ride a bike and was embarrassed to ask. Bicycle USA has trained cycling instructors in virtually every state. Contacting a local bike shop, bicycling club or Bicycle USA (6707 Whitestone Road, Suite 209, Baltimore, Md. 21207) directly should be sufficient to put anyone interested in learning to ride a bike in touch with a certified instructor. No matter what the age of the rider, instructors have the skills and experience to be of assistance. Often instructors teach through local park and recreation offices, or through bike shops. Bicycling safety becomes more and more important as more people commute to work, ride on the weekends, and make cycling a family activity. We stress safety!

I hope you find room for this in your column, Abby.

SUSAN BAXTER, INSTRUCTOR, EUGENE, ORE.

DEAR SUSAN: Find room? I'll make room to promote safety in cycling. Especially since May is National Bicycle Month.

DEAR ABBY: I have a business partner whom I must telephone at home between five and 10 times daily. He has two small children, 4 and 7 years old, and the competition between these competitive kids who obviously are fighting over who should answer the phone.

My partner allows his children to answer the telephone and also screen his calls, and every time I call I am subjected to these competitive kids who obviously are fighting over who should answer the phone.

This is so upsetting to me that I want to scream! Am I wrong to feel this way?

GOING OUT OF MY MIND

DEAR GOING: No. You can't help how you "feel," but in the interest of maintaining your sanity, you should tell your partner what's on your mind before you go out of it.

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure you've heard this question before because it's been around for a long time, but I've never known anyone who came up with the answer.

Which came first—the chicken or the egg?

I.M. SERIOUS IN MOLINE, ILL.

DEAR SERIOUS: According to the Bible, the chicken came first. God said, "Let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life, and fowl that may fly above the earth in the open firmament of heaven." (Genesis: 1:20)

HAVE YOU WRITTEN A BOOK?
 Join our published authors in a complete, reliable publishing program, one that offers publicity, advertising, editorial assistance, and handsome books.
 Carlton Press, the leading New York subsidy publisher, is seeking manuscripts for publication in book form. Fiction, poetry, juveniles, how-to, religious, and all types of non-fiction are being considered.
 If you have a manuscript—or if your book is almost complete—you should get the facts. Send for the informative 32-page booklet, How To Publish Your Book, explaining our time-tested, comprehensive publishing program. You can obtain a free, professional evaluation of your manuscript's qualities and potential without obligation, and also receive a Carlton gift book to demonstrate our craftsmanship.

Pac N' Send Solves Packaging Problems

Mother's Day, Father's Day, weddings and graduations—whatever occasion calls for sending a gift—Pac N' Send makes it easier to gift wrap and safely ship your presents all year round.

Pac N' Send, located at 304 E. Commercial St. in downtown Sanford, has in addition to packaging, specialty gift wrapping, and shipping, custom boxes for hard to package items, Instapak Foam System for protecting breakable items, and packaging supplies.

Pac N' Send ships with United Parcel Service, truck motor freight, air freight and bus. They can handle articles up to 200 lbs.

You can still order fresh citrus through Pac N' Send and, of course, tropical fruit such as pineapples, avocados, and mangoes is available for sending to friends and relatives through the summer.

A great gift for all occasions, the fruit is unconditionally guaranteed to be the finest quality and arrive in perfect condition by G&S Packing Co.

If you are going back north for the summer, let Pac N' Send package up your household goods and clothing and ship them for you.

Owner Liz McDonald has packaged and shipped everything from a 15-foot wind surfer and an antique chair made of steers horns to delicate crafts and laboratory materials.

Call on us with your packaging needs and if we don't do it, we'll try to refer you to someone who can.

Pac N' Send is open Monday through Friday 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Saturday, 9 a.m. to noon. Call 323-1137 for information.

Commercial, Convention Share Grows

ORLANDO (UPI) — One out of every two arrivals at Orlando International Airport is bound for Walt Disney World, but over the next 20 years that trend will change.

That prediction comes from a new study by the accounting firm Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. The firm studied projected traffic at the airport.

By the year 2005, Peat Marwick said, Disney visitors will account for just one fourth of the traffic at the Orlando airport, while the level of business and convention visitors will grow.

Orlando "absolutely will become more of a force in convention business," the study said.

HEARING TESTS SET FOR SANFORD/CASSELBERRY AREA

Electronic hearing tests will be given free at the Orange Hearing Aid Clinic, 2701 S. Orlando Dr., Sanford (Monday only) and 120 S. Hwy. 17-92 Casselberry, Monday-Friday this week. R. Christenson and B. Fisher, certified by the National Hearing Aid Society will be at these offices to perform the tests.

Anyone who has trouble hearing or understanding is welcome to have a test using the latest electronic equipment to determine his or her particular loss.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them can find out about the latest methods of hearing corrections.

The free hearing test will be given Monday thru Friday — this week at the Casselberry office and Monday at the Sanford location. Call the number below and arrange for an appointment, or drop in at your convenience.

Help Granny By Gently Refreshing Her Memory

DEAR DR. GOTT — My 80-year-old grandmother has begun to display some loss of memory (senile tendencies). I have encouraged family members to keep her in touch with reality. Are we helping or hurting her?

DEAR READER — You are helping her. As the elderly age, they exhibit mental changes that are due to progressive loss of blood circulation to the brain's higher centers. These centers control several functions, including recent memory, emotional stability, judgment and cognitive reasoning.

Loss of memory can be a particularly disturbing symptom because it occurs relatively early and the patient is often aware of the deficiency. Most older people I know are grateful when younger associates and family members gently "refresh" their memories.

Senility is a more advanced form of higher-center malfunction. The confusion that senile patients suffer is often terrifying. For example, imagine yourself being unable to place familiar faces, recollect where you were going and how to get there or remember the day of the week. And, consider: The situation isn't going to get better tomorrow as your hangover improves.

Healthy and mentally competent people sometimes have trouble understanding the isolation and loneliness that the aged experience every day of their lives.

It must be a great gift, given with love, when family members keep an 80-year-old lady in touch with reality. I commend you. Too many families today are content to put Granny in a nursing home; their only contact with her may be a greeting card at Christmas. I hope that someday you and your family will be fortunate enough to receive the same care and attention that you are giving so freely now.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I was in a car accident several years ago. I was sitting in the passenger seat with my legs crossed and my ankle went through the dashboard. My ankle wasn't broken, but I suffered a severe sprain. Since then, my ankle has been weak and I find myself "cracking" it several times a week to relieve stiffness. Did my ankle not heal properly? Is there something I can do now to correct the problem?

DEAR READER — The ankle joint is stabilized by a number of tough ligaments. At the time of an injury, these ligaments are suddenly stretched; they can even tear or rupture if the injury is severe enough. Once the ligaments have been forcibly expanded, they slowly heal — with time — but they never regain a normal degree of tightness. Therefore, the ankle is somewhat weaker after a sprain.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, Ohio 44101.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Is there any bridge player who has not heard of suit preference? Suppose your partner leads a high card, which will win the first trick. If the cards in dummy make it obvious that nothing can be gained by continuing the suit, then the card that you follow with is a suit-preference signal. A high card informs partner that you prefer the higher of the two side suits; a low card shows that you prefer the lower of the two side suits.

Similarly, if you are leading a suit that you hope partner can ruff, leading a high card suggests that partner can get you in again with the higher-ranking side suit; leading a low card suggests that your entry is in the lower-ranking suit.

Now to the current deal. West led the spade ace against four hearts. East followed low, since he had no spade king and no particular desire for West to continue spades. Now West played the spade king. Leading ace and then king against a suit contract shows a doubleton A-K. Knowing this, East had to show where his entry was so that he could gain the lead to give West a ruff.

Here came old reliable suit preference. The 10 of spades, the highest of the remaining spades in East's hand, suggested the diamond ace. If East had held the club ace instead, he would have followed to the second spade with the five — his lowest remaining spade.

West played a diamond, declarer desperately tried dummy's king, but East won the ace and gave West a spade ruff to set the contract.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY MAY 1, 1985

In the coming year several friends will play helpful roles in your affairs. Two of them will be older and far more experienced than you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Take a firm position today in situations where you believe you're in the right. To succeed, you must have the courage of your convictions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today you might find it necessary to give a gentle prod to a member of your family who has been neglecting his responsibilities lately.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you desire social involvement today, don't wait for friends to get in touch. Conjure up something and invite them to participate.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Devote your efforts today to situations that can strengthen your financial position or enhance your career. These are two areas where you'll be lucky.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're not apt to take a back seat to others today. Anyone who attempts to usurp your authority will learn this quickly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Bold measures on your behalf may be required in your financial dealings today. If you feel you're being taken advantage of, speak out loud and clear.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Within your peer group today, you will be the catalyst who comes up with the bright ideas that all can enjoy. Lay out the itinerary and let your friends climb aboard.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Companions may dawdle their time away today on unproductive ventures. However, their whimsical endeavors won't influence you or your ambitions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Instead of relaxing in an easy chair today, try to do something physically and mentally invigorating. You need activity to feel at your best.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Situations important to you may be subjected to sudden changes today. It's to your benefit to flow with the tide.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) People you associate with will exert considerable influence over you today. Select companions who will inspire you to do something worthwhile.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If your desires are to help others as well as yourself, ideas will stir in your favor today to enhance your possibilities for personal gain.
