Solons Strive For Breach In Bill Log Jam

Two Money Measures Delay Adjournment With Only Few Of Members On Hand

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON 6—Congressional leaders, switching their plans, strove behind the scenes to break a deadlock over two money bills and adjourn the 82nd Congress today.

With only a few members on hand, the House and Senate met at 11 a. m. (EST) and recessed shortly afterward to permit back stage maneuvers.

Some Democratic leaders were doing business with Republicans by telephone calls to Chicago, where the GOP National Convention was opening.

If House and Senate conference committee members can agree on the money bills, both houses will be convened later today to try for final passage of the stumbling block legislation.

But adjournment prospects were precarious—neither house had a quorum of members present and a single objection could forestall any final action.

Senator Millikin Predicts Harmony Program To Be Adopted On Foreign Affairs

By EDWIN B. HARRISON
CHICAGO 6—The Republican National committee, led by Sen. Millikin today, adopted a platform plank on foreign policy, calling for a "united front" on foreign affairs.

Sen. Millikin of Idaho, who heads both the full committee and its foreign policy subcommittee, predicted the proposal will be approved by all candidates for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Millikin declined to release copies of the platform plank, but he said the text has been approved by both SEN. HAROLD HARRIS and Sen. CLAYTON B. LITTLE.

Millikin said the plank calls for a "united front" on foreign affairs, and for a "harmony program" on foreign policy.

G.O.P. Convention Opens In Chicago

Fight Between Taft And General Over Southern Delegates About To Boil Over

By JACK BELL
CHICAGO (AP)—Republicans open their 25th Presidential nominating convention today with leaders desperately trying to compromise one of the angriest disputes in the GOP's 90 years of existence.

Behind the polite preliminaries and the gaudy trappings, a party-sundering fight boiled ominously between Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft over contested delegates from Southern states which almost never vote Republican.

It could come to a showdown vote—possibly forecasting the ultimate winner of the nomination—in an opening session probably designed to clear away routine matters before tonight's keynote address by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Taft's backers seemed unlikely to accept a compromise proposal pushed strongly by Sen. William Knowland of California. It was designed to avoid a televised floor fight on the issue of whether contested delegates could vote on the seating of other disputed delegates.

Wrapped up in this is one of Eisenhower's strongest talking points in his bid for the nomination— the backing of 157 telegraphically pledged delegates. He said about 100 more are leaning his way. He said all were legally elected. A total of 604 is needed for the nomination.

Although the Ohio senator's supporters obviously recognized the risks involved, they indicated at an early morning meeting in the hotel suite of National Chairman Guy C. Gabrielson they are not in a mood for compromise.

The meeting was arranged by Sen. Knowland, a supporter of Gov. Earl Warren's bid for the Presidential nomination.

Along with Arthur Summerfield, Michigan national committeeman, Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania and others, Knowland had drafted a compromise proposal and put it up to Tom Coleman of Wisconsin, Taft's convention floor manager.

Previously, Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., Massachusetts, Eisenhower's national campaign manager, had announced Gov. Arthur F. Leake, Washington, would move to amend the rules so that no contested delegate could vote on any seating dispute.

This would block out 85 delegates in seven states. It would keep credentials committee members from those states from voting in that committee on the contests.

Knowland and the others came along with the compromise under which delegates in 15 states or 80 per cent of more of the national committee members had favored the final decision would be allowed to vote on all disputes.

This would let delegates from Florida, Mississippi, Kansas and Missouri vote on the permanent seating of delegates from Texas, Louisiana and Georgia. The groups from the latter three states, heavily favoring Taft, could not vote on any of the contests, under the Knowland proposal.

Summerfield said Eisenhower personally had agreed to this compromise.

But David S. Ingalls, Taft's national campaign manager, said it was "a compromise which gives us nothing."

The committee's decisions on contests, which can be appealed to the whole convention, is regarded as important because no convention ever has overruled its credentials group.

Unless Taft himself decided otherwise, the contest battle would go to the floor for further airing of the bitter charges which have come from both Eisenhower and Taft camps.

And Eisenhower's backers were pledged in advance of the support of many of the delegates in the camps of Warren and former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota as well as many of those still publicly uncommitted in the Presidential nomination contest.

Taft could put the burden on Taft to win quickly or not at all. And Taft extended confidence that he can do it.

At the convention opening, the Associated Press tabulation of pledged, committed and conceded delegates showed:

Taft 534, Eisenhower 425, others 131, and uncommitted 116.

Taft produced a stack of telegrams he said represented pledges from 137 delegates to go down the line for him. He said that was more than any man ever took into account in a Presidential election.

Taft's more delegates, he said, were pledged to him by the way he had valued confidence that he can do it.

Eisenhower's backers made no specific delegate claims of their own.

The five-star general said he was busy trying to outdo those of them into his camp. He said he was a delegation from the United States delegation from the United States and expected to see others during the convention.

Board Of Health Experiments With Marsh Mosquito

PORT MYERS (Special)—The Florida State Board of Health has just completed an experiment on the travel habits of the salt marsh mosquito which is expected to have far-reaching effects in designing control methods for this persistently irritating insect.

So says John Mulrennan, director of the Division of Entomology in the State Health agency's Bureau of Sanitary Engineering.

Cumbebe-shaned Sanibel Island, in the Gulf coast 15 miles off Port Myers, was used for the experiment.

"We marked a million and a half mosquitoes with a trace of radioactive energy, then freed them to fly wherever they would," Mulrennan stated.

"Traps spread through the surrounding areas for a distance out to 30 miles from the point of release captured a number of these 'hot' mosquitoes. The experiment was roughly similar to an experiment we staged last year. This time, however, our methods were more scientifically exact, and we are confident that the experiment will add considerably to our knowledge of the mosquito's travel habits, life span and other significant information needed to improve our mosquito eradication program."

The "hot" mosquitoes were collected from the traps and sent to the State Board of Health entomological laboratory where lab personnel spotted their presence with a Geiger Counter, a device which can detect even minute traces of radioactivity.

Up to now the test has shown that mosquitoes can travel up to 25 miles in search of food and for mating purposes, Mulrennan stated.

The experiment was conducted under the direction of Dr. Maurice Provost, State Board of Health biologist stationed at Orlando, Fla. Assisting him were Dr. B. T. Nielsen, internationally-known Danish biologist, and his wife, who work as a team on insect migration problems; James S. Haeger, State Board of Health resident biologist on Sanibel Island; and Raymond H. Shepperd, State Board of Health biologist stationed at Sarasota. Shepperd had charge of setting up the traps to snare the mosquitoes.

Devices for snaring the mosquitoes included 65 specially-designed "light traps," three rotary net traps and 10 traps "baited" with live goats to attract the insects.

A "light trap," Dr. Provost explained, is a device which contains an electric light bulb to attract night-flying mosquitoes. The trap is equipped with a small electric fan which creates a breeze strong enough to blow the mosquitoes down into a jar screwed into the bottom of the trap. Collectors, in their periodic rounds, remove the jar, replace it with another, and send the mosquitoes to the State Board of Health entomological laboratory at Jacksonville for testing, counting and classification.

The rotary traps consist of two big cones mounted on a long arm which revolves horizontally, catching the mosquitoes in flight and forcing them into collection bags tied to the same end of the cone.

"We obtained our radioactive tracer material from the Atomic Energy Commission at Oak Ridge, Tenn.," said Dr. Provost. "It is a form of phosphorus, and we use it in this experiment."

"We then collected an estimated million and a half mosquitoes from a breeding house which provided the mosquitoes with a natural life cycle, and we placed them in the traps."

"We then released the mosquitoes into the air, and we are now waiting for the results of the experiment."

"We then released the mosquitoes into the air, and we are now waiting for the results of the experiment."

GOVERNOR Thomas E. Dewey (right) of New York tells reporters in Chicago that he has come to the Windy City to "run errands" for the Eisenhower campaign. containing the radioactive material. The mosquitoes started emerging from the water on the morning of June 17, and by nightfall an estimated million and a half mosquitoes had departed from the marsh tanks. From then on, the job was to catch as many of the radioactive mosquitoes as possible.

"Traps will continue through July 15," Shepperd declared.

"Since they all emerged from the water on the same day," Shepperd said, "we will be able to tell the difference and know of both of every hot mosquito, and tell approximately how long mosquitoes live. Their life span is generally considered to be 21 days, but this experiment may show that they live longer than that."

Factors in the study, which are being supervised by Dr. Nielsen include wind direction and velocity, light conditions, humidity and temperature. A portable weather station recording this data has been set up on Sanibel Island.

"It will take us some time," Dr. Provost said, "to complete our report on the Sanibel Island experiment, but we are confident that we will be able to fill in many of the gaps in man's knowledge of mosquitoes. We hope to apply this knowledge in designing a more effective mosquito control program."

Ike Tells Florida Delegation He'll Hit Truman Hard

But Promises Not To Throw Mud Just For Fun Of Throwing It

CHICAGO (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said today he would hit hard at Democratic errors if he is the Republican Presidential nominee, but would not "scrape up dirt" just to be doing it.

Eisenhower made the statement to the Florida delegation to the Republican National Convention at the hotel here tonight.

Eisenhower had an early breakfast with the 18 man Florida delegation, which is largely in the column of his chief rival for the nomination, Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

The general was asked by one of the Florida delegates whether, as the nominee, he would work "to expose what the Democratic Party stands for."

Eisenhower replied: "I wouldn't hesitate to bring out everything that has been in error." Then he added that "just to scrape up the dirt just for the sake of scraping it, I would say no."

In obvious good humor, Eisenhower ate ham and scrambled eggs with the Floridians all got a big laugh from the delegation when he noted the absence of a favorite Southern dish—grits.

In a brief talk after the breakfast, Eisenhower said: "I believe the people of the United States are very, very worked up. And one thing they are worked up about is why can't we have honesty in all branches of government including the highest places?"

He added that in his travels around the country since returning from Europe he has found that "people are demanding a pledge of just ordinary honesty." Then he declared:

"I don't see why that should be an issue, but, by golly, it is." Eisenhower promised, that if nominated, he would carry on a vigorous drive to build the Republican Party in the traditionally Democratic South.

"The South is being robbed of its birthright until it is given the opportunity of choosing parties," he said.

On the politically explosive issue of civil rights, Eisenhower said in reply to a question that the federal government has the duty to enforce in federal processes, but that such matters as prevention of job discrimination should be left to the states in all possible cases. That was a reiteration of his position as previously stated.

The general said that if he wins the nomination he will campaign in the South and would spend the four years of his administration trying to buildup the party there.

"The Republican Party does not have to be caught in a position where it is a minority party," the general declared.

Eisenhower said that at one time some Republicans thought that all their party had to do was to "sweep out all kinds of mink coats and deep freezes" to win the election, but he said it amounts to more than that. There must be organization and hard work to win an election, he declared.

Smiling, he told the delegates in answer to a question that he probably wouldn't have his headquarters at Key West, where President Truman has frequently vacationed.

Eisenhower said he more likely would go to Everglades City, a famous fishing rendezvous where he spent some time during a Florida trip several years ago. Or, he said, he might want to get in some more bone fishing around Miami.

Asked if he would campaign in Miami Beach if nominated, Eisenhower grinned and said "You know that is a little swanky over there and a politician has to watch himself."

Kirk Landon, Florida campaign manager for Eisenhower, arranged the meal which was to be followed by a second given by Sen. Robert A. Taft.

The Ohio republican now holds 14 of 18 delegation votes, according to the latest Associated Press poll. The delegation, however, has not been polled since it arrived in Chicago. Eisenhower has one delegate and three are uncommitted.

Meanwhile, the Floridians were confronted by other matters: The unanimous seating of the delegation last week by the Republican National Committee, a challenge before the convention credentials committee by an opposing grass roots faction headed by Wesley Garrison, Miami.

The seated delegation is led by C. C. Spotts, of St. Augustine and G. H. Alexander, Ft. Myers.

The Florida contest was to be the first before the committee. It appeared that the session would get under way until late this afternoon.

In a caucus Sunday night the Spades faction heard a suggestion that it pass its vote when Florida is called, reserving the decision until the end. Paul E. Halliwell, Miami, an Eisenhower backer, told the delegation "Let's pass and see what happens before we go out on the limb."

Halliwell's Spades differed. He said he believed the delegation was able to make up its mind and should announce its decision when the name of Florida is called.

Landon urged the group to support the proposal. He said the delegates that they had received a "fair deal on your own contract" before the national committee, "with 100 per cent support of the Eisenhower group which was willing to return. Now can you think of being asked to give up your vote to your own contract?"

Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr.

PERMANENT chairman of the Republican party's national convention, Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr., of Massachusetts, called a press conference in Chicago. He warns battling supporters of Sen. Robert A. Taft and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower that "if this fight continues in its present temper, it might easily tempt the convention to a third round in the election of a third person." (International) man, who stood on the captain's bridge.

The passengers were to be at Le Havre, France for lunch. The ship will call Tuesday at Southampton before the return trip to America.

"I feel like a pilcher who has pitched a no hit game," the ship's publicist captain, 55 year-old Commodore Harry Manning, told reporters.

The weather was fine for most of the trip. Even dense banks of fog hit off Newfoundland last night but did not slow her down. She did better than 35 knots, guided by radar.

The United States' 160,000 shaft horsepower motor had worked perfectly on the entire trip. So powerful it stirred a foamy wake a mile astern, the motor smoothly pushed the ship through the waves with hardly a tremble as they cruised at the fast clip.

American ships last held the crossing record from 1931 to 1939, in the latter year the British City of Brussels grabbed the title with a trip from Ireland to New York of seven days, 22 hours and 38 minutes, an average speed of 14.83 knots. Since then German, British, Italian and French ships have held the ribbon.

Mr. Wilbur People Finds Chicago Convention Banquet Of Bitterness

(Editors note Wilbur People, the average American citizen, is attending the Republican National Convention. He gives his first impression in the following letter to his wife):

By HAI ROYLE
CHICAGO 68—Dear Trellis Mae, Well, honey, the Republican convention men's right now is political amorgasboard.

It is a banquet of bitterness, cynicism, faith, platitudes, principles, hope, ambition and yearning. It is a search for politicians to get the support of the right people, and a search for the right people to settle on the right politician — one who can lead them in rainbow victory after 20 years in the political dark.

I guess what everybody would like most here is a good dependable Oulja board. But in politics there doesn't seem to be any reliable compass, and if there is an Oulja board in town the Democrats are saving it for their convention.

I can't decide yet whether this is actually a political convention, a college homecoming, or a civil war. It is kind of all three rolled into one — with the candidates making faces at each other, and teen-age supporters running back and forth with rival banners and yelling "yea team!"

The two biggest questions here are:
(1) "Who ya for?"
(2) "Who d'ya think'll really get it?"

The convention headquarters are in the Conrad Hilton Hotel, a kind of civilian Pentagon. It is so huge there is a report one bachelor delegate got into an elevator in the lobby with a young lady — and by the time they reached his floor he felt he had known her so long he up and proposed marriage.

The hotel is crowded from dawn until midnight with the two types of people you find at every convention — those who have something to do, and those who just come to view.

Hundreds simply mill around like cattle — until their feet get sore and their eyes glaze like Zombies — picking up campaign literature, hoping for a glimpse of a favored candidate . . . walking . . . walking . . . endlessly walking.

This is Coney Island on Saturday night . . . a department store bargain basement sale . . . a surging mass of human flesh overhung by a pall of continual noise — organ music, pealing bells, campaign songs, chanted slogans, shouted greetings.

I rode down in an elevator with Rep. George Bender, who has all but lost his voice rooting for Taft. He looked at the churning chaos in the lobby and whispered hoarsely:

"Organized confusion is hard to find — but here it looks easy." Somehow out of this chaos the Republicans will emerge in a few days with a platform and a candidate. Behind the hassle — dazzle the real work is going on.

It is the candidates I feel sorry for — Taft, Eisenhower, Warren, Stassen, MacArthur. To be President of the United States is the toughest job in the world. But to try to be President must be even worse.

To many people here the convention is a kind of Roman carnival, a partisan rallying to pick their new champions and a great deal of fun. But only one man can emerge winner. And to the other candidates this time and this place will be only a lifetime heartbreak.

By the way, I had to pay $2.50 to have a suit cleaned. Send me money immediately!

Your loving husband,
Wilbur

Wet Weather On Tap For Most Of Nation

By The Associated Press
Widely scattered sections of the nation today were in for thunderstorms and showers, the second dose of wet weather in as many days for many areas.

The weather bureau predicted rain for these areas: Sections of the Great Lakes region; the valleys of the Ohio and Lower Mississippi, the Gulf States, the Middle and South Atlantic States.

More wet weather is expected tonight for many of these same areas plus the Connecticut Valley and the Southwest Desert Region. The rest of the country has a generally fair evening forecast.

Warmer weather is forecast for the Northeastern and Northwestern United States during the day, with the Northwest cooling off at night. The central third of the nation is expected to be cooler.

Sunday's widespread showers centered in the Northern and Central Plains and the Gulf States. Sioux City, Ia., was hit by a heavy wind-thunderstorm which caused some damage to buildings and power lines.

DIES OF HEART ATTACK
MIAMI 18— "I don't feel good," Albert O'Connor, 53, a painter, told a companion today as they worked on a second story scaffold at the Marine Air Station.

A moment later he toppled to the ground. A Navy doctor, Lt. George J. Caruso, said O'Connor died of a heart attack before he fell.

Turner Reports On Phone Co. Growth In Sanford Area

"The growth of telephone service in Sanford and Seminole County has been comparable to the telephone growth of the State of Florida," E. V. Turner, local manager of the Telephone Company pointed out today. Mr. Turner stated that "The Southern Bell Company has increased their telephone service since the end of the war adding 2,371 telephones since January 1, 1946. It is very interesting to note that the City of Sanford now has in excess of 1,100 telephones today."

Since Jan. 1, 1946, some 4,881 applications for service have been cared for. To keep abreast of the fast growing area of Sanford, and to extend telephone facilities into rural areas, many large outside plant projects were completed. Mr. Turner pointed out that the 100 pole submarine cable crossing Lake Monroe serving the DeBary area, now provides service for approximately 150 subscribers in the DeBary area. Mr. Turner added that projects of this kind are a representative example of the telephone progress in the Sanford area.

Mr. Turner also stated that "A very good barometer for gauging the economic development of any city is the increase in toll calls placed at that particular city, and it is very interesting to note that since Jan. 1, 1946, we have installed 13 additional sections of long distance switchboards to care for the increased toll usage in Sanford. There are at the present time 18 switchboard positions in Sanford, representing a post war increase of 20% over the 11 in service following the war."

"There are 54 long distance circuits leading out of the city today, an increase of 100%," Mr.

FORMER U. S. SENATOR Sinclair Weeks of Massachusetts (left), representing the Eisenhower forces, and Martin Appel (right), of Washington, D. C., representing the Taft backers, confer in Chicago with Gov. George Gabrielson, chairman of the Republican National Committee. They ironed out rules for the GOP National Committee hearings on contests involving votes from Texas and Puerto Rico. (International)

Turner said "We are at the present time installing service on a rush basis, to the Winnwood Substation, and service will be provided within the very near future to these residents. There are many other construction projects that will be completed within the next six months that will provide service to those applicants now waiting, and it is estimated that there will be an increase of approximately 200 additional telephones within the next year. This estimate is based upon past performance and the rapid growth of this area."

Mr. Turner revealed that the people of Sanford are extensive users of telephone service, and that each day, approximately 22,000 local calls are made in Sanford. The company has extensive plans to continue the expansion program in Sanford during the next 12 months," Mr. Turner stated.

Blues In The News

By BOB ANTHONY

With the long Fourth of July weekend over and no more holidays in sight until Labor Day, the men at the Naval Station are settling back to a normal working routine.

Those men not traveling to or from Sanford used the holiday weekend to go fishing, swimming, picnicking or just plain relax. Floyd Graham chose an attractive girl and the attractive surroundings of New Smyrna Beach to spend an unusually peaceful Fourth while Bill Brennan and George Gallagher rented a boat and tried their luck at fishing on the St. Johns River. You would think that with the good old Irish names of Brennan and Gallagher, they'd have the luck to catch some big ones but confidentially, they never even got a bite.

Some men used this past weekend as the starting date of long-awaited leaves. Harry Smith left for Fort Lauderdale, Oscar New departed for his home in Bostberg, S. C. and John Fox went to visit his family and friends in Chittenango, New York.

Other NAAS men who left the station in time to spend the Fourth at home were Pat Lyons and Ignace Iacono, who made the journey to the state of New York. Pat's home is in the Bronx and Ignace's is in Queens Village on Long Island. While at home, Ignace also plans to act as best man at his cousin's wedding.

Richard Joyner and Gene Mehe complete the list of NAAS men to depart from the station on leave over the weekend. Rich's destination is Guthrie, Ohio, and Gene will be happy when he reaches his home town of Hutchinson, Minn. because it is there he is planning to be married.

Although the men already mentioned have just begun their leaves, Charles Baughan, Dertram Beach, Robert Sellers and Charles Piser have completed leaves and have returned over the weekend for duty aboard the station.

My wife Dottie and I were very pleased to have Wayne Bakken as our guest for the holiday. Wayne had been stationed at NAAS for about a year before he was transferred to Key West. He arrived here just in time to help Dot and me move from our apartment in town to our newly acquired house on South Sanford Avenue.

After Wayne had spent a day aboard the station talking over "old times" to the men with which he used to work he also visited the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bodenbaugh and Mr. and Mrs. Vera Smith.

The Vacation Bible School of the First Baptist Church came aboard recently for a visit around the station. They were given a guided tour which included stops at the galley, parachute tent, aviation training and the hangar. It was nice having you young folks aboard and we certainly hope you enjoyed your visit.

Many of the men aboard the station have been busy studying in preparation for the coming Service-Wide Competitive Examinations for advancement in rating. The first of these exams is scheduled for tomorrow morning and the remaining two will be held the 15th and 22nd. This first one will be for those men now holding the ratings of Seaman, Fireman or Airman.

They will be competing with all eligible personnel throughout the Navy for petty officer, third class, in their particular specialty groups. In attendance the 1000 men will be for petty officer, second class and petty officer, first class respectively. Since these service-wide exams are given only once each six months, it comes a bit to a man to pass in the first time. To date, NAAS has had a 100 percent of passing scores.

MONDAY JULY 7, 1952
TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

Faith is a form of courage.
Fearless men always have been invincible in the battle of life.
An hundred of you shall put ten thousand to flight.—Le. 26:8.

The Republicans are evidently trying to convince the country that they are just as bad as the Democrats.

The Republicans have been so busy calling each other names that no matter who wins the nomination their candidate is bound to be a first class you know what.

Senator Taft thinks he was being very generous when he gave Eisenhower back 16 of the 38 Texas delegates stolen from him. It was as if someone had picked a ten dollar bill out of your pocket, and then expect you to be satisfied because he returned two dollars.

McCarthyism is a political instrumentality which everyone applauds when the darts are directed at one's own particular peevish and which everyone condemns when they are directed at a friend instead of foe. It is the righteous crusading spirit so long as the no-zzle of the flame thrower is kept in what we believe to be the right direction. It becomes a nefarious and diabolical thing when we get in the line of fire.

When you take a drive in the evening to cool off, remember that more accidents occur in hot weather than in cool. Hot weather tends to make drivers irritable, and careless of the rights of others. Especially in heavy traffic it is more dangerous in hot weather. So if you do take a drive to cool off, try to keep cool. Don't let your blood pressure rise because someone else doesn't know how to drive. Stay in line and take your time. Then you may get home safely.

In New York City the other day
at the age of 69 died Stuyvesant Fish whom most of us haven't heard of since prohibition days when federal agents boarded his yacht "Resilient" in New York harbor in search of liquor. Fish subsequently sued the government for illegal invasion of his home and collected $3,000 in damages. But the most interesting thing about S.
Fish is that his descendant is a direct lineal descendant of Peter Stuyvesant, founder of New York City and first governor of a colony of Dutch seeking freedom in the New World.

The editor of the Pittsburgh
Courier, a Negro, by the way, suggests that the Negroes should not be carried away with the "political fraud" designed to capture Negro votes sometimes known as Civil Rights legislation and otherwise known as the FEPC. "It is the most effective political gimmick concocted since the Wagner Act made labor a Democratic Party issue." But, he adds, the progress of the Negro can best be preserved under civil rights guarantees already provided in the federal and state constitutions and through education rather than through legal coercion.

In answer to the question of how he planned to spend the Fourth of July weekend, a friend of ours replied he was going to stay home and finish painting some rooms in his home. Just think of all the times this fellow nation has been in the line of the dubious delusion of the "morning after" of that blissful and chaotic feeling accompanied by too close association with hot sex and chill seas, or that stymieing effect of Old Sol with his downpour of flaming faces. Mental and physical exhaustion, and the feeling of being in a state of collapse, and the feeling of being in a state of collapse, and the feeling of being in a state of collapse.

President's Rating

"What Polk went for, he fetches." So an earlier American historian characterized President James K. Polk, whose four-volume diary, not published until sixty years after his death, has now been issued in handy one-volume form. This remark summarizes the unusual record of achievement of his administration. When he became president in 1845, his aim was to reduce the tariff, re-established the anti-trust organization of our banking system which had prevailed under Van Buren's administration and later been repealed, acquire California, and settle the Oregon boundary dispute with Great Britain. All these he accomplished.

A few years ago 55 historians, circularized by Prof.
Arthur M. Schlesinger of Harvard, gave their estimate of the presidents. Described as "great" were Lincoln, Washington, F.D.R. Wilson, Jefferson and Jackson. The "near great" were Theodore Roosevelt, Cleveland, John Adams and Polk.
"Average" was the term applied to John Quincy Adams, Monroe, Hayes, Madison, Van Buren, Taft, Arthur, McKinley, Johnson, Hoover and Benjamin Harrison. Six were rated as below the average: Tyler, Coolidge, Fillmore, Taylor, Buchanan and Pierce. The only absolute failures were Grant and Harding. Three presidents were not estimated, William H. Harrison and Garfield because of the brevity of their service, and Truman because he was still in office.

Polk is thus found in distinguished company. This quiet, hard-working president should be better known by Americans.

Battle Of Words

The American novelist John Steinbeck has always demonstrated great sympathy for the poor and downtrodden.
His novel "The Grapes of Wrath" depicted the squalor and the poverty of the itinerant fruit pickers, but his sympathetic treatment gave his characters a simple, unstudied dignity. Steinbeck, whose works are read the world over, is known as a political liberal. For that reason when he attacks Communism his words are likely to carry weight with people who would distrust other writers.

While in Italy Steinbeck has become engaged in a literary duel with an Italian Communist who criticized the United States with the current Soviet lie about germ warfare in Korea. The American author has never been one to mince words and his reply to the charges was angry and forceful. After he had answered each of the Communist points with logical refutations he summed up by saying that the only germs the United Nations were dropping in Korea were the germs of truthful ideas in the form of pamphlets.
He concluded:

"This is the germ that the Soviets fear more than any single thing. They are right to fear the germs of truth, for it is these germs which will eventually destroy them."

Important Task

Miss Myra Waller Ewin, who died recently in Jackson, Mo., enjoyed an unusual distinction. In her career as a teacher her students included both the man who was to become President of the United States and his wife. President and Mrs. Truman were both members of her class when they attended school at Independence.

In one of the classrooms somewhere in the country today sits a future president. These schoolrooms do hold the boys and girls who will one day be the leaders in the United States as well as those who will be less noted citizens. That is why it is so important for our schools to be the best possible places for them to receive the education and training they will need.

Not every teacher can be so fortunate as to have a future president as a student. But it is necessary to have teachers who realize how much of the future of America is in their hands. It is also important for boards of education and other citizens to realize the importance of good teachers and to set salary standards which will attract intelligent, dedicated people to the task.

If Beauty Shops Closed

Calgary, Canada, women are facing a crisis. It is becoming harder and harder to find girls willing to work in beauty shops. The head of one school said that if this tendency continued, half the shops would have to close within five years. One reason for this falling off in applications for jobs is a new law, requiring operators to serve a year's apprenticeship before they can have their own shops or get regular pay.

What would happen if all the shops closed? They are generally regarded as a necessity. A strike of operatives would arouse such indignation on the part of patrons that they would probably insist on martial law to force the strikers back to work.

Extremely reactionary males will mutter, "My grandmother never fooled around with all this stuff." To which the answer may be, "Yes, and look at her."

Significant Surplus

No new taxes are needed. That's what Governor-nominee Dan Mc-Carthy insisted during his campaign and the report on state revenue for the year just ended bears him out.

Receipts by the general revenue fund for the 1951-52 year increased $16,000,000 over the amount collected from the same tax sources in the preceding year.
The road fund, which is maintained separately, increased $6, 000,000.

Instead of the $7,000,000 deficit which was predicted when the 1951 legislature adopted a $274, 000,000 two-year spending bill, the state now is expected to reach the end of the biennium in 1953 with a $15,000,000 surplus.

The explanation for this happy situation lies in the nature of the state taxes. They are primarily consumption taxes—on general merchandise, cigarettes, beverages and gasoline. As consumer spending increases, either from population growth or economic inflation, the tax revenue rises proportionately.

In anticipating a deficit a year ago, State Comptroller Gay obviously underestimated the volume of state taxes. He also overestimated the volume of state expenditures which took place during the past year and presumably will continue during the next year.

There is, of course, always the possibility that the state's expenditures will increase in 1953 and that the surplus will be used to pay the state's debts.

The New York Giants were tion last year. They had the highest attendance in the Nation.

Mass Flight Of Jets To Japan Under Way

HONOLULU (AP)—Upwards of 50
F-84 Thunderjets are making a mass flight from Georgia to Japan.
The U. S. Air Force says that proves its ability to wage war any place at a moment's notice.

The first squadron of the 31st Fighter-Escort Wing made the 2,608-mile flight from Travis Air Base in California to Hickam Field
Sunday in 5 hours and 28 minutes.
The 20 F-84s were refueled in air by B-29 tanker planes for the world's longest over-water hop by jets. Flying at 35,000 feet, they averaged about 450 miles an hour.

The second and third squadrons are due to make the hop today and tomorrow. Eventual destination of the jets is Japan. The 9,000-mile trip started Saturday from Turner
Air Force Base, Albany, Ga.

Maj. Robert J. Keen, Jacksonville, Fla., led the first flight.
"I'm a little tired but the whole mission was quite routine after all the training we've put in," Keen said. "Endurance was the only factor."

He said the purpose is to bolster
U. S. air defenses in the Far East.
Two planes in the first squadron returned to California when their refueling equipment failed.

mechanic, USN, formerly of Longwood, Fla., and husband of the former Miss Katherine E. Kelly of 36 Dekalb Avenue, Portsmouth, Va., has reported for duty to Helicopter Anti-Submarine Squadron 2 here.

The helicopter squadron is the first of its type on the West Coast and was formed in March, 1952.
Drivers walked out May 7. They went back June 7 under the truck.

Bus Drivers' Strike Over Pay Is Averted

JACKSONVILLE (AP)—Bus drivers and the Jacksonville Coach Co. settled their pay differences here early today, averting another tie-up of the city's transportation system.

Drivers have been operating the buses the past 30 days under a truce agreed upon after city officials granted the bus company a fare increase from 10 to 15 cents.
Union representatives and management met to draft a new contract which is expected to give the drivers 9 cents an hour and other benefits amounting to an overall boost of 12 cents.

The union asked a wage increase from $1.25 to $1.50 an hour when negotiations failed.

the week previous and covering the same period in 1951, 8,261 unemployed were paid $130,286, according to a news release by Raymond E. Barnes, Chairman of the Florida Industrial Commission.

As indicated by the figures, employment is holding up exceptionally well as compared to a year ago.
In this county, 76 unemployed persons received $1,218.

REDS ABANDON RADIO
BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin police said today the Communists have abandoned their giant Radio Berlin building in the British sector, leaving only a skeleton crew of watchmen and scrubwomen behind.

The 750-room building once was the fountain of Nazi propaganda and later of the Red line.
The shift of staff, files and records from the Communist island in the British sector to Gruenau in East Berlin started more than a year ago.

Convention Sidelights

By ED CREAM
CHICAGO (AP)—This town is Bedlam, Main Street and Tin Pan Alley rolled into one.

Noise? Man, you couldn't hear yourself think within three blocks of the Conrad Hilton Hotel, main operating base of the Republican National Convention.

If bands aren't playing, sirens are screaming. Or sound trucks are baying. Or all three are going on at once.

And as if this weren't enough,
the Taft people get out a big, gold-framed Liberty Bell and are ding-ling the daylight out of it—as this is written—in a mournful minor key that adds the final touch.

Mostly, though, they sing.
This may be the angriest GOP convention since 1919, or it may not be. But five will get you ten it's the angriest.

The Tafts have dusted off that four-leaf clover song from 1948—
"We're looking over a four-leaf clover that we overlooked before."
They sing "Battle Hymn of the Republic" a lot, too.

Also what they call the fight song:
"Fight the team across the field.
"Toll them Ohio's here."

Well, the Eisenhowers have picked up the four-leaf clover song, puffing their own anti-Taft words in it.

Also, they've put out a hand-somerly printed brochure of other songs. Like their sunflower song.
You remember: He's a sun-flower,
etc. The line song goes:
"He was born in Texas
"He was bred in Kansas
"He's the flower of our heart."

The Taft people probably will try to top this before the day is Mrs. candidate song.

over, but so far there's only one it made its debut at a mammoth reception for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and his wife Sunday night, and Mrs. Eisenhower loved it. You will be hearing it a lot on radio or TV this week. Goes to the tune of Mrs. Taft And Mrs. Ike Work For Their Husbands

By RUTH COWAN
CHICAGO (Special)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Mrs. Robert A. Taft are working harder than they ever have in their lives in the bitter battle between their husbands for the Republican Presidential nomination.
Each is going through the ordeal of greeting thousands and thousands of delegates, alternates and well-wishers—and hoping that by a handclasp, a smile, a word, she is winning supporters from the opponent's camp.
And to Mrs. Taft it is indeed an ordeal, for she suffered a paralytic stroke two years ago. She has to campaign from a wheelchair but fortunately her right hand, her hand shaking hand—is unaffected and her large brown eyes have their old-time sparkle.
"Martha Taft is a woman of great courage," commented Rep. Frances Dalton of Ohio, as she watched Mrs. Taft receive long lines of guests at a big reception Sunday night. Her husband stood beside her.
At another hotel a few blocks away Mrs. Eisenhower also beside her husband went through a mammoth handshaking event that is standard procedure for a Presidential hopeful.
Marie Eisenhower enjoyed it—even though her right hand got a bit red and she confessed laughingly that her feet got tired.
She had the fun of hearing a song written especially for her by Jimmy Dodd of Los Angeles and entitled "Mamie."
Someone gave Gen. Eisenhower a copy, he put on his glasses and, smiling inwardly, sang with the Purdue University glee club and spectators:
"Mamie, what a wonderful name is Mamie.
In her heart jumps a flame for the man that she loves, and her family too.
"Missus America" through and through is Mamie, with her style and grace she's a lady of grand.
Mamie what a wonderful name for the first lady of our land!"

Blues Struggle For 5th With Jax Beach Here Tonight

Cavallaro Returns To Seminoles As Lakeland Recalls Veteran Santora

By KENT CHETLAIN
Jupiter Fluvius gained the floor over the week-end and washed the Seminoles' two-game series with the Cocoa Indians Saturday night and Sunday. Friday night the Daytona Beach Islanders snapped the Blues' four-game winning streak with a 8-5 victory in the Memorial Stadium before 650 fans.

Tonight the sixth place Blues will commence their drive for fifth place when they open a two-game set with the Jax Beach Sea Birds here at 8:00 p. m. Pitching chores will be handled by Frank Santora by Jorge Rivero who will be in quest of his eighth win of the year. Rivero has posted a 7-7 record thus far this season.

While the rain fell, the Blues' front office was busily engaged in making player shifts necessitated by the recall of veteran infielder Frank Santora by the Lakeland Pilots of the Florida International League. The Pilots announced that they were sending a rookie infielder to replace Santora.

In order to bolster the Sanford roster after the loss of Santora, the Seminoles resigned Fred Cavallaro who was turned loose by DeLand over the week-end. Cavallaro, originally signed with Sanford at the beginning of the season and was released last May. Cavallaro is hitting .233 a few points more than he was when Sanford turned the giant flycatcher loose nearly two months ago. The Brooklyn-born outfielder has driven in 42 runs in 75 contests.

Santora was hitting .250 at the time of his recall and had hit two homers for the Blues. Meanwhile Paul Eskew, who was called home to see his sick father, has returned and will probably play second base with Chico Gonzalez or the rookie Lakeland Pilot filling in at short.

Injured Frank Smith may return to the line up shortly as his hand is rapidly improving from a spike wound he received in a collision with Dick Cade on an attempted steal of home in a recent Sanford-DeLand series here.

Good news, too, comes from the reports on Johnny Imbra's broken leg. The flashy fielding second sacker is now working out with the club and may be back in the line up within the week.

The Blues held a practice at the Memorial Stadium this morning at 10:30 a. m. preparing for the crucial Sea Birds series.

Press Box Later: The Blues have hit 63 homers this season to pace the FSL in that department and are within 10 of the loop record set in 1950 by the Sanford Glants when Ed Levy hit 33 to also set a circuit mark.

Four Blues Hitting Over .300; Imbra And Smith Are Still Out

The injury-riddled Seminoles have four players batting over .300 but half of them are on the sidelines nursing baseball wounds. Frank Smith who is one of the injured Seminoles, in the pace setter with a .333 average but he has only played eight games.

Manager Chuck Aleno's .321 percentage is tops on the regular roster but it represents a 26-point drop from last week. This slump took the Blue pilot out of the Top Ten hitters for the second time this year.

Paul Eskew, who departed Thursday night to see his sick father, is tied with injured John Imbra with a .313 plate mark.

Jack Cade, Anzalaga swept a three game series from then league-leading Orlando.

The week saw Tom Mills win his 18th, tilt in 20 decisions for Jax Beach; saw rookie sensation Rip Sewell of Orlando belted out of the box by Sanford after having started and finished 10 straight games; saw Orlando drop five straight as a brace of injuries swept over the squad; saw rookie Gary Sondermeyer hit safely thru his 20th game as of midnight Thursday.

The famed channel swimmer, Florence Chadwick, who spent three weeks in Sanford at the Mayfair Inn last February, failed in her attempt to swim the 21-mile Catalina Island to the California coast last Friday.

To all the local people who had the pleasure of meeting this charming, strikingly modest and friendly "human mazon", her failure came as a great disappointment. Consolation however, was forthcoming in the same story as she stated, in true competitive spirit, "I will not let this discourage me and I will try it again in September."

The sole reason for giving up, she said was that the water was too cold. This seems a bit strange to all of us that watched her defy temperatures in the low 40's to practice twice a day for five hours in the Mayfair pool last February.

The conqueror of the English Channel is the only woman alive who can navigate the Catalina stretch and we predict that she will fulfill her prediction of making it in September. It might be well to interject a human interest sidelight in Miss Chadwick's latest marathon attempt. Her Catalina swim was tried without the able assistance and assistance of her father, who faithfully trained her and accompanied her on both record channel undertakings. Mr. Chadwick died seven months ago.

We received a nice letter from Jim McLaughlin, farm director of the St. Louis Browns, the other day asking us to be sure and remember him to all his friends in Sanford. From his statements on players in the FSL, it seems the Browns are well informed on the league.

McLaughlin was here last March with the Browns No. 1 farm team the San Antonio Missions. They enjoyed their stay and might be interested in returning here next year if the New York Giants decide not to return their farm club to Sanford from Melbourne.

Sanford's own outfield hero, George Kenis, has apparently proved to local fans he can field, throw and hit with the best of the flycatchers in the Southern portion of the league for at the present time the versatile player is running third in the batting race among the top three flycatchers for the three out field berths in the Herald's All-Star voting contest.

Kenis has 35 votes while Buck Collins leads with 45 and Bill Shores, Orlando, ranks second with 41. Close behind Kenis is Saddy Rogers, the Seminole outfielder, with 33 ballots. Kenis' vote-total is still in contention with the other two more weeks for voting left.

The week-end voting showed a decided trend toward smooth fielding Gene Pollard, Daytona first baseman, over Red Roberts. Pollard added 12 votes to his meager total to place him in second place 34 ballots behind Roberts.

The last minute shift toward Pollard was one vote, bought to us as a former second-seeded initial sacker. Floyd Cliff, of Jax Beach, another underdog nominee showed signs of treatment as a leader. He was Bill Roberts' Ray Dunne son, Jax Beach veteran backstop, who now has 27 votes compared with the leading Ray Dunne of DeLand. Dunne has been the popular choice of fans since the poll began for the North's position.

Mostransky Cuts Sondermeyer's All-Star Lead

Red Hat Shortstop Draws Within Two Ballots Of First

DeLand's shortstop Bill Mostransky and Palatka Azalea Gary Sondermeyer are waging the closest battle for an individual starting berth on the Northern All-Star team in the Herald's poll among fans for the State League's All-Star game to be played here July 25.

Mostransky made deep inroads in Sondermeyer's 12-vote lead over the week-end which resulted in placing the Red Hat shortstop only a scant two votes behind the giant Palatka shortstop - first baseman. At the present clip Mostransky threatens to unseat Sondermeyer within 48 hours.

The Azalea has led the shortstop poll since its inception two weeks ago. Balloting generally picked up over the week-end with a total vote for two-weeks reaching the 80 mark and indications that the Red Hat is in prospect for the last two-and-one-half weeks of the fans' poll.

Sanford Manager Chuck Aleno leads all individual voters with a 76 total at his position on third base for the South. He is closely followed by injured John Imbra of Sanford with 75 ballots at the second base position on the Southern club. These high figures for the two Blue infielders indicates the favorite vote of Sanford fans.

All ballots in the Herald poll will be counted in with the balloting in other cities and towns throughout the FSL and the voting that will be conducted in the stands at the various parks preceding the All-Star classic.

A close race in voting is developing in the two-way battle for the Northern outfield berths between Jax Beach Manager Red Treadway and Daytona Beach's sensational rookie left fielder Howie Tennow. Treadway leads with 56 and Buster Kinard's third high of 42. Three top vote getters will be the starting outfield for the Northern team.

Ranking in fourth spot in the out garden balloting is veteran Al Pirtle with 37 and in fifth place is the brilliant fielding Red Cade, Del. Cade is one of the early top three leaders but in recent balloting has displaced in favor of Kinard, Tennow, and Pirtle. Kinard is still in contention with the other two more weeks for voting left.

The week-end voting showed a decided trend toward smooth fielding Gene Pollard, Daytona first baseman, over Red Roberts. Pollard added 12 votes to his meager total to place him in second place 34 ballots behind Roberts.

The last minute shift toward Pollard was one vote, bought to us as a former second-seeded initial sacker. Floyd Cliff, of Jax Beach, another underdog nominee showed signs of treatment as a leader. He was Bill Roberts' Ray Dunne son, Jax Beach veteran backstop, who now has 27 votes compared with the leading Ray Dunne of DeLand. Dunne has been the popular choice of fans since the poll began for the North's position.

Dunne's total vote now is 82 or 25 better than Robertson's. Jack Cade is the overwhelming Northern selection of the fans for the hot corner post with 61 votes.

Ted Jones, Adolphe Barber And John M. Taylor Submit All-Star Choices

Edward F. "Ed" Lane, real estate agent and self-styled "man who knows Sanford," concludes his All-Star selections with the comment, "Sanford has a good club and I believe if they will just settle down and play ball they will be on top at the close of the season."

Four Seminoles Blue players were Lane's choices on the Southern All-Star team. They were Chuck Aleno at third, Paul Eskew in right field and hurler Chico Corrales and Murray Byrd. Ed Levy was Lane's South manager with veteran Red Kress of Daytona Beach named to run the Northern Stars.

The life-long Sanford baseball fan selects rookie hitting sensation Fred Brady of Leesburg for his Southern shortstop and Dick Renner, Chico Brady's keystone partner, Fundora at second. Lane favors veteran receivers as he named Ray Dunne of DeLand for the North and Don Ford of the South.

In the Northern infield, Lane experimented with a keystone combination of two Daytona Beach infielders, normally a second baseman at short and outfielder Bob Rucker at second. Rucker is the former slugging Saints who was purchased by the Islanders when the Saints disbanded last month.

Seminole High sophomore athlete, F. G. Taylor, of the Adolphus club, was one of many fans that have cast their ballots for Ed Levy of Orlando as the South manager. Taylor selected Rivero with a duo of Cocoa fingers for his choices on the Southern pitching staff. Getting back to Mr. Lane's picks we find the elder baseball observer has named the favorite choice for the most popular player in listing Red Roberts for that award.

Fans are urged to send in as many ballots as they desire. The poll has generally picked steam with a total of 80 to date. Ed Lane's All-Star Selections:

North: Roberts, Del. 15; Levy, Ori. 25; Rucker, D. B. 28; Fundora, Lees. 22; Renner, D. B. 38; Brady, Lees. 37; Cade, Del. 34; Aleno, San. 76; Dunne, Del. 41; Ford, Ori. 42; Tennow, D. Cecil Rines Defeats Spencer, 6-2, 6-0

The City tennis tournament got into full swing over the weekend with Cecil Rines, Sanford tennis veteran, defeating Wes Spencer in a decisive match, 6-2, 6-0.

The tournament was held at the City Recreation Center and was the first of its kind in Sanford. The City Recreation Director Tommy Stringer said today that due to lack of applications there would be no women's singles or women's doubles matches in the tournament this year.

Quads Consisting Of 3 Girls, Boy Are Born

PORTLAND, Me. (AP)—Quadruplets were born today to a 25-year-old wife of a seagooner—and her first concern was where to put her three girls and a boy in the Boston Harbor and neighborhood of the seagooner's home.

The babies named Rebecca, Debbie, Jane and Benjamin were born at 11:30 a. m. at the home of the seagooner's wife and her husband was delivered unscathed.

Lewis Suggests Taft-Hartley As GOP Candidates

In Meantime Country Looks To Murray For Strike Tipoff

CHICAGO (AP)—John L. Lewis, bitter critic of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law, today suggested a Taft-Hartley ticket for the Republican Party.

A statement distributed by a spokesman for Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, suggested that Sen. Robert A. Taft, who wants the GOP Presidential nomination, should seek former Rep. Fred Hartley of New Jersey as a running mate. They co-authored the labor act in Congress.

Meanwhile in Pittsburgh the nation looked to CIO Steelworkers' President Philip Murray today for a running mate. He is being held on suspicion of attempted robbery.

James, who goes by the alias of Adell Wright, escaped on July 3 from the State Road Camp at St. Augustine. He has a record of three previous arrests in Sanford, once six weeks ago when he had escaped and stolen another automobile.

He was first picked up in Sanford for robbery at the Florida State Farmer's Market.

Escaped Convict Put Under Arrest By Local Police

Without James, 23 year old escaped Negro convict was put under arrest by local police early this morning when he was apparently about to enter a store on Sanford Avenue. Chief Roy Williams reported today.

The arrest was made by Patrolman Arnold Williams, who was working his beat on Sanford Avenue near Fifth Street. Williams, concealed in an alley, noticed a car containing two Negroes parked in front of the store and one of them made his way into an alley toward the rear.

The patrolman caught James with a Jimmy in his hand and subsequently arrested the other man who had remained in the automobile.

The men were driving a stolen 1950 blue Pontiac whose ownership has not yet been discovered. James is being held in the local jail preparatory to be turned over to State authorities, and the other man, Steve Williams, is being held on suspicion of attempted robbery.

G.O.P. Convention

Eisenhower supporters call it the "fair play" rule. Taft backers hoot at that.

Lloyd Taft, son of the senator, told a reporter his father's forces were thinking of offering a substitute for the Eisenhower motion under which each contested state would be permitted to vote on either disputes after its contest had been settled.

That would permit the pro-Taft on the temporary roll unanimously by the GOP National Committee—vote on later contests. Under the usual alphabetical arrangement, the Georgia contest would be second on the list.

Just after the younger Taft revealed this, Eisenhower forces announced a proposal along that precise line.

In the present situation, the practical effect would be whether disputed Taft delegates from Florida, for instance, would be allowed to vote on the question of seating rival Taft and Eisenhower delegations from Texas.

Eisenhower's supporters—and some delegates who have not openly taken any position on the rival Presidential candidates—contended that if the rule was put over it would be an assurance that "like" would cop the nomination when the convention gets to that stage, probably Thursday or Friday.

But Taft told reporters "I don't regard it as of vital importance on the final outcome."

Taft said again, as he has for days, that he has the delegates to win the nomination. It takes 604.

Most of the delegates came to this bunting-decked hall from causes of state delegations where they had warm discussions of the rules question.

The "like" crowd was backed in their position by a majority from some of the key states.

Pennsylvania voted today to cast 57 votes in support of the proposed rule. Only 11 delegates lined up against the change. Two members of the 70-vote delegation announced they were passing, for the present.

CHICAGO (AP)—Gov. Theodore B. McKeldin of Maryland said today he had been asked to place Gen. Eisenhower's name in nomination for President at the Republican National Convention and "I'm going to."

McKeldin told reporters the invitation had been extended in a brief telephone call with the general.

Eisenhower's headquarters had put in a call for the Maryland governor as he was presiding over his own state delegation's first caucus. McKeldin called back as soon as the meeting ended.

McKeldin, who has frequently expressed a preference for Eisenhower but at the same time insisted he had made no commitments, saw the general Sunday night. Afterward, he said he thought the votes he controls in the Maryland delegation would go for Eisenhower and he figured he could influence a majority of his state's 24 delegates.

CHICAGO (AP)—Rip snorting contests over seating rival Taft-Eisenhower delegations from Southern states may be televised and broadcast after all before reaching the Republican National Convention floor.

Convention staff men told reporters Sunday the credentials committee—next arena for the fight—is considering opening its sessions to TV and radio broadcasts.

Newspaper reporters were admitted to the first round battling before the Republican National Committee last week, but TV and radio coverage was banned on grounds it would be disruptive.

Conferences invite rival delegations from Florida, Georgia, Texas, Mississippi, Missouri, Kansas and Puerto Rico.

(604 Needed to Nominate)
*This is your own newspaper's way of keeping track of the last minute shifts that will decide who is to be the Republican standard-bearer. Why not try it yourself, and be your own master-strategist in spotting what claims of delegate support will meet the supreme test of the roll calls, and what will fall away?

Figures in the columns reflect the estimates made by managers of the nomination contenders, and a neutral appraisal of unpledged delegates. Pin a sheet of light weight white paper over this chart (the lines will show through), and write in the returns as you hear them over TV or radio, or compare the estimates with results in the paper. No one will be closer to the White House Saturday included:

- 1 — A $1,015,000,000 measure to finance the State, Commerce and Justice Departments.
- 2 — A bill to increase Social Security and public assistance payments by about 540 million dollars a year.
- 3 — A measure guaranteeing the government will support prices of cotton, corn, wheat, rice, tobacco and peanuts at 80 per cent of par.

STOLEN GEMS DISPLAYED

NEW YORK (AP)—Two gem-encrusted crowns stolen from a Brooklyn Roman Catholic shrine and mysteriously mailed back eight days later are on display again under special safeguards.

The crowns, worth an estimated $100,000, were restored Sunday to their proper place in the Regina Pacis Shrine of St. Rosalia Church. New protection measures include shatterproof glass, an improved burglar alarm and a night watchman.

American Colonel's Wife Goes On Trial

WEISSBADEN, Germany (AP)—An American colonel's wife went on trial today on 17 charges of violating U. S. currency and rationing regulations in occupied Germany.

The first prosecution witness, a German servant, testified he acted as a black market go-between for her.

Mrs. Katherine G. Reed, 38, dark-haired social leader of Weissbaden when her Air Force husband, Col. Allen W. Reed, commanded the military post here last year, pleaded innocent on all counts.

The 17th charge—selling a military gasoline ration book for 500 marks ($250)—was brought by Assistant District Attorney Joseph L. Silverstein as the trial opened.

Earlier counts alleged Mrs. Reed unlawfully exchanged $1,000 of German currency for military rations and illegally acquired 3,000 marks and 2,000 scrip dollars. They also charge her with illegally disposing of military coupons for 1,000 gallons of gasoline.

Congress

bors. He said he would accept $50,000 to start construction on the Hartwell Dam on the Savannah River rather than the four millions he demanded last week.

Long distance telephone calls were brought to Republicans attending the GOP National Convention in Chicago in hopes of ending the impasse.

House leaders are understood to have taken the position that unless compromises are effected today, adjournment will be impossible before next week, which marks the period between the Republican and Democratic conventions.

The dash toward a planned final adjournment stalled to a stop as the sun peeked over the horizon Sunday morning. All except two appropriations bills had been passed, but on these the Senate and House deadlocked.

Adjournment is off at least until next week, the week between the political conventions at which the Republicans and Democrats choose their Presidential candidates for the November election.

Until then, nothing of importance will be transacted. House Democrats and Republicans agreed on this in the small hours Sunday morning.

Administration plans to bring Congress to a close Saturday night collapsed chiefly because the House had written into a 10 billion dollar supplemental appropriation bill a curb on the use of funds for an expansion of the atomic weapons program.

The measure carries two billion dollars for the atomic program, $6,031,947,750 for foreign military and economic aid, and $2,140,000,000 for military bases and other projects around the world.

In a last ditch appeal against the House rider, President Truman wrote Vice President Barkley and House Speaker Rayburn that it cripple atomic production and imperil national security.

The Senate refused to accept the rider. The House finally agreed to modify it somewhat but balked at throwing it overboard.

The other dispute that upset adjournment plans flared over a compromise $38,061,600 bill to finance rivers and harbors and flood control projects.

Dropped out of the measure was four million dollars for the Hartwell Dam in South Carolina and Georgia. Sen. Maybank (D-S. C.) roared that the bill was not going to pass without this item in it, and indicated he might launch a filibuster.

Sen. Olin Johnston (D-S. C.) said he too was ready to talk all day Sunday.

The upshot was that the Senate sent the bill back to conference again in hopes of working out a settlement.

With this and the atomic spending controversy on his hands, Democratic Leader McFarland of Arizona despaired at last and moved the Senate recess until today. It quit at 4:10 a. m. and the House shortly followed suit.

The rank of Congress members present already had been thinned by Republicans leaving for Chicago and, to a lesser extent by Democrats heading for home in the belief the session was all but over.

Other strides toward adjournment, including the passage of a $66,000,000 defense appropriation bill, had been taken before the legislators bogged down.

This measure—the largest of all the appropriation bills for the 1953 fiscal year—carried the full amount asked by President Truman to expand the Air Force to 143 wings by mid-1953.

Other bills passed and sent to the White House Saturday included:

- 1 — A $1,015,000,000 measure to finance the State, Commerce and Justice Departments.
- 2 — A bill to increase Social Security and public assistance payments by about 540 million dollars a year.
- 3 — A measure guaranteeing the government will support prices of cotton, corn, wheat, rice, tobacco and peanuts at 80 per cent of par.

EISENHOWER AND TAFT DELEGATES jam the corridors of the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago, while members of the Republican National Committee debate the seating of the delegates from Texas. After about three hours of debate, the group voted 60 to 41 to accept Sen. Robert A. Taft's proposal giving the Ohio Senator 22 delegates against 18 for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. The general's forces declared they would appeal the ruling to the Credentials Committee. (International) behind closed doors and amid closely-guarded secrecy. He wants no premature leaks. Nevertheless, other members of the committee disclosed that only a civil rights plank needed to be hammered into position.

A subcommittee led by Mrs. Mildred Younger, attractive youthful delegate from California, split upon what Republicans should propose.

All six opposed a compulsory federal program or commission to halt racial and minority discriminations.

But Mrs. Younger and three members suggested a voluntary federal commission with power to investigate state and local conditions in this field and make recommendations. This was expected to appeal to Negroes and other minority groups.

Two committeemen insisted the federal government should leave such matters to state and local action.

Compromise treatment was reported by subgroups on the touchy questions of government farm price programs and labor management relations.

Initial reports from the farm plank group indicated movement away from rigid government price supports and strong federal controls.
