New traffic signs will alert drivers

By Bill Kerns
STAFF WRITER

LAKE MARY - New traffic safety signs are being posted throughout Seminole County in an effort to reduce the number of crashes occurring between vehicles and trains.

On Wednesday a new traffic safety sign was erected on County Road 427 and General Hutchinson Road in Longwood. The sign is designed to promote awareness and safety at railroad crossings.

"Basically, we're trying to alert people to the dangers of stepping on the railroad tracks," Lake Mary Police Department Lt. Dave Gullford said. "We're putting signs up at the busiest and most hazardous intersections."

Additional signs will be posted at Airport and Old Make Mary Boulevards, the intersection of State Roads 427 and 434 in Longwood, and the intersections of 436 and 427 in Altamonte Springs.

"These are ones with the most traffic violations," Gullford said.

"Traffic at these intersections gets backed up during the holidays."

The signs were developed and implemented by the Seminole County Community Traffic Safety Team, with members from 18 city, county and state organizations.

"We do about 12-14 projects per year," Gullford said. "We do all the DUI checkpoints. We've done two mock DUI crashes in Oviedo."

The team has members from the Seminole County Sheriff's Office, and police departments in Sanford, Winter Springs, Longwood, Oviedo, Lake Mary, Altamonte Springs, and Casselberry, the Florida Highway Patrol, Florida Department of Transportation, and Seminole County Traffic Engineering.

Also represented on the team are Altamonte Springs Engineering, Oviedo Engineering, the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles, Drive Smart of Florida, Lynx Transportation, Progressive Insurance, and South Seminole Hospital.

Bears versus humans Activity increases as homes move into bear's territory

SANFORD - The Florida black bear does not settle down to a long winter's nap, like its cousins up north; rural homeowners should be aware of this, said the Florida Game and Freshwater Fish Commission.

The bears don't hibernate, said Lt. Joy Hill, spokesperson for the agency, they shut down or slow down, but because of the warm weather, "they haven't even been doing that."

In north Seminole County, there have been at least two reported incidents of bear activity in the past two weeks.

This is not surprising said Hill. The Central Region of OFC has the highest density of bears in the state, due to good habitat and large areas of protection. As development moves into areas historically populated by bears, human and bear interaction is going to be come more common.

"The situation is that bears live there," Hill said of the area near the Wekiva River, in northwest Seminole. "They don't live in the city but as the city moves in to their territory, we are going to see more encounters."

Steve Charron called the agency two weeks ago to report a bear near his property on West State Road 46. Charron lives in front of Wilber's Farm, where a bear has apparently killed two hogs in two weeks.

"This bear out here done found him a Winn Dixie in the woods," said Charron.

"That bear ate so many of our animals that we didn't have enough animals left to do the tour," said Bob Elliott, who has worked at Wilber's Farm for more than 25 years. The farm was popular with local elemen-

Sheriff reviews tragedies of '98, points toward tomorrow

By Russ White
STAFF WRITER

SEMINOLE COUNTY - As soon as the clock strikes midnight and the start of 1999, Sheriff Don Ealinger will be relieved that the busiest, most gut-wrenching and most stressful year of his law enforcement career will have ended.

No one, Ealinger said, could have imagined the terrors and tragedies of 1998 - when the community was savaged by tornadoes, wild-fires, a deranged gunman, and by a triple-murderer whom the sheriff says, "will rot in hell."

Ealinger wept for those who were killed or lost their homes in the late January tornado and again for Deputy Gene Gregory, who was shot execution-style by Alan Singletary at the outset of a 13-hour standoff under a summer full moon. "I never wanted this to happen on my watch," Ealinger said.

A month later detectives arrested Michael Reynolds, whom they say brutally beat to death a couple and their 11-year-old daughter at their residence near Geneva. "It was wicked, violent act," Ealinger said.

"I never wanted this to happen on my watch."

"Human behavior is so difficult to predict, you can't pretend to know everything that happens," Ealinger said Tuesday. "You prepare. You keep digging for innovations and answers. And you learn from each episode."

At 41, Ealinger has been the county's chief law enforcement officer for eight years. He says he will announce in September 1999 that he is going to run for a third re-election as sheriff. He is not going to be part of Gov.-elect Jeb Bush's Florida Department of Law Enforcement team in Tallahassee.

"There were rumors that I would be leaving - but that's all they were rumors," Ealinger said. "I sent an internal message to everyone in our agency to ignore the rumors. That they were not true. The citizens of the county have elected me twice and I hope they do a third time. My work is right here."

limit." Ealinger said he frequently hears the words of the pastor in Geneva who buried the family killed last summer. "He told of why we must turn tragedy into triumph. That's what I hope all of us in the community are doing. This has been a difficult year for many people."

"I've never been as proud as I have for those who endured the pain and misery or braved danger," he said. "The events we were part of will change your life forever - change many, many lives forever. The level of the damage from the tornado alone was beyond belief."

Ealinger said that Gregory's murder was a "very trying, difficult" blow for him and the agency. "We didn't imagine this happening in Seminole County. It was a gruesome scene trying to get in to rescue Gene. The most stressful

"I was scribbling some ideas at lunch," he said. "This is a time consuming job. You never really rest. You're always planning something, making preparations to get new equipment or hire new people. As publisher of the Seminole Herald, Fetzer said he will continue the newspaper's tradition of local news coverage, particularly in Sanford and the surrounding areas.

"The focus will remain on the community and Sanford as the county seat," Fetzer said. "Our goal is to be the best possible local news source in Seminole County."

6 win, 6 lose - all make news

As the old year winds down, and the new approaches Seminole County - especially the Lake Monroe waterfront in Sanford - let us reflect on some of the big winners and losers in the year 1998.

We respectfully nominate:

The Winners

CARLTON HENLEY - Not only did he get back on the County Commission, Henley became its chairman. At 65, the ex-high school principal goes to the head of the class.

CHRIS JOHNSON - Who says there are no more heroes? Assistant county fire chief Johnson carried a woman from her home after it was hit by the tornado and braved a madman's gunfire in Geneva to drag a wounded deputy to safety.

ROD JOHNSON - So, the elevator music is maddening and so is the bobbing head doll but doesn't Channel 13's pleasantly-profound newsmen Johnson make you feel good? He's the man.

MARYANNE MORSE - The clerk of the court told Commissioner Dick Van Der Weide to account for his expenses on a trip to Europe. He didn't. She docked the dough from two of his paychecks.

RAY BRONSON - Sanford's acting police chief moved into command when Joe Dillard went on the injured reserve list (knee surgery). City will conduct a national search for a new chief. Many at the SPD are calling for Bronson.

ANDREA K. FARMER - Imaginative and enthusiastic. As long as Farmer is the director of marketing at the Central Florida Zoological Park, the place will thrive. Everyone loves her. Including the animals.

The Losers

ADULT CLUB OWNERS - They're told to clean up their businesses and to cover up their dancers. The horses are gone from Circus Circus, too. Not much left to do on 17-92.

LAKE MONROE MIDGES - Little bugs had no chance against Mighty Mayor Dale who degraded their capabilities to annoy.

THE UCF FOOTBALL TEAM - The Knights weren't on line when they needed to be. Too bad there isn't a Cellular Phone Bowl.

WIN ADAMS - Win lost this time. Henley grabbed his commission seat. Watch out in a couple of years when Win may win again.

TERRY MULLINS - Sanford cop lost his job because he smoked while on duty. He should have read the union's warning labels.

PARK PRESERVATION SOCIETY - This group lost its fight to save Fort Mellon Park from the evils of progress. Millions of dollars of improvements to the area might open some eyes.

Sanford native designated state commander of military order

By Grace Marie Stinecpher
CORRESPONDENT

William H. Stemper Jr. was recently designated State Commander of the Military Order of Foreign Wars of the United States in the Commandery of Florida.

William H. Stemper Jr., a native of Sanford, was recently designated State Commander of the Military Order of Foreign Wars of the United States in the Commandery of Florida.

The Order, established in New York City on Dec. 13, 1894, is comprised of officer veterans of the nation's major conflicts, and their descendants. Stemper is a descendant of William H. Stemper Sr., a lieutenant (USN) in World War II, and of Samuel Fitz Randolph, an officer in the Revolutionary Army serving under George Washington, from New Jersey. The purpose of the order is to honor the names of men and women who established American liberty, and to conduct research into the history and policy of military activity in the United States and abroad.

As a member of the Oxford University Society for Strategic Studies, Stemper recently completed research regarding the presence and activity of British Regiments during the period 1763-1783, when Florida, as a "loyalist" colony, was occupied by units which took part in the Revolutionary War, and which quelled an insurrection at the Andrew Turnbull colony of New Smyrna. Utilizing the resources of the Bodleian Library, at Oxford, the Imperial War Museum and National Army Museum, Chelsea, London, he located the specific bodies of soldiers which were deployed in what is now St. Johns and Volusia counties. Before this research, there was no knowledge of these units among local historians and archaeologists engaged in excavations currently underway through the auspices of the Daytona Beach Museum of Arts and Sciences in New Smyrna Beach.

Stemper, who resides in Oxford and in New Smyrna Beach is also Vicar for Corporate Affairs of the Episcopal Diocese of New York, and was present in England this past summer for the Lambeth Conference of Anglican Bishops, doing research regarding ecumenical and inter-religious policy for the Episcopal Bishop of New York. He is a fifth generation graduate of Stetson University, an alumnus of Union Theological Seminary, New York, and a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts in London. In June, he represented the United States Society of Arts in London. In June, he represented the United States Society of the Descendants of the Knights of Garter at the Annual Service of Thanksgiving for the Order at St. George's Chapel Windsor, in the presence of Queen Elizabeth II, The Queen Mother and other members of the Royal Family, as U.S. Vice President of the Society.

He addressed the state convention of the Sons of the American Revolution in the State of Florida, meeting in Daytona Beach, on Sept. 18, and currently is engaged in research relating to the history of Freemasonry and its relationship to Stetson University, established in 1883 by Henry A. DeLand, Silas B. Wright, a Past Grand Master of Masons in Florida, who was Secretary of the Board of Trustees of the university for many years, and to Dr. J. Ollie Edmunds, a Thirty-third degree Mason, and with former Governor Doyle E. Carlton, Sr., a founder of the oldest college fraternity in Florida, Alpha Chi Chapter of Delta Sigma Phi, established in DeLand in 1898.

Blood drive to help boost supply over the holidays

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

SANFORD - During the holidays in Central Florida, the combination of large influxes of travelers and increased traffic can be a disastrous mix that results in more accidents and an increased need in blood.

To help boost the blood supply during the holiday season, Central Florida Regional Hospital will be holding a blood drive on Dec. 30 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. to benefit the Central Florida Blood Bank.

Studies show that 60 percent of the population will need blood sometime in their lifetime with only five percent of the population actually donating blood.

Blood supplies over the holidays very often reach low levels because regular donors become busy in preparing for the holidays and increased need. The blood bank needs help to ensure that there will be sufficient amounts of blood to supply the injured over the holiday season.

"Please donate the gift of life," said Liz Lawlor, director of community relations for CFRH, "and help someone in need this holiday season."

scene I've ever experienced. We had some deputies go in there to get Gene Capt. Billy Lee, sergeants Fannin and Wedding. They showed remarkable courage. Remarkable."

The sheriff said that Gregory's widow, Linda, and their son Deputy Travis Gregory were working with the Singletary family to assure that others with mental problems will not have easy access to firearms and be under a watch by law enforcement agencies or by those in the community.

"The key is for law enforcement and communities to work together," Ealinger said. "We need to share projects and talk about issues. I'm grateful for the opportunity to be in this job. I realize, though, that I have to earn it every day, every hour."

The move from the outdated sheriff's office at Orlando Sanford Airport to the new facility was a major plus for the agency as was a national award for integrity. It disappointed Ealinger, however, that a veteran of the force had to retire after a DUI charge and that a deputy was fired after a domestic violence incident.

Ealinger said his wished for 1999 include a continual improvement in correctional and law enforcement services. No Loss of Life, building community relationships and now and sufficient time for everyone to get ready for the next challenge.

The long, hard Watch of 1998 is almost over.

tary schools, which took students on field trips to the farm.

Elliott said the tours, which began 12 or 13 years ago, were stopped this spring, when the animals were moved to Camp Challenge in Sorrento. "That bear about put us out of business," said Elliott. "What animals we have left we're trying to bear-proof."

Charron, who runs a riding stable, has called the agency several times. He said he was told by a biologist who visited the farm "you have to live with them."

"You might tell city folks that," said Charron, "but old country boys aren't going to have none of that."

Charron killed a bear on the property after an attack. "I've been here for 50 years and it's only been the last two years we've had problems like this."

Hill said bears need a lot of area to range. An adult male black bear can travel up to 20 miles foraging for food. As habitat is lost, the omnivorous bear, which feeds primarily on fruits and berries, looks for new food sources.

"Bears are opportunistic," said Hill, who suggests rural homeowners adjust their lifestyle to compensate for the bears.

To minimize encounters, Hill first suggests an electric fence. Also, she said, don't put trash out until the day of pick-up, store trash and livestock food in secured containers or in a barn, and don't feed family pets outside.

The agency will not trap a bear and relocate it until it is deemed a nuisance, and this is only after the homeowner has exhausted all the advice given by the agency.

Elliott said the farm owner, Richard Wilber, was told by the agency to install an electric fence.

Trapping and relocating is a last resort, said Hill, because it is stressful for the bear, that is why the agency advises callers to "back off" and let the bear move on.

This was the case for a bear located in a Sanford neighborhood this weekend.

Ray Bronson, acting chief for the Sanford Police Department said the GFC biologist told him "leave him alone, he'll go back to where he came from."

The SPD was called to the area of 11th Street and Avocado Avenue early Thursday morning. The caller thought a prowler was in the area, and while Bronson said officers did not see the bear "it was something big and made a lot of noise."

"We believe that this bear has been in the area since Thursday of last week," said Bronson. It was finally sighted Saturday afternoon, when it made a temporary home in the backyard of a Pecan Avenue residence.

The area is near the CSX railroad tracks. Hill said, "Bears are known to use established pathways." Bronson said he has had reports of sightings of a bear along the tracks. He said also he had unconfirmed reports that someone on Narcissus Avenue, also near the tracks, was feeding a bear.

Bronson said the department would continue normal patrols of the area, keeping an eye out for further bear activity.

"I've learned a lot in the last couple of days about bears," he said. "The bear did exactly what the biologist said he would do."

Growth in the Wekiva River area continues to be an issue in Seminole County. The Seminole Herald will update its readers on these concerns, along with more information on wildlife interaction, in early January.

This hog was apparently killed by a bear last Thursday night. It was dragged from its pen to an area close to where it makes a den, over the weekend.

This chicken coop, on Wilber's Farm, was shredded by a bear last year. The bear was eventually killed by Steve Charron.

Americans are more optimistic

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

HOUSTON - Americans are approaching the new millennium with more hope than dread for the future, though their optimism is tempered by concerns about a decline in morality and basic values and an uncertainty about the growth of technology. And as the 20th Century draws to a close, they place great importance on the achievements made in the past 100 years. These are among the major findings of the newest edition of "The Shell Poll," a quarterly opinion survey of Americans conducted for Shell Oil Company by Peter D. Hart Research Associates.

Two-thirds of Americans said they were optimistic and hopeful about the future for themselves and their family. When asked to describe their feelings regarding the coming of the new millennium, more Americans (30 percent) said "hope" than anything else. Nearly a quarter said "curiosity," while only 6 percent said "worry" and 58 percent describing themselves as hopeful about the nation's future.

"The portrait that emerges in this study is of a citizenry that is both satisfied and proud of what has been accomplished in this century and hopeful and optimistic about what could be accomplished in the century ahead," said Peter D. Hart. "But behind this broad picture of satisfaction, Americans have some very real concerns about the future."

When selecting from a list of choices, a solid majority of Americans believe both race relations (57 percent) and physical fitness (52 percent) will be better 30 years from now, while more believe the standard of living will be higher (43 percent) than think it will be worse (27 percent). Americans aren't as optimistic about respect for values and morality; 45 percent think values will be worse in the years ahead. They also worry about the crime rate, with far more (47 percent) saying it will be worse in 30 years than better (28 percent).

Surprisingly, young people aren't as optimistic about the future as their older counterparts. Americans under age 35 are very optimistic about their own lives (69 percent), but only a slim majority (52 percent) feel good about the prospects for the nation, with 45 percent expressing pessimism. On the other hand, 62 percent of Baby Boomers say they're optimistic, while just 34 percent describe themselves as pessimistic.

Further, Americans expect our daily lives to undergo substantial change. Nine in 10 believe cash will disappear, to be replaced by electronic cards; nearly eight in 10 expect informal attire to be the norm in offices; almost two-thirds believe the traditional summer break for students will be replaced by a year-round schedule; nearly three-fourths think there will be more than two major political parties; and 55 percent believe fathers will spend as much time and energy raising children as mothers.

More than six in 10 think the United States will remain the world's greatest power in the 21st Century, while 42 percent believe there's a better than even chance the country will be involved in a major war in the next 30 years. In fact, more Americans (39 percent) list global war as their greatest fear for the future than any other potential crisis, even though a large majority (77 percent) cite terrorist attacks as a greater threat to the country than military conflict with another nation.

Health: Americans have great confidence about the future of health care. A majority of Americans believe several diseases and illnesses—including spinal cord injuries, diabetes, hepatitis, food-borne diseases, cancer, AIDS, herpes, multiple sclerosis and Alzheimer's disease—will be cured within 30 years. When asked to name which disease should receive the most research funding in that period, 48 percent chose cancer, making it far and away the top choice over the second highest funding priority: AIDS (22 percent).

Other interesting findings include:

* Americans expect the biggest changes to be in education over the next 30 years. When asked to name one or two areas where great change will take place, 45 percent said education, while nearly a quarter said the workplace and politics. Further, 36 percent selected "improvements in education,"

I do not miss the NBA in the least

SANFORD - I apologize to all true professional basketball fans, but I don't miss the NBA.

Now I know this column is usually devoted to local happenings, but I have had several people, including a few here at the Herald, ask me about the NBA, so I am going to add my two cents worth.

To begin with, I have never been a huge NBA fan. I think the college game, or even the high school game, is a better.

Now, I enjoyed watching some of the games and pulling for the Magic, but it was not a high priority on my list.

The NBA has turned into a lot of one-on-one games. Teams bring the ball down the floor, put the game in the star's hands and clear the rest of the players out of the way.

And you very seldom see someone who can really shoot the ball. All anyone wants to do, and it seems, most of the fans want to see, is a dunk.

That takes a lot of skill. Anyone over 6-foot-5 should be able to jump up and push the ball down through the rim.

And about half of the players can barely make 80-percent from the free throw line.

Standing just 15-feet from the goal, no defense, basically no time limit and you can't make more than 6-out-of-10? Please.

That brings me to the lock-out by the owners.

In recent days I have heard some players commenting that actually sound like they have an idea about what reality is.

I guess Billy Hunter, negotiator for the NBA Players Association, about had a heart attack when he heard Carl Malone say he thought the owners' latest offer was pretty good and a deal could be reached within a week.

And I really loved comments from the Chicago Bulls' veteran guard Ron Harper.

Harper said, and I am paraphrasing here, that he felt the lockout was dumb because the players were getting to play a fun game and that the players had fun playing the game.

He said that you can see basketball being played by all kinds of people of all ages in every city in the United States on just about every corner.

"And we get paid, very well, to play the game and have fun," said Harper, who added the part I really like. "How much money do you really need?"

I think that is the point that gets lost in all that is going on. Most of the players are not wanting for money, they just expect to get it.

Money to them is just a number, a status symbol.

If someone they feel they are better than is making more money than they are, then they feel they deserve more money.

It doesn't matter if they can use the money or not, they want the ego boost of being paid more than the next guy.

For years Michael Jordan did not make a high salary, at least by NBA standards.

He knew if he made too much money, he wouldn't have anyone to play with and would never win a championship.

And besides, he was making a lot more money from endorsements than he could ever make from the Bulls.

I heard another funny comment from a player, whose name I can't remember, on the radio. He said the only people who should be making this kind of money are policemen and teachers, not people playing a game.

But I really don't feel sorry for the owners either. It is their

Lake Brantley girls reach Target finals

Rams, Silver Hawks also in action

By Tony DeSommers
CORRESPONDENT

LAKE MARY - There's a sports aphorism that says, "One hundred percent of the shots that you don't take don't go in."

Lake Brantley and Lake Howell added credibility to that little nugget of wisdom Tuesday night. Playing in the semifinals of the Target Soccer Classic girls' soccer tournament at Lake Mary High School, the Lake Brantley Patriots registered a 1-0 win after out-shooting the Silver Hawks 13-6.

Having a one-sided edge in shots on goal certainly is no guarantee of a victory - host Lake Mary had a considerable advantage in that category in their first-round match with Valrico-Bloomingtondale, only to lose 1-0 on penalty kicks - but it does indicate who had the better of the play.

On Tuesday night, the Patriots put in a full 90 minutes, working hard from whistle to whistle on both ends of the field.

"Fitness was a big factor," said Lake Brantley coach John Schaefer. "The key for us was keeping Nancy Pryce off the board. This is the second time we've had such a close game with them. My girls worked hard and they worked hard for 90 minutes."

Ironically, although Lake Brantley forced Lake Howell keeper Carol Lewis to make 11 saves (several being of highlight film quality), it was a long looping shot by Sarah Freeman with just over a minute left that decided the game.

"We had one starter (senior Renee Gagnon) home with the flu, so Sarah Freeman had to fill in for her," explained Schaefer. "And she

Sarah's twin sister, Kristin, needed to make just four saves to register the shutout as Lake Brantley (8-1-4) earned a chance to claim a possible fourth Target (nee Burger King) Classic title. The Patriots last won the tournament in 1989, capping a run of three consecutive titles in 1987, 1988, and 1989.

The loss, the first of the season for Lake Howell (7-1-4), did not go down easily for the Silver Hawks, who felt they did not give their best effort.

"I know we were tired, but so were they (Lake Brantley)," said Lake Howell coach Didier Menard. "But even when you're tired, you still have to challenge for 50-50 balls. They wanted it more than we did. They went after every ball; they beat us at every phase of the game."

Particularly frustrating for the Silver Hawks was the paltry number of shots they mustered despite having several extended runs where they strung together a sequence of touches in the offensive end of the field.

"We talked about that (not taking shots) at halftime," Menard said. "We kept trying to set up the perfect shot when we should have been trying to put the ball on net."

That's all Sarah Freeman's shot was, an attempt from about 30 yards out that Lewis got a hand to but could not get enough of to push over the crossbar.

"Carol (Lewis) did a great job in goal for us," Menard said. "It probably should have been a three or four-goal game. But she kept us in it and gave us a chance to try and win it."

Outdoor Adventure Series, GFC cancel amateur bass tournaments

SANFORD - The Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC), Wildlife Foundation of Florida and the Texas-based Outdoor Adventure Series (OAS) have canceled a series of amateur bass fishing tournaments that were scheduled next year in Florida.

Randy Stark, owner of the OAS, was preparing to bring the biggest-purse amateur bass fishing tournament in history to Florida early next year. The plan called for three mega-money fishing tournaments in different parts of the state. Tournament winners would then compete for a Florida championship.

"A late start in planning for the Florida tournaments and a change in our relationship with Fox Sports Southwest have forced us to postpone our plans for at least a year," Stark said. "We are negotiating an agreement with another national network for broadcast and advertising activity for the Florida tournaments."

In addition to bass tournaments, plans include producing as many as four hour-long television specials about Florida's fishing, hunting and wildlife viewing opportunities. The OAS staff will be responsible for conducting the tournaments and getting sponsors, and the GFC will provide technical assistance for the project, tentatively titled "The Outdoor Adventure Series."

Stark said he and his staff are confident things will work out for Florida. The OAS made their debut this year in Texas with a series of four tournaments. The biggest event on Lake Fork drew 2,600 anglers over three days.

The amateur series in Florida would follow the same successful format used in Texas. Prizes are awarded for the seven heaviest bass on an hourly basis during each three-day event.

"We're looking forward to coming to Florida and working with the GFC and the Wildlife Foundation of Florida in putting on a great amateur bass fishing tournament series that will excite anglers and promote the quality fishing Florida offers," Stark said.

Target

Lake Brantley will play with Clearwater-Countryside (champions in 1996), which bested Daytona Beach-Seabreeze (tournament champions in 1992) 2-1 in the other semifinal Tuesday, this evening at 7 p.m.

Lake Howell and Seabreeze will play in the third-place game at 4:30 p.m.

Meeting to decide fifth and sixth place at 2 p.m. will be the Lake Mary Rams and Bloomingdale Bulls in a rematch of a first-round pairing.

The Rams (10-2-5) rode a goal by Alyssa Benitez and an 11-save shutout performance by goalkeeper Brandie Malizia to eliminate the Oviedo Lions, 1-0, in one of Tuesday's consolation bracket semifinals.

Earlier in the day, Bloomingdale ousted Boca Raton, 2-1, on penalty kicks. All three of Bloomingdale's tournament wins have gone to penalty kicks.

After scoring eight goals in their previous two games, Lake Mary's offense suffered a relapse to its first-round form.

"The difference is finishing," said Lake Mary coach Bill Eissele. "We didn't finish our opportunities in our first round game with Bloomingdale. The last two games, we've done a better job of capitalizing on our chances. Tonight, the goalkeeper was our target."

Both teams peppered the opposing netminders with shots, Lake Mary launching 20 at Oviedo's Tiffany Christiani while the Lions took 17 at Malizia.

"Brandie did a good job in the air," Eissele said. "She made some big saves, especially in the first half, when she was looking into the sun."

Oviedo coach Jay Getty sang similar praises for Christiani.

"Tiffany did a wonderful job back there tonight," said Getty. "Not only is she a good athlete, but she's a very intelligent goalkeeper. She knows how to put herself in good position to make the saves."

"Emily Chapman, our sweeper back, also did a good job tonight. She doesn't get much notice with all the firepower we have on this team, but she's an important part of our defensive effort."

While Getty said the Lions were certainly feeling the effects of playing their fourth game in five days, he suggested that his squad may have been suffering from a 10-month old emotional hangover.

"This is the first time we've seen Lake Mary since we beat them in the district finals last year," Getty explained. "We only graduated two seniors from that team, so almost every girl on the team knew how much effort was required to accomplish that last year."

"Tonight, I think we paid them a little too much respect. We didn't challenge for one ball in the first 40 minutes. And if you do that against Lake Mary, eventually they will capitalize on it."

Celebrate New Year's Eve Oyster stew highlight of traditional menu

A New Year's Eve tradition: Oyster Stew and Mary's Spinach Salad, garnished with sliced, hard-boiled eggs.

For serving:
1/4 cup chocolate chips (optional)

Bring the cream to a boil in a small heavy-bottomed saucepan over moderate heat, or in a bowl in a microwave. Remove from heat and add the chocolate and butter, whisking until smooth.

In a cup or small bowl, mix together the boiling water, cinnamon and espresso powder to make a paste. Scrape this mixture into the chocolate mixture and stir well.

Pour the warm chocolate-espresso mixture into a shallow bowl and press a piece of plastic wrap directly against the surface. Refrigerate for at least 3 hours or overnight. If left overnight, it may be too hard to scoop the next day. In that case, let sit at room temperature until slightly softened.

Using a teaspoon or tiny ice-cream scoop, scoop small mounds of the chocolate mixture onto a sheet of waxed paper. Dust your hands with cocoa, and roll each mound between your palms to form a ball.

To finish truffles, roll in cocoa or chopped nuts. Or for a hard, shiny chocolate covering, melt the coating chocolate (see note) in the top bowl of a double boiler over — not in — hot, but not boiling, water. Remove from heat and let cool to room temperature. Using a spoon and your hands, if necessary, dip truffles into melted chocolate, one at a time, until coated.

Place finished truffles on a plate lined with waxed paper and refrigerate at least two hours before serving. Serve chilled. Store in an airtight container up to a month. Yield: about 2 dozen small truffles.

Serving suggestion: If you want a really snazzy, restaurant-style presentation, place one or two truffles on a large plate. Melt some chocolate chips in the microwave and drizzle the melted chocolate around the edge of the plate in a random pattern. Refrigerate for several minutes until the chocolate drizzles harden on the plate, and serve.

Note: Confectioner's coating chocolate (also called compound chocolate, or "summer coating") is available in the cake decorating and candy-making section of large chain department stores. (Don't confuse confectioner's coating chocolate with commercial coating chocolate, or "couverture," which is not readily available to non-professionals, and is tricky to work with.) A good substitute is 6 ounces semisweet chocolate chips melted with 1 tablespoon Crisco.

— Recipe adapted from "Sweet Times," by Dorrie Greenspan (William Morrow, 1992)

What is it with New Year's Eve, anyway? I don't know anyone who actually LIKES the holiday. Like from night, there's way too much pressure to Have A Great Time.

As a child, of course, I thought New Year's Eve was swell. For years, my sister and I would stage a New Year's pageant (she played Father Time, I played the New Year) for the entertainment of my parents, who sat through it patiently before leaving — in a cloud of Shalimar and Old Spice — for our next-door neighbor's annual shindig. Throughout grade school, my best friend Judy Ratner and I spent New Year's Eve together, eating M&Ms and nonpareils, and watching the scene at Times Square on television.

By my late teens, the holiday took a turn for the worse. The main point of New Year's Eve became Getting A Date. This was almost always a disaster, invariably involving a large party with people I didn't know or didn't like. It doesn't take long to find out there's nothing amusing about drinking too much, or being with someone who does.

By the time I hit my late 20s, however, I began to enjoy New Year's Eve again, and spent many a happy one with another best friend, Mary Murphy. Mary, who is a natural cook (as well as an excellent photojournalist), developed our traditional New Year's Eve menu: oyster stew, spinach salad, and, for dessert, a small bit of something intense, like a chocolate truffle. We'd sip champagne and laugh a lot and toast the present and the future.

Nowadays my husband and I have given up trying to do anything "special" on New Year's Eve. We let the kids stay up until midnight, when we serve a round of cheap sparkling wine and Dr. Pepper. We watch the ball go down in Times Square. But I always make oyster stew, and I always have a bowl of M&Ms handy. And at midnight, if I can track them down, I call Judy and Mary, and wish them a wonderful New Year.

Note: A richer stew can be made by using 1 cup each of half-and-half and milk. Yield: 4 servings.

MARY'S SPINACH SALAD

For the dressing:
1 clove garlic, peeled and cut in half
1 1-inch piece fresh ginger, peeled and cut into three or four pieces
1 tablespoon soy sauce
3 tablespoons rice-wine vinegar
1/2 cup half-and-half
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon freshly ground pepper or paprika
2 tablespoons chopped parsley (optional)

For the salad:
1 package fresh spinach, trimmed and rinsed
1/4 cup chopped shallots
1 handful button mushrooms, wiped clean and sliced
1/2 cucumber, peeled and sliced thin
1 red bell pepper, cored, seeded and sliced very thin

To make the dressing: Put the garlic, ginger, soy and vinegar into the bowl of a mini food processor (or blender) and pulse until ginger is pulverized. With the motor running, add the oil in a steady stream until mixture is emulsified. If making more than a few hours ahead of time, refrigerate, covered, until ready to use.

To make the salad: Toss together all the ingredients in a large salad bowl. Right before serving, drizzle with dressing and toss again. Yield: 4 large servings.

Optional garnishes: seeds from half a pomegranate, 2 tablespoons toasted pumpkin seeds or pine nuts, sliced hard-boiled egg, imported olives, pitted slices of tangerine, or mandarin oranges.

— Recipe from Mary Murphy, Barrington, R.I.

CHOCOLATE CAPPUCCINO TRUFFLES

For the truffles:
1/2 cup heavy cream
6 ounces high-quality bittersweet chocolate, chopped
2 tablespoons unsalted butter, at room temperature
1 tablespoon boiling water
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
2 teaspoons instant espresso powder
unsweetened cocoa powder, for dusting hands

For the coating:
unsweetened cocoa OR chopped nuts OR 6 ounces confectioner's coating chocolate (see note)

Anniversary invitation has a high price and Mom will have a 50th anniversary soon. That is something to celebrate. I don't mind paying for it myself, and I won't ask anyone to help.

Which anniversaries should be celebrated with a big celebration? And must we help pay for their party? (No one offered to help us with the expense of our plane tickets.)

DEAR JACKIE: Forty years of marriage is something to celebrate, and a party is appropriate. Usually the couple hosts the party, but if the children wish, they can give the party. If the children planned this celebration, then they should each pay a share. However, if your in-laws planned the party, they are the hosts and the children should not be forced to finance it. It would be gracious to chip in if you can afford to, but if you cannot, let your in-laws know it would cause financial hardship. Perhaps they will excuse you.

P.S. The fifth, 10th, 20th, 25th, 40th, 50th and 60th are typically celebrated in style, but many couples also celebrate anniversaries in between with small parties with family or close friends.

DEAR ABBY: While my daughter and I were standing at the window, we saw that her 3-year-old had stopped his tricycle and leaned his chin on the handlebars. When we looked again, he was in the exact same position, which was unusual for him. Laughing, we went out to see what had captured his attention for so long.

His face was turning blue. The cord on the hood of his jacket had come unfastened, and when he leaned forward it had become entangled in the pedal. Each turn of the pedal had pulled him tighter against the handlebars until he could go no farther. Thank God, he was fine as soon as we cut him loose.

Children's coats should fasten with snaps or Velcro, and slacks should have no belts to remove. A baby can strangle on any string or cord — even that ribbon used to hold its pacifier.

NAOMI GLENN, A CONCERNED GRANDMA, HILLSBORO, OHIO

DEAR NAOMI: Your grandson's near-miss must have been terrifying for all concerned. Thank you for alerting other parents and grandparents to this potential danger. This valuable information may save some lives.

DEAR ABBY: Is it appropriate for a couple to announce their engagement at another couple's wedding?

My sister-in-law and her fiancé did that at our wedding — at the request of my mother-in-law. I'm very upset about it, and my husband says I'm being selfish and petty.

Abby, are they right, or am I? (Please don't use my name.)

BRISTLED BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: You are correct. What your sister-in-law did at her mother's behest was skin to the cute little child actor stealing the star's spotlight.

However, please be generous enough to forgive them, so this sore spot doesn't fester and eat away at family relationships. Harmony is more important than highlighting a breach of etiquette.

For everything you need to know about wedding planning, order "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61034-0447. (Postage is included.)

 fault that the salaries got out of hand and if they have to pay someone more money, they just raise ticket prices and now (if they were playing) a family can't afford to go to a game. You have to know someone who works for a company that bought a block of season tickets and has a few to give away. The people I feel sorry for are the behind-the-scenes people, the ticket takers, food vendors, etc. These are the people being hurt, and they are being given no consideration at all, at least as far as we know. For some of these people, this is the only money they make and now that has been taken away from them. It is not fair. So if you are missing basketball, go on out to UCF, SCC or a local high school gym (like Lake Mary where there will be a tournament next week featuring the boys' teams from Lake Mary and Seminole). Or stay home and flip on the TV and watch a college game. You will enjoy it. Parting shot: Please don't put a racial tag on the Kevin Greene incident last week. Yes Greene did go after his coach. But very little contact was made and Greene immediately calmed down. Football is a very physical and emotional game that can cause you to snap at any time. To compare what happened on that sideline with what Latrell Sprewell did last fall is ludicrous. Sprewell choked his coach and after leaving, came back later and tried to attack him again. No comparison. Should Greene have gotten a bigger suspension or fine? Maybe. But I still think Sprewell got off easy. What he did was criminal and he should not be allowed to play again.

 13 pounds are taken each winter by anglers bouncing finger mullet slowly across the rocky bottom. Also expect bluefish, trout, redfish, and a few snook. River action is getting better by the day. Bass will be hitting shiners fished tight to floating water hyacinths. Specks will soon be on the move as well as sunshine bass and stripers. Look for schooling activity near run-offs and creek mouths. Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports that high seas have kept boats in Port King mackerel will be the main attraction in-between cold fronts. Inside the Port, look for flounder and sheepshead. Trout and redfish are off the flats of the Banana and Indian Rivers. Big sheepshead are the news at Ponce Inlet. Fish to over 10 pounds are there to stay for over the winter months. The hope at the tip of the north jetty is the real hot spot. Fiddler crabs and live shrimp are top baits. Also expect bluefish, drum, redfish, and a few jack crevalle. Trout and redfish are harder to locate in Mosquito Lagoon due to the cool weather.

Tip on writing a good advertisement:
 We want to make sure you are pleased with the results from your Seminole Herald classified ad. To make sure your ad works, we suggest you keep in mind the following:
 • Include as many features of the item you are selling as you can think of. Remember, the more you tell, the faster you sell.
 • Include a price. By listing a price, you will eliminate unwanted calls from people who aren't serious about buying your merchandise.
 • When you list your phone number, list the time of day that is best to reach you. You don't want people calling you when you are at work or sleeping.

Obstinate husband continues to smoke

DEAR DR. GOTT: I object to my husband's chain-smoking. The smoke really bothers me, so I asked him to confine his habit to the bathroom or the garage. He responded that it's his house and he can smoke whenever and wherever he wishes. He said that if I don't like his smoke, I could adjourn to the bathroom or garage. Obviously, he is bullheaded about more than smoking. Any advice?

DEAR READER: Under the circumstances, I'm afraid I haven't. Several recent studies have emphasized the health risks of second-hand smoke, especially in children, who can develop significant pulmonary disorders after repeated exposure.

You may have to isolate yourself when he smokes — or open the windows in the house when he lights up. From the sound of your letter, I'd say that cigarettes are only part of the problem. Good luck.

To give you related information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Living with Chronic Lung Disease." Other readers who would like a copy should send $3 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Since a relative of ours contracted herpes, we have not visited his home. We fear our young children may pick up the virus in his bathroom. When he visits, we panic, then clean like crazy when he leaves. Are we being overly cautious?

DEAR READER: Herpes is not as contagious as you think. It is ordinarily spread by direct personal contact, such as kissing, sexual relations and sharing eating and drinking utensils. Moreover, herpes is now treatable using anti-viral drugs, such as Famvir.

Although I wouldn't recommend allowing a pregnant woman or an infant near your relative when he has signs of an active infection, I believe that the usual hygienic measures, such as hand-washing, should be adequate to protect you and your children. Scrubbing the bathroom is probably an unnecessary precaution.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What is the best method of contraception for a woman over 40?

DEAR READER: As a general rule, women over 40 tend to develop more complications from contraceptive pills than do younger women. Therefore, barrier methods of birth control are safer and more appropriate for middle-aged women. Permanent steriliza-

WIN AT THE

Have you seen it all?

By Phillip Alder

Just when you think you have seen it all, something new comes along. A photo in our local paper showed someone having a haircut while attending a baseball game!

The ballgame was in Australia, between the Sydney Storm and the Melbourne Reds. I've no idea who won, but here's a deal played in Sydney.

North's opening bid was Flannery, showing some 12-16 points with four spades and five hearts.

East's two no-trump was Unusual, promising at least 5-5 in the minors. Despite the prevailing vulnerability, I think the action debate because North-South rate to win the auction. Therefore, this information will only help declarer.

With his heart length, West opted for a trump lead — another debatable move. Taking East's 10 with his ace, the declarer, Murray Green, who is one of Australia's best young players, ran the heart jack to East's queen. Back came the club jack. Winning in hand with the ace, Green advanced the heart 10. Should West cover?

At the table, West made the natural-looking play of a low heart, letting the 10 win. Green led a spade to dummy's nine, ruffed a heart in hand, repeated the trump finesse, drew West's last trump, ran the hearts, and took the club ace for a pleasing plus 620.

Yet now have West cover the heart 10. Stuck in the dummy, declarer needs two hand entries to pick up the trumps, but he has only one: the heart ruff that establishes the suit. So the contract fails.

As if this needed adding, it just shows how difficult is the subject of covering an honor with an honor.

HOROSCOPE

Your Birthday
Thursday, Dec. 24, 1998

There are strong indications in the year ahead that you could begin to experience an overall improvement in your financial affairs. You might even be able to acquire something you've always wanted.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) When attempting to tell others how you feel about them today, it will come off successfully. Those listening closely will know it's coming from the bottom of your heart. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Don't be unduly alarmed if someone looks like he or she is only concerned about the monetary worth of something today. This will be no reflection on you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's wise not to jump to conclusions about someone you meet for the first time today. This person could turn out to be a special individual in your life as the months move on.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) No matter what the problems are today, you'll figure out a way to pull off what you want. Desire is a very powerful motivating force for you at this time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Although you won't be attempting to do so consciously today, when you enter a room, your charisma will have an exceptionally favorable effect on all those present.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You might be able to accomplish things today that you haven't been able to pull off before. Set your sights a notch or two higher, especially in your personal affairs.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The first priority you'll set today is to make sure everyone you're involved with is treated with grace and dignity. They will be equally protective of you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Even though you may only play a minor role, there's a possibility that you might be able to work out an arrangement with another. It could prove to be rather rewarding for all.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Events with special alliances will prove to be of great success today, especially if some of those involved are slightly younger and extremely energetic.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If a selling requires someone who possesses a good imagination with an artistic touch, you're the one who'll fit the bill best today. Step forward and put your gifts to productive uses.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Provided you don't waffle when encountering a little opposition early in the day, things will work out for your ultimate advantage today. Proceed forward with victory in mind.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You rarely are a last minute person, but you could suddenly decide the family needs a special household item today. You'll be successful at finding the right piece at the right price.
