Bobby Courchesne, a 20-year-old featherweight boxer from Holyoke, Mass., and Lulu Perez, a 22-year-old on the comeback path, clash in a television 10-rounder at New York's St. Nicholas Arena tonight.

Courchesne made a hit in his ninth-round technical knockout of rugged Tony Puleo at St. Nick's Sept. 5 to stretch his unbeaten streak to 16.

Perez former leading 126-pound contender, was drubbed by Carmelo Corta in his last outing May 27 and was dropped clear out of the first 10.

Courchesne's record is 26-3-2 with 15 knockouts. Perez's record is 22-6-1.

Du Mont will telecast at 9 p.m. EST.

Ralph (Tiger) Jones, seventh-ranking middleweight contender from Yonkers, N.Y., takes on Al Andrews, Superior, Wis., in the Wednesday night radio-TV bout out of the Dinkey Key Auditorium in Miami.

Mrs. P. Ochiltree

Author of a book "Tricks in Flower Arranging."

Mrs. Ochiltree thinks of flowers and enjoys sharing everything she can find in it. While in the North this summer attending the National Council of State Federated Garden Clubs, she purchased a number of new accessories, many from Italy as shown by importers in the Chicago market. Mrs. Ochiltree has planned for her Sanford appearance a very full demonstration program including Thanksgiving and Christmas arrangements which should be of particular interest to local flower show exhibitors. This year the annual Flower Show of the Sanford Garden Club will be held early in December and will feature a religious theme.

Originator of hat decorations and designing as a part of garden club shows, Mrs. Ochiltree has a unique niche among the thousands of garden club women in the United States. She began creating bonnets of dried leaves, blooms and bark about 23 years ago while she was president of the Miami Beach Garden Club. Five years later she created one-day-only chapeaux with fresh blossoms. Hats designed of and decorated with flowers have since become a standard class of most flower shows throughout the nation.

She makes none of her hats commercially and never takes orders for them, she makes them for gifts to friends and frequently designs them for prominent visitors to Florida.

The Mamie chapeaux was presented to the President's wife at the official opening of the International Garden Club show in Washington this past summer. The mamie hats, from which Mrs. Eitchever's hat was made, is soft, resembling chambray both in color and texture. The little hat was tailored, its sections lined together with brown and metallic chenille.

In addition to being a very entertaining speaker, Mrs. Ochiltree explains her materials and techniques as she makes arrangements on the spot so that members of the audience know exactly how it is done. Her enthusiasm and step-by-step methods inspire many who hear her to go home and create an arrangement of their own. Mrs. Ochiltree's wide selection of plant materials and use of interesting containers provide extra stimuli. It is suggested that those attending bring notebooks. Anyone wishing additional information call Mrs. Fred Murray or Mrs. Fred Ganas.

SNAAS

The Lieutenant Commander called the council's attention to a total of 18 accidents. The causes were enumerated as: six by reckless driving, one by excessive speed, nine by careless and negligent driving, and two by the car not being under control. The cost of fines assessed military personnel was $1,800 and estimated damages were $28,402. There were 19 injuries, he explained with 10 of the major and 9 minor, with two fatalities.

The security Officer stated that the overall record did not look good in comparison with the cost. Commander Colee found that the accident increase was not caused primarily from the station's growth, and that the accident rate followed a pattern or cycle.

Measures to prevent recurrence of accidents were discussed by the group with a decision that were the programs in which most good could be realized. One such item would be the placing of a statistics board at the main gate of the station as a constant reminder of the figures on accidents, injuries, deaths and cost. Other safety programs, explained by W. E. Giles, NAAS Safety Engineer, would include handbooks, posters, pictures of recent accidents and a safe drivers training course.

Commander Colee asked for facts and figures relative to the effectiveness of the safe drivers training course with special emphasis on the number of graduates of the course involved in accidents and violations. The NAAS Executive Office also announced that the station's standard speed limit, effective Oct. 15, would be changed to 20 miles per hour.

Lt. Commander Tilley, NAAS Security Officer, suggested that pedestrian crosswalks be established and that jay walking be prohibited.

In closing the meeting, Commander Colee emphasized the need for action by the council in the field of Motor Vehicle Safety Programs and Public Relations. "It is important," he said, "because the natural friendship of the people of Sanford can be strained beyond limits by inconsistent action on the part of Naval personnel, especially if Navy traffic violations grew out of proportion to the civilian population."

MAN ACQUITTED
DETROIT (AP)—A Recorder's Court jury Wednesday acquitted Murray Sinuk, 26, of kidnaping his former girl friend.

Sinuk was accused of abducting Miss June Dallen, 21, at gun point and taking her on a wild car ride to Ohio last May 19 in an attempt to persuade her to marry him. Sinuk claimed she went willingly.

Police said Sinuk still faces a charge of felonious assault.

what he thought of the possible cut in revenue facing the city next year commented, "that hurts". He explained that funds not provided from the annual "road and bridge fund" source would have to be replaced.

Hibbard Casselberry, founder of the City of Casselberry, said Friday that the action on the part of the County Commissioners was to "make somebody think they're reducing the taxes." And he added, "all they're cutting is the fund they give back to Sanford and the other incorporated municipalities of the county."

The Road and Bridge fund for the county will not be hurt with an unprecedented $181,000 surplus brought over from the previous year and with increasing tax collections from racing revenues passed along from the State.

Some officials are looking askance at the recent action of the Seminole County Commissioners when funds were evenly divided between commissioners for disposition. Commissioner Fred Dyson, by law is prevented from spending any part of the Road and Bridge fund dollars within his own district since it lies wholly within the incorporated limits of the City of Sanford. It is yet to be determined just how Commissioner Dyson will spend funds in districts of other commissioners.

Leslie Eryan, an official for the Town of Altamonte Springs, made no comment on the cut in funds by reduction of the millage. He said, "it concerns us greatly, of course, since we receive about $1,000 from the Road and Bridge fund for the upkeep of our city streets." He withheld further comment until a study of the budget adopted by the Board of Seminole County Commissioners is made and it is determined how the cut will affect the city.

Another "driving while intoxicated" charge was made by the FHP Patrolman when he stopped Charles Lamb, 27-year-old warehouseman 6 miles south of Sanford. "No Drivers License" was the charge against Paul Vandiver, Orlando Mechanic.

The Seminole County Sheriff, the Constables, and the Florida Highway Patrol, along with other law enforcement agencies of the county have begun a campaign to stop traffic violations along the highways.

sage, the Rev. Stone said, "A friendly church has drawing power. Nothing can take the place of the personal touch, the friendly greeting, the cordial smile, the warm handclasp."

Choosing his text from Deut. 6:4-8, the Rev. Phillip Schlessmann, at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, spoke yesterday morning on the sermon-subject "The Christian Training of our Children."

The Rev. Schlessmann said, "In our day we consider education of the greatest value; but what type of education are we speaking of? Education for our benefit in the future on the face of the earth, usually we mean some kind of training which will enable us to secure a good living. But the greatest education is so often overlooked. That is Christian Education, the education for our soul's benefit, the education of faith in Christ Jesus our Savior."

And the Rev. Schlessmann continued, "To become truly great citizens, to become truly great persons, to become truly great Christians, the education of our soul cannot be done by the training of the mind for earning a living, but must be done by training the heart for the greater life, life by faith in the One who gave himself for us. We, as Christian parents must devote our life, our all, to give our children the great goal of life eternal, and then add the training of the mind for our earthly labors."

The Rev. David S. Carnifax, at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, chose for his topic last night, "Doubting is Believing."

He said, "Doubting is believing. It is believing the opposite of the truth as revealed in God's Word. Doubting and believing are so closely allied that often the greatest doubter becomes the strongest believer."

The Rev. Carnifax said, "To really doubt demands that you

She and Mr. Doudney bought the Wellington house which stood at the head of Park Ave. when the street ended at Twentieth St. Together they were very prominent in all church and social activities in the early days in Sanford and surrounding communities, taking an active interest in all civic affairs and in the Episcopal Church where Mr. Doudney formed and directed the choir. Mr. Doudney died in 1901 and in 1910 Mrs. Doudney joined the DAR and a charter member of the Sanford Woman's Club. She has had a lifelong interest in the American Bible Society which was founded by her forbears and has, through all her life, actively supported its widespread work. It was her request that no flowers be given in memory of her but, if anyone wished to give a memorial in lieu of flowers, it was her hope that a contribution would be given to the Bible Society to further its important work, or to any other charity the donor might desire. Anyone wishing to contribute to the Bible Society may get in touch with Mrs. Randall Chase, Telephone No. 125.

The dean of cattlemen told the Seminole County group that "there is a ready market in Florida for your beef." Florida cattlemen, he said, should have more faith in Florida and the beef industry. If they do, they won't have anything to gripe about.

Williams also talked about the Beef Council and its work to promote beef sales in Florida. The council, he said, is made up of members of the beef industry, growers and packers. "The council recently asked of all associations to agree to pay 10c per head of cattle sold to finance the work of the council." And he concluded, "it has found poor support among the members of our cattle raisers."

Hungry Ants Eat Plastic Insulation

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Hungry red ants with a taste for plastic insulation have been traced as the culprit responsible for a mysterious series of short circuit failures in San Fernando Valley traffic signals.

Manager Lloyd Braff of the Los Angeles Traffic Department said there have been 56 short circuits in six weeks, mostly along heavily traveled Lankershim and Ventura boulevards.

Electricians were mystified. Motorists were confused. Finally, Braff related yesterday investigators found that the red ants, traveling in armies of thousands, burrowed down through 10 inches of crushed gravel in wire-conductor boxes placed near the signals and chewed the insulation off the wires.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, over 250 pounds of T-bone and sirloin steaks made up the main course of the meal which also included potato salad and side dishes for a complete meal.

Commissioners Adopt Resolution Approving Appraisers Report

GEORGE W. MORGAN

George W. Morgan Named Manager Of New Local Store

George W. Morgan, active in local business circles for the past ten years, has been named manager for the Sherwin-Williams Company's new Sanford branch, to be located at 117 Magnolia Ave.

The appointment was announced today by Mr. W. B. Bell, of Atlanta, Ga., Southeastern Regional Director for the world's largest paint company.

Mr. Morgan attended schools in Kentucky, graduating from the Sharpshurg, Kentucky High School.

Mr. Morgan is interested in baseball, football and basketball. He came to Sanford in 1944 as a member of the armed forces station at the local Naval Auxiliary Air Station, having enlisted in Atlanta.

Following his discharge from the service he became store manager for the Cowan Company, later identifying himself with the Gulf Life Insurance Company.

Shortly afterward he was named manager of the Navy Exchange at the local station.

Mr. Morgan is a member of the Kiwanis club of Sanford. He is a member of the First Christian Church where he is chairman of the Church Board.

As branch manager for Sherwin-Williams Mr. Morgan is to receive special training, including technical courses covering formulations and uses of various finishes. Expert training also is scheduled in color harmony.

Although details of the formal opening have not yet been determined, the store is expected to be in operation Nov. 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan, the former Wilma Bond, of Richmond, Ky., and their 15-year old daughter Shirley reside at 2533 Magnolia Ave.

Negro Is Charged With Ransacking Academy Buildings

A 27-year-old Negro was taken into custody yesterday and charged with the ransacking of the Crooms Academy buildings Friday night, it was reported.

William Miller, alias "Brother" Miller, was picked up on a complaint yesterday when a negro woman reported an attempted breaking and entering of her home.

Patrolman Arnold Williams of the Sanford Police Department held Miller for questioning at the local police department.

Constable J. Q. "Slim" Gallo-way, notified of the complaint and of the fact that Miller was being held, questioned him regarding the Crooms Academy breaking and entering. Constable Gallo-way said that he detected Miller as being the intruder from cuts on the right hand.

When the Crooms Academy loss was reported it was noted that there was an alarm possibly from the broken out of the doors of both the Administrative and Business Buildings at the Crooms Academy.

A hearing is being held in the Se-jon County Jail charged with breaking and entering, said

The Board of Seminole County Commissioners unanimously adopted a resolution, this morning, approving the appraisers report of the 17-92 right-of-way properties from Five Points south to the Orange County line.

According to the appraisal, submitted to the commissioners, the entire cost of the right-of-way properties will come to $283,232.

However, it was pointed out in the report, the submitted appraisal does not include parcels where owners of the property could not be contacted.

A further appraisal of properties for 17-92 right-of-ways will continue for the section from Five Points north to Section 902 at Onora Street, C. E. Duckworth Sr. was employed for the appraisal with appraisers named as Raymond Ball and A. R. Peterson Jr., both local real estate men.

The appraisal will be made as soon as deeds and instruments are returned from the State Road Department. Abstracts have already been furnished on which the instruments will be based.

John F. Fox, Seminole County Right-of-Way Agent, pointed out to the commissioners who met in special session this morning to consider only the 17-92 right-of-way matters, that the appraisal does not include the eight parcels and neither does it include borrows pits and drainage easements.

"These," said Fox, "will have to await the release of the plans by the State Road Department."

Commission Chairman John Steich told the commissioners that the State Road Department has left open a suggested municipal section that would save the county about $30,000 in right-of-way expenditures.

There is no indication that the State Road Department will approve the 2,700 foot municipal section, but it is left open for possible consideration.

Commissioner Otis Fouracre said, "Our next move will be to contact each property owner for a possible purchase or option on right-of-way properties."

However, County Attorney Mack N. Cleveland Jr., suggested that each property owner be written enclosing with the letter a self-addressed, stamped card for information.

Jaycees To Hold Luncheon Meeting At Fire Station

The Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold its noon luncheon meeting Thursday at the Sanford Fire Station where the Fire Chief, Mack N. Cleveland Sr., and his firemen will be host for luncheon.

Garfield Willea, Fire Prevention Week chairman, has had the cooperation of Fire Chief Cleveland in lining up one of the most progressive programs for the event ever presented in Seminole County.

Some of the highlights of the Fire Prevention Week program that will be discussed at the meeting are:

The Jaycees have distributed "Home Inspection Blanks" to all school children.

Fire trucks to visit all city schools for demonstrations and fire drill for children.

The Sanford Fire Department and Station is to be open all week for public inspection.

Fire prevention display shown in Cowan's window.

5-Year-Old Found At Baseball Field

A 5-year-old Sanford Ave. youngster was found last night about 7 o'clock having "the time of his life" at the Sanford Memorial Baseball Stadium.

Tommy Jones, son of Donald Jones, 1215 Sanford Ave., was missing yesterday afternoon since 4:30 until located by the Sanford Police Department last night.

Undaunted, unafraid, and having a good time, and as someone mentioned, "possibly waiting for the Sanford-Palaska game Friday night."

Building Permits Take Big Tumble

Building permits issued in the City of Sanford took a tumble during September of 1955.

According to a report from City Clerk H. N. Sayer, a total of 29 permits were issued in September for a total valuation of $72,022.

Exercises Performed By VC-9

Operations completing the qualification of Composite Squadron Nine pilots in carrier landings were conducted aboard the aircraft carrier U.S.S. Ticonderoga Saturday and Sunday.

The exercises were performed by VC-9 in connection with its status as the Ready One Squadron of the Heavy Attack Wing. Both day and night landings were made despite intermittent bad weather.

Directions in landing the AJ-1 aircraft aboard the Ticonderoga were given by the VC-9 Landing Signal Officers, Lieutenant Commander Robert S. Heid and David Ludwig, who also are pilots in the squadron.

An LSO helps the pilots land aboard the ship by giving a series of signals from a platform located at the stern of the ship. These signals relate to the approach, speed and altitude of the oncoming aircraft.

The AJ-1 Savage employed by Heavy Attack Squadrons is the heaviest aircraft that has landed aboard and taken off from an aircraft carrier.

A crew of 22 officers and men from the squadron boarded the Ticonderoga at Mayport late last week to assist in the operation. They are scheduled to return to Sanford late today.

Residence Requisite Of Charter Discussed

Captain Roy Tillis Resigns From Force

One of the City of Sanford's oldest employes in the length of service submitted his letter of resignation in the Board of Commissioners last night.

Captain Roy Tillis, who is 43 years old, and who began his work with the city in 1914, asked that his resignation be accepted effective Nov. 1.

The Board of Commissioners accepted the resignation of the Sanford Police Department Officer with deep regret. For his long years of service, the city will pay the Captain's salary through the end of the year and will present him with the proper resolution and silver platter.

CAPT. ROY TILLIS

Last Sewer Section Nears Completion

Work is being expedited on the last sewer section to bring the million and a half dollar water and sewer project to completion.

Hubbard Construction Company is now laying the last sections of pipe in the area connecting the huge system of sewer lines to the Fort Mellon Park lift station.

City Manager Warren E. Knowles last night said that the project has not been accepted or approved since there were several places that pipe had to be re-laid and corrections made.

A manhole in the City Hall area was completed yesterday while machine and men were assigned to the lift station area in an effort to bring sewer construction to a close.

First Truck Load Of Vegetables Shipped Yesterday

The first load of vegetables shipped from the Sanford State Farmers Market rolled yesterday consisting of cucumbers, squash, and peppers, locally grown by A. F. Johnson, graded and packed by Theo. Pate Produce Company, and shipped to Fresh Meadows Produce Inc., New York City.

Sam Aronson, local representative, with offices on the Sanford Market, stated that "a lot of credit is due A. E. Johnson in producing such a fine crop of early fall cucumbers, squash, peppers, and eggplant."

He also mentioned that Johnson had a good "punch hitter" in producing such a fine crop of early through a special formula fertilizer especially made up by Lyons Fertilizer Company in this section.

Johnson has 20 acres planted in cucumbers, five acres in eggplant, and seven acres in yellow straight neck and cocoonella squash which will be in production until frost.

We are reliably informed that this average of early fall vegetables is, by far, the best grown in this section in quite a number of years.

FCM Round Table Discussions Slated

Florida Citrus Mutual round table discussions are slated with the new season rapidly approaching full speed operation. The talks are held annually to give growers council's first hand information on 1955 plans for the new season and receive any new suggestions for making its operations more effective.

Talks for the Sanford group, along with other groups in the Sanford area, are slated for Oct. 18, 12:30 noon, at the Duck Inn, Orlando. Besides Sanford, other groups to attend this meeting will be Orlando, Apopka, Ocala County, and Winter Garden.

Robert W. Rutledge, general manager, announced the schedule of the round table discussions in the current issue of Mutual's weekly membership publication. They opened last night at 7:30 p.m. at Johnnie's Steak House, Wauchoola for Hardee County, Alva, Arcadia, Avon Park and Fort Meade.

Nine meetings are planned, with the chairman, co-chairman and secretary of each council invited to the meeting for their area. All members of Mutual are also welcome, however, Rutledge said.

In past years, these sessions have proven "very helpful," the Mutual manager said, "by giving us an opportunity to let our council officers know first-hand, and through them the rank and file of Mutual members, what services their organization will provide during the season. The round table meetings also provide an opportunity for council officers or any member to make suggestions for making Mutual more effective."

Two Eager Youths Write Santa Early

Steven Roy and Nathan Reed of 1802 Mellonville Ave. are getting the jump on most boys and girls this year by mailing their letters to Santa Claus early.

Two letters are being forwarded to the Jolly old gentleman that were received late yesterday and they're sure to reach Santa in time for first choice.

The letter from Steven Roy reads: "Dear Santa Claus: Please Santa Claus... Will you please bring me a bicycle. And then the letter from Nathan Reed reads: "Dear Santa Claus: Please bring me a bicycle and a bow and arrow, also a cowboy gun and holster set. With such promptness, it is possible that their wishes might be realized. Anyway, it sure doesn't hurt to be first."

School Bus, Moonshine Ordinances Adopted

City Commissioner John Krider introduced the New York Giants Mayfair Inn manager, Frank Melane to the Board of City Commissioners to lead off last night's meeting.

Melane was welcomed by the commissioners, and the city commission room audience that "I want the people of Sanford to feel at home at the Mayfair Inn." At least someone is there, he said, who realizes that not only is the hotel an asset to Sanford but that Sanford is an asset to the hotel.

I am sure, said Melane, that the people of Sanford will welcome our guests.

The commissioners were at odds when the discussion relative to the employing of Russell Dallas came up. It was explained that the new man would be employed to head the Utility Department at a salary of $6,000 and at the end of six months a $500 increase. Commissioner John Krider brought out that "if a man doesn't think enough of his position to move into the city—no wouldn't employ him." Our charter says "live in the city"—either abide by it or take it out of the charter, said Krider.

Mayor Denver Cordell asked how many employees of the city now lived outside of the city limits and he was told that there were 15 or 16. However, Clerk H. N. Sayer revealed that when the charter was adopted, those living outside of the city were given 90 days to move inside or lose their jobs.

Commissioner Earl Higginbotham said, "I think it is time we rectify the situation or take the requirement out of the charter."

Commissioner Krider told the group that the person living outside of the city has a take-home pay 25% greater than the person living inside. Numerous citizens complained when Mr. Johnson lived in Orange County and worked for the City of Sanford, said Krider. "I don't believe there is a single city that doesn't have a similar restriction," he said, "must live within the city for 6 months." (Continued on Page Eight)

U. S. To Ship Surplus Wheat

BELOGRADE, Yugoslavia—The Yugoslav government says the United States is going to ship it 200,000 tons of American surplus wheat.

President Tito's government was reported especially interested in importing cotton.

Many Events in History Of Fort

OLD POINT COMFORT, Va.—Private E. A. Perry, better known as Edgar Allen Poe, saluted and said he was reporting for duty with the Ft. Monroe garrison.

These are relatively recent events in the history of Ft. Monroe, site of the first fortifications built in North America by English-speaking people, almost 350 years ago.

This vital link in the nation's chain of defenses is a combination of the very old and the very new where the casts of ultramodern radar cast shadows over gun emplacements that are centuries old.

Jefferson Davis, fleeing southward after the Confederacy collapsed, was captured and imprisoned at Ft. Monroe for two years.

George B. McClellan brought his entire Army of the Potomac from Washington and Alexandria to prepare for the historic peninsula campaign.

Abraham Lincoln came for a visit and from nearby Ft. Wool watched Union guns silence Confederate batteries at Sewell's Point Preliminary to the capture of Norfolk.

by 14 soldiers fresh from England, plus a detachment from near-Jamestown.

From then until now the fort—later named Ft. George and still later Ft. Monroe, after the country's fifth president—has been occupied almost continuously.

The fort, long since stripped of its once formidable defenses, now has a military population of only 11,500. But it still contributes importantly to the nation's defense as headquarters of the Continental Army Command.

Holiday Business Will Be Greatest In U.S. History

The stage is set for the biggest buying jamboree on record, reports this week's letter of the Florida State Bank.

Such optimism seems solidly grounded. For one thing, personal income lately has risen to an all-time high. In July, it was running at an annual rate of better than $204 billion, up $3 billion from June and $17 billion more than in July 1932.

Antiquity and modernity dwell together in harmony on the post's 580 acres.

with a decline of $34 million in the previous August. Credit is likely to play a substantial role in the Christmas business this year.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

"NOW I want you to think carefully, Sara. Could Clifford's voice be the voice of the man who trapped you in the elevator and tried to break you down with psychological torture? Clifford admits he wants the ruby and he was in this neighborhood just before you were trapped."

"I don't know," Sara's defenses were crumbling. Her sense of disorientation was decreasing.

Clive smiled a little sadly at Sara. "You liked the false Gerry much better than the real Gerry, didn't you?"

Sara colored. "What had she said to Judith? I love him. I wouldn't have realized it for years if this hadn't happened. . . . But it wasn't Gerry she loved. It was a stranger whom she had only seen twice and who had looked her. . . ."

She tried to make her voice light and indifferent. "I suppose a jewel thief is bound to have more dash and charm than a rather conventional young man who goes to an office every day."

Would she have liked the real Gerry better if she had never seen Mark Clifford?

Judith could have the real Gerry now, if she wanted him. And, of course, she did want him.

That was why she had so feared and hated Sara when Sara denied the real Gerry's identity.

"That was another factor," said Clive. "You liked the false Gerry so much better than the real one that you wanted to believe the real one was the impostor."

"I suppose I did," Sara's voice was pallid. She looked at her hands as if she were remembering the touch of the false Gerry. "I still like him."

"A thief?"

"We can't be sure of that yet. . . . Perhaps the man who trapped you in the elevator?"

"Don't!" Sara covered her face with her hands. "Don't say I don't believe he did that."

"You're afraid of the impostor, ma, are you? I'm afraid of him, too. I think he's dangerous to anyone who has the ruby. Have you any idea of all who had heard of it but kept it secret? We've got to find out now, for your own protection. You didn't manage to get hold of it yourself, did you?"

"Why didn't you want either Belmont or me to get it valued for you?"

"I was afraid that Gerry was mixed up in it somehow. I mean the false Gerry, the one I liked. I didn't want jewelers or police or anyone else to know."

body to know about the ruby until I found out just how deeply he was involved."

"And you didn't hide the ruby from us to protect him?"

"No, I didn't. The 'I' was faintly stressed."

"Then someone else did?"

"I suppose there's no harm in telling you now," said Sara with dull indifference. "It was Aunt Caroline herself."

"Caroline?" His stare was incredulous.

"The day I wanted to protect Gerry and she wanted to help me. She put it in the safe with her sapphires. It's there now."

Behind the door creaked. Had Judith and Gerry left it ajar? Sara hurried. Clive ran to the threshold. They both saw him through the half-open door—a dark figure running toward the fire stairs. The door slammed and he was gone.

"Belmont," stated Clive.

Sara nodded. "How long was he there?"

"Long enough to hear you say that the ruby was in your Aunt Caroline's safe. We must get there before he does—if we can. . . ."

In the car, Clive said, "I've been driving in New York traffic all my life. It will take Belmont twice as long whether he's in a taxi or driving himself. . . ."

Stevens opened the door. "Miss Sara. . . . Mr. Clive. . . . They're in the drawing room. Your hat, air?"

Clive brushed past him, following Sara.

Again a fire burned pungently on the north and lamp light illuminated a small group at the center of the long, airy room, like actors spotlighted on a vast, dim stage. But there was one noticeable change in the room. The great Islamic rug had been removed. The parquet floor was bare from wall to wall.

Caroline sat in her wheeled chair. The Greville sapphires and their surrounding brilliantia twinkled against deep blue velvet, high-necked, long-sleeved and flowing. Edna was on the sofa again, her plain face bright with curiosity.

Sara gasped as she recognized the Indian's tawny skin and dark eyes, liquid as a sapphire.

"Miss Deers! He had heard her name!"

"Don't be alarmed. I had to see your aunt once I learned from Mr. Clifford that it was here the ruby disappeared and not at Dr. Belmont's, as you told me. I haven't much time left if I would keep peace in Mogur."

"How can one man keep peace anywhere?"

"The Rajah, of course."

"The Rajah?"

"Perhaps I should tell you what I have just told your aunt. I am the Rajah of Mogur. This mission is so delicate that I undertook it myself. After all, I am the only person in Mogur who could afford a European education and therefore the only person whose English is equal to such a task."

Another voice spoke from the shadows. "It's true, I checked."

Sara turned and saw a rugged face softened by a warm, quizzical smile. Her own eyes dropped coldly, without response.

"Come in, Sara," said Caroline impatiently. "And Dick, you're just in time to hear the whole story. More chairs, Edna."

"I'll get the chairs," Clifford's step rang clear and hard on the bare floor. A quick step, but smooth and even.

Caroline answered the question in Sara's eyes. "I had the rug removed when your friends telephoned and asked if they might call this evening. I wanted to hear their footsteps."

"Aunt Caroline, Gregory Belmont is on his way here. He knows you have the ruby. I. . . ." Her voice faltered as she saw the great ruby in Caroline's lap, burning red as a live coal from the grate and far more dangerous.

Clifford glanced at the Rajah. "I think we can take care of Dr. Belmont, don't you?"

"Aunt Caroline," Sara's voice was small and tense. "No doubt this other man has told you he is the real Gerry. He isn't. He is an impostor whom I mistook for Gerry in the 10-cent store that evening. He allowed me to fool myself because he wanted the ruby. He is really a former movie actor named Mark Clifford and Gerry. He was his stand-in long ago."

"One moment, I was Mark Clifford of the screen. My real name is James Clifford Smith, and I'm a producer now. But I can still act a little, can't I?" He grinned. "Especially when somebody gives me a cue and feeds me lines the way you did."

"You think this is funny? For a moment Sara's voice sounded like Caroline's. "Someone killed Peter Mason to get that ruby. Did you? You admit you want it and you were there when Mason died?"

"I'm Gerry. . . . Fact. My voice was humble. You must hate me now and I don't suppose there's anything I can do about it. It was a shabby trick I played on you. Of course, I couldn't foresee that you would accuse the real Gerry. I hope of being an impostor afterward."

Car Production Takes Slump

DETROIT, Nov. 4.—Passenger car production takes another temporary slump next week as most of the industry's leading producers close down for the model switch-over.

This week's lowered volume reflected the assembly line shutdown by Chevrolet, top car builder. Last night Buick, No. 2 producer, assembled its last 1933 model. Chevrolet completed its 1933 model run a week ago.

Production of 1933 model cars, now is just about finished. Only tooling details remain to get all the industry's factories into 1934 car output. All makes have their newest offerings on the market by Nov. 4.

The high level production rate expected for the coming months of the year, however, will be under way well ahead of that date. If all goes as expected, approximately two million cars will be assembled in the final three months of this year. That will bring the year's total to a record-breaking eight million vehicles.

Ford's latest 1934 line, excepting the new Continental Mark II, has been presented by the retailer. The Continental, a modernized version of the limited production model Ford built up until 1932, goes on public display Oct. 21.

Meanwhile, Dodge puts its 1934 cars on the market yesterday. They will be followed next week by the Chrysler and Imperial models and later in the current month by DeSoto and Plymouth.

Of General Motors' several lines of cars only the Cadillac and Buick have been previewed so far. The remainder — the Buick, Pontiac and Oldsmobile — will be displayed before the end of the month.

All are expected to announce some price advances, although these probably will be tempered by downward adjustments in accessory prices. Ford increased suggested prices on its Ford models but cut prices on some optional items.

There is no question that in an eight million unit output year the nation's car retailers have been called upon to put forth more sales effort than ever before in their experience. But they appear to have done a great job of cleaning up inventories.

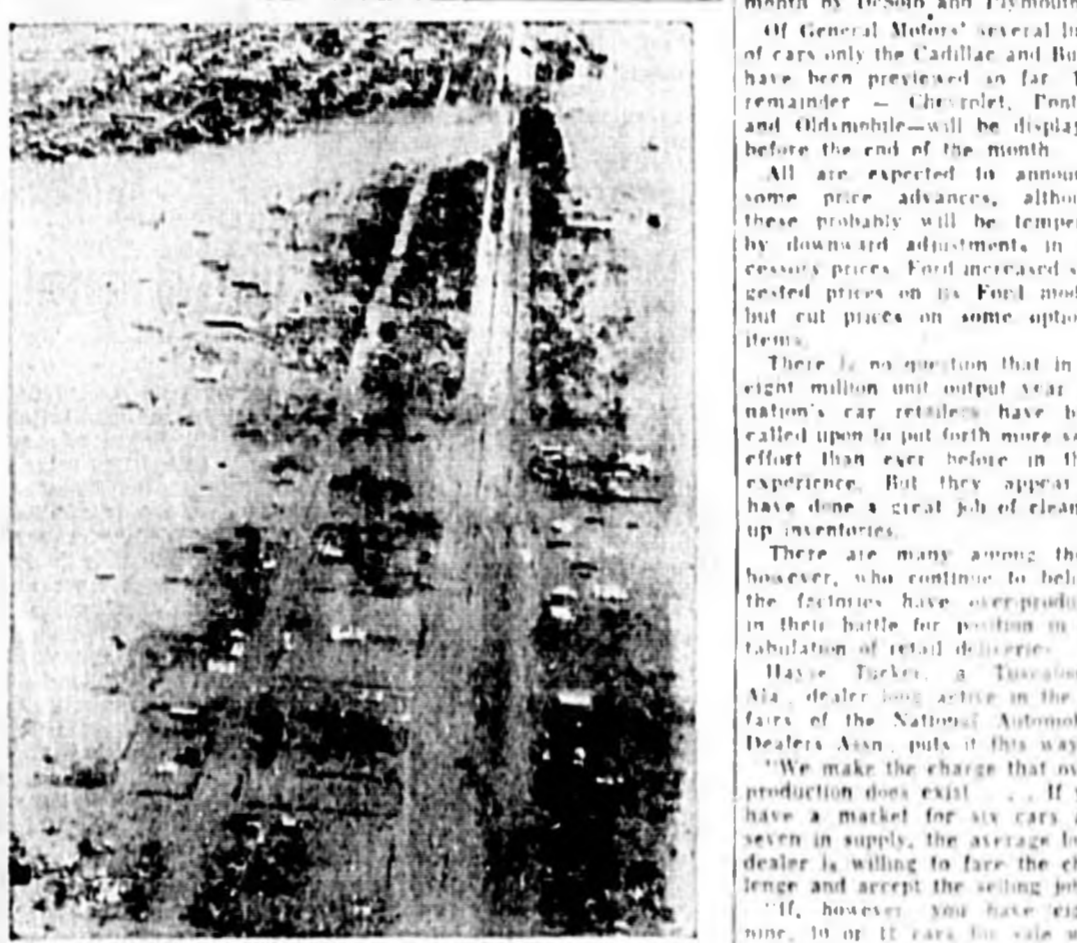

There are many among them, however, who continue to believe the factories have overproduced in their battle for position in the realization of retail dealers.

Harve Taylor, a Washington, D. C. dealer, looks at the situation of the National Automobile Dealers Assn. puts it this way:

"We make the charge that over-production does exist. . . . If you have a market for six cars and seven in supply, the average local dealer is willing to face the challenge and accept the selling job."

"If, however, you have eight, nine, or 10 cars for sale with a healthy market for only six, you have a demoralized market which breeds bad selling, wild guessing, bitter selling, gimmicks and unethical advertising."

"We say that this is the picture of our business today."

Swollen waters of the Panuco River swept over the city when torrential rains raised it over its banks. Navy helicopters are rushing relief to some 55,000 refugees in the stricken area. ## Electronic Brain Relieves Pilot

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP)—A potent new electronic brain may be the jet fighter pilot's best friend and, the Air Force says, perhaps our best defense against invading enemy bombers.

The Air Force and industrialist Howard Hughes took the wraps off the latest Hughes development last week. It will relieve the pilot of every responsibility except taking off and landing.

The brain will carry the jet interceptor to its target, fire rockets or missiles, and return the plane to its home base.

The advanced firing system was designed because human reactions are not always quick enough to handle jet in combat.

Hughes said every interceptor guarding the United States and Canada already is equipped with a primary version of the deadly "automatic marksmen."

The next model, putting navigation, communication and attack to the electronic brain, will be housed in a box taking up a small space.

Treasury Says Too Early To Tell About Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Treasury has said once again it is too early to tell whether income or other taxes should be cut next year.

But Rep. Forand (D-R.I.) says he now believes more strongly than ever that President Eisenhower early in 1954 will recommend "some lowering of taxes."

Forand and Dan T. Smith, special assistant to Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, engaged in verbal fencing over the politically hot tax cut issue recently at a hearing of Forand's House Ways and Means subcommittee. The subcommittee is awaiting studies by administration and technical groups in the excise, gift, sales tax, laws—not changes in rates.

Forand criticized the Treasury's refusal to submit definite recommendations to the House group and said that strengthened his belief the administration may come up with tax cut proposals in 1954, a general election year.

To that Smith replied, in line with what Humphrey has been saying, that pending completion of firm federal budget estimates next January there is no assurance of tax slashes next year.

Larry Shoemaker Has Many Stamp Collecting Buddies

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Larry D. Shoemaker, retired Cleveland, Ohio, businessman who has lived here for six years, has been working at the hobby for 40 years and now is getting a chance in his travels to meet lots of his stamp collecting buddies.

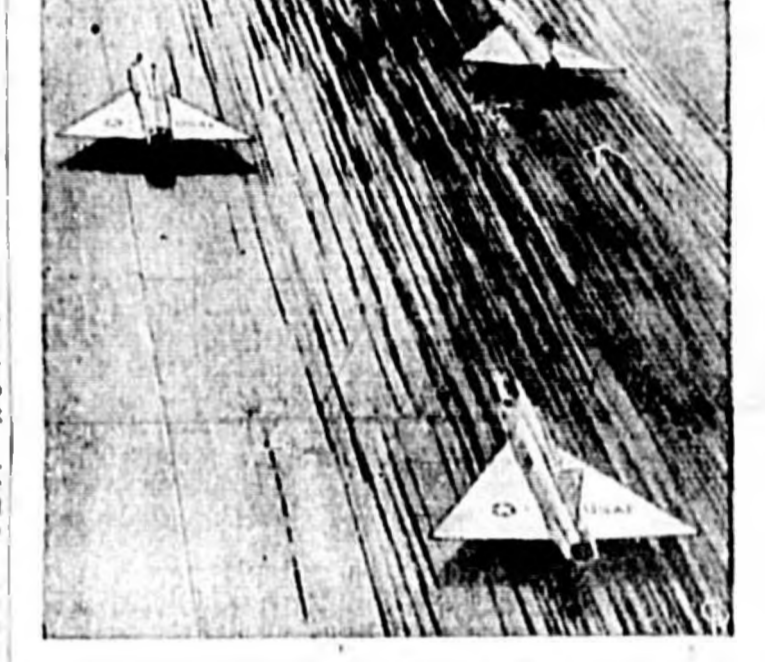

He's won in many awards over the years he can't estimate them. Walls of his den are covered with ribbons, trophies and citations. Early in his stamp collecting career he began to specialize in research in Canadian stamps. This project was made all the more challenging because records of the dominion's issues were destroyed in 1916.

He has reconstructed data on the stamps issued from 1870 to 1917, the small Queen issue.

What makes a stamp get the stamp collector's eye? "It's the fine art exhibited in a stamp which first attracts the hobbyist," the stocky, balding Shoemaker replies.

He was named president of the society at his group's meeting last month in Norfolk, Va.

A SPIT SECOND before takeoff, these F-102A all-weather jet interceptors seem to be already moving down the runway at Palmdale, Calif. The illusion of speed comes not only from the belts and interceptors' warm-wind streamlining but from hundreds of tiny streaks left on the concrete by landing aircraft at the Mojave Army Air Field. The advanced planes are delivered to the United States Air Force at Palmdale after production flight tests. (International)

Wildlife Heads Have Controversy

When does food for the goose become bait for the gander? By definition of the Canadian Wildlife Service, when a hunter shoots a migratory bird within one-half mile of any place, reserved or otherwise, where food has been placed.

By definition of the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service, when a hunter takes a duck or goose through use of food "used to lure or attract or entice birds, to, on or over the area where hunters are attempting to take them." No specific distance mentioned.

By definition of the California Wildlife Feeding regulations, when a hunter feeds a bird closer than 200 yards to "designated feeding areas" set up by some 100 duck hunting clubs of the state under a 35 annual license.

All three definitions are supposed to mesh under the international migratory birds convention treaty. Whether they do is the subject of a current continent-wide controversy among wildlife officials, members of Congress, conservationists and, of course, duck hunters.

Most of the fire has been aimed at California, and the substance of it summed up by Rep. Ross (D-Wis.), who declared recently that U. S. Wildlife authorities can allow baiting by selling it feeding in California, and stop baiting by calling it baiting in Wisconsin.

This, added Ross, amounts to "wild west" baiting being permitted upon duck business outside of California.

Not so, said Orme Lewis, assistant interior secretary. "Anyone can feed waterfowl at any place at any time. It is only when the element of hunting in relation to such feeding enters the picture that our authority to regulate becomes operative."

Whatever the decision, if any, in the current debate, the California law now in its third year of operation has a sudden national interest. In its stated aim, the law makes it possible for the duck hunting clubs, at their own expense, to set up feeding and flooding programs designed to attract waterfowl away from the heavily agriculturalized areas of the state where crop depredations create a serious problem.

That this improves duck hunting on the 200,000 acres or so of private club lands is not seriously questioned. But whether the improvement in an earned dividend of notable effort with benefits accruing in other hunters through maintenance of high duck populations, or plain "duck baiting" is another matter.

"Back of this situation," an official California department of fish and game review says, "is the story of a struggle by the waterfowl to maintain themselves in face of agricultural developments which have drained most natural marshes of the state, and a campaign by farmers and state and federal governments in case crop losses caused by birds which have adapted themselves to the new irrigated economy."

"The story boils itself down to this: Can the waterfowl and agriculture live together and both thrive without the annual crop losses of the past few years?"

"Both the department of fish and game and the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service believe the answer is yes, qualified by the continuation and expansion of measures now in force."

"Throughout the story, one fact remains paramount and must be taken into prime consideration in every attack on the problem: More than three-quarters of the ducks and geese of the Pacific flyway spend at least a part of their winters in California."

In round numbers, that's about 12 million ducks. California's 170,000 waterfowl hunters shoot about three million of them annually.

House Cleaning Becomes Profitable

NEW YORK (AP)—House cleaning can turn up all sorts of things. Recently Mrs. Milton Unger told police she had placed six velvet seats in an earned dividend of $33,000 in a bureau drawer some 10 days previously but couldn't find them that night.

Police said Louvinia Richardson, a maid, reported finding the gems under a mattress in the Unger apartment.

The Unger, 75, in Toronto, Ont., where Unger, a drug broker, has acquaintances were notified.

This Is Fire Prevention Week! Heed Precautions - Reduce Hazards

For the second year in succession the National Board of Fire Underwriters reports fewer home fires in urban United States.

And no doubt, a portion of the results can be credited to the fine work on the part of the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce which, each year, sponsors Fire Prevention Week in this community and always does such a big job of it.

In communities of 2,500 and over, residential fires decreased 2 per cent in 1953 and again in 1954, according to reports reaching us.

However, we'd like to point this out, since 90 per cent of all fires are caused by carelessness, neglect and lack of understanding, this is only a small percentage of what can be done in cutting down the terrific toll. Here is what you can do to help prevent a fire in your home.

The combination matches-smoking and misuse of electricity account for 40 per cent of all fires of known origin; therefore, home fire prevention should start at these danger points. The following precautions will reduce the hazards of matches and smoking.

1. Keep plenty of ash-trays handy—and use them!
2. Never toss a lighted match away. Blow it out, hold it a second, then put it in an ash-tray.
3. Before emptying an ash-tray, be sure every match and butt is dead out.
4. Never use a match to light your way into a dark closet or similar space where clothing is kept or possibly other combustibles.
5. Before going to bed, especially after entering, see that no butts are smoldering on tables or upholstery.
6. Keen matches and cigarette lighters where children cannot reach them.

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

Buffer hardship with me, as a good soldier of Christ.—II Timothy 2:3.—There are still countries where followers of Christ must suffer to the death. It is a challenge that is gladly met by many. In Christian lands it is often taken for granted that we will enjoy the fruits of Christian civilization and laws without even turning our hands.

Keep Calm At Meals

By HERMAN M. DUNDEEN, M.D.

Don't quarrel at the dinner table!
 The road may be bumpy, the potatoes may be lumpy and your mother-in-law may announce she plans to extend her stay—but don't quarrel at the dinner table. Request arguments while eating disturb your digestion as well as your emotions.

Food and Disturbances
 Experiments have proved conclusively that the emotional state of a person profoundly affects the blood supply, the secretory functions, the motility and the stomach's emptying time.

If you are nervous, anxious, worried or otherwise excited, the nervous mechanism controlling your digestion usually is affected. In a state like this, you are apt to wind up with nervous dyspepsia, or nervous indigestion.

Stress and Overwork
 This ailment is caused not only by excitement at mealtimes, stress, overwork and strong emotional disturbances of any type produce nervous dyspepsia.

In addition to stomach distress, you may have headaches and become weak. You might be unable to concentrate and unable to sleep. Nervous and lack of appetite are frequent symptoms of nervous indigestion.

Many persons aggravate the condition by smoking or drinking more alcohol than usual.

7. Never smoke in bed. Electrical fires are less apt to occur if you follow these rules:

1. 15 amperes fuses are the safe size for most homes and household circuits. Never tamper with them; never use over-size fuses.
2. Don't plug too many appliances into one outlet; you will overload the circuit. If fuses blow often, call an electrician. He will inspect the wiring and put in more outlets and circuits if he thinks you need them.
3. Look for the UL label on all electric cords and appliances you buy. It means they have passed Underwriters Laboratories tests for fire and shock safety.
4. Don't let a "home handyman" tinker with electric cords, wiring or appliances. Such work should be done only by an electrician.
5. Don't string wires over hooks or around nails, or run them under rugs where they may be walked on. Insulation will break or wear out, and a short circuit may result.

Cattle Industry Growing

One of the biggest growing industries in Seminole County is the cattle industry. The Seminole County Cattlemen's Association last year at this time numbered only 17 members but in the 12 month period until now the group has increased its membership rolls to a present 88.

Turning to pure bred strains, Seminole County cattle raisers are slowly climbing to the top of the industry as evidenced by visitors in this area by some of the top men in the Florida Cattlemen's Association.

Not only does the organization boast of its cattle, the quality of the breeds, the size of the herds, and the fast developing of the area into a cattleman's paradise, but they look to the future in the part that cattle will play in a completely rotated crop program.

Businessmen, professional men, celery growers, poultry men, vegetable growers, and even the "regular" fellow, are all getting into the cattle business. It's the up and coming business that is bound to pay big dividends in the immediate future as well as the distant future.

We're looking to the cattle industry for a balancing effect on the economic picture rounds us. It is an industry that will mean in Seminole County and the area that surrounds it the land owner, who, in the past, could count on only the produce and vegetables the soil would produce.

The cattle industry is like having a new bank open in the area. A stabilizing effect bringing dollars into channels that otherwise would not mean one cent to the people of the county-wide community.

Seminole County is growing in many ways. It is growing in population, it is growing business-wise, it is growing construction-wise industry is developing, and along with all of this vast improvement, the cattle industry is keeping step.

We see newer and more virile planning through the efforts of a greater number of cattlemen in Seminole County.

Dear Sarah, Max Still Remembers

NEW YORK (AP)—Dear Sarah: You have been in your grave two years. You never heard of me in your life, and I never heard of you until an hour ago. I am taking this way of letting the world know what a wonderful wife you were.

I was late to work, and called a cab driven by your husband. Max it was a crisp autumn morning, the kind that makes a music in your veins.

"It's a fine day," I said to Max. "But I guess in the cab business you make more money on rainy days."

"All days are good days," Max said. "I don't worry about the money. I take it as it comes, and I don't cry if less comes in one day than another."

"People let trifles pile up and wear them down I don't. I've been hacking 23 years, mostly at night. I can remember during the depression when I came home with only 40 cents after 12 hours at the wheel."

"Some of my friends in business for themselves fret now if they don't make more money every day. I can remember the days when I used to lend them a few cans of food to keep them going, and I think they're crazy. 'Stay healthy,' I tell them, 'and you have nothing left to worry about.'"

I asked Max if he wouldn't like to own his own business, and he answered:

"I don't know how to buy my own cab for $200, and I didn't have it. Today it would take $4,000, and I don't have that. But I don't worry."

Then he told me about the only time in his life money meant anything to him.

He told about meeting and marrying you 19 years ago. He told about the first years when all you often had to eat was bread and milk and coffee, and how cheerful you were. He told about the kids coming and how well you made out with little money, and how you never complained over the long years he worked at night and you were alone.

"She had happiness in her," he said more than once. Max told me how thrifty you were by the dollars and pennies, until you both had a nest egg of $5,000 when you fell ill of cancer nearly three years ago.

He told how the nest egg dribbled away in efforts to cure you—specialists, nurses, treatments—and how you fought against spending it. He told how he finally quit work and took care of you himself, because he couldn't bear to leave you alone. He told how resigned you were.

"She wanted to stay on her feet—she wouldn't go to bed," Max said. "And I couldn't stand to see her in pain. But she stayed on her feet until the last two weeks."

U. S. To Launch Many Rockets In 1957-58 Period

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the 18 months from July 1957 through December 1958 the United States will launch more than twice as many high-altitude rockets as it has fired in the past 10 years.

About $1,700,000 has been budgeted for this effort, in addition to the 10 million dollars or so expected to be spent during the same period on the much more ambitious, but closely related, space satellite program.

The details of the U. S. rocket research program during the 1957-58 international Geophysical Year were discussed in a speech to the American Rocket Society here last week by Dr. Homer Newell, acting superintendent of the Atmosphere and Astral Physics Division of the Naval Research Laboratory.

The laboratory has been assigned all the rocket projects, including the satellite program. Six to 10 satellites about the size of basketballs are to be rocketed to altitudes of 300 to 800 miles in attempt to get them then to orbit for months or longer around the earth.

Newell said that during the 1957-58 period the United States will launch:

1. A dozen Aerobee rockets from White Sands, N.M., and another 33 from Fort Churchill on Hudson's Bay, just below the Arctic Circle in Canada. More than 140 Aerobees have already been fired, to altitudes as high as 123 miles.
2. A number of Nike-Deacon combination rockets, also at Fort Churchill. The 25-foot-long Nike is the Army's standard anti-aircraft missile. Its power plant is attached to the Deacon rocket to

1956 Election Will Be Close

WASHINGTON (AP)—The doorbell ringers in the precincts are the infantrymen of politics, and the top brass in both the Republican and Democratic parties know they are the troops who can win or lose a close election battle.

And so it is that 12 months before the 1956 presidential election, the political strategists are placing heavy emphasis on better organization at the precinct level.

The Democrats are drafting a program for training precinct workers and strengthening party organization, with Neil Staebler, Michigan real estate operator, directing the job. Staebler is given a large share of the credit for putting together an effective grassroots organization which swept Republicans out of major offices in Michigan last year.

Democratic leaders hope Staebler's plan for inspiring enthusiastic precinct work will be spread through the party. The Staebler idea, in essence, is to make the loyal precinct worker feel he has accomplished something for himself and his country—and that what he has done is appreciated.

One political worker commented recently: "The day has gone when you can give a man at City Hall $10 on election day, and get the job done. It won't work any more. You've got to attract the right kind of people into the organization and give them a feeling of participation, a feeling of taking part in something that is big and vital to them and to the country. The hope of personal gain is an important element in this work—but it isn't by any means the force that drives most workers."

Staebler has said: "In a loose-jointed organization like a political party, the vigor with which people do their committee and precinct work is determined almost entirely by morale. . . . The most important ingredient (of morale) is a sense of significance."

In Michigan, Staebler and other Democratic leaders have seen to it that the spotlight of recognition is turned not only on the leaders—but also on precinct workers who have done an outstanding job. These workers are introduced at the big banquets too and sip the heady wine of applause.

Just what methods the Republicans will use to fire up their precinct workers are not yet clear.

But, spurred by President Eisenhower before his illness, they are paying close attention to precinct organization. One new effort in the Republican campaign will be a special drive directed by Clancy Adams of Mineral Utah—to enlist new voters into the Republican party and get them into active participation in the party's affairs at the local level.

President Eisenhower in recent weeks is reported to have told GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall: "You can expect an old codger like me to be useful in only a few elections—but if you get a 21-year-old, he'll be around to work for you for years."

Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL KAY

T. T. Wentworth, President Emeritus of the Pensacola Historical Society, feels that we are overlooking one of our most valuable assets through our failure to promote this state's untapped historical background.

Admitting our advantages in sunshine, climate, lakes, rivers, springs, caverns and beaches, Wentworth contends that our greatest attraction is found in our history.

While he praises our State Board of Parks and Historical Monuments for the splendid work they have done and are doing to bring to the attention of home folks and visitors many spots of great historical interest, he bemoans the fact that we are doing far too little in his direction.

A student of Florida history for many years, Wentworth has gathered one of the finest collections of data and historical objects that are priceless relics.

He has spearheaded the drive to adequately mark every historic spot and welcomes the assistance of such organizations as the Florida Historical Society, the St. Augustine Historical Society, Pensacola Historical Society, Jacksonville Historical Society, the Historical Society of South Florida and other groups in this Florida.

No state has a more colorful history than ours. Before the white man came to these shores many great Indian nations made history here including the Timucua, Calusa, Tequesta, Mayaimi, Jobe, Jeaga, Tocobaga, Mococo, Pohoy, Ocita, Acosta, Ocala, Posteno, Yustaga, Onatheaqua, Ufita, Creeks, Panacolas, Muckohegan, Eucheas, Apalachee and the present day Seminoles.

Most of us are aware of the fact that Florida has been under five flags—Spanish, British, French, the United States and the Confederate States of America, but few have knowledge of the fact that a sixth flag is involved in our history. Florida was a nation within itself from the time it seceded from the Union until it joined the Confederacy. Just as California for a time functioned as the Bear State Republic. During this brief period we existed as "The Sovereign State of Florida."

Wentworth contends that the history of every individual community, be it ancient or recent, is interesting and important. He feels that every community should have its own local historical society or group, charged with responsibility of gathering and preserving historical data that will become more and more valuable as time goes on.

Children's Clothes Are Fire Hazards Says Hospitals

The clothes your child wears are a fire hazard — in fact, fire-insisting garments are a chief cause of children being severely burned or killed by fire, hospital records have shown.

The National Fire Protection Association, sponsor of Fire Prevention Week (Oct. 9-15) in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Florida Agricultural Extension Service warn that once a child's clothing ignites, the child in a panic is likely to run and only make things worse. Children should be taught at an early age not to run when this happens, but to immediately roll up in a rug, coat or blanket or simply to fall down on the ground and roll around if no covering is available, says Myrtle Wilson, Home Demonstration Agent.

Clothing fires often result from a child playing with matches or because of a child getting too close to an open fireplace, brush, grass and trash fires, wood and coal heaters, and gas, wood or kerosene stoves.

In addition to teaching children the right thing to do in such an emergency the NFPA urges parents to protect children by buying clothing that is not too flimsy and readily ignited. And by all means take steps to prevent any possible contact with fire: Fireplaces should have fireguards; matches, lighters, gasoline, and kerosene should be kept far out of reach; trash and incinerator fires should never be left unattended; and sternly enforce the rule of staying away from stoves, heaters and furnaces.

Advertisers Will Take Chance Says Slocum Chapin

NEW YORK—Many people complain that advertisers won't take chances on new types of TV programs. But Slocum Chapin, of ABC-TV, says advertisers will take a chance.

Chapin says the smaller advertiser usually is looking for a sure buy because he can't afford to be wrong but that the larger ones take the chance.

He says food manufacturers prefer time on Thursday or Friday evenings because about 60 per cent of the food for American tables is bought on Fridays and Saturdays. On the other hand, auto manufacturers have no objection to TV time on Saturday night because a family thinks a while before it buys a car.

"No one can really tell what's going to make a sure-fire show on television," says Chapin. As an example, he pointed to ABC's highly successful "Disneyland." When it started, advertisers were lukewarm. "Now," says Chapin, whose office is on 6th Street, "there's a waiting line of advertisers stretching down to 42d Street."

Some programs aim at selective audiences and make no attempt at capturing the mass of viewers. One such low-budget program on ABC-TV is designed to hold the interest of business executives, Chapin says, and its sponsors are pleased with the result.

Redskin Legends May Soon Be Dead Says G. Connor

HOLLYWOOD—Redskin lore and legend may be almost lost in a generation, warns an Indian leader, who places much of the blame on TV and radio.

The viewer with alarm is Gilbert Connor, who has the blood of Nez Perce chiefs in his veins. Born to an Indian father, Connor is the grandson of Chief Oklat, brother of the great warrior Chief Joseph.

Connor, who is 36 and has a face that could have come off a nickel, was enlisted to help his Indians for a Jeff Chandler western, "Pillars in the Sky." The movie was shooting near his home of Pendleton, Ore. He also is portraying a Christianized Indian leader in the film and is working here on his first visit to Hollywood.

He is an authority on legends of the Northwest Indians. The trouble is, he complained, that the younger generation of redskins has little interest in perpetuating the old stories.

"We've had radio on the reservation for 25 years and now we've got television," Connor explained. "Whenever the young folks have free time, they watch TV or listen to the radio. They don't take the time to listen to the old stories."

"It's too bad, because the old chiefs of the Northwest can still tell the old legends that have been handed down from generation to generation. But as the chiefs die, the legends die also. Few of them have been written down."

Hollywood has helped sustain some of the Indian lore, he observed. He said movies have become more sympathetic toward the Indians in recent years. "Broken Arrow" started the trend.

"The young Indians see Indian movies and they feel proud of themselves for five minutes," he said. "Then they forget. The fact that they were part of one of the earth's great civilizations means nothing to them. Soon there will be none of us left who know the old culture."

Connor, now a rural mail carrier, says seven young Indians leave the reservation for every five that stay. And of the five that remain, only one would be a full blooded Indian. The American natives face the problem that has troubled many races in world history: how to retain their blood pure.

The result of the introduction of foreign blood, he said, was further

Martinez, Manager End Family Feud; Sign New Contract

NEW YORK (AP)—Welterweight Vince Martinez and Manager Bill Daly have buried the hatchet after a family feud that prompted an investigation of an alleged "buy-brother" by the Paterson, N.J., boxer.

The five-year private contract, the manager's share of 33 1/3 per cent will be split between Daly (23 1/3 per cent) and Anthony Martinez (10 per cent), the fighter's father.

Daly still is suspended in New York state for failure to testify at an inquiry into International Boxing Guild (manager) affairs by the New York State Athletic Commission. However, he says he is willing to appear at any time whenever asked by Chairman Julius Holland.

In the meantime, Daly is taking aim on the welterweight title held by Carmen Basilio of Canastota, N.Y., with an offer of a $75,000 guarantee for a Basilio-Martinez match in Los Angeles next summer. Basilio is defending his championship against Tony DeMarco at Boston Nov. 30. If Basilio loses, the offer stands for DeMarco.

Daly broke bread with the Martinez clan, father and son, yesterday in a Paterson, N.J., restaurant, when he announced the new contract. Their former contract expired March 9, 1953, but they had "broken" a year ago. Martinez had two fights last year after the break, and two more this year after the contract expired. He boxes Lester Felton of Detroit at Providence Monday.

"I'm happy everything turned out for the best," said Vince. "I could have signed with other managers but I'm sure I'm better off now. I'm more satisfied my father and Bill got together on an agreement."

Pop Martinez also was satisfied. "I think from now on we'll get along okay," he said.

Daly said the dispute was with the fighter's father. "Pop and I are both stubborn by nature," he said. "We fought it out down the line until common sense prevailed. If it hadn't been for outside influences, the whole thing would have been a 30-day wonder."

Daly took a rap at Bob Christenberry, former commission chairman, and his former associates, whom he called "publicity seekers who widened the breach when they saw a chance to get headlines." He said Helfend "inherited the package—a problem thrust upon him."

Michigan, bidding for its first national title since 1914, moves into the No. 1 spot this week in the Associated Press Football poll, overhauling Maryland's mighty Terrapins, who fell to the runner-up role.

Michigan proved its comeback as a national power by humiliating Army 26-2 Saturday. It was the third game of the season for the unbeaten Wolverines and it convinced the nation's experts.

The Wolverines had a healthy 200-point margin in the poll over Maryland, which gathered a 4-0 record by whipping Wake Forest, less imposing than the previously unstoppable Army machine 24-7.

Oklahoma, with its winning string now stretched to 22 games, remained in third place, followed by a general shakeup that listed Notre Dame, Georgia Tech, Wisconsin, Texas Christian, Navy, UCLA and West Virginia in that order.

In reigniting the top 10, the nation's sports writers and broadcasters gave Michigan its first-place vote—nearly four times as many as the Wolves picked up last week. Adding points on a 10 for first, 9 for second, etc., basis, Michigan wound up with a 1,562 after a count of the 191 ballots.

Maryland, which held the No. 1 position for two weeks, collected only 43 firsts (the Terps had 28 a week ago) and a 1,457-point total. Oklahoma was awarded 21 first-place votes and totaled 1,359 points.

Notre Dame moved up a notch, shifting places with Georgia Tech. Wisconsin jumped from ninth to sixth, displacing Army, which tumbled to 10th.

Texas Christian took a step up from eighth, where Navy took over after being 12th last week. UCLA, the preseason choice but already hung up by Maryland, slipped from seventh to ninth. West Virginia, up from 11th, replaced Southern California, upset by Washington 7-0, in 10th. The Trojans slipped to 10th.

Trabert Expected To Turn Pro Today

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Amateur tennis champion Tony Trabert is expected to turn professional today.

Promoter Jack Kramer said the signing awaits only completion of attorneys' studies of the fine print in the contract and "I don't expect anything to hold up the deal."

Kramer expects not only to bring Trabert, the U. S. and Wimbledon champion, into the pro ranks but also the Australian Davis Cup ace, Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall. Signing this trio, rated as the world's three best amateurs, would constitute the biggest pro tennis raid in history on the simon pures.

Kramer's attorney and Trabert's brother Marc, a Cincinnati lawyer, were going over a few revisions each side asked in the proposed contract, Marc Trabert flew here yesterday.

The promoter declined to give the actual amount offered Trabert but said the amateur king will get more than Australia's Frank Sedgman did when he turned pro. Sedgman got a $75,000 guarantee against percentage of the gross that carried him somewhat above that figure.

Kramer said publicly over the Sedgman offer "cost me, as Tony just had to look back at the news stories to see how much Sedgman got. Naturally, he asked for more and will get it. From now on I'm playing it like they do in baseball. Let there be speculation only."

As for Hoad and Rosewall, Kramer said he has had several telephone calls from Australia "which lead me to believe that the two will sign." Reports are that Hoad and Rosewall have been offered $50,000 each.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A veteran and a rookie are the toast of the National Football League, the season's first statistical release disclosed today.

Cleveland's fabulous Otto Graham, who was supposed to be selling insurance instead of pitching footballs, is the top passer among Commissioner Bert Bell's professional dandies; while Alan Ameche, former Wisconsin blockbuster, leads the ball carriers.

Graham, who came back to pro football this year only to help out his old friend and coach, Paul Brown, has completed 26 of 41 passes for 393 yards, 2 for touchdowns. Only two of Graham's passes have reached enemy hands by interception. Otto has averaged 9.38 yards per dip.

Little Eddie LeBaron, quarterback of the surprising Washington Redskins, is just behind Graham, averaging 9.25 yards per pass with 23 for 31 good for 472 yards and 3 touchdowns. Bobby Thomson of the disappointing Philadelphia Eagles is third in serial artistry with an 8.60 average based on 40 completions for 72 attempts, 619 yards and five TDs.

In the head cracking department, Ameche shows the way with 401 yards on 62 runs for an average of 6.5 per try, an excellent performance in the rugged pro loop, especially for a rookie.

The running of Ameche and the passing of George Shaw, "bonus pick" of the Western Conference leading Colts last winter, have been outstanding features in this topsy-turvy NFL campaign so far. Shaw ranks fourth among the passers averaging 8.02 yards on 23 completions of 47 attempts for 337 yards and 5 TDs.

In other departments, Pete Pihos, who tied for the pass receiving title last year, is in front with 14 caught for 178 yards; Vic Janowicz of Washington tops the scorers with 26 points on 4 touchdowns, 3 extra points and 3 field goals; Norman Van Brocklin leads the punters on a 44.5 average; Ronald Drzewiecki, rookie of the Chicago Bears, heads the punt returners with a 10.5 average; Jerry Norton of Philadelphia leads in kickoff returns with a 47.3 average, while Willard Sherman of Los Angeles tops the pass interceptors with five.

Three Phoenix construction men working near Flagstaff found the price of illegal wild turkey mighty high. They were fined $200 each.

A total of 733,684 fans turned out last season for Eastern League baseball games, an increase of 74,346 over 1954.

Reported Planning Is Under Way For Atom Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—Planning is reported under way for a new series of atomic tests next month at the Nevada Proving Grounds.

The reports, which had no official confirmation, were that the proposed tests might involve change in some existing devices and might provide further information on radioactive fall-out.

There was speculation that additional information on either or both of those points might be part of preparations for a new series of hydrogen tests in the Marshall Island testing grounds next year.

The new Nevada test series, it was understood, is being planned on only a small scale. At the conclusion of the spring series, observers were given to understand no further tests were planned there this year.

The Yale-Columbia rivalry marks the oldest in the history of the Ivy League. They first met in 1872 when the Elis conquered the Lions, 3-0.

Auburn Leads In SEC

BIRMINGHAM (AP)—Auburn continues to lead the Southeastern Conference both on offense and defense in SEC statistics released today.

The Tigers average 290.7 yards per game in their first three starts, according to SEC Commissioner Bernie Moore. This was 17 yards better than their nearest rival, Tulane.

Auburn netted 154 yards passing and 716 rushing in its first three games, a total of 872 yards. Miss. State has picked up the most yards rushing in four games, 908, and Georgia leads in passing yardage with 574.

Tulane leads the SEC with 60 first downs while Florida has given up the most, 33. Alabama has lost 12 fumbles for the worst record in this department. Georgia Tech is best at hanging on to the ball, with one fumble lost and one enemy fumble recovered.

Georgia Tech and Mississippi each have intercepted eight passes for the best performances in this field. Florida has lost nine serials to interceptions and Georgia eight for the poorest showing in getting their passes into the right hands.

Tulane has been penalized 299 yards, the most assessed against any SEC team. Auburn and Tennessee are tied with the best records of 100 yards penalized each, but both have played only three games.

Mays Again Captures League Slugging Honors

By MELDON BAROWITZ
NEW YORK (AP)—Finishing with a flourish, the New York Giants' Willie Mays captured National League slugging honors for the second straight season, compiling a .630 average after a mid-season slump that caused him to be benched for a few days.

The young center fielder had a .581 slugging mark and had hit only 17 homers when he was benched June 19. From then on he proceeded to find the range as he wound up with 31 home runs, most in the league, and also boosted his batting average 40 points.

Statistics compiled by The Associated Press revealed that Mays accumulated 382 total bases in 580 at bats. Slugging averages are computed by dividing a player's number of times at bat into his total bases.

The New York Yankee's Mickey Mantle, with 316 total bases in 117 trips, topped the American League with a .611 slugging percentage.

The switch-hitting outfielder also led his league in homers with 37. History repeated itself for Mays as he again had to beat out his rival center fielder, Duke Snider of Brooklyn. In 1954 Mays edged Snider by 20 points. This past season Snider's slugging average was .628 and he finished 31 points behind the Say-Hey Kid. The Duke of the Dodgers, whose home-run swatting was a big factor in Brook-

Perez Fixes Eye On Lightweights

NEW YORK (AP)—Lulu Perez will concentrate on lightweights from now on.

The clever Brooklyn youngster, once a leading featherweight contender, felt strong at 135 pounds last night when he won a fierce battle from Bobby Courchesne of Holyoke, Mass., at St. Nicholas Arena.

"I don't know what held him up," said Lulu, speaking of the seventh round when he battered Bobby from rope to rope, only to see the New England 20-year-old stage a rousing rally.

Again in the 10th, Lulu staggered Bobby and rained punches at him for 15 seconds. At the end, game Bobby still was coming in and throwing desperate rights.

Fight Results

MONDAY NIGHT'S FIGHTS
By The Associated Press
NEW YORK — Lulu Perez, 135 lbs., Brooklyn, outpointed Bobby Courchesne, 135 lbs., Holyoke, Mass. 16 rounds.
BROOKLYN, Mass. — Willie Poy 135 lbs., Hartford, Conn., outpointed Charlie Titone, 134 lbs., Brooklyn, 16 rounds.
PROVIDENCE, R. I. — Lou Camp, 141 lbs., Providence, stopped Mike Gulin, 142, New Haven, Conn. 16 rounds.

Milwaukee's Ed Mathews ranked third at 601, followed by Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs with 592. Big Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati rounded out the top five sluggers with a .585 figure.

Mantle, third during the 1954 season, easily outdistanced the American League field. His nearest pursuer, Detroit's Al Kaline, compiled a .546 slugging mark and wound up 63 points behind Mantle.

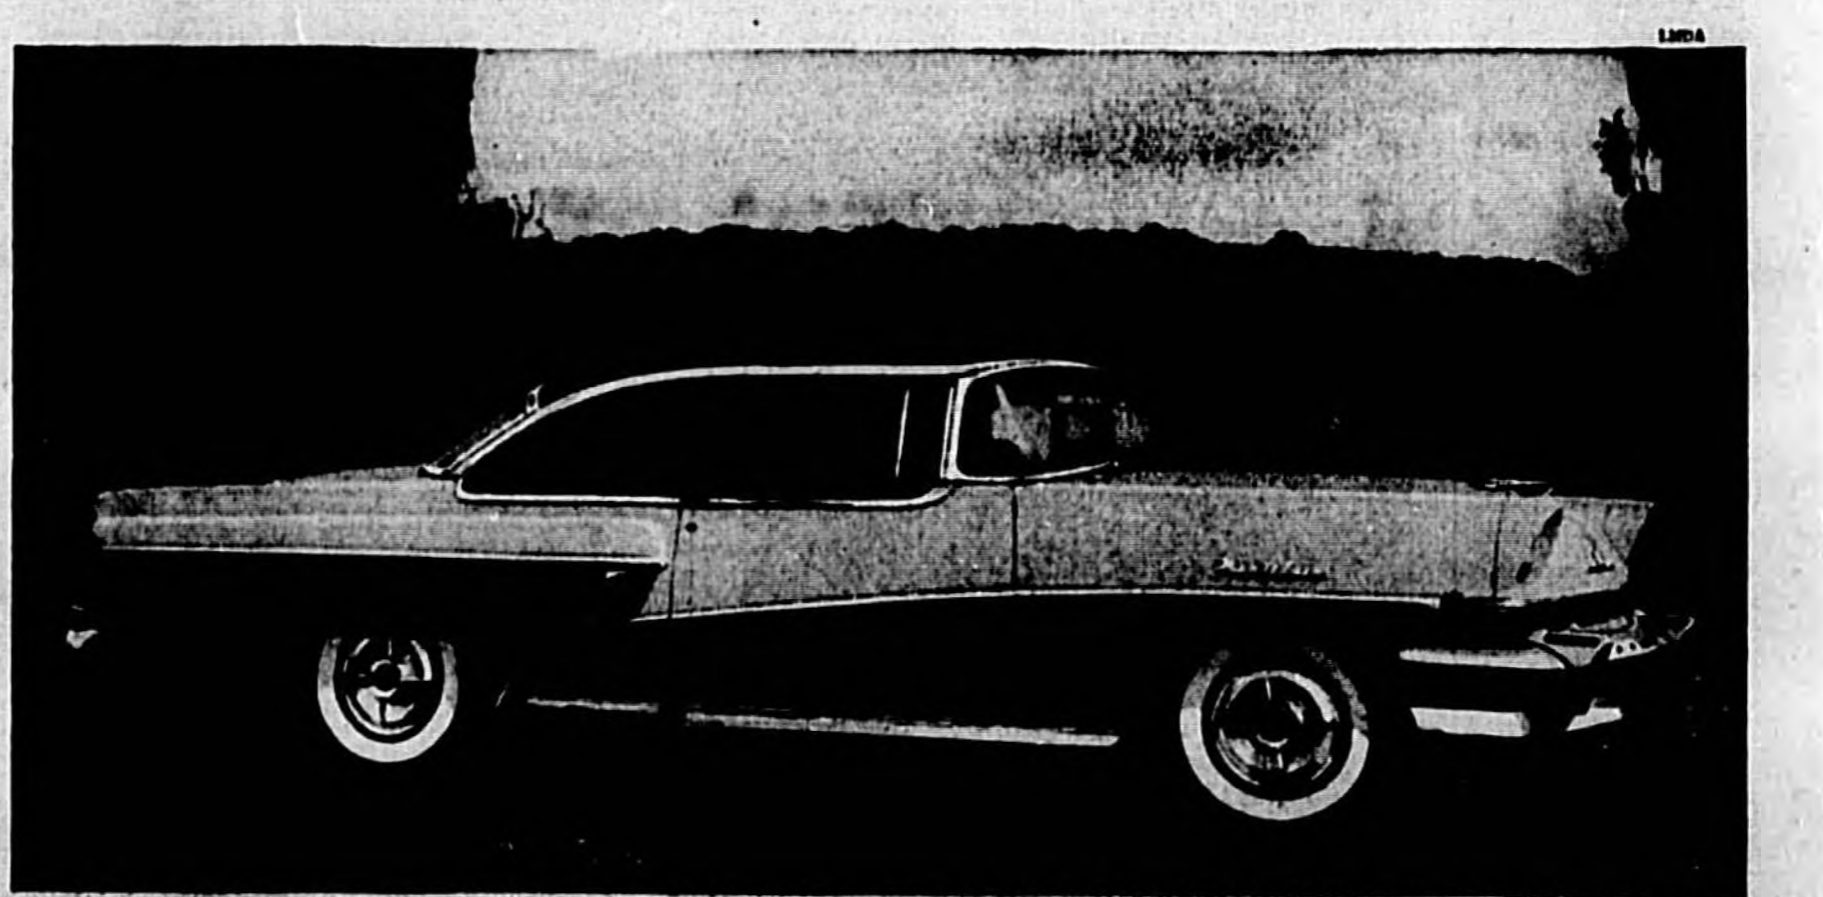

Included among Mantle's 154 hits were 23 doubles and 11 triples, collected 321 total bases in 588 trips.

The only player in both league to obtain 300 hits, Kaline's extra base output included 21 doubles, eight triples and 27 homers.

Gus Zernial of Kansas City was third with 208 and teammate Vic Power and Cleveland's Larry Doby tied for fourth. Each had 303.

Ted Williams of Boston far outdistanced Mantle, with a astounding 703 slugging average on a total of 22; base in 320 official at bat. League headquarters ruled however, that he was ineligible for the slugging title because he had too few at bat.

THE OLD HOME TOWN By STANLEY

Spotlight On Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (P)—Quiet-spoken, moon-faced Henry Stone describes himself as "one of the tallest midgets you ever saw." He's also one of the busiest.

Henry is 4 feet 9 inches, which isn't very short for a midget. But he's just the right height to act a stand-in and stunt double for child actors in their early teens. And that's what he has been doing for 28 years.

He also plays jockers, henchmen and messengers in movies, but his steadiest work comes in standing in for kids. State laws put strict limits on the time children can spend before the cameras. This means that stand-ins must be used for child actors to an even greater extent than they are used for adults.

Henry, a vigorous 57, has seen them come and go. He can name at least 83 lads for whom he has stood in. Among the latest was Jackie Cooper. The first is Rex Thompson, playing the son of Tyrone Power in "The Eddy Duchin Story." He stood in for Mickey Rooney in all the Andy Hardy pictures.

Henry's list also includes Bobby Breen, Freddie Bartholomew, Jackie Searle, Dickie Moore, Alfalfa Switzer, Spunky McFarland, Bobby Driscoll and Roddy McDowall. He has been a "knee-in" for younger actors like Rusty Hamer (Danny Thomas TV show) and Lee Aker (Rin Tin Tin). And he has done stunts for such girls as Jane Withers and Edith Fellows.

"In 'San Francisco,'" he remembered, "I played a girl who jumped 38 feet into a fireman's net. After I landed, one of the firemen looked up through the smoke and asked, 'Has he jumped yet?' Henry weighs a mere 106 pounds.

For his daily standing-in, he draws $184, compared to $17.85 for normal-sized stand-ins. When he does regular acting roles he draws a minimum of $25.26, against $19.41 for non-midgets. The differential is due to the midgets' small but potent bargaining power.

"We used to get what the other actors were paid," Henry explained, "but we fell so we should be paid more because of our size. The Screen Actors Guild said we were too small a group (six) to bargain for, so we went to the Screen Extras Guild. They got us the increased rate."

He has earned a comfortable living, sometimes an excellent one. He proudly displayed a check voucher from Paramount, which paid him $400 in one week for doing trapeze work in a Danny Kaye film.

Henry never married. He owns his own home. His room, "the best in the world," is his 80-year-old mother's.

Boutell Family Is Growing Rapidly

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—"I'm getting used to it," Mrs. Albert R. Boutell, 37, remarked today about her rapidly growing family. She gave birth Friday to twins—a boy and a girl. On Halloween of 1953, triplets—two girls and a boy—arrived. In 1951, Mrs. Boutell became the mother of twin girls. Before the multiple births she had four children, all boys. Her husband, a 35-year-old process engineer for the Eastman Kodak Co. here, is building a four-hunk dormitory on the top floor of their five bedroom house at Conesus, 30 miles south of Rochester. The dormitory will be used by the "elder boys," who range in age from 5 to 14 years. Mrs. Boutell said "every day is a picnic."

RESIDENTS LEFT HOMELESS

ATHENS (AP)—Scores of residents in the Athens area were left homeless and communications in scattered areas of Greece were disrupted today after 48 hours of exceptionally heavy rain. Highways were reported cut by floods, and railroad tracks buried under mountain slides. Tobacco plantations in the Salonika Plain suffered extensive flood damage.

Regard For Safety Should Be Given To U. S. Youths

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Security Training Commission says youths taking a six-month course under the new military reserve program should be given "intensive and realistic (training) with due regard for safety." At the same time, it called for extra care in assuring the physical and moral well-being of the youths, most of them of pre-draft age. It expressed confidence the services have ample regulations and good men to do that. The commission, which helped to prepare the new program and will watch over its operation, made detailed suggestions in a weekend report to Secretary of Defense Wilson.

Commissioners

(Continued from Page One) mediate return indicating acceptance or rejection of the appraised value of the particular parcel of land or property. Chairman Meisch brought to the attention of the commissioners that $1,200 had been wasted when it was necessary for all appraisers to appraise the various parcels of property rather than two separate teams of appraisers working independently of each other. The bill covering cost of appraisal of the section from Five Points south to the Orange County line was submitted to the Board of Commissioners for approval. The amount came to $3,725. The appraisal report will be forwarded to the State Road Department in Tallahassee for approval. The return of the appraisal and the SRD approval will allow condemnation proceedings to begin. Commissioner Ollis Fouracre made the original motion for the resolution's adoption which was seconded by Commissioner Fred Dyson, and then unanimously approved by the Board. An additional resolution prepared by County Attorney Cleveland was adopted by the commissioners requesting the issuance of revenue certificates in lieu of surplus gasoline tax monies over a four year period 1956-1959.

Margaret Says No Truth In Rumors

NEW YORK (AP)—Margaret Truman returned today from a two-month vacation in Europe—and once more denied that she is engaged or expects to be. She was wearing a diamond sapphire ring, which she said her parents had given her as a college graduation present. She said it was what probably touched off engagement reports. "This is the only ring I've had on," she replied as reporters meeting her on the liner United States brought up the betrothal matter. "There's no truth in it. I'm sorry there isn't. . . I'm more disappointed than you are." The resolution, adopted unanimously by the Board of Commissioners, points out that the funds from the interest bearing certificates, in the amount of $352,000 are to be used wholly for the acquisition of right-of-ways, a portion of the amount would be used to pay indebtedness prior to 1951. Prior to adjourning the meeting, it was pointed out that a copy of the appraisers' report would be available in the County Road Department office in the Seminole County Court House. It was also stressed that each property owner would be contacted by letter regarding the acceptance or rejection of the appraised value of land for right-of-ways along 17-82.

Sanford

(Continued from Page One) The Board of Sanford City Commissioners agreed to table the question and at the same time authorize the City Manager to contact Russell Dallas concerning his views on moving to the city should be employed to head the new department. The matter will come before the commissioners at the next meeting for a decision. The resignation of Thomas Vaughn was accepted with regret by the Board of Commissioners but the appointment of a new member of the Zoning and Planning Commission was tabled until the next meeting. The resignation of Eddie Griffith as Superintendent of Streets was tabled by the commissioners for further consideration. The Board of Commissioners agreed, that due to the manner in which bids were received for books and periodicals in the past, that the same procedure should be followed. A request by J. H. Parramore for a permit to sell beer and wine was granted on the recommendation of Sanford Police Chief Roy Williams. The first ordinance to be drawn up by the new City Attorney William C. Hutchison Jr., was an ordinance pertaining to the traffic regulations on the passing of a stopped school bus. An ordinance was drawn by the City Attorney and adopted by the commissioners when it was revealed that the new regulations would be similar to the State Law created at the last legislature. City Attorney Hutchison also submitted an ordinance, which was adopted, clarifying the regulations, description, and fines for the sale or possession of moonshine whiskey. According to the new ordinance (4-7A) it is unlawful to own or possess any beverage known as moonshine whiskey. Possession of moonshine whiskey, says the new ordinance, is prima facie evidence of the violation of regulatory provision of the State of Florida. City Manager Warren E. Knowles threw a bombshell into the air when he said that "I would like to clear the air once and for all regarding the inspection of properties pursuant to the enforcement of ordinances of the city." The ordinances in question regulate the sanitary facilities necessary for homes, buildings, etc. Commissioner Earl Higginbotham said, "Unless we have the ordinances enforced, we have just thrown away a million and a half dollars. There should be an exercise of

Aids Flood Stricken Persons

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India's government mobilized its resources today to aid hundreds of thousands of persons left homeless by north India's worst floods in more than 70 years. Hundreds were reported dead in the devastated Punjab region. The waters covered much of Punjab state as well as a large part of the major city of Amritsar, religious center of the Sikhs. Prime Minister Nehru after a flight over the area said in a broadcast that "our problem of relief and rehabilitation is a colossal one." The government's resources have already been strained by disastrous floods in northeastern India a month ago. Nehru described the floods this fall as "the worst in living memory, certainly the worst in the last 50 or 70 years." He said he believed reports of thousands dead in the north were "greatly exaggerated" but warned that the loss of crops by thousands upon thousands of flooded-out farmers posed a grave problem.

Big Fog Swirls Over England

LONDON (AP)—Autumn's first big fog swirled over southern England today, stalling road and river traffic and disrupting flights at big London Airport. The 9,784-ton British freighter Maipura ran aground in the River Thames off Tilbury and trains ran up to an hour late. The Air Ministry called it a "radiation fog" the result of damp air over fields and building warmed by the sun of the last two days. "good judgment," said Commissioner Krider. The question was brought up since only 12 months ago perhaps, building permits were granted to install outdoor and community type sanitary facilities in certain sections of the city. City Manager Knowles said that "I don't want to create a hardship on anyone and there are some of the cases with merit." Commissioner Higginbotham said, "I'm not talking about working a hardship. I am opposed to any future carrying-on of that kind. I want the City Manager accountable for the future adherence to the ordinances of the city." Higginbotham explained that his stand was for the future issuing of permits and had nothing to do with those already issued by the City Building Inspector. Concluding business of the commissioners authorized the advertising of bids for water meters to be used by the city.

State Income Totals Over Half Billion

Board Of Realtors To Be Represented By William Stemper

William H. Stemper, Sanford Real Estate Dealer, will be among the hundreds of members of the Florida Association of Realtors, representing their local boards at the 29th Annual convention of the State Association this week.

Stemper will represent the Seminole County Board of Realtors at the meeting being held the 13, 14 and 15 in Sarasota.

Judge Housholder Gets New Office In Court House

Because of the increased activities in the office of the Seminole County Judge, Ernest Housholder requested the Board of Commissioners to grant him additional space.

With extensive remodeling and repairing, as well as redecorating, the new office on the north side of the Court House Building is now occupied by the Judge, using the additional space as his private office and as a Judge's Chamber for the holding of Juvenile Court.

The original office on the south side of the building was continued to be used by the County Judge and his staff. Mrs. Letha Fowler, chief clerk, will manage the office where probate matters will be handled and various licenses issued.

The former office occupied by Judge Housholder will be refurbished and used as a filing and work room where the overload of the material and work will be funneled. Other than Mrs. Fowler in the office there will be the assistant clerk, Mrs. Sarah Hood. Judge Housholder said that he would, in the near future employ a secretary who will be located in the outer office to the Judge's Chamber.

The expansion, and use of another office, will allow the clerical division of the Judge's office to give better service, said Judge Housholder.

"It will also allow me," the Judge commented, "to give more and better attention to judicial matters and will allow the juvenile court to be taken away from the 'arrest' atmosphere."

The total income of the State of Florida, from all sources, totals more than a half billion dollars. In the 1955 fiscal year the total tax collections will come to $529,770,962 and in addition to this, Aids and Donations from the U. S. Government, Counties and Cities, Miscellaneous Revenue, Earnings on Investments and Deposits, Non-recurring Receipts bring the complete total to $558,558,552.

Nutrition Report Proven By Couple

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP)—A young San Angelo couple enjoyed a big juicy steak dinner last night in celebration of proving that two can live on $7.84 worth of food a week.

"Economizing was fun, but this steak is good too," said Robert Myre, airman stationed at Goodfellow Air Force Base here. His wife Mary said she preferred not to compare the steaks and the week's menus she drew up in accordance with a nutrition report which said the basic food requirements for a couple cost $8.56 a week.

The week's economizing ended Sunday night with Mary showing here a profit of 72 cents over the nutrition report.

Both Mary and Bob said they enjoyed the economy meals and felt they had plenty to eat. A physical checkup showed that Mary did not lose a pound during the week. She remained a trim 108. Robert dropped from 163 to 160 pounds—which he blamed in part on doing without his nightly half a glass of peanut butter.

Doctor Says No Reason For Concern

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's doctor, illness has touched off a wave of speculation over who would succeed him if he left the political scene in West Germany.

The 79-year-old leader is in bed indefinitely with a "slight" case of bronchial pneumonia. His doctor said yesterday "there is no reason for special concern" but that no one can say when the Chancellor "can resume his official duties."

Pressures at home and abroad in the West camp made the condition of the leader who put his nation in that camp a matter of acute concern.

The Chancellor has never publicly designated a political heir. Political observers agree there would be no smooth transition of authority in Bonn—such as happened when British Prime Minister Eden succeeded Sir Winston Churchill—unless Adenauer should resign and designate his own successor.

With his towering prestige, the iron-willed old man probably could pick his heir if he should step down voluntarily. There was little possibility of this unless his convalescence stretches out for months.

If Adenauer is suddenly removed from the helm, three names stand out in official speculation here as possible successors: Finance Minister Fritz Schaeffer, Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard and Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano.
