'Transient rentals'

Sanford reviews codes for multi-family dwellings

By NICK PFEPAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Efforts by a citizens' group encouraging strict regulation of transient rentals predominantly found in Sanford's historic district, have prompted the city's Planning and Zoning Commission to look at changes to city codes tonight.

According to citizens' group organizer Bob Cassala, problems with weekly rentals have been the subject of complaints for over a year.

"This is something that has been a long-term problem."

Proposed new requirements may include licensing, inspections, and resident management. The P&Z discussion tonight is the result of a city commission request for redefining the governing around, and do other things that we don't want." Cassala said he had pushed a request to have something done through several city officials. He was instrumental in organizing about 50 concerned residents, who have met to discuss the problem and who have submitted petitions to the city commission asking for action.

"Most of all, I was hoping they would come out and declare weekly rentals would not be allowed in the historic residential district, but they all told me nothing was needed, that they already had codes," he said.

"The problem is, what good is a code unless it's enforced," Cassala added.

Nothing listed in the proposals to be considered by P&Z at tonight's meeting indicates any intention of restricting the operation of the LAKE MARY — Lake Mary Mayor Randy Morris is questioning the legality of a city commission decision to waive site plans for the expansion of Lake Mary Elementary School. An outside legal opinion is to be presented on the matter during tonight's city commission meeting.

The mayor's concern was over the lack of giving due public notice. In a memo sent to City Manager John Litton on Nov. 6, Morris suggested, "The item was included in the city manager's report and was not advertised. This action would appear to require advertisement and notification to adjacent property owners."

Morris also questioned whether City Planner Matt West and his staff had received any documents that included renderings or site plan information about the location of

Second girl says youth minister molested her

By GEORGE DUNCAN
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A 20-year-old testified Wednesday that the youth minister on trial for molesting a 17-year-old Altamonte Springs teen also molested her.

The young woman claimed defendant George Wayne Clatt molested her when she was a member of a Holly Hills church. At that time Clatt was the church secretary at the Holly Hills church.

The woman told church officials about the alleged incident but said she was asked not to go to police with a complaint. The church held an "investigation" and did not believe her allegations.

However, during questioning, prosecutor Stewart Stone held that the Holly Hills pastor was a good friend of Clatt and did not want to see a protege damaged by the accusations.

Stone also put on the stand Dr. Barbara Mara, a clinical psychologist who specializes in treating victims of sexual abuse. Mara said when the 17-year-old Altamonte girl was brought to her office, she showed symptoms con-

Longwood's arts festival this weekend

By VICKI BOGEMAN
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — A Thanksgiving tradition in Longwood will take place this weekend.

On Saturday and Sunday, the 10th year the Longwood Arts and Crafts Festival will take to the streets of the city's historic district with more than 300 artists and craftsmen displaying and selling their wares.

The booths will be set up along Church and Warren streets as well as on Wilbur Avenue.

According to Nancy Frye, publicity chairman for the Central Florida Chapter for Historic Preservation, the Longwood Festival is so popular with the artists and craftsmen that there is a waiting list of more than 300 names of those waiting for the chance to exhibit at the festival.

"It is a very popular festival," she said. "It was one of the first festivals to open up to the crafters as well as the artists."

Church Street in the historic district was recently repaved with bricks as it had been done in the Victorian era.

Historic Christ Episcopal Church on Church Street, which recently received a facelift, will also be participating in the festival. Church members will be selling handmade crafts and other items in the parish hall.

The men's club will be cooking and selling barbecue chicken dinners and hot dogs while the church's altar guild will be selling breads and breakfast foods.

Postmaster Rader retires, will become private eye

SANFORD — Not rain, nor sleet, nor dark of night shall keep a letter carrier from his appointed rounds, but a good incentive program can encourage him to go into retirement.

After 39 years with the United States Postal Service, Fred Rader will retire on Friday.

Rader, postmaster of the Sanford Post Office for the last five and a half years said that the incentive program that the government offered him was too good to pass up though he said he is not ready for a rocking chair.

Rader, 58, said that after a short period of rest and relaxation he plans to get his private investigator's license and go into business in Sanford.

The DeLand native, started his postal carrier as a letter carrier/clerk in his home town after spending three years in the Marine Corps.

"In those days the letter carriers worked as clerks in the post office as well," Rader said. "It was hard

Salvation Army begins kettle drive

SANFORD — Only Santa Claus himself is more of a fixture at Christmas season than the Salvation Army kettles located at various stores and shopping malls around the county.

This year the Red Kettle Kickoff will be Friday at 10 a.m. in front of the Sanford Wal-Mart. The Wal-Mart manager will put the first dollar in the first kettle.

The Seminole High School chorus will be singing Christmas carols during the kickoff.

"The kettles will be all over Seminole County, at the mall, Publix stores, Wal-Mart's, Kmarts and the Sanford Post Office," according to Capt. Joy Bergen of the Salvation Army. "The drive will not end until New Year's Eve this year. We hope to get some of the after Christmas shoppers."

The money collected is used for the organization's Christmas assistance program that provides food, clothes and toys for needy families. Distribution days are Dec. 22 and 23.

"Every family gets a Christmas ham and food bag, two brand new toys for each child 12 and under. We provide toys, clothing and food," she said.

"Angel trees" will be at Kmarts and other locations in Seminole County bearing the names of children who need clothing. Interested citizens can pick a name off a tree, purchase an outfit and return it to the Salvation Army. The "Angel Tree" lists will provide the

Topless clubs embarrassing Officials want to move city limit sign north of clubs

By Associated Press

CASSELBERRY — City officials are embarrassed over the image projected by a sign that stands right in front of two topless clubs on U.S. Highway 17-92.

"Casselberry City Limit" reads the sign that motorists take in at the same time they see the garish lights of Circus Circus A Go-Go and the House of Babes.

Motorists see the sign and get the wrong idea, says Mayor Joe Hillebrandt.

"We get calls all the time from people who think we have control over those two places (in the unincorporated area), and we have no control at all," Hillebrandt said. "We need to shape where we are in people's minds."

The mayor and City Manager Jack Schuckebier want to remedy the situation by asking Seminole County to take back part of the highway.

While several blocks of the federal highway are annexed to the city, the property on both sides of the road are in unincorporated Seminole County. The reasons are obscure.

By de-annexing about one-third of a mile of the highway, Casselberry could move its city limits sign north — away from the signs that proclaim "girls, girls, girls" and "topless sho-bar."

"Why are we getting credit for Babes & Us and all these other places?" Schuckebier said Tuesday. "It's sort of a black eye for no good reason."

Not that Casselberry is pure. It is home to three other adult clubs nearby. Rachel's, the neon pink Cabaret Internationale and Club Juana would remain within city limits.

Since neither Circus Circus nor House of Babes pays property taxes to the city, de-annexing the road poses no financial loss, Schuckebier said he would bring the issue before the county commission next month.

The owners of the House of Babes and Circus Circus declined comment.

The city's plan pleased resident Joanne Haver, who said she is tired of explaining to her children that Circus Circus is not a place they can visit.

Teen-agers convicted for mutilating cats

TAMPA — Two teen-agers were convicted of animal cruelty charges Wednesday for mutilating cats.

A Hillsborough Circuit Court jury deliberated less than an hour before finding John Wayne Dorminy, 18, and girlfriend Alisha Campbell, 17, guilty.

Circuit Judge M. William Graybill set sentencing for Dec. 14. Although guidelines for animal cruelty call for probation or community control, prosecutors said they would seek some jail time.

The pair were charged in the mutilation, torture and death of three cats in northwest Hillsborough County last winter.

Prosecutors said the two were part of a group that gouged out the animals' eyes, tied them up and then slung or dragged them against objects.

Woman sentenced for fondling girls

WEST PALM BEACH — A woman who dressed as a teen-age boy, successfully fooling two 14-year-old girls, has been sentenced to five years in prison for fondling them.

Toni Lynn Pickering, 28, of West Palm Beach admitted she posed as a 17-year-old boy named Michael "Mickey" Vaughn.

"She talks to their parents — just as a tutor would — and she proceeds to try to date these girls and then commits lewd assaults on them," Assistant State Attorney Maurea McGuigan said Tuesday.

Investigators say Ms. Pickering, convicted of a similar crime in 1980, met the girls this summer — one at a mall and the other through a mutual friend. She was on probation when she was arrested Sept. 10.

Both girls are receiving psychological counseling, officials said.

Ms. Pickering pleaded guilty to one count of lewd assault and one count of attempted lewd assault.

If Ms. Pickering had gone to trial on the charges, she could have been sentenced to a maximum of seven years in prison under recommended state sentencing guidelines, Ms. McGuigan said.

A second count of lewd assault was dropped in the plea agreement.

"We had strong witnesses, but the problem was that it was very embarrassing to them," she said.

Hurricane museum being explored

MIAMI — Members of the We Will Rebuild committee are exploring the idea of a hurricane museum to lure tourists to south Dade County, and satisfy gawkers already flocking to the site.

"We're trying to think what's going to attract tourists in the area," said Sandra Lynn, a Homestead lawyer who is a member of the Innovation Committee of We Will Rebuild — the group of community activists intent on improving South Dade's future.

The museum could include an entire house ruined by the hurricane — "preserved so that people could walk through it," Lynn said — newspaper accounts, photographs, films and a wind tunnel.

She briefly reported on the idea Tuesday before the directors of We Will Rebuild. Afterward, she said if a museum was approved by other the group or a South Dade municipality, the attraction is at least a year from being built.

Feds report 8 for drug bust on ship

TAMPA — Federal authorities have arrested five people and seized 77 pounds of cocaine in a two-week investigation that began in the Caribbean.

A 30-foot motorboat carrying a 30-pound shipment of the Port of Tampa led to those who were to take delivery of the cocaine and the seizure of 13 more pounds of the drug, officials said Wednesday.

Arrested on charges of importation of cocaine were Luis Javier Martinez-Carolina, 45, of Medellin, Colombia; Maria Benitez-Carolina, 26, of Miami Beach; Benjamin Lopez, 34, of Jacksonville, N.Y.; and Arturo M. Perra, 28, and Wilmar Alberto Reyes, 28, both of Tampa.

Authorities estimated the street value of the seized cocaine at $2.5 million. In addition to the cocaine, authorities seized nearly $23,000 in cash and a car.

Death follows drug chase

CINCO RAYOU — A suspected drug user was killed when he crashed a high-powered sports car into a bank building at more than 80 mph while being chased by police, authorities said.

Andrew Leo Wood, 31, was declared dead Tuesday night after being taken to Humana Hospital in nearby Port Walton Beach.

Wood, who recently moved to Port Walton Beach from Crossview, died in the car as an Oklawaha County sheriff's deputy approached the vehicle on foot while it was parked at a gasoline station, sheriff's spokesman Rick Ford said Wednesday. He said Wood narrowly missed hitting Deputy Mike Phillips.

Doctor-owned clinics cause costs to rise

By DANIEL G. HANEY
AP Science Writer

BOSTON — Studies in Florida and California show doctors are more likely to prescribe unnecessary treatment if they own clinics where the work is done, and challenge the idea that such clinics serve deprived communities.

The studies are the latest to demonstrate how the amount of money doctors make can influence the care they give.

In recent years, doctors have begun to own many of the health care businesses where they send their patients.

The reports suggest that when doctors invest in X-ray labs and free-standing treatment centers, they use them more. This means patients are apt to get unnecessary tests, treatments and medical bills.

Doctors' investments in medical facilities where they don't work are known as joint ventures. Sending their own patients to these places is called self-referral.

"None of this new evidence is particularly surprising, but taken together with the results of earlier studies ... it convincingly demonstrates that self-referral adds to the cost of medical care," wrote Dr. Arnold Reisman of Harvard Medical School.

Reisman commented in an editorial of the New England Journal of Medicine, which published the two studies in Thursday's issue. Until his recent retirement as editor of the journal, Reisman was one of the nation's most outspoken critics of conflict of interest in medicine.

In one of the two studies, Dr. Alex Swedlow and colleagues from William Mercer Inc. in San Francisco analyzed 6,581 California workers' compensation cases.

Among the findings:

— Doctors who invested in physical therapy centers were twice as likely as those who did not to order patients to receive physical therapy.

— Patients who complain of work-related stress are routinely given psychological tests. But patients of doctors who invest in centers giving the tests run up average bills of $3,232, compared with $2,550 for those of doctors who do not.

— Thirty-eight percent of MRI scans ordered by doctors who invest in the imaging centers where they were performed were judged to be unnecessary, compared with 28 percent of those ordered by other doctors.

Hepatitis outbreak

Students and staff given shots at elementary school

MILTON (AP) — Students and staff at a school in this Florida Panhandle city began receiving inoculations Wednesday because of an outbreak of hepatitis A.

Public health authorities recommended the shots after confirming a sixth case of the disease at Rhodes Elementary School.

"We're trying to kick this plan into action real soon," said Santa Rosa County School Superintendent Bennett C. Russell.

The school district and county will share the estimated $2,000 cost. The inoculations were expected to take two days to complete.

About 900 children already had received the gamma globulin shots on their own since the outbreak began last month.

leaving another 700 students and about 180 adults unprotected, Russell said.

The shots are not mandatory but strongly recommended, said Dr. S.W. Sutton, the county's health director.

Officials were unsure how the outbreak began but blamed it on poor hygiene. The disease is spread through direct hand-to-mouth contact. Hepatitis A can cause liver damage but its flu-like symptoms rarely are life-threatening and disappear in a few days.

Sutton said.

He said a seventh youngster who attends another school but is related to one of the Rhodes victims also may have the disease.

Drug bust money should benefit law enforcement

It's an ill wind that blows no good goes the old saying, and the ill wind of ill-begotten drug gains has apparently blown a little financial good for local cities.

Forfeitures in a federal drug investigation yielded approximately $260,000 to a number of local law enforcement agencies. A Longwood agent initiated the investigation that eventually yielded the arrests of several defendants. The arrests resulted in the forfeiture of houses and property valued in excess of $1.6 million.

As agencies participating in the investigation, the Longwood and Sanford police departments and the Seminole County Sheriff's Department will gain some of the financial benefits. The sheriff's department will receive approximately $70,000 with about $23,000 going both to Longwood and Sanford.

The case shows how local agencies are benefitting from one of the better laws on the books. Federal law allows houses and items bought from drug gains to be forfeited, then sold on the open market. Obviously, nothing purchased by way of illegal activities should ever be safe and secure for the buyer. There is some ironic justice in that the money used from the sale of such houses and items is allocated to the law enforcement agencies that helped reveal the illegal activities of their owners.

The initial seizure occurred in 1985, while the checks were not received until late 1992. That probably reflects both the slowness of bureaucracy and the bad real estate market recently. However, it also proves that although some investigations may be factually correct, they are worthless if the money is not received.

Gays in military

According to news reports, President-Elect Clinton will end the ban on gays in the military as early as his first day in office. It's the right thing to do.

Keeping the ban does not keep gays out. They are already there, by the tens of thousands, doing a professional job just like anyone else. Eliminating the ban would let them live their lives free of the fear of being found out and dishonorably discharged.

A June report from the government's General Accounting Office called the ban too costly and said "experts believe the policy is unsupported, unfair and counterproductive; has no validity according to current scientific research and opinion; and appears to be based on the same type of prejudice used to discriminate against blacks and women."

Some argue that we have to keep gays out of the military, and let private employers have the right to fire gays, since some people are prejudiced against them and it could cause work problems. I think that's unfair. Instead of making gays suffer for other people's prejudice, let's try to change the prejudice. And if there continues to be a problem, fire the bigot, not the victim.

Every time gays ask to be treated fairly, someone claims they want "special privileges." Nobody is seeking special rights, only a guarantee of equal rights. Anti-gay discrimination is a reality, penalizing men and women for who they are even though they do not infringe on the freedoms or liberties of others. Gay rights legislation does not exempt gays from laws and obligations that govern other Americans.

Three cheers for (non-alcoholic) beer

It occurs to me that my fellow Republicans could use a little good news after the cold shower represented by Election Day, and it's not beyond imagining that even a few Democrats will rejoice at my tidings.

Early this year my doctor advised me that the time had come to give up alcohol. I have never drunk to what I consider excess, but I have enjoyed wine or beer with my meals almost daily for many years. A bout of hepatitis A almost 20 years ago had weakened my liver, though, and in recent years even a glass of wine has had a nasty tendency to elevate my triglyceride count. (Triglycerides are a sort of kinsman cousin to cholesterol.) So I had seen the ban coming from afar.

Luckily I don't have an alcoholic bone in my body, so quitting was easy. I missed the simple pleasure of a glass of good wine with my food, but not unendurably and not for long. One immediate bonus was that I lost a few pounds.

Being a constructive-minded soul, however, I began looking around for a substitute. I found that there is at least one brand of non-alcoholic wine made (in California), and I quickly zipped through its varietals: cabernet, pinot noir, chardonnay, etc. Unfortunately, they all tasted pretty much like mouthwash to me.

Then some Good Samaritan suggested that I try a non-alcoholic beer. I didn't even know there was such a thing but I have learned, my friends,

I have learned. Not only is there such a thing but -- perhaps because most beers average only around 5 percent alcohol (compared to wine's 11 or 12 percent) -- removing this doesn't denature what remains. In short, the great news is that there are many brands of non-alcoholic beer available, and that several of them are eminently drinkable. I only wish I'd learned about them sooner.

Of course, I won't contend that any beer, alcoholic or otherwise, can complement a French or Italian meal as superbly as wine. Beer has always been my choice, though, with German or Chinese food, and holds its own nicely with most strictly American dishes as well. As for French and Italian fare -- well, beggars can't be choosers. Beer is far better than cola.

It turns out that practically every major brewer in the United States and Europe makes a non-alcoholic beer, and most good restaurants, bars and stores offer at least one brand. Oddly, they are almost never advertised or aggressively promoted, though they cost about the same as regular beer. These days, however, when the tide is running heavily in favor of "light" wines and beers, and even bottled water, a non-alcoholic beer is the perfect solution for designated drivers or anybody else who for whatever reason, doesn't want to drink. (Caution: I don't know whether it would work for alcoholics. The labels say, "Contains less than one-half of one percent alcohol by volume." Consult your physician.) In addition to its other merits, non-alcoholic beer usually has only about 70 calories per 12-ounce bottle.

So nowadays, I can often be found with my beak buried gratefully in a foamy glass of non-alcoholic beer.

It occurs to me that my fellow Republicans could use a little good news.

JOSEPH SPEAR

Finally, we can bid George Bush adieu

Somewhere it is written that the politically defeated should be allowed to depart quietly, dignity intact, applauded if not praised for their dutiful service and bravery in battle. Well, I am going to break that rule. I was thrilled to see George Bush and company get clobbered in the polls, and I intend to cheer their parting until my throat is raw. I have a half dozen major and minor reasons for feeling this way:

1. In a profession where a gallon of principle is considered a full tank, George Bush runs on empty. He is, in the words of New York Times columnist Anthony Lewis, "a man without a core." He once beallobbered Ferdinand Marcos with fulsome praise of the dictator's "adherence to democratic principles." He truckled to Chinese tyrants who murdered pro-democracy demonstrators and sent emissaries to lick their boots. He posed for photographs with Syria's Hafez Assad, identified by the State Department as a successor of terrorists. He had so little respect for the Constitution that he proposed six changes in it.

What does George Bush really believe in? Country, family, religion? Yes, but with such scant respect that he would often exploit them for political advantage. He pondered to the right wing. He pondered to fundamentalists. He rallied against Ronald Reagan's "voodoo economics" until he wanted to join the Reagan team, whereupon he was suddenly "for Mr. Reagan -- blindly."

That brings us to the real answer: The one thing George Bush utterly and wholly believes in is winning elections. He said he would do whatever it took to win, and he tried it all.

2. In his Machiavellian efforts to prevail, Bush revealed his essentially elitist, cynical self. In 1988, he won by defiling his opponent's character, and he attempted the same in 1992. Indeed, wrote columnist Michael Kinsley, "this Democratic victory is sweet revenge on George Bush for the loathsome, dishonest and empty campaign that won him the White House."

I will go even further: The Bush campaign was sick. Challenging Bill Clinton's patriotism was disgusting. Trying to paint him as godless was putrid. Suggesting he was some sort of communist sympathizer was repulsive. Probing his mother's passport files was odious. Deprecating Clinton and his running mate Al Gore as "bozos" was beneath contempt.

3. Bush and his buddies cheapened the currency of politics. What is the meaning, now, of such words as hypocrisy and deceit and equivocation and expediency? Who will ever merit the epithet "arrogant jerk" now that John Sununu has defined the term? What ledgers can be labeled "cooked books" after Richard Darman's masterpieces have set the standard? What is the meaning of "flip-flop" now that we've seen old Read-My-Lips in action?

4. At bottom, George Bush is a fraud. He was born to wealth but pretended to be a commoner. The pork rinds, the truck driving, the country music, the pathetic attempts at down-home patois -- all point to his phoniness. His evasion of state taxes by claiming intent to reside eventually in tax-free Texas on a lot the size of a tennis court suggest he is an arrant liar.

5. Bush brazenly billed the taxpayers for a good portion of his campaign by flying everywhere in the presidential jet, using the public's communications equipment and reimbursing the Treasury a fraction of the real cost. He broke precedent by keeping his political spokesman, Martin Fitzwater, on the public payroll, as well as his chief campaign guru, James Baker.

I was thrilled to see George Bush and company get clobbered in the polls.

MARTIN SCHRAM

We've had a Dickens of a time

"It was the best of times, it was the worst of times..."

It was the presidential campaign of 1992, perhaps our most remarkable, certainly our most bizarre -- a campaign that began with Democratic and Republican candidates giving us politics as usual, and ended with the voters giving candidates of both parties the Dickens. Valuable lessons for 1998 lie back there waiting to be learned.

"...it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness..."

Never have so many politicians produced so many detailed blueprints for solving our problems (remember the remarkable rise of Paul Tsongas, who ran as the consummate draftsman of policy, providing all the specificity and charisma the title implies). But never have so many media elites wallowed in so much slime, as they let sleazy supermarket tabloids set their agendas (remember Gonner de la Radio Shack, the recording artist who cashed in on her tales of dalliance). Lesson: As we all told the pollsters -- we want the media to focus on solutions to our problems, not private lives of public figures.

"...it was the epoch of belief, it was the epoch of incredulity..."

Never have so many become true believers so fast, as when Citizen Perot told CNN's Larry King that maybe he'd run -- and suddenly Ross Perot was soaring in all polls. But, never have so many true believers become so quickly disillusioned, as when Perot suddenly quit -- never mind all the people who had quit their jobs to join his petitioning crusade. Then he didn't quit being called The Quitter, so he came back, with just one leg, a man named Bertie. The master non de plume, Charles Dickens, couldn't have written it better. Lesson: Democrats and Republicans beware! We are fed up with unresponsive politics as usual, and we're not afraid to toss out all the old labels to search for a real leader.

"...it was the season of Light, it was the season of Darkness..."

Never in the history of TV campaigning have we seen so much of the candidates -- on talk shows every morning noon and night; and never was the medium used so nobly as in Perot's just-the-facts flip-chart half-hour ads. But never have the rest of the wizards of TV politics seemed so inept -- the Bush and Clinton strategists gave us no memorable TV messages, just a few negative ads. Lesson: Substance sells; it was Perot's only political machine and it turned out a sizable vote.

"...it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair..."

Never did a president lead more skillfully than Bush did in marshaling the global coalition that won the Gulf War -- it seemed the dawn of a new national pride, the end of our Vietnam legacy of despair. But never has a president been more unwilling to lead at home; Bush never even tried to marshal his huge support behind domestic efforts. For years, he denied our recession and ignored our health-care crisis. Lesson: Flag-waving won't work for a president who seems unmoved by tales of joblessness until his pollster tells him his own job is in jeopardy.

"...we had every thing before us, we had nothing before us, we were all going to Heaven, we were all going direct the other way..."

It wasn't just the recession that did in Bush -- he made himself seem downright un-presidential. He was undone by the words that came out of his own mouth. In our living rooms each night, he no longer resembled the man who once promised "kinder and gentler" governance (not to mention "no new taxes"). We saw instead, a man who seemed desperate, mean-spirited and unguided (see: Beware of The Youth Who Went to Moscow!) and we heard whining, childish name-calling (see: "Bozo" and "The Ozone Man").

Now, as he nears the beginning of his ex-presidency, Bush is said by friends to have realized, too late, that he could have won. His friends told reporters of his view while he was vacationing at a tiny Florida resort named Boca Grande. Lesson: As Dickens might have politely advised, presidents who utter un-presidential campaign oratory shouldn't vacation at a place that is Spanish for "Big Mouth."

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times...

Students give 'Malcolm X' thumbs up

By LARRY MCHANE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — Forget Spike. Ignore Ebert. The critics in Malcolm X's Harlem neighborhood — students who answered Spike Lee's call to see his new movie instead of go to school — gave the new film biography 300 thumbs up.

"I had mixed emotions between tears and anger. I was caught in between the two," said Coltrane Curtis, 16, of Montclair,

N.J., who wore a black "X" visor Wednesday. "This showed the human side of Malcolm."

"I think he was seen as an object, not as a person. This showed him as an average family man, the things he went through with his family."

Curtis was one of about 300 students from Manhattan and Montclair, N.J., who filled the Victoria 5 movie theater in Harlem to see Spike's latest — with permission — instead of heading to class. The movie opened Wednesday at 1,200 theaters nationwide.

Lee had encouraged students to see the film as a school assignment, citing his own forced visit to "Gone With the Wind."

The 125th Street theater was happy to oblige with a special morning screening. A night earlier, the cast and crew of "Malcolm X" watched the movie in the same theater.

Several New York City schools, including Lee's alma mater,

Junior High School 113 in Brooklyn, sent groups of students to the movie on opening day. Non-student crowds were heavy in Manhattan, with several theaters reporting first-night sellouts.

The movie follows Malcolm from his days as a street hustler through his association with the Nation of Islam and his 1965 murder in Harlem's Audubon Ballroom.

Rentals

facilities in the historic district.

City Planner Jay Marder said. "This won't restrict the weekly rentals, but these proposals are designed to give strict regulations, so the city can be certain they are operated properly."

"They will also have to prove to the city whether they will be required to have a hotel/restaurant license or not," he added.

In a presentation for tonight's meeting, Marder said, "These additional requirements are intended to provide a city-wide solution to the property management of these land uses, while recognizing that a majority of problematic uses presently occur in the residential historic district."

Under the plans to be considered tonight, the term "boarding house," already used in the city codes, is to be renamed "group houses." These include lodging houses, rooming houses, dormitories, sorority houses, and bed and breakfast establishments.

Casals said he was bothered that nothing in the proposals at present include the use of the term "weekly rentals," nor were they specifically identified.

Marder is suggesting an additional section to the guidelines which spells out specific requirements for each type of facility.

Group housing would require an on-site resident manager. For a bed and breakfast establishment, the manager would also be required to be the owner. Sanford has two bed and breakfast establishments at this time, and in approving the uses, the city had already made that stipulation.

Group housing would also require an occupational license from the city, and be licensed by the Division of Hotels and Restaurants of the state's Department of Business Regulation.

Yearly inspections would also be required to insure adherence with the standard housing code and fire safety code.

Buildings considered two-family dwellings or multiple family dwellings, rather than group houses, will be required to adhere to similar codes, with a few exceptions.

"These are the first suggestions to be discussed by P&Z," Marder said. "It's the starting point, and there is still much work to be done before it would be brought up for a vote by P&Z and forwarded to the city commission."

The P&Z meeting is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. tonight, in the commission chambers of the Sanford City Hall, 300 N. Park Ave.

Rader

work, but I enjoyed working in the post office."

He said that he worked his way up to a supervisory position and then entered the Postal Inspection Service, which he describes as the "law enforcement branch" of the post office.

From 1970 to 1971 he worked in the "high postal crime area" of Chicago. He was then transferred to Tampa where he spent 10 years as a postal inspector.

His daughter, Pam, still lives in Brandon, which is just east of Tampa.

From Tampa, he worked on cases in Florida, Georgia, the Carolinas, and, occasionally, Tennessee.

"That was a very interesting job," Rader said. "It was always different."

The strangest case he ever worked, he said, was the one where he arrested a ring of eight transvestites in Sarasota who were involved in cashing stolen checks.

"It took six months to solve the case," he said. "We were looking for women and it turned out they were men."

In 1981, he was told that he would be transferred to Boston, another "high crime area" for postal inspectors and he decided that he did not want to go.

He heard about an opening for a postmaster's job in El Dorado, Ark., and submitted his resume for the position, which he got.

Rader said he "really loved" Arkansas and hopes to spend at least some of the year there after he retires.

"Sharon (his wife) and I really loved it out there," he said. "It's a beautiful country out there, but Sanford is and will be home."

In addition to their daughter, the Raders also have a son, David, who lives in Orange City.

They have five grandchildren as well.

And, while he says that being a grandfather could be a full time job, he would like to go back to work some time next year.

"And I'd like to play some golf and do some fishing," he added.

Meanwhile, a replacement has not yet been named for the postmaster at the Sanford post office.

Rader said that the Post Office had given him an Oct. 30 deadline to make a decision on early retirement and he had let that date pass. He was then given an additional two weeks to make his decision and he took until the last minute to make it.

"So, I just decided last week that I was going," he said.

the new buildings.

Morris said he is also not sure if the commission had been made aware that this item in a previous version was before the Lake Mary Planning and Zoning Board, approximately two years ago, and was tabled indefinitely.

An additional question arose regarding what right the city would have to regulate portable classrooms located on the school property, which is owned by the school board.

Although Morris suggested a legal opinion be made available, City Attorney Ned Julian responded that he could not give the opinion, as he also serves as attorney for the Seminole County School Board, which is requesting the school expansion waivers.

Litton arranged for an outside attorney to examine the problems, and contracted with Forrest Fields of Gray, Harris and Robinson, Inc.

As of late yesterday, the city staff and members of the commission had not yet received the opinion from Florida.

According to the original proposal from the school board, plans for Lake Mary Elementary School included modifications to existing facilities, but no enlargement of the actual school property.

The request called for "renovation of existing classrooms to provide art and music suites and also the construction of a classroom unit for exceptional student education."

During a previous commission meeting, school representative Diane Kramer had explained that the changes at the school would lead to the eventual need to reduce the capacity of the school by possibly 100 or more students.

The legal clarification of the issues concerning the school addition request will be presented tonight during the City Manager's report, at the regular meeting of the Lake Mary City Commission, beginning at 7 p.m. at Lake Mary City Hall, 100 W. Lake Mary Blvd.

Gators shoot down AIA

GAINESVILLE — Martti Kuisma scored 21 points and added 12 rebounds as the University of Florida beat the Athletics in Action 86-67 Wednesday night in an exhibition game.

Kuisma, a 6-foot-11 junior forward who scored 81 points in all of 1991-92, was eight of 10 from the field, including five of five on three-pointers.

Also scoring in double figures for Florida were forward Hosie Grimsley with 14 points and center Andrew DeClercq had 12 points and nine rebounds.

Guard Rod Foster led the Athletics with 20 points, 12 on three-pointers, and forward Michael Porter added 14.

Seminole prepare for Gators

TALLAHASSEE — Florida State doesn't play this weekend, and it's a good thing for several players who got banged up Wednesday in preparation for their Nov. 28 battle against archrival Florida.

Fullback William Floyd, defensive lineman Toddrick McIntosh and receiver Kez McCorvey were injured in Tuesday practice. Floyd was forced to leave with a sprained neck, while McIntosh and McCorvey both were limping with slightly strained hamstrings.

Linebacker Ken Alexander (sprained ankle) and Sterling Palmer (shoulder sprain), receiver Matt Frier (shoulder) and tailback Sean Jackson (knee) are being held out of contact drills.

UF's Davis to have surgery

GAINESVILLE — Florida defensive end Cameron Davis will undergo reconstructive surgery on his right shoulder Thursday and will miss spring drills, coach Steve Spurrier said Wednesday.

Davis, a true freshman from Fort Lauderdale, played extensively in the Gators' opener against Kentucky but was redshirted after dislocating his shoulder before the second game.

Meanwhile, injury-plagued wide receiver Tre Everett (15 catches, one touchdown), won't start Saturday at Vanderbilt because of a sprained ankle but will see some playing time.

Hersey Hawkins finished with a season-high 32 points for Philadelphia.

Dennis Scott added 18 points for the Magic, while Armon Gilliam had 27 points and Jeff Hornacek 24 for Philadelphia.

NEW YORK — Barry Bonds' value as a free agent went up a little after he was named the NL Most Valuable Player for the second time in three years.

Bonds was an easy winner over Atlanta's Terry Pendleton, receiving 18 of a possible 24 first-place votes in balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America. Bonds finished with 304 points, followed by Pendleton with 232 points, including four first-place votes. San Diego's Gary Sheffield was third with two first-place votes and 204 points.

Youth's 'friends' feted

Seminole, Lake Mary to play in Optimist Bowl

By TONY DeBORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — What better way is there to honor a group of individuals whose main focus is to support the activities of the youth of the community than with a game involving many of those same young people?

That was the idea of Seminole High School football coach Emory Blake when he came up with the idea of taking the annual season-ending clash between the Fighting Seminoles and the Lake Mary Rams and dubbing it the Optimist Bowl.

"I was just trying to add a little more spice to the game and involve the community a little more," explained Blake. "Even at the college level, they have little rivalry bowl games, playing for some trophy or another. It just gives the game a little more attention and gets the community involved."

Blake explained that it was almost imperative to him that the game be played in honor of the Optimists.

"The Optimists have always shown a huge interest in the youth of our community," Blake said. "The Optimist Bowl can be a symbol of the work they've done and what it means to the kids and the community."

"They (the Sanford and Lake Mary Optimist clubs) have done so much for the youth of our community. This game will be played to honor them."

Blake's idea was enthusiastically embraced by both clubs immediately.

"There's been a little traveling trophy that goes to the winning club for the year," explained Sanford Optimist Club president Bill Shepard. "This year, we'll be presenting a school trophy as well right after the game to the coach of the winning team."

"The traveling trophy was a friendly gesture between the two clubs. We have to give Coach Blake the credit for this (formally designating the annual Seminole-Lake Mary game as the Optimist Bowl). He's the one who really came up with it."

According to Optimist Bowl chairman Dale Coppock, husband of Lake Mary Optimist Club president Pat Coppock and a member of both the Lake Mary and Sanford clubs, the Optimists will be taking an active role in the game.

"We've purchased a beautiful trophy worth about $300," explained Coppock. "We'll put the score on the base of the trophy each year and pass it back and forth between the two schools."

"At the game Friday night, the Sanford Club members will have their vests on. They'll help take tickets and be signing up new members. Next year, when the game is played at Lake Mary High School, the Lake Mary club will do the same thing."

Also, Bill Shepard and Pat Coppock will be at midfield, representing their respective clubs, for the game's coin toss.

Dale Coppock explained that an annual game bearing the Optimist name is a perfect way to wrap up the clubs' independent and joint activities over the course of the year.

"The Optimist Club slogan is 'Friends of Youth,'" said Coppock. "Everything we do has to do with kids. We sponsor the annual Seminole High School track meet, the Seminole County band festival, essay and oratorical contests and other activities."

The Sanford Club also honors the outstanding offensive and defensive Seminole High School football players of the week while both clubs sponsor teams in the Sanford Recreation Department's youth leagues.

The first Optimist Bowl will be played this Friday night, starting at 7:30 p.m., at Seminole High School's Thomas E. Whitgham Stadium.

LH Hawks, SC Hawks advance in Invitational

By TONY DeBORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — So far, it's been an education.

The Lady Seminoles Invitational Basketball Tournament, being played this week at Seminole High School's Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium, has afforded participants and spectators alike an in-depth look at the teams involved, highlighting possible strengths and betraying potential weaknesses.

For example, the Lake Brantley Patriots, who were seemingly in control of their game with the Spruce Creek Hawks Tuesday night, saw a nine-point lead evaporate in six minutes in a 58-50 overtime loss.

In other games Tuesday, Lake Howell topped Lake Mary 64-54 and Mainland eliminated New Smyrna Beach 45-37.

As Coach Karen Szweczyk pointed out later, the Patriots' late swoon coincided with center Lysa Moorefield fouling out 13 seconds into the fourth quarter. When Moorefield picked up her fifth foul, Lake Brantley led by eight, 40-32.

But the Hawks, taking advantage of Moorefield's absence from the middle of the Patriot defense, out-scored Lake Brantley 26-10 over the game's final 10 minutes (including the three-minute overtime period).

"We rely on her (Moorefield) a lot," admitted Szweczyk. "When they called her for her fifth foul 13 seconds into the fourth quarter, we were in trouble."

"But it's more than just that. The other girls' shots just weren't falling. We made eight of 23 shots in the first half. You can't win any games with that kind of a shooting percentage."

When the Patriots went cold, they all went cold. Kelli Gardner converted a field goal attempt with 7:00 to go in the game, giving Lake Brantley a 42-34 advantage. Over the final seven minutes of regulation, Spruce Creek held the Patriots without a field goal during a 12-4 run that would send the game to overtime.

All four of Lake Brantley's points during the Spruce Creek charge came from the free throw line.

Even though she fouled out just 13 seconds into the fourth quarter, Lysa Moorefield (No. 31) still led Lake Brantley with 10 points and 11 rebounds in the Patriots' 58-50 loss in overtime to Spruce Creek Tuesday night.

In the three-minute overtime period, field goals by Shit Campbell and Leighann Penney gave Lake Brantley momentary leads of 48-46 and 50-48. But the Hawks, led by Zeldia Morgan (18 points, 11 rebounds, four assists) closed out the game with a 10-0 run.

Moorefield led Lake Brantley with 10 points and nine rebounds.

In the Lake Howell/Lake Mary game, the Lake Howell Silver Hawks got away to a fast start, leading 17-7 after one quarter and never looking back. Lake Howell was aided considerably by the 23 fouls called against the Lake Mary Rams that resulted in 23 free throw attempts for the Silver Hawks.

By comparison, Lake Howell was whistled for 21 fouls, but Lake Mary attempted just 13 free throws, four less than the number the Silver Hawks converted.

Lake Howell was paced by Kelly Kohn's 22-point effort, which included making nine off 11 free throws by herself. Christina James contributed 14 points while Ann-Marie Gonzalez chipped in with 10.

For Lake Mary, Lori Raguel netted 14 points while Diane Duber netted 11.

Action resumes in the tournament this afternoon at 4:30 p.m. with a losers' bracket game between Lake Brantley and Lake Mary. Tavares and Spruce Creek will meet in one semifinal contest at 6 p.m. with host Seminole and Lake Howell tangling in the other at 7:30 p.m.

After taking Friday off, the tournament will wrap up with three games on Saturday.

Champions once again take title

By The Associated Press

SANFORD — As it turns out, the Sanford Recreation Department Wednesday Men's Slowpitch Softball League also had a perfect season.

Last night at Chase Park, Heilig Meyers employed a seven-run second inning in its 11-5 victory over DeLand Nissan in a game that had originally been scheduled to be played on Sept. 23.

At the time, the game was reported as a forfeit, the only one in the league's 30-game schedule, but the forfeit was appealed and overturned. Because Heilig Meyers (7-2) already had two losses, that let Touchdown Pub (7-3) back in the hunt for the league title.

Heilig Meyers quickly dispelled that notion, breaking a 2-2 tie with a seven-run outburst in the bottom of the second inning.

The lead reached 10-2 when Heilig Meyers pushed a run across in the bottom of the fifth. DeLand Nissan made things interesting by striking for three runs in the top of the sixth.

Levi Raines led Heilig Meyers' 12-hit attack with a double, two singles, two runs and three RBI. Keith Aeree added three singles, two runs and an RBI. Joe Lipscomb singled once and scored twice. Robert Stevens had a double, run and two RBI while Greg Hardy had a double, run and one RBI.

Sam Raines tripled and scored a run. Robert Dagle hit a single and scored a run. Donnie McCoy contributed a single and two RBI. Wayne Walker scored a run.

Gary Stephan highlighted DeLand Nissan's nine-hit effort with a triple, single, run and an RBI. Chris Wargo singled twice and scored a run. Doug Weis and Dave Goldstick each doubled and scored a run. Weis also had an RBI. Shawn Cassista singled and scored a run. Brian Curtis had two RBI. Mike Brannon and David Jones each hit a single.

Marlins hope draft is foundation of future success

By STEVEN WINE
AP Sports Writer

MIAMI — Center fielder Chuck Carr leads off. Second baseman Bret Barberie bats second. Right fielder Junior Felix hits third. First baseman Jeff Conine is the cleanup man.

The lineup acquired by the Florida Marlins in the expansion draft looks more like Jaywalker's Row than Murderer's Row. It's hard to envision these players hurting anyone with a baseball bat. The New York team they resemble is the not the '27 Yankees, but the '62 Mets.

As for pitching, the prospective rotation of Jack Armstrong, Pat Rapp, Dave Weathers and Scott Chiamparino might reach .500 with help from Ruth and Gehrig. Without it, the fearful foursome's combined major-league record is 34-51.

The Marlins came out of the draft with a projected payroll of just $7 million, half of what they plan to spend, so there will be money available to pursue free agents and trades this winter. But the bulk of their roster already is in place.

"I don't think we're going to be very active in the free-agent field," general manager Dave Dombrowski said. "We have about 20 players we drafted that we feel can play with our big-league club at one time or another next year. We think we picked up most of our starting lineup in the draft."

Florida chose to invest heavily in the long-term future, at the expense of next season. Clearly they would be happy to follow the example of the Mets, who lost 120 games in their first season but won the World Series just seven years later.

"We don't think we're going to win a pennant with the team we have," Dombrowski said, "but that wasn't our philosophy going in. We think we have a bright future."

As for opening day against the Los Angeles

Dodgers on April 5, here's a possible lineup:

— Carr, 24, whose experience with four other organizations includes just 13 major-league at-bats.

— Barberie, 25, who hit .232 in 111 games last season for Montreal.

— Felix, 25, a .259 hitter with 35 home runs and 46 stolen bases in four seasons with Toronto and California.

— Conine, 26, who hit .302 with 20 home runs last year for Class AAA Omaha.

— Third baseman Gary Scott, 24, a .161 hitter in 254 at-bats for the Chicago Cubs.

— Shortstop Walt Weiss, 28, a top defensive player plagued by injuries the past four seasons, who hit .212 in 103 games this year at Oakland.

— Catcher Steve Decker, 27, a .215 hitter in 109 games the past three seasons with San

Proglycem is a drug that raises blood sugar level

DEAR DR. GOTT: I suffer from hypoglycemia for which my doctor prescribed one capsule of Proglycem every four hours. What are the side effects of this medication, and would you advise me to take it or something else?

DEAR READER: Proglycem (diazoxide) is a drug that rapidly raises the level of blood sugar by inhibiting the release of insulin. The manufacturer recommends its use only for cases of untreatable cancer of the pancreas (and other malignancies), which can lead to periodic, uncontrollable attacks of hypoglycemia, marked by weakness, sweating and loss of consciousness.

Proglycem may cause diabetes, the opposite of hypoglycemia. Additional side effects include: nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, palpitations, low blood pressure, headache, bleeding tendencies, kidney damage and others.

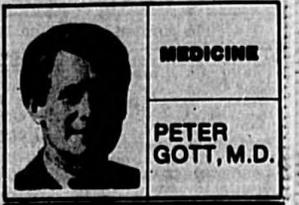

I would not advise you one way or another about this medication. Rather, you should return to your physician for a discussion of your concerns and problems. He or she knows your medical history and will be able to answer these questions as they relate to your specific case.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please discuss temporal arteritis.

DEAR READER: When the lining of either artery at the temples become inflamed, the patient usually develops severe headache that may be associated with a one-sided loss of vision. This "temporal arteritis" is a serious component of a syndrome called polymyalgia rheumatica, which is marked by fever, malaise, loss of appetite, weakness and stiffness. The affliction is associated with stroke, heart attacks and, as I mentioned, blindness.

The diagnosis is suspected by blood tests, especially the sedimentation rate, and confirmed by a biopsy of the affected temporal artery.

Treatment with cortisone should start immediately, even before the biopsy results are known, in order to prevent irreversible damage. In temporal arteritis, the response to cortisone and related drugs is miraculous: The headache disappears and vision returns, usually within 48 hours. Low-dose therapy must be given for several months to prevent relapse. The cause of this disorder is unknown; it is believed to be an auto-immune disease.

Frank Stewart is a prolific bridge writer. His latest book, "My Bridge and Yours" ($11.95, P.O. Box 962, Fayette, AL 35555), adopts a style first used by Englishman Terence Reese. There are 70 deals, 44 of them tough and 26 even tougher. You "listen in" on the thoughts of Stewart as he bids and plays his cards. However, unlike Reese, Stewart is happy to go off on tangents. Also, you will find more debatable actions in Stewart's book — but perhaps that makes it more realistic.

Today's deal, number 35 in the book, features what Reese termed a second-degree assumption. North's three-club cue-bid showed at least three hearts and 10-plus points. East didn't open two diamonds, because he held two three-card majors: a decision with which I have sympathy. But once he had passed initially, his three-diamond bid, with a singleton club, was pointless. Stewart's plunge straight into four hearts was more tactical than technical. He didn't expect to buy it in three hearts, and his bid made it harder for the opponents to judge the situation.

West led the diamond ace and followed with the 10 when East en-cour-aged.

Declarer judged, from the bidding, that the spade ace and heart king were split, not both in one defender's hand. So, if East had the heart king, West would have the spade ace and the contract was in no jeopardy. But just in case West had the heart king, Stewart laid down the heart ace at trick three. When the king dropped, declarer drew trumps and had 10 tricks.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Nov. 20, 1992

Sow the seeds you've already plowed before turning new soil in the year ahead. Your probabilities for substantial accomplishments could be rooted in familiar areas.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you have something important to do today, try to tackle it as early as possible. Your competence and effectiveness could begin to diminish as the clock ticks on. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There's a chance your curiosity might get the better of you today and prompt you to ask probing questions of friends they'd rather not answer. Be considerate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Indecisiveness could severely dilute your possibilities for achievement today. Once you make a decision, follow it through until you achieve the results you desire.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you fail to clarify your instructions properly, subordinates might not perform up to your expectations today. Don't assume they know as much about the assignments as you do.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Suppress the urge today to gamble on things about which you know little. You'll do OK — if you stay in your own ballpark.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have a stabilizing influence over others today, especially those with whom you have close ties. They're apt to come to you with problems they can't resolve.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Conditions in general are rather iffy today, but there is still a possibility you could capitalize on a material opportunity. Don't throw in the towel should things get a bit rough.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You could be adept at managing critical situations for others today, but you might not be equally as adroit in handling your own affairs. Don't be careless with the latter.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Although you're a quick thinker today, your first thoughts might not be your best ones. Serious situations should be studied from all angles before you act on them.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Guard against the inclination today to prejudice others before all the evidence is in. This could prove unwise: your emotions might override your logic.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Being able to make a silk purse from a sow's ear is a possibility for you today. If you use your smarts, you might be able to turn an unlikely development into something profitable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Conditions similar to an unpleasant experience might be replicated today. However, this time you'll know how to come out of it unscathed.
