3rd Judge To Cite Possible Conflict Of Interest

Salfi Drops Out Of Yankee Lake Suit

By Karen Talley Herald Staff Writer

Seminole-Brevard Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi, citing a conflict of interest, has become the third judge to excuse himself from the Yankee Lake condemnation proceeding. The judge's recusal was issued late Wednesday, the day before he was scheduled to conduct a case management conference on the suit.

The case was assigned to Civil Judge Tom Waddell this morning by Seminole-Brevard Chief Justice Clarence C. Johnson. Waddell holds court in Melbourne and a hearing on the suit will be held in that city on Dec. 23.

The trial, however, will most likely be conducted at the Seminole courthouse in Sanford, according to Waddell, who said, "I'll be talking with the (litigants') attorneys and I presume they'll want it held there."

City Manager Frank Falson said today "every delay is a problem because it causes slippage in our (wastewater management) schedule." He said he would keep the state and federal agencies advised of the suit's progress. The city is under government mandate to create a waste disposal program that would diminate duraping effluent into Lake Monroe.

In his recusal, Salit, "having examined the file...and having noted the identities of the parties involved and the allegations of fact as set forth in

Seminole Proposes $60 Million In Highway Projects

By Sarah Nuna Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County has proposed $60 million worth of road projects it wants the Metropolitan Transportation Authority to consider funding.

The county is hoping the 12 local transportation system priorities will be included in MTA's overall ground tranportation plan for Seminole. Orange and Osceola Counties, according to County Director of Public Works Larry Sellers.

Sellers presented county commissioners with a list of the road projects at their Tuesday work session. Commissioners asked that the projects be presented to the MTA Friday when it meets to discuss lists from the three countles.

According to Sellers, Seminole County could receive $37 million to help solve its transporation needs if a proposed referendum is approved by voters. MTA will seek to have a gax tax of up to four cents and as much as a $1 per $1,000 assessed value property tax levied in the three counties to fund the ground transportation plan, he said. Sellers serves on the technical committee for the Orlando urban area transportation study. The technical committee, which acts as an advisory panel to MTA.is polling each of the three counties on their transportation plans, he said. MTA has selected the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council to prepare the overall ground transportation plan, which will be combined with local road priorities, Sellers said. The final plan will be readled by mid-January, after which the financing issue will go to a referendum, he said.

The Metropolitan Planning Oranization has called for $1.9

Man Sought In Beating Death Of 14-Month-Old Boy

By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

A 39-year-old Fern Park man was being sought early today for questioning in the beating death and possible sexual' assault of his girlfriend's 14-month-old son whom he was babysitting.

John Lawrence Mias of 2903 Oak Lane, Fern Park, died at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Orlando Regional Medical Center in Orlando after having been helicoptered from Florida Hospital-Altamonte Springs.

Seminole County sheriff's investigator Dan Prast said today the boy probably died from a beating and may have been sexually assaulted. An autopsy was scheduled for noon in Orange County because the death occurred in that Prast said Victor Joseph White, a former Orlando Sentinel employee who has since July lived with the boy, his mother. Windy Mias, 26, and her 5-year-old daughter, Ann, is being sought for questioning in the case.

According to Prast, Ms. Mias left for work at about 9:15 a.m. Tuesday, leaving her two children in the care of White. The group moved to Seminole County about four months ago, and White recently lost his job, Prast said.

The 5-year-old, Ann, told Prast that at about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday she heard her little brother crying in a bedroom. She heard a sound that sounded like a slap or a slug and then the boy stopped crying. Prast said.

A rescue team was called to the scene and the boy was hospitalized, Prast said.

There are no Seminole County records of John Mias having been beaten before, Prast said. When seen Wednesday, the boy had bruises on his face, abdomen and back. He was "brain dead" from the time he was first seen by authorities and Prast described white as being about 5-foot-6, 150 pounds, with sandy-brown hair of medium length and blue eyes. When last seen White hact a mustache and goatee and appeared to be trying to grow a beard, Prast said.

White's face is described as pockmarked and when he left his home he was wearing a yellow. Sleeveless tee shirt, blue jeans and yellow and black sneakers. He may have had a buck knife attached to his belt and was on foot, Prast said.

Defense Contract Tests At Sanford Rail Yard

By Deane Jordan Herald Staff Writer

Tests at a Sanford rail yard of a transport container for an Air Force battlefield communications system, developed under a $345 million contract, are running into problems.

The tests, being conducted by Martin Marletta at the Rand Yard, are to perfect a motion-proof road or rail container to carry a ground-to-air-tosatellite communication system.

The container with electronic equipment is designed to be carried to a battlefront by truck or railroad car and to be used by field commanders to communicate with their troops and their superiors.

The $345 million is the purchase price for 58 containers. Development of software for the computers to go in the containers, a separate contract with

Martin Marietta, is running about $1.3 million over agreed cost, said Robert "Bud" Reid, acting director of public relations for Martin Marietta in Orlando. He said he could not confirm an exact figure and did not know why the software element of the contract was costing more than projected costs.

The container with equipment, called a"Communication Nodal Control Element," will be operated by two people and is scheduled to become a major component of the Air Force's communication network. It will replace old equipment that requires more personnel to operate, Reid said. Delivery is scheduled over the next three to five years, he said. It is not known if the Army and Navy will adopt the system, he said.

Reagan Promises To Sign Balanced Budget Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) - With approval of legislation to balance the federal budget by 1991. Congress set the country on a path toward declining deficits and set itself up for a donnybrook - beginning this spring over spending cuts.

The House and Senate both approved the legislation Wednesday and sent it to President Reagan, who immediately pledged to sign it Thursday.

The legislation, which calls for the deficit to be taken down in steps over the next five years, was thought to be under a Wednesday midnight deadline crunch since it was attached to a bill to lift the federal debt ceiling to $2 trillion. But the Treasury Department said just before midnight Wednesday that a signature by the president today would come in time.

The House gave final congressional approval to the massive legislation. which will force drastic budget cuts in nearly all areas of government and could lead to tax hikes, by a vote of 271-154 late Wednesday. But a majority of Democrats, who control the would require about $11.7 billion in spending cuts this spring.

Only 118 House Democrats joined 153 Republicans in favor of the bill. while 130 Democrats and 24 GOP members voted against it. The measure was opposed by strong liberals and staunch conservatives.

House passage came less than two hours after the Senate passed the bill, 61-31, with favorable votes from 39 Republicans and 22 Democrats. Twenty-two Senate Democrata and chamber, voted against the bill, which nine Republicans opposed the bill.

Congress gave Reagan authority Wednesday to sign a rough draft of the balanced budget bill that would be good enough until a final copy of the bill could be processed and delivered to the White House, spokesman Larry Speakes said.

Despite the heavy favorable vote. senators warned the tough budgetcutting choices would come later this year and in the next five years and raised the specter of tax increases.

Aquino And Laurel Ticket Set: Chances 'Good'To Down Marcos

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) - Corazon Aquino, heading a united opposition presidential ticket, today predicted she will defeat President Ferdinand Marcos but warned supporters to guard their ballots "with their lives, if necessary.

Former senator Salvador Laurel dropped out of the presidential race Wednesday to become Aquino's vice presidential running mate, paving the way for a one-on-one showdown between Marcos and Aquino in February's election.

School Board Approves Teacher Pact

By Michele DuBois

Berald Staff Writer A teacher's contract for the 1985-86 school year was ratifled and a Red Cross proposal to establish nine local schools as disaster shelters during hurricanes, floods, or natural disasters was tabled in actions by the Seminole County School Board during its regular meeting Wednesday.

Unanimous action on the teacher's contract came a week after overwhelming approval by the teachers and four months after the teachers had rejected an earlier proposed contract

The contract provides a 6.5 percent pay increase for more than 2,200 teachers in the county. It also calls for a onetime longevity bonus of $200-$300 for teachers who have 16 or more years expericording to the proposal. The Disaster Plan For Use of Public Schools, as presented, also cites chemical leakage and nuclear activity in its reasons for mass evacuations.

Carey E. Ferrell. assistant superintendent of business and finance, cited as "a flasco" the experience of an attempt to utilize Lake Mary High School as such an emergency station during evacuations during Hurricane Elena.

'No guidelines had been set. and it was unclear whether the responsibility for funds or leadership belonged to the Red Cross or the school board itself, Ferrell said.

The disaster plan calls for the school principal or representative to act as manager of the temporary shelter, providing food and survival services to the evacuees. The manager would receive overtime pay.

The shelter manager would also utilize other school staffers for the implementation of survival services. The board is still unclear on terminology, as in "shelter director" or "shelter manager". according to Ferrell but he indicated these and other details are expected to be worked out at the next regular meeting January 15, 1986.

No representative of the Red Cross was present at the meeting, but Ferrell expressed confidence the disaster plan would be accepted by the school board at the next meeting.

the pleadings," said he made a self-determination that "a question might arise" whether he "could sit on the case in a completely disinterested manner." Further detail regarding the recusal was unavailable this morning.

According to documents at the Seminole courthouse. Saift checked the condemnation suit out of the records division on Monday and returned it, with his recusal. Wednesday evening.

Although the case management conference is cancelled, the documentation attorneys prepared to comply with Salfi's conference order is now part of the court record. This information includes listings of the witnesses and exhibits the attorneys plan to utilize when the suit ultimately receives its day in court.

Sanford filed the condemnation proceeding on Nov. 8, two days after the county agreed to purchase the property from Jeno Paulucci for $7.5 million. Records show Paulucci bought the land earlier this year for $3.5 million.

Although the county plans to build a sewage treatment plant at the 2,867-acre property, Sanford seeks the land for its own waste disposal program. The condemnation proceeding will attempt to achieve this in court through the establishment of public benefit and necessity.

The county's purchase was finalized on Nov. 22, and in addition to the $7.5 million payment, a contractual agreement calls for the new plant to provide 3.5 million daily gallons of effluent treatment for Paulucci's Heathrow development.

Wednesday's turn of events is the latest in a series of recusals and reschedulings for Sanford's condemnation suit, which was filed to obtain "a quick take" of the property.

In addition to Salfi, Seminole courthouse Judges S. Joseph Davis and C. Vernon Mize formally excused themselves from the suit. Judge Kenneth Leffler, who was scheduled behind Davis and Mize to hear the case, said if formally assigned, he too, would recuse himself. Davis represented Paulucci while in practice as a private attorney. Mize served as Sanford city attorney for eight years and Leffler said he was to the parties involved" to hear the condemnation. The case was originally been scheduled by Davis for hearing on Dec. 13. Salfi. however, when accepting the case on Nov. 22, cancelled the hearing and scheduled a case management conference for Dec. 9. Last week, he moved the conference back three days to today.

Attorneys for both sides were unavailable for comment this morning. They were at Sanford city hall, where City Clerk Henry Tumm is giving a deposition regarding the condemnation.

A man was treated for facial injuries after having been re-portedly punched in the face by an unidentified assailant at a Longwood home he had allegedly burglarized and stolen two candles. He has been charged with burglary to an occupied dwelling.

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy reported responding to a prowler reported at 229 Crazy Acres Lane at about 3:50 a.m. Wednesday. The suspect, whom she met at the scene, told the deputy he had been hit in the face and chest, a sheriff's report

In checking the man for identification the deputy found Two red candles, each two-inches long, in separate pockets of the man's jacket. An occupant of the home at that address, who was not named in the report, reportedly told the deputy the candles had been taken from a chest of drawers in the rear of the home and entry may have been made into the home through an unlocked back door, the report said.

The suspect was transported to Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford for treatment of his injuries and then he was booked into the Seminole County jail, the report said.

Tax Reform Bill Needs Fast Pass

Our voluntary system of tax collection. which has been the pride of the nation, is breaking down. Perceived unfairness is corroding the obligations of citizenship. Before long, paying taxes will no longer be a civic duty which Americans will willingly accept. And that will be a sad day.

We need tax reform. Fairness and simplification are the goals of tax reform in Congress. President Reagan should endorse the tax reform bill approved recently by the House Ways and Means Committee. Republicans should join with Democrats in the House to pass it and send it to the Senate.

The House bill is a big improvement over the present tax code. It isn't perfect, by a long shot. The Senate should be given the chance to improve the House bill. Then, with bipartisan cooperation, the Congress can lay a workable bill on the president's desk for him to sign into law sometime next year.

Reform is needed. Fewer and fewer people are paying their share. There are too many tax loopholes or subsidies, all enacted for a good purpose, all weakening the tax system by increasing tax avoidance. They have been growing faster than tax payments. At the same time. Illegal tax evasion has been growing, most of it by failure to report legal income or by overreporting deductions against legal income.

The tax reform drafted a year ago by the Treasury Department went far toward fairness and simplification. But it aroused great concern in many citizens, businesses and groups with interests in existing tax preferences. President Reagan's subsequent tax reform proposal reflected some of those concerns. The House committee bill is even more heavily impacted by politics and would achieve less. But it is alive and it is a vehicle. It should be moved.

The House bill could be improved. Mortgage interest on vacation homes should be disallowed as a deduction. State and local taxes should not be deductible. There should be a tougher limit on business meals and travel expenses. Fringe benefits such as health and life insurance should be taxed. Municipal bond interest should be fully taxed for new issues of bonds in the future, whether the bonds are issued for private or public purposes.

More fairness and simplicity can be written back into the reform bill by the Senate.

And, in any event, the House committee bill:

Cuts individual and corporate taxes to their lowest levels in about 50 years. That alone decreases the incentive for avoidance and evasion.

- Simplifies the system by increasing the standard deduction and personal exemption and by eliminating dozens of special tax preferences.

- Reduces the incentives for taxpayers and businesses to seek tax shelters.

 Makes the playing field more level for all kinds of industry, by eliminating many special provisions that favored particular industries over others.

The committee bill is strongly opposed by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and many business interests, but it is a good bill. It does not go far enough. But it is a beginning. It takes into account the pressures that prevail in the real world of politics and government. Rep. Dan Rosenkowski, chairman of Ways and Means, and House Speaker Tip O'Neill have come a long a way and have confounded the know-it-alls who said it couldn't be done.

Now, with a little more help from the president, the bill can be kept moving through the Congress.

Outside Postal Counsel Unnecessary Cost

WASHINGTON - A member of the Postal Rate Commission is questioning why the Postal Service's board of directors has paid Washington attorney Joseph Califano $2.6 million for outside legal assistance when the post office has 113 in-house attorneys on its payroll.

Postal Rate Commissioner John Crutcher of Kansas thinks the board has no business hiring outside counsel. "It isn't as though they don't have lawyers at the U.S. Postal Service." Crutcher told me. "They've got them running out their ears. They have lawyers who are just as smart as Joe Califano, as far as postal law is concerned.

"What they don't have over at the Postal Service is the quintessential Washington insider," Crutcher added. "And so they keep Joe on, I presume, not because he is such a great postal lawyer, because he had no great expertise in that when he went over (to the Postal Service)."

The nine-member board of governors, which oversees the Postal Service's activities, first hired Califano not long after he returned to his lucrative law practice, following his ouster as secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services by President Jimmy Carter.

Since 1980, according to David Harris, secretary to the board of governors, Califano has been paid more than $2.6 million in fees - or $2,634,514.90, to be precise.

Califano has an open-ended contract that contains a 30-day termination clause. But Crutcher wonders why Board Chairman John McKean, a Reagan appointee, has chosen to keep a prominent Democratic mover-and-shaker as the board's high-priced counsel. Others at the . Postal Service are privately questioning why the board should spend so much money for its own counsel at a time of $200-billion deficits, and when the post office's services are still being so heavily subsidized.

According to Harold Hughes. deputy general counsel to the U.S. Postal Service, the post office has 90 attorneys working full-time in its Washington headquarters, in addition to 23 lawyers in its regional offices.

Indeed, the Postal Service's inside chief counsel. Louis A. Cox. sits in at all board meetings, along with Califano. Harris says the total yearly bills from Califano - which have ranged from $138.671 in 1980 to $666.115.90 this year - were for a variety of legal services, including researching legal questions raised by the board. The board, he said, is "gotting independent legal advice other than management's (the Postal Service's) in-house lawyers. That's what Joe Califano gives them that independent look. It's been of the highest professional quality. But prior to 1980, the board of directors had no independent counsel of its own, preferring to use the Postal Service's own lawyers. At a time when every government program should be re-examined with regard to cost, perhaps it wouldn't be asking too much of the board of governors to cut a few corners over at the Postal Service — including its independent counsel.

ROBERT WALTERS

Russian Laureate Immoral

The envelope, please. The winner. the co-winner, really, of the Nobel Peace Prize this year is - Dr. Yevgeni Chazov, representing the thousands of Soviet doctors who make up the Soviet component of a group called the International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War. It is a bizarre award, replete with moral scandal and ugly public-policy implications.

Although Dr. Chazov is a physician, his claim to fame in recent years does not come from his bedside manner. Dr. Chazov is a Soviet medical bureaucrat, a deputy health minister, full member of the Communist Party Central Committee and a kingpin in the Soviet medical establishment.

And so, in weighing the Nobel choice, perhaps we ought to know more about Soviet medicine and that establishment. Do they deserve an award? For what?

Surely not for health. There is a health crisis in the Soviet Union. Demographer Murray Feshbach reports that life expectancy in every developed country in the world has been going up, but in the Soviet Union it is going way down. Infant mortality rates, shrinking everywhere, are rising in the U.S.S.R.

Then there is the Sakharov mat. . ter. In 1973 Dr. Chazov signed a public letter attacking Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov. Dr. Sakharov was ultimately exiled. Recently Dr. Sakharov had his own experience with Soviet doctors. They came to his apartment, held his nose, forced food down his throat, in order to gently persuade him to give up a hunger strike.

Now, the Nobel Peace Prize was not awarded for Soviet bad medicine, or Soviet criminal psychiatry, or Soviet political abuses committed by doctors like Dr. Chazov. It was awarded, foolishly enough, to a group started by American and Soviet physicians whose professed aim was to spread the startling word that nuclear war could be really harmful to your health. The effect of the award, however, tends to legitimize and apologize for the Soviet medical establishment.

WILLIAM RUSHER

Insane On Spending

The Gramm-Rudman bill, now approaching passage and signing into law, is a flendishly ingenious way of forcing down our huge federal deficits. It prohibits the government from continuing to borrow in order to pay its bills and specifies that the deficits must be reduced year by year, to zero in 1991, either by increasing taxes or by automatically cutting spending.

As William Safire remarked, "The official dress of the U.S. government for the next five years will be a straitjacket." To which the proper response is: Since the government is certifiably insane on the subject of spending, nothing could be more appropriate.

The bill provides that, if Congress doesn't have the guts to specify the cuts in spending necessary to bring the budget down to the requisite levels (and few things are more certain than that), the president shall have the power to do so - a poisoned chalice from which the House Democrats hope Mr. Reagan or any Republican who succeeds him in the White House will drink deep, since this is bound to offend many voters.

On the other hand, Congress knows very well that Ronald Reagan, in his second and last term in the White House, would be more than happy to make the necessary cuts right out of domestic spending regardless of the uproar; so the bill thoughtfully specifies that the cuts must come half from defense and half from domestic spending - and then carefully exempts from cutting not only Social Security and veterans' pensions but almost every favorite liberal welfare measure on the books: Medicaid. Aid to Families with Dependent Children. Supplemental Security Income, food stamps, child nutrition, veterans' compensation, and the Women, Infants and Children nutrition pro-

Thus festooned, the bill will make it difficult for Mr. Reagan to cut enough out of the remaining domestic programs to toe the budgetary line, even if he is willing to make half of the total cuts in the defense budget - something he is profoundly (and rightly) unwilling 10 ao.

This is the analysis that has led Saftre and many other observers to predict that the imperatives of the Gramm-Rudman Act will then be linked by Congress to Mr. Reagan's hopes for tax reform, to edge him toward the brink he has thus far resisted so stoutly: a tax increase. He will be told, in effect, that he can have some sort of meaningful tax reform if, but only if, he abandons his insistence that it be "revenueneutral." If a deficit over the limit can be made up by cutting (say) a third of the excess from defense and a third from domestic programs, and if the remaining third can be compensated by some sort of tax increase, what's wrong with that?

Well, of course it flies in the face of Mr. Reagan's oft-repeated vow to veto a tax increase. On the other hand, meaningful tax reform is a prize worth bargaining for. Besides, the very prosperity that the Reagan administration has brought to America makes a modest tax increase less offensive to contemplate than It used to be.

Finally, the drastic medicine of Gramm-Rudman promises real relief at last from the phenomenon of these huge deficits which, unless brought to an early halt, are quite capable of destroying this country. Ronald Reagan has proved a master of negotiations with Congress. It would hardly be on the verge of passing the Gramm-Rudman bill at all if Mr. Reagan had not artfully brought it to this pass by a shrewd combination of carrots and sticks. He can be counted on to obtain the best possible mix of consequences.

once the bill becomes law.

American Economy Troubled

When Adam Smith published his monumental "Inquiry Into The Nature and Causes Of The Wealth Of Nations" in 1776, the Industrial Revolution hadn't really begun. His ideas on trade, the value of labor. and comparative national advan? tage were to be immensely influen-

Today, the world is wholly unlike anything that Adam Smith knew or imagined. It's also extraordinarily different from the world of 50 years ago. At that time, only a handful of nations were industrialized. In 1935, no one would have dreamed of South Korea as an industrial power or Sri Lanka - then a British colonial possession — as a manufacturing nation.

It's time to rethink the entire question as to how the wealth of nations is created nad maintained.

The computer revolution is taking place everywehre in the world. All nations seek to be industrialized nations. There are strange and wholly unexpected results of change. For example: a U.S. airline has its computer data entry done in Barbados in the Caribbean because computer operators there receive much lower wages than the operators in Denver, Colorado, who formerly did this work.

Americans need to ask themselves: will we be as prosperous in the future as we are today? How will that prosperity be achieved? What will give the U.S. an edge over industrial competitors in the world? And what will happen if America fails to maintain that edge? What would the impact be onthe lives of Americans if the nation ceased to be the No. 1. economic power in the world?

These questions aren't being asked in sufficiently clear terms. Officeholders are focusing on this year or next year, not on the next 20 or 30 years.

America's prosperity depends in part on the climate of ideas. The idea or notion that seems to have the strongest hold on the popular mind is the idea that America can and should attempt to feed the world and assist Third World countries in other ways as well. Behind this is the belief, which is utterly devoid of truth, that the United States has a mountainous surplus of wealth from which it can shovel millions and billions of dollars year after year. This is a ruinous illusion.

A nation with a $200 billion fiscal deficit and a $140 billion trade deficit is a nation in trouble, but the American people don't seem to realize that.

Sandinistas Harass Embassy Personnel

By Jack Anderson And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON - The full story can now be told of the Sandinista government's attempt to intimidate employees of the U.S. Embassy in Last month, the embassy's native

Nicaraguan employees were hauled in, one at a time, for interrogation by the secret police. Women employees were stripped and asked humiliating questions about their sex lives; several of the embassy workers were threatened with death if they continued to work for the 'gringos.'

The State Department delivered a sharp protest to the Nicaraguan charge d'affaires in Washington. and the local embassy employees in Managua have not been similarly bothered since, sources told our associate Lucette Lagnado. At least one of the harassed employees has resigned.

According to classified cables from the Managua embassy, 15 Nicaraguan employees were summoned early in November to "Casa Cincuenta," headquarters of the Directorate General of State Security. Nicaragua's secret police. The embassy provided transportation for some of the employees to show its

- Women were ordered to undress and were asked whom they were sleeping with. Some were accused of being sexually involved with American employees of the embassy.

- The interrogation techniques often seemed to have been lifted from "Casablanca" or some other old movie. "We have a number of ways to make people his victim. Another Sandinista goon told an embassy worker he was "always followed," and bragged that the secret police covered the country "inch by inch and has eyes and ears everywhere."

- No physical violence was reported, though one employee complained that he was "treated harshly by his interrogators."

- Several of the embassy employees were accused of being CIA spies, especially those who had been to Washington on embassy business.

- Most of the employees were "repeatedly threatened with longterm imprisonment" if they didn't cooperate with the authorities, and some were warned that they would end up "in the cemetery." One was told he must be "integrated into the revolution or leave the country." When word of the interrogations reached Washington. State Department officials summoned the Nicaraguan charge for a verbal dressing-down, and the blistering protest note was later delivered. The note suggested that the Sandinistas were violating the Vienna Convention on diplomatic relations, which the note pointed out "makes clear a state's obligation not to interfere unduly with the performance of a diplomatic mission."

The note charged that the Nicaraguan government "has engaged in a campaign of blatant intimidation and harassment," and protested "In the strongest terms ... these unconscionable acts ... intended to frighten and manipulate" the Nicaraguan employees of the embassy.

Divided Court Bars Confessions Extracted By Police Informants

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Police cannot use informants to extract a confession from someone charged with a crime, a divided Supreme Court said in a ruling expected to make law enforcers more careful in undercover operations.

The court, on a 5-4 vote, ruled Tuesday that once a person charged with a crime seeks the help of an attorney, police must respect that and refrain from using clandestine methods to gather evidence of that crime against the defendant.

The case involved Perley Moulton and Gary Colson, who were indicted for car theft in Belfast, Maine, in 1981.

Colson later agreed to cooperate with police. who were investigating Moulton on an unrelated matter. The police recorded conversations between the two during which Moulton discussed his involvement in the theft case.

Those statements were used at Moulton's trial and he was convicted. But the Maine Supreme Judicial Court reversed the conviction, saying the taped conversations were inadmissible as evidence.

Agreeing with the state court, Justice William Brennan said it was clear "the state violated Moulton's Sixth Amendment right when it arranged to record conversations between Moulton and its undercover informant, Colson."

"By concealing the fact that Colson was an agent of the state, the police denied Moulton the opportunity to consult with counsel and thus denied him the assistance of counsel guaranteed by the Sixth Amendment."

Brennan's ruling drew a sharp response from the conservative wing of the court.

In a dissent joined by Justices William

Rehnquist, Byron White and Sandra Day O'Connor, Chief Justice Warren Burger said the majority's decision was "birarre" and created "anew 'right' only for those Possibly habitual offenders who persist in criminal activity even while under indicate of the possible was activity even

One of Moulton's lawyers. University of Maine Law Professor David Cluchey. Said as a result of the ruling "police are going to have to be much more careful about the nature of the conduct of the undercover agent" who deals with a person already charged with a crime.

"If this case had gone the Other way ... police would have been provided with an incentive to engage in undercover investigations," he said.

But Wayne Moss. Deputy Maine Attorney General, said he was concerned the ruling may bar the use at trial of a variety of admissions made by a defendant after being charged with a

Secret Directive Concerning Information Leaks Is Leaked

By Helen Thomas

UPI White House Reporter WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan signed a secret directive in November ordering top government officials with access to classified information to take lie detector tests - a move that comes during an epidemic of espionage cases, it was disclosed Wednesday.

Deputy press secretary Larry Speakes acknowledged that on Nov. 1 the president signed the order after a long study by the administration on the handling of sensitive information that could be the target of espionage.

He confirmed the existence of the secret directive, which is classified and not available to the public, after it was first reported by The Los Angeles

While Speakes said the order was "not specifically connected to the recent spate of espionage cases," it comes at a time when there have been a record number of arrests of both military and civilian personnel for selling U.S. national security secrets.

"Polygraph tests are not intended to be intrusive on an individual's lifestyle, but will focus on counterespionage and counterintelligence questions, Speakes said.

'The tests will be applied to a selected number of officials who have the highest level of classified information, especially communications, security and other compartmentalized information," he added. He said the tests would be given on a

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., condemned the directive, saying there were serious objections to the fact the order was secret.

"This sudden secret order is iotally contrary to the cautious approach to polygraphs that everyone has taken in both houses of Congress and the Defense Department." Edwards

Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., called the order a "misdirected, poorly thought out and ineffective policy to protect our nation's security."

She noted the Defense Department already has congressional approval to conduct an experimental polygraph program giving tests to 3,500 employees with access to highlevel secret material.

The CIA and National Security Agency also have their own long-standing polygraph programs, so the directive will have no impact on those agencies, she in the wake of an increasing number of espionage cases, members of Congress as well as the administration have been pushing a Proposal for widespread polygraphing of government and civilian employees.

Most of those arrested this year were U.S. civilians or military personnel who had been given clearance to U.S. defense secrets when they first began working, but who had not been subjected to a recent clearance.

Florida First In "In- Migration"

the last four years, according to figures released Wednesday.

Figures compiled by the University of Florida's Bureau of Economic and Business research showed Florida, which ranks No. 6 in total population, ranked first in net "inmigration." meaning it had the highest population gain from the number of people moving in minus the people moving out, said Dr. Lucia Dunn, who heads the research unit.

"A total of 1,092,000 people were added to the state through net in-migration between April 1.

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — More people moved to accounts for 89 percent of the state's growth."

Florida than any other state in the nation during California was second with a net in-migration California was second with a net in-migration of 1.009,000 and Texas was third with 950,000. Dunn said.

More than 91 percent of the nation's total population increase during the 4-year period came in the South and West, with Florida. Texas and California gaining the most new residents. While 75 percent of the nation's growth came by natural increase - births minus deaths - only 11 percent of Florida's growth was attributed to natural increase. Dunn

The South added more than 5 million people 1980 and July 1. 1984," Dunn said. "This and the West gained 3.5 million residents.

Brooks Locates Landell, SCC Finds 64-63 Win

By Sam Cook Merald Sports Editor

It's lonely at the top. Seminole Community College's Raiders found that out Tuesday when Polk Community College stained their No. 1 state ranking with a narrow two point upset victory. With 10 seconds to play and the Raiders holding a scant 62-61 lead over No. 7 Manatee Wednesday night. SCC guard Efrem Brooks was feeling some of that No. 1 lonesome pressure.

With good reason. Brooks, a freshman guard, was being vigorously harassed by a Manatee defender as the referee started his five-second count. Midway through the count, however, Brooks found a friend.

Teammate Mike Landell broke into the open near the free throw line. Brooks alertly whipped him the ball. Landell pump-faked Manatee's Andre Wilson into the air and as Wilson descended Landell deftly banked the Raiders into a 64-61 lead with seven seconds to go. Landell's clutch bucket proved to be the difference as Manatec to 6-0. scored at the buzzer but the Raiders held on to a 64.63 victory before 201 fans at the SCC Health Center Wednesday night.

The victory, accomplished despite blowing a 16-point lead in the first half and an 18-point lead in the second half, was helped along by an un-characteristic 24 of 29 free throw succeses. Switzer said he does not share the worry of other coaches that Butkus now does beer commercials on television, saying of the beer companies. "They've got more bucks than most of the people in the country, and we need them."

Switzer said he was surprised his player won the award only because Bosworth is a sopho-

"He is the best linebacker I've ever coached at Oklahoma,' Switzer said, "and I've had a lot of great players, some All-Americas, at that position.'

Lake Mary Massacres Greyhounds

Peters Amazed By Ease Of Win (46-18) For Rams

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

LONGWOOD - With a number of its wrestlers contending with the flu, and a few more just hitting the mat with the end a decision by Craig Johnson at of football. Lake Mary's Rams figured to be in a battle Wednesday night against the unbeaten Lyman Greyhounds. Lyman came in with a 3-0 record which included such lopsided scores as 72-9 (over Mainland) and 63-4 (over Seminole). Lake Mary was 2.0. but hadn't wrestled since Nov.

But, what was first thought to be a struggle soon turned into a massacre. The Rams won 10 of the first 11 matches Wednesday night and roared to a 46-18 victory over the Greyhounds at Lyman High.

Lake Mary, 3-0, goes against Apopka Friday night. After the Edgewater Junior Varsity Tournament on Saturday, the Rams square off against Bishop Moore on Wednesday (Dec. 18).

"That (Bishop Moore) will be a big one." first-year Lake Mary coach Doug Peters said. "It should be a heck of a match."

Peters, who had an outstanding prep career at Lyman, said he was amazed at how easily his grapplers handled the Greyhounds. "I was a little surprised we beat Lyman so big." added Peters. "I thought it would be a little closer. But we wrestled strong, our strength showed throughout."

Lake Mary won the first three matches as it picked up a forfeit at 100 pounds, then got a pin from Wayne Clayton at 107 and at the first-period buzzer.

Clayton dominated Lyman's Sidney Bolden for two periods then pinned him at the 5:13 mark of the match. Johnson. just coming off the flu, pulled out a 9-3 decision over Andy Baber.

Lyman picked up a win at 121 pounds when state-experienced senior Chad Dubin pinned Ram sophomore Enrique Carbia in

"Dubin's really good, I figured he would win." Peters said. "Carbia's only a sophomore and is still learning. And he's a 114-pounder wrestling at 121."

The Rams then went on to dominate the middle weight classes. At 128, Matt Broberg won a major decision, 9-1, over Lyman's Eddie Campbell.

"Matt (Broberg) did what he's good at, takedowns," Peters said. "He's real good on his feet. He showed his strength but still

One of the top performances of the night for the Rams came at 134 pounds where sophomore Rob Richards pinned Ricky Bailey in 1:59.

Richards started off the match with a takedown, but Bailey came back with a reversal. Richards reversed Bailey right back and got a near fall. Bailey got out of the jam but couldn't escape the relentless Richards. Richards got another takedown then used a cradle to pin Bailey

Frank Assessment: Turnovers Sabotage Lady Patriots

The loss snapped a six-game Brantley win streak. The Lady Patriots now stand at 6-2 after their last game before the Christmas break. Evans improved to 3-4.

"We just had too many turnovers," head Lady Patriot coach Cindy Frank said of the poor passing of her team. "There's nothing left to say, that was the key to the game. We just had too many mistakes."

The Ladies of Troy built a

Sentor Sherry "Ice" Asplen, who pumped in 18 points in the first three periods, but was blanked in the fourth period. The Patriots, too, had problems overcoming the powerful inside game of Evans.

"We're too small and inexperienced right now," Frank said. "They just got the second shots and we made too many turnovers."

The fourth period brought the Brantley fans to their feet when the Lady Patriots, down by seven, used the outside shooting tion. of Kim Waln and Ashley Thomas to pull within one.

After a few more turnovers on the Lady Patriots' part, they finally seemed to get into the groove.

With 4:51 remaining, Laurie Rivers sunk a bucket to bring the Lady Pats to within three and Thomas hit another jumper from the left side to pull within Unfortunately for the Lady Patriots, Peterson stopped the momentum after another great pass from Hightower and a short jumper put the Lady Trolans up by three and in the lead for good.

Waln pulled down four of her and the game remained a five- of the game and especially in the point difference when Waln and Thomas' shots were countered with a four-point splurge from Yolander Merricks and Hightower with 35 seconds left to sew up the victory.

> "We've got to get her (Asplen) a better passing lane," Frank said. "She can hit the shots, we just need to get the ball to her."

The third period was all Asplen. She scored eight of her teams third period 16 points, all of them coming in a row as she popped in four straight jumpers which were all assisted by freshman Tracy Brandenburg.

But, the Lady Trojans forced Asplen to commit 10 turnovers on the night and shut her out completely in the fourth period. The Lady Trojans used the press continuously during the course' fourth period causing the massive amount of turnovers on the Lady Pats' side.

"We used the press all night," Evans head coach Dorothy Starbird said. "We're just now getting the confidence we need to be successful."

Serious Anglers Don't Overlook The Hook

The hook is perhaps the most important, and at the same time, the most ignored item in the tackle box. Serious anglers are very particular about their hooks, and they match the hooks they are going to use to both their tackle and the species of fish they are seeking.

Anglers using light tackle will want to use smaller hooks than anglers using heavy tackle. The finer the wire from which a hook is made, the easier it will penetrate. It is very difficult to drive a thick hook into the jaw of a fish with light tackle. With heavy tackle, the size or thickness of the hook is not as critical.

Hooks run in sizes from the tiny number 20 shiner hooks to huge 16/0 marlin hooks. The size of the hook should be matched to the size of the fish being sought. A thin wire hook is desirable for speckled perch because it penetrates easily and will not tear out. A large hook with a big gap is needed when shiner fishing for base.

In certain situations, the strength of the hook is equally as important as the size. Hooks are rated in strength from 1X to 4X. The average hook is usually rated as 2X. In certain fishing conditions, such as plugging for snook, a stronger hook is often prudent. Veteran snook anglers replace 2X hooks with 3X or 4X hooks.

The typical fish book will rapidly rust in saltwater. A rusty hook soon loses both its strength and its penetration power. Anglers who fish a great deal in saltwater would be wise to use rust-free hooks such as cadmium or

With the exception of some of the smaller hooks, most new hooks should be sharpened before use. Many new books are reasonably sharp, but additional sharpening is needed for maximum penetration power. (Some manufacturers are introducing new styles of hooks that reportedly need no sharpening.)

The most effective method to hand-sharpen hooks is with a file. There are several mechanical hook sharpeners on the market, and the fisherman who sharpens a lot of hooks might be wise to look into one of these products. One of the better models uses a small grinding wheel and is available from Texas Tackle Products. it is appropriately named the Point

For maximum penetration, a hook should have a sharp point and a cutting edge that will push into a fish's jaw. One of the most effective methods of hook sharpening is known as triangluation. Triangulating a hook establishes three cutting edges.

in order to triangulate a hook, the hook should be held with the eye on the bottom and the barb on the top. Both the eye and the point should be aimed directly at you. A cutting edge should be established by placing a file at a 45-degree angle on one side of the point. The same method should be repeated on the other side of the point. When completed, the two 45-degree angles meet in the middle of the point away from the barb. This same procedure should then be repeated on the barb of the hook. The end result will be a hook with a sharp point and a knife-like cutting edge.

It is important to get into the habit of inspecting your hooks during the course of the fishing trip. Hooks frequently become duiled after catching a fish or striking an object. A file can easily touch up a dull hook, and perhaps prevent you from losing a real

A sharp hook or the proper size will dramatically improve your ratio of strikes to hook-ups and fish landed. Sharp hooks will also put a smile on your face when you arrive back at the dock with fish in the live well to sophomores. Jackson, the Heisman Trophy winning running back from Auburn, and Lombardi Award winner Tony Casillas of Oklahoma headed the 60th UPI All-America team that was announced Wednesday.

The team, which is voted on by sports writers and brodcasters around the country. consisted of 18 seniors, two iuniors and four sophomores.

The two most dynamic sophomores were White, the nation's leading rusher, and Thomas. Jackson made the UPI team in 1983 as a sophomore, but failed to last year when he missed six games with a separated shoulder. Jackson bounced back to gain 1.786 yards with a 6.4-yard a carry average. White rushed for 1.908 yards while Thomas gained 1,551 vards. Jackson and White scored 17 touchdowns ers from last year's team. Southern Cal junior guard Jeff Bregel was the lone underclassman on the offensive line. Joining Bregel at guard was Maryland's J.D. Maaraveld. The tackles were Brian Jozwiak of West Virginia and Jim Dombrowski of Virginia.

John Lee of UCLA, who set the NCAA career mark for field goals, was the kicker.

The three runnersup to Casillas for the Lombardi Award join him on the defensive line. They are: Mike Hammerstein of Michigan, Leslie O'Neal of Oklahoma State and Mike Ruth of Boston College. Tim Green of Syracuse rounds out the front five.

Sophomore Brian Bosworth. who with Casillas launched Oklahoma to the No. 1 defense in the nation, joins Station and Pepper Johnson of Ohio State as the linebackers.

Brad Cochran of Michigan and two Pacific-10 performers, Allen Durden of Arizona and David Fulcher of Arizona State, make up the secondary.

Miami (Fla.) quarterback Vinny Testaverde, fifth in the Heisman voting, was in the second team offensive backield with running backs Doug DuBose of Nebraska, Reggie Dupard of Southern Methodist and Paul Palmer of Temple.

Winter's Avalanche Of Trades Buries Theory Of Dull Meeting

SAN DIEGO (UPI) - The theory that the winter meetings would be dull has disappeared under an avalanche of trades.

Six more deals took place Wednesday, making for nine in slightly more than 24 hours.

Even Al Campanis lost count. The Dodgers' executive provided the most humorous incident of the meetings while announcing an Ed Vande Berg-for-Steve Yeager trade with Seattle before a room packed with reporters.

Campania mentioned he was unable to contact Yeager and outfielder Candy Maldonado about being dealt.

Maldonaso? What did he have to do with

The embarrassed Campania was then informed his club had not announced a trade of Maldonado, and the crowd roared.

"I'm new at this sort of thing." said Campanis, the club's director of player personnel for the last 17 years.

Shortly afterwards, Maldonado officially was sent to San Francisco for catcher Alex Trevino.

Call Maldonado the player to be named earlier.

With the interleague trading deadline extended until July 31, it was thought these meetings would feature few trades. More than any club, the aggressive Phillies have dispelled that notion.

Philadelphia, which completed a fourplayer deal with Atlanta on Tuesday, sent 1983 Cy Young Award winner John Denny and pitching prospect Jeff Gray to Cincinnati for outfielder Gary Redus and reliever Tom Hume.

San Francisco then sent second baseman Manny Trillo to the Cubs for switch-hitting Infielder Dave Owen.

The Yankees followed by acquiring Gary

Baseball

Roenicke and a player to be named from Baltimore for right-hander Rich Bordi and insielder Rex Hudler. New York then picked up Cleveland infielder Mike Fischlin for another unnamed player.

And there's more on the way, during the final scheduled day of the meetings:

- The Yankees and White Sox continued to attempt to work out a deal that would send designated hitter Don Baylor to Chicago for catcher Carlton Fisk.

The major snag continued to be the signing of Fisk, who is a free agent, and getting Baylor's permission to accept the deal. Agent Jerry Kapstein represents both players and is at the meetings.

Chicago left-hander Britt Burns also may be a part of the deal, which because of complications may be released in two parts. - Kansas City was seeking outfielder Chili Davis from the Giants for right-hander

Mark Gubizca. - The Orioles were looking to peddle right-hander Storm Davis to Seattle for power-hitting third baseman Jim Presley.

- A three-way deal involving Scattle center sielder Dave Henderson, the Padres and Dodgers remains a possibility.

Lost amid the trading flurry was a report by Commissioner Peter Ueberroth on an afternoon owners' meeting.

Except for the announcement that the Pittsburgh public-private consortium had been unanimously approved by the owners. Ueberroth was tight-lipped over just what happened during the meetings.

He admitted talk about relocation of the Giants and expansion was the "most time-consuming" issue, but refused to elaborate on which cities were first in line to late Englishman. "We just have lapses.

There weren't any lapses, though, in the early going. Landell, Greg "Slim" Johnson, Vance Hall, Tony Roberts and Dave Gallagher each tossed in a bucket as the Raiders jumped to a 22-12 lead with nine minutes to play in the first half.

"It was a big lift to have Slim back," Payne said about his 28-year-old leader who missed Tuesday's loss due to an ulcer. "The kids look up to daddy. He wasn't 100 percent tonight but he gets us going." Hall, a 6-8 freshman who is rapidly coming of age, joined Johnson in the paint to swap away several Manatee attempts in the early going. They combined for seven swats for the game with Hall accounting for five. Manatee, nevertheless, began avoiding the big arms and ran off 10 consecutive points to tie the score. Gallagher, though, tossed a nifty lob to Hall, who dunked it home to set off the Raiders again.

Landell, who dropped 9 of 10 free throws while accumulating 17 points, converted four in a row for a 28-22 lead. Roberts added two more buckets, Hall two free throws and Carl Poellnitz a basket and two free throws as Seminole stormed into halftime with a 40-26 advantage.

Early in the second half, the lead grew to 46-28 after a Roberts' steal and dunk and a quick outlet from Hall to Gallagher, who twisted underneath the defender for a Gallagher, however, was whistled for a technical the next time down the floor. Coincidentally. Manatee ran off the next 14 points to pull within 46-42 with 11:03 to play.

After a timeout, Brooks and Landell dropped in jumpers from the wing for breathing room at 52-42 but the determinted Lancers rallied behind David Farnum and Greg Freeman to pull within 60-56 with 2:15 to play.

who finished with 14 points, was hit with his fifth foul, prompting Payne to call on Brooks. Glenn Williams had a chance to pull the Lancers within two, but he missed the free throw.

Farnum, however, got the ball back for Manatee and scored to cut the deficit to 62-60 with 1:03 to play. Sixteen seconds later, Poellnitz was called for elbowing and Williams hit the first free throw for a 62-61 game. SCC ran the clock down to 20 seconds (shot clock at 19 seconds) and called a timeout. "Our plan was to take the last shot," Brooks said. "But we didn't know who was going to take it."

Ten seconds later they knew. "Mike busted his butt to get open. I saw him and got him the ball," Brooks said.

And Landell knew what to do On the drive, though, Roberts, with it. "The first guy gambled on the steal and missed," Landell said. "Then I saw that big dude (Wilson) coming. I just pump-faked and shot."

Schooling Races Open SOKC Meet

LONGWOOD - The familiar sound of "Heerrre Comes Swifty" will soon be echoeing through out the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club here as SOKC director of racing Tom Bowersox has scheduled the first-of-six official schooling races for tonight at 5:30.

Bowersox has drawn in no less than 60 races for official schooling while on the second night of schooling. Friday, there will be 51 races set to be breaking from the starting boxes.

Official schooling races are the only performances where parents, can bring their youngsters to the racetrack at no charge. Once the regular racing season commences on Dec. 26. people attending races at SOKC must be at least 18 years of age.

As for the six nights of official schooling races during the next couple of weeks. Bowersox reports the 28 contracted kennels have many of their veteran campaigning greyhounds returning for another season along with a promising blend of pup-

"We're really excited about the upcoming racing season," Bowersox said from his office. "From the looks of things right now, I'd say this is going to be our best season in our 51 years of operation here in the Central Florida area.

"We'll start to find out just how good these greyhounds are starting on 'Thursday and Friday. Then we'll have four schooling nights next week (Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday) before we get going with the four-month meet on Dec. 26.

Beginning with Dec. 26, SOKC will offer nightly championship greyhound racing, except Sundays, beginning at 7:30 o'clock right on through May 2, 1986.

New Treatments For Curing Cold Sores

DEAR DR. GOTT - For a number of years I have suffered from cold sores. I was treated with smallpox vaccine by my family physician, but he says it's no longer available. Is there another effective treatment for this ailment? DEAR READER - Cold sores are a type of herpes infection. They can be treated with a new anti-herpes medicine called acyclovar (brand name. Zovirax). The cream is useful in controlling skin lesions; pills are now available for infection in those hard-to-get-at places un-suited to topical application.

DEAR DR. GOTT - My doctor has suggested a pacemaker. What is the usual procedure? is this done as an outpatient procedure? Are there restrictions? Does it make your heart beat slower?

DEAR READER - Pacemakers are electronic devices implanted under the skin, with wires traveling into the heart through blood vessels. Pacemakers produce tiny blips of electricity that trigger the heart electricity that trigger the heart to beat at times when the heart's 32 South African own innate pacer malfunctions or slows down. Although the procedure of implanting a pacemaker sounds complicated, it is - as operations go - relatively simple. My own preference is to have a cardiologist confirm that a patient needs a pacemaker and what type of unit would be most appropriate. Usually, surgeons do the implantation part. I like patients to be in a hospital for the procedure so they can be monitored for a day or two afterward. I suppose, under different circumstances, pacemakers could be put in outpatients; that would depend on the doctor's predilection.

Medicare has been giving doctors a hard time about decisions to use pacemakers. 64 Freshen There are now federal "guidelines" (read "rules") about the specific conditions for which Medicare will approve pacemakers. Since the devices are expensive, this will have a great impact on who gets the gadgets. That's one reason I like to have a cardiologist's opinion before proceeding: I don't want Medicare to refuse to pay for the service after it has been deliver-

For many abnormalities of heartbeat, pacemakers are unquestionably lifesaving. In particular, the new units —

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

I don't like South's bidding. When you have a worthless doubleton in an unbid suit. asking for aces may not help you on your way to slam. Here it didn't matter, but if North had only one ace to show, it would have been difficult for South to know his side was not off two diamond tricks.

Declarer's play matched his unsophisticated bidding. He won upshot was that he had to lose the last trick to West. What should his play have been?

The key to success is th opening lead of the heart king which marked West with th heart queen as well. Because of dummy's jack, West will have t hold that queen until the bitte end. Watch what happens South plays off all his hig trumps, discarding a club and diamond from dummy. He now leads a diamond toward dummy When West plays the 10, de clarer knows that the remainin cards in the West hand are th the heart ace, drew trumps and J.9 of clubs and heart queen. S played A-Q of clubs. When he he wins dummy's diamond ac learned that West was holding a and plays jack of hearts, or potential club trick, he took the which he discards his other losing diamond finesse. The diamond. West must win th queen and lead away from hi J-9 of clubs to let South make his slam contract.

Dems Look To President To Revive Tax Overhaul

said.

- President Reagan's top domestic priority of rewriting the tax code is perhaps mortally wounded in the House and its fate hangs on whether Reagan can quickly change enough Republican votes to reverse a stunning setback for a Democratic bill.

In the first test of the issue in the full House. lawmakers voted 223-202 to block the tax bill written by the Democratic-led Ways and Means Committee. The defeat came on what is called the "rule" — a set of procedural guidelines which govern the way a bill is handled on the floor.

Even though Reagan had lobbled for the Democratic bill, only 14 of the 182 House Republicans voted in favor of the procedures - prompting quick and heated responses from Democratic leaders who said Reagan must quickly muster about 50 GOP votes for the committee bill or the issue will die.

Reagan was "disappointed" in the outcome of Wednesday's vote and in the action by House Republican leaders to kill the rule. White House spokesman Larry Speakes said today.

Speakes said Reagan views the vote as one "that did not address the merits of tax reform and did not focus on the thrust of the legislation that is pending.

Treasury Secretary James Baker and chief of staff Donald Regan met with the House Republican leadership and with Rostenkowski today to try to resurrect the bill.

Speakes said Reagan is "indicating" to members concerned about his failed effort to remove deductibility of state and local taxes that he "is not instigating a move to put not come before Friit back in there" if the day.

bill gets to the Senate. However, he said Reagan will "wait until the matter comes to making another decision on the matter. "The president is just as determined as ever to make sure Congress doesn't miss this historic opportunity," Speakes said.

Asked whether Speaker Thomas O'Neill's denunciation of Reagan's lobbying technique indicated the Democrats would stop cooperating and use the death of tax reform as a campaign issue. Speakes remarked. "You can drive a truck between the lines of Tip's words."

O'Neill, D-Mass., was the toughest, noting if Reagan did not deliver enough GOP votes, tax reform "will be dead" and "December 11 at 12 o'clock noon will be remembered as the date that Ronald Reagan became a 'lame duck' on the floor of the House.'

Reagan swiftly met with several Republicans who oppose the measure and in a later speech warned. "If we let tax reform die, I think it will be years before we can bring it back."

White House aides said late Wednesday that Reagan was "steamed" over the developments in the House and that he is passing the word to the passage in the Demo-Republican congresamen who oppose the tax legislation that he will never "forgive nor forget" in the next congressional election.

Rep.Dan Rostenkowski, the chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, years. huddled with Democratic members of his panel to discuss strategy and decided to wait until today to decide whether to try to force another floor vote on the issue - a showdown that could

Before they would even make the effort. however, Democrats said they first wanted the Senate" before to see if Reagan had gathered enough Republican support. "This is the president's bill to win or lose." Rostenkowski, D-III.,

> "I'd say to the prestdent, he has to call Dan Rostenkowski and say 'I have not only sufficlent votes to pass the rule, but I have sufficient votes to pass the bill." O'Nell added, noting the Republicans, "with gice in their faces," had "voted to humiliate the man who had led them to victory."

But Republicans saw the vote differently. GOP leader Robert Michel of Illinois, who strongly opposed bill. said he did not believe the vote was a defeat for Reagan, but was "an appeal that we (Republicans) be taken more closely into the process" of formulating tax changes. Michel suggested that if Congress, as expected, adjourns for the year soon, the matter could come up again next year - a scenario Rostenkowski indicated was unlikely. The only major amendment that would have been allowed on the floor was a Republican substitute tax plan that was given virtually no chance of crat-led chamber. The nearly 1,400-page Ways and Means bill generally would lower rates for individuals and shift about $140 billion of the nation's tax burden to businesses over five

Reagan's plan in several key respects, but the president wanted passage in order to send a measure to the Republican-led Senate. where it can be considered and adjusted next

Most House Republicans believe the bill is not fair and could prompt an economic recession. They were not swayed by the argument that it would be improved in the Senate.

A total of 59 Democrats and 164 Republicans joined forces to defeat the procedures, while 188 Democrats and 14 Republicans voted in favor. One Democrat voted "present," while four Democrats and four Republicans did not vote.

The following is the vote by which the House, on a 223-202 roll call. Wednesday defeated the measure that would have allowed for consideration of the tax reform bill:
