BRITAIN PLANS TO KEEP HAND UPON IRELAND

Determined That Oath Of Allegiance And Annuities Payments Shan't Be Abolished

LONDON, Mar. 23.—(A.P.)—Great Britain has determined that Ireland shall neither abolish the oath of allegiance to the British crown nor discontinue payment of Irish land annuities, J. H. Thomas, secretary for the dominions told the House of Commons today. To that end the government sent a communication to the Free State government which will make the British standpoint "clear beyond the possibility of a doubt," he said.

The Irish Free State served notice on an anxious England yesterday that the oath of allegiance to the king, about the last tie that binds her to Great Britain, would be abolished, and Irish annuities no longer paid to the British treasury.

J. W. Deasy, high commissioner for Ireland, told the House of Commons that the Irish government had made mandatory the oath of allegiance.

His statement, which admitted that the Irish situation serious since the last election, was in answer to a request of the dominion secretary for "correct information" as to the intentions of the Irish government of President James D. Valera.

Deasy said that whether the oath to the British crown should be retained was purely an Irish matter and the people had signified their wish in the vote that rejected De Valera, republican leader, to power.

The Free State government, Dublin, however, had decided to retain the oath and to continue payment of the annuities, a summary part of the Anglo-Irish treaty.

Meanwhile De Valera was reaffirming his intention to abolish the oath and retain Irish land annuities, in his first speech to the Free State senate in Dublin.

"We have got a mandate of the people and that mandate we intend to carry out," the president said. It was understood Thomas and Commissioner Deasy did not discuss the land annuities. However, Thomas reiterated that the British government regards relations between it and the Free State government as resting on the Anglo-Irish treaty of 1921, which set up the Free State.

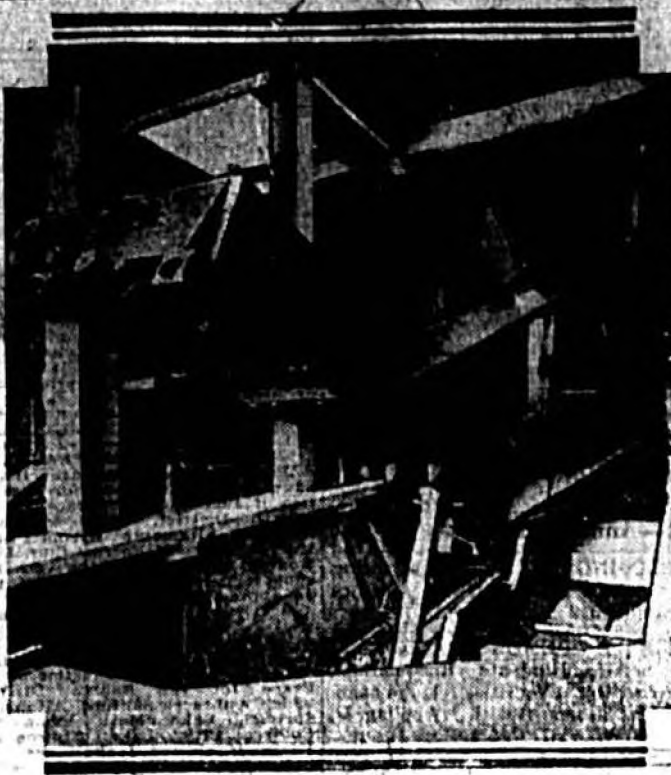

These annuities are collected from Irish farmers in repayment of loans made on their behalf to help out their landlords at the time of the establishment of the Free State. They amount to $3,000,000 (about $12,000,000) a year.

Reduced Rate Put On Express Fruit Boxes

As an experiment to encourage greater shipping of individual boxes of fruit, a new express rate has been temporarily put into effect, providing reduced rates on express fruit. It was announced today by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which governs the express business.

The new rate, which becomes effective on July 1, establishes a new standard of 25 cents for a box of fruit, as against the present rate of 35 cents for a box of fruit. The new rate will be in effect for a period of six months.

QUICK SERVICE

In the big grain elevators at contents there is a machine that can pick up a loaded freight car, and toss it about as though it were a toy, empty it in less than a minute. The photograph shows a freight car being unloaded by one of these machines. The unloading record of one of these machines is three cars in two minutes.

GARNER BOOM IS REVIVED AGAIN AS GAMBLERS SEEN AFTER CONTROL

McADOO BOOSTS OF TAMPA POLLS

Hoover Is Assured Of Iowa's Delegation; Roosevelt Stock Up

WASHINGTON, Mar. 23.—(A.P.)—The presidential boom for Speaker Garner evaporated yesterday and meanwhile President Hoover was assured of Iowa's 20 electoral votes, delegates and Governor Roosevelt's lead for the Democratic nomination.

From William G. McAdoo came a prediction that Mr. Garner had "an excellent chance" to be his party's standard bearer and an assertion the prohibition was not a party but a local issue.

He told the Texas he won't win California's delegation of 44 in the May primary over delegate states pledged to Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith. Later in a press conference he said:

"I think hungry stomachs are a much more serious matter now than dry throats and the voters I feel the next campaign will be settled on economic issues and the present state of the nation order."

Johnson Has Party At School Honoring Members Of Club

Alex E. Johnson, vocational director at Seminole High School, honored members of the Future Farmers of America, Seminole Chapter and their friends with a party and waltz at the high school last night.

The party was to have been held at a nearby lake, but the rain and winds prevented the affair from being held out-of-doors. The chapter room of the club at the school were utilized however, and games and contests were enjoyed during the evening, after which refreshments were served.

LITTLE NEWS IS GIVEN OUT IN KIDNAP CASE

Police Head Says He Has Heard Nothing Of Rumor Child Is Held Upon Island

HOPEWELL, Mar. 23.—(A.P.)—A bulletin from police at the Lindbergh home today in effect was a mere restatement that the kidnaped Lindbergh baby is still missing, and all clues have proven worthless.

Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of state police, said he has heard nothing of the rumor the baby is held on an island of the Colombian coast.

Dispatches from Bogota said Major Benjamin Mendez, prominent Colombian flier and friend of Lindbergh, received permission to fly to Buenaventura where it is reported the baby is held on an island near the coast, but the report will not be made unless the American legation requests it.

A spectacular raid on a New York apartment, the visit of a prominent Chicagoan with confidential information, and more than the usual flood of "hot tips" all apparently had failed last night to bring the Lindbergh kidnaping case any nearer solution.

As the third week since the abduction closed, there was no indication of any real progress in the hunt.

After keeping a Bronx apartment under surveillance for days, detectives rushed the place in the hope of capturing Harry Fleisch, a Detroit "purple gangster" noted here for questioning about the kidnaping and in Detroit in connection with the slaying of three racketeers.

But instead of Fleisch, the raiders found only two women, a 3-year-old boy and a jobless man in the place. All were released.

Five detectives had stood guard outside the building all night. When the signal for the raid was given, plain clothes officers were stationed on roofs, in basements, at elevator gates, and up and down the street in doorways.

Preparations had been made for a siege, if it had to be made one of the detectives knocked, the apartment door was promptly opened.

As Walter (Harry) John was being taken to a police station for questioning, other officers saw he had the premises thoroughly searched. Inquiries not any other (Continued on Page Five)

Widow Of Kirk Munroe, Writer Of Boys' Books, Seeking Information

Accompanying a letter of appreciation to the Editor of the Herald for an editorial, "The Last of the Scouts," relating to the death of Kirk Munroe, noted writer of boys' books, is an appeal directed to all residents of this or any state who were either close friends of Mr. Munroe, or boyhood admirers who cherish memories, mementoes, or photographs of the author who so graciously pictured Florida in many of his books.

The letter and appeal are written by Mrs. Marie Stearns Munroe, widow of the author, who is preparing a biography. Mrs. Munroe has written to hundreds of newspapers throughout the nation, and in return has already received scores of letters from men now in the prime of life who well remember Mr. Munroe. Many men have sent Mrs. Munroe personal letters which they had received from Mr. Munroe and had kept through the years.

Mrs. Munroe's appeal reads as follows: "In connection with a forthcoming biography of my husband, the late Kirk Munroe, I would like to make use of your columns in the hope of obtaining some help from your readers in procuring material for this book.

"In the winter of 1921 and 1922 Kirk Munroe first came to Florida. He brought with him his 'Psyche' and 'Psyche'."

TO SPEAK HERE

Ralph Bradford, manager of the Commercial Organization Department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, who will deliver two addresses in Sanford tomorrow. The first will be before chamber of commerce officials and directors from Seminole, Orange, Lake and DeSoto counties at the trade lady offices in the City Hall at 5:30 o'clock; the second at the regular monthly meeting of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce at the Valley Hotel at 8:30 o'clock. Tickets for the supply meeting may be secured at trade lady offices, and all persons, men and women, whether members of the trade body or not, are invited to attend. Mr. Bradford is considered one of the outstanding authorities on trade body work in the United States, and he will discuss the Florida situation as a feature of his addresses.

Senator Borah (R. Idaho), a leader of the prohibition forces, suggested, with a smile, that the vote be had on Apr. 1.

JOHN M. KELLEY CHIEF SPEAKER AT KIWANIS MEET

Pictures Thrift And Economy As Cure For World's Ills

Having his address on the perseverance, courage and vision of the seven Kipling brothers whose present organization he termed a "master achievement and a monument to the principles of true citizenship," John M. Kelley, for the past 27 years leading partner for the Kipling interests, and part time resident of Sanford, pictures, thrift, economy and co-operation as the one sure cure-all for the world's present ills.

His well-received address was delivered before the Sanford Kiwanis Club and several guests at the Montezuma Hotel today, and its subject was "The Meaning of Citizenship."

"Where are we?" Mr. Kelley asked in his opening remarks, which he pointed out what he called the recent vagaries of our national government and its political leaders as an example of

WETS INTEND TO GET VOTE ON RUM ISSUE

Drys Challenge Them To Proceed With Effort To Vote Upon Amendment Repeal

WASHINGTON, Mar. 23.—(A.P.)—Senate anti-prohibitionists yesterday voted notice they would seek a vote on repeal or modification of the Eighteenth Amendment and dry leaders immediately challenged them to proceed.

Earlier, Senator Blaine (R. Wis.), moved to strike from the Justice Department appropriation measure the $11,000,000 dry enforcement fund and was defeated without a record vote.

Then Senator Tamm (D. Minn.) presented a petition signed by 23 members asking the Judiciary Committee to submit to the Senate for a vote one of the varied resolutions proposing repeal or modification. The submission of a petition is unnecessary to bring a measure from the committee for a vote. A motion may be reported any time and a majority vote of the Senate is all that is required.

Senator Borah suggested that the anti-prohibitionists get together on some form of resolution before asking the Senate to vote.

Chairman Norris of the Judiciary Committee told Tamm he was ready to take up the issue in the Senate immediately by unanimous consent.

Tamm said he wished the petition to lie on the table until Mar. 30 at which time he would move to bring about a vote. Senator Hingham (R. Conn.), circulated the petition of the Republican side.

Senator Borah (R. Idaho), a leader of the prohibition forces, suggested, with a smile, that the vote be had on Apr. 1.

Senator Blaine, who is chairman of the Judiciary Committee subcommittee considering the repeal resolutions, is himself the author of one proposal for modification. He said off the floor he hoped to have early hearings.

The petition asking the committee to report was signed by 13 Republicans, including William O. Douglas, the party leader, and 11 Democrats. The 24 is less than a third of the Senate and two-thirds is necessary for adoption of a resolution for repeal.

Senator Tamm told the Senate there were at least half a dozen more ready to sign the petition who were not present.

The petition addressed to the Judiciary Committee, read: "We understand interest and divergent United States Senate members who are in the United States and divergent opinions concerning resolutions dealing with the repeal and modification of the Eighteenth Amendment which are now pending before your committee to report, said resolutions to the Senate in order that a vote may be had upon the same by the membership thereof."

Blaine and Long of Louisiana, led the fight against the prohibition enforcement fund. The Wisconsin member said the enforcement fund "involved the government in bribery and corruption."

Georgia Votes For Delegates Today

ATLANTA, Mar. 23.—(A.P.)—Georgia Democrats voted today their presidential preference today in an unique primary vote between Governor Roosevelt of New York and Judge G. H. Howard, of Atlanta, who says he will support Speaker John Garner for the nomination. Roosevelt is the adopted son of Georgia which he visits frequently for his health and supporters predicted he would carry every county. Howard's backers say he will "carry the state for Garner," and have captured the Tennessee southern lightning in appeals for voters from Georgia, the first southern state to express its preference.

Succor Rushed To Tornado Victims As Toll Tops 300 Mark

GEORGIAN AREAS SEND IN REPORTS OF MANY KILLED

Scores Of Persons In Hospitals Suffering From Injuries

ATLANTA, Ga., Mar. 23.—(A.P.)—Reports trickling in yesterday from the tornado-stricken areas of North eastern and North western Georgia brought news of 15 deaths.

Whirls scattered areas in the two sections of the state lay in wreckage from winds so severe that buildings of every description fell like masses of cards before their fury.

Scores of persons were in hospitals under treatment in private homes for their injuries. Many were homeless and suffering.

The northwestern area of the state was the hardest hit, with 15 dead, but in the farming communities in the vicinity of Athens, in Northeast Georgia, there were 14 deaths. The other two were in the vicinity of Atlanta.

The tornado hit first in North western Georgia Monday night, and some time later dipped into the section around Athens. It also hit in Athens proper, damaging an estimated 30 homes and killing two negroes.

Campus Feud Ends In Gunshot Victims In Missouri School

COLUMBIA, Mar. 23.—(A.P.)—A bitter campus feud which inspired reprisal for the "kidnaping" of a pretty University of Missouri co-ed was the cause, police were informed, of the shooting early today of three students by a fellow student who helped engineer the "abduction."

It was a bloody culmination of rivalry of long standing between the schools of engineering and law. Frank Luckey is in a critical condition from a bullet wound in the abdomen. Jerry Cobb is suffering wounds in the arm and leg, and Gus Love is wounded in the leg.

All were students in the engineering school. Burns Frederick, a law school student, who admitted to police that he fired the shots, is awaiting a possibly fractured skull inflicted by a group of students who attacked him. The shooting grew out of the "kidnaping" of Miss Mary Butterfield, last Saturday she was to have been crowned St. Louis queen at the engineering school dance but was held captive until late in the coronation as a quest.

Naturalist, Explorer Is Victim Of Death

GRADY I. New Jersey, Mar. 23.—(A.P.) Charles Livingston Bull, 57, naturalist, explorer, fiction writer, animal painter, and taxidermist, died at his home here from an injury he sustained many years ago. He was the friend, associate, and advisor of many famous explorers and as a taxidermist at the national museum at Washington mounted some of the late Theodore Roosevelt's collections.

Veteran Umpire Of Baseball Dies At 83

NORWICH, Conn., Mar. 23.—(A.P.)—Charles Daniels, 83, one of the original National League baseball umpires, credited with starting Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia American League club on his big league career, died today. He was an umpire for 26 years.

NIIP FIRE EXTINGUISHED
NEW YORK, Mar. 23.—(A.P.)—Twice threatened in 18 days by fire in her hold, the freighter San Angelo sped toward Baltimore, Canal Zone, last night under her own power, the second blaze extinguished. The crew of 24 conquered the flames as the freighter San Lucas and Fairfield stood by.

Red Cross And American Legion Assume Lead In Administration Of Assistance

BIRMINGHAM, Mar. 23.—(A.P.)—Succor for the suffering needy was advanced today in the devastated communities that surrendered more than 300 lives and untold property damage to tornado fury. The Red Cross and American Legion took the lead in administering relief with the aid from doctors, nurses, and residents of the stricken regions.

A survey is being made of Northwestern Georgia to determine the extent and needs. There are food, clothing, and shelter distributed to fill temporary needs pending decision regarding appeal for outside aid.

Scores of seriously injured are in hospitals in Alabama. More than 40 were brought to Birmingham. The State Department of Agriculture said it would be several days before the extent of the crop damage can be estimated.

Mass funerals, in many instances for entire families, were held for the victims. The death toll reached 309 for Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky, and South Carolina today.

Following is a partial death list of Monday night's tornadoes in the South, which stood at 309 at the time of compilation: ALABAMA Northport (20)—Mrs. Ebb Shirley, R. B. Ray, W. F. Farley and his wife, K. L. Daniels, Cassie Richardson, Ruby Hunter, & Mrs. James Hughes, Maurice Jones, & Mr. Murphy, a child named Gibson, and 12 unidentified.

Another Tourney Slated Thursday At Country Club

Captain John Herbst will again head the team of Hookers which will be sent into action against the Silvers, headed by Captain H. W. Hooker in an 18-hole tournament tomorrow afternoon beginning at 2:00 o'clock. The Hookers won last week's tourney by a 9 to 8 score, and they expect to retain their one game lead through the tourney tomorrow.

No pairings have been made, but captains have decided to match players against each other as they arrive at the club. Many are professional men who find it difficult to attend at a certain hour, and this pairing plan is being introduced in deference to them.

Handicaps have been slightly rearranged so as to allow all players an even opportunity. Every golfer in the city is invited to participate in the tournament, particularly those from out of town.

Alban Stewart, professional at the Club today announced that the following persons have accepted an invitation to play tomorrow: Charles Dunn, J. K. Fullager, Howard Faville, E. F. Houghlander, A. C. Fort, Fr. J. Holly, Jim Spencer, John Terwilliger, G. W. Spencer, H. M. Watson, A. C. McRoy, J. H. Compton, Carl Williams, R. Dyson, Dr. S. G. Puleston, W. C. Hill, A. W. Epps, G. G. Herring, John Ludwig, E. M. Warren, J. L. Park and Roy Holder.

The Pessimistic Skipper

In considering the fundamental principles of the current industrial depression, there seems to be two rather well defined schools of economic thought. The one adheres to the belief that the slump is temporary, that prosperity is just around the corner and that all we have to do is to manage somehow to live through the hard times of the present and everything will be all right in the future.

The other contends that one of the results of the boom has been the creation in our minds of an exaggerated idea of what normal times really are, and that instead of waiting hopefully for any sudden upward trend in economic conditions, we should immediately readjust our standards of living so as to cope successfully with financial conditions on the present economic plane.

These two conflicting schools of thought are constantly at work in the every day life of our citizens and in the various governing bodies of our cities, counties, and states, as well as our federal government. We find one or the other idea influencing the life of the individual when he considers selling a handful of securities in order to avoid reducing his living expenses, or when he endangers his credit standing among local merchants by obligating himself for certain purchases for which he will be unable to pay out of his present income.

Such a person belongs to that school of thought which sees the business conditions of the future on an upward trend no matter what the individual may or may not do to improve them. He is merely trying to bridge the dip in the economic curve, believing that its final direction, regardless of everything else, is up. His antithesis is the person who refuses to gamble on the future, takes it for granted that each day should at least take care of itself, and reduces his expenses so as to live within his income.

Many of our cities have much the same problem. Some of them are borrowing money so as to maintain the extravagances they could readily afford during the boom but which could easily be done away with under present conditions. Others which overbuilt and overbonded during a more prosperous era are confronted with bondholders hopefully anticipating an upward business trend and unwilling, or unable, to make adjustments on the economic basis of the present.
The other school of thought contends there can be no upward trend until the problems of the present level have been solved.

Our United States Congress, in torn between these two diverging groups. The one would increase taxation, levy many new forms of taxes, float billions of dollars worth of additional bonds, so as to continue to build roads, canals, and public buildings, and maintain a veritable army of governmental agencies on a scale even greater than during the boom. The other would limit federal construction, and cut expenses, so as to balance the budget, without increased taxation or new tax levies.

President Hoover is one of those who believe that the present depression is a temporary emergency which should be negotiated as painlessly as possible and through which the country will emerge eventually in a vigorous and healthy condition regardless of governmental measures.
Every item of his entire program, from his Reconstruction Finance Corporation on down, deals with the economic situation as a matter of the moment only. His measures are purely hypodermic furnishing some temporary relief but no permanent cure. If his analysis of the depression is correct, we will come through in fine shape. If his guess is wrong, we are in for an even more frightful hangover.

The captain of a ship when approaching a storm at sea seldom knows the length or breadth of the disturbance, how long his ship will be buffeted by it, or how severe it will be. Ordinarily he takes no chances, but battens down the hatches and braces the rigging. If the storm is a trifle he has unduly inconvenienced himself. But if it is a severe one, he is a wise skipper and far more likely to be on deck when the calm has come.

Waiting For A Gift

When Miss Ella Wendel died last year she left this world thinking she was the last member of a very wealthy, if a trifle eccentric, family. Now it develops that Wendel heirs exist in every part of the world and that the number of claimants to the 75,000,000-dollar fortune left by the aged spinster are large enough to form an army.

A New York court is today endeavoring to unravel the maze of claimed relationships, and among the more interesting things discovered is that claims have been filed from abroad by whole villages whose inhabitants bear only the name of Wendel. Despite the fact that a will was filed, they think it is only necessary to establish relationship in order to get a share.

It seems a shame that such imagination, and optimistic and energetic efforts could not be directed in more useful channels instead of being wasted in futile attempts to get something for nothing. But there seems to be something peculiarly appealing to the idea of being left a fortune or a part of a fortune, and some people go about their daily lives always with the hope lurking that some kind fairy will bring them a gift.

These are usually the same people who can be easily sold on get-rich-quick propositions. They are the ones with whom shady stock salesmen like to deal. They form the big army of "suckers" who are easy prey to any kind of "phony" scheme. They steer clear of good stocks, and bonds, and legitimate business endeavors, and go in for the "easy money" route.

The consequence is that this type of individual never makes the grade. He is always being "burnt" and is always ready to go back for more punishment. He never seems to realize that waiting for the gods to drop a golden egg in his lap is like waiting for the world to stop turning and that the only way to get ahead is to take off his coat, roll up his sleeves, and go to work.

SANFORD, TWENTY YEARS AGO

The lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Walker was the scene of a very pleasant event Wednesday afternoon when Library Day was observed by the Wednesday Club on the occasion of a book shower for the benefit of the Sanford Library. The afternoon was made doubly pleasant by the presence of Mrs. Frank E. Jennings, of Jacksonville, who gave a talk on "The Influence of a Well Rounded Club in a Community." Other interesting part of the program for the afternoon were Mrs. Florence Frank, Mrs. Mabel Boyler, Mrs. F.
A. Walker, and Mrs. Clara Walker.

Two fine new horses were recently purchased in Jacksonville for the DeLand Fire Department.
An experienced fireman who served 18 years in Jacksonville, has also been secured for DeLand.

On special Pullman sleeping cars, and a dining car, a large party of prominent business and capitalists of New York arrived here yesterday afternoon and spent several hours looking over the city. In the evening were several directors and holders of the Pullman Trust Co.

BACK TO THE FARM VILLAGE

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

For a number of years there has been so much talk about America's deserted farms and the rush of youth to the large cities that many were beginning to fear the country districts would soon become deserted. The census, however, has not been so pronounced as some statistics would seem to indicate, and for a decade or more there has been in numerous sections a marked trend in the opposite direction.

Although farming in general has probably been less profitable than in some periods in the past, certain forms of it have become more remunerative. The last few generations have seen a marked change in consumers' demand regarding food, and in consequence there has arisen an excellent market for fruit, vegetables, and poultry and dairy products. In market gardening and in poultry and dairy plants the personal factor is still more important than machinery, and large amounts of labor continue to be required for economical production.

The advantage of this newer type of farming is not confined to the greater variety of products demanded, but in many places is closely associated with improved local markets. With the motortruck and good roads many a farmer can develop within a few hours' haul a number of select customers for such articles as he may produce.
Taken as a whole, the outlook for the intelligent farmer is not entirely dark, and many, who some years ago deserted that occupation, are now beginning to recognize its advantages and are returning.

Improved living conditions in the country also have much to do with the recent trend in that direction.
Present-day facilities for communication and modern conveniences in the home are making residence in the country more desirable; and hand in hand with these adjuncts of everyday life have come some of the cultural opportunities so long regarded as the exclusive possession of the city.

A potent influence working for a better distribution of population is the growing practice of locating industries in small towns and villages. In literally thousands of cases of less than 5000 population in the United States there is a total dearth of industries except such as rely directly upon agriculture.
This situation has tended to narrow the view and contract the sympathies of both the farmer and the industrialist. The wider diffusion of industries will be of great advantage to all.

To the farmer it means improved living conditions, more varied contacts, better markets and increased cultural opportunities. To the factory man who formerly worked and lived in congested quarters in some city it means reduced living costs, a more comfortable home, a garden for flowers and vegetables; and most likely opportunity for some outside diversion and income such as poultry raising. Above all, it takes him and his family away from the dirt and noise of the city and brings them into close contact with nature.

Improved farm conditions and the scattering of factories can do much to rejuvenate decadent villages and make them once again the important factor in national life. If they grasp their opportunities, if they grasp their opportunities, they will provide suitable channels for innumerable social activities now greatly needed. Educational advantages can be brought on par with those in progressive cities and the instincts for beauty can be given opportunity for expression.

To the factory worker moving from the city, one of the greatest rejoinders will be the opportunity afforded to be neighborly. Normal, pleasant association with one's neighbors along lines of mutual interest constitutes one of the greatest satisfactions of living.
Such contacts thrive in country villages, and it is largely on that account that so much charm is associated with rural life.

A LIKELY DARK HORSE

TAMPA TRIBUNE

With Franklin Roosevelt as the admitted leader, in danger of falling to clear the two-thirds hurdle, national speculation is busy in picking the most probable "dark horse" to win the prize in the event of the New Yorker's failure.
Our belief has been and is that, when the eyes of leaders and delegates begin roving the field to identify the man best qualified to head the ticket, they will naturally and logically rest upon Newton D. Baker. Baker, as we have frequently asserted, has the ability, the background, the public confidence, the clean record fitting him ideally as both the Democratic and the nation's choice for President.

Not that there are no other available and likely prospects.
Among these a hitherto comparatively unknown figure from Illinois is emerging from the shadows into the foreground of the presidential picture. His name is Melvin A. Traylor. We shall not be in the least surprised if Roosevelt falling and Baker not accepted, the winning "dark horse" proves to be the Chicago banker.

Public lack of appreciation of this remarkable man has been due entirely to public lack of information regarding him. That well informed anonymously. The Gentleman at the inside of the situation for Collier's gives us a few significant points about Traylor. For one thing he tells us that Traylor made himself very well and favorably known to official and political Washington and to the American public when he appeared before the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency and had the intelligence, common sense and courage to point out a conspicuous flaw in Mr. Hoover's reconstruction program. He inquired why the plan did not include lending receivers of closed banks a sufficient sum to enable them to release to depositors in these institutions some of the two billions tied up therein—providing a buying power for the people without loss to the government.

This, as our writer points out, caught the President and the Republicans napping, because they had entirely overlooked this sound proposition of relief. They had "missed the trick." Thus Traylor made Democratic capital out of the Hoover plan.

Way Hayes, in the Detroit News, says Traylor "gives an impression of youth and courage in a time when most of the national leaders appear old and scared." Furthermore, he is a banker who knows politics, national and international.
The Collier's writer says he proves his political ability by keeping the peace among "the irreconcilable Democratic factions in Illinois." The party will "lose a great opportunity if it does not put in the Presidency a man who knows something about what is the matter with this country and the world."

So, Melvin Traylor is becoming recognizable as among the likely "dark horses" of the Democratic stable. He isn't a candidate, of course; for that matter, Baker isn't and Garner isn't; yet these three are the ones who are going to be most prominent in the padding if it is discovered that the New York entry can't answer the begs for the start of the great national derby, to face the barrier with the heavily handicapped Englinger. The call may come to Ohio or Illinois or Texas—and either of these horses, dark but desirable, can make each post a winning one, and be first under the White House wire.

Brazil's President Signs Decree For Holding Election

RIO DE JANEIRO, Mar. 23. (A.P.)—The date to president of Brazil, Getulio Vargas, last night signed a decree fixing the date for general elections to restore constitutional government to the country. No date was mentioned, but it was understood the date would shortly be announced.

Woman's Club Will Give Bridge Party

With Mrs. S. D. Higleyman as hostess, the Social Department of the Woman's Club will give a subscription auction and Easter bridge party and tea given at 3:00 o'clock at the club house with Mrs. S. D. Higleyman as hostess. Make reservations.

Circle Number 6 Of Church Will Meet

The regular meeting of Circle Number Six of the First Baptist Church was held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. L. Glenn, East Third Street, with Mrs. George Huff in charge of the devotionals and Mrs. James B. Field conducting the Bible study lesson. Mrs. George Huff presided over the business session.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Raymond C. Phillips and daughter, Emily Tracy, of Gainesville, formerly of this city, arrived last night to spend the remaining part of the week here with the former's mother, Mrs. T. L. Dumas, at her home on Park Avenue.

Mrs. Lee Entertains For Young Daughter

Complimenting her daughter, Miss Carolyn Lee, who celebrated her third birthday anniversary recently, Mrs. A. W. Lee, Jr., entertained with a large birthday party given yesterday afternoon at her home, 1416 Laurel Avenue, with her sister, Miss Frances Teague, assisting in entertaining the guests.

Social Department Of Club Has Meeting

An Easter motif was used for party decorations and appointments at the bridge party given yesterday afternoon by the Social Department of the Woman's Club at the club house with Mrs. S. D. Higleyman as hostess. Quantities of pastas and snap dragons in pastel shades, and potted plants were arranged about the rooms where the tables were spread for play.

Frederick March And Francis AtMilane

"Strangers in Love" is apparently the latest of Frederick March, popular screen star, who comes to the Theatre Thursday and Friday. "Strangers in Love" is a story in which most nice people would avoid to take what is actually love. Mr. March's performance is a real gem for this season. In "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" you remember, he had to drink a deadly medicine—and did produce a monster. Now, although "Strangers in Love" is a modern story, it is as possible as the classic. Mr. March's performance is a real gem for this season.

REDAVOR SOCIETY PLANS

The regular Sunday evening service of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian Church will be held Sunday at 6:30 o'clock on the lawn at W. D. Mason's home on Melbourne Avenue. The topic for the evening will be "Jesus Victor Over Death," and Dick Mason will have charge of the program. All members are urged to attend this Easter service.

SETTLEMENT OF WENDEL ESTATE IS BEING SOUGHT

Claims Of Numerous Relations Are Being Untangled In Court

NEW YORK, Mar. 23.—(A.P.)—The vast estates of two aged women, whose hermit-like lives were strangely similar, yesterday attracted enough claimants to populate a village as lawyers sought to untangle the skein of distant relationships.

One contest involved the Miss Ella von Wendel, who thought herself the last of her family when she died in the gloomy brownstone mansion that still stands amid the sleek modernity of midtown Fifth Avenue.

The other involved the fortune so carefully hoarded by Mrs. Ida Mayfield Wood, who refused to trust banks after the panic of 1907 and kept nearly a million in cash in paper bags and the linings of dresses.

Surrogate James A. Foley is hearing both cases, though a question as to his jurisdiction has been raised by the multitudinous Wendel heirs, because the decedent also had a residence at Irving-on-the-Hudson, in Westchester county.

There was scarcely room enough in Foley's courtroom for the many lawyers who came to represent Wendel claimants. Some represented only 15 or 20. A grand total of 1822 claimants want a share in the fortune of approximately $75,000,000.

Foley said "Some people in different parts of the world seem to believe there is no will and all they have to do is to establish relationship. From abroad we have had claims filed by whole villages whose inhabitants bear only the name of Wendel."

To settle it, he said, those whose relationship is found to be the closest will have the right to contest. He set Apr. 10 for hearing on the subject to jurisdiction.

There were fewer claimants for the relatively small Wood estate, though two groups sought to be named administrator. One was headed by her nephew, Otis F. Wood, who was her guardian during the last months of her life; the other group comprised step-grandchildren and step-great-grandchildren.

McAdoo Boosts Garner Boom In Revived Fight As

vention pledged to prohibition repeal, President Hoover was called upon by Senator Bratton, New Mexico Democrat, to state his views definitely on prohibition.

In a statement issued through the Democratic National Committee, Senator Bratton said: "It seems to me that President Hoover has a duty toward his dry supporters, if not indeed toward the entire country, of stating definitely where he stands on this question."

"If he is prepared to accept a Republican platform pledging this party to a more liberal attitude for re-submission of the amendment to do is to indicate to his partisans that such is his position. If on the other hand, he objects to a wet plank in the Republican platform he certainly should not let the Republican convention blunder, as it is apparently bent on doing, by making a declaration contrary to the principles of its candidates."

Proceeding, out in from for the Democratic banner with 67 of the 100 delegates chosen by his party to date, goes before the voters of Georgia today in a preference primary. He is assured of the Southern state's 28 votes, although the delegates themselves will not be named until a state convention on Apr. 6.

The McAdoo-Garner conference lasted only a few minutes. Both said politics was not discussed, although McAdoo said he expressed the opinion that while he "knew Garner was not seeking the nomination California would send an instructed delegation for him just the same."

Asked what he thought of Roosevelt's chances, McAdoo said only a few delegates had been chosen thus far. He added it was very difficult for a candidate to get the required two-thirds and said he still favored abolition of this party rule, despite Roosevelt's present lead.

MORSE TO BE HONORED
NEW YORK, Mar. 23.—(A.P.)—Samuel F. B. Morse, artist and inventor of the telegraph, is to be honored posthumously Monday. The National Academy of Design, one of the country's oldest art organizations, will award him its "president's medal." He was the academy's founder.

FLORIDA NEEDS A MAN OF ACTION FOR GOVERNOR

Florida is in need of a firm hand at the tiller of the ship of state. As never before in recent history the need of the state is for a governor in whom the people have confidence, who has ability, integrity, energy and the necessary courage to accomplish the things necessary to change conditions and bring back normal business and trade conditions and to restore the national credit of Florida.

Governor John W. Martin is a man of action, he is the choice of the majority of Florida citizens who believe that now is the time that something should be done.

As governor of Florida, John W. Martin fulfilled his promises to the voters to build roads and completed two-thirds of the first preferential system of highways. Under his administration the Tamiami Trail and other important through arterial highways were paved. He accomplished this by a re-organization of the State Road Department, which had theretofore been inactive and impotent.

CANDIDATE

Colonel Whitehurst, a life-long Democrat, states that if elected he will support the presidential candidate to be chosen by the preferential primary of June 7 and all the other nominees of the Democratic primary, and will also work for the measures that will benefit the party.

A native of south Georgia, Colonel Whitehurst received his law degree at Cumberland University in 1913 and has practiced law since that time. He has served as state's attorney for the fifth judicial circuit of Florida and is now chairman of the Hernando County Democratic Executive committee.

NEW YORK, Mar. 23.—(A.P.)—Samuel F. B. Morse, artist and inventor of the telegraph, is to be honored posthumously Monday. The National Academy of Design, one of the country's oldest art organizations, will award him its "president's medal." He was the academy's founder.

Ends After Doing Extensive Damage

The Mississippi Valley, a day of sunshine, brought milder temperatures, aided by south winds, but city streets and country roads became wallows as the year's heaviest snows melted away.

The south winds, too, slipped farther north into Wisconsin and Nebraska, where the thermometer registered as high as 44 above.

The Atlantic seaboard looked for colder weather Wednesday, as the snow-laden winds from the Midwest.

In New England there was snow and rain. Rain, too, fell in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Down the coast from Virginia, the weather was clearing.

Across the continent, in California, moderate spring weather ruled. In the Southwest, the sun melted snows and the Rocky Mountain regions were cool, but cloudy.

In Chicago, the mid-afternoon Tuesday brought temperatures in the middle thirties. In Detroit, the mercury had climbed to 34. Few road blockades were reported in any of the neighborhoods visited by the heaviest snow.

Canton, N. Y., had the deepest snow reported, 14 inches. In Ohio, where communication lines had met with damage that approached that of the Southland, telephone service was restored with Sandusky, while elsewhere, snow and ice slunk away before the sun.

In metropolitan centers, thousands of men found work shoveling snow and slush.

Under Arrest For Alleged Kidnaping

BERLIN, Md., Mar. 23.—(A.P.)—Two prominent Worcester county men, one of them the police chief of Ocean City, were arrested yesterday for the alleged kidnaping of Charles W. Brown last week. They were freed on their own recognizance pending a hearing today.

They were Robert Allen, police chief, and George E. Jarvis, wealthy cattleman. Warrants were sworn out by Brown.

Sheriff William Funnell confirmed his investigation late last week. Jarvis, after he was found chained to a tree in a swamp near here Sunday. He said he had been kidnaped, held prisoner for four days and then chained to the tree when he refused to sign documents presented to him by his captors.

Godfrey Child, state's attorney of Worcester county, said he was waiting word from Sheriff William Funnell before taking action in the case. He pointed to ill feeling between Brown and the men he accused.

Brown said one of the documents presented to him while he was a captive was a release on a libel action he had entered against Jarvis, and the other was relative to a liquor case in which he was convicted and sentenced to jail, only to have another man confess the violation after his release.

The libel suit was entered by Brown after his name had been brought into the bombing of Jarvis' home some weeks ago.

Allen and Jarvis denied any connection with the Brown kidnaping.

POLICE CHIEF BLAIN

How do they do it ?

Among your friends there's sure to be at least one smart young married couple who is the envy and admiration of all who know them.

With an income that is frankly abbreviated, and with no benevolent Aunts in the offing, they still have a home that is correct and comfortable for all its appointments, a home that is admired and copied by their friends.

"Yes, Jane is a remarkable little manager," will probably be the young husband's proud answer. And there is little doubt about it.

Take a look around that home and you will find no end of well-known advertised products. For Jane is an efficient little manager. She can't afford to take chances that must only be dubbed to "Experiment." When she buys for her home she must get tried and tested and trusted products which carry an honorable name to guarantee her satisfaction.

You will find that Jane is a consistent reader of the advertisements. Are you?
